Jury Frees Southern White in Negro Slaying

SUMNER, Miss. (AP)—A 12-man all-white jury Tuesday acquitted Elmore Otis Kimball, a white cotton gin operator, of murder in the shotgun slaying of a Negro service station attendant.

Kimball testified he shot Clinton Melton, 33, in self-defense at a Glendora service station last December. State witnesses, one a white man, contended Melton was unarmed when Kimball returned with a shotgun after an argument.

Jury Deliberated

The jury deliberated 30 hours and 20 minutes before returning its verdict.

"I don't know what to think," said the 35-year-old Glendora cotton gin operator. "I sure am happy, though."

The two-day trial took place in the same courthouse where half-brothers Roy Bryant and J. W. Milam were found innocent six months ago of the murder of 14-year-old Emmett Till, South Side Chicago Negro.

Only once in history has Mississippi executed a white man in the death of a Negro and that was in 1890.

Kimball's Story

Kimball told the jury he was returning from duck hunting with a rifle and shotgun already in his car. He said he first told Melton to fill up his tank, then remembered it was full and told him not to bother.

Melton replied, Kimball said, "I wish you would make up your damned mind."

An argument followed, Kimball said, with Melton saying, "I'm not scared of any white — — — I ever saw."

Kimball said he went into the station and told the owner, Lee McGarrh, "I certainly wouldn't want him talking to my customers like that."

Argument

When McGarrh refused to fire him, Kimball said, he asked the service station owner to make up his bill on his charge account "and I'll pay you and take my business somewhere else."

Kimball said John Henry Wilson, a Grenada Negro, was with him when he drove up to the filling station.

After the encounter with McGarrh and Melton, Kimball said he went home, returning in about 15 minutes. McGarrh said Kimball told him he was going home to get his gun and kill Melton and warned McGarrh, "I'll get you too."

Shots Fired

Kimball said when he returned and got out of the car, a shot was fired, then another shot that wounded him in the shoulder.

He said he ducked down behind his car, pulled his shotgun out of the back seat and jacked a shell into the chamber.

As he looked over the hood of the car, Kimball said, another shot was fired and he shot "where the shots came from."

'Skyhook' Balloon Travels 700 Miles

It's Kefauver 6 to 1 Over Stevenson

By ELDON LIBBY

The giant "Skyhook" balloon, made of polyethylene plastic thinner than human hair, flew more than 700 miles after being launched at the Iowa City airport at 7:47 a.m. Tuesday by SUI physicists.

The balloon dropped its load of cosmic ray research instruments near Mount Morris, N. Y., about 40 miles south of Rochester and 30 miles east of Buffalo.

The research balloon, freed of its weight, will rise until the expanding helium breaks the balloon and it drops about ten miles away from the instruments.

Winds Vary

The scientists had estimated that the balloon would travel about 400 miles due east but as Otto C. Winzen explained, the atmospheric winds vary greatly and the landing area must always be a rough estimate.

Winzen is president of the Winzen Research Company, a balloon contractor for the Office of Naval Research which helped finance the project with the Atomic Energy Commission.

The balloon was tracked by a Twin Beechcraft airplane, but overcast skies and snow, after the balloon had traveled 250 miles, made it impossible to see the balloon.

Electronic Tracer

Edward Lewis, chief flight engineer for Winzen, said the pilot told him he was flying "blind" most of the way, tracing the balloon by means of electronic equipment.

The balloon was flying at 85 miles per hour at 113,000 feet.

A truck following the balloon turned back after 200 miles when the balloon had far out-raced it.

Plans had called for the truck to return the equipment. It will now be returned by the plane.

The plane landed at Rochester, N. Y., after the equipment had parachuted to the ground. An automatic timer had been preset for 3:45 p.m., and another "safety" timer set for 4 p.m. The first timer cut the nylon cord load line and the equipment hit the ground an hour later from its 21 mile height.

The pilot of the plane said the equipment landed in a well-populated area and should be recovered soon.

Planning the Flight

Frank McDonald, research associate in the SUI Physics Department, said physicists started planning the flight last March, and by November 1 they had started construction of their equipment.

"We have made flights in Minneapolis, Texas, and Greenland for these explorations. Our SUI group is mainly studying the variation of intensity of primary cosmic radiation (secondary radiation is near the earth's surface) with latitude," McDonald said.

Cosmic rays are nuclear particles from outer space that travel with thousands of times more energy than that generated in the world's most powerful "atom smashers."

