Nuclear Arms Best Defense, NATO Says

BONN, Germany (AP) — Foreign ministers of NATO ended their meeting Friday night with a communique declaring the best hope of deterring Soviet attack is the terrible firepower of modern nuclear weapons.

"Pending an acceptable agreement on disarmament," said the ministers, "no power can claim the right to deny to the Alliance the possession of the modern arms needed for its defense."

NATO officials said the Foreign Ministers' Council intended this as its joint report to Moscow's recent threats and warnings against atomic guided missile bases in Scandinavia, West Germany, Greece and Turkey.

The communique said if the Soviet Union is really afraid of Western defense preparations, it has only to "accept a general disarmament agreement embodying effective measures of control and inspection within the framework of the proposals made on numerous occasions by the Western Powers."

It added the Soviet campaign is aimed at giving Soviet forces a monopoly of nuclear weapons on the European continent and partly remarked:

"The Council warned that 'prolonged division of Germany and the anomalous situation of Berlin' is a continuing threat to world peace and demanded early German reunification.

Earlier, the ministers joined West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano and U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in warning that East Germany is a turbulent volcano that might erupt at any time.

The ministers pledged to use all possible means to induce the Soviet Union to honor its agreement that Germany should be reunified by free elections — a reference to the Geneva "summit" talks of 1955.

Correction

A story in Friday's Daily Iowan incorrectly reported that the Board of Trustees of Student Publications, Inc., will have an open meeting May 9.

The Trustees will instead meet May 9 to finish business they were unable to take up at their regular meeting Thursday.

At the May 9 meeting the Board will set a date to hear statements on the Iowan's editorial supervision policy.

Persons wishing to make statements must notify the Board in writing by 5 p.m., May 8. Notifications may be sent to Room 205, Communications Center.

McClellan Charges Witness Conspiracy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.) charged Friday there is "a conspiracy" to hide four missing witnesses sought by his Senate rackets probes in the investigation of Dave Beck.

McClellan pledged himself to a never-ending search "until they are subpoenaed and their testimony obtained" in his investigation of charges that the now-indicted Beck, president of the Teamsters Union, has misused large sums of union funds.

In other developments in the committee's nationwide investigation of racketeering and other malpractice in labor unions and industry:

1. Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) announced he is handing the committee evidence of alleged collusion and improper dealings between some coal mine operators and local officials of the United Mine Workers in Luzerne County, Pa.

2. Sen. Karl Mundt (R-S.D.) confirmed a report that committee staff investigators are looking into the circumstances under which the United Steel Workers of America re-elected David J. McDonald as national president.

3. Other committee sources said violence which marked the recent strike of employees of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. in Ohio is under preliminary investigation to determine whether public hearings are warranted.

A trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) last month blamed the company for violence attending the 7-month strike which ended in February. Examiner C. W. Whittemore recommended dismissal of charges brought by the company against the Communications Workers Union.

Whittemore said the company threatened its employees, conspired with hired "investigators," and engaged in "actual physical violence against striking employees."

"The company had charged, with support from the NLRB's general counsel, that the union instigated violence to coerce or frighten company employees to remain on strike.

McClellan's staff, with the help of U.S. marshals, has waged a long and fruitless search for Beck's son, Dave Jr., Frederick Verschueren Sr., top Teamsters Union auditor for the 11 Western states; Beck, Joseph of the senior Mrs. Beck, Joseph McAvoy and Norman Gessert.

Senate power is now split between 46 Republicans and 49 Democrats.

Gov. Vernon Thomson of Wisconsin is not permitted by state law to name a new senator. The vacancy can only be filled by special election.

Democrats have not elected a U.S. senator from Wisconsin for 25 years.

After the funeral, at noon, the Senate will meet and adjourn immediately as a mark of respect.

McClellan is survived by his wife, Jean Kerr McClellan, and his infant adopted daughter, Tierney Elizabeth.

Senate Rites For McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy will leave the U.S. Senate Chamber for the last time in death Monday after a 30 minute funeral in the room where he rocketed to world-wide fame — and fell to oblivion almost as rapidly.

McCarthy's body will be taken from in front of the Senate rostrum and flown to Appleton, Wis., for final church services and burial Tuesday.

Flags from all Government buildings flew at half mast Friday for McCarthy whose zealous anti-Communist campaigns got him the label of "witch-hunter."

He died in Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md., of an acute liver ailment Sunday.

McLeod 'A Risk', Dulles Once Said

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scott McLeod, State Department security chief, has told investigating senators that Secretary John Foster Dulles almost fired him "as a security risk" four years ago.

This was disclosed Friday when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee made public 160 pages of secret testimony on McLeod's controversial nomination as ambassador to Ireland.

Under questioning this week by Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.), McLeod said Dulles called him into his office to question him about a "leak" to a Washington newspaper — the old Times-Herald. The newspaper reported misgivings by McLeod about the then-pending nomination of career diplomat Charles Bohlen to be ambassador to Moscow.

"He — Dulles — said he had been authorized to discharge me as a security risk because of this leak that appeared, obviously from me in the Times-Herald, but he decided not to."

McLeod vowed he was not the source of the leak, and he said Dulles became convinced he had nothing to do with it and therefore was not a security risk.

The term security risk in this connotation does not carry any implication of subversion or Red inclination. As used by government officers it covers a number of categories, including persons deemed to talk too much. McLeod is strongly anti-Communist, and many critics have accused him of damaging State Department morale in his campaigns against employees he suspected of being risks.

