Student Parking Plan Awaits Hancher's Approval

Talk Viewed With Calmness In Washington

Could Have Been Revised By Committee

"A" University parking plan "is in the president's hands," L. Dale Faunce, dean of students, said Monday.

Faunce headed the SUI Parking committee which drafted a final revision of the plan to be approved or received by SUI President Virgil M. Hancher.

Faunce said the plan went to Hancher late last week. Monday, the president's secretary said Hancher had been out of town since Friday and wouldn't be back until May 1.

The Student Council plan, which may or may not have been amended by the SUI committee, called for a geographic restriction of parking:

1. Car owners living within walking distance of the main campus would be issued a sticker prohibiting their parking in university lots during school days from 7 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

2. Handicapped students, wherever they live, would be issued stickers which would allow them to park in university lots.

3. Dormitory residents with parking facilities would be issued a sticker allowing them to park in the dormitory lot but not in university lots.

4. Car owners living outside "walking distance" from campus would have stickers allowing them to park in university lots.

The council proposed that $3 be charged for a sticker giving the student the right to park in a university lot.

A $2 sticker would entitle the car owner to a parking place in a dormitory lot. All other car owners would be charged $1.

The sticker fees would be used to maintain present parking lots and to help build new ones.

Exam Theft Probe Continues at Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) - Investigation is continuing after Friday's announcement by the University of Illinois that 23 students have been dismissed in connection with the theft of a set of examination questions.

Tom Morgan, assistant security officer of the university, said one student broke into a professor's office several days ago and stole a copy of a forthcoming accounting examination. The student then hired two students who mimeographed and sold copies at $5 a copy to 20 students.

University officials learned of the theft when a fraternity house adviser told them that the fraternity had received an anonymous telephone call offering to sell the test copies to everyone in the house.

Adlai-Ike Battle In Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Both major parties made a last-minute drive Monday to encourage a heavy "popularity contest" vote for President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson in Pennsylvania's primary election today.

Mr. Eisenhower, in effect, is unopposed on the GOP ballot. Sen. William F. Knowland's name appeared only because he was unable to withdraw it before the deadline.

Stevenson will be the only presidential candidate name on the Democratic ballot.

Air Force Academy Plans Taking Shape

AIR FORCE SECRETARY Donald A. Quarles posed Monday with a model of buildings for the Air Force Academy now being built near Colorado Springs, Colo. Quarles has approved plans for all buildings except the chapel, which will occupy site marked by rectangular block below Quarles' hand. Buildings include the dining hall, left; academic building, center; cadet quarters, right, and administration building, right background. On wall at upper left is a sketch of cadets marching from the academic building, rear, to the dining hall.

Parker 'Didn't Know Details' Of Confession

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) - Murder Defendant Darrel F. Parker testified Monday that the morning after he signed a "confession" he "realized the seriousness of what I had done."

Parker said he realized he had signed a confession but insisted he didn't know the details of it until it was shown him at the state penitentiary weeks later.

He acknowledged he ate a normal breakfast and lunch in a cell at the Lincoln city police station that day (Dec. 22) when charges against him were filed, and "sleeked up" his plate at both meals.

Parker, 24-year-old former Lincoln city forester, is on trial for first degree murder in the Dec. 14 strangulation of his 22-year-old wife, Nancy.

Called as the first witness in his own defense last week, Parker returned to the stand as the trial went into its third week Monday and was undergoing cross examination at the day's end.

The "confession" was given by Parker Dec. 21, one week after the slaying, and signed by him during the early hours after midnight.

Parker also acknowledged that he and his wife had disagreed at one time last summer over whether to move out of a residence they were occupying here.

Dulles Urges NATO Expand

NEW YORK (AP) - Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Monday the time has come to develop the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) into something more than a purely military instrument.

He did not pinpoint his ideas beyond mention of "more independence . . . more economic development . . . more sense of equality and human brotherhood."

"Our new task is to build more on hope and less on fear," Dulles told the annual luncheon of The Associated Press.

Dulles referred to Soviet Russia's efforts to present an aspect of "conciliation," with talk of economic aid rather than threats of violence. Without accepting this new look at its face value, Dulles said:

"We would not, if we could, smother the hope that a benign transformation may have begun."

Some Washington sources professed to see in Dulles' speech a new milestone in American foreign policy, comparable in scope to the 1947 birth of the Marshall Plan with its European self-help program.

Dulles recalled that NATO was conceived in 1949 primarily as a military alliance. He added: "But the organization can and should be more . . ."

1,170 Businesses Failed In March; Top Since '42

NEW YORK (AP) - Business failures in March were the highest for any month since March, 1942, Dun & Bradstreet reported Monday. Casualties in the latest month totaled 1,170. This brought to 3,242 the number of business casualties in the first three months of 1956.

SUI Takes No Action on Negro Petition

No action has been taken on the petition circulated by SUI Negro students asking for a change of wording on their transcripts because the petition has not been turned into the Registrar's office, Ted McCarrel, Registrar, said Monday.

The petition asked for the change of the word "Black" to "Negro" on SUI permanent records.

"I have never seen this petition," McCarrel said. "No one has turned it into my office."

"What's more, there have never been any complaints by Negro students before in the 10 years I have been here."

The present method of listing races on permanent records has been going on for at least 25 years, McCarrel added.

He said that all races were designated according to color - white, black, red and yellow.

Barbara Crutchfield, L2, Boydton, Va., who drew up the petition, said that when she called the Registrar's office and asked to whom she should put her complaint, she was directed to Donald E. Rhoades, assistant director. McCarrel was out of town at the time.

"Mr. Rhoades told me that they had thousands of records at their office and that they could not and would not change them," she said.

Miss Crutchfield said that she would see McCarrel today personally and discuss the situation with him.

The listing of races on permanent records are a necessary part, not only as means of identification here at SUI but in personnel offices of business concerns, McCarrel

Tell Dangers Of Highway 6

Children of Lincoln school were advised by classroom teachers Tuesday about the danger of playing along Highway 6.

Chief of Police Oliver A. White had received reports that youngsters have been darting across the highway in the area between Woolf Avenue and Rocky Shore Drive.

Joseph Murray, principal of Lincoln school, said that the trouble is occurring chiefly between 4:30 and 5:30 p.m. after the safety patrol has gone off duty. Both the school safety patrol and the highway patrol have been alerted to the situation, Murray said.

The teachers discussed the problem with the children and pointed out the danger of running across the highway as cars approach, Murray said.

"The most we can do is to encourage the children to see the danger involved," Murray added.

Petitions Will Be Given to Student Council Wednesday

Protests Against Seating Plan Increasing

By BOB SCOTT

Interest was mounting Monday over the petition declaring the newly-approved student seating plan for football games "unjust and discriminatory."

The plan was drawn up by the Student Council and approved by the SUI Board in Control of Athletics.

The petition protests the new system as unfair to students who have 8-hour class days and will have difficulty in obtaining the tickets and to students who want to sit in groups at the ball games.

Karl Braun, P2, Waterloo, originator of the petition, estimated that 300 to 350 students have signed.

A second petition, with essentially the same meaning as Braun's, has been written by John Ellis, D2, Iowa City. Eight petitions are being circulated among the Associated Students of Medicine and Associated Students of Dentistry by Ellis.

"The members of these councils are behind a revision of the new approved seating plan all the way," Ellis said.

Job Outlook for June Grads

Social Worker Need Increasing

(Sixth in a series on employment and job availability for SUI grads.)

By DAROLD POWERS and BILL KNOWLES

From six to eight job opportunities are available to each of the seven June graduates of the SUI School of Social Work.

