

Eight Hungarians Swipe Red Airliner, Escape to West

INGOLSTADT, Germany (AP) — Eight anti-Communist passengers seized a Red Hungarian government airliner in a wild gun fight high over Hungary Friday and flew it to West Germany.

One emerged with blood-stained face and cried out: "Bonn! Adenauer! Germany!"

A former pilot among the ring-leaders brought the plane down to a crash landing at a U.S. Air Force base near here.

The fighting raged on after the plane skidded to a stop.

The coup apparently had been well planned in Hungary.

German police said 12 persons, including passengers and crew, were injured in the struggle for control of the twin-engine airliner.

The eight launched their attack after the plane took off in the early evening from Budapest. Its destination was the town of Szombathely, west of the Hungarian capital.

Police said a Red police lieutenant aboard the plane in plain clothes apparently had detected the plot and fired on the eight with a pistol.

The anti-Communists grabbed him, took his gun and broke into the crew compartment.

The Communist pilot tried to balk the plotters by sending the plane into dizzying loops. But he was forced from the controls at a point.

The rebels flew the plane over Communist Czechoslovakia and more than 100 miles of West Germany.

It was not the first time that anti-Communists have sought this method to flee from behind the Iron Curtain.

In 1953, four anti-Communist

Czechs—one a woman—slugged the radio operator of a Czech airliner and landed it in Frankfurt, West Germany.

German police said eight passengers of Friday's plane asked for political asylum in the West.

The freedom plane carried 15 passengers and a crew of five. The 12 persons injured—seven of them were hit by flying bullets in the midair struggle—were all taken to a German hospital for treatment.

The passenger pilot landed the plane about 7 p.m. at the U.S. Air Force's Manching Base, which is still under construction.

The police found two pistols in the plane.

All the injured were taken to the Ingolstadt Municipal Hospital and put under guard. Two women were among the injured.

Police said one of those in the hospital was injured seriously.

The seven passengers who remained neutral asked to be returned to Hungary.

The plane incident was a new sign of rising restlessness in Communist Hungary and elsewhere in the Soviet satellite countries.

On June 23 there was a bloody uprising of workers in Poznan demanding bread and freedom from their Polish Communist leaders.

Hungary has shown fears it may be the next to feel the fury of the workers.

Senate Group Votes To Up Aid Funds by $680 Million

Body Agrees To Continue Assisting Tito

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee, in a significant victory for President Eisenhower, voted Friday to add almost $700 million to the foreign aid program.

It approved a bill which would make available $4,346,220,000 in old and new funds for foreign aid during the fiscal year which began July 1.

This is $680,000,000 more than is carried in an appropriations bill passed by the House last Wednesday — and very close to the figure Eisenhower said he would settle for.

If the Senate accepts its committee's recommendations, there will have to be an effort to reach a compromise with the House.

The vote in committee was 13-8, with Democratic Sens. Richard Russell (Ga.), Dennis Chavez (N.M.), Allen J. Ellender (La.), Lister Hill (Ala.), John L. McClellan (Ark.) and John C. Stennis (Miss.) joining Republican Sens. Joseph McCarthy (Wis.) and Henry C. Dworshak (Idaho) in opposition to the higher figure. Eight Republicans and five Democrats voted for it.

Chairman Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.) reported the committee beat back fresh efforts to halt aid to Communist Yugoslavia and left the Yugoslav decision up to the President.

The foreign aid fight isn't finished yet, however. There will be another battle on the Senate floor next week, when the appropriations measure comes up from the committee.

But the prospects of Eisenhower getting more money for his mutual security program this year appeared to be brightening.

The major part of this year's foreign aid program is planned as military assistance to strengthen foreign nations against Communist expansion. But there is also some economic aid included.

45 Die in New Jersey Plane Crash

Air Force C-118 Falls In Swamp

CROSS LOCATES Ft. Dix, N. J., where a military transport plane crashed while taking off from McGuire Air Base late Friday.

FT. DIX, N.J. (AP) — A military transport plane, taking off from rainswept McGuire Air Force Base, crashed a few minutes later in a swampy pine forest Friday, killing at least 45 persons, two of them children. Twenty-one others were injured.

An airman aboard, one of the least injured survivors, said the 4-engine C-118 hit an air pocket and split as it landed on its belly. The big plane did not burn.

Lt. Col. Pedro M. Souza, an Army doctor, blamed most of the deaths on fractures. He said all passengers had not released themselves from safety belts.

Airman Albert J. Buck, a survivor who suffered a fractured ankle, told an Army doctor—Lt. Col. Horace W. Doty—that the plane hit an air pocket just as it left the runway at McGuire AFB, 30 miles south of Trenton.

Maj. Huly Bray, information services officer, said some of the survivors were so badly injured that they are not expected to live.

