U.S. Outlines Disarmament Plan

Iowa Legislature Has Lively Start

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa's 57th General Assembly moved off to a lively start Monday with two party tiffs in progress right off the bat. Both developed in the Senate.

The first disagreement came when the Democrats, who are outnumbered 40 to 10 in the Senate sought to amend Senate rules to require that all votes taken in committee sessions be placed on public record. Committee votes now are secret.

English Doctor 'Money-Mad', Lawyer Says

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — The prosecution Monday night described society Dr. John Bodkin Adams as a money-mad killer who systematically drugged his rich patients for profit.

"We say it was his greed that drove him on," said Prosecutor Melford Stevenson, "a greed that was too great for him to wait until they died."

The 57-year-old doctor, long respected in this Victorian seaside resort frequented by old folks, looked up from the prisoners' dock. Then he scribbled on a note pad, and perspiration clung to his neck.

"The deaths of his patients have the same pattern," said the prosecutor. "A rich patient. Heavy drugging for months. Then the fatal dose at the end for the patients under whose will he benefits."

Stevenson accused the doctor, who has practiced here 34 years, of poisoning three patients with "massive quantities" of heroin, morphine and barbitone. In a preliminary hearing before five examining magistrates the prosecutor named as the doctor's victims:

Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell, 81, a rich and eccentric widow who died Nov. 13, 1950, leaving Dr. Adams a Rolls Royce automobile and an oak chest full of antique silver.

Alfred John Hullett, 71, who died March 14, 1956, after willing the physician 500 pounds ($1,400).

Hullett's widow, Mrs. Gertrude J. Hullett, who died four months after her husband, leaving Adams another Rolls Royce.

Defense Atty. Geoffrey Lawrence objected to bringing in more than one death, but the prosecution was allowed to proceed after arguments behind closed doors. Adams has been formally charged with murder only in the death of Mrs. Morrell.

The Scotland Yard sleuth, Supt. Herbert Hannam, who arrested the doctor, looked into the will of 400 elderly persons who had died here the last 20 years.

In the preliminary hearing opening Monday, the magistrates will rule whether the government has sufficient evidence to order a trial before judge and jury. The hearing is expected to last several days.

Stevenson said the doctor lied on certificates which he had to fill out in order to have the bodies cremated.

"Dr. Adams knew if he cremated his patients, the physical evidence of heavy drugging would be destroyed," contended the prosecutor.

Sen. Tom Dailey (D-Burlington) proposed the motion. He said adoption of the change would put to rest a charge "that we conduct public business in secret."

Republican leaders said the form in which the amendment was drawn would permit any member who wished to keep his name secret to do so anyhow, by special request. The amendment was voted down 40-10.

The other frictional matter came when outgoing Gov. Leo A. Hoegh quickly sent a message asking the Senate to confirm appointment of Oliver P. Bennett, Mapleton Republican, as insurance commissioner, and of Harold L. Martin, Hamburg Democrat, as members of the State Board of Control.

Hoegh explained that he felt he had to "accept my responsibility" to Bennett and Martin to submit their names to the Senate for confirmation. "Both these men actually were named to three-year terms with the understanding that I would submit their names to the next session of the Senate," Hoegh explained. "The fact that I was defeated for reelection has nothing to do with it. I made that promise to them in good faith and I feel I must follow through."

LOVELESS HOEGH

Both men were appointed in 1955 after the Legislature adjourned. They thus were interim appointees without Senate confirmation. Had Hoegh not submitted the nominations before his term expires Thursday his Democratic successor, Herschel Loveless, would have got to make the appointments.

Both Loveless and Sen. George O'Malley (D-Des Moines), the minority floor leader, declined comment on Hoegh's action.

Inclusion of the Martin appointment, however, set the stage so that the Democrats would be in a position of opposing one of their own party members if they oppose confirmation on the grounds that the appointments are an intrusion on the rights of Loveless.

In both houses, the Democrats went along and made unanimous the elections of Rep. W. L. Mooty (R-Grundy Center) as Speaker of the House and Sen. Alan Vest (R-Sac City) as president pro tempore of the Senate.

Speaker Mooty named committees to hear the two contests as follows:

HENRY CABOT LODGE, chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, right, and Harold Stassen, special adviser on disarmament to President Eisenhower, confer during UN General Assembly meeting Monday after Lodge had outlined the United States' five-point disarmament plan.

Vassily V. Kuznetsov, Soviet deputy foreign minister, said the U.S. plan would be studied. However, he threw the disarmament debate back to the cold war stage at its hottest by linking a Moscow plan to a slashing attack on the "Eisenhower doctrine." Finally, he demanded a special UN Assembly on disarmament alone.

Cut Armies, Control Arms, Lodge Urges

UNITED NATIONS N. Y. (AP) — The United States Monday proposed international controls of outer space missiles as part of a new 5-point disarmament plan approved by President Eisenhower.

U.S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. in a speech to the UN Assembly's Political Committee also called for controls on the stockpiling of fissionable materials, a limit and eventual ban on nuclear test explosions, a reduction of armed forces of the powers and a watchdog system to guard against surprise attacks. All of this would be done under strict and effective international control and supervision.

Vassily V. Kuznetsov, Soviet deputy foreign minister, said the U.S. plan would be studied. However, he threw the disarmament debate back to the cold war stage at its hottest by linking a Moscow plan to a slashing attack on the "Eisenhower doctrine." Finally, he demanded a special UN Assembly on disarmament alone.

Kuznetsov accused the Americans of colonialism, of trying to take the place in the Middle East held by Britain and France and of interfering in affairs of Arab states. "Evidence is accumulating the Soviets are trying to take over this area," Dulles replied. "Some details have to be guarded for security reasons."

Dulles said some of the details would be dealt with at closed sessions. Tuesday's hearing was open to the public.

Dulles said the threat to the Middle East carried over into Europe. He said that if the Communists should get control of the Middle East, "they will have a hand on the throttle which will enable them to give, or cut off the life blood of Europe."

Remarking that the Communists would like to control Western Europe, Dulles said: "One way to get control is fight to get it. Another way to get an area is to get control of its economy."

And this, he said, is what the Communists could do to Western Europe if they won the Middle East. Dulles asked for the swiftest possible Senate approval of authority for Mr. Eisenhower to use American military forces, if necessary, to help any Middle East country that asks for help in resisting overt aggression.

He said he did not believe Congress "should ever be stampeded on these important matters."

"On the other hand," he added, "every day's delay means the Soviet Union is getting that much deeper in the area... every day's delay is costing us something."

He said the Communists "will take every risk that they dare to take in order to win the Middle East."

The secretary rejected suggestions that Congress drop the presidential authority idea and substitute for it a resolution expressing concern over the Communist threat to the Middle East.

Former Secretary of State Dean Acheson has made such a suggestion, but Dulles did not mention Acheson by name in his testimony.

"At the present moment," Dulles said, "the situation is too critical to be dealt with by a mere expression of opinion. I believe we've got to act." He said the United States must show that "we mean business."

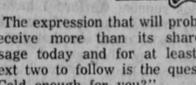

In the House Monday, Rep. Clement Zablocki (D-Wis.) introduced a resolution along the lines of Acheson's suggestion, and Rep. Thomas Gordon (D-Ill.) issued a statement urging that Mr. Eisenhower be given substantially what he asks.

