French Name Guy Mollet As Premier

PARIS (Wednesday) (AP)—The French National Assembly by a big majority today approved Guy Mollet as French premier.

The vote was 420-71 with 83 abstentions. Mollet's victory had been assured by earlier promises of diversified political support, including the Communists.

Mollet heads a Republican Front bloc. His confirmation as Premier had been expected ever since Jacques Duclos, the Communist floor leader, announced his party's 151 votes would be cast for the Socialist party's secretary general.

The Communist backing came despite Mollet's policy statement demanding reinforcement of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and renewed efforts toward European unity.

Communist Hope

Duclos apparently is ignoring these planks in Mollet's platform in hope that the Communists can eventually embrace the Socialists in a popular front leftist government.

Terrorism was reported throughout Algeria as the Assembly prepared to vote on Mollet's bid. French authorities in Algeria said Tuesday night 76 rebels were killed in a series of scattered engagements.

The nationalist rebels who demand independence from France are being pursued in a large military action along the Algerian-Moroccan frontier.

Mollet wrapped up his platform in a 47-page statement which stressed a solution of the Algerian crisis as the government's gravest problem.

NATO and Peace

NATO, he said, "has been and remains the guarantee of the maintenance of peace and liberty." He urged a new attempt at East-West negotiations, starting with disarmament.

During the recent election campaign, Mollet displayed his distaste for communism with the statement now much repeated: "The Communists don't belong to the left or the right, but to the East."

At 50, Mollet has held posts in three postwar cabinets, but while his party has been out of power in the past five years he has given most of his time to the Council of Europe which hopes some day to become a European parliament.

Mother Goes Free in Daughter's Death

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Refusing to exact "legal revenge," a judge Tuesday freed under suspended sentence a wealthy mother who arranged the abortion that killed her 22-year-old heiress daughter. But the couple who performed the illegal operation received prison terms.

Judge Vincent A. Carroll spared Mrs. Gertrude Silver, 49, a jail term on grounds that "the memory of this dreadful tragedy... will be substantial and overwhelming punishment."

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schwartz, in whose apartment Mrs. Doris Jean Ostreicher died last Aug. 24, received 3 to 10 year prison terms. They had pleaded "no defense."

Mrs. Silver had pleaded "no defense" to charges of being an accessory.

Report Woman Escaped From Oakdale Hospital

An independence woman was reported to have escaped Monday from the Oakdale Sanatorium at Oakdale, Iowa City police revealed Tuesday.

The woman, listed as Gladys Rude, 30, was described as "good looking," with dark hair and dark eyes and was wearing a black fur coat, black sweater with a white collar and black skirt.

Fire Sweeps Des Moines Paint Store

FIREMEN LINE THE ROOF of the Fine Arts Building in downtown Des Moines Tuesday afternoon to fight a blaze which is believed to have started in the attic of a second floor apartment. A woman who lived on the second floor and a fireman were reported overcome by smoke. The French Glass and Paint Co. is located on the first floor of the structure.

Ike Gives Up Bond Financed Road Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Tuesday gave up his fight to pay for a big highway program through bond issues. He agreed to a Democratic plan to finance the roads with tax increases.

Chairman George H. Fallon (D-Md.) of the House Roads subcommittee, chief supporter of increased taxes, hailed the President's decision as "a big help to sponsors of pay-as-you-go road building."

Eisenhower's decision—not unexpected—was reported by House Republican Leader Joseph Martin of Massachusetts. He told reporters after a White House meeting of GOP legislative leaders the President had decided either to "give up the roads" or accept the Democratic financing plan.

Martin said Eisenhower took no position on the nature of the tax increases. It's up to the House Ways and Means Committee to determine that, Martin said.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) said last week the tax program probably would involve new levies of about $14 billion, all to be paid by highway users in the form of increased federal taxes on fuel, trucks, tires and tubes.

No time limit was specified, and Ways and Means Committee officials said Tuesday the duration of the program had not yet been decided.

Fallon has introduced a new highway bill calling for federal-state expenditures of about 51½ billions over a 13-year period. The federal government would put up some 37 billions of the total.

Fallon said it was unlikely the federal program could be financed with an increase of less than a cent a gallon on gasoline. The federal tax is now two cents a gallon.

Fallon's measure, like the Eisenhower program, emphasizes development of a 40,000-mile network of interstate highways. The federal government would contribute 90 per cent of the cost of this network, the states the remaining 10.

2 Missing in Plane Crash

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An Air Force twin-engine plane ditched in the turbulent, bone-chilling Monongahela River Tuesday when it apparently ran out of gas two to three minutes from an airport. Four of the six men the Air Force said were aboard were rescued.

The craft, a B25 bomber converted for passengers, sank in about 18 feet of water less than two minutes after it made the crash landing six miles from downtown Pittsburgh.

Police, a heroic truck driver, and rivermen combined to pull the four survivors from the stream. None of the survivors suffered serious injury.

"I felt like a block of ice when I was brought into shore," said M.Sgt. Alfred J. Alleman, 36, Las Vegas, Nev. "I was hanging on a log with the others but it couldn't support all of us and I set out for shore because I guess I'm an above-average swimmer."

The others survivors are Maj. William L. Dotson, 33, pilot, San Antonio, Tex.; Capt. John F. Jamieson, 32, Mechanicsburg, Pa.; and A2.C. Charles L. Smith, 19, Philadelphia.

The Air Force listed S.Sgt. Walter E. Soocy, 32, Palmer, Alaska, crew chief for the flight, as missing along with an unidentified passenger whose name was withheld pending notification of kin.

The Weather

Snow & Colder

More cold weather is predicted for Iowa City for the next five days, the weatherman said Tuesday. Also in the prediction is heavy snow ranging from four to eight inches over the state.

Temperatures are expected to average 10 to 15 degrees below normal highs of 36 and normal lows of 17 degrees.

The high today will be about 20 degrees in Iowa City.

However, Iowa is not the only state to suffer from cold weather. The Weather Bureau predicted Tuesday that February would average below seasonal norms over most of the country west of the Mississippi.

Cloudy skies will prevail over eastern Iowa today with snow predicted Thursday.

Frigid Air Mass Overtakes Europe

LONDON (AP)—Frigid air masses sweeping eastward from Siberia clamped a wintry grip on Europe Tuesday night, disrupting land and sea traffic and causing at least two deaths.

Arctic weather prevailed in Russia. Moscow had its coldest night in 15 years — 36.4 below. Warsaw radio said traffic was paralyzed in the center of the city and "scores of people were taken to hospitals with frozen noses, ears and hands."

Norway, Sweden and Denmark experienced bitter weather. The Swedish weatherman said the cold snap was the worst in 10 years. Temperatures ranged from 3 below in Stockholm to 64 below in northern Sweden.

The cold wave also swept into northern Italy.

Married 62 Years

MOMENTS SHARED by Mr. and Mrs. David A. Edwards, 8 W. Burlington St., during 62 years of married life were reviewed Tuesday on their anniversary. The Edwards were married in 1894—he was 24 and the bride, 19. Mrs. Edwards vividly recalls their honeymoon trip to Des Moines. She said they traveled by bobsled from their home near Oxford to catch a train at Homestead for Des Moines. "We evaded three charivari parties in the process," she added.

Eden Wants UN Forces Near Israel

WASHINGTON (AP)—The possibility of stationing United Nations forces between Israel and her Arab neighbors was brought up by Britain Tuesday in the Eisenhower-Eden talks but the idea reportedly got a cool American reception.

A spokesman reporting on the conferences between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Eden told newsmen that no decision was reached on the proposal, which he said was advanced as a way to secure peace in the Middle East.

American officials indicated that Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles were lukewarm toward the idea.

The spokesman also said that in Tuesday's talks, the question of Red China's possible admission to the United Nations came up, along with Britain's desire to ease existing controls on commerce with the Chinese Communists.

The conference apparently failed to settle conflicting American-British views on these twin problems. The spokesman said the United States remains opposed to Red Chinese membership in the UN and the policy of Britain, which recognizes Red China, has not changed.

Norwegians Seize 8 More Russian Fishing Trawlers

Launch Fund Drive

Name 21 Goals For Alumni Fund

The SUI Alumni Association announced Tuesday 21 objectives for the Old Gold Development Fund (OGDF), continuing program of annual alumni giving, established last summer.

The fund will be supported by contributions from SUI alumni. There are four general areas which the fund will support. The areas are: research projects, student aids, general university and special projects.

The objectives were selected by the fund council from more than 100 recommendations made by SUI deans, department heads, and faculty.

