

Hawks Down 'Cats, 86-68, for 12th Straight

By IVARS LIEPINS
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

The Hawkeyes displayed championship form in deadly shooting and their customary fancy passing to down the Northwestern Wildcats with comparative ease, 86-68, here Monday night.

About 12,500 fans saw Iowa have its ups and downs, at times playing brilliantly, but on one occasion letting Northwestern creep dangerously close.

Iowa's play could be divided into four quarters. The Hawks opened the contest being momentarily stunned by the tight zone defense employed by the Cats, but then started to drop in 15 to 17 foot set-shots.

Early Lead

With 10 minutes gone the Hawkeyes had worked their way up to a 30-10 margin, and continued to cover the Wildcats with a blanket-like man-to-man defense.

This completely demoralized the Cats and they found themselves losing the ball in their court. They suffered badly from the Hawkeye fast break.

With seven and a half minutes left in the first half the Hawks held their largest margin 34-12, and Coach Bucky O'Connor started his first substitutions.

This was the turning point in the first half. Iowa started to sag, and successive baskets by Northwestern's Glen Lose, Jay Hook, and Fred Duhart chopped down the Hawkeye lead to 13 points, 39-26 as the first half ended.

This, however was not the end of Hawkeye woes. As the second half opened, Northwestern continued its sparkling offensive drive and cut the Iowa lead down to 8 points, 44-36, with two minutes gone.

Then Iowa again caught fire, and in five minutes regained its previous 20 point margin. It was Carl Cain and Bill Logan who carried the load for the Hawkeyes during that period.

Starts Subbing

Midway in the second half O'Connor put Babe Hawthorne in for Seaberg.

Less than a minute after that Cain was replaced by Tom Payne. The ovations just about tore off the fieldhouse roof as the rubber-legged forward left the floor.

Iowa's reserves took over. They were outplayed by the Northwestern starters, but still retained a respectable lead.

Cain and Logan were spectacular on the fast break play.

Logan High Scorer

Iowa's 6-8 center collected 21 points to finish as the high scorer, closely trailed by Northwestern's Lose with 20.

Bill School was second high for Iowa with 16 points followed by Seaberg with 14.

Northwestern's Dick Mast was held to 15 points, four below his Big Ten average.

Schulz Rebounds

It was the Wildcat's 6-11 center Bill Schulz who caused the Hawkeyes the most trouble in the rebound department. Even high jumping Cain could not match his height and Iowa was losing many offensive rebounds, especially in the first half.

Midway through the second half Schulz left the ballgame with a leg injury, and from then on the Hawkeyes controlled both boards.

Iowa shot a good .429 percentage with Northwestern managed a cool .309 per cent.

This was Iowa's 11th straight Big Ten win. This tied their record established in 1923 when the Hawkeyes also won 11 straight in conference play.

A victory over Illinois Saturday would break this tie and also give Iowa its most league victories in history — twelve.

Khrushchev Re-elected Party Boss

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party's Central Committee kept the USSR's "collective leadership" intact Monday. It re-elected all 11 members of the ruling Presidium and retained Nikita S. Khrushchev as the party's first secretary.

The committee, however, expanded the number of alternate Presidium members from two to six, naming Defense Minister Georgi K. Zhukov to one of the four new places. Extension of this honor to the World War II hero once again underscored the rise of the armed forces' influence since Stalin's death.

Remains Boss

As first secretary, Khrushchev remains boss of the party's vast apparatus of more than seven million party members and candidate members.

For the first time in Soviet history, a woman achieved the upper reaches of the party apparatus. Ekaterina Alexandrovna Furtseva became an alternate member of the Presidium.

Rising Star

Another rising star was re-elected to alternate membership in the Presidium. He is Dmitri T. Shepilov, editor-in-chief of Pravda and regarded by many as a logical successor to V. M. Molotov as foreign minister.

Re-elected to the Presidium were Georgi Malenkov, former premier, and Molotov.

New Position

Westerners expressed interest in the new position of Marshal Zhukov, whose wartime and postwar connections with President Eisenhower have led to correspondence between the two. Zhukov was an extremely popular hero at the end of the war, but Stalin gave him an obscure military job in the Ukraine. After Stalin's death, Zhukov became deputy defense minister. When Malenkov stepped down from the premiership, Zhukov succeeded the new premier, Nikolai Bulganin, as minister of defense.

Council Narrows Field of Bidders

The city council Monday night narrowed the field of bidders on the sanitary sewer and Woolf Avenue bridge projects, but no contracts were awarded.

The field of six bidders on the bridge project, which calls for replacement of the present wooden structure over the Cedar Rapids and Iowa City Railway line and Highway 6, was reduced to the three lowest: (1) Oliphant Engineering, Todville—$59,062.50; (2) Schmidt Construction Co., Winfield—$69,600; and (3) Jensen Construction Co., Des Moines—$69,875.

Six of thirteen bidders on the trunk line sewer schedule to originate near the Procter and Gamble plant on Lower Muscatine Road and serve southeastern Iowa City, were retained for consideration. They were: (1) Floyd E. Neff, Monroe, whose $105,608.53 bid was low; (2) Normoyle and Berg Co., Rock Island, Ill.; (3) Clark and Fitz Construction Co., Bagley; (4) Knowling Brothers, Iowa City; (5) Peter N. Kruse, Spencer; and (6) Quad City Construction Co., Rock Island, Ill.

