Miller Defends Ban On Freshman Cars

By BILL McGRANE
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Student Council's recommendation that would ban certain freshman cars next fall was defended Thursday as a "logical" step towards combating the growing parking problem.

Students Ask New Proposal For DI Staff

A proposal made by nine students to place the "Missouri system" in use on The Daily Iowan was considered by trustees of Student Publications, Inc., (SPI) Thursday afternoon.

The "Missouri system," used on the Columbia Missourian, University of Missouri, calls for complete control of news and editorial content of the paper by faculty members.

City desk, wire desk and other decision-making positions are operated by faculty members. Students serve as reporters and copyeditors, and also hold subordinate positions without decision-making power.

The letter was considered at the time it was received and was brought up again as a part of general discussion of the editorial supervisory pattern on the Iowan.

Among the signers were Kirk Boyd, A4, Davenport, and Dan Hinson, A4, Tenafly, New Jersey, both former editors of The Daily Iowan.

Other signers were Kenneth Koopman, G, Bussey, and Wayne Ammons, A4, Burlington, managing editors; David N. Mitchell, A4, Iowa City, and Roy Walker, A4, Sioux City, former city editors; James N. Ney, Hawarden, and Larry Dennis, A4, Iowa City, Iowan sports editors, and Alan Hoskins, A3, Zearing, Rose Bowl edition editor.

The letter suggests that "persons with professional experience" should be in charge of the desks on the Iowan. The retention of a least three full-time employees was recommended.

Desks should not be manned by students only a few months removed (and sometimes not even removed) from their training courses," the letter reads.

Prof. Moeller Thursday said: "As in the past, I continue to be opposed to adoption of the Missouri system on The Daily Iowan."

"If students on the Iowan will act in a responsible manner, I am sure that the Iowan can continue to operate, with adequate satisfaction and effectiveness, under the present editorial supervisory system," he said.

"There is much to be said for this plan," he continued "which gives student considerable freedom of action. The plan permits them to make most of the day-to-day operating decisions, and in general they have handled this responsibility quite well."

Boyd, who is no longer on the Iowan staff, gave two reasons for signing the letter.

1. "The student editors act as instructors to other journalism students. I do not think that student journalists are qualified to train other student journalists."

2. "The frequent changes in Iowan executives make for a lack of continuity on the paper. The paper hits highs and lows in quality and its policy attitude several times during a few years under the present system."

Roy Walker, A4, Sioux City, Iowan news editor gave two reasons for his association with the letter.

1. "It would permit both the supervising faculty member and the student staff members to devote more time to their academic activities."

2. "By hiring a professional, the administration would have an economic lever to enforce their requirements for responsibility."

Miller said that the Student Council would recommend to city officials that parking zone lines be painted on certain city streets to economize parking space.

"On many streets around campus, sloppy and hasty parking by students wastes space," Miller said.

"If the city would lay out parking spaces, for instance in the Currier Hall area, as on the downtown streets, it would save a great deal of space and allow more parking," he said.

Also, the Student Council proposes to recommend to city officials that short-time parking meters be installed at several key points around the campus.

"Ten minute meters in front of the Geology Building would allow students to park easily if they had business in University Hall that could be transacted quickly," Miller said.

Huit said that any recommendations presented to city officials are strictly a Student Council measure, but he feels it would be a sound and profitable plan.

New Flood Threat Imperils Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Northern Oklahoma, already under as much as 12 feet of floodwater in places and with five people dead, braced Thursday night for an expected overflow today along the Cimarron River.

Torrential rains, ranging up to an official 13.07 inches, fell Wednesday night in the Cimarron watershed, inundating the town of Dover and sending high water into parts of Enid, Alva, Hennessey and Waynoka. Many roads in the area were closed. Communications were cut in some places.

The Tulsa River forecasting station warned all communities and residents adjacent to the Cimarron, which winds south and eastward from Waynoka in the north to Keystone, near Tulsa in the northeast, to "move to safe elevations" in preparation of "a maximum flood of record."

More than 350 persons were evacuated from their homes at Dover, and 50-75 others at Enid in the northwest moved out as the floodwaters moved in.

The entire town of Dover, where nearly 12 inches of rain fell overnight, was ordered evacuated as up to eight feet of water swirled through the town. The Cimarron was reported spread over a 5-mile wide area at Dover and all but nine homes were flooded or surrounded by water.

Depth of the flood waters at Enid ranged from 5 to 12 feet following an overnight deluge of nearly 20 inches.

Cloudburst rains also struck the Hennessey area, dumping 13.07 inches of rain there in 12 hours. Several houses in Hennessey were surrounded by water although evacuation had not proved necessary there.

More than seven inches of rain fell at Alva overnight and 75 per cent of that city's streets were flooded. All creeks and rivers in the area were out of their banks.

Approximately 20 Explorer scouts and Northwestern State College students were reported safe after being stranded for three hours on a bridge over the Salt Fork River. The floodwaters receded and the boys were able to walk and swim to safety. Approaches to the bridge had been washed away.

They were part of a group of about 200 persons attempting to put up sandbags to save radio station KALV. Mrs. Laverne Johnson, station newswoman, said that floodwaters entered the station about noon, forcing it off the air.

The western half of Oklahoma was under a tornado alert throughout Wednesday night and most of Thursday. A twister destroyed a number of outbuildings and killed several head of cattle on a farm near Hennessey, in west-central Oklahoma.

Farm fields in the flooded area, in the heart of Oklahoma's wheat belt, were turned into virtual lakes, bringing further damage to the state's already stricken crop.

Official party endorsement of good candidates in primary elections and improved methods of raising campaign funds for party candidates are needed, Ropes said. Young Republican organizations could help rejuvenate the party by endorsing good candidates.

"I do not think the state legislature did a bad job during this past session," Ropes said.

He listed as achievements of the recently completed legislative session: a mental health appropriation, a night speed limit, a garnishment law, tax relief for the transit industry and the modernization of many old statutes.

Ropes attacked Governor Herschel Loveless's budget, saying Loveless was going to balance a $9-million deficit in the budget by consolidating state departments and taking $5 million from the state surplus.

"He could not balance the budget by consolidation of departments because all the departments he wanted to consolidate spend only $8 million," Ropes said.

Also, the Student Council proposes to recommend to city officials that short-time parking meters be installed at several key points around the campus.

"Ten minute meters in front of the Geology Building would allow students to park easily if they had business in University Hall that could be transacted quickly," Miller said.

Woman Dead in Tourist Court; Suspect Suicide

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP)—Police say a 22-year-old East St. Louis, Ill., woman found dead in a tourist court may have been a partner in a suicide pact.

The body of Miss Jessie Marie Sable was discovered Wednesday by the motel manager, John Roach. She was crumpled on the floor. On the bed lay an unconscious man who police chief Bud Holland identified as Charles L. Winn, 30, of East St. Louis.

Iowa Probe Group Closes 1st Hearing

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa legislative investigating committee adjourned Thursday until next week after hearing in a closed session four of the five members of the State Highway Commission.

The group is probing into alleged attempts at bid padding on contracts to be let by the commission. Thursday's session was the beginning of an expected lengthy series of hearings for persons whose names have not been disclosed.

The committee began Thursday morning by hearing Commission Chairman Robert K. Beck for about an hour and a half. Afterward, the committee released a statement. Beck had given to the committee.

Beck said the commission has confidence that the committee will make a complete and objective investigation in a non-partisan way. It was a formal statement issued by Beck last April 18 which led to the investigation.

The committee also talked with commissioner Mel Graham, Audubon Democrat, about two and a half hours and followed that with hearings of commissioners Chris Larsen Jr., Sioux City Republican and Emery Loomis, Waterloo Democrat.

Remaining to be heard when the committee reconvenes next Wednesday afternoon is Commissioner Russell Lundy, Des Moines Republican.

After that the committee expects to hear from commission Chief Engineer John Butter and R. C. Boyd, administrative engineer for the commission's maintenance division.

Sen. Duane Dewel (R-Algon) told newsmen "we haven't run into anything new." Then he added: "We went pretty thoroughly with Mr. Graham into the matter of the contact with him. In Beck's April 18 statement he said that Roland Red of Des Moines and Virgil (Red) Smith, former Indiana Highway commissioner, had contacted Graham with a proposal that the commission throw out all bids received on some mowers, Reko and Smith were alleged to have tried to get the letting stopped."

4. Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.) declared the inquiry has uncovered "an alliance of big business with big labor with apparently little regard being paid to the rights of union members whose funds were involved." Kennedy said his remarks were aimed at officials of the Anheuser-Busch brewery, St. Louis; the Fruehauf Trailer Co., Detroit; Associated Transport Truck Lines, New York; Occidental Life Insurance Co. of California, Los Angeles; and Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago.

5. Testimony was given that two writers for the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Nard Jones and Douglas Welch, were carried on the Teamsters payroll while writing a life story of Beck entitled "The Driver's Seat."

6. Beck dodged a question by Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) as to whether he would resign as Teamsters president if requested to.

7. Elusive Norman Gessert, a cousin of Beck's wife, finally appeared before the committee, but his testimony was postponed until Friday at least to give him time to consult with an attorney. Gessert, sought for weeks, finally was subpoenaed in Washington State Wednesday. The senators want to question him about missing witnesses and financial deals with Beck.

8. Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.), committee chairman, challenged the Teamsters Union to find out for itself whether the charges against its president are "facts or fiction."

Ritual Killing Is Revealed

RUSTENBERG, South Africa (AP)—South African detectives have followed a murder trial right back to jungle witchcraft.

They rounded up 12 members of the Bakghatla tribe for one of the "ritual murders" which still occur among some of the backward peoples.

A tribesman who had turned state's evidence told in court how the victim, a 65-year-old man named Ramakeri, died.

"I am a witch doctor," said witness Piet Pheto. "All the accused are witch doctors. We decided we must kill Ramakeri to make medicine of the flesh for the benefit of our crops and also to improve our status. We planned how the murder should be committed and Ramakeri was chosen as the victim because he was related to some of the witch doctors."

The witch doctors gagged Ramakeri with a rag and carried him to an empty hut.

"We spread empty bags on the floor and then, threw Ramakeri on the bags and slaughtered him," Pheto said.

Courter New President of Young GOP

Lloyd Courter, Li, Boone, was elected chairman of SUI Young Republicans Thursday night, succeeding Bill Bernau, L3, Lake City.

The Young Republican also elected Tim Sullivan, A3, Cedar Rapids, vice chairman; Nancy Nelson, A3, Webster City, secretary and Connie Britton, D3, Sioux City, treasurer.

John M. Ropes, chairman of the Iowa State Commerce Commission, told the Young Republicans after the election of officers that the Republican party in Iowa is riding on its reputation.

Official party endorsement of good candidates in primary elections and improved methods of raising campaign funds for party candidates are needed, Ropes said. Young Republican organizations could help rejuvenate the party by endorsing good candidates.

"I do not think the state legislature did a bad job during this past session," Ropes said.

He listed as achievements of the recently completed legislative session: a mental health appropriation, a night speed limit, a garnishment law, tax relief for the transit industry and the modernization of many old statutes.

$16-a-Year Raise Before Regents Today

DES MOINES (AP)—Students at Iowa's state colleges and university can expect to pay higher tuition next fall.

Officials of the institutions Thursday proposed these increases for the general, undergraduate, resident student:

SUI — $16 a year; Iowa State College — about $30 a year; Iowa State Teachers College — $40 a year.

These proposed increases are scheduled to come before the State Board of Regents today for a final decision.

If the proposed increases are approved, the general student's yearly tuition at SUI would increase from $204 to $220; at Iowa State from $198 to about $230; at Teachers from $160 to $200.

Tuition rates are different for out-of-state students, graduate students and those in certain specialized and technical fields.

The Regents may not follow the institutions' tuition proposals exactly, but sizeable increases at all three are almost certain.

The Legislature earlier this year made it clear that the institutions were expected to pay for part of their increased spending by raising tuitions.

Appropriations for operating the educational institutions were based on tuition increases to raise an extra $250,000 each at Iowa State and SUI and $50,000 at Teachers.

The Board of Regents has generally accepted Legislators' arguments that as costs of education and income go up, tuition paid by the students should also be increased to some extent.

At the same time, the Board has been hesitant about raising tuitions so high as to make a college education economically impossible for more young people.

Tuitions were last increased in the fall of 1955. These amounted to $48 a year at SUI and Iowa State and $40 a year at Teachers.

The Regents Thursday approved a $20 a year increase in dormitory rates at Teachers. Effective this fall, dormitory rates will range from $545 to $569 a year.

The Regents earlier had approved dormitory rate increases of $30 a year at Iowa State and $50 to $55 a year at SUI, effective this fall.

Haiti Rioters Now Calmed

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Haiti's army headquarters announced Thursday night that all anti-government demonstrations have ended and calm prevails in the country after two days of high tension.

An army spokesman said, however, that soldiers were still trying to reopen the main coastal road into the seaport city of St. Marc, 45 miles north of the capital.

The army report said five Haitians have been wounded in clashes but denied earlier reports that a youth had been killed at St. Marc, where up to 10,000 farmers, armed with knives and rocks fought efforts to remove roadblocks.

When "a state of terror" was acknowledged in many principal cities, rumors mounted that the army might be forced to take over the temporary government.

Brig. General Leon Cantave, the army chief, has declared such a move would be a last resort.

Beck and 5th Once Again Face Probers

WASHINGTON (AP)—A grim-faced Dave Beck took the Fifth Amendment again and again Thursday at a swiftly moving Senate inquiry marked by these other developments:

1. A Teamsters Union bookkeeper testified he had no idea that Beck was using union funds until Beck paid back $200,000 in 1954.

2. The bookkeeper, Donald McDonald of Seattle, disclosed Beck has repaid $370,000, having sent in $100,000 within the last two weeks.

3. The Senate Rackets Committee confronted Beck with a list of some 52 ways in which it charged he has "misused his authority, position and trust." The portly Teamsters boss entered a blanket denial but refused to answer on the ground he might incriminate himself.

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the university. The Iowan's editorial policy, therefore, is not an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion in any particular.

Beck's Bad Boy

Teamster President Dave Beck has done it. After apparently weathering a cloudburst of criticism, he has suddenly arrived at the point where he can no longer be tolerated even by his once staunchest supporters. Those who had rationalized his conduct as not too uncommon, unexpected, or particularly immoral and excusable in the light of his work for the union, found the latest revelation just too much. Beck, it seems, has profited to the tune of over $5,000 at the expense of the widow of his "best friend."

Teamsters, and also the general public, who had been only mildly impressed by the staggering $320,000 Beck had "borrowed" from his union, now found the same sort of activity — a betrayal of trust — reprehensible when a widow is involved.

Reports indicate that union members are acting to oust Beck before his term runs out in the fall; he had been accorded an outside chance of regaining his post until this latest development.

It is a striking commentary on the status of public ethics and morality when one must swindle widows or orphans before such action is considered worthy of our disapproval and retribution.

A Clean Bomb?

The world has been finite in dimension for some time. That means whatever happens in Asia, Greenland or South Africa can affect us here.

Radioactive fall-out from atomic weapons most assuredly will affect us.

"Fall-out is one of the serious effects of atomic weapons, and in case we should be plunged into war, the protection of oneself from fall-out is a very important thing. And the very best way to protect oneself from fall-out is to understand about it," states Dr. W. F. Libby of the Atomic Energy Commission.

"There has been talk about radioactive strontium; strontium 90. Not only scientists, but laymen have expressed concern. Apparently this material from atomic weapons stays in the body and becomes a part of the bone structure.

It is one of the lasting and perhaps harmful effects of fall-out, for other materials will not remain in the body.

Pitifully enough, it is our children, whose bodies are still developing, who will fall the easiest victims to this.

Although scientists know relatively little about the exact effects of radioactive fall-out, they know enough to be concerned and to bring it to public attention. The Japanese, who have been located near the Pacific testing areas, are vitally concerned.

Can fall-out effects be eliminated from future atomic weapons? Perhaps, in some ways. But as Dr. Libby also pointed out, there is no such thing as a clean bomb.

Cross of Intolerance

The shadow of a flaming cross is over the South. Indeed, the dangers of the Ku Klux Klan may not be limited to one region. The flames of this cross could burn their way into other sections of the country.

The Klan today stands for anti-Semitism, anti-Catholicism, anti-integration, anti-anything that stands in the way of white superiority in the South. And not only white superiority, but Protestant white superiority.

The Negro, of course, is still its main target. But all this is very close to the Klan movement of the 1920's. At that time the U.S. had helped win a war, the world was "safe for democracy," and prosperity was jumping to the tune of the Charleston.

