FORMER BRITISH PRIME MINISTER Earl Clement Attlee and his wife arrived in Iowa City at 6 p.m. Wednesday by train. The plane on which they were to arrive early in the afternoon landed in Moline, Ill., because of bad Iowa weather. Attlee spoke Wednesday night at the Iowa Memorial Union.

Attlee Silent on Eden, Possible Successor

By JOHN BLEAKLY

Former British Prime Minister Clement Attlee, now the Earl Attlee, arrived in Iowa City late Wednesday only five hours after Sir Anthony Eden's resignation as prime minister, but declined to comment on the British political scene.

Asked to speculate on the next

British Prime Minister, Attlee said, "That's entirely the Queen's prerogative."

Attlee and his wife arrived in a heavy snowfall at 6 p.m. by train from Davenport. He was scheduled to arrive here by plane from Chicago, but poor weather conditions forced a landing at Moline, Ill.

Attlee was indifferent to newsmen at the railroad station.

"Please," he said after stepping from the train, "I've been interviewed 10 times already."

Attlee, who appeared travel-worn, was met at the railroad station by Prof. Arnold Rogow, of the SUI Political Science Department; Earl Harper, director of the Iowa Memorial Union and James Jordan, director of SUI relations.

Rogow, overnight host to Attlee, met the former Labor Party leader in 1951 while he was gathering information for a book on the Labor Party's post-war policies.

Attlee was also met by Charles Attlee Finch, a Waterloo attorney, who identified himself as a "distant relative" of the Earl. Finch said he met Attlee in England during the World War II when Attlee was Deputy Prime Minister in Winston Churchill's war cabinet.

After the Labor Party's defeat in the 1951 elections, Attlee occupied the position of leader of the opposition as head of the Labor Party.

Late in 1955 Attlee resigned from the House of Commons and was elevated to the peerage by Queen Elizabeth. He is now a member of the House of Lords.

Ask Comm Skills Grading Change

A petition asking for a change in teaching and testing procedure in the Communications Skills program at SUI is being circulated by four students from a 10:2 Communication Skills class.

A change in the testing-out procedures in Communications Skills the petition suggests would be beneficial to the students.

The petition is designed to arrange for a group discussion of one or two representatives from all Comm Skills classes with the director of the Communications Skills Department.

The four leaders in the petition are Terry Ross, A2, Onawa; Timothy Sullivan, A3, Cedar Rapids; Mrs. Patty Jean Caldwell, A1, Iowa City; and James McDaniel, A1, Iowa City.

TO RENEW SEALIFT BREMERHAVEN

This U.S.-operated German port on the North Sea plans to resume its sealift of Hungarian refugees to the United States Jan. 19. The Gen. Leroy Eltinge, which inaugurated the first sealift that took nearly 5,000 Hungarians to the United States in December, will lead off the new one.

Final examinations for the fall semester will replace the regular schedule of classes from 8 a.m. Friday, Jan. 25, until 5 p.m. Friday, Feb. 1.

This examination schedule applies only to students in the colleges of Commerce, Education, Engineering, Liberal Arts and the Graduate College.

No student is required to take more than three examinations in any one day. If an undergraduate student has more than three examinations scheduled in one day or two examinations scheduled for the same hour, he should file a request for a change of schedule at the Registrar's Office. All requests for such changes must be filed by 4 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 17.

Examinations in courses whose sections are to be combined for the examination are listed by department and course number. Examinations in all other courses having their first weekly meeting on Monday or Tuesday are listed by the day and hour of the first weekly lecture or recitation period.

In general, courses having examinations early in the period last June appear late in the period in this schedule.

Where two courses in different departments conflict, the department with the higher number has precedence. Where two courses in the same department conflict, the one with the higher course number has precedence. A few sectioned courses have been placed in blocks reserved for single section courses. In these cases, the single section courses, listed by time of first meeting, take precedence over the sectioned courses listed by number.

Eden's Poor Health Obvious, Attlee Says

By DIETRICH HARTMANN

Earl Clement Attlee attributed Anthony Eden's resignation to Sir Eden's bad health while Attlee was in Iowa City Wednesday to give a speech in the Iowa Memorial Union about the "World Today."

Attlee, Britain's Laborite prime minister in the first six years after the war, said that he didn't have to look at the medical bulletins of Eden's doctors after seeing him often during recent months.

"In fact, Sir Anthony's health was worse than most people realized," Attlee said.

Commenting on the demand of Hugh Gaitskell, British Labor Party leader, that general elections be held in England now that Eden was resigned, Attlee said that he would be happy if there were a general election under existing conditions.

When asked which of the two wings of the Labor Party would be dominant in a future election, Attlee said that "a good bird always uses both wings."

Attlee said nothing could be ventured on the chances of the Labor party under the present conditions.

He said that world wide public opinion did more to halt the British-French invasion of Egypt than any threat from Russia or the moral force of the United States through the United Nations.

"There are also some other people in the UN," Attlee said.

Attlee pointed out that British socialism owes much more to the Bible than to Marxism.

"The Bible is a pretty revolutionary book," Attlee said. The program of the Labor Party was never an orthodox economic theory. "We wanted to make the changes we saw necessary in this world and we carried our plans out," he said.

The Laborites, Attlee said, never insisted on nationalization for the sake of nationalization, but to economy where the initiative of the build up a welfare state and an community and of the individual as well were preserved and "we wanted to feed all the people and mainly the right people."

In his speech, Attlee said the great changes in the world today should always be peaceful and with the consent of all parts of society.

Attlee, at SUI for one of three stops in his Midwest lecture tour through the United States, stressed that some people behind the Iron Curtain think changes in the social and political structure of a nation always have to be accompanied by bloodshed and violence.

The fundamental changes his government initiated while he was the Laborite prime minister of Great Britain from 1945 to 1951, Attlee said, were achieved without violence and with the tacit consent of even the opposition Conservative Party.

At that time, Attlee said, the British Empire was transformed into a commonwealth.

Attlee who was introduced by SUI Prof. Earl Harper, director of the Union, as a great leader of his country and of people all over the world and one of the foremost citizens of the world, said that the British Socialites had been right in their conviction that the 20th century is one of the common man.

