See Harmony In Suez Talks

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser and the five-nation mission from the London Conference discussed Suez Canal control for an hour and 45 minutes Tuesday night without running into any barriers on a compromise.

Reds Find Third Body From Plane

WASHINGTON (AP) — Red China has reported finding a third body—tentatively identified as William F. Haskins, Westport, Conn.—from the U.S. Navy patrol plane shot down off China Aug. 23.

The State Department announced Tuesday the body, along with personal effects, is being turned over by the Communists to British diplomats at Shanghai.

A spokesman said it will be delivered to American officials in Japan or Hong Kong for quick return to the United States. Next of kin have been advised.

Haskins was one of 16 crewmen aboard a Martin Mercator shot down by Red Chinese fighter planes over what this government claims are international waters.

A U.S. protest — forwarded to Peiping by the British, since the United States has no formal diplomatic link with Red China — was rejected by the Communists as "unacceptable, groundless, quite unjustified."

The Red Chinese said they were sorry, but they thought the U.S. plane was Nationalist Chinese. They accused the United States of intruding on Red China air space and demanded that "the United States stop its provocative activities."

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said a formal American demand for compensation is being drafted. He said it will be sent to Peiping by way of the British. The note will demand compensation for the loss of the crewmen's lives and of the plane. No total figure was available, but the aircraft has been valued at $1½ million.

'Traffic Cop' Arrested

WEST LIBERTY (AP) — A 21-year-old West Liberty man who authorities said had stopped cars at the junction of highways 6 and 76 at West Liberty in an effort to collect "speeding fines" from motorists, was arrested Tuesday on charges of impersonating an officer.

Mayor Ray Conner of West Liberty said the young man admitted having stopped cars but claimed he collected no money from the drivers.

Bailey, the mayor said, had a standard price of $10 fine and $5 costs for each car he stopped.

His operations were investigated after a Rock Island, Ill. woman reported to city officials that she had been stopped at the road intersection. She said she told the man she had no money and he ordered her to "drive on."

Elder Nixon Dies in Coma

WHITTIER, Calif. (AP) — After fighting for his life for 13 days, Frank A. Nixon, 77, died quietly at his home Tuesday night as his family silently stood by. Vice-President Richard Nixon, his son, was at his bedside.

Mrs. Hannah Nixon, 71, held her husband's hand until the last. Funeral services already had been arranged — by Frank Nixon himself.

The doctor said pulmonary congestion was the immediate cause of death.

The elder Nixon had been in critical condition since Aug. 22, when an abdominal artery ruptured. He had been bedridden since a stomach ulcer hemorrhaged in July.

Nixon lapsed into a coma and was conscious only briefly this afternoon. He said nothing at that time to his family.

Vice-President Nixon flew to his father's bedside from San Francisco during the Republican National Convention when the elder Nixon's condition became critical. He returned to San Francisco to give his acceptance address before the convention.

Race Rioters Shift Focus To Nearby Tennessee Town

Hagerty Statement Draws Demo Rage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders launched a counter-attack against James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, Tuesday after Hagerty questioned whether Adlai Stevenson considered American unemployment "good news."

National Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler accused Hagerty of "distorting" and "misrepresenting" facts and suggested he be invited to sign the code of fair campaign practices.

Sen. Estes Kefauver, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, told reporters "Mr. Hagerty is just trying to reach some conclusions that he can't have any confidence in himself and that certainly the American people will not believe."

In Chicago, Stevenson's press chief, Clayton Fritchey, protested that President Eisenhower's press secretary had made a "false construction" of what Stevenson had said "by taking two wholly unrelated comments and telescoping them."

The storm blew up right after Hagerty showed newsmen an excerpt from the "News of the Week in Review" section of last Sunday's New York Times. The excerpt read:

"All the news is good," he (Stevenson) said. There was "serious unemployment" in northern New Mexico, Detroit and southern Illinois.

"It seems to me rather peculiar," to say the least," Hagerty went on, "for a candidate for the presidency of the United States to think that unemployment, no matter how small, is good news . . .

"Either the New York Times is wrong or Mr. Stevenson is wrong . . .

"It also seems to me this represents the campaign of the Democratic party. They seem to welcome and look for isolated instances of misery among the American people and would rather have unemployment for purely partisan reasons to try to win a few votes."

In New York, the Times issued a Sunday's paper was "unfair to Mr. Stevenson saying the report in last statement. It was due to an unfortunate inversion of his remarks."

The Times then described what Stevenson actually had said, including the final sentence, "Finally, on the purely political aspects of our trip, all the news is good."

The Times statement added, "The Times regrets any misinterpretation that may have resulted from its report. The Times is printing the full Stevenson statement."

Stevenson's remarks were made at a Chicago news conference last Friday after he returned from a wide swing through the country.

Ike To Brief Adlai On Foreign Affairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Tuesday offered Adlai Stevenson "weekly briefings" during the presidential campaign on secret intelligence reports concerning the nation's foreign affairs.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said the offer was made in a telegram to the Democratic presidential candidate. One purpose of the arrangement would be to protect national security when the candidates get around to arguing over international issues.

Last Friday, Stevenson said in Chicago he would "welcome such an offer very much." The next day, Hagerty told newsmen Eisenhower already had planned to make intelligence information available to his opponent.

Hagerty said he did not know what form the briefings would take. The information will be prepared weekly from reports of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Stevenson had said the data would help him discuss foreign policy during the campaign. The reports also would facilitate the conduct of foreign affairs in event of a change in administrations.

Hagerty was asked whether Stevenson would need security clearance before receiving the information.

"Absolutely not," he replied. The telegram to Stevenson said: "Of course I need not say that the information itself would be of a secret character and exclusively for your personal knowledge. Otherwise, however, the receipt of such information would impose no obligation of any kind upon you."

The practice has been common in recent election years. Both Stevenson and Eisenhower received similar data from the Truman administration in 1952. In 1944 and 1948, Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican nominee, was offered such reports by the Democratic administrations.

SUI Highlanders Name Drum Major

Kitty Korns, A4, Iowa City, has been named drum major for the SUI Scottish Highlanders.

Miss Korns succeeds Jonne Shiley, Graettinger, who flew from Scotland Monday to accept a teaching position in Denver, Colo.

