Board of Regents Passes Final Vote To Raise SUI Tuition

DES MOINES (AP) — SUI students will pay more for their education next fall.

The Iowa State Board of Regents Friday voted resident student tuition increases for SUI that range from $6 to $96 per year, with the exception of the College of Pharmacy where tuition was lowered $4 per year.

Increases in SUI non-resident fees ranged from $56 to $275 per year except for graduate student fees which were lowered $44 per year.

The last tuition increases at SUI came in the fall of 1955.

The board also raised tuition at Iowa's other two education institutions under Regents control, Iowa State College, Ames, and Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls.

Complete SUI tuition increase schedule follows:

Resident undergraduates in liberal Arts, Commerce, Education, Engineering and Pharmacy Colleges — $110 per semester. Tuition charged for this semester in Liberal Arts, Commerce and Education Colleges was $102. Engineering College tuition was $107 and Pharmacy College fees $114.

Resident students in Dentistry and Medical Colleges — $200 per semester. Fees in the two colleges last fall were $152 per semester.

Resident students in Law and Graduate Colleges — $130 per semester. Graduate fees in February were $102 and in the Law College $122.

Non-resident undergraduates in Liberal Arts, Commerce, Education, Engineering, and Pharmacy Colleges — $250 per year. Liberal Arts, Commerce and Education fees this semester were $212. In the Engineering College they were $217 and in the Pharmacy College $222.

Non-resident students in Dentistry and Medical Colleges — $400 per semester. Dentistry fees last February were $262 and Medicine fees $307.

Non-resident students in Law College — $270 per semester. This semester's fees were $232.

Non-resident students in Graduate College — $130 per semester. In February the fees were $152.

Fees at ISC wil go up $33 per year for all resident undergraduates and $93 per year for non-resident undergraduates.

Tuition at ISTC will go up $40 per year for both resident and non-resident undergraduates. A proposal to increase non-resident undergraduate student fees by $100 per year effective the fall of 1958 was deferred by the board for later action.

At ISC the $33 per year increase for all classifications of resident undergraduates will bring the total to $231 per year. The new figure for all classifications of all resident undergraduates will be $501 per year after the $93 per year increase.

At ISTC the $40 a year increase for both resident and non-resident undergraduates will put the new total at $200 a year.

In the discussion, Clifford Strawman, Anamosa, a board member, said he wondered whether the board would be setting a precedent in allowing the legislature to force tuitions up.

He said he did not like having non-resident fees higher than resident tuition.

Board Chairman Harry Hagemann, Waverly, said he was opposed to higher non-resident than resident fees but that the board has an obligation to the taxpayer.

The legislature, in its last sessions made it clear that the educational institutions would be expected to pay for part of their increased spending by raising tuitions.

Appropriations of state funds for operating the institutions were based on tuition increases to raise an extra $250,000 each at SUI and ISC and $50,000 at ISTC.

The board, in effect ,accepted the legislators' arguments that as costs of education and the average individual's income go up, tuition paid by the students also should be increased.

However, the board has been hesitant about raising tuitions for the fear that they might make a college education economically impossible for many students.

The board, in effect, accepted budgets for the three schools for the 1957-58 year. The budgets had been presented earlier in the day but the board's decision was deferred pending its action on the schools' proposals for tuition increases.

The budgets were based partially on the assumption that the proposed tuition increases would be approved.

The SUI budget was set at $12,059,856, up $1,939,863 over the 1956-57 budget.

The ISC budget for 1957-58 will be $9,633,588, an increase of $1,294,074 over the present budget. The ISTC budget for the next year was set at $3,663,448 up $110,580 over the present budget.

Officials of the three schools said that in each case much of the budget increases will go for salary raises for the academic staffs, mostly on a merit system basis.

Keep Soil Bank: Farm Bureau Head

By TERRY SHINKLE
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Robert Nelson, SUI graduate and organization director of the Johnson County Farm Bureau, disagreed Thursday with a recent vote by the House of Representatives to kill a big part of the soil bank program.

"The theory of the soil bank is good," Nelson said. "This is the only method we know of to take land out of production."

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson told House Agriculture Appropriations committee members Wednesday that killing the acreage reserve part of the soil bank carries the threat of more costly farm surpluses.

The house voted 192-187 to kill the three quarter million dollar acreage reserve part of the soil bank after this year.

Secretary Benson said:

"If the acreage reserve is not permitted to function for 1958 crops, there is every likelihood that surpluses will pile up still further, rather than diminish."

House committee members last week charged laxity on the use of soil bank funds and said the soil bank "did not accomplish much."

Nelson answered these charges from the local level.

Q. — The house committee said that farmers have been collecting federal insurance for crop failure on lands they received soil bank payments on. Do you feel this is true?

A. — "Federal insurance is not in effect in Johnson County. This is probably possible, about anything is possible, but it would be an exception and not a practice."

Q. — The committee said the soil bank program has been "rush into effect." Is this true?

A. — "Certainly, with an extensive program such as this you have to have time to set it up. The theory of the soil bank is good."

Q. — The committee said farmers were paid for not planting corn on land on which they were legally forbidden to plant corn. Have you seen any cases of this?

A. — "I don't know of any cases around here. Those who tried it probably wouldn't say anything about it. Again, anything is possible in a large government program such as this."

Q. — The committee charged that farmers were paid for taking land out of one type of wheat and then in turn were paid a premium for planting it in another type of wheat. Are you familiar with this?

A — "I am not familiar with this since very little wheat is raised in this area."

Q — The committee charged that soil bank payments were dished out just before the 1956 fall elections to offset dropping farm income in the midwest belt. Is this true?

A — "No comment."

Q — The committee said the soil bank "did not accomplish much." How do you feel about this?

A — "This is probably true because at first it was drought insurance rather than a cut in production. This year it will be used more for cutting production. This year it will probably accomplish something."

Iowa's representatives voted continuance of soil bank payments after this year as the measure was defeated by the house.