An old dying system was destroyed by the Labor Party, Attlee said and a new governmental form was erected on a sure foundation and a social basis.

Attlee said that all nations have to follow their own pattern to go through the painful changes this century demands. Britain, he said, gave a good example how these changes can take place, but the British pattern is "not applicable to all nations," though many countries followed our example.

Attlee said he was not too optimistic about changes in the Soviet orbit.

"It is, however, not possible to attack the Soviet Union and try to wipe out Communism by force, because this would arouse the patriotic feelings of millions of Russians."

Attlee said that there are some signs that there might be a change in Russia.

Attlee led Britain's Laborite government for six years, from 1945 to 1951. He was conferred the title of Earl by Queen Elizabeth upon his resignation from the House of Commons in December, 1955.

Attlee is at present a member of the House of Lords. His current tour is his first visit to this country since 1952.

SUI President Virgil Hancher could not attend Attlee's speech, though his health is steadily improving since his heart attack, Prof. Harper said.

Labor Party's Gaitskell Wants General Election

British Jets Fight Yemen Invaders

LONDON (AP) — British cannon-firing jet fighters are being used to dislodge Yemen soldiers and tribesmen from rocky positions they have occupied in the Aden Protectorate near the Red Sea, it was announced Wednesday.

An Eden government communication made public by the British Foreign Office said Yemen regular and irregular troops violated the frontiers of the British protectorate in the Beihan area in the last few days, and "Venom jet fighters were called to assist local security forces to repel the attackers."

"Aircraft used cannon in an attempt to dislodge aggressors from their mountainous positions and did not cross the Yemen border," it added. "No damage was done to RAF aircraft and there were no RAF casualties."

The Yemen government said Tuesday that it might be forced to call on "volunteers from all over the world" to fight the British. British government informants suggested that Yemen had Russian volunteers in mind.

British experts on the Middle East say pro-Egyptian elements in Yemen are exploiting the situation in an effort to undermine British prestige.

Yemen has long claimed the western part of Britain's Aden Protectorate. The frontier never has been settled to the satisfaction of both sides, and experts on the wild region say it is difficult to say exactly where it is.

Britain has "treaties of protection" with 19 sultans of the region and would like to bring them into a federation.

About 4 1/2 million Arabs live in Yemen.

Egypt Reportedly Happy Eden Quit

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Unofficial Egyptian reaction to Prime Minister Eden's resignation was jubilant Wednesday night.

One source in close touch with official circles said, "You can bet your last dollar" that British-Egyptian relations will improve with Eden out of the picture.

Government sources were silent however.

Demos, GOP Plan Curb Of Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's Democratic and Republican leaders joined forces Wednesday to offer a "middle ground" method of curbing filibusters, the legislative talk-shows.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Democratic chief, announced he would co-sponsor a resolution drafted by Sen. William Knowland of California, his GOP opposite number, to halt filibusters by a two-thirds vote of those senators present and voting.

In order to limit debate under the present rules, 64 votes, two-thirds of the Senate's full membership, are required.

Johnson said the Knowland resolution appealed to him "as being based upon the middle ground which is the strongest to stand upon."

"It would permit an orderly change of the rules but would recognize that the rules are . . . not subject to change because of a temporary gust of political wind," he added.

Any effective checkrein on filibusters could improve the chances of civil rights legislation at this session of Congress. Southern senators have frequently filibustered against civil rights bills and succeeded in talking them to death.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) announced earlier in the day that he and a nonpartisan group of colleagues were introducing 12 civil rights bills headed by a measure to provide federal protection of voting rights.

The Knowland substitute for the present disputed rule 22 would, in addition to reducing the number of votes required to limit debate, strike out a provision forbidding any time limit on debate on changing the rules. The substitute also provides that the Senate's rules would continue from one session of Congress to the next.

The Senate argued over these and other issues for six hours last Friday, finally voting 55-38 against a motion which would have opened all the rules to review at the beginning of this new session.

The Weather

Cloudy and Cold

Here's a scoop for those Iowa Citizens marveling from the window at the first really heavy snow fall: they're going to need one to move all of those millions of star-shaped crystalline water droplets to make a path to the car.

The weather predicted for today is expected to make the winter wonderland picture complete. Temperatures ranging in the mid-teens, under partly cloudy skies will make conditions ideal for sledding, skating or shoveling snow.

The outlook for tonight calls for colder temperatures and possibly more snow to top the unofficial seven inches that have fallen already.

Syria Gets Dozen Russ Jet Fighters

WASHINGTON (AP) — About a dozen Russian MIG-17 jet fighters were delivered to Syria within the last three days, diplomatic sources reported Wednesday.

The shipment was said to have been routed by sea to the Syrian port of Latakia.

It was understood Syria earlier had received some Soviet tanks, small arms, ammunition and armored cars as part of a $28 million arms deal between the small Middle East nation and Russia.

Officials said delivery of the MIG's raised no immediate serious danger because few Syrians are trained to fly them. Instructing new pilots is expected to take some time.

Iowa Projects Included In Proposed River Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $1,630,000 omnibus authorization bill for river and harbor projects — once rejected by President Eisenhower — was introduced in the new Congress Wednesday.

Included in the bill are proposals to spend $380,000 for navigation projects in Clinton and $8,060,000 for flood control on the Floyd River in Iowa.

See Butler or Macmillan for Eden's Post

LONDON (AP) — Sir Anthony Eden, choking back tears, resigned Wednesday night as prime minister — with the explanation his health prevented his continuing.

The leader of the opposition Labor party, Hugh Gaitskell, in Boston, called for a general election "because the whole Cabinet has publicly identified themselves completely with the foreign policy pursued . . . in the last three months."

Richard Austen Butler, Conservative party leader in the House of Commons, seemed to most politicians to be Eden's likely successor.

Both he and Harold Macmillan, another possibility for the job, are short on what is known as "the common touch." But so was Eden. Macmillan, 62, is chancellor of the exchequer — boss of the nation's austerity program.

Eden, 59, stepped down while the repercussions still were sounding from the ill-starred invasion of Egypt he authorized in October. He resigned with "utmost regret," saying:

"I do not feel that it is right for me to continue in office . . . knowing that I shall be unable to do my full duty."