The low bids will now be referred to city engineers for further study. The council did not decide when the contractors would be selected.

HONEYMOON YACHT

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP)—Prince Ranier III's personal yacht, Deo Juvente II, was sent to drydock in Toulon, France, Monday for an overhaul in preparation for the Prince's honeymoon with actress Grace Kelly.

Dean, 'The Doodler,' Inspects a Doodle

THE DAILY IOWAN'S CARTOONIST, Dean Norman, his wife Bette and their cat inspect the original of one of Dean's recent cartoons. A collection of Dean's cartoons, many of which have appeared in the Iowan, will be published in April.

'Doodles by Dean' Book Will Be Published

By VIC GEORGE

Frowned upon in high school, encouraged in college, risked in the Army and employed in The Daily Iowan, "Doodles by Dean," is now embarking on another laugh-provoking mission.

A collection of 128 cartoons, including 20 new ideas, by SUI's Dean Norman will be published in book form April 3.

The idea is the keynote in a cartoon. And they don't come easily, Dean reports. In fact, he works at it. Once a subject is in mind, he draws three or four ideas before choosing one that will do.

Gets Help

Help has come from all sides since his cartoons first started appearing in The Daily Iowan in June, 1955. Friends and strangers stop him to give out with a "wonderful idea for a cartoon."

Dean likes to get ideas this way because he then knows the current thought of his readers. Some of the cartoon ideas are so definitely aimed at his classroom activities, Dean's instructors develop perception complexes and begin to identify themselves with the cartoon characters.

This probably happened with one of his personal favorites — the one picturing the absent-minded professor leaving home without his briefcase but clutching the air as if the briefcase were there.

'Liberal Department'

"It is high credit to the liberality of the Political Science Department that my wife, Bette, and I were graduated in February," Dean jokes. He is now doing graduate work in political science.

Dean, himself, is the best defensive weapon against any possible retaliation measures on the part of cartooned characters. His quiet, unassuming manner causes him to be overlooked indefinitely by professors in any scientific study of behavior patterns of suspected student cartoonists. This is helped by the fact Dean is registered under a different name dating back to an Army clerical mix-up.

Dean began doodling on the margins of his classroom papers in high school in Cedar Rapids. This was frowned upon, but with the aid of a mail-order course and an understanding art teacher, Dean was set by graduation time to try his

Ohio Bomber Crash Kills 11

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A four-engine Superfort carrying 11 crewmen on a brief test flight, crashed and then exploded on a farm near Dayton Monday, killing all aboard.

Eyewitness accounts indicated the big plane was crippled, and heading for an emergency landing when it crashed.

A series of explosions ripped it apart and scattered bits of wreckage over a nine-acre area. After hitting the ground it ploughed into an unoccupied farm dwelling, splashing flames over the house, an adjoining barn and garage housing two automobiles. All the buildings burned to the ground.

The plane was attached to Wright Air Development Center at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near here.

Two of the crewmen were civilian technicians. The Air Force said it was withholding names of the dead pending notification of next of kin.

None of the dead was from Iowa.

Jet Bomber Crash Kills 4 Crewmen

KNOB NOSTER, Mo. (AP)—A B47 jet bomber exploded, then crashed into a farmhouse Monday, killing the four crewmen and injuring a mother and her son slightly.

The plane, from the Whiteman Air Force Base near here, crashed 10 miles from the base shortly after takeoff.

The Air Force identified one of the crewmen as Capt. Robert R. Hays, 37, Knoxville, Iowa.

90 Educators See TV Class

By LORETTA PETERS

A panel of 8 SUI comparative foreign government students faced lights, cameras and, most terrifying of all, about 90 college presidents and deans for an hour Monday afternoon.

Also watching, or trying to, were two large groups of students from the same class.

It was not an inquisition, but a demonstration of closed-circuit educational television, put on for the benefit of the visiting college officials.

The students could see and hear

Kefauver Tells Iowans Of Farm Bill Faults

Ike May Reveal Plans Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower "in all probability" will hold a news conference Wednesday.

That much information came from the White House Monday. There still remained the tantalizing question of whether Eisenhower will announce at this probable conference what he plans to do about running again.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Monday he did not know what hour the conference might be held. Customarily, Eisenhower meets the press for about half an hour, beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Senator Blasts Dulles' Optimism

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) opened a new Democratic attack on Secretary of State Dulles in the Senate Monday by accusing him of withholding the truth about "our present peril" from Soviet Russia.

He said Dulles may endanger administration hopes for passage of a foreign aid program by implying that "the battle against the Soviet bid for world domination has been won."

Navy Plans New Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy disclosed Monday it is developing a new strategic weapon — a nuclear-powered submarine capable of launching guided missiles.

If Congress approves the plan, the new A-boat will probably be built in the Navy's Mare Island yard in California.

Navy officials said it is too early to say what size and type of missiles will be fired from the submarine.

The Navy has been firing shorter-range missiles from submarines for several years in preparation for this new phase of push-button warfare.

Originally the Navy planned to build a conventionally powered sub for use as a missile ship. It was approved by Congress for the 1956 construction program.

But the House Armed Services Committee has now been informed of the Navy's intention to design the vessel around an atomic engine, which will give it a boost in speed and far greater cruising range.