Rep. Coad, Democrat, and Representatives Cunningham, Jensen, LeCompete, Schwengel, and Talle, Republicans, voted against ending payments. Representatives Gross and Hoeven were not listed as voting.

Teamster Moves To Unseat Beck

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Daily News said Friday John T. O'Brien of Chicago has come out as a "clean-up" candidate for president of the Teamsters Union in place of Dave Beck.

The action of O'Brien, the News said, is the first by any top teamster to challenge Beck for the presidency.

O'Brien, 60, is fourth vice-president of the big international union. He is a close associate of William A. Lee, seventh vice president of the teamsters and president of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Rackets Committee Future Undecided

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee has not yet decided what next step it will take in its search for wrongdoing in labor unions and industry. Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Friday this may be decided next week.

Kennedy said he hopes the investigation of teamsters Union President Dave Beck has been concluded, but that it could be reopened.

Egypt To Bar Israeli Test Ship From Canal

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt served notice Friday she will exercise the "right of self-defense" if Israel attempts to send a test ship through the Suez Canal. Israel appeared to be shying away from any immediate move in that direction.

Abdel Kader Hatem, director of information, expressed the first official Egyptian reaction to Israel's announcement that she would try to send a ship through the 103-mile waterway which Egypt has nationalized.

Egypt contends she is still in a technical state of war with Israel. For that reason she has barred the canal to Israeli shipping and to vessels carrying anything considered of strategic value to Israel.

Hatem said Egypt will take "whatever measures she deems necessary for the canal, which is an integral part of her territory." He declared Egypt has "the right to defend her territory and safeguard her security" under Article 10 of the Constantinople Convention of 1888 governing the waterway.

The statement said Egypt "will exercise this right fully and will hold fast to it, for it is her legal right as stated in Artcile 51 of the UN charter, which says that every state is entitled to the right of 'self-defense.' "

Thursday night Israel decided against sending the Israeli-chartered Norwegian freighter Mars through the canal on a voyage from Haifa to Japan with 4,000 tons of potash. The Mars will go via the Panama Canal—a trip the Israelis said will cost $40,000 more than if the Mars used the Suez.

Israel said previously it did not regard the Mars as a real test.

But the decision to change the route was taken apparently in line with the announcement that Israel would not make any move toward a test until after the UN Security Council Debate on Suez set for Monday, following a request by France.

Negroes Hold Mass Meet on Race Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Massed thousands of Negroes met in prayer and protest Friday — three years, to the very hour, after the Supeme Court banned segregation in public schools.

Ranged in a great semicircle before the Lincoln Memorial, for this unprecedented "prayer pilgrimage for freedom," they applauded speeches charging that President Eisenhower and congressional leaders of both parties have failed in the wake of the high court ruling to lead the way toward equal rights for all.

Rep. Adam Powell (D-N.Y.), set the tone by calling on Negroes to establish through their churches a "third force — nonpartisan but political" to bring pressure on political leaders . . ."

Police Inspector Melvin Leach estimated the crowd at 15,000 though sponsors of the demonstration, calling it the biggest of its kind ever held, put the figure at 25,000 or more.

The greatest ovation went to the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., leader of the Montgomery, Ala., battle for bus integration, who asserted both political parties, "have betrayed the cause of justice."

"The Democrats have betrayed it," he said, "by capitulating to the prejudices and undemocratic practices of the Southern Dixiecrats. The Republicans have betrayed it by capitulating to the blatant hypocrisy of right wing, reactionary northerners."

AS HIS MOTHER watches anxiously, Benjamin Hooper, 7, is administered oxygen after being placed in an ambulance Friday evening after being pulled alive from a well hole in which he was trapped almost 24 hours in Manorville, N. Y.

Alive After Nearly Day Underground

MANORVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Seven-year-old Benjamin Hooper Jr., was rescued alive Friday night, after being entombed upright and all but motionless for 23½ hours in a 24-foot well.

At 10:30 p.m., three hours after rescuers had clawed through the last few feet of earth with bare hands to reach him, the boy was reported reacting nicely to treatment at Mastic Hospital.

Dr. J. H. Kris, the attending physician, said "the boy's condition is good. He is able to talk and asked for food. He has taken some food. Everything is on the up and up."

The physician said, however, it would be necessary to keep a close watch for the next 24 hours, because of the danger of penumonia in such cases.

Weak movements and the flicker of his blue eyes signalled the miraculous survival of the little chap, for whom hope had been all but abandoned hours earlier.

He tumbled into a newly dug well in the backyard of his father's Long Island home at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. It was 7:10 p.m. Friday when rescuers — heart-breakingly frustrated through most of the day by landslides — finally broke through to his side from a rescue shaft.

In a few more moments, Benny was taken from the dark, cramped well bottom by Sam Woodson, a Negro rescue worker. Said Woodson, beside himself with joy: "I was the happiest boy alive when I saw his blue eyes."

Benny, his color good and his eyes open, was rushed by ambulance to a hospital at nearby Mastic Beach, N.Y.

Dr. Joseph F. Kris put an oxygen mask over the boy's face as he was brought out. A reporter asked: "Is he still alive?"

"Yes, thank God," the physician replied. Then, forgetful of everything else, Dr. Kris grabbed the reporter's hand and wrung it in elation.

Several hundred persons looked on at the climax to a feverish night and day of rescue efforts. From their throats came a hoarse half-shriek, half-sob of exultation as it dawned on them that Benny had survived.

"It's a miracle, it's a miracle," sobed one unidentified bystander over and over again.

Just before the boy was brought out, a rescue worker had reached him and touched him. But when the man emerged from the well, he said: "I believe he is dead."

The father had taken this news with a sober nod of the head. But almost before Hooper had felt the shock of it, a voice rang out from the rescue pit: "The boy is opening his eyes."

The wonder of the rescue was enhanced by the almost utter lack of hope that had nagged rescuers as they toiled toward the trapped boy.

Originally, rescuers had dug a parallel shaft 12 feet away from the well. Then they tried to cut across horizontally at a level with the lad's body.

