FBI Enters Clinton Race Fight

Woman Shot For Honoring Hungary Dead

BULLETIN
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld said Tuesday night he had arranged for a representative to leave for a 10-day visit to Budapest starting next Sunday. He added that he himself wanted to go there a week later for a 3-day visit starting Dec. 16.

BUDAPEST (AP) — Russian gunfire wounded a Hungarian woman Tuesday at a spontaneous demonstration by about 15,000 women in honor of their rebel dead.

Several shots cut short one argument as the women, many weeping, braved Russian armored cars and sub-machine guns to insist on their right to lay flowers on the white stone tomb of Hungary's unknown soldier in Heroes Square.

The three-hour demonstration, moving in its simplicity, significantly came just a month after the Russians touched off the lightning warfare which crushed the Hungarian movement for freedom from Moscow.

Witnesses said a Soviet officer drew his pistol when one group of women — seeking to lay their nationalist red, white and green bouquets on the tomb — angrily protested efforts to turn them back.

The women ran, but Russian soldiers fired a few shots and one fell with a leg wound. She was treated at a hospital, where the injury was described as not serious.

At that time women had been streaming toward the modest monument for more than two hours. Witnesses estimated 5,000 gathered in the square and 10,000 others were massed in streets leading to the square.

The demonstration served as another reminder to the Russians and Premier Janos Kadar's government that the spirit of rebellion against Communist dictatorship still smolders.

Witnesses said the Russians seemed uneasy over their task of controlling the unarmed throng. In some cases, Hungarian army officers and police intervened and tried to mediate. Some collected flowers and carried them to the monument.

Bowl Ticket Requests Still Pouring In
BY PAT PETERSEN
The SUI Athletic Department ticket office received another bag of mail Tuesday. This brings the total to seven bags since Monday, the opening day for the sale of Rose Bowl tickets to the general public.

There are approximately 10,000 letters in one of these bags. Francis L. (Buzz) Graham, SUI athletic business manager, has said that about 80 per cent of the ticket requests from the public will have to be returned.

It is not known when tickets will be sent out, as none have as yet been received from Rose Bowl authorities in Pasadena.

Oregon State College, Iowa's opponent in the Rose Bowl game, has received an allotment of slightly more than 40,000 tickets, in comparison with Iowa's slightly more than 14,000.

The number of tickets to be given to the Pacific Coast Conference and the Big Ten Conference was set at the annual meeting of Rose Bowl authorities.

Oregon State will not sell tickets to the general public. Ticket application blanks were sent to three classes of persons.

The first consideration goes to Oregon State students, who can purchase one ticket. Next consideration is given to members of the "Beaver" Club, which is comparable to Iowa's "I" Club.

Persons considered last are members of the Alumni Association, members of the Varsity "O" Letterman's Club, and faculty and staff.

In addition, parents of Oregon State students can purchase two tickets.

PARKING PAYS
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — When Earl E. Wheeler of Madison dropped a penny in a downtown parking meter it paid off like a slot machine. After his penny rang up 12 minutes of parking, the front dropped to the ground and 50 pennies rolled out.

Britain Asks Help With Suez Expense

LONDON (AP) — The Eden government asked the United States Tuesday to forget about $82 million in interest coming due this month — in effect, to share the price of the Egyptian invasion.

The object, the government explained, is to try to save the integrity of the pound sterling, British currency, and keep it from a devaluation that would affect much of the world.

Britons themselves were told to brace for a dose of austerity. The government put the nation on notice that income taxes — already the highest in the world — might be increased, and last-ditch dollar securities might have to be sold to keep the country in the black.

It raised the price of gasoline by 20 cents to a record 90 cents a gallon.

These announcements by Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan came against a background of mounting Conservative rebelliousness against the leadership of Prime Minister Eden, resting under doctor orders in Jamaica.

Macmillan's measures for a back-to-the-wall fight to preserve the value of Britain's money stunned the House of Commons.

The gold-dollar reserves of the British-sterling area slumped by 273 million dollars during November while the Suez Canal and the flow of Mideast oil to Europe were disrupted.

The reserves fell down to $1.965,000,000—below the two-billion-dollar mark which some economists regard as the danger-point for the safety of the pound. Some government treasury experts are not so pessimistic.

As a result the United States is being asked to forgive $81,300,000 interest due Dec. 31 on two debts — a 3½-billion loan made in 1945, and a 600-million-dollar settlement of lend-lease. The interest is at 2 per cent.

Canada is being asked to forget $22,200,000 interest of its loan to Britain, and will do whatever United States decides.

Britain will make principal payments totaling 71½ millions to cut the loans.

Britain is ready, if necessary, to sell its American dollar securities, worth between 750 million and a billion dollars, as a last-ditch means to reinforce this country's reserves.

Britain raised the import duties on gasoline and other petroleum products by 14 cents a gallon to make up for the loss of revenue which will be caused by rationing.

Sum total of the government's plans to beat the developing economic crisis undoubtedly means belt-tightening for most Britons.

Oil and gasoline rationing already has cut the demand for automobiles.

The transportation system seems certain to slow down. That, coupled with fuel rationing in the factories, spells fewer exports at a time when the British are struggling to maintain their overseas markets.

Herky Low on Dough, To Bowl May Not Go

Herky the Hawk's chances of getting an "in the feather" appearance at the Rose Bowl game New Year's Day are very doubtful, Dick Spring, A3, Madrid, president of the Hawk-I Pep Club, said.

The frisky hawk, SUI's live mascot who has turned his fierce gaze this year on one of Iowa's best football teams, has two tough defenders to by-pass on his run towards the Rose Bowl game, and so far he has picked up no blockers.

One of the obstacles Herky must overcome is finances. Spring reported that a sponsor is needed to finance Herky's trip to Pasadena.

The other obstacle confronting Herky is a California law that prevents admission of plants and animals into the state. An exception probably would be taken in

Madam Millie reigns in a converted bakery. Most of the display counters are still there but they're hidden by red, green, yellow and blue tapestries.

She implied that Iowa will win the Rose Bowl game. ("I won't tell you," said Millie, "how the team will do, but you'll come out all right.") Well, I put $2 on Iowa by 12 points, and if I come out all right — so does Iowa.

Millie says she doesn't mess with athletic contests or contro-

versary. "Too much racketeers mess with those," she explained.

"I'm not gonna say that I can tell who's gonna win a game or if I can't. I just don't comment on wars, when you're gonna be drafted or any of that government stuff."

"But it's all in the palm, just the same," she added quickly.

My palm shows a bunch of things. In addition to having children, she told me later, I'm going to get married (only once during this life, she said mysteriously.)

But, I'm not going to be married until I finish my fine education. (My girl is going to be surprised when she hears this. She thinks I'm going to marry her later this month, but Millie and I know different.)

I mustn't ever goef when my one opportunity comes along. It is going to come just once — my heart line shows this. But if I do miss the opportunity, I won't be too unhappy. I'll have a big house and a new car — Millie guaranteed this.

My life line, besides cutting off during that fatal 68th year, tells Millie (who translates to me) that I am surrounded by many talented people who will help me to succeed.

Another line, which I erased after I departed, says I never mix business with pleasure. This, she said, means I will go further in life.

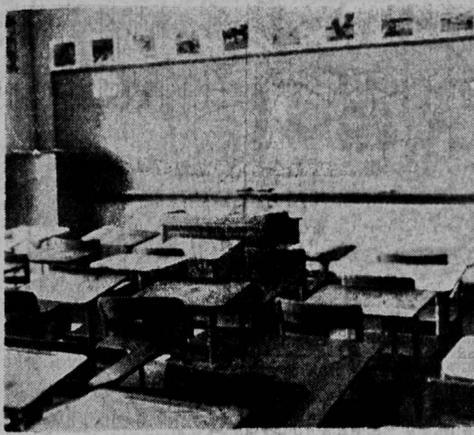

Millie is a slightly chubby, pretty woman in her late 30s. Her husband, she said, works here in town. She has been reading palms through Iowa for the past year. Before that, she says, she read palms in the east.

A native of Toledo, Ohio, she is as serious about her profession as any professional person. And she likens her job to a physician's duties.

"Some doctors is fakes ain't they? Well, some palm readers is the same."

She says she is a native American but is of Greek and Italian descent.

NORMALLY THIS CLINTON High School classroom would have been filled at 2 p.m. when this picture was taken Tuesday. But the Anderson County school board closed the school because of racial incidents.