"The demand for social workers is increasing, and we cannot catch up," Mark Hale, director of the school, said recently.

More well-trained social workers are needed because only about 20 per cent of the nation's social workers have had professional social work training, Hale explained.

The ability of the SUI School of Social Work graduate to advance and take responsible positions is demonstrated by a study of jobs by the school's alumni, Hale said.

Of the five classes graduated since 1951, the following work for a social service agency or department:

Caseworkers, including medical and psychiatric, 31; directors, 10; child welfare workers, 9; supervisors, 6; probation officers, 2; in-service training consultants, 2; executive secretary, 1; and field representative, 1.

Caseworkers are employed by public and private social service organizations. Examples of public agencies are county welfare agencies, state welfare departments, and state mental hospitals. Private agencies include those set up by industries and charitable organizations.

Hale reports that the ratio of SUI

Johnson: Ike Reneged on Farm Pledge

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson said Monday night that President Eisenhower abandoned his 1952 campaign promises when he vetoed the farm bill.

Johnson said the veto will cost American farmers $2 billion this year.

His speech was prepared as the Democrats' answer to Mr. Eisenhower's radio-TV address a week ago in which the President said he turned thumbs down on the Democratic-sponsored farm bill because it was unworkable and self-defeating.

Johnson used a recording of one of Mr. Eisenhower's speeches in the 1952 campaign and, for television audiences, had a movie shown depicting Mr. Eisenhower speaking out in favor of price supports at 90 per cent of parity.

Mr. Eisenhower has cited the 90 per cent figure as the main reason for his vetoing the farm bill. He and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson have favored a sliding scale of price supports instead.

Johnson asserted Mr. Eisenhower not only has backed away from his 1952 pledges but also "has completely abandoned his flexible supports."

He said, too, the soil bank proposal favored by the President was a Democratic idea in the first place and one that Eisenhower can put into effect under the 1935 soil conservation act without special legislation.

The Weather

Cool & Cloudy

Unseasonably cold weather and cloudy skies will continue in Iowa today with the expected high in the 40's. Occasional light snow is expected in extreme northwest and in extreme south tonight.

Monday night readings ranged in the 30's. Further outlook calls for partly cloudy skies and colder Wednesday.

Cerf Lecture Tickets Gone

The last of the tickets available for the Bennett Cerf lecture Wednesday evening in the Iowa Memorial Union were distributed Monday afternoon.

Cerf will discuss "Modern Trends in Literature and Humor" at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the main lounge of the Union. He is a panel member on the TV program "What's My Line?"

Won't Endorse Anyone Until Deadline: Truman

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Former President Harry S. Truman said Monday he does not intend to endorse any one for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination "unless it appears a deadlock is inevitable."

"If it should develop that a decision can't be reached any other way, I'll do all I can to help should I be called on."

Dag Faces Tough Mission in Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) - UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold Monday plunged into what may be the most complex frontier problem that he will face on his Middle East mission.

The secretary general flew here after a chain of successes in his talks with Egyptian, Israeli and Lebanese leaders in his efforts to eliminate border shootings, which have carried a threat of outright war.

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) - Nikita Khrushchev said Monday Soviet Russia soon will have hydrogen-bomb guided missiles "which can hit every point in the world."

And to those who belittle or jeer the Soviet Union, he declared: "Never shake your fist at a Russian."

Khrushchev's face reddened and his voice rose in a speech before a Chamber of Commerce luncheon. He had just been through a whirlpool tour of Birmingham in which he and Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin were met by heckling demonstrators and banners saying "Down with Moscow."

Khrushchev tried to illustrate that the Soviet Union is geared to compete on any level with the West.

"The point I want to make is that restrictions of trade do not prevent us in any way from making advances in armament," he said.

Khrushchev's talk, sometimes delivered in a shout, seemed a mixture of appeals to British trade interests and an effort to exhibit the Soviet Union in its most competitive light. He pictured trade as a true route to friendly relations.

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union has exploded an H-bomb from a plane, and then pointed out that the U.S. has set off H-bombs only from ground installations.

Meanwhile Washington observers received Khrushchev's statements with general calmness.

There was no official comment from the Pentagon or State Department. Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), now conducting a Senate investigation of U.S. air power as compared with Russian, said:

"If true, it is a significant and terrible warning to the American people and the free world."

American officials, in the administration and in Congress, have been saying for months that Russia is launched on an all-out program to build inter-continental ballistic missiles which would be armed with nuclear warheads.

But the Defense Department has insisted that the U.S. has accelerated its program for ICBM and intermediate-range missile development in a series of contracts with companies.

Khrushchev's broadly worded reference to developing such a missile "quickly" did not appear to add any specific new information to estimates here of the time required for Soviet production of ocean-spanning rockets.

The Daily Iowan

The Daily Iowan is an independent daily newspaper, written and edited by students. It is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the university.

The Iowan editorial staff writes its editorials without censorship by administration or faculty. The Iowan's editorial policy, therefore, is not necessarily an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion.

The Iowan, in the terms of a policy statement adopted by trustees in 1946, "will try to act as a good citizen of the SUI community and the community of Iowa City. . . . The Daily Iowan conceives its owners to be the whole constituency of the University, past, present and future. It will endeavor to hold the good of the University in trust for these owners. . . ."

The Seating Plan is a Good One

The group of students circulating a petition against the newly-approved football seating plan has raised some points that merit discussion.

The Daily Iowan from the first supported the Student-Council backed plan, which would give every student a reserved seat and would make sure that every seat would be filled at sell-out games.

There was little opposition to the plan voiced when it was . . .

. . . proposed by the Student Council in December.

. . . approved by the Student Council committee investigating student seating.

. . . approved by the Student Council and sent to the Board of Control of Athletics.

. . . being considered by the Board.

All of these events were given front-page play in The Daily Iowan, and were discussed in the Iowan's editorial columns. Yet no one stepped forward in opposition to the plan until the athletic board approved it recently.

Nevertheless, it is good to see students taking enough interest in a campus issue to distribute petitions.

The complaints of the petitioners fall into three categories:

1. The plan is unfair to those students whose classes will not permit them the required time to pick up the tickets.

2. It is difficult for friends or dates to sit together because of the difficulty in being at the ticket office at the same time to pick up tickets.

3. The location of the ticket office (at Iowa Fieldhouse) is unfair to students who live a great distance from it.

In point number two the petitioners have a good talking point.

It will be difficult to get your friend or date to go with you to the Fieldhouse at the same time for tickets. It won't, however, give anyone an unfair advantage. Everyone will have the same problem.

The University Theater, for example, allows students to present two ID cards and pick up two tickets. What prevents the athletic department from doing the same?

The answer: too many students would get the ID of a person who was not going to the game and use it to get a ticket for a non-student guest. Persons bringing guests now have wait until Wednesday to obtain extra tickets. To allow more than one sale to a person would give an outsider a chance to obtain a better seat than an SUI student.

Would this evil be so great that it is necessary to make the obtaining of tickets difficult for a person with a date or friend? The Board in Control of Athletics could well consider this point again.

On points one and three the petitioners don't have much of a case.

Ticket windows will be open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday and Tuesday. Surely anyone can fit a trip to the Fieldhouse into those hours. There won't be a problem of lines. Five ticket windows can (and athletic department officials say will) be opened to avoid long lines.

The location of the ticket office does give an advantage to the South Quad, Quad and Hillcrest residents. But some group would have an advantage no matter where the office was located.

The ticket office is not located in the center of the campus. But anyone who won't walk a few blocks for a football ticket isn't much of a fan and shouldn't be occupying a seat many other Iowans would like to have.

