Political Scientist Asserts—

Primaries Don't Show Voter Preference

By GLENN MARTIN

Presidential preference primaries are ineffective, Prof. Donald Johnson of the SUI Department of Political Science told the Iowa City League of Women Voters Monday.

Outlining the weaknesses of the primary system, Johnson said that the primaries have not indicated the winner of the party's presidential nominations in the past.

Wendell Wilkie and Warren candidates who fared poorly in ceived their party's nomination for the presidential race. Adlai Stevenson was the Democratic nominee for president in 1952 even though he contended that he was not a candidate.

Johnson listed six causes for the failure of preferential primaries:

1. Less than one-half of the votes cast in the national conventions have been decided by primaries. State conventions are still the most common method for selecting delegates to the national conventions. So a candidate can win most of the primaries and still control only a small block of convention votes.

2. Many of the candidates do not enter contests where they would be opposing a "favorite son" candidate. A "favorite son" candidate is usually a man politically prominent in the state, but one who has little national following.

3. Only a few state primaries are contests between the leading candidates. Presidential aspirants usually enter state primaries where they have a good chance of winning. A primary loss might lessen their prestige.

4. Preferential primaries are rare in the South. And yet, the South holds virtual veto power over the Democratic nomination.

5. The primary elections are held too early in the year. If the election is held before the people have definitely decided which candidate they favor, the results will not truly reflect popular sentiment.

6. Delegates to the conventions are overwhelmingly members of the governing bodies of the party organization, and are primarily interested in solidifying the party. Primary elections tend to encourage the development of decisive differences between factions supporting different candidates. These wounds often prove so serious that a compromise candidate is selected so that sufficient support can be mustered behind the party's nominee to insure a good chance of winning.

Johnson said that despite the weaknesses of the convention method of selecting delegates to the national conventions, it is probably better than the primary system.

National primaries have been suggested as a solution to the nomination problems, but Johnson

Russians Say They'll Slash Armed Forces by 1,100,000

U.S. Air Power Ahead Of Russia's: Wilson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, in a new pronouncement on air power, said Monday the United States has a superiority over Russia and he thinks it can be held.

The same opinion came from Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, who told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee: "I believe we can stay ahead of them."

Their statements, more confident in tone than some recent testimony by U.S. air generals, may be some reflection of what President Eisenhower had in mind when he told his news conference May 4 that the country would feel a lot better about its air power position when the full story was presented.

Both Wilson and Radford testified before Washington had heard the news of Russia's intention to slash her armed forces by 1,200,000 men.

Concern has been mounting in Congress that the Soviet Union was outstripping the U.S. in the struggle for sky mastery. Several Pentagon chiefs have said recently that Russia was "closing the gap" in some phases of air power.

Wilson was asked for a fresh assessment when he appeared before the senators to support the administration's $4,500,000,000 foreign aid bill for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

The defense chief said the question "is always complicated" by measuring air power in numbers of planes. The comparison should be made in terms of quality and combat readiness, he said.

He reported that the U.S. is ahead now, and the main question seems to be whether that will be true in 1960 at the current rate of buildup here and in the Soviet Union.

On the foreign aid program, Wilson argued that unless the U.S. builds up the defensive strength of its allies it will have to put more money into its own armed forces.

About three billion dollars of the new foreign aid program is ticketed for military assistance abroad.

Eden Angrily Refuses Talk On Frogman

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Anthony Eden angrily refused Monday night to explain the mystery of Britain's missing frogman. He hinted that telling the secret might chill relations with Russia.

"In this business," Eden told Parliament, his face grave and his voice deeply serious, "I do not rest only on the national interest."

"There is also a very important international interest."

"I confess," said Eden, "that what I care is that the outcome of our discussions with the Soviet leaders should prove to be the beginning of the beginning."

Eden went on: "I intend to safeguard that possibility at all costs. I believe that that is the policy of the Soviet leaders and it is for that reason that I deplore this debate and will see no more."

The frogman, Comdr. Ret. Lionel Buster Crabb, is officially listed as "missing—presumed dead" in the cold waters of Portsmouth Harbor while diving near the cruiser that last month brought Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and party leader Nikita Khrushchev on a visit to Britain.

The Conservatives' leader told the House of Commons Monday "I have not one more word to say than I announced on Wednesday."

At that time, the Prime Minister said Crabb was operating "without authorization" in diving into Portsmouth Harbor. The British Admiralty has said he was engaged in diving tests.

Labor party chief Hugh Gaitskell, in demanding that the government explain the mystery, said he did not want to endanger the British secret service. But he said there were aspects of a "mixup" in the mystery.

Gaitskell opened the debate by saying he was more interested in whether there was something wrong with the operations of the secret service than in the international aspects of the case.

Stocks Drop After Order

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market prices dropped sharply and the high-speed ticker tape lagged behind transactions briefly Monday as news came that the Soviet Union was slashing its armed forces.

Losses ran to around $1 to $5 a share on some leading issues. The total quoted value of all listed stocks on the New York Stock Exchange declined $2.5 billion based on The Associated Press average.

The market was a bit higher in early trading, then headed down gently until the Russian news came.

But the market was already on its way down when the news came and some Wall Street observers said the technical position was weak anyway.

The Associated Press 60 stock average dropped $2.20 to $183.70, one of the steepest dips this year, but less than the $2.50 lost last Thursday when General Motors announced it would close its assembly plants for a day.

The industrial component of the average was off $2.70, railroads were down $2.30, and the utilities were off 20 cents.

Volume amounted to 2,440,000 shares compared with 2,450,000 Friday.

Martin Gilbert, analyst for Bache & Co., said "the market always reacts to such news." He explained that some traders believed the Russian cut would seem to indicate a reduction in U.S. defense expenditures, but that Wall Street regarded such news from Russia with greater skepticism.

Walter T. O'Hara, partner in the firm of Thomson & McKinnon, said "the market has been in a vulnerable position for three weeks."

"If it wasn't that, it would have been something else," said Gerald M. Loeb, partner in the Wall Street firm of E. F. Hutton & Co.

He and other observers noted that the market has been "heavy"—that is, trending downward—for days, and especially since the latest news of cutbacks in auto production.

The Weather

Fair and Warm

Today's weather forecast calls for slightly warmer readings throughout the state.

The morning's highs are expected to range in the 40's with mid-afternoon temperatures expected to range between 60 and 70 degrees.

Wednesday's outlook calls for partly cloudy skies with no important temperature change.

Temperatures in Iowa Monday were 15 to 25 degrees cooler than the record and near-record breaking temperatures over the weekend.

George Takes NATO Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) Monday night accepted President Eisenhower's invitation to serve as his personal representative in development of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) into something more than a military unit.

The White House announced George's acceptance after the 78-year-old chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had conferred with the President for an hour.

George announced last week that he will not seek renomination.

Eisenhower promptly offered him a post as his personal representative, with the rank of ambassador, in NATO.

George quit the race for renomination because he said his doctor had advised against the strenuous kind of campaign the senator felt was necessary.

The White House announcement said George told Eisenhower Monday night that he plans "to retain his present post in the Senate for the time being, but would be available after adjournment to perform any duty consistent with his senatorial responsibility requested by the President."

The White House said that meanwhile George, in cooperation with Secretary of State Dulles, "will study the problem of the development of the NATO concept and consult with the foreign ministers of Canada, Italy and Norway, designated by the NATO council to study the problem."

While he is still senator, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said, he will receive no pay for his NATO work.

George met with Eisenhower in the President's White House living quarters. The President relayed announcement of George's acceptance to newsmen when their meeting ended.

Multi-Colored Bear Found in City Park

Daisy is an 11-year-old red-yellow and blue bear in the city park. She changed color over-night.

She got that color Sunday after unknown vandals climbed atop her cage and threw paint on her.

Monday, an Iowa City veterinarian treated Daisy to counteract possible lead poisoning from the paint. She is reported to be in "frisky condition" by park superintendent, George Turecek.

Bulganin Tells French—

Peaceful Settlement Possible in Algeria

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Nikolai Bulganin told the French Monday the Soviet Union understands their troubles in North Africa and believes a just and peaceful solution can be reached.

Bulganin made a declaration on France's difficulties with nationalist rebels in Algeria, and her settlements with other nationalists in Tunisia and Morocco, on the eve of a visit to Moscow by Premier Guy Mollet and Foreign Minister Christian Pineau.

Mollet and Pineau are due to arrive by air Tuesday.

"We sincerely welcomed the settlement of the Tunisian and Moroccan problems achieved by negotiation," said Bulganin.

As to Algeria, where more than 300,000 troops are trying to put down a rebellion, Bulganin said, "we well understand its complexity, but we are convinced that this problem can be solved by peaceful means and that it will find its solution."

By calling for a peaceful settlement of that crisis, Russia in effect notified the Arab states they could not count on automatic Soviet support in event of trouble.

Mollet, first of the Big Three Western leaders to visit Moscow since the downgrading of Stalin, will hold four days of discussions with the Russian leaders.

Pineau is to stay on until May 24, and make some side trips to Kiev, Leningrad and Armenia.

Bulganin said he was sure the visit of the two Frenchmen "will serve the cause of mutual understanding between our two countries and will facilitate a further lessening of international tension."

The time has come, he added, for East and West to stress the things that unite them, rather than what divides them.

He declared that the peaceful co-existence of capitalism and socialism (communism) had to be long and stable, and added:

"There are only two ways: either peaceful coexistence or the most destructive war in history."

Ask Western Countries To Follow Lead

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced Monday night it would cut its armed forces within a year by 1,100,000 men and use the manpower in industry and agriculture.

A government statement said "Other governments such as those of the United States, Britain and France wishing to contribute to the strengthening of peace, cannot but follow this example."