Gordon is chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and Zablocki is a member of it. Democrats on the committee held a closed session to discuss the Middle East; they took no action but Zablocki's resolution and Gordon's statement provided proof of a division of opinion.

Under extensive questioning from the senators, Dulles declared: "I do not say that this is the last test, although it could well be the decisive test in the struggle between communism and freedom."

The Weather

Cloudy and Cold

The expression that will probably receive more than its share of usage today and for at least the next two to follow is the question, "Cold enough for you?"

The weatherman predicts that the cold snap that descended on Iowa will continue snapping to the tune of minus zero temperatures through Thursday at least. Today's temperatures are expected to reach a high of about 10 degrees.

Skies will be cloudy much of the day and the remnants of the storm that started Eastward across the state Monday night are expected to settle about three inches of snow in Iowa City by early this morning.

Monday's temperatures in Iowa City came close to setting a record for the coldest Jan. 14 in local history. The temperature was recorded at 30 degrees below zero. The coldest Jan. 14 ever witnessed was 23 below in 1916.

With all the colds that result from frigid temperatures, Monday's high of nine degrees above zero will probably be nothing to sneeze at.

The coldest spot in Iowa Monday was Moingona, in Boone County. The temperature there dipped to a low of 42 degrees; ten degrees colder than the all-time low of 32 below zero recorded in Iowa City in 1905.

The entire state shivered from the cold wave that swept the midwest states from the Rockies to the Great Lakes Monday. The extra cold weather cracked old winter records for temperatures as well as radiators and engine blocks.

The temperatures at various points of the state give an indication of the degree to which the mercury slipped. Burlington reported an all-time low of minus 24 degrees.

Perry missed setting a new cold record by three degrees; the coldest temperature recorded was 34 degrees in 1919, the mercury froze in the thermometer at 31 degrees Monday.

The temperature reported in Moingona may have been cold but it rated only a second place as the most frigid spot in the nation. The unofficial temperature reported in the Adirondack mountains was 50 degrees below zero.

Dulles Appeals for Senate Backing for 'Ike Doctrine'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Monday "evidence is accumulating" that the Communists are trying to take over the Middle East. Appealing for Senate backing of President Eisenhower's request for standby military authority to cope with possible Red aggression, he said the Soviet threat to Middle East security is dangerous and real.

"I'd say that this is the most serious threat we have faced over a period of 10 years," Dulles told the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees in joint session.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) the Senate majority leader, told Dulles that the secretary was basing his case on generalities rather than specific information.

"Evidence is accumulating the Soviets are trying to take over this area," Dulles replied. "Some details have to be guarded for security reasons."

Dulles said some of the details would be dealt with at closed sessions. Tuesday's hearing was open to the public.

U.S. Pushing Poland To Soviets: Gomulka

WARSAW (AP) — Communist boss Wladyslaw Gomulka, who rose to power on a wave of anti-Soviet feeling three months ago, said Monday Poland must veer back toward Moscow's orbit.

Gomulka declared U.S. policies are increasing world tension and, as a result, Poland is obliged to consolidate its strength with the Socialist countries headed by the Soviet Union, even while pursuing a policy of some cooperation with Western countries.

The chief of the Polish United Workers' Communist party thus fell in line with the opinion voiced here Friday by Red China's Premier Chou En-lai that Communist parties must unite to clear the road to socialism "under the leadership of the Soviet Union."

In an address before electors in Warsaw's towering Palace of Culture, Gomulka accused the United States of threatening the use of force to disrupt nationalist movements and achieve domination of the Middle East.

Gomulka avoided any reference to what Chou, in marked contrast to the thinking of Polish Communists, calls "the mad step of the imperialists in the diversionary activities against Hungary."

The Poles have regarded the Hungarian uprising as a revolt against tyranny. And since Gomulka took power they have referred to relations with Soviet Russia only in terms of equality and independence — not in terms of leadership.

"The imperialist powers are strengthening their attacks against the Socialist bloc," Gomulka said. "The United States has made use of the failure of the Anglo-French aggression against Egypt to strengthen its own position in the Middle East."

"No countries of the Middle East are going to be put under United States domination."

"By threatening the use of force the United States is still trying to disrupt the nationalist movement in colonial countries."

He said Poland was united with the U.S.S.R. by the fact of their common frontier and it was to Poland's great advantage to have the friendship of "this great power."

The legislation, he said, will propose appointment of a commission to negotiate a boundary compact with a similar group from Iowa. The compact would be subject to approval of the Nebraska and Iowa Legislatures, possibly two years hence. It also would need approval of Congress.

LINCOLN (AP) — An Omaha senator, George Syas, Monday announced plans to introduce in the Nebraska Legislature a bill looking toward a new Nebraska-Iowa boundary along the Missouri River.

The legislation, he said, will propose appointment of a commission to negotiate a boundary compact with a similar group from Iowa. The compact would be subject to approval of the Nebraska and Iowa Legislatures, possibly two years hence. It also would need approval of Congress.

Low Bow He Doffs His Hat At Wrong Time

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — The man was a familiar figure at police headquarters so with tongue in cheek Detective Donald H. MacDougal asked him what he was doing in jail.

"It's like this," he began. "Yesterday afternoon I took off my hat and made a low bow to the police cruiser as it went by. The sergeant thought I was pan-handling and arrested me."

The charge against John Donahue, 43, was intoxication. He pleaded guilty and got 30 days.

Iowa State Upsets Kansas

AMES (AP) — Don Medsker flipped in a 20 foot push shot as the game ended to give Iowa State a 39-37 Big Seven Conference basketball upset over the nation's No. 1 team, Kansas Monday night. See story Page 4.

Month's Accidents Injure 9 Persons

Motor vehicle accidents in Iowa City during the past month injured nine persons, Police Chief O. A. White reported to the city council Monday night.

In his monthly report, White said the injuries were the result of property accidents and seven personal injury accidents. White listed 3 auto thefts for the month bringing the year's total to 24.

There were 749 parking violations during the month and $7364 was collected from parking meters.

All police equipment was driven 12,545 miles during the month, White said.

Labor Unit To Sponsor March of Dimes Dance

Ralph Runkle, co-chairman of the Johnson County March of Dimes announced Monday that the Iowa City Federation of Labor will sponsor a March of Dimes Dance Jan. 31 at the Moose Hall.

Tickets may be purchased from members of the federation. Dance music will be furnished by the local Musicians Union. An auction of merchandise contributed by local merchants will be one feature of the dance. All proceeds from the dance will go to the March of Dimes.

FREERPORT, N.Y. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. David Blechman have paid Lloyd's of London an $1,875 premium on a $25,000 insurance policy. The Blechmans are betting they will have twins this spring. Lloyd's is betting they won't. The Blechmans have had two sets of twin boys in the past six years.

Ike Surveys Dry Areas Of Southwest

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — President Eisenhower Monday surveyed record drought damage in a wide area of the parched Southwest and he promised hard-hit farmers and ranchers "everybody will do his best" to help them.

Making a 4,500-mile tour taking him into six sun-scorched states, the President's first round of air and ground travel took him to win-swept regions in Texas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico.