In a farewell statement, he said:

"When I returned to this country a month ago from a three weeks rest in Jamaica I hoped that my health had been sufficiently restored to enable me to carry out my duties effectively for some considerable time. That hope has not been realized."

"I do not feel that it is right for me to continue in office as the Queen's first minister knowing that I shall be unable to do my full duty by my sovereign and the country."

"I have therefore decided with the utmost regret that I must tender my resignation to the Queen which her majesty has been graciously pleased to accept."

In Washington, President Eisenhower voiced hope that Eden, his "old and good friend," soon will recover and enjoy "many useful years of happiness."

Bus Segregation Brings Militia Alert

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Marvin Griffin Wednesday night put the state militia on a standby basis shortly after six Negro ministers sat in reserved-for-white sections on Atlanta city buses.

Griffin told a hastily called news conference he was instructing the adjutant general of Georgia to hold his forces ready to put down any "riots, insurrection and breaches of the peace" at a moment's notice.

"I shall not hesitate to utilize the full powers of the governor as commander in chief of the armed forces of the state to the end that human life shall be preserved and property protected from destruction," he said in a statement.

The governor said it had been called to his attention that the "public peace and domestic tranquility in the City of Atlanta area are now threatened by provocations arising from utterances and incitements of out-of-state agitators."

Atlanta Mayor William B. Hartsfield declined comment on the governor's standby order.

Earlier Wednesday the ministers took seats in the front section normally reserved for white people.

While they sang, prayed and read the Bible, the vehicle-operated by the Atlanta Transit Co. — pulled over to the curb and reported out of service due to mechanical difficulties.

The Rev. William Holmes Borders, pastor of the Wheat Street Baptist Church and leader of the campaign against segregated bus seating, said "we will do something else." He said the next move will be planned at another mass meeting of Negroes at his church.

He indicated the campaign, emphasizing nonviolence, will continue until "they let us ride in peace," or the issue comes to a showdown.

The decision to launch the desegregation move was made at such a meeting Tuesday night.

As planned, the Rev. Mr. Borders and his group gathered at Atlanta's downtown Five Points and after passing up one bus as too crowded, boarded a trolley bus and took their seats in the front section.

A transit system supervisor walked over and ordered the driver: "Let it sit there."

White passengers left the bus and the supervisor, R. L. Wages, called a crew of mechanics who tinkered briefly with the vehicle and then drove it off. The Negroes got off shortly thereafter.

S.D. University Student Kills Coed, Takes Life

VERMILLION, S. D. (AP) — An attractive University of South Dakota coed was shot and killed by her former fiancé who then took his own life Wednesday.

Joanne Bruyer was shot down in her mother's home Tuesday night. Donald Steele, 20, died in a Sioux City, Iowa, hospital a few hours after State's Atty. Theodore Dolney said the youth fired at least five bullets into Miss Bruyer's head and body.

The Daily Iowan

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the university. The Iowan's editorial policy, therefore, is not an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion in any particular.

Military or Economic?

President Eisenhower's program for the Middle East is now before Congress.

- Under it the United States would:
 1. Guarantee that the United States would come to the aid of any Middle East nation that becomes a victim of aggression.
 2. Provide to these nations military aid.
 3. Provide to these nations economic aid. The President has asked Congress to appropriate $200 million for this purpose for use during the next two years.

Some sort of positive action by the United States must be taken in the Middle East, where shaky governments are in danger of Communist overthrow.

Already, however, Congressional leaders have started quibbling over the President's program.

Sam Rayburn, Speaker of the House and a leader of the Democratic-controlled Congress, said Wednesday that there is sentiment afoot in Congress to leave economic aid out of the bill altogether.

The proponents of this idea presumably would make the pact strictly one in which the United States gave military aid to Middle East nations and insured them against Communist aggression.

A move of this sort would be a very bad mistake. It would strengthen the hand of those in the world who contend that the United States wants the peoples of other nations only as cannon fodder.

This claim has been made in the past and the United States, by its policies, has left itself wide open to it.

We have inaugurated the Marshall Plan and Greek-Turkey Aid and other aid programs since the end of World War II.

But we have also spent billions for our own defense and have signed military pacts all over the world. Secretary of State Dulles has often seemed more concerned with containing Russian imperialism with military pacts than with a ring of well-fed, poverty-free nations with hopes for the future.

SUPPOSE that we do arm Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Jordan and Saudi Arabia against the threat of Communist aggression.

Could these nations halt or impede for any length of time Soviet armed might once it decides to move in the Middle East.

Of course they couldn't, any more than the state of Mississippi could resist an invasion of federal troops.

THE POINT could be made that these nations must be made strong enough to resist aggression from one of their Arab neighbors, should that neighbor come under Soviet influence, as many fear has been the case with Syria. Syria has been made the recipient of arms and airplanes from Soviet Russia.

Are we to set off an arms race with all the resulting tensions by supplying pro-Arab nations with more arms? Are we to build up tensions with more military pacts? Do we need to guarantee free or pro-western nations of the world against invasion from Communist or pro-Communist nations by a pact and unified commands of our armed forces with theirs?

Our Sixth Fleet, poised in the Mediterranean Sea with all of its air power, is enough to insure that one Arab nation will not attack another against our wishes.

The cornerstone of any new Middle East policy by the United States should be economic aid.

Effective economic aid could help to quiet the unrest in the Middle East, one of the world's most poverty-ridden areas, far more than would tanks and jet fighters.

It could help ease the problem of the Arab refugees from Israel, who still form a block of discontent and will until they are re-settled in decent homes.

It is hoped that Congress will not be niggardly on the $200 million President Eisenhower has asked. It may prove to be a small price to pay to avoid another Sarajevo.

If Congress must turn a skeptical eye upon the President's askings it should focus it upon the military portions of his program.

Communism in Art

The Daily Iowan disagrees with practically every sentence in the article on this page entitled "Accuses Modern Art."

Few Americans have developed an interest in art and fewer understand it. It is among the great mass that does not understand art that the danger lies.

Those who depend upon the sensational to keep their names in the news have sought to tell the American public that modern art is subversive, Communist-inspired and therefore, dangerous.

This sort of talk needs to be refuted. We hope that our readers will rise to the occasion.