Patrol Car, Truck Collide

Patrolman J. A. Bertramson, Iowa City, of the Iowa Highway Patrol suffered a fractured arm and minor cuts and bruises when the patrol car he was driving struck the rear of a semi-trailer truck just east of the Iowa City limits at about 9:20 p.m. Tuesday.

Lt. Leonard Sims of the Highway Patrol said that Bertramson, on duty, was traveling east of Highway 6 when he collided with the truck that was pulling onto the highway. It was raining at the time and Sims said visibility was poor.

Bertramson was taken to Mercy Hospital and treated for his injuries.

The driver of the truck, Earl Nelson, 60, Newton, received no apparent injuries, but complained of a pain in his right side, Sims said.

The driver was held at Mercy Hospital for a checkup.

Sims said that the car in which Bertramson was traveling was "just junk" and beyond repair. The truck was scarcely damaged.

Official Condemns 'Unsafe' City Hall
The Iowa City City Hall has been condemned by the city health officer.

Dr. Stephen C. Ware described the building as unsafe and a fire hazard. Ware said he was obligated to condemn the city hall so that "the voting public may take corrective action."

"An adequate building for the City Health, Police, Fire and Engineering departments and offices for the city officers, with the necessary clerical space, needs to be built," Ware said.

Iowa Citizens have twice turned down efforts to build a new City Hall. In 1954, a bond issue for a new Hall missed approval by eight per cent of the 60 per cent majority required by law.

Again in 1956, a second bond vote to construct a combined City Hall and recreation center was also defeated but by a much greater margin.

Ware, in his semi-annual report, also cited the need for a city nurse.

"Work is now being done by the Visiting Nurses Association (VNA) which, in my opinion, is properly the responsibility of the city," Ware said. He added that the employment of a nurse might be done in conjunction with the VNA.

Board Discusses Low Teacher Pay

Low teacher salary scales in relation to Iowa and other state school systems was discussed at the special meeting of the Iowa City Board of Education Tuesday night.

Complaints about the policy of allowing only one-half credit for previous teaching experience and the lack of proper financial incentive to work for advanced degrees were among other problems discussed.

School Superintendent Buford Garner described the trouble he has had in trying to recruit teachers for current vacancies in the school system. Prospective teachers "just laugh" when I get around to salary, he said.

Teacher interest in the problem was reflected by the many—40—teachers at the meeting.

Recommendations to ease the rapid Iowa City teacher turnover problem were scheduled for consideration at the Dec. 11 meeting.

The school board voted to shift the Christmas vacation to coincide with the SUI schedule. School vacation will start Dec. 20 rather than Dec. 18, and will not end until Jan. 7, instead of the original Jan. 3 date.

The required canvassing of the recent school bond election ballots shows a total of 3,418 "yes," 2,589 "no," with 37 spoiled. The bond issue failed by 208 votes, falling only 3½ per cent short of the required 66 two-thirds per cent of the votes cast.

The Weather
Cloudy and Warm

The weather prediction for today calls for temperatures to reach 46 degrees by noon. The sky will remain partly cloudy today and there may be snow later this evening when the mercury dips below freezing.

U.S. Attorney Asks Arrest in Outbreak

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP) — U.S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford said Tuesday night he has asked Federal Judge Robert L. Taylor to order "the arrest of certain parties" in a new outbreak of violence which brought the closing of Clinton High School Tuesday.

Judge Taylor said he probably will "act upon the matter some time tomorrow."

The statement followed a conference by Crawford and several Clinton citizens and officials in Judge Taylor's offices at Knoxville 20 miles to the southeast.

The group reported to the judge on Tuesday's disturbances which were climaxed by an attack on the Rev. Paul Turner, 33, pastor of Clinton's First Baptist Church, after he escorted six Negro pupils to school through a jeering crowd of bystanders.

Crawford said he had "presented certain testimony showing, in my opinion a violation of the injunction Judge Taylor made permanent Sept. 6, 1956." He refused to identify the "certain parties."

The injunction prohibits anybody in Anderson County from doing anything which might tend to cause interference with peaceful integration of Clinton High School according to his previous desegregation order.

R. C. Crosson, chairman of the Anderson County School Board said the school was ordered closed as a precautionary measure because "of racial incidents inside and outside the school" in recent days, and would remain closed "until further notice."

Turner suffered a bloody nose and minor facial injuries a few minutes after he walked to school with six Negro students returning to class after a week's absence.

Police arrested one of his assailants, Clyde Cook, 35-year-old Anderson County farmer, and held him for federal authorities.

An attorney for the school board, Buford Lewallen, said he would seek to have Cook declared in contempt of court for violating a federal court order against interfering with peaceful integration of the school.

Cook was identified as one of the men who recently signed a $10,000 bond for John Kasper, Washington, D.C., segregationist, on charges of violating the same injunction. Kasper, who appealed, was arrested Tuesday at Fairfax, Va., several hundred miles away, on a charge of reckless driving.

He said he was en route from Clinton to Washington.

In Nashville, both the Governor's office and State Safety Commissioner G. Hilton Butler said they were watching developments closely.

Butler commands the State Highway Patrol which was sent to Clinton to help quell integration disturbances last Labor Day weekend, when the mixed classes first opened. The patrol and National Guardsmen soon restored order and Clinton remained quiet until about a week ago.

Twelve Negroes enrolled at the start of the fall term. Two dropped out of school later and one has been ill for several days. The remaining nine stayed away from classes several days last week after reporting abuse from the other students. Six of them returned to school with the Rev. Mr. Turner Tuesday morning.

The school board appealed Monday to U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell for help in enforcing the segregation order issued in Knoxville last Jan. 4 by Federal Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor.

Students May Get Tax Cut: Schwengel

By JOHN BLEAKLY
Rep. Fred Schwengel (R-Ia.) may introduce a bill in the next session of Congress to increase income tax deductions for college students.

Schwengel, in Iowa City Tuesday as part of a 12-county tour of the First Congressional District, said a faculty-student committee at SUI is presently doing research on the proposed bill.

The committee, headed by Prof. Russell Ross of the SUI Political Science Department, is also working on a bill that would offer more favorable tax standards to small businesses.

During his tour, Schwengel talked with many farmers of both parties.

"Most of the farmers supported the Administration's farm policies," he said.

"Some felt there could be improvements in the soil bank plan and others would like a more equitable arrangement for purchasing grain from the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC)."

Schwengel explained that farmers who go together and purchase an entire crib of grain from the CCC want to buy it for the same price as grain elevators do. At present they pay more.

Throughout his 12-county tour, Schwengel said voters expressed concern over the Middle East crisis and the threat of war.

Schwengel plans to introduce a bill in the House that would establish a rotation system for the selection of pages by Representatives.

As the system operates now, the senior Representatives from the majority party select pages. Consequently there are far more pages from the southern states than northern ones, Schwengel said.

DOUBLE STEAL
DENVER (AP) — Police decided to stop a truck after seeing what it was loaded with and who was driving. The driver was a 15-year-old boy. The cargo was 176 cases of beer. The boy admitted he and two friends stole the truck.

Judge Asks Inquiry After Pastor Beaten

BULLETIN
CLINTON, Tenn. (AP) — Clinton voters handed segregationists a 4-1 slap at the polls Tuesday.

The election returns showing an overwhelming defeat of candidates endorsed by the White Citizens Council were announced in the quietly tense town. The Council opposes integration.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Brownell said Tuesday night the FBI is investigating the situation at Clinton, Tenn., where the high school was closed Tuesday after the beating of a white minister who accompanied Negro students to the school.

Brownell said the inquiry was requested by U.S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor, Knoxville, who last January ordered racial integration at the school. Taylor later enjoined anyone from interfering with peaceful desegregation.

The attorney general said the objective of the current investigation is to bring before the Knoxville court "on the proper process all persons who may have willfully violated the order of the court."

This would involve contempt proceedings, with penalties resting solely within the discretion of the court.

Brownell transmitted this information to the Anderson County Board of Education at Clinton a few hours after receiving an appeal from the board for federal assistance in enforcing the integration order.

In addition to prospective contempt proceedings, Brownell said in a telegram to the board:

"The department will also institute any additional proceedings that may become necessary in the future in order to secure observance of the court's order and to protect those who obey it from interference."

"The Department of Justice has a duty to assist the federal courts by apprehending and prosecuting those responsible for willful violation of court orders and the department will continue to discharge this duty."

The telegram took note of an appeal for federal protection of Negro children who reportedly were subjected to abuses by fellow students before the school was closed.

Of this, Brownell said, "they are entitled to protection from the kind of treatment described in your letter."

