U.S. Joins in New Proposal For Suez Canal Commission

3 Hospitals Plan Local Disaster Aid

If a major disaster — explosion, flood, tornado wreck or epidemic — should occur in the Iowa City area, the three local hospitals are ready.

University Hospitals, Mercy Hospital and the Veterans Administration Hospital have emergency plans ready to be placed into action at the first sign of a major disaster or Civil Defense alert.

The three plans, though they vary in detail and facilities, are similar in their over-all action.

The telephone company will alert all hospitals of the disaster and the switchboards will be cleared for emergency calls. Some lines on the board will be "blocked" so they will be clear for outgoing calls.

The hospital staffs will be notified of the alert by a code system. Each hospital has its own code. Traffic control plans around the receiving centers will be put into effect.

After the hospital staffs have been notified of the alert, individuals who have volunteered for service will be called. These persons are registered with the Nursing Service.

All ambulatory patients and those ready for discharge will be evacuated from the hospitals immediately and sent to their homes or to out-patient facilities. Their beds will be prepared for disaster casualties.

All ambulances in the city will be used to transport casualties to the hospitals.

Admisions areas will be set up where each incoming patient will receive a CD identification card. These cards will remain with the patient until he is under the care of his personal physician.

After his admission is recorded, the patient will be sent to an examining room near the receiving center. There he will be examined by a medical team which will determine the type and extent of his injuries.

After preliminary examination, the patient will be routed to one of the medical treatment teams. These teams will be set up to handle specific types of case, such as burns, maxillofacial, and shock.

Surgery and x-ray facilities will be cleared for the reception of casualty cases. Additional beds and cots will be placed in the wards to handle the large number of casualties.

Patients will be kept at the hospitals until they can be discharged.

These disaster plans will be tested throughout the year with unannounced drills. With the practice from these drills and the training of hospital personnel in the plans, Iowa City's three hospitals will be ready for any disaster.

The Weather

Cloudy and Rain

Keep your umbrella handy today because the weather forecaster predicts cloudy weather with light showers.

Temperatures will range in the 70's and low 80's today and may drop into the 50's by tonight.

The outlook for Friday is for continued partly cloudy skies with a chance of scattered showers and thundertsorms.

Housewife Worth $79,870–She Says

PATERSON, N. J. (AP) — A Pompton Lakes woman figures her services as a housewife are worth $70 a week — which adds up to a tidy $79,870 over a 22-year period.

And she believes she did enough bookkeeping for her former husband at the rate of $75 a week to have earned $15,600 over an 8-year span.

Miss Katherine Mary Gerber of Paterson filed suit Wednesday for $114,813 against Jerome C. Gale of West Milford, a used car dealer.

Their marriage was annulled in 1955, seven months after she discovered that Gale had been married to another woman in 1922 and was not divorced until 1948, according to papers filed in Superior Court.

Miss Gerber is also asking $19,-343 she earned between 1936 and 1941 and which she claims she gave Gale to invest in the used car business.

Registration Materials

Registration materials are available to SUI students in the basement of University Hall, today through Wednesday.

These materials may be picked up at the following times:

Today and Friday — 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon; 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Saturday — 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon.

Monday and Tuesday — 8 a.m. to 12 noon; 1 p.m. to 5 p.m

Wednesday — 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

Students must obtain a permit to register from the Treasurer's Office, University Hall, by showing their student number cards. The permit will enable them to receive registration materials.

Labor Union Board Backs Adlai, Estes

CHICAGO (AP) — Adali E. Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate, and Estes Kefauver, his running mate, were endorsed Wednesday by the General Board of the AFL-CIO.

The action was taken at the first meeting of the General Board since the AFL and CIO were merged into a single labor organization which claims 15 million members.

The board adopted a resolution on a voice vote.

The board is made up of officials of 188 unions, 29 members of the AFL-CIO Executive Council and six department heads of the organization. The total is 173.

No attendance record was kept, but a spokesman estimated about 150 board members were present.

The AFL-CIO Committee On Political Education distributed copies of a 12-page report that was termed an "analysis" of the platforms and national candidates of the Republican and Democratic parties.

It said President Eisenhower "has repeatedly expressed good intentions which he has not consistently carried out."

The report said Stevenson "places human values first," and it added:

"He is devoted to the free enterprise system, but he does not believe the demands of big business should be given prior consideration over the needs of the people as a whole."

George Meany, AFL-CIO president who presided, said the support of the candidates is not an endorsement of a political party. He said labor has a right to endorse a candidate.

The resolution was submitted by the 29-member AFL-CIO Executive Council. The council, at an Aug. 28 meeting in Forest Park, Pa., recommended endorsement of the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket.

Parents Face Crisis: Son's Eyes or Life?

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Five-year-old Johnny Pair, who lost one eye to cancer, must have the other removed to save his life but his divorced parents cannot agree upon an operation.

Doctors at Grady Hospital told the boy's father, Arnold, 37, and his mother, Bessie, 32, that malignancy which caused loss of the left eye has spread to the right eye.

The left eye was removed two years ago. Doctors said there is no assurance removal of the other eye will save Johnny's life.

"Let him see as long as he can," Pair said in declaring he would not give his consent to an operation. "As long as he can play as well as he does and see as well as he does, let the eye stay in."

Johnny's mother said she feels that the operation should be performed in an effort to lengthen her son's life.

The mother and father and a minister scheduled a meeting with doctors at the hospital later to talk over the problem and try to reach a decision.

Johnny has not been told of his worsening condition.

Mrs. Pair was granted custody of the boy when the Pairs were divorced.

The boy's case is similar to that of little Mike Sibole, son of an Orlando, Fla., minister who gave up his remaining good eye recently to stop a malignancy.

Make Campaign a Crusade, Ike Tells GOP Party Leaders

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower kicked off his second term drive Wednesday with a plea to party leaders to "change a campaign into a crusade" and rally millions of voters to the Republican banner.

A crowd of more than 500 of the GOP elite cheered the President enthusiastically as he expressed confidence the party will win in November if there is enough hard work.

In a vigorous, happy mood, Mr. Eisenhower said "Don't let our people down by writing off as hopeless any contest, by conceding any area. This is the road to stalemate or to defeat."

He spoke in a big, flag-decked tent pitched in a rolling meadow about 200 yards from his farm home.

Meanwhile, Adlai Stevenson and his running mate, Sen. Estes Kefauver, met in New York City with eastern Democratic leaders in one of a series of regional strategy huddles. One Democrat — Joseph S. Clark, a congressional candidate in Pennsylvania — told Stevenson the Democratic victory in Maine last Monday "cut Ike's coattails off."

As he had said in advance, Mr. Eisenhower made no attack on the Democrats. He left that to Vice-President Nixon and Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the GOP National Committee, who also spoke.

Mr. Eisenhower got a rousing round of applause at the outset of his talk by reporting on his health.

He said he wanted to answer a question that many people have been putting to him, and then declared:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I feel fine."

Mr. Eisenhower, as well as those who spoke ahead of him in reporting on the party's outlook, placed much emphasis on need for getting voters registered and to the polls.

Mr. Eisenhower said the Republicans "have a great party" with "people working all the way from Los Angeles to Maine."

Then he caught himself and said with a chuckle regarding his mention of Maine: "that's a bad word."

