Attic Blaze

IOWA CITY FIREMEN, Bob Hines, left, and captain Gilbert Capps, pour water into the attic of the Gabrielle Brucini home, 124 Ferson Ave., Monday when fire from an undetermined origin broke out in the attic. Mrs. Brucini, her 6-month-old daughter, and 14-year-old brother escaped from the house unharmed. They were in the kitchen when the fire broke out. Firemen said extensive smoke and water damage was done to the attic and the living room on the first floor.

Council Files Plans For U.S. 6 By-Pass

Final plans for a portion of the proposed Highway 6 by-pass south and east of Iowa City were filed Friday with the city by the state highway commission.

The plans are for the western-most 1,967 feet of the eight and one-half mile long project. Because this western part of the highway relocation passes through the city, council approval of the plans will be necessary.

Efforts to reach an agreement on obtaining the right of way for the highway improvement continue. Difficulties in acquiring necessary right-of-way for the project have caused delays in the opening of bids on the job, originally scheduled for May 1.

Highway commission officials report bids will be opened as soon as possible if right of way is lined up, but gave no definite date.

Right-of-way buyers are scheduled to resume work in the Iowa City area this week.

The western section of the project, for which plans were filed Friday, involves the bridge over the Iowa River and extends from the junction of Highways 1 and 218 in the southwest part of the city to a point about 500 feet west of South Linn Street extended. This is called division I.

It is at this point that the proposed highway passes out of the city.

Division II of the project is the remainder of the four-lane stretch extending along the south edge of the city to the Procter and Gamble drug products plant. The rest of the proposed new route will be a two-lane highway, following in general the route of Lower Muscatine Road to the Scott Church corner where it will line with the present Highway 6.

The division of the project into sections is necessary, explained F. C. Schneider, design engineer, because of the source of the funds. The parts of the proposed highway in and alongside the city will be financed in part from federal urban highway funds.

Schneider said plans for the by-pass have been completed and await only the acquisition of right-of-way.

The principal difficulty in obtaining right-of-way was over the four-lane stretch of the highway—south of Iowa City. Members of the commission have called prices sought "way out of line."

An appraisal of the land was directed by the commission. This appraisal has been made, said E. V. John, chief right-of-way engineer, and right-of-way buyers are using it in the negotiations with owners of the land sought.

Noted Sax Player Dies in Hospital

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Frank Trumbauer, 55, once considered one of jazzdom's outstanding saxophonists, collapsed and died inside a hospital door Monday night.

Trumbauer became ill en route home from work and had gone to St. Mary's Hospital for relief.

Trumbauer achieved fame during nine years with the Paul Whiteman orchestra, which he joined in 1927.

Eisenhower Walks 80 Feet; Doctors Approve Progress

Hancher Says Government Behind Times

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Government, which originally came into being for the promotion of peace and justice and the general welfare, must remain true to these ideals if it is to survive, SUI President Virgil M. Hancher said here today.

Speaking at Michigan State University's annual spring commencement exercises where he was awarded an honorary L.L.D. degree, President Hancher warned the graduates that government at any level must never "become the means by which one class or group gains or entrenches itself at the expense of others."

"At this point we stand in critical danger today," Hancher said, "proceeding to cite several trends which, he suggested, threaten the Republic today."

For instance, we have government "of minorities, by minorities and for minorities" when "legislators, sworn to uphold the Constitution and the laws, refuse to obey constitutional or legal mandates for reapportionment of legislative districts," President Hancher said.

And when state tax structures are "shot through and through with inequalities and special privileges," we seem to be forgetting that "taxation without representation is tyranny," Hancher said, emphasizing that this argument is just as valid in 1956 as it was in 1775.

"Either we believe in a representative government or we do not," he said. Hancher also discussed the necessity for keeping governmental machinery up to date, describing as "curious" the way we Americans "who can hardly wait to trade in our used cars for the newest models off the assembly line, cling with a death-like grip to archaic forms and procedures in our governments."

"We Americans are the most governed people in the world," he told the Michigan State graduates, noting that "in Iowa we have more than 7,000 governmental and taxing units, not including the state and its agencies."

"Had our manufacturers done no more than our governments to keep up with the times, we would still be riding in stagecoaches and reading by oil lamps," he said.

Hancher's comments on these trends in government which depart from the founding fathers' concept of the republic were offered to support his urging that the graduates should always strive to practice the Golden Rule. "Only amongst a population animated by the spirit of the Golden Rule, only as men prefer the general welfare to selfish advantage, can governments command the voluntary allegiance and support of men," he emphasized.

For young people who sincerely desire to be responsible, foresighted and creative members of society, President Hancher had two other suggestions.

"You should seek to understand the nature of the age in which you live; you should seek to live the life of reason," he urged.

Our age seems to be one of "ir-

AMA To Cite Former SUI Professor

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Walter L. Bierring, 88, of Des Moines, former SUI professor of pathology and bacteriology, was chosen Monday to receive the American Medical Assn.'s distinguished service award.

Dr. Bierring, a former Iowa state health department commissioner, was picked for the award for his achievements in public health and medical examining board work.

Dr. Bierring served as professor of pathology and bacteriology at SUI from 1893-1903 and as professor of theory and practice of medicine from 1903-1910.

He also served 20 years as Iowa state commissioner of public health, and was president of the AMA in 1934-35. The award, in the form of a gold medal and citation, will be presented tonight.

Dr. Bierring said here in an interview Monday that he expects the role of the family physician to expand in coming years.

"Medicine has made evolutionary progress," he said, "and has met the changing order as well as any other profession."

"The general physician of tomorrow will be well-trained and rounded, a family adviser, who knows when special skills or experience of specialists should be called upon."

"He will take care of 85 per cent of the people. He will be the best trained man of them all, but quite a different man from the general practitioner of days gone by."

Dr. Bierring presently is director of the Iowa state health department's division of gerontology, heart and chronic diseases.

He taught the first course in bacteriology in the SUI college of medicine.

Since 1954, an outstanding student in medical bacteriology has been named to receive an award established in Dr. Bierring's name.

Paul D. Foster, M2, Cedar Rapids, was recently named the 1956 recipient of the Bierring award.

Court Decides Fate Of Argentine Rebels

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Military courts deliberated in secret sittings Monday on the fate of more than 300 rebels arrested in the weekend revolt by followers of Juan D. Peron.

Many rebels may meet with the same end as the 38 already executed by government firing squads before the uprising was crushed Sunday.

Provisional President Pedro Aramburu, a major general, charged at a news conference Monday the rebels had plotted to murder or hold as hostages himself, Vice President Adm. Isaac Rojas and about 1,000 other government officials and then set up a hybrid Communist-Peronista-Nationalist regime.

SAC Commander—

Asks for Extra $3.8 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Curtis LeMay asked Monday for an extra $3,800,000,000 each year for several years for his Strategic Air Command, (SAC), Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.) reported.

Chavez heads a Senate Appropriations subcommittee on defense spending. LeMay appeared before the subcommittee in closed session.

Chavez said the SAC is listed for about five billion dollars in the budget, under consideration for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

He said LeMay proposed an extra $3,800,000,000 a year for the next four or five years and the senator added he would be willing to "give it all to them." Much of the extra money would go to build more B52s, the heavy eight-engine all-jet bomber designed for retaliation against nuclear attack.

Just one B52 costs eight million dollars.

It's Dog-gone Hot

FRED ERBE, 703 E. College St., found that the hot weather was here when his two Great Danes, Holly, left, 4, and Thor of Mountdania, right, 5, barked at him until they were taken to town for an ice cream treat. The ice cream habit started with the dogs two years ago when friends started to feed the dogs during a hot spell.

The Weather

Cloudy and Rain

Partly cloudy weather is predicted for Iowa today with widely scattered thunderstorms in the west and north portions.

