Memorial for Eight Children Dedicated

SIGOURNEY — A quiet dedication memorializing the rail crossing tragedy which took the lives of all eight children in a single family was carried out Thursday in a ceremony symbolic of the promise of eternal life.

The dedication took place in the rural parish cemetery of Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic Church near here.

The still sorrowing parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hammes, and a host of relatives and friends looked on as the Rev. Paul Kleinfelder conducted the brief, simple ceremony.

Holy water was sprinkled on the curved stone altar on which is mounted a statuette group. Figures of cast aluminum symbolize Christ on the Cross, the Mother Mary and the Apostle John.

Eight heads of wheat at the base of the cross symbolize the eight Hammes children who sleep in a common grave in another corner of the cemetery.

The plaque for the altar of native stone carries the Biblical words from Jeremiah:

"... Thus saith the Lord: Let thy voice cease from weeping and thy eyes from tears ...

In Memoriam

FLAGS MARK THE graves of Iowa City war dead, honored in Memorial Day ceremonies here Thursday. A morning parade through the Iowa City business district and talks in two local cemeteries following the procession were tributes to those who died to preserve American liberties.

SUI Professor, Lawyer Talk At Memorial Day Ceremonies

Iowa City observed Memorial Day in the traditional manner Thursday with a parade and ceremonies at both Oakland cemetery, where Prof. Harry H. Crosby of the SUI Communications Skills Department spoke, and Memory Gardens, where Iowa City attorney Emil G. Trott was the principal speaker.

Twenty-six organizations took part in the parade which began in the downtown area and was led by Brig. Gen. Will J. Hayek, a retired cavalry officer. The Iowa City High School band, tanks and other vehicles of the local national guard units were among those participating in the procession.

Crosby, at Oakland cemetery, said we must "think and work for a better way to preserve the freedom that those being honored had won." Those are more intelligent and less tragic ways than war to protect freedom, he said, and "the price of war is great — to great."

Crosby urged preparedness, dip-

Many individuals are fooled by these untruthful ads. Such advertising damages the reputation of 53 colleges and universities which do provide legitimate courses.

The SUI Bureau of Correspondence Studies directed by Prof. John L. Davies does not offer extravagant claims of higher pay, prestige or other natural human desires.

Davies said the aim of the Correspondence Studies "is primarily a home study supplementary service meant to assist students in continuing their work away from campus. It also helps former students interested adults from any walk of life broaden their learning back-

British Open New Red China Trade

Objections of United States Are Rejected

LONDON — Britain defied American objections Thursday and scrapped a wide range of Western curbs on trade with Red China.

The State Department in Washington said the United States was "most disappointed."

Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd predicted most of Britain's allies "will follow our example" in wiping out restrictions on 200 items hitherto banned for sale to Peiping.

He stressed in the House of Commons that Britain will continue to ban export to China of the same war potential goods which the allies outlaw for shipment to Russia and other Communist nations.

British traders who have been dealing with Red China hailed the British decision. But one industrialist said an immediate jump in Chinese business was unlikely.

The Foreign Office, however, estimated that British exports to mainland China would be doubled to a rate of about $60 million a year.

This would be less than one per cent of her total sales to other countries. Britain currently imports about $36 million worth of goods from Red China yearly.

There have been British-American differences for the past three years over whether to ease curbs on China trade. They came under intensive discussion the past three weeks in Paris where a group of 15 countries — which operate the control system — searched for a compromise.

The State Department explained American disappointment at the British action in a statement in Washington.

"The United States believed that the security interests of the free world would be best promoted by the maintenance of a significant differential," it said.

Britain argued that China has been steadily getting banned goods through "the back door of Russia," which could freely buy the questioned items.

The British additionally pressed for a settlement rather than for a compromise because they wanted to avoid the need to raise the troublesome issue again.

"We intend," Lloyd told Parliament, "to continue our established policy of cooperating with our friends and allies in a system of controls on trade with both the Soviet Bloc and China in the mutual security interest."

Here are some of the items which Britons will be able to sell to Red China.

Farm tractors, trucks, locomotives and certain other railroad equipment, machine tools, most internal combustion engines, some scientific instruments, rubber tires and raw rubber, small generators, telephone and chemical equipment of some kinds of iron and steel sheets too soft to make military weapons.

Anti-Election Political Riots Strike Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Political violence exploded in Beirut Thursday. Eight rioters were killed by gunfire and scores of others injured before the army restored order.

It was the first serious trouble in advance of parliamentary elections set to begin June 9 in this traditionally pro-Western Arab nation.

The elections are looked upon as a test of strength for pro-Egyptian and pro-Western forces.

The rioting flared when troops and police tried to stop a demonstration and general strike led by

Voice of America Russian Translator Shot by Ex-Fiancee

WASHINGTON — Shot seven times, the body of a Russian translator for Voice of America was found Thursday in the fashionable 16th Street apartment of his former fiancée, Miss Edith Louise Hough, 41, an investment firm secretary.

Police said Miss Hough, an attractive brunette from a prominent family, admitted the shooting and explained:

"He was psychologically aggressive toward me."

Charged with first degree murder, she was held without bond.

The dead man was Zurab Abdusheli, 40, who was married to another woman just two weeks ago. He had lived until May 1 on the same floor of the Woodner Apartments that Miss Hough did.

His wife, Mrs. Irene Eristoff Abdusheli, 43, said he had been a friend of Miss Hough's for years and at one time had been her fiancé.

Mrs. Abdusheli said he had called on Miss Hough this morning to express condolences on the death of her father, Dr. William H. Hough.

"She didn't want him to come over," Mrs. Abdusheli told reporters, "but he insisted on going."

Whodunnit? Chemistry Lab Manual, Notes Stolen

Someone apparently either does not have access to fraternity files or did not take adequate notes during the semester in a chemistry class — or both.

Charles Dennis, A1. Iowa City, told police Wednesday that his chemistry lab manual and his lab notes were stolen from his car between 1 and 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Dennis, without study notes, braved the final exam in the course Wednesday.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — More than 3,000 University of Illinois students rioted Thursday night while city, county, university and state police joined in a determined effort to put it down.

But five hours after the campus-wide outbreak began, police were still having trouble restoring order.

The fight grew from a water-fight between two fraternities — Phi Gamma Delta and Alpha Delta Phi.

At least two coeds were injured. Deputy James Hall of the Champaign County sheriff's police said at least 30 sheriff's police squads were on the scene.

Home Courses Are Popular

The greatest increase in the number of correspondence studies is in June, Davies said.

"At this time students who are a few hours short of graduation requirements for the coming year take enough hours to catch up. Home study courses are also popular with teachers in the summer, especially for those who have a 2-year degree."

