Arrested in School Violence

(AP Wirephoto)

SCHOOL INTEGRATION violence in Clinton, Tenn., led to the arrest of Dewey Hopper, 21, who was forcefully escorted to jail Thursday. Negroes were admitted to Clinton High School for the first time Monday. Air Force-man Hopper was charged with resisting arrest and later turned over to military authorities. He was arrested with two others who were also involved in the violence.

Mob Violence After Integration

An angry crowd threatened to use guns if necessary to maintain segregation at the Mansfield, Tex., high school Thursday while violence flared for the second day at the newly integrated Clinton High School in east Tennessee.

Sheriff Harlan Wright said about 250 persons milled about Mansfield high after the figure of a Negro was found hanging in effigy from the school's flagpole. The figure bore a sign saying, "Staw away niggers."

The sheriff and four deputies went to the school to preserve order while town children registered for the fall term. No Negroes appeared but 12 from rural areas are scheduled to register today.

Wright said one member of the crowd demanded, "We want a yes or no answer: Are you gonna escort them in there with guns?"

The sheriff replied, "You can't take the law into your own hands." "If you escort them in with guns, we are gonna have to get guns ourselves," one man told Wright. The sheriff said he would charge anyone found with a gun.

"You'd better clean out the jail, then. You're gonna have a lot of us down there," someone in the crowd shouted.

No incidents developed and by midafternoon only about 50 persons remained outside the school. The sheriff said many declared they would return today.

In Dallas, U.S. District Judge Joe E. Estes confirmed his order for immediate integration of Mansfield high. An appeal is being sought, however.

At Clinton, Tenn., three white men were taken into custody during a brief melee in front of the school. Classes started Monday with 12 Negroes among the 800 pupils enrolled.

Apples and tomatoes were hurled at a passing Negro woman during the disturbance. The crowd of about 100 moved on to the nearby jail when the three were taken there. A jail window was broken before authorities restored order.

Meanwhile, in Knoxville, John Kasper, Washington, D. C., segregationist accused of stirring up much of the trouble at Clinton, was arrested on a writ of attachment issued by federal Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor. Kasper was jailed in default of $10,000 bail.

The judge issued the writ pending a hearing today on a contempt citation against Kasper for conducting an anti-integration rally attended by some 800 persons Wednesday night at Clinton. Kasper, executive secretary of the Seaboard White Citizens' Council, spoke against enforcement of the integration order.

SUI Dental Professor To Ohio Conference

Prof. George E. Easton of the SUI College of Dentistry will attend a conference on oral diagnosis Sept. 10-11 in Columbus, O. Easton is head of the Department of Oral Diagnosis.

Conference subjects will include diagnostic techniques and ways of improving the content of oral diagnosis classes.

Teachers of oral diagnosis from throughout the United States and from Canada will attend the meeting, which will be sponsored by Ohio State University and the Proctor and Gamble Company.

Wind, Rain Cause Death, Damage

DES MOINES — One man was killed by lightning in a series of scattered thunderstorms which hit Iowa from all sides Thursday.

Heavy wind storms struck Thursday evening in the West Branch and Atalissa areas.

Charles Smice, a farmer living two miles west of Atalissa, was injured when a barn in which he was milking cows was blown down.

The wind unroofed a house at West Branch and power lines there were put out of commission. James P. Brady, 64, a farmer living near Polk City north of Des Moines was killed by lightning when he stepped out of his farmhouse to get a pair of overalls.

Thomas Wright, 21, Independence, a lineman for the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., was knocked unconscious when lightning struck a cable he was splicing about a mile east of Maynard.

The Weather Bureau said that storms raged along the eastern border of Iowa from Dubuque north to La Crosse, Wis., and in the southeastern section of the state heavy hail was reported at Burlington.

A high wind uprooted trees and disrupted power and telephone lines in the vicinity of Keokuk and Hamilton, Ill. across the Mississippi River from there.

Some heavy thunderstorms skipped across parts of central and northeast Iowa Wednesday night and Thursday, resulting in some damage from lightning and rain estimated unofficially at up to 3 inches north of Marshalltown.

Shortly after noon another electrical storm accompanied by heavy rain and winds up to 50 miles an hour hit Marshalltown.

Lightning struck near the Evangelical Hospital, disrupting power for about 20 minutes. During that period one baby was delivered.

Development Fund Names 12 Students For Scholarships

Twelve students who will enter SUI this fall will receive Old Gold Development Fund Freshman Merit Scholarships for the 1956-57 school year.

The scholarships are provided by the Old Gold Development Fund, an SUI alumni project, and are an extension of the already existing Freshman Merit Scholarship program. They amount to $100 for the year.

The Fund was organized by SUI alumni to provide a channel for voluntary financial assistance to their University. Specific objectives, in the areas of research, student aids and general university assistance, are of such a nature that they would not ordinarily be accomplished through state-appropriated funds.

Among those receiving scholarships is Charles L. Grolmus, a graduate of Iowa City High School.

EAST HAVEN, Conn. — John W. Comstock of East Haven was well pleased with himself when he caught a 38-pound striped bass while vacationing on Cape Cod. Then Mrs. Comstock caught a 42-pounder.

Still Hunt Gas Station Bandits Here

Police late Thursday were still investigating an armed robbery at Dean Jones' Texaco Station, 32 W. Burlington St.

Two swift working bandits held up the station at 3:40 a.m. Thursday. The gunmen took about $90 from the cash register and $20 cash and a personal check for $45 from the service station attendant, Dennis Barnum, 22, 119 S. Linn St. Barnum is an SUI student.

Barnum said the robbery took about 90 seconds. After taking the money, the two gunmen forced the attendant to accompany them, making him lie on the floor of their car for a six block ride before releasing him.

During the ride, one of the bandits asked Barnum if he had given them all the money. Barnum said, "I thought he meant my personal money, too; so I said I had some money in my wallet. Then he said 'you'd better turn it over if you know what's good for you.' I think now, they were referring only to the money in the cash register."

"The cash register at the service station is a four-drawer register — I had the keys to only one of the drawers," Barnum said. "The other three had most of the money, but the keys were in the safe."

He added, "They didn't ask about the safe and if they would have, it wouldn't have done any good because I don't know the combination."

The attendant reported he was forced into the car after it stopped at the station. Then one of the men went to open the cash register. Unable to open it, he asked Barnum how. As he began to give directions, one of the bandits became impatient and told Barnum to open it. Barnum opened the register and the men took the money, leaving the small change.