Navy officials said the atomic power plant will cost considerably more than conventional equipment.

Says Lobby Force Used on Farm Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Monday that "lobbyists" pushing the Eisenhower administration's farm proposals are making the "oil and gas people" look like pikers.

Humphrey told the Senate that thousands of dollars are being spent on a "barrage of propaganda" promoting proposals put forward by Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

The senator did not name any lobbyists. But he said the money is being concentrated in the Midwest on television and newspaper advertising.

Police Get a Lead In Florida Violence

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Chief of Police Roy Allen said Monday he thinks he has a lead on who set off the mob action that brought out the National Guard Saturday night.

But he said he doesn't want to reveal at this time the line his investigation was taking.

Widespread but minor individual damage was caused by the 3,000 to 4,000 rioters.

No clear picture had emerged as to exactly what caused the turmoil. It seems to center, however, around teen-age auto races.

The majority of those arrested were in their "teens and early 20's."

The Weather

Snow & Colder

"Cold," was the weatherman's major statement Monday night but added that we could look for warmer temperatures tonight and Wednesday.

The predicted high today in the state ranges from 15 in the north-east to 38 in the southwest.

There was some light snow in extreme southern Iowa Monday, but most of it was just flurries, although parts of the southeastern part of the state had been warned to expect two to four inches of new snow.

As the snow weather moved eastward out of Iowa, cold air took its place and will continue to dominate Iowa's weather picture until late tonight.

Europe Warms Up; Floods Threaten

LONDON (AP)—Warming temperatures Monday ended Europe's worst freezeup of the century. But crumbling ice and melting snows sharpened the peril of floods and landslides.

Weathermen predicted a continuing slow thaw after the month-long cold wave which has caused 926 deaths and damage estimated at $2 billion.

On Europe's river arteries, huge ice blocks formed jams behind which the waters rose dangerously. NATO troops stood by to give emergency assistance where needed.

After weeks of cold and snow, vacationers along the French Riviera sunbathed in a summery 77-degree temperature.

In northern Europe, daytime temperatures generally climbed above freezing.

Countryman Gives Candidacy Answer

DES MOINES (AP)—Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman said Monday afternoon he would disclose whether he will be a candidate for reelection at a news conference to be held.

"But certainly," Saltonstall told Fulbright, "we can't be too pessimistic."

Indications are strong that he will announce he is not a candidate.

Norman A. Erbe, 36, Boone, announced earlier Monday that he will seek the office on the Republican ticket. Erbe, an assistant attorney general assigned to the Iowa Highway Commission, said previously he would not be a candidate for attorney general if Countryman were. Countryman and Erbe attended law school together at SUI.

Erbe and his wife, Jacqueline, have three daughters.

Demo Hopeful Urges Food Stamp Plan

SIGOURNEY, Iowa (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), Monday night proposed amendments to the Senate farm bill to provide, among other things for a food stamp plan and production payments on livestock.

The Tennessee senator, carrying his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination into this Keokuk county town about 65 miles southwest of Iowa City, declared the farm KEEFAUVER bill "as recommended by the administration or as reported by the Senate committee, won't do the job that needs doing."

Europe Warms Up; Floods Threaten

"I am getting sick and tired of hearing the secretary of agriculture moan about the overburdening surpluses and blaming all the farmers' woes on them.

"An imaginative administration would consider the surplus not as something to cry about but as something to use. I want to see it used."

2 Proposals

Kefauver said he had two proposals to boost livestock prices which go together "just like the horse and carriage."

He outlined a plan whereby the secretary of agriculture would be given authority to pay from $1 to $3 per hundredweight premium on livestock whenever the price dropped below 90 per cent of parity or whenever the annual crop exceeded the average for the previous 10 years.

"The result," he said, "would be a voluntary reduction of production in a way which the farmer would get more cash for his animal than if he had kept it and fattened it up another few hundred pounds. It would tend to prevent additions to the surplus."

The senator's second suggestion was for production payments on livestock to pay the farmer the difference between the market price of livestock and 90 per cent of parity.

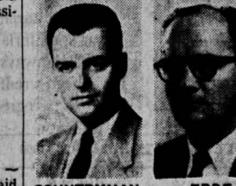

The senator said the food stamp plan would make surplus foods available to handicapped persons and those on relief. He estimated there were about 18 million such persons in the United States.

Favors Graduated Supports

On the subject of 90 per cent parity price supports which the Senate committee wrote into the administration's farm bill, Kefauver said he was in favor of a graduated support system — "not according to Ezra's sliding to the bottom, but according to income derived from the farm."

Kefauver stressed party harmony in a brief talk at a noon luncheon before leaving Des Moines for his appearance in Sigourney.

"I have a very firm conviction that throughout the nation this is going to be a Democratic year whether President Eisenhower runs or not," he continued, "because the people have learned that the character of a political party doesn't change."

The Daily Iowan

The Daily Iowan is an independent daily newspaper, written and edited by students. It is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the university.

The Iowan editorial staff writes its editorials without censorship by administration or faculty. The Iowan's editorial policy, therefore, is not necessarily an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion.

The Iowan, in the terms of a policy statement adopted by trustees in 1946, "will try to act as a good citizen of the SUI community and the community of Iowa City. . . . The Daily Iowan conceives its owners to be the whole constituency of the University, past, present and future. It will endeavor to hold the good of the University in trust for these owners. . . ."

