A NEW SHIPMENT of Rose Bowl game tickets in addition to the allotment originally given SUI will make it possible for several thousand more fans to watch the Hawks play Oregon State in Pasadena, Francis (Buzz) Graham, manager of the Athletic Ticket Office said Tuesday. Graham seems overwhelmed by the additional tickets.

SUI Council To Study Grid Seating Plan

A four-point program for modification of the present SUI football seating plan will be presented to the SUI Student Council at tonight's meeting by the special Council football seating committee.

"The program will be brought before the Council, but a formal vote on it may not be taken," committee member Steve Shadle, A2, Estherville said Tuesday.

The program, drafted by the committee at a meeting last week, calls for:

1. A change of regulations to allow students to obtain two grid tickets with the presentation of two ID cards.

2. A second ticket distribution center east of the Iowa River.

3. Moving the student seating section southward to the 50-yard line.

4. Investigation into the possibility of revamping the spouse ticket system to avoid ticket duplication in families where one spouse is a student and the other a faculty member. Such families are now eligible for four tickets.

The special committee has not conferred since its meeting last week, when suggestions were received from medical, dental and engineering student groups.

Shadle said he expects consideration of the four-point program at tonight's Council meeting to take the nature of a discussion, with chances for a final vote being slim.

Other members of the committee, formed by the Council a month ago, are Sharon Brown, A2, Iowa Falls and Mort Rosenberg, L3, Des Moines.

Once a program submitted by the committee is adopted by the Council, it will be sent to the SUI Athletic Board of Control for approval.

Shadle said the committee has requested information on student football seating plans from the other Big Ten schools and the National Students Association Library, which has surveyed student football seating in over 150 colleges and universities throughout the U.S.

As yet, the committee has received no replies, he said.

Tips for Bowl Goers In Iowan Supplement

Complete coverage of the Rose Bowl pageant — before, during and after — will be available to Daily Iowan readers.

A special 20-page Rose Bowl supplement will be included in the December 18 issue of The Daily Iowan. Special pictures, stories, comments and tips for those who are going to the Rose Bowl will be included in the supplement.

Jim Ney, Daily Iowan sports editor, Larry Dennis, Daily Iowan sports writer, and Darel Hein, Hawkeye photographer, will be sent to Pasadena to cover Iowa team and student activities.

Dennis will send daily stories to Iowa City on all Hawkeye activities, including a post-game locker-room story. Ney will follow student activities and cover the big game itself.

Photographic coverage will be handled by Hein, whose pictures will be used both by the Iowan and the Hawkeye.

A roundup of Rose Bowl stories is planned for the Jan. 8 issue of The Daily Iowan.

Work on the Dec. 18 supplement began Dec. 3, under Rose Bowl Supplement Editor Allan Hoskins, A3, Zeoring.

A season summary for Iowa and Oregon State football teams, sports writers' views and comments and picture highlights will be included in the issue.

Also in the 20-page issue will be tips and information for the Iowan-Pasadena-for-the-first-time. The information list includes articles on how to get there (if not by the Herky Special), what to see and when to go.

Feature articles will give a complete summary of honors won by Iowa's football players this year, introduce the 1957 Rose Bowl Queen, display the congratulations for the Iowa team which have poured in from all over the nation and summarize SUI's banner year in all sports.

Other candidates for scholarships include: Ellsworth A. Fersch Jr., Davenport, Yale; Lawrence A. Joseph, Des Moines, Harvard; Robert G. Kemper, Naperville, Ill., Cornell College; Homer E. Olson, Climax, Minn., Luther College; Richard O. Poe, Ames, Iowa State College; and Stewart A. Shaw, Oelwein, Coe.

The eleventh candidate, George Drake, LaGrange, Ill., is an Iowa candidate but he is going to school in Paris, France, as a Fulbright scholar now. He is a Grinnell graduate.

The special committee has not conferred since its meeting last week, when suggestions were received from medical, dental and engineering student groups.

Shadle said he expects consideration of the four-point program at tonight's Council meeting to take the nature of a discussion, with chances for a final vote being slim.

Wrong Yen Tokyo Lady Takes A Short Cut

TOKYO (AP) — Mrs. Toshiko, 46, knew a short cut. The young man on a bicycle who held her up and robbed her of 3,000 yen didn't.

Mrs. Toshiko scurried down side streets, caught the thief several blocks away, stuck an umbrella in the front wheel of his cycle, snatched his knife when he fell, beat him with the umbrella, then sat on him and screamed for police.

"I picked the wrong victim," the young man admitted.

The session is expected to continue to the end of the week.

The session was closed to newsmen, who received a digest of the Dulles and other speeches from NATO officials.

Parts of Dulles' statement were an obvious rebuke to Britain and France for their invasion of Egypt in the Suez Canal dispute. But

But he added at the same time the West must also maintain a powerful defense shield to deter the Kremlin from the temptations of military adventure.

His statement marked the opening of a session of NATO foreign, finance and defense ministers. Among other things the NATO men must map defense targets for 1957 and consider methods of closing political and economic cooperation by the 15 member nations.

Egyptians Say They Killed British Officer

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP) — A strongarm band Tuesday kidnapped a young British lieutenant and the Egyptian underground told allied military authorities Tuesday night he had been killed.

The lieutenant Monday night led a raid on a Port Said dentist's apartment and arrested seven Egyptian commandos who had been hidden there since the Egyptian army fled Port Said five weeks ago. All surrendered meekly.

British authorities said they had no confirmation of the slaying report, which was brought to them by an Egyptian civilian. By early night, a thorough search of Port Said brought no sign of the missing officer.

Egyptian police circulated descriptions of three men believed to have taken part in the kidnaping. The descriptions were based on details supplied by an Arab boy. He told authorities he saw the British officer forced into a taxi at gunpoint after he stopped his jeep to talk to a man.

The War Office in London said he was Lt. A. G. Moorehouse. The taxi has been found, its interior was slightly bloodstained and a gag and rope inside.

Lt. Gen. Sir Hugh Stockwell, British commander, told the local Egyptian governor, Mohammed Riad, to have the lieutenant returned. Stockwell also reported the incident to the UN police force.

Stockwell said there was practically no chance of the Egyptians getting Moorehouse out of tightly guarded Port Said.

Meanwhile, UN forces at Port Said reached a total of 1,400 with the arrival of 250 Swedes and 170 Colombians.

And U.S. Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, UN adviser on clearing the Suez Canal of sunken ships and obstructions, conferred with Adm. L. F. Durnford-Slater whose salvage force already has raised seven wrecks blocking the northern end of the waterway.

The open channel now is 25 feet deep and 240 feet at its widest point.

State Group Asks $12,000 Rose Float

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Legislative Interim Committee was asked Tuesday to provide $12,000 to finance an Iowa float and advertising in connection with its part in the Rose Bowl parade. The committee took no immediate action.

The request was made by T. E. Davidson, director of the Iowa Development Commission, who is a member of a committee arranging the float.

Davidson told the committee the float itself would cost $10,000. There had been indications previously that the public might be asked to contribute a fund to finance the project.

In making the request, committee members said, Davidson presented a drawing of the proposed float. It would emphasize agriculture, industry and education. It would be decorated mostly with roses, which must be purchased at Pasadena.

Farmers Reject Corn Control Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers rejected by referendum Tuesday a proposed new control program for corn which Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson had indicated he favored.

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa's farmers favored the "soil bank" corn base over the acreage allotment plan by about a 59 per cent margin in Tuesday's corn referendum vote, the Iowa ASC Committee said.

The Weather

Snow and Colder

Tuesday night's cold temperatures probably prompted the wearing of long underwear today. The weatherman says that it is a wise move; he also hinted that it might be a good idea to keep showshoes, boots, dog sleds, tire chains and other winter gear handy; snow may fall this afternoon.

Temperatures aren't expected to rise much higher than the mid-20's today. The clouds that are expected to hang around overhead all of today will clear by Thursday, but the mercury will remain stuck in the 20 degree bracket.

Lost, Found

Officers Lost in Files Found at Home

Somewhere at SUI, the identities of the senior class officers in the College of Liberal Arts are on file. At least one member of the Hawkeye yearbook staff thought so.

The staff man phoned the office of the College of Liberal Arts who suggested he try the SUI Alumni Office. That office didn't have them but thought the Office of Student Affairs might. They didn't. Neither did the Liberal Arts Advisory Office, the Student Council, the Office of Student Organizations, the Registrar's Office or Information Services.

