Russia Opens Certain Areas To Inspection

LONDON (AP) — Russia offered Tuesday night to open up part of the Soviet Union to President Eisenhower's sky inspection plan in exchange for Soviet photo surveys of Alaska and possibly all the United States west of the Mississippi River.

The plan was laid before the UN disarmament subcommittee and was plugged heavily by Moscow radio.

The U.S. delegation declined to comment, and the reactions of other subcommittee members were mixed.

In Washington, White House secretary James C. Hagerty declined comment on the proposal.

In return for Soviet reconnaissance of Alaska and an area west of the Mississippi River, the Russians offered to open up about one-third of the Soviet Union.

The Russian area would embrace eastern Siberia, an unspecified area in Europe, the Kamchatka Peninsula west of the Aleutian Islands, and Sakhalin, the big island north of Japan.

Apparently the heart of European Russia including Moscow would not be included.

Diplomatic quarters calculated the Russians wanted to photograph everything west of New Orleans including Chicago — the great industrial regions of the West Coast and vital U.S. naval and air bases, missile testing sites and power installations.

There was nothing in the plan, presented by Soviet Delegate V. A. Zorin, suggesting that any vital part of Russia would be open to aerial inspectors.

However, the Russians are reported to have atomic installations in eastern Siberia and air bases and other military installations on Kamchatka and Sakhalin.

The Russian proposals were described by Moscow radio as a basis for "a partial agreement" on disarmament.

The Russians also proposed that there be a ban on tests of H-bombs and other nuclear weapons, but suggested no immediate prohibition of the manufacture of such devices.

Mr. Eisenhower first proposed the "open skies" patrol plan at the Big Four summit meeting in Geneva in 1955.

It was presented as a first step in disarmament and as a token of good faith by letting the United States and Russia be the first to exchange reconnaissance, with other countries joining later.

His declared objective was to avert surprise attacks by spotting land, air or sea concentrations and nuclear buildups.

Zorin reiterated Soviet demands for reduction of armed forces of the United States, the Soviet Union and Red China to 2.5 million each, and of Britain and France to 750,000 each as first steps to further cuts.

He also repeated Soviet proposals for an agreement by all powers not to station atomic weapons in Germany.

Earn Scholarships; 4 To Study Here

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Four Iowa high school seniors who were among 830 National Merit Scholarship winners Tuesday will study at SUI next fall.

More than 162,000 high school seniors throughout the nation entered in the competition. Winners passed two college aptitude tests and displayed high personal achievement.

Seventeen winners were from Iowa.

The 1957 Iowa winners who will come to SUI in the fall are:

AMES — Jon R. Piersol, for music and teaching.

CONESVILLE — Jerry W. Lutz, Orono Twp. High School, for journalism.

DAVENPORT — George D. Ashton, Davenport high, for physics.

WAUKON — Paul R. Hager, Waukon high, for pre-medicine, psychology.

Mrs. Florence B. Young Former Coed Is Selected SUI Mother

Mrs. Florence B. Young, Rapid City, S.D., business woman, has been named "SUI Mother of 1957" and will be presented at the Mother's Day Weekend luncheon Saturday in Iowa Memorial Union.

Mrs. Young attended SUI, graduating in 1923 with a B.A. in political science and foreign languages.

She was nominated for the honor by her son Marshall, C3, and selected by Mortar Board, senior women's honorary sponsoring the Mother's Day Weekend.

Mrs. Young, the former Florence Bellamy, is a native of South Dakota but lived in the Knoxville area as a child. Her brother, James W. Bellamy, is a graduate of the SUI College of Law.

The SUI Mother has been active in political and fraternal projects since her graduation from SUI, in addition to providing a home and college education for her two children following the death of her husband. Mrs. Young was a member of the Rapid City high school faculty for six years and is presently secretary-treasurer of three South Dakota businesses — the Black Hills Transportation Company, the B. C. Y. Incorporated, and Hillcrest Terrace Company.

Political activities have been a big part of the life of the 1957 SUI "Mom." She was precinct committeewoman for 10 years, and from 1946 to 1960 she is serving as state central committeewoman of Pennington County. Mrs. Young was one of the five South Dakota women to be chosen to attend President Eisenhower's first workshop for women. She also helped organize and served as treasurer of the "Eisenhower for President Club" in 1952.

Mrs. Young has been active in the Business and Professional Women's Club, the P.E.O. Sisterhood, and the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The guest of honor at traditional activities during the Mother's Day Weekend at SUI, Mrs. Young will present trophies to the winning choral groups in the University Sing Sunday.

McCarthy Still Ill, But Feeling Better

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) was reported to have spent a very comfortable day Tuesday at Bethesda Naval Hospital but is still considered seriously ill.

A hospital bulletin late in the day said the senator's temperature is normal and his condition "has improved during the day."

The senator's illness was diagnosed as acute hepatitis, an inflammation of the liver.

A hospital spokesman said McCarthy is still considered seriously ill but declined any other information on what type of treatment he is receiving or how long he may have to remain in the hospital.

FARM PRICES UP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm prices went up last month and Secretary of Agriculture Benson predicts farm income this year will be higher than last.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday prices received by farmers increased two per cent during the month ended April 15.

Benson told a Senate Appropriations Committee he expects a four per cent rise in agricultural income this year.

Hussein Says Jordan Crisis 'Is Ended'

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein announced Tuesday "the crisis in Jordan is ended."

The 21-year-old monarch, apparently feeling himself in firm control after three weeks of touch-and-go tension, rejected a Soviet complaint that the United States was interfering in Jordan affairs.

He told a crowded news conference Jordan is not interested in the Eisenhower Doctrine which aims to defend the Middle East from Communist aggression.

"But if it is a matter of combating communism, this we are doing," he said.

The danger was not over, however. Military law remained in effect, and propaganda attacks from Egypt, Syria and the Soviet Union continued. Political parties remained under a ban.

To accept the Eisenhower Doctrine or to speak out against the Arab nationalism personified by President Nasser of Egypt would be an invitation to new disorders in a nation kept from violence only by the strict application of martial law.

Asked about Syrian and Egyptian radio attacks, he said: "Whoever tries to attack Jordan or aggravate its great difficulties, that country would be the one to blame for anything that might affect the relations of the Arab countries together."

Jordan, the King added, "will never depart from the principles of Arab nationalism laid down on Feb. 27 at the Arab Big Four conference in Cairo."

At that meeting the rulers of Egypt, Syria, Saudi Arabia and Jordan agreed to reject pacts with non-Arab states and to strengthen Arab military cooperation against the "common enemy," meaning Israel.

Saudi Arabia, with troops in Jordan since the Suez fighting last fall, strongly supported Hussein in the current crisis.

A Damascus dispatch indicated the King's foes had not given up hope. The dispatch quoted Maj. Gen. Ali Abu Nuwar, deposed as chief of staff and sent packing to Syria early in the crisis, as appealing to King Saud to believe that "what is happening in Jordan is a dirty colonial conspiracy aimed at extending the Baghdad Pact so it will embrace Jordan."

"Everything that took place in Jordan," he said, "was of our own doing, and it was what we believe and still believe was right for the interests of this country."