But when landslides repeatedly blocked their progress, they considered abandoning the shaft and attacking the well directly, a maneuver of utter desperation that might well have cost the boy his life.

At the last moment, however, they reverted to their original tactics, with the aid of an ingenious device furnished by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The nearby Brookhaven National Laboratory sent four gamma ray shields, each about 4½ feet long.

Ike Renews Opposition to Budget Slash

CINCINNATI (AP) — President Eisenhower Friday renewed his opposition to cuts in his foreign aid and military budget and said years of sacrifice to keep the peace "can never equal the sacrifices of one week of global war."

He told a Republican regional conference here by telephone from Washington that his legislative program, submitted last January "in the best interests of America," has made "little progress" in the Democratic-controlled Congress.

But Sen. Homer Capehart of diana took the floor here after the President's address and said, "Whether I am right or whether I am wrong, I am going to vote to cut it (the budget)."

The senator said the military budget is complicated by the fact "we don't know what the enemy is going to do."

He said that after the Korean War, "all our standing hardware almost overnight became obsolete."

And later at a press conference, Capehart said he thinks the budget can be cut by $3 billion, including federal aid to education, foreign aid and public housing.

The President, whose address received only perfunctory applause at this meeting, said the Republicans "must win" control of the national legislature next year.

Ike's Budget Loses $193 Million More In Senate Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Friday cut another $193 million from President Eisenhower's $73.8 billion budget request for new appropriations. This boosted reductions in three money bills passed thus far to more than $375 million.

Friday's action was on passage of a bill appropriating $613,584,290 for the Commerce Department for the 1958 fiscal year starting July 1.

On paper the cut in this bill totaled $257,928,710. Eisenhower had requested $871,513,000 for the department. Part of the cut was a bookkeeping transfer. It involved a shift of about 65 million dollars in old appropriations for ship operating subsidies to the new bill.

The measure, passed by a voice vote after two hours of debate, now goes to conference with the House. The House, without recourse to the transfer in ship operating funds, had voted $25 million less than the Senate allowed.

Cousin To Beck Uses 5th 71 Times

WASHINGTON (AP) — Norman Gessert, Dave Beck's cousin by marriage, took the Fifth Amendment 71 times in a 21-minute appearance before the Senate Rackets Investigation Committee Friday.

"I guess he made a record," Chairman John McClellan (D-Ark.) commented sourly at the end of the fruitless questioning.

Gessert not only declined to talk about his profitable dealings with Beck, president of the Teamsters Union, but even refused to state his name or acknowledge that he knew his own lawyer sitting beside him.

The Fifth Amendment provides that no one shall be required to testify against himself. Beck has invoked it more than 200 times but his appearances before the committee extended over a much longer period than Gessert's 21 minutes.

McClellan called Gessert's attitude clearly detrimental to labor unionism."

"Those funds are held in trust for or their actions involving the use of union funds," he told newsmen. "Thoes funds are held in trust for the benefit of unionism, and not for the personal profit of union officials and their kinfolk."

Gessert had been sought by the committee more than two months for questioning about his financial deals with Beck. He was finally subpoenaed Wednesday after a police chase in Ellensburg, Wash.

Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, said Gessert drew more than $50,000 in salary and expenses from the Teamsters Union from April 1954 to March 31, 1957, a period in which Kennedy said he spent most of his time doing chores for Beck.

Kennedy told the committee Gessert also got about a $51,000 cut of the profits of the Union Merchandising Co., a firm Kennedy said specialized in selling toy trucks and other merchandise to Teamsters locals all over the country.

Senate Bill Would Require Disclosure Of Union Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan bill to require full public disclosure of financial and other reports now filed by unions with the government was introduced in the Senate Friday.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell has requested such legislation, and sentiment in favor of it crystallized during current hearings of a special Senate Rackets Committee.

Sen. L. Hill (D-Ala.), chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, introduced the bill.

In recent letters to congressional leaders, Mitchell wrote that public disclosure of financial reports and other information filed with the Secretary of Labor by labor organizations under the National Labor Relations Act "would be in the interest of the public and of the members of labor organizations."

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), chairman of the Rackets Committee, approved Hill's proposal as "a step in the right direction" but forecast the introduction of much stronger legislation later.

President Eisenhower recently announced a two-point plan to help curb union corruption — one of the points being the same as that covered by the bill introduced today.

Weco Products Co. Get Building Permit

Weco Products Co. was issued a building permit Friday by City Engineer Fred Gartzke for a planned $700,000 manufacturing plant in Iowa City.

The plant will be built on a 25 acre tract near Lower Muscatine Road in southeastern Iowa City. It will be located about four blocks from the new Procter and Gamble plant.

The one-story, 425-by-250 feet plant will be constructed of brick and concrete. Conner Bros. Construction Co., Sigourney, is general contractor.

Weco will use the new plant to expand its brush lines and produce new drug and toilet goods.

Weco manufactures Dr. West toothbrushes.

Sun Back in Iowa After Five Days

Iowans welcomed the return of sunshine Friday after an absence of five days as skies cleared over much of the state.

Temperatures climbed into the 70s in the south but remained in the 50s in the extreme north where considerable cloudiness continued. Rain and drizzle ended early Friday.

Partly cloudy skies are forecast for the state today with highs ranging from the 60s north to the 70s south following lows around 50 Friday night.

Sunday's outlook called for partly cloudy skies and mild temperatures.

Card Section Change Asked

The Hawk-I Pep Club presented a proposal to the SUI Student Council and the Athletic Department Wednesday for the relocation of the card section from the west stands ,to the south stands.

The student section has in previous years been in the west stands.

The advantages for the suggested movement of the card section to the south side include, a bigger section from the present 900 seats in the west stands, to 1,110 in the south, one of the biggest sections in the country.

The card section will then be able to be seen by TV cameras and by students sitting in the regular student section.

The Pep Club is planning to obtain colored vests so that the card section will permanently form a block I. The card section will then form a second cheering section.