Eleven phone calls and 45 minutes after he started the staff man had only a tired finger from dialing for his efforts. In desperation he called a friend who he thought might know.

The friend was Loy Brooks, A4, Des Moines, who turned out to be president of the senior class in the College of Liberal Arts.

The other officers are Sue Rutledge, A4, Des Moines, vice-president and Jane Richter, A4, Davenport, secretary-treasurer.

'Greatest Show' To Return in 1957

NEW YORK (AP) — The "greatest show on earth" — the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey Circus — announced definite plans Tuesday to return to the road next season.

Most dates will be played in indoor arenas. Ball parks and state fairs will get the show outdoors during midsummer.

The "big show" collapsed last July 16 in mid-tour at Pittsburgh, Pa. Coupled with the hard times experienced in recent years by other circuses, there had been speculation that the distinctive form of entertainment was about to vanish.

Soviet Troops Pound Rebels Who Hold Out

BUDAPEST (AP) — Rebellious Hungarians invoked a general strike Tuesday and some fought on with arms against Premier Janos Kadar's Russian-imposed government. The strike, to last 48 hours, tied up nearly all Hungary's industry and commerce.

Informed Hungarian sources said Russian troops encircled a band of freedom fighters holding out in the hills at Harmashat-hegy, about 20 miles northwest of Budapest, and sought to wipe them out with medium artillery and heavy machine guns.

The rebels were last reported fighting to avoid extinction. Communications from Budapest to that area were cut and the informants said the fate of the band was undetermined.

Several clashes between Hungarian crowds and the Government forces—Hungarian police and Russian troops—marked the strike.

Though martial law has been proclaimed and some labor leaders arrested, men stayed away from their jobs by the hundreds of thousands to protest the dictatorial attitude of Kadar's regime.

Budapest was hard hit and some sources said the strike was nearly 100 per cent effective in the provinces.

Big factories of Budapest were closed and the city's transport systems halted. Only its power plants and food factories were working. A few food stores stayed open. All other shops closed.

But the Government—denounced by the Budapest General Workers Council for "anti-people, anti-worker activities"—persisted in the tough course it adopted last month under Soviet tutelage.

One report, unconfirmed, said Hungarian police fired into a crowd of civilian demonstrators in Ujpest, a suburb of the capital, and caused an undetermined number of casualties.

thousands of strikers idled or sought the few open food shops.

In the first, Hungarian police used clubs and rifle bullets to disperse a crowd, witnesses said. A Hungarian newsman was reported wounded in one shoulder. Some policemen trying to arrest demonstrators were surrounded and beaten.

In the second, Hungarian police said Russian armored units (read for hours to break up the throng around the theater because a drunk had hurled an empty wine bottle on a tank.

Even while trying to combat the strike, the Government struck out on a new course, with the property of refugees as its target.

Radio Budapest broadcast a government announcement that the state will take control of the property of all persons who have left Hungary since the start of the rebellion Oct. 23 and sell it if they are not back by March 31, 1957, a previously set amnesty deadline.

The same decree said property of "dissolved" organizations such as the labor councils also may be taken over by the Government.

Weather Hampers Search for Plane Carrying Jones

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP) — Snow, wind and clouds hampered aerial searchers Tuesday in a hunt for clues to the fate of a missing Trans-Canada Air Lines transport and 62 persons who vanished with it Sunday night.

Calvin Jones, Iowa's three-time All-American guard, was reported to be one of the eight Americans aboard the plane that turned back toward Vancouver after one of its four engines went dead over a rugged sector of British Columbia's interior.

Search planes were grounded Tuesday by the weather as they sought to concentrate on 8,500-foot Mt. Silverpit, about 100 miles east of this West Coast city.

Four Royal Canadian Air Force planes went up at daylight under rough flying conditions that kept small planes grounded. They had to be called back a few hours later. A dozen went out as the clouds lifted again. They had to be grounded again in mid-afternoon.

Hope for survival of any of the plane's 59 passengers and three crew members dwindled by the hour.

Irish Terrorists Attack British Post

ARMAGH, Northern Ireland (AP) — Terrorist bands Wednesday blew up a radio transmitter and courthouse and launched an armed attack on a British military barracks.

The entire Northern Ireland constabulary was mobilized in an attempt to capture the raiders and restore order. Road blocks were set up.

"It's a night of terror by the Irish Republican Army," a police spokesman said.

The Daily Iowan

The Daily Iowan is an independent daily newspaper, written and edited by students. It is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the university.

The Iowan editorial staff writes its editorials without censorship by administration or faculty. The Iowan's editorial policy, therefore, is not necessarily an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion.

Who Has Priority?

The distribution of Rose Bowl tickets to Iowa fans has been handled in pretty fair fashion.

The SUI students and faculty members got top priority. That is as it should be.

The next priority went to I Club members. That, also is as it should be. They are the most active supporters of Hawkeye athletics. They assist the Athletic Department in encouraging the best athletes from Iowa and from other states to come to SUI. They have supported the SUI teams through some lean years.

Also getting high priority were members of the Alumni Association. That is as it should be and the reasons are the same as they are for the I Club.

GETTING PRIORITY after the I Club members and before the Alumni Association members were the state legislators, state legislators-elect and other state officials.

We feel they have a doubtful claim to priority. Is a legislator who is not a member of the I Club or the Alumni Association more entitled to a ticket than is a loyal Hawkeye fan who has purchased a season ticket? Is he more entitled to a ticket than is the fan who has purchased season tickets in years in which Iowa was winning few games?

Granting good seats to state officials at the Michigan-Iowa game (at the expense of the student body) was a good public relations gesture. It didn't matter too much as far as total tickets were concerned, Iowa's Stadium seats about 56,000 persons.

It may be said that many state officials are Iowa alums. Yet a check of the Official Iowa Register shows that only 34 members of the present 158-member state legislature ever attended SUI. And only 23 of these received diplomas.

SUI OFFICIALS say that 227 state officials have been given "priority of purchase" on two tickets. If all accepted (as, of course, they will not) 454 tickets would be taken up by them.

Athletic Department officials have estimated the number of persons who have written for tickets, but will not be able to get them, at as high as 60,000.

Many loyal Iowa fans will not be able to get Rose Bowl tickets. Yet many state officials, who have shown varying degrees of loyalty to Iowa teams over the years, will.

The Return of Bevan

In May, 1955, just 18 months ago, Aneurin Bevin seemed finished as a British political figure. He had almost been expelled from the Labor Party for openly criticizing its leadership and policies (something that is expected in American politics, but looked upon with horror in British politics). And his support in the Labor Party was dwindling, leaving him without any wing of the party for which to speak.

Today Aneurin Bevin is back and perhaps heading for the job as foreign secretary, a job to which Labor Leader Hugh Gaitskell appointed him in Labor's "shadow cabinet."

It is encouraging to see Bevan joining Gaitskell in Labor's leadership. Like Gaitskell, Bevan has a quick, keen mind and is an able speaker. As a cabinet minister in the post-war Labor cabinets he showed great administrative skill. His writings are masterpieces of logic.

Bevan made himself few friends in the United States for his repeated criticism (made in harsh tones) of our foreign policies. In most cases, however, he was saying things we didn't care to admit were true.

He was justified in many of his criticisms . . . that we were spending too much on armaments and not enough on economic aid . . . that economic aid would do much more than armaments to undercut communism . . . that we were often adding to world tensions by our warlike acts . . . that the military mind rather than the humanitarian mind dominated our thinking and decisions . . . that we were inclined to be high-handed . . . that we, who had never had a large Communist party following in our nation, often did not understand the nature of the Red menace and how it should be dealt with.

Bevan's domestic policies of more socialism at once may be dictated more by his memories of a childhood spent in Welsh coalmines than by good sense and seem to be out of step with the times in British opinion.

But in foreign policy, his ideas of strong anti-colonialism, anti-gunboat diplomacy and pro-economic aid represent those of the rising generation in Great Britain. Those of the Conservatives and of the discredited Anthony Eden are of an age that is past.

Journalism Magazine Hits Denial Of China Visas To American Newsmen

One of the reasons why the U.S. State Department has denied visas to American newspapermen to visit Red China is because of the fear that they will fall victim to Communist propaganda. (The announced reason was that Red China still holds some American citizens, civilians and military, hostage and will not release them. Yet we continue to permit full press interchange with Soviet Russia which has, in addition to some of its satellites, held American citizens incommunicado for many months.)