PRESIDENT DWIGHT D. Eisenhower, hand on hip, tilts the bottle as he drinks soda pop at a Gettysburg, Pa., tent meeting of the GOP committeemen and committeewomen and party workers to start his campaign for re-election.

In calling for a great crusade, Mr. Eisenhower set forth the same campaign theme he sounded four years ago.

He outlined a fourfold objective for the party:

1. "To arouse in the American people a consciousness of all that is at stake in this election, of their responsibility and their ability in making sure we stay on the straight road of prosperity, progress and peace."

2. "To generate in them the conviction that our party, the party of the future, is best fitted for the management of our government, because of its principles and record and the candidates it presents for office from village to national level."

3. "To ignite in them a zeal to make converts among their neighbors, to be themselves active workers for the Republican Party and builders of the American future."

4. "To fortify their determination that they will register in time to get others to register; to vote themselves and persuade others to vote."

Clay Passively Resists Integration

CLAY, Ky. (AP) — All white students and at least three teachers remained away from the Clay school Wednesday after National Guardsmen opened the school to two Negro children.

Mayor Herman V. Clark said, "We're going to have a policy of passive resistance. . . . White children won't go to school with Negroes as long as we can prevent it peacefully."

Clay is a farming-coal mining community 160 miles west of Louisville.

Maj. Gen. J. J. B. Williams in a surprise maneuver ordered 500 guardsmen into Clay from nearby Sturgis at 3:55 a.m. Wednesday. At 9 a.m. he personally escorted Mrs. James Gordon and her two children, James, 10, and Teresa, 8, to the school.

Twice before mobs had turned the Gordon children back.

National Guardsmen stood shoulder-to-shoulder along the road leading up to the hilltop school. A crowd gathered but it was orderly. The only disturbance occurred when an onlooker threw a filled bottle of milk at a news photographer and missed.

A bus carrying 10 students continued on with its passengers when the crowd shouted, "Don't get off."

An estimated 50 of the school's 590 white pupils entered the school but later straggled out. By 11:30 a.m. only the two Negroes and teachers were in the three-story brick building which houses both elementary and high school classes.

Minvil Clark, an English teacher and pastor of the General Baptist Church, said he and two other teachers had left the school at the request of a citizen's committee. He said they had been warned they were subject to dismissal by the State Department of Education if they left during class hours.

Talmadge Bid Wins Senate Nomination

ATLANTA (AP) — Herman E. Talmadge swept to victory at the polls Wednesday on his plea for an "overwhelming mandate" to carry his fight for states rights — and racial segregation — to the U.S. Senate.

The 43-year-old former governor, the son of a four-times elected governor, "Old Gene" Talmadge, scored in the Democratic primary over an old political rival, M. E. Thompson, another former governor. His prize was the Senate seat being vacated by the veteran Walter R. George.

Talmadge had asked for a ballot box smash to strengthen his hand for a fight in Congres for what he referred to as "constitutional government, states rights and local self determination."

There was no doubt of the result from the start. As the ballots piled up in his favor, Talmadge issued his victory statement at the early hour of 8:30 p.m. — with ample justification.

His rival withheld his statement until a couple of hours later.

With the vote practically half counted, Thompson failed to lead in a single county. Talmadge had led in 113 of the 195 counties with a unit total of 304 compared with only 206 required to nominate.

The popular vote was Talmadge 226,027, Thompson, 72,540. Included were 796 of 1,815 precincts.

Georgia also nominated 10 members of the U.S. House of Representatives, four without opposition. Reps. Prince H. Preston, E. L. Forrester, James C. Davis, Carl Vinson, Henderson Lanham and Iris Blitch took early leads on first returns.

Invest State Funds In Federal Bonds

DES MOINES (AP) — State Treasurer M. L. Abrahamson said Wednesday he has invested $5 million in temporary, unneeded state funds in federal securities which will draw 2¾ per cent interest.

He said also he has purchased an additional $2,075,000 worth of bonds with idle funds of the Iowa Public Employe Pension System, and $18,000 in securities for the state district judge retirement system.

This runs the investment of public employe pension funds to a total of $55 million, and judges' retirement plan money to $123,000.

Cairo Declares Move Might Lead to War

LONDON (AP)—The United States, Britain and France joined Wednesday in proposing a new international group to run ships through the Suez Canal.

The proposal provides for pilots who might be based on ship moored off the canal's terminals — outside Egyptian territory.

In announcing the move in the British Parliament, Prime Minister Anthony Eden asked for freedom to use British troops if necessary to keep the canal open.

Cairo's official reaction was quick and violent.

Col. Abdel Kader Hatem, Egyptian information director, called it "provocation leading to war against Egypt" and said Egypt would not surrender legal rights to the canal.

In Washington, the State Department after a day of hesitating statements, made it known that in joining the proposed association it had stressed cooperation with Egypt and participation of many "user" nations, and emphasized the U.S. is in no way committed to military action if the new plan fails. Washington still stressed a peaceful settlement.

The department did not wholly confirm its participation in the plan — although diplomatic informants stressed that Secretary of State Dulles framed it — until three hours after Eden announced it in Parliament.

Then a department statement said only that Dulles would explain the U.S. position today.

Cairo greeted the Eden statement first with an official reaction that it was "only a sugar-coated threat of force."

The Egyptians were reported most surprised and disappointed by the news that the United States is participating in the plan.

Because they considered Eden's move a recourse to force, the Egyptian spokesmen said they were unable to reconcile the U.S. attitude with President Eisenhower's statement Tuesday that he did not consider the use of force justified.

Some in Cairo said they were convinced the Soviet Union would not intervene if Britain and France attacked Egypt but said they did not think the Soviet Union would stay out if the United States got into a conflict.

The plan proposed an association of canal users to employ pilots, regulate canal traffic, fix rates, collect tolls and share the income with Egypt.

Egypt's President Nasser, who took control of the canal July 26, turned down a previous Western proposal for international control of the canal. He has said he will only accept international aid and advice on operation of the canal by an Egyptian Canal Authority.

Eden staked his government's future in demanding a Parliament vote of confidence today on his moves, which included joint British-French formal notice to the UN Security Council that a dangerous condition exists in the canal dispute.

The notice did not ask for UN action but cautioned the Council that Egypt has created a situation which might endanger free and open passage of the canal.

Eden warned Egypt any interference with the work of the association or refusal to cooperate with it would "once more" violate the Suez Convention of 1888, which guaranteed the canal would be open to he ships of all nations in peace or war.

He told a tense emergency session of the House of Commons such a violation by President Nasser's government would free the nations concerned to assert their rights, "either through the United Nations or by other means."

Egyptians agreed that the crisis point will come today when non-Egyptian ship pilots and other technicians leave their jobs. This was expected to bring a breakdown in canal traffic.

A spokesman for the Egyptian Suez Canal Authority said those who wish to quit "are free to do so" and Egyptian authorities will not hinder them from leaving.

It was not explained how Egypt intends to maintain a pledge to keep ships moving freely through the canal.

Will Set Up Body Quickly

PARIS (AP) — French Premier Guy Mollet told a news conference Wednesday the newly formed Suez association would be set up as quickly as possible.

Mollet said as far as he knew only Britian, France and the United States had announced their intention of joining but that he was sure others would want to participate.

Mollet did not say so, but the impression both in London and Paris was that the association set-up would be heavily staffed by present employes of the old Suez Canal Co. More than 400 of these employes in Egypt have given notice in Cairo that they are quitting Friday midnight.

