THE BEAUTIFUL SPRING weather which hit Iowa City the past few days brought thoughts of swimming to the mind of Sue Coed Joy Frush, D2, Adel. Her mood might have been disturbed by thoughts that perhaps the water wasn't quite warm enough to plunge into. Meanwhile, other SUI students did take advantage of the weather and enjoy picnicking and riverbanking along with boat rides on the Iowa River under cloudless skies.

Jordan To Get U.S. Grant of $10 Million

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — The United States Monday offered $10 million in economic aid to King Hussein's new anti-Communist government. Jordan indicated immediate acceptance. Talks began at once on ways to put the money to quick use in this troubled, poverty-stricken Middle East kingdom.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said in Washington the $10 million is being made available in response to a Jordanian government request last weekend. The Soviet Union called the United States the "main culprit" in the Jordanian crisis.

A Foreign Office statement broadcast by Moscow Radio said the situation is dangerous and could lead to "grave consequences."

The Jordan radio heard in Cairo said Hussein and King Saud had agreed in their surprise talks in Saudi Arabia Sunday that the Jordan crisis was an internal affair. The new Jordan aid offer was announced by the U.S. Embassy soon after Jordan's Foreign Ministry emphasized it wants nothing to do with the Eisenhower Middle East Doctrine—possibly for internal political reasons.

The aid is proffered outside the framework of the doctrine which provides military as well as economic support to any Middle East nation requesting help to resist Communist aggression.

The U.S. Embassy announcement said the offer was made in recognition of "the brave steps taken by His Majesty King Hussein and the government and people of Jordan to maintain the integrity and independence of their nation."

The statement added that the U.S. government "is prepared promptly to provide His Majesty's government with $10 million in economic aid funds to assist in economic development and the maintenance of political stability."

An indication that Jordan will accept came from Foreign Minister Samir Rafai.

"We would welcome any assistance from anywhere provided it is offered unconditionally and would not interfere in any way with the freedom, sovereignty and independence of Jordan," he said.

Rafai had just returned with King Hussein from a flying visit with King Saud of Saudi Arabia. Hussein apparently wanted to strengthen ties with a family enemy in the face of a common Communist menace.

Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Syria are pledged to replace the British subsidy that once kept this small Middle East kingdom going. How much aid, if any, has come from Jordan's three Arab neighbors has not been disclosed.

Harold S. Nelson, director of the U.S. Operation Mission to Jordan, said the $10 million is in addition to $5 million already on hand for assistance to Jordan.

Part of the additional money may be earmarked for further expansion of Jordan's road program begun with U.S. money.

Nelson said the $10 million will be handled through existing International Cooperation Administration channels to prevent "delay in moving funds into approved projects."

Houses Slices SUI Building Fund Request

DES MOINES (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee approved a bill Monday to give SUI $4,814,200 for capital improvements in the next two years.

The bill would provide $13,600,390 for capital improvements at all Board of Regents institutions.

The Board of Regents' original request for SUI totaled $6,250,000. (SUI Business Manager Elwin T. Jolliffe said in Iowa City Monday that the University "won't be able to build as much as originally planned.")

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher and the presidents of Iowa State College and Iowa State Teachers College are now in Des Moines explaining the Regents' requests.

The House appropriations bill would provide more money for educational building than would a measure introduced in the Senate Appropriations Committee Friday. The Senate committee's measure would give the Regents $10,000,000 in a lump sum to be split among the institutions as the Regents desired.

The Board of Regents original askings for the 11 institutions under its control totaled $16,600,390.

The SUI requests included $1,700,000 for utilities, $1,580,000 for an addition to the Chemistry Building, $1,470,000 for a new Pharmacy Building and $550,000 for a new Law Building.

Union Head Cites Change In Industry

By MERLIN A. ANDERSON
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Automation will bring shorter working hours, more leisure time and increased production said Kenneth Larson, CIO-APL official at the Sixth Annual Labor Short course at SUI Monday night.

The introduction of automation into industry will be a gradual process, Larson said. Every industry has its own particular problems in converting from mass production processes to automation.

"We would welcome any assistance from anywhere provided it is offered unconditionally and would not interfere in any way with the freedom, sovereignty and independence of Jordan," he said.

Rafai had just returned with King Hussein from a flying visit with King Saud of Saudi Arabia. Hussein apparently wanted to strengthen ties with a family enemy in the face of a common Communist menace.

Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Syria are pledged to replace the British subsidy that once kept this small Middle East kingdom going. How much aid, if any, has come from Jordan's three Arab neighbors has not been disclosed.

Humanities Talk Deals With Monks

Giles Constable, SUI History Department instructor, spoke Monday night on "The Monastic Crisis of the Twelfth Century."

His lecture, given before the SUI Humanities Society in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol, outlined the violent changes undergone by the monastery system of the twelfth century.

The crisis, which Constable said reached its height with "a great deal of fighting among monks of different orders," was possibly caused by "economic changes in the feudal system of that period."

Constable said that despite the drifting of many monks from the monasteries to the regular clergy and to the reform movements of the time, the monasteries were able to survive by clinging to their strong basic convictions.

Originally from England, Constable has been an instructor in the SUI History Department for two years.

Constable received his B.A. and M.A. degrees at Harvard University and he has also studied in England.

He plans to receive his Ph.D. from Harvard in the near future.

Consul Says World Must Act in Korea

By TOM SLATTERY
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Unless the free world acts, it is only a question of time before the Communists strike in Korea, Formosa, and other troubled spots said Yung Han Choo, Korean Consul General, at a press conference in University Hall Monday night.

Despite the Korean War truce agreement to maintain a military "status quo," the Communists in North Korea have brought in almost 800 jets and huge quantities of tanks, mortars, heavy artillery as well as doubled their troop concentrations, he said.

"In contrast, the UN has reduced its forces by 400,000 men and has brought in no new equipment," he said.

"Why not call the truce null and void since it means nothing to the Communists? Korea must be given modern weapons, including atomic warheads, and freedom of action to be able to defend herself — and be ready for the time it can liberate the 7 million slaves of the Communist in 'The north part of Korea,'" he said.

The UN should have bombed Manchuria and fought to win the Korean War, Choo said, adding: "In trying to avoid small wars, the free world has increased the chance of a big one."

"A divided Korea will never be acceptable to Koreans," Choo said, comparing the situation to the American Civil War. America won her civil war and has grown to strength and freedom.

"Korea must do the same; unification is the one thing Koreans will fight for," he added.

The free world missed its opportunity in both Korea and Hungary, he said.