So, Red China's Premier Chou En-lai leaves his country and visits Indochina where he is interviewed by American newspapermen in Cambodia. One of his propaganda scoops, fully reported in the U.S., is the statement that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek could have a high government post in the Red government as settlement of the Formosa problem. Does anyone believe this? Would it have made any difference if he had said the same to U.S. reporters in Peiping?

Why isn't our own government realistic in appreciating that propaganda wars are not won by denying our own reporters access to the source of the news so they can report what they see with their own eyes as well as what they are told? — EDITOR AND PUBLISHER.

Fantasy

Russia doesn't take a back seat to anybody when it comes to fantasy. Take, for example, the current charge that American diplomats lured Hungarians into joining the anti-Communist revolt by handing them candy and fruit on the streets. This country might be wise not to dispute the charge. What better propaganda could there be than what amounts to a Russian admission that the Hungarians were in such desperate straits under the Communist rule that they willingly risked death and separation from loved ones just to get their hands on a piece of candy or an apple or orange.

Believe it or not, however, the Russians immediately topped the "lollipop revolution" with another whopper: The Hungarian refugees arriving in the United States and other countries represent "mass deportations" from their homeland. — MILWAUKEE JOURNAL.

Censorship

(In reply to suggestions that student publications of Vanderbilt University may need to be censored by faculty in advance of their appearance, Chancellor Harvie Branscomb has addressed this statement to the school's alumni.)

There are two main reasons why we do not do this. Whenever college authorities begin to tell students what they may and may not say, and to censor their writing, the publication soon ceases to be a student publication and becomes a semi-official one. The students lose interest, cease to sell ads for its support, or to write for it.

Young men 18 to 22 are not children, and the university is not their army. Students value free speech as much as do other Americans and, furthermore, they should have their say about campus matters, including their opinion of the manner in which the chancellor discharges his duties, a topic which they consider from time to time. (After all, we are training them to become alumni.)

mitting them to have their own publications, namely, that it is part of a process which matures. To the argument that it is risky, I would only reply that it is risky to have young people about, this, in fact, it is risky to be a young man or woman. The risk in letting them manage their own affairs, however is not a speculation but society's wisest and most rewarding investment. — TOLEDO BLADE.

Crime Does Pay

Crime doesn't pay? How about Kashmir? Pakistan has asked the United Nations security council, for the umpteenth time, to take a look at India's steady progress in swallowing up this Moslem state to its north.

The process goes on, in bland disregard of Indian promises to hold a plebiscite in Kashmir. The latest step has been the creation of a puppet "constitutional assembly," which has obediently announced Kashmir's adherence to India.

Indian troops still control the Moslem population, which India's action indicates, would certainly vote to join Pakistan in any free vote.

The UN will hear the new protest. Everyone will be bored. Nothing will happen. Crime doesn't pay — or does it? — PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN.

Versatility

A maker of baby food boasted the other day that his product has more versatility than one would suspect. A can of mixed fruit put up especially for babies makes a fine pie, he said. It's merely a matter of adding seasoning that baby doesn't get.

If the manufacturer needs help in expanding his markets, we've got another tip. A friend takes the mixed fruit, puts it in a blender, adds liquors and makes what he calls a cocktail out of it. That's another market opened up.

And here is a third: We've had one of the cocktails and are convinced that by adding a quick drying binder the stuff would make fine shoe polish. — MILWAUKEE JOURNAL.

Oil Shipments

This week a few oil tankers with Texas oil had reached England. The tankers had started before the U.S. State Department had halted oil shipments to placate the Arab nations. The ban has since been lifted.

The big oil states in the United States are boosting the output of crude oil in a hurry, anticipating bigger and bigger shipments to Europe.

Prices on heavy heating oil had been hiked twice in the Atlantic seaboard area in November and other boosts are to come.

European oil firms are seeking chiefly heavy oil grades and that accounts for the price boosts on this grade in the United States.

Light heating oil prices began to move up in the Gulf Coast area recently. Competition with natural gas, is said to be restraining real advances in the price of light oils.

Total stocks of light heating oil for the home are considerably higher over the United States at this time than at the same period last year. Hence there is no shortage of heating oil in sight. — MARCHTOWN TIMES-REPUBLICAN.

Record Buying

From all early appearances Santa Claus' big bag of gifts is going to be bigger than ever this year in the United States. Christmas buying which began even before and early Thanksgiving, is rolling along at a pace which is exceeding the all-time record set in 1955.

Last year, retail sales in December topped $19 billion, more than $1.2 billion above previous record of December, 1954. This year department store sales in the nation for the week ending November 17 were running seven per cent higher than in the corresponding period a year ago.

Considering the income of Americans, maintenance of that pace can probably be expected. The department of commerce estimates that disposal personal income was running at an annual rate of $28.2 billion at the end of the third quarter, which is $9.4 billion greater than the similar 1955 total.

In short, Santa's airplane will have to be jet propelled this year, and that will mean a joyous and merry Christmas for almost everyone. Our cups will be running over . . .

And in the midst of this gala celebration, we will be missing its true significance if we do not remember the greatest gift of all — the gift so well illustrated in the life of Christ — compassion for our fellowmen. — CEDAR RAPIDS GAZETTE.

Rainbow

4,200 Now Starved For Musicals

By WILLIAM DONALDSON
Iowan Staff Writer

By the time "Finian's Rainbow" had run through its nine standing-room-only performances here, more than 4,200 musical-comedy-starved Iowans had been refreshed by the spirit and sparkle of the SUI production.

The large demand for tickets a week before "Finian's" opening caused University Theatre officials to add an extra performance, and on the day after the opening there remained only 25 undistributed tickets.

University Theatre holds 477 spectators, and that number (multiplied by the nine performances) climbed to 4,299 when all the tickets were sold out.

THOSE WHO waited until the last minute to secure reserved seats found themselves instead waiting outside the theater before a performance in hopes of getting a standing room ticket. Once admitted, they either sat on the aisle steps or occupied a seat still vacant by curtain time.

That most of these people enjoyed what they saw and heard was evident in much of last week's campus chatter. The careful listener found that, although "Finian's" did not reach the peak of the opening night performance until the last three nights, the show began to move better each evening.

BY THE CLOSING performance Saturday night, the annoying stage confusion mentioned in an earlier column had become, for the most part, staged confusion. The actors seemed more comfortable and consequently had more fun.

However, some of the stage awkwardness was still evident Saturday, as when, in "The Great Come and Get It Day" number, a chorus was called to kneel in mass in the center of the stage and then had to divide and move to opposite sides of the stage. There was Saturday night, as on opening night, a scramble for places that snipped the show's thread of movement.

Deborah Trissel, G. Davenport, and Rosalie Samberg, A3, Des Moines, alternated in the role of Finian's daughter Sharon, and both met the role with assurance, awareness and resulting success. Miss Trissel had the better Irish brogue; Miss Samberg had the better voice.

THOSE WHOSE attention focuses on actresses playing the part of their characters were probably more fond of Miss Trissel, for hers was a studied, highly polished performance. Miss Samberg, on the other hand, tended to appeal more to the average theater-goer who merely wants to enjoy himself. She was so natural and winning that it was difficult to picture her as a person other than Sharon.

Fred Sederholm, G. Cedar Rapids (Finian), Jo Lechay, A3, Iowa City (Susan the Slient) and Barry Fuller, G. Sydney, Australia (Og, the leprechaun) were as outstanding as they had been opening night. Jay Wilkey, G. Lovington, N.M., showed improvement in his role of Woody, the romantic lead, but his lack of stage presence and his stock smile were still annoying.

OF THE DANCERS, the most outstanding were Lawrence Davis, A1, Des Moines, and Jo Ellen Liggins, A1, Harvey, Ill. On Saturday both handled their routines like "old pros." Miss Liggins was also in the "Necessity" routine, in which she and Dora Martin, A1, Houston, Tex., and Servalia Davis, A1, Dallas, Tex., fully captured the mood of the play.

A special mention of the major contributions of Mervyn Hilpiper, A1, Clarion (the sheriff) and Gus Graham, G. Iowa City (Senator Rawkins). True, they over-acted now and then, but both seemed to be having so much fun that it didn't matter very much.

IF THE PRESENTATION of a musical comedy will become an annual event at the SUI theater, Willard Welsh, the director of "Finian's" and his performers should be very proud. If a curtain call (as is to follow every performance here) is to follow every performance here from now on, then Director Welsh will have made an equally great accomplishment.