Yet underneath it all, the historical viewpoint says, Americans were a frightened people. The sudden role of world leadership had been placed upon us with its burden of responsibility and demand for maturity. It was all very confusing, so we took refuge in such acts as the Red witch hunt.

History repeats itself — or very nearly so. Admittedly, the era since World War II has not been in any way secure. We jumped from a fighting war into a cold war with Russia.

Scientists spend their time doing research on H-bombs and guided missiles. It is a frightening time.

So the Klan rises again — symbol of intolerance when tolerance is most needed; symbol of mass hysteria when mature thinking is desperately needed.

In fact, the principles of the Klan sound like a faint echo of Nazi fanaticism, and not anything like the principles of a democratic nation. As a sign of our times, it is alarming.

Any American should be proud to stand up and denounce the Klan.

Henri Spaak

New NATO Leader Is "Gallic Churchill"

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN Associated Press Newswriter

PARIS — Paul-Henri Spaak, the "Gallic Churchill," takes the helm of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization next week and judging from the records, NATO is going to be a more lively organization. The new secretary general is probably the world's most prominent advocate of European unification and Western solidarity. At least, he's one of its most eloquent and articulate proponents, and one of its most effective campaigners.

Over the years he has earned the Churchillian nickname with his oratorical ability, his career, his aims, policies and methods, and the mutual admiration and friendship between himself and the retired British Prime Minister.

In addition to political causes, the two men have a slight physical resemblance. Like Churchill, Spaak is stocky — he weighs around 200 pounds — relatively short but imposing in appearance. He has a full, mobile face, an energetic build and an active brain. In the oratorical field, the 58-year-old Spaak frequently has been compared with the Churchill of the war years. Many who have heard them both say that Spaak is better in French than Churchill is, or even was, in English. Spaak also speaks a strongly accented English rather well.

At NATO sessions Spaak, as foreign minister, has usually been just as well prepared. When a communique is mentioned, Spaak often dips into his pocket, then looks up stily. "It just so happens," he will smile, "that I have here an outline for one."

The other ministers usually agree to Spaak's draft as the basis for a NATO communique. Spaak knows nearly all the Western foreign ministers personally, and quite well, too. As Belgium's foreign minister, he has sat and argued with them on all sorts of panels and commissions ranging from the United Nations to the Council of Europe, the Steel-Coal Pool and the Organization for European Economic Cooperation.

He helped write the UN Charter and was the first president of the General Assembly. There is hardly an international organization in Western Europe which Spaak has not helped to start.

His ready tongue and agile mind quickly lifted Spaak from a young Belgian lawyer of 22 to leading roles on the national and international stage. Frequently participating in parliamentary give-and-take, he showed himself a master at mass meetings and street rallies.

His street corner technique was demonstrated in 1948 from a platform he shared with Churchill at a Brussels mass meeting sponsored by the European Movement — a private organization devoted to the cause of European unity. Communists infiltrated the crowd and turned it into a hostile audience as Churchill spoke in English, a language few understood very well. Churchill made an attempt to carry on in French and met with a chorus of boos. Then Spaak took over.

He pointed to Churchill and a group of French and Belgian wartime resistance leaders on the platform behind him. Were these, he asked, men of war? The Communists shouted, "Yes!" But their shouts stimulated the non-Communists and the pro-Europeans in the crowd to ring out their own reply when Spaak followed with, "... or are they men of peace?"

He followed up with a series of similar questions, and each time the non-Communist shouts got louder and louder. Then, ready for the kill, Spaak spoke up sharply. "You Communists out there, let me tell you this — these are the men who were fighting Nazi tyranny at the very time that your friends were helping Hitler carve up a helpless Poland."

That halted the hecklers for good, and the throng, by this time fully aroused, cheered for Spaak, Churchill and the whole cause of European unification. After winning attention as a successful attorney, Spaak quickly established himself as a power in the Belgian Chamber of Deputies. Only the agile or the foalhardy would take him on. This ability in floor debate served him well in the 20 years or so that Spaak has been a member of a Belgian government.

In some of those years, Spaak was chief of government or premier, more often he was foreign minister. In fact, he held the latter job so long that one of his friends once described him as Belgium's "permanent foreign minister." When he became premier for the first time in 1933, Spaak, then 39, was the youngest premier in Belgian history.

He feels the only way to make the Atlantic community really work is to make it a partnership and that the only way to make a partnership is for the little members to join together to make another big power on this side of the Atlantic.

Student Asks for Literary Magazine On Campus; Parking Meter Fees Should Not Be Increased

TO THE EDITOR:

The State University of Iowa, first and foremost an academic institution, has long felt the acute need for a literary magazine, an instrument that could afford two-way communication — intellectual discourse by students and faculty. Though such a magazine would be concerned primarily with essays, book reviews, and critiques of literary merit, it would also strive to introduce, comment upon, and perhaps suggest solutions in certain problem areas that are evidenced on this campus.

Such a magazine, if successful, would be much more than a mere repository of erudite essays. It would be a vital force in SUI's intellectual life, a vehicle through which students could level legitimate criticisms of specific courses and faculty members, professors could comment upon educational programs and student interest (or lack of it). Various university schools such as English, Fine Arts, Creative Writing, History, Political Science, Dramatics, Journalism and Humanities could outline projected events and discuss various practices within their respective departments.

Professors contacted in all the above mentioned academic categories not only have expressed a great deal of personal interest in this literary magazine, but are in complete agreement on the University's need for such a publication. There has also been much enthusiasm generated among SUI students, both graduates and undergraduates, through this proposal.

This letter has not been offered as an exhaustive study of the intricacies of publishing a literary magazine, but merely to acquaint you with the existence of possibilities in this direction and I will be only too happy to amplify this statement.

TO THE EDITOR:

Two recent articles in The Daily Iowan have provided the incentive for this reader to again take up his pen in protest. These concern the desire of the Iowa City merchants to increase parking meter fees, and the possibility of tuition increases next year.

It is becoming increasingly evident that most merchants consider any student fair game. Since there are not enough university lots, a large number of students are forced to "feed the meters." Evidently some of the merchants have been unable to find a parking space in front of their stores, so the wait goes up to get those low-down car-driving students.

I think it is about time for the Retail Merchants Bureau, Chamber of Commerce, etc., to learn which side of the bread the butter is on. Perhaps if students began to make their grocery, drug, and automotive purchases in Coralville; their clothing and appliance purchases in Cedar Rapids (where they generally cost less), these merchants might begin to see the light of day. Their actions indicate that they think they have a captive consumer. They could be shown they are wrong.

Another yearly grab for the student's money comes in the guise of tuition increases. This year it was called a fee for vehicle registration. All of us were hooked for a dollar per semester, and some of us paid even more for the right to hunt for a parking space in one of the lots. Now the Regents are considering more tuition hikes.

Undoubtedly the University is getting more expensive to operate. This spring we watched several men spend several days dumping several hundred bags of fertilizer on the lawns. How much more valuable their efforts would have been had they been paving the same area for a parking lot. This would also save thousands of dollars worth of grass seed, evergreens, man hours, and "Please Don't Walk On The Grass" signs.

As I see it, we must decide whether the function of a university is to serve its students, or provide a means of support for gardeners and seed and fertilizer dealers. Since the Administration probably will ignore my suggestions, it would probably be futile to suggest that they observe where the students walk and make a path there.

His 'High Mightiness'

President Might Have Had New Title

By GEORGE DIXON King Features Syndicate

WASHINGTON, D.C. — After the "THANK you, Mr. President!" had broken up the White House news conference and started a stampede for the door, I found myself elbowing alongside a very learned member of my profession. When we finally got unobscured sufficiently for articulation he asked how I would feel "I had to address the President as 'High Mightiness'."

"I haven't given the matter too much thought," I confessed. "Why do you ask?"

"Well," he said, "I have no bearing on anything that happened today. It is utterly, completely inappropos. But, do you know, that we came very close to having to address the President as 'High Mightiness.'"

"It must have been the Democrats," I said. "The Republicans are too moderate for an immoderacy like that."

"It was the federalists. They thought the President should have a high-sounding title. The matter was taken up by a senate committee and it reported in favor of addressing the President as 'High Mightiness.'"

"Does Sherman Adams know about this?" I asked cautiously.

"I do not consider the question sherman. This was some time ago, when there was an Adams even more prominent than Sherman, if you can credit such a deplorable situation. It was in the first congress, and John Adams was vice president."

