Navy Plane Downed Off Red China Coast

A NAVY PATROL PLANE of this type was shot down about 160 miles north of Nationalist China's island of Formosa Wednesday. The plane, on a routine patrol flight, was attacked and downed by unidentified aircraft.

TOKYO (Thursday) — The U.S. Navy announced Thursday that one of its patrol planes with a 16-man crew was shot down off the Red China coast over neutral waters north of Formosa early today by unidentified aircraft.

The missing plane is a P4M1 Mercator based at Iwakuni Naval Air Station near Hiroshima in southern Honshu, Japan. A spokesman of Far East Naval Forces said the plane reported "it was under attack by aircraft" at 10:25 a.m. (CST Wednesday).

The Navy did not say whether the patrol plane fired upon its attackers.

"After making this report the plane suddenly stopped transmission," the spokesman said. "It was then operating 32 miles off Chinese Communist territory, 160 miles north of Formosa."

The spokesman said the four-engine plane carried a crew of 4 officers and 12 enlisted men. He said he could offer no information on the identity or type of the attacking aircraft.

In Washington, the Navy said an air and surface search for the plane and any survivors had been begun.

The plane had been on a routine flight from Japan, the Navy said. The Navy described the plane as being designed for "long overwater patrols and photographic reconnaissance." Normally it carries a crew of nine.

In Washington, the Navy Department said names of the crewmen will be temporarily withheld.

There was no immediate comment from the U.S. State Department.

Official sources in Washington said there has been no unusual tension around Formosa. There are Red Chinese airfields all along the coast in that area. These sources said that while there has been no buildup in Red Chinese air strength there recently, the quality of their planes has been improving.

Records show this is at least the 14th such incident in the past 6 years.

Only last March, Russia paid the United States $724,947 — half the costs involved — for shooting down a Navy patrol bomber in the Bering Sea June 22, 1955.

The State Department said this was the first time Russia or any of its satellites ever had paid for damage in various air incidents since World War II.

All 11 crew members suffered injuries in the Bering Sea crash. They ranged from bullet wounds to burns and shock.

Patrol planes operating in China waters have instructions to keep at least 12 nautical miles away from the mainland.

The Mercator has a top speed of more than 350 miles per hour. It has a wingspan of 114 feet and over-all length of 85 feet.

Ike, Dick Renominated On Unanimous Roll Call

Stassen Admits Defeat--Seconds Nixon

COW PALACE, San Francisco (AP) — Harold E. Stassen appeared before the Republican National Convention Wednesday night to nominate Vice-President Richard M. Nixon for another term—a few hours after giving up his doomed-from-the-start effort to dump Nixon off the ticket.

A roar went up when Stassen was introduced. Stassen stepped up to the lectern, and waved and smiled at the delegates, who quieted down at once.

Stassen said: "I rise with humility and forthrightness to second the nomination for vice-president of that very able and effective Californian, the Honorable Richard Nixon. 'I do so as the climax of more than three years of close association with him.'"

Stassen said he is convinced Nixon is the choice of the duly elected delegates.

Seconding the Nixon nomination, Stassen said, was the "most helpful and constructive step I can now take" toward bringing about Eisenhower's own re-election. Stassen said anyone can vote for anyone he pleases, no matter what he said.

Stassen said he wished all those who had backed him in his support of Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts now would join him in working for the election of an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

In theory, Stassen was supposed to have only two minutes to second the nomination.

It took him 11.

He wound up: "I take pleasure in seconding the nomination of the Hon. Richard M. Nixon for vice-president of the United States."

There was only a brief cheer when Stassen finished.

The President himself had proclaimed the demise of Stassen's drive to ditch Nixon as the party's vice-presidential choice.

Mr. Eisenhower, in a history-making news conference Wednesday dramatically and positively wiped out the last traces of the already faded revolt.

The President also voiced lavish praise for Nixon.

As on previous occasions in which he has spoken highly of the vice-president, Mr. Eisenhower did not say specifically that Nixon was his choice as a running mate.

But he left no doubt he would be delighted to have Nixon as a partner in the forthcoming election campaign and, if they make it, another four years at the head of the government.

Mr. Eisenhower sewed up the nomination for Nixon at a news conference arranged only Wednesday morning at the St. Francis Hotel, where the President arrived Tuesday night for the duration of the Republican's 100th anniversary convention.

The President met with newsmen only a few hours before convention delegates were scheduled to assemble at San Francisco's famous Cow Palace and do what was expected all along—renominate with gusto an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket.

It was the first presidential conference ever carried "live" on television, so millions across the country could watch, and hear the question and answer exchanges with the President. Previously televised conferences have been shown on film, after the event.

The reaction to the President's remarks was instantaneous.

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California, a holdout against Nixon, said the President had stated a clear preference which Knight himself was "pleased to accept."

The whole pattern was set with Eisenhower's announcement to the jam-packed conference in the ornate Italian Room of the plush hotel. He had just come from a meeting with Stassen.

One comic note crept into nomination proceedings when delegate Terry (Terrible Terry) Carpenter had Nebraska put up a "Joe Smith" for vice-president—a man he said is "retired from work."

But Carpenter, who had been given an official leave-of-absence from the hall at one point, was allowed back in. And in the end Nebraska announced that "We wish to be registered as having 18 votes for Vice-President Nixon."

Called to Sick Father

WHITTIER, Calif. (AP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon's father was taken critically ill Wednesday and the Vice-President, his eldest son, flew from the Republican National Convention to take up a bedside vigil.

Little hope was held for recovery of 77-year-old Frank A. Nixon.

The Vice-President's father was stricken with a dissecting abdominal aneurysm — bleeding of the major artery leading to the abdomen — in his Whittier home at 4 a.m. Wednesday.

He suffered intense pain and, during the day, was intermittently unconscious.

Vice-President Nixon canceled all engagements and flew to Whittier from San Francisco.

The doctors told newsmen the question of the Vice-President returning to the convention will depend "on what we have to say tomorrow morning."