It made no reference to armed forces slashes by Western powers since World War II.

The USSR also reported it would disband three air divisions, put 375 ships of the Soviet navy into mothballs and disband a number of military training schools. It also said it would reduce its military budget, but gave no figure.

The armed forces cut, to be in effect by May 1, 1957, involves 63 army divisions and 3 air divisions, including more than 30,000 men now stationed in Communist East Germany, and did not include the 640,000 the USSR reported demobilized last year, the statement said.

The latest published estimate of the armed forces of the Soviet Union puts the over-all strength at 4 1/2 million men.

The figure from the 1955 Statesman's Year Book does not take into account the reduction of 640,000 men announced last year.

The breakdown, as of 1954, included: army 175 line divisions and 40 anti-aircraft and artillery divisions with 22 of the line divisions in Eastern Germany for a total of 2,800,000 men; navy 750,000; air force 800,000; security troops of the MVD responsible for internal security and frontier duties 400,000.

Leonid F. Ilyichev, the Foreign Ministry press chief, said he did not know how many men would be left in the Soviet armed forces after the cut is completed, nor would he say how much of a percentage cut would be made in the military budget. There was no information, either, on what type of ships would be put in mothballs or on how much sea power would remain.

The statement said in part: "The Soviet government would be ready to consider the question of a further reduction in case the United States, Britain and France carry out a proportionate reduction in their armed forces and armament."

Expect Attacks by Rebels in Algiers

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—The French administration warned the Algerian people Monday to brace for a new outburst of rebel hit-and-run attacks.

Resident Minister Robert Lacoste told reporters: "We are entering a new, hard and difficult period in Algeria. Terrorism is going to increase systematically because the rebels now know they are not able to win a straight military victory."

The warning came as bad news for the 1,200,000 French settlers and the pro-French Arabs who had hoped for a breather after the last 10 nightmarish days. Nationalist guerrillas have slain scores of Frenchmen and Arabs and burned many farms.

Twenty-five were killed in weekend raids in the city of Constantine. Lacoste spoke as French reinforcements poured into Algeria to counter the rebel thrusts. At least 6,000 troops have landed in the last two days. Some 50,000 reinforcements are due in by the end of the month, to bring the total to about 380,000.

French dispatches said counter-attacking forces have killed about 200 rebels over the last 72 hours.

City Council Passes Strict Dog Ordinance

The controversial dog ordinance was passed by the Iowa City Council Monday night with only minor amendments. The ordinance, which now becomes law, still requires that dogs must be kept on the owners' premises or under control at all times, 12 months of the year.

The ordinance was passed by a 4-1 vote of the council after an hour-long debate involving private citizens and members of the newly-formed Johnson County League for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The league's proposal that the period of restraint be limited to the time between April 15 and May 15 was not incorporated into the final ordinance. The league had contended that dogs do the most damage during the early gardening season, and that during the rest of the year they have little chance to do damage.

Among the changes made before final passage was a reduction of the impounding fee from the $5 originally specified to $3. The $5 fee had been attacked from the start as too high.

The league had requested lowering the fee to 75 cents per day for care of an impounded dog to be reduced to 50 cents. This change was not made by the council.

Another change was authorized—that unclaimed dogs be "disposed of" after the specified period of impoundment rather than "destroyed," as had been written into the original draft of the ordinance.

The third amendment changed the period of time which a dog is to be held after notification of the owner, if known, from two days to three. Unclaimed dogs whose owners are not known will also be held three days, instead of two.

The ordinance states that by the provisions of state law the city may enter into contract with some regularly incorporated society for the prevention of cruelty to animals for the use of its facilities for restraining, impounding and disposing of the dogs. It was not known if the city and the new Johnson County league would enter into such an agreement.

The ordinance as it now stands requires dog owners to purchase a $2 license for all dogs over six months old annually and to keep the pets on their premises or under control at all times.

The ordinance does provide for the establishment of a dog pound and the appointment of a shelter master with the power to impound any dog found running at large. It would be the duty of this shelter master to provide humane treatment for the animals under his care.

All dogs impounded under the ordinance will be registered and the owner, if known, notified. The

Charged with Killings in Korean Prison Camp—

Ask Release of GI Convict

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army said Monday a review board has ordered dismissal of charges against Sgt. James C. Gallagher, 24, found guilty of killing two fellow American soldiers in a Chinese Communist prison camp in Korea.

The three-man review board held that the court-martial, by which the sergeant was convicted, lacked jurisdiction.

Gallagher's home is in Brooklyn, N.Y.

The acting judge advocate general, Brig. Gen. Stanley W. Jones, after studying the review board decision, said he was ordering the trial record forwarded to the U.S. Court of Military Appeals.

Thus the decision was left to that court as to whether the review board findings should be approved or the original sentence upheld.

In any event, Gallagher, now in the U.S. disciplinary barracks at

Sgt. James C. Gallagher

Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., has a new chance. Gallagher was sentenced Aug.

19, 1955, following a court-martial at Governor's Island, N.Y., to life imprisonment, dishonorable discharge, and forfeiture of all pay and allowances.

He was convicted of throwing two fellow prisoners of war—Cpl. John W. Jones, Detroit and Cpl. Donald T. Baxter, Waukon, Iowa,—out of a prison hut and leaving them to die in subzero temperatures.

The court also found him guilty of collaborating with the Chinese Reds, mistreating fellow prisoners and informing on them.

The review board found that Gallagher was discharged after his enlistment expired Oct. 27, 1953. He re-enlisted the following day, but the review board said this constituted a break in his service, and there were no grounds for bringing charges against him on a prior enlistment.

The Daily Iowan is an independent daily newspaper, written and edited by students. It is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the university.

expression of SUI administration policy or opinion. The Iowan, in the terms of a policy statement adopted by trustees in 1946, "will try to act as a good citizen of the SUI community and the community of Iowa City. . . The Daily Iowan conceives its owners to be the whole constituency of the University, past, present, and future. It will endeavor to hold the good of the University in trust for these owners. . ."

Behind The Times

Is Iowa behind the times? We like to think of our state as a progressive one, but it appears in some ways we are conspicuously behind some of our sister states.

Friday was Supreme Court Day in the SUI College of Law. The Iowan admires the College for an outstanding job in the annual event. We also wish to thank Dean Mason Ladd for a fine try toward progress.

The Iowan wanted to photographically cover the "mock trial" held in connection with the court day. It was hoped approval would be given to experiment in the court room with "existing light" photography, that is, without flashbulbs.

Dean Ladd was asked for permission and was very interested in the whole project. He was cooperative and called Chief Justice Robert Larson to get that judge's opinion. Larson, too, apparently was in favor of the experiment.

Final decision on the matter rested with the other eight judges who were to take part in the day, and a poll showed that the majority did not want any photographs taken of the trial. The experiment was abandoned.

The biggest argument against pictures being taken in trials has traditionally been that the flashes disturb witnesses, jury and everyone involved. The experiment the Iowan wanted to conduct would have eliminated that trouble. Perhaps the justices who voted against the experiment will soon change their minds. We hope so.

New Laws for an Old Problem

One of the United States' biggest crime problems today is the control of narcotic traffic. Legislation to deal with the problem is now pending in both houses of Congress, and some fairly convincing statistics were tossed about during committee debates on the legislation. Among them:

1. Drug traffic has tripled since World War II.
2. The lowest estimate is that the illicit drug traffic is worth $500 million each year.
3. During World War II, one in 10,000 American was a drug addict; now the ratio is one in 3,000.
4. About 2,000 persons are arrested on narcotics charges each month in the United States.
5. About 60,000 persons are listed as addicts, although it is known that many more than this use drugs. And 13 per cent of these 60,000 are under 21 years old.
6. About half of the major crimes committed in the United States are traceable directly or indirectly to narcotics.

Evidence taken before Congressional committees and reports from the United Nations Commission on Narcotic Drugs indicates rather conclusively that Red China is heading an international ring of dope sellers and that much of this dope is entering this country illegally.

Rep. Richard H. Poff (R-Va.), a member of the House committee looking into the problem, said on the floor of the House a few days ago: "Sworn testimony before congressional committees setting forth names, dates, secret codes, methods of smuggling and drug seizures chemically analyzed prove beyond any doubt that Red China is producing and exporting opium and heroin as an established policy of its governing officials."

The United States government has said in the past that the problem is essentially a state and local matter. The federal government has concentrated on regulation of dope traffic in international and interstate commerce.

But state and local governments now con-sumably the judges felt the presence of the photographers themselves would create too great a disturbance.

A similar experiment was recently conducted in Colorado, with surprising results. Even the judges involved admitted the success of the experiment. No disturbance resulted from the presence of photographers.

We feel the Iowa justices missed a good bet in the matter. The Iowan reasoned that since the trial itself was an experimental one, it would be the ideal place to conduct another experiment; Dean Ladd and Justice Larson apparently agreed with this assumption.

There is no law against the use of cameras in Iowa courts. The decision of whether they will be allowed is left up to each judge. The net result is that cameras are usually not brought to court rooms as a matter of the precedent on which courts operate.

It is felt that use of cameras in the mock trial with existing light would have shown the way to many a judge. A successful experiment of this sort could very well lead toward a more liberal attitude toward court room photography, hence better coverage for the reading public.

SUI would also be recognized as one of the leaders in a nationwide fight to open court room doors to photographers.

Perhaps the justices who voted against the experiment will soon change their minds. We hope so.

cede that they need federal aid to cope with the problem successfully. Every government law enforcement agency is now clamoring for full authority to deal with the problem.

Congress is not taking the problem lightly. It wants to outlaws heroin — make it a federal crime for mere possession of heroin. Heroin, which causes 90 per cent of the dope problem in the United States, used to be used extensively for medicinal purposes. But the American Medical Association now says doctors can get along without it because of new discoveries in medicine.