Accuse Modern Art Michigan Congressman Says It Is An Instrument of Communists

By REP. GEORGE DONDERO (R-MICH.) (From a speech in Congress)

Quite a few individuals in art, who are sincere in purpose, honest in intent, but with only a superficial knowledge of the complicated influences that surge in the art world of today, have written me — or otherwise expressed their opinions — that so-called modern or contemporary art cannot be Communist because art in Russia today is realistic and objective.

The left-wing art magazines advance the same unsound premises of reasoning, asserting in editorial spasms that modern art is real American art. They plead for tolerance, but in turn tolerate nothing except their own subversive "isms."

THE HUMAN ART hermits, disciples of multiple "isms" that compose so-called modern art, boring industriously to destroy the high standards and priceless traditions of academic art, find comfort and satisfaction in the wide dissemination of this spurious reasoning and wickedly false declaration, and its casual acceptance by the unwary.

This glib disavowal of any relationship between communism and so-called modern art is so pat and so spontaneous a reply by advocates of the "isms" in art, from deep, Red Stalinist to pale pink publicist, as to identify it readily to the observant as the same old party-line practice. It is the party line of the left wingers, who are now in the big money and who want above all to remain in the big money, voiced to confuse the legitimate artist, to disarm the arousing academician and to fool the public.

LET ME TRACE for you a main artery from the black heart of the isms of the Russian Revolution to the very heart of art in America. In 1914 Kandinsky, a Russian-born Expressionist and nonobjective painter, who found it safer to live in Germany, returned to Russia, and 3 years later came the revolution. He is the man who preached that art must abandon the logical and adopt the illogical. He dominated a group of black knights of the isms, who murdered the art of the Russian academics. They were Cubists, Futurists, Expressionists, Constructivists, Suprematists, Abstractionists, and the rest of the same ilk. Kandinsky was a friend of Trotsky, and after the revolution founded the Moscow Institute of Art Culture. He was Communist leader in Red art — the commissar of the isms.

Kandinsky remained in Russia until 1921, when the art of the isms began to feel the iron grip of the new art control, the art for the sake of propaganda, the art of social realism. Kandinsky went back to Germany.

THE COMMUNIST ART that has infiltrated our cultural front is not the Communist art in Russia today — one is the weapon of destruction, and the other is the medium of controlled propaganda. Communist art outside Russia is to destroy the enemy, and we are the enemy of Communism. Communist art in Russia is to delude the Russian workers.

The art of the isms, the weapon of the Russian Revolution, is the art which has been transplanted to America, and today, having infiltrated and saturated many of our art centers, threatens to overawe, override and overpower the fine art of our tradition and inheritance. So-called modern or contemporary art in our own beloved country contains all the isms of depravity, decadence, and destruction.

What are these isms that are the very foundation of so-called modern art? They are the same old lot of the Russian Revolution, some with transparent disguises, and others added from time to time as new convulsions find a new designation. I call the roll of infamy without claim that my list is all-inclusive: dadaism, futurism, constructionism, suprematism, cubism, expressionism, surrealism, and abstractionism. All these isms are of foreign origin, and truly should have no place in American art. While not all are media of social or political protest, all are instruments and weapons of destruction.

TO TRACE the origin, development and history of all these isms is a task too lengthy for the time available to me here, and also beyond the scope of my intention. But I do tag them specifically, as well as generally, as instruments of destruction.

CUBISM aims to destroy by designed disorder.

FUTURISM aims to destroy by the machine myth. The futurist leader, Marinetti said: "Man has no more significance than a stone."

DADAISM aims to destroy by ridicule.

EXPRESSIONISM aims to destroy by aping the primitive and insane. Klee, one of its three founders, went to the insane asylums for his inspiration.

ABSTRACTIONISM aims to destroy by the creation of brainstorms.

SURREALISM aims to destroy by the denial of reason.

The four leaders of the Cubist group were Picasso, Braque, Leger, and Duchamp, but what these Reds are today is another matter.

But no matter what others call Picasso, he has said of himself: "I am a Communist and my painting is Communist painting."

Concerning the other three, Braque, Leger, and Duchamp, there is variation only in degree of imbalance. Leger and Duchamp are now in the United States to aid in the destruction of our standards and traditions. The former has been a contributor to the Communist cause in America; the latter is now fancied by the neurotics as a surrealist.

THE FOUNDING of surrealism is attributed to one Andre Breton. Samuel Putnam, former Red art critic for the Communist publication New Masses, says: "The surrealists are avowed Communists."

International Literature — Communist publications.

SALVADOR DALI, another Spanish surrealist, is now in the United States. He is reported to carry with him at all times a picture of Lenin.

English surrealists are Barbara Hepworth and Stanley Hayter, the latter now a resident of the United States and a member of the American contingent on the Panel of Visual Art of UNESCO.

Add to this group of subversives the following American satellites and the number swells to a rabble: Motherwell, Pollock, Bazoties, David Hare and Marc Chagall. The last named is lauded by Communist publications and is a sponsor of the School of Jewish Studies, cited by Attorney General Tom Clark "as an adjunct in New York City of the Communist Party."

At this school Chagall is associated with some of the old gang, including Minna Harkavy, Louis Lozowick, William Gropper, Philip Evergood, Raphael Soyer and Lena Gurr.

Yves Tanguy, a French surrealist, now transplanted to the United States, was a signer of the revolutionary manifesto of the surrealists, and a beneficiary of Peggy Guggenheim.

IT MAKES little difference where one studies the record, whether of surrealism, dadaism, abstractionism, cubism, expressionism or futurism. The evidence of evil design is everywhere. Only the roll call of the art contortionists is different.

We are now face to face with the intolerable situation, where public schools, colleges, and universities, art and technical schools, invaded by a horde of foreign art mangers, are selling to our young men and women a subversive doctrine of "isms." Communist-inspired and Communist-connected, which have one common, boasted goal — the destruction of our cultural tradition and priceless heritage.

All, or nearly all, of these cultural centers have an upper level of conservatism, substance, extreme respectability and unchallenged Americanism, but there tolerant complacents cover a very active lower stratum of pink busy-bodies, who squander institutional funds in an orgy of spending to hasten the destruction of the art of our great inheritance.

