JAMES SWINBURN, a Briton who managed the Aran News Agency in Cairo, is being held by Egyptians on a charge of spying.

Egypt Lists Four Britons as Spies

CAIRO — Two British diplomats were accused by Egypt Tuesday of serving as contact men for an alleged spy ring. Tuesday night they were asked by the Egyptian government to leave the country.

Two other Britons, lacking diplomatic immunity from arrest, are being held for prosecution as spies. Four Egyptians are accused as their accomplices.

The government late Tuesday announced more foreigners and Egyptians were arrested in the spy case but declined to say how many or to name or give the nationality of the foreigners.

The diplomats were declared persona non grata (unwelcome) by the government of President Nasser. This means they must get out.

The two diplomats are J. B. Flux and J. G. Gove, both first secretaries of the British Embassy in Cairo.

Trevor Evans, Oriental counselor of the British Embassy, told Egyptian officials the British Embassy had no knowledge of any such espionage activities and that the embassy was in no way involved.

The government Monday arrested two Britons and an Egyptian on charges of trading in Egyptian military and political secrets.

They are James Swinburn, head of the British-owned Aran News Agency; Charles Pittuck, an official of the Marconi Radio-Telegraph Co. of Egypt; and El Sayed Aminid Mahmud.

A statement published by the Egyptian Middle East News Agency said Swinburn confessed he worked with Flux, who was in the British Embassy Commercial section, and Gove, who was in charge of the visa section.

In London, the British Foreign Office denied the accusations against Gove and Flux. "It is inconceivable that two members of the British Embassy could have been engaged on a matter of this kind," a spokesman said.

Authorities said today Swinburn signed a statement saying he had worked for the pair at the embassy since 1952 when he went to work for the news agency.

Hatem said that Egyptian authorities learned two years ago an espionage ring was working for British intelligence. He said documents had been seized proving a conspiracy against Egypt's security.

Cyprus Riots Begin Again

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Greek Cypriot extremists ended their 11-day truce Tuesday with a bomb blast and a new challenge.

They vowed violence would continue until the British resume talks with exiled Archbishop Makarios.

The underground EOKA, fighting arm of Cypriots who want independence from Britain and union with Greece, bombed a house occupied by a British sergeant and his family at Larnaca, on the east coast. The bomb bounced off a wall. No one was hurt.

The British immediately clamped on new travel restrictions in the port.

Leaflets circulated by EOKA in Nicosia carried the first official word that the 16-month gun-and-bomb campaign was being resumed after an 11-day "suspension of operations."

The leaflets said EOKA would not answer British claims they had captured documents proving the archbishop personally directed the underground violence.

Dulles Blasts Red Pressure On Egypt in Suez Dispute

Nasser Agrees to Suez Meeting

LONDON — Egyptian President Nasser warily agreed Tuesday to hear the case of 18 nations seeking to place the Suez Canal under international control.

Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, chairman of a 5-nation committee representing the 18, immediately suggested to Nasser a meeting to be held in Cairo later this week — but the exact time and place is still a matter of negotiation.

Nasser did not commit himself to accept the Western-sponsored plan for international control of the 103-mile waterway, or even use the plan as a basis for negotiation.

Purpose of the Menzies group is to present Nasser with the plan of the 18-nation majority as evolved during last week's London conference. That plan would establish an international board to operate, maintain and develop the waterway, keep it out of politics and link its use with the United Nations. Egypt would be a member of the board.

India's delegate at the conference left London Tuesday night for a brief meeting in Cairo with Nasser. He is V. K. Krishna Menon, who authored a proposal backed also by Russia, Ceylon and Indonesia that would leave Egypt to run the canal with the help and advice of interested user nations.

The Soviet Union's role in the dispute was criticized Tuesday by U.S. Secretary of State Dulles. He told a Washington news conference that Russia's sustained drumfire of propaganda beamed to the Middle East is making it hard for Nasser to negotiate a satisfactory settlement.

In Moscow the boss of the Soviet Communist party, Nikita Khrushchev, met with the leader of an Egyptian delegation identified as Mohammed Magdi Hasanani, governor of Tahrir Province. The subject of their talk was not disclosed.

The Universal Suez Canal Co., nationalized by Nasser July 26, served public notice it might advise its non-Egyptian staff in the canal zone to quit their jobs if Nasser rejects international control after meeting with the committee.

A walkout of the hundreds of technicians would reduce the efficiency of the canal and might even wreck it as a highway of international trade.

The Egyptian Embassy in London issued a statement charging that British intelligence was linked with what it called "a dangerous espionage ring" in Egypt. The spies "supplied it (British intelligence) with information about the Egyptian armed forces and the activities of various Egyptian political bodies," the statement asserted.

Earlier the British Foreign Office and the British Embassy in Cairo disclaimed all knowledge of the alleged activities of two Britons arrested in Cairo Monday as spies.

Didn't Down U.S. Plane, Reds Say

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles reported Tuesday Red China has acknowledged its fighter pilots shot down an aircraft off the China coast last Thursday — the same day a U.S. Navy patrol plane was shot down in the Pacific. One bullet-riddled body was recovered.

While the Communist note admitted downing a plane, Dulles said, it repeated the claim that it was a Chinese Nationalist aircraft and not a Navy plane.

Questioned about survivors, Dulles said the note was "entirely negative with respect to survivors," and he concluded there were none.

The Navy's Mercator patrol plane had 16 men aboard. Searching ships recovered only one body and a few pieces of wreckage about 100 miles southeast of Shanghai.

Dulles, faced with new demands that the United States take strong action against Red China in connection with the incident, said the government would announce what action it plans when all the facts are available.

Criticism of both Dulles and President Eisenhower for not filing a formal protest with Red China over the downing of the Navy plane, came Tuesday from Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.).