Hussein's new government is ready to accept a U.S. offer of $10 million in economic aid, provided the aid does not commit this country to the Eisenhower Doctrine.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, striking back at Russia, Tuesday blamed the crisis in Jordan on intervention by Soviet-controlled "international communism."

A spokesman declared that since World War II the Soviet Union "has subjected 10 once independent nations to its rule." His application appeared to be that the Reds have been trying to gain domination of Jordan.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White made the charge of foreign intervention at a news conference in response to requests for U.S. government reaction to charges made in Moscow Monday.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry had declared that the United States was primarily responsible for any "grave consequences" that might arise from the Jordanian crisis. It assailed the West for "foreign interference" in the Middle East.

King Hussein of Jordan had declared last week that the troubles of his country were due to "international communism and its followers."

The United States endorsed his assertion at the time but Tuesday's comments by White pinned the responsibility somewhat more directly on the Soviet Union.

Asked what he meant specifically by international communism, White said the Soviet Union proclaims itself to be the "fountainhead." He declared that the United States in effect was saying in a statement Tuesday that international communism means "the agents of the fountainhead of international communism; mainly, the Soviet Union."

'Without No Pants On'

FRATERNITY SENIOR GOES swimming — by force rather than choice. Larry Feinberg, A4, Sioux City, member of Alpha Epsilon Pi, is tossed in the d-ink according to tradition of many SUI social fraternities. Seniors are given a "free" dip by underclassmen as a going away present in the spring. Four houses on Dubuque Street row gave seniors a fling into the Iowa River Tuesday.

Speech Students To Talk at Council

By DON FINLEY
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

The role of student government at SUI will be discussed by members of a University speech class during the SUI Student Council meeting tonight, Council President Bill Teter, L2, Des Moines said Tuesday.

The discussion, an unusual attraction for a Council meeting, will center on the job of the Student Council in relationship to other campus groups.

The speech class, "Discussion of Current Problems," is taught by Speech Department instructor Donald Springer.

Chairman of the group, Judy Clark, A1, Cedar Rapids, said the speech students will consider such problems as "Should the Student Council be placed above other campus groups?" and "In what way should the Council work with other campus groups?"

She added that the group will also consider if the SUI student government as a whole represents the best interests of the student body.

They will discuss any needed changes in student government and the problems to be faced by campus organizations.

Teter said he invited the group to appear before the Council so "we on the Council can raise our sights above some of the small specific problems we must work on and get to thinking about the more important overall role of student government at SUI."

Consideration of a new hospitalization insurance plan for SUI students is on the Council agenda for tonight.

Teter stated that an insurance company has offered the University a student insurance plan which would operate as an addition to the present student health program.

The present student health program pays a student's hospital bills, including room and board, for up to 30 days in one academic year. The program includes general nursing services, special services such as X-rays, operating room, and special drugs; and special nursing up to $25 per school year.

Committee reports are scheduled from chairman of the Elections, Parking, Pop Club, Leadership Training, Campus Chest, and Special Projects Committees, Teter said.

Senate Leaders Delay Aid to Education Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opposition by Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif.) and postponement of Senate action by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) chilled the chances Tuesday that Congress will approve President Eisenhower's school aid program.

Knowland, the Senate's Republican leader, told the U.S. Chamber of Commerce he believes it would be "unwise" for the government to embark on a four-year program of aid for school construction such as Mr. Eisenhower has suggested.

Johnson, the Senate's Democratic leader, included school aid among four bills he said the Senate will not take up unless or until the House acts on them.

He put civil rights, immigration and natural gas legislation — all of which Mr. Eisenhower has favored — in the same category.

Eisenhower asked Congress in January to authorize a four-year $2,077,500,000 program to help the states build classrooms.

He included a 451-million-dollar item in his budget to get the program started in the year beginning July 1.

Knowland said it was his observation that nothing started by Congress terminates in four years.

Knowland's position seemed likely to be reflected in considerable Republican opposition in the Senate to the school aid plan. Some conservative Democrats also have denounced it as an invasion of states rights.

Budget cutting advocates have looked askance at the proposed expenditures.

Johnson said the Senate Democratic Steering Committee had decided there was "no point in raising deep divisions" over the school and other controversial measures unless the House was going to approve them.

Civil Defense Now Stresses Bomb Shelter

Civil defense authorities are getting away from the idea of evacuating cities in case of atomic attack, and are beginning to think in terms of bomb shelters as the chief means of protecting the civilian population. Ben Fowler, Iowa Director of Civil Defense, said Tuesday at the Sixth Annual Labor Short Course at SUI.

A $32 million shelter program is being considered in Washington now, Fowler said.

"If international disputes cannot be settled around the conference table as we hope," he added, "it looks as if the shelter program will come."

Fowler explained that the idea of dispersing the population of an entire city overlooks the need to have a working force of people able to "start over" after a bomb has dropped.

Moving out huge populations, such as the 10 million people in New York City, he said, presents tremendous problems.

The state civil defense director emphasized that the success of the civil defense program depends upon getting leaders from civilian organizations behind it and educating the people in the correct means of self preservation.

He suggested that a half-hour television program lasting 13 weeks would do much toward training the populace to take the proper action during an emergency.

Fowler warned his audience that the people of Iowa "are now living on the main street of the world."

"We practiced blackouts and dimouts in World War II," he said, "but there wasn't much danger that a submarine would attack us from the Mississippi River."

Today, he continued, such Iowa industrial centers as Cedar Rapids, Waterloo, Davenport, Dubuque, and Des Moines have been designated as target cities.

These cities, Fowler said, are not considered critical targets, but in a war lasting five or six days it is possible that they might be bombed.

Fowler described the Sault Canal Locks, in the northern midwest, which handle 90 per cent of the nation's iron ore, as the number one target in the United States. If the locks were destroyed, he said, "heavy industry in this country would be knocked out overnight."

Correction

In Tuesday's Daily Iowan there was a story on the Sixth Annual Labor Short Course which incorrectly identified Kenneth Larson, speaker on automation as being a CIO-AFL official.

Larson held a position with the Bureau of Labor Management on campus for four years and is now working on his Ph.D.

SUI Receives $4.4 Million From House

DES MOINES (AP) — The House voted 87-11 Tuesday to give SUI $4,814,200 for capital improvements over the next two years.

The approved bill would give a total of $13,600,390 for building programs to institutions under the State Board of Regents.

The House voted down 68-26 an amendment by Rep. Andrew Frommelt (D-Dubuque) that would have trimmed $3.6 million from the building appropriations.

A bill similar to Frommelt's proposal is now in the Senate Appropriations Committee awaiting action. It would give $10 million to the Board of Regents to divide among Iowa institutions as the Regents desired.

The approved House bill allocates specific sums for building projects at the Iowa schools.

Rep. Merle Hagedorn (D-Royal), minority party floor leader, spoke in favor of Frommelt's amendment.

"When you let the highway commission spend vast funds without earmarking," he said, "we surely could trust the Regents to spend $10 million as needed."

"We would get more progress with $10 million in a lump sum," he continued, "than with $13.5 million earmarked."