Miss Korns has been a Highlander for 2½ years. She previously played tenor drum in the group. The Highlanders sailed from England Monday and many of them are expected to reach Iowa City Sept. 12.

AN UNRULY MOB, fired by a speaker against integration of Clinton High School in Tennessee, stopped this carload of Negroes and others passing through the city Tuesday night on U.S. Highway 25-W. The speaker, White Citizens Council Leader Asa E. Carter of Birmingham, Ala., declared the NAACP is trying "to take over our land." The driver sped away before the car doors were opened.

THERESSER CASSWELL, 13, boards a school bus to go home from Clinton High School after classes were dismissed Tuesday. It marks the first time a Negro student has ridden a regular Anderson County school bus. School let out quietly, and for the first time since integration began a week ago, Negro students left by the front door.

2 Confess Holdup Of Texaco Station

Thursday's early morning $80 robbery of Dean's Texaco station, 32 W. Burlington St., was solved with the confession of two Illinois youths in Cedar Rapids.

The men, Charles F. Wilson, 21, Spring Grove, and Robert Gates, 19, Round Lake, admitted the Iowa City robbery after confessing a holdup of a Cedar Rapids service station Aug. 21.

The men pleaded guilty to a charge of robbery with aggravation Tuesday. They were sentenced to terms up to 25 years in the Iowa State Men's Reformatory at Anamosa in Linn County Court at Cedar Rapids.

A teenage Cedar Rapids girl, Phyllis Batey, has also been charged with robbery with aggravation. Authorities reported she accompanied the young men in the Cedar Rapids holdup.

Cedar Rapids police picked up the pair as suspects of the $22,000 super market holdup there Friday. However, the youths have denied any part of the super market robbery.

Police became suspicious of the Illinois youths and they were placed under surveillance for several days. It was noticed by detectives the car they were driving was wired to enable them to turn off the tail lights and license identification light. The car also had a wire from the rear license plate holder to the front seat to permit

Judge Won't Order Stop Of Integration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Black of the U.S. Supreme Court Tuesday refused to stay an order for immediate racial integration at the Mansfield, Tex., high school. The integration order was issued by U.S. Circuit court in New Orleans.

The litigation, and recent mob action at Mansfield, resulted from efforts by three Negroes to enroll in the high school.

Black was urged to grant a stay by counsel for officials of the Mansfield School District. Their application to Black said the integration order should be held up in order "to prevent the violence and bloodshed which are seriously threatened, as evidenced by the armed forces now present in this community."

The stay request contended that U.S. District Judge Joe E. Estes, Fort Worth, was the one to determine whether good faith attempts had been made by the school officials to comply with the Supreme Court's ban on segregation in public schools.

Group Halts Enrollment Of Negroes

MANSFIELD, Tex. (AP) — An attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) said Tuesday night efforts to enroll Negro students in the Mansfield High School have been abandoned for the present.

"There will perhaps be some further legal proceedings in an effort to ease the situation and make it safe for the enrollment of Negro students."

Earlier Tuesday a young Episcopal priest who sought to shame an angry pro-segregation mob at the high school was rescued by a Texas Ranger when the crowd became loud and unruly.

The Rev. C. W. Clark, vicar of St. Timothy's Church in nearby Fort Worth, was white and shaking, apparently from anger, as the mob taunted him.

It was the third day of demonstrations at the high school, integrated by federal court order. The crowds have vowed they will not let Negroes register. The district has 12 Negro high school students.

No Negroes appeared for registration any of the three days.

R. L. Huffman, school superintendent, said any who sought to enter would be transferred immediately to other school districts. This plan was advocated last Friday by Gov. Allan Shivers at the same time that he sent Rangers to the school.

Elsewhere in Texas, up to 100 school districts opened their schools for the fall term as integrated institutions without trouble. There are 1,857 school districts in Texas, many with several schools.

Leaders Call For March on Clinton Jail

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP) — The Oliver Springs night police chief reported to National Guard headquarters in Clinton Tuesday night that a large crowd, estimated at 350 persons, had gathered there.

Night Chief Fred Giles said the crowd's leaders were calling for a march on Clinton to "get those Negroes" who were arrested Tuesday in connection with the wounding of a white man at Oliver Springs Monday night.

The sheriff's office said the Negroes were not being held in Clinton, but had been moved to another jail.

At Clinton, only one-third of 800 white pupils showed up for classes but 9 of the 12 Negro pupils braved jeering bystanders as Clinton High School reopened Tuesday after a weekend of violent anti-integration disorders.

The ironclad peace imposed by state militiamen Monday night still held sway Tuesday, reinforced by a new federal court order, and only small clusters of students and a few townsfolk cat-called at the school where hundreds milled daily all last week.

And for the first time since the school was opened on an integrated basis eight days ago, the Negro students walked to their nearby homes on Foley Hill when classes ended for the day. Pickets were gone by the time school was dismissed at 3:30 p.m. (EST).

The Anderson County Jail population was swelling Tuesday as officers went after those involved in the armed rioting in nearby Oliver Springs Monday night and early Tuesday. Two Negroes were charged with felonious assault and 15 white men were jailed on charges of breach of the peace.

According to Anderson County Sheriff Glad Woodward, two Negroes were driving through Oliver Springs Monday night when their car was stopped by some 250 rioters, several of whom threw stones at the automobile.

The pair leaped from the car and flourished a shotgun and a pistol. Both fired once. The pistol bullet missed everyone, but one member of the mob was hit by a shotgun pellet in the arm.

The Negroes fled when the mob members went home to get weapons. By the time a convoy of two tanks and 80 guardsmen had arrived the rioters had regathered. The crowd dispersed only after urgent pleas by the guard commander to "go home."

A mob, acting on a rumor that Oliver Springs schools would be integrated Tuesday, set off dynamite blasts in the community's Negro section. A mob member was wounded when a Negro fired a shotgun at the rioters. The group dispersed only after National Guardsmen sped to Oliver Springs from Clinton.

Five men were arrested near Dayton, 75 miles to the west, after two National Guardsmen were attacked while driving to drill.

