Ike To Confer With Mollet, Macmillan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will hold separate conferences with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French Premier Guy Mollet in a bid to warm up chilly relations between this country and its two traditional allies.

From his vacation headquarters at Thomasville, Ga., Mr. Eisenhower disclosed Monday he would meet March 21 with Macmillan for four days on the British resort island of Bermuda, 600 miles from the Carolina coast in the Atlantic.

LONDON (AP) — A top Moscow radio commentator Monday night appealed to Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan to visit the Soviet Union for talks with Russian leaders. Vyacheslav Rostovtsev, in an English-language broadcast beamed to Britain, stressed that the Soviet Union was anxious to improve relations with Britain.

Mollet accepted an invitation to meet with Mr. Eisenhower at the White House for a 2-day conference beginning Feb. 26.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, in announcing the long-expected Eisenhower decision to talk personally with British and French leaders, refused to provide any information about problems which would be discussed.

The continuing American differences with Britain and France over the Middle East crisis, however, promised to top the list of issues to be reviewed at both meetings.

Mr. Eisenhower talked by telephone for 20 minutes with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Monday morning to hear a first-hand report on American efforts to persuade Israel to heed the Nations appeal that it withdraw its forces from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area seized from Egypt.

Abba Eban, Israel's ambassador, met afterward with Dulles and reaffirmed his Government's determination to hold onto these areas until it gets "concrete and tangible guarantees."

Eban said these guarantees must include something more than a verbal pledge by Egypt's President Nasser that Egypt will allow Israeli ships into the Gulf of Aqaba and stop using the Gaza area as a base for attacks on Israeli territory.

The United Nations has adopted six resolutions demanding complete withdrawal of Israeli forces without prior conditions. The United States has supported the UN insistence on withdrawal.

Several weeks of intensive diplomacy by the American government with the Israeli government and with UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, who has been in close contact with the Egyptian government, have failed to break the deadlock between Israel's demands and the unwillingness of either the UN or Egypt to meet them.

Over Saturday and Sunday Dulles held a series of conferences at his home here and talked by telephone with President Eisenhower at Thomasville, Ga., where the President is vacationing.

The proposed new formula of a United States declaration to hold out some assurance to Israel emerged in the weekend conferences.

The U. S. government's thinking on the degree of assurance which the formula offers to Israel runs along these lines:

If the United States publicly declares its support of free navigation through the Gulf of Aqaba and exercises its right to operate ships into the gulf, there is good ground to believe that Egypt will offer no objection and will in fact accept the practical international status of the gulf.

Mother Slays 3 Sons, Then Self

WOOD RIVER, Ill. (AP) — A 25-year-old mother killed her three children by slashing their throats with a 9-inch butcher knife Monday and then committed suicide with the same instrument, Madison County Deputy Coroner Edwin Marks said.

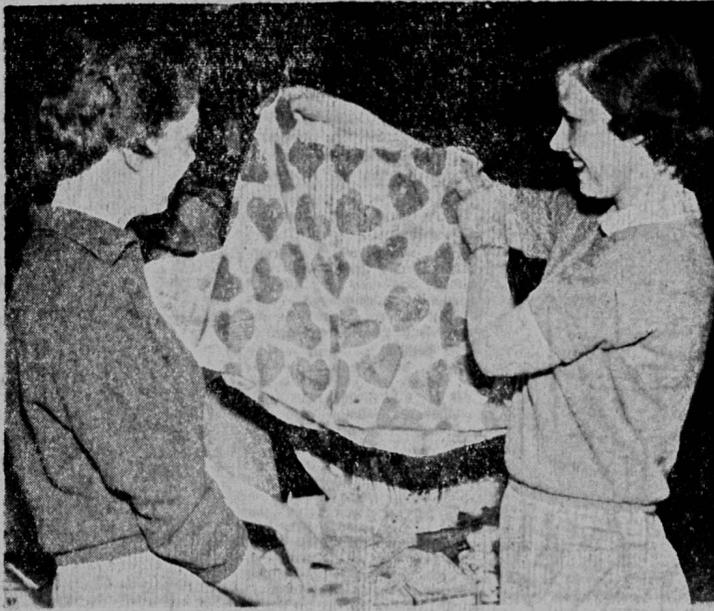

Marks said the woman's father, G. N. Andrews, an oil company executive, had him his daughter, Mrs. Priscilla Robertson, was discharged from a mental hospital six months ago.

David, 4, Eric, 3, and Mark, 6 months, were found with their throats cut by a 12-year-old sister of Mrs. Robertson who made visits after school each day to see the children, Marks said.

Marks said that two of the boy's bodies were lying on twin beds in one bedroom and the other body was in bed in the second bedroom in the Robertson's second floor apartment.

Marks said Mrs. Robertson was found sprawled in the bathroom with the knife beside her.

Reds Promise West German Friendship

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin dangled promises of a new era of friendship before West Germany in a letter published Monday night. He proposed "profitable" trade with the Bonn Republic and Moscow's good offices in seeking German reunification.

"War or peace in Europe depends first of all on how we settle the relations between us," he declared.

The proffer was made in a letter delivered to West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer last Friday. It came as Adenauer was preparing for an election tilt in West Germany with the Socialists, who believe closer relations with Moscow and putting Bonn's rearmament and NATO alliance on the bargaining table would advance unification.

The Soviets made the communication public as Socialist leader Eric Ollenhauer arrived in the United States to explain his policies to American leaders.

Adenauer, who himself has been preparing a note to Moscow to promote negotiations on divided Germany, made known last Friday that he had received a Bulganin letter, but declined to discuss its subject matter.

He told a news conference after he had read the letter, however, that the West must avoid provoking the Soviet Union at this stage because of a "developing change in international policy."

He predicted the Soviet attitude toward the West was bound to change because of events in Hungary and Poland and the balance in atomic weapons and guided missile developments.

Bonn Government officials said the Chancellor would reply to the Bulganin letter in a broadcast to the people Wednesday. His broadcast observers said, would be intended to counter the popular appeal of unification in an election year. West German officials said they believed Russia is eager to tap West German trade to bolster the Soviet economic position.

In his letter, Bulganin warned the German people against taking "the fatal road" upon which he said they were being pushed by aggressive Western forces. This was a reference to Adenauer's policies of membership in NATO and rearmament.