Then he flew on to Davis-Monthan Air Force Base near Tucson for the night and for a parley on Arizona's drought problem in the morning before visiting Colorado and Kansas.

Talking as one farmer to others, Mr. Eisenhower told those faced with one of the worst droughts in years: "I'm delighted to see you keeping your chins up." Out of bed at 6 a.m., the President started his tour of badly damaged drought areas at San Angelo, Tex., then flew on to Woodward, Okla., and Clovis, N. M., where he tramped over more parched country.

At all stops on the ground inspection trips and at airport conferences with state and local officials Mr. Eisenhower got plenty of advice on how the federal government could provide additional relief. But for the time being he withheld comment on both emergency and long-range relief proposals advanced. He may set forth his own views when he concludes his two-day tour late Tuesday at a conference in Wichita, Kan. Representatives from all the drought-stricken states in the Great Plains area will attend.

The Wichita meeting is scheduled after additional Eisenhower inspection trips at Pueblo, Colo., and Garden City, Kan.

Also on the tour are two Eisenhower Cabinet officers — Secretary of Agriculture Benson and Secretary of the Interior Seaton.

Once Affected by McCarthy, Zwicker Up for Promotion

Zwicker, whom Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) once called unfit to wear a general's uniform, is now assistant chief of staff for personnel of the 8th Army in the Far East.

Another was Col. Carey A. Randall, Secretary of Defense Wilson's military assistant. Wilson personally interceded to propose that Randall, 44-year-old Marine with a brilliant World War II combat record in the Pacific, be advanced to brigadier general.

McCarthy's sharp attack on Zwicker lit one of the fuses that set off the senator's explosive controversy with the Army in 1954.

Zwicker figured in the case of Maj. Irving Peress, who had refused to answer McCarthy's questions about possible Communist connections. Peress was stationed at Camp Kilmer, N. J., when Zwicker commanded the post, and was promoted and discharged at the time McCarthy was demanding he be court-martialed.

McCarthy charged that Zwicker falsely denied giving Senate investigators confidential information about Peress from Army personnel files. He said Monday he will ask the Senate Armed Services Committee to request a report from the Justice Department concerning that charge.

SUB-ZERO TEMPERATURES that swept the country from the Rockies to the Atlantic and left millions shivering, were found bearable by at least one individual. "Junior" the Polar bear in the Buffalo Zoo appears to be singing "Oh what a beautiful morning..." in the middle panel of the above picture sequence. The bear doesn't seem to be above a nice dip in ice-cold water before breakfast either. The mercury in the western New York State area around Buffalo plunged to well below zero Monday.

Fulbright Bills

Arkansas Senator Introduces Bills To Aid College Students

(Speech by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) on the floor of the U.S. Senate)

Mr. President, I introduce, for appropriate reference, two bills which I consider vital to the development of our educational institutions, and to the general educational standards of our country.

THE FIRST BILL would allow an additional income tax exemption for a taxpayer or a spouse, or a dependent child under twenty-three years of age, who is a full-time student at an educational institution above the secondary level. The exemption may be claimed by the taxpayer himself, or on account of a spouse or a dependent child under the age of 23, who is in attendance on a full-time basis at an educational institution above the secondary level.

THE SECOND BILL would allow a taxpayer who is a student in an institution of higher learning to deduct expenses for books, tuition, fees, and other supplies necessary to the courses of instruction in which he is enrolled. This bill is primarily designed to assist those students who work their way through college, and it would apply to both full-time and part-time students, whether self-supporting or supported by outside sources.

Last April, I introduced these bills but was unable to obtain action on them before the adjournment. Since I have been a member of the Congress I have supported virtually every measure designed to aid and assist our students and to improve the educational facilities and institutions of this country.

These bills are merely another method of providing an avenue for our students toward the goals they seek through adequate educational opportunities. Because I am convinced that the problem of improving our educational system is one of the most pressing of our time, I am once again introducing the bills in the hope the Congress will act on them during this session.

THE CONTINUALLY rising cost of a college education, of course, varies, but I believe it reasonable to estimate the average cost at $1,500 per year, or roughly $6,000 for a 4-year college education. The cost of the more specialized courses in science and medicine quite often is much more than this, and yet the parent, or the individual himself, receives only a $600 a year tax exemption. Consequently, there is no incentive provided in our tax laws for one to pursue an educational goal.

There has been for decades a continual and serious deterioration in the general quality of our education. More recently, we have read and heard much about the mounting shortage of trained engineers and scientists in the United States. It is interesting to note that universities and technical institutions in Soviet Russia are graduating engineers in numbers some two and a half times greater than are similar institutions in the United States where we are now training only one half the required number of engineers and scientists.

In the decade 1950-1960, the Soviet Union is expected to produce 1,200,000 trained engineers and scientists as compared to our 900,000. In the category of engineers alone, the Soviets have multiplied the number trained tenfold since 1930, when records show they had 41,000 engineers. This situation is all the more critical because of the demands, not only of industry, but of national security.

THE UNITED STATES if it is to succeed in its role of world leadership, must produce citizens who have vision, foresight, wisdom, and the knowledge to compete successfully with world powers.

Assuming that the objective of these bills is a proper one, it seems to me much more efficient, in the long run, to encourage and enable a parent to pay for his children's education than it is for the Government to directly assume the burden of educating its citizens.

IN ADDITION to these reasons, enactment of these proposals will, I believe, add to the income of the Government, as well as the gross income of its individual citizens. Dr. Paul Glick of the Census Bureau, estimated about a year ago that male college graduates will receive an average $100,000 more in lifetime income than the average high school graduate, and we must remember this increased income will be fully taxed.

Under present tax laws, if one pays $1,000 for an acre of land and sells it for $2,000, he pays only on the increment of $1,000, at reduced capital gains rates. If he pays $1,000 for a truck to be used in his business and takes in $2,000 in drayage fees, the cost of the truck amortized over its useful life is deductible from the $2,000 income as earned.

But if he spends $1,000 for an education and as a result his income is increased $1,000 per year, the tax laws do not allow application of these theories. He receives no deduction for the thousand dollars which he has invested in his education, and the yearly increase in his income of $1,000 is taxed in full as ordinary income.

AS I SAID a moment ago, I feel strongly that to encourage the education of our young people is in the national interest. In this period of competitive coexistence with the Soviets, the task of insuring that every youth in our land is aided in achieving his highest potential intellectual growth is a formidable one. This task arises not alone from the military situation posed by Russia, but also from the realities of the rapidly spiraling scientific revolution.

The great emphasis which the Soviets have placed on the training of scientists, technicians, and engineers is a challenge which cannot be ignored by the Western World. These bills will provide some incentive to the students and parents to meet and accept this challenge.

IN ADDITION to these considerations, public and private educational institutions face a precarious future. They are essential to the preservation of our way of life. These bills, if enacted, would give them some assistance and enable them to accept additional students the bills would have a further beneficial effect upon the finances of our fine educational institutions. I sincerely hope the Congress will favorably consider these bills.

Poland

Poland will exercise some of its new privileges gained from the Soviets when its people vote in a parliamentary election on Jan. 20. There are about 18 million eligible voters in Poland.