The plane, bound for Burtonwood, England, carried a crew of 10 and its 56 passengers included 41 airmen, 9 officers, and 6 civilians, including 2 children.

The big craft had lost radio contact with the field, and the crash was not discovered for several hours after it occurred about 4 p.m. Search parties had been sent out only on suspicion of a mishap.

The Military Air Transport Service said in Washington Friday's crash of a C-118, known as the Douglas Liftmaster, was the first fatal accident suffered in five years of operating such craft.

The big plane had seats which faced toward the back of the plane. The plane scattered over a half-mile area.

The report of the air pocket came from Doty, chief of professional services at Ft. Dix Hospital, who interviewed an unidentified airman. The survivor gave no further details.

The wreckage apparently was sighted first from the air and ground rescue parties were rushed to the scene.

A blinding rain turned the scene into a quagmire.

Companies of foot soldiers, carrying axes, entrenching tools, and other gear, waded knee and hip deep through swamp water to get to the site.

Bulldozers were used to clear a path to the wreckage for doctors and nurses.

The plane had cut its own swath through the pine trees, smashed apart and rolled on its side. Parts of the ship, including wings, motors and other metal parts were scattered back through the woods for a half-mile.

Another Air Force spokesman said a casualty list would be issued as soon as the next of kin are notified.

He said there was a 2-hour delay in reporting the crash because no one was sure the plane had gone down.

He added there was no radio contact with the plane and that authorities, becoming alarmed, ordered a search.

The spokesman said air traffic at the McGuire base is "not congested" and that four to five planes leave for Europe each day.

McGuire, a $55 million base adjacent to this Army post, was formally dedicated in September, 1955, and was described at the time as destined to become one of the greatest international airports in the world.

FIREMEN AND ARMY PERSONNEL search through the wreckage of a military transport which crashed in a swampy pine forest Friday night shortly after taking off from rainswept McGuire Air Force Base, killing at least 45 and injuring 21 others.

United Seeks To End Flights Here by '58

United Airlines will suspend its service to Iowa City within the next year and a half unless the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) intervenes in the near future, United officials said here Friday.

manager of station operations for United, and Leo Seybold, Chicago, Ill., assistant to the vice-president of the company, explained United's intentions to Iowa City businessmen and city officials.

Furman said it is not economically feasible for United to operate commercial airline service to both Iowa City and Cedar Rapids. By concentrating their service in Cedar Rapids, it is felt that both cities will receive better air service, Furman said.

Seybold said there was not enough business to schedule more flights into Iowa City and the company could not profitably serve both cities.

If service is discontinued, United plans to establish limousine service between Cedar Rapids and Iowa City, Seybold stated.

At the present time Iowa City has two United flights daily and Cedar Rapids has 10 flights daily.

There is an average of six persons boarding each flight out of Iowa City, Seybold said. A 70 per cent increase in the number of passengers during the remainder of the year would be necessary for the company to break even on its Iowa City operation, he said.

He also said that because of the shortage of Iowa City runways, during certain high temperature conditions, United planes have to limit their loads to get off the runways.

Seybold said that United would not fight a feeder airline coming into Iowa City along nonparallel routes.

Mayor Leroy Mercer stated that Central Airlines, a feeder line, has indicated an interest in establishing service to Iowa City on a Kansas City-Chicago route.

Businessmen at the meeting explained that Iowa City had a growing business potential and with better arrival and departure times more business would come to Iowa City.

City officials have indicated they will attend the CAB hearings in Omaha, Tuesday, to protest the possible suspension of service.

Even if CAB does give United permission to withdraw their service to Iowa City, the company will not do so for another year or 18 months, Seybold said.

Harlan Miller To Describe Russian Trip

Harlan S. Miller, Des Moines Register columnist, will be interviewed about his impressions of Russia by three SUJ faculty members in the Senate Chamber, Old Capitol, at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Miller has just returned from a 3-week tour of Russia and has completed a series of articles for the Register about the Russian people, their attitudes toward America and the likelihood of peace.

Members of the panel interviewing Miller will be Prof. Hugh Kelso, SUJ Department of Political Science, Prof. William E. Porter, SUJ School of Journalism, and Prof. Harold Saunders, head of the SUJ Department of Sociology.

Prof. Arthur M. Barnes, SUJ School of Journalism, will serve as moderator for the interview.

This was Miller's second trip to Russia. He had visited the country in 1936. On his recent trip he attempted to compare present conditions in Russia with those he observed 20 years ago.

Miller's column, "Over the Coffee" appears daily in the Des Moines Register. His latest book, "There's a Man in the House," was taken from his monthly column in the Ladies' Home Journal magazine.

He has been a columnist since 1940 and previously had served with United Press, the New York Evening Post, New York Daily News and Better Homes and Gardens magazine.