After relating how he almost got fired, McLeod told the committee that he recalled the incident to Dulles several weeks ago and remarked to the secretary:

"The fact that you made this statement all in one sentence kept me from fainting because if you had made it in two sentences I would know how I would have stood up."

Pressed by Kennedy as to where Dulles got the authority to discharge him, McLeod replied: "I assume from the President."

Dulles changed his mind about firing him, McLeod said, after the secretary "had satisfied himself at that time that I had nothing to do with this leak."

He said Dulles "incidentally ascertained my whereabouts during the critical time" and found from people "I was with that I did not make any phone calls or talk to anyone or in any way contribute to the leak."

When President Eisenhower recently nominated McLeod to be ambassador to Ireland, a considerable controversy arose as to McLeod's fitness for the job. Mr. Eisenhower said he made the nomination on the "serious and earnest recommendation" of Dulles.

Dulles told a news conference that in the past four years McLeod "has grown in stature and understanding" and is qualified to be an ambassador. Thursday the Senate committee approved McLeod 9-6.

McLeod's attitude toward the Bohlen nomination, which was approved by the Senate in 1953 after a bitter fight, was a factor in senator's questioning of him on his own nomination as ambassador to Ireland.

Bohlen has now been named ambassador to the Philippines and the Senate committee has unanimously approved him.

Money Goes For Capital Improvements

By The Associated Press
DES MOINES — SUI will receive $3,749,200 for capital improvements in an appropriation bill passed 35-2 by the Senate late Friday.

The Senate bill gives a total of $10,975,390 to the State Board of Regents for capital improvements for institutions under its jurisdiction.

Appropriations passed Friday in an overtime session are $1,625,000 less than approved in an earlier House bill.

Funds are above an earlier Senate bill, however, which called for a flat $10 million.

It was 5:55 p.m. when the Board of Regents capital improvement appropriations bill was passed, but the Senate clock read 3:50 p.m.

The legislators "stopped the clock" so it could end the session officially on time before 4 p.m. on the 110th day of the session.

Appropriations are more than double the amount passed for the last biennium in 1955.

Earlier in the day the Senate slashed more than $3 million from original Regents' requests in an amendment that passed 44-0.

Breakdown of the appropriations for the Regents under the bill follow with a comparison with 1955

1957	SUI	1955
$3,749,200	$1,300,000
Iowa State College	$1,674,500
Iowa State Teachers College	$2,530,000	$ 607,500
Oakdale Sanatorium	$ 450,710	$ 738,500

The bill also appropriated $205,480 for the Iowa School for the Deaf, Council Bluffs, and $165,000 for Iowa Braille and Sight Saving School.

An earlier bill approved $84,500 for use by the Regents to resurface and rebuild roads.

'Give 'Em Hell' Harry S. Truman Blasts Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry S. Truman came to town in fighting trim Friday and declared the Eisenhower Administration is driving him toward socialism.

In his old "give-'em-hell" style, he jumped on Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey for wanting, he said, "to choke us to death with interest rates." And he charged administration policies are forcing the little fellow out of business.

"I'm not a Socialist," the former Democratic president said, "but they're driving me that way."

His audience was the Electric Consumers Information Committee.

Scott McLeod Almost Got Fired

Poet Levine Gets $2,500

Phillip Levine, G. Detroit, has been awarded the annual Wallace Stegner Poetry Award of $2,500.

The money is to be spent in an academic year. Contest rules stipulate the winner has to live within the Stanford University, Palo Alto, California, area.

Levine said he submitted eight poems to be judged.

"People entering the contest are limited to 10 pages of material," he said.

A graduate of Wayne State University, Detroit, Levine has attended SUI for two years. While attending SUI he has taught "Greeks and the Bible" and "Technical Writing" in the College of Engineering.

Levine's poetry has appeared in such magazines as Poetry Magazine, Western Review and Chicago Review.

The award is given by Wallace Stegner, head of Creative Writing and Professor of English at Stanford University.

Successors Picked For History Profs

Appointments of three men to succeed Prof. Nicholas Riasanovsky, Prof. Richard Westfall and Prof. Herbert Rowen, who are leaving the SUI History Department in the fall, have been announced by Prof. W. O. Aydelotte, head of the History Department.

The new History Department members are Prof. Arthur Mendel, now at Roosevelt University in Chicago, Prof. Robert Kingdon, University of Massachusetts and Prof. Alan Spitzer, Boston University.

Shearing and Quintet To Appear Thursday

By JACQUI ALPER
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

George Shearing, one of the greatest jazz pianists, will appear with his quintet in a concert at 8 p.m. Thursday in Iowa Memorial Union.

Sponsored by Central Party Committee (CPC), Shearing's appearance here was not confirmed until Friday.

Tickets, $1.50 per person, will be available beginning Monday at the South Lobby desk of the Union.

The smooth sound of Shearing's famous organization comes from a combination of piano, vibraphone, electric guitar, bass and drums.

English-born Shearing, blind almost since birth, has been in this country about ten years, and has gained fame for his modified progressive jazz.

Shearing has said he tries to find a happy medium between out-and-out commercialism in music and in playing only for invention's sake.

He works in a straight chorus, followed by invention intervals, in such hits as "Tenderly" and "Someone To Watch Over Me."