Open Bids Today For Burge Hall

Bids for construction of Burge Hall, new women's dormitory to house 1,200 students, will close this afternoon at 1:30 p.m. One half-hour later bids will be opened in the office of George L. Horner, superintendent of planning and construction.

Contract for construction can be let to one bidder for the project under a single bid or to five separate bidders on different phases of construction, Horner said. Bids for the furnishings and kitchen equipment will be accepted later.

Overall cost of the dormitory is expected to exceed $4 million when completed.

The building will include two main floors and four attached individual housing units. Each of the units will be four stories high and mounted atop the main floors. Construction will get under way this fall and is expected to be completed in 1958.

Burge Hall will be erected in the square block south of Currier Hall women's dormitory. It will cover almost the entire block bounded by Clinton, Bloomington, Capitol and Davenport Streets.

The front of the building, facing North Clinton Street will be constructed chiefly of aluminum and glass.

It is to be financed by borrowing with the loan being repaid from room rents and board payments. No tax money will be involved in the project under the self-supporting dormitory system.

The structure was named in honor of the late Adelaide La Sheek Burge, former SUI dean of women from 1920 to 1946.

Convention 'Comes Alive' First Time

COW PALACE, San Francisco (AP) — The Republican National Convention Wednesday night unanimously renominated for the 1956 political war their victorious team of 1952 — Dwight D. Eisenhower for president, Richard M. Nixon for his running mate.

For a convention that never for an instant had anything else in mind, it took only part of one roll call to clinch the presidential nomination for Mr. Eisenhower and all of it to make the decision unanimous.

Nevada put Mr. Eisenhower over the top, boosting him past the 662 votes needed to nominate. He was formally declared renominated unanimously at 7:56 p.m. (CST).

A family fuss over nominating Vice-President Nixon for another term, against Democratic challenger Estes Kefauver was patched up in the final hours before the climactic moments of this 100th anniversary assemblage of the GOP.

Today both candidates will accept their nominations — if Nixon can leave the bedside of his critically ill father — and the task of trying to repeat the landslide victory of four years ago that ended two decades of Republican political fame.

The Republicans nominated Mr. Eisenhower as the "one man" who is "right for our times."

"The roll call shows," said convention Chairman Joseph W. Martin, "1,323 delegates have voted. The score sheet shows that President Eisenhower has received 1,323 votes. Therefore I declare him unanimously nominated for president of the United States."

Delegates leaped to their feet, banners and voices lifted in jubilation.

It was a day of swift-paced developments that packed the first real excitement into what has been a pretty drag get-together for the Republicans.

Aside from nominating and seconding speeches, there was a hold-down on oratory Wednesday.

The party did tap its presidential candidate of 1944 and 1948, former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, for a speech proclaiming that "every American can sleep better because Mr. Eisenhower is willing to give the nation four more years of 'steady and successful leadership.'"

For Wednesday, the big GOP political extravaganza was split between the massive auditorium of Cow Palace in the San Francisco outskirts and Eisenhower headquarters miles away.

The President went through a round of political huddles, starting off with breakfast with Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall.

At the news conference, the President looked relaxed. He was smiling a lot. Some of his remarks brought gales of laughter.

Under questioning, Mr. Eisenhower warned against over-optimism, saying the party in power always "risks the danger of complacency."

He "wouldn't express an opinion at all" on the Democrats' selection of Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver to challenge the Republicans this November.

India Calls Suez Delay; Dulles Angry

LONDON (AP) — India's V. K. Krishna Menon, backed by the Soviet Union and Ceylon, blocked the Suez Conference majority Wednesday from speeding its international canal operation plan to Egypt for approval. A new air of crisis hung over the 22-nation conference.

Menon has said Egypt's President Nasser would reject the majority plan. Menon pleaded he needed more time to get fresh instructions from Prime Minister Nehru in New Delhi.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles emerged angrily from the conference room where the two sides had exchanged biting words.

Dulles, who finally agreed to a 24-hour delay, told the conference the U.S. proposal covered the views of countries representing 90 per cent of the tonnage going through the canal, and added: "Every day we wait is a day full of grave import."

"Don't let us forget that while we are talking, there is a situation of the utmost importance to the world, a situation arising in the canal which has dangerous implications."

The U.S. plan favors setting up an international board, with Egypt as a member, to operate the vital 103-mile canal. It would be financed by the UN.

India's plan calls for Egypt to run the canal, restricting an international board to advice. The United States has rejected that.

Egypt has boycotted the London meeting.

CAA Begins Re-Vamping Air Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government Wednesday took the first step in a big three-year program in which 250 million dollars will be spent to increase aviation safety and get airports ready for the jet airplane age.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration announced nearly 200 sites for installation of the latest types of air navigation and traffic control equipment, including long-range radar units which eventually will blanket the nation.

CAA said contracts will be let by November and installation of some of the less complicated equipment should be started by late spring. These initial contracts call for the expenditure of a $75 million fund available for the current fiscal year.

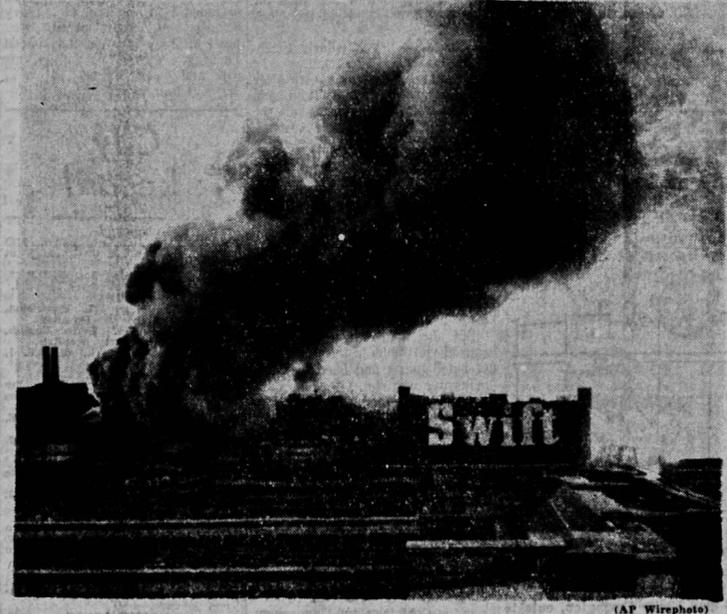

Originally the aviation safety program was set down as a 5-year plan. In early summer, because of the increasing need for safety improvements, the government decided to telescope the plan and complete it in three years.