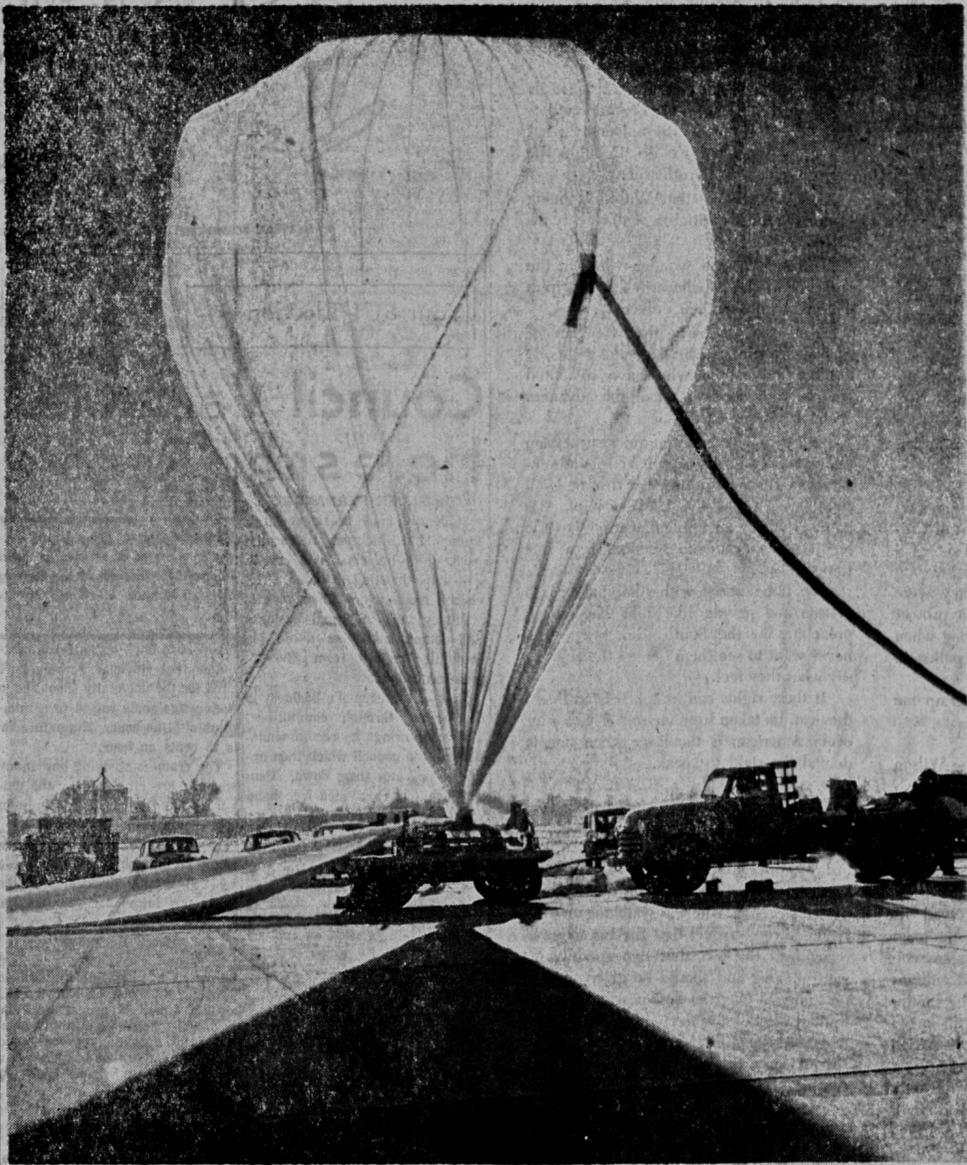

Launching

The launching activities at the Iowa City airport started early in the morning as the Winzen men began preparing their equipment.

The SUI cosmic ray physicists worked through the night testing their instruments in the physics

BALLOON —

SILHOUETTED AGAINST THE MORNING SKY the Skyhook balloon released at Iowa City's Municipal Airport Tuesday morning is inflated for its day-long flight into the northeast. The balloon, which reached a height of 21 miles before beginning a slow descent in mid-afternoon, was expected to give scientists valuable information about the upper atmosphere. The balloon came down in Mt. Morris, N.Y., and will be returned here for study.

Young Demos, GOP To Hold Debate Here

A debate between the national chairmen of the Young Democrats and the Young Republicans will highlight the Iowa College Students' Workshop in Practical Politics at SUI on April 21.

David A. Bunn, chairman of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, and Charles McWhorter, chairman of the Young Republican National Federation, will debate the question: "Resolved: that there should be a change in national administration in 1956."

Richard L. Pinegar of Des Moines, chairman of the Young Democratic Clubs of Iowa, and Keith Richardson of Jefferson, chairman of the Iowa Young Republicans, also will participate in this debate at the close of the one-day workshop for Iowa college students.

The workshop is sponsored by the Iowa Citizenship Clearing House, whose headquarters are at SUI. Prof. Robert F. Ray, director of the clearing house, said Tuesday that 19 Iowa colleges have indicated they will be represented at the meeting.

