Adlai Says Republicans Failed

ACCUSED IN ACID ATTACK on labor columnist Victor Riesel, Charles Tusso enters the federal courthouse in New York Tuesday. He was arraigned on conspiracy charges in the Apr. 5 attack. He and four others named as conspirators were held for bail totaling $475,000 for a hearing next week.

Mastermind Hoodlum Held in $100,000 Bail

NEW YORK (AP) — A perspiring Johnny Dio, 42, ordinarily tough rackets czar, was held in $100,000 bail Wednesday as the mastermind in the acid blinding of labor writer Victor Riesel.

The notorious shakedown artist of the trucking and garment industries was charged with conspiring to intimidate Riesel from telling a federal grand jury what he knew about the rackets.

Three other hoodlums arraigned with Dio on the same charge were held in bail totaling $375,000. U.S. Commissioner Earle N. Bishop set a hearing next Wednesday for all four.

U.S. Atty. Paul W. Williams described Dio to Bishop as "the mastermind of the whole thing and one of the masterminds of racketeering in this city."

Williams raised the specter of the electric chair by declaring the case "involves the blinding of one man and possibly the murder of another."

This was a reference to Abraham Telvi, allegedly the hired acid thrower, who was found slain July 28.

Williams said Telvi was killed because he "became a nuisance by demanding more money" for "doing the job."

Williams had told newsmen Telvi had taken the acid-throwing assignment for $500, thinking it was only "a husband and wife job," but later demanded $50,000 on learning the prominence of the victim.

Riesel was blinded as he walked out of Lindy's restaurant in the Broadway theater district last April 5.

Officials have estimated Dio's income from extortions and shake-downs at up to one million dollars a year.

Also held in $100,000 bail each were Charles Tusso, 44; Domenic Brando, 47; and Charles Carlino, 43. Bail was set at $75,000 for Tommy Dio, 40, Johnny's brother.

Nixon Resting At Seashore

MANTOLOKING, N.J. (AP) — Vice-President Richard M. Nixon arrived Wednesday with his wife and two daughters for a six-day vacation at the shore front home of former Ambassador Amos J. Peaselee.

He plans no public appearances and will devote two days to swimming and beach parties with his family before starting work on campaign talks he plans to deliver next month.

Before leaving the capital, Nixon learned that his ailing 77-year-old father, Frank A. Nixon, is back on the critical list at Whittier, Calif. An aide said Nixon is keeping in touch with his family in California, but has no immediate plans for flying to the West Coast.

Peaselee, former ambassador to Australia, is chief deputy to Harold E. Stassen, special presidential assistant on disarmament. Stassen led the unsuccessful campaign to stop Nixon's renomination. Peaselee supported Nixon at San Francisco.

Alabama 'Legalizes' Segregated Schools

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Two measures aimed at keeping segregation in Alabama, possibly at the cost of closing both public schools and parks, won approval in Tuesday's special election.

The school proposal provides a "freedom of choice" for parents to decide to send their children to segregated institutions. It also gives the legislature authority to abolish public education and to give the school moneys to private schools.

A similar measure, providing that counties or cities might sell or give away parks, playgrounds, swimming pools, golf courses or public housing projects, was leading 102,186-74,908.

Both amendments are frank attempts to circumvent, legally, U.S. Supreme Court decisions outlawing segregated schools and parks.

British and French Troops to Cyprus

LONDON, (Thursday) (AP) — Britain and France arranged today to use troubled Cyprus as an Allied springboard military base in the Suez crisis. French troops are presumably en route to Cyprus by sea.

The eastern Mediterranean British island colony is 250 miles from the north end of the Suez Canal and within easy parachutist range of the 103-mile waterway and Egypt's big cities.

The French entry into the Cyprus scene was described as temporary and intended to protect French nationals in the Middle East.

Britain has a new fight on its hands on Cyprus itself.

The EOKA underground, fighting for independence from the British and union with Greece, ended an 11-day truce early this week with a renewal of terror bombings.

The action by the two Western powers came as Egyptian President Nasser's government fanned anti-British feeling by arresting five Britons on espionage charges and ordering two British diplomats out of the country.

Nasser himself, moving slowly, finally fixed Monday as the day to begin talks in Cairo with a five-nation committee on the future of the Suez Canal.

When Nasser nationalized the canal on July 26, Britain and France began rushing naval, military and air force units to the Mediterranean.

Any landing of French troops on Cyprus seemed certain to complicate the already tense situation.

The French request seemed to emphasize the British insistence that the island is vital not only to British interests but to the position of the NATO powers in the eastern Mediterranean.

Britain and France have many nationals working on the canal. They were hired, some of them many years ago, by the Suez Canal Company — the international corporation seized by Nasser.

Now many of these people want to be repatriated, and the company has said it can not continue to guarantee their safety.

The Soviet Union appeared to be prodding Nasser to hold out without compromise.

Nasser informed Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, who heads the five-nation committee, to come to Cairo for talks on the canal.

The committee will present the plan approved by 18 nations at the London Suez conference last week calling for international control of the waterway.

In Washington, President Eisenhower pledged firm support for the proposals of the 18 which the Menzies mission will present and explain to Nasser.

Sheriff Halts Integration to 'Protect' 11

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP) — Sheriff Joe Owen took 11 Negro students out of newly integrated Clinton High School Wednesday to protect them from what he called a mob.

"There was such a milling mob around the school I thought it best to take them home," the sheriff declared. "There were about 500 people outside and I thought somebody might get hurt."

Owen said the Negroes are at liberty to return to school today if they wish.

Earlier, there had been three unrelated flareups between whites and Negroes which police said stemmed from mixing of the races in the previously all-white school.

Four persons, including one Negro student, were placed in jail, but only three were charged. The fourth, a Negro, was held for his own protection after being chased down a street by a group of white persons.

Twelve Negroes were admitted to Clinton High Monday along with nearly 800 white students. A handful of students and parents had picketed the school but the majority of the students ignored the pickets and reported for classes.

Meanwhile, Principal D. J. Brittain Jr., said he had rejected an "ultimatum" that he oust the Negroes or resign.