The Sales Tax

One of the loudest protests directed toward the state legislature last spring came from merchants in Iowa's border counties. The reason: the increased sales tax (two to two and one-half per cent) might drive business into the neighboring states.

The merchants along the Nebraska border (there is no Nebraska sales tax) are still complaining. So are the ones along the Minnesota border. Gov. Leo A. Hoegh says he is against the increase and the tax may be returned to two per cent at the next legislative session.

Along the Illinois border the opposite is true. It is the merchants from the neighboring state who are doing the complaining.

Illinois has a two and one-half per cent sales tax, just like Iowa.

The Illinois legislature, at its last session, passed legislation that enables Illinois towns to impose a one-half per cent sales tax. Some 600 Illinois towns have already done so.

The Rock Island and Silvis city council's recently voted to impose the tax. Both towns are across the river from Davenport, Iowa's third largest city.

It does not cover persons who work outside the city, but live in the city and use its services. It is hard to administer. The administration costs are very high.

There is no clear-cut answer as yet to the problem of local tax revenue in Iowa, Illinois or anywhere else. One must be found, however, as cities assume more responsibilities and provide more services.

increase so do taxes. As the cost of living increases, so do city employees' salaries, and so do taxes.

The burden of these rising taxes falls upon the property owners, who are often old persons living on small pensions or savings or young persons struggling to make payments on a home and a car and make ends meet. The non-property owner is left untouched.

So is the person from the small suburban town who works in the larger city, uses its streets, playgrounds, libraries and receives its police protection while in town, but contributes nothing to its support.

The local sales tax is the first fumbling attempt to divide the city's tax burden among all of the people who use the city's services. It hasn't been a successful one.

The local sales tax is a regressive tax. It hits at the low wage-earner harder than it does at the high wage earner. It is not based on the ability to pay.

What then can the local governments do? Philadelphia has tried the local income tax. This covers all persons who work within the city limits. It has, of course, obvious faults.

It does not cover persons who work outside the city, but live in the city and use its services. It is hard to administer. The administration costs are very high.

There is no clear-cut answer as yet to the problem of local tax revenue in Iowa, Illinois or anywhere else. One must be found, however, as cities assume more responsibilities and provide more services.

Mail We're Proud of

An editor's mail is very interesting, but often irritating. Most of the letters to the editor are well thought out and express the viewpoint of the writer very well. Most of them disagree with something the Iowan has done or said, but are in good taste.

Every once in a while, however, someone with more vitrol than logic sits down to a typewriter to give the editor a piece of his mind.

Here are a few samples from a letter we received last week from such a writer:

"Truthfully you are no different than the other jackleg editors trying to make a name for yourself in your stupid emotional appeal to the masses."

"I would like to see them (Negroes) move into Iowa City or at least enough to make it a proportion of two to one. . . I'd like to see you educate the masses and to solve the social status when they crowded into your churches, clubs, municipal pools and playgrounds."

"The NAACP is a business organization to which many emotional suckers contribute."

"The white South does not want to integrate [sic] with the black people because they are economically below and socially below their standard. The colored people are in this position because of choice now and not because of force."

This is the type of letter that is always unsigned. This one was no exception.

One can often be proud of the enemies one makes.

Martin's Poll

Sen. Thomas E. Martin (R-Ia.) annually sends out a questionnaire to his constituents asking them for their opinions on congressional issues of the day. He started this as First District congressman and is continuing it as United States senator.

This year's poll once again is interesting and enlightening. It leaves out, however, an important question: how do Iowans feel about 90 per cent parity supports?

Last year 58 per cent of those answering the questionnaire favored 90 per cent supports. This was before the introduction of the soil bank plan (which got a 66 per cent approval this year).

Perhaps the most significant result of Senator Martin's poll concerned federal aid to schools. Last year federal aid got only a 52 per cent approval. This year 67 per cent of the persons were in favor of it.

About 65 per cent of the farmers answering the poll favored federal aid. In the business, professional, white collar and labor classes the percentage of approval votes was higher.

Perhaps people are waking up to their school problems faster than educators think.

Correction

The editorial appearing on The Daily Iowan's editorial page Saturday and entitled "Highways Never Up-to-date" should have been credited to the Clarion News. The Iowan regrets the error.

... whereupon said party moved that the meeting be adjourned and that the chairman step outside and repeat what he had just said. Motion seconded, meeting adjourned. Any additions or corrections to the minutes?"

Study Now, Pay Later

Suggest Higher Tuition, Installment Plan As Solution to College Financial Crisis

(Editor's note: This is the first in a series of two articles from the Princeton Alumni Review by Dick Mestres, treasurer of the university.)

I sail under false colors. These have been the traditional colors under which most of us treasurers sail—maybe we are financially wet and uncomfortable but they were good enough for our fathers and they seem good enough for us. We like our system—we don't depreciate buildings because they were given to us and how can you depreciate a zero cost? We don't set up reserves to replace those buildings because someone will give us a new one when the old place falls down. And it will fall down because we don't maintain it the way we should. We will sweat and budget—we may be broke but our hearts are pure, our cause is just, and we will prevail—we always have.