Cypriots Say No to British Negotiations

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Greek Cypriot leaders Friday rejected Britain's bid for cooperation in developing self-government for Cyprus. They insisted they first must have guarantees of the right to decide whether they want to join this island colony with Greece.

The Ethnarchy Office, which speaks for most of the 400,000 Greek Cypriots, declared that only exiled Archbishop Makarios can negotiate a settlement of the Cyprus issue, and emphasized he already has made self-determination a prime condition.

The Ethnarchy Office is a six-member inner cabinet of the island's Ethnarchy Assembly consisting of more than 400 Greek Orthodox Church and lay representatives.

In a statement, the Ethnarchy Office said Prime Minister Anthony Eden's announcement Thursday that Britain will press plans for self-government was received with "great resentment" by Greek Cypriots. Eden did not mention self-determination.

Cypriots of Turkish descent, numbering about 100,000, oppose the move for union with Greece. They want the island returned to Turkey if British rule is ended.

British leaders were reported several weeks ago to have worked out a plan whereby self-government would be granted Cyprus in the near future, with the right of self-determination to be exercised in 10 years. This reportedly was rejected by the Turkish government.

Archbishop Makarios was deported last March to the Seychelles Islands in the Indian Ocean. The British accused him of fomenting rebel violence.

Eden told the House of Commons Thursday that Lord Radcliffe, a legal expert, will fly to Cyprus to start work on the constitution. Eden said, however, the constitution would not be effective "until terrorism has been overcome."

A leading Greek Cypriot spokesman, Mayor Themistocles Dervis, said his associates would refuse to meet with Lord Radcliffe.

Russia Proposes Body To Control Atom Use

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed Friday a European organization to control peaceful uses of atomic energy including Communist and non-Communist nations. Both the United States and the Soviet Union would belong.

The organization would replace a being developed, known as Euratom. This is to pool the atomic resources of France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

The Soviet Union charged that Euratom would be a tool of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), make more permanent the division of Germany, and enable the Germans eventually to produce atomic weapons.

The Soviet Union disclosed its proposals in a note to the embassies of the United States, Britain, France and so-called "neutral" nations, including Switzerland and Austria.

The proposal is reminiscent of the Soviet call during the Big Four summit conference in July, 1955 for a general European treaty on collective security to supplant NATO. It wanted the United States invited to join the European security organization with Communist China getting observer status. The proposal drew a negative reaction from the West.

Russia has agreed with the United States and other countries to set up under United Nations auspices an international agency for the peaceful development of atomic energy. An 84-nation conference will meet in New York in September to consider a charter. Moscow failed in efforts to get Red China admitted to that meeting.

Euratom is in the treaty drafting phase. The French National Assembly this week approved French participation. The plan was approved in principle by the six governments in May.

Month-Old Baby 'Fair' After Fire

KEOKUK (AP) — A month-old girl was reported in "fair" condition at Keokuk Hospital after being overcome by smoke from a fire which damaged her parents' home Friday.

Mrs. Robert Mullen told police the fire apparently started when the kitchen curtains were ignited by a stove burner.

She said she discovered the flames when she went downstairs after putting her baby to bed. She tried to return for the baby but was unable to get upstairs again. Firemen rescued the child.

Radford Hints Cut In Armed Forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff said Friday, "it is possible that manpower requirements for future security of the United States can ultimately be lowered because of the introduction of new weapons."

The chairman, Adm. Arthur W. Radford, did not say how great the cut in the military forces might be.

The New York Times said Friday that the chiefs of the Army, Navy and Air Force are in "revolt" against a Radford proposal to slash U.S. armed forces by about 800,000 men by 1960.

Radford refused comment on the "revolt" report.

The Times said strategic defense planning has been halted until after the election because of opposition by the armed services chiefs to a concept which they feel would shrivel U.S. military contributions to the defense of Europe.

In a statement issued hours later, with Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson's approval, Radford commented:

"The Joint Chiefs of Staff have not been relieved of the annual requirement to advise on the pattern of military forces in the foreseeable future and their studies will continue until they are able to present their best advice to the secretary of defense."

"This may or may not be a unanimous recommendation," Wilson affirmed that he had "read and approved" Radford's statement.

"There was no comment from the chiefs of staff."

Wilson, in addition to saying he had approved Radford's statement, released a letter dated July 3 to Rep. George Mahon (D-Tex.) referring to "rumors" reported by Mahon that the armed forces were to be reduced.

Wilson told Mahon that "there have been no recent decisions changing the strength of any of the services" from those outlined at hearings on current military appropriations. Mahon is chairman of a House appropriations subcommittee on defense funds.

U.S. Moves To Improve Relations in German City

BAMBERG, Germany (AP) — U.S. Army commanders moved quickly Friday to patch up strained relations with local authorities after the Bamberg City Council Thursday night called for withdrawal of American troops from this Bavarian city.