Temperatures are expected to reach the 90's again today in the Iowa City area. Highs throughout the state will be from 85 to 90 in the extreme northwest and the 90's elsewhere.

Highs reported Monday afternoon included: Des Moines, 93; Council Bluffs, 90; Cedar Rapids, 94; and Waterloo, 93.

Hoegh Tours State For One Week

DES MOINES (AP)—Gov. Leo Hoegh went to Burlington Monday to attend a noon meeting of a civic club. He planned to be present at a dairy festival at Logan Monday afternoon.

His itinerary for this week showed also that he will be in Atlantic today for a noon meeting of a civic club, and an afternoon and evening dairy day meeting.

Hoegh will visit Hawkeye Girls State at Cedar Falls Thursday night, and be at Spirit Lake Saturday and Sunday for Iowa Navy Days.

Report Pulse, Temperature Remain OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower walked a total of 80 feet in his hospital room Monday, and his physicians reported they are entirely satisfied with his recovery progress.

At 4 p.m. (CST), a bulletin from Walter Reed Hospital said the President's condition and progress "continues to be satisfactory."

Monday morning Mr. Eisenhower, who underwent major surgery early last Saturday, walked 20 feet from his bed to an easy chair, then back again. He repeated that late Monday afternoon.

The 4 p.m. bulletin said: "The President's progress continues to be satisfactory. His pulse, blood pressure, temperature and respiration remain stable and essentially normal."

"He has slept a good portion of the day. He required little sedation."

The doctors said Mr. Eisenhower made two round trips from his bed to an easy chair and back again — for a total of 80 feet — and needed very little assistance in his walking.

During the morning he was permitted to have a 10-minute talk with his chief White House assistant, Sherman Adams.

The two disposed of several problems arising from the President's second major illness in nine months, but the prime political question: whether he will change his mind about seeking re-election.

The 6 p.m. medical bulletin said: "At 4:30 p.m. the President again requested permission to get out of bed and try out his legs. With very little support, he walked 20 feet to an easy chair where he sat for 15 minutes before returning to bed."

"The doctors are satisfied with the day."

A reporter noted the statement that Mr. Eisenhower asked to be allowed to do a bit of walking.

Hagerty said the President inquired of the physicians: "How about letting me get up and exercise?"

Responding to another question, Hagerty said the drainage tube which runs from Mr. Eisenhower's nostrils into his stomach still is in place.

He said he did not know when it will be removed.

Mr. Eisenhower walked 15 feet and back on Sunday, supported by two attendants. Monday he walked with only slight assistance from Dr. Ravdin, who held his hand on the President's elbow.

Meantime, in evident expectation that the President will devote increasing time to his executive duties, a temporary White House office was set up Monday in a large room 90 feet down the corridor from the presidential suite.

There was no indication that the physicians have changed their view that he should be able to "return to full duties at the White House" in four to six weeks. He may convalesce in Washington or at his farm in Gettysburg.

Hagerty Asks End Of Picture Taking

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House requested photographers Monday to refrain from setting up long-lens cameras on the Walter Reed Hospital grounds to snap pictures of President Eisenhower through the window of his room.

"I think the American people would agree," said press secretary James C. Hagerty. "... that the President is entitled to that much consideration."

Hagerty said cameras trained on the President's window would mean that he must keep his shades drawn, depriving him of daylight and the view of the grounds, or would compel him to keep away from the window as he begins to move about more freely.

Instead, the measure carries a weaker policy statement that foreign aid should continue as long as there is an international Communist threat.

But the President would be given wide leeway in administering the funds, and it would be left up to him to decide whether to cut off aid to Communist Yugoslavia.

EMPLOYEE KILLED
BATTLE CREEK (AP)—Eugene O. Feddersen, 25, Ida Grove, an employee of the Iowa Public Service Co. at Cherokee, was killed Monday night when his car went out of control and flipped end-over-end into a ditch on Highway 175 about two miles west of here.

The Daily Iowan

The Daily Iowan is an independent daily newspaper, written and edited by students. It is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the university.

The Iowan editorial staff writes its editorials without censorship by administration or faculty. The Iowan's editorial policy, therefore, is not necessarily an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion. The Iowan, in the terms of a policy statement adopted by trustees in 1946, "will try to act as a good citizen of the SUI community and the community of Iowa City. . . . The Daily Iowan conceives its owners to be the whole constituency of the University, past, present, and future. It will endeavor to hold the good of the University in trust for these owners. . . ."

We Like Ike Well

The illness of President Eisenhower has the nation deeply concerned. We have all watched and waited eagerly for news of his condition. The reassuring words of Dr. Leonard Heaton, who operated on the President, and the other doctors, found ready ears.

The probability of a speedy recovery is even more encouraging in view of the many important problems awaiting presidential guidance. For his personal intervention is needed as a vital factor in a long list of crucial issues.

1. The administration's foreign aid bill, which the house of representatives cut by one billion dollars, faces a stiff fight in the senate. Chairman Richard Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee has called for another billion dollar cut, reducing the total to about $2,800,000,000.

2. The public school construction bill has become almost hopelessly enmeshed in the segregation controversy. The Powell-Lehman amendment to this bill, which would forbid funds to school districts that defy integration, has brought threats of filibuster of the entire bill. At present, this vitally needed measure remains in committee, apparently forever.

3. The personal diplomacy of the President has been counted on to deal with various foreign leaders. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is in this country; German rearmament and reunification are most pressing problems. Lester B. Pearson, Canadian minister for external affairs, was in Washington Sunday to explore with the President, and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, the rejuvenation of NATO. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau are to visit this country in the near future.

4. The complicated problem of foreign policy readjustment to meet the new Soviet "look" had just begun to be tackled when the President was stricken again. That a coordinated outlook is yet to be achieved was illustrated last week by the different emphasis placed by the President and Secretary Dulles on the question of America's attitude toward neutral nations. The President emphasized the sympathy of our government toward the neutrals; Dulles suggested that neutrality was usually an "immoral and shortsighted conception."

5. Many other questions need the guiding hand of the President. Effective settlement of the Armed Forces controversy; how to meet the Russian efforts to increase inter-government contacts with the U.S.; what to reply to Bulganin's latest letter on further cuts in armaments; these are some of the problems that must be solved.

The world and the world's problems pray that Ike may quickly return to his duties, a "new man."

A Matter of State

The Communist drive to utilize international sports for political purposes is not merely well underway, but is being planned for many years in advance, the United States Information Agency has indicated.

Sports exchanges between Communist countries and the free world have increased greatly since 1950, the Information Agency reported. In 1953 and 1954 there was a marked increase in these exchanges, and in 1955 the rise was even more substantial. The object of this growing exchange, according to articles which have appeared in various Communist publications, is to strengthen the "peace offensive" and to "demonstrate to the whole world the advantages and strength of the Soviet system."

The Information Agency said the prospect for 1956 and the future is for still greater flow of sporting delegations between the Communist orbit and the free world and, because of the Communist emphasis on winning, for even more impressive Communist sports victories.

"With the 1956 Olympics not yet completely behind them, Communist teams and sports officials are pointed toward the 1960 and 1964 Olympics," the Information Agency said in its survey. "Hungary is constructing athletic facilities to accommodate the 1960 Olympics and the USSR is reported spending the equivalent of $90 million to make a strong bid for the 1964 Olympic games."

In 1950, 21 foreign sports teams visited the Soviet Union and 29 Soviet teams went abroad to both Communist and free world countries, the Information Agency said. By 1953 the number of these teams had increased to 64 visiting teams and 68 teams "exported," the visiting teams came from 19 countries and the Soviet teams went to 29 countries.

The motivation for the increased emphasis put on sports in the USSR perhaps can be found in a Radio Leningrad announcement on January 12, 1952, that "physical culture and sport are not a matter of amusement but a matter of state importance."