A group of white boys in Knoxville, who had heard a rumor that Negroes would try to enter Rule High School, erected a tombstone on the schoolyard with the question: "What nigger's next?"

Supt. Thomas N. Johnson said five were turned away at East High School and one each at two elementary schools.

As the anti-integration sentiment boiled through much of Tennessee, a high school and a junior high school at Oak Ridge, six miles from Clinton, opened their doors to white and Negro students for the second year.

Principal T. H. Dunigan of Oak Ridge High said the opening was "smooth as silk."

OLD FOSSILS
JERUSALEM, Israel Sector (AP) — A spokesman for Hebrew University said Tuesday its scientists have found the fossil remains of five kinds of marine reptiles estimated to be 190 to 190 million years old.

The Pork Barrel

From The New York Times

Both the Democratic and Republican platforms indulge in traditional flights of fancy that have no necessary relationship to reality. Examples could be plucked almost at random from the statements of either party, but one of the most absurdly exaggerated is the following sentence from the Democrats' platform adopted in Chicago:

"We denounce as capricious and arbitrary the Eisenhower pocket veto of the 1956 Rivers and Harbors Bill, which heartlessly deprived the people of many sections of our nation of vitally needed public works projects."

The decision of President Eisenhower earlier this month that prompted this outburst was, in fact, one of the most praiseworthy and least noticed of his recent actions on legislation. What the President did was to reject a $1.6 billion pork barrel — otherwise known as Rivers and Harbors — authorization bill because so many of the specific items it contained had not been adequately studied and reviewed prior to Congressional approval.

The President's veto was amply justified on economic and on policy grounds; and it also — though he himself may not be aware of it — delays for at least a few more months authorization of a new dam in the Columbia River Basin that would destroy one of the finest of the salmon streams, wildlife preserves and wilderness areas in the Pacific Northwest. This is the Corps of Engineers' proposed Bruce Eddy Dam on the North Fork of the Clearwater River, construction of which now or at any other time would be an inexcusable despoliation of natural resources.

If the President's veto forces Congress, even in an election year, to consider more carefully its rivers and harbors projects and not swallow everything dangled before it by the Corps of Engineers and other interested agencies, it will have served the nation well. The Upper Colorado storage plan, which became law earlier this year, included inadequately studied projects too. But the President is evidently tiring of this kind of sloppy legislation. Shortly before his veto of the Rivers and Harbors Bill he had "reluctantly" signed an $800,000,000 plus public works appropriation measure that included a number of previously authorized but unbudgeted river-development items. "We must proceed in an orderly fashion" on these matters the President then warned. His crackdown on the latest pork barrel bill shows that he meant what he said.

Adlai and Labor

From The New York Times

In commenting on the Executive Council's action in recommending endorsement of the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket to the AFL-CIO General Board, President Meany, is reported to have said: "Those favoring endorsement feel, perhaps, that their decision will influence some votes." Mr. Meany underplayed the effect of the council's action, but certainly the decision was not clearcut.

In the first place, five members of the council voted against the endorsement. They include the presidents of the two largest unions in the federation, whose sympathies are known to be Republican: Beck of the Teamsters and Hutcheson of the Carpenters. The total membership of the unions whose representatives voted this way is about 2,500,000 out of the federation's total of 15,000,000.

On the other hand, the unions whose representatives voted for endorsement, with about 12,500,000 members, include those which have been most active politically — notably the United Automobile Workers, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the International Ladies Garment Workers, all strongly pro-Stevenson.

The hand of the past must have rested on the Executive Council in its deliberations, especially the federation's action in the last presidential campaign. Both the AFL and CIO supported Stevenson in 1952 — the only time, except for the La Follette campaign of 1924, that the AFL had ever come out for a presidential candidate. Failure to endorse Stevenson this year might have been interpreted as a backhanded boost for Eisenhower. Then, too, the old Compers tradition hangs on: to back you friends and fight your enemies, regardless of their politics.

Whatever may be the effect of the council's decision, the size and importance of the minority that opposed it — and the trouble it took to reach it — show again how difficult it is to regiment American labor in the political field. Obviously there is no "labor vote" in the United States.

Tension Reigns in Egyptian Embassy

By GEORGE DIXON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 — There is a six-hour difference between Washington and Cairo, so the Egyptian ambassador, Dr. Ahmed Hussein, is set to be routed out of bed at any time by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser. However, it hasn't happened yet. Nasser communicates his envoy at 10 o'clock every night. Dr. Hussein gets it at 4 p.m., just at the close of the embassy's normal working day.

DIXON

Nasser is nearly always still at his office when he puts in the calls. He is working long hours these days. But he's keeping a lot of other people from sleep, too. I found the Egyptian embassy in a state of controlled agitation. All days off, even for Labor Day, have been cancelled. The large number of employees, few of whom look like Egyptians, because most are Americans, are acting in a manner not too unlike race horses at the starting gate. They look as if they expect to be off and running, any instant.

Dr. Hussein said the big tragedy, as far as his work is concerned, is that he has had to shelve everything else for the Suez Crisis. "All foreign aid has been put aside," he sighed. "Even CARE is no longer sending food packages to Egypt. In addition, all shipments of tuberculosis serum from this country have been stopped." I asked the ambassador if he had encountered any show of hostility here since the trouble. "I haven't had time to leave the embassy," he replied. "But I don't believe many Americans feel hostile toward Egypt. We have had quite a lot of mail from American people since the Suez Crisis."

"Have you broken it down," I asked, "to determine what percentage is for you and what against?" "I don't need to," he smiled. "It is all for us. Of course, I suppose that only friendly people would take the time to write."

"What are some of the letters like?"

"Well, about a hundred writers volunteered to join the Egyptian army and fight for us — and one enclosed $5, which he said was his contribution to the Egyptian cause."

"That won't go too far," I said. "It won't even get you started on the Aswan high dam."

"No," said the ambassador, "but it's nice to know we have well-wishers in this great country."

As we sat there talking, you could actually feel the tension in the embassy. Diplomatic aides tore up and downstairs with dispatches. Couriers kept coming and going. The ambassador asked me if I would like a drink.

I started — then murmured that I thought it was against the Moslem religion.