At any one time about 3,000 students are taking courses. Records for April showed that 1,886 women and 1,135 men were enrolled in the Correspondence Studies program. In a fiscal year approximately 5,000 students have been active in home study.

Persons deciding to take correspondence studies can choose from 175 courses offered by 18 departments. Fifty-nine instructors grade papers and offer suggestions to students.

The most popular courses at present are in the Department of Education. Nearly 20 per cent of the courses taken are in that area. English Department courses rank second in popularity followed by the College of Commerce.

The largest number of students in the correspondence program fall in the 20-29 age group. Beyond 29 years of age the number of persons taking courses decreases until the 50-54 age group. Then it increases again, followed by a decrease.

Bent Fender Is Only City Mishap of Day

Iowa City missed the nationwide list of communities reporting holiday deaths. Police reported late Thursday only one local accident — a minor traffic "fender bender" mishap.

Across the state, five died in Memorial Day tragedies. The Associated Press reported late Thursday three deaths from highway accidents, one from drowning, and one from a farm accident.

Near Garnaville, Alfred Elgin, truck driver, and Jacquelyne Scherf, 5-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Scherf of Garnaville, were killed in a car-truck crash.

The baby's parents were seriously injured in the accident. They were taken to a Prairie du Chien, Wis., hospital.

The accident occurred on the crest of a hill on a rural road 2 1/2 miles west of Garnaville.

At New Hampton, William Gregory Goebel, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Goebel, died after he was struck by a car as he ran across the road in front of his parent's farm home.

Sheriff Galen Folkers said the boy was hit by a car driven by Peter Adams, 16, of near Ionia.

At DeWitt, Richard DeLacy, 17, of Clinton, drowned while swimming in a lake at the DeWitt Springbrook Country Club.

DeWitt police said the youth apparently suffered cramps while in the water. Efforts to revive him failed.

Des Moines: 7 persons were injured in a 2-car crash on highway 6, about 10 miles west of Des Moines.

The injured were brought to a Des Moines hospital where several were reported in critical condition.

The injured were identified as Charles Hughes, 64, and his wife, Lois, 52, both of Des Moines; Andrew Norgard, 28, Des Moines, and his wife, Phyllis, 24, his mother, Mrs. Grace Norgard, 60, Atlantic, Mrs. Betty Raines, 28, Des Moines, and her daughter, Vicki, 1.

Authorities said the Norgard car was eastbound on highway 6. In attempting to pass a truck during a rainstorm the auto went out of control and skidded broadside into the Hughes car, they said.

The Daily Iowan

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the university. The Iowan's editorial policy, therefore, is not an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion in any particular.

Bold Veto

The recent veto of a $16,059,000 capital improvements bill by Governor Herschel Loveless — $3,749,200 earmarked for SUI — was the unfortunate aftermath of a less-than-satisfactory adjustment of conflicting viewpoints on the retail sales tax issue.

Governor Loveless has indicated all along that if he did not get a reduction in the sales tax, he would take some drastic action designed to bring the situation before the people of Iowa. The legislature either did not take him at his word or else chose to ignore his threat.

No one but Loveless can say what his intentions are, but it seems a safe bet that he did not veto the capital improvements for any other reason than to dramatize how important he thinks the retail sales tax is — after all, he favored an even larger capital improvements appropriation than was finally made.

The veto was a bold move — it could amount to political suicide if the sentiment of the people of Iowa is not what Loveless believes it to be.

If a special session is called soon, and can work out a compromise on the tax bill, then the capital improvements program may not be delayed much; if not, then already overcrowded facilities and inadequate equipment at SUI and the other institutions under the State Board of Regents, will necessitate a curtailment of service.

This has already happened at the SUI School of Pharmacy, where enrollment has been limited by lack of facilities.

The huge classes for western civilization and other core courses that resemble student conventions are likely to get much larger.

Let us hope that the problem can be resolved soon.

Most Valuable Acquisition

The close of the school year is always a time of hectic activity, optimism and poignant reluctance to leave on the part of those whose college days are almost over.

More than that, it is time for reflection — sort of deciding just how much the education we have worked for is worth. Follow-up studies indicate that college students, graduates or not, make an average lifetime income much higher than non-college people.

But it is really the intellectual maturation, the broadened outlook and better perspective of our own limitations that is our most valuable acquisition.

This is the one thing that no one or nothing can take away.

Red China Trade

What Will Be Results of Britain's Move?

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
A few weeks ago it appeared the United States and her allies, especially Britain and Japan, would be able to agree on a liberalization of trade with Red China.

The United States was prepared to agree that they could trade in many non-strategic materials, although intending to adhere, for her part, to a policy of no trade with a regime which stands under the United Nations brand as an aggressor.

But the United States was unwilling to agree that, as a political concept, the restrictions on China trade should be completely reduced to those directed against Russia and the Communist bloc of Europe.

The theory was for the free world to hold an unbroken line of opposition to an aggressor. Now Britain, seeing Japan cutting into the vestiges of her China trade, with West Germany also moving in, has defied the United States and decided to go it alone, permitting trade on the same basis as now allowed with Russia.

The other great trading nations, excluding the United States and possibly but not probably Japan, are expected to follow suit. Japan, through numerous arrangements including the fact that the United States is primarily responsible for her defense, is put into a difficult position. Good relations with the United States are a necessity for her. Trade with China is as natural to her as breathing. She cannot afford to see other nations moving in without competing. She will have to work out some compromise between these pressing needs.

At this one point, at least, the British have formalized one of the differences between their Far Eastern policy and that of the United States. The British recognized Red China as soon as the Peiping regime established itself as the real government of the Chinese mainland. The British attitude toward Red China may be right, and that of the United States wrong. But the British, nevertheless, may find that they have traded off a part of their American friendship for a mess of pottage.

Russians To Have Installment Plan

By The Associated Press
MOSCOW — Russians can expect to buy at least some items soon for so many rubles down and so many rubles a month.

Internal Trade Minister D. V. Pavlov told a news conference Thursday buying on the installment plan — considered strictly a Western economic device — is "just around the corner" for the Russian people. He didn't say what items he had in mind.

Pavlov conceded there is still a wide gap between supply and demand on such articles as automobiles, motorcycles, sewing machines, electric refrigerators, pianos and articles of furniture. But he had one cheering note — by the end of the year every third family in the Soviet Union will own a bicycle.

Charge 'Emotionalism'; Discuss Graham

TO THE EDITOR:
It seems to me that some people in the journalistic field want privileges, but don't accept the attendant responsibilities. They scream about freedom of the press and censorship. But, they feel free to distort the news in line with their own partisan way of thinking. Or, they fail to get the facts. But, they publish the sensational, though brief accounts that come over the wire services.