"Had we fought and won the Korean War, and gone to the aid of the Hungarian Freedom Fighters, I am sure Indo-China would not be divided and we would not have the Communist-aggitated Mideast tension," Choo said.

Some of the free nations, for selfish reasons, or out of fear, made it impossible to win the Korean war, Choo went on, blaming "Benedict Arnolds," such as the British consulates who told the Chinese Communists that Manchuria would not be bombed.

Now we must be prepared to strike hard wherever the Communists move, and we may have to "make our own breaks."

"The Communists are still pursuing world conquest — and they are still gaining," Choo said. "The free world has bargained with the Communists under the delusion that coexistence is possible — and as a result, hundreds of millions of people have been 'liberated' by the Communists, while not a single soul, save escapes, have been returned to freedom," Choo said.

"To survive, the free world must speak in the only language that the Communists understand — force," he said.

"They need a licking, or else the free world will continue to shrink."

Soviet Blames U.S. For Jordan Crisis

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Russia Monday night termed the United States the "main culprit" in the Jordanian crisis. It warned that the situation is dangerous and can lead to "grave consequences."

A Soviet foreign office statement broadcast by Moscow radio attributed Middle East tension to "gross foreign interference" and declared: "The Soviet Union can not pass over events in this area."

Party Leaders Say Budget Cuts Desired

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan drive to cut President Eisenhower's $71,800,000,000 budget gathered momentum in Congress Monday despite fresh Administration resistance.

The Senate's Republican and Democratic leaders flattened any Administration hopes that Congress members may have returned from their Easter vacation with cooling ardor for economy.

Sens. William Knowland of California, the GOP leader, and Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic chief, expressed the identical views in separate informal news conferences that their colleagues came back to Washington more determined than ever to reduce spending.

Johnson said that in his 20 years in House and Senate service he had "never seen such strong demands" for economy in government.

The Democratic leader, who toured Texas during the Easter vacation, said he found the people there "considerably concerned" about business conditions. He added that the April 15 "bite" of income tax payments had heightened demands for economy.

"I think there will be material savings made in the President's budget," he said. He added he doesn't want to "grab any figure out of the air" in predicting the amount of reductions.

Knowland, who made brief trips to California and Florida during the vacation period, said he found "no diminution in interest in economy in the country."

"The members who have returned from talking to the people at home say the desire for economy has been accentuated, if anything," Knowland said.

Some of Eisenhower's advisers were reported as believing the pressure among the lawmakers for budget cuts might have been lessened by talking with voters at home who want expanded health, social security, housing and natural resource development aid.

Vice President Nixon was said to be among those who felt that the drive might be tapering off to cut a spending budget Eisenhower has said can't be reduced materially without sacrificing many of the services the President said the people demand of the Federal Government.

Korea has little to export except her valuable tungsten and some other raw materials, Choo said, but many resource exploitation teams are searching for other minerals.

Westernization, largely American in influence, is taking hold in Korea, Choo said. He added that Korean girls may now be seen on the streets with men — and choose their own husbands.

American films are always popular, and "rock and roll" is probably attracting its share of fans, Choo said.

Cultural regeneration is also apparent in Korea, he said, mentioning that a recent tour by an American orchestra attracted listeners "by the tens of thousands."

Much of the reconstruction has and free education up to the high school level is now provided for all, Choo said.

"An increasingly large number of Korean families are sending their children to high schools and universities, and the Government supplies some scholarships. Many Koreans are studying abroad, both in America and Europe, he said.

Road construction around the large cities has increased steadily since the war, and the Government has undertaken a restoration of forests, he said.

Guerrilla activity has been completely wiped out, Choo said, adding that the ROK Government recently announced that the last known guerrillas had been tracked down and captured.

There is not much foreign investment in Korea, although he said that German firms have recently begun to explore investment possibilities.

"Japanese are not allowed to invest in Korea — we had forty years too much of them already," he said.

Choo said that there has been little or no friction between American troops and the Korean people.

SUI Hosting Scholarship Candidates

Iowa high school candidates for 1957-58 Nile Kinnick Memorial scholarships are visiting campus today and Wednesday as guests of SUI.

The 25 high school seniors will undergo examinations and personal interviews in their quests for the $750 Kinnick awards. Four or five scholarships will be given this year.

The high school athletes are guests of SUI fraternity houses during their two-day stay.

They will meet informally with SUI faculty members at the Iowa Memorial Union tonight. Wednesday the prep students will attend a luncheon at the Union with SUI faculty and administration members.

Frank Sebott, E2, Davenport, a Kinnick scholar, will act as luncheon toastmaster.

The Kinnick candidates will sit in on a practice session of the Iowa football team this afternoon.

Kinnick scholarships are awarded to Iowa scholar-athletes each year as a memorial to the late "Iron-Man" Nile Kinnick, Adel, and other SUI men who died in World War II. Established by the Iowa State Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1945, the scholarships are made possible through contributions of alumni and friends of SUI and Kinnick.

Candidates for the scholarships must graduate in the upper one-fourth of their high school class, be leaders in extra-curricular activities (particularly athletics), and possess personal qualities.

Last year's winners were: Ed Bedell, A1, Burlington; Ralph Lyle, A1, Des Moines; John McDonald, A1, Ottumwa; and Ed Sproat, E1, LaGrange Park, Ill.

Awards, Civil Defense Talk End Greek Week Activities

By TERRY SHINKLE
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Dorothy Schwengel, A4, Davenport, and James Sheely, C4, Clinton, were awarded trophies as the Outstanding Greek Woman and Man of 1957 at the Greek Week convocation Sunday afternoon.

The convocation, held at Iowa Memorial Union, wound up this year's Greek Week activities.

Candidates for the Outstanding Greek awards were judged on their contributions to the campus, to their own fraternity or sorority, and to the Greek system as a whole.

Faculty judges for the awards were Dean M. L. Huit, Dean of Students; Helen Reich, assistant director of student affairs; Paul Griffith, counselor to men; Helen Focht, counselor to women; and Ronald W. Roskens, fraternity adviser.

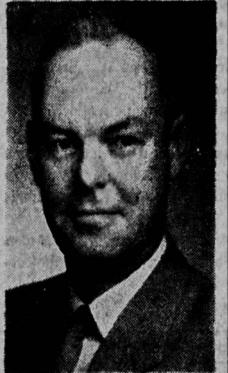

Miss Schwengel is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and Sheely is a member of Delta Chi fraternity.

Speaker of the event was Lewis E. Berry Jr., deputy administrator of the Federal Civilian Defense Administration, who spoke on leadership in civil defense.

Civil defense was the theme of this year's Greek Week.

Berry amused the members of his former fraternity who were in the audience by using some of its "passwords" in his speech.