Rep. Jack Milroy (R-Vinton) pointed to the rising enrollments at Iowa institutions and the need for more academic space.

"The average appropriation to each institution in the last several years has been less than $1 million," he said.

The $13.6 million voted Tuesday exceeds the present $4 million biennial appropriation for improvements at Regents institutions. Gov. Herschel C. Lovelace had recommended $7.4 million for Regents building funds during the next two years.

The Board of Regents original request for SUI totaled $6,250,000.

Demo Backs Foreign Aid Stand by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), contended Tuesday an effective foreign aid program can keep the boiling Middle East out of Communist hands and thus is "vital to the security of our nation."

The senator sided with President Eisenhower in urging Congress to correct what he called a defect and authorize a program for longer than one year so as to remove "a very great obstacle to intelligent planning." And, he said, economic aid should be a loan program, to the extent of 80 to 90 per cent.

Fulbright addressed a luncheon meeting of the 45th annual session of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber has been conducting a drive for economy in government and for budget cutting, and one of its prime targets has been the foreign aid fund.

Mr. Eisenhower reported Tuesday that the United States delivered $70 million in military aid to friendly nations during the last half of 1956.

The President's semiannual report to Congress on the mutual security program noted this was well below the $1.9 billion shipped in the first six months of last year.

The main reason, it said, was a drop "in the quantity of off-the-shelf items available for ready delivery."

More than 40 per cent of the July-December deliveries went to Europe and 33 per cent to the Far East, the report said. It did not give a country-by-country breakdown.

Mr. Eisenhower said 1956 shipments brought to nearly $14 billion the value of military aid to friendly nations since the mutual security program was started in 1950.

President Eisenhower's foreign aid request for the fiscal year starting July 1 is $4 billion.

Navy Test Rocket Sets Altitude Record

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUNDS, N. M. (AP) — A Navy Aerobee rocket zoomed 190 miles above the earth Tuesday, setting an altitude record for single-stage booster rockets.

The old record was 164 miles, set last year. The rocket, a proving ground spokesman said, reached a speed of slightly more than 4,900 m.p.h.

Has 'Floating Sales Tax'; Sent to House

DES MOINES (AP) — A compromise tax bill embodying a "floating sales tax" principle was passed by the Iowa Senate Tuesday and sent to the House by a vote of 30-20.

The measure was adopted after nearly two hours of blistering debate in which opponents called the measure, hammered out by a joint Senate-House Conference Committee, a "yo-yo tax bill" and a "monstrosity."

The House, meantime, adjourned for the day before taking up the Conference Committee recommendation.

The compromise measure would continue Iowa's present 2½ per cent sales tax until the state comptroller determines that enough has been collected to provide a state general fund balance at the end of the biennium June 30, 1959, of $24 million.

The Legislative Interim Committee could then instruct the State Tax Commission to collect the sales and use taxes at the rate of two per cent.

This would continue to the end of the biennium unless the comptroller later determines that changing conditions would result in a balance at the end of the biennium of less than $24 million. In this event, the tax would return to 2½ per cent.

Sen. X. T. Prentiss (R-Mount Air) chairman of the Conference Committee which drafted the bill, conceded that the bill might result in changing the sales tax rate once each quarter during the two years starting next July 1.

But he said the measure represented a "true compromise" because the Senate had given up what it wanted — a provision for earmarking one cent of the sales tax for state school aids and full payment of agricultural land tax credits. The House, he said, would recede from all its amendments if it adopts the Conference Committee report.

Sen. Jack Miller (R-Sioux City), declared that as far as the Senate was concerned "the Conference Committee was a stacked 2½ per cent sales tax committee."

"It included Sen. Prentiss and Sen. Lynes, both firmly committed to keeping the 2½ per cent sales tax. They are the engineer and conductor on the Republican victory express which will be wrecked in 1958," Miller declared.

He said that under the bill the sales tax rate could be changed every quarter and that for each change the State Tax Commission would have to send out 67,000 notices, one to each of the retailers who collect the tax. He added: "You might call this a yo-yo sales tax which goes up and down, up and down, until the string gets tangled."

Miller said it would be better for the Legislature to hold down its appropriations, let the sales tax return to two per cent and alter other features of the state's tax structure to cover appropriations.

5 Senators Given Honors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five senators — Henry Clay, Daniel Webster, John C. Calhoun, Robert M. La Follette Sr. and Robert A. Taft — were named Tuesday to the Senate's new "Hall of Fame."

The first three were giants of the 19th century and their selection had generally been expected. There was no particular surprise, either, about La Follette or Taft, although others had strong backing.

The selections were made by a Senate committee headed by Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.) and including Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga.), Styles Bridges (R-N.H.), Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) and John Bricker (R-Ohio).

Kennedy said the choices were unanimous. He said they were "not offered as the five greatest senators of all time" but simply as five outstanding senators not now living.

The Senate's Hall of Fame is located in a reception room east of the Senate floor.

HUMPHREY TO SPEAK

DES MOINES (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey is definitely scheduled to address the Republican $25 a plate fund raising dinner in Des Moines next Tuesday, GOP finance chairman George Nagle of Iowa City reported Tuesday.

OFF THE CUFF

By Larry Dennis

Divots

Francis Cretzmeier, Iowa track coach, was very much interested in the information which came over a Des Moines radio station in a post-Drake Relays broadcast Saturday.

Out of the summary of the Relays and a discussion of Iowa's track team came the statement that Cretzmeier currently has four men on his freshman squad who can run the 120-yard high hurdles in 14 seconds flat.

This was highly pleasing to Cretzmeier, Missouri's 480-yard shuttle relay outfit Saturday ran the distance in :58.4 to establish an American collegiate record. Figuring that four 14-second hurdlers could run the relay in 56 flat, it seems like there might be a Hawkeye powerhouse in the making.

Unfortunately, the report is not true. Cretz has some freshmen who can run 15 flat, and a couple who can do lower than that, but no 14-second hurdlers.

Iowa, in fact, never has had a 14-second high hurdler. Les Stevens, a star of recent vintage, has skipped the sticks in :14.2.

Even the immortal George Sailing has a best mark of only :14.1.

TED WHEELER and Deacon Jones, Iowa's past and present mile stars, never have met in a race at that distance. They've run against each other in the 880, but never the mile.

A meeting between the two could take place Saturday when Iowa goes to Chicago for a dual with the Chicago Track Club. Wheeler currently is running for the Chicago team.

Cretzmeier, however, says no. His main reason is that he doesn't want the Deacon to run that fast right now. And a field which boasted those two, plus Olympic runner Phil Coleman (who also runs for Chicago) would be fast.

"I don't know who would win," Cretzmeier says, "but you'd get a heckuva fast mile out of it."

GLENN DEVINE, Iowa's golf coach, reports he was amused Monday morning while he sat with Les Bolstad and John Jamison, Minnesota and Wisconsin golf mentors, during the triangular at Madison.

Seems Bolstad and Jamison were discussing the coming Big 10 meet at Iowa City.

"It looks like it will be between you and Purdue," Bolstad told the Wisconsin coach. "I don't see anybody else who can touch you."

This, of course, was before the meet had been completed and Iowa had whipped both the Badgers and Minnesota by decisive margins.