Dr. Hussein smiled. He said Moslems were often as lax about their religion as Christians. I asked him how Madame Hussein was bearing up under the unrest. He said she has been trying to keep occupied by doing her own shopping.

"She has discovered a fruit that is a cross between a peach and a plum," he said. "She carries in bagfuls of them — nectarines, they are called."

In addition to being a shrewd shopper, Madame Hussein is also a good cook. She taught Mrs. John Foster Dulles a batch of Egyptian recipes and tutored her in making Egyptian coffee. If you care to try it yourself, here's how it's made:

Boil water, and add as much sugar to the water as desired. Then dump in all the pulverized coffee you think you can stand. Stir and serve.

Do not strain out the grounds. The Egyptians claim they invented instant coffee ten centuries ago.

I came away from the interview with a new appreciation of an embassy's function. It is not a round of parties and social calls. It can be a deadly serious business — because an inadvertent omission or casual misstatement, can affect the fate of nations.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE VISITOR stuck his foot in the doorway as the landlady peered out at him, and asked, "Would you be interested in looking over a line of guaranteed insect powders?"

"There hasn't been a bug in this house in fifteen years," she declared indignantly.

"Good," said the visitor. "Then I'll take that front room on the second floor you've been advertising for rent!"

George Burns, of Burns and Allen, maintained a totally uncharacteristic silence while a politically minded dinner group discussed elections, NATO, and the segregation problem.

"How about a word from you, George?" prodded the host. "You'll hear from me," promised Burns, "the moment anybody mentions Eva Tanguay or the Avon Comedy Four."

Joe Frisco rates lightly one old friend whose "m-m-money has never gone to his head; it never l-l-left his pocket!"

To Age Gracefully — 'Grow, Help Others' Start Friday

An SUI physician, now 72, has some suggestions on "growing old gracefully." Writing in the new bulletin of the Iowa Institute of Gerontology, Dr. M. E. Barnes, professor-emeritus of reports on friends and acquaintances who bear their years lightly.

Common to many who age gracefully, he said, is a tendency to think of others rather than of themselves, plus a critical self-examination to curb weaknesses which might be troublesome to others.

Such senior citizens, he continued, also try constantly to learn something new and do to something new. Barnes quoted one elderly friend as observing that "in nature, vegetation which is really alive exhibits some degree of growth, if only in the form of new leaves each spring."

A grandmother of past 70 told the medical educator that she never talked about her aches and pains. "Everyone has troubles of some kind," she said. "It does no one any good to add mine to their own."

An elderly man's point of view centered about "watching for opportunities to do some kindness to someone else. I have only a few years ahead of me at best and I don't want to miss any opportunities that may come my way to add to the sum total of kindness in this world."

Barnes adds that "all appeared to have a deep religious faith even though they made no particular mention of it. They seemed to face the future with confidence and trust."

Barnes has served on the staff of the College of Medicine since 1930. He was director of the Iowa State Hygienic Laboratory from 1930 to 1943 and is also a former member of the State Board of Health.

Bunion Artist Nears Arctic Circle Goal

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — "Walking" John Frey, a 61-year-old retired Nebraskan, caused a traffic jam here Monday night as he arrived on foot from San Francisco.

He has 240 miles more to go to reach his goal — the Arctic Circle. He estimated he had covered 3,290 miles.

Frey, a retired surveyor from Lincoln, Neb., started walking north from the Golden Gate Bridge March 1. He spurns offers of rides along the way.

Frey said he started hiking in pursuit of a boyhood dream of hiking across the country. He did that, from New York to San Francisco, in 1954. He says his efforts pay off in writing and lecture material. He has written one book and plans another.

Iowa Cities To Get Gas

WASHINGTON — The Power Commission Tuesday ordered natural gas made available to eight companies and cities for distribution in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin.

The order covers sale of about 7,100,000 cubic feet of gas per day from the system of American Louisiana Pipe Line Co., Detroit.

American Louisiana was directed to make two of the sales from its system. The other six will be made by Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Co., Detroit, an affiliate of American Louisiana.

The companies and cities to receive the gas include: Aledo, Ill.; Bloomfield, Iowa; Lamoni, Iowa; Illinois Power Co., for Cambridge, Ill.

Announcing the order for the eight sales, the commission said it had denied one request for service with American Louisiana gas and had reserved decision on five other applications.

The five requests on which decision was reserved include Iowa Electric Light & Power Co., Cedar Rapids; Iowa Southern Utilities Co., Centerville; North Central Public Service Co., seeking to serve Donaldson, West Point, and Montrose, all in Iowa.

The commission said decision on the three affecting Iowa was deferred pending further consideration of whether Michigan Wisconsin should be required to construct the necessary laterals.

The 19 social fraternities will open their rush period Friday with an orientation program in the Chemistry Building Auditorium, followed by tours, visits and parties at each house. Arrangements for acceptance or rejection of party invitations will be made in a "Bull Pen" session at 1:30 p.m. Friday in the Fieldhouse. Fraternity membership bids will be distributed Tuesday.

The 13 social sororities' rush week will start with a mass meeting for all rushees in the Chemistry Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Saturday morning will open the 45-minute parties, an innovation this year to eliminate the hurried Sunday "open houses" of previous semesters. Invitational parties will continue through the week, and pledging services will be held in each chapter Sept. 13.

Fraternity and sorority rushees will be joined by all other freshmen and new students in liberal arts and nursing for the opening of Orientation Week Sept. 13. Registration for the fall semester will start Sept. 17.

Rats Cause Baby's Death

CHICAGO — Police said Tuesday that a 1-year-old girl, whose body was found in her crib, apparently had strangled herself in an effort to escape from rats.

They said her head was wedged between the bars of the crib and the mattress. Her body was covered with rat bites.

A brother and a sister, who slept in another bed in the same room, were unhurt. The children's parents were away overnight and the children were being cared for by neighbors.

Sharon Jane Ivey's body was found by her father, Edward, 35, on his return from a trip to Madison, Ala. He told police he went to Madison to pick up his two sons who spent the summer on his father's farm.

Police said the children were left in the care of Henry Ransom, 40, Ransom said he cared for the children Sunday night, but Monday left them with Sally Baker, 11.

The girl said she stayed with the children until she developed an earache. During her stay, she said, she killed one rat in the basement flat.