Each school will send four students — two Republicans and two Democrats — and a faculty adviser to the meeting. Purpose of the meeting is to give selected student leaders a chance to meet with local, state and national political leaders and find out how they can participate in politics most effectively, Ray said.

The one-day session on practical politics will include discussions of the press and politics, politics and the federal government, political party organization in Iowa, how to participate in local politics and how to organize campus political groups.

Engineers Find Elusive Blarney Stone Early

The traditional search by SUI senior engineering students for an elusive hunk of granite known as the Blarney Stone ended at 9:45 p.m. Tuesday.

The stone was found in the Chemical Engineering Department of the Chemistry Building. The search has been going on since 1 p.m. Monday.

With a series of clues supplied by graduates and graduate students in engineering, seniors in mechanical, civil, chemical and electrical engineering conduct a type of "scavenger hunt" to find the stone.

The stone or the clues may be located within a 25-mile radius of Iowa City. The deadline for finding the stone was 7:30 p.m. Thursday, when the stone is to be presented at the annual "smoker" in the Iowa Memorial Union River Room.

The seniors participating in the hunt were told they would find their first clue in the office of the Dean of Engineering. The clue, composed of transit readings, led the search party to a bottle floating in the water under the Iowa Avenue Bridge.

The clue finally led the group to a cigarette can located outside the library in the Engineering Building. After digging through the sand, this clue was discovered.

Assisted by the clue, the next envelope was found in an icebox in the SUI sewage plant. This one led the group to a seat in the football stadium.

U.S. Stays Impartial In Cyprus Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States declared Tuesday night it is not taking sides in the British-Greek dispute over Cyprus and offered its services to find "a fair and just solution."

State Department press officer Lincoln White issued a brief statement to that effect soon after British Ambassador Sir Roger Makins, acting on instructions from London, telephoned the State Department to ask an explanation of an expression of U.S. "sympathetic concern" made to the Greek Foreign Ministry over the dispute.

"The United States is ready to assist its friends in the achievement of a just solution to the Cyprus problem, White said.

"We view the past problems with sympathetic concern, but are confident that a solution can be found which will strengthen overall Western interests."

Meanwhile virtually the entire island was gripped by a general strike which shut down shops, stores, banks, service establishments and newspapers for the third day.

Scattered demonstrations broke out in Nicosia but they were quickly suppressed by police and riot squads. At least eight persons were arrested and one was injured slightly.

As finally adopted, the wheat plan would not go into effect until the 1957 crops are in — and then only if approved by a two-thirds vote of the wheat growers and by the secretary of agriculture.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate-House Atomic Energy subcommittee Monday approved a bill authorizing 259 million dollars worth of Atomic Energy Commission construction projects in the next year.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Harlie G. Grantham, 61, retired publisher of the DeWitt, Iowa, Observer, died Tuesday at his Fort Lauderdale home.

Senate Votes 100% Parity for Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate voted Tuesday for 100 per cent of parity supports on all wheat grown for human consumption in the United States.

The wheat amendment was sponsored by Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.) and attached to the omnibus farm bill by a 54-39 rollcall vote. It was the first setback suffered by the Eisenhower administration during Senate debate of the election-year farm bill.

Senators Tom Martin and Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa voted against the wheat support amendment.

The Weather

Cold

and

Cloudy

Generally colder weather is predicted for Iowa by the Weather Bureau with a chance of light rain in the Iowa City area. Partly cloudy weather will accompany the colder trend.

Highs in Iowa Tuesday ranged from the 30's in the north to the middle 40's in the south. Iowa City can expect a high today of near 40 degrees.

AUTHORIZE PURCHASE

CHICAGO (AP)—Directors of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Tuesday authorized the purchase of 500 new freight cars from the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing Co.

The three walked about a quarter of a mile to a farm house after the accident. The horse was found later at home.

Horses and buggies are not uncommon in this vicinity, which is the home of a number of Mennonite families.

Buggy Wreck

Injures Girl

Miss Barbara Bender, 20, of Kalona, was being treated at Iowa City Tuesday for injuries suffered in a horse and buggy accident late Monday night.

She received a broken left arm and shoulder injuries when the horse became frightened, apparently by cattle in a field, and broke away from its harness. The buggy was thrown into a ditch.

The other two passengers were not injured. They were David Bender, 18, brother of Miss Bender, and Vestra Yoder, 18, a neighbor.

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) piled up an early lead over Adlai Stevenson Tuesday night in the New Hampshire presidential primary's feature fight — a battle for control of the state's delegation to the Democratic National Convention.

Kefauver also opened up a wide lead over Stevenson in the other section of this first-in-the-nation primary — the presidential preference poll.