Mollet said the question of where the association's pilots would be stationed is being studied. It was understood in London the canal pilots would be accomunodated in ships moored outside Egyptian waters at both ends of the canal-off Port Said and Port Tewfik.

Mollet said he supposed that when a convoy is formed, permission would be asked from Egyptian authorities to pass through the 103-mile waterway. If permission is granted, the Egyptians would be paid for the right of passage, he added.

A Washington source said the aim of the plan is to divide operations of the canal. Egypt would be responsible for maintenance and the canal would be recoghized as Egyptian.

The association would be responsibile for guiding ships through the canal, using its own pilots. Tolls collected for pilots' services would be divided with Egypt.

Whoa!

Car Reverses Intention Of Driver — Forward

HOWELL, Mich. (AP) — Mrs. Evelyn Feneley's car shot through a picket fence Wednesday, plowed into a veterinarian's office, missed Dr. Herbert Benson by a foot and knocked the doctor's building eight feet from its foundation.

"I meant to put it in reverse," she said.

Olson Denies Fund Misuse

JEFERSON (AP) — Chriss M. Olson, 57, former Crawford County supervisor, denied Wednesday that he had ever received any of the profits of the B&H Materials Co. which sold steam control equipment to the county.

Olson took the stand in his defense against charges that he conspired against Crawford County and misused public funds. He testified he had not conspired with anyone and had not misused any funds.

He was the final witness before the defense rested its case in Greene County District Court where the trial is being held on a change of venue.

The case is expected to go to the jury about noon today.

The affairs of the B&H firm, started by the late L. J. Gibson when he was Crawford County shed foreman at Dow City in 1948, entered the trial when Gibson's son, Robert, now Dow City police chief, told of having paid company funds to Olson.

Robert Gibson testified he was only the "dummy" owner of the firm.

Olson said that the only money he received from the two Gibsons was in repayment of loans and was not part of the proceeds of the B&H firm as such.

Och! It's Guid t' be Back!

HEY, WHERE'S MY LUGGAGE is a mild way of putting the state of confusion resulting from the arrival of the Iowa City girls who are members of the University of Iowa Scottish Highlanders. Sheila Cunningham, a 1956 graduate of SUI, 1427 Muscatine Ave., was almost swallowed up when the crowd at the train depot rushed to meet the girls getting off the train.

(Daily Iowan Photos by Bill Nelsen)

GEE, BUT ITS GOOD TO BE HOME MOTHER is what Ginger Hunt, A4, Tipton, seems to be saying to her mother. Miss Hunt, along with other Iowa City girls, who are members of the SUI Scottish Highlanders, arrived at the Iowa City train depot Wednesday evening, ending the 9 and one-half week tour the Highlanders made in Europe this summer. With Miss Hunt are relatives and friends who came to welcome her home from the trip.

Suez Complications

The strike authorization by the Suez Canal Co. Tuesday is the first step by France and Great Britain to try and break President Nasser's grip on the Mideast waterway. Company directors gave the signal for a mass walkout of some 525 canal technicians, pilots and maintenance men.

The position of France and England on the Suez crisis has been consistent — they want the canal returned to some form of international control. But the policy of the United States has been inconsistent, especially with respect to its Big Three partners.

• • •

The French want the canal returned to international control for two reasons: 1) it is vital to the French economy, and 2) the loss of Suez would probably mean the final collapse of the French colonial empire in the Middle East.

France needs Mideast oil. Her factories and military forces depend on it. The French are not content with Nasser's promise that the canal will remain open to international traffic. Only immediate action by the U.S. prevented the French from launching a military offensive against Nasser following his July 26 nationalization of the canal. If France loses access to the canal, her oil supplies will be strategically vulnerable.

Nasser's action, however, had a much farther reaching effect. It unified the Arab world. The nationalization bolstered Algeria's effort to gain independence. The rebels consider Nasser their patron. In an attempt to restore order in Algeria, France has poured 400,000 troops into the rebellious country, far more than she used in Indochina.

The French fear that if Nasser wins his Suez gamble, they will lose Algeria and possibly other countries, such as Morocco, now within the reach of his influence.

Great Britain is in much the same position — she depends on oil from the Mideast and the canal for shipment. But the British need the canal for more than just oil. Suez is a vital link in Great Britain's economy. The Commonwealth depends on world trade. England is in an economic slump. Last year she lost the lead in European steel production to Germany. British automobiles have met stiff competition on the world market. The loss of control over the Suez could be a death blow to an already staggering British economy.

• • •

The policy endorsed by President Eisenhower and pursued by Secretary of State Dulles has left the United States holding the bag. On the one side, we have irritated Great Britain and France by supporting Nasser's stand on the situation, splitting the Big Three, and allowing the Communist bloc to move into the Middle East. And, on the other hand, we have opened the door for further nationalization. If Egypt, or any other member of the Arab bloc, nationalizes U.S. oil fields and/or pipelines, then what position will the United States take?

Kefauver and Nixon

From Editor's Copy

Without a doubt, Senator Estes Kefauver weakens the Democratic ticket in the South, or in some Southern states. At the same time, there is little doubt that Richard Nixon weakens the Republican ticket among some voters also.

• • •

On the other hand, it is undoubtedly true that both Kefauver and Nixon strengthen the ticket in other areas, Kefauver adding strength to the Democratic ticket in the Midwest and Nixon adding strength to the Republican ticket with the many friends he has made through active, loyal work in behalf of the party and the President in the last three and a half years.

The Democrats obviously believe they will carry most of the South, and that the addition of Kefauver to the ticket will gain more in the Midwest and other sections than it will lose the party in the South.

A majority of Republicans obviously believe that dumping Nixon, at a late date, would have done the party more harm than good, since it would have been an admission that Nixon was unqualified to be Vice-President, a post the Republicans nominated him for four years ago.

Thus the country has two controversial Vice-Presidential nominees. There is every indication that Estes Kefauver will direct his fire largely at Vice-President Nixon, and the Vice-President is not likely to sit quietly by and not return the fire. This may be one of the more lively phases of the campaign.

'—And Try To Make Them Believe YOU!'

Washington Scene—

Campaign To 'Free' District of Columbia

By GEORGE DIXON

King Features Syndicate

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 — Political scientists, who convened here last week, are making rapid advances from the theoretical to the practical. They have become active champions of the enslaved and downtrodden. Leaders among them are now working on a plan, which they hope will be bloodless, to bring freedom to the District of Columbia.

Two of the most brilliant luminaries at the 52d annual convention of the American Political Science Association were Professors William C. Johnstone and Paul Linebarger, of the School of Advanced International Studies of Johns Hopkins University. At this school, which is appropriately located in the nation's capital, Prof. Johnstone occupies the Chair of Asian Politics, and Prof. Linebarger, the Chair of Far Eastern Politics.

There's no use arguing with me that the Far East is in Asia, and vice versa, and why two chairs? I guess they gotta have individual places for Profs. Johnstone and Linebarger to sit, don't they? Do you figure it would be in keeping with the dignity of higher learning to have a couple of distinguished political scientists sitting in each other's laps? Well then, quiet, and let me get on with this revelation.