"You mean good old John Adams, a plain New Englander, wanted to foist such a fancy title on the country?"

"Well, he presided over the Senate, which considered it. However, the House of Representatives decreed that the head man should be addressed simply as 'The President of the United States' and that mode of address fortunately passed into precedent."

"I said it was hard to think of a president of this democratic nation hankering for an aristocratic appellation. My learned friend retorted that George Washington himself was in favor of being called 'High Mightiness.'"

"By this time we were out on the street, safely beyond certain earshot, and I whispered: 'You are undoubtedly a well-read fellow, and a credit to our craft. But what are you getting at?'"

"Nothing at all. Nothing at all!" Hastily protested the great scholar, looking over his shoulder. "I was just rambling."

Budget Cutting Continues

Will President Eisenhower's Prestige Win?

By J. M. ROBERTS Associated Press News Analyst

When President Eisenhower lays his military reputation on the line in favor of the national defense budget there isn't much the layman can do but accept it.

Indeed, Congress already has displayed a wariness about cutting defense money despite its stampede for economy.

There has been talk, however, that a 2½ billion cut in this field might be attempted.

The President says no "honest" cut of that size could be made, and that he wouldn't want to be responsible for the country's safety if it were.

In these words he takes the position that, where cuts were possible four years ago when he was making his bid to balance the budget, that situation no longer exists.

At that time the question was asked in some circles whether the Administration was taking a chance with national security on advice from those who were too economy-minded.

At the time of the original defense cuts the possibility of shooting war with Russia seemed more acute than it has since the Geneva Conference, where the Russians displayed at least some understanding of the risks of war in the atomic age.

Now the emphasis is on keeping those risks visibly alive, as a deterrent, through feverish development of more and more modern weapons.

Resentment against high taxes among run-of-the-mine people this year has exceeded anything I have seen before. There is a widespread feeling that the Government is doing a great many things at home that it does not need to do and should not be doing — that there are too many public employes doing too little work on too many pork-barrel projects.

There is a widespread feeling that, while a foreign aid program may be necessary, there is something wrong with the current one.

The President is expected to make his appeal on this point soon.

In these fields the President is not the expert witness that he is in the military fields, and his chances of defeat are far greater.

At the moment, his appeals have left Congress unmoved and the cutting continues, although the returns from the public are not yet in.

Stengel Benches Berra, Ford After Nightclub Row

Casey Cracks Down After Bauer in Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Yankee manager Casey Stengel Thursday night benched two of his star baseball players, pitcher Whitey Ford and catcher Yogi Berra. They were among six present during a Copacabana night club brawl in the wee hours Thursday morning.

"I can't pitch a pitcher who stays out until two in the morning and the whole world knows about it," said Stengel as he replaced Whitey Ford as starting pitcher against the Kansas City Athletics with Bob Turley. "And Berra should have known better," he added as he sent the squat catcher — one of the best in baseball — to the bench.

Neither Ford nor Berra was directly involved in an alleged assault on a husky delicatessen owner at the Copa. The victim claimed he was belted in the nose by Yankee outfielder Hank Bauer. Berra has been hitting poorly and Stengel said that was one reason he was among those disciplined. He is a left-handed hitter and a righthander was substituted for him against the left-handed Kansas City pitcher, Alex Kellner in Thursday night's game.

Stengel dropped the righthanded hitting Bauer to eighth place in the batting order. Another player involved, Mickey Mantle, stayed in the lineup also.

Asked why they weren't disciplined, Stengel said he was mad but added: "I'm not mad enough to take a chance on losing a ball game and possibly the pennant."

The other two players involved, infielder Billy Martin and pitcher Johnny Kucks, were not due in the game anyway. Martin has been on the bench for about a week and Kucks' turn to pitch had not come up.

The six were living it up at the Copa early Thursday when the delicatessen man claimed he was slugged. "They were feeling no pain, either," claimed the alleged victim, 200-pound Edwin Jones, 40, who admittedly had enjoyed a few drinks himself. He wound up with a broken nose.

However, Bauer denied that he hit Jones and no formal police complaint was lodged against him. Indeed, as Jones said of the solid single to his schnozz: "I don't know where it came from."

He added that he had been told Bauer delivered the blow. "I didn't hurt him," Bauer insisted. He admitted he had toyed with the idea after someone in Jones' party threw out a nasty remark. "Nobody ever touched nobody," was the comment of Yankee catcher Yogi Berra, one of the cleanup men in the exchange of words between Bauer and Jones.

Jones' lawyer, Anthony Zingales, nevertheless declared: "We are proceeding with a civil suit against Bauer and the Copacabana for $250,000."

DODGER LEFTHANDER Sandy Koufax displays the pitching form that struck out 13 Chicago Cub hitters Thursday in Brooklyn's 3-2 win over the Cubs in Chicago. The two teams tied a National League strike out record with 20 whiffs. Cub starter Moe Drabowski fanned eight in six innings and reliever Turk Lown added two more.

Redlegs Win, Take 1st As Pirates Trip Braves

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frank Robinson, held hitless in his first four times at bat, singled in the winning run in the 10th inning Thursday night as the Cincinnati Redlegs defeated the New York Yankees, 3-2.

The victory, coupled with Pittsburgh's defeat of Milwaukee, gave the Reds sole possession of first place in the National League. In the game winning inning Johnny Temple walked with one out. He was forced at second by Wally Post. Post went to third on Gus Bell's single and romped home as Robinson ratted his single to center.

Dodgers 3, Cubs 2

CHICAGO (AP) — Brooklyn's 21-year-old bonus lefty, Sandy Koufax, struck out 13 and yielded 4 hits as the Dodgers nipped the Chicago Cubs 3-2 Thursday in a game which matched the National League record of 23 strikeouts by both clubs.

The major league record is 24. Duke Snider's No. 5 homer with none on in the sixth proved the winning margin. It was the Cubs' eighth straight Wrigley Field defeat without victory this season.

Loser Moe Drabowski fanned 8 in 6 innings and his replacement, Turk Lown, whipped 2 for a total of 10 Dodger strikeout victims. brought their wives with them to celebrate Martin's 29th birthday.

There was silence from the Yankee front office on the one-inning affray. Jones, a married man with two children, had gone to the Copa with members of his bowling team on an annual night on the town. He said he recognized some of the ball players and waved. He added: "I had nothing against them. One of my friends got up and went to Martin and I went over to say hello. That's the last thing I remember. I woke up in Roosevelt Hospital. The way I feel I was hit more than once."

Bauer's own account of the outing was as follows: "We were sitting watching the show. . . . These men came by. There were three or four of them. They had made a nasty remark earlier. I don't know if it was about baseball or what. I don't remember. . . . "Some guys were saying something is happening out in the back room. I walked back there with some other players. This guy looks at me. I don't know if I'm going to haul off or what. I don't know what I was going to do. At that time I don't remember, but I didn't hit him."

Yankees Still Win; Turley Hurls 4-Hitter

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Turley, a last-hour pitching replacement for Whitey Ford, threw a four-hitter at Kansas City Thursday night as the New York Yankees won their second successive 3-0 shutout from the Athletics.

Turley, making only his second start of the season, struck out eight and walked five.

The Yankees clubbed Kellner and McDermott for nine hits, including a home run and single by Mickey Mantle. Manager Casey Stengel, who had announced earlier that Ford would be his starting pitcher, angrily removed his star southpaw as well as catcher Yogi Berra from the game as an aftermath of the nightclub row involving six Yankees early Thursday morning. Elston Howard replaced Berra behind the bat.

Tribe 4, Orioles 3

BALTIMORE (AP) — Al Smith's sinking liner in the 10th inning fell off the glove of outfielder Al Pizarro to score Jim Busby Thursday night and give the Cleveland Indians their second extra-inning victory in two nights over the Baltimore Orioles, 4-3.

The victory was the Indians' 57th over Baltimore since the Orioles returned to the majors in 1954. The Orioles have beaten Cleveland only 11 times.

Early Wynn, lifted for a pinch-hitter in the tenth, gained his fourth victory against three losses. Don Mossi retired Baltimore in the bottom of the tenth.

Sox 8, Nats 3

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bubba Phillips, batting in the leadoff spot, swatted five hits in five at bats, including a homer and a triple, to key the Chicago White Sox to their fifth straight win Thursday night, over Washington 8-3.