135 Precincts Report

With 135 out of 297 precincts reporting at midnight, Kefauver led the Democratic poll with 5,748 votes. Stevenson had received 1,017 write-in votes.

In the Republican poll, 125 of 297 precincts reporting, Mr. Eisenhower had 12,635 votes and led all other write-ins by an enormous margin. Chief Justice Earl Warren was the closest with 82 votes.

Meanwhile, Mr. Eisenhower was crushing delegates favorable to Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif.) in the battle for 14 seats at the Republican National Convention. Eisenhower candidates were leading by impressive margins in all contests.

Support for Ike

The President's supporters were also endorsing him by a whopping majority in the preference poll where he — like Kefauver — was unopposed on the ballot.

Another highlight of the early returns was a growing write-in movement for Vice President Richard Nixon on the GOP vice-presidential preference poll, where no candidates were entered officially.

With returns from 30 precincts, Nixon's boosters gave him 608 write-in votes. Other recipients of write-in votes in the GOP vice-presidential poll included Gov. Christian Herter of Massachusetts 56, Bridges 41 and Knowland 19.

First Reports

Two tiny towns — Millsfield and Ellsworth — were the first to report their vote.

In Millsfield, two Republicans endorsed Mr. Eisenhower and two Democrats wrote in Stevenson's name in the preference poll.

The two GOP voters also voted for Eisenhower delegate candidates. But the Democrats who voted for Stevenson in the preference poll did not vote for all of his delegate candidates. Each gave a vote to one Kefauver candidate.

33 on Demo Ballot

In Ellsworth, Mr. Eisenhower won all five GOP preference poll votes.

The Democratic ballot included 33 candidates running for the 12 allotted convention seats. The GOP ballot listed 36 seeking 14 seats.

Democratic ballots listed two complete 12-member slates — one "pledged" to Kefauver, the other "favorable" to Stevenson. Three candidates were in the running as "favorable" to Kefauver but they were disclaimed by the Senator, as "phonies who are trying to split my vote."

SUI Offers To Make Mom a Dad for $2

The mother of two SUI students from Iowa City is wondering how, for the price of two dollars, she can become their father.

She has received five letters from the new SUI Dad's Association stating that for two dollars she can become an active member in the association.

The association is a new one formed for male parents and guardians of SUI students.

M. L. Huit, SUI counselor to men, is secretary of the organization.

"We've had several letters from mothers of SUI students who received letters about the association by mistake," Huit said. "In cases where we have received the two dollar fee from mothers, we've had to return it because the organization is for male parents or guardians."

The Daily Iowan is an independent daily newspaper, written and edited by students. It is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the university.

The Iowan editorial staff writes its editorials without censorship by administration or faculty. The Iowan's editorial policy, therefore, is not necessarily an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion.

The Iowan, in the terms of a policy statement adopted by trustees in 1946, "will try to act as a good citizen of the SUI community and the community of Iowa City. . . . The Daily Iowan conceives its owners to be the whole constituency of the University, past, present and future. It will endeavor to hold the good of the University in trust for these owners. . . ."

Another Cowardly Move at 'Bama

The University of Alabama Monday expelled Leonard R. Wilson, 20, a sophomore student who had led the riots against Miss Autherine Lucy, a colored girl who tried to enter the all-white school.

He was suspended, a statement by the university board of trustees said, for his activities "in the demonstrations and disturbances on the University of Alabama campus on the evenings of Feb. 3, and 4 and on Monday, Feb. 6, 1956."

"The board of trustees has also considered his unwarranted and outrageous public attacks made since Feb. 6, 1956 upon the integrity of the president and faculty and officers of the university."

Wilson is an undesirable character. He is president of the West Alabama Citizens Council, a pro-segregation organization which differs from the old Ku Klux Klan only in that its members don't wear white sheets. He repeatedly urged the campus mob on to violence during the Lucy riots last month, yelling that the students knew what to do if Autherine did not leave peacefully.

Wilson's expulsion, however, is merely another cowardly action on the part of University of Alabama officials.

These same officials were dead wrong in expelling Autherine Lucy. They were dead wrong when they failed to protect her from the mob. They were wrong when they failed to call out sufficient police to put down the mob.

And now they are trying to cover up one wrong with another.

They say that they are expelling Wilson because he (1) led the mob, and (2) criticized the university.

If it took them this long to decide he should be suspended for his mob leadership, they must think mighty slow. If they are really suspending him for this they should have done it a few days after the rioting had ended - unless they lacked courage on this issue, too.

It is unlikely that the university officials are suspending Wilson for his mob leadership. The mob did for the university what the university couldn't do through the courts - get rid of Autherine.

It is more likely that Wilson is being suspended for his criticism of university officials.

This makes one wonder whether the university officials believe in the principles that are taught at their university.

A university teaches that freedom of speech is one of our fundamental rights. It teaches that people who have dissented have brought about most of the advances of mankind.