In a mild man-to-man tone, Bulganin suggested that the Soviet Union and West Germany enter upon an era of friendship, cooperating in cultural, scientific and technical matters, and profitable trade.

The Weather

Cloudy and Warm

Anyone thinking about taking the bermudas out of mothballs has the go-ahead from the weather wizard. The prediction for today is mild temperatures and partly cloudy skies.

The predicted 45 degree thermometer reading should be warm enough for shorts, but the partially cloudy skies will give a spotty finish to anyone trying to get a suntan.

Sdrawkcab Reverse Driving Not Always Reckless

SIOUX CITY (AP) — A Sioux City woman, acting as her own attorney, won dismissal in Municipal Court Monday, when she argued that driving a car backwards for 26 blocks did not constitute reckless driving.

Mrs. Sally Cusack testified she was en route to do charitable work downtown when the gears in her car locked. She said she then drove backward to the place downtown where she was to do the charitable work.

After Mrs. Cusack testified, Judge George M. Paradise ruled that her manner of driving was slow, cautious and in the proper lane of traffic. The reckless driving charge was dismissed.

Iowa City May Lose United Lines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bureau of Air Operations of the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) recommended Monday the broad scale reorganization of local air service in Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois.

It proposed that Iowa City be eliminated from the route of United Air Lines.

The bureau's brief will be considered, along with those of the airlines and cities involved in the recommendations which CAB Examiner Curtis C. Henderson will make to the board.

James L. Deegan, bureau counsel recommended that each of the distinct local service traffic markets in the seven states be served by a single local service airline.

Deegan said that competition between a feeder airline and a trunk airline should be given the maximum amount of freedom to develop traffic, consistent with their duty to provide local service.

He said that trunk airlines should be given the maximum amount of freedom to develop traffic, consistent with their duty to provide local service.

City officials fretted over a mounting peril to New York's supplies of fuel oil and coal, as a result of the tug strike.

The harbor's 400 tugs normally bring in fuel supplies for the city's eight million residents.

The 4,000 striking members of Local 333, United Maritime Division of the National Maritime Union, sought a wide list of fringe demands, plus a 15 per cent increase in wages that ranged from $1.76 to $2.80 an hour.

Numerous fringe issues beclouded the ILA-shippers negotiations. Wages were not considered a major issue. Employers agreed to a 32-cent an hour boost in the present $2.48 an hour base dock wage. It would be spread over a 3-year period.

An 80-day Taft-Hartley law recess in last November's ILA strike expires at 5 p.m. Tuesday.

The court-ordered recess began Nov. 24 after a widespread East Coast dock tieup was deemed by the White House to be dangerous to the nation's welfare.

Knowland Requests UN To Change Veto Rule

Israelis Sanction May Cause Conflict

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold warned the UN Assembly Monday against imposing sanctions on Israel. He said collective measures by the UN now may add new conflicts instead of bringing peace to the Middle East.

In a special report to the Assembly, Hammarskjold said his efforts to create conditions of peace in the troubled area have been frustrated.

He did not place the blame directly on any country, but the report showed that he regarded Israel's total withdrawal from Egypt as the essential starting point on the long road to peace.

While Israel stood firm on demands for definite guarantees before getting out of Egypt and the big powers, especially the United States, studied what to do, Hammarskjold put the issue squarely up to the Assembly.

He asked the Assembly to indicate as a matter of priority how it desires him to proceed with further steps to carry out the Assembly decisions calling for the withdrawal of Israel from Egypt.

In the report, written during the weekend after several conferences between Hammarskjold and Israel's Ambassador Abba Eban, the secretary general made these points:

1. Israel has not made clear whether its civil administration would be pulled out of the Gaza Strip with the military force if the UN found a way to protect Israeli interests there.

2. Israel has not answered Hammarskjold's question whether the UN Emergency Force would be permitted to occupy posts on the Israeli side of the 1949 armistice demarcation line as well as on the Egyptian side.

3. Egypt has reaffirmed privately that it will observe fully the provisions of the 1949 armistice. Some delegates said the UN at this stage appears to be going around in circles. Eban has asked Hammarskjold to inquire whether Egypt will agree to abstain from belligerent acts on the withdrawal of Israeli troops and whether UN forces will move into the Sharm el Sheikh sector along the Gulf of Aqaba upon the withdrawal of Israeli forces.

Hammarskjold has refused to communicate these questions to Egypt until Israel has complied with the Assembly requests to withdraw completely from Egypt. The UN resolutions mean withdrawal from the Gaza Strip as well as Sharm el Sheikh and Israel is busily engaged in building up the Gaza Strip.

In turn, Eban has told Hammarskjold that Israel's position on the question of withdrawal will be determined after receiving replies from the questions Eban gave to Hammarskjold to be delivered to Egypt.

Egypt has remained silent in all of these maneuvers but the Egyptian foreign minister, Mahmoud Fawzi, is at the UN and has seen Hammarskjold frequently.

Eban talked with Secretary of State Dulles in Washington for 70 minutes. Afterwards he said Israel wants assurances that the Gulf of Aqaba will be forever open to Israeli shipping and that the "hated, violence and squalor" he said had existed in the Gaza Strip will never recur.

French troops alerted after violent weekend

ALGIERS (AP) — French troops went on the alert throughout Algeria Monday after a bloody weekend of nationalist violence killed 26 civilians.

Nationalist bombings and attacks apparently were timed to coincide with the United Nations debate on Algeria.

The French announced the execution on the guillotine of four convicted terrorists including one Frenchman, confessed Communist Fernand Yveton. He was convicted of planting a time bomb.

Sen. Knowland "so be it..."

Demos Blast Ike, Dulles Mideast Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic senators mounted a fresh attack against the Administration's Middle East policy Monday. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was accused of "falsehood" during the hot debate.

At issue was President Eisenhower's request for authority to use U.S. Armed Forces in the Middle East if he deems it necessary to repel Red aggression.

The attack on Dulles was made by Senators Russell Long (D-La.) and Wayne Morse (D-Ore.). Morse declared: "I know of no more deceptive person in public life than John Foster Dulles."

Several Republicans went to Dulles' defense. Sen. Prescott Bush of Connecticut called Dulles "a very noble gentleman... a man of high honor."