Britain said the ultimatum was issued to him by John Kasper, Washington, D. C., segregation leader.

"Kasper and his followers issued an ultimatum to me to get the Negroes out of school or quit my job," the principal said. "I told Kasper I would not be intimidated or scared out of my job."

Kasper, 26, was freed Tuesday in Trial Justice Court of charges of trying to incite a riot. He is executive secretary of the Seaboard White Citizens Council with headquarters in Washington.

Charge More Offenses to Baby Nurse

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Police plunged Wednesday into the growing problem of separating fact from fiction among former employers of Virginia Jaspers, the muscular pediatric nurse.

The 6-foot, 220-pound nurse has admitted, police say, that on separate occasions dating back to 1948 she shook three infants to death and injured two others when they snapped her patience.

Detectives received 15 new complaints of baby mishandling—complaints which thus far they class as unofficial.

One complaint now getting the serious attention of detectives came from Marvin Schaefer, 29, whose baby boy suffered a broken leg early last year during Miss Jaspers' care. The nurse admitted Monday to police she caused the injury by shaking the baby violently in a fit of uncontrollable temper.

Schaefer didn't know this then but he had his strong suspicions, he said.

"From the beginning," he said, "we sensed something was wrong with the nurse, but we had nothing to go on. Besides, people we knew had recommended her. But we wondered about her emotional stability from the way she talked to us and the harsh manner she used toward our older child.

"Then one night we heard the baby cry out in pain while alone with the nurse."

From then on, the Schaefers decided the baby would never be alone with the nurse. But one day, while her husband was at work, Mrs. Schaefer had to take her older child to a birthday party. Before she left, she made certain the baby was fed and put to bed.

"When she came back," Schaefer said, "the baby was awake and cranky. Then the nurse — and I have to admit it was the nurse who pointed it out — noticed a swelling on the baby's leg. We had the doctor in immediately. It turned out, at the age of 3 weeks, the baby had a fractured leg. Thank God, it healed completely."

Police said they never received a complaint from the Schaefers or their pediatrician. The doctor, who insisted on withholding his name, said he had several informal "conversations with friends on the police force" about Miss Jasper's "incompetence."

Miss Jaspers remains in jail in lieu of $50,000 bond on a technical charge of idleness. A coroner's inquest was indefinitely postponed when the woman refused to testify on advice of counsel pending a psychiatric examination.

ACCIDENT

Gearhart Daniel Hartman, 15, 306 Lee St., was charged Wednesday with driving without an operator's license. The auto he was driving hit a parked car in the 200 block on McClean Street and then crashed into a tree. The accident occurred about 12:30 a.m. Cecil Wilson, 228 McClean St., was the owner of the parked car.

TIRES SLASHED

Mrs. Darrell Link, 107 N. Park, reported to police Wednesday that the tires on the family auto had been slashed sometime Tuesday night while the car was parked in a nearby parking lot.

Ike, Senator George Confer

SEN. WALTER F. GEORGE (D-Ga.) confers with President Eisenhower at the White House Tuesday before his departure today for two months of conferences and vacation in Europe. George is the president's representative to NATO.

Expulsion of Red Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department disclosed Wednesday it has demanded the expulsion of a secretary to the Soviet delegation at the United Nations and protested the conduct of another Russian employed by the UN.

Its disclosure, in a letter to the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, said the actions were taken on the basis of charges by the subcommittee that the two Russians had attempted to apply pressure on a refugee former Red army captain to return to Moscow.

The State Department announcement came on the heels of disclosure in New York that the Soviet secretary, Rostislav E. Shapovalov, has booked passage to sail for home Sept. 12 on the liner Queen Elizabeth.

Shapovalov, 36, and a low-ranking secretary in the large Soviet delegation in New York, has had nothing to say.

Alabama U. Refuses To Readmit Lucy

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge H. Hobart Grooms Wednesday refused to intervene in the University of Alabama's expulsion of its first Negro student, but left the door open for further legal action on her part.

His refusal to order the Deep South college to readmit Mrs. Arthurine Lucy Foster for the fall term was one of the few court rebuffs in four years of litigation.

Arthur D. Shores, attorney for the former Birmingham resident, said he would study Grooms' ruling before deciding upon his next step.

Mrs. Foster said at Chicago Tuesday she will "continue to seek the right to attend a school of my choice and to study the field of my choice."

She was enrolled as a student Feb. 2 in obedience to a federal court ruling that the university may not bar qualified students because of their race. This order still stands.

Driven from the campus by an angry mob Feb. 6, she was suspended by university authorities for her own safety. She was expelled March 5.

Weather Report—Thunder and Rainbow

SIoux CITY (AP) — Being a candidate for public office has its ups and downs, and its moments when you become an Indian chief.

Wednesday was the day when Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, became an Indian chief — "Charging Thunder" by name.

With his new title presented by Chiefs Lame Deer and White Horse of the Sioux tribe in South Dakota, Stevenson also received a war-bonnet made up of a dazzling mixture of orange, blue, brown and yellow feathers.

For Sen. Estes Kefauver, the Democrats' vice-presidential candidate, the Indian chiefs had a peace-pipe that was some two feet in length.

The pipe worked, as was proved when someone passed up a cigarette lighter to get it going after one of the Sioux chiefs was unable to produce a match at Kefauver's request.

Kefauver, reminded he had not received a war bonnet or a chief's title, said: "I will speak to them about it."

A few minutes later he came up with the title "Good Rainbow" — but no bonnet.

An old hand along the campaign trail, he already has picked up an assortment of chief's titles — such as "Big Man" and "Fast Lightning" from Indian tribes in Oklahoma, North Carolina and elsewhere.

Stevenson, who kept his feathered headdress under his arm rather than putting it on, said he was pleased with the title of "Charging Thunder" because it means bringing the rain to make the grass grow and water the animals.

He also said he was pleased that Chief White Horse has "seen the light" and turned into a Democrat after being a Republican.

White Horse and Lame Deer stood by impassively in their makeup jobs — peace paint, they called it, rather than war paint.

