Housewife Earns Cambridge Degree In International Law

Mrs. Robert J. Joynt of 304 Stadium Park has completed requirements needed to earn a diploma in the field of international law from Cambridge University (England).

Mrs. Joynt studied at Cambridge for a year in 1953 and 1954 while her husband, Dr. Robert J. Joynt, resident in neurology at the SUI University Hospital, was studying there on a Fulbright scholarship.

She finished her course work needed for the degree in a year, and after returning to her home in Iowa City wrote a thesis to complete requirements. Her thesis entitled "The Nationality of Married Women" presents the problems in citizenship which may result when a woman from one country marries a man from another.

While at Cambridge, Mrs. Joynt studied under Judge Lauterpacht who is now a judge in the International Court of Justice at the Hague. "I felt that it was a great opportunity for me to study there," she said, "as they are so much more internationally minded in England than they are here, and because it is such an excellent school."

Dr. and Mrs. Joynt have two children, Robert, who was born in England, and Patricia.

Yankees By 9-6—5 Unearned Runs; Porterfield Stars—

Yanks Top Nats; Bosox Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Washington's Senators kicked in with some weird baseball in the sixth inning Thursday, and the New York Yankees tallied five unearned runs to register a 9-6 victory and increase their first-place lead in the American League to 6½ games.

Each club used three pitchers, as the hits rattled into all corners of Yankee Stadium. But a couple of Washington errors in the sixth when the score was deadlocked at four-all, plus three hits, gave New York the runs it needed to pull further away from Chicago and Cleveland. Both were idle Thursday, and are tied for second place.

Bill Skowron's single through Lyle Luttrell at short started the Yankees off in the big sixth and, after Elston Howard walked, starter Chuck Stobbs was relieved by Bob Chakales.

Then the fireworks began. Joe Collins batted for Bob Cerv and fouled to Roy Sievers, near the Yankee dugout. Skowron tried for third and when Eddie Yost dropped Sievers' throw for an error, Yanks were perched on second and third.

Andy Carey grounded to Pete Runnels at second, whose throw home was too late to get Skowron. Howard, who took third, then was hung up between third and home when Don Larsen grounded to Yost. But Luttrell's throw hit him in the back, and Howard and Carey both romped home when the ball rolled away. Larsen moved to third.

Hank Bauer hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Larsen. Then Billy Martin singled, took second on a wild pitch, and came home on Gil McDougald's single, his third.

Scot Knocks Conrad From British Meet

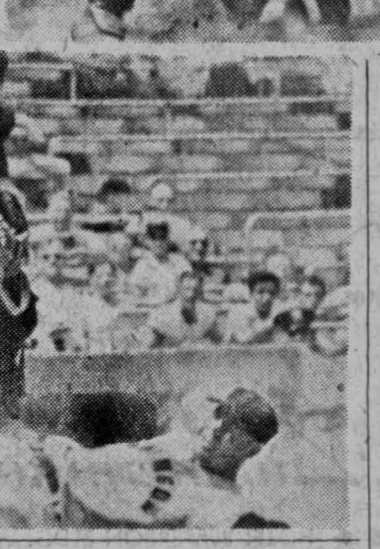

TRON, Scotland (AP)—A cool Scot champion and a cold Scotch mist blew defending champion Joe Conrad out of the British Amateur Golf Championship Thursday, leaving the tournament without an American semifinalist for the first time since World War II.

Reid Jack, whose greatest previous golfing achievement had been winning the Scottish amateur title last year, defeated Conrad, 1-up, in an up-and-down 36-hole quarterfinal match.

Friday it will be Jack against John Beharrell, an 18-year-old English schoolboy, and George Henderson, a Scottish civil servant, against Leslie Taylor, Glasgow insurance man, in the 36-hole semifinals. Thus Scotland is assured of its first finalist since 1939.

Babe Hawthorne On All-Big 10 Club

CHICAGO (AP)—Iowa outfielder Les (Babe) Hawthorne Thursday was named to the first team All-Big 10 baseball team by conference coaches.

The Saybrook, Ill. senior was fifth in the conference in batting with an even .400 average. Big 10 figures also showed that Don Dobrino, Hawkeye pitcher, led the conference in strikeouts with 41.