Other developments in the expanding Middle East debate:

1. The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees finished their combined hearings on Mr. Eisenhower's Middle East resolution. Amendments will be tackled today and a joint committee vote may come on Thursday. In addition to standby military authority, the resolution would empower the President to spend $200 million on economic aid to Middle Eastern nations in the next 4 1/2 months.

2. A series of protests against singling out Israel for UN sanction arose in the Senate and House. Members of both parties said such policy in the Middle East dilemma would be "grossly unfair" and "wrong."

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, acting as the Republican floor leader at the time, denied the accusations against Dulles.

"I have yet to see an instance" in which Dulles ever "tried to deceive the Congress or wanted to," Saltonstall said.

Long angrily related that during the committee hearings he asked Dulles whether he ever "had given thought" to the presidential authority which sent U.S. troops to Iceland in World War II. Long said Dulles told him he hadn't.

"That was a falsehood," Long said. He added that everyone in the room who heard the testimony knew it to be false.

In one of the statements on Israel, Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Senate's Republican Policy Committee, said:

"It would be wrong for the United Nations to apply sanctions against Israel if it is going to do nothing about Russia for its efface of the General Assembly on the tragic repressions of Hungary, or about India for defying the Security Council in Kashmir, or about Egypt for defying the Security Council in respect of Israeli shipping in the Suez Canal."

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) said Mr. Eisenhower's "doctrine" seems to be "to punish and reprimand only our friends." He asked whether the policy is "tanks for Saudi Arabia and sanctions for Israel."

The UN has directed Israel to withdraw its troops from Egypt and the Gaza Strip.

FIRST BILL

DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. Herschel Loveless signed his first legislative bill Monday.

The measure would reduce the maximum work week of firemen in cities of more than 10,000 population from 84 to 68 hours.

Says Involved Nations Should Abstain Voting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif.) Monday night called on the United Nations Security Council to ban use of the veto by any nation involved in an international dispute.

Knowland, the Senate's minority leader and a member of the American delegation to the UN, said that if the Soviet Union walks out of the international organization as the result of such an action, "so be it."

"If the actions of the USSR during the Korean and Hungarian conflicts are examples of what we must contemplate for the future, the United Nations will have a better chance of survival without the Soviet Union than with it," he declared.

Knowland gave his views in a speech prepared for a Georgetown University lecture. He expects to discuss them with other UN delegates during a visit to New York tomorrow.

The senator proposed that Security Council members put into effect a provision of the charter which says that "a party to a dispute shall abstain from voting."

"If the Soviet Union makes a point of order that they are exempt, let the point of order be overruled by the chair and the ruling sustained by the other Security Council members," he said.

"At this point the Soviet Union might decide to walk out as Hungary did last December. So be it."

It has been the State Department's view that the "abstain from voting" provision cited by Knowland applies only to negotiations for the peaceful settlements under the charter and does not cover Security Council actions where hostilities or the threat of war is involved.

President Eisenhower has said the United States will work through the United Nations in its efforts to bring peace to the Middle East. He and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have hinted this country might join in a move to vote sanctions against Israel if she fails to withdraw troops from Egypt.

Knowland has opposed any such action as "immoral" unless similar sanctions are voted against Russia for its disregard of UN resolutions against Soviet military interference in Hungary.

The California senator, a potential candidate for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination, made it clear he doesn't share Mr. Eisenhower's reliance on the UN.

Knowland said that both the Truman and Eisenhower Administrations have made the United Nations a keystone of our foreign policy. "He said it is unfortunate for the UN 'that some of its friends oversold it to the people of the United States.'"

"As I see it," he said, our policy in regard to the United Nations should make it clear:

1. That our foreign policy is an American policy and is not and will not be tied as a tail to a United Nations kite.

2. The United Nations cannot take a moral leadership in the world unless the Soviet Union veto can be limited to those matters which impinge on its sovereignty and not those where the Soviet Union is violating the sovereignty of others. Hence, we should not compromise our moral leadership by diluting it with a Communist lack of international morality."

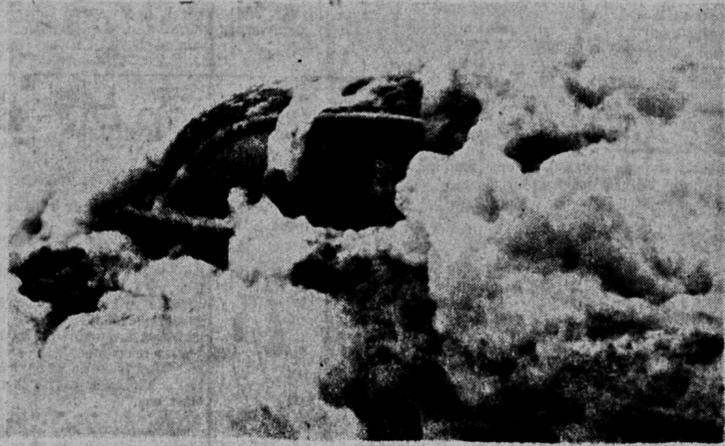

Appeals Court Affirms Charges Against Reds

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Monday unanimously affirmed 3-year contempt of court sentences on Gilbert Green, former Illinois chairman of the Communist party, and Henry Winston, former party secretary.

The two were among 11 top Communist leaders convicted Oct. 14, 1949 on charges of conspiracy to teach and advocate overthrow of the U.S. Government by force.

Green and Winston failed to surrender for sentencing July 2, 1951. They finally surrendered early last year and each was sentenced to three years for contempt, their terms to be served after the conspiracy sentences of five years.

A Great American

Today is the 148th anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth. Lincoln is the classic example of what is possible in America and no where else in the world.

When he was 21, Abraham Lincoln hired on a flat-boat as a deck hand and went to New Orleans where he got his first look at slavery and he was repulsed.

In 1832 he ran for the Illinois state legislature and lost. When he was running for the legislature most of his campaign was lost for he was an officer in the army against the Black Hawk Indians, although he never saw battle.

Later, after his marriage to Mary Todd in 1842 he developed a zeal for politics and was elected to one term in the Congress of the United States, from 1847 to 1849 when he opposed the Mexican War.

He was a candidate for the senate in 1855. He lost to Stephan A. Douglas. He was also a hopeful for the Republican vice-presidential nomination running with John Fremont. He lost this too.