The movement of the card section to the south stands would alleviate the amount of space that is available for student seating. Eventually as the enrollment raises there will not be enough room in the present student section.

Seats in the card section will be handed out on a permanent basis. Students will have the same seat for all home games and will not have to stand in line to get seats.

Bill Teeter, C3, Charles City, president of the student council and Buzz Graham from the Athletic Department were present at the meeting.

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the university. The Iowan's editorial policy, therefore, is not an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion in any particular.

Parking Ban

The recent recommendation by the Student Council that a ban on cars owned by freshman be considered by the University Parking Committee, is a logical – and expected – result of a study of the parking situation. It is easy to say that we should not find it necessary to take this step; the ideal situation would be to provide parking spaces for everyone – an impossible dream.

True, the ban on freshman cars would not cut the total number of cars by more than a few hundred, but even suggesting that it be done – whether it is or not – points up the immediacy of the problem while reasonable and perhaps less arbitrary measures can be taken.

It is necessary to distinguish between two facets of the situation; one problem is that of parking spaces for the students who must drive. Members of the parking committee consider this to have been solved, at least for the present, by the restricted parking areas. These students can usually find a space now.

The other, and the much more difficult problem, concerns the student who lives close to the university and must park his car on the street. Even if he does not drive to classes, his car takes up room on streets adjacent to the conjested downtown areas – preventing an overflow onto these streets. Visitors to the university or to Iowa City rarely can find parking places near their destinations, and the student who lives close to the university soon finds his car is a nuisance to park and drive much of the time. And the situation, uncontrolled, can only get worse in the light of projected enrollment figures.

SUI has thus far refused to be stampeded into a hasty program. Other universities have eliminated their complicated parking problem by stringent restrictions: Michigan has a general ban, with some qualified exceptions; Michigan State charges a $10 registration fee (may go to $15); Purdue has recently extended its ban to sophomores, and the University of Illinois's freshman car ban, coupled with a city off-the-street parking requirement, has kept their student car registrations down to 4,300 for a student body of about 18,000. Iowa well could had done the same, without regard to the students desides, but instead, the committee is casting about for a solution more agreeable to the student body.

It is working on "storage" lots, where students who only use their cars after school hours and on weekends can keep them.

It is considering a parking ramp for the same purpose, although cost is a formidable factor.

It is considering hiring city buses for "classroom" specials, if enough student interest could be generated to make this feasible.

Furthermore, the committee is open to constructive suggestions.

Action can not be delayed too long or when it does come it will most probably hurt many who really need cars, but who would be included in sweeping emergency limitations. We must help the Student Council and the University Parking Committee work out a solution that cannot be to everyone's satisfaction but that is at least equitable.

The Cast Change

From THE DAILY TEXAN

Whether Barbara Smith should have had the role this year under present circumstances, is a matter of opinion. Once she had it, neither legislative threat, singular or collective, nor anonymous calls seem proper reason to remove her from the role.

If we are going to allow students to compete and perform in areas where competition and performances form a natural part of the work, opportunities for achievement and recognition should be open to all bona fide students. Otherwise, restricting a special group removes them from the opportunities that we suggest are theirs when we allow them to enroll.

It was on the basis of recognizing quality where they found it that the committee, naive and lacking in discretion as they may have been, selected Barbara to do the role. As one observer put it, "The poor people, they thought their job was just to select the best singer."

Letter To The Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

Thank you for reporting the Graham Crusade in New York. The "moot question" raised in a recent editorial is a common one. How many converts remain converts?

But some may feel like responding — so what? If all do not "sticks" — as Billy himself will admit — is he then to "close up shop?" Does every entering student at SUI remain for the full four years? Is the Administration culpable?

Since Billy's "stakes" are much higher, may we not allow him an even higher percentage of "loss" for the sake of those who "stick?"

In matters of life, death, eternity, one can hardly judge by percentages. For this reason one who has been a "convert" to Billy's message (not to Billy) for fifteen or forty years may find the editor's question a bit shy of compelling.

Board of Regents Takes Action

SUI Faculty Changes OK'd Friday Night

Special to The Daily Iowan

New faculty members were appointed in four departments, five resignations were accepted and seven leaves of absence granted from the SUI faculty in action taken Friday by the State Board of Regents.

Named to the Iowa faculty and staff were:

Dr. Patricia C. Stivrins as physician in the Student Health Service; Fred Slavick as assistant professor in the Bureau of Labor and Management; John S. Harlow as assistant professor of general business, and Dr. Richard E. Bradley as instructor in periodontia in the College of Dentistry.

Resignations were accepted for: Dean Myrtle E. Aydelotte of the College of Nursing, who will resume teaching duties in her regular capacity as professor of nursing after a leave of absence extending from April to September; Assistant Prof. John H. B. Knowlton, Art, who will resume private work in art production; Assistant Prof. Irene E. Harms, Child Welfare, who will accept a professorship at Pennsylvania State University; W. Carl Jackson, library, who has been apointed head of acquisitions for the University of Minnesota Libraries; and Robert C. Murphy, anatomy, to accept a position at Indiana University School of Medicine.

Leaves of absence were granted to Dr. F. Miles Skultety, Surgery, to study at Oxford University; James N. Murray, Political Science, to study at Columbia University and the United Nations; Giles Constable, History, for research and writing; George W. Forell, Religion, to lecture at the University of Hamburg, Germany; Ernest F. Andrews, Journalism, to study and do research at Columbia University; and Grace Van Wormer, Library.

The new student health service physician has been chief resident in pediatrics at University Hospitals since last August. A native of Cedar Falls, Dr. Stivrins studied as an undergraduate at Iowa State Teachers College and at SUI, and graduated from the SUI College of Medicine in 1953.

Prof. Slavick earned degrees at the University of Wisconsin and Princeton University and has taught at both institutions, as well as at Cornell University, where he is presently employed.