Congressman Fred Schwengel, (R-Davenport), Dorothy's father, made the arrangements with Berry to travel from Michigan to speak at the event.

Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity, winners of last week's scavenger hunt, were also awarded trophies.

Marty Gale, C4, Rock Island, Ill., acted as master of ceremonies for the convocation.

The entire Greek Week was hampered by bad weather which caused cancellation of the annual Greek "Olympics" which were to be held in City Park Saturday.

General chairmen for Greek Week were Marsha Brubaker, A3, Davenport; Art Douglas, A3, Oresco; and Gale. (See picture page 3).

U.S. Weather Bureau: Rains 'Tapering Off'

DALLAS (AP) — The greatest flood in the history of the Sabine River bore down on cities along that stream, the Weather Bureau said Monday night, as scores of other Texas rivers and streams brought creeping destruction to parts of Texas.

President Eisenhower declared flood districts of Texas to be "major disaster areas" as requested by Gov. Price Daniel.

In a telegram to Daniel the President said he was "deeply concerned over the hardship and suffering caused the people of your state by these floods."

Eisenhower said he has allocated such federal funds "as are necessary" to supplement state and local money for disaster relief under Public Law 875.

The floods ranged from the Red River to the Gulf of Mexico. Already 11 persons have drowned in the 11 days of heavy downpours on a state that only a few weeks ago was labeled a drought disaster area by the government.

The stretch of rainy weather is caused by a low pressure system stationary over the Southwest. Damage could not be counted, but in Dallas alone, destruction was estimated at $6½ million.

The bright side of the picture was in greening pastures and fields, and city water supply lakes that are full for the first time in history.

But on the dark side were the flood threats, thousands of persons forced from their homes by high water, bridges washed out and flooded highways and homes.

The Texas Highway Department listed 74 roads closed.

The siege of devastating weather began April 18, and included cloudbursts, tornadoes, flash floods and steady downpours.

Another tornado struck Sunday night near Edcouch near the Mexican border.

Numerous tornado funnels were sighted Monday around San Angelo in west Texas, Waco in central Texas, Denison in north Texas, and Orange in southwest Texas, but apparently none touched the ground.

The Upper Sabine appeared the big menace at the moment.

The Shreveport, La., Weather Bureau, which predicts for the upper Sabine, sent flood warnings the entire length of the river from its headwaters deep in northeast Texas and along the Louisiana-Texas border to the Gulf of Mexico.

The bureau said the crest at Gladewater will be about 45 feet by Wednesday, higher than any recorded before.

Flooding also was occurring on the Trinity, Brazos and Guadalupe rivers, while the Rio Grande was being watched carefully.

The Washington, D.C. Weather Bureau climbed out on a 30-day limb Monday and predicted a tapering off of the heavy rains that have pelted much of the country this month.

Even so, the Weather Bureau is standing by its claim that the drought in the Southwest probably won't return this year.

"It's the drought there isn't broken, it's at least badly bent," a bureau spokesman said today.

In its regular 30-day forecast, the bureau said rainfall is expected to be below normal in much of the country, with the exception of the Northeastern states and the far Southwest.

The rainfall in central and eastern Texas, abnormally heavy during the past two weeks, is expected to taper off to normal or even below normal amounts.

Those heavy Texas rains began shortly after the Weather Bureau reported that upper air circulation patterns indicated heavier than usual rainfall in the Central and Southern plains.

"That's a bad way to prove our point," the spokesman said. "Ten 1-inch rains do vastly more good than one 10-inch."

When the ground is hard from a prolonged drought there is bound to be a heavy run-off, with floods and extensive damage.

But some of it does soak down into the ground, where it is badly needed.

"It's like those blizzards that hit the West last month. Slowly melting snow is ideal for the farmers, but the blizzards themselves killed hundreds of cattle and did probably as much harm as they did good."

Again, the People Lose

From the Des Moines Register

Another Iowa legislative session is ending without any action to change the fantastically unfair and undemocratic apportionment of seats in the Assembly. The Senate voted Thursday 34 to 16 against withdrawing from sifting committee the reapportionment plan approved by the House.

It now would take a minimum of eight years before the makeup of the Legislature could be changed by constitutional amendment (assuming the 1959 Legislature acted). It would take six years even if the present assembly should act.

The travesty on representative government which Iowa people tolerate will be compounded by 1965. The cities are growing; the small towns and rural areas are losing people. In another eight years some southern Iowa counties may have one representative in the Iowa House for 8,000 people or fewer. Polk county citizens will have one representative for perhaps 150,000 people or more! In other Iowa urban areas the disenfranchisement of the voters will be nearly as complete.

Will Iowa citizens patiently sit by and allow another biennium to go by without doing anything? Will they trust the 1959 Legislature to do what preceding Legislatures have failed to do?

The Iowa Constitution calls for a vote by the people on the question of holding a constitutional convention every 10 years, and the next vote is due in 1960. At that time the people can take things in their own hands if they want to. In a referendum on a constitutional convention, every voter's vote carries the same weight.

The Senate Thursday voted to create a study committee to work on reapportionment plans during the next two years. Senator Arch McFarlane, veteran Republican from Waterloo, doesn't have any more faith in this than we do. He predicted that the 1959 legislature might pass a reapportionment plan. He said the people would be told not to vote for a constitutional convention in 1960 because the legislature had acted. Then, he said, the 1961 legislature would vote down the reapportionment plan. (A reapportionment amendment must carry two successive Legislatures and then be approved by vote of the people.)

Senator McFarlane knows the attitudes of his fellow legislators and of the ruling political forces of the state. He knows that the Legislature as now constituted will not reapportion itself.

We believe the legislators are misjudging public opinion—even in the over-represented areas. They are taking silence for representation. It is a relatively small group of shortsighted legislators who want to protect their own seats in the Assembly consent. But Iowa people are fair-minded; they believe in equal which perpetuates this gross fraud on the people of Iowa.

The Iowa Republican party is responsible for the failure to reapportion the Legislature.

With a commanding majority in both houses, the Republicans have once again crushed all efforts to give Iowa representative government.

It's true that many Democrats also dragged their feet on reapportionment in this Legislature, with the hope of tagging the Republicans with the blame. Democrats now will go to the people and tell them that they will have to vote Democratic to get reapportionment.

This may be unstatesmanlike politics. But it doesn't remove the stain from the Republican majority in the slightest. The Republicans could have done the job if they had wanted to, regardless of what the Democrats did.

Russian Threats

The United States' promise to furnish guided missiles to Great Britain and eventually to other allies in NATO and to have atomic warheads ready in case they would be needed has caused a furious protest campaign by the Kremlin.