The unprecedented demand was sparked by the alleged raping of a 15-year-old school girl by seven American soldiers.

Time for Hope

From The New Republic

Dr. Gallup has discovered that 83 per cent of the voters know Bob Hope when they see him, but only 25 per cent can recognize Averell Harriman. This appears to confirm the rumor that the American people, the Presidential campaign notwithstanding, are not as interested in politics as the politicians would like. The usual explanation given is that the people only get excited about politics when the country is in trouble.

Some Democrats, of course, say the country is in trouble, but Democrats are known to be men of little faith when Republicans are running things.

We try to be more detached, and we conclude that it isn't that people are uninterested in politics; they're just confused, and who can blame them?

Just before the President's "indisposition" (Mr. Dulles' word for it), Mr. Eisenhower made a fine statement about neutralism. He said he could understand the reasons for it, this country has been neutral, or tried to be, for most of its history; neutralism doesn't imply any indifference toward "right and wrong or decency and indecency." That sensible view barely had got to the newspaper readers in Oslo, Cairo and New Delhi, when Mr. Dulles, in one of his evangelical moods, promptly said the opposite: neutralism is "an obsolete conception, and except under exceptional circumstances, it is an immoral and shortsighted conception." But before that had time to register fully, the Secretary was viewing with concern the possibility that Congress would cut off aid to neutralist India and Yugoslavia.

The debate over neutralism did not end there. For Governor Harriman took the side of John Foster Dulles, that is the John Foster Dulles who thinks neutralism is obsolete, not the Dulles who favors aid to the two leading neutralist nations. But Harriman went further, charging that by his tolerant comments on neutrals "the President played smack into their [the Kremlin's] hands."

If the American voter manages to clarify the conflict between the President and Dulles-Harriman he may wish then to consider our policy of person-to-person exchanges with the Soviet Union. Premier Bulganin, in his latest note to Mr. Eisenhower, wrote off disarmament negotiations of the past few years as pretty much a waste of time. To that Harold Stassen responded by suggesting that disarmament is being delayed partly by the reluctance of the Russians to open up their country to foreign visitors in the interests of disarmament, therefore, the U.S. should do its utmost to encourage more visiting back and forth between Russians and Americans. This heretofore heretical idea was thereupon admirably seconded by the man who made America safe from Alger Hiss — Richard Nixon. But neither said what they propose we do about the fingerprinting of visitors, which the Russians find obnoxious, or about the Walter-McCarran Act which bars all Communist visitors except those on official business.

Nor did they say how they are going to keep the Pentagon quiet. For at the same time Mr. Stassen and Mr. Nixon were pleading for a lowering of barriers, our military spokesmen were telling the press in background briefing sessions, that any signs of friendliness with Communists could endanger our entire system of military defense, here and abroad. Why, the world might say, should we be asked to sacrifice new washing machines for guns, if the Russians are fine fellows? What we have most to fear, the military argues by implication, is the decline of fear itself.

If the American voter finds all this too bewildering and escapes for the moment to Bob Hope and television, who in the world can blame him.

Who Did It?

The German Problem

'It seems that we find ourselves at present in a great conflict between East and West'

These are excerpts from a speech by West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

It seems that we find ourselves at present in a new phase of the great conflict between East and West. The present leaders of the Soviet Union have pushed from his throne — after his death, it is to be noted — Stalin, the exponent of the policy of cruel hardship, of intimidation, of threat and violence. They have struck a fresh note.

It is undeniable that they are making an impression thereby on some people. We cannot tell with certainty the reasons which led them to disavow Stalinism but one thing can be said with assurance: there are no signs to indicate that the disavowal of Stalinism means the acceptance of those spiritual principles which are the foundation of the free world. Instead, there are only new forms and methods used by a new, more dexterous leadership in the Kremlin in order to achieve the old objectives of the Bolshevik regime — the domination of the world by communism — more surely and with fewer sacrifices.

All the free nations are faced here with a question of the utmost importance, with the question: Is an unarmed peace possible? For the German people this question has special significance. Because of their geographic situation they are neighbors of Soviet power — by the Iron Curtain they are cut into two parts. Consequently they are especially disposed, perhaps, to place their hopes in a change of Soviet policy which would achieve the redemption of 17,000,000 Germans of the Soviet zone from enslavement.

THEREFORE, THEY ARE particularly ready to welcome with pleasure any evidence of a genuine change of mind in the leadership of the Soviet Union. But our own experiences have been too bitter and we have seen too clearly the meaning of communism, the methods it uses and the diabolic skill with which its propaganda operates not to react to the latest events in Moscow with the utmost skepticism.