Important Step
SUI President Virgil M. Hancher termed the fund the most significant step yet taken by the organized alumni of Iowa in the interest of their university.

"The fund raising campaign will be carried out almost entirely by direct mail requests to alumni," Loren Hickerson, SUI director of alumni records, said.

Central office for the fund is in the Alumni Association building, in Iowa City, he said.

"An exception to the general direct mail procedure is a personal solicitation campaign being organized in Cedar Rapids," Hickerson said.

"The campaign will be headed by a general chairman and vice-chairmen. Zone captains will be in charge of solicitations in different areas of the city," he added.

Reason for Fund
The reason for establishment of the fund is stated in the fund "Worker's Manual."

"In state institutions, the tuition and fees paid by students, together with state appropriated money, provide for a substantial part of the total institutional program," the manual states.

"But these sources, under law, can never be expected to provide the whole program. A great many vital adjuncts of university operation — scholarships, extensive research, many kinds of public relations activities — must be provided from other sources."

The fund will be administered by the OGD Council, set up last summer. SUI provost Harvey H. Davis is chairman of the council.

Robert R. Buckmaster, president of the Alumni Association appointed four SUI alumni to the council: Roy L. Krueger, president of the Hubinger Co. of Keokuk; S. David Peshkin, lawyer, of Des Moines; Prof. Emeritus Fred M. Pownall, of Iowa City, former SUI director of publications; and Byron L. Sifford, lawyer, of Sioux City.

Other Members
President Hancher appointed three members to the council: David; Joseph W. Howe, professor and head of mechanics and hydraulics at SUI; and Norman B. Shaffer, president of the First National Bank of Iowa City.

Hancher and Buckmaster are ex-officio members of the council. The campaign will try to stress the number of people contributing to the fund, not the amount each person contributes.

General Contributions
Alumni will be encouraged to contribute to the general fund rather than for specific projects so that the money can be used where the need is greatest.

Alumni may specify that contributions go "for all-university objectives, for research, for special projects, for student aid" or one of the specifically outlined projects that the fund supports.

Contributions are tax-deductible. The specific fund categories under "research projects" are:

1. Development of an artificial kidney to remove body wastes of persons with temporary kidney failure.

2. Commissioning of composition of original works of music for the SUI Music Department.

3. Testing of native speakers of unusual languages to help develop a system of numerical symbols for inter-language communication.

4. Science research in the metabolism of different species of parasites, including the blood parasites responsible for certain diseases in man.

5. Expansion of the tissue bank in the SUI Department of Surgery which makes possible the process and storage of human artery and skin grafts for subsequent use on patients as needed.

6. Cooperative study with other Iowa colleges in soil field work basic to soil conservation and flood control programs in Iowa and other states.

7. Study of facial growth in children to provide scientific data for various fields of dentistry.

8. Development of the collection of records and manuscripts of Iowa bearing on the economic, social and political life in Iowa to aid in graduate study in American history and related fields.

9. Exploration of the interrelationships between religion and science through research, lectures, conferences and discussions among selected scientists and clergy.

10. Furtherance of studies in electronic processing of television images with particular reference to improve readability of X-ray films.

11. Comprehensive survey of the adult population of an entire Iowa county to provide information on retirement plans and activities to the Institute of Gerontology in their

Claim Soviet Ships Were Inside Limit

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Norway announced Tuesday night its navy has seized 13 Russian trawlers in Norwegian fishing waters but others still are attempting to invade the four-mile coastal belt.

Monday Norway announced that she had taken five fishing vessels in the waters.

The Norwegian Embassy in Moscow has been instructed to deliver a sharp protest to the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

Observers here said the invasion of the rich herring banks off Norway's western shore is taking on the aspect of a carefully planned campaign.

Keep Returning
The Soviet trawlers keep returning every time they are chased away by naval vessels.

Lt. Comdr. Bjarne Eia, commander of one navy patrol, said Tuesday night Soviet radio operators on the trawlers are trying to jam communications between the Norwegian craft. Two of the trawlers taken Tuesday had to be halted by warning shots.

More Norwegian torpedo boats and the frigate Tromsøe are en route to the scene of action off Alesund. Norwegian fishermen reported between 30 and 80 Russian vessels are in the area.

Three of the trawlers seized Tuesday were taken by the submarine tender Sarpren.

Captains of the Soviet trawlers were taken to police headquarters in Alesund for questioning. All but one refused to talk pending arrival of a representative from the Soviet Embassy in Oslo today.

Dispatches received in Oslo said resentment against the Russians was running high in Alesund. Fishermen there were already bitter over Russian refusal to let Norwegian catch seals in the White Sea. They said the Russians claim a 12-mile boundary as against the 4-mile Norwegian boundary the Russians have been violating.

Acting on unofficial reports, the Norwegian navy Monday dispatched two motor torpedo boats from Bergen to intercept the Russian fleet.

Fire Warning Shots
Norwegian naval headquarters in Oslo said the torpedo boats captured and boarded four trawlers. A spokesman said they fired warning shots from their machine guns before the Russian depot ship Tambow hoisted to.

In Tuesday's action by the Sarpren, the Russian trawler crews first cut their equipment and headed for the open sea. Then they returned, said the spokesman, and calmly resumed their fishing.

The Norwegian naval craft so far involved have not carried enough men to board more than the eight ships already captured.

Bitter Editorials
All Oslo daily newspapers except the Socialist government organ, Arbeiderbladet, Tuesday devoted bitter editorials to the Russian fishing invasion.

Norway first claimed the 4-mile boundary in 1952 and at the time informed all interested governments, among them the Russians.

Polio Porchlight Drive Nets $1,266

The Iowa City March of Dimes Porchlight Campaign netted a total of $1,266.85 Tuesday night, Campaign Chairman Ellis Brekke reported.

The drive marked the close of the 1956 campaign. During the drive all residents who wanted to contribute to the March of Dimes were requested to turn on their porchlights. About 40 canvassers collected the donations.

Last year's Porchlight Drive total was exceeded by about $266. The 1955 collection was listed at about $1,000. This year's campaign total has been set at $10,000—$3,000 higher than last year.

GOP Growing in the South

Once the southern delegates at Republican conventions were considered necessary evils. They came from states that didn't have a ghost of a chance of delivering electoral votes to the GOP in November. They were not representatives of a mass of voters. They were delegates from small, private clubs — which is about all a Republican organization in Georgia and Mississippi can be.

This year's convention will see a larger and more active body of southern GOP delegates — ones that now represent a bloc of potential GOP voters.

President (then General) Eisenhower broke up the Democratic control of the south in 1952, winning Virginia, Tennessee, Texas and Oklahoma. The GOP penetrated farther into the south in the congressional elections of 1954, taking seats in Texas and Florida.

States receive an increase in seats at GOP conventions for an increase in votes in presidential or congressional elections. The Democrats reward extra seats only when the Democratic presidential candidate carries the state.

There were 1206 delegates at the 1952 Republican convention. There will be 1323 at the 1954 convention, an increase of 117 delegates. Of these 117 extra delegates, 102 will be from the south. Every southern state will receive extra delegates. Mississippi will triple its delegation, going from five to 15 seats.

At first glance, one might say that President Eisenhower's personality is responsible for this increase in GOP votes in the south. Carrying this further, one would conclude that when the President leaves the political scene, so will the southern GOP votes.

This isn't so. Industry is bringing more money to the south. The higher financial level brings more tendency to vote Republican.

Yankees are moving south. Many are going to Florida, the southern half of which is gradually becoming Republican. Many more are going to Texas, taking their Republican political ideals with them. Fewer are going to other states, but the migration is steady.

It will continue long after President Eisenhower has left the national political scene.

What will happen as the GOP grows in strength? The best guess is that the wealthy and middle classes will gradually drift into the Republican camp and form a solid Republican base. Within a generation, Republican governors and senators may appear in southern states.

The southern liberal now has no place to go. Most southern Democrats are as conservative as middlewestern Republicans. As the GOP grows, these conservatives probably will drift into the Republican party. Liberal candidates will come to the fore and pick up followings.

This will help to align the two American political parties into two distinct camps. At present, southern Democrats vote with Republican colleagues in Congress more often than they vote with northern Democrats.

When the south is lined up in liberal Democratic and conservative Republican camps, party line votes will become frequent. The American political scene may see distinct liberal and conservative parties, as the Labor and Tory parties are in Great Britain.

A Good Plan for Bigger SUI

The State Board of Regents last year proposed to the state legislature a new way to finance building improvements at SUI, Iowa State College, and Iowa State Teachers College.

Now all building improvements (with the exception of housing units) are financed by money appropriated by the state legislature.

