HARRY S. TRUMAN, undaunted by reversals in his stop Stevenson campaign, laughs heartily at a talk with newsmen Wednesday night. Still hitting at Adlai Stevenson, he said he'd fight for Averell Harriman "until the last dog dies."

Iowa Demos Back Strong Rights Plank

CHICAGO (AP) — A noisy caucus of the Iowa delegates to the Democratic convention Wednesday night argued whether to press for inclusion of a specific civil rights plank in the Democratic platform.

The caucus also heard Herschel Loveless, Ottumwa, say that pressure was being applied on him to vote for Adlai Stevenson and not for New York Gov. Averell Harriman whom he is backing.

Lex Hawkins and Robert Johnson, both of Des Moines, spoke in behalf of a strong civil rights plank in the platform.

Hawkins said the proposed plank on civil rights does not include a statement that the recent decision of the Supreme Court would be carried out, nor support of a fair employment practices provision.

"Let the minority from the South walk out if it wants to," said Johnson. "We must be four-square on the issues. The majority of the convention wants the plank."

A motion to have the Iowa members of the platform committee return to that group and press for inclusion of these provisions was dropped after a member of the committee said it would do no good.

It also was pointed out that the Iowa delegation last Sunday adopted a motion approving the Supreme Court decision on segregation.

George Laub of Cresco, said he didn't think Iowa has the same civil rights problems as some of the Northern states and added: "We need the electoral votes of the South."

Eugene Peterson, Estherville, representative of the CIO Packinghouse Workers Union and a delegate from the 6th District, also attacked the civil rights plank.

"You have done us a real disservice by not supporting us on civil rights," Peterson said. "Labor in Iowa has done a lot to help the Democrats get elected. You could have helped us this time. You owed us this much."

Hawkins and Johnson said the Democrats would lose several of the larger cities in the North unless the civil rights plank was strengthened.

Other delegation discussion centered on Herschel Loveless, Ottumwa, who was backed by the caucus when he told of delegates trying to influence him to vote for Stevenson.

Loveless is Iowa's Democratic nominee for governor and the delegation's vice-chairman.

He said he had not asked to be placed on the delegation.

Loveless, a supporter of Gov. Averell Harriman of New York for the presidential nomination, said he has not tried to influence any delegates, then asked the delegation if it wanted him to withdraw as a member.

He was greeted by a chorus of "no's." Loveless added he would like to cast his ballot for the man whom he thinks is best.

Loveless did not explain to the delegates why he brought up the question of withdrawing. Later he told a reporter that some of the backers of Adlai Stevenson, the front-running candidate for the presidential nomination, had been

Harriman Still in Race

Adlai Steamrollers Votes Early Today

CHICAGO (AP) — Adlai Stevenson swept to within 12½ votes of the 686½ needed for the Democratic presidential nomination early today.

An informal poll of the Maryland delegation indicated all 18 of state's votes would go to Stevenson, giving him a total of 674 in the Associated Press tabulation. The delegates previously had been split.

CHICAGO (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson rocketed Wednesday night toward a first ballot presidential nomination, but first the Democratic National Convention faced the possibility of a tussle over civil rights.

The presidential balloting begins this evening.

An Associated Press tabulation Wednesday showed Stevenson had 665½ votes toward the 686½ needed to win the nomination. Harriman had 240½.

The big swings to Stevenson Wednesday were by vote-rich delegations from Michigan, New Jersey and Arkansas. Arkansas' move was made depending on adoption of a satisfactory platform.

Stevenson had no comment on the Platform Committee's proposed civil rights plank.

As it came from the platform drafters Wednesday, the plank pointedly skipped an outright endorsement of the Supreme Court's ruling that racial segregation in the nation's schools is unconstitutional.

Thus it tiptoed cautiously down a chalk mark between the position of Southerners who wanted no reference at all to the Supreme Court and that of Northerners — including Stevenson and Harriman — who favored an unequivocal endorsement of the Supreme Court ruling.

But party leaders predicted the South would talk tough but stop short of repeating the Dixie walk-out of the 1948 convention.

And Sen. Lyndon Johnson, a Texas favorite son and Southern rallying point, was talking as if he thought a settlement was possible. Johnson still kept the 56 Texas votes ready to use for "achieving party unity."

Stevenson himself looked beyond the convention and called upon Democrats to "stop knocking one another" and close ranks for the November election.

This was after former President Truman had renewed his attack on Stevenson at a press conference.

Stevenson said he had no unkind feelings toward any other Democrats and voiced the hope that they can all leave the convention without "further bitterness."

About the only thing the Harriman people could find to cheer about was the formal and expected support he got from President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers (UMW).

While the UMW backed Stevenson in 1952, Lewis told reporters Stevenson "didn't measure up to the job" of backing President Eisenhower four years ago.

The New York governor showed up at an Ohio caucus and denied he was withdrawing from the presidential contest.

"There is nothing defeatist about me," he said. "I'm going to stick with this thing to the end. If I'm the last man in that hall I'm going to stand for what I believe in."

Stevenson forces once more began sizing up vice-presidential prospects.

There were predictions that Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who withdrew from the main race prior to the convention, would get support in the Nebraska delegation for the running mate spot.

Demo Planks Blast GOP, 'Illusion'

CHICAGO (AP) — Here are highlights of the platform presented to the Democratic National Convention Wednesday night for adoption:

DOMESTIC POLICY — Declares Republican claims of prosperity are an "illusion" for farmers, small businessmen, low income workers, old people on small pensions and savings, and young Americans seeking education. It speaks of further "stunting" of economic progress if GOP policies are followed.

It pledges the Democratic party to work toward the reduction and elimination of poverty, improvement of social institutions, particularly schools, and elimination of "false economy" in expenditures for national defense.

It charges that the GOP administration's economic policies have favored the "few."

AGRICULTURE — Promises to undertake to regain full parity returns for farmers. It would attempt to achieve this through 90 per cent payments, purchases of surpluses, and production controls on basic crops.

It also promises to develop measures for providing price supports for nonbasic crops and perishable products. It would set up a food stamp plan to move surplus food to low income groups and expand the school lunch program. It would offer easier farm credit.

GENERAL WELFARE — Promises to expand and improve Social Security programs, doctors help for educating more doctors, expand medical research, and to revive public housing programs of the Truman administration. It also pledges federal financial aid for schools.

LABOR — It criticizes Eisenhower administration policies and pledges repeal of the Republican-sponsored Taft-Hartley Act, which it says the GOP had promised to improve from labor's standpoint. It promises to enact new labor legislation patterned after laws passed during Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration.

The plank declares it imperative that minimum wage rate be increased from the present $1 to $1.25 an hour, and that legislation be passed to provide equal pay for equal work, regardless of sex.