We have prevailed but at what cost?—name me the institution that is paying its faculty, administration, and nonacademic personnel salaries commensurate with the importance of their contribution to society. Name me an institution that has a well-maintained and efficient plant. Name me an institution that could not use funds to improve its libraries, laboratories, and educational system.

Increased Enrollment

We sit in dread of this so-called impending wave of students in the next few years. We wonder where the buildings are going to come from. Where are the teachers going to come from? Where are the administrators coming from? Why should any young man or woman place their families at such an economic disadvantage. The traditional answer will be because this has always been true and they are dedicated. President Lowell is supposed to have said that teachers should not be paid decent salaries to encourage only the dedicated ones to enter the profession. With all due deference to that learned gentleman, this proposition will not produce the number and type we want and need.

Now as I strike my false colors, let me say the Jolly Roger I hoist is not my personal flag. By that I mean the idea has been advanced in different form by different people. No institution could do it alone. Adjustments would have to be made.

In its simplest form, the proposition I submit is that each student should pay the full direct and indirect costs of his or her education. Now don't jump to conclusions—I am not advocating education only for the elite and wealthy. In suggesting that each student pay his or her total direct and indirect costs of education, I realize that this is contrary to the traditional American concept of education, both from the standpoint of the privately supported as well as the publicly supported institution. I think this traditional concept will bear analysis.

In the case of the private institutions, it is a well-known fact that the alumni or alumnae are on a perpetual mailing list of application to keep dear old X, Y, or Z solvent and strong. The American Alumni Council each year reports ever-expanding and increasing totals of alumni fund drives. The publicly supported institution not only has its alumni fund but also income from tax revenues and I am sure everyone will agree that you continue to pay taxes in one form or another until you die when many States really take it from you. It would seem therefore, that everyone probably pays something more than the tuition and fees levied while in college.

ment that the principle of my proposition of paying the full cost is approved, we can turn to the question of how it is to be paid.

Payment Method

Dr. Pusey, of Harvard, in the September issue of Fortune, states that it is estimated that a college degree adds an average of over $100,000 to the lifetime earnings of the individual. I would like to interject Dr. Pusey's article does not deal with the material benefits of a college education. The sum quoted is merely a figure in the article. Let's assume this $100,000 average figure is correct—and I believe it is conservative. The average age at graduation is 22 and the average life expectancy is about 67, or 45 years of postgraduate life. Thus, we have an average increment of $2,222 per year for life. Doesn't it seem almost immoral for anyone to accept this bounty and pay on average about one-half the cost of the very thing that made it possible? The saying "You only get what you pay for" applies to everything except your education.

There have been several suggestions of how this cost might be charged. One suggested by Dr. Seymour Harris, professor of economics at Harvard—I hope you will appreciate, as a Princetonian, my use of my friends at Harvard as blocking backs—Dr. Harris suggests that, in addition to tuition, each student at matriculation sign an agreement to pay 1 or 2 per cent of his or her gross income each year to the college for life. At 1 per cent, a very rough but conservative estimate would mean about $100 per year per alumnus. On my previous calculation of 45 years of postgraduate life, this means the graduate would pay only $4,500 extra for the $100,000 benefit gained from the college education. This does not seem an excessive charge and maybe 2 per cent is the right figure.

Installment Plan

Another suggestion stems from our modern concept of installment buying. Fifty years ago, we saved up the money to buy the piano, the furniture or the new stove. You could get a mortgage on the house and the insurance companies had worked out actuarial tables whereby you paid now and they paid later; a nice business. The rapid growth and development of our economy has in large measure depended on the reversal of the concept that you had to have all cash before you could buy a single consumer's article. The only thing which remains back in the horse and buggy days is the system of paying for our education. Our expanded credit system is one of the contributing factors to inflation. This inflation is what is squeezing us and yet we hang on to the old traditional system. Now what's wrong with study now, with a down-payment, and pay later. Here's how it might work:

Let's take an average university from Ike French's compilation. We find this average of 60 institutions has an average income of $1,376,000 of which $782,000 is for educational and general purposes. Its expenses totaled $1,342,000 of which educational and general accounted for $766,000. Believe it or not, our theoretical institution balanced its budget. On examination, we find that the average instructional salary figure amounts to $295,000 and the total instructional expense amounts to 50.2 percent of the educational and general expenses. Now this average institution has about 700 students who paid about $700 in tuition and fees. Thus the $490,000 tuition income amounts to about 55 per cent of the total expenses exclusive of auxiliary enterprises. Let us assume we double tuition and fees which will produce $490,000 more income. How would we use it?

DONALD O. QUARLES (Air Force Secretary)—"The point I am making then is that we have gotten this thing (the long-range ballistic guided missile) completely out of perspective. We have scared our people to death about something that is, to be sure, a horrifying weapon; but it does not kill you any deadlier than a bomber does with an atomic bomb."

WRA Holds Tournaments Continuously

By LORETTA PETERS

Do you like to bowl? — or play tennis? — or golf? If you do, the Women's Recreation Association has a tournament for you.

If none of these suits you, maybe basketball, badminton, volley ball or swimming will. The WRA has a tournament for each of these, too.

For the athletically inclined, there are tournaments going on throughout the year. Seasonal sports tournaments are played in season. Others are spaced between them.

The basketball tournament is going on now. It will be finished the last week in March.

Twenty-three teams, made up of about 350 coeds, are participating in it.