The Weather

Cloudy and Warm

Skies over the Iowa City area will be partly cloudy today, the Weather Bureau said.

The Bureau predicted a possibility of light rain today. Afternoon high for the area is expected to be in the upper 80s.

Continued partly cloudy skies, and a chance of thunderstorms are predicted by the Bureau through Friday.

Charges Ike Turned Deaf Ear to Iowa

SIoux CITY (AP) — Adlai Stevenson sought to fan the flames of a Midwestern farm revolt against President Eisenhower Wednesday even as he accused the president of backing down on his promises to labor.

The Democratic presidential nominee offered to help the farmer get his "fair share of our national abundance" which he said the Republican administration is denying him.

The labor statement came after Stevenson told party workers, from seven agricultural states, the farmer is not getting his share because "there's nobody in Washington looking out for his just interests."

Stepping up his personal criticism of Eisenhower, the Democratic nominee used the majority endorsement of the national CIO-AFL Executive Committee of a Stevenson-Kefauver ticket as a springboard for saying the President has reneged on his 1952 campaign pledges to labor.

The working people, the statement said, have voted "no confidence" in Eisenhower because he has:

"1. Backed down on his promises to amend the Taft-Hartley Act.

"2. Stacked the National Labor Relations Board against labor.

"3. Opposed the Democrats' fight for a fair minimum wage."

Earlier, making his heaviest pitch for the farm vote, Stevenson spoke at a closed door strategy meeting with Sen. Estes Kefauver, his vice-presidential running mate. Speaker after speaker said party prospects are bright for capturing Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin and Kansas. Eisenhower carried them all four years ago.

Stevenson formally announced he will return to Iowa Sept. 27 for a speech at the National Plowing Contest near Newton.

Stevenson and Kefauver flew into Sioux City at 2:28 a.m. on their 7,000-mile flying trip. They are flying out at 7:20 a.m. today for a meeting at Knoxville, Tenn., in the afternoon with Democrats from 10 Southern states. There, they will drive to visit TVA's Norris Dam to demonstrate their support of public power and to the atomic installation at Oak Ridge.

Emphasis at Wednesday's meeting, which party officials estimated was attended by about 300 Democratic leaders and candidates, was heavy on the farm issue, which Democrats are counting on strongly in their fight to get back into the White House.

Stevenson observed that he once owned a farm about 30 miles east of Sioux City which was susceptible to floods. When it was dry, he said, he had "the best crops in Iowa," but when it was wet, "we had the best duck hunting in Iowa."

Sen. Kefauver told the meeting he felt "increased confidence" in prospects for a Democratic victory under Stevenson's "leadership" for a new and glorious America.

The Democratic candidates struck at Eisenhower from another direction by touring the proposed Floyd River flood control project nearby, to dramatize Eisenhower's veto of a public works authorization bill in which seven million dollars for its construction was included.

In vetoing the omnibus measure, the President said many of the projects — he made no reference to the Floyd River one — had not been approved by Army Engineers.

More than a dozen persons in this area lost their lives in a Floyd River flood in 1953.

Stevenson declared that, "historically, the American farmer has gotten in trouble when the Republicans were in the White House" while he has "prospered under Democratic leadership."

For every $4 the farmer got in 1952, Stevenson declared, "he is getting less than $3 today."

"The farmer's share of the housewife's food dollar has dropped from 47 per cent in 1952 to 38 per cent in 1956," the Democratic nominee asserted.

The Iowan editorial staff writes its editorials without censorship by administration or faculty. The Iowan's editorial policy, therefore, is not necessarily an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion.

To Mr. Loveless

The following editorial is written for Mr. Herschel Loveless, in hopes that, if he reads it, he will take a long, hard look at his ideas concerning Iowa income and the problems of the farmer.

Herschel Loveless, Ottumwa, Democratic candidate for governor, and Leo Hoegh, incumbent, spoke before the same audience Tuesday in Des Moines. The audience was a group of newspapermen from throughout the state connected with the Des Moines Register and Tribune Company.

As in the past, Mr. Loveless based his attacks on the present state government on the farm situation.

Mr. Hoegh didn't mention farm income in his speech, perhaps because it is out of his jurisdiction, perhaps because it is a hot potato and he didn't want to burn his fingers.

Mr. Loveless would have been better off had he not mentioned it, because he showed that he is either (1) playing the most vicious type of politics of all, i.e., blaming the other fellow for your own mistakes, or (2) stupid.

Loveless said our economy is "out of balance," with income down and the cost of government going up. He said Iowa income is down although income over the nation is up.

Surely Mr. Loveless realizes, as his party leaders keep telling us, that farm income is down because of Federal policy, not state policy. How then can he promise to rectify this situation when he is running for governor? And if he's not promising anything, what is he talking about?

It is inconceivable that Mr. Loveless is so naive economically and politically as to blame the state government for low farm income. As a matter of fact it is unthinkable that he could even blame the Federal government, seeing that the agricultural policies of his own party were pointed in the wrong direction, even as those of the present Administration are.

Agricultural policy for the past twenty years has been on the wrong track, with the only economically sound suggestions getting the boot before they were tried. Both parties are to blame for low farm income, Mr. Loveless, not just the nasty Republicans.

The only difference between Democratic and Republican farm programs is the longer record of failure of the Democrats because they were in power longer.

Both parties have historically aimed at the wrong trouble spot in their policies, and both have figured the problem as a short range one.

The problem is not over-production, as the Republicans believe; it is not low prices received for products, as the Democrats believe; these are merely partial causes and symptoms.

The problem in agriculture is low farm income. It is not a short range problem, it is long range, and will be with us as long as we have too many farmers.

The Democrats, Mr. Loveless, take credit for high farm income during and immediately following the war. If they do this then they must also take credit for the war. One is as absurd as the other.

The Republicans have nothing to take credit for, so they just keep trying different solutions.

Both parties refuse to face up to the truth, because the farmer, a voter, himself cannot bear to face it.

The farmer knows, in the back of his mind, this problem is a long range one, and none of the present agricultural policies will help him much, since they are too short range in nature. The soil bank's acreage reserve is not much better than its predecessors.