ATOMIC ENERGY — Claims Eisenhower administration's "steady service to selfish private interests" is threatening U. S. lead in world race to develop nuclear power. Promises to use powers of the government to expedite such development, including the giving of "life and meaning" to the Republican "atoms for peace" program.

GOVERNMENT OPERATIONS — Pledges return of government to

Convention Sidelights

Minnesota Neutral On Vee Candidate

The Minnesota delegation took a neutral stand today between the state's Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and Tennessee's Sen. Estes Kefauver in the Democratic vice presidential contest.

The action left the Humphrey backers unhappy. It came after a tumultuous three-hour session at which a secret ballot was taken on the contest between the two. But before the ballots were counted, the group voted to destroy them.

Foreign Policy Plank Promises Aid to Israel

A 17-member drafting subcommittee laid before the full platform group a foreign policy plank that promised military aid to Israel.

It also proposed support for the principle of free access to the Suez Canal under suitable international supervision.

This plank also lashed at what it called "confusion" in foreign policies of the Eisenhower administration.

Adlai Takes Day's Events in Stride

Stevenson took Wednesday's developments in jaunty stride, but his aides were somewhat flustered by the rush of events.

Newsmen asked James Finnegan, Stevenson's campaign manager, and Hy Raskin, executive director of the fast-moving drive, what their tally sheets showed. Both had been keeping score on delegate strength for months, but now they were trying to find out the score themselves.

Predicting Early Win

Gov. G. Mennen Williams holds up Adlai Stevenson's arm in a symbol of victory Wednesday during a news conference. The Michigan Governor earlier had released his delegates to back Stevenson.

Civil Rights Plank Gives Adlai Strength

CHICAGO (AP) — Averell Harriman early today countermanded earlier reports, circulated by one of his top aides, Frank McKinney, that he had conceded nomination to Adlai E. Stevenson, by stating that he would remain in the race "right down to the wire."

Earlier, McKinney, a top lieutenant, had conceded defeat in a terse statement to the press.

McKinney had said Harriman's cause was hopeless in the light of Stevenson's huge vote accumulation and the set back on Civil Rights.

The decision came on a closed voice vote at about 12:30 a.m. today after former President Harry S. Truman called for the majority, moderate plank, and unity in the party.

The vote ended the fight that had begun in the Platform Committee which submitted the civil rights plank to the convention.

After Truman's speech urging the delegates to vote for the already proposed plank, a bulletin from Harriman's campaign headquarters announced he had conceded to favorite Adlai Stevenson.

Stevenson also reportedly had backed a stronger plank, but would make no comment when the convention floor rights fight started.

CHICAGO (AP) — A civil rights plank sidestepping an endorsement of the Supreme Court's anti-segregation decision while pledging a fight against "illegal discriminations" was approved Wednesday by the Democratic Platform committee.

It pleased neither side in the North-South civil rights row.

The convention came to a standstill for nearly an hour while frantic efforts were made to work out

Convention Schedule

CHICAGO (AP) — Here is the program for the Democratic National Convention sessions today:

Afternoon session opens 12 noon (CDT) with invocation, "Star Spangled Banner."

Roll call of states to nominate candidates for the presidential nomination.

Night session opens 8 p.m. with invocation, Star Spangled Banner.

Balloting on candidates for presidential nomination.

A North-South compromise on the plank — its give and take within the convention's Platform Committee.

The compromise attempt failed and the original draft went before the convention, along with a minority report submitted by the Northerners.

A minority report can be carried to the convention floor only if at least 11 members of the Platform Committee back a differently worded plank.

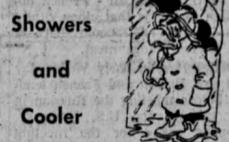

Northerners insisted on trying to put into the platform a definite pledge "to carry out" Supreme Court decisions outlawing racial segregation in public schools. They also wanted a call for what would amount to a federal fair employment practices law, to guarantee "the right to equal opportunity for employment."

The Northern strategy board made its way to the blue-bunting convention platform, waiting for the strategic moment.

The 106-member Platform Committee okayed the plank and dispatched it to a session of the national convention Tuesday night.

Shortly afterward, the 98-vote New York delegation voted unanimously that the civil rights plank was "totally unacceptable." The idea was to offer a stronger plank. Carmine DeSapio, delegation

Another surge of cold Canadian air moving southward is due to push into northwest Iowa tonight, spreading across the state by Friday, the Weather Bureau forecast.

Only a few scattered showers are expected as the front crosses Iowa. Scattered thunderstorms are expected tonight.

High temperatures forecast today are from 90-98 degrees.

Further outlook calls for partly cloudy skies and cooler tomorrow.

Adlai Banner Ordered Out

CHICAGO (AP) — A New York banner for Adlai Stevenson was ordered out of the Democratic National Convention Wednesday night by Chairman Sam Rayburn.

He ordered the sergeant at arms to take it away.

"As long as I am chairman," Rayburn said, as he interrupted a speech by Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, "there will be no banners."

Rayburn complained it was an unauthorized banner.

Rayburn did not explain what he meant by unauthorized banner, but most of the New York delegates are supporting Gov. Averell Harriman for the party's presidential nomination.

He said he had not asked to be placed on the delegation.

Swift on Politics

When one begins to feel a bit smug and complacent regarding things political, especially during an election year, it might be a good idea to re-read Johnathan Swift's satire, Gulliver's Travels. Pick up the original version or you might find yourself with the watered down children's story.

Swift himself was extremely bitter at the world in general and about politics in particular. One of his typical remarks concerning society was "When you think of the world, give it one lash the more at my request."

His most well-remembered satire on politicians, however, is in Gulliver's Voyage to Lilliput.

It is in this account that Swift relates the absurd doings of the Lilliputian court, the Divisions, as they were called, that decided whether or not a man was fit for office.

These Divisions were only practiced by those men who were candidates for high offices (incumbents and challengers) of the government. The men need not be of noble birth or well educated, but they must have been trained from youth at such tricks as dancing on a rope, or jumping a stick.

Upon reading and re-reading this entertaining satire one finds parallels galore between Swift's Divisions and political campaigning of today. While watching recent happenings on TV, the citizen of today can almost project himself back to Lilliput and the Divisions.

These Divisions are often fatal to the participants, says Swift. The reason for the accidents, he claims, is that in each candidate's attempt to outdo the others he may strain himself so far as to fall from the rope and break his neck.

Political blunders aren't new to the world, it would seem. The stick jumping Division is not so dangerous, according to Swift. In this contest the candidates line up and run at a stick held by one man. The stick is kept in constant vertical motion, but held horizontal to the ground.

As these candidates approach the stick, they must either leap over it or creep under it depending upon its position. The candidate who keeps from being touched by the stick for the longest time wins the contest.

No bandy-words here, maybe it's not a bad idea. After re-reading Swift's brilliant novel, the TV viewer of the present may find himself watching rope dancing and stick jumping rather than delegate polling, and it's infinitely more entertaining.