And then it suspends in quick succession two persons who have criticized its administration. It serves notice that dissent is all right - except at the University of Alabama. It gives an implied warning to the faculty that academic freedom is a fine thing, but . . .

We don't agree with the balderdash Wilson and people like him have been preaching in the South. But, we would never want to see them denied the right to say what they feel.

If these rights can be taken from them, they can be taken from anyone. That's why every American is the loser when one is denied the right to speak.

Orchids to Hawkeye Fans

SUI had two chances to make an impression upon the nation last Saturday. It made good on both.

The Iowa basketball team faced its sternest test of the year in Illinois, the team ranked No. 2 in the nation by the Associated Press. The Hawks astounded millions watching the game on television by smothering Illinois, 92-72, to earn a berth in the National Collegiate Athletic Association play-offs.

The basketball team was not the only arm of SUI on trial. The Iowa crowd, never noted for sportsmanship, also had a test to pass.

This was the same Iowa crowd that has been called "The Iowa City Mob" at the University of Minnesota and that sent a barrage of apples onto the football field during the 1952 Iowa-Illinois game.

Millions were watching the Iowa crowd this time. The game had a conference title and a possible national championship at stake. Bad actions would have given SUI a black eye that would have remained for many years.

The Iowa crowd (possibly because Iowa won so handily) conducted itself well. The only bad action was the unwarranted booing of Illinois guard Bill Ridley when he accidentally spilled Iowa guard Bill Seaberg hard in the waning minutes of the game.

The otherwise good conduct of the crowd did not go unnoticed.

L. Dale Faunce, dean of students at SUI, last week received a letter from Fred H. Turner, dean of students at the University of Illinois. It said in part:

"The real purpose of this letter, however, is to tell you that I have heard many comments about the game since Saturday and without exception there is much mention of the sportsmanship of the Iowa crowd. Everyone who was watching on television seemed to feel that the Iowa crowd recognized the fact that two good teams were playing and should be given the opportunity to play the best possible game. I think it is much to the credit of the student body and the administration at the University of Iowa that the crowd should have conducted itself in this manner. If Iowa goes on to the nationals we all wish the Big Ten representative complete success."

Anyone who still treats sportsmanship lightly should remember what a little poor sportsmanship did to Illinois' chances this winter.

The Illinois crowd put on an atrocious display when Ohio State played the Illini at Champaign in February. The crowd booed Buckeye star Robin Freeman every time he shot. They booed decisions against Illinois loudly. The Illini humiliated OSU, 111-64, and Freeman was held to a season's low of 12 points.

This keyed OSU for the return game at Columbus. The Buckeyes, smarting after the treatment they received at Illinois, played an inspired game and beat the Illini, 87-84, to throw them into a first place tie with Iowa. Illinois was on the downgrade when the Illini came to Iowa for the clutch game.

Good sportsmanship never caused harm. Poor sportsmanship, as demonstrated by the Illinois-OSU affair, blackens a school's reputation and can harm its athletic teams.

"How do you expect to survive in this town if you wear those tight skirts?"

Your SUI Elections - -

Council Valuable? Here's the Record

By ELLEN FERNANDEZ
Student Council president Mark Putney, L2, Gladbrook, flicked the ashes from his cigar and crisply called the meeting to order. The council meets every other week.

Putney took up small business and letters and then asked for committee reports from the 18-member council. Most of the council's business is carried out through committees. Each unit brings its recommendations to the council which then approves or votes them down. Usually committees have a free hand and their recommendations are accepted.

Council Purpose
All council actions are aimed at the purpose stated in its constitution: "To improve the status of student life on campus and to present student attitudes on matters of student affairs which are now not within the jurisdiction of other properly constituted groups."

The council's powers are limited to recommendations. The university allocates about $2,300 each school year to the council to carry on its activities. Stephen Shadle, A2, Estherville, explained.

Shadle is the council's treasurer. The council, criticized in years past as a do-nothing body, streamlined its unwieldy 28-man membership to a more easily handled 18-man group in 1955.

Representatives
Each electorate receives a minimum of one representative. For every 8 per cent of the total university enrollment, the electorate receives an additional representative up to a total of three.

L. Dale Faunce, dean of students, is an ex-officio, non-voting member of the council. All of the representatives except those from Town Men, Town Women and married students housing are elected within their particular group; these three groups' representatives are elected during all-campus elections. Campus elections will be March 21.

Perhaps the best judge of the value of a group is its past record of achievement.

Recent Work
The most recent council work included recommendation that student football seating plan be changed to allow students to pick up tickets for themselves and their wives and buy tickets in the student section for guests from Monday to Wednesday preceding the Saturday game.

Any unused student section seats would then go on sale to the public.