In his dilemma the farmer doesn't know where to turn. On one hand he has the Farm Bureau, an organization which has traditionally been slow at adopting new policies, but which has taken time to think the problem through and propose a long range "solution."

On the other hand, the farmer has an "upstart" organization, the NFO, which believes, as the Democrats do, that rigid price supports are the answer. The high price supports appeal to the farmer's pocketbook, but the long range aspect of Farm Bureau policy appeals to his better judgment.

The farm problem is not an easy one to solve. Farmers will fight the right solution as long as they are able. They do not want to quit farming.

Maybe the next best solution is to enact some sort of Brannan Plan. Of course the name would have to be changed or it would be distasteful to almost all farmers.

In any event, Mr. Loveless, one would be better off, it seems, to confine one's attacks on an officeholder to those things over which that man has some control. To get off into the realm of good Federal government is fine for contemplative thought, but it hardly benefits a man when he is running for governor of the state.

Conventions Are Not Conventional

By GEORGE DIXON, King Features Syndicate

WASHINGTON — After attending two political conventions, I submit that the great etymological mystery of the age is why we still use the word "conventional" the way we use it. When we describe a dowager as "conventional," the very mildest we should mean is that she's running amok.

I have a maiden aunt who is accused by all the family connections of being too "conventional." Yet, so far as any of us know, she has never horsed around with a placard on a stick, served as a section of a dragon, worn a button the size of a pie plate on her chest, caucused in a stockyard or a cow palace, or even offered her body or soul for a badge that entitled her to practically nothing.

When I suggest that some of the conventional behavior at the conventions bordered on the unconventional, I do not mean to imply however that it was improper. Maturing ladies and gentlemen, trying to leap around like partisan gazelles while weighted down with twenty pounds of banners and buttons, are not apt to have the extra energy for dalliance, even if Frank Leahy, the ex-Notre Dame coach, did second the renomination of President Eisenhower by spoonerizing:

"He has provided leadership for all the free-loving people of the world!"

People at a national political convention are more apt to be free-loading than free-loving. They have to stomach so many things they get hungry.

By this time you may be getting the impression that I found the two conventions a bit souring. Nothing could be farther from the truth. I loved them both.

Many of my fellow reporters professed to be aggravated at both conventions. They complained that one was a madhouse, and the other not mad enough. This might have made sense, if there had been unanimity. But sitting beside a scrivener who said the Democratic Convention was wild, but that the only fur flying at the Republican was mink, would be a colleague who insisted it was the other way around.

I even thought the two conventions made a little sense. Of course, my own sanity has long been in question. But there was one thing I didn't do that many of my sanity-shouting colleagues did. I did not go from San Francisco to Las Vegas, Nev., to rest up.

I can't estimate how many told me solemnly they were going to Las Vegas to recover their health and senses. I know there was a special plane that took off a couple of hours after the GOP finally bulldozed its way out of the Cow Palace. On it was one of the most intelligent, well-balanced newspapermen I have ever known, Arthur F. Hermann, of International News Service. Yet, in trying to persuade me to come along, he said:

"We will not move a muscle toward a dice table. We will just loll in the sun and contemplate."

When I asked him why he could not contemplate in the sun in Bethesda, Md., where he lives, he said he couldn't contemplate the same things.

Since returning to Washington, I have been asked by a lot of friends who saw the GOP Convention on television, what George Murphy, the movie actor, was doing on the platform. He was making weird gestures. Well, he hadn't gone berserk. He was just waving music cues to the band.

The best description of the ultra-conservatively dressed Murphy was given by Leo Guthman, wealthy Chicago paint manufacturer: "He looks like an investment banker practicing Yoga."

Fulbright Awards For Near East Open Until Oct. 1

Applications for 1957-58 Fulbright awards for lecturing and advanced research in Near East countries will be accepted until Oct. 1.

The nationwide award program supplements awards previously announced under the Fulbright Act. Tentative programs for research and lecturing have been set up in India, Ceylon, Pakistan, Iraq and Egypt, with a definite plan for six university lecturing awards to be offered in Thailand.

The awards are for the academic year and are paid in the currency of the country in which work is to be done. In general they include round-trip transportation, maintenance allowance and an allowance for travel and books.

Applicants for lectureships should have had at least a year of teaching experience at a college or university. Research applicants should have a Ph.D. degree or recognized standing in their profession.

Detailed information on each country's requests for researchers and professors can be obtained from the SUI Graduate College.

'Time Clock' Study May Solve Riddles

Clocks which never need to be wound may hold the answer of why an animal hibernates or why some people wake up early on holidays while others sleep through the alarm clock weekdays.

An SUI scientist believes such biological "clocks" exist and help regulate life.

Prof. G. Edgar Folk Jr., of the Physiology Department told an American Institute of Biological Sciences symposium Wednesday that some lower mammals must adhere to 24-hour routines even when living in constant darkness or constant light for periods up to a year. He spoke during a meeting of the Institute at the University of Connecticut.

"There is considerable evidence, of these 'clocks' existing in some lower mammals such as white rats and probably in man," he said.

To illustrate, he pointed out that in man the body temperature and the heart rate ordinarily are higher in the afternoon than shortly after midnight. The fundamental question is whether these changes are due to the differences in activity at the two times or to internal "clocks" or "thermostats" which keep the body in a routine or rhythm.

Folk described animal research in which he found that forced exercise did not affect the routine. For example, hamsters showed a peak of heart rate and of body temperature at midnight and a low point at noon, both before and after regular forced exercise.

Following this study, the scientist investigated the effects of cold upon the physiological rhythms. He found that animals which have "poor temperature control," ground squirrels and bats, for example, can be easily persuaded into hibernation with forced exposure to cold.

By "poor temperature control," the scientist means a poor ability to maintain approximately normal body temperature during environmental temperature changes.

During hibernation, the animal's body temperature drops and its metabolic processes are slowed. The biological "clocks" in these animals are slowed by the cold. For example, many bats change from a 24-hour cycle to one of 48 hours during hibernation.