Style Contrasts

Modern communication methods are wonderful, and we have a great respect for the ability of the sales fraternity to make us buy something we have never felt a need for. But we find such trick methods hard to swallow in connection with vital public issues. We suspect that many of the delegates at the Democratic convention and a high percentage of the TV audience felt their intelligence was insulted by the Clement quiz kid show.

The talk given by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was in sharp contrast to Clement's keynote speech and his quiz kid act.

Mrs. Roosevelt's talk was not without political significance and included a veiled attack on Harry S. Truman and some campaigning for Adlai Stevenson. However she did remind the delegates of the profound importance of their task and she appealed not to emotion but to reason.

She told the convention that the Democratic party should not lean on tradition alone, nor place too much reliance on elders and party heroes. Instead, she said, the party should look ahead, face the issues of today and choose young leaders with vision and new ideas.

Mrs. Roosevelt's remarks could be taken as a comment on the extreme partisanship of the Clement speech and the concentration on salesmanship as contrasted to substance of public policy.

Car Theft Ring Uncovered

DES MOINES — Two brothers were held for questioning Wednesday about operations of what Detective Chief Robert E. O'Brien described as a well planned and organized auto theft ring.

The men were Donald Lee Lohner, 25, and David Delbert Lohner, 27, both of Des Moines. The FBI entered the investigation because of apparent interstate phases of the ring, O'Brien said.

Ed Harkness, St. Paul, Minn., special investigator for the National Auto Theft Bureau, also was en route to Des Moines. O'Brien said Harkness advised he would stop at Mason City to check on a car sold to a used car dealer there. Detectives Galyn Kilgore and Scott Crowley said Donald Lee Lohner had signed statements admitting theft of nine cars and trucks which were sold after their appearance had been altered.

The detectives said Donald Lee Lohner said he would buy late model used cars and trucks which had been wrecked, steal a similar late model car or truck and then transfer the registration certificate and title to the altered stolen car.

The stolen vehicle then would be resold to a used car dealer who would be unaware that it was stolen.

Harri(Tru)man's Friends Ticketless

By GEORGE DIXON
King Features Syndicate

CHICAGO, Aug. 13 — The way to get nothing at this Democratic National Convention is to be known as a friend, follower or factotum of Harry S. Truman. Anyone even suspected of having diplomatic relations with the party's only living ex-President is lucky to be permitted in a hotel lobby, much less the Convention Hall.

There is a "Dump Everybody with Truman" movement. I'm almost afraid to be seen speaking to Les Biffle, Clark Clifford, Ed Pauley, Frank McKinney or Perle Mesta, for fear they'll revoke my privilege of using the water cooler in the Conrad Hilton basement.

The Trumanites complain that it's all very well to talk of civil rights, but that they're the principal victims of discrimination. They hold the Adlai Stevenson forces, in general, and Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler, in particular, responsible.

Mr. Truman tries to conceal it behind his gleaming glasses, but he's in a high state of outrage. The other night, after the tumult and shouting had subsided to a din, a bunch of Harry's closest cronies gathered in the Truman $110-a-day suite in the Sheraton-Blackstone for an indignation session.

Making sure Bess and Margaret were not in earshot to counsel moderation, the ex-President blurted:

"They're trying to do everything to burn us up. They even cancelled the car that was supposed to be at my disposal."

"Did you hear what was done to me?" contributed former presidential assistant Clifford. "I had reservations for this hotel for more than six months. But when I arrived here with my family I found Paul Butler had summarily cancelled them."

"Same with me," cut in California's Pauley, one of the party's biggest contributors. "Butler cancelled me too!"

"I've been Convention Sergeant at Arms for the last eighteen years," gritted former Secretary of the Senate Biffle. "Until this convention I had the distribution of all the badges and tickets. I appointed the Assistant Sergeant at Arms, the pages and the doorkeepers. Butler took everything away from me. I'm trying to dig up a second balcony pass for my wife, Glade."

Bill Boyle, who is both a former Democratic National Chairman and a cousin of Truman's, said he'd had a hard time getting a single ticket for himself. Frank McKinney, another ex-National Chairman, wailed that he had tried to get four tickets for his family but was given the worst rundown of his political career.

"The big labor leaders are very important to the Democratic Party," interposed one of the galaxy, who asked me not to identify him in this particular matter. "But when George Meany, Walter Reuther and Dave McDonald tried to get some tickets for their top lieutenants they were turned down. Then they heard that over 1,000 tickets were handed out to Cook County people alone. They are blazing mad."

"Yes," cut in Mr. Biffle, "and look what they did to Phil here. He's been opening our conventions with the 'Star Spangled Banner' for 16 years. Now Butler ditches him for Frank Sinatra."

Phil Regan grinned wryly: "It doesn't really matter."

"Yes, it does," contradicted Frank Barry, former secret service agent, who is bodyguarding the Trumans here. "You are our singing Mr. Democrat — our party's musical star. Why did they dump Regan for this outlander Sinatra?"

"All I did," confessed Regan, "was to follow the lead of the boss here and plunk for Governor Harriman."

The wrath seminar was working to a pitch when Mr. Truman dissolved it in almost hysterical laughter. He sneaked up behind Biffle and pinned both his arms to his side. Holding the astounded and struggling Les immobilized, the ex-President shouted to the others: "Search him boys! Search him for tickets!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

TELEVISION WRITERS are subjected to frequent network censorship, some of it baffling indeed. For instance, one censor insisted that the word "avocado" be eliminated from a script. "Why?" demanded the writer. The censor answered coldly, "My dear fellow, have you ever SEEN an avocado?" and marched majestically out of the room. The writer is still trying to figure it out.

A lady had trouble with her complexion. (Who doesn't?) The druggist suggested a new facial cream which, he promised, would take wrinkles out of prunes. So she applied the cream faithfully. Today her complexion is still terrible—but she's certainly got the smoothest prunes in her neighborhood.

Ruling Asked On Welfare Aid Ceiling

DES MOINES — The State Board of Social Welfare asked the Iowa Supreme Court Wednesday to rule that the $175-a-month ceiling on aid to dependent children payments is constitutional.

The board appealed from a Polk County District Court decision in which Judge Harvey Uhlenhopp said the maximum established by the 1955 Legislature is void.

The case arose out of a complaint by Mrs. Pearl B. Collins of Des Moines in behalf of her six children, whose ages range from 5 to 15.

She had been getting $291 month in aid, but under the legislative act the amount was cut back to $175 monthly effective in August of last year. She said the $175 was not enough for the family to get along on, in view of the fact that neither she nor her husband could work because of illnesses.

Mrs. Collins first went to the Polk County Board of Social Welfare. It conceded she needed $277 a month, but said it must abide by the law. Mrs. Collins appealed to the state board, which affirmed the county ruling. Then Mrs. Collins took her case to the District Court.