Jim Landis also homered for two Sox runs as Billy Pierce won his sixth decision.

Tigers 2, Bosox 1

BOSTON (AP) — Detroit righthander Jim Bunning checked the Boston Red Sox on five hits Thursday for a 2-1 victory. His shutout bid was foiled in the ninth inning after Ted Williams' fly ball was lost in the sun.

Iowa at Michigan State In Crucial Big 10 Game

Michigan State's Spartans will attempt to sidetrack Iowa today as the Hawks, with one eye on the Big 10 Pennant, start an all important road trip with a single game at East Lansing.

Big Don Dobrino will be seeking his fifth Big 10 triumph while the Spartans, with Ron Ferranowski on the hill, will try to pin the first loss on the "Big Train." Ferranowski and Dobrino will also be dueling for the top position in strikeouts, as the MSU hurler leads Dobrino, 35-33 going into the encounter.

The second place Michigan Wolverines will be tangling with defending NCAA and Big 10 champion Minnesota at the same time and then will play Iowa at Ann Arbor in two games Saturday.

Les Zanotti, who has alternated between first and third, for the Hawks, ranks as the tenth highest batter among the Big 10 regulars with 15 or more times at bat. Les has a .381 average, followed closely by Dick Weatherly's .375. These two have the only Iowa homers in conference play.

Iowa ranks second in team hitting with .278 and last in team fielding with .905, in the statistics released by the Big 10 this week.

Netmen Meet Spartans On Road Today

Iowa's tennis team will seek to pick up two more victories this weekend as the Hawks travel to Madison to play Michigan State today, then head back home for a contest with Notre Dame Saturday.

Leading the attack for the Hawks will be undefeated Art Andrews in the top position. Andrews beat Indiana's Jerry Partridge last week 12-6, as the Hawks rolled over the Hoosiers 8-1. Indiana had previously been unbeaten including a win over Illinois. Illinois beat Iowa earlier in the season.

In the Michigan State meet at Madison today, the Hawkeys will meet a "fairly good team," Coach Don Klotz said. Michigan State, who had an early season southern road trip record of 2-5, have two lettermen back from last years squad. The two, Bill Bisard and George Stepanovic, will probably be in the number one and two positions for the Spartans.

Klotz said the overall play of the Hawk netmen in the Indiana meet was the best of the season. The Potthast-Andrews 12-2 victory in the number one doubles was the greatest, he said. "They could have beaten anyone I think."

Iowa has a 6-1 record, three coming against conference teams.

Detroit Athletes Take Tension Easing Drug

DETROIT (AP) — The disclosure that the major leagues' top batter and several other professional athletes in Detroit are taking "tranquilizing drugs" to ease nervous tension drew both praise and a warning Thursday from the new team physician of the Detroit Tigers.

Dr. Luther R. Leader said the tranquilizing drugs that apparently have helped third baseman Reno Bertoia may have a bad effect on other people. He warned against over-the-counter sale of the drugs often referred to as "happiness pills."

The 22-year-old Bertoia was leading both leagues in batting with a .393 mark before Thursday's game. He began taking the pills — upon the advice of a physician — during the Florida training season in March.

Paul Harney Leads In Snead Festival

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Paul Harney, slim 27-year-old hitter from Worcester, Mass., wedged and putted his way around the par 70 old White Golf course in 63 strokes Thursday to lead the first round of the Sam Snead Festival.

Snapping at his heels was the 45-year-old hawk of the fairways, Ben Hogan, with 65. The honored host, Snead was only a stroke behind that at 66, a score matched by 26-year-old Billy Caper of Bonita, Calif.

Sixteen of the 47 pros matching shots for $10,000 in prizes beat par and another 5 equaled it on the 6,497-yard course.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lindy McDaniel, 21-year-old bonus pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals, shutout the Philadelphia Phillies on four hits and permitted only one runner as far as second base in a 5-0 victory Thursday night.

It was the first shutout of McDaniel's career, which began with a $50,000 bonus signing in September, 1955, for the divinity student from Hollis, Okla.

The Redbirds bunched five of their hits in their two scoring innings.

Nazi Leader Funk Freed at Spandau

BERLIN (AP)—Walter Funk, who masterminded Hitler's war economy, won his release from Spandau Prison Thursday because of "advanced age and state of health."

The Big Four powers freed the 66-year-old ex-Nazi after he had undergone three operations while serving 10 years of his life sentence.

Only three top Nazis now remain in Spandau of the seven originally imprisoned there. They are Rudolf Hess, Hitler's former deputy, serving life; Hitler Youth leader Baldur von Schirach; and the Nazi munitions minister, Albert Speer, both serving 23 years.

The International War Crimes Court at Nuremberg found Funk guilty on Oct. 1, 1946 of war crimes, crimes against humanity and of planning aggressive war.

In convicting him, the court charged he hoarded the gold teeth and fillings of Jews who were gassed in concentration camps. Funk claimed he did not know his bank was receiving such things.

Released previously from Spandau were Konstantin von Neurath, former foreign minister, who died last August; and Erich Raeder, Nazi navy commander in chief until Feb. 1, 1953. Both these Nazi leaders got clemency releases for bad health.

Admiral Karl Doenitz, who took over from Hitler as the last fuhrer of Nazi Germany, was released last October after completing his 30-year sentence.

Two Cases Filed; SUI Student Fined In District Court

Two account actions were filed by two Iowa City firms in Johnson County District Court Thursday. Eonogas Service, Inc., filed suit for collection of $356.55 from David Todd, doing business as Artistic Cleaners, for services and deliveries.

The second action was filed by Edipse Lumber Co., on foreclosure of a mechanics lien against Guy, Amos and Carrie Groat, for $107.17.

Both firms are represented by Ries and Osmondson. Judge Harold D. Evans returned a $1,005 judgment Thursday, for William F. Gilpin, 309 S. Dubuque St., in a damage suit involving a pedestrian-car accident. Gilpin had asked damages of $2,135.

The judgment was against Harold W. Wegener, driver of a car that struck Gilpin September 26 at Burlington and Dubuque Streets.

Jerry Lewis Jones, A3, Boone, was fined $300 and costs in Johnson County District Court, Thursday, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. Judge Harold D. Evans suspended Jones' drivers license for 60 days.

Jones was arrested by a highway patrolman May 4 on Highway 22 north of Lone Tree.

University of Texas Professor to Speak At Sigma Xi Initiation in SUI's Library

A "wedding" between chemistry and anthropology may help scientists unravel some of the secrets which lie hidden in human beings — secret factors which are important in making man behave as he does.

This is one of the suggestions Dr. Roger J. Williams, director of the Biochemical Institute at the University of Texas, will make tonight when he speaks at SUI.

Dr. Williams is scheduled to speak at the initiation meeting of the SUI chapter of Sigma Xi, national society for the encouragement of scientific research.

The event will be held in Shambaugh Auditorium at the University Library, with the initiation starting at 7:15 p.m. and the talk beginning about an hour later.

Dr. C. P. Berg, professor of biochemistry at the University and president of the local chapter, says: "We think many persons from the scientific departments will be interested in Dr. Williams' talk, and we would like for them to know that they are welcome to attend."

Dr. Williams is president of the American Chemical Society and is noted for his research on alcoholism and in the field of mental health.

The local chapter of Sigma Xi is scheduled to initiate 157 members into associate and full memberships during the meeting.

SAFE ROBBED

MARSHALLTOWN (AP)—Thieves took more than $2,000 in small bills from a safe at Smitty's Super Value, Inc., here Wednesday night.

Journalists Get Choice of 6 Jobs This Past Year

Each graduate in the SUI School of Journalism during the past year has had an opportunity to choose from six or more job offers, a study made by the school reveals.

Murvin H. Perry, assistant to the director of the School of Journalism and head of the job placement service, reports more than 400 job requests came to the school during the period from May 1, 1956, to April 30, 1957.

During the same time only 62 persons received bachelor's degrees in journalism at SUI.

The greatest number of openings has been for reporters and persons to handle news on daily newspapers, and for writers in public relations jobs, Perry said.

There have also been openings in weekly newspaper news and advertising, company and agency advertising, radio and television news and trade magazine writing and editing.

"This large demand for journalism graduates has caused starting salaries to be raised as much as $15 per week for some positions," Perry said.