Among the early contracts will be those for production of 25 long-range radar units to cost from three-quarters of a million to a million dollars each. Eventually there will be 73 such units in operation.

Addition of the 25 units at as many sites in the next 12 to 18 months will make about 30 in operation with a visual range of around 100 miles.

Such radars already are in operation in the New York and Washington air route traffic control centers. Additional data is piped into the New York center from a long-range Navy radar at Atlantic City, N. J. Units already have been ordered and will be put in service at Norfolk, Va., about Sept. 1 and in Chicago by Nov. 30.

Iowa Construction Up But Behind Last Year

DES MOINES (AP) — Building construction during the first four months of this year lagged slightly behind last year's pace, the Iowa Labor Bureau reported Wednesday.

Building permits issued in the 4-month period this year authorized $52,154,000 worth of construction, a drop of $488,000 from the same period last year.

New home construction was up: $30,387,000 authorized this year compared with $28,939,000 last year. But non-residential construction was down more than $3 million.

More expensive homes kept the residential figure up despite a decrease in the number of homes authorized by building permits.

Well, Almost, Says Adlai

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Adlai Stevenson congratulated President Eisenhower Wednesday night on his nomination and said "I am pleased to be matched against him again."

He referred to the "unanimous nomination" of Eisenhower by the Republican convention but said that "time and again he (Eisenhower) could not get even a majority of the Republican members of Congress to support his measures."

"Evidently the Republicans like him better as a candidate than as a leader."

"As to the cynical Republican ceremonies; well, we almost had someone named Joe Smith to thank for almost keeping the convention almost open. As it turned out evidently the only way Mr. Stassen could get a chance to speak to this exciting open convention was to second Nixon's nomination."

Nice Move, Jenner

Harold Stassen, originator of the stop-Nixon, boost-Herter campaign, wanted to talk to the Republican National Convention. He evidently wanted either to explain his reasons for promoting an Ike-Herter ticket or plead with delegates to support his cause. In either case he had a right to be heard, delegate or not.

Stassen wrote a letter Tuesday afternoon to Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, asking permission to address the convention. The letter did not state a reason for requesting the time.

Immediately upon hearing of the request convention chairman Joseph Martin said Stassen could have the time only if the delegates themselves would allow him, presumably by voice vote, to be heard. This is as it should be.

Sen. William Jenner of Indiana, however, jumped up and screamed if no one else would bar Stassen from speaking, then he (Jenner) would do so.

This is the type of action one would expect from a spoiled child, bent on getting his wish.

Jenner has spoken out once again in true Jennerian fashion. He has shown once more the reason why so many Americans are turning away from McCarthys and Jenners. The actions are certainly immature, to say the very, very least.

Who knows what Stassen wanted to say? Perhaps, as President Eisenhower suggested in a news conference Wednesday, he only wanted to admit his mistake and withdraw his earlier pro-Herter statements. At any rate he certainly has a right to be heard, no matter what his motivation.

Flags of Convenience

From the Ottawa (Canada) Citizen

If an heir is born to the throne of Monte Carlo, if extravagant claims to territorial waters are curbed by international agreement, if the Cape of Good Hope route becomes more economical than the Suez, it might seem improbable that any one man would be involved in all these outcomes. Yet there is such a man, Mr. Aristotle Socrates Onassis. He and his brother-in-law and rival, Mr. Stavros Spyros Niarchos, own two of the four biggest independent commercial ocean fleets in the world. Their rank is uncertain, but an American claims second place and their father-in-law, Mr. Stavros Livanos, comes fourth. The astonishing story of "the Greeks" may hold various lessons, depending on the point of view.

Mr. Onassis has just obtained a Greek airlines monopoly. Though his calculation that sea transport will be of diminishing importance may be premature, the ability to look ahead partly explains his phenomenal success. Going to Argentina as a young man after the Smyrna massacre in 1922, he made money importing cheap Eastern European tobacco. His shipping activities made him a multi-millionaire during the war. He paid millions as a fine for evading a ban on the sale of U.S. war surplus shipping to foreigners, and Lloyd's paid millions for him when Peru impounded his whaling fleet for operating within the 200-mile limit to which it lays claim.

Upsurging nationalism in the Middle East has so far proved no obstacle to the canny Greek. He has an agreement to transport the larger part of Saudi Arabia's oil. By flying the Saudi flag, hiring some Saudi officers and making the deal financially attractive to the Saudi government, he has consolidated his position in the face of opposition from the foreign oil interests.

Mr. Onassis likes to keep his tax bills down. Having a large financial stake in Monte Carlo, he urged Prince Rainier to marry, for without an heir the little state would become part of France, with a heavy increase in taxation. Like the other ship owners, he makes much use of "flags of convenience," especially those of Panama and Liberia, for taxes are nominal and the crews non-Union. Greece may wish that certain of its prosperous sons felt more patriotic about taxes.

But the Suez crisis makes many governments glad the independents are building bigger tankers — of which the latest, launched in Japan, is of 84,730 tons. These tankers cannot use the Suez unless it is deepened, and they make the Cape route cheaper.

A Right to Skirts

From The Des Moines Register

In 1956 as in 1952, there has been a certain amount of sputtering in Scotland over the wearing of kilts by girls in the State University of Iowa's visiting all-girl bagpipe band, the Scottish Highlanders. Kilts are male attire, harrump James Duncan, secretary of a Scottish society to defend the kilt.

The sputtering will pass, as it did in 1952. The more perceptive Scots will see the compliment to themselves in the elements borrowed from Scotland — and the absurdity of expecting the imitation to be exact.