A petition at law was filed Wednesday requesting judgment of $145 from Edgar Eggers, operator of Eggers Cab Company and Mildred Eggers. Plaintiff in the suit is William Hollander. Back wages with interest and cost of the action was cited in Hollander's petition.

State Penalty Yet to Come—

Hodge Gets 10-Year Sentence

CHICAGO — Orville E. Hodge, once popular, fun-loving Illinois state auditor who took home a sizable chunk of the state's treasury, was sentenced Wednesday to 10 years in prison.

But the 10 years is only part of the price he must pay for tapping the till for almost a million dollars by cashing fake state checks. The punishment decided upon Wednesday was on a federal indictment to which he pleaded guilty. He still awaits sentencing on state charges.

The federal indictment originally contained 54 counts alleging Hodge misapplied $875,000 in federally insured bank funds. For technical reasons prosecutors weeded out three counts which brought the figure down to $816,427.

Hodge, a Republican, has pleaded guilty in Sangamon County Circuit Court in Springfield to 48 indictments alleging he took $637,000 in state funds.

The Hodge who appeared before Judge John P. Barnes in U.S. District Court was a sharp contrast to the hail-fellow-well-met state officer who a few weeks ago was buzzing around in a private airplane and maintaining luxurious quarters in Springfield, Chicago and Florida.

He mopped his brow and flicked tears from his eyes as his lawyer,

Orville E. Hodge Gets 10 Years

Arthur Fitzgerald, entered a plea of guilty.

The Government had expected the defense to plead for a delay in sentencing, but Fitzgerald said Hodge "wants to get it over with."

Whereupon Judge Barnes sorted the 51 counts into four groups which for all practical purposes amounted to a sentence of 10 years in prison. The judge's action also made provision for a program of restitution which Hodge has instituted.

As the sentence was read, Hodge flushed and seemed near collapse. He braced himself with his fists planted on a table as he sagged from his standing position. Later he regained composure and walked from the courtroom without aid.

Hodge, 51, was taken in a wheelchair from St. John's Hospital in Springfield before dawn for a trip in a squad car to Chicago for his court appearance. He had been hospitalized since spending a few hours in the Sangamon County Jail Monday after pleading to the state charges.

Hodge has been weakened by the physical strain and depression that overwhelmed him since the fast-developing scandal knocked him out of the Republican state administration and the path to possible governorship slightly more than a month ago.

Whether Hodge will celebrate his next few birthdays in a U.S. or an Illinois penitentiary depends upon which his defense attorneys choose.

Judge Barnes made no choice but expressed a desire that "the sentence imposed here be served concurrently with any sentence imposed by the state." The Hodge party returned to Springfield in the early evening. He was confined under guard in St. John's Hospital.

U.S., Russia Oppose Arms Use in Suez

LONDON — The United States and Russia were reported in broad agreement Wednesday night that armed force must be ruled out in the Suez Canal dispute.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred for the first time with Soviet Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov.

Dulles formed the impression that the Russian was willing to do business over the final form of a Suez settlement at the 22-nation conference opening today.

Their talk took them no nearer firm agreement on what the settlement will be. They still split over President Nasser's insistence that Egypt must operate the canal.

Pakistan's Foreign Minister Hamidul Haq Chowdhry said during a Cairo stopover on his way to London, Nasser told him he would accept international advice on running the canal but not international control.

Egypt's Premier Nasser created the issue by nationalizing the Suez Canal Co. July 26. A week later Britain, France and the United States called a conference of 24 nations. Greece and Egypt declined to attend.

Dulles and Shepilov were reported to agree that the conference can make no positive, final decision.

Shepilov was said to be ready to accept at face value Nasser's promise to run the canal fairly, efficiently and freely, providing for UN intervention in case of a breach.

The U.S. - British - French objection to this is that other vitally interested nations should share in the actual management.

Dulles flew in early Wednesday and saw British and French leaders before meeting the Russian in the talk at the U.S. Embassy. Shepilov asked for the meeting with Dulles.

Informants reported the western powers reached substantial agreement on the proposals they intended to present.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said on his arrival, "France is convinced of the desirability of international control for the canal."

Nasser's chief of cabinet, Wing Cmdr. Aly Sabri, left Cairo for London Wednesday. A senior Egyptian diplomat, Ibrahim Sabry, arrived earlier from the Egyptian capital.

A government official in Cairo denied Sabri was coming as a conference observer but would not say what his purpose was. The understanding in London was that the two newcomers would reinforce the Egyptian Embassy staff, would not attend the conference but would be available for sideline negotiations.

While the diplomatic activity went on, more troops flew out of Britain to bolster the display of French and British power in the Mediterranean.

But London was quieter after the widespread clamor in Britain and France for reprisals against Egypt.

Brushes Live Wire, Man Electrocuted

FORT DODGE — Dyrus Ekquist, 21, of near Callender, was accidentally electrocuted Wednesday while helping install telephone poles 2 1/2 miles southwest of Barnum.

Dr. Paul Stitt of Fort Dodge, Webster County coroner, said Ekquist was holding a guy wire used to guide the placing of poles. When a pole was raised the guy wire touched an electric power line.

Workmen administered artificial respiration, and an ambulance gave Ekquist oxygen en route to a Fort Dodge hospital. But he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Ekquist was employed by the Tyler Electric Co. of Tyler, Minn., which was installing the poles for the Barnum Telephone Co.

He graduated this year from the Fort Dodge Junior College and had planned to enroll at Iowa State College this fall. Ekquist was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ekquist of near Callender. He is survived also by several brothers and sisters.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Nazi Foreign Minister Dies

STUTT GART, Germany — Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Hitler's one-time foreign minister and "protector" of occupied Czechoslovakia, died Tuesday.

His family said Wednesday the major Nazi war criminal died at his Enzweigenheim home near Stuttgart at the age of 83. Death was attributed to a heart ailment.

Von Neurath was freed from Spandau Prison in Berlin Nov. 6, 1954, for medical reasons. He had served 8 years of a 15-year sentence imposed by the Allied War Crimes Tribunal in 1946.

Von Neurath was foreign minister from 1932 to 1933. With Von Neurath when he died were his wife and his daughter, Mrs. Hans Georg von Mackensen, a daughter-in-law of the late Field Marshal von Mackensen, famed German World War I commander.

SUI Staff Men Report for Reserve Duty

Four SUI staff and faculty people reported for two weeks active army duty this week.

Three of them are at the adjutant general's school, Ft. Benjamin Harrison, Ind. They are Prof. Frederick L. Darley and Prof. Duane C. Spriestersback, both of the Department of Speech Pathology, and Desmond L. Cook, University Examinations Service.

Spriestersback and Darley are both majors in the adjutant general corps of the army reserve. Cook is a first lieutenant in the AGC.

