Israeli Withdrawal Seems Sure

Gambler Tells of Attempts To Control Pinball Racket

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Portland, Ore., gambler, who said he once had the inside track with the Teamsters Union there, testified Thursday that a rival paid "$10,000 or more" to get back in the union's good graces.

This payment, James B. Elkins told a special Senate investigating committee, spoiled his plan to get a $250,000 a year monopoly in the pinball business in Oregon.

Elkins testified that the money was paid by Stanley Terry, a Portland pinball operator, to Frank W. Brewster of Seattle, head of the 11-state Western Conference of the Teamsters Union.

The testimony brought out that only pinball machines bearing the Teamsters Union sticker could operate successfully in Portland. Business places using "non-union" machines, the witnesses said, were picketed by the union and had their deliveries of beer, bread and other supplies cut off.

Lloyd Hildreth, secretary of Teamsters Local 223 in Portland, testified that Terry was "put out" of the local in December 1954 on orders of Clyde Crosby, an international organizer of the teamsters in Oregon.

This was just before Elkins and his associates set out to gain their pinball monopoly.

Hildreth said Crosby instructed him early in 1955 to contact "the Elkins people" who wanted to join the union and to handle the negotiations.

Hildreth went on to say a membership card was reissued to Terry in February or March of 1955.

Elkins said Terry's readmission ended union opposition to Terry's machines.

He said the arrangements for Terry to confer with Brewster were made by Hy Goldbaum, identified by the committee as a gambler and a friend of Brewster's.

Elkins related that Terry, after a trip to Seattle, told him, "I am going to have to pay a fine or a little penalty. I have been a bad boy and I am going to have to buy my way back in."

It was "quite a chunk of money," Elkins said, "$10,000 or more."

Terry testified he operated 200 to 300 pinball machines in Portland during 1954 and 1955. He was reluctant to state his income from the machines but finally conceded it was in the neighborhood of $50,000 a year.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, suggested Terry might have taken in nearer to $100,000. "If I did it was a good year," the witness replied.

Malloy, business agent of Teamsters Local 223 in Portland, was named by Elkins as a member of a union-racketeer ring trying to take over gambling and vice in Portland.

When Malloy was called as a witness he refused to answer a long string of questions, invoking the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination.

But Chairman John McClellan (D-Ark.), ruled that Malloy had made "capricious" use of his constitutional protection by declining to testify after having answered questions in the same "area" of interrogation.

One question the witness dodged was whether he ever discussed pinball machine operations with Clyde C. Crosby, international organizer for the Teamsters in Oregon.

"Didn't you, as a strong-arm man, go out and picket" to halt operation of certain pinball machines? McClellan asked.

"I decline to answer," Malloy said.

H. A. Crouch, owner of the Mt. Hood Cafe in Portland, testified Thursday that Teamsters Union pickets led by Malloy closed his place when he refused to take out a row of pinball machines and replace them with machines okayed by the Teamsters.

Malloy said he had heard Crouch's testimony but refused to answer any questions about it. He added that he was under two state indictments on charges of extortion and conspiracy to extort and any testimony "might incriminate me, no, I mean incriminate me."

Mideast Plan Not for Aswan Dam: Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, acting to keep the Middle East resolution intact, pledged Thursday that it would not be used to launch a vast new spending program in the area.

In a letter to Sen. William Knowland of California, the Senate's Republican leader, Dulles also said none of the economic aid funds provided for in the resolution will be used to help Egypt build the Aswan Dam.

The letter was plainly aimed at dissipating congressional fears that congressional approval of the Mideast resolution would open doors to the spending of additional billions abroad.

Knowland made the letter public as Senate Democrats were making a new attack on the economic aid half of the resolution and calling it vague and "a foot-in-the-door" plan.

The Senate is debating an amendment by Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga.) to strip from the resolution authority for President Eisenhower to spend $200 million between now and June 30 on special economic and weapons aid to Mideast nations.

Knowland opposes the amendment. He used Dulles' letter as his latest argument, reading it to the Senate in full. Dulles wrote Knowland:

"I understand that you have asked for assurances that the Administration would not, under the authorization in the Middle East resolution, enter into any commitments which would seem, morally or legally, to obligate the Congress to appropriate funds in the future. I assure you that no such commitment will be made.

"I also understand that you have inquired whether any of the funds, the use of which is authorized by this resolution, would be used for the Aswan Dam. The answer is 'no.'"

Russell said Dulles "is still refusing to tell the Congress how he proposes to spend one cent" of the requested aid money.

Republicans and a few Democrats defended the economic program as a necessary part of American efforts to stabilize the Middle East and strengthen it against Red infiltration.

"It would be dangerous not to give the President what he thinks he needs to avoid an outbreak of war," said Sen. John Cooper (R-Ky).

THE PONDERER, Chief U.S. delegate to the UN Henry Cabot Lodge, works over his response to Soviet charges that the United States was trying by subversion to overthrow governments of Soviet Union and other Soviet bloc nations in Eastern Europe, in UN General Assembly Thursday. The U.S. delegation disclosed Thursday that Lodge had suspended plans for a compromise resolution pending results of today's debate.

Will Announce Plans Today, Sources Say

By The Associated Press

The paralyzing crisis over Israeli troop withdrawal appeared Thursday night to be broken.

American officials in Washington were convinced that Israel will pull its forces out of the Gaza Strip and Gulf of Aqaba area.

A high diplomatic source at United Nations, N. Y., reported Israel will inform the UN this afternoon she will withdraw troops completely from the areas.

Israeli sources would not confirm nor deny the report.

The source, who has been close to the negotiations, said Israel may include some qualifying assumptions in making the announcement. The informant did not specify what these could be.

He said Israel would announce the plans to pull out of the Gulf of Aqaba and Gaza in accordance with the General Assembly resolutions of Feb. 2.

The possibility of some kind of hitch remained since reaction of all the countries, particularly the Arab bloc, is not yet known.

Israel finally made its decision to withdraw, according to informants, after being assured of widespread support for its aims of preventing Egypt from again using the Gaza Strip as a base for raids against Israel and assuring free navigation into the Gulf of Aqaba.

The Feb. 2 resolutions provide that:

Israel withdraw immediately behind the 1949 armistice lines.

Both Israel and Egypt observe terms of the armistice and endorse recommendations of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold for stationing UN Emergency Forces along the demarcation line.

The assurances do not provide the formal iron-clad guarantees which Israel had first demanded.

Expectation of the settlement of the problem led President Eisenhower and visiting French Premier Guy Mollet to extend talks on U.S.-French understanding Wednesday. The situation, however, was not sufficiently clarified Thursday. They met briefly but did not issue a formal statement.