"Protests in no uncertain terms" should be "the very minimum action taken," he said.

"Otherwise, we could well be accused of being afraid to speak our minds."

Following the attack, the State Department sent an inquiry to the Communists via Britain. The U.S. does not maintain formal diplomatic relations with Red China but Britain does.

In Tokyo, the Navy shipped home the body of Airman Albert P. Mattin, Delta, O., whose body was recovered amid the wreckage.

The other 15 crewmen have been listed officially as missing.

Four Men Arrested In Riesel Acid Case

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department said Tuesday night four men had been arrested in New York City on charges of conspiracy in arranging the acid attack on columnist Victor Riesel, who was blinded.

The department said special agents of the FBI arrested John Dioguardi, 42, his brother Thomas, 40, and two other persons on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice in arranging the acid attack on Riesel.

A fifth man, held under $100,000 bond as a material witness, is also charged as a conspirator, the FBI said.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, said that John Dioguardi, alias Johnny Dio, head of a labor relations consultant firm in New York City, was arrested at his Point Lookout, N. Y., home.

His brother, Thomas, alias Tommy Dio, an executive of a cotton goods firm in New York City, was arrested at his Atlantic Beach, Long Island, residence.

The other arrested were identified by the FBI as Domenico Bando, alias Nick Bando, 47, and Charles Tuso, 44.

Charles Carino, alias Charlie Wopple, 43, arrested Aug. 18, as a material witness, was identified as the fifth co-conspirator.

All five men are being charged with conspiring with Joseph Peter Carino, alias Joe Pilo, 43, and Gondolfo Miranti, 37, arrested by the FBI Aug. 17, and Abraham Telvi, now dead who actually threw the acid into the columnist's face, the FBI said.

Johnny Dio, who operates Equitable Research Associates, Inc., New York City, and Tuso are being charged with approaching Miranti to arrange for the assault on Riesel.

The FBI related this story: About the first of April this year, Johnny Dio and Tuso met with Miranti at his candy store, in New York City, to plot the attack on Riesel. Miranti then contacted Bando who through Pilo procured the services of Telvi to throw the acid.

Bauer calculated the 1955 return for gas properties at 7.66 per cent and 6.89 per cent for electric properties under the "net investment" basis. However, under the "fair value" plan handed down by the court, the percentage of return for investment would be 5.17 per cent on gas properties and 4.56 per cent on electric properties.

The FBI said further information indicates that Miranti met with Tuso, Johnny Dio and Tommie Dio and reported to them that the attack on Riesel had been accomplished but that Telvi had burned his own face during the attack.

Miranti was instructed to be certain that Telvi was not taken to a doctor for medical attention. At this meeting Miranti was given $500 by Johnny Dio for delivery to Telvi. Subsequently Charlie Wopple met Miranti and made another $500 payment to him for distribution among the conspirators.

Says Russia Using Vicious Propaganda

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dulles accused Russia Tuesday of waging a "very vicious type" of propaganda campaign to force Egypt to reject a peaceful and fair settlement of the Suez Canal dispute.

In blunt language, he charged that Russia alone of the 22 countries seeking to solve the Suez crisis was carrying on "this most extreme form of propaganda."

At a news conference, Dulles expressed confidence that Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser "has sufficient influence and authority" to accept a reasonable Suez settlement despite Russia's attitude.

He praised Nasser for contributing to world peace by agreeing to meet with a five-nation committee which will seek to persuade him to adopt a plan for international control, drafted in London last week.

Eighteen nations, led by the United States, Britain and France, devised this formula despite opposition from Russia, India, Indonesia, and Ceylon.

In denouncing Russia's Suez role, Dulles said Moscow began its propaganda barrage even before he explained the Western-backed proposals to Soviet Foreign Minister Shepilov in London.

Arab language broadcasts beamed by the Soviets to Egypt, he said, sought to portray the plan as "imperialism" and "colonialism."

Russia's propaganda blasts were continuing, he said, as of Monday with the aim of making it "extremely difficult for President Nasser to accept even a fair solution."

Obviously seeking to offset Russia's propaganda, Dulles appealed for both sides to approach a Suez settlement without "slogans" such as "nationalism versus colonialism" and "Asia versus Europe."

Think instead of specific, concrete ingredients of the problem, like impartial, efficient operation of the canal, he advised.

The secretary made these other points in talking to a crowded news conference of some 200 reporters:

1. The United States will continue to stay on Okinawa as long as there is any threat to Far East Security.

2. Communist China has admitted its planes shot down an aircraft off the coast last Thursday at about the time an American patrol bomber with a 16-man crew was shot down.

3. Former President Truman never offered to nationalize the Panama Canal as some persons have claimed.

SUI Scholarship Awards Made to Students for '56-'57

Seven SUI students have been awarded Carr scholarships for the 1956-57 academic year.

Mrs. Carol Walden, 710 Melrose Ave., Iowa City, was one of the two Iowans receiving the awards. She is a senior. The other scholarship winners are from Illinois.

Carr scholarships provide basic fees for undergraduate students in the colleges of liberal arts, commerce, engineering, nursing and pharmacy.

Eighteen SUI students have been awarded I Club scholarships for the 1956-57 academic year.

I Club scholarships are awarded annually by the University Scholarship Committee for the I Clubs who recommend applicants to the committee.

Forty-seven students who will attend during the next school year have been awarded Student Aid Scholarships for 1956-57.

Established in 1945 by the (then) State Board of Education for a limited number of students who are residents of Iowa, the Student Aid Scholarships pay full basic fees. Scholarship winners must be enrolled in the SUI colleges of liberal arts, engineering, commerce, nursing or pharmacy and are selected on the basis of above-average academic achievement and evidence of need.