However, he added, "the primary responsibility for keeping law and order and providing such protection rests upon state and local authorities rather than upon the federal government."

Brownell said that Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement said in September that state and local law enforcement agencies were capable of handling the situation "and that he desired no federal intervention."

"I am confident he is still of the same view and that the State of Tennessee is capable of handling any situation which now exists or may arise in Clinton in the future as a result of desegregation in the public schools," Brownell said.

SUI Students Can Offer Seating Plans To Council Tonight

SUI students who have suggestions for improving the present football seating plan will have a chance to make their views known tonight at 8 p.m. in the Pentacrest Room of the Iowa Memorial Union.

The occasion is the first meeting of the SUI Student Council's special football seating commission which was formed three weeks ago.

The committee will consider suggestions offered by students for improvement of student grid seating facilities and present a modification of the present plan to the Athletic Department sometime in January.

A check of the three committee members Tuesday revealed that no written suggestions had been received by the group.

The committee had requested that students interested in modification of the present seating plan submit written recommendations.

Petitions circulated by a group of engineering students may be presented to the committee tonight.

They requested the re-location of the student section so that it would extend from the north 25-yard line to the south 25-yard line.

You've Got To Hand It to Millie When Dealing in Futures

By JIM FLANSBURG
Daily Iowan Futures Analyst
I'm going to be happy and prosperous. Millie said so.

I'm going to live 'til my 68th year. Millie told me so.

I'm going to have five children — my palm shows it.

Millie is a palmist. She's professionally known as Madam Millie, legally known as Millie Stanton.

She invaded Iowa City last month, guaranteeing to read lives — past, present and future (for cash).

Madam Millie reigns in a converted bakery. Most of the display counters are still there but they're hidden by red, green, yellow and blue tapestries.

She implied that Iowa will win the Rose Bowl game. ("I won't tell you," said Millie, "how the team will do, but you'll come out all right.") Well, I put $2 on Iowa by 12 points, and if I come out all right — so does Iowa.

Millie says she doesn't mess with athletic contests or contro-

versary. "Too much racketeers mess with those," she explained.

"I'm not gonna say that I can tell who's gonna win a game or if I can't. I just don't comment on wars, when you're gonna be drafted or any of that government stuff."

"But it's all in the palm, just the same," she added quickly.

My palm shows a bunch of things. In addition to having children, she told me later, I'm going to get married (only once during this life, she said mysteriously.)

But, I'm not going to be married until I finish my fine education. (My girl is going to be surprised when she hears this. She thinks I'm going to marry her later this month, but Millie and I know different.)

I mustn't ever goef when my one opportunity comes along. It is going to come just once — my heart line shows this. But if I do miss the opportunity, I won't be too unhappy. I'll have a big house and a new car — Millie guaranteed this.

My life line, besides cutting off during that fatal 68th year, tells Millie (who translates to me) that I am surrounded by many talented people who will help me to succeed.

Another line, which I erased after I departed, says I never mix business with pleasure. This, she said, means I will go further in life.

Millie is a slightly chubby, pretty woman in her late 30s. Her husband, she said, works here in town. She has been reading palms through Iowa for the past year. Before that, she says, she read palms in the east.

A native of Toledo, Ohio, she is as serious about her profession as any professional person. And she likens her job to a physician's duties.

"Some doctors is fakes ain't they? Well, some palm readers is the same."

She says she is a native American but is of Greek and Italian descent.

Palmistry is a gift, she points out. "You can't learn it." But, she said, there is a book on palmistry if I want to know more about the "art."

Millie sometimes acts as a marriage counselor. Other times, if the hand shows it (and the hand shows all), she finds lost billfolds and children for her customers.

She plans to stay in Iowa City as long as she can make a living here — probably about a year, she said. (Police license records, however, indicate she is licensed to read palms until Jan. 1. The license costs $2 a day.)

Millie's reception room contains two tables, six chairs (two red, one green, one yellow, two brown) three anemic plants and two neon signs. The person waiting for Millie's services feels as if he is waiting in the middle of the street.

When I took this assignment I didn't know Millie's place was a former bakery — complete with plate glass show windows. In the reception room, there is no place to hide. An actual count concluded that five raised-eyebrow friends of mine ignored my (for lack-of-a-better-thing to do) waving as they passed.

The reception room, with its multicolored tapestries and faded purple rug on a green linoleum floor, is filled with the constant blaring of a radio. Millie didn't say it, but the radio probably insures her customer's privacy.

You can't hear Millie read palms over the static and alleged music. I tried.

Millie's reading room is a small (5 by 6 feet) cubicle behind a partition. Two chairs, a cloth-covered nail keg and a beat-up Bible are its furnishings.

"Put $2 in your hand and make a wish," Millie told me.

Not taking any chances, I wished for as many wishes as I wished.

"Now," Millie said, taking my $2, "bless your hand where the wish was." Still not taking any chances, I did.

Then she started. Talking in clipped, speedy sentences, she stopped only to question me: "You understand me?" I didn't, but I noded anyway.

Finally, she stopped and told me to ask any three questions. The Rose Bowl was first. Why is my girl usually mad at me, was the second. (Still taking no chances.) What time is it, was the third.

Millie answered the last one perfectly. She only had to glance at a large clock with insurance advertising on its face to get the answer.

Millie says business in Iowa City isn't too bad.

There was no lack of customers during my half-hour with Millie. A bell on the door would sound the entrance of another customer.

Hardly hesitating in the reading, Millie told me so — all for $2. She should have read her own palm when I walked in. It took her 10 minutes — and lost me five friends.

intelligent, hard-working success. So now I'm a happy, prosperous, Millie old me so — all for $2. And I'm going to win my $2 back after the Rose Bowl.

The Daily Iowan

The Daily Iowan is an independent daily newspaper, written and edited by students. It is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the university.

The Iowan editorial staff writes its editorials without censorship by administration or faculty. The Iowan's editorial policy, therefore, is not necessarily an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion.

Seats for Council Members

The Student Council members didn't have to get up early and stand in line this fall to get good seats at SUI football games. The reason: they had a row of seats reserved for them directly behind the card section, just high enough up in the stadium to be considered the best seats in the house. The 21 seats in the row were rotated among the 19 Student Council members. Each member got two tickets, which he picked up before the game. Council members didn't have to get up early, stand in line with their girl friend or buddy and huddle around fires. They just walked in at their leisure and picked up their tickets.

NOW THIS RAISES several questions. Are council members privileged persons? What right do they have to get the best seats while other students must stand in line? Can the student body have confidence in their sincerity when they say they are working for a better seating plan? No matter what type of seating plan the students have the Student Council members have good seats for at least half of the games. This practice, according to SUI and student officials, has been going on for some time. Like the practice of giving state officials the best seats in the house at the expense of the students, a practice which went on for some time, it should be stopped. The SUI Athletic department should not permit the reserving of seats. The Student Council members should refuse to take such special privileges. It is hoped that the next Student Council will turn down reserved seats and take their places with the students in line.

Suez Aftermath

The closing of the Suez Canal has resulted in two things: 1. A severe oil shortage in Europe. 2. Great Britain and France can no longer represent the Western alliance in dealing with the Arab nations. During the recent war, between England, France, Israel and Egypt, 40 ships, big and small, were sunk in the canal. Experts say it will take from two and one half to six months to clear the canal for commercial traffic. And pipelines that carry Iraq's oil to Mediterranean ports have been cut in Syria. The net result: Europe has ceased to receive 70 percent of the Middle East oil she normally consumes.

THE PINCH has really hit Britain and France. Rationing, the first since the World War II, will begin Dec. 17. It will restrict Britain's 3,750,000 motorists to two gallons of gas per week. Heating in some apartment and office buildings has already been cut to three to four hours per day.

In France prices have soared, and production has been curtailed. Hoarders cleaned out grocery stores of soap, vegetable oils and sugar. And they ruined an attempt to impose voluntary gasoline rationing.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE took over the Suez by force to protect their "vital interests." It is rather ironic that it was their actions closed the Mideast waterway—An unfitting move for the desired results.