The bandits released Barnum at the intersection of Prentiss and Dubuque streets, telling him, "Get out of the car. Don't do anything funny or you'll get a bullet in the back of your head."

"I wasn't taking any chances — they appeared sincere. I ran down the street in a zig-zag manner to a friend's house. Then I called police."

Barnum said he thought the men had "pulled this type of caper" before because of their precise operation — no time wasted and no fumbling.

He described the two men as appearing to be in their early twenties. They were both wearing green dungaree trousers and tan shirts.

Police found the SUI student's glasses, which were removed from him during the holdup, in an automobile stolen from Robert Seydel, 1005 E. Fairchild St. The ignition wires of the car were crossed. It was found Thursday morning behind the Capitol Oil Co., 729 S. Capitol St.

Write-in Test Brings Wrong Answer

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — William Allen, 38, applying for a marriage license recently, filled in the prospective bride's name as Wanda Jarrett, 26, of Springfield.

Next day Allen had the application canceled and got a new form. This time the bride's name appeared as Mildred L. Grubbs, 46, Springfield.

Alongside Allen penciled the notation: "Had the wrong girl, found the right one."

Bumper Safety Signs Warn: 'School's Open'

Iowa City police are distributing car bumper stickers saying "School's Open. Drive Carefully" to remind drivers of extra safety needed. School opens next week.

The stickers are provided by the American Automobile Association for distribution to public service vehicles and private car owners. Drivers may pick up the stickers at the police station.

$200,000 Fire

(AP Wirephoto)

THREE BUILDINGS were burned out in this fire in the center of the Corydon business block. Four apartments above the three stores were burned also but occupants escaped injury. Damages were estimated at $200,000.

Corydon Stores Burn As Water Runs Out

CORYDON — Fire, which broke out in a business building on the southwest side of the town square wiped out three stores today and was still burning hours after it was first discovered.

Total loss was estimated at from $150,000 to $200,000.

Fire fighters from Humestown, Sewal, Allerton, and the rescue squad from Chariton aided Corydon firemen in battling the stubborn blaze.

It was first noticed about 1:50 a.m. Firemen encountered "a terrific amount of smoke" which hampered them in their efforts.

No one was injured though apartment dwellers over the stores were routed out of their quarters and lost all their effects.

About nine hours after the fire started, Deputy Sheriff Doyle Davis said the Miles building just to the north of the three attacked by fire, was out of danger. The Miles building replaced three business houses destroyed by a fire in March, 1955.

Firemen were halted in fighting the flames when the town's water tower was emptied and did not refill fast enough to keep up with the pumps.

The firemen tapped directly into the town's water mains and farmers drove tank wagons to the reservoir and obtained water which they dumped into the mains.

The Humestown fire department pumped out water which had accumulated in the basement of one of the buildings and used it over again to fight the flames.

POWER OFF

Power in southeast Iowa City was off for several hours Thursday night due to damages caused to the lines from the storm earlier in the evening.

The Weather

Showers and Cooler

The partly cloudy weather with threats of thundershowers will continue over the Iowa City area today. The cooler weather that arrived Thursday is expected to continue with gusty winds added. High temperature today is expected to be about 78 degrees.

Safety Council Predicts 480 Holiday Death Toll

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council estimated Wednesday 480 persons may be killed in auto crashes over the Labor Day weekend unless unusual caution is observed.

The figure covers only immediate deaths during the period from 6 p.m. tonight until midnight Monday.

If motorists and law enforcement officers team together to hold the toll down, the council said, the figure might be kept at 350, a normal death toll for a non-holiday Saturday, Sunday and Monday in late summer.

Adlai Hits Ike's Atom Arms Race

KONXVILLE, Tenn. — Adlai E. Stevenson contended Thursday President Eisenhower has shown no sign that he is "either able or determined" to stop the ghastly nuclear arms race.

And he charged that under Eisenhower's "go-slow policies," this nation is "lagging seriously in the development of nuclear energy for peacetime purposes."

Speaking prior to a visit to the Tennessee Valley Authority's Norris Dam and another stop at the atomic energy installation at Oak Ridge, Stevenson recalled that Eisenhower announced this week that the Soviets had exploded another "gigantic nuclear weapon."

"Let us remember that only a few years ago, splitting the atom seemed as difficult as disarming seems today," he said. "We did not then and we must not now throw up our hands in the face of difficulties and let this deadly race run its ghastly course."

"Yet, I see no sign that President Eisenhower and his associates are either able or determined to stop it."

Stevenson said Eisenhower had no better record on the peacetime uses of atomic energy, and that "the truth is that private industry simply is not doing the job" because "it can not make a profit by doing it."

Ike, Dulles Statements Anger Nasser

LONDON — French troops and arms descended on the British island of Cyprus Thursday for service as needed in the Suez crisis.

They arrived as tension mounted on the political front in a challenge from Egypt's President Nasser to statements made Wednesday by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Nasser contended neither was right in contending the Suez Canal is physically international in character by treaty.

And in this atmosphere of still mounting tension, the British Foreign Office announced the 13-nation North Atlantic Council will meet in Paris Wednesday to "consider the Suez Canal question."

In Cairo, President Nasser summoned U.S. Ambassador Henry Byroade to "express regret" at President Eisenhower's terming the canal "internationalized by the treaty of 1888." Nasser repeated to the ambassador his contention that the canal "is an integral part of Egypt and subject to Egyptian sovereignty."

In Washington, Egyptian Ambassador Ahmed Hussein protested to Dulles against his calling the canal internationalized.

Earlier, Gen. Sir Charles Keightley, commander-in-chief of British land forces in the Middle East, flew to Cyprus from top-level talks in London.

The French cargo ship Aulne anchored off Famagusta, the deep-water port on Cyprus' east shore. Reports from there said it carried military supplies and about 150 troops. More French ships are expected within 24 hours.

Thursday night a tank landing craft anchored next to the Aulne in Famagusta Harbor was holed above the waterline by an explosion blamed on a mine apparently placed by a frogman.

The blast was interpreted as perhaps the first act by Cypriots against the British decision to let French forces base on Cyprus during the crisis.

The French sought and got permission from the British this week to set up a base at Nicosia with the announced purpose of being in a position to protect French nationals in case of a breakdown in negotiations to free the canal from Egypt's control.