One thing, I believe, is certain — and this was also clearly borne out by the Twentieth Party Congress in Moscow: The leaders of the Soviet Union continue to believe that capitalism is doomed to destruction and their aim is to make communism the dominant power in the world. The theory of "peaceful coexistence" currently being advanced by them does not by any means signify that they are prepared to respect the ideology of the West or even its continued existence.

As far as the Soviets are concerned, "peaceful coexistence" — which they had used advantageously before — is merely another tactical phase in their campaign to weaken the cohesion of the free world and to improve their own position. In line with their goal, they are addressing themselves at present chiefly to the Asian-African nations.

SO FAR, I THINK, the men in the Kremlin still owe us proof that they are ready also in their policy toward the free nations to act in accordance with their repudiation of Stalin. So far, we have heard words but not seen any deeds. We have not seen any significant corrections of the most flagrant manifestations of Stalin's imperialism. Even the allies of the Soviet Union are still denied those rights to which the Soviet Union, by signing the Charter of the United Nations, pledged itself.

The men in the Kremlin are still not prepared to remove the main causes of the tension in the world. They also refuse to make any real concessions on the German issue — for example, in fact, with regard to the German issue, Mr. (Nikita S.) Khrushchev expressed himself more ruthlessly than French Premier (Guy) Mollet and French Foreign Minister (Christian) Pineau during their visit to Moscow when he stated that he would rather have 17 million Germans on his side than a reunified neutral Germany. Can you think of a more emphatic endorsement of brute force?

I beg you, ladies and gentlemen, to consider the German question, the question of German reunification not only as a German right but also as a question of natural law. The question of German reunification is the pivot on which European stability hinges and, consequently, world peace depends. Khrushchev quite evidently also sees it in that light.

Konrad Adenauer
'Is Unarmed Peace Possible?'

THROUGHOUT THE WORLD the Soviets aggravate existing conflicts and endeavor to undermine the West's position in an unscrupulous manner. Their course seems clear to me: They want to lull the vigilance of the free world and to weaken its readiness to defend itself. Above all, however, they want to smash first the mighty protective shield of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to drive the United States from Europe so that Europe will fall like a ripe fruit into the Soviet lap and through its industrial potential and the skill of its people will end the Soviets' decisive superiority over the United States.

I consider the new tactics of the Soviet Union more dangerous than the former aggressive conduct, since it plays upon the longing for peace which lives in all men.

What, then, can the West do, what can we all do in this situation? I think it is the task of the responsible statesmen and of all the peoples of our free world to insure that the Soviet scheme does not succeed. First this requires one thing: We must of no account relax even one moment in our vigilance.

IT IS UNDENIABLE that recently the cohesion of the West has weakened and that there are clear indications of a lack of coordination in its foreign policy. Fortunately, the West possesses a great and strong organization which has, so far, deterred the Soviet Union from an attack. I refer to NATO, which was established at a time when the danger of a hot war existed. This danger is not at present acute because the Kremlin hopes to achieve world domination through the slow undermining of the West. The new task is now to prevent this breakup of the West.

For this purpose, too, NATO — further developed — is the proper instrument. To my mind one cannot very well pursue an agreed military policy toward a nation without having, at the same time, maximum conformity in foreign policy aims in respect to that nation. The West must not let the Soviets believe that, while it does pursue a common military policy, it is, on the other hand, possible for every single NATO member to pursue its own foreign policy — free from all restrictions — in relation to the Soviet Union.

An essential contribution toward the maintenance of peace must be made by the free nations of Europe. It cannot be denied that, as the immediate threat of war receded in Europe, a selfish way of looking at national interests threatens to spread once more. In spite of this we can state that a degree of political cooperation has been achieved in free Europe from which point the work of the political unification of the old Continent can be successfully carried on.

The concept that the states of free Europe must join in a political and economic unit is a positive result of the last war. Many millions of Europeans, especially also in the Federal Republic of Germany, have been imbued with this idea and it is the guiding principle of the foreign policy of the German Federal Government. The freedom, the very existence of Europe depend more than ever on Europe's ability to realize this concept.

DISRUPTED AND disunited Europe must sooner or later succumb to the power threatening the Continent. Europe, however, can survive the difficult and protracted period of growing together only if the United States of America continues to maintain its strong protection of the old Continent.

The Federal Republic of Germany is prepared to make every possible contribution toward the creation of a united Europe, and I think, when you study the years since 1949, you will find that we have, indeed, achieved quite a few things in this field.

UNIFICATION REMAINS A question of common concern both to the German people and to the four powers who have undertaken to bring it about. We are most grateful to the Western Powers for the attitude which they have adopted on this question. They have stated again and again that reunification of Germany in freedom and liberty constitutes one of the most important elements of a genuine easing of tension, and that the implementation of any general disarmament — in which they are most interested — is not conceivable without simultaneous progress toward reunification of Germany.