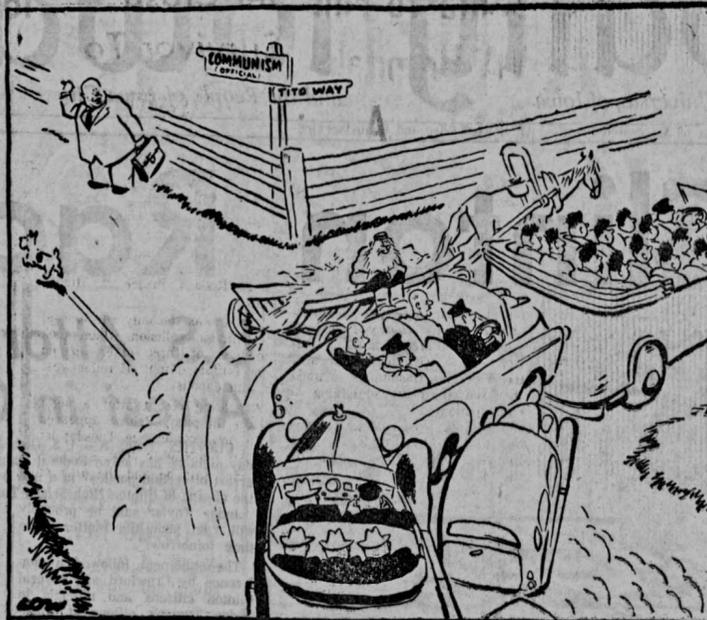

BRITISH and French prestige in the Arab world was low before their attack on Egypt. French forces have been active in trying to stamp out an independence movement in Algeria. And the uprisings and cries for unity with Greece by rebels on Cyprus have plagued the British.

After their intervention in Egypt the influence of Great Britain and France hit rock bottom. They can no longer speak for the Big Three in negotiations with the Arab bloc.

On the other hand, the United States, which turned to the United Nations in an attempt to secure a peaceful settlement in the Suez dispute, gained prestige and inherited new responsibilities.

The U.S. backed Nasser specifically, and the Arab world in general, by their stand on the dispute. The door is opened once again for possible U.S. assistance in building the Aswan high dam. But one thing is clear: The United States will do all the talking for the West in future dealings with the Arab nations.

THE CHANCES are good that the European members of the Western alliance will survive the oil crisis, with the aid of the United States. But it seems likely the U.S. will expect France and England to submit any future policy moves for backing and approval before action is taken.

Editorial Grab-bag Red Papers Quarrel; Times Asks UN Probe Of Egyptian Deportation of Jews

WE LEARN from Moscow press dispatches that Kommunist, the theoretical journal of the Soviet Communist Party, doesn't approve of the Daily Worker's editorial position on the events in Hungary. We haven't seen the full text of Kommunist's remarks but we are all for a fraternal exchange of views and a thrashing out of all differences; and when we get the full text of Kommunist's piece, we intend to study it.

But we don't think Kommunist's dismissal of our views as "babbling" comes under the heading of fraternal spirit; and we suggest Kommunist's editorial writer follow the advice of Pravda to Marshal Tito on the friendly tone required in such discussions.

As for Kommunist's opinion of our editorial position, its main criticism appears to be that we "equated" the invasion of Egypt with the use of Soviet troops in Hungary.

This is not so. LET US REPEAT exactly where we stand.

We have vigorously supported U.S. and Soviet moves against the imperialist invasion of Egypt. And we have warned the American people at the same time against attempts here to exploit the Hungarian crisis for purposes of reactionary intervention in that country and to fan the cold war.

To quote our Nov. 5th editorial, we have urged "the withdrawal of all troops from all countries to their own borders," and we pointed out that "as long as American military bases ring the globe, the cold war continues."

No, we do not "equate" the events in Hungary with the imperialist invasion of Egypt. But neither do we condone Soviet policies in Hungary or those of the Hungarian Communist Party. Our position has been that the main responsibility for the tragic events in Hungary lay with the Stalinist policies of repression and the violations of national sovereignty over the past eight years. We have stated that the cause of socialism demands the rapid implementation, already long overdue, of the various Soviet policy statements on these questions.

WE SEE the main job of the Daily Worker in this connection as one of opposing the efforts of reactionaries in our own country to promote the counter-revolutionary elements in the People's Democracies who seek, as in Hungary, to turn back the clock of history.

As for Kommunist, when the full text of its disagreement with us becomes available, we will print it. It would be good if Kommunist provided its own readers with the text of our Nov. 5th editorial and our present remarks. —COMMUNIST DAILY WORKER.

Hungary

The hard truth is that the heroism of the Hungarian people in the cause of freedom has not been matched by courage or determination or effectiveness on the part of the nations of the free world or on the part of the United Nations. It is difficult for any believer in freedom to sleep easily while this weight remains on our consciences. And each day's brave resistance in Hungary increases that weight. —NEW YORK TIMES.

Deportations

Despite an Egyptian denial, there is enough evidence now that Jews are being deported from Egypt—because they are Jews—to require United Nations intervention. All the facts must be ascertained impartially and from neutral sources. We must not apply any double standards of morality. If the reports of deportations of Hungarians from Hungary by the Russians could arouse such indignant efforts last week, the reports of deportations of Jews from Egypt equally deserve consideration.

This is an issue on which the United States government and the United Nations can demonstrate that they are not adopting a deliberate policy of supporting President Nasser of Egypt on all counts. If a wrong is being done, it should be recognized and denounced. —NEW YORK TIMES.

Quiet Tongues

Other members of congress will be wise if they follow the suggestion of Senator Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) that this is a good time for senators and representatives to hold their tongues with respect to the crisis in the Middle East.

It will be surprising if there is not room for hindsight criticism when and if the situation in the Middle East finally settles enough to permit leisurely study and review.

But for the present, at least, the major tasks call for day-to-day action and judgment to cope with each new turn of events.

Senator Morse made it clear that members of the foreign relations committees of the congress are being consulted by the administrative officials of the government. He said that all congressional and administrative officials who have a responsibility for the conduct of foreign affairs "are working in complete co-operation on the situation."

Irresponsible talk by other members of congress who are not participating directly in the decisions cannot contribute much to the solution of the Middle East problem. Because they are senators and representatives, however, their comments do draw more attention than those of ordinary citizens and are sometimes given more weight than they deserve in other parts of the world. —DES MOINES TRIBUNE.

Good Start

Governor-Elect Loveless got off to a flying start by naming an outstanding student of government as his administrative assistant.

Dr. Robert Johnson, who will succeed Paul Barker, in the highly important job, not only is an assistant professor of economics at the State University of Iowa (which will grant him a leave of absence, according to the governor elect) but he has a good insight into the inner workings of Iowa's government as a member of the state taxation study committee.

As a plain matter of practical politics Dr. Johnson should be a big help in bridging the gap between the incoming Democratic governor and the Republican legislature, especially in the area of tax legislation.

One of only two Democrats and one of only two non-legislators among the 12 members on the study committee. Dr. Johnson worked closely with his eleven fellow-members and they got to know him as it is only possible to know one you work with in a common project. Five legislators on the committee (four Republicans and one Democrat) will be back on the 1957 session and they can look to Dr. Johnson to help pave the way for smooth cooperation between the legislative and executive branches of government in enacting a more equitable tax program.

It may be a coincidence, but Dr. Johnson was appointed to the tax study committee by Governor Leo Hoegh, a Republican. His appointment by governor-elect Loveless, a Democrat, as his administrative assistant makes it quite evident that he is held in high regard by both parties.

If this is the caliber of appointments we can expect from Governor-elect Loveless, he should have a good administration. —CEDAR RAPIDS GAZETTE.

College Problem

There are now 159,000 people of college age in Iowa, and by 1970 there will be 242,000.

State supported and private colleges of Iowa are already bulging with students.

The per cent of high school students who go to college is steadily increasing.

There were 42,614 students enrolled in Iowa colleges and universities in 1955, and there will be 55,000 by 1965 and 72,000 by 1970.

These figures, assembled by the State Board of Regents, have been presented to Governor-elect Herschel Loveless as groundwork for requests for increased appropriations from the next legislature to increase physical plants of the University of Iowa, Iowa State College, and Iowa State Teacher's College.

It is pointed out that at these schools one out of three students now attends class before 8 a.m., during the noon hour, and between 4 and 6 p.m., and between 7 and 10 p.m. Present physical plants are being used just about up to limit.

Private colleges of Iowa are making heroic efforts to expand facilities to meet increased enrollment.

One of the principal problems of the next legislature, which will be under the heavy pressure to hold the line on taxation, will be to find funds to expand the three big state schools.

Past legislatures did not meet this problem head-on. The 1957 one will have to do it. —DAVENPORT DEMOCRAT.