Authoritative information indicates these main points:

GAZA — When the Israeli troops are pulled out, it will be immediately occupied by units of the United Nations Emergency Force now in the Suez Canal area.

The UN force, according to the understanding reached, should not only provide security over the Gaza area but should undertake the task of administration as well. On this point some action by the General Assembly may be necessary but it is understood that in the last few days a large number of governments has been contacted by the United States or Israel and assurances sought that they will support a UN military administration of Gaza until some new status for the strip can be worked out.

AQABA — United Nations forces also are to occupy the Sharm el Sheikh coast of the Strait of Tiran. The strait is the passageway between the Gulf of Aqaba and the Red Sea. Egyptian ships closed the strait to Israeli ships until their positions were overrun by Israeli forces last fall.

The pressure to get Israel's troops out goes back to last fall. The United Nations eventually passed half a dozen resolutions demanding that the Israelis withdraw on the ground that they had no right to attack Egypt in the first place. The Israelis rejected this ground with the argument that the attack on Egypt was provoked by many Egyptian raids against Israel and was an act of self-defense, legal under the UN Charter.

The UN position and that of the Arab states particularly has been that Israel should not be paid a "price" for its "aggression" by receiving guarantees with respect to the disputed areas in advance of withdrawing its forces.

Meanwhile the possibility of work on the settlement of more fundamental Middle Eastern problems was foreclosed. Efforts to work out some arrangements with Egypt for the operation of the Suez Canal were stalled and nothing could be done toward promoting a permanent peace settlement between Israel and Arab States. Thus a kind of paralysis settled over Middle East diplomacy with respect to all the problems except that of getting Israeli troops pulled back from Gaza and Aqaba.

Council Schedules Election Meeting

A meeting of all campaign managers for candidates running in the March 20 All-Campus Elections has been set for 3:30 p.m. March 7 in the Pentacrest room of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Sandra Levinson, A3, Mason City, head of the Student Council committee in charge of the elections, said candidates should attend the meeting with their managers if possible.

Purpose of the meeting will be to instruct the managers and candidates in the rules of the campaign.

Campaigning on campus will begin March 8 and will continue through March 19.

Students wishing to become candidates to the Student Council from Town Men, Town Women and married students, the only groups which select their Student Council representatives in the all-campus elections, may pick up application forms at the Student Council in the Iowa Memorial Union.

Senior class officers, officers of the YWCA, Women's Recreation Association and Associated Women Students; two 2-year members and one 1-year member representing students on the Board of Student Publications, Inc., three men and three women students to represent the College of Liberal Arts on the Union Board; and one man and one woman student to represent the College of Commerce on the Union Board.

Information sheets, application papers for the position of Student Council representative, and lists of candidates for other organizations participating in the election are all due at the Student Council office at 4:30 p.m. March 6, Miss Levinson said. Candidates for the Board of Student Publications will file their application papers at the School of Journalism Office in the Communications Center by 5 p.m. March 6. These forms are now available at the School of Journalism office.

Private Eye Reveals How 'Confidential' Got Ekberg Stories

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A private detective, who said he once was Anita Ekberg's boy friend, Thursday told a State Senate committee how he supplied Confidential magazine with secret data and photos of the bosomy Swedish actress.

Fred Otash, 35, a state-licensed private investigator, gave details of how the magazine gets its stories — but only after he was threatened with a contempt citation.

The committee is holding hearings to determine if investigators for state-licensed collection agencies have violated the law by selling their secrets to magazines.

The movie colony has been indignant over stories appearing in the scandal magazines. Millions of dollars in suits have been filed. The current hearings reportedly are attributable in part to studio pressure on the California Legislature to do something about the articles.

Otash, retained by Hollywood Research, Inc., West Coast arm of Confidential, said he "used to go with Anita for about seven or eight months in 1954."

Sen. Edwin Regan asked Otash about an article in the magazine depicting what he said was described as a pre-marital tryst of Miss Ekberg and her husband, British actor Anthony Steel.

"Yes," answered Otash, "I assigned men to photograph Anita and her house. One photograph was made at the beach where my man hid behind a hill and shot movies of her coming out of a beach house. He had a telephoto lens."

He described other hidden movies, all shot with a telephoto lens, including some taken of the actress in her apartment.

He said he received a minimum of $7,500 a year for Hollywood Research and usually his assignments did not specify the over-all content of the stories.

"My job was just to check out certain details," Otash said.

Fundamentalist Belief Below College Level: Dunnington

By JOHN BLEAKLY

"I think this University challenges — thank God — a lot of religious ideas students bring to campus," declared the Rev. L. L. Dunnington, pastor of the First Methodist Church, in a panel discussion on religion and science in academic studies held Thursday.

The Rev. Mr. Dunnington, in stating that some religious ideas should be challenged in classrooms, referred to students from Fundamentalist churches whose arguments on religion "don't stand up 20 minutes" in an intellectual discussion.

These students, who come from churches where the minister teaches them to take the Bible as literal truth, become confused when they take courses in natural science, the Rev. Mr. Dunnington said.

"Fundamentalist churches are other-worldly," he continued. "Their preachers are obsessed with telling people how to get to heaven; they ignore social problems."

"Students coming from these churches are broadened by college life," he continued. "They come to ask 'How can I live a good and purposeful life?,' not 'How can I get to heaven?'"

On the panel with the Rev. Mr. Dunnington were the Rev. Alfred Henriksen, minister of the Unitarian Church, and the Rev. Roy Winge, minister of the First English Lutheran Church.

Representing SUI were Prof. Joseph Jauch, Physics Department, and Prof. Samuel Hays, History Department.

The Rev. Mr. Dunnington's remarks were made during a discussion on the question "Does the University challenge religious beliefs?" During the same discussion, Jauch attempted to separate the basic concepts of science and religion.

"Religion is concerned with values," he said, "and science with facts. They should not trespass into the other's domain."

To illustrate his point, Jauch told of a discussion he had with a Roman Catholic concerning the Catholic concept of the Virgin Mary. Catholic doctrine holds that matter (the Virgin Mary) can move instantaneously from one point to another.

Jauch said science has a law saying matter can move no faster than the speed of light. The apparently contrary views were resolved, Jauch explained, when it was decided "matter" meant one thing in science and another in religion.

Catholic doctrine relies upon faith and scientific laws upon empirical evidence, he said.

HERE'S WHAT CAN HAPPEN when you don't heed signs and fences. Barb Karsh, A1, Davenport, gets hooked on one of the fences erected by the SUI Physical Plant to keep students off the University lawns. Signs were set up Thursday as multiple protection to block off the various paths worn by students who take short cuts across the campus.