But animals which have "good temperature control," rabbits, raccoons, hamsters and others, usually maintain their physiological rhythms even during long periods of winter rest.

Since most human beings probably are of the "good temperature control" type, the question arises as to whether a man living in constant darkness or constant light would still need to function on a 24-hour cycle basis.

Folk's research and similar studies by other scientists may ultimately bring understanding of why some people tend to "wake up early even during vacation," and why changing from a day to night shift at work is difficult for many. The results of the study may also be useful in the military services where men perform guard duty at irregular times during a night, and where men may live for days in the confines of a submarine.

Interpreting the News—

Russia Wants War, Not West Germany

By J.M. ROBERTS, Associated Press News Analyst

The Soviet charge that the West German government is plotting a new war to reunite Germany, is, insofar as current events are concerned, all bosh.

It is not the Bonn government which is plotting war.

History, influenced by Soviet Russia, is doing the plotting.

The latest Communist outburst is not merely a product of the Soviet propaganda machine, directed against a government with which it only recently established diplomatic relations. It is a formal statement by the Central Committee of the party, directed against outlaws of Communists in West Germany. That is being denounced by Communist parties throughout the world in a chain reaction.

The terms are all the same, "warlike," "endangering peace," and "Hitlerism." This suggests that Russia has not been slow in replacing the Cominform with an equally efficient communications arrangement to secure concerted propaganda.

Present-day Germany is in no position to rebel with force against partition. The Western Allies, to avoid being involved in any such argument, were extremely careful to see to it that when they were drawing up the arrangements for Western European Union and Germany's inclusion in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The limits of German rearmament and the uses to which it may be put are clearly defined and strictly subject to international control.

If Russia ever succeeds in producing the disintegration of these organizations, at which she works so hard, then she will indeed have created conditions under which a fear of German power can honestly be maintained.

Not that there is any current incident in Germany to work up such a condition. But history decrees that a nation so great as Germany, with her vast industrial energy and well-developed national culture, will not remain divided.

Gifts, Grants of $150,743 For SUI Research, Training

Gifts and grants of $150,743 have been accepted for SUI by the finance committee of the State Board of Regents. Most of the amount is to support training in psychiatric nursing and rehabilitation counseling, and for research in speech defects.

A sum of $69,266 was provided by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the National Institutes of Health for the SUI College of Nursing. The grant will be used in the college's program in psychiatric nursing at both graduate and undergraduate levels and will provide for the addition of members to the staff and for research.

The Vocational Rehabilitation agency of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare granted $34,052, for teaching and to provide 12 traineeships in the University's new graduate program in rehabilitation counseling.

John Muthard, SUI coordinator of the rehabilitation counseling program, said Wednesday that four of the 12 traineeships, amounting to $800 each semester, are still available for qualified college graduates who wish to work toward an M.A. in this field.

The eight who have already been awarded 1956-57 traineeships in rehabilitation counseling are: Marceline Jaques, Burlington; Mary Gardner, Grinnell; J. D. Anderson and Catherine Howard, both of Iowa City; Mahlon R. Hungerford, Keswick; Walter C. Ferguson, Lisbon; William D. Brown, Sanborn, and Cleo E. Smith, Williamsburg.

A grant of $21,296 was accepted from the U.S. Public Health Service for research on speech improvement for persons with cleft palates. The money provides for the second year of the three-year project with the Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology, the Department of Psychology and the Colleges of Medicine and Dentistry participating.

The study will be directed by Prof. D. C. Spriesterbach of the Speech Pathology Department. The Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology also received $15,000 from the Louis W. and Maud Hill Foundation, Minneapolis, for continuing research on the effectiveness of various types of stuttering therapy. The new sum brings the Hill Foundation's contribution to $101,800 for stuttering research under the direction of Prof. Wendell Johnson.

The Fund for the Republic granted $4,400 to Ralph E. Ellsworth, director of the University libraries, for the preparation of a bibliography of publications of selected economic and political organizations from 1946 to the present.

The Ford Foundation gave $3,904 from its Economic Development and Administration program to provide a fellowship for Walter W. McMahon, Clinton, SUI instructor in economics. McMahon earned both his B.S.C., in 1950, and his M.A., in 1953, from SUI.

A total of $1,568 was accepted for the SUI College of Pharmacy to provide tuition scholarships for seven students. Schlegel Drug Stores, Davenport, and Toller Drug Co., Sioux City, each provided $448, while the Osco Drug Co., Chicago, gave $672.

Schlegel scholarship holders for 1956-1957 will be Paul Larson, P.3, Cresco and Ronald E. Daehler, P.2, Chadwick, Ill. Toller scholarships will be held by John Davies, P.3, Davenport and Lester Tharp, P.3, Grinnell. Osco scholarships will go to Jack W. Bieber, P.4, Davenport; Wayne Pauli, P.4, Davenport; and Dorothy Campbell, P.2, DeWitt.

The American Society of Anesthesiology gave $750 for a School of Journalism study of the "Anesthesiology" journal and its readership. Ray Sweigert, G. Atlanta, Ga., will conduct the study under the direction of Prof. Arthur Barnes and Prof. William Porter.

A grant of $500 was given for a scholarship in the College of Commerce for Anita May, Hessen, Germany. The money was given by the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Miscellaneous small gifts accepted totaled $7.

Call for Bids on Coralville Dam Work

The Army Corps of Engineers is expected to call for bids this week on construction projects in connection with the Coralville reservoir and dam now being built.

Bids are scheduled to be opened Oct. 2 in the office of the district engineer, Rock Island, Ill.

One project listed is the construction of a north access road, extending from the junction with Johnson County Road E, approximately two miles northwest of Solon, to the northern part of Lake McBride State Park. The road will be about 2 1/2 miles long.

The east access road will extend westerly along a relocation of Iowa State Highway 382 from its junction with Johnson County Road Y.

Specifications call for clearing, installation of culverts and stock passes, grading, slope protection, roadway surfacing, guard rail placement, seeding and fencing.

Award Activity Scholarships to 60 SUI Students

Sixty SUI students have been awarded Activity Scholarships for the 1956-57 school year. The scholarships are granted annually to a limited number of undergraduate students with above-average academic records who have been outstanding participants in an area of extracurricular activity which requires special aptitude — such as athletics, forensics, music or journalism.