Some Congressmen are so concerned about the problem that they want to increase the penalties for conviction on narcotics charges — ranging up to the death penalty in some instances. Congress is almost certain to pass a law which would make the penalty for anyone convicted of selling or giving heroin to anyone under 18 years a minimum fine of $10,000 and 10 years in jail to the death penalty in severe instances, such as second and third offenses. Congress would now make possession of narcotics a major felony.

One of the committee reports urges increasing, under separate legislation, the personnel and the powers of the Bureau of Narcotics, which now numbers about 300 men. If this is done, the bureau no doubt eventually would receive about the same prominence as the FBI.

Congressmen say they're only attempting to pass a law now which offers proper penalties for "pushers" and possessors of narcotics. Laws to deal with the prevention and cure of narcotics addicts will come later, they say.

The big question then, as now, will be just how hard to hit the problem. We say the harder the better.

No Rumble Seat

I've often wondered why modern car makers don't reintroduce the popular rumble seat. As I recall, it was just right for two, quite comfortable for three, and well, for four, it sort of depended upon the makeup of the company.

Windmills Used for Power

England Experiments with Electric Windmills;

Fears Lack of Fuel, Student Says

By ROY WALKER
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

The old windmill that traditionally has been pumping water for livestock and irrigation has undergone a big change in the course of man's attempt to find a new power source. David J. Iverson, E4, Belle Plaine, says in an article entitled "Wind for Power" in the April issue of the Iowa Transir.

In the article, Iverson states that scientists in Great Britain have recognized that the world's fuel supply won't last forever and are investigating wind as a possible substitute power source.

At St. Albans, England, 20 miles northwest of London, scientists have constructed a wind-powered electric generator capable of producing 100 kilowatts.

Iverson notes that an experimental wind powered generator has been used in the United States, but the British generating unit is on a usable scale. The American generator produced 1250 kilowatts, but the St. Albans generator is intended for practical use in supplying power to remote parts of the country.

The reason that wind has received such consideration Iverson reports is that distribution of electrical power from a steam or hydroelectric generating plant is often too expensive for sparsely populated rural areas.

Wind is a natural answer to the power problem in these areas, according to the article, because windless days are the exception rather than the rule.

THE USE of a windmill to generate electricity isn't a new one, but the particular way that the wind is utilized as described in the article by Iverson is new.

In Iverson's description of the wind mill, he explains that instead of connecting a propeller blade to the shaft of a generator, the blades in the British installation have no mechanical connection to the generator.

The blades are hollow with holes in their ends. When the blades are rotated, air is expelled from these holes; a partial vacuum is created in the shaft of the 100 foot tower. Air is drawn into the tower at the base. There it goes through a turbine which is connected with an induction generator.

THE BLADES vary in pitch, that is they can be set so that they take a different "bite" of the air at different wind speeds.

In starting the blades of the windmill, Iverson says that the generator serves as an induction motor operating from a public supply of electrical power. The generator working as a motor gets the windmill blades underway. The blades are changed from full feather, a position of the blades where the wind doesn't cause the blades to turn, to fine pitch, where the wind can make the blades turn with the least amount of effort.

The wind causes the blades to gather speed, the faster they revolve, the more air is expelled from the tips of the blades by centrifugal force. The vacuum created causes more air to be drawn into the base of the tower which passes through the turbine causing it to gain speed.

Iverson explains that when the speed of the turbine and the generator, acting as a motor, are exactly the same, a clutch engages the two and the generator, spun by the turbine begins producing electricity.

One big problem is the entire set-up of the windmill generator is that wind isn't reliable. Recognizing this, Iverson explains that the installation of the windmills would have to be restricted to areas where the wind is known to blow almost without stopping.

Even in cases where the wind doesn't blow steadily, the generators could be used to supply power to pump water to be stored and used by hydroelectric plants when needed. The article further outlines the use of the electricity produced by the generator to make steam which would be stored in accumulators until needed.

Iverson predicts in the article that although the English windmill is one of the very first, many more will probably follow as man attempts to find a new source of power.

Strikebreakers Are Drowned

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. — Two technicians trying to ferry food to the strikeblock plant of E. I. duPont de Nemours Co. were drowned Monday when their small motor boat capsized in the Niagara River about a mile and a half above Niagara Falls.

The company identified them as George Wise Jr. of Tonawanda and Allen N. Brown of Niagara Falls. A spokesman said they were members of the nonstriking supervisory force.

Approximately 1,800 members of an independent union struck the plant Monday in a dispute over contract details.

SEIZE 'BANDITS' MOLINE, Ill. — Rock Island County sheriff's deputies reported seizing 11 slot machines at the Eagles Lodge country home near here Monday afternoon.

Big 10 Hypocrisy

(Marshalltown Times-Republican)

Chastisement of Ohio State University for the ready admission of her football coach, Woody Hayes, that he paid "pocket money" to his football players in violation of Big Ten rules again emphasizes the hypocrisy prevalent in the subsidization of athletes in the "football factories."

In the first place, what Hayes did was no secret — and if the truth were known similar practices probably exist (though not so readily admitted) in every other Big Ten school.

Secondly, the punishment — ineligibility for the Rose Bowl for one year — amounts to a mere slap on the wrist.

Some 25 years ago SUI was found guilty of violation of Big Ten rules on subsidization of athletes and was suspended from the conference until she corrected her practices.

Two remedies for the present hypocritical situation are available. The Big Ten should either openly subsidize its athletes under definite rules as the Southern Conference does, or completely amateur as the Ivy League has. Either would be better for the game and for the players.

Blast Rips Atom Plant; One Killed

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. — A jarring explosion ripped through some non-nuclear materials Monday in an atomic plant restricted area, killing one man and injuring two others.

William R. Stooksbury, 27, of Andersonville, Tenn., died in a hospital Monday night of severe burns. The hospital reported the other two in critical condition. They are: A. L. Lyons, 27, Oak Ridge, who suffered extensive burns, and arm and leg injuries; and G. R. Meyers, 26, Oak Ridge, arm blown off and severe burns.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the blast, which was heard and felt five miles away, occurred in some zirconium oxide and zirconium scrap in a salvage yard.

It was about a quarter of a mile away from an atomic plant, which apparently was not damaged. The men were working about 30 feet from the explosion site.

Zirconium was described as a metal used in nuclear reactors. "This material is highly inflammable and for some unknown reason it just went boom," an AEC spokesman said.

ADPi, Quadrangle Win University Sing

By WILLIAM DONALDSON
The choruses representing Alpha Delta Pi sorority and Quadrangle, men's dormitory, were winners of University Sing finals held in the Iowa Memorial Union Sunday as part of SUI's Mothers' Day celebration.

This is the third consecutive year that the Quad Chorus has won that honor. The group was named outstanding SUI men's chorus in 1953-54 and 1954-55. Alpha Delta Pi last won their title as best women's chorus in the 1953-54 contest.

This year the Quad Chorus, led by James DeKalb, A4, Davenport, sang "In the Still of the Night" and "Quadeamus Igitur." The Alpha Delta Pi group, directed by Sharon Russell, A3, Fairfield, performed "Can't You Dance the Polka?" and "He's Gone Away."

Three Judges

Judges of the contest were Paul Beckhelm, director of music at Cornell College, Mt. Vernon; H. B. Gentry, head of music at Bloomfield High School; and Mrs. Frances Irelan, supervisor of music in the Iowa City school system.

The other finalists were the choruses of Commons Dormitory, Pi Beta Phi, Kappa Alpha Theta, and Chi Omega in the women's division, and of Delta Tau Delta, Delta Upsilon, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon in the men's division.

The chorus of Commons, led by Connie Grove, A2, South English, performed "The Nightengale" and "Mistress Marguerita"; the Pi Beta Phi Chorus was directed by Jane Havenhill, A2, Burlington, and sang "High on a Hilltop" and "Get Happy." Karen Camp, N2, Iowa City, directed Kappa Alpha Theta's chorus, which sang "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes" and "New River Train," and Chi Omega performed "Inchworm" and "Getting to Know You" under the direction of Lois Russell, A2, Muscatine.

Delta Selections

Delta Tau Delta's chorus was led by Jack Laughery, C3, Guthrie Center, and sang "Didn't My Lord Deliver Daniel" and "Come, Thou Holy Spirit." Tom Offenburger, A4, Shenandoah, led the Delta Upsilon chorus in "Kansas City" and "Aure Lee." The chorus of Sigma Alpha Epsilon was directed by Phil Biddison, A4, Ottumwa, and sang "Pore Jud Is Dead" and "June Is Bustin' Out All Over."

Robert Bentley, A3, Ames, was the master of ceremonies who provided the audience with fine entertainment while the choruses came on the stage, and Peggy Nuckols, A2, Philadelphia, Pa., performed a Cornelia Otis Skinner skit during intermission.

Sue Donelson, A3, Reinbeck, led the combined choruses and the audience in "Old Gold" at the end of the program, and Mrs. B. V. Crawford, SUI Mother of the Year, announced the winners.

A breakfast at the home of group sponsor Miss Helen Reich followed the initiation ceremony Sunday at 7:30 a.m. in the Board Room of Old Capitol.

Coeds Man Gas Pumps

Coed Chosen Mademoiselle Guest Editor

By AUDREY ROORDA

Karen Termohlen, A4, Cedar Rapids, has been chosen as one of twenty college women to be guest editors of Mademoiselle magazine's August, 1956, college issue.

The twenty winners were chosen from 650 members of the magazine's national College Board who tried out for editorships by completing two assignments during the school year. For her first assignment Miss Termohlen wrote a 1000 word comprehensive profile of life at SUI.