Representatives of the 15-nation North Atlantic Alliance will be meeting in Paris two days after the first meeting — in Cairo Monday — between Nasser and the five-nation committee taking him the London Suez conference's majority proposal for international control of the canal.

Diplomatic sources said it is assumed Britain and France want to tell their NATO allies what their next move will be if Nasser rebuffs the committee.

Eighteen countries, including Britain and France, support the plan for turning over the 103-mile waterway to international control. Nasser has indicated repeatedly that he will reject any international control, but he has agreed to meet the committee.

Preparing for any trouble that might develop from this situation, Britain has given France a base on the eastern Mediterranean island bastion, where British strength already has been greatly increased.

Most of the French Navy's Mediterranean Squadron was reported at sea. The warships, on alert since the beginning of the Suez crisis July 28, steamed out of Toulon, leaving only the battleship Jean Bart and the aircraft carrier Bois Belleau in port, and they too seemed to be preparing to sail.

While the double military build-up progressed in the eastern Mediterranean, the British rulers of Cyprus were faced with fresh outbreaks by rebellious Greek Cypriots demanding an end to colonial rule and union with Greece.

About eight gunmen staged a pre-dawn attack on a police station in Deftera village, 10 miles southwest of Nicosia, and wounded a British soldier in a 20-minute exchange of fire. Failing to capture the station, they fled.

The New Stevenson

Adlai Stevenson has started the 1956 campaigning off with a great big bang. He has planned "grass roots" stops all over the country for both himself and Mr. Kefauver.

Wednesday at Sioux City, Mr. Stevenson blasted just about every conceivable aspect of the Eisenhower Administration, starting with the farm problem and ending with flood control.

The type of comment coming forth from Sioux City was most unlike the Stevenson of 1952. It is evident that his political friends have "gotten" to him.

Campaign leaders in the Stevenson camp have obviously convinced the Democratic presidential nominee that the type of campaign he conducted in 1952 hurt him even more than Harry Truman did.

This year, then, his campaign will be an attacking one. A hard punch in the solar plexus followed by a cross to the jaw.

Mr. Stevenson will prove a formidable opponent in this type of war, for with his command of the English language he can snow an audience under.

The change is a big one. The 1952 model Stevenson was infinitely more likable, but also infinitely less likely to succeed. The few friends Mr. Stevenson will lose by the switch will be offset by the many votes he will capture from the Republicans.

Still, the 1956 model is a disappointment. There was something almost "great" in the 1952 model. Something which (as the commercial says) is "missing, missing, MISSING" in the Stevenson of today. The outright honesty.

The 1952 Stevenson had the frankness to say the same things about civil rights in the South as he said in Maine, to talk the same labor policy to the AFL-CIO as he talked to management.

This frankness and belief in what is right is the thing which is almost certain to be gone in the 1956 Stevenson.

The change will gain him votes, although probably not enough to win; but it will lose him much prestige in the eyes of idealists.

To Iowa City Parents

Your youngsters are NOT allowed to drive a motor vehicle any farther than to school and back on a school driving permit.

Numerous accidents and arrests during the past month have caused Iowa City police to bring this fact to the Iowan's attention. Possible suspension of driver's license until the youngster has reached 21 is one step the police can and will take in cases where the infringement is flagrant enough.

The Code of Iowa, 1954, puts it this way:

"A restricted license may be issued (when necessity is shown) to any person between the ages of 14 and 16 years which license shall entitle the holder, while having such license in his immediate possession, to operate a motor vehicle during the hours of 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. over the most direct and accessible route between the licensee's residence and his school of enrollment for the purpose of attending duly scheduled courses of instruction at such school."

The Code goes on to say that these permits allow the licensee to drive the family car at other times during daylight hours specified only when "accompanied by a parent or guardian who is a holder of a valid operator's license, and who is actually occupying a seat beside the driver."

There you are, and that pretty well limits your youngster. The Code is well defined and these rules were not, as some of our readers said, "made to be broken."

Holders of instruction permits, which are renewable every six months, are restricted in every way the same as holders of special school permits with one exception. The person occupying the seat next to the driver need not be a parent or guardian, but he must be 21 years of age.

Parents who do not see that their youngsters obey these rules are asking for trouble, maybe causing an accident.

A Good Feeling

The FBI certainly has been catching up with a lot of "wanted" characters lately, and although it sounds corny it gives one a good, comfortable feeling, a feeling of security.

Of course the apprehension of Angelo LaMarca doesn't bring Peter Weinberger back to his parents, just as catching Johnny Dio et al doesn't bring back Victor Riesel's eyesight, but it does show "would be" criminals that the FBI means business.

No one knows how the criminal mind works but a criminal, but it would seem that the FBI's relentless pursuit of lawbreakers would be a great deterrent to anyone contemplating crimes of such serious nature.

These things go in cycles, of course, but when so many big cases break at one time it gives the taxpayer a feeling that he's getting what he's paying for.

'My Hand Feels Great... How's Your Vocabulary?'

Washington Scene—

Find Newlyweds Don't Woo Well

By GEORGE DIXON

WASHINGTON — The American Federation of Government Employees opened its Silver Jubilee convention here the other day by asking the rival National Federation of Federal Employees for its hand in marriage. But there was no union of the unions because of a December-December romance.

The AFGE is AFL-CIO; the NFFE, independent. Despite family connections, they began making goo-goo eyes at each other.

They had one beautiful common bond. Each was in the numbers racket. I do not mean the numbers racket immortalized by the late Dutch Schultz. I mean that each was claiming it had more than 100,000 members, whereas each has less than 60,000.

This, of course, is not unique, nor even peculiar to trade unionism.

Why it seems only yesterday that Estes was claiming he had more delegates than Adlai, and whatever became of the comedy team of Joe Smith and Harold Stassen? But the AFGE and the NFFE began to fear that if they kept on trying to top each other in the numbers game they would wind up claiming everybody in the country except Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, of California, who has notoriously failed to become a federal employee.

The would-be wedded unions began putting out feelers, if you will pardon the expression. The NFFE bridled and was coy at first, but it did not know it was not entirely insensible to the AFGE's advances.

The NFFE (I've forgotten what the initials stand for, and I'm too lazy to read back and find out) was dominated by Luther Steward, its president, and Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer. They made a handsome couple, but there seemed not too much danger they would become inflamed by the grande passion because Steward was 80, and Miss McNally was a rather settled-looking 75.

Nevertheless they stole away and got married. And when they returned from their honeymoon they seemed to have become more engrossed with their own affairs than the union's.