This has proved unsatisfactory and would probably be more unsatisfactory in the future. All three colleges are expecting great increases in enrollments within the next 15 years. They must be able to count on getting a specified amount for building improvements during those years if they are to continue to meet education standards.

State legislatures (Iowa's included) are not reliable. Higher education too often gets short shrift from rural-dominated legislatures.

The new plan would have guaranteed a steady flow of money for the building improvements — which include new classrooms, remodeling, additions, land purchases and utilities.

It would have permitted the Board of Regents to sell bonds for the buildings, then pay the bonds off with tuition money. The state legislature would have to appropriate the money to cover the loss in tuition money.

The plan was offered to the education appropriations sub-committees of the legislature in the middle of the past session. They gave it the once-over and turned it down.

"They threw it at us too fast," one influential sub-committee member told The Daily Iowan. "It may be considered next time."

State education officials didn't agree with this opinion, which was the one prevailing among state legislators.

The plan won't be "thrown" at them too fast at the 1957 session of the legislature. The legislative tax study committee, which is currently working on tax recommendations for the next legislature, has expressed interest in the finance plan.

It recently appointed three financial experts to appraise the plan and make recommendations on it.

When the next legislature convenes, it will have a detailed plan and expert reports to guide its decisions.

This finance plan is not a cure-all for SUI's needs. SUI officials admit that it is far from perfect. But it is better than anything proposed so far.

SUI needs the money for an estimated $24-million worth of improvements by 1967. The last legislature slashed SUI's askings ruthlessly (from $4.3 million to $1.6 million). In doing so, it passed the buck to the next legislature.

This buck-passing cannot continue. If SUI is to have steady, necessary expansion, the next legislature will have to approve a similar finance plan or a better one.

Are You 'Average'?

Everyone in their conversations uses the term "the average American family." Better Homes and Gardens recently compiled the figures of government and independent researchers to determine the average family.

The average family averages 3.5 persons. The husband and wife are about 30. He was married when he was 24. His wife was 21.

He stands 5 feet, 8½ inches and weighs 156 pounds. His wife is 4½ inches shorter and weighs 133.

Food claims 30 per cent of their income, which averages $6,390 if they live in a city and $3,460 if they live on the farm.

Bevan: Must Change Attitude

Calls for Re-examination of Social Problems In Order To Meet Russian Threat

An effective answer to Russian aggression involves a re-examination of our attitude to the social problems in our own country. This may not be so urgent in the United States, where a buoyant economy still appears to give a rough satisfaction to the people of that country; nor in Britain where the success of the Labour Government underpinned the democratic constitution. But it is otherwise in France, Italy, and certainly in those parts of the world where hunger meets feudalism in head-on collision.

It is indeed a grim conclusion to which we are driven. The most valuable allies of the Soviet are those elements in society which fight against social reforms, for these would rather risk war than part with wealth and privilege on any great scale. We must face the inexorable logic of the situation.

Free political institutions do not excite people to defend them with abandon against the threat of another nation, if those institutions prove inadequate to protect their well-being at home. Liberal principles do not thrive without roots, and those roots are fed by the contentment, and therefore the love, of those who see in them the prospects of progressive amelioration.

IT IS BECAUSE of these considerations that I believe the guidance given to the world by the United States Administration is wrong. They have mistaken the nature of the menace, and so they not only prescribe the wrong remedy, but their remedy itself feeds the danger.

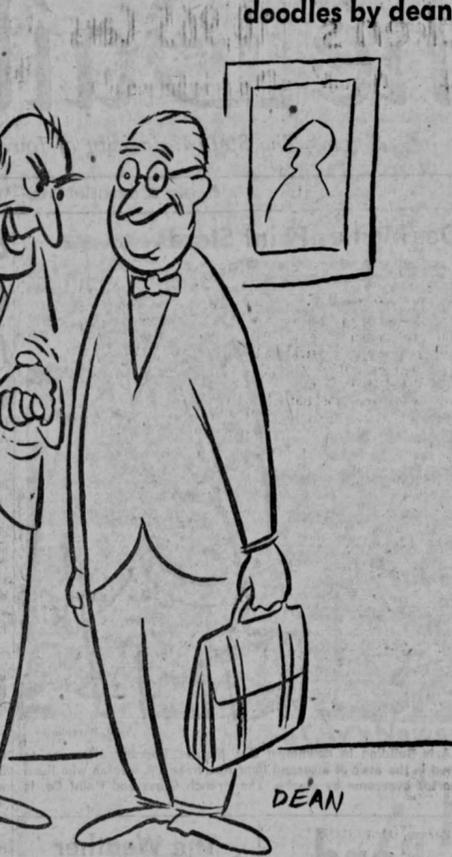

The scale of rearmament urged upon the democracies by the United States is a source not of strength but of weakness. The recent resignations of British Ministers were occasioned by the belief that the speed and scale of rearmament demanded by the United States would increase world economic tensions to the point where the Soviet diplomatic offensive would be assisted. And so it has proved.

The problem for mankind is how to get world opinion focused on something which is not the present hopeless contemplation of the drift to war. It is possible to find here also a catalyst which will rivet the attention of the world on constructive tasks and optimistic ends?

THE GENERALS have given us the dates of despair. Suppose we fix a date — towards which we should at once begin to work — when a definite percentage of what we are now spending on arms shall be set aside for the peaceful development of backward parts of the world.

There are three essentials for success. The date should be far enough away for preparations to be made. It should be near enough to excite hope and encourage restraint. And the percentage of the arms programme proposed to be diverted to peaceful purposes should be definite, substantial, and capable of being expressed in terms of men and machinery.

The Soviet Union should be invited to take part in these discussions as a potential contributor. Since she spends so much of her

There are three essentials for success. The date should be far enough away for preparations to be made. It should be near enough to excite hope and encourage restraint. And the percentage of the arms programme proposed to be diverted to peaceful purposes should be definite, substantial, and capable of being expressed in terms of men and machinery.

The Soviet Union should be invited to take part in these discussions as a potential contributor. Since she spends so much of her

Interpreting the News —

Russian Note Won't Hinder Eden Talks

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

President Eisenhower's fast reply to Moscow's latest "peace offensive" cleared the air of any thought among America's allies that she might be going into bilateral negotiations without them.

It permits the talks with Anthony Eden to go forward without distraction.

Premier Bulganin's offer of a treaty of friendship has been laid away with the many other superficial, propagandistic moves by which the Soviet Union has sought to complicate relations between the United States and Western Europe.

Initial reaction from abroad, and Eden's statement on arrival in New York that the President's reply was "admirable," have already taken the edge from any Soviet attempt to make it appear that America refuses peace.

The attempt will, of course, be made. Molotov laid the foundation for it in Prague Saturday by remarking that it was hard to see how anyone could turn down a treaty of friendship. But hardly anyone can fail to understand the President's explanation that it is the spirit, not the form, which counts.

The British press, which has often complained when America brushed off Russian generalities, does not do so this time. This time the propaganda is quickly recognized and dismissed, and interest centers around the issues being discussed in Washington.

THE FACT that Russia is out to stir up trouble in the Middle East completely overshadows Bulganin's synthetic honey. The emphasis in Washington is not on any survey of Russian intentions. Her intentions are accepted as clear, and the study is of ways to meet them.

The trend of thinking on both sides of the Atlantic now seems to be toward bringing Israel and the Arab states into negotiations — to make a peace rather than prevent a war.

It seems quite likely that Eden and Eisenhower will agree to offer some inducement — perhaps a regional economic development plan to go into effect when the opposing sides have created an atmosphere in which it is possible to work.

Wooing the Reds

THE ARABS have never seemed much interested in this approach, preferring to nurse their hate while continuing their ancient inefficiencies.

American influence in Israel and British influence in certain Arab states is still sufficiently strong, however, so that pressures as well as inducement can be applied if they are willing to do so. At any rate, mutual procedure is likely to be agreed upon.

On other matters of Anglo-American division, such as testing atom bombs, blocking Red China and keeping her out of the United Nations, the two great allies probably will not get beyond the status quo. But they can at least discuss them without any fear of unilateral action in the background.

No Fanfare For Mencken's One 'Inescapable Last Act'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert McHugh became a family friend of the Menckens — H. L. and his inescapable daughter August — during the last year. Despite the desire for privacy of H. L. Mencken's last rites, August permitted McHugh to attend the service. This is McHugh's description of the brief ceremony.

BY ROBERT MCHUGH
Associated Press Staff Writer

BALTIMORE — The "inescapable last act" of H. L. Mencken was staged Tuesday in a way that may have proved he was wrong.