Evidences of freedom are showing in the campaign. Campaign meetings are being held and voters are expressing demands for changes in the government policy. Three party names appear on the ballots—all pledged to support a socialist government in Poland. But these parties offer voters a choice among candidates so that actual voting can be done.

Polish newspapers have roundly criticized the outgoing parliament as having been "A disgraceful body of rubber stamps."

Predictions had been made recently by German leaders that the Polish elections would be a time of great danger in eastern Europe. It has been feared that new revolts would break out in Poland at the time of elections.

But most recent reports have not suggested any prospects for real outbreaks. The campaign meetings suggest deep interest in the possibilities of amending government policies. — MARSHALLTOWN TIMES-REPUBLICAN

Adenauer Switches

German Chancellor Seeks Reunification Independent of Washington

By DIETRICH HARTMANN (Daily Iowan Staff Writer)

One of the last strongholds of the old style cold war was seriously shaken last week.

In a surprising move West Germany's old (81) stubborn chancellor, Dr. Konrad Adenauer, declared at a press conference, the establishment of a belt of neutral, independent, and demilitarized powers along the Iron Curtain would be desirable.

He also asked for a world wide ban of H-bombs and indicated indirectly that his government soon would seek independently to re-enter into negotiations with Soviet Russia about the reunification of Germany.

FIRST REACTIONS in Washington showed considerable surprise, for the state department long since had considered Dr. Adenauer and his Christian Democratic party not only as the most dependable European ally but as the only influential European politician who still was on "cold war" terms with the Kremlin even after the Cold War policy had lost its significance after the Geneva conference in 1955.

The statement of Adenauer now could give the State Department a possibility to revise its policy in German and East European matters officially and openly.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT has been in the delicate position to follow two ways of handling the problem of German reunification and "liberation" of the satellites since Geneva and especially since the unrest in Russia's empire in Eastern Europe.

The meeting in Geneva resulted in a generally recognized though not officially declared truce between this country and the USSR on the basis of the stalemate in the H-bomb race. The "status quo" in Europe was accepted tacitly by both sides.

The United States, however, was by treaty bound to "actively explore all possibilities that could lead to the reunification of Germany" and pledged herself normally to liberate the satellites from Communism by peaceful means.

SECRETARY OF STATE John Foster Dulles never let it be known how he planned to accomplish this political and diplomatic miracle. There was not much to be done after the Geneva accord except for making solemn statements or sending noncommittal notes to Moscow which were answered in the same noncommittal way.

The calm picture of the peacefully "coexisting" giants with minor or major disturbances only visible under the surface came to unrest with the outbreak of violence in Poland, Hungary and in Egypt. In the Middle East the Soviet rocket-threat helped to keep the west in its limits.

The new Eisenhower plan on the other side might keep Russia from changing the world power balance too much to her favor.

THE EASTERN EUROPEAN situation with its danger of World War III did not leave much to do for Washington.

The United States could neither help the Polish nor the Hungarian peoples in their efforts to get rid of their Communist rulers.

The trend in Washington seems to be to recognize all satellite governments as representing their peoples and as partners as long as Moscow lets them determine their own foreign policy. The policy toward Marshall Tito and various Washington comments on Gomulka's Poland show that quite clearly.

The world lately has not heard word from Washington that pledged the United States "... to help them (East European satellites) to choose the form of government under which they want to live." "Titostism," not only applied to Yugoslavia, today seems to be acceptable to Washington and in certain limits to the Kremlin, too.

BUT WHAT ABOUT German reunification? The official Washington certainly was not little concerned about its obligation to make this a reality by means of free German election in the period since Geneva, especially because Chancellor Adenauer insisted on it.

Adenauer had refused to accept a policy that would have led to the creation of a "buffer belt" through the heart of Europe and which would include not only Germany but Poland and Czechoslovakia and others as well.

The German chancellor now seems to have come to the conclusion that his tie with the United States in the changed world does not help him to overcome the deadlock in the German question. He finally found out that Washington can not do much to help him in his most difficult problem.

Why then should he not try his luck with the Russian himself independently from the United States? He now felt free to do so since a note on German reunification to Moscow in September 1956, without consulting the state department in advance, had not met objection from Secretary Dulles.

In making his proposals Adenauer only followed suggestions long since made by unofficial but influential politicians in Washington and Bonn.

Facing general elections in September he tries to appeal to broad circles in the West German population which are no longer willing to follow the unfavorable official American-German pattern in Mid-European.

ADENAUER DID NOT say if he thinks his "new look" would speed the process to reunite his country but he obviously hopes that a "general improvement of the political climate" might help him to come nearer to the solution of the problem, and take most of the wind from the sails of his opposition in Bonn.

Oil Prices

Recent increases in the prices of crude oil and gasoline in the United States are expected by some experts to become nationwide. Some crude oil prices have shot up 12 per cent.

In consequence, motorists may soon be paying more for fuel and homeowners likewise for heating oil.

One of the firms declared that one big cause was the notable rise in the oil industry's costs since the last price hike in 1953, three and a half years ago.

But it is agreed, too, that the sharp drop in shipments of Middle Eastern oil via Suez to the U.S. east coast is a prime factor.

Furthermore, U.S. shipments abroad to take up some of the serious Middle Eastern slack have put additional pressure on our supplies. — THE (DUBUQUE) TELEGRAPH HERALD

Bobby-Socked Jurist Not Judicial

By GEORGE DIXON (King Features Syndicate)

WASHINGTON D. C. — I lean to informality in masculine attire, being an early pioneer in the movement to emancipate men from garters, but mine eyes have just beheld a sight that forces me to admit that bobby sock do not look de rigeur on a Supreme Court justice.

I submit that this is especially true if he is also wearing his black robe. Bare shanks peeping from beneath the cask of the trade may look fetching, but not judicial.

All was propriety and decorum the other day when President Eisenhower appeared before the joint session of Congress to deliver his State of the Union message. The ambassadors were sitting upright in their proper dark coats, Mamie and Pat were in the gallery in garb that was tasteful without being gaudy, the senators wore an air of omniscience, and the representatives wore ties — but the picture was shattered by Justice Hugo Black's undraped ankles.

THE BOBBY-SOCKED jurist was all the more noticeable in that he was seated in the front row of the House chamber next to Chief Justice Earl Warren whose calves were sheathed.

The 71-year-old Justice Black, who makes no claim to being a contemporary of Elvis Presley, excited my admiration, if not aestheticism, however, I wanted to rush right down from the press gallery and reassure him:

"Listen, no matter what anybody says about those sox around your ankles, you're in as good a state as the union!"

The reason why I felt such a bond with him is that the only serious running warfare I have with my bride is over my bare fetlocks.

I insist upon sox that just peer above my shoetops. I say they look ravishing. My loved one says they look atrocious. When I sit down and pull up my trouser legs, which I always do to maintain the crease inviolate, she sniffs that I look like Gypsy Rose Lee.

I reply that I have a well-turned ankle, and she retorts that she often wishes I had — and had to conceal it with splints.

I try to assail her with irrefutable logic, arguing that to be without high sox and garters is to be free. I contend it's healthier. She retorts it won't be if I don't quit being a leghibitionist.