The last country to receive a protest note three days ago was West Germany. The Russians in their harsh note threatened that West Germany would be devastated completely by H-bombs in case of war should Germany arm her new army with atomic weapons.

The Kremlin also told the Germans that with atomic weapons in the German army there could possibly be no further talk on German reunification.

The Russians, in all the years of the Cold War, have protested against various defense measures of the Western nations without ever impressing the West or influencing its decisions to a larger extent.

It would be unwise, however, to regard the latest Russian protests only as propaganda. One should consider how American leaders and citizens would feel should there be Russian atomic bases in Alaska or Mexico.

Russians feel uncomfortable surrounded by a circle of American bases. The Allied encirclement of Germany early in the century resulted in World War I.

Is it unlikely that history repeats itself?

Fraternity Co-op?

EDITOR'S NOTE: With this issue the Daily Iowan ends its series on the situation and problems of fraternities on the SUI campus. This last article deals with plans for cooperative buying of SUI fraternities and sororities.

By JO ANN PETERSEN Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Financial problems, stemming partly from the unequal distribution of fraternity membership and partly from the rising cost of living, are also plaguing many SUI chapters. High property taxes, insurance premiums, wages that must be paid and other expenses, added to the costs of chapter activities must all be paid from the board bills of fraternity members.

A system of cooperative buying, such as that employed at other Big 10 schools, Illinois, Purdue, Ohio State and Minnesota, has been suggested.

At the Big 10 Panhellenic-IFC conference held at Northwestern University earlier this month, Mark Levensky, A2, Des Moines, headed a panel discussion on cooperative buying.

Under this system, all or a majority of fraternities and sororities do most of their purchasing through a cooperative association which combines orders and sends bids to prospective suppliers.

The association which can usually obtain sizable discounts on purchases, passes on its savings to participating chapters. Other advantages listed for a cooperative buying system include: Elimination of many buying and accounting problems. Purchasing done by qualified agents. Uniformity and system in purchasing. Stability of purchasing policies. Setting up a cooperative buying system at SUI would involve problems, too, such as: The problem of getting a sufficient number of chapters to participate to make the system financially sound. The problem caused by a limited number of wholesale outlets, which limits competition and reduces the opportunity for a cooperative agency to obtain lower prices. The problem of losing the good will of local merchants who may be partially dependent upon the business of fraternity and sorority chapters. Another problem, which is always present, is the maintenance of high scholarship in the fraternities, IFC President Lloyd Courter, Li, Boone, said.

"The possibility of requiring a minimum scholarship standard for men who plan to rush has been mentioned briefly at an IFC meeting, Courter added, "but no action has been taken."

All these problems and others will face new IFC officers who will be elected Wednesday and individual fraternity chapters next fall. "We are working to lick our problems from within," commented IFC Secretary Jim Sheely, CA, Clinton.

"And," he said, "none of the SUI fraternities has had to close down yet because of failure to meet standards of the Committee on Student Life."

Rep. Prouty's experience with the classification of military information may seem to verge on the imbecilic. But many, many others have experienced worse. In fact, countless thousands were exposed to a more idiotic form of it only a few weeks ago.

The Air Force was broadcasting routine weather reports from Boling Field, and suddenly cut in with this warning: "This is for official use only, and may not be published in any form."

This undoubtedly saved the country, because, among the listeners, there must have been publishers.

The Pentagon itself is a security absurdity. From 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., anyone can enter and leave unimpeded, even if wearing a hatband lettered "Russian spy." But, after 6 p.m., no one can even leave the building without a special pass.

Of course, he can remain inside all night without one.

There's so much secrecy, the Pentagon gets all tangled up in it. Just the other day, a reporter who had run out of pertinent questions, asked disinterestedly if the Marines in the Mediterranean had 8-inch artillery. The reply was: "Security regulations prohibit the disclosure of whereabouts of weapons with atomic capabilities."

When the reporter finally begged for his lethargy, it dawned upon him that the Pentagon had been refusing for months to reveal whether we had an 8-inch gun that could fire an atomic shell.

"Was it a boy or a girl?" Well, you'd have thought he had asked the sex of a long-range ballistic missile. He was informed that under no circumstances would the Army release such information.

U.S.-Soviet Mideast Cooperation Desirable

By DIETRICH HARTMANN Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Recent developments in the Middle East, riots and intrigues in the desert kingdom of Jordan and possibilities for open hostilities between that country and its neighbors have taken some attention away from the original problems in this part of the world — the Arab-Israeli antagonism and the spreading Russian influence.

Should the latest crisis in the Middle East be solved without greater bloodshed, the question of how to pacify the belligerent Arabs and Israelis remains.

There seems to be no question that this goal can be achieved only when Russia and the United States realize that they serve their own interests best by extinguishing the fire both have helped to start.

During the last two months both Russia and the United States have made it clear that they are interested in peace in the Mideast. Both giants probably have come to the conclusion that the emotions and forces present in the people and the leaders of the Middle East countries easily can get out of control and that a situation might arise in which good will might be too late to prevent the powder keg from exploding.

The Russians for quite some time have tried to take advantage of the tense relations between the Arabs on one side and the Israelis and the old colonial masters on the other side. They have been extremely successful in doing so. The United States on the other hand has tried to fill a gap that supposedly was created by the forced retreat of British influence and the advance of Russia.

During the crisis the Russians, however, have tried to avoid real trouble, for obvious reasons. They are not interested in a major clash with the United States because of their (at least slightly) changed attitude in foreign relations in general and their economical and ideological preoccupance at home.

The Russians were quite willing to cooperate with the West in financing the Aswan Dam which would have solved the most urgent Egyptian problems and would have made Israel less dangerous and amoving for the Egyptians.

The Aswan Dam project failed for reasons which still have not been made entirely clear even though the issue received renewed publicity through the publication of a recent Dulles biography.

Last November the United States rejected the Russian offer to join military forces with the Americans to halt the Anglo-French-Israeli invasion into Egypt. Emotions on the American side made this probably unpractical cooperation impossible, but United Nations actions, which finally stopped the hostilities, were merely the reflection of mutual American-Russian understanding.

Although the State Department has never shown any intentions of cooperating with the Russians in the Middle East, Washington is extremely interested in establishing not only an armistice, but peace in the area.

The means to attain this end have not always been the most fortunate. They key for the understanding of Washington's attitude seems to be the unwillingness of the Administration to recognize that the Soviet Union is going to stay in the Middle East and that her influence is bound to grow. This Russian influence does not necessarily mean that certain Arab countries will become satellites.