FBI Joins Police Hunt For Missing Youngster

BELLMAR, N.J. (AP) — FBI agents joined police Thursday in a door-to-door check of the Bellmar area for missing Mary Jane Barker, the blonde 4-year-old they fear may have been kidnapped.

Bellmar Police Chief Edward Garrity said there was not much chance that the check would turn up the little girl, who disappeared last Monday from a neighbor's yard, but it was hoped some clues might be uncovered.

No ransom note had been received by the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barker.

The five FBI agents on the case insisted they still are acting in an unofficial capacity, but there were indications they virtually had taken over the search for the missing youngster.

'Iowan' Interviews Show—

Students Oppose 'Baby Doll' Ban, 13-1

By Daily Iowan Special Staff

A sampling of students at SUI who saw the movie "Baby Doll" voted 13 to 1 against banning the film from the screen.

The Daily Iowan, conducting a random sampling of student opinion on the controversial picture, questioned 118 students — more than 1 out of every 100 at SUI.

No attempt was made to take a representative cross section of the student body. Students were selected at random from the SUI Student Directory.

Of the total of 118 students, 61 said they saw the movie and 57 said they did not.

Of the 57 who did not see the film, 19 did not attend on religious grounds.

More than two-thirds of the students who saw the movie said they liked the picture. There were 43 who liked the film; 18 who did not.

Fifty students said the movie was not "revolting" or "morally repellent"; five said it was. Six of those students who saw the film withheld any comment.

A smaller number, 41 felt the movie dwelt "almost without variation . . . upon carnal suggestiveness." Twenty agreed with the statement.

When asked if the movie should be banned, 54 students said no; 4 said yes, and three registered no comment.

Statements by students who liked the movie ran as follows:

"It left me with an empty feeling; it points out degeneracy of human conditions." "Realistic — surprised at 'conditions as they exist'." "Quite deep — liked especially the acting. I think those who didn't like it saw only the surface meaning."

Students who did not like the movie said:

"I thought it was vulgar; it had no meaning." "I didn't feel it appealed to people of a higher intellectual background. It probably would appeal to lower people." "It didn't live up to my expectations. Rather dull."

Three of those opposed to banning the film said:

"I don't think anything should be banned. Let the public be the censor." "I think all type of movies should be presented to the public." "Some people might like it."

Two people in favor of banning said:

"Yes — with reservations." "Nothing is gained by the movie. Representatives of the Roman Catholic Church and the Catholic Legion of Decency have voiced strong protests against the movie in which a 20-year-old girl marries a man she apparently doesn't love." "Baby Doll" (actress Carroll Baker) insists she is still a child and drives her husband "berserk" flirting with another man.

Cardinal Spellman of New York called the movie "revolting" and "morally repellent"; the Legion of Decency, a Catholic organization, placed a 6-month ban on Catholic attendance at all theatres that showed the picture.

The Jackson, Miss., City Council threatened a local theatre manager with fine and imprisonment if he went ahead with his plans to show "Baby Doll." The council was of the opinion that "such an immoral movie violates state law."

In Hartford, Conn., police had to search a theatre because an anonymous call informed them that a bomb had been planted in the theatre to wipe out "Baby Doll."

Providence police snipped half a dozen scenes from the film before they would permit it to run.

The American Civil Liberties Union, on the other hand, "deplored" the various actions against the movie charging that "the economic pressure of a general boycott can threaten a theatre's existence and acts as a dangerous weapon of censorship, contrary to the spirit of free expression contained in the First Amendment of the Constitution."

In Washington, D.C., a Joint Services Committee banned "Baby Doll" from the list of approved movies to be shown in theatres to the Armed Forces.

Even before "Baby Doll" was released for performances in Europe the controversy hit the Continent and Great Britain. The Catholic Church and affiliated organizations neither favored a ban nor expressed strong reservations about the movie.

Despite protests, 1,118 theatres throughout the country have shown "Baby Doll" thus far, or have scheduled a showing.

A sampling of students at SUI who saw the movie "Baby Doll" voted 13 to 1 against banning the film from the screen.

The Daily Iowan, conducting a random sampling of student opinion on the controversial picture, questioned 118 students — more than 1 out of every 100 at SUI.

No attempt was made to take a representative cross section of the student body. Students were selected at random from the SUI Student Directory.

Of the total of 118 students, 61 said they saw the movie and 57 said they did not.

Of the 57 who did not see the film, 19 did not attend on religious grounds.

More than two-thirds of the students who saw the movie said they liked the picture. There were 43 who liked the film; 18 who did not.

Fifty students said the movie was not "revolting" or "morally repellent"; five said it was. Six of those students who saw the film withheld any comment.

A smaller number, 41 felt the movie dwelt "almost without variation . . . upon carnal suggestiveness." Twenty agreed with the statement.

When asked if the movie should be banned, 54 students said no; 4 said yes, and three registered no comment.

Statements by students who liked the movie ran as follows:

"It left me with an empty feeling; it points out degeneracy of human conditions." "Realistic — surprised at 'conditions as they exist'." "Quite deep — liked especially the acting. I think those who didn't like it saw only the surface meaning."

Students who did not like the movie said:

"I thought it was vulgar; it had no meaning." "I didn't feel it appealed to people of a higher intellectual background. It probably would appeal to lower people." "It didn't live up to my expectations. Rather dull."

Three of those opposed to banning the film said:

"I don't think anything should be banned. Let the public be the censor." "I think all type of movies should be presented to the public." "Some people might like it."

Two people in favor of banning said:

"Yes — with reservations." "Nothing is gained by the movie. Representatives of the Roman Catholic Church and the Catholic Legion of Decency have voiced strong protests against the movie in which a 20-year-old girl marries a man she apparently doesn't love." "Baby Doll" (actress Carroll Baker) insists she is still a child and drives her husband "berserk" flirting with another man.

Cardinal Spellman of New York called the movie "revolting" and "morally repellent"; the Legion of Decency, a Catholic organization, placed a 6-month ban on Catholic attendance at all theatres that showed the picture.

The Jackson, Miss., City Council threatened a local theatre manager with fine and imprisonment if he went ahead with his plans to show "Baby Doll." The council was of the opinion that "such an immoral movie violates state law."

In Hartford, Conn., police had to search a theatre because an anonymous call informed them that a bomb had been planted in the theatre to wipe out "Baby Doll."

Providence police snipped half a dozen scenes from the film before they would permit it to run.

The American Civil Liberties Union, on the other hand, "deplored" the various actions against the movie charging that "the economic pressure of a general boycott can threaten a theatre's existence and acts as a dangerous weapon of censorship, contrary to the spirit of free expression contained in the First Amendment of the Constitution."

In Washington, D.C., a Joint Services Committee banned "Baby Doll" from the list of approved movies to be shown in theatres to the Armed Forces.