New Estimate Sees Federal Surplus Up

WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower Administration Tuesday revised upward its estimates of government spending and income for the current bookkeeping year and forecast a budget surplus of $700 million next June.

The estimated surplus, while $280 millions greater than revised figures for last January, was viewed by one high-placed administration official as "a narrow margin" that wouldn't justify a tax cut in the immediate future.

The projected surplus would give the Eisenhower administration its second straight balanced budget. The administration figured that by using the new surplus, plus other reductions to take place in the course of the year, the public debt next June might be slashed to $271.4 billion.

In brief, Budget Director Percival F. Brundage's revision gave this picture for fiscal 1957:

1. Receipts, due to personal and business prosperity, will total $69.8 billion — the largest in history.

2. Expenditures will total $69.1 billion. That would be the largest amount ever spent in a year with the nation at peace.

3. These new estimates would bring about a surplus of $700 million compared with the estimate of $420 million forecast last January.

Campaign Outlook

What kind of campaign will we have before the Nov. 6 elections? A close look at the candidates and their running mates should tell pretty closely what we can expect in the way of charges, countercharges, allegations and wild electioneering.

One thing is readily clear: both parties will be defending themselves on things they once abhorred, and both will be taking credit for the other's accomplishments.

The Republicans can be expected to praise themselves on extending social security to more people than ever before, a thing they once attacked the Democrats for doing. Since the Democrats cannot very well find fault with this, they will promise even more coverage, claiming the Republicans didn't go far enough.

The Democrats will glory in their new position of the attacker, probing for weaknesses in the Eisenhower Administration.

The Republicans, in their equally unfamiliar role of the incumbent, may find it a bit hard to defend all the time instead of doing some attacking of their own. Joe McCarthy will be lost in this type of campaign.

We can look for both Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Stevenson to find issues at higher levels, even if they must search the cracks and crevices between the party files, while Mr. Kefauver and Mr. Nixon will do more of the dirty work.

We can expect both the presidential hopefuls to keep their hands and noses clean, to speak respectfully of one another, all the while implying that the other is "not as qualified as I."

President Eisenhower has said the Republican party is the "party of the future." Adlai Stevenson envisages a "new America." The digs will not come from these two men; they will be held aloft as champions of goodness.

Kefauver and Nixon, on the other hand, will do more active dirt-throwing. Kefauver will tramp through the farm states making sure there is unrest among farmers, at least until election day, while Nixon will find himself attacked as fully and fiercely as he once attacked Democrats. Under this fire, it is likely the former California senator will lose his temper now and then and demonstrate that ill will which the Democrats are hoping will cost the Republicans votes.

"Hoover's depression" will be brought up, but seldom higher than the precinct level, for politicians are finding people less likely to swallow that story than in past years.

The Republicans will bring up Korea, too, but only to say that under the Eisenhower Administration it was stopped. They will not be likely to attack the Truman Administration for "starting" it. Under Mr. Eisenhower the Republicans have taken on a new look too; they now seem to realize that the other party isn't always wrong.

Republicans will also bring out the suffering of mothers for lost sons in a subtle manner, being sure to play on the heart-strings of American motherhood, all the while making sure the mothers remember who was in power when. This will be subtle, very subtle.

Even Sen. William Knowland, speaking before the convention, lauded great men in both parties, and allowed that both parties have done wonderful things for our country.

The Democrats will charge that Republican claims of peace and prosperity are false. The take home pay doesn't go far, they will say.

Republicans will counter with "doesn't go as far as when?" They will rely on showing people that their money does go far, that no one really thinks he has enough money anyway, and that the previously Republican pious reference to the "good old days" is just so much hush. They will try to show that the horse and buggy days of Bob Taft are fond memories only because they happened so long ago, and that one can laugh at long-past hardships only because he can't remember them clearly.

Because issues are so poorly defined, mostly fabricated and enlarged, the two top men will speak in "glittering generalities" about things to come. Mr. Eisenhower will work on his sincerity to the utmost and Mr. Stevenson will do less joking and punning than in '52. His advisors have convinced him this attitude cost him votes in the homespun areas of the Midwest and South.

As Iowans we can look forward to seeing most of the major campaign addresses on TV, with a few personal appearances of Kefauver, Nixon, and Republican cabinet members.

In Iowa politics, the Democrats will wage one of the nastiest campaigns in years in an attempt to wrest control of the state from the Republicans. To an extent this has already begun. Herschel Loveless, the Democratic candidate for governor, and Spike Evans, the Democratic candidate for senator, have begun attacks on Republican mismanagement and on Mr. Hoegh. This will continue.

The Democrats figure the campaigns of the past, as waged two years ago by Clyde Herring, have failed miserably, and since this is logically their year, what with the farm problem, they will do an about face.

'Now You Can Look!'

Washington Scene—

What Really Did Make Harold Run?

By GEORGE DIXON King Features Syndicate

SAN FRANCISCO — A thousand conjectures have been advanced, but the No. 1 political question still remains: "What made Harold Stassen do it in the first place?" Well, a personage who is away up there in the Republican party answered it for me today.

I can't guarantee he answered it right, and I can't put the question to him the way I'd prefer, because he refuses to go down into a torture chamber with me. But his summation was the most plausible I have heard to date.

"It was all staged," he said. "It was designed to show that independent thinking is still encouraged in the Grand Old Party."

"You mean," I gasped, "that Mr. Stassen had no real belief that he could dump Mr. Nixon, but was merely trying to demonstrate that he could say anything he pleased, and be upheld in the right to say it?"

"That's about the size of it. It was designed to counteract Democratic charges that everything had been decided in advance and that delegates to the Republican National Convention were to be mere 'yes' nodding automatons."