Russia's intention more likely seems to be to keep these countries from becoming bases for American military installations, a desire understandable in the light of the circle of powerful U.S. bases around the entire Soviet Union.

Recognition of these facts might be painful for many policy-makers in Washington but they will have to be faced some day.

It has been pointed out in this column earlier this year that it may be the only possible way to get out of the Middle East mess would be a certain cooperation between Russia and the United States. Certain Soviet moves in the last three weeks indicate that the Soviets are trying to follow such a course and it seems that they are willing to proceed in a way which would be acceptable to the State Department.

After U.S. missions to the Arab countries and efforts of Dag Hammarskjold have failed to bring the Israelis and the Egyptians to negotiate about the future, the Russians are now trying to play the role of mediator between the two parties.

Certain developments seem to indicate that the Russians are trying to offer Israel a number of promising deals to a peaceful compromise. The Russians further are trying to use their tremendous influence in Cairo to turn persistent Nasser away from his stubborn resistance to agree to any settlement that would lessen his present decisive position. The Russians have resumed diplomatic relations with Israel in sending Ambassador Abramov back to Jerusalem. Russia has realized that threats do not impress Israel at all. Only concessions, mainly economic concessions, would have chances of success.

Reports from Jerusalem say that the Russians promised to resume shipments of Russian oil to Israel. These shipments were halted last November. The Russians are also reported to have given consideration to the possibility of allowing some four million Russian Jews to migrate to Israel.

These Russian Jews have for years been known to be willing to go to Israel. It is also reported that the Russians are willing to help solve the problem of the Arabian Palestine refugees now one of the hot beds of Arab nationalism.

Vice-President Richard Nixon, in his report about his extensive African journey emphasized the importance of solving that refugee problem. A bit more U.S.-Russian cooperation might show ways to agreement not only on the ultimate goal in that question but also on the means to achieve it.

Once the two big powers stop betting only on their favorite horses and come to a maybe only tacit understanding about mutual interests, a large-scale Middle East conference seems possible which might solve the main problems in an atmosphere favorable to an understanding between all parts interested in the strategically important area.

Letters to the Editor

Readers Comment on Lack of Intellectual Atmosphere, Death of Chivalry

TO THE EDITOR: The recent discussion of MEBOC points to the conclusion that the intellectual maturity at Iowa U is very low. When a group of students at the collegiate level get so upset over the amount of publicity afforded to a candidate for MEBOC I feel it is time our sense of values be changed.

The groups sponsoring these candidates fall far short of their supposed importance in teaching people to get along socially when they can no longer laugh at themselves and see satire as portrayed in The Daily Iowan by Mico.

Would a longer article have impressed people that much more? There is the possibility that the groups would not have been satisfied with a full page spread. It is interesting to note that students rarely get so up in arms to obtain more adequate classrooms, better library facilities, or more space in general in an overcrowded institution.

Social life and social groups have their place and are of great importance in the development of the individual; however, the social aspect of campus life seems to be crowding the academic side out.

The actions engaged in at this institution better fit those of a high school. Crowds of people gathering together carrying banners, blowing horns, and yelling from morning to the wee hours of the night, ceases to be campus spirit and becomes instead a ridiculous display.

I fail to see, when carried to such an extent, how such actions can positively develop good citizens who will properly adjust to a non-collegiate atmosphere with a minimum of difficulty.

A classroom can contribute considerably toward our social development, perhaps much more than a group formed for this purpose and a group which can see life only through its own distorted prism.

The main point I wish to make is that the intellectual atmosphere is lacking at the undergraduate level. If more students were here to get an education instead of a degree, the situation might be remedied.

Keith A. Wollen, A3 988 E. Washington

TO THE EDITOR: It is my duty, I feel, to pass along to the male members of this university and to all other interested parties a bit of knowledge which, although furthering my education (as every ounce of learning does), I'm told has also carried with it a substantial amount of disgust. I am referring to chivalry, its death and, specifically, causes thereof.

Now I don't mind opening the door of my car or a class room door for a female companion.

But it seems to me that a token of thanks would be in order upon completion of the aforementioned action. And if I were out strolling with one of the Fairer Sex, she attired in a presentable outfit (it need not even be her best dress) and I in a windbreaker which, perhaps, was due for a trip to the cleaners, anyway, it might even occur to me to spread said windbreaker over a puddle of water (were we to encounter one) for the convenience of this Fair Young Miss. All I would want in return would be a pleasant smile and a simple "thank you."

This, then, is what I've learned: Chivalry is dead not as the result of any man's lethal weapons, but because as time progressed the female sex began to take for granted the numerous little courtesies afforded by their male companions!

We men, being the more patient of the sexes (of course this could be debated), put up with this bit of ingratitude for a long time. If it keeps up I've no doubts that before too long your young ladies will not only be opening their own car doors but, as fate would have it, will be required by society to assist their gentlemen friends out of the automobile, as is the case in many countries.

Maybe if the word femininity would come to be a real term again, if women would use their ten fingers for something other than free-loading and if the simple two words of Thank You would be revived from the realms of the obsolete, chivalry, too, would return.

LEADING QUESTION

There are lots of big questions before the nation but for most of us the most common one is — "How much is the down payment?" — MARSHALLTOWN TIMES-REPUBLICAN

Union's Part In National Affairs

"Why Should American Unionists be Interested in National Affairs?" was the question addressed in a speech by an AFL-CIO labor leader to 40 representatives of Iowa labor unions at SUI Monday.

George T. Brown, director of AFL-CIO department of international affairs in Washington, D.C., spoke at the beginning of a week-long Labor Short Course at the Iowa Center for Continuation Study.

"No matter how much we might prefer to concentrate exclusively on such bread-and-butter objectives as wages, hours and working conditions, world conditions today do not permit isolationism," Brown told the labor men at the six annual short course.

"In a democracy, foreign relations are not solely the business of government," he stressed, pointing out that unionists should assert their rights and assume their duties as citizens.

Small Businesses Dominate in Iowa

Small establishments dominate the industrial scene in 33 Iowa counties with largest cities between 2,500 and 5,000 residents, Clark Bloom reports in the new issue of the Iowa Business Digest.

In these counties, only five companies employed more than 100 workers while 58 employed from 20 to 99, writes Clark C. Bloom, SUI economist.

He finds that these 33 counties averaged a 16 per cent growth in manufacturing employment from 1947 to 1954, the same percentage as that of all Iowa.

Bloom also points out that only four per cent of Iowa's manufacturing employees are at work in these 33 counties and that only seven of these counties had more than 300 on industrial payrolls in 1954. They are Jackson, 1,079; Franklin, 435; Hardin, 427; Wright, 399; Jones, 351; Sioux, 303 and Sac, 301.