"One of the crying needs of the times in this incomparable republic," the famed author once wrote, "is for a suitable burial service for the admittedly damned."

'Last Act'

He thought it a shame that no one had ever prepared "a libretto for the inescapable last act" of agnostics like himself. Mencken died early Sunday.

His friends and family met at 1 p.m. Tuesday in a small room in Witke's Funeral Home, just around the corner from 1524 Hollis St. where the writer lived nearly all of his 75 years.

What transpired may have met at least some of Mencken's requirements for an occasion "happily graceful and consoling."

No Sobs

There were no audible sobs to disrupt the calm. Yet survivors of his old "Saturday Night Club" appeared to find consolation in standing quietly shoulder to shoulder as they said goodbye to their friend.

Hamilton Owens, editor in chief of the Baltimore Sun papers, spoke briefly in behalf of Mencken's brother and life-long companion, August.

"August wanted me to tell you what most of you already know. Henry didn't want funeral services of any kind. All he wanted was a few friends to see him off on his

Creator of 'Winnie the Pooh' Dies

HARTFIELD, England — A. A. Milne, 74, author of the best-selling books on the childhood ventures of his son Christopher Robin with Winnie-the-Pooh, died Tuesday night.

Death came to the noted playwright, novelist, essayist and writer of light verse at his Sussex home. He had been in poor health since October 1952.

Millions of Americans, as well as Britons, knew Christopher Robin through Milne's four books telling of his son's encounters with Winnie-the-Pooh and other companions.

In 1926 the sequel "Winnie-the-Pooh" was published, featuring a stuffed bear that Christopher Robin considered a living companion.

The American publisher of these four books, E. P. Dutton & Co., has sold "well over" two million copies of them, with never fewer than 100,000 in any year since 1924.

Excerpts were set to music by H. Fraser-Simson, published as song books and popularized on records by singer Frank Luther.

Yardmasters Get $43-Month Boost

CHICAGO — The Railroad Yardmasters of America announced Tuesday a wage settlement with most of the nation's carriers providing a $43 monthly increase for some 4,500 members.

M. G. Schoch, yardmaster's president, said the agreement signed by some 95 railroads, establishes an average monthly pay rate of about $475. It is retroactive to Oct. 1, 1955.

last journey. And that is what we are doing here."

Then there was another minute or two of silence before the closed casket and flowers as the small assembly kept faith with Mencken's last request.

Girl Singers—

On the Records

—Some Outstanding—

By BILL DONALDSON

Record shops are full of girl singers' albums these days. Some are outstanding; some are run-of-the-mill fare. Four 12-inch LP albums made an exceptionally favorable impression on this critic.

"The Southern Style" (Decca $3.98) is the perfect title for Jeri Southern's new album, for her style is one of the few unique ones in the popular repertoire, and this record gives it full display. Jeri never sounded better in numbers like "One Day I Wrote His Name Upon the Sand," "The Gypsy in My Soul," and "I'll Take Romance."

Gwen Verdon (who has wowed the critics and Broadway audiences in "Can-Can" and "Damn Yankees") has just made an album for RCA Victor called "The Girl I Left Home For" ($3.98). Miss Verdon's personality is the main feature of the release, for she has no definite style. She just sings. But there is so much to what she does that the listener can hardly help but fall for her charm. Hear her sing "The Lady Is a Tramp" or "Daddy" and you might leave home, too.

Carmen McRae, a comparatively new discovery, has one on the stands called "By Special Request" (Decca $3.98). The songs are standard and the style is not entirely unique. Yet, when Miss McRae performs, she creates not only an intimate atmosphere but she also sings like she means it. This album features, among others, "I Can't Get Started," "You Took Advantage of Me," "Love Is Here to Stay," and "Just One of Those Things."

Lena Horne, a great singer whose records are all too few, is a sensation in her new Victor album, "It's Love." She is ably backed by her husband, Lennie Hayton, and his orchestra. The songs are varied, but the style is hers. She makes the most of "It's All Right with Me," "Fun To Be Fooled," "You Do Something to Me," and adds something special to the oldie, "Frankie and Johnny." The album sells for $3.98.

10,965 Cars Registered

About 13,000 motor vehicles were registered in Johnson County during the 1956 registration period.

During the two month period, which ended Tuesday, the county registered 10,965 autos and 2,121 commercial vehicles.

Due to the last minute rush to beat the deadline and a lag in production of 1956 plates at the Anamosa Men's Reformatory, the Johnson County license bureau ran out of plates late last week.

The license bureau received 9,999 auto plates and 1,500 commercial plates from Anamosa. Lumir W. Jansa, county treasurer, said he had no idea when a new shipment of plates would arrive.

He added that there would be a public notice issued when the shipment arrives. Late registrants will be requested to report to the license bureau to pick up their plates.

PORTERVILLE, Calif. — A Navy guided missile crashed in an orange grove about six miles south of here Monday, missing houses about 200 yards away on each side.

The missile was not carrying an explosive warhead. It left a crater about 20 feet across and 12 feet deep. No one was hurt and no buildings were damaged.

Mother's Family Moonshine Still Nipped by 'Revenooers'

BECKLEY, W.Va. — The arrest of a housewife charged with providing the family income by running a 55-gallon moonshine still was reported Tuesday.

Raleigh County Deputy Sheriff Mason Farley identified the defendant as Mrs. Mary Bolen, 30, mother of five children ranging in age from 2 to 13.

The deputy said he and two federal agents took Mrs. Bolen into custody Tuesday at her home at Tommy's Creek. He added that they destroyed the 55-gallon still and 20 gallons of mash.

Farley said Mrs. Bolen absolved her husband, who is unemployed, of any connection with the illicit liquor enterprise.

Tenley Pulls Away In Olympic Skating

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP) — Tenley Albright, undaunted by stabbing leg pains, and her 16-year-old American teammate, Carol Heiss, pulled away from the women's figure skating field Tuesday and a bitter United States ski protest was disallowed in the first full-blown "rhubarb" of the seventh Winter Olympic Games.

A little Japanese skier who attends Dartmouth College, Chiharu (Chic) Igaya, was awarded second place in the men's slalom won by Austria's Toni Sailer despite the heated protests of the U.S. ski coach, Robert Sheehan of Middlebury, Vt.

Sheehan insisted that Igaya missed a gate on his second run down the icy Calaneo course and should have been penalized the customary five seconds.

But an infraction wasn't called by the judges and Igaya's clocking was permitted to stand.

U.S. Loses Medal

The decision was important because it affected the placing of America's Brooks Dodge of Gorham, N. H., who would have moved up from fourth to third if the penalty had been imposed. It would have been America's first medal of any sort in the games — a bronze one.

Igaya said: "I passed through the gate legally. My ski passed in correctly but it was my knee which hit the pole, so it was not a foul."

Sigge Ericsson of Stockholm won the 10,000 meter 16 miles, 376 yards) speed skating race in 16 minutes, 35.9 seconds, clipping 9.9 seconds off the Olympic record. Sverre Stenersen, a Norwegian, won the Nordic combined with a smashing triumph in the 15-kilometer (9 miles, 560 yards) cross-country race.

Russia Falls

Russia, expected to score heavily in both events, could get no better than one third place in the day's three championships — a bronze medal in the 10,000-meter speed skating race — and added only four points to its team total. The Soviet Union still leads in the unofficial standings, however, with 89 points, followed by Austria 46 and Norway 41. The United States is far back with 9½.

The 20-year-old Miss Albright, world's figure skating champion, put on a dazzling exhibition in tracing the final compulsory figures and increased her lead toward the championship.

"I have to admit my foot hurts,"

BRAKING TO A STOP after his record-breaking performance in the 10,000 meter race in the Winter Olympics at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, Swedish sporting goods dealer Sigge Ericsson accepts the congratulations of teammates. In winning the race, Ericsson finished in 16 minutes, 35.9 seconds, paring 9.9 seconds off the Olympic record.

Hawks End Test Break Vs. Wichita

The nine Big Ten games coming up are the vital ones, of course, but the University of Iowa basketball team still isn't overlooking the date with Wichita University in the Hawkeye Fieldhouse Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

The Shockers from the Missouri Valley conference would seem to be in a neat spot to administer a shock to the Hawks in the first meeting of basketball teams from the two institutions.

Wichita has a pretty fair basketball team. It now has an 8-8 record and its victims include Nebraska, UCLA, Tulsa, Santa Clara and Drake. Detroit U. was beaten by a 20-point margin Monday.

The Kansas team lost to some good ones, like Utah, San Francisco, nation's No. 1, 75-65; Kansas and Oklahoma City U., both by one point. They play St. Louis (12-2) at Wichita Thursday.