Try and Stop Me

NEAR THE STRAND in London, where newspaper men congregate, a phonograph record with a staccato of typewriters clicking and presses rolling. Every time one of the noble and dedicated writing toffs calls up the wife to explain that he's detained at the office by war news and such he puts on the record for background music, happily pays the pub six pence for the service, and goes back to his gin and tonic — and a bit of fluff, perchance — with a perfectly clear conscience.

David Hulburd saw an unfortunate husband rendered hors de combat when his wife socked him on the head with a heavy glass lampshade.

Comments on Near, Middle, Far East

By GEORGE DIXON

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Russians issued an official announcement that they had set off a nuclear explosion. Two days later chairman Lewis L. Strauss, of the Atomic Energy Commission, came out with a carefully-worded release to the effect that an explosion somewhere in the Soviet Union had been "detected."

Ab, well, they're Strauss in the wind.

THE NATIONAL Geographic Society is more or less resigned to the fact that Americans aren't too strong on geography, nevertheless it winces every time it reads that Egypt and Israel are warring in the Middle East. The society had spent thousands of dollars trying to construct us that Turkey, Cyprus, Syria, Lebanon, Israel, Jordan, Iraq, Iran, and the countries of the Arabian peninsula are in the Near East.

It ascertains that the Middle East is India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Sikkim, and Ceylon — and that the Far East is China, Korea, Japan, the Philippines, Indochina, Thailand, Burma, Malaya and Indonesia.

THE SOCIETY does not intend to do any more about this than keep repeating it.

It doesn't intend to flunk anyone or keep anyone after school.

It has a long-established policy against getting excited, and it intends to cling to it as much as possible.

One of my newspaper colleagues witnessed a manifestation of this imperturbability recently. Mr. Walter Haight, who chronicles the achievements of racetracks for the Washington Post and Times Herald, was waiting to board a plane at National Airport when Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, chairman of the board of the society, joined him.

Mr. Haight takes it for granted that no one travels anywhere except to get to a racetrack. So he assured Dr. Grosvenor that if the plane got off reasonably on schedule they'd be in time to make the daily double. The noted geographer looked puzzled.

He pulled a pair of rimless pince nez from his pocket, stuck them precariously on his nose and studied the horse historian. Finally he said: "I doubt if we have the same destination. I am going to a university to receive an honorary degree."

Mr. Haight shuddered at the thought of a grown man thus frivolizing his time, but held his peace. By this time they had walked out onto the airport apron, and the propeller backwash whipped the spectacles from the historian's nose. They shattered to smithereens.

Mr. Haight's big heart was touched. "That's a shame, Doc," he sympathized. "Now you won't be able to read that chart — I mean diploma — when they hand it to you."

"Do not distress yourself," said Dr. Grosvenor. He reached into the same pocket and fished out an identical pair of nose glasses. When Mr. Haight stared pop-eyed, the geographer explained: "I'm always dropping them. I have spare pairs in every pocket." That ought to cinch the argument. A nearsighted man who's as farsighted as that ought to be able to tell the Near from the Middle East.

SECRETARY to the cabinet Max Rabb has just learned that his 13-year-old twin daughters, Sheila and Emily, unwittingly performed quite a campaign service for Ike. The information came from Publicist Robert J. Enders who said his 13-year-old daughter, Robin, went all over the neighborhood making a heartrending pitch for the President.

Young Miss Enders told perplexed parents of other 13-year-olds that life just wouldn't be worth living in the area any more if Ike were defeated. They asked why.

"Because," she declared, "the Rabb twins would have to go back home to Boston."

Scholastic Probation 2d High Last Spring

By CHARLES WALK

For the past six years an average of 12.7 per cent of all the students enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts have been on scholastic probation for at least one semester.

The second highest percentage of probations for one semester during this period was the 1956 spring semester. At that time 755, or 15.5 per cent, of the 4,848 students enrolled in the college were on probation.

The highest single percentage for one semester for this period was the first semester of 1950 when 16.3 per cent, or 703 of the 4,296 students then enrolled.

The lowest number of students on probation for any one semester during this period was 328, or 10.1 per cent, of the 3,230 enrolled for the second semester of the 1951-52 school year.

Students who fail to attain the following minimum semester and cumulative grade point averages are subject to probation: freshmen, 1.50; sophomores, 1.60; juniors, 1.70 and seniors, 1.80.

The drop in the number of persons placed on probation, and the drop in enrollment of over 1,000 during the period from 1950 to 1952, are two factors brought out by these figures.

One of the answers to these sudden drops might be the intervention of the United States in the Korean War.

M. L. Huit, Dean of Student Affairs, said, "There is a possibility that some of the boys who were having scholastic difficulties might have dropped out of school in order to enlist for the Korean War."

"Between the first semester of 1950 and the first semester of 1951 we lost around 300 boys who enlisted, Ted McCarrel, SUI Registrar, said. "Also the marked decrease in enrollment might be due to the fact that this was about the time that many of the World War II veterans lost their GI benefits."

McCarrel also agreed that more students dropped from school and enlisted than got drafted.

A student does not remain on probation for more than two semesters under normal procedure. If, at the end of two semesters the student is still on probation, he will not be allowed to register unless granted permission by the Adjustment Committee. No student will be allowed to remain in school after three semesters on probation.

D.M. Ministers Protest Howell Firing as 'Unjust'

DES MOINES — The Des Moines Area Ministerial Assn. Tuesday was the latest of about half a dozen local organizations to protest the action of the Des Moines City Council last week in firing City Manager Leonard G. Howell. The association said the manner of the dismissal was "unjust and indicated irresponsible leadership on the part of the council."

ANN MOSSBERG, a 19-year-old Pasadena City College freshman has been selected queen of the New Year's Day Tournament of Roses. She and six princesses, who were finalists in the queen competition, will reign over the 68th annual rose parade and occupy the royal box at the Rose Bowl football game. Miss Mossberg is 5 feet 7 inches tall, and weighs 127 pounds. She plans to be a teacher.

Santa To Find VA Hospital Patients Again

By MARILYN LYON

When an 83-year-old man saw Santa Claus passing the doorway to his room at Veteran's Administration Hospital at Christmas time last year, he hailed the old gent with a burst of profanity — his highest expression of emotion.

"I don't know how the hell you found me up here," he declared, "but I'm sure glad you did."

One of the biggest aims of those who plan Christmas activities at the Veteran's Hospital is to make the season mean something to each patient.

"Even an aspirin sets better on the right attitude," Elbert Beaver, chief of recreation for the V.A. hospital, said.

He emphasized that the Christmas activities are an important part of each patient's therapy.

Members of service and welfare organizations and other individuals will help make Christmas at the V.A. hospital a more pleasant and enjoyable time.

Special programs for entertainment of patients have been scheduled for the entire month of December.

"All those who are able to do home will be allowed to go home," Beaver said.

Traditionally patients are allowed to do their Christmas shopping free of charge at a Gift Shop set up by the American Legion Auxiliary.

A special highlight is expected to be the children's party sponsored by the hospital employees. All children of patients and hospital personnel are invited.

Patients will get an opportunity to play hosts to their friends and family at a social hour following dinner on Christmas day.

Poinsettias will decorate every room and each man will receive a gift box.

SUI students working with patients will paint the windows across the front of the hospital building with a Christmas scene.

Jet Crash Survivor To Fly Again

MINNEAPOLIS — An Air Force pilot who escaped with only minor bruises after a collision at 20,000 feet Monday with another jet plane said Tuesday it will not bother him to go right back to flying.

"These things happen — and there's nothing else to do," said 1st Lt. Rono A. Prince, 23, Miami, Fla.

Prince was the only survivor of the mid-air collision which took the lives of three other airmen near Buffalo, Minn., 35 miles west of Minneapolis.

Appearing rested after a night in the hospital, Prince appeared at a news conference Tuesday at the Air Force base here.

Prince said he and the pilot of the other plane, 2d Lt. Wayne L. Thompson, 23, Milwaukee, and their radar observers were on a routine practice scramble mission at the time of the collision.

"Thompson started to climb up toward me to practice an interception."

"He came up, going faster than I, and pulled up above me. As I watched him go over me, he started to come down all of a sudden." Prince said he shoved forward on the stick, "pushing it as far as I could."

"Then there was a terrific impact. My next sensation was the feeling of being thrown around. I was thrown free of the wreck."

Iowa Scouts to Meet at SUI

Iowa's first "Citizens Now" Conference for Explorer Scouts is expected to draw some 100 boys to SUI Friday through Sunday.