Wonder if perhaps Bolstad might not make room for the Hawkeyes in his championship prognostications?

THE FIRST ACE of the season at Iowa's new Finkbine course was recorded by Ronald O. Simmons, an SUI student, on the par 3 number eight hole. Simmons used a 4-wood to can his tee shot on the 180-yarder, one of the toughest holes on the course.

Ends 4-Game Streak; Bums Slip By Cubs

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Antonelli checked Milwaukee's early rush as he pitched the New York Giants to a 4-0 shutout Tuesday night that snapped the Braves' four-game winning streak. It was the second loss in 11 starts for the league-leading Braves.

Antonelli, making his fourth start of the season, handcuffed the Braves with seven hits, only one of which came after the fourth inning. In addition, he poled one of the two Giant homers off loser Bob Buhl to drive in half his team's runs. Dusty Rhodes' homer accounted for the other two runs.

CHICAGO (AP)—With lefty Billy Pierce back in the groove after being bombed from the mound in his last two starts, the Chicago White Sox Tuesday stifled the Baltimore Orioles on six hits to maintain their American League lead with a 6-1 victory.

A dropped ball by second baseman Billy Gardner on an attempted forceout in third inning led to an unearned run that gave the Sox a 2-0 bulge. And after yielding a run in the fifth, the Sox caved in pitcher Ray Moore with four runs in the seventh to nail down their eighth triumph in 10 games.

Hawks Host To Western Illinois Today

Iowa's Hawkeyes, winners of their only Big 10 start and currently carrying a 3-5 record, move outside the conference for a tilt with Western Illinois on Iowa's field this afternoon.

The Hawks, hitting at a .262 rate in their first eight games, will be starting a seven-game home stand.

Coach Otto Vogel indicated Wednesday he probably will split today's pitching assignment between lettermen John Englert and Jack Nora, both right-handers.

Englert's record is 1-1. Nora has not recorded a decision in three games. He has pitched only five innings.

The rest of the Iowa lineup will look something like this: Les Zanotti at first base, Larry Harsch at second, Glen Van Fossen at third, Tom Haye at shortstop, and an outfield taken from Fred Long, Kevin Furlong, Jim Ward, Dick Weatherly and Don Boek.

Either Weatherly or Boek will be behind the plate. The status of Kirby Smith, regular first sacker sidelined with a wrist fracture, is indefinite, but indications are he will be over the remainder of the season.

Current Iowa hitting leaders are Weatherly and Long, both clouting the ball at a .391 pace. Van Fossen, the only other regular hitting over .300, has a .333 average at the moment.

Long and Weatherly also led the club in runs-batted-in with seven and six, respectively. Smith and Zanotti both have knocked around five.

The Hawkeyes will meet Illinois here Friday, then will entertain Purdue in a doubleheader Saturday.

Next week it will be Minnesota here for a three-game series Friday and Saturday.

Derby Trial Won By Federal Hill

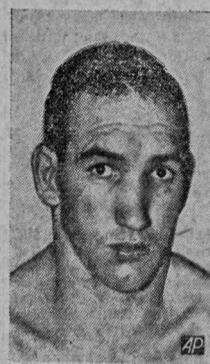

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Federal Hill, the hometown colt with terrific speed but doubtful staying ability, flashed to a sparkling victory over the favored Gen. Duke Tuesday in the $15,900 Derby Trial at Churchill Downs.

The result qualified Federal Hill, owned by Clifford Luskky of Louisville, for a starting berth in the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby Saturday. The colt led all the way in the one-mile prep on a fast track.

Six 3-year-olds contested the trial, and at least five of them are expected to come back in the mile and one-quarter derby, America's premier thoroughbred classic.

Gen. Duke, considered the chief hope of the Calumet farm of Mrs. Gene Markey or a sixth derby triumph, ran in last place for almost a mile, then put on a drive to come up and grab second place. He was 2 1/2 lengths behind Federal Hill, ridden by Willie Carstens.

Tigers Hire New General Manager

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers Tuesday completed their drastic front office realignment by selecting 35-year-old John J. McHale as the club's new general manager.

McHale immediately swung into action, making a deal that will bring outfielder Karl Olson to the Tigers from the Boston Red Sox. Jack Phillips, 36-year-old much-traveled first baseman who had been at bat only once for Detroit this year, will go to the San Francisco Seals, a Red Sox farm club. Earlier in the day, the Red Sox purchased Olson, whom they previously had owned, from the Washington Senators.

A veteran of 16 years in the Tiger organization, nearly half of them behind a desk, the boyish-looking McHale thus becomes the youngest general manager in baseball.

Winding up changes that affected seven men over a three-week span, the baseball club also named Harry Sisson executive president in charge of all Briggs Stadium operations and chose Charles Gehring for an advisory role.

CHICAGO (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson will try to win the world middleweight title for the fourth time tonight when he meets champion Gene Fullmer in a battle of faded ring skill against the brute strength of confident youth.

Fullmer, a 25-year-old mauler from the Utah copper mines, lifted Robinson's crown by a unanimous decision Jan. 2 at New York, flooring the 37-year-old sugar man and cutting his left eye.

The Chicago Stadium rematch is expected to draw about 12,000 fans and a gate of about $150,000. Radio-television receipts of $100,000 will boost the gate to the point where each fighter's cut of 30 per cent of TV and gate should be about $65,000. It will be Fullmer's first big pay day, for he had to agree to take only 12 1/2 per cent, or $21,000 in the first fight to Robinson's 47 1/2 per cent or $138,000. Last time Robinson got all the TV money.

Under the pressure of pre-fight ballyhoo the odds have been jumping around. From an original 3 to 1 on Fullmer you hear quotations of 2 to 1 and sometimes even lower. There is a strong suspicion that it will be higher again by ring time with Fullmer still favored.

The fight, starting at 8 p.m. (CST) will be seen on network (ABC) TV and also will be heard on radio (ABC).

If Robinson is knocked out or loses by a lopsided score, it probably will be his last fight. He "retired" once before in 1952 after he was stopped by "heat exhaustion" and Joey Maxim.

FAMED BEAUTY STAR OF NEW FILM

Iowa Citizens will soon get their first opportunity to see Giselle Pascal, the beauty who achieved international notoriety as the constant companion of Prince Ranier prior to his marriage to Grace Kelly, when she appears on the screen of the CAPITOL Theatre in "Fire Under Her Skin" starting THURSDAY, MAY 2nd.

Not many people in this country know that Miss Pascal is celebrated on the Continent for her exceptional talent as an actress as well as for her undoubted allure.

There have been rumors to the effect that she might have been Princess of Monaco today if she hadn't appeared on the screen in such scanty attire and in such intimate love scenes as are depicted in "Fire Under Her Skin." While many applauded her artistic integrity in portraying the role so realistically, many citizens of Monaco felt such roles were beneath the dignity of their ruling Princess.

Christian Scientist to Lecture Here

Theodore Wallach of Chicago will give a lecture sponsored by the members of the First Church of Christ Scientist entitled "Christian Science — Open Door to Progress" Thursday, at 8 p.m. in the Church Edifice.