Finally success came in 1860 when he was elected as President of the United States and again in 1864 when he won a second term.

Probably through the efforts of Abraham Lincoln more than any other man, slavery was abolished and the Union restored.

Because of his great tenacity and courage the story of Abraham Lincoln will live for hundreds of years in the free world as a man who was once a "have-not" but rose above it to become President.

A 'New' Driving Crime

Iowa's House of Representatives is continuing study on a bill that would make a "new" crime of "negligent homicide" in some auto accidents involving a fatality, with a stiff penalty of one year in jail or a maximum of $1,000 fine.

The driver would have to have it proven against him that he drove in a "willful and wanton" manner. If found guilty, the driver would also have his driver's license taken away for three years—a mandatory part of the penalty that is included in an amendment to the original bill.

Presumably the charge of negligent homicide would be applied against drivers who were drunk or speeding, or both at the time of the accident. It's reasonable that the legislature wants to crack down on these drivers in particular.

Speeders and drunken drivers are a horrible menace on Iowa's highways—and those that cause deaths because of operating motor vehicles in a "willful and wanton" manner must be dealt hard penalties, if the skyrocketing highway death toll is ever to be reduced.

Great care will have to be exercised in order that drivers involved in auto fatalities that occur under extenuating circumstances are not unjustly jailed and fined. But, carelessness is almost always the major factor in accidents, and when carelessness is mixed with a "devil may care" attitude or drunkenness, accidents are sure to happen.

Iowa already has laws that give drunk drivers $300 to $1,000 fine on first conviction, or up to a year in jail, or both, and a mandatory three year jail sentence for the third conviction. This law is being changed to give third offenders a one to five year sentence.

The new bill for those guilty of being criminally negligent will be effective in backing up laws already on the books.

Experience in highway death problems points out that stricter enforcement and stiff penalties for drivers who refuse to conform to necessary safety regulations, results in lower death tolls.

"Five nights—five different dates! When you become famous your biographer will lose his mind trying to track down your college career."

Washington Scene By George Dixon

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Whenever we inquisitive little rascals of the Washington press corps wanted to know anything about Canada in the less complicated days before World War II, we would call the Canadian Embassy and ask for "Mike." Now I hear that "Mike" is almost a sure bet to be prime minister of Canada.

"Mike's" square monicker is Lester Bowles Pearson. There is no "Mike," or any form of it, in his baptismal tag. The nickname was thrust upon him when he began playing semi-pro baseball to work his way through Toronto's Victoria College. His teammates decided "Lester" was no name for a fast shortstop and tried out a variety of cognomens, many of them unprintable, before settling upon "Mike."

Baseball paid his way through foreign service school and got him to Washington as minister counselor. The minister counselor isn't supposed to have anything to do with the press, but we asked for "Mike" when we wanted any information on Canada because we are so bloody lazy. He was the easiest to reach.

AFTER the war he got to be ambassador, but we still tapped him, although Canada had gotten just as bureaucratically-loaded as the rest of the world and had its embassy staffed with "press attaches," "press counselors," "information ministers"—in fact everything but just plain press agents. Many a new young diplomat, all full of fuss and dignity, would gulp when we'd barge in, demanding to see "Mike."

A couple of days ago a reporter went to call on him at his home in Ottawa. But as the newspaperman was ringing the doorbell, he heard the cabinet officer shout: "I'll be right down!"

The journalist felt this was a bit eerie, inasmuch as he wasn't yet inside the house. He looked up—and to be smacked in the puss with an avalanche of snow. "Where are you?" the scribe spluttered. "Up here!" bellowed the Hon. Mr. Pearson. "I'm shoveling the snow off my roof!"

THE HON. Mr. Pearson is a pleasant fellow, but life holds one ironic honor for him. As secretary of state he has to fly almost as much as his U.S. counterpart, J. F. Dulles. But "Mike" was a flyer in World War I and suffered a bad crash. He has loathed flying ever since.

In January, 1948, the delegates to the United Nations voted him the "hardest working" of the lot because of tireless effort, he had "solved" the "age-old Palestine problem." The minute he steps inside the UN today, someone is sure to jeer: "Aren't you glad you solved that age-old problem?"

Mr. Pearson has held only two paying jobs, in addition to infighting and diplomacy. He worked for a short spell in Armour's meat plant in Chicago, and went from the stockyards to a history professorship at the University of Chicago, which many consider something of a change.

But the meat job has haunted him diplomatically. The Russians delved into his past and got Armour confused with argument. Whenever the Kremlin gets annoyed with him, it revives the libel that he used to be a munitions maker.

"MIKE" is now 59, and the 75-year-old Canadian Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent has chosen him as his successor. Canada has a general election this year, probably in June, and St. Laurent's Liberal Party is considered a shoo-in. The hot hope is that St. Laurent will stay on for a short time in favor of the election, then bow out in favor of his secretary of state.

Cypriot Terrorist Fracas Insoluble In United Nations

By J. M. ROBERTS (Associated Press News Analyst) The United Nations debates move along this year from one insoluble to another.

Hungary, Middle East, Algeria, Middle East, next Cyprus and probably more Middle East, ad infinitum.

In the Cyprus case, Greece is accusing Britain of suppression of free determination and Britain is accusing Greece of supporting terrorism on the strategic island.

The Greeks on Cyprus want the island annexed to Greece. They are in the majority. The Turkish minority wants things as they are. So does the Turkish government, which promises to fight rather than see a weak power move onto the island, which lies athwart Turkey's southern flank and her sea connections with the North Atlantic Treaty countries.

BRITAIN is determined not to give up the most important air base she has left in the eastern Mediterranean.

Britain has proposed a new constitution for Cyprus, offering limited self-government, but can find no one with whom to deal.

Germans Copy American Two Party Political System

(Editor's Note: This is the first of weekly Daily Iowan columns to be written by graduate Fulbright student from Germany, Dietrich Hartmann. For two years he was a feature writer for Deutsche Presse Agentur, leading German news wire service. He will report on current topics in the news of Germany, and Europe.)

By DIETRICH HARTMANN

American tourists coming back from Europe and Germans visiting the United States very often state that they do not find too many differences between the two countries.