Loren Hickerson, SUI alumni secretary, will give the keynote address. The Explorer Scouts will also hear professors John E. McAdam and Carlton M. Singleton of the SUI College of Education and will attend the Iowa-University of Denver basketball game Dec. 8. They will also tour the University Campus.

New Center Hosts 1,500 First Month

In fulfilling its capacity as a center for international students, not only for foreign students but their American friends as well, the new International Center received more than 1,500 people during its first month of operation.

"Possibly more people have been in the house since it opened at the International Center, than were inside during its entire history as Shambaugh Guest House," Wallace Maner, foreign student advisor, said.

The purpose of the center is to furnish a place where foreign students may entertain, organize activities, and work together.

"People assume that foreign students are international students," Mrs. Wallace Maner, official hostess for the International Center, said.

"This is not necessarily true. If they become international students, it is through working together," she said.

The Festival of Lights presented by the students of India was one of the biggest projects of the first month.

In India every light in the entire country is lighted for the celebration. It is an occasion similar to the American Christmas Mrs. Maner explained.

Members of the Carleton College soccer team enjoyed the hospitality of International Center when they were invited to coffee before a soccer game with the foreign students.

The Carleton team wrote to the center inviting the foreign students to play. Special meetings were called to organize a team. Carleton won over the Internationals, two to one.

New foreign students were informed about social life as they would encounter it in the United States at orientation meetings this fall.

American students were oriented to when proctors from the men's dorms were invited to coffee at the International Center to learn how they might help foreign students enjoy their living quarters more.

The International Festival, sponsored by the Associated Students, is now dominating activities at the center. Meetings are being held almost every night to plan booths and entertainment.

The festival will be presented at the Iowa Memorial Union on December 16.

Road Group Plans 'Scholars' Exam

AMES — Approximately 120 members of the State Highway Commission's construction forces from throughout Iowa will take a qualifying examination here Thursday for the second class of "roads scholars."

The top 64 men in the exam will qualify for a 10-weeks course in surveying, beginning Jan. 14 under direction of the Iowa State College of Engineering Extension Service.

On successful completion of the course the men will be raised in rank from rodmen to junior instrument men.

They will get their salary, room and board, transportation and tuition while attending the school.

Woman Gets 3 Years For Drunken Driving

CRESTON — Mrs. Katie Belle Chase, Peru, Ia., has been sentenced to three years at the state women's reformatory after being convicted by a District Court jury of driving while intoxicated.

Court records showed Mrs. Chase had been convicted on the same charge twice in Kossuth County and once in Madison County under different names.

United States Has 490-452½ Point Advantage

U.S. Keeps Slim Lead over Russia

2 Teenagers Carry Yank Hopes Today

MELBOURNE (Wednesday) (AP)—The United States, its cascade of gold medals dwindling to a trickle, sends two teen-age swimming stars—Carin Cone and Shelley Mann—out after possible championships today to stem a late points rush by Russia in the fading stages of the Olympic games.

The U.S. has 490 points and Russia 452½ in the American style table. In medals won, the U.S. has 29 gold, 20 silver and 10 bronze.

The Russians have 20 gold, 20 silver and 23 bronze. Magnificent Pat Keller McCormick, queen of the world's diving boards, brought America another gold medal Tuesday night by winning the springboard competition for women—a title she won at Helsinki four years ago along with the platform crown.

Never missing a dive, the 26-year-old Lakewood, Calif., housewife coached by her airline navigator husband, won easily over Jeanne Stunyo of Gary, Ind., and Irene McDonald of Canada.

Mrs. McCormick, who says this is her last year of competition, may win another gold medal in high diving Friday.

In the only other final Tuesday night at the swimming stadium Australia's fantastic Murray Rose, a 17-year-old vegetarian who swims like a fish, won the men's 400-meters in 4:27.3, setting an Olympic record. America's George Breen was third in 4:32.5.

Miss Cone, 16-year-old high school whiz from Ridgewood, N. J., is conceded a good chance in the 100-meter backstroke finals although two British girls, Margaret Edwards and Judy Grinham, had slightly better qualifying times.

Versatile Miss Mann, 19, of Arlington, Va., is a stout favorite in the 100-meter butterfly after leading the qualifying trials in the record-shattering time of 1:11.4.

Meanwhile, preliminary diving begins in the men's platform competition with three Yanks expected to dominate—Gary Tobin and Bill Farrell, both of Los Angeles, and Dick Connor of Pasadena, Calif. Trials are scheduled in the men's 100-meter backstroke, 200-meter breaststroke and 1,500-meter freestyle, but there is only a faint hope of cooling off of the superbly conditioned red-hot Australians.

In other events, Russia can be expected to fatten its point total and push closer to America in the unofficial race for team honors. Soviet athletes continue to mop up in men's and women's gymnastics, an event in which the U.S. failed to score, and to add titles in shooting and wrestling.

With three more days of competition remaining, the U.S., which won 15 gold medals in men's track and field for the greatest victory in the history of the modern games, held only a slight lead over the Russians.

Jones Signs for 2d Canadian Year

WINNIPEG (AP)—Tackle Calvin (Cal) Jones has been signed to play another season with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union club officials announced Tuesday.

The 23-year-old former Iowa captain will be playing his second season with the Bombers.

He is the second American import signed so far. Halfback Bob McNamara of Minnesota was signed earlier.

Final Poll: OU 1st, Iowa 3d

NEW YORK (AP)—Displaced only twice during the season Oklahoma's Sooners finished on top in the final Associated Press poll to be rated the No. 1 college football team of 1956 for the second straight year. Iowa finished third, its highest position in history.

The high-geared Oklahomans, winners of 40 consecutive games, also were rated No. 1 in 1950, so their third such designation retires the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell Memorial Trophy, placed in competition by Notre Dame in honor of the former president of that institution.

The Sooners piled up 1,715 points in the vote of the 187 sports writers and broadcasters participating in the final poll. Unbeaten Tennessee was a good second with 1,618 points, and the Rose Bowl bound Iowa Hawkeyes third with 1,270, based on the system of 10 points for first, 9 for second, and on down to one point for 10th place.

Oklahoma, although pressed by Tennessee in the point totals, had a wide margin in first-place votes, being chosen for that spot in 104 ballots as the Vols were the top choice of 48 critics. Iowa received 15 first-place votes, Miami 12, and the remainder were scattered among five other teams.

The top teams with first place votes and won-lost records in parentheses:

Oklahoma	(104)	(10-0)	1,715
Tennessee	(48)	(10-0)	1,618
IOWA	(15)	(8-1)	1,270

15 Hungarians May Stay in Melbourne

MELBOURNE (AP)—Hungary's 160-man Olympic team, including many of the world's greatest athletes, held anxious conferences Tuesday to determine their future amid indications that 15 or more may seek asylum in Melbourne.

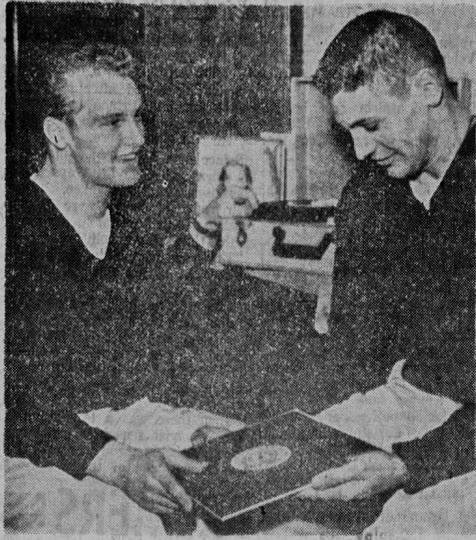

Sources close to the Hungarian team said probably 30 others and possibly as many of half of the entire team are waiting to get to Austria to find out what has happened to their families before deciding never to return to their homeland.

The goal of many Hungarians is the United States and access to America would probably be easier from Austria than from Australia. Australian immigration authorities are understood to be very sympathetic to the Hungarians' plight and willing to accept any who are not known Communist agents. At the same time they are desirous of having no embarrassing incidents until after the games close on Saturday.

Hornung Named Heisman Winner

NEW YORK (AP)—Paul Hornung Tuesday became the fifth Notre Dame player to be awarded the Heisman Trophy as the outstanding college football player of 1956.

The versatile Notre Dame quarterback was named the 22d winner of the trophy, given annually by the Downtown Athletic Club. The award was established in 1935 in honor of John Heisman, famed coach.

Hornung accumulated 1,066 points in the balloting conducted among 1,318 registered electors around the country. Only 33 points separated the first three choices.