To write the editorial on the Ellis case in the May 29 Daily Iowan without presenting the background is certainly not journalistic honesty, but a play on emotionalism. There are two sides to this story and I think that they should both be presented to the reading public before making the grand statement that "Governor Le Roy Collins scornfully rejected an extradition plea that would place legality above humanness, and phoney, misdirected religious sentiment above sincere love and affection." I don't know whether the Governor's decision was right or wrong and I don't think that the author of the editorial does either if his only knowledge of the matter is what has appeared in The Daily Iowan.

This lack of journalistic integrity is one of two points I wish to make. The other is the slur cast on a large segment of the SUI campus (see above quote). Catholics believe that their religion was founded by Jesus Christ and that it offers the best (but, not the only) way of life for him to reach heaven. Therefore, Catholic parents believe that they have a sacred and serious obligation to bring their children up as Catholics so that they too would have the best chance of obtaining heaven. Catholics believe this as surely as they believe that there is a God.

To call this belief a "phony, misdirected religious sentiment" is nothing but an irresponsible narrowmindedness smacking of the very religious intolerance the author condemns elsewhere in this editorial.

Kenneth DeGroot, D2
Coraville Trailer Court

TO THE EDITOR:
I have been interested in the several editorials printed recently in The Daily Iowan in regards to the work of Dr. Graham in New York City. I am glad that a university community is aware of what he is doing, even though this awareness may be of a negative character.

Before one can make any authoritative criticisms of the work of any man, however, one must understand the motive by which he operates. It seems to be the consensus of many people who have met Dr. Graham, that he is a devout, sincere, earnest and intelligent man whose life is very obviously motivated by faith in God and belief in the redemptive work of Jesus Christ. The faith that he espouses is no whit different from the faith espoused by some of the very estimable professors in the SUI School of Religion.

The Apostle Paul wrote that the things of the spirit must be spiritually discerned. The non-spiritual man, i.e., one who has not experienced a spiritual rebirth in Jesus Christ, is simply not qualified to make critical evaluations of spiritual things, anymore than he would be qualified to practice medicine without medical training.

It is my firm conviction that true tolerance is found only in the truly spiritual person. Any other degree of tolerance amounts to nothing more than apathy, indifference and expediency. I believe, therefore, that the truly spiritual person at SUI, or any other place, will see Dr. Graham's efforts and the efforts of the SUI School of Religion as two aspects of the same plan.

'Attack the Cause'

Project Extends Parent-Teacher Insight Into Behavior

By TOM SLATTERY
Daily Iowan Editor
(Second of Two Articles)

Noting that parents and teachers tended to deal with child behavior as a surface phenomenon during teacher-parent-child study in the 1930's, Dr. Ralph H. Ojemann developed the idea of a special "causal" approach.

The first step was the formulation of the hypothesis that if a parent or teacher could extend his insight into an appreciation of the causes of behavior and shift from a surface to a causal approach, the chances of blocking strong motivations in the child would be lessened.

This would increase the chance for a cooperative or mutually satisfying relationship, Dr. Ojemann reasoned.

The hypothesis was tested in the case of teachers in a study by Dr. Ojemann and Frances R. Wilkenson, "The Effect on Pupil Growth of an Increase in Teachers' Understanding of Pupil Behavior," published in the Journal of Experimental Education in 1939.

The test, utilizing an experimental and a control group, clearly showed that conflict between teacher and pupil lessened as the teachers gained more insight into the backgrounds, ambitions, worries and concerns of their pupils.

Similar studies, such as that by Blanche E. Hedrick entitled "The Effectiveness of a Program of Learning Designed to Change Parent Attitudes Toward Self-Reliance," published in 1935, indicates that this is true also of parents.

The concept of a causal approach revolves around the definition of causality. Causality deals with behavior — the particular form of which will depend upon the individual and the circumstances he finds himself in at a given time.

This behavior may take various forms, such as withdrawal, aggression or resistance, depending upon the structuring of the situation and certain relatively constant underlying factors.

Ralph H. Ojemann

sons, and that the same underlying causes may produce different behavior in different persons.

4. A disposition leading to consistent attempts to "see things from the viewpoint of others," that is, to identify with whom one interacts. This is the most primitive form of investigation into the causes of behavior in another individual.

5. The realization that one's behavior will have effects upon the behavior of others.

6. Suspending of judgment of another's behavior until sufficient logical information for such judgment is available, that is, until one particular hypothesis about the causes of that behavior or the effect of that behavior has achieved a maximum probability of being a true explanation (yet it is always open to modification if inconsistencies arise).

With these considerations as a basis for the program, Dr. Ojemann began working in the 1940's to prepare materials stressing a causal approach.

Prior to 1954, Dr. Ojemann conducted several general workshops designed to present the idea and develop applications for the people with widely different backgrounds.

Since 1954, he has also conducted special workshops, usually concurrent with the general one, designed to train teachers who will actually be participating in the research project. Many of these teachers attend both the general and the special workshops.

There are in general, three ways that the causal approach is taught to children.

In two of these, the material prepared by project members are designed 1. for use as separate units and 2. for integration into social studies.

the children's behavior. This carries over into all phases of her activities. This is usually a big help in handling one of any teacher's big problems — aggression on the part of her school children.

Using the written materials, a typical lesson might be that designed to teach junior high school pupils to examine for motivation and behavior leading to accidents.

First, the objectives are stated to the children, with the degree of sophistication dependent upon their age and understanding. In this case, the accident lesson, the objectives are clearly stated in detail. Motivational factors that may underlie behavior leading to accidents are fully explored, perhaps enabling the student to learn how to use his knowledge of the motivational forces and other factors in reducing accidents.

Factual aspects of the problem are presented: accidents per year, prevention measures and research are gathered from conventional sources and used in the lesson.

The students are asked, "What can be done about this problem?" They first discuss it themselves, and only then are the prepared materials introduced. An idea of the content may be gleaned from topic sub-titles: "Why People Disobey Traffic Laws," "Causes of Home and School Accidents" and "How to Study Accidents."

The prepared material ends with a note on the latest research in the field. The teacher points out how the various sciences and disciplines enter into the question. For example, mention is made of the "accident repeater."

The causal approach is currently being used in a number of experimental classes in the Cedar Rapids and Tipton school systems.

Some Iowa City teachers in the primary grades are exploring the causal approach for use in their own classrooms. Other school systems throughout the United States, including one in New York, have expressed an interest in the program.

Up until now, the project members have been concentrating upon the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. Now they are working to expand the program to include both higher and lower grades — they are particularly interested in developing the techniques appropriate to the high school level.