IN MY PREVIOUS addresses on this subject, I have used the word infiltration in describing the present Red element in American art. This is an understatement. Communist art, aided and abetted by misguided Americans, is stabbing our glorious American art in the back with murderous intent.

Wreck Starts Accident Chain; 37 Cars Collide

DETROIT (AP) — Hampered by wet, slippery pavement and mud-splattered windshields, 37 cars were damaged in 12 separate accidents Wednesday on Detroit's West-East Ford Expressway. No injuries were reported.

No Mike, TV Cameras For Congresswoman

By GEORGE DIXON (King Features Syndicate)

WASHINGTON — After President Eisenhower asked a joint session of Congress for powers to head off Communist aggression in the Middle East there was a brief lull to get the House chamber cleared of non-members and then the lower branch of Congress resumed legislative operations. First to get the nod from Speaker Sam Rayburn to launch into debate was Rep. Edith Rogers, of Massachusetts.

The eminent gentleman advanced to where the microphones should have been, but discovered they had all been taken away. She began speaking without benefit of mechanical amplification but although she raised her finishing school voice several octaves, she couldn't make herself heard.

She was talking in a silent vacuum when the television technicians returned to the gallery to dismantle their equipment. They couldn't hear a sound from the floor below so naturally assumed the house had adjourned.

The 76-year-old gentleman was putting over a telling point when she was shocked to a halt by what seemed a most unparliamentary request from above.

Actually it was the chief of the camera crew shouting to an assistant in the opposite gallery, but Mrs. Rogers thought it was directed at her.

Cupping his hands, the fellow below: "Hey! You got a screwdriver?"

I happened to be loitering on the second floor in the House wing when the "members and press" elevator came up from the basement. Robert Montgomery, the TV producer, stepped out; then the White House brain trust; then the cabinet officers except Defense's Wilson.

If I hadn't witnessed it with my own eyes I wouldn't have believed so many big Republicans could be packed into that narrow elevator. In some odd way it made me think of the previous day's save-the-filibuster speech of Senator Richard Russell, of Georgia, when he warned of the monstrous things that would emerge if they opened "Pandora's Box."

The notables continued to pop out of the lift until there was only one man, flattened against the back. He let his lungs fill again and stepped out. It was President Eisenhower.

They went through a melodramatic show of synchronizing watches, although the capitol, including the House chamber, gleams with electric clocks which are never off a quarter of a second.

The joint session was to go on the air at precisely 12:30 p.m., so to show he was hep to television jargon, Fishbait took a Shakespearean stance and recited to the approving-nodding Montgomery: "All right. We'll move the President in at thirty!"

There were so many beguiling little incidents that I can't remember half of them. I recall, however, seeing the new senator from Pennsylvania, Joseph Sill Clark Jr., come out of the House chamber and began looking around as if in search of something.

He kept peering into the labyrinth of alcoves, recesses, hidden passageways and unexpected corridors that makes the U.S. capitol a minotaurian maze. He was retracing his steps out of a cul de sac when he bumped into Senator J. William Fulbright, who has been trying to learn his way here since 1942 when they sprung him from the presidency of the University of Arkansas. The newcomer clutched the oldtimer in drowning grip.

"Say," beseeched Philadelphia's erstwhile mayor, "is there a place to eat around here?"

"This capitol," replied the Arkansas pedagogue, "is honeycombed with restaurants, private dining rooms, cafeterias, coffee shops and snack bars."

"But," he counseled, "You would be wise to skip them all, or you are almost certain to pick up uncouth table manners and begin talking with your mouth full."

Arabs Wary

But Roberts Says U.S. Would Send Forces Only Where Asked

By J. M. ROBERTS AP News Analyst

Certain Arab factions, encouraged by Communist advisers, are making a determined effort to distort the meaning of the Eisenhower-Dulles policy for the Middle East.

One point in particular — the proposal for military aid in case of aggression — is being misconstrued by half-truths.

In discussing the program, reference is frequently made to the United States intention of meeting any Russian force with American force. Reference is seldom made to the qualification "if asked" by a threatened state.

This is frequently presented as the major and most active part of the program, when in reality it is primarily intended as an inactive warning signal to Moscow, a deterrent which would permit economic stabilization and mobilization of the Middle East's own capabilities for meeting calmly the pressures produced by its strategic position.

Many Arab leaders, however, continue to express doubt about this attitude, and to wonder out loud if the United States intends to use economic aid as a lever toward military alliances.

The administration, in the case of Poland and Hungary, said it was interested in their independence, not in corraling them as allies, and the same applies in the Middle East.

The inferences of the President's statement to Congress are clear on this point.

The program would, however, cover the case of any Arab state which was deemed to have become a Russian satellite. In the case of an attack by such a satellite, or by any of the existing satellites, on a Middle Eastern state, a request by the attacked state would bring American armed intervention.

University Play Depicts Irish Tenement Life

A FEW REPERCUSSIONS are in store for Captain Jack Boyle when people find that he really hasn't inherited a fortune. Starring in Sean O'Casey's "Juno and the Paycock," the Captain is played by Howard Malpas, G. Detroit. Shown left to right are Margaret Nuckols, A3, Philadelphia, Pa., Mrs. Maisie Madigan; Robert Baker, A3, Erie, Pa., "Needle" Nugent, and Gunther Bruggeman, G, Brooklyn, "Joxer" Daly. The play, presented in the University Theatre, opens tonight and will run through Jan. 19.

SINGING HERE is Mrs. Maisie Madigan. The play is directed by Ronald C. Gee, instructor in the SUI Dramatic Arts Department.

Rare Volumes On Display at SUI Library

Editions de luxe — some of them requiring several years to illustrate and to bind in costly leathers and fabrics — are now on display in the SUI library and will remain through Jan. 31.

The 67-book exhibit commemorates the 50th year of the Mark Ranney Memorial collection at SUI. Mrs. Ranney bequeathed some 3,000 specially bound and limited edition volumes to the University upon her death in 1907. The books are in memory of her husband, superintendent of the state mental hospital at Mt. Pleasant from 1885 until his death in 1882. Dr. Ranney also gave a series of lectures in the SUI College of Medicine during the 1870's.