"The public needs a handle to grab before they catch on bop," the 37 year old pianist said.

Shearing's quintet was named the top instrumental group in the United States in Billboard Magazine's 1950 college poll, and won a similar honor in Downbeat Magazine's 1949 poll.

Before he came to this country, he was voted England's top jazz pianist six years in a row by the Melody Maker Magazine poll.

The late "Fats" Waller encouraged Shearing to try his luck in America.

Shearing studied at a music school for the blind in England from the time he was 6 until he was 17.

Then he switched to jazz, after listening to jazz pianists such as Art Tatum, Earl Hines and Teddy Wilson.

Annual Seals Show — 'Just Add Water', Get Good Swimmin'

By ELEANOR BENZ
Daily Iowan Editor

If the average SUI male student has his choice between a swimming cook and just a plain everyday cook, he'll probably choose the swimmer if he saw the Seal's Club annual water ballet Friday night.

Members of the women's synchronized swimming club demonstrated that you can stir up a number of tempting concoctions when you "Just Add Water."

And if the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, as the girls claim, the Seals captured their objective.

The show opened with 24 green-suited, white-aproned chefs who stirred up the water using some fancy motions with wooden spoons. If their brew wasn't well-mixed when they finished, nothing ever could be.

An interesting effect was created for the next number about a "Midnight Snack" when a hazy blue cloud was lowered from the ceiling. It held some delectable-looking goodies but the swimmers didn't even get a taste, for the cloud remained out of their reach above the water.

The swimmers, in nighttime pink and blue, awoke at the pool's edge and jumped in, still half asleep. It took them awhile to wake up, but they were soon doing some difficult tricks including 2-girl water wheels that take a lot of coordination and breath control.

"Shrimp Cocktails" were next on the menu with the seven swimmers dressed in pink and black with black gloves and hats.

The emphasis was on the devil rather than on eggs in a fiery number about "Devised Eggs."

At the opening the audience saw nothing but seven wavering shields. All of a sudden from behind the shields popped seven little devils complete with tails, horns and 3-pronged spears which they carried into the water.

The "Mulligan Stew" number found four tramps gathered around a campfire on the diving platform. They turned out to be excellent swimmers as they jumped into the water and went through a fast pace of difficult stunts.

One of the girls demonstrated amazing breath control as she stayed under the water with her legs up for nearly a full minute while her mates swam through and followed her lead.

Ann Cooper, A1, Cedar Rapids, demonstrated the skill that has won her national acclaim as a diver in the number called "Flapjacks."

Some of her teammates proved that women can't always be considered the weaker sex, by doing strenuous clown diving from the high board.

If you are looking for a new idea in tossed salads for summer, the Seals have it. They appeared in black suits covered with figures of vegetables. But their method is probably too elaborate for the average housewife.

The oriental influence showed up strongly in the number about "Chop Suey." Synchronized swimming is usually a graceful affair with toes pointed, legs straight and arms curved.

These girls did all the wrong things — feet ridiculously bent, knees out and arms that jerked in odd movements — but the effect was superb. The six swimmers did a water wheel that garnered one of the few mid-number applauses from the crowd.

A tempting cherry pie ala mode was served up by swimmers in red and white. It looked almost good enough to eat.

Show directors Corley Hamill, A2, Des Moines, and Carolyn Herman, A2, Boone, showed why they are considered two of the best swimmers in the club in their "Salt and Pepper" duet. They incorporated many of the most difficult tricks in the trade in their beautifully coordinated number.

They did perfectly, one of the tricks every synchronized swimmer would like to do but which few master — the feet-first dolphin, which requires the swimmer to do an arched-back circle in the water going down and coming back up feet first. The trick is usually done head first.

The show closed with a candle-lit number featuring the whole club. They formed some interesting patterns and ended up with a birthday cake.

Another performance will be given tonight at 8 p.m. in the Fieldhouse pool.

'Names' the Name, Thanks; Could Be 'X' or 'Y' or 'Z'

By WILLIAM B. HARWOOD

BALTIMORE (AP)—Do you know Mr. X, Mr. Y or Mr. Z? Perhaps Mr. Ng or Mr. Oa live next door. Maybe you've met Odear, Obroy or Ostop, Mr. Hah or Mr. Ugh.

All these are names of actual persons listed among the more than one million different surnames on the rolls of the Social Security Administration's Bureau of Old Age and Survivors Insurance here.

The names run all the way from Aaaa to Zzyzs and include persons named simply X, Y, or Z. In fact, 21 of the 26 letters of the alphabet are surnames by themselves. The only exceptions are C, J, O, Q, and W.

Fifty-one persons are named "Name." One hundred and twenty others are "Names"—that being the name they answer to.

To the people of BOASI—whose daily job it is to delve through millions of earning accounts and make additions, corrections, and deletions—these are more than just unusual names. The numerous variations of similar names and the frequency with which a certain name occurs is important information to them.

At the last count, the bureau was custodian of 153 million names, including dependents and beneficiaries, and the earning or claims records of those people.

Faced with the ever increasing number of records and ever diminishing space, the bureau enlisted the aid of an electronic brain, IBM's 705, and last year began transferring all its account records from punch cards to magnetized tape which can be run through the brain.

An outstanding authority on names estimated in 1950 there were approximately 350,000 different surnames in the United States.