Manufacturing enterprises in the 33 counties are almost wholly devoted to the processing of farm products, producing farm equipment or products for local consumption. Thus, he concludes the growth of manufacturing employment in these counties will depend upon growth in the needs of the surrounding farm community and among local residents.

"The SUI economist points out that manufacturing tends to concentrate in a relatively few Iowa counties in localities which have long been industrialized.

Spring Is a Good Time To Perk Up Accessories

Now is the time to put your spring and summer wardrobe into commission. Make sure you are ready to go with spanking clean accessories and no last minute snarls to a bandbox appearance.

Start with the hairline. Are summer hair ornaments clear? Are the metal ones tarnished? Are your hats in good shape or are the white hats yellow; bands, feathers and hat flowers must all be rejuvenated. Sometimes this may be accomplished with plain old soap and water, sometimes stronger treatment is indicated. Yellowed straws sometimes whiten with a lemon juice and water treatment. Sodium perborate in solution helps whiten some articles too. Try a small patch as a test and if it works for your particular fabric, go ahead with the entire piece.

Summer jewelry calls for brush-ups too. Last year's white jewelry probably could use a good soap and water bath. Make sure you dry it thoroughly. Ammonia diluted with water helps clean some metal jewelry. Tarnished silver responds to regular silver cleaning polish.

Linen, organdy and lace collars and cuffs should be washed in warm sudsy water. Special powders are available to brighten nylon accessories.

Belts for summer dresses are likely to be two or three shades darker than the dresses due to the fact that they are so often forgotten when dresses go to laundry or dry cleaner. Washable ones may be dunked in suds, those to be dry cleaned should be bundled up now and shipped off to the cleaner before you are tempted to wear them without refurbishing.

Spring and summer shoes too, require perking up. White shoes need brightening, leather shoes need polish. Renew missing shoe laces, supply new lifts, scrub canvas playshoes and sneakers.

This is an excellent time too to inspect your beach belongings. Repair or replace a tattered beach bag. Try on last year's bathing suit. If you've gained weight, don't try to make it see you through another season.

Liquid Beauty Aids Can Ruin Clothes

Don't ever try to take a nail polish spot out of a party dress with polish remover — if the dress has acetate in it. If you do, you'll see the spot, fabric and all disappear right before your eyes.

Even if you get nail polish on a garment that isn't acetate, it's best not to try to remove the stain yourself. If the nail polish isn't completely removed, the stains sometimes ignite or burn during pressing.

Liquid beauty aids are hard on clothes, warns Opal Robertson, extension clothing specialist at Iowa State College. So when you're using nail polish, permanent wave solution, perfumes, colognes and deodorants be especially careful.

Stains from some permanent wave solutions, rinses and tints are almost impossible to get out in the wash — even when a commercial laundry is doing the washing. Miss Robertson suggests that you use old towels and wear old clothes if you're getting a home permanent wave, since the solution may destroy dyes as it dries in the fabric.

Many liquid deodorants are quite acid. They're likely to disintegrate fabrics if the deodorant comes in direct contact with a fabric. Cotton, linen and rayon are especially susceptible to acid deterioration. So follow the directions on the container, or use only deodorants that are harmless to fabrics. A number of deodorants bear the Certified Washable Seal, indicating that the deodorant is harmless to fabrics.

Relays Aftermath

Iowa's trackmen, as a team, didn't make much of a splash in the 48th annual running of the Drake Relays Friday and Saturday. But it was a Hawkeye who provided what was undoubtedly the meet's top thrill.

The Hawk — or ex-Hawk if you want to split hairs — is Ted Wheeler, the long drink of water who flashed through the greatest mile ever seen in Drake Stadium.

Wheeler nipped Laszlo Tabori of Hungary on the tape in a finish so close that both men were timed in 4:06.9, a clocking which obliterated the old record of 4:08.4 for the non-collegiate mile held by Wes Santee, former Kansas great. Tabori, the third man in the world to run a mile in under four minutes, made history when he won against two British runners in a race in which all three men were clocked under the magic mark.

Wheeler, who's still attending school at Iowa, had been worried Saturday morning when he got wind of the rumor that Tabori planned to run his first three-quarters in 3:01. Tabori didn't do it, though. Wheeler's three-quarter time was 3:08.9 as he ran second behind Jack Wilcox of Fresno State. Tabori was third at that point.

Ted did something he seldom does — he took the lead on the first turn of the last lap. He lost it a moment later to Tabori then beat off a challenge by Phil Coleman of the Chicago Track Club on the backstretch.

Ted hung on to Tabori, then outkicked him in the stretch in what was probably the closest mile finish in Drake history.

The two men were just inches apart at the tape.

IOWA'S current distance star, Charles (Deacon) Jones, also made a little bit of history over the weekend. He won the two-mile run Friday, then came back to win the mile in record 4:10.7 time Saturday to become the first man ever to win two individual championships in the Drake Relays. The Deacon was overtaken on the backstretch in the fourth lap by Bob Dintlemann of Illinois, but the Hawkeye moved back into the lead on the home turn and won easily.

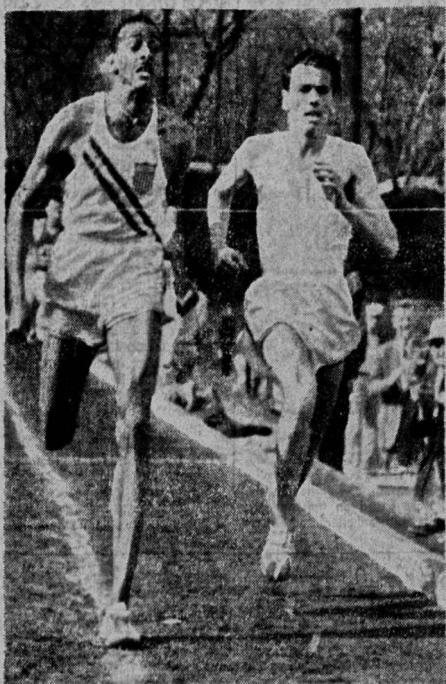

He broke by almost four seconds the old collegiate record of 4:14.5 held by Dewey Johnson of Drake.

OTHERS who placed for Iowa included Tom Ecker, fourth in the 440-yard hurdles; Jim Young, fourth in the discus; Jack Mathews fourth in the high hurdles; and the 440-yard relay team which placed fifth.

JUDITH's victory snapped a six-meet winning streak for the previously unbeaten Badgers, rated a top favorite in the Big 10 meet May 24 and 25. For Iowa, it was the fourth and fifth wins against one defeat and a tie.