Prof. Frederick P. W. McDowell, Department of English, reported to the reserve school at Camp McCoy, Wis. He is a major in the quartermaster corps of the reserve.

Community Play Tryouts Scheduled

The Iowa City Community Theatre is calling for readers for the play, "The Moon Is Blue," which will be presented in the last week of September. George Quenzel will direct.

Readings will be held next Wednesday and Thursday in the Council Chambers of the Iowa City Hall. Anyone who wishes may read for the play.

There are four characters to be chosen, one woman and three men, for the play.

The Community Theatre has also announced a general business meeting which will be held on August 21 in the City Hall. Matters pertaining to the September play will be discussed.

Braves' Spahn Stops Cards, 4-1, But Redlegs Take Two

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stylish Warren Spahn scattered five hits Wednesday night as the league-leading Milwaukee Braves defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1.

The victory kept the Braves out in front of their two closest rivals in the tight National League race but Cincinnati took over the second spot with a doubleheader victory while Brooklyn lost to New York and dropped to third.

Spahn, in picking up his 13th win against 9 defeats, walked one and struck out two, Stan Musial both times. The Cards only run came on catcher Ray Katt's solo home run to the left center field bleachers in the third inning.

Milwaukee came back in their half of the fourth inning to score two runs on only one hit as the Redbirds chipped in three errors.

Milwaukee 000 210 100—4 8 0
St. Louis 001 000 000—1 5 3

Spahn and Crandall, Poholsky, Jackson, and Katt, W-Spahn (13-9), L-Poholsky (7-9).
Home run—St. Louis, Katt.

BOB SKINNER, Pittsburgh first baseman, slides into third base safely with a stolen base in Wednesday night's game between Philadelphia Phillies and the Pirates. Phil shortstop Granny Hamner puts a late tag on Skinner as Umpire Tom Gorman looks on. The Pirates won, 5-1.

7 Americans High In Canadian Open

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (AP) — Canadian Open champion Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., and six other Americans joined nine Canadians in the third round of the Canadian Amateur Golf championships Wednesday.

Americans parading through two rounds along with Sanders were Ted Lenzyk, Newington, Conn.; John G. Miles, Mamaroneck, N.Y.; Ed Meister Jr., Willoughby, Ohio; Frank Strafaci, Garden City, N.Y.; Arthur Butler, Portsmouth, N.H., and Albert Smith, Buffalo, N.Y.

Also surviving the first two rounds were Moe Norman of Kitchener, Ont., defending champion, and Gary Cowan, also of Kitchener.

Reds 4-7, Cubs 3-3

CHICAGO (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs used both the long and short routes to sweep a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs Wednesday, winning the first 4-3 in 15 innings, and capturing the second 7-3 as darkness halted play after six innings.

Rookie Frank Robinson's bases-loaded single scored Ruy Jablonki with the winning run in the first game. Wally Post's grand slam homer off starter and loser Russ Meyer was Cincinnati's clutch blow in the nightcap.

The Cubs, who broke a 20 consecutive inning scoring famine in the first inning of the opener, owned a 10-7 hitting edge in the second match.

In the first game, Chicago and Cincinnati had splendid opportunities to score in the lengthened contest.

Robinson tripled with one out in the Cincinnati half of the 14th but was left stranded.

Rookie Cub shortstop Jerry Kindall suffered the same fate when he opened the Chicago half with a triple.

Pete Whisenant's two-run homer pulled the Cubs into a 3-3 tie in the seventh.

On Martin's 2-Run Double

Yank Rally in 7th Brings 6-4 Win

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees scored three runs in the seventh inning Wednesday to break a 3-3 tie and defeat the Boston Red Sox 6-4 for the second time in a row in their three-game series.

Billy Martin's double scored two runs in the seventh for the Yanks, after Hank Bauer had broken the deadlock with a single that brought in Mickey McDermott.

Tom Brewer was the victim of the Yankee attack and Martin's hit sent him to the showers as he sought his 17th victory.

Yogi Berra's homer with a mate aboard in the sixth inning had given New York a 3-1 lead, but Boston tied it in the top of the seventh on a single, base on balls, an error and infield out.

Boston's first run came in the sixth on Jim Piersall's homer with the bases empty. Two more errors in the ninth gave Boston its fourth run.

Tommy Byrne and Tom Sturdivant finished up the game for New York, Byrne getting the credit for his seventh win.

Mickey Mantle, with 42 homers in his drive to catch Babe Ruth's record of 60 in one season, got a single in two official trips. He was walked twice. His single preceded Berra's homer.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Dick Donovan shut out the impotent Kansas City Athletics on two hits Wednesday night, while Minnie Minoso, Sherm Lollar and Sam Esposito hit home runs to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 10-0 victory.

Minoso drove in four runs with his homer and two singles. Lollar and Esposito (tattooed the left field fence with doubles in addition to their circuit smashes, driving in five runs between them.

Donovan, who notched his sixth victory against seven defeats, did not give up a hit until the sixth when his pitching opponent, Wally Burnette led off with a single. The other hit, a single by Al Pilarcik in the eighth, was nullified by a double play.

Burnette, who absorbed his fifth loss against two victories, was clobbered for nine runs and 13 hits before manager Lou Boudreau finally derided him with one out in the eighth, and after Esposito and Lollar had hit their solo homers in that frame.

The Sox added another run in the ninth off Troy Herring.

Chicago 100 100 321—10 13 1

Giants 1, Bums 0

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Southpaw Johnny Antonelli, backed by Willie Mays' 21st home run, outduelled Don Newcombe with a beautiful, 11-strikeout two-hitter Wednesday night as New York's heretofore reluctant Giants beat Brooklyn 1-0 and dumped the Dodgers out of second in the hectic National League pennant race.

The defeat slipped the world champions two percentage points behind Cincinnati, which swept a doubleheader at Chicago.

The only hits off Antonelli were a two-out single by Duke Snider in the second inning and a one-out double by Charlie Neal in the eighth.

Mays' game-winning home run came with one out in the fourth. Newcombe, who had won nine in a row, was looking for his 19th victory. It was his sixth defeat. He left for a pinchhitter in the eighth.

New York 000 100 000—1 4 0
Brooklyn 000 000—0 0 0

Antonelli and Sarni, Newcombe, Laine (9) and Howell, W-Antonelli (11-12), L-Newcombe (18-6).
Home run: New York—Mays.

Bucs 5, Phils 1

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pitcher Ron Kline's five-hitter, backed by Roberto Clemente's heads-up base running and Kline's own clutch single, earned the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday night.

Kline handcufted the Phils through 4 2/3 innings before they could put together straight singles by Ted Kazanski, Jack Meyer, and Richie Ashburn for a 1-0 lead.

In the eighth, Lee Walls scored the tying run on Frank Thomas' one-out fly ball after drawing a walk and going to third on Meyer's wild pitch.