The biggest problems the group must continually cope with are: 1. the need to develop more materials for classroom use, and 2. the need to evaluate those materials now in use, revising those that prove less satisfactory and developing new techniques.

The 1957 special and general workshops — the backbone of the program — are scheduled for June 17. Attendance in past years has been about 25 members in each course.

Growing national interest in Preventive Psychiatry is reflected by the fact that well over 150 people from over 30 states registered for the world's first "Preventive Psychiatry Institute," held here at SUI, April 3 of this year.

More significant than mere numbers is the fact that these visitors included 40 or more of the outstanding leaders in psychiatry, child development, public health, sociology and education from governmental agencies, universities and private institutions.

Who Really Likes Ike?

Demos Vote for Ike More Than Republicans!

By GEORGE DIXON
King Features Syndicate
WASHINGTON, D. C. — House Republican leaders, who confer with President Eisenhower every Tuesday, approached the White House for this week's meeting with a pious prayer on their lips that Ike had not seen the latest rundown sheet on their legislative performance. They came away temporarily relieved, at least. If the President had seen the form chart he made no mention of it.

A complete breakdown of the voting records of every member of the House of Representatives has been made, however. It is enough to make Ike wonder if he hasn't secretly been unhorsed. He once declared he wouldn't change horses in mid-stream. The compilation should make him wonder if the GOP congressmen didn't change horses on him, before he even saw the stream.

The horseplay is epitomized by Mississippi. The six Ol' Miss' representatives, all Democrats, have been voting as if they were Republicans.

They've been voting against the President!

The breakdown reveals that congressmen who belted loudest in the last election campaigns, "Help me to help Ike," have been giving him the least help and that those who promised to fight him have been giving Ike the most support.

On every piece of legislation on which the White House has taken a position, Ike has had more support from the Democrats than the Republicans. There have been no exceptions.

The President feels he has more than sufficient cause to be irked at the heads of chowder, or chowder heads, as they are more abbreviatedly-known at the White House. They were among those who cried out the loudest to the electorate last autumn:

"Please help me to get to Washington so I can help Ike!"

To a clubman, they importuned and pestered the President to pose with them, preferably with a "This is my boy!" Presidential arm around the shoulder. Ike posed with them until he got flashlight squint. Since then he's had three to four times as much support from the House Democratic leader, and the majority whip.

Or to point up the irony even more, a whole pack of Eisenhower coat-tail-riders, including the lone GOP congressman from Texas, Bruce Alger, have voted against Ike 91 per cent of the time. But Rep. John J. Rooney, the embattled Democrat from Brooklyn, who is forever taking after the State Department and its expenditures for such cultural activities as Indiana head-stringing, has voted for Ike 86 per cent of the time.

As his influence with the congressional members of his own party continues to wane in the waning moonlight of politics, the President must often wonder what has happened to his allure. They used to say Ike had an irresistible appeal for women.

If he still has it, it isn't reflected in the voting on Capitol Hill. His very favorite congresswoman, the lovely, aristocratic Rep. Katharine Price Collier St. George, of exclusive Tuxedo Park, N. Y., has voted against him five out of every six votes.

Prof SUI Botan Gives Tips

Picking a strange mushroom could be like playing roulette with six by Prof. Henry L. Dean, Department of Botany.

Poisonous mushrooms in Iowa woods are a way for dedicated mushroom hunters to stay away from the varieties, says the SUI professor who has made a life-long study of mushrooms.

"People who have spent a lifetime in the woods know all the poisonous mushrooms, but in general, mushrooms with identifying characteristics are safe to eat."

White spores beneath the mushroom is one of the identifying characteristics of a poisonous variety. The tiny reproductive drops by the millions from the gill-like structure of the mushroom.

A prominent spidery ring around the stalk of the mushroom is a second clue of the poisonous types will have a jagged edge at the bottom like a skirt.

The presence of a "poison cup" at the stalk is the third identifying characteristic of the poisonous mushroom. As an egg-shell egg, the "death cap" closes the entire plant grows and the spores, this bag is ruptured.

Since the "death cap" may not be visible above the face of the earth, Dean the mushroom hunter fully dig away the soil base of the stalk before mushrooming. Too many break the stalk above and do not notice whether a "death cup."

Another precaution all mushrooms in the field unless you know precisely they are. The SUI botanist does not pick spiced mushrooms of a mushroom with a bag. Mushrooms with bags, thin in proportion, and those with all of equal length are poisonous, as are those milky juice, unless the disk in color. If fresh, mushrooms turn blue a few minutes.

Prof Warns of Deadly Mushrooms

SUI Botanist Henry Dean Gives Tips on Poisonous Fungi

Prof. Henry L. Dean of the SUI Department of Botany and Anthony Costantino, Asst. Prof. of General Business, discuss specimens of poisonous mushrooms.

Picking a strange mushroom to eat could be like playing Russian roulette with six bullets, says Prof. Henry L. Dean of the SUI Department of Botany.

Poisonous mushrooms are common in Iowa woods and the surest way for dedicated "mushroomers" to stay away from them is to know how to identify the poisonous varieties, says the SUI professor, who has made a life-long study of mushrooms.

"People who have studied mushrooms for a lifetime still do not know all the poisonous ones," he says, but, in general, the poisonous mushroom will have three identifying characteristics.

White spores beneath the cap of the mushroom is one indication of a poisonous variety. Spores are the tiny reproductive bodies which drop by the millions from between the gill-like structure of the underside of the mushroom cap.

A prominent spidery or web-like ring around the stalk of the mushroom is a second characteristic of the poisonous types. This ring will have a jagged edge and flare out at the bottom like a ballerina skirt.

The presence of a "death cup" or "poison cup" at the base of the stalk is the third identifying characteristic of the poisonous mushroom. As an egg-shell encloses the egg, the "death cup" at first encloses the entire plant. As the plant grows and the stem lengthens, this bag is ruptured.

Since the "death cup" may or may not be visible above the surface of the earth, Dean says that the mushroom hunter should carefully dig away the soil around the base of the stalk before picking a mushroom. Too many hunters break the stalk above the ground and do not notice whether the plant has a "death cup."

Another precaution is to avoid all mushrooms in the button stage unless you know positively what they are. The SUI botanist warns hunters not to pick spoiled or decayed mushrooms of any type.

Mushrooms with bright-colored caps, thin in proportion to the gills, and those with gills nearly all of equal length are likely to be poisonous, as are those having a milky juice, unless the milk is reddish in color. If flesh of a mushroom turns blue a few seconds after it is broken apart, it is probably poisonous.