Veterans Hospital Presents Awards

Camerawoman Will Speak Next Thursday

Helena Manzer, one of America's top-ranking color photographers, will speak in Shambaugh Lecture Room next Thursday at 8 p.m. Mrs. Manzer's appearance at SUI is sponsored by the University Camera Club.

Mrs. Manzer has won medals, honors and other recognition in practically all of the international shows held throughout the world. She has been given the highest ranking possible in the field of color pictorial photography by the Photographic Society of America, of which she is a member.

A teacher by professional training, she has taught color slide photography in California and New England for the past several summers. In the fall and spring she teaches black and white and color photography in New York City.

Mrs. Manzer will speak on "The Ins and Outs of the Color Exhibitions," and with the use of slides, will illustrate specific differences between ordinary slides and those of conspicuous merit. She will discuss ways to improve the quality and appeal of work by both the casual photographer and the more serious worker.

Tickets for the lecture may be obtained for $1 each at any Iowa City camera store or by mail from the University Camera Club, Physics Building, SUI.

Name Lincoln Attorney For U.S. District Judge

WASHINGTON (AP)—A recommendation that Robert Van Pelt of Lincoln be appointed U.S. District Judge for Nebraska was made Thursday by Nebraska's Senators Curtis and Hruska to Atty. Gen. Brownell.

They wrote Brownell that Van Pelt is "an eminent member of the Nebraska Bar who has distinguished himself as a practicing attorney in state and federal courts in Nebraska."

"In addition," they said, "he has afforded himself opportunities for outstanding civic service to his community and our state. We feel that we can unreservedly commend him to you for this important position with the knowledge that he can ably succeed a fine jurist, Judge Delehant."

John W. Delehant is retiring. His successor will be nominated by President Eisenhower, who probably will name Van Pelt, if Brownell is agreeable.

A-Cloud Flying An 'Everyday Job:' Pilot

By STEVE LOWELL

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — An Air Force pilot who ought to know says flying through an atomic cloud is like flying through an extremely violent storm, but otherwise it's nothing to worry about. Capt. William N. Wright, Youngstown, O., has flown into the awesome clouds 60 to 75 times — so often he's lost track of the exact number. That's his military job, has been since operation Upshot-Knothole at the AEC's Indian Springs, Nev., proving ground in 1953, and will be during Operation Plumb Bob, beginning in Nevada next week. He takes radioactive samples of the fearsome mushroom-shaped clouds for the AEC to analyze.

"This is just an everyday job. We feel our flying is just as safe as any other type of flying. All that is necessary is to follow the rules — like in anything else," Wright says.

Wright, 32, is flight commander of a small and unique organization, the 4928th Test Squadron (Sampling). The outfit includes only 20 officers and 130 airmen and was organized in 1953 because atomic scientists needed samples of what was produced in nuclear and thermonuclear explosions.

Before the unit was created, atomic cloud samples were taken by manned aircraft on a much smaller scale and by "drone" planes, but experts decided a specially trained unit which could concentrate on this specific duty would do a better job.

Although Wright is inclined to tone down any suggestion of risk, there are plenty of indications this work is not just routine. For one thing, the men who fly the F-84 jet fighters and the B-57 jet bombers used as samplers wear vests in which the cloth has been impregnated with lead to ward off radioactivity.

Air intakes leading into the cockpit are fitted with filters to keep out as much of the contaminated air from the cloud as possible. Wright shaves the night before a flight so any razor cuts or scratches have a chance to close up before the mission. The helmet and oxygen mask he wears protect his face and lungs fairly well, but he wants to make sure there are no open cuts to serve as open doors to radioactivity.

French Miss Finds Movie Harder Here

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP) — Shapely Martine Carol, who in French movies has established herself as the Sex Symbol, has just finished her first English-speaking film here and it was twice the bother of making a picture in France.

Because here so many scenes had to be shot twice. One version shows Martine practically as she is, and that is suitable for continental theaters. There she had to put on some clothes and do the scene again with the restraints imposed by British and American censors.

The new picture, to be released by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is called "Action of the Tiger." Its pattern is somewhat that of a western thriller, but the action takes place in the mountains of Albania, and the excitement concerns the rescue of some political fugitives.

It will be, for practical purposes, Martine's introduction to British and American screens, and she hopes very much that new audiences will like her vivid type of glamor. She bounced around like a playful kitten, striking pert French attitudes and sparking French expressions with lightning speed.

"I work very hard, first to make perfect my English which you see maybe still has a flaw," she said. "Then I do those scenes twice, and then I have to work hard at being a blonde. Monday, that is a work—every three days to be bleached."

In France, Martine has long been associated with bath tubs. Producers and directors think the blonde glamor shows off to the best advantage as she climbs in and out and splashes water and bubbles all over the set.

"I am tired of bathing all the time, so I was very happy when it was arranged for me to make a picture in England," she said. "I hoped maybe they hadn't heard about my bath tub here—and sure enough, no bath tub. But, Ma Pois, they made me go swimming in the sea, and that scene, it had to be shot twice."

Born in Biarritz, Martine now lives in Paris, where she works often with her husband, Christian Jaque, who is a director. Martine has been in the United States to look around, and she liked New York better than Hollywood. The trouble with Hollywood in her opinion, is that there are too many movie people around.

Meany Meets the Leaders

LEADERS of the 1,400,000-member Teamsters' Union, these five men held a closed conference with AFL-CIO President George Meany at which they discussed "general problems" at the labor organization headquarters in Washington. Pictured as they arrived for the conference are, from left, William Lee, Chicago; Joe Davini, San Francisco; James Hoffa, Detroit; Einar Mohn, Washington, D. C.; and Thomas Hickey, New York.

Adjustment Will Take Time—

Hungarian Refugee Describes U.S., This Strange Country

EDITOR'S NOTE: Last month, three hours after their arrival in the United States, Associated Press Correspondent Edna F. Kelly and her wife, Helen, received a special George Peck Journalism Award for their heroism in covering last fall's Hungarian revolt. Before the uprising both spent many months in Hungarian Communist prisons on charges of espionage. We asked Mrs. Kelly to compare life behind the Iron Curtain with life in America. This is her story.

I was a parolee again. Quite a difference, though. It would be easy to fill a book with the impressions of a woman and mother coming from behind the Iron Curtain. I just list them, as they occur to me, after several weeks of observation. Doubtless the greatest impression this country makes on someone coming from Communist Hungary is the immense richness, the abundance of everything. This is a lasting impression. Some time will elapse till one gets accustomed to it. This richness is combined with enormous sizes. Thousands of monstrous cars speed on highways five times wider than those at home. The steak you order in a simple restaurant could feed a family in Hungary and it is outrageous how much people leave on their plates. I'm sure the better New Yorkers leave carelessly on their plates every day could easily supply the 1,800,000 inhabitants of Budapest.

Landlords Praise Student Roomers

By JERRY LAMBERT
Daily Iowa Staff Writer

Iowa City landlords who have student roomers have little trouble generally. This was the consensus of 15 landlords surveyed at random by The Daily Iowa newspaper.

Mrs. J. P. Kelley, 230 Magowan Ave., said, "I have really enjoyed my relationship with my roomers. They have been very friendly."

Mrs. Kelley could be called the average Iowa City landlord, on the basis of her opinion. Very few major problems arise between the landowners and their renters. Many of the problems that do arise are very small and have been worked out easily and forgotten about.

"My worst problem has been with the boys wrestling in the rooms at the start of the semester, just after they have moved in, but this soon ends when the boys start on their school work," Mrs. R. H. Goehring, 320 N. Johnson St., related.

"A little consideration has usually taken care of any problems that I have had," Mrs. Neta Cochran, 430 E. Jefferson St., said. "If the boys would cooperate with each other and show some consideration, very few problems would arise."

There seems to be very little infraction of the University regulations in the off-campus units. Minor problems with the drinking of alcoholic beverages have arisen.

"The girls that live with me are very good about getting in on time," Mrs. May Quinn, 922 E. Washington St., relates. "They realize that they will be campused if they are late too often."

Another problem that has arisen is making noise late at night. "I had one boy that seemed to enjoy making calls late at night that disturbed us," Mrs. E. G. Bushman, 729 E. Jefferson St., relates. "He stopped it as soon as we complained about it."

This is the way that almost all of our problems have been solved," Mrs. Bushman said. "If the difficulties hadn't ended when we complained about them, we would have had to ask the person to leave."

Robinson Gamble Pays Off; Returns As Stage Success

NEW YORK (AP) — The big gamble has paid off for Edward G. Robinson. "I'm not sorry now," he says quietly, "that I returned to the stage."