GOPHER BALLS CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Rush, Chicago Cubs right-hander, leads the major leagues in home runs given up this season with 10. His record now is only 2-2.

Smith Sets 440 Record In AAU Meet

Hawkeye middle-distance ace Caesar Smith won two first places in the senior division — one of them in record time — in the Iowa AAU track meet here Wednesday.

The Des Moines sophomore clipped off a 48.1 second quarter, lopping a second and a half off the meet record. His time was also better than that of Gastonia Finch, his Iowa teammate, who set the long course record earlier this year.

Smith was one of five Hawkeye track performers who competed unattached and took first places. The others were: Tom Burrows, first in the 100-yard dash; Don Peterson, winner of the 120 yard high hurdles; Jack Mathews, first place finisher in the 220 yard low hurdles, and Paul Kitch, winner in the high jump.

In the junior division, six trackmen from Iowa City High school placed. Loras McGuire took fourth in the 880-yard run, Ken Clatterbaugh was third in the 100-yard dash, Les Nicola finished third in 120-yard high hurdles, Bill Housel took second in the shot put, Gary Miller was fourth in the pole vault, and Gene Galsgow finished third in the high jump.

$282,050 Speedway Total Also High—

Flaherty Takes Home Record $93,819 Purse

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Pat Flaherty, the Chicago Irishman who won the 40th 500-mile auto race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, picked up a record $93,819 Thursday night from a total purse of $282,050 which also was the biggest payoff since the first race in 1911.

The previous records were the late Bill Vukovich's winning total of $89,496.96 in 1953 and the record purse of $270,050 last year.

Here's what the red-haired Chicagoan won in Wednesday's race: Speedway prize, $49,000. Entry fee prize, $894. Prize as fastest qualifier, $1,500. Lap prizes ($150 for each lap led), $19,050.

Prizes from automotive accessory firms, whose tires, fuel, shock absorbers, etc., he used, totaled $23,375.

In addition to the $93,819, Pat won the DeSoto pace car, a room full of special cups and other trophies, a $1,000 wardrobe, a year's meal ticket, arc welders, tools, assorted plaques and diamond studded rings, and athletic goods.

Actually, the car, owned by John Zink of Tulsa, Okla., does the winning, and apart from the pace car and the special trophies, what Flaherty actually gets is a private matter between him and the car owner. The driver's usual take is around 40 per cent.