Centering the exhibit is the 12-volume Life of Napoleon Bonaparte which won the Gold Medal for fine binding at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis in 1904. Mrs. Ranney purchased the set then for $12,000.

The only set of its kind in existence, it was two years in the making by the Hertzberg Monastery binders in Chicago. Bound in dark green morocco leather, the books are embossed with gold and inlaid with varicolored leathers. All the known arts of picture making during the 19th century are represented in the volumes, including copper plates, steel plates, etchings, lithographs, photographs and 3-color printing processes.

Another featured volume is an Old Testament on whose illustrations the French artist James Tissot spent eight years of constant labor after spending several years visiting and studying the country and the people of Palestine.

A first edition of Lewis Wallace's novel "Ben-Hur," which was valued at $300 in 1931; a reproduction of the 15th-century Earl of Ellesmer's volume of Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales," and limited deluxe editions of other great English poets are among the works on display. Several of the most famous bindings in the British Museum and in the Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris are also represented in the exhibit.

FORSAKEN BY HIS FAMILY and relieved of the furniture he had bought on credit, the Captain finds consolation in the company of his old friend "Joxer". The play is set in Dublin, Ireland, during the period of civil strife in the 1920's.

India Subject Of SUI Bose Talk Tuesday

Nasir Ahmed Kahn, of the faculty of Lucknow University of India, will be guest lecturer for the eighth annual Sudhindra Bose Memorial Lecture to be given in Shambaugh Lecture Room of the University Library at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Kahn will speak on "Experiences of Economic Planning in India." He has studied the problems of growth of the Indian economy for the past five years. He received B.A., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees in economics from Lucknow University, where he has been lecturer and reader in the Department of Economics and Sociology since 1945.

Kahn is now in residence at the University of Chicago, where he is continuing his research on India's "underdeveloped economy" in the light of experience gained in the United States.

Open to the public, the Bose Memorial Lectures were established by Mrs. Sudhindra Bose of Iowa City, in honor of her husband, who was professor of oriental politics and civilization at SUI from 1912 until his death in 1946. The lectures feature the life and culture of India.

Speaker for the 1956 Bose Lecture was Arthur S. Lall, permanent representative of India to the UN, who spoke on India's attitudes toward the Western nations.

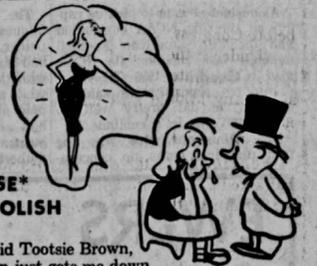

BLIND JUSTICE

ASHEVILLE, N. C. — Nine teen-agers who were caught shooting fireworks here have been sentenced to copy 25 times the 500-word act "prohibiting the purchase, sale, transportation, possession, advertisement and use of pyrotechnics in the State of North Carolina." City Judge Sam M. Cathey also reminded them in a courtroom lecture that fireworks and explosives are major causes of blindness and loss of fingers and hands. They knew whereof he spoke. He was blinded years ago by a dynamite explosion.

Iowa Town May Cross State Line

OMAHA — Former Omaha Mayor Roy N. Towl, a consulting engineer, said Wednesday that if the proposed flexible Nebraska-Iowa boundary on the Missouri River is adopted Carter Lake should become a part of Nebraska. "We all know that Carter Lake should be in Nebraska for physical and political reasons," he said. Iowa Conservation Commission Director Bruce Stiles had proposed that a new compact be made providing that the center of the main channel of the Missouri should be the boundary regardless of how the channel may shift.

Malpas, who has the lead role in the play, has had two command performances before royalty.

Survivors include his widow, Madge; a son, Hugh of Burlington; a stepson Robert Curtis of Athens, Ohio; six grandchildren and two brothers.

Admiral's Ship Beached At Beginning of Cruise

LONG BRANCH, N. J. — A one-time Cornell University psychology major who wants to be the first man to sail around the world in a kayak was beached early Wednesday by southeasterly winds. Henry Rachtioner, 36, left the Gravesend section of Brooklyn, N. Y., early Sunday aboard the 17-foot rubber kayak.

Burlington Editor Dies Unexpectedly

BURLINGTON — Funeral services for Charles W. McLaury, 62, managing editor of the Burlington Hawk-Eye Gazette, will be held at Christ Episcopal Church here at 2 p.m. Friday.

McLaury died unexpectedly at his home Wednesday. He had not been ill. He was a native of Burlington and had been a newspaperman here for 43 years. He was in the Army in World War I.

Survivors include his widow, Madge; a son, Hugh of Burlington; a stepson Robert Curtis of Athens, Ohio; six grandchildren and two brothers.

Gophers Escape NCAA Penalty

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The powerful NCAA Council, in a day of voting "no," decided Wednesday not to penalize the University of Minnesota for having used an ineligible player in the 1956 NCAA baseball championships and not to lighten penalties previously inflicted on three colleges — Washington, UCLA and Southern California.

As business began to pick up rapidly at the 51st NCAA convention and the 34th American Football Coaches Assn. meeting, the NCAA also released its 1956 Television Committee report which said, in effect, "we did pretty well on football TV, so let's continue."

The Minnesota case was the first that had come up concerning an ineligible player in a NCAA team championship and produced the rather surprising revelation that the NCAA had no general policy concerning such a situation. That was corrected at a meeting last August, but meanwhile the council was faced with the problem of what to do in this one instance. It decided to do nothing.

The player was Bill Horning, Minnesota captain and star outfielder, from Watertown, S. D., who had signed a professional contract with the Cedar Rapids, Iowa club while still in high school. He wasn't paid anything and didn't play pro ball and when he entered college baseball he didn't tell university authorities about it.

Other action will keep the powerful UCLA and USC track teams out of the NCAA championships as well as their basketball, tennis, golf and other teams. USC, on two-year probation, is barred from these events for only one year, Washington for two and UCLA for three. The institutions, if they desire, may carry their appeal to the convention Friday.

The 1956 Television Committee report said the committee considered the plan of eight national and five regional football telecasts, in effect for two years, had been successful. And it offered the usual resolution for continued control and the appointment of a new committee for 1957.