The aspects of German post war life with its ultra modern cities, the busy way of life in the communities, and many American methods and procedures adopted in industry and commerce seem to prove the impression even the average visitor gets in Germany.

The political scene in Western Germany saw a shift during the last two weeks indicating that political forces in Germany are going to follow the traditional American two party system pattern.

In an important nation wide televised "Bundestag" (lower house of parliament) debate on foreign policy the opposition Social Democratic party declared a policy that no longer was at odds with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's ruling Christian Democrats. Latest public opinion polls also showed that voters are turning away from the smaller parties and are making up their minds for one of the two big parties.

WITH ELECTIONS coming up early in September of this year political developments in Western Germany gain more significance in the light of current unrest in the European satellite empire of the Soviet Union and a certain reconsideration of European policy in the London Foreign Office and the State Department.

After Chancellor Adenauer had broadened his proposals for a European security system, advocated by the Russians since 1954, Socialist leader Erich Ollenhauer some weeks ago came to the support of the irritated Chancellor. Ollenhauer, election bound, talked about a partly demilitarized zone along the Iron Curtain including international control. For the first time in seven years he surprisingly supported the Western defense set up, NATO and the Western European Union.

Apparently he believes that the Western defense system in its rigid and unflexible construction is a matter of the past anyway, so why not support it.

Even Adenauer seems to be convinced that the main goal of his policy for the last eight years—reunification of Germany—can only be achieved in greater independence from America and direct negotiations with the Russians.

Both leaders evidently have seen the events in Hungary and mainly Poland as a trend toward the creation of a belt of nations independent from Russia as well as from the United States.

EUROPEAN LEADERS no longer see the future of pledging their countries' potentials too much to either one of the two big powers (Russia and the United States) after the world wide stalemate these powers found themselves in after the 1955 Geneva "Summit Conference."

The Socialists in the Bundestag now have fashioned a middle-of-the-road position close to the Christian Democrats. As far as a foreign policy of Germany is concerned, the outcome of the September elections should not result in too many changes, which for years were the fear of the Washington administration.

The West German voter in September will find himself in pretty much the same position as millions of Americans last November. He will have to decide between two parties which basically favor the same foreign policy. Public opinion pollsters in Western Germany found that the Germans like this two-party setup, as well as Americans do.

The smaller parties, mainly the Free (Liberal) Democrats and the right wing German party have lost ground during recent weeks to the big parties.

THOUGH ADENAUER personally gained much, popularity polls also show that the Social Democrats already lead Adenauer's governing party by roughly five per cent of the popular vote. In the last elections in 1953 this party won by a more than 60 per cent landslide.

Socialist Ollenhauer seems to be sure to win the election. Last week he arrived in this country for a two week sight-seeing trip and some political talks with Washington officials. Ollenhauer will be the next German chancellor if his pattern, to copy his 81-year-old rival, finds the approval of voters.

Many voters also might think that such an old man as Adenauer is just too old to run for a third term. Adenauer, healthy and energetic as ever, however has shown no indication that he might step down to give room for some of the younger politicians in his party.

TO THE EDITOR:

Please preserve us from further demonstrations of high school journalism in the weather section. How about a straight forward account of this part of the news? Why must we be forced to sift through something like "I say! Paws the teapot, Millicent. The weather is a bit like merry old England, what? And the weather man predicts springlike temperatures for today, too. Bully, old boy!"

We'd appreciate a high today, low tomorrow report, so leave the teapot Millicent and the bully boys to the English or Max Schulman.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF A DISTINGUISHED ARRAY of dinner guests smacked their lips when Mrs. Johnson's maid entered the dining room, bearing a magnificent, golden brown turkey on a large platter.

Then, alas, the maid slipped and fell flat on her face, while the turkey skidded across the floor. That's when Mrs. Johnson gave an exhibition of her superb tact and imperturbability. "Never mind, Mary," she soothingly said. "Just take this turkey back to the kitchen and bring in the other one."

The proprietor of a bar and grill has come up with the most disheartening example yet of a man with a split personality. His other personality, however, loathes salted peanuts, potato chips, and pretzels.

What's it like to be AN IBM SALESMAN?

Selling to management is perhaps the best training for management, and it's the reason Gene McGrew joined IBM. Today, he possesses a thorough practical Business Administration education, responsibility, an excellent income—all at age 27. Read about an unusual career.

Makes first sale

Gene's first sale, to a bank, required thorough study; consultations; a written recommendation. The climax came, Gene remembers, when he submitted his analysis to the vice president and received that gentleman's signature.

Meets IBM representative

Out of the Army in 1953, Gene met an IBM representative. It sounded like opportunity. A few interviews later, Gene was sure. Although sales was only one of the many jobs he felt he could handle, this kind of selling—(IBM machines are as much an idea as a product)—promised to occupy every talent he possessed. Besides, he's learned that "no other form of training produces so many top business managers."

Discussing customer's installation

Gene's latest sale was to a large industrial corporation. He's now preparing this customer for the installation of an IBM electronic system designed to simplify financial procedure; inventory and other systems problems. At 27, Gene finds himself top man on an important account. He's educator, salesman, administrator.

How would Gene define selling?

"We feel the best way to sell is to be able to consult. The best way to consult is to know something of value your customer doesn't. IBM's 'something of value' is profit through automation."

Gene's thoughts on competition:

"The entire Office Machine Industry feels the lead pencil is the biggest competitor. You've no idea how many time-consuming clerical jobs can be mechanized, thus freeing people for important, creative jobs. IBM's success in the field is due to service, knowledge, 'know-how'."

Does Gene find his youth a handicap?

"It's what you know—not how old you are—that counts. I deal with executives twice my age on a basis of equality, because they respect my training and my business judgment."

Future wide open

"I'm getting married soon, and I was amazed to realize how much security IBM's growth (sales have doubled on the average every five years since 1930) and benefits represent. But I think my real security lies in the chance to use my own ability fully and freely. There are nearly 200 Branch Managerships, 15 District Managerships and executive positions in 5 other divisions ahead of me. IBM is introducing new machines, systems and concepts so fast that, every Monday, we have a 'new idea' meeting just to keep up."