Even before "Baby Doll" was released for performances in Europe the controversy hit the Continent and Great Britain. The Catholic Church and affiliated organizations neither favored a ban nor expressed strong reservations about the movie.

Despite protests, 1,118 theatres throughout the country have shown "Baby Doll" thus far, or have scheduled a showing.

'BABY DOLL', the girl and the movie, has been the subject of much controversy since the production was released by Warner Brothers in December. The film, based on a play written by former SUI student Tennessee Williams, portrays life on a degenerate plantation in the South. Carroll Baker, who played the title role, has been nominated for an Academy Award.

The Coveted Hand

Vice-President Richard M. Nixon has left his job as president of the Senate for the time being to become an official friend-maker, representing the President in Africa. Starting today, Nixon will visit the major countries of the Dark Continent, covering more than 20,000 miles before he returns to Washington.

Egypt is conspicuous by its absence from the list of countries to be visited. Nixon, with his wife Pat, will be continuing a role he has invented for his office — that of a diplomat on general assignment to the world.

He will have a chance to observe the newly independent countries of northern Africa. Morocco and Tunisia are among these. Only French-held Algeria is not an independent state, and it is becoming more and more autonomous.

In South Africa, Nixon will see racial problems more acute than our own. Instead of waning segregation, he will see new segregation laws being made. "Apartheid," or segregation in the universities of South Africa, is the newest of these laws. Europeans who have settled in these areas insist on white supremacy to the highest degree.

Only in recent years have self-determination issues become major with the natives. Among the blacks the Communist influence is felt.

In the Union of South Africa, the terror of the Mau Mau is still felt. Its Communist leaders keep jabbing the colonials for independence.

As Nixon flashes his smile across reception rooms in the fancy embassy buildings, he should remember that it is the blacks who will count.

He will be talking with Europeans, in many cases, who run the various colonial governments. But in the future it will be the African native with whom the United States will deal. In the United Nations, the African part of the Afro-Asian bloc is formidable opposition to some U.S. resolutions.

Nixon will do well to remember a few months ago when he "met the people," and go to the people of Africa.

For the Europeans, Nixon's visit will probably mean some financial aid.

More than financial aid is needed by the Africans now subjugated by the colonials. They will need to know that in the United States there is a friend that will help when they throw off the shackles of dependency.

Dollar bills will bring the smiles of the heads of state, but the people — in the Veldt, the Gold Coast, the Congo, and the Union of South Africa will want more — they will want a handshake.

Emphasis Or De-Emphasis

For almost a week now, religion has been emphasized on SUI's campus.

For all time, a man's religion has played if not the major at least a great part in his way of life. And very often emphasis on this part had led to strife.

The inquisition was a masterwork in eliminating differences in a man's religion by eliminating the man.

Today part of the trouble in Israel has been caused by the fact that many millions of people in the world are called Jews.

Throughout India and spilling into Pakistan and Kashmir, Moslem and Hindu have fought out their problems.

Especially in the United States, all manner of adjectives have been employed to emphasize religious differences of groups. Some are swindlers, some snobs, some fanatics and all (save our own) are narrowminded.

Perhaps it is time for de-emphasizing the religious differences of an individual.

It seems that Religious Emphasis Week at SUI has been doing just that. By presenting Rabbi, Priest, Bishop and Pastor, the University has presented each student with an opportunity to learn of the religion of others and to know that it is something to be respected — never sneered at nor feared.

Freedom of worship is a basic civil liberty in the United States and diversity in religion is to be cheered — if that diversity can be equally understood.

If Religious Emphasis Week has helped further this understanding, then in the matter of religious difference it has succeeded in accentuating the positive and de-emphasizing the negative.

Teachers Get Higher Salaries in Russia

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of five reports concerning the educational systems based in Soviet Russia, by John A. Kennedy, Sioux Falls, South Dakota, newspaper editor.

By JOHN A. KENNEDY Mathematics, the language of modern civilization, simply isn't being studied enough in high school.

A TYPICAL American high school schedules physics or chemistry as a 10 year elective science course. A great number of high schools do not teach physics at all. Where United States high schools were once college preparatory in character, they have now become a complete postprimary self-sufficient school for all adolescents between the ages of 12 and 18 years. Deans of admissions in our privately supported colleges and universities and some faculty members in tax-supported higher educational institutions complain increasingly of the amount of remedial spelling, reading, mathematics, and science training that has to be given to our college freshmen.

IN A RECENT study of mathematics teaching in secondary schools in the United States, conducted under grants from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, it was found in one high school that of the 526 students with an I.Q.

above 114, 135 of the students either dropped mathematics, average C or lower, or were retarded one grade or more. The mean I.Q. of these 135 students was 123.

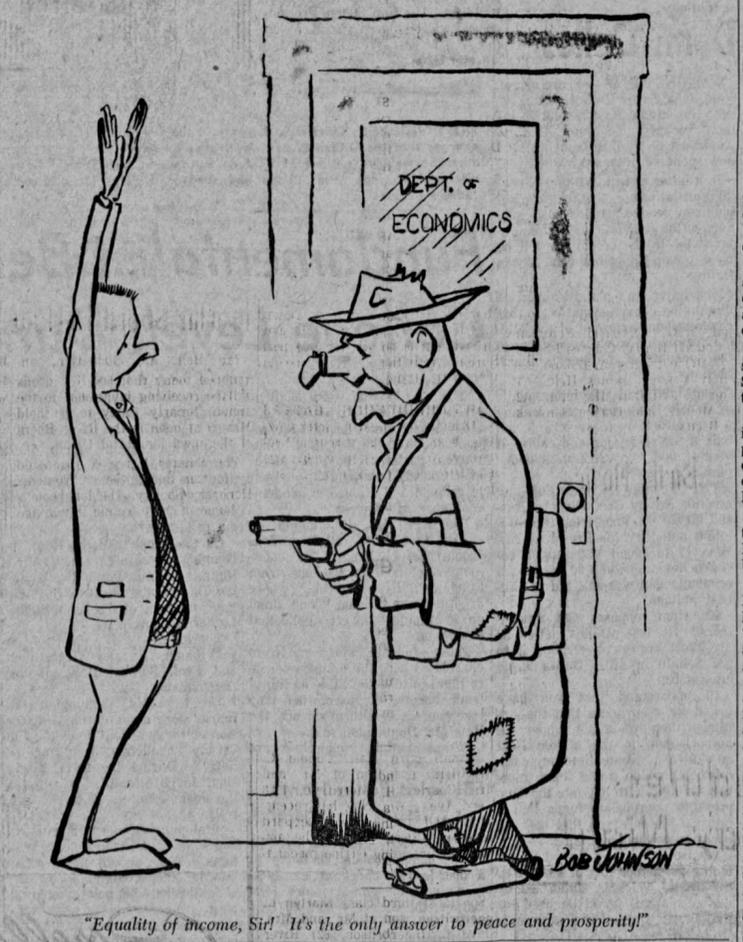

And according to the Commission on Human Resources and Advanced Training of the high-school graduates with an I.Q. of 120, only 53 percent enter college. Many students, of course, believe that engineering and sciences courses are too tough and required much more home study than some of the snap courses.