The Board of Athletics is considering the plan. Recently the council parking committee submitted a comprehensive plan to try to solve the old parking problem. The plan called for students living a prescribed distance from campus to have access to university parking during school hours; those living closer to campus would not have university parking and would have to walk or find street parking or would keep their cars in dormitory lots.

Each group would be identified by a different priced, different colored sticker on their car. The SUI Parking Committee is considering the plan.

Student Wages
The Council is now drawing up

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles intended to stimulate interest in the coming SUI all-campus elections, March 21.)

a report to back up its recommendation that students working part time for the university should have their wage scale raised to a minimum of $1 an hour. Minimum now is 85 cents an hour.

The group is studying how many students are employed by the university, and what their minimum and maximum wages are.

It was pointed out at one meeting that the minimum wage paid by SUI usually decides what the minimum Iowa City rate will be for student help.

Book Exchange
Perhaps you bought or sold books at another Student Council project: the book exchange. The council takes 10 per cent of the book sales price set by the student seller for operating expenses and tax. The buyer then has his choice of many second hand books at different prices.

This year the council, with the aid of Associated Women Students (AWS) published "Herky Hints" a small handbook covering all facets of university life and explaining campus activities to new students. The book was sent to all entering new students.

The group helped to change the no-cut rule before vacations to the present rule. It is now up to each instructor what penalty to assess for cuts before vacations.

Until 1951 when the old rule was canceled for a trial period, the students were required to attend all classes 24 hours before and after regularly scheduled holidays. The penalty was the addition of one hour graduation requirement for each class missed.

Campus Chest
The council sponsors the Campus Chest auction. Groups sell services and talents to the highest bidder, the money going to the charities selected for campus chest that year.

This year Hawk-I Pep Club is being helped by $800 backing from the council with the council having limited powers over the club's activities.

The Pep Club had been unable to raise enough money from homecoming badge sales to finance pep rallies and other student activities.

Men's Orientation
The council is in charge of men's orientation, high school student tours of campus, all-campus elections, the leadership training program for students and having pencil sharpeners installed in many campus buildings.

Quadrangle dormitory has two representatives on the council; Westlawn, one; Town Men, two; Town Women, one; Commons, one; Interfraternity Council, two; Currier, two; Panhellenic Council, two; Hillcrest, one; married students housing, two; Women Cooperative dormitories, one; and South Quadrangle, one.

Nixon Attack

(Washington Sunday Star)

The Democratic assault on Nixon is really their way of attacking Eisenhower. If Nixon runs with Ike, the American voters will be asked if they want to take the risk of having the former as President. That risk, of course, will exist. Naturally, the most will be made of it by the Democrats and the more villainous they can paint Mr. Nixon with their variegated propaganda brushes the better for them. One thing, however, should not be forgotten and that is that Mr. Nixon is no timorous weakling who cannot hit back. He is quite able to take care of himself and does not lack friends. As for his troubles in his home state, a recent poll in California taken for the Los Angeles Times showed him favored by more voters than Senator Knowland and Gov. Knight together.

IKE'S COATTAILS

In medieval times a favorite subject of debate was how many angels could dance on the head of a pin. Today a better subject would be how many politicians can ride on Ike's coattails.

HOW TO BE A THUMPING BIG SUCCESS ON CAMPUS

While up in the attic last week hiding from a bill collector I came across a letter, yellow now with age, that dear old Dad had sent me when I was a freshman. I read the letter again and recalled, with many a sigh and not a few tears, what an inspiration it had been to me back in my freshman days. I reproduce it below in the hope that it may light your way as it did mine.

"Dear Son, (Dad wrote) 'I suppose you are finding college very big and bewildering, and maybe a little frightening too. Well, it need not be that way if you will follow a few simple rules.

"First of all, if you have any problems, take them to your teachers. They want to help you. That's what they are there for. Perhaps they do seem rather aloof and forbidding, but that is only because they are so busy. You will find your teachers warm as toast and friendly as pups if you will call on them at an hour when they are not overly busy. Four a.m., for instance.

"Second, learn to budget your time. What with classes, activities, studying, and social life all competing for your time, it is easy to fall into sloppy habits. You must set up a rigid schedule and stick to it. Remember, there are only 24 hours in a day. Three of these hours are spent in class. For every hour in class, you must, of course, spend two hours studying. So there go six more hours. Then, as everyone knows, for every hour of studying, you must spend two hours sleeping. That accounts for another twelve hours. Then there are meals—two hours each for breakfast and lunch, three hours for dinner. Never forget, Sonnenberg, you must chew each mouthful 288 times. You show me a backward student, and I'll show you a man who bolts his food.