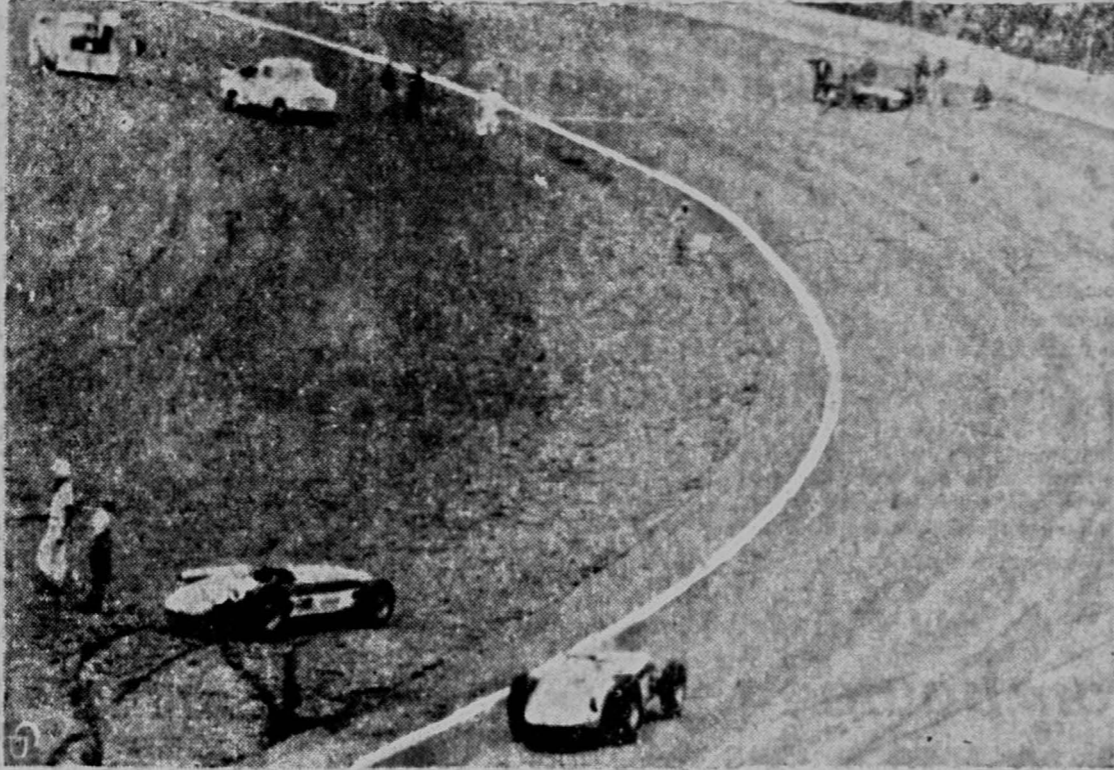

Winning of the first 10 other cars in the race:

2. Sam Hanks, Pacific Palisades, Calif., $32,919.
3. Don Freeland, Los Angeles, $20,419.
4. Johnnie Parsons, Van Nuys, Calif., $15,769.
5. Dick Rathmann, Trenton, N.J., $10,744.
6. Bob Sweikert, Indianapolis, $7,594.
7. Bob Veith, Oakland, Calif., $7,494. Veith total included $500 as "rookie of the year" and a year's supply of meat from an Indianapolis packer.
8. Rodger Ward, Los Angeles, $6,294.
9. Jimmy Reece, Oklahoma City, $6,044.
10. Cliff Griffith, Indianapolis, $6,194.
11. Gene Hartley, Indianapolis, $3,714.

Cold Will Delay Waterfowl Life

WASHINGTON (AP) — The generally cold spring means waterfowl hatching in northern areas will be delayed this year two to four weeks later than normal, the Fish and Wildlife Service reported Thursday.

The service said field men reported that unusually late blizzard conditions during March and April not only stopped the northward flight of ducks but in some instances forced them to head southward again.

It added that because of the lateness of the nesting the conditions on the breeding grounds in the next few months will be highly important to successful production.

Experts Investigate Speedway Blowouts

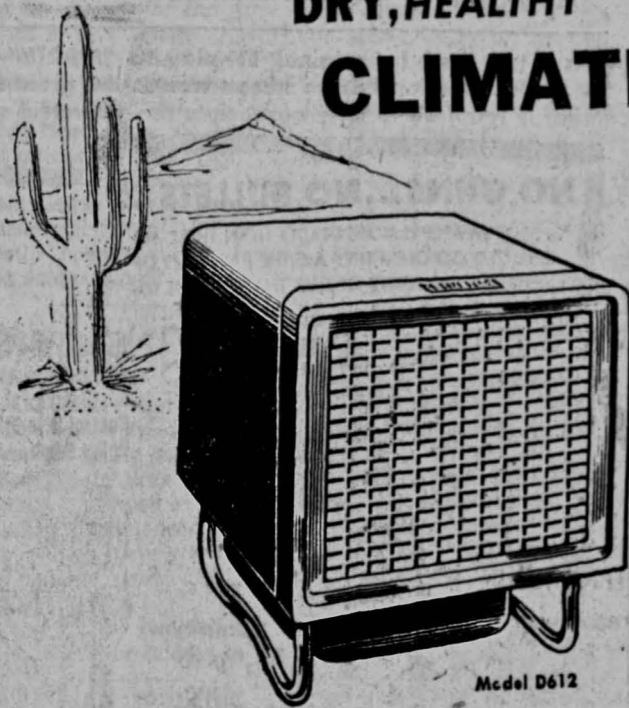

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Experts Thursday were collecting fragments of tires and wheels at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway in an effort to determine what caused tire failures blamed for five of six wrecks in Wednesday's 500-mile race.

Drivers who thought their wrecks or spins started with tires flying apart included Al Herman of Center Valley, Pa., who hit the concrete retaining walls three times on the main straightaway; Paul Russo, Canoga Park, Calif., who smashed into the southwest wall while leading the race, and Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., who also hit the southwest wall.

Others included Jimmy Daywalt of Indianapolis, injured in a crash on the southwest turn, and Dick Rathmann, Trenton, N.J., who wrecked after crossing the finish line in fifth place.