POSSIBLY we need additional incentives to encourage high-school students to prepare for university and college and turn themselves toward technical fields where we are sadly lacking in experts to help us maintain our place in the world.

As the supply of highly trained Russian technicians continues to expand, focus will center on competition with the free world and Asia, Africa, and Latin America. People in these areas have a tremendous range of practical problems to which trained men can provide practical answers. Problems of agriculture, health, industrial production, and communications. This is the language they want to talk. And we can talk it better than the Russians if we just prepare ourselves.

Europeans Search for World Order

By J. M. ROBERTS Associated Press News Analyst While Secretary Dulles has been watching the United Nations for development of a legal world order, European statesmen have been quietly arranging the next step in their own integration.

They have agreed to set up an atomic energy community for joint development which is close kin to the coal and steel community set up some years ago.

They are also establishing a common market under a customs union such as the one undertaken by Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg immediately after World War II, these countries now joining with France, Italy, and West Germany.

STILL UNDER consideration in Europe is a plan for turning this common market into a free trade area and the inclusion of Britain along with the African territories.

Development of the common market, and of the free trade area if it comes about, is recognized as requiring years for completion, during which some leaders will continue to urge increasing political unity as needed for governments of the economic union.

Some of these leaders have kept Britain in fright over talk of an eventual federation — a United State of Europe, which she would either have to join or stand aside while a great new power grows up across the channel.

THE DEVELOPMENT of Russia from a second-class European power into a world power has torn the world apart. It would have changed things vastly regardless of whether it occurred under communism.

Establishment of a world order presumes a certain amount of surrender of individual national sovereignties. That's what Dulles meant when he viewed recent developments in the United Nations, with Britain and France bowing to public opinion in the Suez case, as perhaps advancing the cause of a world order.

The emergence of new national states, especially large ones, ordinarily increases nationalism and this might not be entirely true of a new Europe created through the surrender of certain already well-established sovereignties.

Solon Humphrey Loses Battle on Home Front

By GEORGE DIXON King Features Syndicate WASHINGTON, D. C. —After a hard day with the Kashmir, Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota came home to meet wife Muriel, who met him with: "I just bought a new refrigerator."

"Yes, dear," replied the world thinker preoccupiedly. "Would you like to hear what we decided today about Nehru's policy of non-alignment?"

"Wouldn't you like to look at the new refrigerator first?" "In due time, my dear, in due time," said the solon, pontifically. "We took up a number of extremely important matters today. We discussed the entire situation in the Middle East — what did you say about a refrigerator?"

"I said I bought a new one." The lawmaker, who had remained calm through a hundred international crises, uttered a stricken cry: "What was the matter with one we had?"

"It was 18 years old," replied Mrs. Humphrey. "That is no excuse!" yelled the man who has out-urbaned Eden. "It was perfectly good. If I've told you once, I've told you a hundred times we don't need a new one."

"I know," conceded Mrs. Humphrey. "I heard you." The imperturbable statesman went into a rant. He demanded to know why he had been overruled on such a vital issue. Mrs. Humphrey allowed him to run down. Then she cut in: "You remember that joke you were telling about a month ago?"

"What joke? I frequently tell jokes." "The one about the man who said he and his wife had never had a quarrel. He was asked how they managed to get along so splendidly and he replied: 'When we were married, she agreed to let me make all the big decisions, if I allowed her to make the little ones. She has adhered faithfully to the compact, and that is why we have no differences.'"

"He was asked: 'What are the little decisions she makes?' He replied: 'Oh, unimportant things like how much we spend for food and rent how much insurance to carry; where the children will go to school; whether we'll buy a house.'"

"He was asked what that left for him to decide. He replied: 'Big things like, should Israel withdraw? should the budget be cut? should the President be given Middle East powers?'"

Senator Humphrey started to choke, but his wife halted his spasms by informing him with flat finality: "As far as I'm concerned that joke is no joke. You decide when to reopen the Suez Canal and I'll decide when we need a new icebox!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF EAMONN ANDREWS, panel moderator of the "What's My Line" TV show in Great Britain, lists occupations that have never come along to plague John Daly and his American panel — as yet, anyhow!

Here are a few: a pork pie raiser, chucker-outer, bluetote breeder, hare controller, skeleton beater, winkle washer, sagger maker's bottom knocker, haggis mixer, ship's husband, brandy snap curler, and a wuzzer. These are real occupations, mind you! A pork pie raiser, for instance, is a cook of sorts and a winkle washer works in a fish establishment. For further information, you'll have to contact Eamonn Andrews, care of BBC, London.

In "Printing News," Commentator Sam Himmell indicated that a lot of the tears shed over vanishing village smithies might have been saved for more deserving unfortunates. Inflation Came Creeping Into U.S. Economy

By WALTER BREEDE JR. Associated Press Newswriter NEW YORK — Creeping and relatively painless inflation, rather than any dramatic boom and bust, lies ahead for the American people.

That, broadly, is the thinking of a cross section of the nation's top economists, 20 of whom were asked their views by The Associated Press.

"The present slow inflation," said Harvard economist Sumner Slichter, "is not laying the foundation for a depression."

"I do not feel that the present inflation has gone far enough to pose a serious threat," declared chief economist W. E. Hamilton of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"A depression of major magnitude is not likely to occur," said Dr. Marcus Nadler of New York University.

And A. W. Zelomok, head of the International Statistical Bureau, New York, likewise says he does "not consider the present inflation a threat to the well-being of the American people."

But while there was general agreement among those answering the poll that inflationary fires are not out of control, there was a wide divergence of views on what should be done to prevent another flareup.

One view was that the government's "tight" credit policy has already put a damper on inflation. Because money is hard to borrow and interest rates are high, consumers, small business men and local governments are under pressure to spend less and save more. The boom in housing has slowed down. Some school and highway projects have been postponed. This has checked the upward trend in prices and costs by easing the demand for materials and labor.

These increases, it is held, are not justified by wage boosts; while adding to producers' profits, they'll force living costs up as the rich get richer and the poor get poorer. The end result, say these economists, will be a slowdown in over-all business activity and in the nation's normal economy.