The BOASI brain found 1,023,000 different names on the basis of the first six letters only. In addition to 13 persons named X, there are 575 different names beginning with X and a total of 3,141 persons with X names. That's the smallest letter category with Q ranking second.

Forty people are named Ha and six Hah. Twelve are called Dad, 13 Daddy, 40 Dada, 44 Daddi and 101 are Dadds.

Father is the name of 660 others. Only seven are Mama and 16 are Mom, but 133 will answer to Ma.

There are only 12 Men—some of them women. And 277 are named Man and 541 are Lady, including many men.

Five answer to Hades and 202 to Hell.

For 5,426 persons named Angel, there are only 55 Halos and 6,444 Harps.

Although 17 are called Easily, it's Easy for 20.

There are 534 Misers and 2,789 with Money as their name but the Rich outnumber the Poor, 24,236 to 1,813.

For 13 Mends, there are 30 Toms. More than 75,000 are Black but only 10,376 are Blue.

Some 16,000 are called Bird but there are 3,931 Eagles, 13,088 Crows, 15,376 Finches, 10,747 Peacocks, 236,988 Robins and 11,670 Swans.

People named Mouse outnumber the Cats more than 10 to 1, but there are only 10 Pups. And for the 150 named Mouse only 39 will answer Eek. For 56 named Hide, only 260 will Seek.

For 134 Horses there are 4,603 Grooms. Others with names in the animal kingdom include Deer, Doe, Ew, Fox, 75,853 of them, Ape, Goat, Otter, Oxen, Lion, Tiger, Whale, Shark, Frog, Yak and 23,033 Roaches.

Although 13 will answer Ok, more than 11,000 will tell you Nix. But for 10 who are Stop, 186 are Go. More than 16,000 are Good compared to 4 who are Bad. And the Loves outnumbered the Hates, 36,414 to 19.

West is the most popular name of the cardinal points of the compass. The Wests total 91,840 and outnumber all the Norths, Easts and Souths put together.

As you might guess, the Smiths are still No. 1 on anybody's list of most common names. There were 1,207,999 persons named Smith on the BOASI rolls in mid-1956, including John Five Eights Smith. This particular Smith was worried that his name might be lost among the 50,000 other John Smiths, so he selected Five Eights as his legal middle name to give him some distinction, if only fractional.

Some of the other unusually named persons who gave permission for the BOASI to disclose their moniker are Pork Chop, July Bonus and July A. September—the A standing for August.

Then there's Constant True Love and A. Stranger.

The second-ranking name, numerically, is not Brown or Jones as you might expect. It's Johnson and there are 913,609 of them.

Williams, or longer variations thereof like Williamson, ranks third, occurring 778,322 times. Then come the 684,772 persons named Brown and the 664,432 called Jones.

Miller is the sixth most common name on the list, occurring 577,956 times and Davis is next at 522,452.

Martin, Anderson and Wilson round out the top 10 names in order of frequency. The second 10 are Harris, Taylor, Moore, Thomas, Thompson, White, Jackson, Clark, Roberts, and Peters. Keep in mind that the machine only gives only the first six letters of the surname—so the Harrisons, Thomasons and Petersons are included.

Iowa Book Authors Featured In University Library Exhibit

Some 120 recent books by Iowa authors make up the May exhibit of SUI library.

All published since Jan. 1, 1955, the volumes on display are from the University's Iowa Authors Collection, comprising books by native Iowans or writers with a long span of residence within the state. Many are autographed gifts from the authors.

The exhibit includes such "best-sellers" as "Andersonville," Pulitzer-prize winning novel by Webster City's MacKinlay Kantor, and "Say, Darling," fictional treatment of New York's show business by Dubuque's Richard Bissell. The "Andersonville" display ranges from Kantor's first rough draft through the paperback reprint of the Civil War novel.

Phil Stong, native of Keosauqua of "State Fair" fame, who died recently is represented by four books—"Adventure of Horse Barnaby," "Gold in Them Hills," "Beast Called an Elephant" and "Blizzard."

Another 4-book author in the 1955-57 display is V. M. Cassill, native of Cedar Falls and former resident of Okaloosa. An SUI alumnus, Cassill has four volumes of popular fiction in the exhibit, all published as 25-cent paperbacks. Highest list price among the 120 books is $9, on Paul Giddens' "Standard Oil Company (Indiana)." Now president of Hamline University in St. Paul, Minn., Giddens attended Simpson College, Indianola, and SUI and taught at Iowa State College and SUI.

Former and present Iowa newspapermen are well represented. For instance, Irving Brant, who was born in Walker and served as an editor of both the Iowa City Republican and the Des Moines Register, has in the display his fifth volume on James Madison, a book detailing the early American statesman's first term as U.S. President.

Columnist Marquis Childs, native of Clinton and SUI graduate, is represented by "The Ragged Edge: The Diary of a Crisis." William L. Shirer, who grew up in Cedar Rapids, has a novel, "The Consul's Wife," and "Challenge of Scandinavia." Harry Hansen, author, editor and book critic who was born in Davenport, has two books, "Story of Illinois" and "Old Ironsides: The Fighting Constitution."

Present staff members of the Des Moines Register have three books in the display—Lauren Sotth's "Farm Trouble," Harlan Miller's "There's a Man in the House," and George Mills' "The Little Man with the Long Shadow." Sotth is a native of Sibley; Miller of Des Moines.