IBM hopes this message will give you some idea of what it's like to be a salesman at IBM. There are equal opportunities for E.E.'s, I.E.'s, M.E.'s, physicists, mathematicians, and Liberal Arts majors in IBM's many divisions—Research, Product Development, Manufacturing Engineering, Sales and Technical Service. Why not drop in and discuss IBM with your Placement Director? He can supply our brochure and tell you when IBM will interview on your campus. Meanwhile, our Manager of College Relations, Mr. P. H. Bradley, will be happy to answer your questions. Write him at IBM, Room 9401, 590 Madison Ave., New York 22, N. Y.

Off the Cuff

By Larry Dennis

Iowa's Hawkeyes are not yet out of the Big 10 basketball race, according to Bucky O'Connor's figuring—although he didn't put it that way.

What Bucky said after Saturday's game with Purdue was this—he still thinks the club with a 10-4 record will win the title, or at least end up in a tie for the top.

And in view of the current topsy-turvy race, I'm inclined to agree with him.

Thus, the Hawks—now 3-4 in the loop—are still in the running, according to those mathematics.

But that means, of course, that Iowa has to win all the rest of them, and while fans were pleasantly surprised at the results Saturday, I don't think anybody will yet go so far as to predict a clean sweep of the next seven games.

Purdue coach Ray Eddy doesn't agree with Bucky. He thinks it will take 11-3 to win the championship.

If he's right, then the Boiler-makers are out of it as a result of their loss to Michigan State Monday night.

Eddy had no excuses to make for his team's defeat Saturday. "The better team won, that's all," he said. "There's no explanation to give. We just were beaten."

O'Connor, however, was of the opinion that the Hawkeyes caught Purdue on a bad night—and he appeared to have no tongue in his cheek when he said it.

The Iowa mentor credited good defensive play as much as anything for pulling off the upset.

PURDUE, incidentally, might be justified in claiming the collegiate basketball championship of Indiana this year. They've swept their games against all Hoosier rivals—Evansville, Notre Dame, Butler, Indiana and Valparaiso.

I imagine Indiana would be glad to relinquish that title to Purdue and settle in turn for the Big 10 crown.

AH, HUMAN NATURE. Last year, it was standing-room-only every game at Iowa Fieldhouse. This year, the attendance averages somewhere between 6,000 and 8,000—I would estimate—in a place that will hold 16,000.

Which reminds me of these lines penned by an unknown author:

No fighting for seats,
No standing in line,
No rushing for tickets,
The view is just fine.
But nobody's watching
The team on the floor.
There's no crowd of people
Stampeding the door.

You want to know why
Everything is so quiet,
Why the place doesn't sound
Like the midst of a riot?
You want to know why
The fans don't come near?
I'll tell you the reason—
We're not winning this year.

A MILWAUKEE MAN and his wife, have made an out-of-court settlement in their $40,000 suit against Jackie Robinson, originated when a bat thrown by Robbie struck them both on the head (they said). They probably figured they would not have a chance in court against a man who can talk as fast as Robinson.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS is replacing the famous O'Donnell trophy, emblematic of the national collegiate football championship and now retired by Oklahoma (winner three times), with a 40-inch high bronze award.

In addition, the AP will give a plaque each year to the national champions.

These people seemed bound and determined to fill up the Sooners' trophy case.

THE HEAD of the University of Texas has declared that a consistently winning football team was "prima facie evidence that an institution has compromised on its academic standards."

Texas last season lost nine games, winning only one.

Wonder what he would have said had the Longhorns won 'em all.

TED WILLIAMS signs his annual $100,000 contract and almost concurrently denies reports he will marry a New York model. Probably figures that with the high cost of living nowadays he can't afford to get married on his salary.

Silver to Old Gold

HIS MOST PRIZED FOOTBALL is given to Kenny Ploen, Iowa's all-American quarterback, by Wilfred Smith, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, at Saturday's Purdue-Iowa basketball game. The big silver football is awarded each year to the most valuable player in the Big 10, an honor given this year to Ploen. This photo was taken just after the crowd in the Fieldhouse had given the personable young star a standing ovation which lasted more than a minute. "This is my biggest sports thrill," Ploen told the crowd. "I want to thank the university, Evy and his wonderful coaching staff and most of all the team for making this award possible." Forest Evashevski, Hawkeye football coach, told the crowd: "I have never coached a Hawkeye who deserved this award more than Kenny." Ploen is the fifth Hawkeye in history to receive the award.

Ramblers Smash Waterloo, 65-37

St. Mary's rolled up their 13th consecutive win in the Northeast Iowa Catholic Conference Monday night, a 65-37 triumph over O.L.V.A. of Waterloo.

A balanced scoring attack, led by Dave Maher with 18 points, plus a 70 per cent shooting average paved the way for the Rambler victory. Close behind Maher in the scoring column were John Cahill and Denny Walljapper, who scored 16 and 14 points, respectively.

In the first quarter, the Ramblers burned the nets at a 90 per cent clip. Scoring several times on fast breaks, St. Mary's advanced to 23-12 lead at the end of the period.

Despite a time-consuming, dribbling exhibition by O.L.V.A. in the second period, the Ramblers capitalized on almost every scoring opportunity to build up a 40-15 half-time lead.

Cahill led off the second half by driving the length of the floor and scored on a lay-in shot. Jump shots by Cahill and Maher pushed the St. Mary lead to 24 points at the end of third quarter.

Cahill connected on four out of four attempts from the freethrow line as he ran his charity toss streak to 12 in a row. He has 65 out of 78 for the entire season.

Finsterwald Wins Playoff
TUSCON, Ariz. (AP)—Dow Finsterwald defeated Don Whitt by a convincing four-stroke margin in a battle of youngsters for top money in the $15,000 Tucson open golf tournament Monday.

Finsterwald, 27, of Tequesta, Fla., toured the 6,434-yard El Rio Country Club course in 33-32-65, 5 under par, to earn $2,000 in the 18-hole playoff.

Whitt, 26, of Alameda, Calif., and Finsterwald had been tied with scores of 269, 11-under-par, at the end of the regular 72-hole tournament Sunday.

Whitt salvaged a 37-32-69 after getting off to a shaky start. He hit tees, was buried in ditches and missed putts, going over par on two of the first three holes.

Finsterwald got a birdie on the first hole and played steady, relentless golf from then on.

"Dow is much the better golfer," Whitt said. "That's all there is to it. I wasn't beaten by all these."