But others say wage increases have nothing to do with inflation. The wartime pressures that made for inflation have disappeared some lines of business are actually in a depressed state, and the government's "hard money" policy is doing more harm than good. The great danger lies in the price increases recently announced by producers of such basic industrial materials as oil, coal and steel.

Incomes, of course, have gone up too. U.S. factory workers averaged $23.96 a week in 1956; last month their average weekly pay before deductions was around $32.

Harvard's Prof. Slichter says the tax policies of the federal government have spurred inflation by making it easier for big corporations to raise wages. This, he says, is because 52 per cent of the extra wage cost can be deducted from the employer's tax bill, so that each dollar of wage raise actually costs the employer only 48 cents.

"A useful step in checking the present inflation would be for the government to stop stimulating it," said Slichter. His proposed remedy: "The corporate income tax laws should be modified to forbid large employers from counting wages increases as deductible expense for at least 12 months after the increases is granted."

Statistics Leaders to Clash

CHICAGO (AP) — The tie-breaking game for the Big Ten basketball lead, Indiana at Michigan State, will bring together the conference's top offensive and defensive teams Saturday.

Indiana has a firewagon brand of attack built around Archie Dees, the Big Ten's leading scorer with a 25.2 average, and Dick Neal, ranked seventh with 16.7 but first on field goal accuracy with a remarkable .529 percentage.

The Hoosiers are second in total offense, official conference statistics showed Thursday with an 80.9 average. Illinois leads with 85.7.

Michigan State, locked with the Hoosiers each with 9-3 marks, is basically a ball-control unit with balanced scoring among four main shooters — Larry Hedden (15.2), Jack Quiggle (13.1), George Ferguson (12.9) and John Green (12.8).

The Spartans are No. 1 on defense, yielding an average of 67.1 points.

Dave Gunther of Iowa stands 20th among league scorers with a 12.9 average. Hawkeye guard Clarence Wordlaw is 25th with a 12.2 average.

Sports in Brief

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — U.S. skaters jumped off to a fast start Thursday in the mens singles of the World Figure Skating Championship with David Jenkins and Tim Brown setting the pace.

Jenkins, 20-year-old kid brother of Hayes Alan Jenkins, champion the past four years, held a slim edge over Brown, Glendora, Calif. student at the University of California, after skating the first three compulsory figures.

Jenkins had 298.5 points and Brown 291.9.

The field includes 17 skaters from nine countries.

Barbara Wagner and Robert Paul of Toronto, Canada, were crowned Wednesday night as the pairs champions.

Carol Heiss, 17, of Ozone Park, N.Y., is already far ahead after completing the compulsory figures Wednesday in singles competition.

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Johnny "The Pumper" Longden finally hit the fabulous figure of 5,000 winners Thursday.

The magic milestone for the 47-year-old jockey who set a world record every he goes into the winner's circle came in the fourth race at Santa Anita Park on the favorite, Bente, over a sloppy track.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Righthander Don Larsen, who pitched a perfect game against Brooklyn in last year's World Series, Thursday signed his 1957 contract with the New York Yankees. The pact called for an estimated $18,000, an increase of $6,000 over his 1956 salary.

Larsen won 11 games and lost 5 in the regular campaign.

NEW YORK (AP) — Notre Dame, winner of 11 of its last 13 games, was selected Thursday as one of the at-large teams for the National Collegiate Basketball Tournament.

The announcement was made by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. office here.

DETROIT (AP) — Light heavyweight champion Archie Moore will defend his title June 7 in Detroit against the winner of the Chuck Spieser-Tony Anthony fight at Olympia Stadium April 5.

Nick Lonides, Olympia matchmaker, said Thursday Moore's manager, Charlie Johnston, agreed to the June date. Spieser is the No. 1 light heavyweight contender and Anthony is rated No. 3.

Look Out, Pitchers!

THE SHAPE OF THINGS TO COME is exemplified as the keen eyes of New York Yankee slugger Mickey Mantle sharply follow ball (lower right) during a pepper game at opening spring training drill in St. Petersburg, Fla., Thursday. Note Mickey's timing and wrist action as he gets set to ground the ball to fielding teammates. Mantle popped 52 balls into the seats last year with those powerful arms to lead the American League in homers and help capture the American League's triple batting crown.

12 Clubs in State

Florida Jumping As Spring Drills Start

One of the sweetest of all spring time sounds — the crack of a baseball against a bat — resounded over Florida today.

All 12 of the major league clubs training in Florida were engaged in full fledged workouts.

The Detroit Tigers started today. Four began Thursday, six had started Wednesday and the 12th Tuesday.

Several of the clubs have been holding limited workouts for players who wanted to get in some early training. Other clubs have had their pitchers and catchers limbering up for days. Several had rookie schools in operation.

Holding their first fulltime work outs Thursday were the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Petersburg, the Chicago White Sox and Cincinnati Reds at Tampa, Washington Senators at Orlando, Pittsburgh Pirates at Fort Myers and Brooklyn Dodgers at Vero Beach.

The Boston Red Sox started in Sarasota Wednesday.

All the clubs hold daily workouts until March 9, when they begin exhibition games. The last Florida exhibition will be played April 12.

Scores of minor league clubs, most of them with major league connections, will come down for the spring drills in a few weeks.

The four remaining major league clubs are training in Arizona.

Mayfield, Palmer Lead Baton Rouge Tourney With 68s

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Shelley Mayfield and Arnold Palmer, fighting a chill, gusty wind, Thursday gained a one-stroke lead in the first round of the Baton Rouge Open golf tournament.

Mayfield, defending champion from Los Angeles, put together sub par nines of 33 and 35 for a four-under-par 68.

Palmer, of Latrobe, Pa., posted even par 36 on the first nine, then scorched down the back nine for a 32 for his 68. The 27-year-old Palmer is trying for his second straight tournament win after taking the $30,000 Houston Open Monday.

One-stroke behind the leaders were Bill Nary of Wayne, Mich., and Manuel De La Torre of Milwaukee. Nary equalled the course record for the first nine with a 31, five under par but went two over on the last nine with 38.

Bob Schmidt Replaces Sarni

Schmidt Gets Tryout for Sarni's Job

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A 23-year-old catcher who never has played higher than AA professional baseball, was suddenly thrust in the New York Giants' spotlight Thursday following the disclosure that a heart attack had cut short Bill Sarni's playing career.

The young man is Bob Schmidt, who very likely was ticketed for the minors, but now will be given an opportunity to win the Giants' No. 1 catching position.

"He's going to get a good shot at the first string job," said Manager Bill Rigney Thursday. "Maybe he can come all the way in a hurry. I know the jump from Dallas is a big one, but it's been done before and Bob has the 'tools'."