Tournaments are played in the Women's Gymnasium, usually on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

At the end of each year a WRA trophy is awarded on the basis of points compiled by each housing unit in all of the tournaments.

Pi Beta Phi is now leading in total points compiled. North Currier is in second place. Tied for third place are Delta Zeta and Zeta Tau Alpha.

Eligibility for membership in the WRA is determined by a point system, too. Points are awarded on a basis of individual participation in sports.

WRA also sponsors a number of clubs. Anyone interested may join the stunts and tumbling, basketball, badminton, hockey, tennis or social dance clubs.

The other two clubs, Seals, the swimming club, and Orchestras, the modern dance club, have a competitive selection of members each year.

The clubs are primarily concerned with participation in sports. Each year they take trips to other schools for field days.

The WRA is governed by a board made up of an elected representative from each club, appointed heads of the different sports, intramural chairmen from the various housing units, and an executive council.

Members of the executive council are the WRA president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and publicity chairman. Executive council members are elected in the all-campus elections.

Candidate for Governor To Be Honored at Tea

A tea will be held at 9:30 this morning for L. E. Plummer, Northwood, candidate for the democratic nomination for governor.

The tea, to be sponsored by the Johnson County Democratic Women, will be held at the home of Mrs. Sam L. Robinson, 235 Ferson Ave.

Mrs. John Schulze, Mrs. Robert J. Collins and Mrs. George Kalnitsky will assist.

Journalism Group Initiates 9 Women

Nine SUI coeds were initiated into Theta Sigma Phi, honorary journalism fraternity for women, Sunday at the Hotel Jefferson.

The initiation was followed by a smorgasbord and a talk by Mrs. Jeff Clark, a Theta Sigma Phi alumna of the Baylor University chapter.

Initiated were: Eleanor Benz, A4, Iowa City; Nan Borreson, A3, Sheldon; Betty Broyles, A3, Grinnell; Anne Datesman, A4, Council Bluffs; Dorothy Schwengel, A3, Davenport; Dorothy Roudabush, A3, Brooklyn; Loretta Peters, A3, Marne; Jo Ann Petersen, A3, Clinton; and Anne Roberts, A3, Macomb, Ill.

Is It Ballet Or—

IOWA'S BILL LOGAN and Northwestern's Bill Schultz display frenzied expressions as Schultz sails through the air in a ballet-like step on a rebound attempt. Log won the ball game here Monday night, 86-68.

Wrestling?

IOWA'S BILL SEABERG seems to have things well under control, as he prepares to throw Northwestern's Jay Hook in wrestling-like action basketball Monday night in the Fieldhouse. The ball? Well, it is not in sight.

O'Connor, Fisher Both Agree—

Iowa's Fast Break Decides Game

By DAVE STEVENS and GEORGE WINE

"Whew! I was afraid of a let-down," Coach Bucky O'Connor sighed in the locker room Monday night after his Hawkeyes trounced Northwestern, 86-68.

Between chomping bites out of an ice cream bar, Bucky confided that it was Iowa's fast break that broke the Wildcats' proverbial back.

The ice cream bar was all Bucky had to eat all day. "I feel much better now," he said, licking the stick.

Cardinal Rule

"It's a cardinal rule of basketball to try to catch the other team before it has time to set up its zone defense," the Iowa Coach said. Northwestern used a two-three zone the whole game.

"The fast break, plus a couple of other things, was the difference between this game and the one at Evanston the other day," he continued. Iowa edged the Cats there, 70-65.

Fast Break Sharp

O'Connor thought that the Iowa fast break was about as sharp as he had ever seen it. Coach Waldo Fisher of Northwestern pointed out that the Hawks had wonderful speed.

"Then again, we passed better close under the basket than we did against Northwestern last time," O'Connor said. "And we hit from outside fairly well. Boy, if you can't hit from outside against a zone, it can be rough."

The Hawks shot at a .357 pace in the first half and turned in an over-all 429 percentage. Meanwhile Northwestern turned in a shooting percentage of .309 after hitting only .195 in the first half.

Schultz Plays Well

"At Evanston, Northwestern hit much better and center Bill Schultz played better," O'Connor added. "He played well here tonight. He'll be real good some day."

Coach Fisher praised the big boy also. "All he needs is some confidence in his shooting ability. He rebounds well."

"But when he comes up against a boy like Logan—well, they don't come like that every day."

Although playing only three-fourths of the game, Schultz (6-11) led all rebounders with 15. He left the game for Northwestern with a slight limp.

Bucky O'Connor said he is still wondering how forward Carl Cain made that spectacular shot that gave Iowa a 58-42 lead. A lead pass found Cain open under the basket. "Casey" jumped, spreared it with one hand, hung in the air, twisted his body and banged it in.

Receives Ovation

Cain received an ovation upon his exit from the game reminiscent of the times when Deacon Davis bowed out of a contest.

Although the fans drummed up a chant late in the game, "Beat Illinois," no such words were heard in the dressing rooms. Of course, everybody was wondering if the Gophers had maintained their three-point halftime lead. Illinois won, 97-81.

Starters Tough

"Iowa is forced to rely more on its starting five. But boy, those five can hurt you," Mast declared.

Mast said he would be able to compare the teams much better if Northwestern had played Illinois. "I've watched them on TV, though, and they look real tough," he said. "I guess we'll get a chance to find out when we play them March 5."