In awarding these scholarships, one of the considerations is the student's desire to continue, while in the University, his participation in the particular activity for which he has received recognition.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE SALES MANAGER of a large publishing house obviously was in a snit. "What's this I hear," he thundered to the trembling underling "about you going over my head?"

"Honest, Mr. Miller," insisted the culprit, "all I did was pray for a raise."

Later he told the appeased sales manager, "Being a salesman is sure the life for me! How I love being at a different motel every night and meeting the swell folks there. The only part I can't stand is calling on those beastly buyers."

A Persian legend tells of a traveler who strayed from his caravan and was lost in a trackless wilderness of sand. Two days of aimless plodding left him exhausted and about to perish from thirst. Suddenly his eyes lit on what looked like a water skin. Reaching it on his knees, he tore it open.

Alas, it was only a bag of gleaming, flawless pearls!

Two Thrilled Youngsters

A BIG CHANCE to talk to an American coed thrilled these Glasgow, Scotland, children just before the SUI Highlanders performed there last week. Ida Mae Bell, Donnellson, is one of 72 Highlanders now in the British Isles. After their marching and musical maneuvers, the girls were again surrounded with enthusiastic children and autograph seekers.

Highlanders Report London Impressions

London weather was "better than I expected — we had several sunny days," Highlander Janice Barnes, Iowa City, reported. Similar weather reports were received from other Iowa City girls with the SUI Highlanders. The group is now performing in Scotland after being in London about a week.

Iowa Scots In Aberdeen

When the SUI Scottish Highlanders perform today in Aberdeen, they are expected to draw a crowd as large or larger than the 25,000 who watched the Iowa coeds in 1952. Local sponsors of the 72-girl bagpipe band report "excellent" advance ticket sales with stadium grandstand seats sold out. This is the city where in 1952 the Iowa girls "converted" a councilman who had earlier balked at their appearance.

Illinois Candidate For Governor Quits

CHICAGO — Herbert C. Paschen withdrew Wednesday as the Democratic candidate for governor of Illinois. He said he wants to "devote all of my energy and time to repeal at Paschen is Cook County—Chicago—treasurer. An employees welfare fund in that office is under investigation by Cook County and federal grand juries.

He quit less than 10 weeks before the Nov. 6 election. He had been under indirect pressure from some party leaders to get off the ticket.

The Democratic State Central Committee will choose a new candidate to run against the Republican incumbent, Gov. William G. Stratton. The committee will meet Tuesday in Springfield.

Some party leaders have been reported to be disappointed with Paschen's campaigning. Paschen, a 6-foot-2 politician, usually gives the impression of being relaxed and easy-going.

But he was grim Wednesday when he handed newsmen a short statement saying friends and fellow workers had urged him to stay in the race. It added:

"But I feel I must devote all of my energy and time to repeal attempts to becloud my reputation. Further, I wish to make sure that the issues this fall are clear in the public's mind so that the Democratic party may present to the people of Illinois the real issues of this campaign.

"Therefore, I am today asking the State Central Committee to accept my resignation as the candidate for governor and to proceed with the selection of a successor."

It was the second time within two months that a hole has been punched in a major party ticket in Illinois. Orville E. Hodge, Republican state auditor, stepped out of office and gave up his bid for reelection July 16.

Hodge has been sent to Menard Prison to serve a 12 to 15-year sentence for embezzling more than one million dollars in state funds. He has been replaced on the GOP ticket by State Sen. Elbert Smith of Decatur.

Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago, chairman of the Democratic county committee and one of the top powers in the party in the state, has said the Democrats could not bring the full "impact" of the Hodge scandal to bear on Republicans with Paschen on the ballot.

"There is no question that Paschen would hurt the entire Democratic ticket," Daley had told reporters.

Daley is a strong supporter of Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic candidate for president. His use of the term "entire ticket" indicated he had Stevenson in mind along with party nominees for state office.

County and federal grand juries are looking into an employees welfare fund in Paschen's county office. The fund, totaling $29,000, is made up of donations from banks which have county money on deposit.

Paschen has said there is nothing illegal about the fund, but that he plans to dissolve it anyway and return the contributions. He also has said he was not an officer of the fund and that it was operated by two Republican predecessors.

Among those mentioned as possible candidates for governor on the Democratic ballot are Cook County Judge Otto Kerner, Sheriff Joseph Lohman of Chicago, Stephen A. Mitchell, former national chairman of the party, and Chicago's city treasurer, Morris B. Sachs.

Mayor Daley declined to say whether he has a favorite for the vacancy.

30 Convicts In Bold Dash For Freedom

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Despite a heavy guard, 30 convicts fled from a Kilby Prison gravel pit Wednesday in a bold dash that ended in death for two prisoners.

The two men died and seven others were injured when a prison truck the prisoners had stolen was wrecked only a few miles from the prison. All the prisoners were recaptured.

Two others were shot by pursuing guards in an attempt to halt the speeding truck.

The prison director said the 30 white prisoners, all "maximum security" convicts, were en route under armed guard to the prison gravel pit.

When they reached the gravel pit, McCullough said, two of the convicts jumped from the truck and overpowered the driver, a prison trusty, and sped away. Firing at the tires and at the convict who was driving, the guards chased the prisoners three or four miles before the fleeing men wrecked their truck.

The director said the guards were "highly commended" for their "alertness" in preventing what would have been the greatest mass getaway in Alabama in years.

The most recent mass prison break in Alabama was in September 1951 when 21 convicts escaped from inside Draper Prison at nearby Speigner, Ala.

Set Mental Health Meeting

Laymen and professionals in dealing with the mentally ill will meet Sept. 14 at Old Capitol to discuss the state's mental health facilities.

The open hearing is part of a study of the Iowa mental health situation being conducted by the Governor's Committee on Mental Health. The American Psychiatric Association is helping in the drive to gain local opinion on mental health facilities and needs in different areas of the state.

Opinions will be asked from district judges, county social welfare personnel and administrators of private mental health units.