A member of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship, Wallach recently completed a three year term as First Reader of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Active in the music profession in Chicago, Wallach entered into the field of merchandising. He has been in the public practice of Christian Science healing since 1934.

Nixon Predicts Russia's End

CHICAGO — Vice President Nixon predicted Tuesday night that a "decisive revolt" at home eventually will destroy Russia's Communist empire.

Nixon said in a speech at a joint meeting of the American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith that last year's uprisings in Poland and Hungary "were the beginning, not the end, of an internal revolt that will ultimately sweep away the Communist empire."

He added that "the fact that these uprisings occurred proves two important truths. They show that the desire for freedom is so deep in the heart of man that neither the tyranny of secret police nor the brainwashing of unending propaganda can make men believe that slavery is freedom or that lies are truth."

"The leaders of the Kremlin know that their armies are not reliable," he said. "They realize that unrest and dissension are barely hidden in their colleges and universities. They are aware of grumbings and doubts in the ranks of the Communist party itself."

Nixon gave no indication whether he was reflecting the views of other Eisenhower administration officials.

Canadian Diplomat Speaks to Kiwanis

Canada was described as the land of opportunity by Ralph E. Branscombe, Canadian Consul-General from Chicago at a luncheon meeting sponsored by Iowa City Kiwanis at observation of the 36th annual United States-Canadian Good Will Week.

"Canada is in truth growing up. American Colossus, but our development should be worth watching," Branscombe said.

Americans and Canadians are learning "how to build, how to work and how to live together in the rigorous north," he said.

Aside from the all-important issue of war and peace, Canadian-American relations are the most important part of Canadian foreign policy, he explained.

"Moreover, these relationships will probably grow in difficulty and complexity as the importance of each country to the other increases — as is happening," he said.

Economically, there is still much work to be done in the great north-west, Branscombe said. He pointed out that 30 per cent of Canada's income is from export while exports in the United States amount to only five per cent.

Canadian economy, for this reason, is highly variable in business level activities with the rest of the world, and America in particular, he said.

In natural resources, Canada is rich and by 1960 natural gas and oil production will be double domestic needs, Branscombe predicted, leaving more for export.

United States industrialists invested more than $500 million in Canadian ventures last year and private investors sunk another $500 million in Canadian bonds and equities during this time, he said.

He pointed out the St. Lawrence seaway project and defense warning stations in the far north as examples of American and Canadian cooperation.

He stressed that Canada is a state and not an economic or political extension of the U.S.

"We stand firmly on our own national feet and we stand for our own national interests," he declared.

He told his audience that there always has been an atmosphere of friendly exchange of ideas between the two countries, and "we do not want to lose it."

Blind Youth 'Off-Limits,' Receives VIP Honors

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — A blind boy who was caught climbing over a fence into the Alameda Naval Air Station last Friday with two companions to "see" the jets was treated like a high-ranking officer Tuesday.

Mike Cozzolino, 19, and his two 15-year-old friends, Jan Hall and Edward Payneck were taken on a grand tour as guests of the station's commanding officer, Capt. Frank Burner.

Mike, who has been blind since he was hit by a baseball bat when he was 5, is the son of Police Chief J. S. Cozzolino of Sonoma.

SUI Relations Group Grows; More Activity

The SUI Student Council Human Relations Committee, a relatively inactive arm of the Council in the past, took a big step toward increased activity Tuesday as its membership swelled to 19.

Council Pres. Bill Teter, L. Des Moines, who appointed the new members, said committee co-chairmen for the group will be chosen at tonight's Council meeting.

One problem the group plans to consider is racial discrimination in Iowa City barber and beauty shops.

The committee's sharp growth in membership grew out of a student meeting Friday at the Iowa Memorial Union. Lowell Mathes, A3, Iowa City, moderator at the meeting, listed five areas discussed by the group.

They are: race and minority group relations, student-faculty relations, community and university relations, inter-religious group relations and international student relations.

New members of the committee are: Mathes; Barbara Vendelboe, N3, Ames; Dennis Weldon, M3, Council Bluffs; Stanley Hansen, A2, Wesley; Nancy McCown, D2, Oakland; Robert Beck, A2, Dubuque; Judy Clark, A1, Cedar Falls; Ann Fellow, A3, Houston, Tex.; Martha Hickerson, A3, Scarsdale, N.Y.; Roger Cox, E4, Tama; Margaret Huffman, G, E, Lansing, Mich.; Samuel Weingart, A4, Des Moines; Kirk Boyd, A4, Davenport; Gwen Zettler, A3, Albany, N.Y.; Linda Gamble, A3, Fairfield; Lynn Haussier, A1, Mahanet, N.Y.; and Allen Ramsey, A4, Cedar Rapids.

They are Prof. Stov Persons, Prof. Allen Bogue, Prof. Samuel Hays, Morton Rosenberg, G. Hartford, Conn., and Leonard Ralston, G, Iowa City.

Travel Talk Tonight At Shambaugh Hall Cites Four Countries

The third program in the European Holiday series, an information program about student travel in Europe, sponsored by the Interfraternity Council, will be held in SUI Library's Lecture Room tonight at 7:30 p.m.

The panel of four European students will present Great Britain, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, telling how it is possible to travel in these countries, on a limited budget, about the main cities and points of interest.

In tonight's program there will be two color films, the first featuring mainly the flowers of Holland; the other is a travelogue on England and Belgium.

As in the previous programs, the panel is open to general travel questions from the audience about Europe, thus giving everyone interested in going to Europe help with the planning. The program is free and open to everybody.

Public Can View Comet

The SUI observatory on the roof of the Physics Building will be open to the public this evening for observation of the Arend-Roland comet.

The 6-inch refractor will be trained on the comet from 7:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m.

The comet will continue to be visible in the early evening sky throughout most of May, Prof. H. M. Johnson of the SUI Department of Astronomy and Mathematics said Tuesday.

The comet is easily visible to the unaided eye about two hours after sunset in the northwestern sky, he said. A tail, trailing about 10 degrees behind the comet's head, can be easily seen.

The comet will gradually decrease in brilliance during May and become invisible to the unaided eye about the last of the month, he said.

Health Day Focus on Mentally Retarded Child

Today is Child Health Day, a day set aside by Congress in 1928 and proclaimed each May 1 since then by the President of the United States.

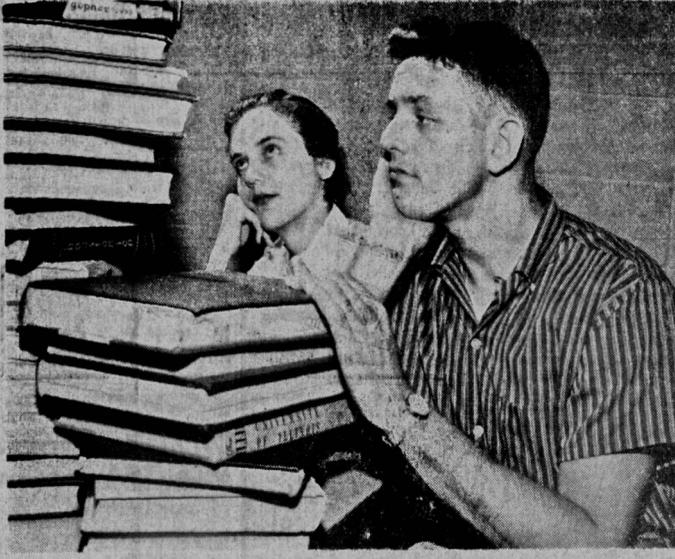

For this year's observance, the children's bureau of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is focusing its attention on the nation's mentally retarded children.