The "Scottish Highlanders" after all are Americans, not Scots. Their Scotland is an amalgam of the actual country. Sir Walter Scott, American football intermission pageantry, and Hollywood costuming. Why shouldn't it be?

To any American, one thing is obvious: Women have as good a right to wear skirts as any men have.

The real point is, they're bonny lassies and make a braw band.

'Now ... If This Thing Will Just Hold Together! ...'

Washington Scene—

Anyone Have An Extra Tumbler?

By GEORGE DIXON
King Features Syndicate

SAN FRANCISCO — The Republicans are carrying this one big happy family thing to the point of insanity. They feel such a oneness that they even share germs. The three principal speakers of the convention's opening session kept their vocal chords moistened from the same glass of water.

The pulpit drinking glass was filled for National Chairman Leonard Hall, who would undoubtedly have proved a great bubble-rouser, if there had been any bubble in the Cow Palace to rouse. The trouble was that everybody was too intolerably well behaved. Hall worked himself into a red sweat trying to stir them up, but all he got was a ladylike silence.

He belted so hard his throat became drier than his statistics and he had to peg at the water glass. Then he pulled a piece of sarcasm which went over the heads of most of his auditors, but which reduced former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Oveta Culp Hobby to helpless laughter.

Up to this point Mrs. Hobby had been feeling sorry for her old pal Len and wishing she could do something to solace him. Then he came out with a resounding prediction of victory in November and waited for the thunderous applause.

None came. In fact, not a sound. Hall stood the deadly silence as long as he could, then cried out:

"Now, if I can have a little quiet please!"

He took another belt at the convention drinking glass and retired from the platform, to be replaced by Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco. The Arrangements Committee had spent thousands to see that no detail was overlooked, but it neglected to change water glasses as it changed speakers. Hizzoner had to lubricate his tonsils from the same tumbler.

So did Gov. Goodwin Knight, of California, when he replaced the mayor. It began to look as if they'd have to add a sanitary clause to the Republican platform, when a singer came on and signaled for a new glass of water.

Gov. Knight, who is still keeping himself "available" for the vice-presidency in case Richard Nixon should run off and join the Foreign Legion, told me that things at this convention are radically different from what they were at the GOP conclave in Chicago twelve years ago. The Republicans this year, he said, are not trying to play footsie with Southerners.

At the 1952 convention, said the governor, a Northern delegate came across a Southerner who seemed to be wrapped in reverence. Trying to stir up something, the Northerner asked: "Who are you fellows from down South for?"

The Southerner removed his toothpick, and drawled: "Well, some of us are for Dewey, and some of us are for Taft — but all of us are for sale."

This convention is so orderly and wellbred, the television people can't find enough action to televise, and are becoming televisionaires. They have filled the gaps with so many shots of the seals out on Seal Rock they are beginning to bark. They are afraid they may finally be reduced to photographing all the crabs on Fisherman's Wharf — which have an eerie resemblance to some of the delegates, at that.

The Republicans just won't cut up. Tickets to the Convention Hall are just as scarce as they were at the Democratic thing in Chicago, but GOP bigwigs, who have extra ducats in their pockets, are not using them to the same advantage. They are not employing them to promote drinks, dames, or dinners.

I tell you, this decorum is killing me!

The only coarse observation I heard all day came from Senator William Jenner of Indiana. He said he had been in Chicago during the Democratic convention and I asked him what he thought of the outcome.

"Well," he replied, "it was like Humpty-Dumpty. They put an egg and an egghead back together again."

Try and Stop Me

AT THE COUNTRY ESTATE of a distinguished Doubleday editor, a small boy's head appeared over the fence, and a meek voice inquired, "Please, Mr. Beecroft, could I have my arrow back?"

"Certainly, my boy," responded the editor with that spontaneous love for the young that has made him famous. "Where is it?"

"I think," said the small boy, "that it's stuck in one of your cats."

Mynah Birds Still Giving Hawaii Fits

HONOLULU — The Royal Hawaiian Hotel took a few points in the current round of the 5-year battle with the talking Mynah birds — but Hotel Manager John C. Fischbeck still isn't raising his hands in victory.

The Mynahs make their homes in Hawaii's huge banyan trees and the grounds of the hotel are full of them.

Fischbeck's latest bid for all out victory was to trim the trees so they look like a Marine recruit's scalp.

But last time he tried it, the Mynahs moved back in with the growing foliage.

The birds, famous — or infamous, depending on your point of view — are described by ornithologists as cocky, inquisitive, often combative.

They are the sort of pet it's nice to have around now and then for laughs, but not a round the clock diet.

Some people, particularly Fischbeck, don't like them at all.

He says the birds now are after him for personal revenge, and have started roosting in trees at the Waialae Golf Course, where he plays.

"I think they follow me from the hotel," he said.

The Mynahs have shown a determined love for the trees in front of the Royal for years, and chorus this affection at dawn and dusk.

One attempt to get rid of them was the use of high frequency sound waves. The idea was that the sound waves would give the birds a headache.

But the high frequency waves caused vibrations in the false teeth of hotel guests and each time the generator was run, telephone calls poured into the desk from distressed guests seeking dentists for sudden toothaches.

Another bluff tried by Fischbeck also failed miserably. He hoisted cats in cages, trying to scare off the noisy birds.

The Mynahs, said Fischbeck, just laughed at the poor felices.

FUNERAL FRIDAY

Inquire Into 300 Deaths In Britain

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — Scotland Yard discloses it has started a full-scale inquiry into the deaths of nearly 300 rich old ladies in this seaside resort over the past 20 years.

Richard Walker, the town's constable, wasn't saying much, but admitted a letter from a townswoman sent him hotfooting to London for talks with Scotland Yard.

Rumors that everything wasn't quite right about the deaths started in this prosperous resort town some months back.

The rumors centered on the sudden deaths of a number of women — and the way they had left their money — and the people who benefited from the insurance.

Four weeks ago Walker ordered an investigation into the death of a wealthy widow. Four days later he announced the investigation was complete. But results were not made public.