I encountered Prof. Johnstone in the convention reading room where I was perusing the panel discussion papers. I was doubled up with mirth because nearly all the papers began with a delightful anecdote, and when I tried to straighten, I butted the professor in the midriff. He clutched his stomach and we became bosom friends.

"What do you find so uproarious?" he finally managed to gasp. I pointed to the paper by Prof. Stephen K. Bailey, of Princeton University, which began:

"Nicholas I, the 'Iron Tsar' of Russia, was reputed to have said shortly before his death, 'I do not rule Russia; ten thousand clerks do.' Nicholas, unfortunately, was silent on the extent to which he ruled the 10,000 clerks."

We agreed that was enough to silence anybody, monarch or no, and probably hastened old Nick's demise. Then Prof. Johnstone disclosed the conspiracy to free the District of Columbia:

"The United Nations has committed itself to the cause of progress toward self-government in non-self-governing territories. It has established the right of petition to the United Nations by people in territories, and has also established that governments possessing territories must report on them to the UN.

"This is the premise upon which Prof. Linebarger and I devised the politically scientific plot to rescue the nation's capital from serfdom.

"After exhaustive politico-scientific research we established that the District of Columbia is the most populous completely non-governing territory on earth. Its people are allowed no say whatever in its government. Washingtonians haven't the voting privileges of New Guinea headhunters.

"Our plan is to arouse our disenfranchised Washington citizens to petition the United Nations for a hearing. Under its rules, the UN would be required to order representatives of the United States to appear before it to explain what progress toward self-government it is making in this non self-governing territory.

"The UN then would be required to send an investigations commission to the District of Columbia to see if its people are ready for self-government."

"Confidentially," I whispered, "Do you think they are?"

"I do," replied Prof. Johnstone firmly. "Some of them emigrate, or are sent back, to regions which enjoy a measure of self-government. After a period of readjustment they can hardly be distinguished from the rest of the populace. Except for a sort of glazed look.

"Some of them," he added, "even get elected to public office and return here to help keep us in subjugation."

BARREL OF FUN

DAVENPORT (AP) — Patrolman John Iverson, whose arrest of a Davenport man last week touched off a Quad-Cities lottery investigation, came across more "barrel-of fun" tickets Wednesday. They were dumped on the front lawn of his home here. The tickets were not used.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

TOUGH OLD COOT got fed up with having the wife rifle his pockets every night so he captured a couple of rattlesnakes, and slipped one deep into each pants pocket before climbing into bed.

His wife strolled in some minutes later, looking mighty riled.

"Been digging for my money again, hey?" he asked with elaborate unconcern.

"Yeah, but you're even more broke than usual," she complained. "I looked in both your pockets and there's not a thing in them but snakes."

A kindly warden summoned a long-term prisoner and said, "Joe, frankly, you've got me concerned. You're the only con here who hasn't had a visitor this year. Haven't you any relative who cares about you?"

"I got lots of 'em, Warden," maintained the prisoner, "but all of 'em's right in here for longer stretches than me!"

General Notices

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 201, Communications Center, by 3 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by phone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

JOURNALISM MEETING—There will be a meeting of all freshman and transfer students in Journalism at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 15, in Room 305 of the Communications Center. Purpose of the meeting will be to explain the steps and requirements of enrollment in the School of Journalism, and to assign students to faculty advisers in the particular fields of journalism in which they are interested. It is imperative that all new students attend this meeting. After the meeting journalism faculty members, who will serve as advisers, will be available to assist new students in preparing their class schedules for the fall semester.

THE STUDENT COUNCIL — sponsored book exchange will again be open in Room 21, first floor, Schaeffer Hall, as follows:

Books received for resale: Sept. 17, 18, 19 and 20.

Books will be sold: Sept. 20, 21, 24 and 25.

Return of money and unsold books: Sept. 26, 27, and 28.

Refund on books which were sold but are not current texts: Sept. 25 only.

Hours will be 9-12 and 1-4:45 p.m., daily. Students having books which will be used this semester can bring them to the exchange on the above dates to be sold.

THE UNIVERSITY Cooperative Baby-sitting League book will be in charge of Mrs. Esty McClurg through September 25. Telephone her at 80704 if a sitter or information about joining the group is desired.

ACTIVITIES DAY — Those participating in the Activities Day at the Iowa Memorial Union Sept. 19 will meet in the Union Pentacrest room at 4 p.m., Sept. 17. If you are unable to attend, send another representative.

LIBRARY HOURS — Interim hours for the main library are as follows:

Monday-Friday — 7:30 a.m.-4:50 p.m.
Saturday — 7:30 a.m.-11:50 a.m.
Desks open at 8 a.m.

Red Bloc Ups Drive To Gain Mideast Trade

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

The Communist bloc is steadily raising the tempo of its drive to penetrate the Middle East economically.

In the past week alone, Middle East news agencies reported an agreement for the exchange of Soviet wheat for Egyptian cotton, an Egyptian agreement to buy Chinese meat at prices below the world market, and a Soviet offer to develop oil in northern Syria.

The latter is the most noteworthy of the three reports. Syria's Communists, though small in number, are strong and ably led by Khaled Baghdash, Moscow's chosen representative for the entire Middle East.

Syria's government is in a chronic state of instability, and the army is heavily infiltrated by Communists. It would be no big trick, when the time might be ripe, for the Russians to support a Communist coup in that country aimed at setting up a people's democracy for a permanent foothold in the Middle East.

The Damascus report said a representative of the Soviet firm, Techno-Export, has informed Syria there is abundant oil in its northern territory and Soviet concerns can get it out on ordinary commercial terms. It said the Soviet representative pictured Syria as a potentially rich country which, with the oil money the Russians could help them pocket, could industrialize and develop itself economically.

This is an attractive picture for Syria, forever nervous about her neighbors and jealous of the oil riches of next-door Iraq. The Soviet Union is playing clever politics with such an offer.

These are only the recent manifestations of the Communist bloc's determined economic drive in a wide area of Africa and Asia, whose eventual aim is to divorce such countries from many Western influence. Trade between the so-called backward countries and the Soviet-Communist bloc has been increasing significantly ever since 1954, when the Russians suddenly decided to intrude themselves dynamically into the agitated politics of the Middle East.

If the Russians persuade such countries to base their industrialization and modernization programs on the Soviet-Communist pattern, they will have chalked up a victory of incalculable proportions in its implications for the generations to come. The burgeoning trade and technical aid offensive is a big challenge to the free world leadership of the United States.

Cite Economy For Proposed Airline Move

Economic considerations are the primary reason that United Airlines has decided to abandon service to Iowa City, Ralph N. Anderson, local manager, told the Lions club Wednesday.

Truck line service to two airports within 18.2 miles of each other is unusual, he said. United also operates out of the Cedar Rapids airport.

Iowa City's field also will be too small for the future jet airliners which will be the principal carriers, Anderson said.

Of the total traffic from this area, 30 per cent uses the Cedar Rapids airport. Company officials have indicated traffic here would have to be increased by 75 per cent to make flights economically practical, he said.

It is hoped that a limousine service will be established between here and Cedar Rapids if United abandons its service, Anderson said.

Final decision on United's plans to abandon the Iowa City stop will be made sometime this month by the Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington, D.C.

STEALS PLANE

DES MOINES (AP) — Delbert L. Neese, 24, indicted by a Polk County grand jury for larceny in the nighttime in connection with the theft of an airplane, pleaded guilty Wednesday to a lesser charge of larceny in the daytime and was sentenced in District Court to five years in the Fort Madison State Penitentiary.