The second assignment was a biographical sketch of Prof. Paul Engle of the SUI English Department, and a discussion of his poetry. The 650 board members were awarded points for each assignment they completed, and the 20 with the highest number of points were chosen as editors.

4 Weeks in New York

As a guest editor, Miss Termohlen will be in New York city for four weeks, from May 31 through June 28, to help write and edit the magazine. Guest editors will receive round-trip plane transportation to and from New York, their room and board, and a regular salary. They will attend plays, parties, and other social functions while they are in New York.

Miss Termohlen is majoring in English at SUI. She edited the "Code for Coeds" handbook, published annually by the Associated Women Students, in 1954. In her sophomore year she worked as a reporter for The Daily Iowan.

She expressed surprise at being chosen as a guest editor. "I was simply astounded when I found out about it," she exclaimed. "Right now I'm worrying about getting my semester tests done before I leave on May 30!"

'Thrilling Experience'

Miss Termohlen's reaction before taking the trip is similar to that of Mary Jane Baker, A4, Iowa City, after receiving the award in 1954. Miss Baker said, "I'm sure it was the most thrilling experience of my life up to now. They kept us so busy and we had such a good time going out to dinner, out to lunch, out to breakfast, and to all kinds of parties and plays. We really saw New York from the inside out."

Miss Baker's assignments which brought her the guest editorship were the development of a theme for an issue of the magazine, designing of a fashion advertisement and a two-page fashion layout, and a literary criticism and a biography of the Robert Lowell's. She won a $50 first prize for her criticism of the Lowell's. Mademoiselle also printed the article.

Student Nurses Elect Officers

Nancy Cogswell, N2, DeWitt, recently was elected president of the Student Nurses Organization. Other officers are:

Jean Stock, N2, Odebolt, vice-president; Nancy Kacerer, N2, Cedar Rapids, secretary; and Mary Hollingsworth, N3, Keokuk, treasurer.

Delegates to the National Student Nurses Association convention, being held in Chicago this week, were also selected. They are Miss Stock, Miss Cogswell, Carolyn Herman, N1, Boone; and Janet Thieme, N4, Morton, Ill.

Lucy Shepard, N3, Muscatine also is attending the convention as the official delegate for Fifth District Student Nurses Association of Iowa women.

Currier Presents Show for Mothers

"Memories for Mom," a style show of the 20's, was presented by Currier Hall's New Student Council in an afternoon program honoring mothers Sunday.

The presentation of "Currier Mother of the Year" highlighted the program. Mrs. Frank McGivern was chosen by the Student Council as Currier mother of a letter submitted by her daughter, Connie, A2, Marengo. Paris from the winning letter were read at the program.

TILL WE MEET AGAIN

I always find myself yawning hugely when a comedian, having finished his act, steps out in front of the curtain, takes off his putty nose, assumes a sincere stance, and delivers an oration full of tender and lofty sentiments.

So how come I'm doing precisely the same thing right now?

Two reasons. First, because I couldn't possibly make you laugh at this time of the year; cramming for finals has left you wan, woebegone, and in no mood for innocent merriment.

Second, because this is the last column of the current series, and I'd be a liar if I didn't admit I was just a tiny bit choked up.

It was two years ago that the makers of Philip Morris asked me to write this column. My first impulse, frankly, was to say no. Though I am a man who likes a dollar as well as the next fellow, my talents just do not seem to lead me in the direction of writing advertising copy. When called upon to rhapsodize about soap or sex or cigarettes, I get to giggling uncontrollably and have to be helped home.

"Buddies," said I to the makers of Philip Morris, "I smoke Philip Morris myself, and I think it's a jim-dandy cigarette. But that's all I think it is—a cigarette. Not a graven image. Not a love object. Just a cigarette. I'm afraid I can't get reverent enough to write ad copy for you."

To my astonishment, they seemed delighted. "Reverence is not required," said the people at Philip Morris. They assured me that I would not be required to write fulsome commercials—that I could rib the cigarette and the company all I liked—that my columns would be mine alone, with no editing, no suggestions, and no supervision.

"Hah!" I said by way of reply.

But they kept insisting and finally, my thin breast full of misgivings, I went to work.

For the first few weeks they were scrupulously true to their words. Not one syllable, not one comma, was ever changed; not one quarter-ounce of pressure was ever exerted. But my doubts were not laid to rest. "When will the honeymoon be over?" I kept asking myself.

The answer, gentle readers, is that the honeymoon is still going on. This finishes my second year for Philip Morris. During that time, though I'm sure my copy caused an occasional conniption fit in the boardroom, my carte blanche has remained as blanche as the day it was issued. Whatever I've perpetrated in this column has been, as they guaranteed, mine alone.

They've been living dolls, the makers of Philip Morris, and I think I may be forgiven for getting a trifle misty. And as long as the stops are out, let me say that it's also been a big charge writing for you, the college population of America. Your response has warmed my old heart, and on the occasions when I've visited your campuses, it's been deeply gratifying to see that you're still as pleasantly disorganized as ever. I figure that as long as the likes of you exist, I'm in business.

So, for now, goodbye. Stay well. Stay happy. Stay loose.

©Max Shulman, 1956
Old Max has said it all. We, the makers of Philip Morris, can only add a heartfelt second chorus: Stay well. Stay happy. Stay loose.

ALL A COED NEEDS TO KNOW ABOUT CAR REPAIRS

WHEN Mother was a coed, she didn't drive much. But when she did, a man usually went along. The man was an indispensable accessory—to fix the car when it got balky.

If today's coed takes a man along, it's strictly for company. Fixing her make-up in the rear-view mirror is the only kind of "car repair" she needs to know.

From the beginning, auto makers have aimed for a virtually trouble-proof car. They've spent millions to get cars that way. It helps explain why so many cars today use Timken tapered roller bearings to overcome friction in vital moving parts—in wheels, in pinions, in steering gears. Every American car but one uses Timken bearings to keep them on the go with minimum maintenance.

Keeping cars rolling along smoothly is just one example of how the Timken Company keeps America on the go—by working hand-in-hand with all industry. By pioneering improvements in machines and machinery. By increasing speed and precision, decreasing wear and maintenance.

The pioneering spirit has helped make us the world's largest manufacturer of tapered roller bearings and removable rock bits, and a leading producer of fine alloy steel.

Because the best place to keep going—and keep going up—is with a company that's on the go, you may be interested in what lies ahead for promising college graduates at the Timken Company. For details, write for our booklet "This Is Timken." The Timken Roller Bearing Company, Canton 6, Ohio.

Smith's Homer Tops Yanks, 3-2

No Antique Dealer; Lane Wants Flag

NEW YORK (AP) — Just because Frank Lane has acquired Hank Sauer, 37, and Murry Dickson, 38, since the season started doesn't mean necessarily he abruptly has become an antique dealer, but it could mean he has changed his mind concerning the desirability of a pennant for the Cardinals this year.

The restless general manager of the St. Louis club insisted this spring he was building for the future, and he would not make deals that might bring a pennant if it meant squandering the youth of the club.

Well, the Cardinals are away to a fine start, and it is not improbable that Lane suddenly decided that maybe a pennant this year wouldn't be hard to take. His first year, and bringing a club from seventh place to the top, and all that. He'd look like a genius.

The Cardinals have been making the threatening gestures of a team aiming at the championship, at that, although it is admitted that several athletes are playing over their heads, unless you figure that Rip Repulski will wind up the season hitting around .430, Ken Boyer, .412 and Wally Moon .395.

Repulski hit .270 last year, Boyer .264 and Moon .295. Red Schoendienst is hitting around .311 after a .268 season in 1955, but the red-headed ordinarily is a .300 hitter.

In fact, it was concern over Schoendienst that interrupted Don Blasingame's career as a short-stop.

Blasingame played short at Houston two years ago, but was shifted to second base at Omaha last year, and every time we saw him this spring he was still a second baseman.

It was apparent this spring that Schoendienst was going to be okay. His eyes, which had been a worry, were all right, and he was feeling fine. Nobody, but nobody, was going to take that second base job away from him.

Lane, has old Ellis Kinder, Sauer and Dickson now. If he tries to throw a net over 38-year-old George Muger we'll know he is thinking that the Cardinals might just possibly do it this year.

Tennis Team Beats Gophers; Baseball Team Succumbs

By LARRY DENNIS Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Iowa recovered from two week-end tennis losses by whipping Minnesota here Monday, 9-0.

It was the Hawkeyes' second Big 10 dual win against one defeat and brings their overall record to 5-3.

The Hawks lost only three sets during the afternoon, two in singles completion and one in doubles play.

Dale Bjurstrom, regular No. 3 man, was recovering from an infection incurred over the weekend and was too weak to play. He was capably replaced, however, by Chuck Bailin, who defeated Ron Simon of the Gophers, 6-0, 6-2.

In other singles play, No. 1 man Jim Andrews trounced Minnesota's Phil Sorge, 6-3, 6-0. Team Captain Gene Nadig stopped Hal Swanson, 6-0, 6-4; Hawkeye Dick Hood beat Warren Olson 3-6, 6-3, 6-3; Jim McCullough outlasted Tom Heden of Minnesota, 8-0, 7-9, 6-1, and Gary Anderson defeated Paul Hermann, 6-4, 6-2.

In doubles, Andrews and Nadig teamed up to smother Sorge and Swanson, 6-1, 6-1; Bailin and Stan Jones beat Simon and Hermann, 6-0, 6-1, and Hood and Anderson defeated Heden and Olson in a three-set thriller, 6-3, 3-6, 8-6.

Saturday the Hawks lost to a Kalamazoo College team which is undefeated in 37 consecutive matches, 9-0. Kalamazoo won a singles and a doubles match by default when Bjurstrom showed up too ill to compete.