Then came a move that galvanized the town. Walker received a letter that informants said allegedly linked the deaths of 12 women. It was that letter which sent him hurrying to London.

As a result, Superintendent Herbert Hannam of Scotland Yard's murder squad — also an expert on forgery — was appointed to head up the inquiry.

Squads of detectives called at London's Somerset House — storehouse of wills — to take away copies of testaments left by 300 Eastbourne women over the last 20 years.

They were ordered to look for coincidences in names of legatees.

Police said the inquiry will take up to a month to complete.

Engelhart Company, Davenport, Bought By Caterpillar

DAVENPORT — Acquisition of Engelhart Manufacturing Co. here in Ill., was announced Wednesday by C. E. Murray, Engelhart president, and H. S. Eberhard, president of Caterpillar.

Engelhart has been a major supplier of non-current parts for Caterpillar for the last 13 years.

No major changes in operation or personnel of the Engelhart plant are contemplated. It will operate under its present name as a subsidiary of Caterpillar and Murray will remain the chief administrative officer.

Caterpillar issued 20,000 shares of its common stock in exchange for all the capital stock of Engelhart.

Caterpillar Tractor Co., which manufactures crawling tractors and earth moving equipment, has plants at Peoria, Decatur, Joliet and Aurora, Ill., York, Pa., San Leandro, Calif., and Milwaukee, Wis. It also has subsidiaries in Australia, Brazil and Great Britain.

Registration Starts At Local Schools

Registration for the coming year began in Iowa City schools Wednesday.

Elementary pupils new to Iowa City schools and transfers from intra-city schools enrolled Wednesday. Late registrations may be made at the elementary offices at Henry Sabin school.

New Junior high school pupils will register next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the school principal's office. An orientation program will be held Aug. 30 for seventh graders.

Regular high school registration will be next Wednesday.

ROTC INSTRUCTOR

Col. Max V. Kirkbride has been assigned as a professor of Military Science and Tactics at SUI, the Iowa Military District announced Tuesday. Kirkbride's family, his wife and 6-year old son, Max V. Jr., will accompany him to SUI.

Re-extend Soil Bank; Clarify Requirements

WASHINGTON — The Agriculture Department Wednesday extended to Aug. 31 the deadline for farmers to comply with the 1956 acreage reserve program of the soil bank.

The extension, from Aug. 3, was announced by acting Secretary True D. Morse.

Unless crops are plowed under or removed from land designated for the acreage reserve by Aug. 31, Morse said, they will be ineligible for government payments.

Morse said in announcing the latest extension that comparatively few farmers had understood the penalty provisions of the acreage reserve program.

While the deadline for compliance previously was Aug. 3, an official said no penalty action was taken in any case after it expired.

In Des Moines, state ASC officials said a wire received from the Agriculture Department explained further the cases where a penalty might be incurred as well as those covering drought disaster areas.

The ASC said if the crop is harvested from the designated acreage it will be ineligible for government payments.

The wire also explained that in areas where grazing of acreage reserve due to emergency drought disaster determination is permitted beyond Sept. 15, 1956, crops on the acreage reserve which might produce grain shall be disposed of by that date.

This can be done either by grazing or clipping, discing or plowing in such a manner that no grain will be formed.

It stressed that particular attention should be called to the fact that the producer will not be allowed to terminate his agreement and he will be subject to the civil penalty if the designated reserve acreage is grazed in areas not designated as disaster areas by the Secretary of Agriculture or is harvested in any area.

Community Group Selects Two More Plays for Season

The Iowa City Community Theatre group selected two more plays to present this season. The selections were made at a general membership meeting Tuesday.

The group will perform "Antigone" this winter and "Ladies in Retirement" is scheduled for spring performance. The third play for the season will be "The Moon is Blue."

Season tickets for the three performances will be on sale soon. In addition to the three regular performances, the group will also produce a short play on Oct. 4 as part of the Old Fashioned Days celebration in Iowa City.

Claims He Helped Dig, Wants To Protect, Suez

CAIRO — A grizzled Egyptian who claims he is 103 and helped dig the Suez Canal walked into Egyptian Liberation Army headquarters Tuesday shouting: "I am Gomma Gomma. Give me a gun."

He insisted he worked on the digging of the canal. It was completed 87 years ago when German — by his claim — would have been 15.

Officers explained to him he is several score over the age limit for volunteers and signed up his great-grandson instead.

THIS OLD EGYPTIAN, who claims he is 103, volunteered to help defend the Suez Canal, which he says he helped dig.

Giants Tip Braves 2-1 on Dusty's Hit

Brooks, Reds Win; Trail by 2, 3 Games

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Dusty Rhodes singled home the winning run in the sixth inning to give the last-place New York Giants a 2-1 victory over the National League front-running Milwaukee Braves Wednesday.

The defeat cut the Braves lead over Brooklyn and Cincinnati, who both won, to 2 and 3 games.

Lefthander Dick Littlefield yielded nine hits to the Braves, but he got the decision over another lefty, Taylor Phillips, the Milwaukee rookie who now has a 3-2 record.

Rhodes' timely blow enabled the Giants to salvage the finale of the three-game series with the Braves. It broke a 1-1 deadlock in the sixth. With one out, Foster Castleman singled, moved to second on Red Schoendienst's infield out and, after Willie Mays was purposely passed, scored on Rhodes' single.

The Giants had stepped into the lead in the second inning with the first run of the game. But the Braves matched it in their half on Joe Adcock's leadoff double followed by Bobby Thomson's single.

New York ... 010 001 000—2 7 6 Milwaukee ... 010 000 000—1 10 0 Littlefield, Wilhelm (6) and Sarni, Westrum (8); Phillips, Trowbridge (8) and Rice, W.—Littlefield (1-5), L.—Phillips (3-2).

Bums 5, Cards 3

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The second-place Brooklyn Dodgers capitalized fully on three St. Louis errors to score four unearned runs off hard-luck Tom Poholsky for a 5-3 victory over the Cardinals Wednesday night.

Labine survived a last-ditch effort by the Redbirds.