Earnings lost through mental illness will be considered when labor and employ groups give their opinions of the situation.

Similar meetings are planned for other parts of Iowa. In another phase of the program, the Psychiatric Association, which has been studying mental health facilities in Iowa, will report to the governor's committee later this year with recommendations for improvements and their probable cost.

3-Run Adcock Homer Keeps Milwaukee 1 1/2 Ahead of Brooks—

Mantle Gets 46th; Braves Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Joe Adcock smashed a three run homer in the last of the ninth Wednesday night to give Milwaukee's first place Braves a 4-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Adcock's homer, his 34th, came with Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews on base. The Pirates had tied the score in the top of the ninth.

Lew Burdette struck out five and didn't walk a batter. It was Burdette's third triumph without a loss over the Pirates this year.

Mathews supplied the game's first score with a bases empty homer over the right field wall in the second. It was his 33rd of the year and third in two games.

Dale Long, Roberto Clemente and Dick Groat hit successive singles after two were out in the ninth to tie it up at 1-1. The Pirates got to Burdette, who allowed four hits in the first eight innings, after the game had been delayed 53 minutes by rain after the eighth inning.

Bums 11, Cubs 4

CHICAGO (AP) — Catcher Roy Campanella drove in five runs, including three on a homer, to pace an 11-4 Dodger victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday which kept the Brooks hot on the heels of the pace-setting Milwaukee Braves.

Campanella doubled across two runs in a five-run Brooklyn first which hung the defeat on Cub starter Don Kaiser, first of four Chicago hurlers.

Although shaken for 11 Cub hits, including a three-run homer by ex-Dodger Don Hoak in the third and Gene Baker's homer in the sixth, Carl Erskine rode to his 12th victory against 7 losses.

Kaiser couldn't survive the first inning against the pressing Dodgers.

Reds 4, Giants 3

CINCINNATI (AP) — The little men in Cincinnati's lineup did the damage Wednesday night as Roy McMillan and Johnny Temple drove in decisive runs to give the Reds a 4-3 victory over the New York Giants.

The victory gave the Reds a sweep of the two-game series with New York and kept them in hot pursuit of Milwaukee and Brooklyn for the National League lead.

McMillan and Temple got a lot of help from tight relief pitching by Art Fowler, who relieved starter Johnny Klippstein in the fourth.

McMillan drove in two runs in the second and Temple drove in what proved to be the decisive tally in the fourth.

Alex Grammas, another player who doesn't figure in Cincinnati's power attack, got three hits and figured prominently in the scoring.

The Giants got away to a 1-0 lead in the second but in the Reds' half McMillan's two-run double came after Wally Post had walked and Ed Bailey had doubled. Temple's single scored McMillan.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Philadelphia ace Robin Roberts survived a shaky start Wednesday night to get an 8-6 victory over St. Louis as the Phillies, led by Del Ennis, battered four Cardinal pitchers for 14 hits.

Roberts was tagged for 12 hits, including four doubles and a homer, but held on to even his season record at 15-15. He stands 2-2 against the Cards, who have reached him for 21 runs in 34 innings.

He put down a ninth-inning Cardinal uprising which saw the Redbirds score once on Don Blasingame's single, an infield out and Stan Musial's single.

Roberts trailed 4-0 after two innings but bore down under the Phillies got him a lead.

Ennis batted in three runs with a homer, double and sacrifice fly. Ex-Cardinal Solly Hemus had three singles.

Catcher Ray Katt blasted a home run and two doubles, driving in three St. Louis runs.

HAD GOOD CHANCE

CLEVELAND (AP) — When Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, hit his 58th home run on Sept. 27 he still had five games to play in which to tie Babe Ruth's record 60 hit in 1927.

Greenberg had 17 official at bats in the final five games but his only hits were four singles and a double.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Cleveland Indians squeaked by with a 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night when Vic Wertz drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning.

Starting Oriole pitcher Mike Fornieles was coasting along the sixth, when the Indians pushed across two runs. After two were out, Dave Pope singled and Rocky Colavito tripled him home. Wertz followed with a single to center, scoring Colavito, but Gene Woodling fanned to end the inning.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a six-run rally in the ninth inning, Washington lost to the Chicago White Sox 9-7 Wednesday as Jim Wilson broke a personal eight-game losing streak with the aid of Ellis Kinder.

Wilson, who hadn't won a game since July 3, owned a three-hitter entering the last inning, when the Senators accumulated six hits and got the potential tying run to the plate.

The White Sox mauled Bob Wiesler, Hal Griggs, Connie Grob and Bob Chalkers for 14 hits, with Nellie Fox getting 4 and Minnie Minoso and Walt Dropp collecting 3 each.

Chicago shelled Wiesler with a four-run spurge in the third inning and possessed a 9-1 lead before the Senators solved Wilson.

Famous 'Poison Lil' Car Entered at State Fair

DES MOINES — One of the nation's most famous racing cars, Joe Gerns's red and black "Poison Lil," has just been entered in tonight and Friday night's big-car speedway races at the Iowa State Fair here.

At the wheel of the big Offenhauser will be veteran pilot Art George, Pacific coast racing sensation. George has been driving racing cars since 1937 and during that time has piled up a big list of west coast records and championships.

"Poison Lil" has a history all her own. Built in 1933, "Lil" skyrocketed to fame on the famed Ascot track, and brought new laurels to her owner and drivers racing on the "brick yard" in Indianapolis.

Mick Errors, Later Wins For Yanks, 7-6

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle's bat did more damage to the Kansas City Athletics Wednesday than his fielding did to his own team and the Yankees squeaked through in the ninth inning to beat the A's 7-6.

Mantle muffed a fly ball with the bases full in the first inning and helped get the A's off to a 4-0 lead before they even got a hit. Then he clouted his 46th home run of the season in the third inning. And with two out and the score tied in the ninth, Mickey singled and scored Gil McDougald with the winning run.

The game, the last of the season here between the two clubs, was a sloppy affair from which the Yanks were lucky to emerge with their 16th victory in 19 clashes with Kansas City. The Yankees made four errors, two by McDougald. The Athletics made one.