In the U.S., 90 per cent of mushroom poisoning is caused by the Amanita Phalloides, or "Death Angel," Dean says. This mushroom stands three to five inches high and has a cap three to four inches broad which may be a glossy white, yellowish, dull green or olive green. Eating one "Death Angel" will cause death. At present there is no effective antidote for this type of poisoning and the mortality rate ranges from 60 to 100 per cent.

The reason for the high mortality rate, explains the SUI botanist, is that after eating this species a period of 6 to 15 hours or more elapses before the symptoms of the poisoning appear. By this time, the poison has been too thoroughly absorbed into the system for antidotes to have much effect.

Many different types of treatment are used for various forms of mushroom poisoning, but the best remedy, says Dean, is "Don't eat Amanitas or any other strange mushroom."

Most Iowa "mushroomers" seek the edible Morel, or sponge mushroom, which grows for a short period in the early spring. This mushroom has a pitted head, which closely resembles a sponge, and may be light brown, fawn-colored or olive gray.

"The sponge mushroom is one of the best tasting and one of the safest because it can rarely be mistaken for another kind," says the SUI professor. They can be found around tree roots in rich woody areas where there is a lot of decaying underbrush, and sometimes along streams.

Before cooking, wash them thoroughly to remove any dirt lodged in the pitted cap. Then, cut off as little of the stems as possible and rinse the hollow interior thoroughly with hot water.

Dean says that many "mushroomers" brag that they pick edible mushrooms all year round. Many kinds, such as the Brown Button, Oyster mushroom, Coral mushroom and Puffballs can be found in Iowa at different times during the year, he says, but warns that the mushroom hunter must be careful because that many variations are liable to fool the unwary.

Medical Teamwork Helping to Reduce Deaths from Cancer

QUEBEC (AP) — Close teamwork between radiation therapists and surgeons is helping reduce deaths from cancer of the larynx, two Houston, Tex., doctors said Thursday.

Dr. W. S. MacComb and Dr. Gilbert Fletcher made their report at the American Radium Society annual meeting. About 400 radiologists and other physicians are attending.

Surgery or radiation therapy, alone and in combination, provide the only accepted means of treating cancer of the larynx or voice box, their report stated.

The doctors break the disease into two types — intrinsic, which attacks the vocal cords, and extrinsic, which affects other areas of the larynx.

Intrinsic cancers are usually diagnosed early — hoarseness is a predominant symptom — and are easier to cure, the doctors stated.

Figures from their state hospital showed that of 86 patients with this type 22 died and 10 of the deaths another disease was the actual cause.

The extrinsic type is more difficult to overcome. Although hoarseness is again the chief complaint, other symptoms vary.

Library Workshop To Be Held at SUI

The library's role in public affairs and music appreciation — as well as such daily jobs as book selection, cataloging and mending — will be subjects of the sixth annual Library Workshop Monday through Friday next week at SUI.

Public and school librarians will hear Robert L. Stoyles, research specialist of the Institute of Public Affairs at SUI, Tuesday on "Public Affairs Are Your Library's Business." They will also hear Leona Labock, Jefferson city librarian, on "Music Is Your Library's Privilege."

The sessions will start Monday morning in the Iowa Center for Continuation Study, with Mildred Smock, head cataloger for the Council Bluffs Public Library, conducting a full day's instruction on the cataloging and classification of books.

Book selection day will be Wednesday, with Ruth A. Dennis, Dubuque city librarian, discussing adult books in the morning and Vira Blankenburg, Davenport children's librarian, discussing juvenile books in the afternoon. Mrs. Blankenburg will be assisted by Mrs. W. R. Irwin, Iowa City author of children's books.

Dinner speaker Thursday evening will be Prof. John Gerber of the SUI English Department speaking on "American Humor."

The subject of "Student Library Assistants" will be presented to the group Friday afternoon by Betty J. Buckingham, Fort Madison High School librarian.

Director of the annual workshop is Louane L. Newsome, librarian of the SUI physics-mathematics library and professor of library education.

Other members of the workshop faculty include Ernestine Grafton, director of the Iowa State Traveling Library, Des Moines; Fred K. Schmidt, managing director of the Iowa State Education Association.

Library Service; Buford W. Garner, superintendent of Iowa City Public Schools; Margaret Ryan, chief librarian for the Veterans Administration Hospital, Iowa City, and Raymond A. Kehl, head of the University High School English Department.

Iowa City public school children will cast aside their books for summer vacation next week, Buford W. Garner, superintendent of schools, announced Thursday.

Elementary schools will be dismissed at 3 p.m. Thursday. There will be no school Friday, June 7. Report cards will be distributed at the schools at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 8.

Iowa City Junior High School will be dismissed at noon Thursday, following shortened classes and an honor assembly. There will be no school Friday, June 7. Report cards will be distributed at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 8.

Semester tests will be given at Iowa City High School Wednesday and Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be no school Friday, June 7. Students will receive their report cards at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 8, at the Junior High auditorium.

No Joke Hugs, Kisses, Gun, No Wife

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Police thought Earl Tom Robison, 41, was joking when he phoned to tell he accidentally shot and killed his wife Janice, 47, while embracing her early Thursday. He wasn't.

One of his two teenage daughters had to take the phone to confirm her father's statement.

Detective Sgts. John D. Orndoff Jr. and Edward Heizenrader said Robison gave this report:

He and his wife argued while they were out drinking Wednesday night. He threatened her with a 12-gauge shotgun but had no intentions of shooting her.

They finally made up and were hugging and kissing when the shotgun went off, killing her.

4 Convicts Caught After 5-Day Dodge

ONWARD, Miss. (AP) — Four Mississippi penitentiary convicts who had dodged officers five days in swamps since their escape last Saturday were caught Thursday while eating breakfast in a Negro's cabin.

A search unit led by the prison superintendent, Bill Harpole, captured the four. They showed no resistance.

The four fugitives were Albert Estes, 42, serving 199 years for armed robbery and kidnaping; Francis Abney, 31, serving five years for grand larceny; John Corlette, 26, serving 25 years for armed robbery, and Billy Dean Bramlett, 34, serving life for the 1947 robbery of a Lake, Miss., bank.

All four were working on a trash-removing detail when they escaped.

Honor Society Gets 14 Student Nurses

Two Vancouver, B.C. Newspapers To Merge

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Vancouver's two largest newspapers, The Sun and Province, announced Thursday they will pool their resources effective June 14, in a multi-million dollar transaction.

The Province will switch from the afternoon to the morning field on a date to be determined later, while the larger Sun will continue as an afternoon paper.

Each will retain independent control of editorial and business policies under present managements.

The announcement came only two days after Vancouver's third newspaper, The Herald, announced it will cease publication June 15 because of rising costs.