The new ticket plan is better than the old set-up. It beats sitting in a seat two hours before game-time to make sure that you don't wind up in the first row on the five-yard line. It beats announcing a sell-out game, only to find 1,000 unoccupied seats in the student section at game-time (something that was pretty hard to explain last fall to Iowa football fans who couldn't get tickets).

It beats the shortage of student seating that was evident at the Kansas State game last fall. It beats not being able to sit with your date if he or she isn't an SUI student and can't sneak into the student section.

It's the best plan anyone has come up with so far, and it should be retained by the board.

The Gas Bill Isn't Dead

President Eisenhower's veto of the Natural Gas Bill has ended for the present the threat of higher gas rates to the nation's consumers. But the gas issue did not end with President Eisenhower's veto this year, any more than it ended with President Truman's veto of a similar bill in 1950.

Marquis W. Childs, Washington columnist, wrote recently that big oil's big executives are spreading the word that they have Mr. Eisenhower's personal assurance of support. They are even saying that the Eisenhower administration (providing that it survives the November election) will introduce legislation similar to that which the president vetoed.

Mr. Eisenhower's political philosophy is against federal regulation of business. He said in his veto message that he agreed with the objectives of the bill but could not sign the bill because of the "defiance of acceptable standards of propriety" by oil lobbyists.

The veto has angered the big oil operators, including the Texas billionaires who wanted to get the federal government out of the gas picture. Some had been heavy campaign contributors. Childs now reports that Republican campaign collectors in Texas are worrying because Texas contributions to the Republican cause have dried up.

The gas bill probably won't be a major campaign issue in the fall election.

The Republican and Democratic parties in Congress were split on the bill. In the senate, 22 Democrats voted for the bill and 24 voted against it. On the Republican side the vote was 31-14 for the measure. This would indicate stronger Republican support. The Democratic leaders of both houses, however, were the foremost supporters of the bill. And a Republican president vetoed it.

What the veto will mean in Texas is something else. President Eisenhower won the state handily in 1952. A Republican congressman was elected in a hitherto Democratic district in 1954. The Republican party was definitely making inroads in Texas.

Will the veto turn Texans against Mr. Eisenhower and keep Texas a one-party state?

Are the people of Texas that greatly concerned about natural gas? After all, there are only 900 gas producers in Texas. There are 1,700,000 gas consumers.

Even if Texans are greatly concerned about the Natural Gas Bill, they won't be able to vent their ill feelings on any candidate with good reason. Adlai Stevenson, Estes Kefauver and Averell Harriman probably will take stronger positions against the bill than Mr. Eisenhower did.

At any rate, the Natural Gas Bill is far from dead. It will be up before Congress again in 1957 and as long as the gas-oil states have representatives in Congress.

"Very interesting scene you were studying, boys. Now let's get back to work, eh?"

Discuss Legislative Pressures

'Political Interns' at Workshop in Practical Politics

Tell Factors Influencing Vote on Bills

By JOHN BLEAKLY

What are the pressures exerted on a Congressman as he decides the merits of a bill? This question was the subject for discussion Saturday at Old Capitol by 11 Iowa college students who have watched Congress at work first-hand in week-long trips to Washington.

The students, who visited Washington as "political interns" under the Iowa Citizenship Clearing House's "Week in Washington" program, were participating in the Iowa College Students' Workshop in Practical Politics, also sponsored by the Clearing House.

More than a half dozen factors that influence a Congressman's vote on a bill were brought out in the discussion by the students, who represented 10 Iowa colleges and universities.

SUI STUDENTS taking part were Franklin Hartman (D), A4, Burlington, and Richard Guthrie (R), A4, Iowa City.

As visitors in Washington, the students were guests of Rep. Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa), who, together with the Clearing Houses and both major parties, is a co-sponsor of the "Week in Washington" program. The letters that a Congressman receives from his constituents were said to be one factor that determines the way in which he will vote. Martha Selz (R), from Parsons College, described the reaction of Schwengel to mail from his voters.

SHE SAID SCHWENDEL received a large stack of telegrams from construction and public utility companies prior to the voting in the House on the Federal Highway bill. "He gave more attention to one letter from a voter in his district than he did to the pile of telegrams," she declared.

HOWEVER, Prof. Donald Johnson of the SUI Political Science Department, who was moderator for the discussion, pointed out that the average Congressman receives mail from only 10 per cent of his constituents. "The remaining 90 per cent do not write because they have no special interests," he explained.

Miss Selz remarked that a Congressman often may receive mail pertaining to a bill after he has voted on the bill, in which case it is no help to him. Arthur DeJong (R), Central College, said he felt that "the Congressman is aware of the problems involved in forming his opinions on the basis of letters from voters and he takes them into account."

Richard Guthrie (R), of SUI, pointed to the poll that Sen. Thomas Martin (R-Iowa) takes of his voters as another method of sampling public opinion.

PARTY LOYALTY was brought up as another pressure that may affect a Congressman's vote. Donald R. Mathews (D), Iowa State College, told of the party policy caucuses which meet once a week and determine which bills are to be party issues. There was no party pressure on Congressmen in voting on the recent Fubright natural gas bill since "the party caucuses decided that the Congressman could vote his own opinion," said Mathews.

Mathews, in discussing the voting on the recently vetoed farm bill, explained that it was impossible to know if Congressmen voted along party lines since the decision of the party caucuses were not made public.

Administration policies may have an effect on the Congressman's vote. "Schwengel voted to uphold President Eisenhower's veto of the farm bill over the wishes of his constituents," declared Clifford Less (D), Loras College. "Newcomers to Congress have to travel an uphill road." Less continued. Because of this, Less believed that freshman Congressmen (such as Schwengel) would be less likely to vote against Administration policies.

THE PERSONAL BELIEFS of a Congressman also are a factor in his voting decision. The Congressman "must do what he thinks is best," said Lowell Doud (R) of Iowa Wesleyan College.

A Congressman's committee work may affect the way he votes. Mary Rita Griffin (D) of Clarke College, explained that if a Congressman is voting on a bill that has been through his committee, he will probably base his decision on the results of the research done in committee.

Little mention was made of the influence of lobbyists. DeJong, however, felt that "special interests" have more influence on a Congressman's vote than the opinions of his constituents, since so few voters write.

The "Week in Washington" program grew out of a remark made in 1954 by Schwengel to Prof. Robert Ray, Director of the Institute of Public Affairs at SUI, in which he expressed the desire, if elected, to have some students visit him in Washington.

After his election, Schwengel was reminded of his remark and the program was set up to enable two students, one from each political party, to visit Washington for one week as the guests of Schwengel.

Free Use of Mails

Costs Millions

(Houston Chronicle)

One of the hidden penalties of the ever-growing bureaucracy in Washington is the increasing drain these agencies impose on the Post-Office Department.

The administration has asked for a $350 million postal rate hike in order to bring revenues more in line with costs of operation.

Explosive National Chairman of Young Republicans—

McWhorter Praises SUI GOP

By WAYNE AMMONS

"The second speaker for the negative team in this debate will be Charles K. McWhorter," the moderator announced.

A young man stepped to the stand and began to speak. His voice was quiet as he began to warm to his subject.

Suddenly he exploded into a charge of Republican dynamite which left the Republicans in the audience cheering wildly.

This was Charles K. McWhorter, 34, chairman of the Young Republican National Federation. The scene was the debate between Young Democrat and Young Republican leaders during the "SUI Political Workshop" in Old Capitol Saturday.

"It wasn't a very good speech," McWhorter said later, "but I did like to take advantage of the acoustics in the room."