Hoegh Talk To Open Delinquency Meeting

More than 300 persons are expected to attend a statewide conference on juvenile delinquincy at SUI Sept. 21.

Sponsored by the SUI Institute of Public Affairs in conjunction with the Iowa Commission on Children and Youth, the Commonwealth Conference on Juvenile Delinquency has been called to focus statewide attention on what is being done in Iowa to help boys and girls who get into trouble.

Hoegh
To Focus Attention

Other agencies and groups cooperating in the conference are the Board of Control of State Institutions, the Iowa District Judges' Association, the SUI School of Social Work and the State Department of Social Welfare.

Governor Leo A. Hoegh will address the opening session of the one-day meeting, which will be held in Iowa Memorial Union.

Robert F. Ray, director of the Institute of Public Affairs, said Wednesday that nearly 300 persons who have registered in advance for the conference will be sent a report soon on a series of surveys conducted by the groups cooperating in sponsoring the conference.

These surveys have attempted to find out the nature and extent of juvenile delinquency in Iowa, what is being done to prevent delinquency and how such groups as the police, probation officers, juvenile courts, welfare workers and public and private institutions help children who get into trouble.

The conference itself will consider how five social areas deal with the problems of delinquents. These areas are the family; schools; police, probation officers and courts; community health, welfare and recreation services, and public and private institutions designed to serve children.

Postgraduate Course Set For Dentists

Dentists from South Dakota, Illinois and Iowa have registered for the sixth annual Postgraduate Course in Dentistry for Children to be given Monday through Friday at the SUI Center for Continuation Study.

Sponsored by the SUI College of Dentistry, the course has been designed to bring dentists in general practice up to date on the latest developments in dentistry for the child. Dr. Kenneth E. Wessels, head of the Department of Preventive Dentistry and Pedodontia in the college, is coordinator of the course.

Speakers Monday will include Dean William J. Simon of the college, who will welcome registrants for the course, and Professor Ralph Ojemann of the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station, who will speak at 9:15 a.m. on "Normal Child Behavior." Dr. W. G. Goodale, assistant professor of pedodontics, will speak at 10:30 a.m. on "Pulp Therapy in the Child's Dentation."

Professor Boyd McCandless, head of the Research Station, will speak Tuesday at 9 a.m. on "The Problem Child." Dr. Wessels' topic at 10:30 a.m. the same day will be "The Psychological Management of the Child Dental Patient."

The course will include demonstrations of technical procedures in the SUI children's dental clinic.

Airman, 18, Faces Bad Check Charge

DES MOINES (AP) — An 18-year-old Lincoln, Neb., airman arrested a ta Des Moines grocery has admitted cashing more than 12 bad checks in Des Moines since Saturday, Sheriff Wilbur T. Hildreth said Wednesday.

Being held in jail on charges of forgery and uttering a false check is Ronald Dwight Cox, who told authorities he has been absent from his base at Lincoln since Saturday.

Hildreth said Cox identified an accomplice as Airman Walter Spires, 22, also stationed at Lincoln.

Cox said Spires left Des Moines Tuesday, presumably en route back to the base to get leave papers so the two could go to Florida.

Merchandise and cash obtained by the pair from cashing the checks was estimated by the sheriff at $300.

SUPREME COURT

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Supreme Court is scheduled to hear arguments next week on 24 cases. This will be the first hearing of arguments since last June, when the court began its usual summer recess.

City To Vote Oct. 15 On School Bond Issue

A $1,500,000 bond issue to finance a new junior high school in Iowa City and rehabilitate the present junior high schools will be voted on October 15.

The Iowa City School Board set the date and the amount Tuesday night after accepting petitions signed by 1,298 persons.

Robert T. Davis, School Board secretary, said that the number signing the petitions was the largest ever to appear on petitions for a bond election.

Iowa law states that 25 per cent of those who voted in the last regular school election must sign the petitions. Since 905 voted in the last election, only 227 signatures were actually neded.

The city purchased a 27-acre tract for the proposed new building last February. The location is just east of First Avenue and north of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Co. right of way.

The new building will be designed to accommodate 600 students. Junior high school capacity is now rated at 450. An enrollment of 1,200 is expected by 1963-64.

Solon Legion Post Bans Liquor Sale

Solon's American Legion post has voluntarily surrendered its federal liquor permit, county Attorney William M. Tucker said Wednesday.

The Solon post was the only establishment in Johnson county holding such a permit. An official of the post said that they wanted to escape the bad publicity that has been given permit holders in the past.

Attorney General Dayton Countryman announced recently that special officers would periodically check all permit holders to determine if Iowa law was being violated.

Asks Injunction On Cellar Rooms

A suit has been filed against Edward J. and Lavone Thomae by the city of Iowa City in an attempt to enjoin them from allowing habitation of basement apartments in a building at 10 Melrose Place.

Dr. Stephen Ware, city health officer, requested the injunction. He said that Iowa housing laws forbid the use of basement areas as dwelling places.

The city also claims that the use of the apartments is in violation of city zoning ordinances. The house is located in a one and two-family unit zone.

NEW RADIO STATION

WASHINGTON (AP) — An application has been filed with the Federal Communications Commission by Jane A. Roberts, Farmington, Mo., for a construction permit for a 500-watt daytime radio station at Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Bank Tellers' Windows To Open on Street

In an effort to stop double parking and traffic congestion "Walk-up" tellers' windows for First National Bank customers will open soon, a Chamber of Commerce statement said Wednesday.

The two windows will face on Dubuque Street just north of the banking room and will be open from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Four nearby parking meters will be reserved for bank customers.

The Iowa State Bank has opened a customer parking lot on the corner of college and Capitol Streets.

SEIZE LIQUOR

DAVENPORT (AP)—Davenport police and a state agent reported seizure of liquor in raids Wednesday on Brud's tavern and the Sportsmen's Grill. They also raided Gus's Place but reported they found no liquor there.

SUI Studies Deadly Snails

A tiny snail which inhabits the rice paddies and irrigation ditches of the Orient is the object of an extensive study by a Chinese scientist, Dr. Hsi Fan Hsu, at SUI's College of Medicine.

So small it can hardly be seen with the naked eye, this amphibious snail is known to carry a blood fluke in its larval stage which infects the human liver and certain abdominal veins. Any person who is unfortunate enough to walk or step in water infested with the deadly creature is almost sure to contact the disease — known as schistosomiasis japonica.

The disease is fatal more than 10 per cent of the time. Victims who don't die find that it is a chronic disease which, like malaria, is very hard to get rid of.

Suffering from abdominal pains and enlargement of the liver and spleen, they gradually become weaker, requiring more and more rest each day until finally they become bedridden.

Although the disease is practically unknown in other parts of the world, it is widely feared in the Orient. That is why Hsu has been studying the problem since 1948.

S. japonicum, the name given to the parasite which causes the disease, is found in widely scattered large areas, especially the Yangtze River region of China and much of Formosa, Japan and the Philippines. Nearly all the rice field workers in those areas are infected, Dr. Hsu says.