I feel that all short sock votaries should rally around Justice Black. Maybe he can declare long leg ceremonies unconstitutional!

WHEN MINORITY Leader William F. Knowland announced that he intended to retire from the Senate on the expiration of his term in 1958 he precipitated so many eulogies on the Senate floor that an uninitiated listener would have been sure he was dead.

As a matter of fact his colleagues did talk of him as if he had passed away. Democrats, who wouldn't have been caught dead saying a good word about a Republican who was still alive, arose with the long faces of testimony-givers at a back-country funeral, and spoke so eulogistically of the opposition leader I exhorted one of the attendants in the press gallery:

"Go downstairs and hold a mirror in front of Bill Knowland's smeller. He must have quit breathing!"

The only solon who varied even slightly from the "dear departed" motif was Democratic Senator Hubert Humphrey, of Minnesota. He suggested that possibly Knowland had other election plans for the future by concluding slyly:

"I hope he is always successful in the primaries. I am not sure I want him to be so successful in some of the general elections."

It was the sweetest burial of a man alive I have ever heard, or, as a mother kangaroo lullabies to her sleeping baby:

"Requiescat in pouchy."

THE LATEST scientific surveys reveal that men are more concerned about their weight than women, spend more on their clothes, make the worst drivers, and waste more time on the telephone gossiping. But now comes the Congress of the United States to disclose that men are more sensible about their age.

That the gentlemen pine more piteously for their vanished youth than the gentleness is illustrated beyond challenge by the new pocket congressional directory which contains self-submitted pictures of all the senators and representatives of the new 85th Congress.

The volume was put out so members of Congress could be recognized on sight. At least that's the avowed purpose. But, after studying the pictures, I can't help a nasty suspicion that many of them not only are trying to avoid recog-

With only pictures like those in the pocket directory to give away their identity they could junket all over the world and never be distinguished from Adam, not even by Eve.

In this parliamentary mug book, some of my oldest friends look the youngest. If the volume falls into the hands of a draft board, a bunch of septuagenarians may be summoned to produce proof that they're not draft dodgers. That goes for sexagenarians, too, if you will pardon the expression.

I'm afraid a lot of eager females are going to get wrong ideas when they see the photo of Senator Theodore Green, of Rhode Island, and hear that the original is a rich bachelor. The shock may unhinge them when they learn that the dashing cavalier who sat for this glamor boy picture is 89 years old, and goes to bed too early in solitary austerity.

A NUMBER OF OTHER photos command discussion, and I wish to take dying oath I have selected them at random, without regard to the possessor's personality, politics, or whether or not I like him. For instance let us consider the pictures sent in by Speaker Sam Rayburn, and House Minority Leader Joe Martin, both of whom I love. I won't make the accusation that the 75-year-old Sam sent in his high school graduation picture, because he must have looked older than that when he finished school. But I wouldn't question a charge that the 72-year-old Joe sent in his confirmation picture.

Another legislator I hold in high esteem is Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia. His biography says he will soon be 70, but the picture he provided makes him look as if he had just shinned up one of his own apple trees and was grimacing down a challenge to less venturesome urchins.

OTHERS WHO submitted pictures that look as if they might have been taken when they resigned from the Boy Scouts are 61-year-old Senator Irving Ives, of New York, and 80-year-old Senator James E. Murray, of Montana. Murray's picture makes him appear younger than his junior senator, Mike Mansfield, who is only 53.

One of the capitol hillians who was relying greatly upon the pocket directory to help her recognize members of Congress was Mrs. Edith "Ma" Ridgely, famous hostess of the House restaurant. But, after looking at the callow faces in the book, "Ma" has been tempted to cancel orders for smoked ham hocks and stock up on baby formulas.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A LADY WANTED to spend a month at a new resort hotel but, before packing her trunk, took the precaution of writing the hotel manager to be sure dogs were permitted in the hostelry. It developed that the manager had a couple of dogs he was very partial to himself. This is the note he sent the lady:

"Dear Madam: I have been in the hotel business some 28 years. Never in all that time have I had to call the police to eject a disorderly dog at 4 a.m. Never once has a dog set the bedclothes afire by carelessly throwing away a lighted cigarette. Never has one dog stolen my towels, bedspreads, or silverware. Of course your dog is welcome at my hotel. Sincerely, The Manager.

"P.S. If the dog will vouch for you, you can come, too."

Hawk Success: From Cain, to Ploen, to Payne—

Iowa sports success in the past year or so has, oddly enough, rhymed with the suffix "ane."

First it was Carl Cain, the Hawks' Olympic basketball performer, who had a large hand in Iowa basketball championships in 1935 and 1936.

Then it was a 21-year-old Nile Kinnick scholar with a name that sounded the same that spelled the same success in football during the 1936 grid campaign—one which brought a Big Ten and Rose Bowl championship to Iowa.

His name, of course, is Kenny Ploen, voted the Big Ten's Most Valuable Player for his tremendous effort the past fall.

Now a third name could yet be added to this fast-growing success poem.

The owner of this one looked like the Most Valuable Player in the Big Ten in Iowa's tremendous 89-66 upset of Minnesota Saturday.

His name, as all readers know by now, is Tom Payne.

The 6-6½ Quincy, Ill. junior followed up a 28-point performance in losing to Illinois a week ago with a 24-point production against the Gophers, rated a championship contender this year.

Payne picked off 13 rebounds and turned in an excellent all-around defensive game.

It is beginning to look as if he is blossoming into the player he was publicized to be when he came to Iowa. An All-Stater at Quincy, Payne filled the role of a substitute during a tense championship race between Iowa and Illinois last year.

He was called on early in the year to play an unfamiliar position, guard, for the injured Sharm Scheuerman. This plus the fact that he was entering a championship combination that had worked together for three years appeared to hinder the graceful Payne from achieving the brilliance he had known in high school.

This year the entire starting five of the famous "Klutch Kids" have graduated.

Head basketball coach Bucky O'Connor has been bringing along his young team slowly. Payne came along slowly, too, until the past week.

Then suddenly he erupted for 28 points against Illinois and held his star center George BonSalto to 12. He turned in his usual rugged rebounding game.

Against Minnesota he couldn't have been any less brilliant. He handled the position the way it was meant to be played. He was alert defensively and usually in a position to say something about possession of any rebounding hot that had missed its mark.

But there were some other Hawks who deserve a lot of credit for the victory over Minnesota. Guard Jim McConnell, who made the best percentage ever recorded in the Big Ten, 10 of 11, did an excellent overall job. His defensive play was improved and passing was sharp.

Forward George Seaberg was the man behind the scenes Saturday. His was the tremendous job of covering Gopher center Jed Dommeyer, who had rattled Illinois' defenses for 27 points the week before. Dommeyer was held to five field goals by Seaberg. George collected 12 himself and also turned in a good bit of rebounding.

Clarence Wordlaw, though still erratic, looked the best that Herky has even seen him. He is still too impatient to score, but Saturday he was waiting more often to work a scoring pattern. And you can't argue with his 22 point scoring effort.

The Hawks have a name in the lineup that could spell success if they have begun to jell. If they continue to play the caliber of basketball that they turned in Saturday night, there will be a number of surprised teams and onlookers who had them already relegated to the lower echelons of the league standings.