McWhorter also spoke to Republicans at the Workshop in the split session on "Organizing Campus Political Groups."

But whatever McWhorter did, whether speaking formally or just talking casually, he seemed like a bundle of explosives, quiet at one minute, then firing away with a flood of words and ideas.

Everything he said was Republican. As chairman of the Young Republican National Federation, McWhorter is a member of the Executive Committee of the National Republican organization.

His headquarters is in Washington, D. C., where the National Committee is staffed by three full-time employees and about fifty part-time volunteers, most of whom are students in the District of Columbia, McWhorter said.

McWhorter complimented the College Young Republican Organization which was started in Iowa last fall.

"Iowa has a sound basis of organization and the leaders are competent and wonderful to work with," McWhorter said.

Carl Zimmerman, L2, Waterloo and J. Robert Barr, Grinnell College, are co-chairmen of the College Young Republicans of Iowa.

McWhorter said he thought the idea of the debate featured at the workshop was a good idea in that it allows students to learn political issues from others working in politics.

McWhorter said he opposed the idea of abolishing party platforms expressed by state Democratic senator George O'Malley in an earlier workshop session.

"Platforms are essential if the segments of the party are to get together on policies and programs," McWhorter said. He denied Democratic accusations that the Republicans had forgotten about party platforms used in the 1952 election. He said that Eisenhower has tried to live up to his platform.

"The national administration continually checks the platforms against the actual results to determine what has been done and what is to be done."

He recounted a report of the Democratic platform of 1932. When Robert Farley, serving on the Democratic platform committee, was asked about a platform in 1936, he said, "Let's use the 1932 platform. It hasn't been touched yet."

McWhorter said that the Young Republican program from now until election time in November will be a busy one.

"We are looking forward to the Republican national convention in San Francisco this summer," he said. "We have room for about 1,000 Young Republicans."

Important, too, is the campaign that must be continued after the nomination, McWhorter said. These campaigns will be along the educational lines with debates and panels and participation of Young Republicans in local politics, he added.

They say that Charles K. McWhorter's Republican career began the moment he was born. At any rate, McWhorter, a Lewis-

Charges and Countercharges, Cheers and Applause—

Young Politicians Debate on Present Administration

By GLENN MARTIN and WAYNE AMMONS

Charges and countercharges hurled back and forth by the Young Democrats and Young Republicans were greeted with cheers and applause by the bipartisan audience listening to a political debate in Old Capitol Saturday.

SMITH

The debate which climaxed the activities of a Workshop in Practical Politics, was on the question of whether there should be a change in the national administration in 1956.

Debating affirmative were Neil Smith, former national president of the Young Democrats, and Richardson Pinegar, president of the Iowa organization.

Charles K. McWhorter, chairman of the Young Republican National Federation, and Keith Richardson, chairman of the Iowa group, debated negative.

Main Question

The debate mainly revolved around the question of whether the Eisenhower administration had fulfilled its campaign promises of 1952.

Points discussed were the recent farm bill, the Tidelands oil situation, foreign policy, and Eisenhower's health.

Smith started the debate by accusing the Republican administration of failure to keep its previous election promises, to protect and develop U.S. natural resources and to help the working people.

"A dramatic example of the present administration's failure to live up to its promises is provided by the veto of the farm bill," Smith said.

Defrauded Voters
"In 1952 the Republicans promised the farmer 100% parity and guaranteed at least 90%. These promises were designed to defraud the people of their vote, he declared.

Ended War
Richardson was the first to speak for the Young Republicans. He asserted that the Eisenhower administration had brought an end to war.

"There has been a lot of talk about the 'brink of war,'" Richardson said. "It is better to be on the brink and pull back, than to do as the Democrats and push in."

Through good business procedures, the Eisenhower administration has brought peace to America, and has accomplished it at lower cost, Richardson continued.

"Turning to the farm problem, he said the Republican administration had done much for the farmer."

"This administration has expanded foreign trade, reduced surplus, expanded grain storage, and given the farmer social security," Richardson asserted.

'Courageous' President
Referring to the farm bill veto, he called Eisenhower a "very courageous president."

"Eisenhower did what he thought best," Richardson said. "The Democratic Congress came forth with a bill that was not workable. It would have raised the overabundance and undone what has been done in the past three years."

"The President proceeded to raise the ceiling price on corn from $1.40 to $1.50, and to give the farmer not under the program the benefit of the ceiling, too."

Richardson cited the new departments of Health, Education, and Welfare and the liberalized social security program as further accomplishments of the present administration.

Democratic Giveaway
"The phrase 'giveaway' comes easy to Mr. Smith since he lived 20 years under Democratic giveaway," Richardson concluded.

Taking up the banner for the Democrats, Pinegar accused the Republicans of inability to recognize a problem at its inception.

"Before you can correct a problem, you must realize that it exists," Pinegar said.

"Apparently, the present administration believes if you don't like a problem, you can ignore it and it will go away."

Brink of War
"The Republican president has also failed to disclose all of the facts on these problems as they arose. An example of this is Dulles taking us to the brink of war."

"When were the people advised of the action he proposed to take? Never. The people were not informed of the problem."

"The farm problem has existed since the Republicans took office. What did we hear? Everything is fine. Benson talked up as parity went down," Pinegar declared.

He continued by stating that parity dropped from 94% in 1952 to 81% in January, 1956.

"What are the facts on surpluses?" Pinegar asked.

Increased Surpluses
"As support prices went down, production went up. The surpluses have increased and the farmer has failed to get a fair price for his products," he concluded.

Counterattacking for the Republicans, McWhorter turned his attention to former President Harry S. Truman.

"Ask yourself as an American, 'Should there be a change in administration going back to Harry Truman?'"

"Anyone who would substitute the record of Harry Truman for

PINEGAR

MCWHORTER

Eisenhower's may be a good Democrat, but it is doubtful that he is a good American.

"The Democrats will tell the pressure groups anything they want to hear. They would nationalize anything to please a pressure group," McWhorter said.

Answering Smith's criticism of the Tidelands bill, McWhorter charged that it was the Texas wing of the Democratic party that passed it.

"The only way they could hope to lick the Tidelands bill was to bring in little children needing education."

"But you wouldn't want that money because it doesn't belong to you," he declared.

Restored Belief
McWhorter concluded by stating that the Eisenhower administration had accomplished the greatest thing by restoring the American people's belief in themselves.

Richardson started the rebuttal statements by contrasting Eisenhower's treatment of questions concerning his health with that of the Democrats with Roosevelt.

"Eisenhower sought expert medical advice, and when he received it he presented it to the American people for their advice."

"Contrast that with the action of the Democrats. They had Roosevelt out in the rain in an open car trying to convince the people of his good health," he said.

St. Lawrence Seaway
Richardson concluded by citing the St. Lawrence Seaway project, tax cuts, balanced budget, and elimination of communistic influence in the government as the accomplishments of the Republicans.

Pinegar was first of the Democrats to make rebuttal.

"The theme song of this administration is peace and prosperity," Pinegar said.

"But there is no more peace in the Middle East than prosperity in the Middle West."

"The present administration has stood idly by doing a lot of talking about 'agonizing reappraisal' while several countries have gone down to communism," he asserted.

Farm Bill
Pinegar next answered Richardson's statement that the farm bill would have undone all that Eisenhower had accomplished in three years.

"That's correct," Pinegar said. "That's why it was designed. It was intended to return to the farmer his fair share of the national income," he concluded.

McWhorter finished the Republican rebuttal by asserting that 90% of the price drop in agricultural products occurred under a bill passed by the Democratic-controlled Congress.