Hawks Win 7 of 9 Events; Cagers Tip Purdue, 74-67

Martel's 23, Wordlaw's 19 Pace Upset

Iowa's young and luckless Hawkeyes, unconscious of rank or power, rose up to throw a two-listed punch that put a serious crimp in Purdue's basketball title ambitions here Saturday night.

The Hawks, behind the slightly sensational firing of guards Augie Martel and Clarence Wordlaw, clawed back from what was once a 13 point deficit to slap down the Boiler-makers, 74-67.

It was only the third loss in eight starts for Purdue. For Iowa, the win was the third against four defeats.

Martel, hitting equally well in both halves, threw in 11 field goals and a free throw for 23 points. Wordlaw was held to one point in the first half, but came on strong after the intermission to collect 18 more on seven baskets and four gift tosses.

The Hawkeyes went into an early lead, but fell behind and trailed 38-32 at the end of a ragged first period. They had hit 29 per cent of their shots at that time.

Then they proceeded to burn through better than 51 per cent of the shots in the second half. They went into a 54-53 lead with 8:05 left, and were never headed.

Americus John-Lewis, who alternated with Peer Heeg in filling Tom Payne's shoes at center, led all rebounders with seven.

Lamar Lundy, 6-6 football-basketball star, led the Boiler-makers with 15 points. Joe Campbell, brilliant little Purdue guard, was held to three free throws by Martel's superlative defensive job.

No Vote On Increasing League, Giles Declares
CINCINNATI (AP)—Warren Giles, president of the National League, said Monday "it is news to me" if any formal vote was taken in 1955 on increasing league membership from 8 to 10 clubs.

His comment followed a statement in San Francisco Sunday by Francis McCarty, chairman of the city's Major League Baseball Committee, that the league voted 6-2 in 1955 in favor of increasing the membership and granting franchises to Los Angeles and San Francisco. A unanimous vote of approval is needed.

It was another big weekend for Iowa athletic teams as the Hawkeyes won seven out of nine winter sports events.

Winning, besides the basketball team, were the Iowa trackmen in a triangular, the swimming team, the gymnasts in three dual meets and the fencing team.

The fencers dropped one of their two duals and the wrestling team lost to Michigan for the only two Iowa defeats.

Matmen Lose, 14-12
The loss of two top men—Gary Kurlmeier and Gene Luttrell—because of sickness cost the Hawkeye matmen a 14-12 decision to Michigan Saturday.

Luttrell, 3-1 this season, was forced to forfeit the 130-pound bout and five points to the Wolverines.

The loss of Kurlmeier, unbeaten at 177-pounds this year, cost the team strength in the heavier events.

Winners for Iowa were Larry Moser (123-pounds), Ralph Rieks (130 pounds), Simon Roberts (147 pounds) and Jim Craig (177 pounds).

Craig moved out of his normal 167-pound class to win at the heavier weight.

Trackmen Win
MADISON, Wis.—Charles (Deacon) Jones, fresh from the Olympic Games at Melbourne, kicked off what should be a brilliant college career by winning three events as Iowa defeated Wisconsin and Northwestern in a triangular here Saturday.

The Hawkeyes tallied 54 1/2 points to 52 1/2 for Wisconsin and 31-5/6 for Northwestern.

It was the first meet of the season for Iowa.

Other Iowa winners were Gardner Van Dyke in the pole vault, Joe Camano in the broad jump and Don Bowen in the shot put.

Swimmers Beat Gophers
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Gary Morris, Iowa's sophomore sprint star, broke two Minnesota pool rerecords here Saturday as he paced the Hawkeyes to a 59-46 swimming victory over the Gophers.

Morris clipped the 100-yard free style in 49.5 seconds and the 220-yard free style in 2:09.7.

It was his second straight sub-50 second performance in the 100.

Other winners for the Hawks were Kim Austin in the 200-yard butterfly and 200-yard breast-stroke, Earl Ellis in the 200-yard individual medley and the 400-yard free style, Bob Pratt in the 50 free style, Jake Quirk in fancy diving and the Iowa 400-yard relay team of Pratt, Jacobson, Davidson and Morris.

It was Iowa's third win against one defeat this season.

Gymnasts Win Three
CHICAGO, Ill.—Iowa's brilliant Sam Baillie was the dominant force again as the Hawkeyes' unbeaten gymnastics team moved to its fourth, fifth and sixth victories of the season Friday and Saturday.

Iowa, seemingly unhindered by the loss through scholastic ineligibility of Staffan Carlsson, No. 2 scorer, and Co-Capt. Jerry Wietman, defeated Nebraska 61 1/2-49 1/2 and Chicago, 69-39, Friday night.

Saturday the Hawks routed Northwestern, 71-39.

Baillie won the free exercise, side horse, high bar, parallel bars and flying rings events in each meet.

Iowa won every first place in the three meets. Myron Stolte won the tumbling each time, and Bob Justice took first on the trampoline against Nebraska and Chicago.

Teammate Tim Joe won the trampoline competition at Northwestern, with Justice second.

Fencers Split
SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Iowa's fencing team gained an even split in two dual meets here Saturday. Notre Dame topped the Hawkeyes, 20-7, in the afternoon, but Iowa rallied against Indiana Tech to gain an 18-9 victory.

REUNITED LOVERS, Mrs. Anna Beck, 72-year-old widow from Marshalltown, Iowa, and Camille Lambert, a 73-year-old French widower, wear big smiles on Anna's arrival in Paris to marry Lambert. The two were childhood sweethearts 52 years ago, but only re-met last year on Anna's trip to France. It was then he proposed.

After 52 Years, Widow To Marry French Beau

PARIS (AP) — A 72-year-old Iowa great-grandmother was reunited with her 73-year-old French sweetheart Monday and found the path of romance beset with obstacles.

She bubbled with confidence, however, that they will go through with plans to be married.

Mrs. Anna Beck, a native of Luxembourg and recently of Marshalltown, Iowa, landed at Orly Airport looking for a reunion with Camille Lambert, now 73, who courted her 52 years ago in the little French village of Herbeval.

He was not at the airport. "He'll turn up, I'm sure," Mrs. Beck told a reporter. "Camille is a decent man."