Calvin Kentfield, native of Keokuk, is the author of two seafaring novels in the 1955-57 exhibit—"Alchemists Voyage" and "Angel and the Sailor." Lawrence Manfred, once of Anamosa, has two historical novels, "The Queen's Cross" and "Spider King." Authors of two recent books on "flying saucers" and other unidentified objects in the atmosphere are Donald Keyhoe, born in Ottumwa, and Edward J. Ruppelt, born in Grundy Center.

The display also includes volumes of verse and a variety of books which are primarily of special or local interest. For example, Mitchellville's Lois Craig is the author of "Village on the Prairie," a centennial history of her hometown; Professor Charles Ritchey, Des Moines, has written "Drake University through 75 Years;" and the late Rev. Raymond Kresensky, a native of Algona, is represented by his "Selected Poems."

In addition to those already mentioned, nationally recognized authors in the display include Wallace Stegner, a native of Lake Mills; Mike Quate, native of Nashua; Frederick Ferkle, Manfred, of Rock Rapids; Merle Miller of Montour; Dale Kramer, of Sigourney; and Frank Luther Mott, of Keokuk, and long-time director of the SUI school of journalism.

Small Percent Of Alcoholics In Hospitals

Only about 3.5 per cent of Iowa's 44,000 alcoholics were admitted as in-patients by Iowa hospitals during 1955, according to a study recently completed by SUI's committee for research on alcoholism.

Harold A. Mulford, executive director of the committee, says most of these admissions were made by a "relatively small number of hospitals," with the seven mental hospitals in the state admitting about 40 per cent of the total number. Of the 889 general hospital admissions, 90 per cent were admitted by six hospitals.

In the general hospitals, the average length of stay for these patients was a little more than three and one-half days. The average stay in private mental hospitals replying to the survey questionnaire was seven to fourteen days.

"The short length of stay in the hospitals, coupled with the shortage of out-patient facilities and follow up services, indicates that, for the most part, little attention is given to the patient's addiction as such," Dr. Mulford says.

It is widely agreed that five to ten days of "drying out" and physical restoration is an important first step, the SUI man explains, "but if there is to be any effective and lasting treatment of the addiction, additional therapy is necessary."

Dr. Mulford cites Massachusetts, Connecticut and Pennsylvania as three states having alcoholic clinics which are served by teams composed of some or all of the following: psychiatrists, psychologists, psychiatric social workers, clergymen and recovered alcoholics representing Alcoholics Anonymous and performing liaison with that organization.

In Iowa, there is no public or private agency, with the exception of Alcoholics Anonymous, which provides help exclusively for alcoholics, the researcher points out.

Of the 52 general hospitals which responded to the SUI survey, more than 44 per cent reported that alcoholics are admitted for emergency care only.

Hussein Victory Administers Blow to Nasser's Prestige

EDITOR'S NOTE: Associated Press correspondent Tom Masterson was in Jordan throughout most of the recent government crisis there. Now back at his home base in Beirut, he has written the following assessment of the situation.

By TOM MASTERSON

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—President Nasser of Egypt seems to have emerged a loser from the Jordan crisis. His popularity in the Arab world outside Egypt has skidded visibly and Afaas cannot abide a loser.

King Hussein's victory over the pro-Egyptian, pro-Syrian and pro-Communist forces which ruled Jordan for a year dealt a severe blow to Nasser's prestige.

It was obvious through the crisis that Nasser was fighting against "Hussein" and his supporters. Nasser's "Voice of the Arabs" radio—the most effective propaganda machine in the Middle East—broadcast vitriolic attacks against Hussein almost daily during the crisis. Cairo radio and Egyptian newspapers and magazines, all controlled by the Egyptian government, did the same.

They called on Jordanians to rise up against supporters of Hussein and support the dismissed government of former Prime Minister Suleiman Nabulsi.

Hussein twice complained publicly about attacks on him by the Egyptian press and radio. He did not mention Nasser by name but it was obvious that the anti-Hussein campaign could not have gone on without Nasser's approval.

Nasser's failure to stem defeat of the pro-Egyptian clique in Jordan stunned a good many Arabs. He had built up an almost legendary reputation for turning defeat into victory. And a good many Arabs, refusing to count him out, are looking for him to pull a rabbit from the hat.

Oddly, Hussein has gained little popularity among Arabs despite his resounding victory. Rightly or wrongly he is being blackened in the eyes of many Arabs for what they call American interference in the internal affairs of Jordan.

Supreme Court Judges To Attend SUI Court Day

Members of the Iowa Supreme Court will attend Supreme Court Day at SUI May 10.

Chief attraction of the day will be a case argued on the sale of real estate in a probate action at 2 p.m. by student "lawyers."

Attorneys for the appellant are Hugh Faulkner, L3, New Sharon, and Walter Schroeder, L3, Davenport. Attorneys for the appellee are William Eads, L3, Ida Grove, and James Van Vleet, L3, Otley. Members of the Supreme Court will judge the argument open to the public.

The morning's events will include a coffee hour and presentation of the Junior arguers. The top 10 per cent of the senior law class will also be initiated into Coffeetown law fraternity. A luncheon will follow, honoring the initiates.

At 6:30 p.m. some 300 people are expected to attend a banquet in Iowa Memorial Union. Following the dinner Carl F. Conway, Osage, will speak and the "Hawkeyes" campus recording group, will sing.