An eminent parasitologist in the Orient, Hsu came to SUI in 1953 to continue the research he had begun in Formosa to learn more about this dread malady. For the past two years, he and his wife, the former Shu Ying Li, have been conducting experiments in a barracks laboratory which they set up on the University Medical Center campus with a $43,827 grant from the U.S. Public Health Service and a $5,000 grant from the College of Medicine's Central Scientific Fund.

Hsu first became interested in the disease about eight years ago when he was called back to his native China from the Philippines, where he had spent the war years. Chiang Kai-Shek's government wanted him to study the problem. Later, Hsu was among those evacuated to Formosa when the Nationalist government left the mainland.

While in Formosa, where he became a Taiwan University professor, Hsu observed that the parasite which infected both men and animals in other parts of the Far East seemed to infect only animals on Formosa.

With the aid of a $18,986 grant from the U.S. Public Health Service, the Chinese scientist set about studying the disease in Formosa.

The U.S. Public Health Service rarely gives grants for study by foreign scientists in foreign countries, says Dr. Franklin H. Top, professor and head of hygiene and preventive medicine at SUI, the department in which Hsu is working. Such grants are only given to "outstanding scientists" working on a problem of world-wide importance, he says.

Before medical scientists can develop any effective measure to control the disease, they must understand the disease they are trying to combat. Hsu's study is part of a limited research program under way in this country to develop a better understanding of schistosomiasis.

While the Public Health Service is interested in the problem, military and government leaders are looking with great interest toward Hsu's results, too.

American soldiers and sailors who are prone to jump into unfamiliar water for short swims have frequently contacted the disease, Hsu says, adding that some 1,500 G.I.'s were infected on Leyte alone during World War II. He says that since he has been at Iowa he has seen several veterans who are still plagued with recurring attacks.

If Hsu is able to prove scientifically, as his earlier studies have indicated, that the Formosan strain won't infect humans, such knowledge will be valuable to American military advisers and visitors, as well as Formosans. The Chinese Nationalist government may eventually save millions of dollars which might otherwise be needed to combat the disease, he says.

In order to conduct the research, Hsu imports the snails and breeds them in his temperature-controlled aquaria which duplicate the snails' natural environment.

"To have a constant supply of research material at hand," Hsu says, "we have to establish and maintain the whole life cycle of this parasite in the laboratory. In this way, we can compare variations in the biology and forms of the four main geographical strains."

Besides the Formosan, Japanese and Philippine strains, Hsu also has in his laboratory live snails from a colony which originated on the Chinese mainland and which are still shedding infective larvae of the parasite.

This, he says, is the most valuable part of his laboratory. The Chinese mainland snails come from a scientist friend in Germany who began breeding them before the Bamboo Curtain was dropped. Without this strain, Hsu's study would be incomplete.

In medical research, the wheels of progress often move slowly. Hsu says if all goes well, his work at Iowa may shed some new light on the disease in three to five years.

The scientist gave a part of the results of his study in a paper presented at the American Institute of Biological Sciences meeting recently at the University of Connecticut. He will speak on another phase of the project at the annual meeting of the American Society of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene scheduled for New Orleans Nov. 1.

False Alarms Throw Fireman in Jail

BENTON HARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Volunteer fireman Emery Radar aroused suspicion by always showing up first at the fire house. He went to jail Wednesday for turning in false alarms.

Police Chief Joseph Sieber said Radar, 18, told him he devised the scheme to get money to pay for his $25 fireman's uniform. Volunteers get $3 for each run, false alarm or no.

Sieber said Radar and a friend, Harold Blankenship, 19, called in eight false reports in July and August. Radar got 30 days and a $30 fine. Blankenship was given 10 days and fined $10.

Reform School Escapee Found in Stolen Car

DES MOINES (AP) — An escapee from the Utah State Industrial School who authorities said was driving a stolen car was being held in jail Wednesday as a result of being stopped Tuesday night for "driving erratically."

Sheriff's deputies stopped the 16-year-old boy and discovered the car he was driving had been stolen at Belmond from Orphie Anderson, Sheriff Wilbur T. Hildreth said.

Wiley Wins Renomination For Fourth Senate Term

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wisconsin's Sen. Alexander Wiley, carrying his fight with the Republican organization in the state to the people, won the GOP renomination for a fourth term in Tuesday's primary election.

The 72-year old Senate veteran, who in speech after speech asked the voters to support his stand against "the self-appointed kingmakers" of the regular Republican groups, won out over Rep. Glenn R. Davis by less than 10,000 votes.

Unofficial returns from 3,305 of the state's 3,349 precincts gave Wiley 217,402 votes. Davis, endorsed by the Republican State Convention polled 207,693. A third man in the race, Howard H. Boyle Jr., drew 20,292 votes.

Wiley will be opposed in the November election by Henry W. Maier, 38-year-old minority leader of the State Senate, who won the Democratic senatorial nomination from former Democratic State Chairman Elliot N. Walstead by a 2-1 margin. The vote, in 3,305 of 3,348 precincts, was 154,554 for Maier, 71,370 for Walstead.

With less than a third of the state's estimated 2¼ million voters turning out, Davis held a small lead over Wiley when the returns from Milwaukee began to come in.

The metropolitan area went heavily for the white-haired Chippewa Falls senator, even including some of the suburbs generally held to be conservative Republican strongholds.

Wiley was censured by the GOP state convention in 1954 for his fight against the Bricker Amendment to limit the president's treaty-making powers.

Results from primary contests in seven other states included these:

Gov. J. Bracken Lee, who split the Utah GOP organization by criticizing Eisenhower policies, lost his bid for a third term nomination. Utah Republicans voted to try a political newcomer against the Democrats this November instead. He is George D. Clyde, Water and Power Board chairman who said he is "100 per cent behind President Eisenhower."

Charles F. Brannan, secretary of agriculture in the Truman administration, trailed John A. Carroll in the race for Democratic nomination for senator from Colorado. Unofficial returns from 1,667 of the state's 1,790 precincts gave Carroll 59,364 to Brannan's 57,757. The winner will meet former Gov. Dan Thornton.

Primary voting continued Wednesday with Georgia Democrats deciding between two former governers as their choice to succeed the retiring Sen. Walter F. George. The rival contenders for the nomination, which is equivalent to election in Georgia, are Herman Talmadge, son of the late Gov. Eugene Talmadge, and Melvin E. Thompson.

The Eisenhower administration adopted a hands-off policy in the Wisconsin race and let Wiley and Davis slug it out.

Other results from Tuesday's balloting:

WASHINGTON — Democratic Sen. Warren G. Magnuson ran well ahead of Republican Gov. Arthur B. Langlie in a senatorial "popularity" contest with voters of both parties being free to ballot for either man. With nearly half the precincts tabulated the count was: Magnuson 189,852; Langlie 124,757. The two meet in November for a final decision.

MINNESOTA — The Republicans polled 204,085 votes against 188,431 for the Democratic-Farmer-Labor party in what was described as a test of strength between the two parties.

ARIZONA — Sen. Carl Hayden easily won Democratic renomination. Republicans chose Ross F. Jones, former state attorney general, to oppose him.

NEW HAMPSHIRE — Sen. Norris Cotton, Gov. Lane Dwinell and Reps. Merror and Bass all renominated by Republicans. There were no statewide Democratic contests in New Hampshire.

In other words, he had a devil of a time with the angel food pan.

Blast Demo Farm Plan As '$5.4 Billion Dole'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson said Wednesday night a Brannan Plan farm program—which he said Democrats endorsed at their recent Chicago convention—would cost the government $5.4 billion a year.