The Dodgers made the fullest possible use of two errors by Stan Musial and two misplays at second base.

Poholsky had a one-hit shutout entering the seventh and a 2-0 lead when Peeewe Reese led off with a single. Reese also had the first hit. After Duke Snider's forceout, Musial dropped Ken Boyer's throw for an error on Carl Furillo's grounder. Jackie Robinson's walk filled the bases and Snider scored on Roy Campanella's forceout.

Poholsky gained his 2-0 lead in the fourth on Al Dark's triple, a double by Wally Moon, who tied Hank Aaron for the National League batting lead at .332, and a single by Ray Katt.

St. Louis ... 000 000 110—5 11 4 Cincinnati ... 201 000 000—3 6 3 Craig, Labine (6) and Campanella; Poholsky, Coitum (8), Jackson (8) and Katt (10)—Craig (12-8), L.—Poholsky (7-10).

Reds 6, Bucs 3

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 Wednesday to hang up their ninth consecutive victory over Bobby Bragan's faltering club.

Had the Pirates fielded as well as they hit, the outcome might have been different.

Cincinnati scored two unearned runs in the first inning on Frank Thomas' error, two infield singles and a couple of fielders' choices.

Three more were added in the fifth on errors by Bill Mazeroski and Dale Long and doubles by Johnny Temple and Frank Robinson.

Pittsburgh ... 301 101 000—3 11 4 Cincinnati ... 201 000 000—6 6 9 Friend, Aber (9) and Wilson; Stone, Nuxhall, Jeffcoat (7) and Bailey, W.—Nuxhall (9-8), L.—Friend (12-13), Home runs: Cincinnati—Bell.

Cubs 8, Phils 3

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs scored four runs after catcher Stan Lopata's failure to hold a third-out strike in the fourth inning Wednesday and romped over the Philadelphia Phils 8-3 to sweep the two-game series.

Bob Rush, Cub right-hander, settled down after a shaky first inning when the Phils scored twice on Richie Ashburn's single and Willie Jones' homer.

The Cubs sailed ahead 7-2 in the fourth. After starter Harvey Had-dix got out the first two batters to face him, he southpawed a third strike to Jerry Kindall. But Lopata let the ball get away and the rookie shortstop took first on the error.

Philadelphia ... 300 000 001—3 5 2 Chicago ... 012 410 000—8 9 1 Miller (8) and Lopata; Rush and Chitt, W.—Rush (12-9), L.—Haddix (11-5). Home runs: Philadelphia—Jones, Chicago—Whisenant.

Yanks Beat Tribe on Rosen's Two Errors, 3-2

NEW YORK (AP)—Two errors on the same play by third baseman Al Rosen cost the Cleveland Indians a 3-2 defeat by the New York Yankees Wednesday.

The Yankees, by splitting the two-game series, restored their first-place lead over Cleveland in the American League to 8½ games.

In the fourth inning, Rosen dropped a throw from losing hurler Early Wynn, allowing Billy Martin who had doubled to reach third base safely. Rosen then was guilty of obstructing the runner as he attempted to score when the ball flew out of the third sacker's glove.

Ex-Teammates To Clash in Amateur Golf Quarterfinals

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Former Walker Cup teammates Fred Wright and J. Wood Platt hung up victories Wednesday in the National Amateur Senior Golf tournament to set up a dramatic meeting between the two in today's quarter finals.

Wright, 58-year-old Watertown, Mass., securities broker, sizzled a three-under-par round in defeating Martin Issler of Short Hills, N. J., 5 and 3.

Platt, 58-year-old Philadelphia who roomed with Wright in the 1921 Walker Cup matches in England, gained a 1 up victory over Tom Robbins of Mamaroneck, N.Y. Dr. J. B. Harris of Ames, Iowa, was defeated in the second round by Paul Horn, Allentown, Pa., 1 up.

Andrews, Mate Lose in National Doubles Meet

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP)—Art Andrews of Iowa City, Iowa, and Crawford Henry of Atlanta, Ga., were defeated 6-2, 6-0, 6-5 Wednesday in the second round of the National Doubles Tennis tournament.

They were beaten by Vic Seixas and Ham Richardson, chief hopes of the U.S. Davis Cup team.

IOWAN NATIONAL CHAMP VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—Charles Harms Jr., of George, Iowa, who observed his 16th birthday Tuesday won the national Junior Clay Target championship Wednesday.

Young Harms won in a shootout with Carl Jacobson of Oakland, Calif., after they had tied at 197.

Say Lopez Through as Tribe Pilot

MILWAUKEE (AP)—No matter where the Cleveland Indians finish in 1956, Al Lopez will tender his resignation as manager at the end of the season, the Associated Press learned Wednesday.

A source always found to be reliable said the Indians' front office is aware of Lopez' intention and is even now making secret inquiries concerning a successor.

The informant also said he knew of two men under consideration. He named Joe Gordon, the former star second baseman of the Indians and New York Yankees, and Jimmy Dykes, coach of the Cincinnati Redlegs, who has spent one third of his 50 years as a manager, 17 in the American league with Chicago, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

This has not been a happy season for Lopez, who may for the first time in his six year Cleveland reign finish with fewer than 90 victories. The general native of Tampa, Fla., is regarded as one of the best pilots in baseball.

Since coming to Cleveland in 1951 after a three-year apprenticeship at Indianapolis, the Indians have never finished lower than second. They won the pennant in 1954, establishing an American League record of 111 victories.

Predicts Olympic Place at Age 45

WASHINGTON (AP)—Stella Walsh Olson, 45 and a women's track and field star for a quarter of a century, boldly predicted Wednesday she'll make the U.S. Olympic team Saturday at final trials in Washington.

Stella says her 45 years will not make too much difference. "I'm an athlete and I've always kept in shape," she said. "I've set my heart on qualifying and I'm confident I will."

She has abandoned plans to enter several events. Instead, she'll concentrate on the 200-meter run.

The trials will decide who wins a berth on the women's track team representing this country in the Olympic Games in Australia this fall.