By the "tools" Rigney meant fine defensive quality, including a powerful arm, and a 6-2, 200-pound frame. Schmidt batted .233 for Dallas in the Texas League last season and hit 13 home runs while driving in 66 runs in 111 games.

Sarni's attack left only Schmidt; Wes Westrum, a .220 hitter in 1956; and Bobby Hofman, an infielder by trade, to handle the Giants' backstopping. Hofman is on the Minneapolis roster but he's been given permission to work out with the parent club.

Ohio State, Indiana Are Track Picks

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Michigan's two-year indoor-outdoor track and field domination of the Western Conference is expected to end this week.

Ohio State entertains the Big 10 thinclads for the first time and is expected to battle it out with Indiana's fleet Hoosiers for the crown.

Two Olympic winners, Indiana's Greg Bell and Ohio State's Glenn Davis — a pair of one-riam gangs — are expected to be the star attractions. Each is expected to participate in at least 5 of the 15 events. They'll run into each other in the 60-yard dash, 300-yard run and the broad jump.

Bell won the Olympic broad jump and has leaped 25 feet 4 7/8 inches this year, while Davis' best is 23 feet 5 inches. There's a chance Bell will combat Davis in the latter's specialties, the 70-yard hurdle races. Davis won the 440-yard hurdles in the Olympics.

Rival coaches figure Davis and Bell should contribute at least 20 points each to their teams, and they predict 40 points will take the title.

Indiana is tagged as a slim favorite, with Ohio as the No. 1 challenger, but Michigan isn't counted out in its bid for a third straight title.

Leo Johnson, Illinois coach, summed it up with: "Michigan is not as good as in previous years. But it has depth in the middle distances, which will help in the added 300, 600 and 1,000-yard runs, plus probable firsts in the shot put and high jump."

"Ohio's hurdler-runner Davis and Indiana's broad jumping dash man, Bell, can account for from 20 to 30 points to make it a close three-way race."

Preliminaries will be held this evening in the new Ohio State Fieldhouse and the finals Saturday afternoon.

GOLF PICTURES Varsity golf pictures will be taken at 4:30 p.m. today. Golfers who will be photographed are asked to meet at the office of Coach Glen Devine in the Fieldhouse.

Champ Marshalltown Wins in Sectional, 75-40

MARSHALLTOWN (AP) — Defending Class A Champion Marshalltown won its first sectional test here Thursday, defeating State Center, 75-40.

The Bobcats, who raced through 25 straight undefeated last year, have lost four games this season and are given only an outside chance of repeating as Class A titlists.

PCL To Approve LA Sale

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Pacific Coast League survey indicated Thursday that league directors will approve Brooklyn Dodgers acquisition of the Los Angeles franchise.

The San Francisco Chronicle reported five clubs will vote approval, one team is noncommittal and two clubs are apparently against the transfer.

It requires a three-fourths vote to seat a new owner. Three votes, therefore, could kill the deal.

SUI Doctor Tells Of New Surgery

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A new surgical technique to ease pain in angina pectoris was reported Thursday by SUI's Dr. Louis T. Palumbo. Dr. Palumbo, chief of surgical service at Veterans Administration Hospital and clinical professor of surgery at SUI read a paper on the procedure at the 10th Congress of the International College of Surgeons.

He said the technique involves only a minimal risk. Angina pectoris is marked by recurring severe chest pains and is associated with diseases of the heart. The pain frequently radiates to the left shoulder and down the left arm. Death sometimes occurs during an attack. The surgery permits dividing the nerve pathway which carries the pain sensation from the heart, he said. Dr. Palumbo said many patients previously incapacitated are restored to a nearly normal life.

Demo-Republican Fight Erupts in Legislature

DES MOINES (AP)—A Democratic versus Republican fight broke into the open in the Legislature Thursday.

As the March 1-12 legislative recess approached, there were these developments in the House:

1. Rep. Merle Hagedorn of Royal, Democratic floor leader in the House, issued a statement which he said was concurred in by most members of the minority party in the House. It accused the Republican majority of failing to put forward "a constructive program of its own, or to give support to the program set forth by Democratic Gov. Herschel Loveless."

2. Three Democratic House members filed a resolution calling for a special committee to make a study of state government economies and report back by April 5.

3. Twenty-eight House Democrats filed an explanation of their unsuccessful votes favoring reconsideration of a bill previously passed by the House.

The developments centered on two points. One involved the bill on which reconsideration was sought. Among other things, the measure would exempt farmers from paying about a million dollars a year in sales taxes on gasoline for which they had obtained gasoline tax refunds because they used the gasoline for non-highway purposes.

The other major point concerned a resolution the Senate passed recently calling upon Gov. Loveless to provide details on how he had said the state could save about $5 million a year by governmental reorganizations.

The statement given out by Hagedorn said the Senate resolution "is an adverse procedure instigated as an attempt to embarrass our Democratic governor, whose party has a minority in both houses, especially in the Senate where it seems the attempt to embarrass him originated."

"The Republican party continues its efforts to ignore and to obstruct attempts to improve efficiencies in government by adoption of the recommendations of the Little Hoover Commission," Hagedorn said. He added:

"During the pre-recess period of the 1957 Legislature, the Republican leadership has failed to put forward a constructive program of its own, or to give support to the program which was set forth by Gov. Loveless.

"If the people of Iowa are to receive the services which they have every right to expect, more effective leadership by the majority party must be forthcoming. If the leadership does not propose a constructive program of its own, it seems only fitting that they should support the programs which have been advocated by the governor."

The Hagedorn statement also commented at length on the sales tax exemption bill. At one point the statement said:

"The exemption is an action that would throw out of balance the budget proposed by Gov. Loveless, and embarrass him by forcing him to veto such extension of exemptions."

Hagedorn said the sales tax exemption measure, which has gone to the Senate, is not important for the individual farmer because the saving would be only a few dollars per farm. But, he continued in the aggregate the exemption "will remove approximately $1,250,000 of much needed revenue from the general fund. It is fairly obvious that this revenue will have to be replaced from some source."

The resolution calling for study of economies in government and a report by April 5 was filed by Reps. Scott Swisher (D-Iowa City), Andrew Frommelt (D-Dubuque) and Charles Weik (D-Spirit Lake).

Voting Attempt Led to Ouster

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gus Courts, a Negro testifying for civil rights legislation, said Thursday he is just one of many who had to leave Mississippi because they tried to vote.

Courts, who said he was shot in Belzoni, Miss., after leading a campaign to register Negro voters now lives in Chicago.

He told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee, "My wife and I and thousands of us Mississippians have had to run away. We had to flee in the night. We are the American refugees from the terror in the South, all because we wanted to vote."

Courts said only 8,000 Negroes are now on the registration rolls in Mississippi, "although there are 497,000 potential colored voters in Mississippi."