Before I could get my gaping mouth closed, and open again to ask a question, this personage went on:

"Mull this over. Stassen started a 'stop Nixon' movement, but there was no 'stop Stassen' movement—and he could have been stopped on any track, at any minute, by one whistle from the White House. But he was let go clattering along until almost the last moment, when any further clattering would have been just a nuisance. Then he was given the signal to sidetrack himself—and he shunted so stentoriously you could barely see him for the smoke."

"But," I protested, "would a man of Mr. Stassen's stature enter himself in such a razzle-dazzle?"

"Listen," replied my man. "If Stassen got the order from the right quarter he would enter himself to run a mile and a half on the grass in the Washington, D. C. International!"

This GOP convention was almost as social as it was political.

Party-mad females from all over the nation were here, either giving parties, going to them, or declining to go because they weren't invited.

Anyone who wished to crash any of the 101 cocktailings going on nightly need use up no energy. All you had to do was stand in the entranceway, and a cop pushed you in. I know one dame, from Chevy Chase, Md., who was policed into eight cocktail parties, three receptions, six buffets, and seventeen cumulative hangovers.

This is gospel truth: At Elizabeth Arden's after-cow palace supper, all doors were closed for a few minutes while pictures were taken. A large female, with a mink stole in which she could have wrapped a whole roast ox, tried to depart during this interval.

She rattled and banged on one door after another. Finally she became hysterical and screamed:

"Migawd! It's a cinch to get in, but they won't let you out!"

Nobody, I suppose, is going to believe this, but I swear to it: Around the ballroom were huge, sand-filled, cigare-butt receptacles. Eleanor Harris, the writer, pulled me over to look at one bucket. Dumped in it was a fur stole.

"Look!" she exploded. "That thing is almost priceless! It's starlight mink!"

I agreed it was indeed an eerie sight. Then I took a closer look at Miss Harris. She was garbed as exotically as any other woman in that costly-caparisoned assembly, but she was carrying her shoes in her hand.

Too flabbergasted to think of anything else to say, I asked: "Aren't you afraid someone will step on your feet?"

"I wouldn't feel it," she replied. "After four days and nights of this, I'm numb!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

MARK TWAIN, alias Samuel Langhorne Clemens, once was pinned down on the verandah of the old Mountain View Hotel by a relentless bore whose theme was the decline and fall of everything. He poked a bony finger into Twain's midriff and croaked, "Has it occurred to you that every time I draw a breath, some hapless soul passes into the great beyond." "It has," sighed Sam. "Why don't you try clothes?"

"You and your big cigars," fussed Mrs. Klupper. "Do you know what there is in a single cheroot? Acetic, formic, butyric, propionic and prussic acids; creosote, phenol, ammonia, and of course, nicotine, viridine, and picoline."

"For goodness sake," murmured Mr. Klupper. "You mean to say I get all that for a dime?"

Mrs. Grigsby was making a tour of the White House grounds, when her 5-year-old daughter darted into the shrubbery. "Come out here, Nancy," Mom ordered sharply. "All you'll find in there is a lot of old golf balls!"

The Interstate System

Labor Takes a Long Look at the New Highway Construction Bill

Reprinted from the Labor Publication, International Teamsters

THE UNITED STATES is now embarked on the biggest public works project in its history — a gigantic road building program resulting from legislation signed by the President. The new program will be undertaken under a $33 billion authorization and the new program may go as high as $50 billion.

Less than two years after President Eisenhower sent to the Governors' Conference in Bolton Landing, New York, a recommendation for a "grand plan" of highway construction, Congress finally enacted the new long-range highway bill. Between the recommendation on July 12, 1954 and July 29, 1956, when the President signed a bill marking the enactment of Public Law 627, many events of profound importance occurred.

In brief, here is what the bill provides: EXPENDITURES of some $33 billion by the Federal and State governments for the Interstate System, primary and secondary roads.

FORMAL establishment of a 41,000 mile Interstate Highway System with a total of $25 billion of the total Federal money allocated to that system.

THE MONEY will be allocated on the basis of 90 per cent contribution of the Federal Government and 10 per cent by state governments for the Interstate System and a 50-50 contribution for other systems.

APPORTIONMENT will be made for the first three years (1957-59) on the basis of population and after 1959 a "needs" standard will be established.

As finally passed, the bill is not completely satisfactory to any group but is acceptable to all groups. Some have charged that politics delayed final passage of a bill by at least a year thereby denying the nation the benefits of a program of planning and construction urgently needed.

THE NEW BILL has some serious impediments to the trucking industry. The International Brotherhood of Teamsters has worked cooperatively and diligently with the trucking industry in an effort to see that unfair and discriminatory taxes were not written into the law. The new taxes on trucking are severe, but we have the assurances of leaders of the industry that, despite the heavy burdens, the long-range benefits will make it possible for the industry to "live with" the new taxes. Increased efficiency and productivity will enable the industry to achieve its goals in this direction, it is confidently believed.

ONE OF THE characteristics of the fight for highway legislation has been the role played by the press in urging legislation. In this connection, the Hearst newspapers have been particularly active. While the International Brotherhood of Teamsters has, from time to time, disagreed with the Hearst papers on various issues, the union is glad to see that powerful group of papers come forward with the strong support it has shown for the highway program.

What does this program mean in terms of expenditures? The law provides for a 13-year program for the Interstate System and a three-year program for the regular Federal-aid highway systems. Approximately $25 billion is authorized for the Interstate System over a 13-year period. This will include $1 billion authorization in 1957, $1.7 billion in 1958 and $2 billion in 1959. Allocations for the first three years have already been made for the states.