Cloudbursts Add Six Inches Of Rain to Texas Miseries

DALLAS (AP)—Cloudbursts of more than 6 inches in north-central and central Texas Friday brought new flood threats to a state hit by 16 days of deluges and floods.

The cloudbursts hit several areas. Some tornado funnels were sighted. Wichita Falls near the Red River was bracing for possibly the highest water in seven years, a group of communities on the upper Brazos River about 40 miles west of Fort Worth found water rising again, and the Bosque River watershed about 60 miles northwest of Waco in central Texas got heavy rains.

A thunderhead dumped about .60 of an inch of rain in 15 minutes at Gainsville Friday afternoon and a flash flood warning was issued for Elm Creek in the city, which is directly north of Fort Worth.

Earlier high water near the mouths of a half-dozen rivers dissipated except on the swollen Sabine in east Texas, and the threat eased there.

A hard rain during the afternoon in Wichita Falls revived the threat from Holliday Creek, which runs through the city of 125,000, and from the Wichita River on the north side of the city. Two tornado funnels were sighted on the north side of Wichita Falls but did not touch ground. Another was sighted near Burk Burnett, 13 miles north of Wichita Falls.

On the upper Brazos, where some communities were evacuated during earlier floods, rains of more than 6 inches fell, and water rose again in the towns of Dennis and Bennett. Water again was lapping at Tin Top, which earlier suffered flood damage.

In the Iredell area in central Texas, rains of more than 6 inches fell, and water rose again in the towns of Dennis and Bennett. Water again was lapping at Tin Top, which earlier suffered flood damage.

Texas, rains of around six inches fell and creeks were full, but there was no immediate reports of damage. The north Bosque River was out of banks.

The town of Deweyville on the Sabine breathed easier. The Weather Bureau revised its forecast to call for a crest of 15 feet by Sunday. The river was at 14.79 feet and rising very slowly. Plans already were laid to evacuate the town of 1,000 should water approach that of 1953, when the town was inundated. The Sabine earlier spread out over upriver lands, causing hundreds of oil wells to stop pumping.

The Red Cross has estimated that up to 9,000 persons have been driven from their homes at one time or another during the 18 days of heavy rains. The state civil disaster headquarters said floods have affected 35,000 square miles.

Thousands of acres of croplands and pastures have been flooded, and considerable replanting will be required.

Telephones Given New Look Here

By BOB STRAWN
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Modern utilitarian products with the esthetic touch will be featured at the annual SUI Design Exhibition which opens at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Art Building.

A telephone re-designed to fit the contour of the hand, an assemble-it-yourself sofa and a new-design coffee-maker will be included in the display.

All projects in the show are related in structure and purpose to the human being.

A redwood framework called "Modulus-H," will snake about the display room to provide a modern backdrop for the design projects. The backdrop is designed to conform with the dimensions of the human body in height and width.

After two months of discussion, "Modulus-H" was designed by faculty members and graduate students in the Art Department.

The name "Modulus-H" comes from "Module" meaning a unit of measure and the "H" shape of the structure.

In designing objects of all types, the student learns to observe the patterns of human action which will be involved in using the product. Prof. John Schultz, of the Art Department, said.

Hood Gardner and Carl Hall, of the SUI Art Department, will display some furniture which they have been working on for several years.

Interior designs and designs for design's sake will also be included in the show. Design classes have been approaching the projects as art rather than advertising, Don Moulton, of the Art Department said. Design is more than just a tool of advertising, he declared.

"There has been an attempt to integrate the fine arts into graphic, advertising, and poster design using art of the old masters as a basis."

The exhibition, which will run through June 1, will be open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays from 2-5 p.m.

Recreational Facilities Plan To Be Considered by City Council

Mayor LeRoy S. Mercer said Friday the Iowa City Council will carefully consider a plan to increase recreational facilities in Iowa City.

The Iowa City Playground and Recreation Commission had presented a plan to the council Thursday.

"I am sure the council feels it should begin to look ahead and preserve some property within the city limits for playground facilities," Mercer said.

The commission's plan recommends new neighborhood playgrounds, a new community recreation building, a recreational reservation and a playfield park.

Neighborhood playgrounds were suggested for three parts of the city — Plumb Grove Acres, Whiting addition and the Bel-Air-Rochester avenue areas.

Dr. William L. Yetter, chairman of the commission, told the council the indoor recreational programs which are spread throughout the city increase costs because of the lack of a central building.

Dr. William L. Yetter, chairman of the commission, told the council the indoor recreational programs which are spread throughout the city increase costs because of the lack of a central building.

The commission's plan recommends new neighborhood playgrounds, a new community recreation building, a recreational reservation and a playfield park.

Neighborhood playgrounds were suggested for three parts of the city — Plumb Grove Acres, Whiting addition and the Bel-Air-Rochester avenue areas.

Iowa Scores in 9th to Edge Illinois

2nd Hawkeye Big 10 Win On Hays's Hit

By LARRY DENNIS
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Iowa shortstop Tom Hays handed Illinois a run on silver platter in the fourth inning here Saturday. Then he got it back with vengeance in the bottom of the ninth with a sharp single that broke up a tie ball game and gave the Hawkeyes a 3-2 Big 10 victory.

Hays's one-out blow to right center drove in Don Dobrino from second base to sack up Iowa's second Big 10 win and leave the Hawkeyes undefeated in conference play.