District Judges See Procedural Progress

By DIETRICH HARTMANN

An important improvement in Iowa's judicial procedure is expected by the two judges of the eighth judicial district, Judge Harold Evans, Iowa City, said Tuesday.

Recommendations made recently by the Iowa District Judges Association will go into effect, Evans said, only if the Iowa General Assembly passes them into law next year.

At the annual meeting of the Association, Iowa's judges recommended that the legislature pass bills that would:

1. Allow persons charged with criminal offenses to be sent to some institution for mental examination.
2. Eliminate the 1-year prison sentence for second convictions on charges of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated (OMVI).
3. Set the line between a charge of petty larceny and grand larceny at $50, instead of the present $20.
4. Make possible the release of county jail prisoners on the basis of good behavior.
5. Reduce the present 15-year prison sentence for larceny from a person to 12 years.
6. Change the rules of civil procedure to conform more closely to Federal rules.

The most important of these recommendations, Evans said, is the one allowing judges to send persons charged with criminal offenses to mental institutions.

"It makes it much easier for judges to determine sentence in cases where the judge is not fully convinced that the defendant is to be held responsible for what he did," Evans said.

It is not now possible to have a person examined for his mental health if the person does not agree to the examination, he said.

Evans also said that the 1-year sentence for a second conviction on a charge of driving while intoxicated is too severe.

Evans has heard many cases of this kind, he said. Most of the time he sentenced such offenders to five months in the county jail. Evans thinks that this is enough. "Sitting behind the wheel after having some drinks can happen so easy," Evans said. "Why should we deprive a family of its support for a year for such an offense?"

The legislature should take this into consideration, he said. Evans is confident that the legislature will follow the Association's recommendations especially in the instance of OMVI.

Evans said that in this district county jail prisoners were often released on good behavior before their sentence was completed.

This is more than just, Evans said, because there is no reason to grant these "good time off" only to prisoners in state penitentiaries.

The Iowa law does not provide for release of county jail prisoners on good behavior.

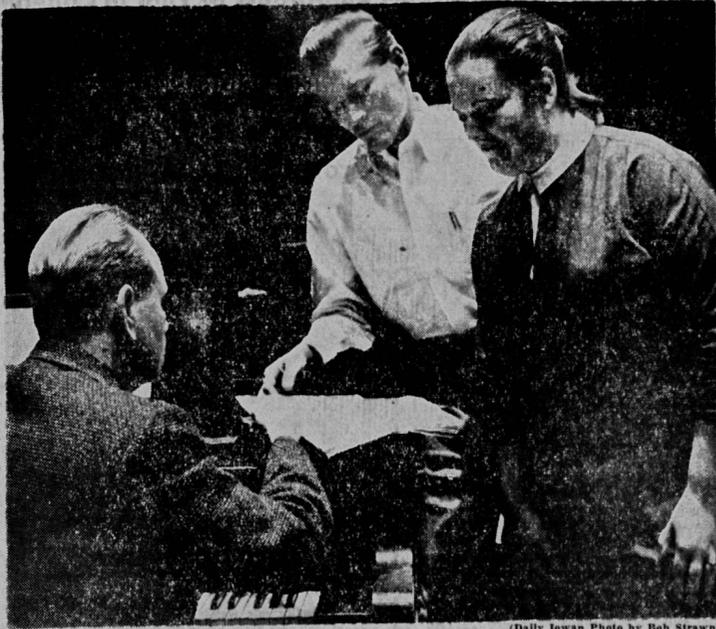

Evans estimates that about 50 per cent of all the prisoners could have been released ahead of time if the Iowa law provided such a possibility.

"If we have some legal means," Evans said, "to help prisoners who behave well, we could cut their sentences in half."

Evans does not agree with the recommendations to change the present procedure in civil cases. He thinks that the Iowa regulations are sufficient to serve the District judges.

"The Federal procedures are in no way better than the Iowa rules we have right now," he said.

TUNE-UP ON VOCAL delivery is given Jerry Esler, A3, Harmony, Minn., tenor, and Darlene Bahnsen, A3, Wyoming, contralto, by Prof. Herald Stark, of the SUI Department of Music, in preparation for the "Messiah" concert tonight. Tickets for the concert were reported all distributed Tuesday. Dress rehearsal was opened to the public after all tickets to the concert were distributed.

Hospitalized Children To Spend Christmas at Home

A unique ambulance service in Iowa City will provide many hospitalized children with an important Christmas gift this year — Christmas at home.

The Superior Ambulance Service will provide free transportation for all crippled, handicapped, and otherwise hospitalized children aged 16 years and under from the Iowa City hospitals to their homes in Iowa City or elsewhere in Johnson County. This service will include taking the children home, and returning them to the hospital.

Two ambulances will be at the disposal of all Iowa City hospitals and welfare agencies on Dec. 24 and 25 from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. The children may be taken to their homes on Dec. 24, and returned to the hospital Christmas night if it's permissible for them to be at home overnight.

This is the first time such a service has been performed in Iowa City, and to the knowledge of Rudolph H. Wittke, owner of the ambulance service, the first time in Iowa.

Wittke said he realized that many children couldn't otherwise go to their homes for Christmas, and decided to try the plan this year. He said that he has no idea how many children will be transported. Elderly persons with no other means of transportation will also be included in the project.

A hospital staff doctor must recommend that a patient be taken to his home for the Christmas holiday.

Besides going home for Christmas, children at the Hospital-School for Severely Handicapped will be looking forward to a Christmas party. The party, which is sponsored by the Iowa City Jay-Cees, will be held at the Hospital-School at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 20.

Boy Dies Following Salk Vaccine Shots

SEATTLE — The state Health Department reported Tuesday the death of a 15-year-old high school boy who had received the full three doses of Salk vaccine.

Health officers said they were advised by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis the death of James Thomson was the first such case reported in the nation. They said the boy was probably one of the few persons who does not respond to immunization.

Rock to Bach

By WILLIAM DONALDSON

"The Messiah," Handel's oratorio which will be performed tonight by the SUI Symphony Orchestra, the University Chorus and soloists, is available in not less than 10 LP recordings. For the thrifty record shopper there is the Victor version, with Ernest MacMillan conducting the Toronto Symphony Orchestra and Chorus ($9). Sir Thomas Beecham's slightly old interpretation has been transferred to LP by Victor and costs $15.98. A fine London edition of the oratorio, with Sir Adrian Boult conducting the London Philharmonic Choir and Orchestra, is priced at $19.95. But the best recording of all comes from Angel records and features Sir Malcolm Sargent directing the Huddersfield Choral Society and Liverpool Philharmonic Orchestra. The price is $15.98. The Angel recording is more complete than most, the recorded sound is excellent, and the performance has some of the best choral and solo singing on recording.

Other Christmas music has been recorded in abundance. Those who are fond of choruses and are interested in purchasing a host of carols will find complete satisfaction in Victor's two volumes of the Robert Shaw Chorale singing "Christmas Hymns and Carols." The music is given outstanding interpretations on two $3.98 LPs.

Similar recordings include "Carol Singing At Kingsway Hall," with the Butlin Choral Society (London, $4); "Christmas Carols," by the Westminster Abbey Choir and the Bach Choir (London, $4); "Yuletide Hymns and Carols," with the Royal Choral Society (Victor, $2.98); and "Songs of Christmas" by the Norman Luboff Choir (Columbia, $2.98).

Yuletide music in foreign areas is recorded on Angel, featuring the Oberkirchen Children's Choir singing in various languages ($3.98); "Calypso Christmas," with the De Paur Chorus (Columbia, $2.98); and "O Tannenbaum" (Christmas on the Rhine) on a Decca $3.98 album.

Instrumental Christmas music is featured on a Jackie Gleason album for Capitol ($3.98), but the far more significant recordings are "Christmas Bells" with Cathedral Organ and Chimes, Richard Biggs, organist (Capitol, $3.98), and Christmas Carols in Hi-Fi, with Carlos Salzedo, harpist (Mercury $3.98).

Solo carolling is beautifully done on Marian Anderson's "Christmas Carols" for Victor ($3.98); and there is some fine singing on Columbia's "Sweet Little Jesus Boy," featuring Mahalia Jackson. Mario Lanza has recorded an album of carols for Victor ($3.98), entitled "Lanza Sings Christmas Carols." He screeches some, too.

Girl Killed, 2 Hurt In Osage Accident

OSAGE — An 8-year-old girl was killed and two other persons were injured seriously in the crash of two cars at a country road intersection near here Tuesday.