Mormons Start at Coralville

Second Group of Mormons Left a Century Ago To Follow Brigham Young to Utah

By BILL KNOWLES

About a century ago, 266 persons departed from the banks of Clear Creek in what we know today as Coralville.

Their means of transportation: their own feet.

Their destination: Salt Lake City, Utah.

These were members of a group of about 1,300 converts to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon), most of whom had come from England and Wales via ocean steamer, and had proceeded to Iowa City by railroad. (Iowa City at that time was the western terminus of the railroad.)

This contingent was determined to follow the first, Brigham Young-led band of Mormons that left Nauvoo, Ill., a decade earlier, migrating and settling a new land beyond the Great Plains, where they could practice their religion without persecution.

TRAVELING COSTS, which rose rapidly during the early 1850's, caused Young to suggest to the emigrants that light carts made entirely of wood be pulled or pushed across the plains, by those who wanted to migrate West.

(The original group which Young led to Utah after the first Mormon leader, Joseph Smith, was killed by a mob at Carthage, Ill., in 1844, traveled in ox-drawn covered wagons.)

Arriving in Iowa City in May, 1856, the European converts expected hand carts to have been constructed for them (about one cart for every five persons). When they detoured however, they found that carts had not been built for such a large number of emigrants.

So they camped in makeshift tents and covered wagons on the banks of Clear Creek, and aided in construction of the carts.

HANDCARTS that were built are described as "rather frail" by the late Benjamin F. Shambaugh, noted Iowa historian in his book, "The Old Stone Capitol Remembers." The carts were simply two wood wheels three or four feet in diameter, connected by a wood axle on which was a small box to carry possessions. At one end there were two wood shafts about five feet long connected by a cross-piece, he relates.

As soon as a sufficient number of handcarts had been built — June 9, 1856 — the first of five detachments set out from Clear Creek. Two days later, the second detachment followed. The third left June 23. The fourth and fifth, made of European emigrants who arrived in Iowa City in June, left in late July and mid-August, respectively.

The last two companies, weeks behind the others, persisted in migrating although they realized they would encounter treacherous fall weather in the mountains.

About 225 persons — one fourth of the total emigrants in the last two detachments — perished from exposure and hunger as snows set in and food ran low.

A RESCUE TEAM was sent out from Salt Lake City after two missionaries returning to Utah from the East found the destitute detachments camped in a ravine near the Platte River in Nebraska. They traveled the remainder of the way in covered wagons that came from Salt Lake City.

Handcart companies continued to move across the plains each summer until 1861, but were not permitted to leave Iowa City so late in the season. In 1861, Mormon leaders began annual eastward dispatching of ox-teams to meet Utah bound emigrants.

Writer Says Press Unfair in Labeling Candidates for Political Office

TO THE EDITOR:

I see by the headlines that "IKE ROMPS" in California (he was unopposed), that it's "IKE BY LANDSLIDE" in a national poll of teenagers (he received 59 per cent of their votes), but Adlai merely scores an impressive victory in California (where he captured 60 per cent of the vote, winning by over 300,000 votes), and Florida was a "DRAW" (Adlai won 22 of the 28 delegate votes).

Stevenson, always strong in the cities, in both Florida and California polled more votes than Kefauver in Negro areas, in inland farm districts, and in areas heavily populated by older people. But I doubt if many news analysts will take them. They seem to be too busy fitting reality into a nice, simple, easily digestible pattern.

As an instance, take the label "compromise candidate," variously rendered "candidate of moderation." That this label implies a forsaking of principles, a fence-sitting attempt to please both sides, doesn't matter. That it plays into the hands of the guilt-by-association crowd who say "any friend of Herman's is no friend of anyone" does not count. That this is a ploy of Stevenson's position masquerading as fact is of no consequence. For it is a nice simple tag, and it saves time and space (which cost money—after all, we're not in this for our health!).

It is being often said and written that the presidential primary is a crazy, hectic dogfight; that it demeans the office to campaign at the hand-shake, front-stoop level; that "something should be done." Since journalists are saying it, I suggest they lead the way.

Is it crazy? Surely not in the sense that every candidate should delineate his critique of government and the governing in the public view. It is crazy only insofar as it becomes a mere popularity contest. And one of the main contributors to this becoming is the constant emphasis by newspapers on the primary as a test of the voting strength of a candidate. If only a many column inches were devoted to comprehensive coverage of the issues as are squandered on ridiculous reiteration of public-opinion polls and uneducated guesses of the tenor of the voting mind. Then priorities would be much closer in actuality to what they are in essence: the selection of men who will, in nominating the party's candidate for the presidency, best represent the interests of that party and the people who make it up.

Gets 25 Years for Milo Bank Holdup

INDIANOLA — James Thomas Kehler, 35, Chicago, Ill., was sentenced Monday to 25 years in the Iowa penitentiary at Fort Madison after he pleaded guilty to last Tuesday's $1,400 holdup of the Milo, Iowa, bank office of the Peoples Trust & Savings Bank of Indianola.

Kehler was captured by a Nebraska state patrolman near Hartington, Neb. Sunday and turned over to Iowa authorities. Sheriff C. J. Richards said Kehler "made a full confession" and that he also was identified by a bank office employee as the bandit.

Kehler was paroled from the Illinois state penitentiary at Joliet last Feb. 3. He had been working in this area recently as a farm-

55 Plasterers Strike; 3 Projects Halted

DES MOINES — Fifty-five union plasterers went on strike here Monday, halting work on three major construction projects with their picket lines.

The striking plasterers are members of Local 21 of the Plasterers and Cement Finishers Union.

Its contract with the Master Plasterers Assn., representing seven contractors, expired on May 30 and negotiating sessions since have failed to bring about a settlement.

Picket lines Monday stopped work on the $3½ million new North High building, a $1.4 million, 10-story residential apartment building, and a $300,000 wing of the First Baptist Church.

Annie Marsell, union business representative, said "at present, we are picketing only at projects where our men are working."

The union and Master Plasterers met last week with Federal Mediator M. E. Sherman, narrowing their dispute to a point where the union offered to settle for a one-year contract and an 18-cent hourly increase as opposed to the Master Plasterers' offer of a one-year contract and a 12½-cent hourly increase. The plasterers now make $3 an hour.

U.S. Plans Construction Of Air Base in Spain

MADRID, Spain — Official U.S. sources said Monday the United States plans to build a fifth air base in Spain, for joint operation with the Spanish air force.

Maj. Gen. August W. Kissner, chief of the American military mission to Spain, said he understood Congress had been asked for funds for the additional base.

Another American source said Spain's permission had been obtained under the agreement whereby the United States is giving Spain military and economic aid in exchange for bases.

Plan Summer Music Course

Music instruction will be available again this summer to pupils in schools of Iowa City and nearby cities in an All-City Music Course which will start Wednesday at SUI.

During the eight-week course, private lessons will be given by SUI instructors in string, wind and percussion instruments, piano and voice, with private pupils eligible to participate in Advanced Band, Advanced Orchestra or Junior Band or Orchestra.

Directors of the ensembles will include Laverne Wintermyer, director of music at Iowa City High School, advanced orchestra; Howard Robertson, band director at Iowa City High, advanced band; Celia Eckey, string instructor in Iowa City public schools, junior orchestra; and Stanley Cobb, instrumental instructor in Iowa City public schools, junior band.

Students enrolled in the summer session of the University Elementary School will be eligible to participate in the ensembles and, upon payment of private lesson fees, may include both ensemble and individual instruction, according to Professor Himie Voxman, head of the SUI music department.

Registration for the course Monday at 9 a.m. in South Music Hall, with all tuition payable at that time. It may not be possible to accommodate students seeking entrance to the program after that date, Professor Voxman says. Any one wishing to enter the course who was not able to register Monday is asked to contact one of the above-mentioned ensemble directors or William Tietze of the University High School staff before that time.