Emphasis on this particular group of youngsters has special significance in Iowa City. With children's bureau funds channeled through the state health department's division of maternal and child health, the University's department of pediatrics already is providing diagnostic and evaluation services to many of the state's retarded children.

Plans which will place an Emotionally Disturbed and Mentally Retarded Children's Unit at University Medical Center are beginning to materialize.

Included among the staff members of the new unit will be two clinical psychologists, two social workers and a public health nurse who will devote much of their efforts to the mentally retarded child. As part of the research conducted at the unit, the University's college of education will hold classes for certain groups of children.

Positions that must be filled include copy editor, managing editor, captions editor, divisions editor and all other staff members. Photographers are also needed. Business staff positions are open. Residents of Flooded Texas Area Ready To Leave Sabine River Homes

DALLAS (AP) — Weary men patrolled Texas river levees and stacked sandbags Tuesday as swollen streams spread over croplands and into towns and cities.

The upper Sabine River in east Texas reached heights never before recorded. Upriver levees held damage to minor flooding. Residents of downstream towns remained alert, ready to flee the threatening river.

The main danger areas appeared to be on the lower reaches of the Sabine, Trinity, Brazos, Colorado, Nueces and Guadalupe, and on four bayous around Houston.

Reading from west to east, these were the potential danger spots: Three Rivers on the Colorado, Freeport and the Navasota area on the Brazos, Liberty on the Trinity and Deweyville on the Sabine.

The floods, which began with heavy downpours April 18, brought strange contrasts after seven searing years of drought.

In lowland areas, farmers bitterly watched as their crops were ruined for the eighth year — this time by floods. Their cattle drowned and floated downriver. Little children and their parents huddled in flood relief shelters.

Men controlling the gates on Texas lakes had these choices: Keep the lake gates closed and flood upstream areas and possibly damage their dams.

Open the lakes and add more misery to the plight of downstream dwellers.

Gates were opened on Lake Whitney on the Brazos. Other major lakes with gates open included Possum Kingdom and Waco on the Brazos, and Travis and Tom Miller on the Colorado.

The Colorado was at 28.6 feet. A major breakthrough would occur should the river go to 31 feet. Rains fell again in the watershed of the Sabine, which has its headwaters in Texas and which later becomes the Texas-Louisiana boundary.

U.S. Marines, Sailors Take Shore Leave in Lebanon

Half the fleet's reinforced Marine battalion and 850 sailors from amphibious transports were given liberty in Beirut on direct orders from the chief of naval operations in Washington.

Fifty other ships, including the supercarrier Forrestal, which were sent to the eastern Mediterranean to exert a calming influence in the Middle East, conducted air defense maneuvers just over the horizon.

The Marines and sailors, went ashore just after payday. The Lebanese population, smiling and friendly, gave them a warm welcome.

Just before the men landed from the Mount McKinley, the transports Fremont, Olmsted, Muliphen and Kleinsmith and the tender Spiegel Grove, the commander of the amphibious force, Capt. Burton Hanson told the Marines: "Beirut is a high point of interest through the world and all eyes will be watching as the force enters this troubled area . . ."

The amphibious force is expected to stay for a three-day liberty. Other ships are expected in later.

Vice Adm. Charles "Cat" Brown, commander of the fleet, aboard his flagship the cruiser Salem, explained that the fleet was prepared for any and all measures that might be necessary to carry out its mission of "adding stability to the area."

"The policy is to keep the fleet scattered and alert," he said. "We don't aim to take a surprise attack from anywhere at any time."

Convict Einstein Estate Executor For Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Otto Nathan, 63, New York University professor and executor of the estate of scientist Albert Einstein, was convicted Tuesday of contempt of Congress.

The charges were brought against him last June after he refused to answer questions put to him by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He refused to say, among other things, whether he had ever been a member of the Communist party or was a member then.

Nathan was found guilty by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Edward M. Curran who conducted the trial without a jury. Judge Curran deferred passing sentence; he could give Nathan as much as a year in jail and fine him up to $1,000. Nathan remained at liberty under $1,000 bond.

The House committee was investigating what Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) described as fraud in the procurement and misuse of passports. Nathan refused to say whether an affidavit he filed in 1955 in connection with a passport application was true or false. He swore in the affidavit he had never been a Communist.

A native of Germany, he is an associate professor of economics at New York University.

In another contempt of Congress case Tuesday, Seymour Peck, 39, copywriter for the New York Times, was fined $500 and given a 30-day suspended jail sentence.

Sentence was passed on Peck by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Luther W. Youngdahl, who permitted him to remain free on bond pending an appeal.

Peck was convicted by a jury March 26 of unlawfully refusing to answer questions about his one-time Communist associates. He was a witness before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, where he testified freely about having been a Communist himself but refused to name persons he had known as Communists.

LONG BRIDGE When the Mackinac Straits Bridge between Michigan's upper and lower peninsulas is completed this year, it will have a suspension span rated as the longest in the world.

Require municipal clerks in permanent voter registration cities to record the date a voter last voted and the party affiliation given for primary election.

Require the payment of the same salary to a police matron that a police patrolman in the same classification receives.

Make fishing without permission in a private farm pond punishable by a $10 fine.

Authorize the Iowa Dairy Industry Commission to spend money from voluntary contributions to promote dairy products.

Fifteen Iowa City neighbors signed a petition Tuesday asking action taken by a local board who told two SUI Negroes to vacate a rented room at the end of the semester.
The students, Nate Williams, Nashville, Tenn., and Saunders, Li, Mason City, of a letter Tuesday from L. Glenn M. Meeks saying he was asking them to leave his house because of circumstances beyond control.
All those signing the petition were within one block of Meeks, a local insurance real estate salesman, said yesterday he received complaints from two different occasions on Williams and Saunders' presence at his house at 20 W. Harrison.
A student tenant in the house, Dock Adams, G, I, said Meeks told him Tuesday that he had received

On Censors
The question of censoring the Daily Iowan may be from the agenda of today's monthly meeting of the Student Trustees of Student Publications because of priority of other matters.
Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, of the School of Journalism, president of the Board of Trustees, said the matter will be passed over in favor of selection of a new editor of the Daily Iowan, and recommending the appointment of a member.
"Selection of the editor is made today," Moeller said.
Candidates for Iowan editor are Tom Slattery, A4, Chicago; John Bleakly, A3, Des Moines.
The main reason that agenda cannot be handled tomorrow, Moeller explained, is because there will not be members for a quorum.
The Board will discuss the matter of the press question at its next meeting, he said.
"When the freedom of the press is brought before the Board, Miss Benz will have her attitude and recommendations on the issue," Moeller said.
Eleanor Benz, A4, Iowa, is the present editor of the Iowan.
"She may bring with her meeting any Daily Iowan members that may have contributions to the discussion," he said.
The issue of press freedom of a student-faculty "Academic Freedom" April 4, when Kirk Boyd, editor, former Iowan editor, said that censorship was on the Daily Iowan members.
Boyd's statements were edited by Prof. Hugh E. Moeller, department of Political Science, a member of the Board.
The Board will also discuss whether or not future meetings should be held open to the press.
Other business on the agenda today include discussion of student publications and eye yearbook appointment progress.