Dead were Joyce Myer, 8, daughter of Quentin Myer of near New Haven, a small Mitchell County community about nine miles east of here.

The girl's grandfather, William Myer, 75, and Leon Clifford Springs of Charles City, driver of the second car, were reported in serious condition at an Osage hospital. Marlin Myer, 9, a brother of Joyce, was unhurt.

'Air Lift' Starts for Refugees

MUNICH, Germany — Two hundred Hungarian refugees, some jittery, some weeping, some smiling, took off Tuesday at the start of a massive airlift to the United States and a new life.

The airlift, called "Operation Safe Haven," is aimed at flying 10,000 fugitives from Communist terror in Hungary to the United States by Christmas.

The United States has offered homes to 21,500 refugees. About 3,000 have been flown across the Atlantic in chartered civilian planes. More will go in the civilian planes and others will go by sea.

The first contingent took off in four U.S. Air Force C118 transports, 50 to a plane, and were expected to arrive at daybreak Tuesday at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey.

From there they will go to specially prepared Army barracks at Camp Kilmer, N.J., where they will be cared for until they find places to work and live.

Some were frankly fearful, concerned over language difficulties and the fact that few knew any for one across the ocean.

Any one across the ocean, one of the Hungarians on the first flight, it was a homecoming. Born in the United States, he went back to his family in Hungary at the age of 10, and rose to the position of a professor of education at the Communist-run Miskolc University in Budapest.

Goebel told officials gathered around the plane "we want to thank the American people for giving this chance to the Hungarian people."

Speaking in halting English, he said, "I hope we'll be as glad in the United States as you people."

Senators Dispute Proposed Change In Filibuster Rule

WASHINGTON — Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.) pledged support Tuesday for an effort to curb Senate filibusters. Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D-Va.) dismissed as a "hollow political gesture" a proposed move to change existing rules.

Potter said the Senate's present rule requiring 64 affirmative votes to cut off a debate by the 96 senators "constitutes a threat to the continuing record of progressive achievement under our Republican administration, especially with regard to civil rights legislation."

In a statement handed out at a news conference, Potter said he would support a move already backed by Democratic and Republican senators to eliminate this rule when the Senate convenes on Jan. 3.

The rule has been used in the past by Southern Democrats to prevent Senate action on civil rights legislation by talking such bills to death.

Senator Robertson said, "They know that the vice president will have to rule against them if he follows Senate precedent. Nothing will ever come of this move."

Under the existing rule, there could be no limit on debate on any proposal to change it.

But the group which Potter joined contends Senate rules do not continue from year to year unless they are affirmed at the start of each new session or are allowed to stand for lack of challenge.

If Vice President Richard M. Nixon ruled that this is the case, motions on new rules presumably could be acted on by majority vote.

U.S. Issues Emergency Oil Lift Plan

WASHINGTON — The U. S. Government Tuesday issued its master plan for the emergency oil lift to Europe and formally "invited" 15 American companies to get the oil flowing.

Mobilization Director Arthur S. Flemming made public an agreement which exempts the firms temporarily from antitrust action while they voluntarily pool their resources, reroute tanker fleets and swap markets.

The pact bore the approval of Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, although Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) has charged that it creates an "international cartel" that will manage the country's oil policy.

Questioned by reporters, Flemming said he "shared the senator's concern" over possible conflicts of interest. But he said he concurs with the Defense, Interior and State Departments that "the seriousness of the situation outweighs the antitrust considerations."

"We are not going to permit the companies to do anything that would be contrary to public policy," Flemming said. He stressed that the government makes the rules, sets the tanker routes, and polices the entire program.

The "plan of action," as it is called officially, provides for the rerouting of world oil movements under schedules drafted by the Middle East Emergency Committee, an organization of the 15 participating companies.

Officials said the program would result in the "lifting" of about 850,000 barrels of oil daily in excess of the normal pickup — from U. S. Gulf ports and, to a small extent, from Venezuela.

About 500,000 barrels will go to Europe and the rest to U.S. and Canadian East Coast cities to replace oil cut off by the damage of the Suez Canal and the blockage of the Iraq pipelines.

Assistant Secretary of the Interior Felix Wormser said the program "should not result in any petroleum shortages in the United States."

The schedules are effective to next March 31, but high government officials said they expect it will have to be renewed at that time — indicating they hold small hope that the Suez can be cleared rapidly.

Officials said they could not estimate how soon the movement to Europe would reach the desired volume of 500,000 barrels daily. They pointed out that the oil companies already are scheduling shipments of 350,000 to 400,000 barrels daily, under private commercial transactions. The emergency plan is expected to speed up deliveries by about 25 per cent.

The plan of action issued Tuesday is an amended version of the standby plan drafted after Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser nationalized the Suez Canal.

The changes permit the companies to take necessary actions to effectuate the programs approved by Secretary of the Interior Seaton, and to report such actions to him; to take actions, with this government's consent, which may be requested by the organization for European Economic Cooperation and foreign Governments; and to realign U.S. oil movements where necessary to release oil or tankers for Europe.

Steel Merger Planned In Spite of Opposition

NEW YORK — Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. decided Tuesday to go ahead with their long-proposed merger despite government opposition. Bethlehem would be the surviving company.

If the merger finally goes through, it would not change Bethlehem's status as the world's second largest steel producer behind United States Steel Corp.

Eugene C. Grace, chairman of Bethlehem, and J. L. Mauthe, chairman of Youngstown, announced an agreement under which Bethlehem will acquire Youngstown in exchange for Bethlehem common stock.

In Washington, Atty. Gen. Brownell said the Justice Department will move promptly in the federal courts in an effort to block the proposed merger. Justice officials declined to say in what city the action will be brought.

Grace and Mauthe said in a joint statement the Justice Department advised them "it intends to sue to enjoin the proposed acquisition on grounds that it would violate the antitrust laws."

Agreement on final terms of the acquisition is not "feasible at this time," the statement continued, including the number of Bethlehem shares to be exchanged for Youngstown.

In statements before the Senate Subcommittee on Antitrust and Monopoly, Bethlehem and Youngstown argued they are located in different sections of the country and are not now competitive.

American League Leaders

THESE THREE AMERICAN LEAGUE pitchers topped their league during the 1956 baseball season in three major departments, according to official records released Tuesday. Frank Lary (left) of the Detroit Tigers, 21-13 for the year, started the most games—38. Herb Score (center), Cleveland Indians' southpaw, led in strikeouts with 263 on a 20-9 record, and New York Yankee standby, Whitey Ford (right) had the top earned run average—2.47—while winning 19 and losing six.

Winter Baseball Meetings End; Feel Trade Lack Disappointing

CHICAGO (AP)—Major leaguers, leaving Chicago for their respective homes following the termination of the annual meetings, were disappointed over the minimum of player trades accomplished here.

Opinion among baseball people is that the dearth of trades left the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees still in the drivers' seats. The failure of the Indians, White Sox and Red Sox to make a trade in the American League, and the Braves and Redlegs to do any business in the National League, was seen as a big break for the Dodgers and Yankees.

Will Now Sign Any Prospect Regardless of Year in College—

Majors' 'Hands Off' Rule Out

CHICAGO (AP)—The major league club owners, in a surprise move, voted Tuesday to rescind the college rule whereby a big league club was not permitted to sign a college player after he had reached his sophomore year.

Ending their winter convention, the big league executives voted to adopt all measures passed by the minors at their national convention in Jacksonville last week, including the 28-player cutdown amendment on opening day.

The major leagues' action on the college rule is certain to cause considerable resentment in college circles, especially among the members of the American Assn. of College Baseball Coaches.

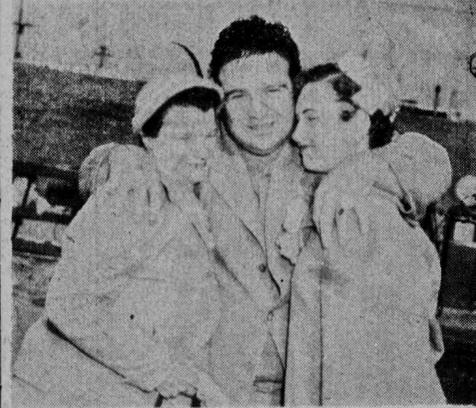

Under the old rule put in effect three years ago, a major league club could negotiate with a college player only during his freshman year. Once he continued as a sophomore, however, he could no longer be approached until he had graduated or had attained the age of 21.