William McCarary, manager of the Firestone Racing Division, said the investigation will include effects of the new asphalt track surface at high temperature, the possibility of flange failure on rims, and whether some tires might have been damaged by pieces of metal dropped by wrecked cars.

Accuse California U. Grid System of Phony 'Jobs'

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The University of California coaching staff was accused Thursday of participating in a "phony job racket" for football players, the latest claim in expanding athletic scandals of the Pacific Coast Conference.

J. Miller Leavy, UCLA alumnus who leveled proselyting charges against the University of Southern California last week, hurled similar accusations at Coach Lynn O. (Pappy) Waldorf and his lieutenants at the Berkeley school.

The claims followed drastic conference penalties against UCLA for "under-the-table" payments to athletes.

bled in the past by over-zealous businessmen providing jobs with pay but little work. However, a statement from Chancellor Clark Kerr and Athletic Director Gregory Engelhard said steps were taken three years ago to correct this.

Waldorf said he was not aware of any phony jobs for California athletes.

None of the athletes was identified by name by Leavy, who is a Los Angeles County deputy district attorney.

He charged the Golden Bear football players received a minimum of $50 a month for virtually non-existent off-campus jobs. This, he said, was in addition to the $75 per month allowed by the conference for campus work.

SUI Institute Does Big Research Job

By JOHN BLEAKLY

The Institute of Public Affairs, located north of the Iowa Memorial Union in two temporary barracks, may not be familiar to many SUI students, but it is a frequent recourse to Iowa state and local government officials when they ask the question: What are the facts?

Founded in October, 1949 at the recommendation of SUI President Virgil M. Hancher, the Institute has produced volumes of information of use to the Iowa legislature, municipal governments and the people of Iowa in general.

Director of the Institute is Prof. Robert Ray, a former member of ex-Governor Thomas Dewey's research staff in New York. Ray is a graduate of Coe College and holds a Doctor of Philosophy degree from SUI.

Research is the main job of the Institute. Prof. Dean Zenor is head of the Institute's research division. He is assisted by George B. Mather, administrative assistant and editor of research publications.

On June 15, Prof. Robert L. Stoyles, a 1954 graduate of the SUI College of Law, will join the staff as research specialist, replacing Prof. Clayton L. Ringgenberg. Stoyles has been associated with the University of Chicago law school.

The Institute operates an internship program in which graduate students from political science, law, commerce and other departments devote some of their time to the research work of the Institute.

Research is often undertaken at the request of a state legislator who may require the information in his committee work. A report was compiled, for example, on the subject of state sales tax for a legislator who was interested in the possible need for more state revenue. Such reports contain no recommendations—only the facts.

Reports have also been issued on such subjects as highway finance, reapportionment, and the laws of various states concerning contributions to charitable organizations.

The job of research is not a quick or an easy one. The Institute recently issued a 64-page booklet entitled "Voting in Iowa" in which the election laws and procedures of the state are explained. The booklet, which is intended for use in Iowa high schools, was written by George Mather from a 1952 request by the Iowa Secretary of State Melvin Synhorst for information to answer the questions he had been receiving about Iowa's voting laws.

A book on fire prevention, which has been several years in preparation, is due for release by the Institute in late June.

One of the Institute's biggest undertakings in the field of municipal government was "Iowa Model Ordinances," a volume for use by cities and towns in adopting the best ordinances for the community's conditions. Much help was obtained from the SUI College of Law on this project.

Other publications for use by municipalities are: "Refuse Collection and Disposal for Iowa Communities," "A Handbook for Iowa Mayors," "New Iowa Laws Affecting Local Government" and "License and Permit Fees in Iowa Cities."

A second branch of the Institute involves training as well as research. The Bureau of Police Science, headed by Prof. Richard L. Holcomb, recently conducted a two-week training school for Iowa law enforcement officers at SUI.

The school, held May 7 through 19, included such subjects as arrest tactics, direction of traffic, criminal law and public relations. Publications issued by the Bureau of Police Science deal with "Armed Robbery," "Police Patrol," and "Protection Against Burglary."

Perhaps the department of the Institute most familiar to SUI students is the Iowa Citizenship Clearing House, since its purpose is to promote the interest of Iowa college students in politics.