American Legion Members To Support Immigration Act

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The American Legion last week issued a call to its four million members instructing them to defeat any moves in Congress to repeal the McCarran-Walter immigration act.

The Legion lashed out at those who would change the restrictive law, charging they were part of "the 1937 Communist campaign to utterly destroy the American immigration law."

The Legion's bi-monthly policy bulletin, "The Firing Line," called on more than 30,000 Legion posts and auxiliary units to take "specific steps" in the Legion's drive against immigration law changes.

Verbal orders, recorded on 4,000 phonograph records and 400 tapes, have been issued by the Legion's National Commander, W. C. "Dan" Daniel, instructing Legion members to write, wire or telephone Senators and Congressmen and warn them against, as the Legion said, "tampering with the protection afforded by the U.S. Immigration and Nationality Act."

The McCarran-Walter Act has been widely criticized on the grounds that it is restrictive to the point of excluding immigrants to the U.S. who would make valuable citizens.

The act badly hampered efforts of U.S. officials last fall to allow refugees fleeing from Communist-dominated Hungary to find homes in the U.S.

VALEDICTORY

With this column I complete my third year of writing for Philip Morris.

It has been my custom in the final column of each year to forego any attempts at humor, because you, dear readers, have had your funnybones so frozen by the cold wind of impending final exams that it is futile to try to get a laugh out of you; and because in this last column of the year we are saying goodbye, and goodbyes are occasions for sweet solemnity, not slapdash foolery.

Today my heart is full. I am grateful, first of all, to the Philip Morris Company who make this column possible. They have given me a completely free hand in the choice of subject matter; they have not tampered in any way with my copy; they have been unfailingly courteous and helpful. I wish to take this occasion to extend heartfelt thanks to the makers of Philip Morris for their most touching kindness, and to notify them that if we renew our association for another year, I shall require a substantial increase in salary.

Second, I should like to tender my thanks to you, dear readers. A writer's life is not an easy one. There are an appalling number of hazards—a drought of ideas, for one; catching your necktie in the roller of your typewriter, for another—and when a writer is blessed, as I have been, with an audience as alert, as bright, as intelligent as you, dear readers, then he must take his hat in his hand and his necktie out of the typewriter and humbly give thanks.

Thank you for being dear. Thank you for being readers.

This, dear readers, I now do. Thanks for being dear. Thanks for being readers.

Finally, I wish to thank the tobaccoists of America who make it possible for us to buy our Philip Morris Cigarettes by the pack. If there were no tobaccoists, we should have to buy our Philip Morris direct from the factory in boxcar lots. This would present grave storage problems to those of us who live in dormitories and other substandard dwellings.

I hope, by the way, that you have been to your tobaccoist's lately and bought some Philip Morris Cigarettes. I have been trying to beguile you into smoking Philip Morris Cigarettes by means of what advertising men call the "soft sell." Indeed, I have occasionally gone beyond the soft sell into the "limp" or "flabby" sell. I hope my pulpy merchandising has had its effect, for here is an enchanting cigarette, pure, natural pleasure, a joy, a jewel, a haven to the storm-tossed, a bower to the weary. And in addition to being a haven, a bower, and all like that, Philip Morris is a boon to the absent minded. No matter which end you light, you're right!

And so goodbye. Go in peace, go in content. May good fortune attend your ventures, may love and laughter brighten the corners where you are. See you, hey.

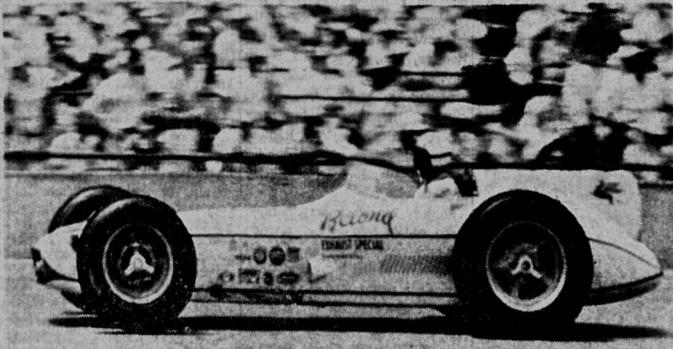

© Max Shulman, 1957

It's been a great pleasure for us, the makers of Philip Morris, to bring you this monument to the soft sell each week. Till next year, goodbye, good-luck, and good smoking with natural Philip Morris, of course!

Sam Hanks Wins 500-Mile Race In Record Time

First Victory In 12 Tries; Rathway 2d

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Sam Hanks, 42-year-old veteran driver, won his first 500-mile race here Thursday at a record-breaking speed of 135.601 miles per hour.

VETERAN SAM HANKS flashes past the stands at the Indianapolis Speedway Thursday on his way to a record smashing performance as he won the 500-mile Memorial Day race. The 42-year-old Hanks averaged 135.601 miles per hour to easily crack the 1954 mark set by the late Bill Vukovich of 130.840 miles per hour. For Hanks, it was his first victory in 12 tries in the Indianapolis racing classic.

Hanks, from Pacific Palisades, Calif., had started in the "500" 11 times previously, finishing second to Pat Flaherty last year.

Second, only 20 seconds behind Hanks in the 200-lap grind, was Jim Rathmann, 28, Miami, Fla. Third was Jim Bryan, Phoenix, Ariz.

Six-foot, 160-pound Hanks drove a yellow Belong Special, a lightweight car with its engine resting horizontally in the chassis. He was challenged throughout the last half of the race by Rathmann, who started in the last row of the 33-car line-up.

Hanks broke the 500-mile record of 130.840 miles per hour set by the late Bill Vukovich in 1954.

Fourth among the 17 surviving cars of the original field of 33 was the Novi Special of Paul Russo, 43, Canoga Park, Calif., while fifth went to Andy Linden of Indianapolis.

The ideal weather, the customary whooping crowd of more than 150,000 saw the yellow caution light flash on four times to signal mishaps on the track.

In all except one instance, the wrecked driver was able to walk away from his car. The one casualty was Mike Magill, 37, Hadonfield, N.J., who suffered back injuries when he hit a retaining wall and was struck from behind by Al Herman, 30, Allentown, Pa. Both were forced out of the race.

Hanks won't know how much he won until Friday's victory dinner. He knows he won $21,150 for leading 141 laps at $150 a crack.

On top of that he'll get a bite out of a probable $300,000 purse that probably will bring car owner George Sallih's earnings to about $100,000.

Slim Sam, who made his Indianapolis debut in 1940, got the traditional "victory" kiss from actress Doy Charisse.

The race got off to a somewhat disappointing start when two cars bumped in the parade lap before the roaring getaway and failed to start.