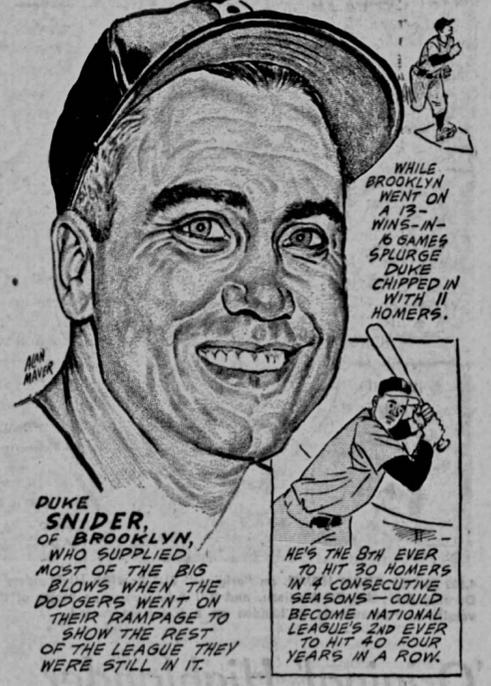

Stella missed a try for the 200-meter finals in the National AAU Women's Championship last Saturday in Philadelphia.

Competing for her native Poland, she won the 100-meter run in the 1932 Olympics, before most of her rivals next Saturday were born.

To qualify Saturday, Stella must finish in the first three in the 200 meters in better than 25.3 seconds.

Stella came to this country when she was a year old. Although an American citizen since 1941, she was barred from representing this nation by a rule prohibiting an athlete who has carried the colors of one country to compete for another.

The Old and The New

4,500 MILES FROM HOME, an "original" SUI Scottish Highlander, Prof. Leon Karel, right, talks with Dorothy Dow, A4, Fr. Madison, and Bill Adamson, pipe major of the Highlanders. Karel, of the University of Missouri, is in London on a Fulbright award.

'Original' Highlander Greets Present Group

One of the original SUI Scottish Highlanders met the current group of Highlanders in London last week, 21 years and 4,500 miles from the Highlander's birthplace, Iowa City.

Prof. Leon Karel of the University of Missouri Music Department, a graduate of SUI, was one of the first students who formed the original 6-man SUI Scottish Highlander group at the University in 1935. The son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Karel, Riverside, he has been studying in Europe for a year on a Fulbright grant. No one could have been more surprised than the music professor when he glanced out of his hotel window in London and saw 72 lassies in the kilts and regalia of the Highlanders carrying the big bass drum with the sign "State University of Iowa" on it.

It wasn't long before former Highlander and present Highlanders were talking shop about bagpipes, drums and Scottish dancing. Karel recalled how the Scottish Highlanders started out and remained an all-male marching unit for eight years. Then the men who skirted the pipes and ruffled the drums switched from tartan plaid to field khaki and marched off to war. The girls took over and the Highlanders have remained an all-girl marching, piping and singing group ever since.

State Fair Ready To Open Friday

DES MOINE, Ia. — The Iowa State Fair came to life Wednesday in preparation for the formal opening Friday.

Farmers Disagree!

SHELDON — R. M. (Spike) Evans, Democratic senatorial nominee, said Wednesday night an Iowa woman who told the Republican National Convention that farmers are solid for the Eisenhower Administration "must have been listening to a different bunch of farmers than I am."

Evans, of Arnolds Park, referred in remarks prepared for a Democratic meeting to a statement he attributed to Mrs. Dorothy Houghton of Red Oak, co-chairman of the National Citizens for Eisenhower organization.

"I fail to hear any great praise for any Republican farm program from my Iowa farmer friends."

Head of SUI Hydraulics To Tour Europe

Prof. Hunter Rouse, director of the SUI Institute of Hydraulic Research, and Chi-Shun Yih, hydraulic research engineer, will present papers at the Ninth International Congress for Applied Mechanics at Brussels, Belgium, Sept. 5-13.

Rouse will discuss "Diffusion in the Lee of a Two-Dimensional Jet," a project which originated in fog-dispersal research carried out at SUI during World War II and sponsored since by the Office of Naval Research. Chi-Shun's talk, "Stratified Flows in a Gravitational Field," will describe investigations which he has conducted for the Office of Ordnance Research of the U.S. Army.

While in Europe, Rouse will also visit hydraulics laboratories in Belgium, Germany, Austria and Yugoslavia. At Ljubljana and Belgrade he will return calls made in Iowa City several years ago by Yugoslav hydraulicians, and will renew contacts with former graduate students whom he taught at SUI and Grenoble, France.

Rouse has also been invited by the Hungarian Academy of Sciences to deliver a lecture before its hydrology section at Budapest. Whether he will be permitted by the U.S. State Department to enter Hungary was still undecided when he left Iowa City.

This will be the fifth International Congress for Applied Mechanics in which faculty members of the SUI Institute have participated. Rouse spoke at those in Paris, France, in 1946, and Istanbul, Turkey, in 1952.

'Cowboy' Taylor Loses In Close Idaho Race

BOISE, Idaho — Tabulation of official returns from all of Idaho's 44 counties gives Boise attorney Frank Church a 169-vote victory over former Sen. Glen Taylor in their close race for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

The final count: Church 27,947, Taylor 27,773.

Taylor said in Pocatello he would refuse to concede his defeat before the State Board of Canvassers meets Saturday to certify results of the voting in the primary election Aug. 14.

Educators Stress School Re-tooling

"Re-tooling" in the classroom is necessary so the growing numbers of American children may be taught more and better, a national group of educators stressed Wednesday at Iowa Lakeside Laboratory.

Films, television, radio and small-scale models should be regarded as essential tools to meet a "widening and deepening curriculum."

The public is too often likely to regard a classroom motion picture, for instance, as a kind of mechanical baby sitter, conference members stated. Such a device, properly presented, becomes an effective bridge between the child's direct experience and his ability to handle words in textbooks and newspapers, they explained.

Schools should adopt as many production techniques of the popular media as can be worked into the learning processes, it was observed.