Ivey's landlord, Dalton Rogers, told police he had seen rats in the building at 1322 N. LaSalle St., near downtown Chicago, and on sidewalks in the neighborhood.

No Room

Five-Year-Old Takes Dim View of Class

MASON CITY — School opened Monday for some 5,700 Mason City youngsters but for 6-year-old John Bramhall the educational outlook was pretty bleak—for a time. John went to Harding School, looked into the classrooms and noticed that all desks were taken.

He walked the six blocks home and reported to his mother, "They didn't want me."

Mrs. Bramhall called John's father, Bill Bramhall, home from work and the father escorted John back to school.

It turned out that John had looked into the wrong classroom.

Holiday Road Deaths Less than Predicted

Deaths on the nation's highways during the three-day Labor Day holiday weekend totaled 435 — 45 short of the predicted toll of 480 made by the National Safety Council.

In addition there were 89 drownings and 72 deaths from miscellaneous causes to bring the overall violent death toll to 596.

Statistics for the 78-hour weekend were compiled from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday.

Iowa reported three traffic deaths and one drowning during the critical period.

The council noted its forecast was higher than the actual toll — the 23rd time this has been so — and its president, Ned H. Dearborn, commented:

"We are always glad to be wrong when our estimate is greater than the actual highway slaughter. We wish that our forecast for this holiday had been wrong by an even greater margin."

The toll of 435, Dearborn said, "is still a horrible price to pay for a holiday dedicated to better living conditions for the average man."

Evidence of anxiety over the traffic toll came from Missouri, where 22 were killed during the holiday, making it the worst holiday period in the state's history.

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly Tuesday called for jail sentences for traffic violators. "Fines are not enough," he said.

The largest toll in any single state was in California, where 39 traffic deaths occurred. Two other states had more than 30 deaths each—New York with 33 and Texas with 36. There were no fatal accidents reported in four states—Delaware, New Hampshire, North Dakota and Vermont.

The record death toll for a Labor Day holiday occurred during the three-day weekend in 1951 when 461 were killed in traffic accidents. Last year, 438 were traffic victims during the Labor Day holiday.

During a nonholiday test period, from 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 17, to midnight Monday, Aug. 20, of equal duration to the Labor Day holiday, there were 366 traffic deaths.

Dearborn indicated that this year motorists apparently were not cautious. He credited traffic law enforcement authorities and agencies, along with the press, radio and television, with accomplishing the job of making motorists safety conscious.

"We certainly feel that any well written, dramatic story, such as 'American Roulette' by Belman Morin, Associated Press writer, must have had a real effect on the driving attitudes of the public. We don't see how anybody could have read that and not have driven more cautiously and sensibly over the holiday weekend," he said.

The record traffic toll for any holiday period was 609 in the three-day Christmas holiday of 1955.

Iowan Visits Russian Son Of Sewal Man

WAVERLY (AP) — Verne Schield, Waverly manufacturer, in a letter received from Rostov, Russia, tells about calling on Boris, "the half-Russian son of an Iowa farmer."

"He was glad to see us," wrote Schield.

The lad is the son of Roland D. Merrick of Sewal, Iowa, now a farmer in that southern Iowa community. Merrick was in Russia on a business assignment several years ago and married a Russian girl. Now remarried, Merrick is the father of two small children, living with him and his second wife near Sewal.

Boris "was glad to see us," Schield continued. "He was in a three-story apartment in quite drab quarters. When we told him we were from Iowa and I showed him a picture of my farm, he smiled."

"I told him we would like to have him come to visit us. He expressed his desire to come during school vacation."

"His marks in school are good. He seems to be a very smart boy. He also mentioned that he hoped his father would come to Russia some time. I promised to talk with his father after I returned to Iowa."

Schild is expected back from a European trip this week.

'No More Pictures' Says Princess Grace

PARIS (AP) — Princess Grace of Monaco reiterated Tuesday she has ended her motion picture career. She also confided that no name has been picked for the expected heir to the Monacan throne.

Prince Rainier III and Princess Grace—the former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia—talked to reporters at the Monacan legation.

They arrived Tuesday morning and will sail for New York Friday aboard the liner United States. It will be their first visit to the United States since their wedding in April.

"We will be mostly just seeing my family and friends and will be staying mostly in the East," she said.

Paschen Out, Judge In for Illinois Race

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Democratic State Central Committee Tuesday named Judge Richard B. Austin of Chicago Superior Court as the Democratic candidate for governor.

He succeeds Herbert C. Paschen, Cook County treasurer who has withdrawn from the race.

Chairman James Ronan announced the full committee chose Austin over rival nominees John Cassidy of Peoria and Harold Pogue of Decatur. He said that in the single ballot the vote for Austin was finally made unanimous when Fred Whitten of Decatur who nominated Pogue and J. Paul Madison of Table Grove who proposed Cassidy switched their votes.

Ronan said Austin "is very well qualified to wage a hard campaign throughout the state."

Austin accepted by telegram, he said, and indicated he would file a statement of candidacy and a loyalty oath in Springfield today.

His nomination, as well as the withdrawal of Paschen, must be certified by the State Electoral Board. The board meets at 2:30 (CDT) today at Springfield.

Group Honors SUI's Spence

Prof. Kenneth W. Spence, head of the SUI Psychology Department, received one of the three Scientific Achievement Awards given by the American Psychological Association Sunday in Chicago.

The award consisted of $1,000 and a scroll citing Spence's achievements in learning theory, research into conditioning, and the development of scientific methodology in his field.

A member of the SUI staff since 1938, Spence was elected to the National Academy of Sciences in 1955. In 1953 he was awarded the annual Howard Crosby Warren medal, the highest honor of the Society of Experimental Psychologists.

In 1954 Spence became the first psychologist to deliver the annual Silliman Lectures, a 50-year program of presentations of distinguished scientific research at Yale University.

Takes Oath

MRS. DOROTHY McCULLOUGH LEE, former mayor of Portland, Ore., takes the oath from Associate Justice Harold Burton of the Supreme Court as she becomes a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB). Mrs. Lee succeeds Harry P. Cain, former senator from Washington, who resigned the post.