Russia Hears Churches Vote Against Race Discrimination

WASHINGTON — The Navy said Monday its Antarctic winter base at Little America has established radio contact with the Russian station 1,650 miles across the frozen continent.

As a result of the contact, the Navy said, "visits from American and Russian stations by representative groups have been suggested."

It did not indicate whether arrangements have been made for exchange visits between the two camps.

A Navy announcement said the first contact with the Russian camp—at Mirny on the Knox Coast — was made last month. Since then, it said, there have been several exchanges of weather information.

The Russians extended their best wishes to Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd, Rear Adm. George J. Dufek, commander of the Navy's Antarctic operation "Deepfreeze," and Cmdr. Herbert W. Whitney, Little America base commander.

The current winter closed in over Antarctica more than a month ago. The 73 men at Little America and the 93 living 400 miles farther along the Ross Sea Coast, at Williams Air Operating Facility on McMurdo Sound, are enveloped in the black winter night which lasts more than four months.

The men are developing various pastimes to help while away the time. Seabee occupants of "Hotel Temporary," one of the barracks at McMurdo Sound, presented a musical comedy, "In Daze of Olde." The cast included Virgil L. Wehner of Schleswig, Iowa.

Playground Leaders Train This Week

Men and women who will direct the city's seven supervised playgrounds this summer are training for their duties this week.

The playgrounds open June 18 and will be open Monday through Friday. Robert A. Lee, recreation commission superintendent, said a complete schedule of activities on each playground will be announced soon.

The 14 directors and 3 junior leaders are meeting at the Junior High School gymnasium from 1 to 5 p.m. The sessions will continue through Saturday morning and will include workshops in crafts, games and sports, discussions of program planning, first aid, safety, and problems of administration.

Playgrounds in use this year will be Creekside, at Seventh Avenue and Muscatine Road; Elm Grove at Benton and Dubuque Streets; Happy Hollow, at Brown and Lucas Streets; Junior High School; Lincoln School; Longfellow School and Roosevelt School.

GOP Congressmen File Expense Data

DES MOINES — Two Iowa Republican congressmen who were opposed for renomination in the primary election filed their campaign expense reports with the secretary of state's office Monday.

Rep. Karl M. LeCompte of Corydon said he received no contributions, and spent $33.50. Rep. Charles B. Hoeven of Alton reported no contributions, and expenditure of $23.70.

Among the more than 30 candidates in last Monday's primary who filed their reports was George Eischeid Sr., of Norwalk, who was unopposed for the Democratic nomination for state auditor. He reported no receipts, but expenditure of $48.

Churches Vote Against Race Discrimination

MOUNT PLEASANT — Three unanimous votes opposing racial discrimination both within and outside the church were adopted by Methodists of the Iowa-Des Moines Conference at their annual meeting here Monday.

Bishop F. Gerald Ensley of Iowa described the actions as "an historic step . . . for the breaking down of centuries-old racial bans in church and country."

By a vote of 143-0 the delegates approved the official church machinery set up by the recent general conference sessions of the church in Minneapolis to provide for integration of Negro churches. The procedure adopted in Minneapolis requires ratification by two-thirds of the voting delegates in Methodist conferences all over the world.

Another unanimous resolution "invited any Negro Methodist churches in the Iowa-Des Moines Conference to seek admission into the conference."

A third resolution "commended such things as housing developments, industries, unions, schools and churches that admit and employ persons regardless of race. Particularly commended were communities which operate all phases of their recreation program on a non-segregated basis.

The conference also approved resolutions which: Condemned barriers set up on a basis of economic status and which urged that the farmer receive his fair share of income in relation to the total economy.

Supported legislation which would outlaw sale or use of alcohol on airlines and which would prohibit advertising of alcoholic beverages in interstate media.

Called for strengthening of the United Nations as "the best political hope for peace in our world."

Man Swims Nine Miles After Wreck

KEY WEST, Fla. — A man who considered suicide during a nine-mile swim through angry seas hung on Monday to reach shore and bring about the rescue of three other members of a fishing party.

"I almost gave up a couple of times," said Ray Wraymond, 36, who swam for 8½ hours after the charter fishing boat Golden K struck a submerged piling and sank southwest of here.

"I was so exhausted, I thought of unfastening my life jacket and just slipping under the water."

After Wraymond reached shore at the Boca Chica Naval Air Station, a Coast Guard boat was dispatched and picked up three others clinging to the wreckage of the Golden K.

Winford Bennett, 39-year-old owner and captain of the Golden K, Dorothy Snell, 35, and Wraymond were hospitalized. Frank Young, 37, did not require medical treatment. All are from Marathon, Fla.

The Golden K struck the piling at noon Sunday during a squall and went down at 4:30 p.m. Twenty minutes later, Wraymond struck out for his long swim through waters infested with barracuda. He reached shore at 1:20 a.m. Four hours later, the other members of the party were taken out of the water.

Discover New Blood Test for Heart Attacks

CHICAGO (AP) — A simple new blood test for detecting "hidden" heart attacks was hailed Monday as the most important forward step in diagnosis since the electrocardiograph was introduced early in the century.

Dr. Frank P. Foster of the Lahey Clinic, Boston, described the test — called transaminase determination — at the annual meeting of the American Medical Assn.

The test is designed to detect incidents of heart damage known as myocardial infarction. This occurs when blood supply to a portion of the heart muscle is blocked off by a clot or narrowing of an artery. The affected portion of the heart then dies.

Quick and accurate diagnosis and proper treatment often can mean the difference between life and death.

But heart attack symptoms can be confusing. Many other conditions mimic them.

The electrocardiograph has been the chief tool for showing what has happened, but the heart can play queer tricks. Dr. Foster said electrocardiograph changes may be completely absent or slow to appear. Such changes also may be noted when heart disease is not involved.

The blood test is based on the fact that dying heart muscle cells release the enzyme transaminase into the blood stream. This enzyme is measured photoelectrically.

Describing the test as one of the leading medical advances of the year, he said:

"Transaminase may be the first important diagnostic aid since the introduction of the electrocardiograph."

Two polio experts said earlier that Salk vaccine shots given to children might indirectly protect their parents and other persons from the disease.

Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh said some persons infected with the polio virus become carriers. Although showing no symptoms themselves, they pass the disease on to others.

Dr. David Bodian of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, said the vaccine could conceivably stimulate enough protective antibodies in a child to destroy the polio viruses before they could be passed on to others.

He added that the theory will be tested this summer if a sufficient large number of children are inoculated.

Dr. Salk's report said special studies indicate nearly 100 per cent of children can develop presumably effective antibodies if they receive three shots suitably spaced.

Leaders Say Korean Equipment Obsolete

TOKYO (AP) — American military leaders in the Far East fear they are in effect being slowly disarmed in Korea. They say the weapons of the Allied forces — frozen by type under the 1953 armistice — are growing obsolete as military science and production sweep ahead.

This fear may force the United Nations Command to ask for revision of the armistice agreement.

When the armistice was signed July 27, 1953, everyone believed a Korean peace conference would follow in a few months.

No one expected the armistice agreement would have to last for three years — let alone indefinitely, as it has a good chance of doing now, following the failure of every attempt to arrange a peace conference.

The armistice provided only for replacing worn or broken weapons. The long-range problem of obsolescence was not tackled.

Monday the problem was realized only too well on the UN side. Allied officers cited unending reports of a Red weapons buildup in North Korea, backed by the evidence of radar tracks, testimony of refugees, and what is considered Communist sabotage of the inspection system.

To the best of belief, the Communists have actually reduced their manpower in Korea to a rough equality with the Allied forces there. But intelligence evidence indicates most of the withdrawn troops are massed in Manchuria. Intelligence estimates of new Communist weapons power in North Korea includes the following:

1. A five-wing, balanced jet air force of from 350 to 500 planes, including both Russian-built MIGs and IL-28 light bombers — where there was none before the armistice.