Such a program, he added, would reduce farmers to a "government dole" and put them under controls that would constitute "rationing" of opportunities in agriculture.

Benson sharply criticized Democratic farm proposals in a speech at the 75th anniversary dinner of the Minneapolis Grain Exchange.

The GOP farm chief said the farm plank adopted by the Democrats presented no new or "forward-looking issues." Two of its most important provisions, he added, "have already been whipped — mandatory supports at 90 per cent of parity and the Brannan Plan."

Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices, declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

The Brannan Plan, advanced in 1949 by former Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan, would allow farm prices to seek their own level in the market with the Government making up the difference between the market price and the predetermined guarantee prices. This plan has been adopted for wool upon the recommendation of the Eisenhower Administration.

"We find that to assure prices for major agricultural commodities at 90 per cent of parity," said Benson, "not on everything the farmers might produce, but on only the 1951-55 volume of production, using the Brannan technique, would cost $5.4 billion a year."

Poll Ranks Peace Over Farm Income

DES MOINES (AP) — Wallaces' Farmer and Iowa Homestead magazine said Wednesday that a poll it took prior to the political conventions indicates that farm people regard prevention of war as a more important issue than farm income.

The publication said it asked farmers the following question:

"Farm income and prevention of war are two things being talked about in this campaign. Which of the two are you likely to think more about as you pick your presidential candidate?"

The magazine said 55 per cent replied "prevention of war," 24 per cent replied "farm income," and 21 per cent said they were undecided.

Committee Studies Iowa Fire Laws

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Fire Law Study Committee heard testimony Wednesday from a Department of Agriculture official that he would be glad to relinquish fire inspection duties to the fire marshal's office.

Iowa law requires that agriculture department inspectors make checks at hotels.

The committee, headed by State Fire Marshal Ed J. Herron, is analyzing all state fire laws and plans to recommend changes to the next legislature.

L. B. Liddy, head of the agriculture department's dairy and food division, told the committee his inspectors now have 31 laws to enforce and they would be glad to turn over the fire inspection duties at hotels to the fire marshal.

Packing Plant Claims Workers Slowing Down

SOUTH ST. PAUL (AP) — Work slowdowns were reported at the Swift and Armour packing plants here Wednesday, and officials of the United Packinghouse Workers of America said the condition stemmed from worker dissatisfaction about the slow progress of contract negotiations.

There was no strike. Full size crews were on the job but work was not being accomplished at its usual pace.

A. I. G. Valentine, manager of the Swift plant, said the day's production will be affected by what he described as a "general slowing down." The Armour plant manager was not available for comment.

St. Paul Union Stockyards Co. said the demand for all classes of livestock was sharply curtailed at the yards due to the labor difficulty. Livestock producers were advised to check with their selling agencies before moving any sizable shipments to market.

The UPWA and packers have been meeting in Chicago, negotiating on a national basis.

Leonard Lashond, financial secretary of UPWA Locals 160 and 167, which represent workers at Swift's, said members at a local meeting Tuesday night were advised by union leaders to "try to hang on" during negotiations.

However, Lashond said, the members were displeased with progress and Wednesday were "not doing the work as fast as they ordinarily do it." He said the slowdown was without sanction of the union.

A spokesman for Local 4, who works at Armour's, said similar dissatisfaction was voiced at a rank and file meeting Tuesday night.

Lead Again by 1 Tilt; Adcock, Bruton Leaders

BROOKLYN (AP)— Bill Bruton and Joe Adcock teamed up Wednesday to blast the Milwaukee Braves back into undisputed possession of first place in the hot National League race. Between them they batted in five of the runs the Braves needed to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers 8-7.

The last meeting of the season between the two contenders, played before 22,327 hysterical fans, was a see-saw free-for-all from which the ace starting pitchers, Lew Burdette of the Braves and Don Newcombe of the Dodgers, quickly departed. In all, the Dodgers used six pitchers and the Braves five.

Adcock hit his 37th home run of the year in the sixth with Eddie Matthews on base and tied a National League record for most home runs against one club in one season — 13.

Bruton, in addition to his game-winning single in the eighth that scored Adcock and broke a 7-7 tie, lashed a triple in the second that scored Adcock and Bobby Thomson.

Entering the game tied with the Dodgers, the Braves now are one full game ahead.

The Dodgers won Tuesday night to move into the tie with the Braves, and Wednesday's victory puts Milwaukee right back where it was before the two-game series started.

The lead kept changing hands throughout the game. Brooklyn got off with three runs in the first, Milwaukee came back with four, but Roy Campanella tied it up in the bottom of the second with a home run. Adcock's homer in the sixth put the Braves in front 6-4 and when Del Crandall lashed his 15th homer of the year in the seventh, it looked as if it were all over.

But the Dodgers came back with three in the bottom of the seventh, two scoring on Danny O'Connell's error on Sandy Amoros' grounder.

Then Bruton came up with his all-important scoring single in the eighth.

The Dodgers died hard. In the ninth with two out, Jackie Robinson singled to left, but Amoros could only hit a grounder that forced Robinson.

Bob Buhl was the winning pitcher, making his season's record 17-8. Eight of those victories were over the Dodgers, the third ever to beat Brooklyn that much in one season. Of the 22 games played by the two rivals for the 1956 pennant, Milwaukee won 12 and Brooklyn 10.

FRED HANEY, BRAVES' MANAGER, towels himself after one of the best showers he's had all year. Reason: His Milwaukee team squeezed by the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8-7, in the two teams' last meeting this year to put the Braves back in first place again by one game. The Dodgers had pulled even with the Braves Tuesday by defeating them, 4-2. Each of the teams has 15 games remaining to be played.

Braves Happy After 'Most Vital' Victory

BROOKLYN (AP) — The most important game of the year.

There wasn't a single member of the Milwaukee Braves who didn't think so as they tried to relax in the visiting clubhouse after eking out a spine-tingling 8-7 triumph over Brooklyn Wednesday — a victory that restored their one-game lead over the Dodgers in the National League.

"It was the toughest game I ever played in my life," said Joe Adcock, "but the most important we ever won."

It was Adcock that gave the Braves a 6-4 lead in the sixth with his two-run homer.

The Braves were a happy bunch who obviously were very proud of the tremendous uphill victory. The Dodgers had knocked starter Lew Burdette from the mound in the first inning to jump off to a quick 3-0 lead.

The happiest of the lot was Danny O'Connell, the little second baseman, whose seventh-inning muff of Sandy Amoros' routine ground ball allowed two Brooklyn runs to cross the plate.

"You'll never know what an awful feeling I had out there when I realized the ball had gone through my legs," he said. "If there was a hole in the ground, I'd have crawled into it. I kept thinking that I would be responsible for each of our guys losing $10,000 (possible World Series share)."

Giants 8, Reds 0

NEW YORK (AP) — The seventh-place New York Giants exploded two home runs behind the crafty three-hit shutout pitching of Johnny Antonelli to defeat Cincinnati 8-0 Wednesday and deal a heavy blow to the Redlegs' pennant hopes.

The loss put Cincinnati three full games off the torrid National League pace with only 15 left to play.

Jackie Brandt, substituting for the stellar Willie Mays in the Giants' centerfield, opened the game with a homer, and Daryl Spencer contributed an inside-the-park four-bagger in the fourth to score Bill White ahead of him.