Defer Result Of Vote for Union Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — Union leaders Tuesday deferred an announcement of the result of a meat packing workers' vote on whether to strike against six large employers.

Spokesmen for the merged Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen and the United Packinghouse Workers said Saturday the vote would "probably" be announced Tuesday.

The six companies are Swift, Armour, Wilson, Cudahy, John Morrell & Co., and Hygrade Products Corp. They employ about 85,000.

An existing contract, which expired Saturday, has been continued on "a day to day basis" during negotiations, union officials said.

The union wants a "substantial wage increase" which it did not define publicly. In Chicago the current unskilled labor rate is $1.69 an hour, a management spokesman said. The rate varies throughout the country.

Roachy U.S. Student Scolds British Professors

SHEFFIELD, England (AP) — A 19-year-old student lectured British scientists Tuesday for "elementary mistakes" about the American cockroach (Periplaneta Americana).

Blue-eyed blonde Anne Bunting was invited to address the British Society for the Advancement of Science. It includes some of the nation's most eminent scholars, and has a policy of extending invitations to bright young students.

"Something is radically wrong with the way in which subject matters are taught, especially when these errors have passed without challenge or correction through many editions of textbooks and numerous prints," she told the society.

Staring sternly at the professors, she said all the British biologists and entomologists have been wrong about the incubation period of cockroach eggs, wrong about the next stage of development and wrong also when they say the cockroach wings are unfolded by gaseous pressure.

"They unfold by gravity," she added.

Anne said as a student she has made a study of the cockroach and she knows what she's talking about. The British call the large black type of flying cockroach the American cockroach. Its more formal name is Periplaneta Americana.

When she finished her lecture the professors filed out like spanked schoolboys.

TYPHOON

HONG KONG (AP) — Seventy-six Chinese fishing boats with 222 persons aboard were missing Tuesday in the wake of typhoon Dinah, the Peiping Radio said. Dinah was reported quickly losing strength over the mainland after striking near Foochow in Fukien Province Tuesday.

CAA Seeks Air Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Administration (CAA) Tuesday announced a broad reorganization program with special emphasis on greater safety and improved facilities to avert dangers of civil air mishaps.

James T. Pyle, CAA deputy chief, said one aim is to provide equipment and better operational methods to help prevent such accidents as the collision last July of two airliners in the Grand Canyon area of Arizona.

Pyle said both passenger planes were flying off controlled air routes when they collided with the loss of 128 lives.

"Within 18 months we hope to have instrument flight control capability above 15,000 feet no matter where the plane is," Pyle told a news conference. "Eventually we hope this will be a big stride toward averting such mishaps."

AEC Aid Set For Colleges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced Tuesday two new programs for assisting colleges and universities in nuclear energy technology training.

Under the first of the new programs, the AEC will make grants toward the cost of acquiring equipment for nuclear energy technology course work, not to exceed $350,000 to a single institution.

Under the second plan, the AEC will make certain materials available for education and training programs on loan, without charge. Certain by-product materials will be furnished at 20 per cent of list price.

Ike Rally Date Set; Adlai on U.S. Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will kick off his reelection drive Sept. 12 with an address to about 500 key campaign workers at an outdoor pep rally at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

Announcement of the starting date was made by Press Secretary James C. Hagerty after two days of GOP strategy conferences in the White House.

The date the Republicans picked to get the second-term election ball rolling is just one day before Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, is scheduled to make a major speech at Harrisburg, Pa.

Stevenson's words will be broadcast by TV and radio.

Hagerty told newsmen it would not be correct to class the President's Gettysburg speech as a major address. Vice-President Nixon also will speak at the rally.

No television or radio time has been purchased for the event, Hagerty said, but networks will be free to carry the address if they care to.

Invitations to the rally at the President's farm home, 85 miles north of Washington, have been sent by telegram to key campaign workers in the names of the President and Mrs. Eisenhower and the vice-president and Mrs. Nixon.

Hagerty said present indications are that between 400 and 500 key campaign workers will attend.

Date for firing the opening gun of the GOP campaign was a little ahead of schedule. Previously, Hagerty had said the President planned to get into the campaign personally around mid-September. The President is expected to make five or six nationwide television and radio talks, both in Washington and elsewhere.

Adlai E. Stevenson winged westward Tuesday night on another fast-paced campaign jaunt.

Stevenson, who left Vancouver, Wash., only a week ago Tuesday, headed back for the West Coast on a political expedition that will span the nation in the next five days.

He and his vice-presidential running mate, Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, left Chicago by chartered plane.

Immediately ahead is a Stevenson speech today to the American Legion Convention, meeting in Los Angeles Shrine Auditorium. That offers a natural forum for Stevenson to open up on national defense, foreign, and atomic policy and veterans affairs.

Stretching on from the Los Angeles appearance today is a heavy schedule leading up to what has been billed as the official opening of the Democratic campaign—a nationwide, all-network television speech at a fund-raising dinner at Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 13.

Behind Stevenson and Kefauver were some 7,000 miles of travel and five regional conferences with Democratic leaders from 34 states. All this was crammed into last week.

Another regional get-together is set for San Francisco today, plus a Stevenson address there Thursday to the International Association of Machinists.

From there on, it's back to Chicago, down to Springfield, Ill., over to Columbus, Ohio, and on to New York City by Saturday night. Addresses are coming up in Albany Monday and New York Tuesday—along with more regional conferences at Hartford, Conn., Monday and New York Wednesday.

Cincinnati Scores 2 in 10th To Dump Milwaukee, 4-2

MILWAUKEE — A homer by rookie Frank Robinson and three singles scored two runs in the tenth inning for Cincinnati Tuesday night as the Redlegs beat Milwaukee, 4-2, and climbed within 2½ games of the first place Braves.

The triumph put the Redlegs into second place in the National League, a half game ahead of idle Brooklyn.

Robinson broke a 2-2 tie when he hit his 37th homer of the season into the left field bleachers with one out and no one on base. The blast put him within one homer of the major league rookie record of 38 set by Wally Berger of the Boston Braves.

After Gus Bell struck out, the Redlegs got their fourth run on consecutive singles by Ted Kluszewski, Wally Post and Ed Bailey. Both runs were at the expense of reliever Ernie Johnson, who suffered his third loss in six decisions this season.