Minnesota rapped Iowa pitching for a total of 34 hits Saturday as the Gophers swept a double-header, 17-7 and 18-8.

The Gophers, who moved into first-place in the Big 10 as a result of the double-victory, clubbed 13 home runs during the afternoon — six in the first game and seven in the second.

The defeats were the fifth and sixth for the Hawkeyes, against two wins in Big 10 play.

Leading the home run parade was Jack McCartan of Minnesota with four. He also doubled in the first game. McCartan batted in 10 runs during the two contests. Iowa also upped its batting mark considerably, connecting for 19 hits in the two games. Les (Babe) Hawthorne, four-for-eight, and Sharm Scheuerman, four-for-nine, led the Hawkeye hitters.

Five of Iowa's blows were circuit clouts off the bats of Hawthorne, Bill Schoof, Scheuerman, Les Zanotti and Don Book.

Records Fall in Hawk Win

By JACK HOLDS Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Iowa trackmen scored first in 9 out of the 14 events as they sped by Minnesota in a dual meet here Saturday, 80½-50½.

Six track or meet records were shattered and one tied as the Hawkeyes put on their classiest show of the year. Iowa's Gardner Van Dyke soared over the 14½ mark in the pole vault to eclipse the track and meet marks, and set an all-time high for an Iowa performer.

Ted Wheeler, Iowa's ace distance man, failed to crack the mile record, but cut a big chunk from the existing time in the 880-yard run, and came close to the all-time University record, which he owns. Wheeler's time was 1:51.8.

Other new Iowa record holders include Gastonia Finch, who clipped off 49 flat in the 440; Les Stevens, who tied the .23.8 mark in the 220-yard low hurdles; and the mile relay team (Tom Ecker, Ira Dunsworth, Gastonia Finch, and Caesar Smith) which ran a 3:16.5 to top the 1957 track mark of 3:18.4.

Other "Iowa" winners were Ted Wheeler in the mile, 4:22.6; Les Stevens, 120-yard high hurdles; 14:7; Stevens and Paul Kitch in the high jump, tied at 6-1 3/4; and Phil Leahy, broad jump, 23-2 1/8.

Buryl Thompson of Minnesota set two new field records with a 54-11 1/2 shot put, and a 172½ toss of the discus.

Stevens of Iowa was the only triple winner, with Minnesota sprinter Bill Garner second in point production. Garner won the 100 and 220-yard dashes and took 3d in the broad jump.

Asks Night Game Ban

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey was quoted Monday as saying he plans to propose a ban on night games during April at the next meeting of the major league club owners.

Yawkey was quoted by Boston Globe baseball writer Hy Hertzog as saying in Detroit: "It's bad enough to play in the daytime in April, let alone playing in the evening."

"It isn't fair to the fans, players or officials to be playing under the unfavorable conditions which exist generally during the month of April."

"The fans as well as the players are exposed to illness playing in freezing weather. We certainly should consider the fans. They are the ones who pay the freight."

Yawkey is vice president of the American League and a member of baseball's Executive Council.

The Boston Traveler said that although several owners "are in sympathy with Yawkey," his proposal "is likely to fall on deaf ears."

Parke Carroll, vice president and business manager of the Kansas City A's, was quoted as saying: "How can you be arbitrary about a thing like that? Kansas City is at least three weeks ahead of Boston in baseball weather. So how can you set a uniform date?"

Kansas Set For 10th Title

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—Kansas, boasting at least three Olympic prospects, is set to capture their 10th straight Big Seven Conference track and field championship here Friday and Saturday.

The string includes both indoor and outdoor meets.

Coach Bill Easton's Jayhawks are expected to start breaking records in the 25th annual meeting beginning with the preliminaries Friday. They'll shoot with Bill Neider, one of two men in the world to beat 60 feet with the 16-pound shot; Al Orter, husky sophomore, in the discus, and Les Bitner, in the javelin.

Competition for the runner-up position should again be keen with Kansas State joining Oklahoma and Missouri.

Colorado, Iowa State and Nebraska each have individual stars to offer but lack squad balance necessary for a championship.

Conference championships in tennis and golf are also scheduled here Friday and Saturday. The faculty committee, rules making body of the conference, will hold its annual spring meeting beginning Thursday. Athletic directors will meet at the same time. Football coaches will meet Wednesday.

Former Subs Now Lead In Majors Hitting

NEW YORK (AP) — Eldon (Rip) Repulski of St. Louis and Cincinnati's Ed Bailey, a pair of National League regulars who weren't even considered at the outset of the 1956 season, Monday topped the majors in batting with averages of .431 each.

Repulski, 27-year-old outfielder, collected 10 safeties in 23 at bats last week. He gained two points in advancing from third. Bailey, last week's leader, suffered a 28-point decline as he went 5-for-14.

Mantle Leads In the American League, Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees maintained his batting supremacy with a .391 mark despite a 33-point dip. Figures include games through Sunday.

Repulski had only two pinch hitting appearances in the Cards' first six games as Hank Sauer and Joe Frazier got the starting nod over him. Once restored to a regular role, Repulski kept hitting consistently and, won the left field berth.

Bailey, a reserve catcher for the Redjacks behind Smoky Burgess when the season started, delivered two pinch hits in his first two at bats. Several games later the 25-year-old lefthanded swinger got a chance to play regularly and opposing pitchers haven't been able to budget him out of the starting lineup.

Boyer Is Third Ken Boyer of the Cards is in the National's third place at .412, and Pittsburgh's Dale Long remains fourth with .402.

Mantle, with 3 hits in 26 trips, staved off a thrust by Dick Gernert of the Boston Red Sox, who boosted his average 42 points to .385 — runnerup in the American loop.

Detroit's Charley Maxwell, another bench-warmer at the season's start, gained 17 points in climbing from fifth to third at .381.

Wally Post of Cincinnati continues as the National League's home run pace setter with 9 while Boyer has taken over the runs batted in lead with 24. Mantle still has the most homers in the AL, 11, and teammate Yogi Berra heads the RBI department with 28.

Rory Calhoun Stops Randy Sandy in First

NEW YORK (AP) — Undeclared Heran (Rory) Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y., stopped Randy Sandy in 2:46 of the first round by flooring the lanky New Yorker three times Monday night at St. Nicholas Arena. It was Calhoun's 21st straight victory. Calhoun weighed 160½, Sandy 155½.

Orioles Buy Billy Loes

BALTIMORE (AP) — Trader Paul Richards shuffled his Oriole mound corps Monday, buying righthander Billy Loes from Brooklyn and southpaw Johnny Schmitz from Boston and dropping two Oriole hurlers.

The acquisition of Loes, rumored and denied last week, was the fifth transaction involving Oriole personnel in the past three days. In acquiring Loes and Schmitz, the Baltimore general manager sold Mel Hedio to the Minneapolis Millers of the American Assn. and optioned Werner (Babe) Birrer to the Birds' San Antonio farm club on 24-hour recall. Both are righthanders.

No prices were disclosed in any of the deals, although the Orioles were believed to have picked up Loes for an estimated $20,000.

Loes, who won 50 and lost 26 with Brooklyn over the last five seasons, has been troubled with a sore shoulder muscle, and has made only one appearance this season.

The Dodgers said the Orioles knew of Loes' arm trouble but decided to gamble on him.

As Lollar Goes So Go Chisox

DETROIT (AP) — Now they're saying: "As Sherm Lollar goes, so goes the White Sox."

For several seasons it has been Minnie Minoso in the role of the Chicago club's make-or-break guy. But when the 31-year-old Lollar caught fire a few games back, so did Marty Marion's White Sox. The Arkansas-born catcher has hiked his average from .231 to .367 in five games and has 13 hits, including 4 doubles and 2 home runs, in his last 17 times at bat.

Minoso, the fleet left fielder, regained his batting punch at about the same time and has upped his batting average from .207 to .324 in the last 10 games.

Lollar added a double, a single and a sacrifice fly Sunday as the White Sox thumped the Detroit Tigers 8-1 for a sweep of their 3-game series at Briggs Stadium. Minoso also had a double and a single and drove home a run while scoring a pair himself. Lollar drove in three runs.

When the Chicago club came to town Friday, its record was seven wins and eight defeats. The White Sox went back to Chicago for a home stay with a mark of 10 wins and 8 losses, and were in third place 1½ games behind the Cleveland Indians.

The White Sox turned the Tiger pitching into a feast, collecting 43 hits in the 3-game set. Marion was jubilant as the Sox headed back to Comiskey Park. "They look like a new team," said the Sox manager. "It's amazing what a few base hits will do for you."

IOWA STATE WINS Ames (AP) — Iowa State walloped Kansas State 12-2 in a Big Seven Conference baseball game here Monday. It was the fourth straight victory for the Cyclones and gave them a 4-3 league mark.

INDIANS CUT TO 31 CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians cut their roster to 31 Monday night by optioning Dave Pope, 30-year-old outfielder, to Indianapolis of the American Assn. The Baltimore Orioles sent Pope to Cleveland Sunday in an even swap for Hoot Evers, reversing deals of last season involving the two outfielders.

The Coca Cola Bottling Co. will award a trophy to each of the four winners. Play will be an 18-hole Medal Play event.

Cards Swap Hemus For Phils' Morgan

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies and St. Louis Cardinals swapped utility infielders Monday, Bobby Morgan going to St. Louis for Solly Hemus.

Phillies' General Manager, Roy Hamey, said it was a straight player-for-deal, part of the trade last Friday which saw Harvey Haddix, Ben Flowers and Stu Miller go to the Phillies for Murray Dickson and Herm Wehmeier.

Des Moines Council OK's Daylight Time

DES MOINES (AP)—By a 3-2 vote, the Des Moines City Council Monday adopted an ordinance which will put daylight savings time into effect here from May 20 to Sept. 23.