This is the annual between-semester game, when the Iowa squad returns from a week of examinations and only occasional practices. But it will be a fine tune-up for the conference games since the second semester drive opens the following Monday at Wisconsin.

Wichita has averaged 68.6 per game, as compared with Iowa's 65.1 and opponents have 67.3 to Iowa's foes' 63.6. Leading Shocker scorers are 6-6½; Center Bob Hodgson, 17.7; and Guard Joe Stevens, 14.4.

The game is one of three remaining home contests for which reserved seats tickets still are available. Others are Purdue, Feb. 13; and Northwestern, Feb. 27.

K-State's Leaders Hit by Ineligibility

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Three Kansas State varsity basketball players are ineligible for spring semester games because of scholastic troubles, K-State officials said Tuesday.

They are Gene Wilson, senior guard and two-year letter man; Wane Hutchins and Charles Hollinger, sophomores. They have been front reserve players the first semester.

Their departure cuts the squad to 12 men. K-State presently is the Big Seven Conference leader.

Scott Hits 42 Points; U-High Wins, 87-59

(Special to The Daily Iowan) MT. VERNON — Jim Scott, University High's fine guard, personally buried Mt. Vernon here Tuesday night, with a tremendous scoring spree that piloted the way to an 87-59 U-High victory.

Scott's own contribution was a booming 42 points, a probable school record. He hit an amazing 15 field goals, and added 12 free throws for his total, one of the highest in the Iowa City area in recent years.

The University High total of 87 points was another school record, according to Coach Chuck Wolber. Behind Scott's leadership, U-High was in trouble at no time in the game. They vaulted into a 19-6 lead at the end of the first period, and by halftime had powered their way to a 35-16 advantage. It was 60-36 after three quarters, and from that point on it was merely a question of how much more Scott could score before time ran out on him.

Jim's brother, Al, oddly enough, was the only other Bluehawk to top 10 points in the game, gathering 11 markers. An important factor, however, was the fact that Coach Wolber cleared his bench in the game, playing 14 men. But except for Scott, no one scored impressively. Ten men broke into the scoring column.

Scott's accuracy — he shot in excess of 40 per cent in the game — was entirely too much for the out-manned Mt. Vernon team to handle. Scoring in large measure from the keyhole and on drive-ins, Scott was unstoppable throughout. It was the biggest output of his career.

The box score: U-HIGH — 87; MT. VERNON — 59.

The Grand Champion While the greater number of letters come from youngsters from 8 to 18, one letter is remembered as the Grand Champion. A man from the east wrote: "Please send me a football autographed by all the players, a complete Iowa uniform and a helmet. I am an Iowa fan."

Since a football and a uniform can't be classed as "sports information," the request had to be turned down. But unless requests are unreasonable, most of them are answered.

Others, who obviously have gone about the matter in more systematic fashion, are more formal about it. A sample was a letter from a Pittsburgh fan. It was a mimeographed form letter: "Please send me some football and basketball programs." In the space was written "Iowa."

'Frisco Still Leads; Iowa Sags to 19th

NEW YORK — Only the formality of winning their conference seems to stand between San Francisco's top-ranked Dons and a shot at their second straight national collegiate basketball title. But it's an entirely different matter for other tournament-minded members of college basketball's top 10.

The sports writers and broadcasters participating in the weekly Associated Press ranking poll handed San Francisco 90 of a possible 148 first-place votes and an almost-unprecedented 459-point margin over second-place Dayton. Points are scored on the basis of 10 for each first place vote, nine for second etc., and the Dons piled up 1,357 of a possible 1,480.

Dayton, suffering its first defeat of the season last week, earned only 988 points, barely edging out Vanderbilt, in third place, with 922. North Carolina State, Louisville, Illinois, Temple, Kentucky, North Carolina and Duke completed the re-shuffled first 10.

Vanderbilt and Kentucky, which dropped from third to eighth this week, are Southeastern Conference rivals. North Carolina State, North Carolina and Duke are in a three-way struggle in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Illinois heads the Big Ten and undefeated Temple is the No. 1 team in the Middle Atlantic Conference. The teams that finish on top qualify for the NCAA.

The top teams with win-loss records through Saturday in parentheses: 1. San Francisco (14-0) 1,357; 2. Dayton (14-1) 896; 3. Vanderbilt (14-1) 822; 4. North Carolina St. (14-2) 793; 5. Louisville (16-1) 738; 6. Illinois (11-4) 695; 7. Temple (13-0) 581; 8. Kentucky (18-3) 483; 9. North Carolina (13-2) 383; 10. Duke (12-3) 311; 11. St. Louis (12-2) 263; 12. Alabama (11-3) 142; 13. St. Francis, Brooklyn (12-0) 141; 14. Holy Cross (12-3) 132; 15. Oklahoma City (13-4) 115; 16. Memphis State (13-2) 106; 17. Southern Methodist (14-3) 73; 18. Marshall, W. Va. (13-2) 59; 19. 'Black Sox' Star Weaver Dies at 64

CHICAGO (AP) — George (Buck) Weaver, famous third baseman for the Chicago White Sox from 1912 through the Black Sox scandal of 1920, died Tuesday, apparently of a heart ailment. He was 64.

Weaver was stricken on a South Side street and was found there by police. He was pronounced dead upon arrival at a hospital.

Weaver was among eight Chicago players barred from baseball in 1920 when it was established that the 1919 World Series between the White Sox and Cincinnati was fixed.

The Chicago players were charged with conspiring to "throw" the games.

Weaver always maintained his innocence in the affair and several attempts were made to clear him.

Recently he had been working as a mutual clerk at Chicago race tracks.

Weaver hit .324 in the 1919 series. In eight games he collected 11 hits in 34 times at bat and scored 4 runs. A flawless defensive player, Buck made 9 putouts and 18 assists without an error.

He is survived by his widow, Helen, and a brother, Luther, of Stowe, Pa.

Athletes Chip In To Pay Doctor Bill

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Sixteen athletes lined up at the University of Kansas Medical Center Tuesday to give blood so their teammate Bud Budrich could pay for medical treatment of his baby girl.

The baby was born Sept. 10 with a nasal obstruction. Surgery and other costs amounted to $340.

Budrich said he wouldn't be able to pay the bill until after graduation. A laboratory technician told him some persons had liquidated such bills by providing blood.

Budrich mentioned this to a University of Kansas football teammate, Ray Bower. Other teammates soon insisted on helping and gave the needed blood.

11 School Bids Referred To Committee

Eleven bids for the construction of additions to Herbert Hoover and Mark Twain elementary schools were opened Tuesday afternoon by the Iowa City Board of Education.

The board took no action to approve any of the bids but referred them all to a special building committee for further study.

Close Bids
Robert T. Davis, secretary to the board, said that since many of the bids were very close, consideration must be given to the completion time stipulated by most of the contractors.

The board hopes that the additions will be ready for use when the schools reopen in September.

Total of the low base bids submitted to the board was $152,773.

In a preliminary building budget, the board had estimated construction contracts would cost $170,000.

3 Contracts
The board had called for construction bids under three different contracts; a general contract, a mechanical contract and an electrical contract.

Conner Brothers of Sigourney was low with a base bid of $113,992 among the six general contract bids.

Of the three mechanical contract bids submitted, the Larew Company of Iowa City was low with a base bid of $28,883.

Fandel Electric of Cedar Rapids was low with a base bid of $9,898 for the electrical contract.

The base bids were submitted for the construction of an addition about 84 by 78 feet to the rear of both schools.

6 Classrooms
This addition would contain six classrooms, three on each side of a center hallway.

The board also asked for alternate bids on an addition about 96 by 78 feet.

They wish to build this larger addition to the schools if the cost will not exceed the budget.

The alternate addition would provide an increase of about 936 square feet of building. The increased space would be used for storage rooms, special purpose rooms and a speech therapy room.

Low Bid Total
The total of low bids submitted for the alternate addition was $172,014.

This is $2,014 more than the board's budgeted $170,000 for construction costs.

Board members indicated that further study might indicate that the larger addition could be built since the additional cost could be taken from the $4,500 the board had budgeted for contingencies.

Bids submitted to the board were as follows.

- General Contract:
1. Frantz Construction Co., Iowa City, base bid $119,000, total alternate bid $120,000, completion time 210 days.
 2. Vigo M. Jensen Co., Iowa City, base bid $113,977, total alternate bid $113,854, completion time 209 days.
 3. Conner Brothers, Sigourney, base bid $113,992, total alternate bid $123,989, completion time none.
- Barrow Construction Co., Coralville, base bid $137,233, total alternate bid $138,517, completion time 210 days.
- S. W. A. Kilinger Co., Sioux City, base bid $122,870, total alternate bid $123,000, completion time 210 days.
- 8. Paulson Construction Co., West Branch, base bid $134,000, total alternate bid $119,550, completion time 300 days.