Hear 4-Point Plan in Grid Rules Meeting

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A four-point program touching on the handling of the ball by the center to an expansion of the substitution rule dominated the opening session of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., Football Rules Committee Monday.

H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, athletic director at the University of Michigan and chairman of the committee, said the 25-man group spent the first session wading through reports of the various subcommittees.

Crisler said Lou Little, retiring coach at Columbia University, represented the coaches.

Little's report said the coaches were concerned with the rule that permits the center to tilt the ball 45 degrees. Little said the rule was being violated and in some cases as much as 90 degrees, decreasing the neutral zone at the line of scrimmage from the length of the ball to the width of the ball.

The coaches' recommendations also asked that the substitution rule be tended to permit any player to return to the game once during any quarter.

The rule now permits only members of the starting team to return to action once during any quarter. Substitutes as well as starters would be permitted to return once during any period under the coaches' plan.

Little's report also asked that any ball, leather or rubber, could be used by the offensive team. The rule now gives the home team the privilege of selecting any leather ball that meets specifications with the offense team having the prerogative of using a rubber ball by mutual consent.

The fourth point offered in Little's report asked that the responsibility of legal substitution be lifted from the coaches. The present rule imposes the legality of all substitutions on the coaches.

Crisler said no action would be taken on any recommendations made until the final meeting of the three-day session.

Cagers Rest After Upset Of Minnesota

Iowa basketball coach Bucky O'Connor, pleased with his team's smashing 89-66 victory over Minnesota here Saturday, gave the Hawkeye squad a day off Monday.

But today they will begin drills for their games with Wisconsin at Madison Saturday and at Northwestern Monday.

Semester examinations will begin Jan. 25 and end Feb. 1, so the next home game will not be until Feb. 2 when the Hawkeyes take on Indiana in a regionally-televized game.

O'Connor said the 89-66 victory and the Hawkeye methods of execution on offense and defense will prove to be of tremendous value in later games.

"Mistakes are still being made but the men have developed ability to recover quickly and they are doing so many things so much better than in early season that the overall result is encouraging," Coach O'Connor said.

Iowa's rebounding and defense vs. Minnesota was on the sensational side. The Gophers had 70 shots, 16 fewer than Iowa, and the Hawks grabbed ten more rebounds.

Tom Payne, center, hauled down 13 of Iowa's 38 rebounds.

Hawkeyes now have an even break in ten games and 1-2 in the conference. Current statistics show a team shot percentage of .350 and the point average is 70.6.

Leading scorers are Clarence Wordlaw, sophomore guard, with an average of 13.6 and a shot percentage of .373; Payne, 13.2 and .370; and Dave Gunther, forward, 11.9 and .310.

Jim McConnell, whose 10 goals in 11 shots for .909 broke the Big Ten record last Saturday, has the best shot percentage, .431, and an average of 9.3 points per game.

Buck Sharpshooters Trip Gophers, 85-73

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University's Buckeyes, behind the sharpshooting of forward Frank Howard who sank 31 points, romped to an 85-73 victory Monday night over the Minnesota Gophers for their third straight Big Ten win.

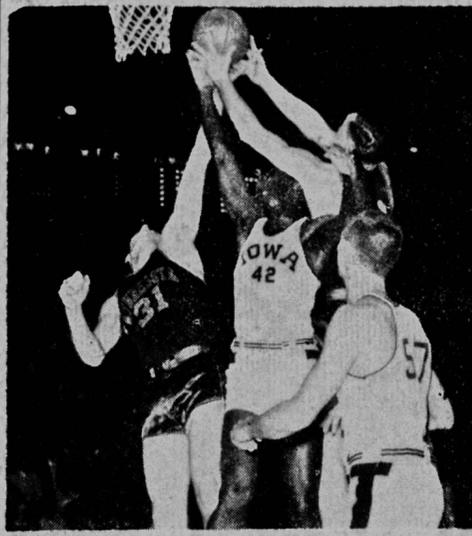

The game, viewed by some 12,250 fans, broke wide open for the Bucks moments after the second half opened. Forward Ken Sidle dumped in five straight goals to give Ohio State a 59-40 margin.

After that, the Buckeyes were never seriously threatened.

The battle was close during the first half. Five times the score was tied, and the lead changed hands half a dozen times. Howard scored 17 of his 31 points in the first half to give OSU a 38-32 halftime cushion.

MICHIGAN'S 3d STRAIGHT ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan moved to its third straight Big Ten basketball victory by overpowering winless Wisconsin 71-62 Monday night, with sophomore M. C. Burton and Jim Shearson leading the way with 16 points.

PURDUE BLASTS 'CATS LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue racked up its third Big Ten basketball victory in four starts Monday night, emptying the bench in the last eight minutes of a 77-57 conquest of Northwestern.

TOM PAYNE, IOWA CENTER, (42) stretches for this rebound, flanked by a pair of Minnesota Gophers. Jed Dommeyer (31) and George Kline (right) appeared to have the upper hand. However, Iowa won the game, 89-66. Iowa forward Dave Gunther is at right.

Iowa State Upsets Wilt & Kansas, 39-37

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Don Medsker flipped in a 29-foot push shot a split-second before the final gun to give Iowa State a 39-37 Big Seven Conference basketball upset over the nation's No. 1 team, Kansas, Monday night.

The Cyclones, playing magnificent ball-control, shut out Kansas' sensational 7-foot Wilt "The Stilt" Chamberlain from the field for 22 minutes and 35 seconds.

Chamberlain finished with 17 points — the second lowest total of his career. Seven of his points came on free throws and he got just five field goals, three of them easy tins.

Little Gary Thompson, who brilliantly handled Iowa State's offense, also was the game's high scorer with 18 points.

Part of the overflow crowd of 8,000 which jammed the 7,800-seat Iowa State Armory, carried the 6-8 Medsker from the floor on their shoulders.

Medsker's clutch basket, his second of the game, climaxed his great play throughout the contest. He was assigned the overwhelming task of watching Chamberlain who carried a 32 point game scoring average.

Aided by the alternate front side guarding of Chamberlain by Chuck Vogt and John Crawford, Iowa State contained the big boy and trailed only twice in the game. Lewis Johnson's basket with three minutes remaining in the first half gave the Jayhawks their first lead 18-17. After Vogt tied it up at 19-19 at the start of the second half, Chamberlain delivered his initial basket, a tip to give Kansas its last advantage.

New Mark—Illini 112, Indiana 91

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Illinois topped a host of school records Monday night by trouncing Indiana 112-91 for its third Big Ten basketball victory in four games.

Shooting a hot 500 from the field, Illinois scored on 12 of its first 17 shots for a 25-10 lead which it stretched to 53-38 at halftime.

Jack Robinson In Formal Retirement

NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie Robinson Monday ended all speculation by formally retiring from baseball and plunging into his new duties as vice president in charge of personnel with a restaurant chain.

The controversial diamond figure, in full view of an audience of reporters and photographers, dictated to his secretary a letter to the New York Giants officially requesting his retirement. It took him exactly four minutes to complete this task.

"I guess maybe they'll believe me now," said Robinson. "There was never any doubt in my mind that I was retiring but lots of people simply refused to believe me."