It was the second victory against one defeat for Surkont, reclaimed recently from the minors.

He engaged in a tight 3-2 pitching duel with Harvey Haddix until the ninth inning when his teammates erupted with four hits and as many runs, knocking out Haddix.

CHICAGO — The Chicago White Sox unloaded a 13-hit attack, including home runs by Jim Rivera and Dick Donovan Tuesday night to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 11 to 4.

In addition to hitting his homer, which came off Steve Gromek with two on base in a five-run fifth inning, Donovan turned in a neat 10-hit pitching chore to record his 10th victory. It was the big right-hander's sixth straight triumph and sixth route performance in a row.

The defeat was charged to Paul Foytack, first of five Detroit pitchers.

Nellie Fox, with three singles ran his season's hit total to 172 to take the league lead from Mickey Mantle.

Bosox 7, Senators 6

WASHINGTON — Ted Lepcio's 14th homer, opening the 12th inning, lifted Boston to a 7-6 victory over Washington Tuesday night. Lepcio's blast came after Bud Byerly, the loser, had retired 11 Red Sox in order in a relief role.

Frank Sullivan, third Boston pitcher, emerged with his 12th victory of the year, although the Senators had him reeling on the ropes several times in the extra innings.

The Red Sox, who swept the three-game series, smashed Camilo Pascual for four runs in the fourth inning but were forced to come from behind to tie the score at 6-6 with two runs in the eighth.

Hawkeye Drill Stresses Work on Pass Defense Yard Drops Hunt for Nina

By JACK HOLS

The University of Iowa football team ran through the fourth day of drills Tuesday with a prominent emphasis on pass defense.

Coach Forest Evashevski, probably remembering some of the 1955 nightmares, pitted his best backs against the passing of reserves, then brought in the line for short, but "live" scrimmages.

Absent from Tuesday's practice was guard Frank Bloomquist, who came up with a fever and entered University Hospitals for observation. Iowa trainers, however, say that there is nothing seriously wrong with Bloomquist, with influenza the expected diagnosis.

Dick "Sleepy" Klein, sophomore candidate for a tackle slot, missed Tuesday's contact work, but participated in dummy practices. Klein, according to assistant trainer Arno Buntrock, has a bruised knee, believed not to be serious.

With the return of Collins "Mike" Hagler Sunday, the University of Iowa's grid squad has reached full complement.

Hagler, a junior halfback from Washington, D.C., and a mainstay reserve on the 1955 Hawkeye squad which won three, lost five, and tied one, was reported by Evashevski to be in financial straits following his recent marriage.

Hagler's financial difficulties have evidently been resolved, but his late arrival in the Hawkeye camp cost him an immediate assignment to the first string backfield. Bill Hoppel, Cedar Rapids junior, who saw action in 1955, including a starting berth in the Notre Dame game, has been running as first right half.

According to Evashevski, "Hagler got a late start, and now he has to beat out the others."

Hagler is not alone in his doubtful starting status. Evy is apparently far from decided as to his starting team in Sept. 29's opener with Indiana. Positions still definitely open are right tackle, fullback, and possibly a guard spot.

Iowa is fairly deep in tackle talent, but combinations of injuries, inexperience, and just plain equal ability, make the problem perplexing. Currently in the running are Dick "Sleepy" Klein, Pana, Ill., sophomore, Frank Rigney, another sophomore, from E. St. Louis, Ill., and John Burroughs, a junior from Washington, D.C. Co-captain Dick Deasy, normally a tackle, could also be in the running if his injured knee holds up, but Deasy has also been working at guard. However, Iowa coaches are not counting too heavily on the Chi-ago senior, because of the doubtful knee.

At fullback, Evy seems to favor sophomore John Nocera, a hard runner who earned a lot of respect in spring drills. Pushing Nocera for the number one rating is Fred Harris, a junior from Bannockburn, Ill. Harris, who saw action last season, has the advantage of game experience, plus punting ability, but may lack Nocera's power.

The guard posts in the season's opener will probably be filled by Frank Bloomquist and Darrell Drake, Shenandoah sophomore. However, junior Don Bowen, from E. St. Louis, is a strong contender, and has done some work this fall with the "first" team.

Action in Other Big Ten Schools

MICHIGAN—ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Michigan's Wolverines sped up the tempo of their scrimmages Tuesday with two Ohio sophomores certain to pep up their single wing offense.

Sophomore fullback John Herrstein, 212-pounds from Chillicothe, Ohio, and soph left halfback Bob Placock, 208-pounds from Cleveland, are both living up to Coach Bennie Oosterbaan's predictions.

OHIO STATE—COLUMBUS, Ohio — Two of Ohio State University's beefy tackles were sidelined with minor injuries Tuesday as the Buckeyes continued their two-day conditioning and play-drill sessions.

LONDON — Scotland Yard dropped its hunt Tuesday for Nina Ponomareva, Soviet woman champion discus thrower. There was growing speculation that it was another step in letting her beat the rap on a charge of stealing five cheap hats.

Nina was safe in the diplomatic territory of the Soviet Embassy where British law officers may not penetrate.

But there was the problem of what would happen to her when she left the embassy in an attempt to get back home.

The case ballooned quickly into an international incident and some of the British press said that pressing the theft charge and the search for Nina constituted a major political blunder.

In the quiet maneuvers to end the unpleasantness, the low-price London shop where Nina took the gaily colored hats — total value $4.60 — dropped its charges. Then Scotland Yard bowed out.

ISC Fullback Hurt In First Scrimmage

AMES — The Iowa State football squad scrimmaged for the first time Tuesday since the start of fall practice and came up with its first casualty.

Bill Jensen, second team fullback, suffered a twisted knee. The extent of his injury was not determined. Jensen, a senior, saw considerable action last year.

Chief interest of Coach Vince DiFrancesca and his staff continued to center around quarterback Chuck Martin, transfer student from San Angelo, Tex. Martin was roughed up during scrimmage but looked rugged.

"He showed good poise," DiFrancesca said.

The scrimmage was held during the morning session and the boys worked out in shorts during the afternoon.