The "Interstate System" is the shorthand description of the more detailed title of the system which will be known as the "National System of Interstate and Defense Highways". The bill, as the program unfolds, will have far-reaching economic and employment benefits. The Department of Labor estimates that 600,000 full-time jobs will be created, including on-site workers and employees in materials and road machinery concerns. When the program is going full force some estimates say the number employed will go as high as 900,000.

THE AMERICAN Road Builders' Association has made some estimates as to what the new program will mean in terms of needs, including trucking requirements. For each additional billion dollars in road building funds, an additional 57,000 pieces of equipment will be needed — including 8,500 trucks of over 3-tons each; 9,600 smaller trucks; 1,500 truck mixers and agitators.

New materials needed for the highway program will provide work for a great many motor transport employees. Among the items which will be stepped up in production for the program are: cement, bituminous materials aggregates, lumber, timber piling; steel of various types and shapes for both road and bridge work; concrete culvert pipe; clay pipe and tile; petroleum products; explosives, and traffic markers.

It is apparent that the highway work load will "back up" from the actual on site construction work to the supply yards and to the actual sources such as manufacturing establishments, mills, mines and forests.

Greater safety is assured with a saving of an estimated 3,500 lives a year.

Reduced operating costs to travelers with an average saving of $94 per car traveling an average of 9,400 miles a year is indicated. Enhanced property values will result especially in areas where there will be access roads and areas in which new communities develop.

Increased tourist travel will result and the nation will have a fine network of defense highways.

With new roads built, especially in the Interstate System, regional planners are predicting extensive relocation and decentralization of industry. This is a trend which has been in progress for several years and will be greatly accelerated in the years ahead, planners predict. This will mean additional transport needs, both in construction and in continuing servicing of these units by the trucking industry.

Scientist Disagrees on Dangers of 'Fallout'

STORRS, Conn. (AP)—An Atomic Energy Commission staff scientist has taken issue with most of the commission about a statement he said took "an unjustifiably optimistic view" of the potential hazard from radioactive strontium in fallout from atomic tests.

Radioactive strontium is one of many radioactive products released in the detonation of A-bombs and H-bombs. Many atomic experts, including the AEC itself, have said it is potentially the most hazardous of all fallout materials—provided enough of it accumulates in the body. This is because it has a tendency to be retained in the bone structure, and therefore might cause bone cancer if enough of it were present in the body.

Dr. John Wolfe said he objected to a recent statement by all but one of the 5-man AEC commission that "it appears that at the present level of weapons testing, the present and potential contribution of Strontium 90 to the world ecology is not a significant factor."

Wolfe himself is an ecologist — that is, a scientist devoted to studying the relationships between man, animals and plants and their environment, including the natural waters, the soil and air.

Ike Back in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower arrived in Washington Tuesday night from his 4½-day California holiday. He got a rousing reception.

Those on hand to welcome the presidential party included Vice-President and Mrs. Nixon, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, and several top Republican leaders, including Miss Bertha Adkins, head of the women's division of the GOP National Committee.

The President declined to make a statement over a public address system, but he laughed when he saw several "We like Ike" placards.

The trip from the Monterey, Calif. Naval Air Station was non-stop, and took about 8 hours and 35 minutes. The President had spent the past 4½ days at Pebble Beach, Calif., golfing and resting after two arduous days in the Republican National Convention in San Francisco.

"The doctor says the President is feeling fine and is in good condition," was the word from his press secretary, James C. Hager, by, before the takeoff.

Explosion Levels Building

A GAS MAIN EXPLOSION leveled this apartment building in a Montreal, Quebec, suburb Tuesday. The broken main caused the explosion in which eight people were killed and at least 15 others injured. Damage to near-by buildings was light with the exception of windows that were shattered in the blast.

THE EXPLOSION that ripped through a 4-story apartment building near Montreal caused this fire. Firemen tried in vain to extinguish the flames and the death toll, now at eight, is expected to go higher.

Adlai Hits GOP Policies On Power, Resources

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson laid the blame directly at President Eisenhower's door Tuesday for what he called "our declining influence abroad and our lost opportunities at home."

The Democratic presidential nominee, directing open, personal oratorical attacks on his opponent, also accused the Eisenhower administration of "giveaways" of natural power resources with a record in this respect that "could scarcely be worse."

In an address on the Clark County Courthouse steps Stevenson said he expects "to discuss the great issues of our times—war and peace, and a better, safer, new America" during this campaign.

"I only hope my opponent has time to face some of the realities of our declining influence abroad, and our lost opportunities at home—and I don't mean on the putting green."

He continued: "The record of the Eisenhower administration on natural resources could scarcely be worse. It has confronted us again with a great national policy decision that was settled 50 years ago... whether our natural treasures of water, forests and land are to be conserved and developed for all, or given away to a favored few."

"The issue between the Democrats and the Republican is clearly drawn, and will be decided this year in the Pacific Northwest."

Stevenson sandwiched his speech at the courthouse between a trip to Bonneville Dam to emphasize Democratic support of public power projects, and a subsequent meeting at the Evergreen Hotel here with Democratic state and local leaders from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah and Montana.

Stevenson and Kefauver landed earlier at the Portland airport for the drive to Bonneville Dam as they hit another lap of their 7,000-mile plane tour.

Marriage Rumors Denied by Adlai

BONNEVILLE DAM, Ore. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson, told Tuesday there were rumors in Alabama that he would wed Mrs. Dorothy Vredenburg, advised reporters, "You may say I was never more flattered but unfortunately there is no truth to it at all."

Stevenson at first seemed confused by the inquiry and an aide explained to him that news stories from Birmingham, Ala., had reported the rumors and Mrs. Vredenburg's suggestion that they be referred to him.