Bicycles

(From the Times of Viet Nam)

The astounding number of bicycle accidents in Saigon should before long reduce the number of bicycles on the streets considerably. But this solution to the acute traffic problem in the capital is a slow one as well as being an expensive one.

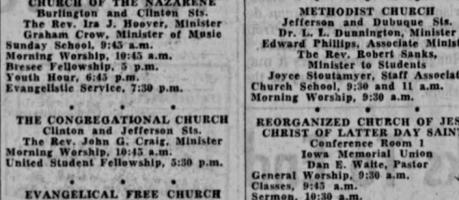

We are not traffic engineers, so we make no pretense at knowing all the answers. But it would seem that with all the funds in the national and municipal budgets allotted for police services it should not be too difficult to enforce a few simple driving and bicycle riding rules.

Riding three and four abreast, riding arm-in-arm, hitching rides on mopylets or trucks, entering an intersection in the face of on-rushing traffic—these are easily controllable practices which should be prohibited and for which there should be reasonable but adequate punishment.

A system of through streets and stop signs would help to reduce collisions at intersections, which seem to be the most common place for accidents.

We do not know what is necessary to move the proper authorities in this most proper field of government action, but we would suggest that civic organizations such as the JayCees and Rotary could do much to help them educate the public in traffic safety.

Sweep Dodgers; Lead Reds by 1-

Braves Back in First, 8-6, 6-5

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves blasted Don Newcombe for six runs in the first inning Friday night but had to score twice more in the late innings to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8-6, in the first game of a two-night double-header.

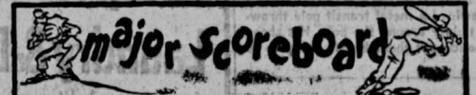

Liechty Loses Duel to Leahy In Semifinal

DES MOINES (AP)—Steady Bob Leahy, a gifted iron player who won the 1954 title, decisively Iowa City's John Liechty, one-up, and will battle Bob McCardell for the Iowa amateur golf championship.

SECOND GAME
The Braves completed the doubleheader sweep by taking the nightcap from the Dodgers, 6-5, on Joe Adcock's grand-slam homer. It was the third straight win over the Dodgers. It gave them a full game lead over the Cincinnati Redlegs, who were defeated by Philadelphia, 6-4.

DICK GROAT, Pittsburgh Pirate shortstop, slides safely across home plate in the first inning of Pittsburgh's game with the Chicago Cubs Friday. Cub catcher Harry Chitt waits for the throw-in as umpire Tom Gorman watches. The Cubs won, 7-6.

Phils 6, Reds 4

CINCINNATI (AP)—Philadelphia's Phillies hit two homers and nine other hits Friday night, defeating Cincinnati's Redlegs, 6-4, and knocking them out of the National League lead.

Granny Hamner, reached first when Simmons' shortstop Roy McMillan muffed his grounder and went to third on a single by Ted Kazanski. Another single, by Simmons brought him home.

Philadelphia added another run in the ninth when Hamner belted a single that brought Ed Ennis across from third.

Tom Acker, one of four hurlers who tried their hands for Cincinnati, took the defeat. Starter Brooks Lawrence, who was looking for his 13th win without a loss this year, was replaced at the mound in the third.

Cards 7, Giants 5

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Alvin Dark doubled across the deciding runs with his fourth straight hit of the game and gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 7-5 verdict Friday night over the New York Giants, his first while teammates.

Yankees Blast Indians, 10-0 For 7th Straight Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—Tom Sturdivant breezed to his eighth victory with a two-hitter and Bill Skowron batted in four runs with a single and a home run as the New York Yankees walloped the Cleveland Indians 10-0 Friday night.

It was the seventh straight success for the Bombers and hiked their American League lead to 8 1/2 games.

A five-run seventh inning, in which the Yankees swatted a double and six singles while sending 11 men to the plate, put the game well beyond reach of the third-place Tribe.

Sturdivant, a 26-year-old right-hander, had been considered a reliever by Yankee Manager Casey Stengel until last month.

The only hits he gave up Friday night were a two-out, fourth-inning single by Preston Ward and a one-out, fifth-inning ground rule double by Jim Hegan.

BOSTON (AP)—Jim Piersall proved the man of the moment for the second time in as many games Friday when he drove home the winning run as the Boston Red Sox whipped the Chicago White Sox 5-4.

Thursday night Piersall walloped a ninth-inning two-run homer for a 3-1 Boston triumph over the Chicagoans.

Piersall's game-winning hit Friday, a Texas Leaguer into right, capped a two-run rally after two were out in the eighth inning.

2 Southerners in Public Links Final

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Two sharp-shooting Southerners, both natives of Memphis, Tenn., Friday won their way to the finals of the National Public Links Golf Tournament.