$100 Fine For Thomson After Home Steal Try

BROOKLYN (AP) — Outfielder Bobby Thomson was fined $100 Wednesday by Manager Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves for trying to steal home against the Brooklyn Dodgers on his own.

Thomson walked in the eighth with the score tied 7-7 and Joe Adcock on first.

When Bill Bruton singled Adcock home with the winning run of the game, Thomson took third and Bruton went to second as Carl Furillo momentarily juggled the ball.

Del Crandall was purposely passed, and with Chuck Tanner batting for Bob Buhl, Thomson lit out for home. Roy Campanella tagged him out.

"He did it on his own and I have fined him $100," said Haney after the game.

"I don't know why Thomson tried it. I had a pinch hitter up there for the pitcher. What's the use of wasting a pinch hitter and a pitcher? I might have got another run."

Thomson admitted he made a bad play, but explained it this way:

"I was half way down the line and the pitcher (Roger Craig) hadn't looked at me yet. He was slow winding up. So I kept going."

Basilio Again Welter King; Whips Saxton

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Carmen Basilio split Johnny Saxton's lip and raked his body and head with wicked punches Wednesday night to recapture the world welterweight title on a technical knockout in 1:31 of the ninth round of a bloody rout at War Memorial Auditorium.

The craggy-faced, ex-Marine from nearby Canastota knelt and blessed himself in midring after Referee Al Berl stopped the uneven struggle with Saxton careening along the ropes near a neutral corner.

Tears flowed from Carmen's eyes as he tasted ample revenge for the loss of his title at Chicago last March 14 when he claimed he was "robbed."

It was a one-sided bout, with all three officials scoring it 7-1 in favor of Basilio after eight rounds, each giving the second to the 26-year-old New Yorker.

A long right to the jaw staggered Saxton at the one-minute mark of the ninth and he almost went down, grabbing weakly at the top strand of the ropes in glassy-eyed retreat.

When Saxton finally escaped from that onslaught, he ran head on into another furious storm as Basilio chased him into the opposite neutral corner. Saxton gave way and was staggering along the ropes in the direction of Basilio's corner when referee Berl stepped between them.

Hawks Stop Indiana Plays—Against Subs

By JACK HOLS
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

Iowa's football squad took a look at Indian's plays Wednesday with red-shirted reserves as proxy for the Hoosiers.

It was hoped around the Hawkeye camp that the failure of Indiana's manuevers as used by the reserves was an omen of things to follow on September 29, when Iowa meets Indiana for real. Because the Iowa "whites" completely squelched them.

The first two Hawkeye teams defensed the Indiana plays in the afternoon practice, then reversed the setup and ran their own plays against the reserves.

On offense, however, the alternating first two teams were sometimes good, sometimes bad, and in the main it was the second team which had the best day.

Fullback Marion Walker, who replaced Fred Harris in the second backfield, after the latter was mildly shaken up, made long gains up the middle, several of which were easily touchdowns. Right half Kevin Furlong was also a consistent ground gainer with several long, twisting runs, and quarterback Randy Duncan hit on several long passes.

For the first team, quarterback Ken Ploen was a real triple-threat with long runs and accurate passing. Ploen is also a punter and place kicker.

Frank Bloomquist, regular left guard who was recently discharged from the hospital, where he was treated for an infected leg, missed Wednesday's scrimmage, but participated in other drills.

Also suited up, but missing scrimmage, were Bill Gravel, left half, and Jeff Langston, left end, both second teamers. Both are suffering from what Iowa trainers call "pointers," a bruise of the muscle on the side, just above the hip.

Big Ten Roundup

Indiana—

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Injuries forced cancellation of a scheduled scrimmage session for Indiana's football squad Wednesday.

Michigan State

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Coach Duffy Daugherty Wednesday experimented with a changed Michigan State backfield as he hedged against the possible loss of halfback Walt Kowalczyk for the opener at Stanford Sept. 29.

With Kowalczyk out with a severe ankle sprain, Daugherty shifted Clarence Peaks from left to right half and used Dennis Mendyk at left half.

Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Jim Brown, sophomore end from Mendota, Ill., was declared ineligible Wednesday, weakening a position Illini Coach Ray Eliot has described as one of his 1956 problems.

Michigan—

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Star end Ron Kramer was knocked out going down under a punt in rugged workouts in 85-degree weather at Michigan Wednesday. Kramer recovered in a few minutes and resumed action, apparently none the worse for wear.

Purdue—

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's football squad worked on perfection of pass patterns Wednesday with Len Dawson doing the bulk of the throwing.

Indians Defeat Orioles, 2-1—

A's First Victory over Yanks, 7-4

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The inevitable happened Wednesday night when the Kansas City Athletics defeated the New York Yankees, 7-4, for their first victory over the league leaders here this season.

Louis Skizas and Eddie Robinson hit home runs to account for five of the A's runs.

Three home runs in the game, including a leadoff clout by Hank Bauer for New York broke the American League home run record for one season, 974-973. The mark was set in 1950.

Wally Burnette got the honor of notching the Municipal Stadium victory over the Yankees after they had won nine straight here. It was his fourth victory against eight losses.

Tom Sturdivant took the loss, his eighth against 14 victories.

Burnette pitched six scoreless innings in relief of starter Bill Harrington and gave up only four hits.

The Athletics lit into Sturdivant early. Skizas' homer with two out in the first ignited a three-run cluster.

Early Wynn
Gets 17th Victory

Tribe 2, Orioles 1

CLEVELAND (AP) — Early Wynn pitched a seven-hitter and clouted a home run to give the Cleveland Indians a 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night.

Wynn needed help in the ninth from Don Mossi, who came in with the bases loaded and one out and retired the last two batters.

Baltimore had scored in the fourth when Dick Williams singled, was sacrificed to second, and came in on a single by George Kell.

Tigers 3, Nats 2

DETROIT (AP) — Rookie third baseman Harmon Killebrew bobbled Harvey Kuenn's bouncer with the bases loaded in the ninth inning Wednesday and enabled the Detroit Tigers to defeat the Washington Senator 3-2.

The Tigers, winning their sixth in a row, had filled the bases off reliefer Camilio Pascual with a pair of walks around an infield single. Pascual took the loss, his 16th against 6 victories.

CHICAGO (AP) — Boston's Red Sox ousted the Chicago White Sox from third place in the American League Wednesday by whipping the Chicagoans for the 14th time in 21 games, this time 4-1. They now lead them by half a game.

Frank Sullivan held the White Sox to five hits and one unearned run for his 13th victory. His mates supported him with an 11-hit attack against Jack Harshman featuring Jackie Jensen's solo home run in the eighth.

Billy Goodman, Red Sox second baseman, suffered a strained tendon in his right knee in the first inning and will be lost to the club for a week. He was injured while running to third on Harshman's wild throw on a sacrifice bunt by Billy Klaus.

Kelly To Lead U.S. Team Despite Health

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jim Kelly, U.S. Olympic track and field coach, indicated Wednesday he intends to lead the American team in the international games this fall despite two heart attacks in the last four months.

The Minnesota track coach is resting at his home following his discharge from University Hospitals last week.

He was first stricken last spring and required hospitalization for four weks. He suffered a mild attack again in August and was confined 2½ weeks.