But after some early maneuvering for position among the pole position drivers, Pat O'Connor, Troy Ruttman of Lynwood, Calif., the 1952 champion, and Russo, who alternated in the lead for the first 35 laps, Hanks took charge.

Hanks' pit crew deserved a good share of credit for the veteran driver's victory. On his three stops, the crew got Hanks back on the track in 47, 44 and 32 seconds. One time, Hanks made a pit stop without losing his lead.

The first 10 finishers all broke Vukovich's three-year-old track record. The 10th man, Johnny Thomson, Boyertown, Pa., had an average of 131.339 m.p.h.

After Hanks wrestled the lead from Russo, who had led for 24 laps, one 10-lap series after another produced new records.

Hanks led for 73 laps before a pit stop enabled Rathmann to move ahead for the first time on the 109th lap.

But Rathmann, after leading for 24 laps, had to duck into the pits for his second refueling and change of tires and Hanks moved back into front for keeps after entering the 134th lap.

Yanks Split; Chicago Leads by 3—

White Sox Take 2 from Indians

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox swept a doubleheader with Cleveland, 6-4 and 2-1 Thursday to stretch their American League lead to three games over the New York Yankees. The twin loss dropped Cleveland four games off the pace.

Dick Donovan scattered 11 Cleveland hits for four runs in the first game while the White Sox stretched nine hits off three Cleveland hurlers into six runs.

In the windup, Chicago's Billy Pierce gave his first run in 20 innings in the fifth — a walk followed by a triple by George Strickland. But Pierce held the Indians to three hits for his eighth win of the season against two defeats.

Luis Aparicio put the White Sox into the lead in the first inning of the second game when he singled, stole second, went to third as Nellie Fox was thrown out and scored on a sacrifice by Minnie Minoso.

Cleveland pulled even in the fifth, when Roger Maris walked and was driven home on a triple by Strickland.

The White Sox came right back in their side of the fifth filling the bases, but despite two Cleveland errors had to settle for one run when Aparicio hit into a double play.

Dave Philley was safe on an error by Vic Verry. Jim Rivera hit one toward Bobby Avila, but Avila threw wild to second permitting Philley to reach third and Rivera to go to second.

Jim Landis popped to Avila and Fred Hatfield was intentionally passed, filling the bases. Pierce then singled to left, scoring Philley.

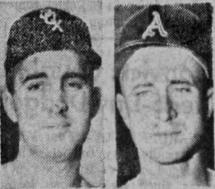

Hanks' pit crew deserved a good share of credit for the veteran driver's victory. On his three stops, the crew got Hanks back on the track in 47, 44 and 32 seconds. One time, Hanks made a pit stop without losing his lead.

PIERCE SHANTZ

Nats 5-0, Yanks 1-9

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bobby Shantz checked Washington's four-game winning streak with a five-hitter Thursday as the New York Yankees won the second game of a doubleheader, 9-0, after the Senators won the opener, 5-1. The victory was Shantz' fifth against one defeat.

Camillo Pascual, beaten by the Yankees 10 times, won the first decision of his career over them in the opener as Jim Lemon belted a two-run homer, his sixth.

The Yankees quickly placed the second game in the no-contest category, aided by the wildness of Ted Abernathy and Dick Hyde.

They scored a run in the first inning after Hank Bauer walked, stole second and went to third on catcher Ed FitzGerald's throw into centerfield. Joe Collins walked and Bauer scored when Billy Martin hit into a double play.

New York erupted for five runs in the third inning against Hyde, with Andy Carey delivering a two-run homer and widening the margin against Evelio Hernandez.

Tigers Sweep 2

DETROIT (AP) — A throwing error by Vic Power enabled the Detroit Tigers to take a 3-2 nightcap victory that completed a doubleheader sweep over the Kansas City Athletics Thursday. Relief pitcher Lou Slaughter won his own game in the opener, belting a 10th inning home run for a 6-5 triumph.

Second baseman Frank Bolling clouted a pair of home runs but it was a wild throw by Power, a first baseman playing in right field for injured Harry Simpson, that gave the Tigers the run that proved decisive.

Fast-baller Paul Foytack blanked the Athletics on six hits until the ninth inning when a pair of walks, a double by Lou Skizas and a two-run single by Bill Hunter spoiled his shutout.

Slaughter, rescued from the minors only a few weeks ago to bolster the Tiger bullpen, got his game-winning blow off Wally Burnette.

Bosox Take 2

BOSTON (AP) — Jackie Jensen hit two homers — one of them to win the 10-inning opener — drove in four runs and scored six Thursday as the Boston Red Sox swept a Memorial Day doubleheader from Baltimore, 7-6 and 16-5.

While both teams pounded out 54 hits for the afternoon, Jensen remained one of the American League's top RBI men by hiking his total to 28.

Jensen homered into the left field screen off reliever George Zuverink as leadoff batter in the 10th to settle the first game after the Sox twice had rallied to tie the score.

In the nightcap Jensen smashed a two-run homer — his sixth of the year — 430 feet into the center field bleachers and singled for another tally.

Reds Still Lead, All Clubs Split

Bell's Homer Gains Split

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs kept a slim lead in the hot National League pennant race by blasting St. Louis 7-3 with a home run attack Thursday after the Cardinals took the opening game of the doubleheader 7-2 on Willard Schmidt's four-hit pitching.

The decisive blow in the second game was a three-run inside-the-park homer by Gus Bell in the seventh.

The Redlegs thus maintained their slippery 1½-game lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers, by virtue of Brooklyn's split with Pittsburgh.

Schmidt, a converted bullpen pitcher, held the Redlegs firmly in check in the opener despite his seven bases on balls. Don Blasingame and Alvin Dark each drove in three runs for the Cards.

In the second game Cincinnati exploded for four runs to come from behind and take a 6-3 lead in the seventh. Successive home runs by Bell and Frank Robinson knocked out Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell.

Tom Acker, third of four Redleg pitchers, was the winner. With two on and two out, Bell lined the ball toward center. Ken Boyer, recently switched from third to center field, tried a diving catch that could have stopped the Redlegs. Boyer appeared to fall on the turf made slippery by rain and the ball struck his body and bounced away for the home run.

Ed Bailey put one on the pavilion roof in the eighth off the pitching of Hoyt Wilhelm and George Crowe pounded out a bases-empty homer in the fourth.

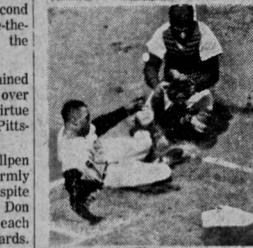

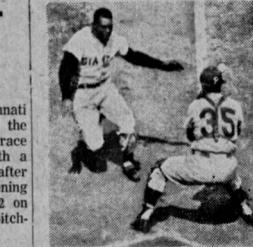

Wally Moon hit safely in both games, running his consecutive game hitting streak to 23 games, longest in the majors.