The controversial action will give many citizens of Des Moines a double standard of clocks because the council has authority to make daylight time effective only in municipal government operations.

The Des Moines school board indicated informally last week it would go on daylight time if the city did but has not yet acted officially.

The State Executive Council, however, voted Monday morning to keep the statehouse on regular Central Standard Time.

Railroads and inter-city bus lines will continue to operate on standard time, and federal offices in Des Moines, including the post office, are expected to remain on standard time.

Network-affiliated radio and television stations in Des Moines announced recently that it was "not possible" for them to change to daylight time.

It was not immediately clear what business and industrial establishments would do about the change.

Going on daylight time will mean moving clocks ahead one hour until Sept. 23, when clocks will be moved back one hour to regular standard time.

The Iowa Farm Bureau Federation and the Polk County Farm Bureau opposed daylight time on grounds that if stores follow the new hours, farmers would have to get into town earlier to do their shopping.

Several unions supported the time change on grounds their members would have an extra hour of daylight for recreation. Some unions, however, including Local 90 of the truck drivers, opposed the time change.

Mayor Ray Mills cast the deciding vote in favor of daylight time after new councilmen Frank McGowan and Robert Conley had voted for it and holdover councilmen Allan Denny and Charles Iles had opposed it.

Thomas Roberts, an attorney speaking for the Des Moines Committee for Standard Time, told the council Monday: "The people of Cedar Rapids, Davenport, Iowa City and Dubuque have found that daylight time will not work on a piecemeal basis." Roberts said the committee for which he spoke represented theater operators.

Farm Money Bill Passed by House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Monday passed a record appropriation for the Agriculture Department — $1,983,512,568 in cash and authority to make loans up to $359,300,000.

The appropriation for the fiscal year starting July 1 is $3,789,700 less than President Eisenhower had requested.

It was the biggest appropriation ever voted for the department; it was passed in the record time of less than two hours, and it was the first time in modern history that no member even tried to amend a farm money bill.

Passed by voice vote, the measure now goes to the Senate.

MAYOR RAY MILLS of Des Moines (left) receives from City Clerk Walter Brick a copy of the measure which will put the city on daylight savings time next Sunday. The council approved the measure by a 3-2 vote Monday. Daylight savings time will be in effect until Sept. 23.

Burglar Alarm Clangs; Somebody Breathed on It

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The opening of a new branch of the Indiana National Bank Monday showed officials they have a sensitive burglar alarm. Perhaps too sensitive. The doors had no sooner opened for business than the burglar alarm started clanging.

Police who rushed to the scene said the supersensitive alarm system might have been set off by somebody breathing too hard. Bank officials said the alarm will start sounding if someone just taps on the back of the building.

No Traffic Deaths Here For Two Straight Years

The end of April marked Iowa City's second consecutive year without a traffic fatality, Chief of Police Oliver A. White's monthly report showed Monday.

Nineteen persons were charged during the month for violation of road and driving laws, and motor vehicle laws accounted for twelve more arrests.

Seventy-four motor vehicle accidents were recorded with ten persons injured. Fifty-six accidents resulted only in property damage.

Fourteen persons were charged with intoxication, two with issuing bad checks, four with disorderly conduct, and one with aggravated assault. Only one person was charged with burglary.

The report revealed that three bicycles were stolen. Eight persons were reported missing and all were found. Two sudden deaths were recorded. One person was charged with larceny under $50 and another for the same offense over $50.

Total meter collections amounted to $8945.

Judge Evans continued the case for sentencing July 2.

The trial of Charles E. Bivens, 51, R. R. 6, was continued for sentencing until Sept. 1 after Bivens pleaded guilty to the charge. Sentencing of Ronald McNabb, 35, 823 S. Dubuque St., is scheduled for Saturday following a jury conviction on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Iowa Servicemen Ask State for More Ballots
DES MOINES (AP)—Iowans in the armed forces by far greater numbers than two years ago are requesting ballots to vote in the 1956 elections.

Up to Monday, the secretary of state's office had received 449 requests for ballots for the June 4 primary election or the Nov. 6 general election, or both. At the time of the 1954 primary, only 97 such requests had been received. The increase this year was attributed to the fact that this is a presidential election year.

Weather Better in Battered Michigan
DETROIT (AP)—Clearing weather and diminishing winds Monday easing tension in tornado-battered Michigan.

Streams in flooded areas also receded following a stormy weekend that left property damage estimated in the millions. Raked by 20 tornadoes over the weekend, Michigan was free of twisters for the first time in three days.

Six persons died in the tornadoes. More than 200 were injured. Flood and tornado damage in the Flint area alone was estimated at more than three million dollars.

High winds still buffeted the state Monday morning with gusts up to 70 miles an hour but the weather bureau reported they diminishing.

The monthly fire report filed by Fire Chief Al Dolezal showed building fires accounted for eight calls, four of these fires occurring in rolling stock.

Wakes Early; Kills Wife, Friend, Self

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (AP)—Regis C. Johnston set his alarm clock for 5:30 a.m. and settled down to sleep in his car overnight. When he awakened at dawn Monday he went into a nearby house, police said, and killed his wife, a woman friend and himself.

A fourth person was wounded critically. The blast of gunfire orphaned three Johnston children.

Officers reconstructed this story: Johnston, 35, his wife Jean, 30, and their three children, came here from Pitsa, Pa., three months ago. A month ago, she and the children left him and went to live with a friend, Mrs. Bessie Mungall, 35, and her husband, John, 40.

Johnston, apparently blaming the Mungalls for the split-up, Sunday night parked his car near their home and set his clock. On awakening he went in the house with an automatic pistol. He shot down his wife in the kitchen, killed Mrs. Mungall in the living room and wounded Mungall in a hallway.

Then he stepped out on the front lawn and fired a bullet through his head.

The Johnston's three children—Ronnie, 12, Bonnie Jean, 9, and Connie, 3—were in the house at the time but were not harmed. The Johnston's came out here, police said, while he was unemployed during the Westinghouse electrical workers' strike. The Mungalls were former friends of the Johnston's in Pennsylvania.

Temperance Man Resumes Sit-Down

DES MOINES (AP)—The Rev. Sam Morris, temperance crusader from San Antonio, Tex., resumed his "sit-down" in the office of State Insurance Commissioner O. P. Bennett Monday.

The Rev. Mr. Morris took up a post in Bennett's outer office last Wednesday after directors of the Preferred Risk Mutual Insurance Co. had voted 5-2 to oust Morris as president of the firm. Morris claims his ouster was illegal.

The Texan, widely known Baptist minister, has said he plans to keep his vigil at Bennett's office all day, every day until Bennett takes some action in the controversy between Morris and his fellow directors.

Preferred Risk sells automobile insurance only to non-drinkers. Morris claims, among other things, that some employees of the firm, are not total abstainers.

The minister and his son, Sam Morris Jr., also a director, have been conducting the "sit-down" jointly. They flew to their Texas home while state offices were closed over the weekend.

Bennett has given no indication when or whether he may act on the Morris complaint.

'17-Year Locust' May Invade Iowa—

Beware! This Is The Year for Cicadas

By BILL KNOWLES

In late May or early June this year, residents of eastern Iowa may notice a rather unorthodox insect commonly known as the 17-year locust. The last time the insects appeared in eastern Iowa was in 1939.

Periodical Cicada Due in Eastern Iowa

However, "17-year locust" is a misnomer for this black-bodied, red-legged, orange-winged, red-eyed bug. Its correct name is "periodical cicada" (that's pronounced either sub-KAY-da or sub-KAW-da).

The periodical cicada is a close relative of the common cicada, which appears every year. Common cicadas are usually referred to as harvest flies or dog-day cicadas.

Scientifically known as Magicicada septendecim, periodical cicadas have two races—one with a 17-year life cycle, the other with a 13-year span. The 17-year variety appears in parts of Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan and a few scattered areas further east. The 13-year version is found mostly in the Lower Mississippi Valley. Periodical cicadas occur nowhere else in the world.

However, this does not mean that the insect is seen only at 17-year intervals in the North and only at 13-year intervals in the South. Periodical cicadas emerge somewhere almost every year, because there are different broods that emerge in different years.

Overwhelming numbers of the bugs often arouse fear of crop damage, usually because of confusion which exists between locusts and cicadas.

The term "locust" pertains only to a certain species of grasshoppers. Migratory locusts—one of these species—ruined Egyptian crops back in Biblical days. Migratory locusts still damage crops in Egypt and elsewhere in the world.

Cicadas cause no visible feeding damage to plants or trees. The story that cicadas poison fruit by stinging is untrue, simply because cicadas cannot sting.

Some damage to trees and bushes is caused by the cicadas' egg-laying process. Females lay their eggs by the pocket punctured in the bark of a twig. This can cause severe damage and even destruction to young, transplanted trees in nurseries and orchards. There is also some damage to older trees.

Various insecticides are effective in combating any damage the females may cause. Spraying should begin when females begin laying eggs. Repeated spraying is usually necessary.

The female cicada lays from 24 to 28 eggs in each twig pocket. She continues this process until about 5 to 20 pockets have been filled with eggs. Moving from one twig to another, she usually lays between 400 and 600 eggs. The eggs hatch in six to seven weeks. After hatching, the immature insects—nymphs—fall to the ground and burrow underground until they find suitable roots from which to suck juice. Settling about 18 to 24 inches underground, the bugs thrive on root juice, for 13 or 17 years. They then emerge from their nymphal skin as adult cicadas, about 1 1/2 inches long.