The bride devoted herself to feathering their love nest, and the groom turned full time to his hobby — playing pinochle in the National Press Club, which has no direct connection with organized labor, although a few of the members work.

The loving Steward was thus preoccupied, and mending a jubilation hundred aces, when he received the merger invitation from James A. Campbell, national president of the AFGE (I forgot what that stands for, too). The bridegroom pondered the proposal while the AFGE waited with palpitating heart.

At last the octogenarian newlywed replied. It may go down as the most noncommittal response in the history of the labor movement. This is his letter, in full:

"Mr. Jas. A. Campbell, National President American Federation of Government Employees: Sir: I am authorized by the Executive Council of the National Federation of Federal Employees to acknowledge receipt of your letter. Sincerely, Luther Steward."

Incidentally, both of the federal employees' unions assured me they are quitting the numbers game. They said that from now on they are going to be more realistic in their claims of numerical strength.

They said they are following the lead of President Eisenhower who warned the armed services of the dangers of playing the numbers game; meaning the hazards of trying to match Russia in all types of weapons whether they fit in with our defense plans or not.

Devotees of the numbers game need not be afraid, however, that the pastime will suffer a nationwide setback. There will always be stout hearts, like Harry and Averell, to keep it from languishing.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

JOHN STRALEY comes up with a tale of three old card-playing cronies who were so plagued by a talkative kibitzer, they resorted to a stratagem new game as they went along. While the kibitzer looked increasingly bewildered, the dealer tore the deck in half, dealt three pieces to one crony, seven to another, and kept the rest himself, deciding, "I have a mangle. I bet a buck."

The second player declared, "I've got a shorkel. I raise you two."

The third enthused, "You can't bluff me out. I've a farfel and raise you both ten!"

At this point the kibitzer pulled himself together. He shook the third player's shoulder and hollered, "Are you nuts? With a foofe farfel, you got the nerve to raise a mangle and a shorkel!"

Farm Values Rise; Debts Up in 1956

WASHINGTON — The value of the nation's farms increased to a record level last year and so did farm debt.

The Federal Reserve System reported Friday that farm assets hit a new high of $171 billion on Jan. 1 while farm debt climbed to nearly $19 billion.

Net farm income dropped about 5 per cent during the year.

These figures were reported in "The Balance Sheet of Agriculture, 1956," appearing in the reserve's monthly bulletin.

The jump in farm assets was attributed mainly to increases in the value of farm real estate. Also figured as assets are such items as automobiles, household furnishings, buildings, tractors, livestock and crops.

Compared with the figure for a year earlier, farm assets were up $3½ billion, or about 2 per cent. The increase in 1954 had amounted to $5 billion, or 5 per cent.

Farm debts, including price-supported loans, increased a billion dollars in 1955 compared with an increase of $600 million in 1954. Total gross farm income in 1955 was $33½ billion, or about 2 per cent less than in 1954. Farm production costs rose about 1 per cent. Because of the decrease in income and the rise in costs, total net income from agriculture dropped by more than $800 million or about 5 per cent.

Interpreting the News—

Loan-Grant to India Makes Good Sense

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

A lot of people who doubt the practicality of applying the New Testament to international affairs are wondering why the United States chooses this moment for a big loan-grant to India.

If Nehru is going to continue bucking American policy at every turn, they ask, why make him stronger and stronger?

Well, if you skip the virtue of returning good for evil, which might in the long run turn out to be the real answer, there are still plenty of reasons.

This is the biggest move the United States has made so far to meet Russia's new economic warfare.

Russia has loaned India $100 million for a steel plant. The Kremlin expects to make both a business and a political profit. Its chief objective is to establish a bridgehead for a constant flow of technicians and people connected with handling supplies. There people rate 150 per cent in the Soviet book — 100 per cent as infiltrators and 50 per cent as workmen.

By giving India a reserve food supply the United States does several things.

It provides a cushion against famine, a constant threat in that teeming country of sudden flood or drought.

It gives the Indian government a bank-like reserve with which to combat sudden price shifts. This reserve cannot be dissipated for political purposes, because India has agreed to keep up her normal purchases from friendly countries which otherwise might have been damaged by the deal.

It reduces American farm surpluses, a prime need of our own economy, by about 3,500,000 tons of wheat, 500,000 bales of cotton, 200,000 tons of rice, 6,000,000 pounds of tobacco, and $3½ million worth of dairy products. This tends to firm American farm prices and reduce the payments the American taxpayer makes to the American farmer.

The deal has an important industrial effect in India. This is a part of the American policy to push underdeveloped countries toward an economic status which will discourage communism and eventually develop prosperous customers for the United States.

America has seen for herself the compounding value of money invested in a nation's early industrial development, so that a country can finance its own steel mills.

India won't be able to overlook it as time goes on.

Boom Oh, My, Another One — But Seven Is Lucky

DETROIT — Ethel Smith knew exactly what had happened Wednesday when her house shuddered and there was a loud crash. For the sixth time this year, a vehicle had crashed into her living room wall.

A truck collided with a car and went out of control before it struck Miss Smith's home. No one was seriously hurt.

But Miss Smith says the collision was nothing compared to a fire engine which smashed into her home four years ago.

In fact, she says, this one only damaged her television set and knocked a few bricks loose, probably because the mortar wasn't very hard since the last time the wall was rebuilt a few months ago.

The city is widening the street near Miss Smith's corner home in hopes it will reduce the accidents.

Stockholders Oppose New Amana Setup

MARENGO — A suit challenging changes in the Amana Society corporate setup was on file in District Court here Thursday.

The suit was filed by 12 stockholders Wednesday against the society, its members and officers. It asked the District Court to cancel amendments to the society's articles of incorporation, adopted by a vote of the members last Dec. 12, which make it possible for outsiders to own stock in the corporation.

The suit also asked the court to cancel any stock that may have been issued to non-members under the amended articles, and to enjoin the society and its officers from issuing any stock to outsiders in the future.

It also asked an injunction to prevent the officers from "conspiring for the purpose of placing control of the corporation beyond the control of the Amana Society members."

The Amana Society operated under a communal system for many years before organizing in 1932 as a modern corporation, with all the stock owned by society members. The amendments adopted Dec. 12 created two classes of stock — "Class A" to be owned only by society members, and "Class B," which could be purchased by outsiders. The suit filed here Wednesday argued that the corporation setup adopted in 1932 was established to be effective for all time, and that any change would require 100 per cent agreement of all the Class A stockholders.