The letter addressed to "Dear Horace Stoneham," read:

"After due consideration I have decided to request to be placed on the voluntary retired list as I am going to devote my full time to the business opportunities that have been presented.

"I assure you that my retirement has nothing to do with my trade or your organization. From what I have heard from people who have worked with you it would have been a pleasure to have been in your organization.

"Again my thanks and continued success for you and the New York Giants.

Sincerely,
Jackie Robinson."

Claire Hruska (left) discusses progress of a new telephone building with the contractor.

What's a civil engineer's job in the telephone company?

Claire Hruska graduated in 1953 from the University of Washington with a B.S. in Civil Engineering. Today he's with The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"I supervise construction at every stage," Claire says. "Every telephone building is designed around the equipment that will be in it. When a building is needed, I work closely with the architect to make sure his plans fit the needs. Then I check the contractors' bids. When the contract is let, it's my responsibility to see that the builder sticks to the plans in detail.

"Right now I'm handling the construction of several telephone exchanges, a large office building in downtown Seattle, and additions to other buildings. It's satisfying work, because I'm on my own a lot, and getting the jobs done is up to me.

"I've got a career that offers big assignments and responsibilities, and real opportunities to get ahead in a business that's growing rapidly. That's what I was looking for."

Claire Hruska is typical of the many young men who are finding rewarding careers in the Bell Telephone System. For more information on career opportunities in the Bell Telephone Companies, Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation, see your placement officer.

'Tough Guy' Bogart Loses to Cancer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Tough guy Humphrey Bogart finally gave in Monday to the one foe he could not lick—cancer. He died at his home at the age of 56.

The poker-faced veteran of countless action roles, who became one of filmland's finest actors and most noted characters, thought until the last that he would win.

Only last Saturday night he received friends for his usual cocktail hour in the den of his Holmby Hills mansion. He seemed in good spirits.

Early Sunday he fell into a coma and never emerged. His physician, Dr. Maynard Brandsma, said death came at 2:10 a.m. from a general spread of the original cancer.

Last March doctors removed a cancer from Bogart's esophagus, the pipe running from throat to stomach. After that, he underwent extensive radiation treatments. In November he was treated for nerve root pressure due to scar formation from the original surgery.

Bogart was one of a kind in Hollywood, a place where there has become a remarkable sameness about stars in recent years.

He died at the peak of his career. He had won Hollywood's highest prize, the Academy Award, and was one of a handful of stars who could command top money—$250,000 a picture.

Bogart was a hard-drinking, frankish extrovert whose heart was as soft as his screen lines were hard.

He loved to stir things up—"to touch a nerve."

He explained how he became a character: "By doing as I damned please. I defend my right to cut a caper if I feel like it."

Although the film colony was aware of the gravity of Bogart's illness, it was stunned by his death.

Said Bing Crosby: "Bogie was a fine person and superb actor. He will be sorely missed by Hollywood."

The story of Bogart's last days is a tale of courage and devotion. Friends are convinced that the actor felt he would recover.

Two weeks ago a New York newspaper reported that Bogart was in a coma much of the time and had wasted to 80 pounds.

Still full of fight, the actor called the paper and barked, "I'm feeling fine and not in danger of dying. My treatment... was completed two weeks ago and was successful. I plan to do a picture in March."

He admitted he was down to 125 from his usual 160. Helping to keep his spirits high was his devoted wife, Lauren Bacall.

When he first fell ill, she gave up her acting career to be at his side.

When Bogart's condition appeared to improve and he was able to spend some time on his yacht, she returned to the studios for a couple of movies. She had been with him constantly the last few months.

Recall Vote Dismissed in Des Moines

DES MOINES (AP)—District Judge Tom K. Murrow ruled Monday that Iowa law does not provide for a recall election of persons elected to the City Council under the manager-council form of government.

He ordered dismissal of a petition seeking a court order on the recall election that had been brought by a group of Des Moines citizens against Council Members Robert E. Conley and Frank W. McGowan.

Paul W. Steward, attorney representing the citizens group seeking the recall, said "the next step would be to appeal to the Iowa Supreme Court and I'm sure I will appeal it."

Judge Murrow had listened to four hours of arguments Friday by Steward and I. Joel Pasternak, assistant city solicitor.

His ruling Monday was that a recall provision in Iowa law only applies to the commission form of government and doesn't apply to the council-manager form of government because there is no mayor or elected by the people.

Under the council-manager form of government, five councilmen are elected, who in turn select their own mayor.

State law says petitions seeking a recall election must be signed by a number of persons "equal to 25 per cent of the vote cast for all candidates for the office of mayor" at the last municipal election.

Steward had contended that all of the candidates for the City Council were, in a sense, potential candidates for mayor.

Petitions bearing an announced 16,732 signatures and asking the council to order an election on possible recall of Conley and McGowan were filed last March 26.

Judge Murrow's ruling Monday means that District Court action to force the recall election is ended.

Red Cross Opens Sick Care Course

Three Red Cross classes in Care of the Sick and Injured have now been set up by the Johnson County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

One of the classes starting this month held its first meeting Jan. 7, a second group met for the initial class of the course Monday, and a third group will start at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Jan. 21. All three groups are meeting at Westlawn, which houses the SUI College of Nursing and nurses' dormitories.

The Jan. 7 and Jan. 14 classes both are filled but there still are openings in the class which will start Jan. 21. Those interested in registering for the class, which is open free of charge to any woman in Johnson County, should call the Red Cross office in Iowa City, 6933.

Each class will hold seven sessions two hours in length, with times of meetings to be scheduled at the first session to meet the convenience of those who sign up for the instruction as far as is possible.

Red Cross chapters throughout the country are cooperating with the Civil Defense Administration by offering the classes in Care of the Sick and Injured. Johnson County Civil Defense officers are assisting Mrs. C. W. Keyser, chairman of the Home Nursing Committee of the Johnson County Red Cross Chapter, and Mrs. H. B. Elkins, chairman of the chapter's nursing services.

Macmillan Moves Next Door

NEW BRITISH PRIME MINISTER Harold Macmillan is pictured before the door of the residence he will leave in favor of the house next door. With Macmillan are his wife and daughter, currently residing at No. 11 Downing St., London. His new address, official residence for Prime Ministers, is at No. 10.

Macmillan Government Tackles Suez Dispute

LONDON — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's new government plunged Monday into talks ranging from the Suez Canal crisis to setting up a free trade market in Western Europe.

The new Cabinet was sworn in before Queen Elizabeth II at Buckingham Palace.

Then Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd hustled off to confer with Foreign Minister Charles Malik of Lebanon, who had come from Cairo to talk with President Nasser of Egypt.

One of the first major tasks of Macmillan's government is to settle the Suez dispute and get ships moving through the canal once it is cleared of wreckage.

"The situation is very difficult," Malik told reporters before leaving to attend UN sessions in New York. "It is certainly not hopeless at all because the business of the world must go on and therefore everybody must help smooth over whatever difficulties exist."

Malik said he filled in Macmillan and Lloyd on his "instructive and exceedingly extensive talks" with Nasser. He added the British gave him no hint of their reaction.