A few days after they appear, the periodical cicadas begin a dawn-to-dusk drumming or singing. The insect's Drumming Division of the U.S. Department of Agriculture explains the sound this way:

"When heard from a distance, the cicada chorus is a whirring, droning monotone. But if attention is concentrated on an individual insect, several notes can be distinguished. The loudest is represented by the syllables "tsh-ee-EEEE-e-ou." It is sustained 15 to 20 seconds. The middle portion is loud and shrill.

"Other notes consist of prolonged burring, which is the basic sound of the cicada, and soft, short purrs."

The cicadas then court, mate, and reproduce. They die about five or six weeks after emerging as adults, providing they do not meet their natural enemy—birds.

The periodical cicada has been regarded with curiosity and even with superstition and fear because of its strange life cycle. Early North American Indians thought its periodic appearance had evil significance. The early colonists, when they viewed this type of cicada for the first time, thought they had been hit with a locust plague, much as were the Biblical Egyptians.

32,000 Students in 4 Years Keep SUI Study Center Busy

More than 32,000 people from every state in the union have attended conferences sponsored by the Iowa Center for Continuation Study since its founding in September, 1952.

The number of conferences held at the center has increased from 83 in 1952-1953 to 139 in 1954-1955—with the number of conferences this year expected to reach an all time high.

The conference schedule for the 1956-1957 school year has already been partially filled.

Located at the intersection of Park Road and Riverside Drive the Center is housed in the recently constructed Parklawn apartments building.

The center arranges conferences for study about all types of occupations held by working adults.

Prior to 1952 small groups met on the SUI campus to discuss problems and trends in their work. But they had no central building where they could stay while in Iowa City.

These people in the professions, trades, services, educational institutions and industries wanted a place close to SUI where they could draw upon the educational resources of the university. They wanted to broaden their outlook on world problems, discuss problems of their work and learn about advancements in their work.

In answer to these people, a committee was appointed in 1952 by SUI President Virgil M. Hancher to create such a place. The committee devised the Iowa Center for Continuation Study to meet this demand.

The first session was held in the then vacant Law Commons. The center was moved to the new Parklawn apartments location when construction was completed in the fall of 1955.

Originally the entire Parklawn building was to be used for SUI student housing. At present the center occupies the north half of the building—the south half is used by the married students.

The center tries to hold conferences during the school year, but due to the heavy demand some summer conferences have been held.

Some of the conferences run for

William D. Coder Heads Busy Center

Coder's main office is located in the SUI Extension Division, East Hall.

Coder was formerly director of the SUI Veteran's Service.

Parklawn, a modern, attractive building which cost an estimated $50,000, can accommodate 64 conference attendants in one or two bedroom apartments.

Three areas have been reserved for lounging and relaxation, with chairs and sofas arranged to provide a restful atmosphere.

Three meeting rooms which can accommodate 195 persons are located in the building. The building has one breakfast room but lacks facilities for preparation of other meals.

Except for this and the fact that conference meetings are held in other SUI buildings where the center has a heavy schedule, the center is virtually a self-contained unit.

The ultimate goal of the center, however, is to have a separate building where Iowans and non-Iowans can attend a conference and live, relax and talk in their own groups while drawing upon the educational resources of the university.

The conferences at times have been held at various buildings on the SUI campus because of limited facilities.

Coder arranges the conferences with interested people who want to meet to discuss problems and to learn new information in their fields.

They are open to anyone wishing to attend. A registration fee is charged, with the amount varying according to the type of conference held.

Speakers are chosen by the committees holding the conference. The staff of the center consists of a secretary and a clerk, who work under the direction of Coder.

Be It Ever So Humble There's No Place Like . . .

THE DESIGN SHOW at the Art building gives the viewer some insight of what to expect in homes of the near and not-so-near future. On exhibit along the wall in the solarium are samples of architects' plans for houses, and a not-like structure which is a schematic representation of a futuristic home. Also displayed along the walls are jacket designs for books and record albums and illustrations for stories. The show began May 1 and will continue through May 31.

1,355 Join SUI's New Dad's Club

Membership in the SUI Dad's Association recently passed the thousand mark and has now reached 1,355 according to M. L. Huit, counselor to men and secretary of the organization.

Formed last November to further "the mutual interests of the University of Iowa and the parents of its students and to cooperate with the students and faculty," the organization now lists members from 96 Iowa counties, 36 states, Hawaii, Canada, England and Lebanon, Huit says.

Twenty-four Iowa counties are now represented by county chairmen in the organization. E. A. McCordell of Newton is the temporary president of the association, and will serve in this capacity until the association's general election at Dad's Day next fall.

Following an advisory committee meeting held Saturday at the University, McCordell named five members to a committee to formulate plans for the Dad's Day program next Oct. 13. Clark Caldwell of Iowa City was named chairman of the committee. He will be assisted by J. D. Cox, Newton; W. W. Brubaker, Davenport; James Jordan, SUI director of university relations, and Huit.

Huit also says that the first issue of "The SUI Dad," a newsletter published bi-monthly for members of the Dad's Association, has been mailed to all members.

City Theater To Discuss Play

Committee reports will be heard for the production, "The Haunting Time," by Samuel Taylor at a general meeting of the Iowa City Community Theater Association, at 7:30 tonight in the City Council chambers.

The interim board of directors of the group will meet after the general meeting. The association plans to produce the 3-act play June 6-7.

STRIKE HEARING

DES MOINES — A formal hearing to seek a solution of the three-month-old John Deere Des Moines Works strike will begin at 10 a.m. Wednesday in a Des Moines Municipal courtroom.

SUI Young Democrat Named State Secretary

Samuel L. Pesses, 33, Bettendorf, has been named executive secretary of the Iowa Young Democrats. Pesses was appointed by Sherwin Markman, state president, from a list of two SUI members submitted by Paul Carlslen, G. president of the SUI Young Democrats.

Samuel L. Pesses Iowa Young Demos Secretary

As executive secretary, Pesses will attend all meetings of the state executive council, and have a vote on all matters which come before the group. He will also receive all membership lists from the groups sending delegates to the Democrats state convention.

Carlslen objected to the list submitted by Linn County at the last convention held in Des Moines on May 5.

Pesses said that he will try to get some of the executive council meetings held in Iowa City to promote party harmony. He stated that they might be held on an SUI football weekend so that executive council members could combine business with pleasure.

As a member of the state governing body, Pesses said that he will work to promote organization of campus groups throughout the state.

Expect Ike, Kefauver To Win in Nebraska

OMAHA — Nebraska voters, in numbers that may set a modern peacetime low, will mark lots Tuesday in a primary election expected to provide default presidential preference victories for Dwight D. Eisenhower and Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.).

Secretary of State Frank Marshall predicted a turnout of 250,000. Not since 1928 — except for the war year of 1944 — has a primary vote total in a presidential year dropped below the quarter million mark in the state.

Party leaders, noting the absence of campaign fireworks and a dearth of major attention-grabbing contests, have concurred in predicting a light vote. President Eisenhower is unopposed, on the Republican presidential preference ballot, as is Sen. Kefauver on the Democratic ticket.

Expect Reading on Coralville Zoning

First reading of a zoning ordinance dividing Coralville into five districts with restrictions on construction and use of property is expected at the Coralville Town Council meeting at 7:30 tonight in the Town Hall.

No opposition to the ordinance proposed by Councilman William G. Nusser was voiced at a public hearing held May 7.

Boy, 15, Kills Mother With a Butcher Knife

CHICAGO — Police Monday night quoted a 15-year-old boy as saying he fatally stabbed his mother because he assumed she wouldn't let him use the family car to leave home.

The body of Mrs. Johnnie Louise McKiernan, 39, was found by her husband late Monday on the kitchen floor with a 6-inch butcher knife thrust in her chest.

15 Exposed to Radiation Doses

WASHINGTON — The Atomic Energy Commission said at least 15 persons were accidentally exposed to "small doses" of gamma radiation at Ft. Belvoir, Va., Monday, but that the amount was "not serious."

They were workmen and others engaged on construction of an Army package power reactor. On hand in that connection was a radioactive bit of iridium, used in X-raying welds to make sure they were absolutely perfect.

An AEC statement said this "industrial iridium source . . . was removed from its shielded container and contrary to standard practice left unshielded for about three hours."

The statement added: "The amount of radiation to which the men were exposed was considerably lower than any which could result in an observable clinical effect. As a precautionary measure, all persons exposed were given a physical examination at Ft. Belvoir."

GOP Voters To Nominate Delegates

Delegates to the Johnson County GOP convention will be nominated in precinct caucuses to be held Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The First, Fourth and Fifth ward precinct caucuses will meet in the county courthouse, while Second and Third ward Republicans will gather in the city hall. Caucuses for the rest of the county will be held in the place designated by the precinct committeemen. The regular polling place is usually used.

The names of delegates nominated Wednesday will appear on stickers to be placed in the voting booths for the June 4 primary. The voter then can indicate his preference for delegates by placing the sticker on his ballot or writing the names of the candidates he prefers.

Delegates thus elected will attend the county convention June 29. The county convention will select delegates to represent Johnson County at the state convention in Des Moines July 20 and the judicial convention July 27.

The state convention will formulate the state platform for the Republican party and fill any vacancies that appear in the GOP state ticket.

Selection of GOP nominees for the Iowa Supreme Court will be the primary function of the judicial convention.

Delegates to the state GOP presidential convention held April 6 were elected at the county presidential convention March 16. The state presidential convention named delegates to the national convention in San Francisco.

The Democrats combine their regular and presidential conventions. Johnson County delegates to the Democratic state convention June 1 were selected at their convention on April 6.

Car Output 2.5 Million; Sales Lagging

DETROIT — Passenger car production for 1956 passed the 2½ million unit mark Monday.

The showing was gratifying to the industry generally but for the continuing lag in new car sales at the retail level. Weekly production is at approximately the lowest level of the year to date but dealer stocks continue to increase.