Rail Switchmen Off Sioux City Jobs

SIoux CITY — About 40 switchmen for the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railroad Co. walked off the job for about 45 minutes Thursday.

W. J. Hennigan, assistant superintendent here for both that company and the North Western, said the walkout was on telegraphic orders from the union headquarters in Chicago. He related that the men went back to work after receipt of another telegram from the union headquarters. The reason for the walk-off was not known here.

The work interruption affected both railroad companies because the North Western doesn't have any switchmen in Sioux City.

Nurse Held

VIRGINIA JASPERS, 33-year-old pediatric nurse, hangs her head as she enters a coroner's inquest in New Haven, Conn., into the death of one of her charges. Police say she admitted shaking three of her tiny patients to death because "children sometimes get on my nerves."

Benson Hits Back; 'No Farm Revolt'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson predicted Thursday the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket "will be fully as strong and possibly stronger" with farmers this year than it was in 1952.

Benson told reporters he had found "no evidence of revolt or ill-feeling" among farmers on his recent tour and said there has been a "great improvement in the general sentiment on the part of the farmers."

Benson, a prime target of Democratic campaigners, said he plans to take an active part in the campaign, speaking primarily to farmers "where I think I can do the most good."

By way of warning up for his campaign role, Benson summoned reporters to his office and handed them a statement replying to Adlai Stevenson's remark in Sioux City, Iowa, that the Eisenhower Administration is bringing about "human heartbreak" in farm areas and forcing people off the farms.

"The real heartbreak is that of Mr. Stevenson and his associates," Benson said. "They are heartbroken because they failed to stop the soil bank from helping farmers this year. They are heartbroken because they failed to force this nation to return to the discarded, surplus-producing, market-depressing rigid price supports."

"They are heartbroken that President Eisenhower's veto of their farm bill brought him wide acclaim from farm people. They are heartbroken because the surpluses are on the run and farm prices are above the level of a year ago. They are heartbroken that the farm 'revolt' they tried to foster never got off the ground."

Asked whether he would be willing to remain in the cabinet in the event of a Republican victory in November, Benson shied away from an outright answer. He said he never had worried about "tenure of office," but that it would be "difficult" to leave if the President wanted him to stay.

Plan Orientation For New Students

More than 300 SUI students who volunteered last spring to serve as orientation leaders and assistants will show new students around the campus during Orientation Week beginning Sept. 13.

Groups of about 25 new students will be assigned for the orientation period to orientation "teams" consisting of two men and two women. The leaders and their assistants will answer questions about the campus and help new students get an understanding of SUI activities and traditions. During the summer, women orientation leaders have written to future coeds in their group to answer questions and get acquainted with them.

Robert Bateson, A4, Eldora, is in charge of the men's orientation program while Linda Gamble, A3, Fairfield, is heading the women's activities.

Orientation week will open Sept. 12-13 for most new students when they check into their "home" for the next semester in one of the dormitories or a private home. Some students will arrive about a week earlier for sorority and fraternity rushing.

Orientation will begin with a mass meeting in Iowa Memorial Union at which SUI President Virgil Hancher will address the entering students. Faculty members and orientation advisers will explain the placement examination system, which enables SUI personnel to tailor students' schedules to fit their individual needs. About 1,000 of the new students took part of the tests during three summer examination periods here.

The leaders will then take over as the new students are divided into groups where they can ask questions and get to know each other.

Fieldhouse facilities, including swimming and basketball, will be open for new students Sept. 14 at the annual "play night." The newcomers will enter the social spotlight when they attend a Union open house Sept. 15 where upperclassmen will entertain them with dances, skits and songs, to be followed by an informal dance. They will get another chance to visit the Union when they come back to find most of the student groups on campus have set up booths to attract new-student members and explain club activities to them.

Registration Sept. 17 will be followed by small-group visits to faculty homes, where orientation leaders will help serve as hosts. President and Mrs. Hancher will welcome students and orientation leaders to their home the evenings of Sept. 18 and 19 during a traditional open house. Classes will begin Sept. 20.

Canada Base For Rockets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Thursday announced completion of a launching site in northern Canada where American military and civilian scientists will send rockets into the upper air for research in connection with the International Geophysical Year.

The scientists will start moving into the station, built by 600 Army engineers near Fort Churchill on Hudson Bay, to prepare for preliminary rocket launchings starting in mid-October.

Eight rockets are scheduled to be fired at Fort Churchill during October and November, and 52 more will be launched next year from various U.S. controlled locations. They will rise 130 miles or more.

The Army said Fort Churchill was selected as a launching site because most high altitude rockets fired previously have gone up from the White Sands Proving Grounds in New Mexico and scientists want to know what effect changed locations in different latitudes have.

Another purpose of the high altitude for rocket firings, the Pentagon said, is to study the effect of the polar regions on the weather in the areas of the world where most people live.

Use New Form in Liquor Violations

DES MOINES (AP) — Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman Thursday mailed to all county attorneys a sample petition to be used in case of prosecution for a liquor violation.

His office said he felt that the sample petition would be helpful to the county attorneys. The petition was complete except for blanks left for writing in the name of the city, county, and some other specific details. It even listed as defendants "John Doe, Richard Roe, and Jane Roe."

Helpful Bird

BATTLE CREEK (AP) — It took Sonny, a 7-month-old parakeet, four months to learn its own name and address. But the lessons paid off. The bird escaped from Mrs. H. M. Hurley and was picked up by Mrs. Joe Fico. Two days later Mrs. Fico took Sonny home after the bird chirped: "My name is Sonny Hurley. I live at 225 Burnham."

Mother Avoids Extradition; Gives Up Child

DES MOINES (AP) — A Dubuque woman accused of holding her 3-year-old daughter illegally averted an order for her extradition to Illinois late Thursday by returning the child to her former husband.

Just 12 minutes before Gov. Leo Hoegh's office was prepared to issue the order word was received that the request for extradition had been withdrawn.

Hoegh had held a hearing last Tuesday on the request of Illinois Gov. William G. Stratton in behalf of Leo Switzer Jr., of Galesburg, Ill., for extradition of Mrs. Gay Jeanne Switzer from Dubuque to Galesburg.

Involved was Switzer's claim that his former wife was illegally holding their 3-year-old daughter, Starr Lynn. Hoegh agreed to issue the extradition order at 4 p.m. Thursday, unless the child was returned to the father by that time.