After some effort reporters finally found Camille. He was on a waiting train, angry because he had not found Mrs. Beck at the airport. He was ready to go home and call the whole thing off.

Mrs. Beck and an entourage of reporters and photographers set off for the station.

They found the train and began a search of the cars.

"There is M. Lambert," shouted Mrs. Beck, pointing to a grey-haired man.

"Ah, you're late," answered Lambert calmly. "I was going home and never see you again."

Later they posed for photographers. Mrs. Beck asked reporters to turn their heads. They heard the sound of a kiss.

The trouble about their marriage plans is that Camille agreed to live in America when he and Mrs. Beck decided last year to marry. Now he's changed his mind.

"He is a respected citizen of Herbeval," Mrs. Beck explained. "He has many friends there with whom he plays belotte — a card game. He doesn't want to leave them."

She insists on returning to America "where there is color and song and laughter." She has picked Denver, Colo., as their future home.

"I am sure Camille will be persuaded," she said. "It will be good to settle down and have my own life again."

Camille, man of few words, took her hand in his.

"We used to dance together Saturday nights 52 years ago," Mrs. Beck recalled. "He asked me to marry him. But I wanted to go to America for adventure. He married. I married. Then my husband died. His wife died. Last year I went to Herbeval and saw Camille. We decided to marry."

The grounds mentioned in Dolly's notice were described by Charles as "broad, general character, sweeping in scope and generally vicious in nature."

Besides, he said, they were of the "shotgun" variety — not specific. Hellsell countered that four pages "specific enumerations" could hardly be called general.

And he said, it was not necessary at the papers sent Coad to sign. These papers, he said, were a copy of the original notice of intent and of charges, which were properly signed and filed with the clerk of the House.

Hellsell argued that the main question was whether Coad was notified of Dolly's plan to contest election. He contended Coad received "actual notice."

"If this notice is not good, we admit there is no chance for any contest unless the contestee submits to a contest," Hellsell said.

The subcommittee will decide whether Dolly properly notified Coad of intention to contest and whether there is a contest of Coad's seat.

If it decides there is a contest then will move beyond the basic question of notification.

Research on Heart Expended at SUI

The heart and blood vessels are subjects of an expanding research program at the SUI College of Medicine.

Each of the medical teams involved in the studies are following different paths of investigation, but their general goal is the same: To improve man's chances against the numerous ailments which are classified as heart disease.

Much of the research is being supported with funds provided by the Iowa and American Heart Associations.

The emphasis being placed upon heart disease at SUI is reflected in part by expansions which have occurred in recent years in the University's cardiovascular research laboratories. These laboratories are now comprised of six units, each devoted to a special aspect of the heart problem.

In the clinical lab, for example, doctors perform precise and delicate procedures which often provide information as to the exact location and nature of a patient's defect. The procedure, known as cardiac catheterization, involves passage of a small tube into the heart itself. Blood samples withdrawn through this tube are analyzed for clues to the heart ailment.

The procedure offers invaluable information to the surgeon when a heart operation is required.

In the renal lab (another of the cardiovascular research laboratories), doctors study the kidneys and their functions in relation to heart disease. For example, the kidneys are involved in high blood pressure, one of the most common cardiovascular ailments.

The hemodynamic lab was established recently for studies of the shifts in blood volume through the body. Relatively little is known about these shifts and about the vessels which carry the blood. But it is known that the veins figure prominently in many abnormal heart conditions.

In another laboratory, doctors are conducting research on atherosclerosis, a condition in which the blood's flow through the larger arteries is interfered with by deposits of fatty substances along the arterial walls. The doctors are studying blood coagulation in an effort to determine why blood clots form in the coronary arteries. They also are investigating the relationship between diet and certain kinds of heart disease.

In the pulmonary functions lab, the medical scientists are studying the functions of the lungs in patients who have congenital heart disease. The lungs frequently are affected by this disease.

In the physiology lab, a part of the SUI College of Medicine's Department of Physiology, is the site of continuing studies into the functions of the heart, the blood vessels and various other organs of the body.

Heart surgery research has been under way for several years at the university. The number of delicate heart operations performed at SUI is growing steadily. Many of the operations are curative in nature, others help the patients to live with their heart problems.

Much of the equipment in these laboratories has been purchased with funds donated by Iowans through the Iowa Heart Association. Much of the actual research has been performed by doctors working under fellowships provided by the heart group. And for several years, the general operation of the laboratories has been supported in part by Iowa Heart Association grants. The latest of these annual general operating grants was made in the amount of $15,000.

THE "MOSCOW LINE" or a more independent "American road to socialism" is the question before the American Communist convention being held in Chateau Gardens Hall, in New York City. Communist press representative Simon Gerson explains the situation to American newsmen who are barred from the sessions. Latest word is that the Communists will break away from the "Moscow line."

American Communists May Break From Adherence to Moscow Line

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Communist party appeared Monday night to be breaking away from strict adherence to the Moscow line.

Delegates to the party's first convention in seven years adopted a resolution declaring major party mistakes "were left-sectarian in character."

"Left-sectarianism" is defined in Communist circles as bureaucracy adhering rigidly to Marxist-Leninist doctrine handed down by Moscow.

Still to be voted upon, however, was a resolution declaring flatly that the American Communist party would do its own interpreting of Marxism-Leninism.

They predicted it would be adopted if the delegates followed the same line of thinking they did in placing the blame for the mistakes.

The question of interpretation of doctrine was the chief major issue remaining before the convention.

The controversy has raged within party circles for months.

Newsman are barred from the convention hall. Information on the proceedings is relayed by a party press committee. The four day convention is in its third day.

Before taking up the party policy question, the delegates adopted a resolution pledging support to the anti-segregation movement in the South. It also pledged to battle for "suffrage for all Southerners" and "desegregation of public schools."

The convention also adopted an economic resolution calling for a continued battle "against the big monopolies."

The party, in an unexpected action, also voted to move the party headquarters from New York to Chicago within a year.

Sources said the move would enable the party to be "closer to the industrial heart of the United States."

In Chicago, Mayor Richard J. Daley said: "The people of Chicago do not want them here. Why don't they go to Moscow?"

There was no immediate indication whether the Daily Worker, the Communist newspaper published here, would move or stay in New York.

The American Communist movement was founded at Chicago in 1919 and the headquarters were located there until 1927.