In Birmingham, Mrs. Vredenburg, secretary of the Democratic National Convention, smiled at the rumors. "I think you'd better ask Adlai Stevenson about it," she said.

Mrs. Vredenburg is the widow of Peter Vredenburg III, wealthy lumberman, who died earlier this year.

Iowa Girls Try Suicide

DES MOINES (AP)—Two 19-year-old Des Moines girls were reported in "good condition" at a hospital here Tuesday after, police said, they attempted to commit suicide by taking overdoses of sleeping pills.

The girls, who shared an apartment, were identified by police as Nancy Pering and Beverly Barquist, both of Des Moines.

Police said both girls left notes indicating they were despondent over love affairs. Police did not make public contents of the notes.

The girls were found unconscious in their apartment about 7 a.m. Tuesday by Gerald Nesbit, who lives in an adjoining apartment.

Hospital attendants said the girls were "sleeping off" the effects of the drug and might not completely wear off the drugs before today.

Psychiatric Exam Wanted by Nurse

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—A husky nurse, who told police she shook three infants to death in a fit of unprofessional temper, fell suddenly silent Tuesday at a coroner's inquest.

The nurse, 33-year-old Virginia B. Jaspers, refused to testify on advice of counsel, who asked that she first be given a psychiatric examination.

The inquest was adjourned indefinitely while the six-foot, 220-pound blonde woman remained in county jail under $50,000 bond.

Police said the nurse also admitted injuring two other infants. Additionally, detectives were investigating five other complaints from parents who said their children were injured while Miss Jaspers looked after them.

The tall, powerfully built nurse broke down and wept under questioning several times Monday and Tuesday. Police quoted her as saying:

"It was all uncontrollable. I don't know why I did it. Children sometimes get on my nerves. I ought to be put in an electric chair."

In the most recent death, that of 11-day-old Abbe Kapsinow, the nurse told police that she shook the tiny girl violently because she resisted taking her formula. The child died later in a hospital of head and body injuries under what an official medical examination termed "suspicious circumstances."

There has yet been no explanation of how the two previous deaths — those of an 11-week-old girl in 1948 and a three-month-old boy in 1952 — escaped the suspicions of medical authorities.

Francis J. Moran, one of the nurse's two attorneys who tried unsuccessfully to have her bond lowered to $15,000, told a reporter he talked with Miss Jaspers two hours early Tuesday.

She broke into tears several times, Moran said, especially when she "talked about what the case would do to her parents." Her father is William Jaspers, New Haven County treasurer and assistant personnel director for the New Haven Railroad.

"After a long talk," Moran said, "I'm convinced she doesn't have a malicious streak in her. I think she has placed an undue emphasis on her own activities in connection with the children who died." Moran said both she and her parents agreed she had had a happy childhood and could have been considered a "contented adult."

"There was one exception," Moran said. "She recalled that during her school days other children kidded her a great deal about her size. That was a very delicate issue with her."

Miss Jaspers, who is being held on a technical charge of idleness, was reported so distraught she refused all food Tuesday and consumed only coffee.

Her second attorney, Edward L. Reynolds, said: "Her reputation before her arrest was unblemished. She had never been arrested for anything. She comes from a wonderful family. I know people who have praised her to the skies for her work with children. She was very much in demand as a pediatric nurse."

Officials said the first five winners in the girls' senior and junior divisions will be eligible to represent Iowa in the national baton twirling contest.

Census Shows Less Horses, Mules in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Could it be that Old Dobbin, the horse, and Maude, the mule, soon will be as rare as grandpa's left-handed mustache cup down on the farm?

The Census Bureau reported Monday that the Dobbins and the Maudes definitely are on the decline — and fast.

A new count of noses shows there were 45½ per cent fewer horses and mules on farms in 1954 than in 1950. And that decline, the bureau said, came on top of a previous record drop of better than 36 per cent from 1945 to 1950.

For the horse, the decline has been in progress since 1910. The mule was a little harder. Not until the late 1920's or the early '30's did the mule begin giving way to the rise of mechanization.

The census count showed 4,141,288 horses and mules on farms in 1954. That was a drop of 3,462,622 from the 7,603,910 in 1950.

Census did not have a breakdown of horses and mules in the 1954 total but the count of both together compared with a 1925 record total of 25,199,552.

The horse reached its high point in 1910 when the tally showed 19,633,113. Mules were most numerous in 1925 when 5,600,897 were counted.

Of the top 10 counties listing ownership of horses and mules on farms Otter Tail County, Minn., showed the biggest drop in rank—from 10th in 1950 to 33rd in 1954.

Tavern Argument Leads to Shooting

WATERLOO (AP)—A man wounded in a shooting affray here was reported in fairly good condition Tuesday.

Authorities said Ben Kimbrough, 39, was wounded in the wrist in an exchange of shots with James Crawford, 31, Monday night.

Police gave this story of the incident: Crawford approached a booth in a cafe here where two women were sitting.

The women then left the place and got into a car driven by Kimbrough, who went around the block and parked outside the cafe.

Kimbrough drew a .38 caliber automatic from his belt and fired, then got out of the car and headed toward Crawford.

Police said the two men exchanged at least five shots before a bullet from Crawford's gun fractured Kimbrough's wrist.

Leads Ruth's Pace by 4 Games; Indians Lose, Trail by 8—

Mantle Hits No. 45 in 4-0 Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle walloped his 45th home run of the season with two men on base Tuesday night to give the New York Yankees a 4-0 lead over Kansas City as the game, delayed 1 hour and 32 minutes with the A's at bat in the sixth inning, was halted again by rain at the end of the sixth.