McWhorter labeled Pinegar's statement that the administration had stood idly by while several countries went down to communism as untrue.

Chinese Nationalists
"It is true that under Harry Truman at least 600 million people went under communism. In 1948, it was the Truman policy not to ship arms to the Chinese Nationalists until they brought the Communists into the government," McWhorter concluded.

The debate ended with Smith's rebuttal.

"I'm glad to be able to sign off just three and one-half years after Chiang Kai-shek was released to retake the Chinese mainland," Smith said.

"Eisenhower may have disregarded votes by vetoing the farm bill, but he has limited his disregard of votes to the Middle West."

Can Do Anything
"Republicans seem to think that they can do anything to the Middle West and still be returned to office by the voters."

"About the claim of good business procedure by the Republicans: Ninety per cent of the business contracts let during the present administration were let without bids," Smith charged.

Smith finished his rebuttal by stating that the raise in the corn support price from $1.40 to $1.50 was merely reducing the reduction that had already been made.

"This is just like the boy who took two suckers away from a little girl, gave one back, and then said, 'look what a good boy am I.'" Smith concluded.

PHI BETA KAPPA, I LOVE YOU!

Once there was a Chi Omega named Alfreda Pectate who was beautiful and well-formed and wore clothes of the most tasteful cut and smoked the gentlest of all cigarettes—Philip Morris, of course!—and had, in addition to these admirable qualities, a brain so massive and retentive that she used to read the Britannica just for kicks.

Alfreda had one great ambition: to be elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Consequently she was all a-dither when she heard a rumor one night that a man from the Phi Beta Kappa selection board was coming over to the Chi Omega house to interview her. Being all a-dither, Alfreda sat down and lit a Philip Morris, as she always did when she was all a-dither, for gentle Philip Morris, as wise Alfreda knew, is comfort to the troubled, balm to the beset, and a haven to the vexed. But gentle Philip Morris, as Alfreda, with her mighty intellect, was well aware, is not only a cigarette for times of stress and strain, but also the perfect accompaniment to happiness and light. For gentle Philip Morris is sunny and cheery and jolly and merry and yummy! All this Alfreda, with her giant cerebellum, knew.

By and by there came a loud, masculine knock on the door, and Alfreda, composing herself, went to answer it. "Won't you come in?" she said to the man outside. "I am Alfreda Pectate."

"And I am Ed Fester," said the man, entering with a friendly smile. Ed had found that a friendly smile was a great asset in the Venetian blind game, which happened to be Ed's game. He had nothing to do with Phi Beta Kappa; he had come over to see about a new blind for the house mother's bedroom. But, of course, Alfreda knew nothing of this.

"Do sit down," said Alfreda.

"Thanks, hey," said Ed. "But I can't stay long."

"Of course," said Alfreda and proceeded without delay to demonstrate how wide and comprehensive was her learning. "Deer," she said, "have no gall bladders."

"Is that so?" said Ed, who until this moment had believed deer had gall bladders.

"Ben Jonson," said Alfreda, "was buried in a sitting position."

"Hmm," said Ed.

"Fortnight" is a contraction of "fourteen nights," said Alfreda.

"What do you know!" said Ed.

"Many people think it is forbidden to wash an American flag," said Alfreda. "That is not true. It is perfectly proper to wash an American flag."

"Learn something every day," said Ed.

"The smallest fish in the world," said Alfreda, "is the Pandaka Pygma, which is under a half inch when full grown."

"How come they buried that Jonson sitting up?" said Ed.

"It's terribly crowded in Westminster Abbey," said Alfreda.

"Oh," said Ed.

"Ann Boleyn had six fingers on her left hand," said Alfreda.

"Heavens to Betsy!" said Ed.

"Are there any questions you'd care to ask me?" said Alfreda.

"Just one," said Ed. "How big is your house mother's window?"

A tear ran down Alfreda's cheek. "Well, that's the way it goes," she sighed. "You work and slave and study and then they catch you on a trick question! . . . Oh, well, that's life, I guess."

Forlorn and bereft, she rose and shambled to her bed and fell upon it and wept for several days. But finally she pulled herself together, and today she is with Byrd in the Antarctic.

Thinclads' 'Bad Luck Boys' Replace Cage 'Klutch Kids'

By JACK HOLLS
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Iowa's famous "Klutch Kids" of recent basketball fame have lost the sports spotlight to their new track counterparts, the "Bad Luck Boys."

The Hawkeyes recently saw one more victory slip from their grasp after they seemingly had sewed up the 2-mile relay in meet-record time of 7:40.5 at the Kansas Relays. According to Iowa's Les Stevens, who won the high hurdles in the meet, "Iowa was announced the new record holder in the event, and the boys had received their watches. It was pretty tough when Cretz had to tell them to give the watches back."

Disagrees With Officials

Coach Francis Cretzmeier said the track officials were justified in disqualifying Iowa when anchorman Ted Wheeler stepped out of his lane too soon after receiving the baton, but disagreed with their interpretation. "Wheeler was far enough in front to be out of the way, and was taking it easy, since he had another race to run later. He looked around to check the runners behind him and got out of his lane."

Cretzmeier was more vociferous in his comment on the running of the 3,000 meter steeplechase, in which Deacon Jones of Iowa, who ran unattached, got a late start. "They started the race six minutes early," said Cretzmeier, "and races are never started early. If a meet is running fast, events are held up until their scheduled time."

Extra Hurdle

"Deacon had gone to the locker room to tape his shoes so they would stay on in the water barriers, and he didn't get out until the race had started. He started after the field still wearing his sweat pants, and by the time he reached the track, a hurdle, which is put up after the start of the race for the second time around, was in his way."

"Deacon did real well, though," he added. "He passed nine out of the fourteen to place fifth."

According to Cretzmeier, Gardner Van Dyke, who placed third in the pole vault, had cleared 14 feet, which would have netted him second place. "It was just one of those things," said the Hawkeye coach. "The pole knocked the bar off after he had hit the ground, and he had to settle for third at 13-6."

Iowa tries again this weekend at Des Moines in the Drake Relays. Cretzmeier said the team needed warm weather to get back in shape, but at least was not worried about a turn for the worse in luck.

Dodgers Beat Phillies, 6-1, Tied for 1st

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Shivering impatiently in 40-degree weather, the Brooklyn Dodgers hurried through to a 6-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in a little over two hours Monday night behind the nine-hit pitching of rookie Don Drysdale.

The victory put the world champion Dodgers in a first place tie in the National League with the Milwaukee Braves.

All other games in both leagues were postponed because of cold weather or rain.

The Dodgers put the game on ice in the fifth inning with three runs on singles by Drysdale, Junior Gilliam and Pee Wee Reese.

Philadelphia's lone score came in the eighth when Frank Baumholtz, who had singled, scored on Gran Hamner's sacrifice fly.

Drysdale, a lanky, baby faced 19-year-old with a side-arming style, made his starting debut for the Dodgers the way rookies dream about. He struck out the side in the first inning and went on to an easy-going victory. In all, he fanned nine and yielded one base on balls.

Marciano Will Quit, Sun-Times Reports

CHICAGO (AP)—Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano definitely has decided to retire from the ring, the Chicago Sun-Times said Monday.

A story written by sports columnist Gene Kessler said "an official announcement to this effect will be made in two or three weeks."

"That is my conclusion, after talking with the champion and his manager, Al Weill," Kessler said.

Kessler said that Weill told him "we won't make a definite decision on the subject for two or three weeks."

YALE COACH RESIGNS

NEW YORK (AP)—Four outstanding Oxford University middle distance runners will make a bid for three relay championships in the Penn Relay Carnival at Philadelphia's Franklin Field Friday and Saturday.