- Mechanical Contract:
1. Boyd & Rummelhart, Iowa City, base bid $29,123, total alternate bid $32,646.
 2. Ryan Plumbing & Heating Co., Inc., Des Moines, base bid $33,000, total alternate bid $33,200.
 3. Larew Company, Iowa City, base bid $28,883, total alternate bid $32,576.

- Electrical Contract:
1. Robbins Electrical Co., Moline, Ill., base bid $13,500, total alternate bid $16,800.
 2. Fandel Electric, Cedar Rapids, base bid $9,898, total alternate bid $10,978.

The additions are to be financed by a $195,000 bond issue approved by the voters last October.

1956 Hawkeye Has New Look

By KAY CROSS
A new Hawkeye is in the making. The most extensive change in more than 60 years of Hawkeye publication is becoming a reality, yearbook editor Barbara Work, A4, Homewood, Ill., said Tuesday.

A new trend is captured in this year's cover, designed by Sylvia Dolch, A4, Maquoketa. Its abstract design and contemporary color combination typify the entire book's modern format.

Miss Dolch and her staff have also redesigned about 75 per cent of the layouts. The only portions not redesigned were the organizations and beauties sections and the senior layout pages.

Modern Trend
Miss Work believes that the 1956 Hawkeye exemplifies the modern trend in college yearbooks. "The move today is toward freedom of form, simplicity and modernism," she explained.

"Not only have borders been dispensed with and replaced by pictures and large areas of white space are used in this year's Hawkeye to offset and emphasize the copy and pictures."

In addition to the geometrically simple, modern layouts, Vogue type in lower case letters carries out the trend toward a relaxed, natural format.

Copy Altered
Beside cover and layout changes, writing copy has under-gone a series of alterations, Miss Work added.

A narrative style of writing has been stressed in an attempt to personalize the organization or event. Each story is told as a single event as it might be seen over the shoulder of a typical student, Miss Work said.

Volume editors have corrected and rewritten all the stories which have been submitted by copy writers, Miss Work said.

The copy is now being processed by copy editor Janice Barnes, A3, Iowa City, and managing editor Marian Shapiro, A4, Millville, N.J. The last of the copy will be sent to the printer by April 15.

Larger Book
The 400-page book this year is a far cry from earlier Hawkeyes. An 1894 issue contained 194 pages. The 1955 book had 376 pages.

The annual will be divided into two main divisions—books I and II.

Book I, entitled "Our Alma Mater," will include such things as views, administration, classes, communications, fine arts, athletics and military.

Book II, "The Life We Live," deals more with students at SUU. It has a 40-page feature section. Other subdivisions are beauties, organizations, fraternities, sororities and dormitories.

380 Engravings
Up to now, 380 engravings have been ordered, said chief photographer Bill Smith, G. St. Albans, Vt. These include all senior pictures, fraternities and sororities, organizations and general pictures. About 200 feature type and sports activity photos remain to be taken, he added.

An attempt has been made to capture an atmosphere of naturalness in the yearbook pictures, Smith added.

A total of 5,252 annuals have been ordered. Of these, 3,072 are in sales, 750 are purchased by SUU to be distributed to libraries throughout Iowa, 1,380 will be received by seniors eligible for the book and 50 are standing orders.

1965 at Earliest
"Thus 1965 marks approximately, the earliest time at which widely competitive atomic-power generation is likely to begin in the United States."

By 1975, the panel added, it is possible that atomic-generated electricity may be equal to 40 per cent of the nation's present electrical output, and by 1980, atomic power may actually give more electricity than is generated today by conventional fuels.

But the panel stressed that it is anticipated that by 1980 electrical needs for the nation will increase three to five times present capability, so that atomic power would still account for less than one fourth of the nation's total anticipated 1980 electrical output.

No Atom Autos
The panel declared there is no prospect of atomic-powered automobiles, buses and trucks—at least for the foreseeable future.

The best possible bet for any relatively early commercial application would be atomic-powered cargo aircraft, operating over distances of more than several thousand miles.

Members of the panel include Ernest R. Breech, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., Detroit; Sutherland C. Dows, president and chairman of the Iowa Electric Light and Power Co., Cedar Rapids; and Walter P. Reuther, president International Union, United Automobile, Aircraft, & Agricultural Implement Workers of America; vice-president, AFL-CIO.

Under the "general university" section, the fund will help to provide aid for four projects:

1. Aid to SUU Library in acquiring special and unusual books and collections.

2. Encouragement of the University Band and Scottish Highlanders in their public performances.

3. Help the administration under the President's Contingency Fund to meet emergencies which arise in the operation of the university.

4. Further the systematic collection of data and documents related to the growth and development of SUU through the University History Fund.

Under "special projects" the fund helps to aid the Iowa Law Alumni Foundation to continue to grant scholarships to students in law.

VIOLIN RECITAL — A violin recital by John Ferrell, instructor in the SUU music department, will be featured in the Evening Music Hour tonight at 8 p.m. on station WSUI. John C. Simms, associate professor of piano, will accompany Ferrell in his renditions.

KNOW YOUR CHILDREN — Helping children learn to make wise choices will be the subject of the radio child study program, "Know Your Children," Thursday at 12:45 p.m. over radio station WSUI. Bill Bruce, research assistant in the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station, will show how children can be helped to take increasing responsibility for making choices as they grow older.

STUDENT RECITAL — James Clute, G, Iowa City, will present a double bass recital Friday at 7:30 p.m. in North Music Hall. The recital will open with "Concerto in E Major" by Dittersdorf.

See A-Power Competition Here by '65
WASHINGTON (AP)—The year 1965 looks like "the earliest time at which widely competitive atomic power generation is likely to begin in the United States," the Joint Senate-House Atomic Committee was told Tuesday.

The estimate was made by a "nonpartisan" 9-man panel of non-government experts who have just completed a 10-month "first comprehensive study" of the present and future impact of the peaceful uses of atomic energy at home and abroad.

As regards the prospects for economic industrial power from the atom in the United States, the panel of experts from science, education, industry, labor and the press said:

Judgment by 1960
"Around 1960, we should have adequate technological information at hand on which to base judgment of the economic possibilities of atomic energy as a power source."

"After this date we should be in a position to continue development and exploit atomic energy — at whatever rate the economy may require — as a source of electricity, and in competition with electricity from conventional fuels."

"Decisions made on the basis of data which should be available around 1960 could result in economically competitive atomic power plants coming into operation three to five years later, or around 1965."

1965 at Earliest
"Thus 1965 marks approximately, the earliest time at which widely competitive atomic-power generation is likely to begin in the United States."

By 1975, the panel added, it is possible that atomic-generated electricity may be equal to 40 per cent of the nation's present electrical output, and by 1980, atomic power may actually give more electricity than is generated today by conventional fuels.

But the panel stressed that it is anticipated that by 1980 electrical needs for the nation will increase three to five times present capability, so that atomic power would still account for less than one fourth of the nation's total anticipated 1980 electrical output.

No Atom Autos
The panel declared there is no prospect of atomic-powered automobiles, buses and trucks—at least for the foreseeable future.

The best possible bet for any relatively early commercial application would be atomic-powered cargo aircraft, operating over distances of more than several thousand miles.

Members of the panel include Ernest R. Breech, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., Detroit; Sutherland C. Dows, president and chairman of the Iowa Electric Light and Power Co., Cedar Rapids; and Walter P. Reuther, president International Union, United Automobile, Aircraft, & Agricultural Implement Workers of America; vice-president, AFL-CIO.

Under the "general university" section, the fund will help to provide aid for four projects:

1. Aid to SUU Library in acquiring special and unusual books and collections.

2. Encouragement of the University Band and Scottish Highlanders in their public performances.

3. Help the administration under the President's Contingency Fund to meet emergencies which arise in the operation of the university.

4. Further the systematic collection of data and documents related to the growth and development of SUU through the University History Fund.

Under "special projects" the fund helps to aid the Iowa Law Alumni Foundation to continue to grant scholarships to students in law.

WILSON MEMORIAL SET
WASHINGTON (AP)—A memorial service for Woodrow Wilson will be held at the Washington Cathedral Friday, the date that the 28th President died at his home in Washington in 1913.