Giants in Desperate Bid To Sign Robinson

NEW YORK (AP) — In a final desperate effort to persuade Jackie Robinson to change his mind and consent to play just one more season, the New York Giants Wednesday made him one of the most attractive offers ever dangled before a ball player.

The Associated Press learned that Charles Feeney, Giants vice-president offered Robinson a one-year contract that, together with his purchase price from Brooklyn, would cost the Giants a cool $100,000. In addition, Robinson was offered other considerations designed to be of benefit to him after his playing days are over.

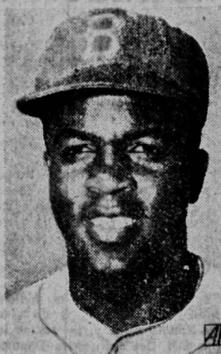

The AP also learned that Robinson's new employers, the Chock Full O'Nuts Co., is now not only willing but eager for Jackie to play baseball this season. William Black, president of the company and an ardent baseball fan, has given Robinson the go-ahead sign and assured him that the same $30,000 job — that of vice-president in charge of personnel — would be waiting for him in October.

Robinson, in a telephone conversation with Feeney, agreed to dine with him Wednesday night and listen to his proposition. The sensitive diamond star, however, said nothing had changed since his last conversation with the Giants and that he was as determined as ever to stick to his retirement decision.

"I feel, as a matter of courtesy I should listen to what Feeney has to say," said Robinson. "But if he expects me to change my mind, he is going to be disappointed. The financial angle has no bearing in this case. It has gone far beyond that."

"If I ever had any thought of changing my mind, Buzzie Bavasi (Dodger vice-president) ended all that with his slurring remarks about my character. I think they hurt me more than anything that ever happened during my baseball career."

None of the Giants officials were available for comment. Feeney could not be reached immediately.

Hoosiers Dees, 3 Gophers Top Big 10 Scoring

CHICAGO (AP) — Indiana's Archie Dees and his Hoosier mates apparently have benefited by basketball's traditional home court advantage in the infant Big Ten race.

Official statistics Wednesday listed Dees as the conference scoring leader with 54 points, a 27.0 average, after Indiana swept to home victories over Michigan and Wisconsin.

In the first round of conference play, six of nine games were won by host teams.

Coaches Blasted By Kansas City Official

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A proposal by college coaches that major and minor league baseball scouts be banned from campus contacts with prospective players drew fire Wednesday from General Manager Parke Carroll of the Kansas City Athletics.

"Before the colleges start shooting at anybody they had better put their own house in order," steamed Carroll, whose A's had been cited as an example of unrestricted campus raiders.

"I'm willing to bet that all of the players signed by professional baseball last year didn't cost as much eligibility as was lost in the disciplinary action taken by the Pacific Coast Conference," Carroll said in an interview with the Kansas City Star.

Coach Ethan Allen of Yale, president of the American Assn. of College Baseball Coaches, singled out the Kansas City club in a speech before the group meeting in St. Louis Monday. After Allen spoke, the association recommended that the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. clamp down on baseball scouts.

Winter Sports Take Spotlight

Winter sports have taken over the spotlight now that only pleasant memories remain of the successful Iowa football season.

Basketball seems to attract the most attention despite the fact, possibly unknown to many, that Iowa fields teams in five other indoor sports.

On any afternoon during the week, one can find the Fieldhouse bustling with activity as the fencing, gymnastics, swimming and track squads prepare for their first meets of the season and the wrestling team eyes its invasion of Champaign, Ill., on Saturday, January 12.

The fencing team under the direction of Frank Craig, senior law student, who has taken over the coaching chores for 1937, is built around the nucleus of three major lettermen and four minor letter winners.

Heading the list are seniors Dick Gibson from Corning and Bob Hicklin, Des Moines, both double letter winners. These two men participate in the sabre event. Dave Dittmer, a junior from Des Moines, who participates in the epee event, is the other major letter winner. Hicklin and Dittmer are the co-captains of the squad.

The first meet is in the Fieldhouse against Wisconsin and Indiana, Saturday, January 12.

Coach Norman Holzhaefer finds seven lettermen on his squad as he returns for his ninth season at Iowa as gymnastics coach. The group is led by Sam Baillie, senior from St. Petersburg, Fla., who has compiled a total of 628½ points in 21 meets over a span of two seasons.

Also adding strength to the squad is Staffan Carlson, a junior from Orebro, Sweden who competed on the Swedish Olympic team.

The season opens for the gymnastic Hawkeyes in the Fieldhouse Saturday, January 12 against Indiana.

The 1937 season will be David Armbruster's fourth as head swimming coach at SU. He has developed 72 all-American swimmers and two Olympic team members.

The prospects are regarded as good with nine letterman forming the backbone of the squad. Included is Lincoln Hurring, from Duncedin, New Zealand, National Collegiate and Big Ten 100 and 200-yard backstroke champion. One of the big reasons for the bright outlook is the balance in most of the events.

The season opens at Madison, January 12 against Wisconsin. The first home meet is February 2 against Illinois.

The chief worry of Francis Cretz-meyer, head track coach will be the lack of experienced athletes in several events. Leading a group of eleven lettermen will be Charles

Hire Broyles As Missouri Head Coach

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Affable Frank Broyles, a 10-year coaching veteran at 32, Wednesday was named head football coach at the University of Missouri to succeed Don Faurot.

Dr. Elmer Ellis, president of the University, who made the announcement, said Broyles, backfield coach at Georgia Tech the last three years, was hired for three years. The salary was not disclosed.

Broyles, a native of Atlanta, Ga., and a former Georgia Tech three-sports star, was assistant coach three years at Baylor and one year at Florida before returning to his alma mater six seasons ago as backfield coach under Bobby Dodd.

Faurot announced last September he was pitching in the coaching reins after 19 seasons to devote full time to the athletic directorship followed the 1936 schedule. He said whether present members on the Missouri staff would be retained was up to Broyles.

The young Georgian said he would take care of the matter at the "earliest opportunity."

It has been rumored for weeks that three, possibly four members of Faurot's staff would be kept by the new coach for at least one year.

Dr. Ellis said Broyles was the unanimous choice of both the university's Faculty-Alumni Committee and the Board of Curators.