He said the Negro vote is held down by what he called intimidation and other practices of "those who operate the election machinery and their associates."

"Not only are they killing the colored people, who want to vote and be citizens, but they are squeezing them out of business, foreclosing their mortgages, refusing them credit from the banks to operate their farms," his prepared statement said.

Sen. Sam Ervin (D-N.C.), noting that Courts had said in his statement that "lots" of Negroes had been killed and their bodies found in rivers, asked him to elaborate.

Courts said he had seen two bodies after they were taken from rivers or lakes. He also mentioned two other cases of Negroes having been killed.

Courts said he did not know who shot any of the Negroes and "I don't know who shot me." He said he was shot while in his grocery store and a woman customer who ran outside told him his assailants were white people.

Red Cross Drive Workers To Meet

Dr. C. P. Goplerud, chairman of the Johnson County Red Cross drive, will discuss the campaign with area solicitors in Wesley House at 2 p.m. today.

Goal of the 1957 drive which started today is $22,078.

At today's meeting Dr. Goplerud will give instructions regarding solicitations and answer questions concerning the campaign.

More than half the money raised in this year's drive will remain in the county to be used to support local programs. Included among these are swimming lessons, welfare and emergency service to veterans and servicemen, training in home nursing and first aid, sponsorship of Gray Ladies in local hospitals, and aid to local families in personal disasters.

Among chairmen of major divisions recently named by Dr. Goplerud are Dale Benz, associate director of the SUI Library, in charge of solicitations at the University; and Berwyn F. Collentine, G. Waterloo, chairman of the General Hospital community.

4 from SUI to Attend Education Conference

Four SUI representatives will attend the 12th annual Conference on Higher Education Sunday to Wednesday in Chicago.

Leslie G. Moeller, director of the School of Journalism; Provost Harvey H. Davis; Registrar Ted McCarrel; and Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, will participate in the 4-day meeting.

TWO "PARKED" AUTOMOBILES met back-to-back in a freak accident near the Engineering Building on Washington Avenue yesterday about 3:30 p.m. Sgt. Richard Lee, of the Iowa City Police Department, shown investigating the accident, reconstructed the mishap in this way: The auto pictured was parked on the north side of the street. Another car parked on the opposite side rolled backward from its stall and rammed the rear of this vehicle forcing it over the curb. Lee explained that accidents such as this involving driverless cars happen "about once a year." Owners of the vehicles are David I. Christensen, C3, Elkader, and Richard Graham, M1, Davenport. No charges have been filed.

SUI Profs Nelson, Mulford Address Alcohol Hearing

DES MOINES (AP)—Any program for the treatment of alcoholics must be a well-rounded one because what works on one patient may not work on another, two experts in the field said Thursday.

Dr. Norman Nelson, dean of the SUI Medical School, and Dr. Harold Mulford, an SUI sociologist, testified at a Senate hearing on a proposed bill to set up a state program for the treatment and rehabilitation of alcoholics in Iowa.

The bill is an outgrowth of a $30,000 study of the problems of alcoholism carried out by Dr. Mulford and Carl E. Waisanen for the SUI medical school at the request of the 1955 Legislature.

The bill, introduced in the Senate Wednesday, would authorize the State Board of Regents to develop a Iowa alcoholic treatment program.

Dr. Nelson said the University hopes to use a grant of funds from the Kellogg Foundation, made to set up an institute of agricultural medicine, to find out more about the problems of alcoholism as they pertain to farmers.

Mulford said it hasn't been determined exactly what program would be established as a start.

"We feel it is better to start slowly so that we won't spend money needlessly chasing down blind alleys."

He explained that there is a disagreement among experts in the field as to whether it is better to treat alcoholics as outpatients or as inmates of institutions. He added this one thing they hope to find out as far as the question affects Iowa.

Mulford said a Yale University study of the number of alcoholics in each state in 1953 showed that Iowa was in 46th place in the nation. But he added:

"This is misleading because Iowa is only slightly below several other states."

Dr. Nelson said the bill now before the Senate is a good one "because it recognizes that to do the best job we have to proceed carefully."

Judge Rejects Mad Bomber Insanity Plea

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite a psychiatrist's report that the Mad Bomber, George Metesky, was legally insane, a General Sessions Court judge Thursday ordered Metesky to stand trial.

Dr. John H. Cassidy of Bellevue Hospital said Metesky did not know the nature and quality of his acts when he planted 32 homemade bombs in New York City over a 16-year period.

Judge John A. Mullen ruled: "This report has no immediate significance whatsoever. I have formed an opinion and the indications are that he is in such a mental condition that would enable him to plead and that any further adjournment of this plea would be of disservice to the community. There will be no harm to his rights."

Mullen entered on Metesky's behalf a plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

Such a plea is intended to allow a jury to decide whether or not the defendant is insane.

No trial date was set immediately.

Dr. Cassidy said the 54-year-old Waterbury, Conn., man suffers from paranoia — characterized by delusions of persecution and grandeur.

Metesky was arrested at his Waterbury home Jan. 21.

He admitted planting 32 bombs around New York city in the past 16 years. Twenty-two of them exploded, injuring 15 persons, none gravely.

Metesky said he was motivated by a grudge against Consolidated Edison Co. He claimed the big utility had failed to compensate him for an injury while in their employ in 1931.

The bomber was traced through Con Edison records after he carried on an exchange of letters with the New York Journal-American.

Metesky was sent to Bellevue for mental tests more than five weeks ago.

We're reaching for the stars...are you?

You might call us "talent scouts." Certainly we're seeking talented young men — the kind that will star on our teams of engineers and scientists at Convair. Here is opportunity. Because Convair is engaged in the widest diversity of aircraft and missile projects in the U.S. today. Talk with the men from Convair (dates below). Let them explain the many advantages of working at Convair...of living in beautiful San Diego.

CONVAIR SAN DIEGO

Plan your career with America's top airframe builder. Here you'll find a wide range of opportunities for the graduate engineer. You'll work with a congenial group in the Company famous for such advanced aircraft as the 880 — world's fastest commercial jet airliner; F-102A — first supersonic interceptor; Sea-Dart — first water-based jet fighter; and long-range research on nuclear aircraft. There is no ceiling on your chances to advance and make a name for yourself at Convair San Diego.

CONVAIR-ASTRONAUTICS

During 1957, groups of outstanding scientists and engineers, together with hand-picked young graduates, will occupy the new $40,000,000 Convair-Astronautics facility. Here, in a unique environment, they will develop and design ATLAS — an Air Force top-priority Intercontinental Ballistic Missile (ICBM) — the forerunner of travel into space. You may qualify for a position with Convair-Astronautics' ICBM project — one of the most important of its kind in the United States.