Despite production cutbacks by nearly every car maker during April, retail inventories May 1 moved back up to 902,270 units, according to Automotive News' monthly survey. This was only 1,519 units below the record high reached March 1, and up 3,000 units from the April 1 total.

The auto makers, who built 575,500 cars in March, cut back to 547,600 in April. This was at a season of the year when new car buying should have been surging upward. The extent of the sales lag, of course, is emphasized by the fact inventories moved up instead of down under the contra-seasonal production cutbacks in April.

When General Motors closed all its assembly plants last Friday it marked the first time in the post-war period that all GM assembly units had been closed at once on a normal working day, excepting by strikes. General Motors said the closings were designed to balance production with demand. Some of the plants were opened Monday.

Industrywide production through last week brought the 1956 total to 2,493,555 cars, compared with 3,239,124 in the comparable 1955 period.

Premier Says Egypt May Get More Arms

CAIRO — Egypt's Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser told a group of front line officers Monday that "if the West gives more arms to Israel we will get more arms for ourselves."

Egypt last year obtained arms made in Red-ruled Czechoslovakia in shiploads through Soviet Black Sea ports. Israel recently has obtained Mysters jet fighter planes from France.

Nasser made the speech "somewhere on the eastern front," Cairo radio said.

Supreme Court Won't Review Seditious Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court, in the face of widespread protest, refused Monday to reconsider its April 2 decision knocking out enforcement of state sedition laws.

In refusing to do this, the court put it up to Congress whether states, as well as the federal government, are to have the power to prosecute for sedition.

Dividing 6-3 the court held last month that state sedition laws have been superseded by the 1940 Smith Act and subsequent federal laws.

This brought cries of federal "encroachment" from some state attorneys general along with demands for legislation "to preserve states' rights."

Various petitions for reconsideration of the Supreme Court decision contained Congress never intended to give the federal government sole jurisdiction to prosecute for sedition.

The April 2 decision threw out the conviction of Communist leader Steven Nelson under Pennsylvania's sedition law. Nelson also was convicted under the Smith Act. His appeal in that case is pending before the Supreme Court.

Forty-two states have some form of laws against sedition. So have Alaska, Hawaii and Guam.

The court Monday also: 1. Declined to rule on a University of Alabama challenge of an order requiring it to admit Autherine J. Lucy and other qualified Negroes as students. The university contended U.S. Dist. Judge H. H. Grooms of Birmingham lacked authority to issue the order. The university argued that federal law requires setting up of a special three-judge court to act in such cases.

2. Refused to consider a request by four Maryland farmers that agriculture agents seeking to determine the acreage they planted to wheat be barred from their farms. Lower federal courts ordered the farmers to permit inspection of their wheat fields on the ground it was a necessary part of the federal crop control program. Agents who attempted to measure the acreage in May, 1951 were ordered away under threat of bodily harm.

Pope OK's Transplants Of Eyes from the Dead

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII Monday approved transplant of corneas from dead to living eyes, but warned this should be done with prudence and care.

He did not speak on the transfer of these lenses from living persons, but indicated he might do so later.

Most Veterans Approve—Local Reactions Vary on Korean Bonus

By CAROL McCAULEY

Iowa City reactions vary to a proposed $26 million bond issue for a bonus for Iowa Korean war veterans.

Most veterans told reporters that they would vote for the bond issue. One said, "Although the bonus would raise Iowa taxes, I don't think that fact should defeat the issue."

"While we were in the service we paid taxes and didn't get any benefits. Now we should get a bonus."

One veteran, however, frankly admitted that he had "mixed emotions." "I'd like to get the money but I don't think it's really necessary."

Several veterans definitely opposed the payments. One said that he felt those who served overseas deserve the money, but those who stayed in this country do not.

Switch Ruling In $90,000 Damage Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court last fall ruled that the New Haven Railroad must pay $90,000 to an injured brakeman. Monday the court reversed the decision and sent the case back to a lower court.

"Oh my God," said brakeman Raymond G. Cahill, 24, at his New Haven, Conn., home. "You mean they're going to take it away?"

The railroad already had paid Cahill the money on the basis of the first decision and he has spent a good part of it.

Monday's reversal was a 5-4 decision. Last fall's decision also was 5-4.

The minority of four in the new decision filed a harsh protest against reopening the case and sending it back to a lower court.

"There should be a finality somewhere," the minority opinion said. "Asked if he had spent much of his damage award, Cahill said: 'I'll be honest with you. I have three children, and I bought a piece of property and I'm building a nominally-priced house on it, about $12,000.'

"I paid all my bills, about $20,000, and I bought a Ford station wagon. I haven't even bought a suit of clothes for myself."

In the background, over the telephone, a woman started to sob. "That's my wife," said Cahill. "I'll have to hang up now. . . I've been disappointed so many times, one of us has kind of got to keep from going to pieces."

Cahill was injured by a truck that started up suddenly while the brakeman was flagging traffic behind a stalled train in New Haven. He contended he was told to work in a dangerous place without being warned.

A U.S. District Court jury granted the $90,000 damages. A Circuit Court reversed it. Last Nov. 21 the Supreme Court upheld the award and the railroad paid it to Cahill.

But in March the railroad asked that the case be sent back to the Circuit Court for consideration of one more point—whether the trial judge properly admitted evidence of previous accidents at the spot where Cahill was injured.

Heights Bans Loose Dogs

An ordinance banning dogs from running loose in University Heights was passed in a special session of the Town Council Monday night.

The ordinance provides for the impounding of any dog found at large by the Town Marshal and return of the dog to the owner upon payment of $2 impounding costs. After five days, if unclaimed, dogs will be disposed of by an authorized agency.

First offense carries no penalty. Further violations, upon conviction in mayor's or justice of peace court, carry a fine not exceeding $100.

To prepare for the enforcement of the dog ordinance, the council approved the establishment of a mayor's court for University Heights. Mayor Russell Ross staffed his approval of such a court. It was pointed out that justice of peace court could still be used if the mayor was not available.

The council authorized the construction of an oval-shaped traffic island at the intersection of Golfview and Melrose avenues with a 12-foot-wide one-way street allowing for a right turn from Golfview Avenue onto Melrose Avenue.

Engineer Robert Wheeler was instructed to set specifications for the project together with the widening, resurfacing and culvert extension of the north side of Melrose Avenue to the town limits.

To Present Junior High Report Soon

The architect's report on the new junior high school building and the rehabilitation of the present junior high school building will be presented to the Iowa City Board of Education in about six weeks.

Harold Stewart, representative of the L. C. Kingscott & Associates architectural firm, Davenport, discussed plans for the two buildings with board members Monday night at a special board meeting.

Stewart said detailed planning has been impossible because the school curriculum plan had not been completed. The curriculum plan, enabling the architects to proceed with building plans, was outlined at the meeting by Sterling Goplerud, Junior High School principal.

Goplerud explained that the greatest change in curriculum will occur in eighth grade where there will be emphasis on the language arts. English courses for all three grades, seventh, eighth and ninth, will undergo a complete study during the 1956-1957 school year and a definite recommendation will be made as a result of this study.

Based on an enrollment of 750 students, the new junior high building will need approximately 46 rooms. The site of the proposed building, southeast of the city, is bounded by Highway 6, the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway, First Street and an extension of I Street.

The present Junior High building will undergo complete rehabilitation.

owner will be allowed to reclaim the dog after payment of any license fees, if necessary.

The ordinance also provides for control of rabies and other communicable diseases by requiring all dogs suspected of having a disease to be impounded and tested for not less than 14 days and, if infected, destroyed or disposed of by the city health officer.

All doctors, veterinarians and dog owners must report dog bites or cases of rabid animals known to them, the ordinance states.

Releasing a dog from the owner's premises or molesting a dog on the owner's premises is also made unlawful by the new law.

Violators of any sections of the ordinance will be subject to a fine of not more than $100 or a term of not more than 30 days in jail.

Council OK's New Addition To Cemetery

An ordinance providing for the establishment of a park-type addition to Oakland Cemetery was passed by the Iowa City council Monday.

The new plot, to be known as Glenview Addition, will be plotted the same as Oakland. The sexton of Oakland will be empowered to sell lots in the tract at a price set by the council.

The placing of markers, flowers and flower receptacles will be under city regulations.

In other action, the council passed a sewer ordinance providing for the charging of fees for the right to tap and use the new sanitary sewer facilities.

The ordinance also allows the council to divide or pro rate the cost of sewer facilities among the property owners benefitted.

The council also voted to advise SUI that the city will not act on the University's request to remove restrictions on three vacated streets deemed to SUI for use as playground and recreation areas.

Fix Permit Fees

An ordinance providing for the fixing of fees for building permits was passed Monday night by the city council and will go into effect immediately after publication.

City Manager Peter F. Roan said that the 31 applications for building permits now on record will be issued at the old rate of $1 for residential building permits and $2 for business permits. Future permits will come under the sliding scale of fees set up by the new ordinance.

The measure, part of a model building code set up by the Pacific Coast Builder's Association, met with strong opposition when first proposed in April.

The city's original plan was to propose the entire model code to the council, but since the code requires fire zones, it was decided at the last council meeting to begin action only on the building fee section.

Monday, the entire code was given the first of three required readings and a public hearing was set to hear objections to its adoption.

Bids Accepted

The city council Monday night accepted bids and ordered construction to begin on a city service building to house and service city equipment.

A bid of $26,320 by the Burger Construction Company was accepted for general work. Four other bids had been submitted. The council accepted bids of $1,350 from the Ganey Electrical Company of Wellman for electrical work and a bid of $4,486 for plumbing and heating submitted by Allen Mulford.

Plans for the new building estimated the cost at $35,000. The building will be located between Highway 218 and the Iowa River on the present city dump.