Clemente singled. Then, on Bill Mazeroski's hit-run single Clemente came all the way around when Elmer Valo, rightfielder, threw to second. The relay from Kazanski was too late. Mazeroski took second on the play at home.

Meyer then walked catcher Hank Folles to get at Kline. Ronnie Singled in Mazeroski. Bill Virdon's single scored Folles with the fourth run of the inning.

Pittsburgh 000 000 001—5 13 0
Philadelphia 000 010—1 3 0

Kline and Folles; Meyer, R. Miller (8), Flowers (9) and Lopata, W-Kline (10-13), L-Meyer (7-6).

Orioles 3, Nats 2

BALTIMORE (AP) — Billy Gardner singled home the winning run in the twelfth inning Wednesday night to give the Baltimore Orioles a 3-2 victory over the Washington Senators after Bill Wight's sensational relief pitching stopped a Senator threat.

Wight relieved starter Mike Fornieles in the 10th with one out and runners on first and third. He struck out Pete Runnels, who had driven in both Washington runs, and got Roy Sievers on an out-field fly.

Wight then struck out the next five men he faced to come within one of the major league record held by eight pitchers—the last being Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees against Kansas City on July 20.

In the 11th, Jim Lemon and Herb Plews struck out and Ed FitzGerald looked at a third strike. Tony Roig looked at a third strike to open the 12th and Bud Byerly

Tigers 1, Tribe 0

CLEVELAND (AP) — Harvey Kuenn drove in a run with an eighth-inning double to give the Detroit Tigers a 1-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night.

Kuenn's hit scored Bill Tuttle from second base and broke up a pitcher's battle between Detroit's young Frank Lary, and Cleveland veteran Bob Lemon.

The 25-year-old Lary allowed the Indians six scattered singles.

Lemon, 35, scattered three singles and walked only one until Tuttle led off the eighth with a single.

The veteran right-hander got Frank Bolling on an infield grounder that moved Tuttle to second, and struck out Lary. Then came Kuenn's game-winning hit.

It was Detroit's second straight victory over the Indians, and dropped the second-place Tribe 10 1/2 games behind the New York Yankees.

Detroit 000 000 010—1 6 3
Cleveland 000 000—0 0 0

Lary and House; Lemon and Nargan, W-Lary (12-12), L-Lemon (15-10).

'I Do'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Athlete Stella Walsh was married Tuesday night in Las Vegas, Nev., to an aviation company draftsman, she disclosed Wednesday.

Miss Walsh, 45, and Harry Olson, 33, of Northridge, Calif., flew to Las Vegas, were married by a justice of the peace. It was the first marriage for each.

The bride represented Poland in the 1932 and 1936 Olympic Games and hopes to compete for the United States at Melbourne, Australia this year.

She will compete in the Olympic trials at Washington, D. C. Aug. 25.

Miss Walsh said her marriage would assure her eligibility for the Olympic team if she is successful in the trials.

She is a U.S. citizen but the International Olympics Committee has ruled that a woman who competes in the Olympics for one country can compete later for another only if she is married to a citizen of that country.

Miss Walsh said she and Olson met six years ago.

Varied Entries In Drag Race World Series

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Two Washington, D.C. students and a Chicago housewife are among the entries in the third annual World Series of Drag Racing which will be held in Lawrenceville Aug. 22-26.

Mrs. Marie Kramer of Chicago, one of the few women hot rodders in the nation, will be competing against the country's top male hot rodders for the second time. Her entry is a 1933 Chevrolet coupe with a Cadillac engine. She was one of two women drivers at Lawrenceville last year.

Other entries include the Arfons Brothers of Akron, Ohio, winners of the first World Series, and Lloyd Scott of Long Beach, Calif., the 1955 champion.

More than 1,500 hot rodders are expected to compete for top honors in speed, engineering and styling in the national hot rod events before some 15,000 fans.

Laurence Hickey and Ted Wells, Washington, D.C. students, have entered their home-built Slingshot Dragster with an Ardan-Mercury engine. The car hit 132 miles an hour in a drag race July 15 at Frederick, Md.

The grand prize of the World Series is the Maremont Trophy and a $1,000 university scholarship.

The races will be run on a half-mile strip laid out on a mile-long runway at the Lawrenceville Municipal Airport, about 250 miles south of Chicago.

A drag race is an acceleration race started from a standstill and run over an electronically timed course of one-quarter mile.

Top Pros at Milwaukee Open Tourney

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The nation's top pros, with one notable exception, turned up Wednesday for today's first round in the $35,000 Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament at wind-swept Tripoli Golf Club.

The exception is 37-year-old Ted Kroll, winner of the $50,000 Tam "World" title at Chicago Sunday. Kroll decided to pass this stop on the tournament trail in order to take his family back home to Utica, N.Y.

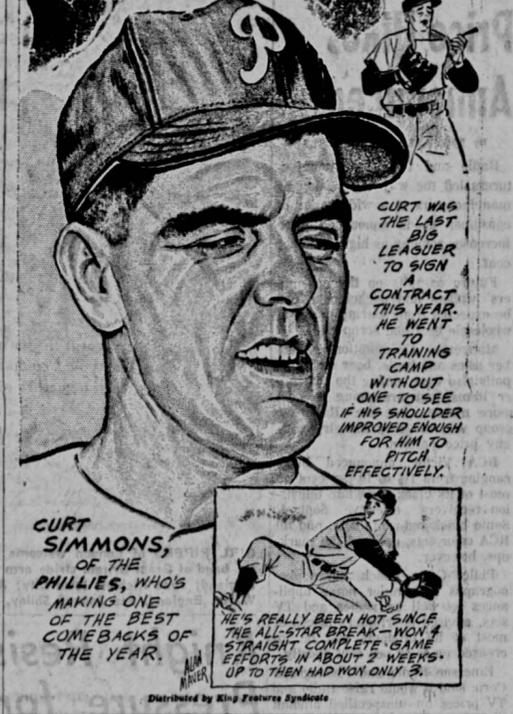

If practice round scores carry any weight, and many times they do, the money players should dismantle par of 35-37 at a 3,900-yard Tripoli during the four-day 72-hole medal test.

One of the lowest rounds reported so far was a course record-equaling 6-under par 64 by Al Beselink, golf giant from Grossinger, N.Y.

Two strikes over Beselink was pro Mike Benciscutto of nearby Racine, who held the Wisconsin State Amateur Championship in 1949 and 1950. Benciscutto led Tuesday's qualifying round for non-exempt players with a 66.

Other stars on hand to shoot for first prize of $6,000 and a new station wagon include Jackie Burke, Masters and PGA titleholder; Jack Fleck, 1955 National Open King; Sam Snead, Doug Ford, Jerry Barber, Tommy Bolt, Jimmy Demaret, Bob Toski, Dow Finsterwald, Bob Winingar, Dutch Harrison and Gene Littler.