Backfield star Johnny Majors of Tennessee was runnerup in the poll with 994 points and Tommy McDonald, speedy Oklahoma back, ranked third with 973.

Hornung joins such other Notre Dame luminaries as Angelo Bertelli (1943), Johnny Lujack (1947), Leon Hart (1949) and Johnny Lattner (1953) as the Heisman winner.

In his final collegiate season, Hornung led Notre Dame in rushing (94 carries for 420 yards); scoring (7 touchdowns, 14 extra points for 56); kickoff returns (16 for 496 yards); playing time (50 minute average).

Punts (33 for a 37.6 average); passing (59 completions out of 111 attempts for 917 yards and 3 touchdowns); and was second on the team in interceptions (2); tackles made (55) and punt returns (4 for 63 yards).

All told, 12 players, were listed in the poll. Oklahoma center Jerry Tubbs, ranked behind the first three with 724 points. Others receiving votes were Jimmy Brown, Syracuse, 561; Ron Kramer, Michigan, 518; John Brodie, Stanford, 281; Jim Parker, Ohio State, 246; Kenny Ploen, Iowa, 150; Jon Arnett, Southern California, 128; Joe Walston, Pittsburgh, 97 and Jim Swink, Texas Christian, 84.

Says 'Hold Ball' To Stop Chamberlain

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—This may come as a surprise to everybody, but Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain has room for improvement.

At least, that's the opinion of Waldo Fisher, veteran Northwestern basketball coach. He watched Chamberlain score 52 points Monday night as the University of Kansas defeated his Big Ten Wildcats—rated a title contender in the conference—87-69 at Lawrence, Kan.

Northwestern is the first team to face the seven-foot Negro star in collegiate competition, but Fisher has a bright note of hope for coaches of Kansas' other opponents this season.

"There's a way to defense him," he said. "Just hold the ball."

Fisher, a former star basketball player in the Big Ten, tabbed Chamberlain as "the greatest player I ever have seen on offense."

"Chamberlain is not the type of player you enjoy watching like Bill Russell former San Francisco All-American and current Olympic star. Russell was nearly perfection in action. He's not the strict shot that Russell is. But you can't stop him on shots off rebounds and high passes.

J Wins in Hillcrest Loop

Section Jay opened its season with a 36-24 victory over Section Eye in the Hillcrest Intramural Lightweight Basketball League as the men who weigh under 150 pounds took over the basketball scene.

Al Holmes hit four first half baskets and Merrill Runyan added five points to lead the winners to a 21-12 half time margin. Bill Fuhr and Tom Vincent each had two baskets for the losers at intermission.

Holmes added two baskets in the second half to lead the Section Jay scoring with 12 points. Runyan finished the evening with 11 points. Bob Davis was high scorer for the losers with eight points, six of them coming in the last half. Fuhr contributed seven to the futile attack.

Tell Public Education Facts: Editor

Citizens should know the facts on education, Don Morris, editor of "Better Schools" told 15 Iowan law representatives and educators in the final speech of the 2-day Governor's Lay Conference on Education in Iowa City Tuesday.

The problem that educators, legislators and the press face, Morris said, is to define the problems of education and inform the public.

One should never underestimate the intelligence of the people but also never overestimate their information on problems on which they are expected to take action as citizens, Morris said.

"Education is not as expensive as ignorance," he added.

The third conference, which started Monday, dealt mainly with problems of school district reorganization, bases for state and federal aid to local school districts and sources of revenue for schools.

Gov. Leo Hoegh and Prof. Robert H. Johnson, recently appointed executive assistant to governor-elect Herschel Loveless, addressed the conference Monday.

Both stressed the need for more and better education in Iowa and more efficiency in operating Iowa's public schools.

Group discussions on various educational topics and a panel discussion gave members of the conference opportunities to exchange ideas for future planning in education.

The conference was planned by the Iowa Council on Better Education.

Reds Ruin Christmas Spirit with Propaganda

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany has decided that Christmas recitations and plays there are to deal with "The Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy" and "Exploration of Outer Space," the West Berlin Evangelical newspaper Die Kirche reports.

The Communists also have decreed, it adds, that Santa Claus are to address children on the subject of "The Diligence of the Workers."

Hungarian Refugee To Come to Iowa

DES MOINES (AP) — A Hungarian refugee, the first to come to Iowa since the recent Hungarian rebellion began, was on his way to Keokuk from New York City Tuesday.

He is Steven Lesnyay, 27, mechanical draftsman from Budapest. He is under a blanket assurance given by the Lutheran Refugee Service for all refugees of Lutheran faith. He will be sponsored by his sister, Mrs. Bela Pusztai of Keokuk.

Mrs. Pusztai is employed in the office of the Keokuk Daily Gate City. Her husband is employed at Dryden Rubber plant in Keokuk. "It has been 10 years since we have seen my brother," Mrs. Pusztai said. "We just heard Sunday that he was coming. Of course we are very anxious to see him. He was just a boy when we last saw him."

Mrs. Pusztai said the family became separated during World War II, and spent several years in concentration camps.

Mrs. Pusztai said she knows no details of her brother's escape.

Farm Policies Topic of SUI Speech Meet

What agricultural policies will best serve all Americans will be the general problem of 300 speech students from 30 Iowa high schools Friday and Saturday at SUI.

With 25 per cent more speakers and 20 per cent more participating high schools than last year, the fifth annual High School Forensic Conference will open the 1956-57 season of the Iowa High School Forensic League, which will conclude with the State Finals at SUI in April.

They will discuss and "legislate," returning Old Capitol to its 1942-57 functions for the weekend. Many of the students will also take part in original oratory, extemporaneous speaking, and oral interpretation events.

2,000 Man Hours Spent on 'Finian' Sets

By MARGI HALL

Approximately 2,000 man hours were spent on the behind-the-scenes production of Finian's Rainbow—not including cast rehearsals.

Warren Hovious, G. El Paso, Tex., designed the sets for Finian's Rainbow.

Many things had to be known before he could begin work on the stage dimensions, use of a revolving stage and lighting effects.

He submitted preliminary designs in mid-October, before the opening of "Desperate Hours." A clay scale model was made from these designs. From this model, the necessary changes were made before the actual set building began.

Set construction is a practice laboratory for dramatic arts students. Accurate records can be made of time spent on such projects because each worker has to punch in and out on a time clock.

Hovious has had no previous experience in designing sets for plays. However he has worked in the SUI television studios designing sets for television productions.

Finian's Rainbow presented a problem for Hovious that isn't usually encountered in SUI productions: the play is a musical comedy, and choreography is used throughout. This meant that Hovious had to design the stage with an adequate amount of free space to allow room for the dancers.

"My students gain experience in designing by designing," Prof. A. E. Gillette, Director of University Theater, said.

Students have been designing sets for University productions for the past 20 years.

Any student who wishes to receive a Master's degree in Scenic Design may apply for the job of scenic designer to fulfill part of his requirement. The student designer is picked from a field of applicants by Gillette.

The set designer must work closely with the costume designer in order to avoid color clashes. He must also have a thorough knowledge of the play's actions so that his sets do not hinder the actors on the stage.

Gillette feels that having the designer see his sets on the stage and working with crews other than his own is by far the best experience.

Gillette came to SUI in 1931 after receiving his M.F.A. at Yale University. He has designed sets for many SUI productions since that time.

In 1935 Gillette received a Rockefeller grant in recognition for his work in set designing. He used this grant to study in 10 European countries.

SUI Seniors Get Murray Scholarships

Five SUI students were presented John F. Murray Scholarships of $500 each Tuesday by Allin W. Dakin, SUI administrative dean.

Award winners were: Rex Ryden, L4, Des Moines; David Foster, L4, Sheffield; Leroy Moland, A4, Kelley; David Wilsterman, C4, Marshalltown; and Nan Borreson, A4, Sheldon.

The scholarships in law, commerce, journalism and advertising and a memorial lecture are presented each year by the will of the late Mrs. Bessie Dutton Murray.

The fifth such lecture will be presented Thursday evening in Macbride Auditorium by Dean Edward S. Mason of the Harvard University graduate school of public administration.

Ryden is editor-in-chief of the Iowa Law Review, published quarterly by SUI law students. He has been president of Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Foster is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, has been president of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensics fraternity. He is an editor of the Iowa Law Review.

Moland has been recognized for outstanding work as an advertising salesman for the Daily Iowan and received a silver key award for service in journalism.