Dobrino, who had drawn a walk to open the inning, limited the Illini to six hits to win his third game of the season against two defeats. He has credit now for both Iowa's conference wins.

Iowa got only seven safeties off Illinois hurler Frank Schwartz, who was charged with his first defeat of the season after three straight victories.

Four of those hits, however, came in the second inning when Iowa pushed across two runs. With one out, third baseman Glen Van Fossen blooped a single to right and second sacker Larry Harsch followed with another safety in the same spot.

Jim Ward struck out, but Dobrino beat a dribbler to third, loading the bases. Schwartz then threw wild to first on Kevin Furlong's roller to the mound, letting Van Fossen score.

Hays followed with a bouncer behind second which went for a hit and drove Harsch across.

Les Zanotti struck out to end the uprising. For awhile, it looked like Dobrino's fast ball might protect the two-run lead, but Illinois began to get to him. The Illini scored first

Iowa Tennis Team Loses First Meet

Special to The Daily Iowan
CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Iowa's highly rated tennis team lost its first meet of the season Friday to a well balanced Illinois team, 5-4. Iowa, undefeated in two non-conference meets, was hampered by a strong wind as Friday's meet was the first time the Hawkeyes had been outside, either in competition or in practice.

In the top match of the day, Iowa's number one player, Art Andrews defeated Carl Noble of Illinois, 6-3, 13-11.

In the number two singles match, Illinois' Al Holtman defeated Bob Posthast, 7-5, 12-10, in a match which went four hours.

Other Iowa singles winners were Don Middlebrook and Dick Hood, while Jim Vantine and Bob Breckenridge won singles matches for Illinois.

In the doubles competition, Iowa's top duo, Andrews and Posthast, fell before the Illini's Noble and Holtman, 6-0, 6-4.

Iowa's only doubles win was registered by Hood and Middlebrook who won, 6-1, 3-6, and 6-3. The results: Andrews (I) defeated Noble, (II), 6-3, 13-11. Holtman (III) defeated Posthast (I), 7-5, 12-10. Vantine (III) defeated Martin (I), 6-3, 7-5. Breckenridge (III) defeated Gilmore (I), 6-3, 6-2. Middlebrook (I) defeated Chalmers (II), 6-3, 7-5. Hood (I) defeated MacDonald (III), 5-7, 7-5, 6-4.

Doubles: Noble-Holtman (III) defeated Andrews-Posthast, 6-0, 6-4. Vantine-Breckenridge (III) defeated Chalmers-Martin, 6-4, 7-5. Hood-Middlebrook (I) defeated Gilmore-MacDonald, 6-1, 3-6, 6-3.

Iowa Golf Team At South Bend For 4-Team Meet

Iowa's golf team travels to South Bend, Ind., today for a quadrangle meet with Detroit, Michigan State and host Notre Dame.

The Hawkeyes have won five meets, lost one and tied one. Making the trip for Iowa are Captain John Marshall, Clyde Feltes, Bud Judish, John Lichty, Herb Klontz, and Phil Joselyn.

Iowa Concentrates On Passing Game

Coach Forest Evashevski's eye was on the passing arms of his quarterbacks Thursday as most of the practice was devoted to some tossing by the candidates for the job.

Del Kloewer, Randy Duncan, Gene Veit and Olen Treadway, rated the top prospects for the spot vacated by the versatile Ken Ploen, were throwing to such targets as Bob Prescott, Curtis Metz, Jim Gibbons, Bill Happel and Geno Sessi. All of these men figure to be among the targets next fall.

Some cool spring breezes, even cold at times, were more agreeable to Evy and the rest of the players after the rather warm weather that had been prevailing on the previous three days.

The Hawks are preparing for the coaches clinic May 10 and the intersquad battle Saturday, May 11.

Karras To Receive Ahepa Award

DES MOINES — The Des Moines chapter of the Order of Ahepa, a Hellenic organization, will present its 1956 Achievement Award Sunday night to Alex Karras, star tackle on the Iowa football team.

Iowa City JCC Blasts Big Ten Athletic Aid Plan

WATERLOO — Iowa City's Junior Chamber of Commerce blasted the Big 10 athletic aid plan as "unworkable, discriminating and dishonest," Friday at the state Jaycee convention.

The Jaycees will present a resolution to the convention today. SUI athletic officials also oppose the plan.

The resolution calls on Iowa Jaycees to "work wherever possible to encourage the revision" of the program.

The aid program "discriminates between students from poor families and students from wealthy families," the resolution says.

Hawkeye Track Team Faces Chicago Track Club Today

Iowa's track team invades Chicago today for one of its toughest tests of the season. The Chicago Track Club, with such stars as Ted Wheeler, former Hawkeye runner, will furnish the opposition.

Coach Francis Cretzmeier left Friday afternoon with a squad of 21 men. Tom Ecker and Gastonia Finch did not make the trip.

Ecker had a wisdom tooth pulled and Finch has been troubled by a pulled leg muscle.

Charles "Deacon" Jones, the only double winner in last week-end's Drake Relays will not run his specialties, the mile and the two mile. He will run the half mile and one leg of the mile relay.