Dodger Hitters Fail During Weekend

BROOKLYN — It was the Brooklyn Dodgers' pitching that most fans expected to weaken under the strain of seven games over the Labor Day weekend. Instead it was the hitters who let the Brooks slump 3½ games off Milwaukee's pace when that torturing string was ended.

In respect to pitching and doubleheaders, the worst is over now and it seems likely that Ralph Branca, re-signed Monday for emergency duty, might not pitch at all. Brooklyn doesn't have another doubleheader on the schedule.

From Friday night through Monday, the Dodgers played seven games and won four. They made only 51 hits, an average of barely over seven a game. Two pitchers went the route and Don Drysdale hurled 16 innings on three consecutive days.

The Dodgers had a day off to rest. Then they'll play one more game with the Pirates and a long series with the Giants before facing Milwaukee next Tuesday and Wednesday.

In the hitting department, Gil Hodges has been the principal offender. But compared to other years, it has been just a season-long slump for the whole team.

Aaron's Bat Relieves Woes In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE — With third baseman Eddie Mathews hobbled temporarily by a sprained ankle, pennant-hungry followers of the Milwaukee Braves found consolation Tuesday in the fact that hammering Henry Aaron is once more stroking the ball with authority.

And the young rightfielder could not have picked a better time to snap out of the slump that caused him to give up first place for a few days in the torrid scramble for the National League batting crown.

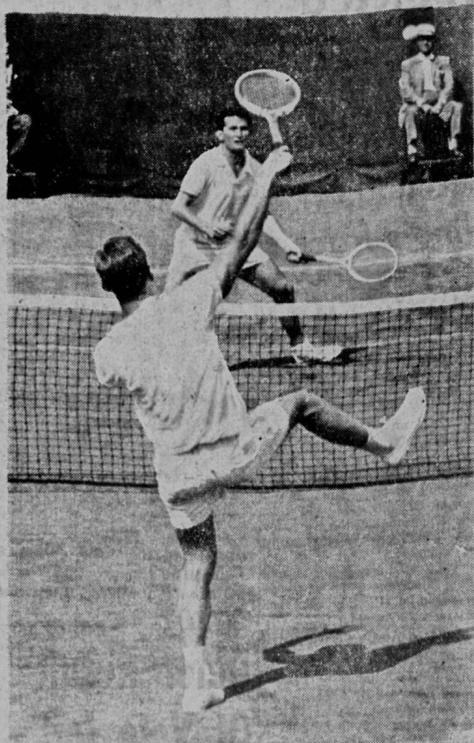

From Aug. 15, when Aaron led the league with an average of .340, through the first game of last Friday night's doubleheader with St. Louis, he batted only .187 in 16 games. His season average fell to .320 and he lost the batting lead to Wally Moon of the Cardinals.

Aaron hit rock bottom in the first game Friday night when he went hitless five times. But he collected two hits in the second game and since then he has been swatting the ball at an even 500 pace.

While the league leading Braves were splitting Monday's important Labor Day doubleheader with St. Louis, Aaron smashed three home runs and two doubles. Going into Tuesday night's third contest of the Cincinnati series, he had regained the league batting lead with 327, four points ahead of Moon.

Unless Mathews can shake off the ankle injury he suffered in Monday's second game, the burden of power in the Braves' batting order now will rest with Aaron and first baseman Joe Adcock.

Seixas, Aussies Advance In Forest Hills Tournament

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. — Vic Seixas, four times within two points of defeat, staged another fighting finish Tuesday to beat Luis Ayala of Chile in the third round of the National Tennis Championships. The score was 8-6, 4-6, 3-6, 12-10, 8-6.

It was a significant triumph for the 33-year-old former Wimbledon and U.S. champion from Philadelphia, who is bidding desperately to hold his place on the U.S. Davis Cup team.

Wet with perspiration and his knees shaky from near exhaustion, Seixas, fourth-seeded, broke Ayala's service with three superb passing shots and the benefit of a doublefault in the 13th game, and then won his own service at love to clinch the decision.

Seixas' victory came shortly after Abe Segal, a 25-year-old suit salesman from Johannesburg, South Africa, had put the first break in seeded ranks by outlasting Ulf Schmidt of Sweden, 8-6, 9-7, 5-7, 7-5.

Top-seeded Lew Hoad of Australia was forced to play some of his finest tennis to dispose of cagy Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J., 11-9, 6-3, 6-4, and advance with four of his fellow countrymen, including his chief rival, Ken Rosewall.

Other Aussie winners were Neale Fraser, seeded fifth, who defeated Sid Dorfman of New York, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4; 6th-seeded Ashley Cooper, who had a bitter battle with Myron Franks of Los Angeles before winning, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, and Roy Emerson, who further damaged American net prestige by whipping Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-1, 6-1, 3-6, 7-5.

Rosewall, seeded No. 2, toyed with Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., 6-3, 6-2, 6-2. Third-seeded Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., turned back Bill Quillian of Seattle, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Dick Savitt, comeback ex-Wimbledon champion, set down Tim Coss of Washington, D. C., 6-1, 6-2, 6-3. Savitt is No. 8.

In the women's division, the top-ranked favorite, Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, conquered Mary Ann Mitchell of San Leandro, Calif., 6-2, 6-2, and her long-time rival, Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., disposed of 16-year-old Rosa Maria Reyes, of Mexico, 6-3, 6-1.

ULF SCHMIDT, FORECOURT, seventh-seeded Swede, smashes the ball back at Abe Segal, little known South African, during their match in the National Tennis Championships at Forest Hills, N. Y., Tuesday. Segal scored the first major upset by downing Schmidt 8-6, 9-7, 5-7, 7-5.

Puerto Rican Team Bids for Rizzuto

HILLSIDE, N. J. — Phil Rizzuto, recently released by the New York Yankees after 16 years at shortstop, got a "name-your-own-terms" contract from a Puerto Rican team Tuesday.

Rizzuto, who is considering a flood of baseball, radio and TV offers, declined to say immediately whether he would fill in the blank contract offered by the San Juan Senators.

The Puerto Rican League team is managed by an ex-Yankee teammate, catcher Ralph Houk. Rizzuto trained in San Juan in 1947 with the Yanks.

Rizzuto already has turned down a chance to play the rest of the season for the St. Louis Cardinals.