At 3:48 p.m. Thursday the governor's office received a telephone call from State's Attorney William H. Small of Galesburg, saying the child had been returned to Switzer.

The record of the case in Hoegh's office showed that when the Switzers were divorced at Galesburg in 1955, the decree provided that each parent should have custody of the child for six months of each year.

Switzer claimed that his former wife took the child to Dubuque in violation of the custody provision. He filed the kidnap charge at Galesburg last May 12.

Representative Overcome

DES MOINES (AP) — Rep. James W. Howard (D-Cresco) fainted Wednesday afternoon while at the State Fair for State Day activities. Attendants at the fair's Red Cross hospital said Howard was released after resting a short while.

Constitution Party Files Candidates

DES MOINES (AP) — The American Constitution Party of Iowa filed candidates for president and vice-president with the secretary of state's office Thursday. It will be the fourth party to be listed on the general election ballot.

The party's candidate for president is T. Coleman Andrews, Richmond, Va., former chief of the Federal Internal Revenue Service. The vice-presidential nominee is Thomas H. Werdel, Bakersfield, Calif.

The nominations were made at a Constitution Party state convention in Iowa City Aug. 18. The party also chose a slate of 10 presidential electors.

The Constitution Party nominees were filed by Edward R. Fields and Mrs. Dolores Fields, both of Davenport, as chairman and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the party committee in Iowa.

Counting the usual column for independents and write-in votes, this will make five columns on the Nov. 6 ballot. There were eight columns on the 1952 presidential election ballot.

The ballot in November will list Republican, Democratic, Socialist-Labor, and Constitution parties, plus the column for independents and write-ins.

Secretary of State Melvin Synhorst said the deadline for filing minor party and independent candidacies is next Sunday. He explained he would accept any filings reaching the Statehouse postoffice Saturday.

There is a possibility, Synhorst said, that the Socialist party might yet qualify. But, he added, a lesser number of columns on a year's ballot would result in a substantial saving in printing and paper costs.

The ballot in Mills County will require six columns under the present situation because W. M. Golden, Pacific Junction, has filed a petition as candidate for state representative. He was defeated for the Democratic nomination for state representative in the June primary election.

Retail Sales In Iowa City On Increase

Iowa City retail sales rose 11 per cent over 1955 and topped $40 million for the year ending March 31, the state tax commission announced recently.

Sales for 1955-56 were $40,809,644 judged from sales tax payments. During the preceding year, sales totaled $36,776,940.

Iowa City stores had 86 per cent of Johnson County's retail sales. The county had 1.63 per cent of the retail sales in the state. The preceding year, the county had 1.54 per cent. Total retail sales in the county were $47,534,888 up from last year's $42,378,625.

The per capita sales tax payment for the year was $24.56 while the preceding year it was $18.52. The figures are not as significant though, because the tax rate was raised from 2 to 2 1/2 per cent July 1, 1955.

Hawk and Friends

DALLAS CITY, Ill. (AP) — San Juan is only a chicken hawk on a farm south of here, but he has friends everywhere. Raised as a pet, the hawk enjoys a menu of dog food, bread, small snakes, worms and an occasional bird. It also enjoys a ride around the yard in a wagon and sits on a perch held by the farmer's children.

Hodge Aide in Fraud Gets 1 to 3 Years

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Edward Hintz, the Chicago banker who helped ex-auditor Orville Hodge steal from the state, Thursday was sentenced to one to three years in state prison.

His attorney said an effort will be made to permit the banker to serve a previous federal sentence of three years concurrently with the state penalty.

Hintz reversed his earlier plea of innocent to conspiracy charges and Circuit Judge L. E. Wilhite imposed sentence, including a $3,000 fine.

Hodge, who said he got all the money from the million-dollar state check-cashing swindle, is serving a 12-15 year term at Menard State Prison for embezzlement, forgery, confidence game and conspiracy.

Today Hintz goes before U.S. District Judge John P. Barnes at Chicago who sentenced him last week to three years in federal prison for conspiring to misapply $457,000 in federally insured bank funds.

Joseph Londrigan, Hintz's attorney, said he will ask the judge to let Hintz serve the federal sentence concurrently in Stateville Penitentiary, Joliet, so he may be close to his seriously ill wife in Chicago.

At the Thursday appearance, State's Atty. George P. Coutrakon described Hintz, 67, as "the least culpable of all the defendants in Sangamon County."

In Chicago, Edward A. Epping, former office manager for Hodge, offered a plea of guilty Thursday to 37 of 54 federal counts of misapplying state funds. Federal Judge Joseph Sam Perry accepted the plea and put the hearing over to today.

Epping's trial on his earlier plea of innocence was scheduled for Sept. 10 in Chicago. He has less than 30 days to change his plea to the state charges in Sangamon County.

Frank J. McGarr, assistant U.S. district attorney, said he would ask that 17 of the original total of 54 counts against Epping be dismissed.

Epping faces a possible maximum penalty of five years in jail and a $5,000 fine on each of the federal counts. McGarr said the counts which will be prosecuted total about $400,000 taken from the state through the fake checks.

Hintz resigned as president of the Southmoor Bank and Trust Co., Chicago, in which he admitted he made available to Hodge an informal cash account maintained in an envelope. The envelope was replenished from time to time, he said, whenever Hodge sent Epping to the bank with another batch of fraudulent state warrants to cash.

Epping has claimed he was an unwitting messenger between the once powerful Republican state official and Hintz.

Hintz has consistently maintained he went along with Hodge out of gullibility and desire to help a friend. He has insisted he never profited from the illicit operation.

State Adlai Group To Get Chairman

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa Democrats Thursday were awaiting a decision on the state leadership of the Iowa Volunteers for Stevenson organization.

The state chairmanship of the organization, which works among Republican and independent voters favorable to the Democratic presidential nominee, was discussed Wednesday at the Sioux City Stevenson-Kofauffer meeting.

Among Democrats mentioned for the state position were Ray Baxter of Burlington, who headed the Stevenson forces in Iowa before the Democratic national convention, Neal Smith, Des Moines, and Bruce Hughes, Waterloo.

Hawkins said Thursday he was informed that choice of a non-Democrat is considered more probable.

15 Dead in Plane Crash In Aleutians

KODIAK, Alaska (AP) — A Tokyo-bound Canadian airliner, afire on a night flight over the North Pacific, missed an airfield and smashed onto an Alaskan tideflat Wednesday night. Fifteen of the 22 persons aboard were killed or missing and some of the seven survivors were hurt badly.