Wildcat Coach Waldo Fisher joined Mast in praising the Hawkeyes, but he refused to make any predictions.

"I have no idea how the Hawks will do against Illinois," the coach said. "I haven't seen Illinois play yet."

Asked if he hadn't seen the Illini on television, Fisher smiled and replied, "I never watch television."

Fisher said Iowa was a much sharper ball club Monday night than the previous meeting between the two clubs. The Hawks squeezed out the Wildcats in that engagement, 70-65.

"Iowa moved the ball well tonight and showed some real slick passing," Fisher said. "That comes after a team has played together a couple years, as these Hawkeyes have."

Fisher also said that Iowa's defense had improved considerably and was much tougher to penetrate than the last meeting between the teams.

Forward Glen Lose, who led Northwestern with 20 points, said Carl Cain is as rugged on the boards as anyone in the conference.

Needed Pole

"We both went up for a rebound in the second half and Cain was so far above me I couldn't have touched him with a ten foot pole," Lose said.

Center Phil Bromberg, who re-joined started Bill Schultz in the last half, echoed the remark made by Lose.

"That Cain is terrific," he wrote Bromberg declared. "He went above me several times," Bromberg is 6-7, and Cain 6-3.

Schultz was relieved because of a leg injury he received in the second half. The Northwestern trainer said after the game that Schultz is all right, and only had suffered a charley horse.

The absence of the 6-11 Schultz obviously hurt Northwestern. He played about 23 minutes before he was replaced, and still led both teams in rebounds with 15.

Iowa Teams, 4-1, Over Weekend

By FRED MILLER

It took Iowa swimming coach Dave Armbruster 40 years, but he finally made it—an undefeated dual meet season.

Armbruster established swimming as an intercollegiate sport at Iowa, and his 1956 aggregation boasts a clean and brilliant 8-0 season record with the Big Ten championships looming up Thursday through Saturday at Purdue.

The Hawk swimmers won the final meet Saturday afternoon by sinking Purdue in the Boiler-maker pool, 48-45.

Friday night, the tankmen outscored a powerful outfit from Indiana, 47-46, for their seventh straight triumph.

The season's stars are obviously Jim Coles, Lincoln Hurring and Jake Quick, who all have untarnished records. Hurring posts an 8-0 record in the backstroke, while Coles and Quick hold 5-0 records in the 100-yard freestyle and diving, respectively.

Iowa meets all of its foes again this weekend plus the undefeated Buckeyes of Ohio State. The conference team title goes to the winner of the Big Ten event in which two teams with 8-0 records are entered.

100-YARD SPEED RELAY—1. Iowa (Coles, Roberson, Jacobson, Miner). Time—3:36.5.

Iowa's powerful indoor track team won its third and fourth dual meets Saturday at Madison by beating Wisconsin and Northwestern in a triangular meet.

Part of the brilliance of the Iowa team was hidden by the world-breaking time of :06 flat for the 60-yard dash turned in by Jim Golliday of Northwestern. Record books list :06.1 as the world's records.

Hawk Ted Wheeler was the only double winner of the afternoon as he toured the mile in 4:11.2 to set a new Iowa record, and later equalled the Iowa mark of 1:55.2 in the half mile.

Iowa won six first places and tied for another to rake up its 68 points to the 47 for Wisconsin and 24 for Northwestern.

Staffan Carlson picked up 45 points against Michigan State and the University of Illinois at Chicago (Navy Pier) Saturday afternoon as the gymnasts beat Navy Pier, 60½-51½, and lost to Michigan State, 60-52.

Cretzmeyer Drake Relays Referee

"That's Cretz in the orange hat." This remark will undoubtedly be heard at the Drake Relays April 27-28 when Iowa Coach Francis X. Cretzmeyer assumes his duties as referee of the meet.

The orange hat is the symbol of the Drake Relay referee. The honor was conferred on the Iowa coach Saturday. He is the first Hawkeye mentor to be so honored since George Bresnahan held the same position 27 years ago.

Top Golfers Enter Louisiana Tourney

BATON ROUGE, La. (P)—The nation's top golfers began arriving Monday for the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open golf tournament, which opens Thursday.

Heading the entry list was Ted Kroll, who moved up as the leading money winner of the 1955-56 winter circuit with a three-stroke victory Sunday in the Houston (Tex.) Open.

Besides Kroll, the entry list includes the winners of the four biggest 1955 tournaments, Cary Middlecoff, winner of the Augusta Masters; Jack Fleck, U. S. Open; Doug Ford, PGA champion, and Julius Boros, Tam O'Shanter world champion.

All pros on the regular PGA tour are exempt from qualifying. Other professionals and amateurs will have to qualify if a qualifying round is held for the 72 hole medal play event.

Bill Strannigan To Colorado Post?

Colorado Visit Cyclone Cage Coach Interviewed by CU

BOULDER, Colo. (P)—Colorado, shopping for a new basketball coach, was visited over the weekend by a former star CU athlete, Bill Strannigan, now cage coach at Iowa State.

Harry Carlson, director of athletics here, had Strannigan to dinner Sunday night.

"Bill is one of four or six men we're very much interested in for the job," Carlson said Monday.

"We had some fine discussion in our meeting Sunday, but there were no commitments made by either of us."