2. Widescale military airfield construction — where none was operating before the armistice.

3. A complete reorganization, retraining and re-equipment of the North Korean peoples army—little more than a shattered militia at war's end.

The situation is aggravated by the fact that the U.S. Army, and to some extent the Air Force, fought the Korean War with second-hand weapons from World War II. The Air Force's B26 is as dated as the nearly forgotten P47, the "Black Widow," and the honorably retired B29.

The Far East Command would like to use the Nike in Korea, where the Red jets are only three or four minutes from Seoul, Inchon and the Allies' main airfields. But this anti-aircraft weapon is forbidden to Korea and air defense is limited to what existed in the Korean War, in which hardly one man in a hundred ever heard, or saw, a serious anti-aircraft defense.

Children Labor Bureau Has Permit Trouble

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Bureau of Labor is having its usual June trouble, this year with children getting out of school and into tangles with the state's child labor law.

The law restricts the type of work a boy or girl under 16 may do. One of the problems that crops up most frequently is children working in restaurants.

The child labor law flatly declares it is illegal for persons under 16 to work in hotels, cafes and restaurants.

A boy or girl 14 or 15 years old must have a "work permit" before taking a job. These permits are issued by local school superintendents or someone appointed by the superintendent to issue them.

The labor bureau reported Monday it has been receiving work permits issued to 14- and 15-year-olds to work in restaurants.

"This, of course, is in violation of the Iowa child labor laws," the bureau said in a notice to officials who issue the permits.

"We will appreciate it if issuing officers will take special note to discontinue issuing these permits to work in restaurants in the future."

A restaurant, under the child labor law, is defined as any place that serves food. A place that serves ice cream and soft drinks only is not a restaurant, according to the law, but if coffee also is served, it is a restaurant.

Crops Seen 12% Below '55 Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported Monday that crop prospects on June 1 were the lowest in 11 years due to a combination of drought conditions in some areas and unusually cool growing weather.

Should these prospects be reflected at harvest, total production would be down about 12 per cent from last year's near record volume. Such a reduction would help relieve some of the crop surplus problems now facing farmers.

Any shortages in supplies would be limited to minor crops because surpluses of the major ones have been accumulated under government farm price support programs.

Officials emphasized, however, that it is too early to speculate on such a reduction in output. They said that a more favorable turn in the weather from now on until harvest could do much to change the present outlook.

Wheat was the only major crop for which a production estimate was given. The crop was forecast at about 923 million bushels, which would be 2 per cent less than last year's 938 million and 20 per cent less than the 10-year average of 1,148,000,000.

The report said that prospects for all crops combined on June 1, are less favorable than usual at this date.

"For the nation these over-all appraisals are the lowest for the date since 1945," the report said.

"Only in south central and western regions do they exceed last year. Western cornbelt states averaged the lowest since 1939."

The report said that some general rains which came just after the June 1 reports were submitted by the crop reporters may result in improved crop outlook in many localities, especially if followed by good growing weather.

No District Court Here Tuesday, Friday in June

Beginning Friday, there will be no district court in Johnson County on Tuesday and Friday of each week for the rest of June.

Judge Harold D. Evans, presiding in Johnson County, will visit the court at Marengo on those days to fill in for Judge James P. Gaffney, who is on a trip to New York.

Regular assignments will be resumed on July 1 when Judge Gaffney returns to Iowa County.

368 Airports Will Get $50 Million in Federal Aid July 1

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Administration Monday identified 368 airport improvement projects which will share in $51,863,177 in federal aid during the fiscal year starting July 1.

The allocations are part of a four-year program for airport construction and improvement, the largest federal aid airport program in the nation's history. State and local governments will match the federal aid dollar-for-dollar.

Congress last year agreed to make 63 million dollars available annually for the next three fiscal years for matching state or local funds.

The CAA said the programming of the full amount for the next fiscal year has not been completed. Communities in some states, it explained, failed to submit eligible requests sufficient to use up the funds set aside for each state.

The list of approved projects included:

Iowa — Boone Municipal Airport $12,500; Davenport Municipal Airport $26,250; Fort Dodge Municipal Airport $10,895; Sac City Municipal Airport $9,800.

South Dakota — Huron, W. W. Hoves Municipal Airport $21,196; Rapid City Municipal Airport $12,993; Yankton Municipal Airport $24,462.

Remove Tonsils, Not Hernia; Cost $2,000

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Four-year-old Mark Stevenson entered the hospital for hernia but came out without his tonsils. He got $2,000 for the hospital's mistake.

"Sounds like they aimed a little high," remarked Superior Judge W. W. Jacka Monday, as he approved the compromise settlement of a claim brought by Mark's father, Raymond L. Stevenson, against the doctors general hospital.

Attorneys said Mark suffered no ill effects from the unscheduled tonsillectomy.

Dodgers 8, Cards 6

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals kicked two eight-inning double play grounders and a chance to take the National League lead Monday night, giving up three decisive unearned runs to Brooklyn in a game won by the Dodgers, 8-6. Duke Snider homered twice for the world champions and Don Newcombe gained his ninth victory.

As a result of successive St. Louis miscues by Don Blasingame and Grady Hatton in the eighth, Brooklyn needed only two hits to score four times and drop the Redbirds into third place behind idle Pittsburgh. The fifth-place Dodgers are only 1 1/2 games back of the league-leading Cincinnati.

Although Newcombe failed in a bid for his fifth consecutive complete game, allowing 10 hits that included home runs by Wally Moon and Hank Sauer, the Dodgers pinned a fourth straight defeat on Tom Poholsky.

Phils 6, Braves 2

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The last-place Philadelphia Phillies scored on singles, doubles and even a double steal Monday night as they trounced the Milwaukee Braves, 6-2, and dropped the Braves into fifth place in the National League.

The Braves got nine hits, but couldn't lick their most persistent tormentor, Stu Miller, who now has beaten the Braves eight times in ten decisions as a pitcher for the Cardinals and the Phillies.

The loser was Gene Conley, who faced only 12 men in the first four innings before the Phillies solved his pitching in the fifth when they scored three runs on singles by Willie Jones and Jim Greengrass, a double by Granny Hamner, and a single by Ted Kazanski.

BOSTON (AP)—The Cleveland Indians got only seven hits off Boston Red Sox pitching in a day-night doubleheader Monday, but made the most of them, gaining a split, 4-1, on home runs by Al Smith, Chico Carrasquel and Al Rosen before Tom Brewer gained his ninth pitching victory of the year, 5-1, in the night cap.

Ray Narleski, Cleveland's right-handed relief artist, hurled one-hit ball over the final 3 1/2 innings to preserve Cal McLish's second victory of the season.

Smith homered the second pitch of the game, Carrasquel connected for his homer in the second inning, and Rosen blasted his as leadoff hitter in the sixth inning.

The 23-year-old Brewer gave up a run on a walk and two singles in the second but settled down to become the first American League hurler to win nine games. He has lost only one.

Vic Wertz' double off Ted Williams' glove in left center in the fourth was the only other Cleveland hit off the Boston ace.

Brewer, Williams and Jackie Jensen led a 10-hit Boston assault on loser Mike Garcia and reliever Bob Feller.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mike Baxes and Vic Power slammed home runs to give Kansas City a 6-3 victory over Washington in the second game of a double-header Monday night after the Senators took the opener, 4-3, on Carlos Paula's three-run pinch homer in the eighth inning.

Johnny Groth accounted for all the A's runs in the opener with a pair of homers and Lou Kretlow had a 3-1 lead on a four-hitter en-

Orioles 5, Tigers 4

BALTIMORE (AP)—Bob Nieman and Gus Triandos knocked in all the runs between them for Baltimore Monday night as the Orioles beat Detroit 5-4 and displaced the Tigers by a percentage point in fifth place in the American League.