Mantle's miff came after one run had scored on McDougald's fumble of Lou Skizas' bouncer. A hit batsman and two walks off starter Johnny Kucks had paved the way.

Mickey's 46th homer tied Joe DiMaggio for the No. 3 position in all-time Yankee homer production for one season. Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig have hit more than 46, a mark DiMaggio reached in 1937. Mantle now is four games ahead of Ruth's pace for his record season of 1927, when the Babe hit 60.

IOWA CAGE SUCCESS

Iowa's basketball team under Bucky O'Connor's coaching have never finished below .500 in Big 10 play. Since O'Connor took over the cage reins at Iowa in 1952, his teams have won two conference championships, finished second twice, and fifth once. The teams of the last three seasons compiled an excellent 35-7 won-lost record in league play.

SEEKS ONE MILLION

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — The Eastern League hopes to achieve one million attendance in baseball this season. The figure last was reached in 1949. With Syracuse replacing Elmira the league's directors believe the figure will be reached. However, Elmira was one of the best drawing cities a few years ago.

Calisthenics Time

CHARLEY NEAL, Brooklyn Dodgers' second-baseman, seems to be answering to the call of calisthenics, but actually he has been "taken out of the double play" by Chicago centerfielder Pete Whisenant's vicious slide into second base in Wrigley Field Wednesday. Action occurred after Cub catcher Harry Chitt grounded to Brooklyn's Pee Wee Reese who threw to Neal. Whisenant, who was forced at second by Reese's throw, then upended Neal to prevent a throw to first base to double Chitt.

Rizzuto Rejects Cards' Offer

HILLSIDE, N.J. (AP) — Ex-Yankee Phil Rizzuto, who is considering half a dozen job offers in the broadcasting and television field, has declined a chance to play the rest of the season for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Scooter disclosed Wednesday that Frank Lane, general manager of the Cardinals, called him Tuesday night from St. Louis and promised to have him in the remaining 29 games the team plays this year if he would sign up.

Rizzuto said the playing offer was attractive but declined to say how much he was offered. He said he plans to take a broadcasting post.

Rizzuto, 38, was given his unconditional release by the Yankees Saturday.

'Lighthorse' Harry, Army Fame, Retires

MITCHELL AIR FORCE BASE, N.Y. (AP) — Col. Harry E. Wilson, "Light Horse Harry" to Army football fans of a generation ago who gloried in his feats against the Navy team, will retire from active military service Friday.

Wilson, 54, now assistant deputy chief of staff for operations of the Continental Air Command, played against the Navy seven times for Penn State and Army and was on the losing side only once.

His retirement will be marked by a formal military review at the parade grounds at Mitchell Air Force Base.

Wilson was one of the "post-graduate" players of the early 1920s who carried the Army team through four years without a loss to Navy. He was regarded as one of West Point's best backfield men.

At that time all Cadets were eligible for varsity athletics for four years at West Point regardless of previous experience. Navy adhered to the college three-year eligibility rule and after the 1927 game broke off relations until Army adopted the same rule.

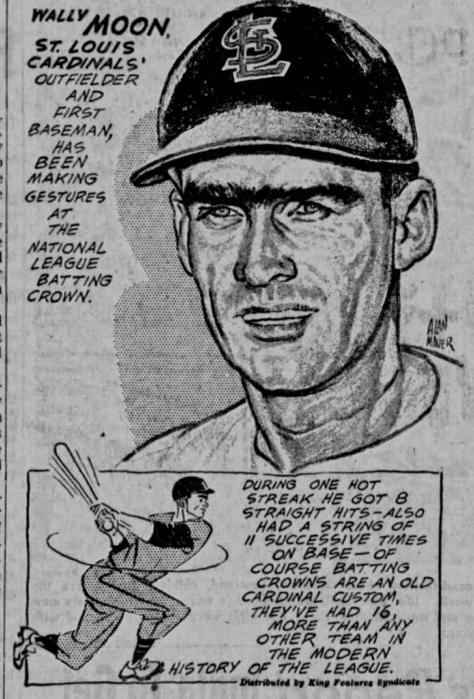

Wilson had played three years of varsity football for Penn State before entering West Point in 1924. He played four years for the Army and captained the 1927 team.

In seven games against Navy, he scored six touchdowns and four extra points.

Wilson teamed up with Chris Cagle in the Army backfield in the memorable 21-21 game at Chicago in 1926. Wilson's contribution was 148 yards on 14 running plays, including a 16-yard touchdown dash and three extra points. He missed an attempt for a winning field goal.

As Army captain in 1927 Wilson, with Cagle's help, scored both Army touchdowns in a 14-9 victory. Commissioned in 1928, Wilson commanded the 42nd Bomb Group during World War II and flew 45 missions in B25 medium bombers in the South Pacific. He holds the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with five oak leaf clusters. After the war he commanded Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

Gibson: Sure I Can Win Nat'l Net Title

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Althea Gibson kicks off the diamond jubilee National Tennis Championships Friday, confident she can become the first Negro to win a major net title in the United States.

"I feel sure I can win," the tall New York girl said after a brief warmup Wednesday.

Miss Gibson meets Mrs. Nell Hopman, wife of Australia's tennis team captain, in the opening match at the West Side Tennis Club and figures to win easily.

Seeded-second in the women's division, she is expected to find her principal stumbling block in veteran Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, Fla., the top-seeded favorite who beat her en route to the Wimbledon title last month.

The first day's program produces an uncommonly good list of twilight matches.

In addition to the Gibson-Hopman tussle, other matches in order are:

Lewis Hoad, Australia vs Barry Wamraven, Oklahoma City; Ulf Schmidt, Sweden vs Allen Morris, Atlanta; Hamilton Richardson, Westfield, N.J., vs Rodney Laver, Australia.

Malcolm Anderson, Australia vs Mike Green, Miami.

Hoad is the favorite for the men's title. He hopes to add the U.S. to his Wimbledon, French and Australian crowns for a quadruple slam which only one other man has accomplished in the annals of tennis — Don Budge.