"But college is more than just sleeping, eating, and studying. There are also many interesting and broadening activities, and you would be cheating yourself if you neglected them. You'll want to give at least an hour a day to the campus newspaper and yearbook, and, of course, another hour each to the dramatic and music clubs. And let's say a total of three hours daily to the stamp club, the foreign affairs club, and the debating society. Then, of course, a couple of hours for fencing and bird-walking, a couple more for square dancing and basket weaving, and one or two for cribbage and ice-sculpturing.

"Finally, we come to the most important part of each day—what I call 'The Quiet Time.' This is a period in which you renew yourself—just relax and think green thoughts and smoke Philip Morris Cigarettes.

"Why Philip Morris? because they are the natural complement to an active life; they are gentle, they are benign, they are tranquil, they are a treat to the tired, a boon to the spent, a haven to the storm-tossed. That's why.

"Well, Sonnenberg, I guess that's about all. Your mother sends her love. She has just finished putting up rather a large batch of pickles—in fact, 350,000 jars. I told her that with you away at school, we would not need so many, but lovable old Mother is such a creature of habit that though I hit her quite hard several times, she insisted on going ahead.

Your ever lovin'
Dad."

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young engineer works on new ways to remove heat from atomic reactors

An atomic reactor running at full efficiency creates a tremendous amount of heat in its core. By removing this heat and putting it to work boiling water to make steam, atom-made electricity is produced.

One of the men responsible for designing new, more efficient ways to remove heat from atomic reactors is 29-year-old Doctor Salomon Levy—Design Analysis supervisor in the Atomic Power Equipment Department's Reactor Engineering Unit.

Levy's Work Interesting, Vital

To study this problem of heat transfer, G.E. recently constructed a heat-transfer system. By electrically simulating the heat produced in a reactor, it is possible to determine the maximum rate at which heat can be removed from a reactor to make steam.

Dr. Levy conceived the idea of building this complex system, designed it and supervised its construction. At present, Levy works with this system to study new problems of heat transfer and fluid flow encountered in atomic power plants.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Salomon Levy came to General Electric in 1953, he already knew the kind of work he wanted to do. Like each of our 25,000 college-graduate employees, he was given his chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: Whenever fresh young minds are given the freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the company, and the country.

Hutchinson, Lane Seek To Aid Card Pitching

By PAUL JESS

If money, talent and coaching mean anything, the St. Louis Cardinals are in for a good year. By the same token they should have had a good year last season.

It has been said the Cardinals of '55 were the best seventh place club in history. This may be so, but no one wants to finish seventh.

It looks like another "Rookie of the Year" for the Cards, their third straight. This season they have young Jack Brandt, 21, who spent last year with Rochester in the International.

From Rochester

If Brandt, an outfielder, can make the grade, he'll join teammates Wally Moon and Bill Virdon who were rookies of the year in '54 and '55 respectively. Both Moon and Virdon came through Rochester also.

Brandt, Rookie of the Year last season in the International, hit .305 for Rochester and played the field like a veteran. He's a slow starter, which would be his only drawback to staying.

New Card manager is Fred Hutchinson, formerly with the Tigers. He led Seattle to a Pacific Coast pennant last year. Hutchinson was named manager by the Cardinal general manager Frank Lane.

A Good Choice

Folks who follow the Cards feel that Hutchinson was a good choice since the Cardinal pitching staff fell apart last year. Hutchinson was a pitcher himself in his playing days.

A coalition between the Anheuser-Busch money, the Cardinal farm system (biggest of all at 16 clubs) the field directing of Hutchinson, the trading ability of Lane and the regular Card talent could mean good years ahead.

The pitching, such a disappointment last year, has been bolstered with the return of Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, the left-handed fireballer who was just released from the Army.

Good Pitching

Harvey Haddix, Luis Arroyo, Larry Jackson, Stu Miller, Tom Poholsky and Willard Schmidt will be battling for regular rotation, with Ben Flowers, Frank Smith and Mel Wright supplying relief. With good coaching it could stack up as some of the best talent in the league.

Newcomers Harry Hoitsma, Bob Mabe and Billy Muffett are probably a year or two away, unless Hutchinson resorts to Stanky-like tactics of switching pitchers often than he takes a breath.

Jackie Collum and Ellis Kinder are question marks, but a good guess is that Kinder will be used to train the youngsters. Collum was formerly with the Cardinal system and recently was redeemed from Cincinnati, while Kinder is well-known for his years with the Red Sox.

Another Rookie

Vying with Brandt for top rookie honors will be catcher Hal Smith who is definitely major league material. Smith spent last season with Houston and hit .299. One of the best defensive backstops in minor leagues.

Another good prospect in the catching department is Dick Rand who played for Omaha of the Association last year. Rand is weak to the plate, but an excellent receiver. Walker Cooper is back with the Cards, too, presumably to help straighten out the pitchers.

Bill Sarni, the Cardinal catcher last year, will be provided with rest this year, by the looks of the rookies.