Iowa Citizens will soon get their first opportunity to see Gisele Pascal, the beauty who achieved international notoriety as the constant companion of Prince Ranier prior to his marriage to Grace Kelly, when she appears on the screen of the CAPITOL Theatre in "Fire Under Her Skin" starting THURSDAY, MAY 2nd.

Not many people in this country know that Miss Pascal is celebrated on the Continent for her exceptional talent as an actress as well as for her undoubted allure.

There have been rumors to the effect that she might have been Princess of Monaco today if she hadn't appeared on the screen in such scanty attire and in such intimate love scenes as are depicted in "Fire Under Her Skin." While many applauded her artistic integrity in portraying the role so realistically, many citizens of Monaco felt such roles were beneath the dignity of their ruling Princess.

Nixon Predicts Russia's End

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Nixon predicted Tuesday night that a "decisive revolt" at home eventually will destroy Russia's Communist empire.

Nixon said in a speech at a joint meeting of the American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith that last year's uprisings in Poland and Hungary "were the beginning, not the end, of an internal revolt that will ultimately sweep away the Communist empire."

He added that "the fact that these uprisings occurred proves two important truths. They show that the desire for freedom is so deep in the heart of man that neither the tyranny of secret police nor the brainwashing of unending propaganda can make men believe that slavery is freedom or that lies are truth."

"The leaders of the Kremlin know that their armies are not reliable," he said. "They realize that unrest and dissension are barely hidden in their colleges and universities. They are aware of grumblings and doubts in the ranks of the Communist party itself."

Nixon gave no indication whether he was reflecting the views of the Eisenhower administration officials.

Canadian Diplomat Speaks to Kiwanis

Canada was described as the land of opportunity by Ralph E. Branscombe, Canadian Counsel-General from Chicago at a luncheon meeting sponsored by Iowa City Kiwanis as observation of the 36th annual United States-Canadian Good Will Week.

"Canada is in truth growing up. We are unlikely to become another American Colossus, but our development should be worth watching," Branscombe said.

Americans and Canadians are learning "how to build, how to work and how to live together in the rigorous north," he said.

Aside from the all-important issue of war and peace, Canadian-American relations are the most important part of Canadian foreign policy, he explained.

"Moreover, these relationships will probably grow in difficulty and complexity as the importance of each country to the other increases — as is happening," he said.

Economically, there is still much work to be done in the great northwest, Branscombe said. He pointed out that 30 per cent of Canada's income is from export while exports in the United States amount to only five per cent.

Canadian economy, for this reason, is highly variable in business level activities with the rest of the world, and America in particular, he said.

In natural resources, Canada is rich and by 1980 natural gas and oil production will be double domestic needs, Branscombe predicted, leaving more for export.

United States industrialists invested more than $500 million in Canadian ventures last year and private investors sunk another $500 million in Canadian bonds and equities during this time, he said.

He pointed out the St. Lawrence seaway project and defense warning stations in the far north as examples of American and Canadian cooperation.

He stressed that Canada is a state and not an economic or political extension of the U.S.

"We stand firmly on our national feet and we stand for our own national interests," he declared.

He told his audience that there always has been an atmosphere of friendly exchange of ideas between the two countries, and "we do not want to lose it."

Travel Talk Tonight At Shambaugh Hall Cites Four Countries

The third program in the European Holiday series, an information program about student travel in Europe, sponsored by the Interfraternity Council, will be held in SUI Library's Lecture Room tonight at 7:30 p.m.

The panel of four European students will present Great Britain, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, telling how it is possible to travel in these countries, on a limited budget, about the main cities and points of interest.

In tonight's program there will be two color films, the first featuring mainly the flowers of Holland; the other is a travelogue on England and Belgium.

As in the previous programs, the panel is open to general travel questions from the audience about Europe, thus giving everyone interested in going to Europe help with the planning. The program is free and open to everybody.

SUI Relations Group Grows; More Activity

The SUI Student Council Human Relations Committee, a relatively inactive arm of the Council in the past, took a big step toward increased activity Tuesday as its membership swelled to 19.

Council Pres. Bill Teter, L2, Des Moines, who appointed the new members, said committee co-chairmen for the group will be chosen at tonight's Council meeting.

One problem the group plans to consider is racial discrimination in Iowa City barber and beauty shops.

The committee's sharp growth in membership grew out of a student meeting Friday at the Iowa Memorial Union. Lowell Mathes, A3, Iowa City, moderator at the meeting, listed five areas discussed by the group.

They are: race and minority group relations, student-faculty relations, community and university relations, inter-religious group relations and international student relations.

Margaret Huffman, G, E. Lansing, Mich.; Samuel Weinger, A4, Des Moines; Kirk Boyd, A4, Davenport; Gwen Zeitler, A3, Albany, N.Y.; Linda Gamble, A5, Fairfield; Lynn Huestler, A1, Manhasset, N.Y.; and Allen Ramsey, A4, Cedar Rapids.

Blind Youth 'Off-Limits' Receives VIP Honors

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — A blind boy who was caught climbing over a fence into the Alameda Naval Air Station last Friday with two companions to "see" the jets was treated like a high-ranking officer Tuesday.

Mike Cuzzolino, 19, and his two 15-year-old friends, Jan Hall and Edward Payne were taken on a grand tour as guests of the station's commanding officer, Capt. Frank Burner.

Mike, who has been blind since he was 5, is the son of Police Chief J. S. Cuzzolino of Sonoma.

Public Can View Comet

The SUI observatory on the roof of the Physics Building will be open to the public this evening for observation of the Arend-Roland comet.

The 6-inch refractor will be trained on the comet from 7:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m.

The comet will continue to be visible in the early evening sky throughout most of May. Prof. H. M. Johnson of the SUI Department of Astronomy and Mathematics said Tuesday.

The comet is easily visible to the unaided eye about two hours after sunset in the northwestern sky, he said. A tail, trailing about 10 degrees behind the comet's head, can be easily seen.

The comet will gradually decrease in brilliance during May and become invisible to the unaided eye about the last of the month, he said.

Health Day

Focus on Mentally Retarded Child

Today is Child Health Day, a day set aside by Congress in 1928 and proclaimed each May 1 since then by the President of the United States.

For this year's observance, the children's bureau of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is focusing its attention on the nation's mentally retarded children.

Emphasis on this particular group of youngsters has special significance in Iowa City. With children's bureau funds channeled through the state health department's division of maternal and child health, the University's department of pediatrics already is providing diagnostic and evaluation services to many of the state's retarded children.