But minor league clubs were not under their jurisdiction since they had steadfastly voted against it. The result was that a major league club easily was able to circumvent its own restrictions by signing a player through its minor league affiliate.

It was for this reason, Commissioner Ford Frick explained, that the majors voted to wipe the rule off the books.

Ethan Allen, president of the ABCB, expressed resentment over the action and charged the major leagues with duplicity.

Welcome Home, Champ

through the grapevine that the majors had instructed their minor league representatives to vote against the rule even before we made our presentation. We were so disgusted by the underhanded action we decided it was no use to go to Chicago.

"We'll just have to promote our own game," he said. "The most deplorable thing about the entire situation is that this action is bound to deprive many boys of their college education. About 75 per cent of the boys who are plucked out of college by professional baseball clubs never come back to complete their education."

George Trautman, president, said, "This means that we can now open our seasons at full strength, something we've never been able to do before. It also means that the higher minors will be able to assign their surplus players to clubs of lower classification sooner than before. That will help all clubs right down the line."

Under the old rule, a major league club was permitted to carry its maximum of 40 players up to the time it had to conform to the 25 player limit in mid-way. A big league club usually started the season with 30 to 32 players. Thus some 50 players will be made available to the minors on opening day next April.

Full Court Press Won For U.S. Team

CHICAGO (AP)—A full court press proved to be the "secret weapon" that paved the way for the U. S. Olympic basketball team's comparatively easy job in winning the title at Melbourne.

Harold Tucker, coach of the U.S. team, told of this tactic Tuesday in a speech before a combined meeting of Chicago Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Chicago Basketball Writers' Assn.

Tucker said that for 70 per cent of the time his Olympic team played a pressing, aggressive type of game at Melbourne and "our full court press surprised them."

"After playing a 21-game tour before leaving this country, we were a tired squad," said Tucker. "But we rested up in the five days it took to get to Melbourne and reached our peak for the Olympics. The fellows played near perfect basketball."

"I was told that the Russians showed 100 per cent improvement in basketball since the last Olympics in 1952. But our full court press really surprised them. Our boys were just terrific."

The Olympic team and three college teams will compete Friday and Saturday in Loyola University's pre-holiday tourney at Chicago Stadium. Loyola meets San Francisco and the Olympic team faces Santa Clara in the second contest of Friday's doubleheader. The two winners and losers play each other in Saturday's windup.

'Fighter of Year' Award To Patterson

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson, the youngest heavyweight champion in the history of the prize ring, Tuesday was named winner of the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque as "fighter of the year" by the Boxing Writers' Assn.

The 21-year-old former Olympic champion who climaxed his spectacular rise by knocking out Archie Moore in five rounds at Chicago Nov. 30, will receive the award at the association's annual dinner, Jan. 24.

Patterson was the unanimous choice of the writers who did not consider any other nominee.

The Neil trophy is the most prized of all boxing awards and is presented annually to the fighter of the year or the man who did the most to advance the sport during the year. It is awarded in memory of the former Associated Press boxing writer who was killed in 1938 while serving as a correspondent in Spain.

Carmen Basilio, the welterweight champion, was the 1955 winner. It was originated in 1938. Patterson, a product of the Golden Gloves, moved to the top of the amateur ranks and won the Olympic championship as a middleweight at Helsinki in 1952. He turned professional on his return and has won 31 of his 32 fights, losing only on a disputed decision to Joey Maxim in eight rounds in 1954.

7 Romanians Stay with Hungarians in Australia

At Least 6 Major Coach Posts Open

NEW YORK (AP)—With a half-dozen or so of the best coaching jobs in college football up for grabs, the "big name" men of the coaching profession can expect to spend a lot of time denying rumors for the next month or so.

With the end of the 1956 college season, three head coaches with long and honorable records have gone into retirement and a half-dozen others have resigned—or have been politely fired—at major colleges.

The list reads like this: Retired—Lou Little, Columbia; Don Faurot, Missouri; and Jesse Hill, Southern California. The last two are moving into athletic directors' posts.

Resigned—Ed Price, Texas; Chalmer (Woody) Woodard, Southern Methodist; Bernie Crimmins, Indiana; Vince DiFrancesca, Iowa State; Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf, California; and John Sauer, the Citadel.

The names most prominently mentioned in connection with the major vacancies have been Oklahoma's highly successful Bud Wilkinson; Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech; Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State, and Frank Leahy, retired Notre Dame coach. There's no indication that any of them are interested in the jobs.

Texas, SMU, Iowa State and Southern California clearly are interested in coaches with well-known names and established reputations.

Here's a quick rundown of facts and rumors: Texas: Athletic Council to start interviewing candidates next week. Reported to have approached Leahy, Dodd, Biggie Munn, Michigan State athletic director and Arkansas Coach Jack Milgave Mitchell a pay raise and a seven-year extension of his contract.

SMU: Names mentioned unofficially include Dodd, Daugherty, Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee and

HAPPY TALK

As we all know, conversation is terribly important on a date. When lulls in the conversation run longer than an hour or two, one's partner is inclined to grow logy—even sullen. What, then, does one do?

If one is wise, one follows the brilliant example of Harlow Thurlow.

Harlow Thurlow prepares. That is his simple secret. Before the date, he goes to the library and reads all 24 volumes of the encyclopedia and transcribes their contents on his cuffs. Thus he makes sure that no matter what his date's interests are, he will have ample material to keep the conversation alive.

Take, for example, Harlow's first date with Priscilla de Gasser, a fine, strapping, blue-eyed broth of a girl, lavishly constructed and rosy as the dawn.

Harlow was, as always, prepared when he called for Priscilla, and, as always, he did not start to converse immediately. First he took her to dinner because, as everyone knows, it is useless to try to make conversation with an unfed coed.

So he took her to a fine steak house where he stoked her with goblets of Black Angus and mounds of French fries and thickets of escarole and battalions of petits fours. Then, at last, dinner was over and the waiter brought two finger bowls.

"I hope you enjoyed your dinner, my dear," said Harlow, dipping into his finger bowl.

"Oh, it was grandy-dandy!" said Priscilla. "Now let's go someplace for ribs."

"Later, perhaps," said Harlow. "But right now, I thought we might have a conversation."

"Oh, goody, goody, two-shoes!" cried Priscilla. "I been looking everywhere for a boy who can carry on an intelligent conversation."

"Your search is ended, madam," said Harlow and pulled back his sleeves and looked at his cuffs to pick a likely topic to start the conversation.

"I thought we might have a conversation"

Oh, woe! Oh, lackaday! Those cuffs on which Harlow had painstakingly transcribed such diverse and fascinating information—those cuffs were nothing now but a big, blue blur! For Harlow—poor Harlow!—splashing around in the finger bowl had gotten his cuffs wet and the ink had run and not one word was legible! And Harlow broke out in a night-sweat and fell dumb.

"I must say," said Priscilla after several silent hours, "that you are a very dull fellow. I'm leaving."

With that she flounced away and poor Harlow was too crushed to protest. Sadly he sat and sadly lit a cigarette.

All of a sudden Priscilla came rushing back. "Was that," she asked, "a Philip Morris you just lit?"

"Yes," said Harlow.

"Then you are not a dull fellow!" she cried and sprang into his lap. "You are bright! Anybody is bright to smoke such a perfect doll of a cigarette as today's rich, tasty Philip Morris, which is brimming-full of natural tobacco goodness and fresh unfiltered flavor... Harlow, tiger, wash your cuffs and be my love!"

"Okay," said Harlow, and did, and was.

The makers of Philip Morris Cigarettes, who bring you this column each week, are very happy for Harlow—and for all the rest of you who have discovered the true tobacco goodness of today's Philip Morris!

Hospital Christmas Lacks Adult Gifts

Christmas gifts for patients at the SUI Hospitals are being received "at a rapid rate" now from donors throughout Iowa, the Hospital Christmas Committee has announced.

But the group again has urged that more donors send adult-type presents. Both adults and children's gifts are needed, but in the mail currently arriving there's such a preponderance of items for youngsters that the committee anticipates a shortage of presents for older patients.

The committee also has announced that Christmas decorations would be appropriate items for donors to send. The decorations would be used to trim Christmas trees and corridors in the various areas of the University Medical Center. Any of the conventional types of decorations would be acceptable.

The donation of gifts has become an annual custom for many persons in all parts of the state. The presents are opened, sorted, gift-wrapped and then prepared for delivery to patients on Christmas Eve.