This may easily be the most remarkable understatement of the season on Broadway, a region where verbal restraint is rare. Events, he adds, have surprised even him.

Tell Future Aid Plans for Freedom Riots

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Foreign Affairs subcommittee said Thursday that what it called failure of the free world and United States to take positive action in the Hungarian revolt "constitutes the lost opportunity of our generation."

It called for restudy and revision of U.S. strategy in possible future satellite uprisings, suggested get-tough steps against the Soviet Union as long as it defies the United Nations on Hungary, and recommended creation of a permanent, mobile force of UN observers.

Rep. James Fulton (Pa.) one of the two Republicans on the 5-member subcommittee headed by Rep. Edna F. Kelly (D-N.Y.), took sharp issue with some findings in the majority report.

Fulton said President Eisenhower and other U.S. officials acted as speedily and wisely as conditions permitted in the Hungarian rebellion of last October.

He said that even with hindsight, the subcommittee recommends no specific steps that the Administration didn't take. The majority "simply complains of the necessary time" required for consultation for joint UN action, he said.

The subcommittee, whose jurisdiction is European affairs, issued its findings after a 12-day, Easter-time trip to Britain, France, Germany and Austria.

The subcommittee said present U.S. policy toward revolt in the satellites is only (1) that this country will not intervene militarily and (2) that it will give advance assurance of this to the Soviets.

"The failure of U.S. foreign policy, as highlighted by the failure of our action toward Hungary, has indicated to the world that while the United States can marshal its forces effectively for all-out military purposes, it has failed to prepare for the kind of war where weapons subtler than guns and tanks are needed," it said.

The subcommittee went on to recommend a number of steps to meet what it called "this new era in satellite relations."

Besides a review of U.S. policy and intelligence systems, it called for preparation of a wide range of standby proposals for quick presentation to the UN, depending on what circumstances arise.

It recommended "social isolation" of the Soviets through such steps as breaking off diplomatic relations and the canceling of sports and cultural events, and a UN inquiry to throw the spotlight on conditions in Soviet-controlled countries.

University Student Revolt Crushed, Red Regime Says

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany claimed Thursday it has successfully crushed anti-Communist agitation which resulted in a strike of university students.

The Red regime staged a news conference in East Berlin's Humboldt University and announced that out of 132 students who were expelled after the strike, 131 have applied for readmission. Of these, 105 have been permitted to resume their studies, said Humboldt rector Werner Harpke.

The students went on strike last week to protest suspension of Prof. Gunter Schuetzler, dean of the university's veterinary school. Schuetzler, who has since fled to Allied-occupied West Berlin, was accused of encouraging his students to imitate the role which students played in the Hungarian uprising.

Everyone coming from behind Iron Curtain must be impressed by the role religion is playing in this country. The Bible in the hotel room, the Rosary distributed by a friendly soldier among refugees on an airport and, last but not least, how the church makes use of advertisements. I was flabbergasted indeed when I saw the first time an ad in a bus, saying "Build a stronger and richer life: worship together every week. . . . Yes, why not God? Give Him a chance, too. . . ."

Having experienced for so many years "communism in action," now I bump into "democracy in action" every minute. What impressed me most was perhaps my visit in a small city, dominated by a distinguished college.

The first night we dined in a hotel with some professors and students among them a pretty and bright girl. Can you imagine how astounded I was next morning when the same girl served my breakfast in the same hotel?

I, a supposedly sophisticated newsman from Europe, confess to feeling like some grown-up Alice in Wonderland. But when I told my daughters about my feelings, Kati, who is 10 and apparently with some sense for realism, wryly remarked that, "That's fine, mother, but perhaps it is not quite Wonderland because you have to pay for everything. . . ."

Miller's Congress Contempt Trial Turns Out Quite Dull

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur Miller smiled faintly when someone suggested he'd be in the headlines if he wrote plays as dull as his contempt of Congress trial.

Even with Marilyn Monroe's husband as defendant, this has turned out to be as unexciting as most other contempt of Congress trials. Feature writers who descended on the courtroom of U.S. District Judge Charles F. McLaughlin have failed to find anything to write about.

And as box office, it's a decided flop. Opposing lawyers have been involved in technical arguments over whether two questions the prize-winning playwright refused to answer last June 21 before a subcommittee of the House Committee on Un-American Activities were pertinent to an inquiry into misuse of passports.

Miller — citing "my conscience" — refused to identify Communist writers with whom he acknowledged meetings in New York in 1947.

Judge McLaughlin says pertinence is the only issue involved. He is hearing the case without a jury.

Assistant U.S. Attorney William Hitz, the prosecutor, contends the subcommittee had a "right and a duty" to question Miller since it had information linking him with communism and its causes, and the playwright had an application pending.

In reply, Joseph L. Rauh, Jr., Miller's chief counsel, insists meetings of writers to discuss the relationship of Marxism to art and literature had no kinship to the matter under inquiry. Richard Arens, director of the Committee on Un-American Activities, spent the entire afternoon session yesterday reading 38 pages of testimony given by Miller.

In it, Miller denied that he had ever been under Communist party discipline. He said he had supported Red movements in the past, but wouldn't do so now.

They Raise Them Different Now'days

By The Associated Press

Princesses growing up today have almost as much romp as romp in their lives. Sad as this may seem to the artists, the royalists and the historical novelists who like their young highnesses to be the traditional pawns of protocol and pageantry, it's much pleasanter to the princesses.

For the first time perhaps, they are being reared as girls instead of symbols. In England, where royalty is the most rigorous, the 6-year-old princess is wearing dresses cut down from the Queen's.

In the Netherlands, the heiress Beatrix, like her mother, Queen Juliana, is pious. She likes to draw, sculpt, sail, ride horseback and go on skiing holidays. She also loves dancing, and organizes small dinner dances at home. Her favorite music is South American and jazz.

Like Beatrix, but across the world, another teen-age princess likes to rock the royal residence with jazz. She is 18-year-old Suga, youngest of six children of Emperor Hirohito. For a Japanese princess to say publicly that she prefers jazz to classical music is a mark of the new Japan.

Sweden's four attractive blonde princesses have been reared under the democratic principles of their grandfather King Gustav VI. Their father Gustav Adolf is dead. They go shopping or skiing or ice skating without any security arrangements. Margareta, now 23, attended a housewifery school in England for a time, and a convent school in Paris. At the latter she was too tall for ordinary French beds, and had to sleep diagonally the first night.

Upon her return from Paris, cadets of Karlberg Academy — Sweden's West Point — stood at attention to greet her. The commander welcomed her in the polite phrases used for royalty. "Hiya guys," was her response.

Queen Elizabeth, like her royal predecessors, insists that Anne have relatively few clothes and toys. Bulging wardrobes and toy-scattered nurseries, she maintains, spoil a child. Not long ago, a Buckingham Palace visitor admired the princess' pretty yellow dress.

"Thank you," Anne replied, "but it isn't new. It's been cut down from Mummy's." Another princess whose public appearance are becoming more ceremonial is 19-year-old Beatrix, heiress to the Dutch throne. Seldom does she appear in public any more without a retinue.

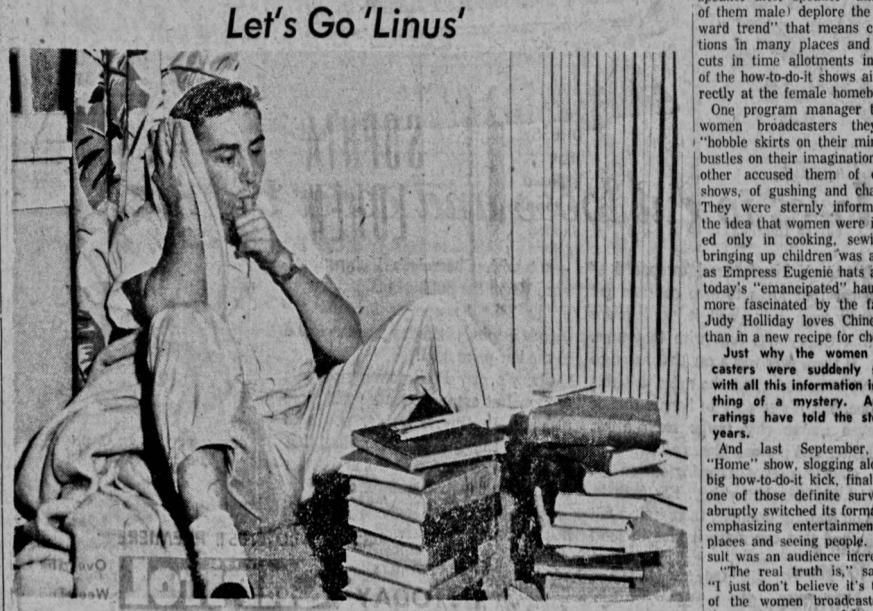

But she still walks to her sociology classes at Leyden University, carrying her books in a basket. Like other students, she lives in an apartment, near the school. But unlike others, her apartment is under uniformed guard day and night.