Capt. Thornton A. Tweed, 32, who learned to fly at 11 and was the youngest pilot ever to solo in Canada, radioed the U.S. Naval Station at Kodiak about the fire on the Canadian Pacific Airlines DC6B.

He apparently tried to land at the Cold Bay Airport, a plane refueling station on the tip of the Alaska Peninsula. But the plane crashed short of the runway on a second try, at 9:48 p.m. Kodiak time, 1:48 a.m. Thursday CST.

The Navy sent a doctor and medical supplies. Survivors were cared for temporarily at the tiny, isolated settlement.

Capt. Tweed, whose father died in a plane crash in 1939, survived along with three other Canadian crew members and three passengers.

Ten of the 14 passengers were Orientals, some bound for long-planned visits to their native lands.

Dead or missing were four Canadian crew members, two Canadian Roman Catholic priests and a Japanese woman who has been attached to the Japanese Embassy office at the United Nations. The priests were returning to the Foreign Mission Society in Tokyo.

The tear gas attachment went off as the two men were attempting to break into the safe Wednesday night. It apparently discouraged the thieves. They fled without obtaining any money.

Gerald Goetsch, owner of the firm, said the tear gas was so strong in the office Thursday morning that he couldn't get in to do any work.

Happy Couple

A DECEMBER-MAY ROMANCE for Casimir Orzechowski, 64, and bride-to-be Helen Hawr, 15, will culminate in their marriage Saturday in Mosinee, Wis. The couple has been engaged a year. Miss Hawr, who turned 15 on Aug. 26, will have to attend high school until she is 16. It will be the first marriage for both.

Cubs Pull Bums to 2 Back; Rain Causes Braves-Bucs Tie

CHICAGO (AP)—Ex-Dodger Don Hoak bounced an 11th inning single off first base to drive in Hobie Landrith from second with the winning run Thursday as the last-place Chicago Cubs edged the pennant-leading Brooklyn Dodgers 4-3.

Reliever Don Bessent gave an intentional walk to Dee Fondy to get at Hoak after Landrith singled and was sacrificed to second.

Hoak slashed the ball down the first base line and it bounced off first base into fair territory with first sacker Gil Hodges and second baseman Jackie Robinson in hopeless pursuit while Landrith romped home.

The winner was Turk Lown, notching his eighth triumph against six defeats, in relief of lefty Jim Davis, who worked for the Cubs until he left for a pinchhitter in the seventh.

The Dodgers, in a tension-filled chase after pacesetter Milwaukee, thus broke even with the lowly Cubs in a four-game set and wound up a 14-game tour with a 9-5 record.

Bessent had relieved Brook starter Roger Craig in the seventh with an inning-ending strikeout of Ernie Banks with the bases loaded after the Cubs had scored one in that frame to tie it at 3-3.

The game was tied for the second time at 2-2 in the second with homers by Randy Jackson of the Dodgers and Pete Whisenant of the Cubs.

Home runs — Brooklyn, Jackson, Chicago, Whisenant.

Braves 1, Bucs 1

(Called after 8 Innings, Rain)

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The pacesetter Milwaukee Braves played to a 1-1 no decision tie with Pittsburgh Thursday but picked up half a game over runnerup Brooklyn in the sizzling National League race.

The Braves now lead the Dodgers by two full games and idle third-place Cincinnati by three. Brooklyn lost ground in an 11-inning 4-3 defeat at the hands of the Chicago Cubs.

The Pirates had one out and a runner on first base in the ninth when a torrential rain fell at County Stadium. The infield became soaked before the ground crew was able to haul the tarpaulin over the field, and after a 55-minute wait, the umpires decided it would be impossible to continue.

Bill Virdon got the Pirates off to a 1-0 lead with a homer in the first inning.

The Braves' Bobby Thomson was hit on the head by a pitched ball in the second. His plastic helmet took the brunt of the shock and he apparently was not injured seriously. He left the game under his own power and was replaced by Wes Covington. Later Thomson was taken to the hospital for X-rays, which showed no damage.

Friend held the Braves hitless until the fourth inning when Hank Aaron got on base as Dick Groat erred on his ground ball and Eddie Mathews walked. Joe Adcock singled in Aaron for the tying tally.

Fairfield, Burkemo Lead Motor City Golf

DETROIT (AP)—Young Don Fairfield and veteran Walter Burkemo banged into the lead in Thursday's first round of the $20,000 Motor City open tournament with three-under par 69s.

Eight other professionals, including Davenport's Jack Fleck, were tied one stroke behind with 70s.

Fairfield, 27-year-old ex-serviceman from Casey, Ill., played consistently over the par 72 course at Western Golf and Country Club, turning in rounds of 34 and 35 over the rain-drenched layout.

Burkemo blew hot and cold, his five birdies overshadowing two bogies as the one-time PGA titlist from Franklin, Mich., came in with rounds of 36 and 33.

Bragan Fined $100 After Stall Tactics

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Bobby Bragan, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was fined $100 Thursday by Warren Giles, National League president, as the result of incidents in Wednesday night's game with the Milwaukee Braves here.

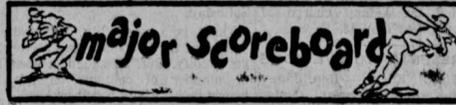

In his telegram Giles said the fine was imposed "for your general conduct and conduct of your players, in constantly stepping out of the batters' box and employing tactics which obviously were designed to delay the game with threatening weather."

Bragan was chased during an argument.

A Mantle Assist

AL PILARCIC OF THE KANSAS CITY Athletics found out on this play that Mickey Mantle does more than hit home runs for the Yankees. Pilarcik was perched on second when teammate Mike Baxes hit a single to center. Pilarcik tried to score on the play, but Mantle's perfect throw to catcher Yogi Berra was in time for the putout. The Yankees won the game, 7-6, on Mantle's single.

CLINTON — Lou King, varsity quarterback for the University of Iowa football team in 1946 and 1947, has been appointed plant sales manager of the Pillsbury feed division's Los Angeles plant, Jack Hubbard, general sales manager of the division, said Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. King and their three children will move from Clinton, Iowa to Los Angeles before the fall school term.

King joined the Pillsbury feed division after his graduation from the University of Iowa in 1948.