Faurot said Broyles was chosen after numerous candidates had been screened. Fourteen came up for interviews.

WE DID, when we looked "THE GAME OF LOVE" into our theatre—because it is controversial and fascinating—because it is as Colette intended it to be—because we sincerely believe it is a fine motion picture.

Lodge Asks Russ-Hungary Investigation

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United States disregarded mounting Soviet bitterness Wednesday and demanded creation of a special UN committee to seek out the truth on the Hungarian situation.

The Soviet Union blasted the United States for what it called continued efforts to sow strife in Hungary and criticized Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld for allegedly taking sides with the West.

It was the Soviet Union's first attack against Hammarskjöld on a major issue. The secretary general had recommended the appointment of a special UN committee to seek information on Hungary.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. called on the 80-nation General Assembly to adopt a resolution setting up a 5-nation watchdog committee that could dig up facts anywhere and anytime they could be found.

He said, "adoption of this resolution will provide the Assembly with a means of insuring a flow of information on developments in Hungary."

The resolution was sponsored by the United States and 23 other nations.

Lodge said the idea of an Assembly investigating committee developed naturally out of the failure of an earlier 3-man observer team appointed by the secretary general.

The Soviet Union's Vassily V. Kuznetsov charged that an investigation committee would be illegal. He expressed regret that Hammarskjöld suggested the idea. He said it appeared that Hammarskjöld was "acting not as an international official but as a party in a dispute among members of the UN."

Medical Officials To Confer Here

Fifty nursing directors and hospital administrators from all parts of the state are expected to attend a nurse-hospital conference Friday through Sunday at the SUI Center for Continuation Study.

Purpose of the meet will be to explore areas of study and research which might strengthen working relationships between nursing directors and hospital administrators and develop better communications between the two groups.

The conference committee includes Myrtle Kitchell Aydelotte, dean of the College of Nursing of University Hospitals, and Marie Tener, director of nursing service at SUI.

J. Sinclair Armstrong, chairman of the Securities Exchange Commission (SEC), Washington, D.C., will speak to SUI law students this afternoon on the functions of the SEC. Armstrong is accompanied on his trip to Iowa by Frank Uriel Jr., a 1951 graduate of the SUI College of Law who is now assistant to the chairman of the SEC.

Ex-SUI Student Gets O. Henry Award

First-prize author in the O. Henry Memorial Award volume "Prize Stories of 1957" is former SUI student Flannery O'Connor of Milledgeville, Ga., Paul Engle, the book's editor, announced today.

Prof. Engle, who directs the creative writing program at SUI, has been co-editor and editor of the annual recognition of short story writers since 1953.

Miss O'Connor's "Greenleaf," originally printed in the Kenyon Review, brought her publisher the Doubleday's first award of $300. She earned her M.F.A. degree at SUI in 1947.

The one native Iowa represented in the new collection is R. V. Cassill, author of "When Old Age Shall This Generation Waste," originally published in Epoch.

Cassill's story "The Prize" won third place in the 1956 collection. Now living in New York, he is a native of Cedar Falls and one-time resident of Mason City and Oskaloosa. He earned his B.A. degree in 1939 and his M.A. degree in 1947, both at SUI, and taught in the Iowa Writers Workshop from 1949 to 1952.

SUI Students Design Own Nuptial Rings

By MARGI HALL

"Do-it-yourself" is the rule for the Jewelry Making and Silversmithing classes at the SUI School of Fine Arts. Here students design and make their own jewelry and tableware.

Wedding rings rank high in the classes as a favorite piece of jewelry and some students have designed settings for engagement rings. This is tedious work, and not many students feel capable of the task. The stone can be easily lost if the setting isn't perfect.

Semi-precious stones are used extensively in the student-designed jewelry. Jade, agate, turquoise, tiger eye, and onyx are the most popular.

The stones are cut by the students themselves. By so doing, they can cut the stone to fit the desired setting rather than making the setting to fit the pre-cut stone.

"They learn how to do by doing," said Prof. A. Raoul Delmare of the SUI Art Department.

Students design their own projects and sometimes submit as many as 18 or 20 designs before one is chosen. The finished product incorporates ideas from several of the former designs.

"We thrash, discuss, and revamp before the student begins actual work on a project after the design is finished," Delmare said. "The student must know the limitation of his material and tools. Many students have never handled the tools that they encounter in class."

Sometimes a tool must be made to achieve a special effect on the jewelry or tableware.

"I have some tools at home that I used only once, and probably will never use again," Delmare said.

The student has a free rein in selecting his project. These projects range from silver coffee pots to ice buckets.

A beginner going into silversmithing often makes a preliminary article in copper. Flaws encountered in the copper piece can be ironed out before he begins work on silver.

Copper is provided by the laboratory in the laboratory fee, but sterling silver, 14-karat gold, or any other metal the student wants to use must be individually purchased.

The student-made articles are for the students' own use. Some pieces are sold, but most of them are kept or given as gifts. Advanced students sometimes do commissioned work.

"I have no college credits in silversmithing," Delmare said. He completed undergraduate work at Kansas State Teachers College, Emporia, Kan., and did graduate work at SUI in sculpturing.

He studied with Baron Eric Fleming, silversmith to His Majesty, the King of Sweden. He also studied in Holland, England and New York.

Delmare's work has been exhibited in the Metropolitan Museum, Museum of Modern Art, and throughout Europe.

Farm Plan Parley Set

DES MOINES (AP) — The federal government's 1957 farm program will be discussed by Washington and Iowa agricultural officials at a meeting of county ASC committeemen and office managers here next Monday and Tuesday.

Chief speakers will be Marvin L. McLain, U. S. assistant secretary of agriculture, and Dwight W. Meyer, who is in charge of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Bank Division. McLain and Meyer are former chairmen of the Iowa ASC committee.

Other speakers from Washington will include Frank Daniels, general sales manager for the Commodity Stabilization Service; H. L. Manwaring, deputy administrator of CSS, and Murphy Barnes of the Agricultural Conservation Program Service.

At the Tuesday morning session, Max M. Soeth, present chairman of the Iowa ASC Committee, will be moderator for a panel on "ACP for 1957."