Wide Range Price Hikes Announced

Radio and television manufacturers led the way Wednesday as manufacturers of a wide range of consumer goods announced price increases ranging as high as 10 per cent.

Future assaults on the consumers' wallets and pocketbooks can be expected from soaring prices of wholesale beef and scrap steel.

Mattresses, air conditioners, rubber soles and heels, beer and steel pails also were among the consumer items that are going to cost more money, but the Radio-TV group was the only industry with any price pattern.

RCA Victor announced hikes ranging from 1 1/2 to 10 per cent on most of its black-and-white television receivers, effective Sept. 1. Some black-and-white sets, and all RCA color sets, escaped the mark-ups, however.

Philco Corp., which makes phonographs and major home appliances as well as radios and TV sets, advised distributors prices of most of its products will be increased up to 10 per cent shortly.

Emerson Radio and Phonograph Corp. said it would raise radio and TV prices an unspecified amount "by the end of the year."

Emerson also announced a 5 to 10 per cent boost in air conditioner prices. Benjamin Abrams, Emerson president, attributed the price boosts to rising costs of materials.

Prime, corn-fed cattle hit a new high for the past 16 months at Chicago's Union Stockyards, with the top price $50.50 a hundred pounds compared to the year-ago price of $25.25.

Scrap iron and steel, which started going up in price when the steel strike began, continued to spiral upward despite the recent strike settlement. Prices in the Chicago district were up as much as $14 a ton from pre-strike levels.

Soybean Experts Predict Price Rise For 1957 Season

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—A University of Illinois soybean marketing specialist Wednesday predicted an average price of $2.10 a bushel for soybeans in 1957.

T. A. Hieronymus told the 36th annual convention of the American Soybean Association that $2.10 was the most likely average from October 1956 through September 1957 at East Central Illinois points.

Hieronymus said soybean exports have been increasing and should go up again this year to help offset a higher domestic production.

Another soybean expert, George M. Strayer, Hudson, executive director of the Soybean Council of America, told the convention America is doing a poor job of marketing farm commodities—in foreign countries.

Strayer said immediate development of export market for soybeans is needed. A possible increase of about 60 to 70 per cent in the European markets for soybean fats and oils is indicated by increasing needs and cut back continental production, he reported.

There is no soybean surplus, Strayer added, "but unless we take every possible step to keep them out of that position, we are going to be in trouble this year."

Knight Resists GOP Pressure for Nixon

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Signs of discord within the host California delegation over endorsement of Vice-President Nixon, a fellow Californian, flared Wednesday while on an Eisenhower-requested "brief, forthright" platform for next week's Republican National Convention.

Arriving on the scene, Sen. William F. Knowland, the Republican Senate minority leader, in effect told Gov. Goodwin J. Knight—an "available" man for the vice-presidency—either to get behind Nixon or give up aspirations to head California's delegation.

Knight in Sacramento retorted: "If the price of my being chairman is that I must yield to steamroller pressure in violation of the President's expressed desire for an open convention free to every Republican to speak his mind, then the price is too high."

He reiterated his stand he was not seeking the vice-presidency and would support the man selected by Mr. Eisenhower and the convention.

"I'm not a candidate for head of the delegation," Knowland told newsmen, "but whoever does head the delegation should be in sympathy with the overwhelming sentiment of the delegation and the action of the State Central Committee recently in endorsing Vice-President Nixon for renomination."

"More than two-thirds of the members of the delegation are for Dick Nixon," Knowland said he expected a caucus of the California delegation Saturday to endorse a decision of the State Republican Convention to go all out for an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

There were other GOP developments: Maryland's Gov. Theodore McKeldin, on hand as chairman of the GOP Rules subcommittee, also continues to say he isn't seeking the vice-presidency but would feel honored to accept the nomination if asked to do so by the White House.

The San Francisco Chronicle quoted McKeldin as saying flatly that "Nixon is not popular, he's just not popular."

Chicago Polio Cases Mount In New Area

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's concentrated battle against its highest polio incidence area shows signs of success with a slight drop of cases reported in a 26-square mile section of the west side.

Tuesday's overall city total for the day, however, approached a 24-hour high of 28 cases. The 25 cases reported raised the 1956 toll to 741 and 21 deaths.

Only 11 or 44 per cent of the 25 new cases were from the west side region. Over last weekend with 40 new cases, only 30 per cent were in that heavily populated area.

Previously, 50 to 55 per cent of all the city's cases had been reported in the comparatively small west side area.

Board of health mobile units moved into the region and tens of thousands of Salk anti-polio shots were given persons there. Mobile units, clinics and private doctors administered the inoculations.

It was the biggest concentrated inoculation drive in Chicago's history.

But while cases slacked on the west side, new cases began to appear in greater frequency on the south side, another overcrowded area.

Chicago's polio rate is running more than 2 1/2 times that of a corresponding period of 1952, the previous high year.

Cases in 1952 numbered 1,203—only 127 below the 1,330 cases which has been defined as a full scale epidemic for Chicago.

Health officials have urged more Chicagoans to be inoculated and have warned of the arrival of the peak mid-August-September season when polio incidence annually is highest.

"a sound, efficient and honest basis" and improvement of employee morale through extension of the merit system and salary increases. It claims that "bungling policies" of the present administration have crippled the postal service. It promises greater freedom of information on government activities, declares for immediate home rule and ultimate national representation for the District of Columbia and increased self-government for Guam and other territories. It urges improvements in congressional procedures.

FOREIGN POLICY — Charges that Eisenhower administration policies of "bluster and bluff" in foreign relations have weakened American influence abroad and increased that of communism. It claims U.S. policies contribute to threat of war in the Middle East.

It promises U.S. aid to both Israel and Arab states to develop their economic resources. It pledges support to the principle of free access to the Suez Canal under suitable international auspices. It also promises to supply Israel with defensive weapons to offset munitions supplied Egypt by Communist Russia.

NATURAL RESOURCES — Charges Republican administration with "pillaging of our dwindling natural resources," and promises to halt "this betrayal." It pledges the party to carry forward an increased program of hydroelectric power on the nation's rivers. It promises also to double government efforts to conserve forestry, water, grazing land, and recreational resources.

Child Welfare Bureau Plans Incentive, Motivation Study

How does the atmosphere in Johnny's home affect his progress in school? Just how much "drive" or motivation to learn does Johnny need to do the best work? When does over-motivation or too much urging to succeed set in?

These questions are among those to which answers will be sought in a study to start this fall through the Child Welfare Research Station at SUI. Parents in five Iowa communities will be asked to help the Station in its efforts to find how to determine the most desirable motivational "level" for children and then to help parents provide the right incentives for their children to reach this level.