They are the first squad to represent Oxford in the Penn Carnival in 33 years, and the experts not only concede them a fine chance for the titles but consider their excellent possibilities to crack a few world records in the process.

Hawk Golf Team Ties Missouri, 9-9

The Iowa golf team battled to a 9-9 tie with Missouri Saturday over the new Finkbine course.

Missouri won the two-man best-ball competition in the morning holes, 3 1/2-2 1/2, but 3-0 victories by Herb Klontz and Clyde Feltes in the individual afternoon matches evened the total for the day.

Klontz fired a 73 over the windswept 36-36-72 par layout in the afternoon to register the day's low score.

Two-Man Best-Ball

Dale Hayes-Clyde Feltes (1) defeated Ira Smith-Bill Hawks 2 1/2-1 1/2. Joe Hanson-Tom Farber (M) defeated Herb Klontz-John Marschall, 3-0.

Feltes (1) defeated Smith, 3-0. Hawks (M) defeated Hayes, 3-0. Klontz (1) defeated Farber, 2 1/2-1 1/2. Hanson (M) defeated Marschall, 2-1.

Says Flaherty Guides West Matchmaking

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Sid Flaherty, manager of Carl (Bobo) Olson, actually runs the matchmaking corporation called California Boxing Enterprises, promoter Johnny Munro testified Monday.

Munro said at the California boxing investigation hearing that he works for the Flaherty farm in Richmond and Oakland, and Bennie Ford in San Francisco.

James Cox, investigating attorney, asked how a $10,000 overpayment to Bobo was made on a Cow Palace fight.

Munro said Flaherty could do that for California Boxing Enterprises without asking anyone's permission.

The witness identified Jim Norris, president of the potent International Boxing Club, and Truman Gibson, IBC secretary, as "stockholders" in California Boxing Enterprises.

Munro said he did not know how many shares Norris held. He said he thought Gibson had 10 shares.

Munro himself holds 15 shares, for which he said he paid $150. He said the $150 was deducted from his salary checks.

Before the organization of California Boxing Enterprises, Munro said, Flaherty had guaranteed to underwrite any losses of Munro-promoted shows.

He explained the arrangement was that he and Flaherty "split profits fifty-fifty when there was a profit."

Under the loss-underwriting arrangement with Flaherty, Munro told of profit-split payments to Flaherty ranging up to $2,000.

He told of the 1954 Olson card on which television payments were $4,000 to each fighter and $4,000 to the promoter and Flaherty was paid $2,000.

Cox said his investigators had been unable to find many of Munro's records.

Munro claimed his office had been "burglarized and vandalized" and that many records were "torn and destroyed."

The boxing investigation resumed Monday with Cox bearing down in an effort to find out whether Flaherty promotes bouts as well as manages a string of fighters.

Giles Warns Forfeit If Any More Philly Fans Misbehave

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Warren Giles, National League president, asserted Monday night that any fresh outbreak of misbehavior by Philadelphia Phillies fans at Connie Mack Stadium will result in mandatory forfeit of the game.

Interviewed on a local radio station sports program, Giles said:

"The umpires have the right to forfeit a game if circumstances justify it. They have now been instructed that if there are any further incidents at Connie Mack Stadium, there is to be mandatory forfeit of the game."

Giles' directive was prompted by an uprising in the stands in the ninth inning of Sunday's second game between the Phillies and the New York Giants.

Beer cans and bottles were hurled onto the field. Police from outside were called in to help the regular park force. Giants outfielder Whitey Lockman, who finished the game wearing a protective helmet, expostulated afterward: "The Philadelphia fans are the worst in the world. They don't deserve major league baseball."

The rumpus apparently was touched off by the temper of some of the fans who didn't like the way the game was going. The Phils lost, 9-7.

Bill Rigney, Giants manager, said he would protest to Giles. The Phillies' front office apologized.

Paul Arizin Selected Pro Athlete of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Arizin, whose brilliant shooting helped lead the Philadelphia Warriors to the National Basketball Association championship, Monday was named winner of the March award in the pro athlete of the year poll.

Arizin accumulated 125 points and 31 first place votes from a panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Wood Winner Entered in Derby, May 5

NEW YORK (AP)—Head Man departed shortly after it was announced that High King, also would tackle the $125,000-added Derby at Churchill Downs in Louisville May 5.

Head Man, who was declared the Wood winner Saturday although he finished second to Golf Ace, arrives in Derbytown by train today.

Arguments still were a dime a dozen on the Wood outcome, in which Golf Ace, not eligible for the derby, hit the finish 2 1/2 lengths ahead of Head Man.

The consensus seemed that Golf Ace would have beaten Head Man regardless of the fouling incident.

Golf Ace, ridden by Tony DeSpirito, swerved sharply as he was leading in the stretch, and Eddie Arcaro lodged a quick objection which was upheld by the stewards.

Movies of the race showed Head Man was right on Golf Ace's heels about an eighth of a mile from home, and Arcaro who was outside of Golf Ace, took Head Man to the inside of the track for his losing effort.

Late Monday afternoon after studying films of the race, Jamaica stewards cleared DeSpirito. They said he "made every effort to prevent the interference."

Apparently Head Man and High King will be the lone representatives from the Wood field in the mile and one-quarter derby.

Trainer T. J. Barry said he believed High King "ran a very good race considering that this was only his second start of the year."

Meanwhile, from San Francisco, came word that No Regrets, winner of the $35,000 California Derby Saturday, would leave the West Coast on a chartered plane today for Louisville.

At the same time it was reported that Lucky G. L., beaten in the California Derby by a nose, came out of the race with a sore left front foot and would skip the May 5 Kentucky classic.

2d in a Row for Bluehawk Golfers

University High linksters made it two in a row for the season when they downed cross-town rival City High Monday on the Elk's course here, 176-182.

The Bluehawks, fresh from last Thursday's win over McKinley of Cedar Rapids, were paced by Jim Blommers, who tallied a 9-hole total of 42. Jim Gallagher of City High, however, led both teams with a round of 40.

U-High plays again Thursday, meeting Roosevelt of Cedar Rapids.

(Daily Iowan Photo) LES ZANOTTI TAKES A HEALTHY CUT at a pitch from Bradley's Wyman Carey in Monday's 6-2 Hawkeye loss at Iowa Field. Six Hawkeye miscues handed Bradley the victory. Iowa's Ken Meek had pitched four-hit ball for eight innings and had a 2-1 lead going into the ninth when two costly errors were committed, allowing Bradley to push across five runs.

Shaky Iowa Defense Gives Bradley 6-2 Diamond Win

By LARRY DENNIS

Iowa opened the gates just a bit too wide in the top of the ninth inning here Friday, and before they could be shut Bradley had pushed across five runs to rout the Hawkeyes 6-2 in the first of a two-game series.

The Braves' last-ditch barrage marked finis to a tight pitching duel between Iowa's Ken Meek and Bradley left hander Wyman Carey.

It was also the second time in three games the Hawks have blown a ninth-inning lead to lose a baseball game.

Try For His Second

It was 2-1 this time when Meek went on to try for his second victory of the season. It should have been all over, too, when with one out and a man on first Don Hakes rapped a perfect double-play ball to Iowa second baseman Ken Kurtz. Kurtz couldn't find the handle, though — couldn't find it in three stabs, in fact — and all hands ended up safe.

That was all Bradley needed as Karl Gottlieb slapped a double against the base of the left field fence to score Bill Martin, the runner on second, and advance Hakes to third. He scored, too, a moment later, when Scott McKenzie fielded Carey's grounder and threw low to Bock at the plate.