Prof. Harlow is a graduate of Princeton and Harvard universities and was a practicing attorney for 18 years, specializing in antitrust and labor law. Since 1948 he has been a law partner in Seattle and lecturer at the University of Washington.

Dr. Bardley, a native of Omaha, holds two degrees from the University of Nebraska. He has held a post-doctoral fellowship in the SUI Dental College during the past year, and was previously engaged in the private practice of dentistry.

What They're Doing

Approve New Budget

DES MOINES — A revised budget was approved Friday by the State Board of Regents for a remodeling project in the otolaryngology department in the SUI College of Medicine.

Involving the construction of a soundproof laboratory for hearing research, the project was originally budgeted for $40,000. The Regents approved a new budget of $47,780 Friday, of which $23,890 was appropriated from departmental funds and a like amount by the U.S. Public Health Service in a matching grant.

The Klinger Construction Company of Sioux City has the remodeling contract for the project.

Up Minimum Wage for SUI Fee Rebates

Special to The Daily Iowan

DES MOINES Regulations governing tuition and fee rebates for SUI staff members were amended Friday by the State Board of Regents to permit such staff members to earn somewhat higher salaries and still receive the rebates.

As amended by the Regents, the regulations call for full rebate of student fees for those who hold SUI Scholarships or Fellowships, and for academic or library staff positions below the rank of assistant professor receiving a salary rate of $1,800 or less per academic year, or $2,400 per 12-month year.

The new regulations also call for rebate of two-thirds of the comprehensive full-time student fee for all academic or library appointees with the rank of assistant professor or above, and for all such appointees below the rank of assistant professor whose salaries are less than $1,800 for nine months or $2,400 for 12 months.

Under terms of the original regulations, such staff members were not eligible for fee rebates if their salaries exceeded $1,500 for nine months or $2,000 for 12 months.

In recommending the changes to the Board of Regents, SUI administrators said the amendments will protect any small increases in salary which might be granted to staff members engaged in advanced study, and expressed the belief that the new regulations would provide a more realistic basis for compensation and help attract desirable younger staff members.

Storm Sewer Construction Contract Let

Special to The Daily Iowan

DES MOINES — The Carstens Plumbing and Heating Company of Ackley was awarded a contract Friday by the State Board of Regents for construction and repair of sewers in the vicinity of the SUI Experimental Schools.

The Carstens firm was low bidder on the project, with a bid of $25,531. Involved are the construction of a storm sewer near the Experimental Schools and a storm and sanitary sewer for Burge Hall, new dormitory for women now being built at SUI.

Total budget for the project is $30,531, of which $18,031 was appropriated by the 55th General Assembly and $12,500 was provided from the construction budget for Burge Hall. The Burge Hall project is financed from rentals from the SUI dormitory system, since Iowa law forbids the use of tax funds for student housing.

Degree to be Awarded To Professor Moeller

Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI School of Journalism, will receive the honorary doctor of letters degree from Wartburg College, Waverly, May 31, at commencement exercises.

The Wartburg Board of Regents announced the honorary degree is being conferred "to give recognition to the outstanding services Prof. Moeller has rendered and is rendering in the field of journalism."

Moeller was connected with two Waverly papers, the Bremer County Independent and the Waverly Democrat, for 20 years before coming to SUI in 1946. He was also associated with papers in Spencer and New Hampton after he received his B.A. degree from SUI in 1925.

Moeller became Director of the Bureau of Newspaper Service at SUI in 1946 and director of the School of Journalism in 1947. He is the author of numerous articles, many of which deal with the problem of recruiting more journalism students.

In addition to other professional organization posts, Moeller has recently become a member of the executive committee of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism and a member of the Inland Daily Press Association Committee on Journalism Education, Personnel Recruiting and Training.

Ted McCarrel, Director of Admissions and Registrar at SUI, will speak at the annual Alumni Day Seminar May 30, at Wartburg in connection with commencement.

Lechay's Art Given to Coe

A portrait of the artist Abraham Walkowitz has been given to Coe College, Cedar Rapids, by Prof. James Lechay, painter and member of the SUI Art Department.

Lechay participated with 100 American artists in an experiment to explora "the relationships between the artist and the object he sees."

All of the paintings, which were of Walkowitz, were done in 1942 and 1943 and exhibited as a group in the Brooklyn Museum in 1944.

Lechay said:

"Walkowitz sat for the portrait intermittently for about a year in my New York studio. Those who painted a portrait of him had complete freedom to do their own work their own way."

Protestant Groups To Hold Meeting

Student Christian Council (SCC), an organization representing 12 Protestant religious groups, will hold its annual spring retreat today at the Sharon Evangelical United Brethren Church, Sharon, Ia.

The Rev. John T. Woods, Westminister Presbyterian Church, Cedar Rapids, will speak on the "Role of the Christian in the University Community."

New officers will be installed at the meeting and members of SCC will consider a proposed constitution for the Inter-religious Council, a new organization designed to bring together representatives from Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant faiths to promote joint religious activities at SUI.

Speech Pathology Holds Annual Banquet Tonight

The Speech Pathology and Audiology Department will hold its annual banquet tonight at 6 p.m. in Izaak Walton League Lodge.

Department officials said skits will be presented to the audience by juniors, seniors, graduate students and faculty members.

Provost and Mrs. Harvey H. Davis will be guests. Aaron Favors, G, New York City will be toastmaster. General chairmen for the banquet are Lois Brien, G, Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Tom Fangman, A3, Boone.

Newman Club Banquet

A recognition banquet for members of the Catholic Newman Club is being held Sunday evening at the Ox Yoke Inn in Amana.

The banquet is being held to recognize those persons who devoted extra effort in making the club a success during the past year.

Speaker for the banquet is Father P. J. Prior, Pastor at Holbrook, Iowa.

All members of the club are invited. Cars will leave the student center at 4:30 p.m. Cost is $1.75 per plate.

REPORT THEFTS

Robert Weiner, C3, Algona, reported the theft of a pair of fender skirts from his 1951 auto to the police Friday.