The response to the need for gifts has been so great in recent years that every person hospitalized at the Medical Center on Dec. 24 has been visited by Santa Claus, and all children who have been discharged between Dec. 12 and Christmas Day have received a gift to take home with them.

The committee requests that donors refrain from sending foodstuffs and from gift-wrapping their presents. Restrictive diets make foodstuffs impractical, and all gifts must be opened for sorting after they arrive at the hospitals.

Among the gifts which the committee has listed as being especially appropriate are: socks, handkerchiefs, toilet articles, dolls, games, playing cards, stationery and stamps, gloves, scarves, house slippers and billfolds.

Gifts should be addressed to the Christmas Committee, University Hospitals, State University of Iowa, Iowa City, Ia.

Education Honorary Initiates 16 Women

Sixteen women were initiated Tuesday evening into the SUI chapter of Pi Lambda Theta, honorary education sorority. The new initiates, all students in the SUI College of Education, were those initiated following a banquet at the Iowa Memorial Union. Margaret Marks, Iowa City public school teacher, represented the new initiates in responding to their official welcome into the group.

Doris E. Jakubek, instructor in education, is president of the University chapter of Pi Lambda Theta.

New initiates are: Suzanne Hahn, A3, Cedar Rapids; Marian Fetzer, G, Clinton; Phyllis Yager, G, Coon Rapids; Elizabeth Mathews, G, Creston; Nancy Lou Baker, A3, Davenport; Suzanne Ball, A3, Des Moines; Janice Barnes, A4, Iowa City; Carol Crawford, A3, Iowa City; Frances Horowitz, G, Iowa City; Margaret Marks, Iowa City; Shirley Matthes, A4, Iowa City. ## ATWE Elects New Officers Congressmen

Alfred T. Mitchell, Cedar Rapids, and Richard Lloyd-Jones, Iowa City, were elected president and vice-president respectively of the Association of Technical Writers and Editors of Eastern Iowa (ATWE) at the group's charter meeting recently in Cedar Rapids.

Mitchell, a former sports editor and city editor for the Iowa City Press-Citizen, is a 1946 graduate of the SUI School of Journalism. He is now a technical writer for Collins Radio in Cedar Rapids.

Lloyd-Jones, who earned his Ph.D. at SUI last February, directs the technical writing program of the SUI Department of English.

Roberta Burns, Cedar Rapids, was named secretary-treasurer of the 11th regional chapter to be formed by the national organization now numbering some 1,400 writers. The ATWE was formed to raise professional standards and to exchange information among the growing numbers of information writers in business and industry.

Others from SUI who attended the group's charter meeting included Harry Crosby, assistant professor of communication skills, Marvin H. Perry, instructor of journalism, and William M. Murray and John J. Hess, both graduate assistants in English.

Bartender Placed Under $500 Bond

DAVENPORT (AP) — Loren Roy Breault, 42, Davenport, was bound over to district court Tuesday under $500 bond on a charge of keeping liquor on the premises of a Class B beer permit.

Police Monday said they seized three bottles of liquor at the East Locust Tavern where Breault was bartender.

The raid resulted from the arrest last week of three teen-aged youths who police said admitted stealing liquor at the tavern.

Court States 2 Awarded Scholarships

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Supreme Court Tuesday sent back to the Polk County District Court for trial a suit brought by six licensed veterinarians. They asked that the law under which the Iowa Co-operative Assn. of Des Moines was organized be declared invalid and that the association be dissolved.

District Judge Ray C. Fountain had dismissed the veterinarians' case on grounds that the district court lacked jurisdiction.

The Supreme Court ruled "that actually the question is not one of jurisdiction but of the standing or right to maintain this suit."

The co-operative, incorporated in 1952, does business under the name of Diamond Laboratories and produces and markets anti-hot cholera serums, compounds for treating various animal diseases and similar products.

The six veterinarians, who claim the association is not operating within its legal limits, said the association confines sales to members of the veterinary profession. They contend that association membership is limited to licensed veterinarians at $2,500 a membership, and that members may be eligible for cash dividends.

Columbia Awards For Study Offered To Native Iowans

Natives of Iowa who have graduated from a college or university in Iowa and wish to pursue advanced studies at Columbia University may obtain application blanks for Lydia C. Roberts fellowships from the SUI Graduate College, it was announced today by Dean Walter F. Loehwing, of the Graduate College.

The scholarships provide a stipend of $2,500 a year and are awarded annually in political science, philosophy, and pure science; in the professional schools of business, journalism, architecture, engineering, library service, and international affairs; in the school of fine arts and the school of dramatic arts, or in Teachers College.

Transportation cost to New York will also be paid for winners of the fellowships. Applications for the Lydia C. Roberts Graduate Fellowships must be filed on or before Feb. 20 for the following academic year.

The first Chester A. Phillips scholarships of the SUI College of Commerce were awarded Tuesday — one of $250 to Norman Thiltgen, C4, Waterloo, and a second of $125 to Judith Doyle Overton, C4, Keokuk.

The scholarships are from income from a fund donated by former students and other friends of Dean-emeritus Phillips, who headed the College of Commerce from 1921 to 1950 and served as acting SUI President during 1940. Phillips is now on leave of absence from the University to serve as a visiting professor at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Ill.

Thiltgen is majoring in accounting. He is a graduate of Dunkerton High School and a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional commerce fraternity, and Beta Alpha Psi, accounting honorary.

11 Building Permits Issued in November

November construction in Iowa City amounted to $100,000, although new house construction was down to a low of two constructions during the month.

Building permits were issued to 11 concerns for both new construction and repairs. Besides the two new houses being built, the permits were for garages, porches, and remodeling of homes and business establishments.

A new $50,000 lodge to be built by the Fraternal Order of Eagles is the major part of coming construction. New Process Laundry and Cleaners are building a new $4,000 building at 204 Kirkwood. A $10,000 cabinet shop being built by Ralph Wagner at 922 Maiden Lane was also among the permits.

The total cost for the permits was $210.

No Action by Board On Hiring Consultant

The Education Committee of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce said that they approve bringing an educational consultant here to give suggestions for the problems Iowa City schools are facing, Buford W. Garner, superintendent of schools said Tuesday night.

Reporting to the Iowa City School Board, Garner said the Chamber of Commerce was the only group he had discussed the consultant matter with since the last meeting, December 4.

Garner was asked to look into the matter of employing an educational consultant to make a complete study of the junior-senior high housing problem and prepare written recommendations for the board.

He said that he had discussed the matter with the superintendent of schools in both Muscatine and Davenport, where educational consultants have been hired to suggest solutions to building problems.

Garner added, however, that he had no specific information to report to the board members yet.

"We have presented our proposal to the people and they have rejected it twice. I have no other suggestions. I don't think we have any other alternative but to bring in an educational consultant," Elwin T. Jolliffe, board member, said.

"I still feel the proposal we submitted to the people was the best one, but it wasn't accepted," James Curtis, president of the board, added.

"Perhaps outside help would give us new ideas for a solution," he said.

It was suggested that a member of the SUI faculty be consulted on the problem, but Garner said he felt that SUI did not desire to become involved in the problem.

"SUI Provost, Harvey H. Davis said that the school board should not consult SUI educational authorities," Garner said.

If a consultant is secured, it would probably take about a month for him to study the Iowa City problem and make a report on it, Curtis said.

He added that the planning schedule for the proposed project has been thrown too far off to get a program going by next fall, even if a consultant was hired and the Iowa City voters approved a bond issue.

In other action the board approved a paving project in front of the Herbert Hoover grade school, Court Street, between 4th Street and 1st Street will be paved.

Jolliffe said that the board has been considering the project for three years, and that money has been provided in the budget for the project.

The board also approved a motion for increasing the appraisal values on Iowa City schools for the General Fire and Comprehensive Insurance policies.

Renewal of the policies falls due December 15.

The motion calls for increases in insurance coverage by $359,900, $153,000 of the increase is due to the Mark Twain and Herbert Hoover additions recently, Robert Davis, secretary of the school board said.

He added that an $8,100 appraisal adjustment will be made on Horace Mann grade school because of increases in physical properties placed in the building.

He said that last year the school was insured for $10,000 while Longfellow school, a comparable building, was insured for $18,100.

The Latest in Yuletide Millinery

A NEW STYLE HAT? No. It may appear so above, but pretty Becky Wallace isn't wearing a top heavy Christmas bonnet. Actually, the Christmas tree is part of the Yule decorations in Cadiz, Ohio. The tree was mounted on one of the parking meters and Miss Wallace chose to stand in front of one of the meters thus producing the giant-sized hat illusion.