Nieman drove in one run with a single and Triandos two for the Orioles in the first inning. Nieman also specked his fifth homer of the season with a mate on base in the fifth.

That gave the Orioles a 5-1 run lead which they barely protected as the Tigers slugged 14 safeties to 12 for Baltimore.

Freeman Loses Parts of Two Fingers in Accident

CINCINNATI (AP)—Robin Freeman, phenomenal Ohio State basketball guard, lost parts of the middle and index fingers on his left hand in a woodchopping accident Sunday.

The slender guard, whose "miracle hands" helped him break a flock of scoring records, underwent surgery at Good Samaritan hospital after the incident. Hospital aides said he was in "good" condition.

Terre Haute May Stay in Three-I Loop

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—A last-ditch attempt to keep a Three I League baseball team here was started Monday and enough money apparently was raised to send the Terre Haute Huts on a 12-day road trip beginning Wednesday.

About $4,100 was pledged at a special mayor's conference. Plans were made to raise an additional $900 needed for the trip Tuesday.

However, it seemed assured that the team would at least be able to make the road trip since more than $3,000 of the $20,000 in contributions that will be required by the time the Huts return home had been pledged. Business and industrial leaders drafted plans to collect the remainder of the $20,000.

Paul Frisz, club president and owner of 91 per cent of the team's stock, said $40,000 would have to be contributed before the end of the season to keep a team here.

Terre Haute, a charter member of the Class B circuit, has had a team during 29 years of the Class B Circuit's 49 years of operation.

The Huts were sold to local interests by the Philadelphia Phillies last year and now have a working agreement with the Detroit Tigers.

Hal Totten of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, league president, had said last week the Huts would drop out of the loop Tuesday. Paducah, Ky., is interested in the franchise. Frisz said Detroit has advised the Huts to quit the league if the money is not raised.

Frisz said an average attendance of 900 would carry Terre Haute through the season if the $40,000 is raised. Attendance so far has averaged 700 a game, but there have been crowds above 1,000 since Totten's announcement.

Among the contributions at Monday's meeting were $200 from the Evansville Braves of the Three I League and $50 from Terre Haute junior baseball leagues.

ARIZONA IN 1-0 WIN
OMAHA (AP)—Arizona squeezed home a run on Glen Festin's perfect bunt down the first base line in the top of the ninth inning to beat New Hampshire 1-0 in the NCAA college baseball world series Monday night.

Long is the National League's home run pacesetter with 17 and the Cards' Ken Boyer heads the RBI department with 48. Mantle is both the AL homer derby leader with 21 and runs batted in leader with 52.

The Redlegs' Brooks Lawrence has the best pitching record among senior league hurlers, 7-0, 1.000, and Friend is knockout king with 71. Tom Brewer of Boston has posted the leading won-lost mark in the American, 8-1, .889, and Cleveland's Herb Score has fanned the most batsmen, 86.

Patterson Vs. Moore Despite Broken Hand

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson's manager said Monday he was going ahead with plans for a heavy-weight title fight with Archie Moore in September despite Patterson's broken right hand.

"I'm operating on the theory we'll fight in September until I get medical authority to the contrary," said Manager Gus D'Amato.

"The doctors told me Floyd had youth and good health on his side and those factors may bring about a more rapid healing. They said they'll watch as the calcium forms then, at some given time, will be able to give me a definite answer on when he will be ready.

"They do say the average is about two or three months for a broken bone to heal but each case is different. It all depends on the individual."

Patterson suffered the broken bone in defeating Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in a slam-bang bout Friday night.

D'Amato said he was not in favor of an operation at the present time. Patterson, taking a short vacation, will return to the city Thursday when further X-rays will be taken to determine how the break in the fourth metacarpal bone of the right hand is healing. The metacarpal is the bone behind the knuckle of the ring finger.

Moore's manager, Charlie Johnston, ruled out any idea of Moore boxing Hurricane Jackson in case Patterson wasn't ready. "We're not interested," said Johnston.

"He just got licked. We're only interested in fighters that win."

Moore sat in Johnston's office Monday and talked about his future plans.

The 39-year-old ring vagabond said he is very much interested in a proposed match with James J. Parker of Barrie, Ont., at Toronto or Montreal. Dave Rush, a Toronto mining executive and fight manager, said he is trying to make the match for Toronto in July.

Bradley Eliminates Wyoming from NCAA Tourney, 12-8

OMAHA (AP)—Bradley eliminated Wyoming from the NCAA basketball tournament Monday afternoon, downing the Cowboys 12-8 in a ragged game.

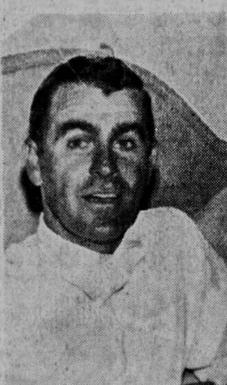

Each team collected 12 hits, many of the cheap variety. Bradley made five errors, three by shortstop Don Hakes. Wyoming booted four plays.

Wyman Carey of the Braves survived it all to win his 11th game in 13 decisions. Bradley's offense included only two extra base hits, doubled by Don Wyss and Dell Bierline.

Wyoming's Jim Hoppe hit a solo homer. Gerry Nagle clouted a two-run triple and Don Napierkowski doubled two runs home.

PART-TIME SPECTATOR
DENVER (AP)—Eddie Haynes, sports supervisor for the city recreation department, sees about 250 basketball games a season. However, he never sees one from beginning to end. He has charge of a program involving 118 teams. Games are held five nights a week.

Hogan: Open Course Easy But Own Game Is Rotten

Jack Fleck
Can He Win Again?

Ben Hogan
Tougher Course Easier

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Stoical Ben Hogan confounded listeners Monday by calling Oak Hill "one of the easiest Open courses I've ever played" and in the next breath adding:

"I'm playing pretty rotten. Unless I improve, my chances don't look very good."

Early arrivals for the 56th annual National Open Golf Championship, beginning Thursday, immediately accused the Texas master of launching a campaign of "confusion warfare."

"That's Ben," dourly said one of his longtime rivals. "He's talking about how easy the course is so they'll toughen it. He knows he has a better chance on a tougher course."

"Don't let him kid you about his golf," added another contender. "On Thursday, Ben will be 2 to 1 the best golfer in the field."

Hogan, looking a mile thinner and more tired than when he was beaten by Jack Fleck at San Francisco last year in his bid for an unprecedented fifth Open championship, predicted the tournament would be won by one of the lowest scores ever.

Hogan said he believed the fairways were 10 to 15 yards wider than in recent Open tournaments, offering a bigger hitting area, and that the rough was far less tenacious.

"The course plays very easy—easy, that is, for everybody except me. I'm playing pretty rotten," said Hogan.

Asked what part of his game was giving him trouble, he said "all of it."

The four-time champion has been here since last Thursday probing every area of the 6,902-yard, par 70 layout.

Other contenders joined Hogan in saying the beautiful, tree-lined Oak Hill course is far from the nightmares dreamed up by the U.S. Golf Assn., in tournaments past. They called it "a fair course, but not an easy one."

Fleck, the defending champion, said, "It's a wonderful course—fair but not a setup for anybody. It's plenty long and it'll be tough when the greens harden."

Ortega Gets Split Decision Over Poirier
NEW YORK (AP)—Mexico's Gaspar Ortega and Gene Poirier of Niagara Falls, N. Y., traded punches without letup for 10 rounds Monday night with Ortega gaining the split decision in the television scrap at St. Nicholas Arena. Each weighed 151 pounds.

State Junior Golf Tourney To Open at Finkbine Today

By JIM NEY
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Iowa's 10th annual junior golf tournament will start today on the new Finkbine course with better than 100 entries listed up to Monday night.

Local chairman, Dave Cannon, said, however, that any boy under 18 years of age is welcome to enter until noon today.