SET DESIGNING for "Finian's Rainbow," current SUI Theatre musical production, required special attention to the show's choreography and large cast. Approximately 2,000 man hours have been spent on the construction of the sets which began in mid-October. Set construction is a practice laboratory for dramatic arts students. Each worker punches in and out on a time clock.

PHYSICS SPEAKER — Prof. R. S. Mulliken, of the Physics Department at the University of Chicago, will talk on "Charge-Transfer Spectra and Molecular Binding" at a meeting of the Iowa Section of the American Chemical Society and Graduate College at SUI at 7:30 p.m. today. A dinner preceding the meeting will be held at the Alpha Chi Sigma house.

NEWMAN LECTURER — Prof. Vincent Smith, of the Department of Philosophy at Notre Dame, will be the guest speaker Friday in the Shambaugh Auditorium in a lecture series sponsored by the Graduate chapter of the SUI Newman Club. Smith will discuss "Secular Philosophy in America."

SUI Laundry Bid Deadline Dec. 21

Bids for the construction of the SUI laundry will be accepted until 1:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 21, by the Iowa State Board of Regents at the office of George L. Horner, SUI superintendent of planning and construction, Horner announced today.

The sealed proposals for the construction of the laundry will be publicly opened and read the same day at 2 p.m. in Horner's office. The laundry will occupy the southwest corner of Court and Madison streets.

The estimated cost of the building is $125,000, according to Horner. It will be a 74 by 124-foot, one-story building with a partial basement and a balcony on one end.

Copies of the plans, specifications and other contract documents may be obtained at Horner's office in Old Dental Building.

Construction of the laundry is expected to begin immediately and be completed by early summer.

IFC Wins National Award for Booklet

The SUI Interfraternity Council was awarded a second-place plaque last weekend at the National Interfraternity Conference in New York City for a brochure summarizing and explaining the council's program on the SUI campus.

Jim Sheely, A4, Clinton, was in charge of preparing the brochure.

The award-winning brochure of the SUI Council summarized contributions of the group's program in service to the University, the community and to fraternity ideals and in providing social activities.

Rock to Bach

Christmas shopping can be quite a chore, but if you're planning to give records this year, your task has been made comparatively easy by the array of outstanding recordings released since last January. Just close your eyes and take your pick.

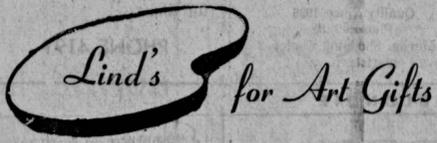

This year saw the 200th anniversary of Mozart's birth, and numerous recordings of the composer's works were released. Best of the lot are the "Requiem," conducted by Bruno Walter for Columbia ($3.98); Symphonies Nos. 36, 39, 40, and 41, performed by Fritz Reiner and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra for RCA Victor ($7.96); the Fifth Violin Concerto played brilliantly by David Oistrakh (Decca, $3.98); Decca's "The Magic Flute" ($15); and London's "The Marriage of Figaro," with Cesare Siepi and Hilde Gueden sharing vocal honors ($19.98).

Symphonies, concertos and various orchestral works have been recorded in abundance. Fritz Reiner and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra have just released Bartok's Concerto for Orchestra for Victor ($3.98). Andre Cluytens, conductor, and Emil Gilels, pianist, have combined forces in an outstanding recording of Rachmaninoff's Third Piano Concerto (Angel, $4.98).

Guido Cantelli, whose death in a Paris plane crash last month deprived music of one of its best interpreters, recorded a masterful presentation of Vivaldi's "The Four Seasons" with the New York Philharmonic for Columbia earlier this year ($3.98). Heifetz joined Fritz Reiner for an outstanding RCA Victor recording of Brahms' Violin Concerto, and RCA made a record from tape of Toscanini's broadcast of Strauss' "Death and Transfiguration" and "Till Eulenspiegel" ($3.98).

As far as operas are concerned, there are so many available that it is impossible to name a "best." The outstanding recordings of 1956 include Victor's "Manon," in which Victoria de los Angeles does some of the finest soprano works on records; Victor's "La Boheme," also with Miss de los Angeles, plus Jussi Björling, Lucine Amara and Robert Merrill, with Sir Thomas Beecham conducting.

Then there are Angel's "Rigoletto," which boasts of Maria Callas' wonderful interpretation of Gilda and Tito Gobbi's fine rendition of the title role; Angel's "Falstaff," again with Gobbi in the title role, plus Elizabeth Schwarzkopf's sumptuous voice, with a new singer, Anna Moffo, almost stealing the show.

Not 'Aloof,' Only Studious And Respectful, Student Says

By TOM SLATTERY

(Fifth in a series of Foreign Students at SUI.)

Foreign students have a duty and obligation to their country to study hard while in American universities, and this creates the impression that they are aloof, Prasin Sophonboon, graduate student from Bangkok, Thailand, said.

If the foreign student would participate in more social activity, much of this feeling on the part of American students would be dispelled, Sophonboon added.

The American classroom is too informal, and the average American student does not show enough respect for the tremendous knowledge and background of the college professor, Sophonboon feels.

"In Thailand, showing proper respect for instructors is very important," he said.

Seniority seems to hold little meaning for American students, probably because of the American "I'm as good as anybody tradition," Sophonboon said.

"I think development of seniority prestige in American universities would be an improvement," he added.

The student's right to choose study courses was the most pleasant surprise Sophonboon found here. He explained that the Thailand student is assigned his subjects on a basis of "no questions asked."

Sophonboon thinks Americans live much too fast, never taking time out to really enjoy themselves.

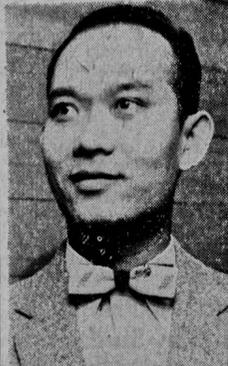

"Americans are too individualistic, and because of this, don't exchange ideas with even their own families, let alone with others," he said.

"In Thailand, sickness or trouble is a neighborhood affair, with everyone pitching in to help. Here, most people hardly take notice, although they are very generous when aroused. Their concern and generosity has been institutionalized, robbing their gesture of the warmth of personal participation."

Sophonboon's study program is concentrated on the field of transportation. His ambition is to establish a transportation system between America and Thailand.

Several American and Thailand businessmen have expressed an interest in the idea, Sophonboon said, adding that his training in American transportation concepts and techniques will give him the necessary background for the U.S.-to-Thailand project.

Sophonboon said that the field of politics is also intriguing, but is secondary to his concern with transportation. He has taken several business courses to prepare for work in transportation.

Sophonboon is the publisher of "The Future," a Siamese-English bi-monthly magazine printed in Bangkok. "The Future," is the most famous and best-selling magazine offered in Bangkok, he said.

Designed especially for young people, the magazine has a special section devoted to teaching English. Sophonboon was also the editor of a Bangkok daily newspaper for a short period of time.

His newspaper work was undertaken as a "lark."

"I developed a deep interest in journalism and its great potential after I had worked with it for a while," he commented.

Sophonboon was a member of the youth division of the "Free Thai" movement, the underground that fought against Japanese operations in Thailand, but, because of his youth, he did not see much action.

Sophonboon completed his early education at Bangkok Christian College, an American high school. He did three years of his undergraduate work at Chulalongkorn University at Bangkok and majored in commerce.

Northwestern University was his early choice of American universities, but he switched to Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill., after he arrived in the United States.

Members of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Mission in New York helped him get into Augustana where he obtained his B.A. His graduate study at SUI is sponsored by the South Park Presbyterian Church in Rock Island.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

He puts communications on the go

Martin Jepson, E.E., Purdue, '53, is an Engineer in the Radio and Special Services Section of Illinois Bell Telephone Company.

"I help design mobile radiotelephone systems," says Martin. "We have a wide variety of customers, including trucking firms, railroads and marine traffic of all kinds. Many businessmen, too, want these systems for their private cars. Each customer has his own communications problems, and these are a constant and stimulating engineering challenge."

"Another part of my job is to help set up facilities for conventions, sports events and the like. Last summer's Democratic National Convention, for instance, used enough circuits and facilities to serve a small city. There were special circuits for broadcasting, teletypewriters, the press, and for inside communications. It was our job to set those facilities up and keep them operating."

"The increase in demand for telephone and related services is phenomenal. It's this growth that's creating real career opportunities in the telephone business. Add to this the fact that it's a stable business, and you've really got something!"

Martin Jepson is one of many young men who are finding interesting careers in Bell Telephone Companies, and also in Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. See your placement officer for more information about Bell System Companies.