Beatrix, like her mother, Queen Juliana, is pious. She likes to draw, sculpt, sail, ride horseback and go on skiing holidays. She also loves dancing, and organizes small dinner dances at home. Her favorite music is South American and jazz.

Like Beatrix, but across the world, another teen-age princess likes to rock the royal residence with jazz. She is 18-year-old Suga, youngest of six children of Emperor Hirohito. For a Japanese princess to say publicly that she prefers jazz to classical music is a mark of the new Japan. "Hiya guys," was her response.

WAITING TO APPEAR before a grand jury to help the state of California win criminal indictments against Confidential Magazine are film actress Maureen O'Hara and piano virtuoso Liberace. Both testified of off-color stories printed about them, and Liberace stated he intended to sue the magazine for $25 million in all the 48 states "if that is possible."

WITH FINAL WEEK COMING UP a man is likely to need some security. So Wayne Steinberg, A3, Miami Beach, Fla., takes up his blanket and prepares for the rough times ahead — not too unlike the procedure followed by a character named "Linus" in a daily comic strip.

WSUI Show To Feature Composition
An original composition by Johnson, G. Fenimore, will be played by piano soloist Henderson, A3. Also a feature of the WSUI Fall Program at 11:30 Sunday.

First Budget Slash on Way To President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress wrapped up and sent to the White House Thursday its first big money bill of the year, and Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) proclaimed: "We have saved $80,363,000 for the taxpayers in the first of the 15 annual appropriations."

The $3,884,927,000 bill, to finance the Treasury and Post Office Departments and the tax court, was $80,363,000 smaller than President Eisenhower had asked.

While the reduction was only 2 per cent, it symbolized the uphill struggle Mr. Eisenhower is in for in his effort to get all, or nearly all, of the $71,800,000,000 he plans to spend in the year beginning July 1.

His newest appeals in support of the budget, voiced in a speech to the nation Tuesday night and in his news conference Wednesday, developed little if any effective response.

CINCINNATI (AP)—Meade Alcorn, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said Thursday the controversy between President Eisenhower and GOP congressional leaders over the budget is just "a difference of opinion; not a party split."

Other bills nearing final action are carrying cuts averaging 8 per cent under White House requests and even deeper slashes have been predicted for some items.

The total included $691,467,000 for the Treasury, a cut of $22,364,000 under White House figures; $3,192,000,000 for the Post Office, a cut of $58,000,000; and $1,460,000 for the tax court, with no cut.

The House Appropriations Committee meanwhile approved a $78,470,265 bill to operate the House and related agencies during the year beginning July 1.

On the general question of administration spending, Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said it ought to stop "looking for things to do for people" that add to the taxpayers' load.

And an analysis of the first roll call vote to be taken in the Senate on an appropriation bill since Mr. Eisenhower went "to the people" showed 14 Republican senators on his side and 23, including the party's Senate leadership, against him.

This showing was recorded in the 61-35 margin by which the Senate, against President Eisenhower's advice, voted the U. S. Information Agency $53,800,000 less than the Administration asked.

Budget Gets Wilson's OK

Secretary Wilson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson, defending the Eisenhower Administration budget, said Thursday the country "has never been more prosperous" and "I don't see it (the budget) is any great strain."

As President Eisenhower has done, Wilson said a "good part" of the increase in the defense budget can be blamed on inflation.

In response to news conference questions, he said he is sure that also applies in part to other segments of the over-all Federal budget.

Wilson brought to his news conference a formal statement on the budget. The statement seemed aimed at countering criticism the Eisenhower Administration has expanded the budget 12 per cent.

Wilson's explanation was: In terms of dollar purchasing power existing in fiscal 1954, the new defense budget of $38.2 billion would be equivalent to about $33.4 billion, which Wilson said was $1.8 billion less than the 1954 budget.

He declared of the budget that "it doesn't have to be increased but it should not be cut."

European Holiday Ends

EUROPEAN HOLIDAY PANEL MEMBERS give the final presentation of a series in Shambaugh Auditorium. The panel has been discussing points of interest in Europe and giving advice to would-be travelers. From left, Bernard Kernkamp, G. Holland; Dietrich Hartmann, G. Frankfurt, Germany; Hans Myhre, G. Oslo, Norway; and Anita May, C3, Kronberg, Germany. A film on Italy was shown Thursday night and France, Spain, and Italy were discussed by the foreign student panel.

Literary Magazine Plans Submitted to SPI Board

Plans for a literary magazine to afford "intellectual discourse" at SUI were offered to the Board of Trustees, Student Publications, Inc. (SPI) Thursday.

Ed Mezvinsky, A2, Ames, presented a two-page prospectus to the board calling for creation of a magazine to deal with "essays, book reviews, and critiques of literary merit."

The board delayed definite action on Mezvinsky's proposal. Instead, plans were offered to a student-faculty committee composed of board members which will meet before the end of the semester to consider the feasibility of the magazine. Committee members are expected to be named today.

Mezvinsky's prospectus suggested the magazine be issued quarterly in a 16-page tabloid form as a supplement to The Daily Iowan.

Mezvinsky estimated the cost of the magazine at $320 per 10,000 copies. Expenses, he said, could be partially covered by advertising and newsstand sales.

He proposed that the editorial staff be composed of SUI students, although the material for publication would come from both students and faculty members.

"SUI has long felt the acute need for a literary magazine that could give two-way communication between the students and faculty," Mezvinsky said.

The magazine would "strive to introduce, comment upon, and perhaps suggest solutions in certain problem areas that are evidenced on this campus," Mezvinsky said.

Two SUI Teams Among Top Ten In Bridge Tourney

Two teams from SUI ranked among the top ten in the Eighth Zone in the 1957 Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament in the results announced Thursday by C. C. Nolan, Director of the National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament Committee.

The team of Steve Shadle, A3, Estherville, and Terry Campbell, A2, Des Moines, finished in fifth place in the zone which included Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma. John Kruggel, M4, Lake Mills and Doug Lawson, M4, Council Bluffs, were ranked seventh in this area.

Bobbie Edgecombe, A3, Beirut, Lebanon, and Bob Smart, A3, Fairfield, also placed high among the SUI students competing.

Freedom Fighters Sentenced to Die

BUDAPEST (AP)—Fourteen Hungarians charged with taking part in anti-Russian riots last October were sentenced to death Thursday in Budapest's Municipal Court.

Four others, including a woman, were sentenced to life imprisonment. Twenty-one persons altogether were on trial.

All were accused of taking part in riots last Oct. 26 at Miskolc, in northeast Hungary. They were said to have been part of an enormous crowd that attacked police headquarters and hanged seven Communist policemen from the city's Soviet War Memorial.

Texas' Worst Tornado Kills 19, Scores Hurt

SILVERTON, Tex. (AP)—The most deadly tornado of the season's violent Texas weather smashed through this town Wednesday night, leaving a heavy toll of dead and injured, many of them infants and children.

State police set the toll of known dead at 19 after searching hospitals and mortuaries in a 70-mile area. They also counted 58 persons hospitalized. Persons on the scene said as many as 80 were hurt but not all needed hospital care.

"People died without even knowing what happened," said Elvert Stephens. There was no advance warning, although 20 or more tornadoes danced across Texas during the night, many in this vicinity.

Silverton, a Texas Panhandle farm-ranch town of 857, its utilities ripped out and ankle deep in mud, could not care for the dead and injured. The bodies and the victims requiring hospital care were sent to Amarillo, 65 miles to the northwest, Plainview, Lubbock, and other towns and cities.

Two families were wiped out. At least eight of the dead were children, some infants. One tiny boy was found dead in the center of a debris-filled street.

The roar of the approaching twister awoke many people but struck too fast for them to seek