The first entrants to tee off will be about 8 a.m., Cannon said. The 32 low scorers will comprise the championship flight, he said.

The first and second rounds of the championship flight will be played Wednesday. On Thursday will be the third and fourth rounds, and Friday the final 18-hole match will be played. Play in the lower flights will also continue on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Pre-tournament favorites would appear to be 17-year-old Jack Rule of Waterloo and Jack Palumbo of Cedar Rapids Franklin, tourney runner-up a year ago. Rule is the state high school champion.

Last year's champion—John Liechty of Iowa City—has reached his 18th birthday and will not be eligible to play this year.

The tournament champion will receive a trophy, as will the runner-up. The medalist will be awarded a plaque. Winners in each flight will also receive a prize.

Just a Sunburn

SUMMER TAN stepped out in his first attempt of the year in the Port Jefferson, feature at Belmont Park, Monday. However, the attempt was not successful as he finished second to Woodley Land Farm's Red Hannigan (left), ridden by Eddie Arcano. Summer Tan had not raced since the 1955 Kentucky Derby when he finished third to Swaps and Nashua.

Yanks Sign Belleville, Ill. Athlete for Quincy of 3-1

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Marion (Buddy) Zippel, 17-year-old high school graduate, Monday signed a contract with the New York Yankees and was assigned to their Class B Quincy, Ill., club in the Three I League.

Bill DeWitt, general manager of the Yankees, signed the recent Cathedral High School graduate at the home of the boy's father here.

Court Rules

Secret Data May Be Used In Deportation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court, with four dissenting judges using such language as "un-American," ruled Monday the attorney general may consider secret information in deciding whether to suspend a deportation order.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, one of the dissenters, said he could not "in conscience" agree with the majority because "it sacrifices to form too much of the American spirit of fair play in both our judicial and administrative processes."

Justice Stanley Reed, speaking for the majority, said suspension of deportation is not given "as a right, and, by congressional direction, it is dispensed according to the unfettered discretion of the attorney general."

Reed said the court was "constrained to construe the statute as permitting decisions based upon matters outside the administrative record, at least when such act would be reasonable."

Justices Hugo Black, Felix Frankfurter and William Douglas, in addition to Warren, wrote sharply critical dissenting opinions.

Warren said that while the person involved in the case is not a U.S. citizen, the guarantee of due process of the law protects "persons."

"To me, this is not due process," Warren said. "If sanction of this use and effect of confidential information is confirmed against this petitioner by a process of judicial reasoning, it may be recognized as a principle of law to be extended against American citizens in a myriad of ways."

Black said the core of the country's constitutional system is that individual liberty must never be taken away "by shortcuts, that fair trials in independent courts must never be dispensed with."

"That system is in grave danger," Black said. "This case emphasizes that fact."

Douglas said "a hearing is not a hearing in the American sense if faceless informers or confidential information may be used to deprive a man of his liberties." He said such a hearing is "un-American."

Frankfurter said that "in conspicuous instances, not negligible in number," confidential information "has turned out to be either baseless or false."

Joining Reed to constitute the majority were Justices Harold Burton, Sherman Minton, Thomas C. Clark, and John Harlan.

The ruling was in the case of Cecil Reginald Jay, 60, native of England, who was ordered deported in 1952 as an alien who had been a member of the Communist party after his entry into this country in 1921.

Jay asked for suspension of deportation. The Board of Immigration Appeals informed him the request was denied "in the light of confidential information available."

Jay then began court action in Seattle. He lost in federal district court there and in the U.S. Court of Appeals in San Francisco.

In appealing to the Supreme Court, he said he was treated unfairly because of the use of secret information.

3 Plead Guilty To Conspiracy

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—An Army sergeant and two East Orange businessmen Monday pleaded guilty to conspiracy charges in the theft of a secret government document.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. William F. Tompkins, has described the paper as "of the utmost intelligence significance" because, he said, it contained a directory of "all the U.S. Air Force bases and organizations throughout the world."

The three, Sydney M. Stern, 39, Seymour S. Hindman, 39, both of East Orange, and Sgt. Harold E. Brill, 28, stationed at the Brooklyn Army Terminal, entered guilty pleas before federal Judge Alfred E. Modarelli.

No date for sentencing was fixed by the court. The maximum penalty on the charges is five years in prison and $10,000 fine.

The three were charged with conspiring to steal and possess a document filed in a federal public building. No espionage charges were involved.

Following their arrest by FBI agents, May 17, attorneys for the men said the document was a mailing list of military personnel intended to be used for business soliciting purposes.

Tompkins, however, said the paper contained information "affecting the national defense of the United States." He added that the document contained information within the meaning of the espionage laws.

Princess Meets Prince

PRINCESS MARGARET has a smile for Prince Bertil of Sweden as he greets her upon her arrival at Stockholm Airport Monday. The Princess joined her sister and the Duke of Edinburgh to see the 1956 Olympic Equestrian Games. Despite attachment by Stockholm papers that there might be a romantic attachment between the Princess and the Prince, his greeting was strictly formal.

Government Charges 'Influence' in Tax Case

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The government charged Monday that there was a "sinister outside influence" working on the Irving Sachs income tax case "from the moment it got to Washington."

Wyllis S. Newcomb, chief government counsel, leveled the charge as he began final arguments in the conspiracy trial of Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lammar Caudle, former officials in the Truman administration.

"Public servants were not able to handle the Sachs case properly because of the existence of the conspiracy," Newcomb said.

Newcomb told the federal court jury evidence in the lengthy trial establishes "beyond the slightest shadow of a doubt that the Sachs case was fixed" and he named Connelly, Caudle and Harry I. Schwimmer, attorney for Sachs, as the ones responsible for fixing the case.

Connelly, White House appointments secretary to former President Truman, and Caudle, former head of the Justice Department's tax division are charged with conspiring to defraud the government in handling the case.

Sachs, St. Louis shoe manufacturer, was fined $40,000 for tax evasion on a guilty plea in 1953 but escaped a prison term on health grounds. Schwimmer was a defendant in the trial until he became ill and a mistrial was granted in his case.

The jury is expected to get the case today.

The charge, upon conviction, carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

WOI Director Quits; Takes Ohio State Post

AMES (AP)—Richard V. Hull, director of WOI radio and television stations, has resigned his position to accept a similar job at Ohio State University, Iowa State College President James H. Hilton said Monday.

Hull's resignation will be effective about mid-November. He is now on leave of absence from Iowa State College, making a special study for the educational television and radio center at Ann Arbor, Mich. He flew to Paris Monday as one of four American representatives to a UNESCO television film meeting.

A 1938 graduate of Iowa State, Hull joined the staff here in 1941. He became station director in 1946. Prior to coming to WOI, he worked in radio at Ohio State University, the University of Minnesota and Station WCCO, Minneapolis.

Marine Shot While Asleep

FREMONT, Neb. (AP)—Marine Pfc. Richard E. Bossa, 21, Bridgeport, Mass., was killed by a single shot through the head as he slept on a lakeshore late Monday and County Attorney William G. Line said he was holding Jerry Vernon, 18, of Montgomery, Ala., on a first degree murder charge.

Line said robbery was the motive for the slaying.

Line said he had learned that Bossa had picked up Vernon and Stephen Franke, 17, Freeport, N.Y., at Sidney, Neb., Sunday and had driven them across Nebraska before they lost their way in Iowa and drove back west.

Line said Vernon and Franke were absent without leave from Ft. Warren, Cheyenne, Wyo.

Vernon and Franke told the county attorney that after the trio crossed the Missouri River at Omaha Sunday night, they became lost in Council Bluffs, Iowa and finally wound up driving back into Nebraska and a series of state lakes near Fremont. They arrived at the lakes about 3 a.m. Monday and walked to the sleeping man's side, bent over and fired. Line related.