Lined a Double

That made it 3-2, still with only one out, and Jim Stanczak, Bradley right fielder, took care of two more in a hurry when he lined a double just over Bob Scheyll's outstretched glove in left field to drive in Gottlieb and Carey.

A sharp single to center by Don Groves scored Stanczak from second before the Hawks could get the side out.

Les (Babe) Hawthorne walked with two men away in the Iowa half of the inning, but Sharm Scheuerman struck out to end the game.

Scores in the Bottom

Iowa scored in the bottom of the third when Scheuerman reached first on an error, stole second, and rode home on Kurtz's sizzling single to center.

Iowa took the lead in the sixth. Don Bock walked, went to second on Kirby Smith's sacrifice, and advanced to third on a wild pitch by Carey. He scored when Scheyll cracked a clean single to center field.

The victory was the 13th of the season for Bradley against just one loss. Iowa's record is now 5-8. The Hawkeyes get another crack at Bradley today when they wind up the series on the Iowa diamond. Game time is 3:30 p.m.

Pitches Good Ball

Meek pitched good ball in the chill wind, giving up just four hits the first eight innings. Bradley scored in the third frame on an error by McKenzie, and a single by Stanczak that drove in Gottlieb from third, but aside from that Bradley got men as far as second only four times — until the ninth.

Only one of the six runs scored by Bradley was earned. The Iowa infield, a little shaky with regular shortstop Tom Haye out with a shoulder injury, committed six errors. Three of them belonged to Kurtz, the usually sure-handed second sacker whose costly bobble in the ninth cleared the way for Bradley's rally.

The Iowa offense, too, was pretty well shackled by Carey's lefthanded slants. The little Bradley hurler allowed the Hawks just four hits in the ball game, but took the edge off his effectiveness somewhat by issuing seven free passes.

County Jury Panel Dismissed for Week

Judge Harold D. Evans Monday dismissed the Johnson County jury panel for one week after all the trial cases scheduled for this week were either settled or postponed.

The first case scheduled for the Johnson County District Court April term was settled out of court Saturday afternoon.

It was the $97,702 damage suit brought by Walter H. Moench against Dr. Russell Meyers. Moench had asked for the damages as a result of a surgical operation at University Hospitals, March 28, 1952, in which he claimed a surgical sponge was left in an incision.

Another suit was temporarily withdrawn. It was the $10,658 damage suit by Daryl Swales, his wife and daughter, against Walter L. Moode, as a result of an automobile accident July 31, 1955, at the intersection of Jefferson and Johnson streets.

Three other damage suits scheduled for this week were postponed because of illness of attorneys involved. They were suits filed by Mabel Morrissey against Joan and LeRoy Gaspey for $108.78 and John and Ada Krall against Ray Strong for $15,000.

The remaining postponed suit was an appeal from the sheriff's jury condemnation award of $3,700 for 7.32 acres of land to be used in the widening of Highway 218 filed by Frank and Ruth Ziskovskiy.

Three suits are scheduled to come before the court soon after it resumes next Monday. These suits are: Mary Hinshaw against Iowa City; the estate of Doris Bream against the estate of Keith E. Hills; and Robert Fincham against Mrs. Katie DeArmand.

To Accept Bids for Highway 6 Repairs

Bids for resurfacing Highway 6 in the Iowa City area and to the east will be accepted by the State Highway Commission May 1.

The asphalt resurfacing work forms three phases of a project to widen Highway 6 to 24 feet between Davenport and Des Moines.

The resurfacing in this area will be done on 3.3 miles of recently widened highway.

The first section of the project will be the resurfacing of 7.8 miles east from West Liberty.

Other resurfacing will be done from 16 miles east of West Liberty to the Cedar County line and from the Cedar County line to a point about six miles west of Davenport.

An area three miles west of Tiffin to three and one-half miles east of Tiffin will be widened.

Reschedule Civic Center Site Hearing

The date for a public hearing on the site of the proposed Iowa City Civic Center has been re-scheduled for May 2, 7:30 p.m. at City Hall.

The hearing originally scheduled for Friday deals with the purchase of two pieces of property for the site.

The two pieces are among eight in the block encompassed by Iowa Avenue, Van Buren, Washington and Gilbert Streets, which is the proposed site of the center.

Owners and locations of the tracts are: J. A. and Margaret Richter, 409 Iowa Ave., and E. A. and Ruth Ahrens, 423 Iowa Ave. The Richter property is priced at $12,316 and the Ahrens land at $18,000.

The Ahrens have expressed a willingness to sell their land, since they plan to move to Arizona. Mrs. Richter, however, has indicated displeasure with the proposed plans. She declared: "We would have to pay twice as much for a new home; we would be run into the street."

The proposed civic center would be built to replace the Community Building that was destroyed by fire in January, 1955. American Legion Post 17, which occupied a portion of the Community Building, sent a resolution to the City Council, March 20, asking for the erection of a community building.

The present city plans are to combine the Musser parking lot, on which the city now holds an option, and the remaining properties in the block, excepting the Unitarian Church land, into a site for the construction of the civic center.

City Issues Permit for 16-Unit Apartment

A 16-unit apartment development will be constructed this year at the intersection of Riverside Drive and River Street, according to a building permit issued by the city.

The plans submitted for the permit by the Manville Terrace, Inc., call for a $150,000 development including two brick veneer buildings. Each will have eight units, four on Phillip W. Willis, 15 7th Ave., each of two floors.

local building contractor, is president of the apartment concern and J. F. Fairbanks, 122 7th Ave., secretary.

Permits for five new homes were issued to Leo R. Shonka, 1130 Second Ave., $10,000; Ralph S. Lind, 227 N. Dodge St., $13,000; Robert L. Parrott, 1018 N. Summit St., $8,000; Birchwood Builders, 305 Douglas Court, $9,150; and Dr. John Greenleaf, 1645 Ridge Rd., $22,000.

Judge Evans

Order Boone Bond Forfeit

Max Boone, 52, former Iowa City councilman, failed to appear in Johnson County district court Saturday for sentencing on a charge of embezzlement by agent. His bail bond of $1,000 was ordered forfeited by Judge Harold D. Evans.

Boone withdrew a previous plea of innocent Jan. 31, and pleaded guilty to the charge of using for his own purpose $2,000 given him by F. W. Schneobelen, Hills, Ia., last Aug. 8. He pleaded innocent to the charge Dec. 13.

Boone was to be sentenced here Saturday. Atty. William H. Bartley explained in court that Boone's whereabouts were not known and withdrew as counsel with the approval of Judge Evans.

Evans ordered a warrant for Boone's arrest and gave notice of the forfeiture of his bond. The notice is for 10 days as required by law. The judge also set bond under the re-arrest warrant at $3,000.

Maximum sentence for the charge brought against Boone is seven years in the state prison. He was indicted last September by the grand jury.

Says Radio Europe Is Tool of Freedom

Radio Free Europe is an instrument of the American people in the fight for European freedom, William Rafael, program director of Radio Free Europe, told members of the SUI social fraternities and societies at the Greek Week convocation Sunday.

William Rafael
Radio An Instrument

Rafael said the job of Radio Free Europe is to talk, so the people in enslaved countries won't feel abandoned. "Our job is to vocalize a resistance to people not to be enslaved," Rafael said.

Rafael explained four reasons why he knows that the programs are getting through to satellite countries (countries under the Russian regime). They are:

1. People escape from these countries and tell us at Radio Free Europe how we are doing.
2. The Russian regime reaction to our broadcasts is one of continual jamming of our wave lengths and attempted sabotage.
3. The broadcasts ask for letters from people in the satellites to be sent to anonymous names in different parts of free Europe, if they have heard the program.
4. Steps have been taken by Russia to lure people who have escaped from enslaved countries and are now working for Radio Free Europe, back to their country.