Plane Crash Victim Dies

NOME, Alaska (AP)—Death struck Monday night after the dramatic rescue of four men who had survived an Alaskan National Guard plane crash and the subzero cold of a sub-arctic mountainside.

Brig. Gen. John R. Noyes, 54, died at a hospital here of exposure and injuries received in the crash last Friday. He was the Alaska National Guard's commander.

The other three were reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday. One spent the entire time in the wrecked plane with the injured general. The other two started to hike toward Nome the second after the crash and had covered about 15 of the 25 miles when they were picked up Monday.

The three were Maj. Robert Kolb, the pilot and an Army adviser with the National Guard, who stayed with the general; Maj. Francis Siegwart, formerly of Detroit, commander of the guard's Scout Battalion in Nome, and Sgt. Richard August.

Two Nome bush pilots — Phillip Lancaster and ex-territorial Sen. Bill Munz — landed small planes on the plateau-like mountain top above the wrecked plane late Monday. With the aid of two companions, they carried Noyes and Kolb the 900 feet to the top. The general died several hours after being flown to the Native Service Hospital here.

The plane crashed on a return flight from the Eskimo village of Shishmarek, 140 miles across the barren Seward Peninsula from Nome.

Antarctic Party Short of Goal

ABOARD USS ARNEB IN ROSS SEA — Operation Deepfreeze's trail-marking party deep in Byrd Land will have to quit about 200 miles short of its goal, it was announced Tuesday.

Three tractor-treaded vehicles carrying a seven-man team were about burned up and likely won't be able to travel much farther according to Cmdr. Herbert V. Whitney, commanding officer of two bases set up in the Antarctic by the U.S. expedition. These are Little America V, the main base for Operation Deepfreeze near Kainan Bay and, 400 miles to the west, the air base at Hut Point on McMurdo Sound.

The last reported position of the trail-blazing party was about 360 miles east of Little America V. Whitney said the party will make as much progress as it can this week, then fly back in a single-engine plane to the base. The three vehicles will be left on the snow plateau and may be retrieved next year.

Whitney said the vehicles, under repair for four days because of wear and tear on the engines, probably can make another 40 miles this week. The party's original mission was to mark a trail some 600 miles into Byrd Land to a point where a third base, an International Geophysical Year station, could be built next year.

The ultimate site of that base now seems doubtful. Whitney said it may be impossible to haul 500 tons of building materials the

Paving Assessments Ruled Excessive

Judge Harold D. Evans found excessive Tuesday three contested assessments for sewer and paving benefits.

The assessments, brought by the city of Iowa City, were reduced by Judge Evans.

A $1,922.68 assessment levied against Jane Irish for sewer improvement was reduced to $1,150.

A paving assessment of $205.42 for paving on Morningside Drive, levied against Ralph G. and Louise F. Janes, was found excessive and reduced to $150.

The third assessment, also for paving on Morningside Drive, levied against Clarence G. and Martha Adrian and Christine Adrian Johnson was reduced from $337.13 to $100.

Fire Strikes Dorm At St. Bonaventure

RACINE, Wis. (AP)—A fire, described as a "bad one," broke out in the boys' dormitory at St. Bonaventure near Sturtevant Tuesday. First reports said no one was injured.

A Sturtevant fireman said most of the boys were attending classes when the blaze started in the 200-foot long, four-story brick building.

Fire companies from Sturtevant and four nearby communities fought the blaze, which apparently broke out in the attic. Flames erupted from the roof and shot 40 to 50 feet in the air.

Alumni Famous in Many Fields—

Grads Find Success

By ELDON LIBBY

How many of the SUI students who receive degrees this February will become distinguished for something they accomplish?

That question can not be answered now but maybe the recipients of these degrees can get some inspiration from the accomplishments of other SUI graduates.

In 1914 Vilhjalmur Stefansson, class of 1903, proved that man could exist on the polar seas.

With two companions, one sled, six dogs, and food for 40 days, Stefansson traveled northeast on the Beaufort Sea in Alaska.

"We had to wade through pools of water at times, with the dogs swimming and the sled floating," he wrote.

Stefansson made other expeditions and by 1917 had explored more than 100,000 square miles of the arctic.

Explored Sea

Another SUI graduate liked exploring but unlike Stefansson, Bruce Heezen, class of 1948, did his exploring under the sea.

Heezen was the chief scientist aboard the research vessel "Atlantis" in 1948 and checked the depth and type of sediments located on the floor of the Atlantic Ocean.

Since 1948, Heezen has taken part in the mapping of the Atlantic from Labrador to Rio de Janeiro, and from Cuba to Senegal, West Africa for the United States government.

H. Roy Mosnat, class of 1899, went to law school at Harvard after receiving his degree from SUI.

Though he received his law degree, Mosnat liked horticulture and decided to see what he could do with flowers.

He has produced many new varieties of chrysanthemums, some of which are grown from coast to coast. Mosnat named his varieties the "University of Iowa Mums," and one special mum, "The President Virgil M. Hamner Mum."

Library of Congress

A woman graduate of SUI found that a job she had while a student here helped her to reach the third highest position in the Library of Congress.

Mrs. Werner Ellinger, who received her masters degree at SUI in 1930 is the deputy chief assistant librarian of the nation's largest library.

Mrs. Ellinger was employed by the University Library when she was a student here.

Founded College

Augustin Jereza, class of 1913, always wanted to help his people in the Philippines to become better educated.

After graduating from SUI, Jereza became an engineer in his homeland. He saved some money and then approached a few friends of his with the idea of starting a college.

His friends agreed. In 1927 they rented a building in the City of Cebu. That year, 120 students enrolled at the new Southern Institute.

By 1941, the college had an enrollment of 4,500 students. The war wiped out the college and Jereza and his friends had to start all over.

Today it is known as the University of the Southern Philippines and has the same enrollment as in 1941 and a president named Augustin Jereza.

Inventors

Those students who feel they have an inventive nature should take note of Dr. Harry Olson, who received his Ph.D. from SUI in 1925, and Prof. Grant Fairbanks, Ph.D. 1936.

Olson invented the "Electric Music Synthesizer." This machine can duplicate any sound exactly. It can "listen" to a recording of Enrico Caruso, and then produce the same voice singing another song.

The invention can also produce many sounds at once and in this use, duplicate a complete symphonic performance or opera.

Fairbanks used the theory that the ear can catch words faster than the mouth can say them, and invented the "Time Compressor."

The "Time Compressor" can take a 10-minute tape recorded newscast and compress it into five minutes of news, without loss of words.

The voice does not have a higher pitch, as when a 45 rpm record is played at 78 rpm.

The list of famous SUI graduates is almost endless. A look into SUI files would inspire the most pessimistic of graduates.

Young GOP's To Convention

SUI Young Republicans have been invited to attend a meeting of their national federation leaders from all states to be held in Des Moines Feb. 24.

About 14 members of the SUI group have already contacted Carl B. Zimmerman, L.2, Waterloo, chief of the Young GOP at SUI, on attending the function.

"Three evenings and two days of interesting and informative social functions and political meetings have been planned. They will give Young GOP's from SUI a chance to meet their counterparts from other colleges in Iowa and throughout the country," Zimmerman said.

National, regional and state officers and workers will be there, he added.

Republican National Chairman, Leonard Hall, and other top strategy experts from the Republican congressional campaign committee, will be among the featured speakers, Zimmerman said.

The meeting, to be held in the Fort Des Moines hotel, is open to all SUI Young GOP members who are interested in attending.

Those interested are requested to contact Zimmerman, Kay Putney, A.4, Waterloo, Bonita Davis, A.4, Corning, or Mark Putney, L.2, Gladbrook.

Rides will be available in cars leaving Iowa City late Thursday afternoon and at various times on Friday, Zimmerman said.

Kefauver Charge Rejected by Adlai

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, opening his California campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination Tuesday rejected Sen. Estes Kefauver's charge of party bossism by Stevenson supporters in the state.

Flying in from Phoenix, Ariz., for an 8-day tour of California, Stevenson declared:

"I have not come here to quarrel with Sen. Kefauver. He is a fine Democrat and I am sure his objective, like mine, is Democratic victory next fall. But I hope he will refrain from further suggestions that my supporters are bosses and unworthy or unfair."

Kefauver, contesting Stevenson for California's 68 delegates to the Democratic National Convention, complained of a move to freeze him out of the June 5 primary after most of the state's high-ranking Democrats endorsed Stevenson.

4 Held Here On Charge of Bad Checks

Two men and two women were charged by Iowa City police Tuesday night with uttering and drawing false checks.