Then, Line said, Vernon took $147 from Bossa's pocket, went back to the car and slugged Franke with the gun. When Franke came to Vernon was still there and Franke quoted him as saying "I'm sorry," then he told of shooting Bossa.

Franke said he and Vernon started walking to town then, and when he reached a filling station Franke ran in and telephoned Sheriff Pelham McGee. McGee picked up Vernon on the highway a short time later.

Woman Saves Boy With Respiration

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—A woman who had read about artificial respiration Sunday revived a 4-year-old boy who seemed at the point of death from drowning.

Dick Simmons, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Simmons of Grand Ridge, eight miles south of Ottawa, fell in a hole while wading with other youngsters in a creek.

A man standing nearby, Robert Leibold, pulled the child from the water.

SMOG ALERT

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's first smog "alert" of the year was called Monday as eye-burning vapors swirled through the Los Angeles basin, bringing misery to millions. It was the worst air pollution attack since last autumn and the temperature reached 89, adding to the discomfort.

And He Walked Away Uninjured

JIM RIGGAN, AN EMPLOYEE of Maas Grain and Feed Co., of Iowa City, escaped injury Monday night when his truck, loaded with 6 1/2 tons of feed, struck a culvert 1 1/2 miles south of North Liberty and went in the ditch. Riggan reported the left front wheel brake locked when he was traveling about 45 M.P.H. and, swerved his truck sideways into the culvert. The accident occurred about 8:30 p.m. when Riggan was returning from Cedar Rapids to Iowa City. Riggan stated that he was sure the truck was a complete loss. The frame was bent and the left rear wheel was broken off the axle.

Can 'Adopt' Little Brother or Sister

Any SUI student can adopt a little brother or sister under the University Hospital School for the Severely Handicapped program.

The program tries to find a big brother and big sister for each child in the hospital school.

Students participating in the program spend at least one hour a week with the child. They play with the child, go to movies, visit stores, go fishing, or write letters. All of the service is voluntary.

The program will start Wednesday. Any student wishing to become a big brother or big sister should phone x2613 between 4 and 5 p.m. on weekdays, or any time Saturday afternoons.

Contract Expected in Steel Negotiations

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Steel Workers' full 170-member wage Policy Committee was summoned to a Friday meeting here, apparently in anticipation of a contract offer from big steel.

The union announcement Monday said only that the committee's presence here was to keep it informed of negotiations. However, the USW said earlier it expected an industry wage offer sometime during the week.

Meanwhile, negotiations were recessed earlier in the day until Wednesday. Both sides said they had a lot of staff work to get out of the way.

Wage contract talks began June 5 with the union seeking an unspecified but "substantial" pay hike for 350,000 employees of U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic.

Will Give Lectures At Physics Parley

Thomas N. Gautier, Jr., of the Boulder, Colo., laboratories of the National Bureau of Standards (NBS), will give two lectures at the SUI Physics Colloquium Wednesday.

At 3 p.m. Gautier will lecture on "Investigations of the Ionosphere." He will give his second lecture at 4 p.m. The title of the second lecture has not been announced.

Gautier joined the NBS in 1942 and has been engaged in theoretical and experimental research on the physics of the upper atmosphere. In 1948 and 1949 he was the NBS representative on the U.S. delegation to the international aeronautical radio conference at Geneva, Switzerland.

Rules Civilians Subject To Military Trial

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled Monday that civilian dependents — wives, mothers and children — who accompany military personnel overseas are subject to military trial for crimes committed while there.

Dividing 5-3, the court dashed the hopes of freedom for Mrs. Dorothy Kreuger Smith, daughter of Gen. Walter Krueger, and similarly upset the hopes of another husband slayer of escaping a second military trial.

The court upheld the right of military tribunals to try Mrs. Smith for slaying her husband, Army Col. Aubrey D. Smith, 45, by plunging a knife into him as he slept in their Tokyo home Oct. 4, 1952 and to try Mrs. Clarice B. Covert, formerly of Augusta, Ga., for the ax slaying of her husband, Air Force Sgt. Edward E. Covert, in England.

In comment on the Covert case, Justice Clark said it was "clearly distinguishable" from that of former Air Force Sgt. Robert Toth of Pittsburgh.

In the Toth case, the court judged Nov. 7, 1955 that he could not be court-martialed because he was a civilian.

Clark, in explaining the difference, said Toth had returned to the United States and had been honorably discharged months before he was charged with implication in the slaying of a civilian in South Korea.

Unlike Toth, Clark said, the military had not relinquished jurisdiction over Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Covert.

Chief Justice Warren wrote a brief dissenting opinion in which Justices Black and Douglas joined. Justice Frankfurter abstained from voting, saying he wanted more time for "reflection" before expressing his views.

In the Smith case, Clark said Congress had the power to provide for military trials for civilian dependents who accompany military personnel to stations abroad.

Under the principles of international law, Clark said, each nation has jurisdiction over offenses committed within its own territory. This being so, he wrote, the essential choice involved is between an American and a foreign trial.

Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Covert received life sentences. Mrs. Smith is serving her sentence at the federal reformatory for women at Alderson, W. Va.

Mrs. Covert was taken to Alderson to serve her sentence, but she won a new trial on technical grounds and her case was carried to the U.S. Court of Military Appeals.

The court's decision in the Covert case left the way open for the Air Force to bring her to trial for a second time.

resistible and accelerating change," he said, with "disintegrating influences which affect the most ancient and immutable of institutions and ideas." Social and economic changes, population growth, progress in transportation and communication, and far-reaching political changes among nations are forces and movements "whose explosive power is quite as great in their way as the power of the A-bomb or the H-bomb." President Hancher said.

While agreeing that it isn't easy to live in such an age, he suggested that today's problems, like those of the past, will be solved by the application of intelligence. In emphasizing the importance of living "the life of reason," President Hancher advised the graduates to "refuse to believe all that you see and hear," to seek facts, to search for credible evidence and act upon it.

For example, although it appears overwhelming, the problem of the "rising tide of students" who will engulf college campuses in the next 15 years can be met if we face up to the fact and meet it boldly and imaginatively, Hancher said, citing the way America is facing and preparing to solve another overwhelming problem, that of highways. "We have the brains and the money to educate our youth, if only we believe in hard heads as much as we believe in hard roads," he said.

Management Course Starts Efficiency Study

Two weeks of intensive study on how best to coordinate the powers of men, machines, money and materials were started Monday when the 17th annual Summer Management course opened at SUI.

Fifty-five plant and production engineers and other industrial executives from 16 states and seven from the Canadian provinces of Quebec and Ontario are here for the meeting.

A high point of the course will be June 22, when Lillian Gilbreth, consulting engineer of "Cheaper by the Dozen" fame from Montclair, N.J., will make her 13th appearance at the course to speak on "Management, Here and There."

Participants will study communications under the general leadership of Prof. Orville Hitchcock, SUI Speech Department. Special lectures will point up the trend toward a broader background for management officials.

Course members will specialize in one of four option groups: (1) technical methods of management engineering, (2) control methods for management, (3) problems of production supervision, or (4) analysis of work methods, motion and time.

Prof. J. Wayne Deegan, SUI department of Mechanical Engineering, will direct the first group. Prof. Niles H. Barnard of the University of Nebraska, the second, John Nyquist, director of manufacturing for Collins Radio, Cedar Rapids, the third, and Prof. W. R. Hudson of the SUI College of Engineering the fourth group.

73 Veterinary Grads Take License Exams

DES MOINES (AP)—Seventy-three recent graduates of colleges of veterinary medicine, most of them from Iowa State College, began taking tests of the State Board of Veterinary Medicine Examiners Monday.

The examination takes a day and a half, and covers six general subjects or 12 separate subjects. The candidates for state licenses have completed six years of college work. The examination is given annually. The 73 in this year's class compares with 70 last year.