The Hawkeyes will be depending upon Jack Mathews, fourth place finisher in the high hurdles at Drake, in both the high and low hurdles. George White and Dave

Dodgers, Yanks Keep Close With Wins

Braves, Sox Win To Keep Leads Milwaukee Wins in 11th

PITTSBURGH — Hammerin' Hank Aaron, who earlier had knocked in four runs on a double and a homer, tripled in the 11th inning Friday night and then scored the winning run on Bobby Thomson's single as the first place Milwaukee Braves edged the skidding Pittsburgh Pirates 8-7. The victory, 12th in 14 games for the Braves, enabled them to retain their 2-game margin over the second place Brooklyn Dodgers.

The victory was the second extra-inning win for the Braves in as many nights. Aaron went into the game with a .379 batting average as the result of five hits in six trips Thursday night as the Braves beat the Pirates 8-5 in 10 innings.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The Commonwealth of Kentucky, noted for its fine thoroughbreds and potent Bourbon whiskies, becomes the center of the sports world again Saturday when 10 colts match speed and stamina in the 83rd running of the derby at Churchill Downs.

Ten will go, that is, if the Calumet Farm's Gen. Duke recovers sufficiently from a bruised left front foot in time to enter the starting gate at approximately 3:30 (CST) for the mile and one-quarter classic.

The Calumet ace, along with his stablemate, Iron Liege, had been listed as the favorite combination for the $125,000-added 3-year old duel until the Duke reinjured his foot while finishing second to Federal Hill in Tuesday's Derby Trial Stakes.

That immediately shifted the odds in favor of his arch rival, Bold Ruler, from the Wheatley Stable of Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps of Palm Beach, Fla., and New York. Bold Ruler remained the choice at 8 to 5, while the Calumet pair, of Mrs. Gene Markey's Lexington, Ky., stable, was listed as 2 to 1.

Gen. Duke, equipped with a special protective bar plate on his ailing hoof, was out for an easy gallop Saturday morning after which trainer Jimmy Jones said he still was unable to make a final decision on the colt's status. "He's improved one hundred per cent over yesterday," said Jones. "But it's still an hour-to-hour proposition, and time is running out."

The other seven horses have connections that give widespread interest to this most colorful of American races, and every one has his admirers.

The mare Mister Jive, a Michigan-bred colt owned by John L. Appelbaum of Toronto and Vern Martin of Paris, Ont.; the hometown pride, Federal Hill, property of Clifford Lussky, Louisville; Round Table, the horse of Travis M. Kerr from Oklahoma City; Irish-bred Gallant Man, running in the silks of Ralph Lowe of Midland, Tex.; Shan Pac, the Detroit scooter owned by T. Allie Grissom of the motor city; and two Chicago-owned colts, Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Indian Creek and William S. Miller's Better Bee.

Each will carry 126 pounds in the race, to be broadcast and televised nationally (CBS) from 4:15-4:45 p.m. (EST).

5th Straight For Chicago

CHICAGO — Centerfielder Larry Doby's bases-loaded double touched off a six-run Chicago third inning which salted away the fifth straight victory for the rampaging White Sox, 11-6, over the Washington Senators Friday.

Chicago right-hander Bob Keegan failed in his first start, but Gerry Staley took over in the midst of a four-run Washington second and tamed the Senators the rest of the way to earn his first victory in three relief appearances. Even though Staley yielded 10 hits in 7 1/2 innings, he blanked the Senators until a two-run ninth.

in the fourth when Jim Frillman got life on a fielder's choice, then went to second when Harsch threw wild attempting to complete the double play. Frillman scored when Hays booted John Kating's ground-

Two singles and a walk loaded the bases for Illinois in the fifth, but Dobrino pitched himself out of trouble.

In the sixth, though, Illinois first baseman Tom Haller unleashed a drive that rocketed over the right field fence to tie the contest.

That was Illinois' last effort. Dobrino never was in trouble thereafter.

Iowa loaded the bases in the sixth and got two men on in the eighth, but Schwartz nipped the threat each time.

In the ninth, however, Dobrino walked and went to second on a passed ball after Furlong struck out. Then Hays slashed one and it was all over.

Haller's home run was the only extra-base blow of the ball game.

Only Hays, who collected two for four, got more than one hit for Iowa. Leadoff man Jim Klaus led Illinois at the plate with three singles in four attempts.

Iowa will try to extend its Big 10 string to four today when it entertains Purdue in a 1:30 p.m. double-header. Probable starting pitchers will be Jack Nora or Tom Drennan in the first game, John Englert in the windup.

The efforts of American such as Henry James Dean Howells to free from what they called "romance" in the maturely failed, Perry lessor at Harvard University Monday night in the SUI Miller of Old Capitol.

Miller, author of not the Puritan culture in the 19th century, in "Romance Novel" under the SUI Humanities Center.

He described the stemming from the v Walter Scott, particu "Scotty Novels."

The romantic tradition, United States, he said, borne by such writers, Melville, Cooper, etc.

The one common problem, Miller the writer manipulates ment of the novel underlying idea which entire work.

The events of the said, are worked out "the all pervading great soul of nature," was a fate pre-ordained author.

As realists, Miller James and Howells to fiction which avoided call contrivances of tradition.

James, he said, would deny in his essay, "Fiction," that a distinction the two forms — realism — could be made in his own writings to characters.

Howells identified a statement that fiction "cease to lie about life in the romantic tradition."

In showing that realism in American literature the efforts of the re-analyzed romantic elements of F. Scott Fitzgerald.

In the first half of Miller traced the development of realistic and romantic English and American literature the nineteenth century until with the coming of realism, the romantic form had a shorter life than it did in States.