Gail Sass, 516 S. Gilbert, reported the theft of one hub-cap and rim from his 1951 auto. He said the theft took place some time between 8:30 Thursday and 5:45 Friday morning.

Stassen Tells Of Progress In Arms Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold E. Stassen Friday reported fresh progress toward an East-West agreement on partial disarmament.

"There is no question that we are closer to agreement on a first step, a small cut in armaments, than we were when I was here at Easter," the administration's disarmament chief said upon his arrival by plane from London.

Negotiations with Russian representatives have been going on in the British capital for the better part of nine weeks. British, French and Canadian officials are also taking part in the conference.

Stassen said a plan now being considered would call for mutual reductions in weapons, manpower and defense spending, plus aerial inspection of defined zones in both the West and East.

Stressing that "many difficult issues" remain to be settled, he said he was "neither optimistic nor pessimistic." But it was at this point that he commented on the progress of the last four weeks.

Stassen will meet with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and report to President Eisenhower. He has returned for 10 days of consultations before flying back to London for renewed negotiations May 27.

The main purpose of Stassen's round of meetings with top Eisenhower Administration leaders, officials said, will be to decide on a specific counter proposal to be offered Russia.

This would include agreement by the National Security Council on a plan of arms inspection to be laid bare under Mr. Eisenhower's "Open Skies" policy.

Stassen declined to comment on Dulles' idea, expressed at a news conference Tuesday, that the most likely starting place for such an inspection system would be the Arctic areas of Siberia, Alaska and northern Canada.

Rescue

These were sealed to fit neatly one inside the other. They could be expanded and contracted like an old-fashioned collapsible metal drinking cup.

One by one, in descending order of their size, the shields were forced through the sand from the bottom of the rescue shaft toward the well.

As the workers toiled, there was every indication that death had outpaced them.

There had been no sign of movement from the well bottom in hours. Benny lay wedged in almost total immobility in the damp pit, with only the tiny rays of a flashlight from above as a beacon of hope against overwhelming terror.

It was harrowing, heartbreaking work for the rescuers who squeezed into the ever-narrowing point of the horizontal rescue shaft as they forged toward the well.

Friday, from 2 a.m. on, there was no sign of life from the bottom of the well. The elder Hooper pleaded in vain for some response that would indicate his only son was still alive.

Still there was no giving up. There was nothing to do but forge ahead with the rescue task, hopeless as it appeared.

U.S. Blocks Trial Of GI by Japanese

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson Friday night blocked any immediate trial by a Japanese court of an American soldier accused of shooting a Japanese woman on a military firing range.

The U.S. Far East command in Tokyo Thursday yielded to Japan the right to try Sp. 3c William S. Girard for what has come to be known in Japan as "The Sonagahara Shooting Incident," American officials said they had no other legal course.

Friday night, however, Wilson ordered U.S. military authorities in Japan to keep Girard in U.S. custody "pending a complete review of the matter."

Chemical Anthropology Important Says Prof

Before human nature can possibly make sense, the great chemical and anatomical differences among human beings must be taken into account, Dr. Roger T. Williams, director of the Biochemical Institute at the University of Texas, said Friday night at SUI.

Dr. Williams, who also is president of the American Chemical Society, suggested that man may gain "a revolutionary insight" into human nature through a "wedding" of chemistry and anthropology.

Addressing SUI's chapter of Sigma Xi, national society for the encouragement of scientific research, the speaker said the "science of man" (anthropology) would be "tremendously enriched and strengthened by the insights which chemistry can bring."

"I believe that chemical anthropology will be particularly valuable in making it possible to understand not why people all behave alike, but why they do not," Dr. Williams told the group.

Following are some of the evidences of "a high degree of individuality" among human beings which the speaker cited:

Bodies are "by no means" built alike; internal organs vary three to five times in size from one individual to another; size, position and attachments of muscles vary; hearts vary so greatly in some cases "it would be dificult to believe that they come from the same species;" nerve systems are as different "as the river systems on different continents;" endocrine gland activities vary five to ten times between individuals; and blood varies not only in type but in constituents.

"All of these facts have tremendous implications for inter-human sympathy and understanding, for marriage and family relations, for education, for athletics and recreations, for criminology, for prevention of mental disease and for the prevention and cure of numerous diseases of obscure cause and development," Dr. Williams said.

Alcoholism, he said, is one of the specific problems which have been attacked on the basis of these concepts.

"Though there are psychological factors involved, we are certain that in keeping with the facts of biochemical individuality, alcohol 'does things' to some individuals that it does not do to others, and that the differences have a nutritional basis that has been discovered in some cases and can be discovered in others," the speaker said.

Unless differences in the body chemistry of individuals is recognized, alcoholism "is certain to remain in the class of 'incurable' ailments," Dr. Williams told the group.

The speaker added: "Our studies indicate that it can be cured and what is perhaps more important, it can be prevented. Acceptance of the idea of the importance of individuality by many investigators is essential to progress in this and many other areas."

The local Sigma Xi chapter initiated 157 members into associate and full memberships during the meeting.

SUI's Van Allen Comments on The Earth Satellite

"Isn't it remarkable that we puny people can even contemplate hurling our own moon into the sky!"

Thus said James Van Allen, head of SUI Physics Department, quoted in an article on the earth satellite in the current issue of The New Yorker magazine.

The author of the article, Daniel Lang, then reports Prof. Van Allen on some scientific and diplomatic hurdles to be surmounted before the 20-inch moon can be rocketed into its orbit.

For instance, test firings at Patrick Air Base in Florida; negotiation of international agreements for the use of patches of foreign soil by technicians engaged in tracking the course of the satellite, and maintenance of harmonious relations among scientific panels and "a whole string" of defense and other government agencies.

Referring to the "nightmare fear" that once the satellite is launched, no one will be able to find it, Lang quotes the Iowa scientist as saying: "Until we make our first sighting, things are going to be tense."