The four persons, all arrested about 11 a.m. Tuesday, gave their names as Leonard H. Holst, 23, Cedar Rapids; Rollin J. Klenk, Davenport; Cecilia Mae Chapman, 19, Davenport; and Lucille Christina Timmerman, 18, East Dubuque, Ill.

The two girls passed a check for $39.20, made out to Miss Timmerman and signed by Holst, at a local super market, according to Detective-Lieut. Harland F. Sprinkle. The super market officials found the check was false and reported it to police.

Seen by Police

Sprinkle, unaware of the complaint, noticed the women attempting to pass two checks at a department store about 11 a.m.

Store officials found the checks were no good, and Sprinkle apprehended the two women.

Prior to this, the detective reported, they had passed two checks totaling $85.53 at another store. All the checks were signed by Holst.

Maximum Sentence

If found guilty, each of the four can be imprisoned for not more than seven years or fined not more than $500, or both.

Holst admitted to authorities that he started writing bad checks about two weeks ago and had passed a total of 13 in Cedar Rapids, totaling $150; one for $15 in Davenport and one for $20 in Ottumwa.

He also said that on Jan. 24 he passed two $20 checks in Iowa City. He told police they returned to Iowa City Tuesday morning after spending a week in Kansas City.

All four are being held in the Johnson County jail pending arraignment Wednesday morning.

Bluffs Vice Trial Ends Abruptly

COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP)—The investigation of alleged vice and corruption in Council Bluffs ended abruptly late Tuesday when the January term grand jury reported it had no more indictments to return.

The new grand jury replaced one of the October term of District Court. The old jury last week indicted two Council Bluffs police captains on charges of accepting bribes and five other persons on various charges.

The new grand jury which had been directed to carry on the probe where the old one left off, heard its first witnesses Tuesday. It questioned five witnesses and then submitted a brief written report to Judge Charles Roe.

No More Witnesses

The report said it had no further witnesses to call and no indictments to return.

State agents and officials under Atty. Gen. Dayton Courtney and State Safety Commissioner Clinton Moyer had assisted in the investigation, Pottawattamie County Attorney Matt Walsh said.

Moyer was in Council Bluffs Tuesday but could not be reached for comment.

All Pleased

All of those indicted have pleaded innocent but no trial dates have yet been set.

The police officers are Capt. Charles W. Merriman and Benjamin E. Montgomery.

The others are Stella Kendis and Mae Woodrow, jointly charged with conspiracy; Thomas Stewart, who is charged with perjury, and Walter M. Jenkins and his wife, Patricia, charged with keeping a house of ill fame, possessing improperly stamped liquor, and bootlegging.

Stewart lives in Omaha. The others are all Council Bluffs residents.

Job Opportunities

DES MOINES (AP)—Industrial developers from more than 75 Iowa communities met in Des Moines Tuesday to exchange ideas for acquiring new factories and encouraging expansion of existing industries in the state.

In welcoming the overflow audience of 560, Gov. Leo A. Hoegh said the purpose of increasing industry in Iowa is "to give people more and better job opportunities."

Car-Train Accident SIOUX RAPIDS (AP)—Two women and a 1 1/2-year-old baby were killed and two others were reported critically injured in a car-train collision near here Tuesday night.

None of the victims was immediately identified but all were believed to be from Sioux Rapids.

Parole Violator KEOKUK (AP)—Ronnie Dallas, 14, of Keokuk, who had just been released after paying a $20 fine on a charge of drinking beer on a public highway, was back in the county jail here Tuesday.

Sheriff Harold Delahoye said he was charged with breaking into the Hagmier Grocery Store at Montrose. The sheriff said the boy will be returned to the State Boys Training School at Eldora as a parole violator.

Gets One Year

CLARINDA (AP)—Holmer (Bing) Barnes, 43, was sentenced to a year in the Iowa Penitentiary Tuesday on a charge of shooting at a Clarinda policeman.

Authorities said Barnes fired a .22 caliber rifle at Policeman George, Norris when officers went to the home of Mrs. Rita Day Dec. 12 to arrest him on a charge of assault against Mrs. Day.

Falsified Information

DUBUQUE (AP)—A former investigator for the U.S. Department of Agriculture testified Tuesday in Federal District Court here that Melvin Apel, Floyd County farmer, told him "quite frankly" that he obtained a loan on corn belonging to his sister.

Apel is accused of falsifying and concealing information in obtaining crop loans from the Commodity Credit Corporation.

9 Jurors Accepted

BLOOMFIELD (AP)—Nine of the first 15 prospective jurors questioned in the second murder trial of William G. Karston, 30, had been accepted by both the state and the defense Tuesday.

It will be necessary that 35 prospective jurors be passed by both sides to obtain 13 jurors and one alternate. Karston is being tried for the robbery-slaying of Wendell Jones, 56, Pulaski farmer, in July, 1954.

Quiz Singer In Shooting

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Billy Daniels was questioned Tuesday night about a Harlem shooting. An assistant district attorney said he would be charged with felonious assault and illegal possession of a gun.

Daniels was arrested at his apartment, apparently on an anonymous tip, hours after James Jackson, 33, was found staggering on the sidewalk in front of a Harlem bottle club.

Jackson was wounded in the left shoulder. His condition was not serious. Daniels denied any connection with the shooting or that he knew Jackson. Jackson refused to tell police who shot him.

Daniels currently is singing at the Copacabana night club.

Iowans Drink More

DES MOINES (AP)—The state of Iowa made more profit on its liquor business last year, although Iowans drank some 65,000 gallons less than the year before. The Liquor Control Commission Tuesday reported a net profit of $8,600,000 for 1955, an increase of nearly a million dollars compared with 1954.

Iowans spent close to half a million dollars in the state's 180 liquor stores during one single day last year. That was New Year's Eve.

For the whole year, spending for liquor was nearly the same as last year, about 37 1/2 million dollars. Buyers got less liquor for their money — as a result of a five per cent price increase that went into effect last April.

Plan Psychology Tests for Artists

If you've ever sat in an art gallery and wondered why different artists get such different results in painting the same object, you probably have some of the questions for which an SUI psychologist is seeking answers.

Prof. Norman C. Meier, creator of the Meier Art Judgment Tests, has started a one-year research project on ways in which creative processes work within the artist.

A $1,500 grant from the American Philosophical Society supports the study.

Next week he will interview artists in Chicago in a series of visits to U.S. art centers to gather data on the backgrounds, kinds of talent and ways of working which are characteristic of established artists.

His subjects also will include members of the SUI art faculty.

10 Years of Research Meier was the 1950 president of the aesthetics division of the American Psychological Association, and directed a 10-year research program at SUI, "Genetic Studies in Artistic Capacity," financed by $65,000 in grants from the Laura Spelman Rockefeller and Carnegie Foundations.

In this study Meier directed 20 graduate student assistants in gathering information on early art ability and growth of creative imagination.

The experimental work included following a group of children from their pre-school years into adolescence. It also included making life histories of 40 established American artists.

Combination of Qualities From this study and subsequent investigations Meier observed that artistic ability is the result of a happy combination of such qualities as manual skill, ability to concentrate considerable energy into completing a work of art, perceptual facility, creative imagination, and aesthetic intelligence and judgment.

In the development of artistic talent from childhood to maturity, he continues, we now know, for instance, that:

1. Artistically talented children are first identified by their activity with crayons, water colors and other art materials, by the frequency and length of time they worked at the easel in their pre-school years. Most artists recall extensive artistic activity between age 5 and 8, Meier said.

2. A group of 283 high school art students was found to have about three times as many relatives in art and craft occupations requiring delicate manual skill as an equal number of non-art students. The artist thus seems to come from a stock so constituted that the acquisition of skills comes easily.

3. Successful artists do not seem to fit the stereotyped notion of the "temperamental, long-haired dreamer." They are characterized by ability to focalize great energy upon a theme until it is completed.

4. Artists seem to "start themselves." The life histories of established artists reveal "no instance in which the individual's interest and activity was urged upon him by an adult."

5. Studies of hereditary charts and environmental influences offer no convincing evidence that the artist is wholly "born" or "made." Talent is not an either-or proposition. The creative process is a closely knit and evolving development of a number of interlinking qualities.

6. With few exceptions, superior artistic competence appears to be associated with superior intelligence. In tests which would rate "average intelligence" at 100, the average intelligence quotients of 75 high school students who showed superiority in art was found to be 109; for 51 nationally known artists the average IQ turned out to be 119.

Meier says his contacts with Thomas Benton, Grant Wood and other noted American artists reinforce the point of view that every work of art—from cave drawings to modern abstractions—is (1) the product of highest skill and (2) the achievement of unity through effective use of principles of design with such art elements as line, color and form.