Moon at First

Wally Moon will be the regular at first base, since Hutchinson intends to leave Stan Musial in the outfield. Moon should have no trouble keeping the spot, Tom Alston and Joe Cunningham don't seem to pose much of a threat. Red Schoendienst will be back at his regular second base spot, no one can replace the redhead yet. Don Blasingame, up from Houston, may give Red some rest, but he's not as good defensively as he should be.

Harvey Haddix
Cards' Ace Lefty

Hustling Solly Hemus will again try to wrest the shortstop spot away from Alex Grammas, but with a year's experience behind him, Grammas should be the regular short fielder. Hemus will probably be used as a utility man again.

Third base should be amply covered by Ken Boyer. Boyer has some younger brothers in the Cardinal chain, too.

Stan The Man

The outfield will consist, at least at first, of Stan Musial, Bill Virdon and Jack Brandt. If Brandt stays, the Cardinal outfield bench strength will be the strongest in the league. Rip Repulski, Russell Rac and Arch Wilson all are over .300 hitters. Rac and Wilson played Triple A ball last year and are considered by scouts to be ready.

The Cards should jump from seventh to third this year. A higher finish could probably be called wishful thinking.

Frank Lane says the team will finish third, and Gussie Busch smiles and says "some day . . ."

'Liff' for Fans

Cubs To Have Ramp Conveying Fans

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs Tuesday announced plans to install a conveyor system for "easy lift" of fans on one set of ramps at Wrigley Field.

The "moving sidewalks," a series of eight belts, will carry customers from the ground floor level to the upper deck of the grandstand.

Owner Philip K. Wrigley of the Cubs said the installation is part of a $250,000 improvement program at Wrigley Field and additional ramps will be mechanized.

The belts are reversible and will carry the patrons back to the ground floor level after the games.

Cain Named to College All-Stars

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Iowa's Carl Cain was one of two more players chosen Tuesday for the College All Stars team to compete in the U.S. Olympic basketball finals here April 24.

The round-robin playoffs, involving the collegiate club, two AAU teams and an armed services aggregation will be held at the Municipal Auditorium.

New York Wants Army-Irish Tilt

NEW YORK (AP)—West Point officials said Tuesday they preferred Yankee Stadium to Philadelphia as the site for the 1957 Army-Notre Dame football game but told New York officials certain conditions must be worked out.

Mayor Robert Wagner is heading a civic drive to get the big game returned to New York, where it was played for many years until the series was terminated 10 years ago. The final game of the 34-game series was played at South Bend, Ind., in 1947.

The series is to be resumed in 1957 with the game officially assigned to Michie Stadium at West Point, which has a capacity of 27,000.

The mayor said he would contact the Yankee baseball club management at St. Petersburg, Fla., and invite officials to meet for a conference on the game, which usually packed the stadium with 70,000 fans.

Municipal Stadium at Philadelphia seats about 102,000.

Army officials, headed by Lt. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, West Point superintendent, and Coach Earl H. Blaik, conferred for 20 minutes with Wagner. They preferred New York, they said, because the city is closer to West Point, and the entire cadet brigade usually attends the game.

Deny Report Cardinals To Quit Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—The managing director of the Chicago Cardinals Tuesday denied a report that the National Football League club tentatively has accepted a $500,000 offer from the Chicago Bears to move out of town, presumably to Miami, Fla.

The report was made in a Tampa, Fla., dispatch to the Chicago Daily News from Sports Editor John Carmichael, who said the move was sought by the Bears to make Chicago a one-club pro city and bring greater revenue.

The Cardinal office released a statement from Managing Director Walter Wolfner, vacationing in Miami Beach, Fla., which said the Cards "are staying in Chicago and plan to play in Chicago forever."

"Sales results...and something more"

Two and a half months after he began training with The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland, Bill Colonna went into the army, spending a year in Korea.

"While in the service," Bill says, "I never thought of having to look for another job. I resumed my career in the telephone business as soon as I got back. What's more, my rate of pay was increased by crediting my time in the army."

"After training, I was promoted to Sales Manager in Salisbury, Md. I'm responsible for initiating, planning and coordinating sales activities in an area serving 50,000 customers in nine counties on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. I select and train men for my sales force, and help business office managers with their sales problems.

"Sales and marketing in the telephone business are growing more important every day. We've many new and different services to offer people. It's a job with scope, variety and challenge.

"Arranging for customers' communications requirements keeps me in touch with all departments of the company. These contacts add valuable experience that will always prove useful. I wanted a career that was broad and full of opportunities, and that's what I've got."

Bill Colonna is typical of the many young men who have interesting jobs in the telephone business. Career opportunities of many kinds exist in other Bell Telephone Companies, and in Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and the Sandia Corporation.