Though "fences" of radio tracking stations equipped with giant telescopic cameras will be set up in addition to numerous volunteer amateur observers, Lang quotes John T. Mengel, director of the "Minitrack" system of the Naval Research Laboratory (NRL) as saying that the satellite might very well elude the trackers.

"The transmitter might go haywire, or the antennae might be out of position, or any of a dozen other things might go wrong," Mengel told the New Yorker writer.

Early Relics On Display in Schaeffer Hall

By BILL PEMBLE
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Hidden in a first-floor corner of Schaeffer Hall is the Classics Department Museum.

In the display cases of this room are some of the treasures of the early Greek and Roman Days.

Originally begun in 1916 with the importation of some Roman replicas from Italy, this museum project now contains several items of considerable value.

Instrumental in enlarging this museum was Roy C. Flickinger, former head of the SUI Classics Department. Flickinger was responsible for securing some replicas of objects made in the Mycenaean civilization which preceeded the life of ancient Greece.

Among the outstanding pieces which have been copied from the originals is the famous Nestor's cup. This cup is believed to have been the one used by Nestor, reputed to be one of the wisest men of all time. The legend goes on that if on drinks from this cup he will become wise.

Other gold and silver cups are among this collection. Two sets of Vaphio cups from the city by the same name are made of gold, while a sacrificial cup of that time is made of both gold or silver. A highly ornamental type of cup with three handles is also in the collection.

Implements of war are represented by several daggers, partly gold with some ivory, and a long sword which is of the type used several centuries later in the middle ages.

A death mask made out of gold foil is another item which indicates the prosperity of the residents of Mycenae.

The same type of gold foil was also used to make the crown for their leader and some golden disks for ornamental purposes. A collection of silver rings, which have figures on them telling stories is also included.

Replicas from ancient Pompeii include a cooking stove, with corresponding utensils and a pan used to bake bread. These goods were all made of bronze and lacked the beauty that the Greeks strove for in their civilization.

Also present with this collection are some Roman coins, some of which are originals.

One of the most impressive of the collection of strictly Roman goods is the parade helmet. Made of bronze, the helmet is quite heavy with all of its ornamental pieces stuck on, but also very strong.

A unique Roman water heater-brazier combination is also reconstructed. Built in the shape of a fortress, the stove type object has a place for a grill in the middle and a place to put water in for heating below. This way, the water would be heating and cooking could be carried on at the same time. A spiggot at one side was used to remove the heated water.

Present curator of the museum is Prof. Oscar E. Nybakken, acting head of the Classics Department. Nybakken assumed this position in 1952.

All of the works in this museum are entered under the New York Port of Entry law which admits them duty free as long as they are kept on permanent exhibition, which means they can't be stored.

Spartans Hand Iowa Second Big 10 Loss, 6-5

Dobrino Drops First; Hawks Still On Top

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Don Dobrino was shelled for nine hits, including a pair of bases-empty home runs, Friday and absorbed his first Big 10 loss of the season as Michigan State edged Iowa, 6-5. Dobrino has won four games.

The loss dropped the league-leading Hawkeyes to a 5-2 record.

MSU Capt. Al Luce pounded out the first homer in the opening inning, his ninth of the season and a school record. First baseman Roscoe Davis socked the other in the sixth.

Southpaw Ron Perranoski went the distance for the Spartans, giving up eight hits.

Iowa moves on to Ann Arbor today for a double-header with Michigan. The Hawkeyes must sweep the twin-bill to remain in strong contention for the Big 10 crown.

Score's Retina In Place, But Swollen

CLEVELAND (AP) — Doctors got their first clear look into Herb Score's injured right eye Friday, and saw that the retina is not torn or detached, but it is swollen.

They could not say yet if the injury will affect the vision of the 23-year-old southpaw pitching star of the Cleveland Indians. It depends on how the swelling responds to treatment in the next few weeks — and if there is any injury to the deeper layers of the retina which are not visible.

Iowa Netmen Smash MSU, 9-0; No. 7

Special to The Daily Iowan

MADISON, Wis. — Iowa's title-hunting tennis team smashed Michigan State 9-0 here Friday for its seventh dual win of the season. The Hawkeyes have been beaten only once.

The match was played at Madison to facilitate travel by the Spartans, who currently are on a road trip.

Iowa returns to Iowa City today for a dual meet with Notre Dame.

Sophomore Art Andrews, undefeated in dual competition this season, led the way for the Hawkeyes by pasting Bill Disard of Michigan State, 12-1. In a battle of No. 2 men, Bob Potthast defeated George Steanovic, 12-9.

Joe Martin, Iowa No. 3 man, had the only real close match. Martin edged Mike Zaremba, 14-12.

In other matches, John Channer defeated Ron Mescall, 12-4, Don Middlebrook beat Luis Vela, 12-8, and Dick Hood stopped Foster Hoffman, 12-6.

In doubles play, Andrews-Potthast defeated Bisard-Zaremba, 9-7; Channer-Martin beat Vela-Stepanovic, 9-7; and Hood-Middlebrook trounced Hoffman-Mescal, 8-4.

Today's dual with the Irish will be the last competition for Iowa befor the Big 10 championships at Evanston, Ill., which begin next Thursday.

17 Jayhawks Qualify For Big 7 Track Finals

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The powerful Kansas Jayhawks, shooting for an unprecedented sixth consecutive Big Seven Conference outdoor track and field championship, led the qualifying pace with 17 men in preliminaries of the 29th meet Friday.

Missouri, regarded as the strongest challenger to the Jayhawks, qualified 16 and Colorado moved up 15 for today's finals. Nebraska qualified 14, Oklahoma 7, Kansas State 5 and Iowa State 4.

Iron Leige Is Slim Preakness Favorite

BALTIMORE (AP) — Seven names were officially in the Pimlico entry box Friday but it still looks like a two-horse battle today between Iron Liege and Bold Ruler in the $100,000 — added Preakness Stakes.