Revision of Movie Code Announced

NEW YORK (AP) — The first comprehensive revision of the Motion Picture Production Code, set up in 1930, was announced Tuesday by the Motion Picture Assn. of America (MPAA).

The revised code, showing some 20 changes, most of them bearing on moral principles, was outlined at a news conference in the office of Erick Johnston, MPAA president.

Johnston said the revision provided a "clarification," "strengthening" and "adding of new language."

The revised code, which Johnston said "is already in effect" — Hollywood has been advised, "removes some items from the "prohibited" category in the old code and places them in a "permissive" category in the revised form.

On the other hand, certain prohibitions which were covered by a single word in a listing in the old form, are now spelled out. For instance, the new code reads, "blasphemy is forbidden."

This is in an enlargement of an old section which disapproved of certain words and phrases. The new section continues bans on "irreverent" references to the Deity, God, Lord, Jesus and Christ.

The new code recognizes that the words "hell" and "damn," while sometimes "dramatically valid, will, if used without moderation, be considered offensive by many members of the audience."

Under a general section entitled "sex," the new code specifically bans "open-mouth kissing," adding this to a section which already forbids "lustful kissing, lustful embraces, suggestive posture and gestures . . ."

Church Defrocks 'Vanishing Vicar'

CHESTER, England (AP) — The vanishing Vicar of Woodford was unrobed Tuesday by a consistory court in Chester Cathedral.

The Rev. Philip St. John Wilson Ross, 52, left his Christ Church in Woodford in August of 1955.

His clothes were found on a beach in Wales. It was presumed he had drowned. His parishioners laid out a memory garden for him at Woodford Church last spring. His wife mourned him as dead.

Then last October he was found living in Switzerland with a wealthy British woman. The Swiss knew him as Sidney Davies.

Ross returned to England, went into hiding and did not appear at today's trial.

West, Egypt May Meet on Suez Dispute

PARIS (AP) — Britain and France Tuesday night were reported moving for a meeting with Egypt to seek a settlement of the Suez Canal dispute. They were said to be leaning toward Egypt's terms.

U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld would sit in on the conference, possibly in Geneva. Secretary of State Dulles was understood to be firmly supporting the new Western approach.

Britain and France were said to have given clear indications at the current NATO meeting in Paris they will accept less than the full international control of the Canal they have been demanding.

Western diplomats said the present intention of Britain and France is to seek a meeting quickly of the British, French and Egyptian foreign ministers.

Informants said British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau are ready to negotiate with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi on the basis of:

1. The six principles adopted by the UN Security Council and Egypt Oct. 13.

2. Hammarskjöld's interpretation of those principles as spelled out in a letter to Fawzi Oct. 24.

The six principles are: Freedom of access to the canal for all nations, respect for Egypt's sovereignty, insulation of the canal from politics, tolls to be fixed by agreement between Egypt and users, guarantees for developing the canal, and arbitration of disputes.

Hammarskjöld wrote Fawzi that international cooperation on the canal might be accomplished through an Egyptian operating authority, with representation for user nations.

The Egyptian Canal Authority and the user representatives would consult on legal matters, settlement of differences and fulfillment of decision. But the users would be bound not to interfere in the work of the canal authority.

Fawzi in a reply made public Nov. 3 agreed that Hammarskjöld's outline was worth trying as a possible basis for negotiations.

British and French willingness to make a new start toward a settlement was reported after Lloyd and Pineau discussed Suez in separate meetings with Dulles Monday.

Britain and France — and also the United States — heretofore have stood by an 18-power plan for creating an international authority to run the canal. The plan was drafted in London in September by the main nations using the canal.

Fatherhood Ether Whiff Too Much For New Father

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Becoming a father this week was a rigorous ordeal for John Henry Ardens.

He suffered two broken teeth and required eight stitches on his face.

After an all-night vigil at the hospital, he rushed up to kiss his wife as she was wheeled from the delivery room. At the whiff of the ether, he passed out cold and landed on his face on the concrete floor.

Red Diplomat Resigns Post

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Rear Adm. Konstantin Rodionov, long labeled as Moscow's "spy ambassador" to Sweden, Tuesday announced his resignation and early return to Moscow.

He acquired the tag of "spy ambassador" from the Swedish press because he was chief of the Soviet mission in Stockholm nearly seven years when the three biggest Russian spy cases in Swedish history became public sensations. As a result there was a storm of public protest against his continued stay.

A Swedish Foreign Office spokesman quoted Rodionov as saying that he had asked the Soviet government to relieve him and that his request had been granted.

Rodionov came to Stockholm as ambassador in April 1950.

One of the three Soviet spy rings smashed during Rodionov's stay devoted itself to Sweden's naval defenses against a seaborne invasion from the East. A second concentrated on Sweden's fortress defenses against an overland attack from the east across Finland. The third broken up this year, explored Sweden's radar defenses against Russia.

5-day Week Settles Omaha Bus Fight

OMAHA (AP) — The Omaha bus dispute was settled Tuesday by agreement on a five day week for drivers and a wage settlement.

The agreement calls for the five day week to be established by April 15 and drivers to get the same take-home pay during a gradual transition period from the first of the year to April 15.

On July 1 next year, the date the present contract ends, drivers will get a two cent increase to $2.12 an hour and maintenance and shop personnel will get a two cent increase, making top pay for mechanic's $2.19.

SUI Phi Beta Kappa Selects 28 Members

Twenty-eight students have been elected to the SUI chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society according to an announcement made Tuesday by Dean M. L. Huit, president of the SUI chapter and dean of students.

To be eligible for membership in Phi Beta Kappa, a student must be a candidate for—or already have received—a bachelor's degree in the SUI College of Liberal Arts, and must have ranked in the upper ten per cent of his class scholastically.

Initiation ceremonies for the new candidates will be held Jan. 21 at 5 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol, with a banquet honoring the initiates scheduled to follow in Iowa Memorial Union.

Seven of the group elected graduated from SUI last June, 16 graduated in August, and five will receive degrees in February at the SUI mid-year Commencement exercises.

New candidates include: David R. James, M2, Allison; Roy M. Pitkin, M2, Anthon; Bernard Weinberg, Cedar Rapids; James B. Miner, M2, Charles City; Doris M. Morton, A4, Des Moines; Floyd R. Baughman, Dow City; James E. Weber, L2, Fairfield; Robert W. Erickson, Iowa City;

Christian N. Jepson, M2, Iowa City; Thomas H. Kent, G, Iowa City; Elizabeth Jane Crawford Maher, A4, Iowa City; George A. Ojennemi, M2, Iowa City; John H. Randall, M2, Iowa City; Leonidas Raterman, M2, Iowa City; Norma Lee Grench, A4, Knoxville; Richard Lee Girsch, A4, LaPorte City; James V. Black, Lawyer; Robert McClung, M2, Letton; Vernon C. Madsen, L2, Manchester; James A. Percival, D2, Marshalltown; Ida M. Brendel, Muscatine;

James A. Holte, M2, Ringsted; Theodore P. Myers, M2, Sheldon; Susann Sonner, Spencer; Donna Jo Workman, Springville; Carol L. Haniel, A4, Tipton; Barbara Sue Work, Homewood, Ill.; Barry R. Fuller, G, Sydney, Australia.

Iowa Bride Wins $1,000 in 'Bakeoff'

NEW YORK (AP) — A young Iowa housewife won a $1,000 second prize in one division of the eighth annual Pillsbury "cook of the year" bake-off Tuesday.

Mrs. Herman D. Baldwin Jr. of Dallas Center, Iowa, won her award in the bride's division for her chicken cheese pie.

A California casserole of meat, gravy and dumplings won the $25,000 grand-prize for pink-cheeked gray-haired Mrs. Hildreth H. Hatheway of Santa Barbara, Calif.

The second grand prize winner was a 15-year-old farm girl from Olympia, Wash., Natalie R. Riggan who collected $10,000 for her "hoot owl cookies."

Tease Test

Measuring of Reflexes Furthers 'Science'

PARIS (AP) — A group of science-minded newsmen Tuesday subjected themselves to a medical experiment designed to test human endurance under the influence of the art of strip tease.

White-clad doctors measured the newsmen's pulse and tested their reflexes as Rita Renor, renowned strip artist, showed some of her skills.

The findings will be presented in the form of a report Thursday at a gala "night of medicine" banquet.