The Clearing House, under the direction of Prof. Ray, receives financial backing from the National Citizenship Clearing House at New York University. In April the Clearing House sponsored a Political Workshop for Iowa college students at SUI in which state and national leaders of both parties discussed and debated politics before representatives of over 20 Iowa colleges and universities.

Together with the Republican and Democratic parties and Iowa Representative Fred Schwengel of Davenport, the Clearing House conducts the "Week in Washington" program which enables students from various Iowa colleges and universities to visit the nation's capitol and observe the national government in operation first-hand.

Although the Institute does intensive work toward increasing the interest of Iowa college students in politics through the operation of the Clearing House, its primary function remains that of research—the only process by which the question: What are the facts? can accurately be answered.

Three Police Maps Index Local Crimes

By DAVE MITCHELL

Three detailed maps of Iowa City provide the Iowa City Police Department with an accurate index of all Iowa City crimes, traffic violations and traffic accidents.

The maps, hung on the east wall of the station, are used by police to show the exact location of every crime, motor law violation or accident that has occurred in Iowa City during the past year.

The largest map, used to spot all crimes, is maintained by Lt. Detective Harland Sprinkle and Sgt. Emmett Evans. The accident and traffic violation maps are kept by Sgt. Fred Lewis.

The maps indicate the offenses by straight pins with different colored heads for each crime committed. A pin with the color designating that crime is stuck into the map at the exact location of the crime.

The crime map is primarily used to show the location of a series of crimes and to show a possible pattern of crime indicating that the offender is working a particular area with a certain method and purpose.

"If, for instance, a group of brown pins (showing auto thefts) are clustered in an area such as the University parking lots, we can place officers in these areas to await further attempts," Sprinkle said.

Types of crimes shown by the

pins on the crime spot map include car prowlings, vandalism, larceny, breaking and entering, auto thefts, molestations, attacks, indecent exposure and prowlers and suspicious persons.

A second map, the moving violations map, also has different colored pins to show offenses including speeding, stop sign violations, failure to stop for red lights, reckless driving, illegal passing, intoxication on a public highway, operating a motor vehicle without a license, operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, and defective equipment.

This map shows officers where additional enforcement of motor vehicle laws is needed, where engineering problems are hampering the effectiveness of laws and where technical problems such as street lights are cropping up.

As an example, Chief Oliver A. White said, "Suppose several yellow low pins (designating stop sign violations) were clustered at one intersection. On investigation, we might find that a bush had grown up and obscured the stop sign and we could then correct the situation."

"The three 'E's' of traffic are education, engineering and enforcement," White said. With the aid of the spot map, "we can decide which of these three 'E's' provides a solution for the problem," he said.

The third map is an accident spot map which shows property damage, personal injury and death in Iowa City.

This map is used in the same way as the other two except that it primarily indicates where the dangerous traffic areas are and gives officers a clue to possible remedies.

"One value of the maps is that they present a concrete picture of the problem to the officers and keep it in their minds," White said.

The complaint forms turned in to police by citizens are the basis for the pinpointing of crime, traffic offenses, and accidents, Sprinkle said.

"We need the co-operation of the public to make these maps effective in helping us run down offenses," Sprinkle said. "People should turn in all complaints whether it be a stolen car mirror or a molestation. Only then can we effectively put a stop to further offenses."

Sprinkle emphasized that police will keep all complaints confidential at the request of the complainant.

Another reason for turning in complaints is that often the police receive stolen goods and have no way to locate the owners of the goods because the persons have not reported the thefts, Sprinkle said.

Illustrating recent uses of the crime spot map, Sprinkle said that a cluster of six red pins (showing breaking and entering attempts) in an area of Iowa City led to the apprehension of a boy who, when confronted with the map, admitted the break-ins.

"The student parking areas are excellent places for car prowlers," Sprinkle said. "Students have their minds on their studies and other things and leave everything in their cars."

Sprinkle said that the past year has been a good year for the police because only about four instances of breaking and entering and vandalism are unsolved. Police are still working on the two recent break-ins at the Sanitary Farm Dairy and the attempt to enter three offices in the Morrison Building in Iowa City.

The crime spot map helped to apprehend the vandals who broke into East Hall and slit several fire hoses and also the youth who admitted vandalizing the St. Mary's Church recently, Sprinkle said.