Strannigan's Iowa Staters play the Buffaloes Monday night. H. B. (Bebe) Lee, Colorado basketball coach, is leaving at the end of the season to become director of athletics at Kansas State.

Strannigan is in his second season at Iowa State; going there from Colorado A & M.

Likely 2d Cuban At Sox Shortstop

TAMPA, Fla. (P)—When Chicago traded Chico Carrasquel to Cleveland in the Larry Doby deal, White Sox fans asked the obvious: Who plays shortstop now?

It could be Jim Brideweser or Carl Peterson, but it's more likely to be Luis Aparicio, a dashing Latin from Venezuela who won't be 22 until 10 days after the season opens.

If Aparicio can fill his predecessor's shoes, there will be no shortstop crisis at Comiskey Park. And the young man comes highly recommended.

"Aparicio's a major league shortstop right now and should get better as he goes along," said Ted Lyons who managed Luis at Memphis in the latter part of 1955.

"He showed me enough last spring to rate as a major league defensive shortstop right then," reported Manager Marty Marion of the Sox.

That doesn't mean Aparicio hit it made. Marion wants to see him against big league competition before he makes up his mind. He also wants to tone down Aparicio's tendency to "overplay" the ball with unnecessary fancy moves.

The record shows Aparicio hit .273 at Memphis in the Southern Assn. last season and led the league with 48 stolen bases.

Perhaps the best way to measure Luis' determination is his own educational program. For the past two years he has been studying English from a tutor to be prepared for his big chance. With the help of schooling and his experiences at Waterloo, Iowa, in 1954 and Memphis last year, he now speaks very good English.

They used to say about one Latin American ball player the only "English" he knew was "filet mignon." Nobody can say that about Luis.

Auto Race Planned at Fairgrounds

DES MOINES (P)—Al Sweeney, president of National Speedways, Inc., Chicago, announced Monday that the second annual big-car Futurity auto race would be held at the Iowa State Fairgrounds Sunday, June 10.

Sweeney released the date after meeting with Lloyd Cunningham and the State Fair Board here.

The 1955 Futurity, first auto race meet of its kind, attracted nationwide publicity and drew the largest crowd to ever witness a big-car speed event in Des Moines.

Rules and conditions for the 1956 Futurity will be revised, Sweeney said, with the 100 laps of racing divided into six events. Five 10-lap qualifying races and a 50-lap feature will comprise the program.

Three speed events are scheduled for the nights of Thursday, Aug. 30 and Friday, Aug. 31. A 200-lap late model stock car marathon including time trials will climax the fair auto racing, Cunningham said.

The fair will open one day earlier than last year, Friday, Aug. 24, and close one day earlier, Sunday, Aug. 27.

Hawkeye Gymnasts Lose Meet, 62-50 To Nebraska U.

Fisherman Dog Holds the Record For Biggest Trout

DURANGO, Colo. (P)—It's the truth — honest.

A dog holds the record for catching the largest trout ever taken from the Dolores River which winds through southwestern Colorado.

The 4-year-old Lewelleyn setter, named Rowdy, turned his instinctive bird hunting ability to catching trout on a sunny afternoon July 22, 1926.

Swimming Hole

He had followed his young masters, Richard and Walter Odenbaugh, to their favorite summer swimming hole between a dam and a bridge on the river near town.

Rowdy dozed on the bank in the shade of a big cottonwood tree while Richard, Walter and a group of their young friends frolicked in the water.

Jumps in River

Suddenly Rowdy dashed into the river in the shallow riffles. The boys watched entranced as the setter appeared and disappeared in a whirling spray for several minutes.

Rowdy emerged from the water slowly dragging a flopping monstrous Rainbow trout toward shore. It weighed eight pounds two ounces and was 26 inches in length.

Had Frightened Trout

The boys apparently had frightened the big Rainbow out of their deep swimming hole and Rowdy spotted the trout as it took to the shallow riffles in an attempt to escape.

Ralph Bennett of the Durango Herald-News staff, who gave Rowdy to the Odenbaugh brothers, vouches for the story.

He says Rowdy died at the age of 18 and no human since has been able to match the setter's trout-catching skill on the Dolores River.

DRAKE LOSES — Loyola of Chicago whipped Drake 82-66 here tonight in the Bulldogs' last home game of the season. The Loyola victory avenged an 80-74 loss to Drake in Chicago. Loyola was led by center Jack Carpenter who tossed in 22 points. He had balanced support from the other four starters, all of whom scored in double figures. Red Murrell, who recently set a Drake scoring record of 41 points, was held to eight points. Willie Cerf got only nine.

CYCLONES WIN — Iowa State snapped Colorado's home winning streak at 19 and took over the runner up spot in the Big Seven conference basketball race Monday night by clubbing the Buffaloes 79-62.

STENGEL CALLS — Manager Casey Stengel Monday called his 1956 New York Yankees' pitching staff stronger than the one which helped win the pennant last year. He named five certain starters, Whitey Ford, Bob Turley, Tommy Byrne, Mickey McDermott and Don Larsen.

GLOSSLESS — Earl Hilligan, head of the American League Service Bureau, said Monday the league will not use the new glossless baseball until 1957. It had been planned to adopt the dull ball as the official ball this season, but Hilligan said technical problems prevented sufficient production.