Iron Liege, from the Calumet Farm of Mrs. Gene Markey of Lexington, Ky., was an unexpected 8 to 1 winner of the Kentucky Derby two weeks ago, and on the strength of that victory figures to be the choice at a short 4 to 5 price.

However, the Preakness has been a tough cookie for derby winners in recent years, and it wouldn't surprise Marylanders if Bold Ruler should grab the blanket of black-eyed susans.

A dark horse could creep into the act, and the other five in the mile and three-sixteenths gallop could make it interesting for an expected crowd of some 30,000.

Federal Hill, who will be out there in front when the starting gate swings open about 4:45 p.m. (EST) is given the best chance of the five. Owned by Clifford Lussky, Federal Hill led for more than a mile in the derby, then ran out of gas and finished fifth.

Others entered Friday morning were Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Promised Land, Gough Thompson's Inswept, Mrs. Jules Schwartz's Nah Hiss, and the rank outsider, Inside Tract, owned by the D. & M. Stable of Raymond de Brino and Joseph Martino. None of the last four started in the derby.

There will be nationwide network TV and radio (CBS) from 4:30 p.m. to 5 (EST).

GIARDELLO WINS

CLEVELAND (AP) — Joey Giardello built up an early point lead and guarded it cautiously in the late rounds Friday night to hand Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N. Y., his second defeat in 29 fights over three years. Giardello weighed 160 and Calhoun 158 for the 10-ruond bout.

Hawks Host Wisconsin In Track Dual

Iowa's track team entertains Wisconsin today in its final tune-up for next week's Big 10 conference meet. Field events begin at 1:30 with running events following at 2 p.m.

The Hawkeyes defeated Wisconsin 54 2/3 - 52 1/2 in an indoor triangular at Madison. "This should be another close finish," Coach Francis Cretzmeyer said.

One of the top duels of the afternoon should develop in the half mile between Iowa's Tom Ecker and Austin Cotton of the Badgers. Ecker won the 600 yard dash in the conference indoor and Cotton won the half mile.

The Hawkeyes will be weakened considerably in the dashes. Both Tim Hines and Larry Perry pulled muscles in last week's loss to Indiana. Cretzmeyer said Perry would probably run, but listed Hines as a doubtful starter.

Gastonia Finch is again listed as a doubtful starter by Cretzmeyer. "His leg is gradually working back into shape, but he is having trouble with a boil on his nose," he said. Finch spent part of the week in the infirmary.

Cretzmeyer named the 440 yard dash and the high jump as two of the stronger events for the Badgers, along with the half mile. Jesse Nixon finished second in the conference indoor 440 yard dash for Wisconsin.

Iowa Squad

One mile run — Charles Jones, Quenten Wilkes, Bob Fletcher.
440 yard dash — Gastonia Finch, Tom Ecker, Joe Camamo, Fred Hartman, Gary Meeks.
100 yard dash — Tim Hines, Larry Perry, Tom Burroughs.
120 high hurdles — Jack Mathews, Dave Ingram, George White.
880 yard run — Ecker, Harry Frazier, Fletcher.
220 yard dash — Hines, Perry, Burrows.
Two-mile run — Jones, Dick Hermeier, Wilkes.
220 yard low hurdles — Mathews, Ingram, White.
One-mile relay — To be selected.
Pole vault — Gardner Van Dyke, Arvale Rogers.
High jump — Rod Anderson, George Frohwein, George Seaburg.
Shot put — Jim Young.
Discus throw — Young, Ken George.
Broad jump — Camamo, Ecker.

Hogan Fires 66 To Take Snead Lead

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — Ben Hogan, the mighty little destroyer still packing plenty of firepower, shot into the second-round lead of the Sam Snead Golf Festival Friday with 131 strokes.

The 45-year-old Hogan, getting down to business again for a crack at the fifth National Open title, hit a 66 on his second 18 holes, 4 under par and 1 more than he took Thursday.

Hogan's subpar sniping on the 6,497-yard Old White course moved him one stroke past Paul Harney, 27-year-old first-round leader with a 63. Harney slipped back to a 69 Friday, while host pro Snead moved abreast of him by matching Hogan's 66 for the second straight day.

Billy Casper of Bonita, Calif., who began the second round of the 72-hole tournament tied with Snead, dropped a stroke back to 67 and a 133 total to be next in the standing.

Of the 47 pros, 23 were under par 70 on their second rounds and 16 of them were ahead of it for 36 holes.

Hogan, Snead and Peter Thomson of Australia played together in the last threesome and all had the same score. Thomson's gave him a total 135 and sixth place.

PATTERSON-PASTRANO?

NEW YORK (AP) — Floyd Patterson's manager said Friday there is a good possibility the heavyweight champion would defend his title against Willie Pastrano in New York in July.

Minoso's Hit Keeps Sox In Lead, 3-2

BALTIMORE (AP) — Minnie Minoso drove home two runs in the eight inning with a double Friday night to pull the league-leading Chicago White Sox from behind for a 3-2 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The victory was the sixth straight for the White Sox.

Art Ceccarelli limited the Sox to three hits over seven innings.

NEW YORK (AP) — Charlie Maxwell, Bill Tuttle and Al Kaline blasted home runs and Billy Hoeft yielded eight well-scattered hits Friday night as the Detroit Tigers defeated the New York Yankees 4-1 and snapped the world champions' winning streak at four games.

BOSTON (AP) — Jimmy Piersall doubled home the winning run with one out in the ninth inning Friday night to cap Boston's 4-3 comeback victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ray Narleski fanned Ed Yost with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning to preserve a victory for Buddy Daley Friday night as Cleveland defeated Washington 3-1. Daley and Narleski combined to limit the Senators to five hits.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The five-hit pitching of Don Gross and an outburst of 16 hits, including three homers, helped Cincinnati's Reds legs defeat the New York Giants 11-1 Friday night and hold Cincinnati's National League lead.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Marv Blaylock's pinch homer, a two-on, two-out sixth inning blast off Sad Sam Jones, lifted Robin Roberts and the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Friday night.