Children come to school nowadays with different emotional "sets" for learning, the educators explained. They have become accustomed to learning from outside sources.

"Modern youngsters often come to school with strange and unique knowledge," commented Floyd E. Brooker, executive secretary of the NEA's Department of Audio-Visual Instruction. He called attention to a New Jersey study which revealed more first graders were able to spell "beer" than "house" because of their at-home learnings via television.

Besides the interest-arousing and widening curriculum aspects of the problem, there is also the labor-saving aspect. Teachers need labor-saving equipment just as the housekeeper and the craftsman do, one conferee remarked.

In respect to the future role of educational television, the conference noted that it will often receive attention, to the neglect of other worthwhile teaching devices, because of its newness and its heavy support by foundations. Although television has a tremendous potential educationally, the conference urged it be regarded as one of many new tools, along with radio, recordings, exhibits, films, and other ways of enlivening and improving instruction.

Forty educators from 20 states took part in the four-day conference on the western shore of West Okoboji Lake. Closing Wednesday afternoon, the meeting was sponsored jointly by the SUI Extension Division and the Department of Audio-Visual Instruction of the National Education Association.

Demo Says GOP Means More Taxes

PALMER — State Sen. George E. O'Malley, of Des Moines, Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, said Wednesday night Iowans can expect tax increases if they elect another Republican controlled Legislature.

O'Malley, in remarks prepared for a meeting of farmers and small businessmen in this Pocahontas County town, referred to the fact that the 1955 Legislature increased the sales and use tax from 2 to 2½ percent, except that the use tax remains 2 percent on new automobiles. Then he commented:

"Any majority of legislators who will vote a sales tax increase on a loaf of bread while leaving the tax at 2 percent on an air-conditioned Cadillac will not be troubled by the fact that the personal income of Iowans has dropped another 5 percent while the national personal income has gone up another 7 percent."

Sen. Holland Will 'Scrap' For Adlai

WASHINGTON — Sen. Spessard L. Holland (D-Fla.) who was cool to Adlai Stevenson in 1952, said Wednesday he will "scrap for him" in this year's presidential election campaign.

Holland announced he will attend a "grass roots" campaign strategy conference at Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 30, called by Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

Holland told a reporter that in 1952 he considered Stevenson "was dominated by Harry Truman and the ADA — Americans for Democratic Action."

Peterson, Clay's 'First' To Celebrate Centennial

PETERSON — This oldest of Clay County communities celebrates its 100th anniversary Wednesday and today.

There will be parades, picnics, family reunions and speeches by Mayor Don Hoover, U.S. Rep. Charles Hoeven and others.

Peterson had a number of Clay County "firsts" including the first school, first store, first and only post office, first dwelling, first fort, first saw and grist mills, first hotel, first polling place and first newspaper.

BAGGAGE LATE
LYNCHBURG, Va. — C. M. Kessler got his baggage a bit late when he landed at Preston Glenn Airport here. The bag, a bit the worse for wear and not packed as he had packed it, was brought in by a state trooper. It fell from the plane when a cargo door opened in a storm. The bag landed in a farmer's field who turned it over to a trooper.

'Dismissed' Tickets When Asked: Judge

OMAHA — Presiding Municipal Judge Patrick O'Connor said Wednesday he has dismissed traffic tickets when asked to do so by other officials.

"If I get tickets from other officials — from the City Hall or from the Courthouse — and they say the tickets should be dismissed, I dismiss them," he said.

The Omaha World Herald said its check indicated the judge had dismissed 1,288 tickets since Jan. 1. Judge O'Connor said he did not question the recommendations of officials who sent tickets to him for dismissal.

Asked if his duty didn't require hearing testimony from arresting officers and other witnesses, he said:

"I assume that the Commissioner had somebody complain to him and justifiably they should be dismissed. I'm taking the police commissioner's word. He's the head of the Police Department."

Police Commissioner Henry Boesen said, "There always have been tickets taken care of and there always will when it is justified."

He said he had "taken care" of about 200 traffic tickets this year. Judge O'Connor said he would not appear at a meeting of other municipal judges today. They had voted to ask him for an explanation of the dismissed tickets at that meeting.

Democrats Set Strategy Meet in Iowa

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Iowans at the Stevenson-Kefauver grassroots campaign planning session here next Wednesday will include top state Democratic party leaders and candidates.

Jake More, state Democratic chairman, and Mrs. Benona Young of Bloomfield, vice-chairman, will be in attendance along with National Committeewoman Don Mitchell, Fort Dodge; National Committeewoman Alberta Metcalf Kelly, Nichols, and the party nominees for U.S. senator, governor, and Congress.

The Stevenson-Kefauver party, traveling from Bonneville Dam, Wash., where they will have the second of their regional meetings on Tuesday, Aug. 28, are expected in Sioux City late Tuesday night.

They will go to Knoxville, Tenn., after the Sioux City session.

Tax Committee Studies New Income Tax Setup

DES MOINES — The Iowa Legislature's Taxation Study Committee Wednesday discussed the proposed 1 per cent adjusted gross income tax but took no final action.

Instead, the 12-member committee merely decided to have a bill drafted that it "can look at" and which could be incorporated into the state income tax structure "as a source of revenue" by the Legislature.

Rep. Blythe Conn (R-Burlington), subcommittee chairman, presented the proposal only as "an alternative device against a 1 cent sales tax increase or the service tax."

The proposed gross income tax would raise an estimated 30 million dollars a year. It would be computed at the rate of 1 per cent before any personal or standard exemptions are made on income tax returns.

"It is a new tax at a new level," said Conn.

"Wouldn't this tax be harder on the fellow working for wages than a 1 cent increase in the sales tax?" asked Sen. Wilbur C. Molson (R-Grinnell). The extra half-cent increase in the sales tax, now 2½ per cent, expires next July 1.

In the discussion that followed, it was agreed that a wage earner making $3,500 a year salary would pay $35 adjusted gross income tax while his increased sales taxes, if the rate were boosted to 3 per cent, might be only $20 or $25.