Plans which will place an Emotionally Disturbed and Mentally Retarded Children's Unit at University Medical Center are beginning to materialize.

Included among the staff members of the new unit will be two clinical psychologists, two social workers and a public health nurse who will devote much of their efforts to the mentally retarded child. As part of the research conducted at the unit, the University's college of education will hold classes for certain groups of children.

Big Job Ahead

NEXT YEAR'S HAWKEYE yearbook chiefs sigh at the thought of looking through year books from other major universities for new ideas. Ann Berner, A3, Fort Dodge, new Hawkeye editor, and Jack Hols, A4, Burlington, business manager have a big task ahead starting on next year's book already. Coffee hour will be held tonight from 7 to 10 p.m., for students interested in becoming Hawkeye staff members. Positions that must be filled include copy editor, managing editor, captions editor, divisions editor and all other staff members. Photographers are also needed. Business staff positions are open. The coffee hour will be in the Communications Center Lounge, Room 200, CC.

Residents of Flooded Texas Area Ready To Leave Sabine River Homes

DALLAS (AP) — Weary men patrolled Texas river levees and stacked sandbags Tuesday as swollen streams spread over croplands and into towns and cities.

The upper Sabine River in east Texas reached heights never before recorded. Upriver levees held damage to minor flooding. Residents of downstream towns remained alert, ready to flee the threatening river.

The main danger areas appeared to be on the lower reaches of the Sabine, Trinity, Brazos, Colorado, Nueces and Guadalupe, and on four bayous around Houston.

Reading from west to east, these were the potential danger spots:

Three Rivers on the Colorado, Freeport and the Navasota area on the Brazos, Liberty on the Trinity and Deweyville on the Sabine.

The floods, which began with heavy downpours April 18, brought strange contrasts after seven searing years of drought.

In lowland areas, farmers bitterly watched as their crops were ruined for the eighth year — this time by floods. Their cattle drowned and floated downriver. Little children and their parents huddled in flood relief shelters.

Men controlling the gates on Texas lakes had these choices:

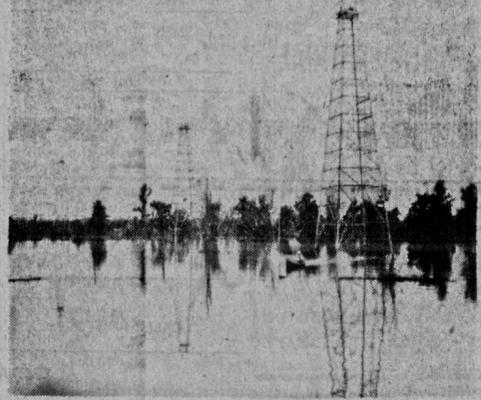

Keep the lake gates closed and flood upstream areas and possibly damage their dams.

Open the lakes and add more misery to the plight of downstream dwellers.

Gates were opened on Lake Whitney on the Brazos. Other major lakes with gates open included Possum Kingdom and Waco on the Brazos, and Travis and Tom Miller on the Colorado.

The Colorado was at 28.6 feet. A major breakthrough would occur should the river go to 31 feet.

Rains fell again in the watershed of the Sabine, which has its headwaters in Texas and which later becomes the Texas-Louisiana boundary.

U.S. Marines, Sailors Take Shore Leave in Lebanon

Half the fleet's reinforced Marine battalion and 850 sailors from amphibious transports were given liberty in Beirut on direct orders from the chief of naval operations in Washington.

Fifty other ships, including the supercarrier Forrestal, which were sent to the eastern Mediterranean to exert a calming influence in the Middle East, conducted air defense maneuvers just over the horizon.

The Marines and sailors, went ashore just after payday. The Lebanese population, smiling and friendly, gave them a warm welcome.

Just before the men landed from the Mount McKinley, the transports Fremont, Olmsted, Mulphen and Kleinsmith and the tender Spiegel Grove, the commander of the amphibious force, Capt. Burton Hanson told the Marines: "Beirut is a high point of interest through the world and all eyes will be watching as the force enters this troubled area."

The amphibious force is expected to stay for a three-day liberty. Other ships are expected in later.

Vice Adm. Charles "Cat" Brown, commander of the fleet, aboard his flagship the cruiser Salem, explained that the fleet was prepared for any and all measures that might be necessary to carry out its mission of "adding stability to the area."

"The policy is to keep the fleet scattered and alert," he said. "We don't aim to take a surprise attack from anywhere at any time."

ELECT SUI PROF.

DES MOINES (AP) — Dr. Robert Tidrick, head of surgery at SUI hospitals, Tuesday assumed the presidency of the Iowa Academy of Surgery.

Dr. Carl Jacobs of Sioux City was elected vice-president and will become president in 1958.

Convict Einstein Estate Executor For Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Otto Nathan, 63, New York University professor and executor of the estate of scientist Albert Einstein, was convicted Tuesday of contempt of Congress.

The charges were brought against him last June after he refused to answer questions put to him by the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He refused to say, among other things, whether he had ever been a member of the Communist party or was a member then.

Nathan was found guilty by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Edward M. Curran who conducted the trial without a jury. Judge Curran deferred passing sentence; he could give Nathan as much as a year in jail and fine him up to $1,000. Nathan remained at liberty under $1,000 bond.

The House committee was investigating what Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) described as fraud in the procurement and misuse of passports. Nathan refused to say whether an affidavit he filed in 1955 in connection with a passport application was true or false. He swore in the affidavit he had never been a Communist.

A native of Germany, he is an associate professor of economics at New York University.

In another contempt of Congress case Tuesday, Seymour Peck, 39, copyreader for the New York Times, was fined $500 and given a 30-day suspended jail sentence.

Sentence was passed on Peck by U.S. Dist. Court Judge Luther W. Youngdahl, who permitted him to remain free on bond pending an appeal.

Peck was convicted by a jury March 26 of unlawfully refusing to answer questions about his one-time Communist associates. He was a witness before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, where he testified freely about having been a Communist himself but refused to name persons he had known as Communists.

The House passed four other bills, and sent them to the governor. They would:

Require municipal clerks in permanent voter registration cities to record the date a voter last voted and the party affiliation given for primary election.

Require the payment of the same salary to a police matron that a police patrolman in the same classification receives.

Make fishing without permission in a private farm pond punishable by a $10 fine.

Authorize the Iowa Dairy Industry Commission to spend money from voluntary contributions to promote dairy products.

House Amends Bill To Allow Stand-in Judge

DES MOINES (AP) — A Senate bill to permit the governor to appoint an alternate judge in cities having only one municipal judge was amended in the House Tuesday to include also salary boosts for those jurists.

The measure was sent back to the Senate on a vote of 92-0, for consideration of the addition. The change was proposed by Donald Doyle (D-Sioux City).

Under the House plan, municipal judges in cities of less than 30,000 population would get salary increases from $5,375 to $6,500 a year; those in cities of 30,000 to 70,000 population would get boosts from $6,500 to $7,200; and those in cities of 70,000 or more population would get increases from $6,750 to $8,000.

The House passed four other bills, and sent them to the governor. They would:

Require municipal clerks in permanent voter registration cities to record the date a voter last voted and the party affiliation given for primary election.