The victory was all the more impressive because it came on Wisconsin's home course, a layout on which the Badgers generally are invincible.

Braves Go East For Crack At Dodgers

Shortly before, Charles (Deacon) Jones, current Hawkeye distance star, waltzed to a record 4:10.7 win in the collegiate mile. For Jones, shown in the photo at right as he toe dances across the finish line, it was his second triumph in the two days. He won the Drake two-mile event Friday. Both Jones and Wheeler ran with the United States Olympic team at Melbourne last winter.

Ted Strains, Deacon Dances

IOWA'S current distance star, Charles (Deacon) Jones, also made a little bit of history over the weekend. He won the two-mile run Friday, then came back to win the mile in record 4:10.7 time Saturday to become the first man ever to win two individual championships in the Drake Relays.

Iowa Golfers Beat Badgers, Gophers In Big 10 Opener

MADISON, Wis. — Iowa's golfers keynoted their 1957 Big 10 campaign with a triangular sweep over Wisconsin and Minnesota here Monday.

The Hawkeyes beat highly-touted Wisconsin, 22½-13½, and defeated the Gophers, 25-11. Wisconsin beat Minnesota, 21-15, in the other third of the triangular.

Bud Judish, the squat little slugger from Fort Dodge, led the way for Iowa with a 73-69-142 to capture meet medalist honors. Al Rennemert of Wisconsin was second with 71-74-145 and Hawkeye sophomore John Liechty was third with 74-72-146.

Iowa's victory snapped a six-meet winning streak for the previously unbeaten Badgers, rated a top favorite in the Big 10 meet May 24 and 25. For Iowa, it was the fourth and fifth wins against one defeat and a tie.

The Hawkeyes lost only two of the 12 individual matches. Clyde Feltes, who soared to a 79-81-160, was beaten by D. Forbes of Wisconsin, 4½-1½. Feltes tied, however, with R. Saunders of Minnesota, 3-3.

Phil Joselyn, another Iowa soph playing in his first meet, fired a fine 74-75 for the Hawks' third-best effort, but he was beaten in his match with R. Nordstrom of Minnesota, 4-2. Nordstrom shot 74-73-147.

Joselyn had no trouble shutting out J. Grey of Wisconsin, 6-0. In a battle of No. 1 men, John Marshall of Iowa battled back with an afternoon 73 to tie R. Rubendall of Wisconsin, 3-3. Marshall went out in the morning in 78. Rubendall's scores were just reversed.

Klu Enters Hospital For Hip Ailment

CINCINNATI — Ted Kluszewski, ailing Cincinnati first baseman, entered Christ Hospital late Monday for "as complete an examination as any one in the world ever had."

Big Klu, racked with pain from a hip ailment, has not played since the opening game of the season. He has appeared several times as a pinch hitter.

Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, said the finest specialists in the country will be called to examine the muscle man from head to foot.

The Redlegs, considered before the start of the season as an outstanding National League contender, now trail the league-leading Milwaukee Braves by 5½ games.

Kluszewski's hip ailment began during spring training a year ago. He had trouble getting started when the 1956 season opened and was on the sidelines in the last nine games of the torrid finish in which Brooklyn copped the pennant.

Iowa swept all six singles matches and all three doubles events in defeating Southern Illinois, 9-0, Saturday. It was the second win without a loss for the Hawkeyes.

Dog-Fight For AL Pennant Is Developing

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Milwaukee Braves hottest team in both major leagues, open their first eastern swing in New York today obviously impatient to test their bulging muscles against the champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

They'll have to stew a while. The Braves, whose pitching has been solid and whose bats have boomed 15 home runs, play two games with the New York Giants at the Polo Grounds. They then go to Pittsburgh for three. They return for games Sunday and Monday against the Dodgers at Ebbets Field.

The two games may be enough to buoy the Milwaukee confidence to greater proportions or puncture it with a cold blade — like that of barber Sal Maglie's razor.

While the National League spreads out over the east, American League teams go west with two questions paramount: 1. How long can the Chicago White Sox hold their early pace? 2. Are the New York Yankees in for the pennant fight of their lives?

Fans in Milwaukee and Chicago, elated over the early success of their heroes, might ponder one sobering statistic. The baseball standing a year ago showed these teams leading: Milwaukee in the NL, Chicago in the AL.

The Braves come east with a full two-game lead over the Dodgers and four over the third-place contender, the Philadelphia Phillies.

In winning 9 of their 10 starts, Manager Fred Haney's Braves have received good pitching performances from their entire staff but particularly from Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette.

Meanwhile, the Dodgers haven't been surprising anybody, although the "old pros" have managed to keep within hollering distance of first place.

are one-half game ahead of the Yanks.

The proud Yankees, figured a shoo-in for their eighth American League flag in nine years, discovered over the weekend that apparently they'll have to fight tooth-and-nail for every victory they get.

The Red Sox beat them twice at Yankee Stadium and barely failed to make a sweep when Yogi Berra's 10th-inning home run won the rhubarb-infested game Sunday.

Casey Stengel, the Yankees' dug-out philosopher, may have hit the nail on the head with a wry comment after the Red Sox series.

"It looks like they want to win," he said.

Baseball Tilt Is Postponed

Iowa's baseball game with Western Illinois State, originally scheduled to be played today, will be played Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

The Hawkeyes will continue Big Ten action this weekend when they meet Illinois in a single game here Friday at 3:30 p.m. and Purdue in a double-header Saturday, the first game to start at 1:30 p.m.

Property Valuation Notices Are Mailed By County Assessor

Assessment notices for the remainder of Johnson County's 5,500 property owners were mailed Monday from the office of the County Assessor.

County Assessor Guy E. Moore said that some notices will show changes in valuations made during the quadrennial real estate adjustment year of 1957.

The changes, Moore said, are subject to inspection by the county board of review and those wishing to protest their valuations are asked to meet with the board on May 6.

Moore added that notices to persons not appearing before the board should be kept for personal files and not returned to his office.

Another Pair Of Balloons To Seek Data

A second pair of small cosmic ray balloons — each eight feet across at the ground, expanding to 35 feet across when 20 miles up — will be launched within a few days from SUI.

Kinsey Anderson, SUI research associate, said the time of the next flight will depend upon weather and the condition of the six-pound cargo of last Friday's flight when it is returned from its landing site near Merrimac, Wis., about 25 miles northwest of Madison. A farmer telephoned the SUI physicist soon after the equipment touched the ground, he said.

In approximately four hours Friday morning, the two small balloons, tied together by a 40-foot line, carried their scientific load from the woman's athletic field near Iowa Memorial Union some 150 miles into south-central Wisconsin. "Temperature controls and radio transmitters within the 16-inch high box received a severe cooling test," Anderson said, "when clouds shut out the sun for a period of the flight."