Schools cooperating in the project will include public schools in Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Keota and Buck Creek, communities varying in character from districts of some 60,000 population to small town and rural areas. Staff members of the Research Station have directed parent-education study groups in all of these communities.

Director Boyd R. McCandless of the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station and Prof. John Chantiny and Prof. Lloyd Lovell of the Station staff will be in charge of the study.

Fourth, fifth and sixth graders in the communities participating will take two simple tests at school which will determine their levels of motivation. Reports of these measures to be made later to the schools will help teachers to predict the children's achievement and to understand their reactions to competition, to failure and other disturbing situations.

Within a few days after the children's motivation measures have been completed in the schools, their parents will answer questionnaires which will form the basis for studying the effect of parent attitudes on children's incentive to work to full capacity.

Parents will mail their answers directly to the SUI Station, where they will be matched to their children's test answers by a system of coding which will insure anonymity to those participating.

The study is the first of its kind to be done anywhere on a large scale and is being undertaken to determine how a given motivational level develops in children, McCandless explains. "More is known about the cognitive or intellectual aspects of learning than the motivational aspects," he says. "We know there is a relationship between the motivation or 'drive to achieve' of parents and their children, but we want to establish more specifically just what this relationship is."

The project will involve some 3,000 children and 6,000 parents, permitting study on a large scale.

of fathers' influence as well as that of mothers.

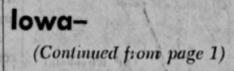

"We feel that Iowa communities will provide excellent research material for determining the best parent practices in providing normal children with the most desirable motivation at home," Dr. McCandless says, noting that Iowa stands well toward the top in a number of national indexes of literacy and educational achievement.

"We know that Iowa parents are doing a good job," the Research Station director says, "and we want to find out specifically how they are achieving this."

Schools in each area will be involved in the study only to the extent of giving one hour of time to measuring the children's motivation. While the schools will benefit eventually from the research findings, information concerning how motivation levels are developed will have practical applications in other areas, the SUI researchers believe.

The SUI professors will report their general findings in the study to each of the communities participating some six months after parents complete the questionnaires, according to present plans.

The study is not designed to provide individual counseling to parents, but the researchers will welcome the opportunity to discuss the study with individual parents when the general reports are made. Individual letters of inquiry from parents concerning phases of the study will also be welcome, McCandless states.

chairman and Tammany Hall leader, was named chairman of a committee to confer with Speaker Sam Rayburn, convention presiding officer, in an effort to win recognition from the floor at tonight's convention session.

But the fight broke earlier. Gov. George Leader of Pennsylvania said a group of Stevenson backers also insisted on a stronger plank. Mayor Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia said this group, after a conference with Stevenson, drafted an amendment pledging the party "to carry out" the Supreme Court's anti-segregation decisions.

Gov. Averell Harriman of New York indicated late Wednesday that he was abandoning the idea of carrying the civil rights issue to the floor of the convention.

The Georgia delegation voted to cast its ballots against "any amendment" to the civil rights plank that "would further challenge the Southern way of life and the principles of the Democratic party."

Southerners had opposed any mention of the Supreme Court's decision. But the compromise platform approved by the Platform Committee also enlisted powerful support.

At one point while the Platform Committee's report was being presented, Rayburn held a hurried and earnest conversation with Harry S. Truman in the former president's mezzanine box.

As Rayburn walked back toward the platform, Truman told a reporter: "He wants me to talk about the platform, and I am going to accommodate him."

"Are you going to support it?" Truman was asked. "You wait and see," he replied. Rayburn had said earlier Truman was prepared to speak out for the Platform Committee's civil rights plank.

"We're having a lot of trouble. I hope it doesn't break up the Democratic party."

Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts, Platform Committee chairman, expressed belief the plank would preserve party unity. He said it could be accepted by both Northern advocates of a strong civil rights statement and Southern opponents.

Although criticism of the plank came from both sides, several Dixie leaders had indicated they would not fight the plank at the convention.

Iowa City police said that Hostettler signed a statement admitting he brought an automobile belonging to a Keokuk used car dealer to Iowa City Saturday.

Police said the Iowa Citian removed two license plates from the car of Calvin H. Maxson of 111 South Lucas, and transferred them to the Keokuk auto.

An arrest was made when police noticed the missing plates on the car which was repainted Sunday. Hostettler was turned over to Lee County authorities Wednesday on a warrant for larceny of a motor vehicle.

No Dry Runs For New Chieftain Of Clan MacLeod

PORTREE, Isle of Skye (AP)—John MacLeod the Younger downed a quart of claret in one gulp Tuesday night and proved in the old way he's ready to assume the chieftainship of the ancient Clan MacLeod.

"It was no trouble," said the 21-year-old Scot. "I practiced on half-bottles. Anything bigger would have made trial runs expensive."

According to ancient custom, anyone aspiring to be chief of the clan must drink a quart of wine from the Clan MacLeod's bull's horn in one swallow.

A roar of approval filled the banquet hall of Dunvegan Castle from thirty members of the clan from all over the world, including nine from the United States.

Dunvegan Castle is the 700-year-old seat of Damflora MacLeod of MacLeod, grandmother of MacLeod the Younger. The clan meeting began Tuesday and will end today.

Heading the American party is Angus MacLeod, a geologist from Dallas, Tex. He is chief of the 500-member Clan MacLeod Society of America.

EVERY LOVIN' MAMMY AND PAPPY WANTS THAR CHILD TO LARN GOOD THINGS AND WE HAS LARNED THEY AINT NOTHIN' AS GOOD AS SAVIN' WITH U.S. SAVINGS BONDS.

'HONEST ABE' IS TH' SWEETEST L'L LOVIN' BOY AND WE WANTS HIM TO BE A 100% RED BLOODED CITIZEN. THAT'S WHY WE INVEST REGULARLY IN U.S. SAVINGS BONDS FO HIS EDUCATION.

Most parents—from Dogpatch to Detroit—want their li'l lovin' boys and gals to have the advantages of a college education. How to get the necessary money presents the only problem.

One of the easiest, surest ways to do this is to invest regularly in U. S. Series E Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. And the best time to get started is right now while your child is still little. Then when the day comes for him or her to start off for college, the money will be ready and waiting.

Here's all you do. Tell the people in your pay office how much you want to save each payday. The rest is automatic. Your money will go into U. S. Savings Bonds, one of the world's safest investments and one where your returns are guaranteed.

When held to maturity (9 years and 8 months) each Series E Bond pays an average 3% interest, compounded semi-annually. And that same fine interest rate applies for 10 years more, if you hold your Bonds. So if you save just $7.50 a week, in 9 years and 8 months you'll have $4,278. In 19 years and 8 months—$10,313—enough to give both son and daughter the educational chance they richly deserve.

So start now on the road to important goals like college for the children and retirement for yourself. Think of tomorrow today, and sign up for the convenient Payroll Savings Plan.