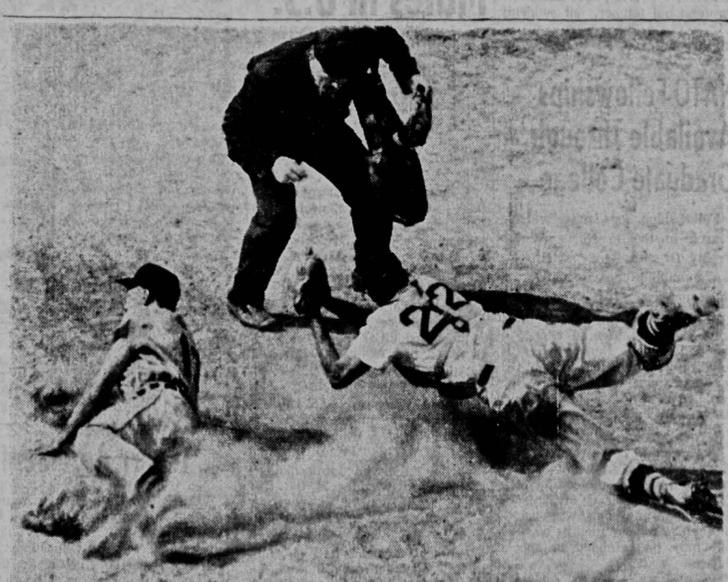

The game — and Mantle's home run — was official at that point. A threat of rain hung over Yankee Stadium when the game got under way. Mantle sent his high, wind-blown homer into the Yankee bullpen in right-center in the third inning off loser Art Ditmar.

Mantle's homer, put him five games ahead of Babe Ruth's record-60 pace of 1927. But the Mick needed another Tuesday night to stay that way because the Babe hit his 45th and 46th in the same game.

Bob Turley allowed the A's just two singles and faced the 17-man minimum in the first 5 1/2 innings of the game. The victory was his eighth in 11 decisions.

The victory put the Yankees' American League lead back at eight games again as second place Cleveland lost, 1-0, at Baltimore.

SAMMY WHITE, CATCHER OF THE RED SOX, dives in an attempt to tag Bill Tuttle of the Detroit Tigers at home plate at Boston's Fenway Park Tuesday. Umpire Frank Umort ruled Tuttle safe and White became so enraged that he threw the ball into center field. He was then ejected and charged with an error as Red Wilson of Detroit scored all the way from first base in the ensuing argument. The Tigers won, 6-3.

Orioles 1, Tribe 0

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ray Moore shut out Cleveland on four singles Tuesday night and didn't allow a man to get past first base as the Baltimore Orioles beat the Indians 1-0 on a first-inning single by Bob Boyd and a double by Bob Nieman.

Moore gained his 11th victory compared to 6 defeats while striking out six and walking only one. The Indians' Hank Aguirre allowed only four hits but helped bring about his own downfall by balking twice in the first inning.

After Boyd had singled, Aguirre balked him to second, George Kell fled out, and Boyd raced home with the only run on Nieman's double.

Tigers 6, Bosox 3

BOSTON (AP) — Al Kaline homered and tripled for three runs, Frank Lary notched a five-hitter and Red Wilson tip-toed home from first during a heated argument Tuesday as chief contributors to Detroit's 6-3 victory over Boston.

Kaline had opened the sixth inning with his home run to hike the Tigers' lead to 3-0 and Bill Tuttle doubled. Wilson hit a high hopper deflected by Ted Lepico behind second for a single.

Milt Bolling retrieved the ball and threw to Sammy White at the plate but Sam's diving tag on Tuttle was ruled too late by Umpire Frank Umort.

White, infuriated, stormed the arbiter and let fly a high, long throw to center field in disgust. The Red Sox stopped to watch the battle of words except for Ted Williams who threw the ball back to the infield. No one paid any attention to the ball.

In the confusion, Wilson running softly but steadily, crossed home plate as Umort had his back to the infield dusting off the plate.

The umpire threw White out of the game.

Nats 6-3, Sox 2-5

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dave Philley and Minnie Minoso clouted home runs and Ron Northey supplied a two-run pinch double to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 5-3 victory over Washington in the second game of a doubleheader Tuesday night after the Senators took the opener, 6-2.

Chuck Stobbs won his 13th game for the Senators in the opener, more than he had won previously in any season in the minors or majors.

Herb Plews hit his first major league homer with none on base off Bob Keegan in the first game and Clint Courtney lifted the Senators into a 4-0 lead with a three-run homer.

Walks to Sievers and Jim Lemon, plus Plews' single got Washington a run in the fourth inning of the second game, but Philley tied the score with a home run off Pedro Ramos in the seventh inning and the White Sox got two more runs in the inning when Sherman Lollar and Fred Hatfield singled and pinch-hitter Ron Northey doubled both across.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dale Long smashed a three run homer Tuesday night to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates in a come-from-behind drive that carried them to a 5-4 victory over Milwaukee's first place Braves.

Long's homer, his 25th, came in the seventh inning as the Pirates, who had been handcuffed until then on three hits by Warren Spahn, exploded for five straight hits and four runs to tie the score.

Spahn, who had faced only 19 batters in the first six innings, had two out in the seventh when Bill Virdon beat out a bunt. Dick Groat singled and then Long blasted his home run over the right field fence.

Bob Trowbridge replaced Spahn and retired the side. However, the Pirates worked the rookie for the winning run in the eighth. Frank Thomas singled, reached third a sacrifice and wild pitch, and scored on Groat's infield single.

CHICAGO (AP) — The last place Chicago Cubs Tuesday scored twice in the seventh inning on Gene Baker's homer and a bases-loaded walk to defeat Brooklyn 4-3 in the second game of a doubleheader called after the top of the eighth because of darkness.