From Suez and the Middle East, Lloyd turned to the projected West European free trade plan. He

Sliding Area Hours Announced; Streets Will Be Barricaded

Recreation Supt. Robert A. Lee has set the hours when Iowa City sliding areas will be barricaded. The hours are from 4 to 9:30 p.m. week days and from 1 to 9:30 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays and school holidays.

Coasting areas which have been set aside by the Recreation Department are: Brown Street from Governor Street to Dodge Street; Washington Street from Muscatine Avenue to Pearl Street; Center Avenue from Seventh Avenue to Dearborn Street; Second Avenue from Muscatine Avenue to E Street; Friendly Avenue from Lukirk Street to Marcy Street; Harrison Street from St. Patrick's convent to Maiden Lane; Page Street from Webster Street to Van Buren Street; and River Street from Lee Street to Blackhawk Street.

Barricades have been erected to protect the eight sliding areas and they are to be set up and moved only by Recreation Department personnel, Lee said.

All through traffic on the streets is prohibited by the barricade, but residents are still permitted to drive to their houses, Lee said.

Army Revises National Guard Training Duty

WASHINGTON — The Army Monday announced a major revision of the military service and training program which will require all new National Guardsmen to take six months active duty training.

The announcement brought an immediate protest from the National Guard Association which threatened to carry the fight to Congress.

The Army decision described as based on a directive from Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, will automatically reduce the military service obligation of all except career soldiers and will provide a way for most youths to escape draft duty altogether.

The National Guard said the six months compulsory training provision, which is effective April 1, will downgrade the Guard's importance "if not, destroy it." Under the 1955 Reserve Act, new Guard recruits could volunteer for the training.

Army officers who sought to explain the new order signed by Secretary of the Army Wilbur Brucker said the reduction in military service obligations for all reservists will be retroactive to the start of their service.

Under the new order, they said, three years of training and service in the ready reserve will be cut from the military obligation of pre-draft age men who volunteer to take six months of active duty training.

Young men who entered the reserves through this option will hereafter serve 4½ instead of 7½ years in a ready reserve unit, after completing training, and then have three years in the standby reserve. This latter duty requires no regular training or organized military effort.

The new order also reduces from two to one year the required service in the ready reserve for draftees and others who spend two years on active duty.

Men who spend three years of voluntary active duty with the Army will hereafter have one year instead of two years in the ready reserve and will then be transferred to the standby reserve.

The Army said the new program will offer one new choice for young men. This permits men between 18½ and 25 years of age to escape the draft altogether if they, like pre-draft age youths, volunteer for six months training. Men who take this option will spend 5½ years in the ready reserve, less nearly four months waiting period before they start their six months training.

SUI Concert Postponed

Frederick Ebbs, director of University bands, announced Monday that the SUI band concert set for Jan. 16 has been postponed until Jan. 23. The concert will be given in the Iowa Memorial Union at 8 p.m. The postponement was made because the band has not had sufficient time to practice since returning from the Rose Bowl.

City Awards Contract For Pumper

A contract for a $21,624 triple combination pumper for the Iowa City fire department was awarded to Peter Pirsch and Sons of Kenosha, Wis., by the Iowa City City Council Monday night.

The awarding of the contract to Pirsch had been challenged by Ward Le France, Elmira, N.Y., at the last council meeting on the grounds that the Pirsch bid was $700 higher than the Le France bid for comparable equipment. The council awarded the contract to Pirsch after Fire Chief Al Dolezal recommended the model.

In other action by the council, which had to reconvene in the office of City Clerk Walter Shellady after frigid air took over the council chambers, a resolution was passed setting 7:30 p.m., Feb. 11 as the time for selling $19,709.84 in paving and sidewalk bonds.

McGladrey, Hansen, Dunn and Company were selected by the council to audit the city's books for the past year.

A total of $68,256.58 in bills for the month was approved by the council.

Highlander Scholarships

HIGHLANDER DRUM MAJOR Kitty Korn, A4, Iowa City, presents Scottish Highlander scholarships to Joy Jarrard, A3, Victor, center, and Pat Hafner, A1, Burlington. The awards, which cover tuition for the semester, are made on the basis of outstanding contributions to the Highlander organization. Miss Hafner has been in the group four years, performing as a drummer and dancer. Miss Jarrard, who has been a piper and is now a tenor drummer, has been in the group three years.

Legislature (Continued from Page 1)

What Cheer, and W. C. Hendrix, Lets, all Republicans, and W. J. Johannes, Ashton and Lawrence A. Falvey, Albia, both Democrats.

Palo Alto County — Reps. Clark McNeal, Belmont; Jack Milroy, Vinton, and J. F. Falter, McGregor, all Republicans, and Casey Loss, Algona and Scott Swisher, Iowa City, both Democrats.

The committees will study the respective contests and report back to the House which will make the final decision.

After the formal morning sessions of the organization of the two chambers was completed, both houses again met briefly in the afternoon and then adjourned until 10 a.m. today.

One of the first pieces of legislation, was made ready. It is a joint resolution calling for lowering the voting age in Iowa from 21 to 18. It was filed in the House by Reps. Elmer Vermeer (R-Pella) and Mahlon Brown (R-What Cheer). Sponsors of a companion resolution in the Senate will include Sen. Jack Schroeder (R-Davenport).

A constitutional amendment would be required to lower the voting age. This involves passage of the resolution by both houses of two successive legislatures followed by approval of Iowa voters.

Fire Damages Garage

A garage belonging to Arlo Fry, 620 S. Riverside Drive, was damaged in a fire about 8 p.m. Monday. Firemen who were called to the scene said the fire was caused by an overheated stove pipe.

This is the second garage fire in Iowa City in two days. A garage belonging to W. E. Brown, 107 East Park Road, was destroyed early Sunday morning. Cause of this blaze had not been determined Monday night.

India Economist To Speak Tonight

The 8th Annual Sudhindra Bose Memorial Lecture to be given in Shambaugh Lecture Room at 8 p.m. tonight will feature Nasir Ahmad Khan, an economist from Lucknow University in India. The talk will be open to the public.

Kahn will speak on "Experiences of Economic Planning in India."

The Bose Memorial Lectures are presented annually and were established by Mrs. Sudhindra Bose of Iowa City in honor of her husband.

Prof. Paul Olson, head of the Department of Economics, will be chairman of the memorial lecture. Indian students at SUI will serve as ushers.

Mrs. Bose has invited the Indian students to her home to meet Kahn following the lecture.

December Fire Damage $3,800

Fire damage in Iowa City during the month of December was listed at $3,800 in a monthly report to the City Council by City Fire Chief Al Dolezal.

The fire loss consisted of $1,500 damage to buildings and $2,300 in content damages. There was no insurance on $1,500 of the damage.

The largest single cause of the 13 December fires was attributed to smoking, which caused four fires.

In his report, Dolezal said 21 inspections had been made during the month. Ten of these were theatre inspections.

VANDALISM REPORTED

Mrs. Phillip Jewel, 624 N. Lucas St., reported to police Monday that vandals had damaged her 1949 model car while it was parked in front of her home. She said the shifting lever, sun visor, dash board knobs, glove compartment door and outside rear view mirror had been broken off by the vandals.