With the help of his student assistant John Korns, E2, Iowa City, Anderson expects to make at least three flights altogether this spring — partly as a follow-up of Iowa physicists' experiments off the island of Guam in February and partly in preparation for the Hudson Bay phase in August experiments of International Geophysical Year.

In following-up the Guam flights, Anderson is repeating at this latitude the measurement of secondary and low-energy cosmic rays. These particles consist of certain electrons, mesons and protons, which are created through collisions of primary rays with upper atmospheric nuclei of oxygen and nitrogen, he explains.

Diplomat To Talk Here

Ralph E. Branscombe, Canadian consul-general at Chicago, will speak to a joint luncheon meeting of Iowa City service clubs at the Iowa Memorial Union today.

The meeting is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club. It will highlight local participation in the Kiwanis "United States-Canada Good Will Week."

Branscombe will speak on "Some Aspects of Canada-United States Relations."

He has been in charge of the Canadian consulate in Chicago and its affairs in the Midwest since 1955. Since entering the Canadian foreign service in 1947, the 36-year-old consul has also served at consulates in Yugoslavia and Belgium.

A graduate of the University of Edinburgh in Scotland, Branscombe also attended Acadia and Dalhousie Universities in Nova Scotia.

United States-Canada Good Will Week is an annual activity of the 4,500 Kiwanis clubs in the two countries. The program is dedicated to the perpetuation of friendly relations between Canada and the United States through better understanding of mutual international problems.

Rotary and Optimist Clubs will meet with the Kiwanis for the luncheon. Special guests will include SUI President Virgil M. Hancher, Iowa City Mayor Leroy Mercer, J. Earl Wells, Oskaloosa, Kiwanis District Lieutenant Governor, and 10 Canadian students at SUI.

Winner of Ballantyne Award Is Announced

Robert Johnson, A4, Des Moines, has been awarded the second Robert L. Ballantyne Award of $50 by the University Scholarship Committee.

The annual award is made to a senior student who has made a major contribution in financing his own education and maintained a satisfactory academic record.

The memorial fund was established in honor of the late Mr. Ballantyne, manager of the SUI Student Aid and Placement Bureau from 1942 until his death in 1956.

Language Student Practices

LEARNING THE GERMAN LANGUAGE with the aid of a modern tape recorder is Roy A. Setzer, A3, Amana. Assistant instructor Otto W. Bieri, in the background, turns on the machine as Setzer recites the lesson into the recorder microphone. Recorders similar to the one Setzer is using are available to all SUI language students in the phonetics laboratory in Schaeffer Hall.

Foreign Language Lab Has Modern Devices

By BILL PEMBLE
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Foreign language students at SUI have an opportunity to use some of the most modern equipment available to improve their language skills.

This equipment can be found in the Phonetics laboratory in Room 125, Schaeffer Hall. This room is the common property of all of the language departments at SUI.

Prof. Camille Le Vois of the French Department and Erich Funke of the German Department are co-chairmen of the laboratory.

The lab is divided into five separate rooms and two partitioned rooms.

Upon entering, one comes into the lobby of the laboratory which includes, among other things, a short-wave radio set.

Funke indicated the purpose of the short-wave set is "to give the students a chance to hear the languages in every day use."

To the right of the lobby is the listening room. This room has 32 listening stalls, each with four plug-in sockets. Each socket is connected with a tape recorder in the rear of the room.

Students wishing to use these stalls may check out ear phones.

Pajamas?? Woman Says Yes, Man Says No

HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — Police who responded Monday to a woman's complaint that a man clad only in pajamas was sipping coffee in a downtown restaurant found the man had a few complaints of his own.

He said other customers had annoyed him with remarks about his attire and that he wasn't wearing pajamas anyway — but a suit he bought on a recent trip to Miami.

Edward Lee Burgess, A1, Cedar Rapids, was arrested Sunday in money box containing $244.75 in cash and a $250 check from a Cedar Rapids grocery store.

'Paint for Inspiration,' Artist Tells Conferees

"It is a myth that the artist must wait for inspiration — painting itself brings inspiration," Francis Scott Bradford told art teachers and students attending the 27th annual Art Education Conference Saturday at SUI.

Bradford, a New York mural painter who has won numerous art awards, advised young artists "to put out something everyday, no matter how inadequate it seems."

In our mechanized and fast-growing society there are tremendous pressures for conformism, Bradford stated, adding that the artist must resist the tendency to mass action and find himself as an individual.

The artist must "leave the market place, withdraw into himself, fix his identity and then come forth into the world again with plan and purpose," Bradford said.

Leo Steppat, sculptor and professor at the University of Wisconsin, stressed the importance of aesthetic awareness to the artist. He defined this as "the ability to think with the body senses."

Steppat pointed out that when a culture moves away from the world of the senses and places great importance upon words and abstract concepts, the position of art becomes precarious.

"Feelings, experiences and conscious acts may stimulate art production," he said, "but only form determines whether the work is art."

Mr. Stanley, irate at the upheaval in his home, has a warrant issued for Whiteside's eviction and almost succeeds in clearing the house of the unwanted guest — but the play closes with surprises for everyone involved.

Settings for the production have been designed by Curtis L. Pope, G. Commerce, Texas, under the direction of Prof. A. S. Gillette. Lighting is by Prof. Walter Dewey and costumes are by Prof. Margaret Hall.

SUI Theatre To Give Last Play of Season

"The Man Who Came to Dinner," a comedy by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman will open at 8 p.m. May 9 as the final production of the current season by SUI Theatre.

The play will run through May 11 and from May 13 through May 18 under the direction of Prof. O. G. Brockett.

The ticket office at 8A Schaeffer Hall will be open for reservations beginning Thursday. SUI students will receive reserved seat tickets upon presentation of their identification cards. General admission is $1.25.

"The Man Who Came to Dinner," an international lecturer and author, who dines at the Stanley home, breaks his hip on their door-step and remains for six hectic weeks while his fracture mends.

The invalid, played by Fred Sederholm, G. Cedar Rapids, monopolizes the Stanley living room, invites ex-convicts to meals and runs up a $784 telephone bill. The arrival of strange gifts from Whiteside's many friends at home and abroad further destroys domestic tranquility, as do Whiteside's attempts to influence the two Stanley children, played by James Joy, A3, Perry, and Marilyn Baxter, A3, Rockford, Ill. Richard Paulus, A4, Iowa City, and Flora Felberbaum, A2, Ladue, Mo., are cast as the unwilling host and hostess.