The Dodgers took the opener 6-4. The Cubs cinched it in the seventh. Baker's homer with one out touched it off. After Drysdale walked Ernie Banks, Ken Lehman went to the mound. Walt Moryn singled and Banks held up at second. Banks and Moryn worked a double steal and Monte Irvin was passed intentionally to load the bases.

Ed Roebuck then came on. Pete Whisenant forced Banks at the plate on Reese's throw to Roy Campanella. Hobie Landrith walked to force in Moryn. Valentinetti fanned.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Home runs by Mary Blaylock, Solly Hemus and Del Ennis, all with the bases empty, powered Curt Simmons and the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday night.

Simmons was touched for nine hits, but blanked the Redbirds on two hits the last four innings after finally getting a lead.

The 27-year-old lefthander, now 11-3 for the year and apparently headed for his best season since 1953, helped his own cause by driving in two runs with a single and sacrifice fly.

The Phillies wrapped it up with two runs in the sixth after St. Louis had taken a 4-3 lead. Simmons and Richie Ashburn stroked run-scoring singles after a single by Willie Jones, a fielder's choice and sacrifice.

Sugar Bowl Asks Lift of Segregation

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The Sugar Bowl Tuesday made a bid to get the backing of the Louisiana Legislature to exempt its sports program from the provisions of the new law banning interracial sports.

A legislator, who asked his name not to be used, said letters went to the 140 representatives and senators seeking support of a measure which would suspend the law for cities with 100,000 population and over.

This would exempt the Sugar Bowl activities, the Shreveport baseball team in the Texas League and college sports at Tulane, Loyola and Louisiana State universities.

Paul DeBlanc, president of the Mid-Winter Sports Assn., Sugar Bowl sponsor, could not be reached immediately for comment.

The Legislature meets in special session Thursday. Gov. Earl Long included the interracial measure in the call, but said it was put in at the request of the Sugar Bowl.

Segregation leaders already have expressed opposition to any change in the law.

The measure, effective Oct. 15, prohibits "any dancing, social functions, entertainments, athletic training and other such activities involving personal and social contacts, in which the participants or contestants are members of the white and negro races." It further requires separate seating facilities.

Three teams dropped out of the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament because of the new law.

Both Navy and Pittsburgh, the last two visiting teams in the New Year's Day Sugar Bowl football game, opposed segregated seating, requiring special provisions.

Rams Ask Waivers On Eddie Vincent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams Tuesday asked for waivers on former star Iowa halfback Eddie Vincent.

Vincent, for three years a mainstay at Iowa's right halfback position was also a defensive halfback in the recent All-Star football game in Chicago.

The Rams also placed 6-7, 250 pound Tom Fearster, end from Florida State on the waiver list. They have trimmed their squad to 49.

Rookie Star

FRANK ROBINSON, rookie left-fielder of the Cincinnati Redlegs, hit two home runs Tuesday night in pacing his team to an 11-1 victory over the New York Giants. The triumph moved the Redlegs to a position 3 games behind league-leading Milwaukee.

Say $50,000 Bonus Hurler To Giants

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The New York Giants Tuesday announced the signing of an 18-year-old south-paw pitcher, Mike Francis McCormick, as a bonus player for a figure reputed to be $50,000 or more.

Possessor of a remarkable record in high school and American Legion junior baseball, including five no-hit performances, the youngster, a 195-pounder, was signed by the Giants' veteran scout, Walter (Dutch) Ruether.

No one, including Mike, would pinpoint the bonus money, but the Giants outbid every other major league club except Cincinnati, which did not get into the bidding.

McCormick, the son of Kenneth McCormick, refrigeration firm executive and onetime semipro player, was formally signed by Ruether in Bakersfield, Calif., where the elder McCormick recently moved from Alhambra, Calif.

But he made his fame at Mark Keppel High School in suburban Alhambra, and in legion ball in southern California.

His dad said he has been pointing his son to a baseball career most of his life.

Mike had a 20-0 record this spring in high school and an overall record of 34-4 as a prep pitcher. In legion ball, over a five-year span, the mark is 49-4.

He registered three no-hit games in legion play and two in high school. In one game he struck out 26 of 27 batters.

Prestige Is Helping Ivy League Recruit Athletes

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP) — Ivy League schools, whose part-time students are doing quite well, thanks, with the one lure they have in abundance — prestige.

"You'd be surprised how many boys, and their parents, are looking beyond the college years in picking a school," Bob Paul says. "A chance to go to an Ivy League school, with its traditions and prestige, outweighs the immediate material advantages some of the other schools can offer."

Paul, Penn sports publicity director, was speaking primarily of his school, but you gathered that the other Ivy League schools were following a similar line of recruiting.

The stringent scholastic requirements, whereby athletes must vie for scholarships with other students combined with the inability to offer substantial financial inducements would seem to make it pretty tough for the Ivy Leaguers to line up material, even with the prestige angle to sell.

"We're getting good boys here at Penn," Paul says. "Of the 38 sophomores taken to camp, 15 were captains of their high school teams. That means we're getting leaders."

Penn. it would seem, needs something. The Quakers, until this year saddled with a back-breaking schedule, haven't won a game in their last 22 starts, and have lost 18 in a row.

"We are hopeful we will head out of the woods this year," he added brightly. "This year we figure to be about midway in the league, just so-so. Next year we should be contenders, and two years from now the team to beat."

This year Penn's schedule is more in keeping with its material. It still has Penn State and Navy, two formidable outsiders, but the remainder of the program is all Ivy League. Penn State will be met in the opening game, so the Quaker losing streak probably will reach 19 at least.

But there is daylight ahead for the fans who have been suffering since the school started to wear a halo. This year's sophomore crop is good, and the freshman crop promises to be even better.

Those prestige salesmen going around ringing doorbells have been doing a pretty good job.