Caution in Milwaukee's Series Plans

MILWAUKEE (AP)—City fathers, acting as cautiously as a pitcher with the bases loaded, went ahead Thursday with plans for Milwaukee's first World Series so as not to be caught off base — if and when.

These plans include decorations for Wisconsin avenue — the city's main street — and a welcome celebration for the Braves if they should clinch the National League pennant on the road.

Uppermost in the minds of various city officials, including Mayor Frank Zeidler, is the fear that they might "jinx" the Braves.

Zeidler, prefacing his remarks with the statement that he was afraid to pose the question for fear "to put a jinx on it," brought up the "if" problem at a meeting of the Milwaukee Civic Progress Commission Wednesday.

The commission agreed that something ought to be done even though the pennant may not be decided until the last day of the season, Sept. 30.

The commission directed its planning commission to draw up a suitable symbol — preferably an Indian brave, swinging a bat, of course — for decorating purposes. The plans and cost estimated will be presented to the commission next Thursday.

The city purchasing agent, Joseph W. Nicholson, pointed out that the symbols wouldn't go to waste. If the Braves don't win, he said, the material could be stored "until next year."

IOWA AUTO DRIVER LEADS ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—An auto salesman from Harlan, Iowa, took the lead at the 100-lap mark Thursday and outdistanced 27 starters to win the 200-lap, 100-mile late model stock car race at the Minnesota State Fair.

Slo-Mo-Shun IV Sinks At 140 M.P.H. During Gold Cup Trial Run

DETROIT (AP)—Slo-Mo-Shun IV, queen of America's fastest speedboats, rocked from side to side, skidded sideways at 140 m.p.h. and sank during Gold Cup trials Thursday, seriously injuring the driver and wrecking the boat.

In serious condition was 47-year-old veteran speedboat pilot Joe Taggart, who was hurled 50 feet through the air as Slo-Mo's nose dug into the choppy waters of the Detroit River. Taggart is from Canton, Ohio.

The hull of the propeller-driven world speed record holder of 178.497 m.p.h. was stripped. All that remained when the craft was raised from the bottom an hour after the tragedy was its steel frame bars and engine.

Taggart, who was pulled from the water bleeding from the eyes and black and blue, suffered a broken left arm and leg and a small bone fracture in his right leg.

When he regained consciousness at Detroit Receiving Hospital, Taggart said the smashup was caused by "the wake of a little boat that turned into the Detroit Yacht Club dock" just before he flew by.

Iowa Press Day To Open Grid Season

The Iowa Hawkeyes will don their football uniforms for the first time in the 1956 season today, but it will be just a dress rehearsal before the first practice Saturday.

Newsman and press photographers will be on hand this afternoon for pictures and interviews of the coaches and players. Practices, twice a day, will be held beginning Saturday as the Hawks start thinking of the season's opener at Indiana, Sept. 29.

Sixty-four players have been invited for the practices, including 16 lettermen. However only six of these men have been starters.

Departed from the team is its entire starting backfield. Interior linemen such as All-America Calvin Jones and Roger Swedberg also will be missing when drills begin Saturday.

But an old face will still be around, and a comforting one at that, on the 6-3 frame of Frank Gilliam, Steubenville, O. end. Gilliam broke his leg after the first game last fall and was granted another year of eligibility.

Frank Bloomquist, tackle-guard, Don Suchy and Dick Deasy, co-captains, Jim Gibbons, end, and George Kress, who like Gilliam, sat out one season because of injuries are the linemen with the most playing experience in the group. Ken Ploen, Don Dobrino and Mike Hagler are the backs with the most seasoning.

The Hawkeyes open an attractive six-game home schedule Oct. 6 with Oregon State.

Frick Calls Meeting For Series Plans

NEW YORK (AP)—Ford C. Frick, baseball commissioner, Thursday asked representatives of the four first division clubs in both the National and American leagues to meet in his office Sept. 10 to discuss World Series plans.

New York, Cleveland, Chicago and Boston are currently the top four clubs in the American League. Milwaukee, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and St. Louis are the National League's top four.

The first two games of the coming series are scheduled for the park of the National League pennant winner, followed by three games in the American League park. The final two, if needed to decide the best-of-seven series, will be in the National League arena. The series normally starts the Wednesday following the close of the season, this year Sept. 30.

Soviet Female Athlete Pilfers Hats, Vanishes

LONDON (AP)—Russian athlete Nina Panomareva, the world's top woman discus thrower, vanished Thursday — all 168 pounds of her. So a London magistrate issued a warrant for her arrest on shoplifting charges.

The affair looked like it was blowing up into a minor international incident. The Soviet Embassy sent a representative to the British Foreign Office to discuss the case.

Nina, 27, and favorite for the Olympic title in her event at Melbourne in November, was arrested Wednesday in a low-price West End store on charges of stealing five hats valued at $4.80. She was bailed into the care of the Soviet Embassy, but she failed to appear in court Thursday and no one would say where she was.

Nina is slated to take her place in the discus circle at the White City Stadium Saturday in a British-Soviet track and field meet. But many observers doubt if she will appear.

Sports Trail— Rizzuto Little Man Who'll Be Missed by Yankees

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Phil Rizzuto will be the little man who wasn't there in the World Series this year, and it is a tossup as to who will miss him most—the fans or the Yankees.

The Mighty Mouse, as someone dubbed him, so often has been the difference in these fall classics; the guy who made the big play or squeezed in the big run, or got the big hit.

The effervescent mite was the one constant quantity in the Yankee double-play combination for a dozen years.

He had the fastest pair of hands, could get the ball away quicker than any infielder we ever saw. We'd better put that in the present tense, as for our money he still can get out there and play plenty of shortstop.

Whether lagging a bunt, churning back for a short fly ball, or scooting along to defy a ground ball he is a delight to watch. He never had a strong arm, but he hasn't needed one. So rapidly does he get the ball away that he can arc the ball to first base like a kid playing Andy-Over and still get his man.

That he was released by the Yankees wasn't too much of a surprise, although the manner of the release seemed a little callous. It was announced during the fanfare of an old-timers game at Yankee Stadium.

He has had a long, full career, crowded with fame and financially rewarding. He has shared in 9 World Series melons, and undoubtedly this year will make it 10 as his teammates should vote him a full cut. His salary over the period has been substantial.

He'll continue to do all right, the little fellow with the excited voice who still looks like he was skipping school. Perhaps the saddest part of his departure from the Yankees is that it marks the end of an era.