Bill Scarbrough, 32, now a petty officer with the Navy at Jacksonville, Fla., defeated San Francisco fireman Ovid Seyler, 6 up with 5 holes to go in one semifinal match.

In the other, Junie Buxbaum, a 128-pound swinger and a businessman in Memphis, turned back Jimmy Wilbert of South San Francisco, 2 and 1, in their 36-hole match.

Johnson Sets Decathlon Pace

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Rafer Lewis Johnson, UCLA giant who already holds the world decathlon record, piled up another world record total of 4,639 points Friday night for the first half of the AAU National Decathlon which will determine the three U.S. Olympic decathlon contenders.

In spite of humid air and an occasional sprinkle, Johnson closed the first session of the two-day meet with a 400-meter dash in 47.9 seconds but only tied Notre Dame halfback Aubrey Lewis for the best time ever made at the distance in decathlon competition. The old record was 48.3 made in 1953.

The 6-foot-2 1/2-inch Johnson, a

200-pound wedge of muscles, had a 98-point bulge over his first-half total in his 7,983 world record decathlon of last year.

He won the 100-meter dash Friday in 10.6 seconds, good for 1,080 points, and the broad jump at 23 feet 2 1/2 inches, good for 808 points.

Johnson got 1,025 points for his 400-meter run and 832 for going 6 feet 1 inch in the high jump.

On unofficial figures, Milt Campbell, schoolboy star of the 1952 Olympics and 1953 National Decathlon champion, was in second place at the halfway point with 4,387 points.

ZULUETA OVER LIGHTBURN
NEW YORK (AP)—Orlando Zulueta, a 3 to 1 underdog, used a flicking left jab to pile up points for a surprise unanimous decision over Ludwig Lightburn of British Honduras in a 10-round match Friday night at Madison Square Garden. Lightburn weighed 138, Zulueta 136 1/2.

Governor Knight Asks PCC Disband

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Gov. Goodwin J. Knight said Friday he would lend his "heartly support" to any move to dissolve the Pacific Coast Conference and set up an athletic league for California universities.

But the governor, voicing indignation at recent PCC fines and player suspension levied on UCLA, California, USC and Washington, said he himself had no power to form such a statewide conference.

In Los Angeles, Gov. Knight got support in a measure from Chancellor Raymond B. Allen of UCLA. Said Allen: "Apparently many people are of the same mind as Gov. Knight regarding the formation of a new athletic conference of the four major California universities."

Move Cuts Government Wheat Trade

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration announced Friday night it will give farmers and private traders a bigger share of the wheat export business.

The move followed complaints that the Administration's present policies were tending toward "state monopoly" because exports have largely consisted of government-owned surplus wheat.

Hereafter, the Agriculture Department said, privately owned supplies of the grain will be given a much larger share of export markets.

This action had been proposed some time ago by the grain trade and came a few hours after the leader of the National Grange had charged that present wheat export policies were moving toward "a state monopoly" that threatened ruin to the private marketing system.

Herschel D. Newsom, master of the Grange, said in a letter to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Marvin L. McLain that the Government, by pushing its wheat into export markets, had become a competitor of farmers and traders.

In a formal announcement, the department said that beginning Sept. 4, it will discontinue sales of its wheat to exporters at cut rates for shipment abroad.

Exporters will then have to turn to supplies held by farmers and other private owners. But the department will continue to offer export subsidies to enable shippers to compete with lower prices in world markets. U.S. prices are being supported above world levels by a farm price support program.

The subsidy will be designed to permit exporters to pay the higher U.S. domestic prices for privately-owned wheat and sell it abroad at lower prices.

The subsidy will be in the form of government-owned surplus wheat rather than in cash, as the grain trade and Newsom had urged.

Heretofore government supplies have made up more than two thirds of the wheat exports. Under the new arrangement, government supplies—released in the form of export subsidies—will make up only about one third of the commercial export movement.

The department said, however, that it will continue to use government surplus wheat to fill barter contracts with other countries and for foreign famine and relief programs.

Death's Door

FREDERICK GRANT, 23-year-old Navy veteran, was killed Friday when a car driven by a chum side-swiped a metal transit pole throwing Grant out and folding the door tightly around the pole. His shoes were torn off by the impact and police put them beside the pole to mark the location of the body.

Ike Picks Hoffman For UN Delegation

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower, ignoring a protest by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), Friday picked industrialist Paul G. Hoffman as a member of the American delegation to the UN General Assembly.

President Eisenhower sent the nomination of Hoffman and other delegation members to the Senate for confirmation less than 48 hours after McCarthy had told the Senate that Hoffman was making statements which "could only be made by a fool or a Communist."

Referring to McCarthy's statement in a sort of "Who cares?" tone, presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters that "Yeah, we read it."

Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga.) served notice in the Senate that his Foreign Relations Committee will consider the nomination Tuesday.

McCarthy said he is thinking of asking the committee to give him an opportunity to testify against Hoffman.

When the nomination reaches the Senate floor, McCarthy said, "I will oppose it, certainly."

Hoffman is chairman of the board of Studebaker-Packard Corp. Friday was a rainy day that kept the President confined to his farm home and kept Vice-President Richard Nixon from flying in from Washington. Nixon's visit, to report on his round-the-world trip with stopovers in six Asiatic nations, was postponed until today.

Tailless Puppy Gets Sympathy of Court

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A laborer was fined $275 Friday after a police judge found him guilty of tearing the tail off the family puppy.

The laborer, Willard Muencher of St. Louis was accused by his wife who testified he acted in a fit of temper.

Muencher denied the act. He said he had merely tried to bob the dog's tail Thursday night after the Muencher's children suggested he do so.

The 6-week-old puppy was turned over to the Humane Society of Missouri.

Prof Displays Burmese Art At Library

An exhibit of paintings by Burmese children is on display in the library and will be there for about a month. The paintings were collected by Prof. Frank Wachowiak, University High School.

Prof. Wachowiak worked with children at the State Teachers Training College, Rangon, Burma, during the 1953-54 school year. He was in Burma on a Fulbright Scholarship.

He demonstrated different art forms to the children, ranging in age from 6-16, and then gave the children a chance to express themselves.

Most of the 45 paintings are in water color or crayon because they were easier to ship back to the United States, he stated.

Wachowiak discovered that if children in any atmosphere have a chance to express themselves in subject matter of their own experience that they would express a valid and exciting art.

This is the first display of the exhibit at SUI, but it has been touring the Midwest this past year, he stated. Next fall the exhibit will be shown in the Eastern states.

IN A PINCH
DES MOINES (AP)—A Des Moines woman complained to police Friday that as she was drying herself after a bath Thursday night, someone reached through the bathroom window and between slats of a venetian blind and pinched her. She told officers the hand and arm disappeared when she screamed.

Waverly Man To Visit Russia

WAVERLY (AP)—Vern L. Schield, president of the Schield-Bantam Co., one of the world's largest producers of power cranes and excavators, leaves Sunday for Russia to look over Soviet progress in his industry.

Schild says his journey is primarily to find out what the Russians are doing in the way of construction equipment. Two years ago he tried to go to Russia for the same purpose but was not able to make the proper connections.

He is traveling as a private citizen and will be accompanied by Harold Phillips, Anderson, Ind. Phillips is editor of a church publication.

They will travel by plane by way of New York, Iceland, Sweden and Finland, going from Helsinki to Leningrad.

In Russia, they will visit Leningrad, Stalingrad, Rostov and Kiev. On Aug. 21, they will go to Warsaw, Poland, and from there to Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Next stop will be Frankfurt, Germany, where Schild's wife and family will join him.

Boy Loses Rod, Reel But Not 22-Inch Catfish

LAKE VIEW (AP)—Lynn Potter, 8, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul Potter of Lake View, lost his brand new rod and reel when he got a good strike at Black Hawk Lake Thursday evening.

His father came to his rescue and using a 3-barbed hook snagged Lynn's lost tackle. Still hooked on the youngster's line was a 22-inch catfish.

SUI Workshop Picks 'Curious Savage' Cast

"The Curious Savage," a 3-act comedy suggesting that sometimes there is more human warmth and "sanity" inside a mental home than outside, will be presented at 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday in the University Theatre by the 25th SUI Summer Workshop for High School Students in Speech and Dramatic Art.

It is a play with no leads but has 11 strong parts," observed Director Shirley Gillespie of the SUI Dramatic Arts Department.

The four longest feminine roles are double-cast, she said. On alternate nights Susan Shanks, Newton, and Carol Willenburg, Atlantic, will play the part of Ethel Savage, the wealthy widow who is committed to The Cloisters because her "foolish whims" seem to endanger her children's inheritances.

Mrs. Savage's daughter Lily Belle will be played by Diana DeDanico, Davenport and Janey Willows, Mt. Pleasant. Her daughter Sylvia will be played both nights by Margaret Evert of Galena, Ill., and her son Titus by Al Stanley, Montezuma.

John Augustine, Oskaloosa, will play the role of Dr. Emmett. The other parts — all inmates of The Cloisters — will be performed by Penny Orr, Spirit Lake; Sandra Morrison, Waterloo; David Burgu, Dubuque and Don Larew, Iowa City. These students will all have roles also in a program of two one-act plays, "The Dancers" by Horton Foote and "The Twelve-Pound Look" by James M. Barrie. The time and place of this program will be announced later.