The messages sent to the people, Rafael added are not from a country, but are from individuals who were once enslaved.

"The station is dedicated to reach every ear in the satellite countries," Rafael said, "and we broadcast cultural, political, philosophical, jazz, and even soap opera programs of western life not found in their borders."

Radio Free Europe has a staff of 800 people and broadcasts 21 hours out of the day.

As program director, Rafael is in charge of combined operations of Radio Free Europe in the United States and in Munich, Germany. He has held the position since 1950.

The convocation climaxed Greek Week activities which combined fun with education about the Crusade for Freedom.

Car-Truck Crash Kills Minnesotan

Authorities said the Nevins auto apparently pulled onto the highway into the path of a grain truck driven by Kenneth P. Nace, 21, Medora. Nace was not injured.

Nevins had been visiting at the home of a niece, Mrs. Olin Ferguson, at Liberty Center, 10 miles southeast of here.

Student Council president Bob Young, L2, Waterloo, explained that tickets may be exchanged among students just as long as the student bears the stub to the seat he is sitting in.

Young also pointed out that if necessary the five ticket windows will be open to handle ticket purchasing if the line gets too long. The windows also will be open until 10 p.m. Monday and Tuesday as well as through the noon hour.

Francis (Buz) Graham, athletics business manager, said that students will not be allowed to pick up tickets for anyone else by using another person's ID card. Students must present their own ID cards to receive a ticket. Graham said this is to prevent the choice seats going to one group.

The petition reads: "We, the undersigned, believe that the reserve seat football ticket program is discriminatory and unjust and that the adoption of this plan should be reconsidered for the following basic reasons:

1. It is unfair to those students whose classes do not permit them the required time to obtain the tickets.
2. It makes it extremely troublesome for friends or dates to sit together because of the difficulty involved in requiring that tickets be obtained together at the same time.
3. The location of the ticket office is asking too much of students who live a great distance from it. Young pointed out that students should be informed on the following points:
 1. Five ticket windows will be open if required by the rush to purchase tickets.
 2. After the student has received his ticket, there are no restrictions on exchanging tickets with other students. The student must hold the ticket stub corresponding to the seat in which he is sitting.
 3. Ticket sellers (Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday) will do everything possible to seat groups together providing there are available seats.
 4. If the game is a sell-out, students have an opportunity to get extra student section tickets on the Wednesday preceding the game. After 1 p.m. the seats are offered to the public.
 5. The extra tickets sold on Wednesday will be purchased like general admission, with an ID, and can be exchanged. But those attending on the extra tickets must come to the game with a student who has an ID card.
 6. A long line for tickets is not anticipated after the 8 a.m. rush.

Prof. Robert B. Wylie
Elected Honorary Fellow

Dean W. F. Loehwing of the SUI graduate college has been elected president of the Iowa Academy of Science. He was elected at the meeting of the academy in Grinnell Saturday.

Prof. Robert B. Wylie, head of the SUI Department of Botany from 1919 to 1940 and professor emeritus since then, was elected an honorary fellow of the academy. Wylie was at one time president of the organization.

Wylie's nomination as an honorary fellow recognized him as an outstanding teacher and productive scholar for more than half a century. He joined the Academy of Science in 1901.

Before joining the SUI faculty in 1906, Wylie taught at Morningside College and the University of Chicago. He was a member of the U.S. Kelp expedition to Alaska in 1913 and of the SUI Fiji-New Zealand expedition in 1923.

Also elected to office was SUI Prof. Alfred Castaneda of the Child Welfare Department who was chosen to head the psychology section of the academy.

In the print competition Wanda Matthews, G. Davenport, won $30 and Jack O'Shea, G. Kansas City, Mo., won $25.

County Board Rejects Bids for Road Grading

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors Monday rejected all bids for the grading of 24.27 miles of county roads.

County Engineer R. H. Justen said the low bidder stipulated a completion date of Oct. 26 rather than the Aug. 15 deadline set by the board.

New bids will be received May 9 on 28 projects included in the work varying in distances from .1 to 3.1 miles.

Justen said the Aug. 15 deadline is necessary so that the county can surface the roads with rock before fall.

Job Outlook—

social work graduates who have gone into public as opposed to private work is about 50-50.

Some social workers are employed by the armed services but no SUI grads are considering going into this branch of social work.

The SUI School of Social Work operates primarily at the graduate level. Students, after obtaining a B.A. degree in liberal arts—usually sociology, or psychology—spend two years getting an M.A. in the Social Work School.

Full-time graduate students in the school number 28. There are six full-time and one part-time instructors on the faculty.

The school cooperates with the SUI Department of Sociology in allowing sociology students to take courses in social work. Social work advisers counsel sociology majors who express a desire to eventually get an M.A. in social work.

A new system of field work was begun last fall in the Social Work School. As explained by Hale, the first-year class receives 10 weeks of study before field work begins. From December through May, classes and field work run concurrently. Students spend three days weekly in the field.

Field assignments include work in a variety of Iowa's social service agencies, which allow on-the-job training.

Beginning next fall, second-year students will start a 6-month block field work placement which will be accompanied by a practice seminar and course in research projects.

In the second semester of their second year, students finish their classes and research reports and no field work is required.

South Raps Bus Ruling

WASHINGTON — Southern leaders branded the U.S. Supreme Court decision outlawing segregation on public buses Monday as another "unwarranted invasion of state and municipal rights" and a new step in "federal dictatorship."

At least one governor and several officials said they would do everything legally possible to resist the new decision.

But, in Montgomery, Ala., hope was expressed that the action of the high tribunal might bring an end to the nearly 5-month-old Negro boycott of city bus lines.

The Supreme Court acted on a case arising in Columbia, S. C. It upheld a lower court decision that the same principles on which the Supreme Court banned race segregation in public schools applied also to public transportation.

Several Southern attorneys-general were attending a regional meeting of the National Association of Attorneys-General at Old Point Comfort, Va., when the decision was issued in Washington.

Attorneys-General J. Lindsay Almond Jr. of Virginia; T. C. Callison of South Carolina, in whose state the bus case originated; and John Ben Shepperd of Texas issued a joint statement which said in part: "We are not surprised at the action of the Supreme Court today in view of the trend of the court's ruling in recent years. It is another unwarranted invasion of state and municipal rights. It simply means now that the states and cities cannot determine the type of vehicles that operate over their streets, the manner of their operation, or that based upon the factors of health, safety, and morals, that separation of the races is a proper exercise of the traditional police power of a state."

Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia, an outspoken foe of integration, said in a prepared statement that the decision "is another example of an overt usurpation of the liberties of the people."

2 SUI Debaters Get High Ratings

Ida Mae Brendel, A3, Muscatine, and Sandra Swengel, A2, Muscatine were rated among the top 12 debaters at the Western Conference Debate League Congress held at the University of Minnesota Thursday and Friday.

Out of a possible 5 points, Miss Brendel earned 4.2 and Miss Swengel, 4.0. Miss Brendel was also one of six debaters to appear in the final parliamentary debate before the general session of the Congress, which was attended by 53 representatives of the Big Ten schools and the University of Chicago.

Other SUI students attending and their ratings were: Russ Johnson, A4, Webster City, 3.8; Norman Stein, A4, Davenport, 3.8; Marilyn Baxter, A2, Rockford, Ill., 3.7; and Dorothy House, A1, Muscatine, 3.4.