Only 1 American Left in British Golf

FORMBY, England (AP) — Leslie McClure, a gallant Scot playing with nine stitches in his split ear, yielded 7 and 5 Thursday to Harold Ridgely, the last American left in the British Amateur Golf championship.

Ridgely, a U.S. Air Force master sergeant, soft-heartedly gave his wounded opponent every consideration in winning their quarter-final match. But he didn't let up in his shooting and stayed out in front all day long.

Ridgely, whose home town is Haverford, Pa., is the first American to reach the semi-finals of the British Amateur since Joe Conrad two years ago.

WILLIE MAYS ROARED home Thursday to score on an inside-the-park home run in the Giants' 8-1 win over the Philadelphia Phils in the second game of a twin bill. The Phils won the opener, 2-1. Mays lined to right field and when Bob Bowman missed a shoestring catch, Willie kept right on going. Phillie catcher Joe Lonnett grabbed the relay, tagged Willie, but dropping the ball and Mays was called safe.

Braves' Crone Whips Cubs

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Relief pitcher Turk Lown struck out Felix Mantilla with the bases loaded in the ninth inning Thursday to give the Chicago Cubs a 4-2 victory over the Milwaukee Braves and an even break in a doubleheader.

The Braves won the opener, 5-2, as Ray Crone went the distance for the first time June 26, 1956.

Lown, fourth Cub pitcher in the second game, replaced Dick Littlefield after the latter had walked pinch hitter Joe Adcock to fill the bases with two out. He threw three straight balls to Mantilla, subbing for the injured Eddie Mathews, and then fanned him to give Don Elston his first major league victory.

Elston had rescued starter Tom Poholsky with two out in the fifth and held the Braves scoreless for four innings.

The Cubs drove Taylor Phillips to the showers in the second, saddling him with his first defeat after two victories, and continued their attack against Red Murf before Gene Conley and Dave Jolly stopped them.

Charlie Silvera, Cub catcher, suffered a bad sprain of his right ankle while sliding in the fourth and was carried from the field.

Home runs by Bill Bruton and Del Rice supported Crone's steady eight hit pitching in the opener as the Milwaukee righthander ended a streak of 13 starts in which he had failed to finish.

Council Bluffs Wins Title

MASON CITY (AP) — A wild pitch by Ike Chamberlin allowed Chuck Ackerman to score the only run of the game in the 12th inning and gave Council Bluffs Thomas Jefferson a 1-0 victory over Mason City in the finals of the Iowa high school baseball tournament Thursday.

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Modern communications and old-fashioned seamstress teamed Thursday to provide a Marine Corps major at the South Pole with an age-old thrill — a look at his new-born daughter.

When Mrs. Rhoda Antos gave birth Wednesday to a girl in Mercy Hospital, Buffalo, a Buffalo Courier-Express photographer took a picture of the infant and mother within three hours of the event. The photo was relayed to Syracuse over the Associated Press wirephoto network and rushed to the home of a north Syracuse radio amateur, Paul Blom.

From there, the photograph was transmitted as a radio photo 8,487 miles to the Navy base at McMurdo Sound where Maj. Stanislaus A. Antos, the father, is stationed.

Grand Jury Files Income Complaint

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Federal Grand Jury investigation of tax affairs of the American Lithofold Corp. of St. Louis which figured in a Senate investigation of RFC loans in 1951, will begin here next week, a government attorney said Thursday.

The Government Wednesday filed a complaint charging the company with tax evasion in 1950. Murry Randall, assistant U.S. attorney, said the complaint was filed to beat a statute of limitations, which would have run out Friday. Randall said the government maintains in the complaint that American Lithofold reported about $35,000 income for that year and should have reported "something like $100,000."

The company makes printed business forms.

Denmark Post For Val Peterson

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nomination of Val Peterson to be U.S. ambassador to Denmark is expected to be announced by President Eisenhower within the next two weeks.

In Iowa, the report of the new post for Peterson caused renewed speculation over the possibility that former Republican Gov. Leo Hoegh may be in line to succeed Peterson in the civil defense post. Such reports were current a few weeks ago.

Prompt confirmation by the senate is probable since senators from Peterson's home state, Nebraska, have announced their support. Peterson, 53, has served as director of civil defense since 1953. He is slated to succeed Ambassador Robert D. Coe, who is resigning.

AMA Warns of New Diabetic Drug Use

CHICAGO — The release of the new oral diabetic drug, tolbutamide (Orinase) for prescription use imposes new responsibilities on the physician and patient, according to an editorial in the current (June 1) Journal of the American Medical Association.

The drug, which was available only for experimental purposes until recently, is not a substitute for insulin and can be used only in certain types of diabetic patients, the editorial said. Both insulin and tolbutamide help control the amount of sugar in the blood, which is excessive in diabetes mellitus.

Real and serious problems will arise if tolbutamide is dispensed without a prescription and if it is used in patients for whom it "obviously is not indicated," the editorial said. It is most likely to help the diabetic who has a relatively mild case which developed after the age of 30.

It is especially important for the patient not to develop a careless attitude and for him to understand that the use of tolbutamide does not rule out dietary restrictions and other measures necessary to control the disease, the editorial said. Uncooperative patients should not be considered suitable for treatment with tolbutamide.

Much research has been done on tolbutamide; however, more remains, including learning what happens when the drug is administered for many years.

"In the meantime, physicians must warn their patients that this drug is not a true substitute for insulin but in carefully selected patients can be used instead of insulin to control the blood sugar level," the editorial said.

"If the patients are not warned properly, if they do not cooperate, or if the prescribers of the drug do not understand its limitations, trouble will inevitably arise," it said.

The editorial also listed some of the restrictions and precautions in the use of tolbutamide.

It cannot be used in patients with juvenile or growth-onset diabetes mellitus; unstable or "brittle" diabetes; a history of diabetic coma; maturity-onset diabetes complicated by severe ketosis, acidosis, coma, severe injury, gangrene, Raynaud's disease or serious impairment of kidney or thyroid function; malfunctioning or disease of the liver, or diabetes adequately controlled by dietary restriction.

Any physician using tolbutamide should insist that during the initial test period the patient report to him daily and during the first month once weekly for examination. After the first month the patient should be seen at least once a month.

Heavy Rains, Funnel Clouds Seen in Iowa

Tornadoes took aim at Iowa again Thursday. Funnel clouds were reported in the Nevada, Boone, Carroll and Omaha areas but no damage apparently resulted.

The tornadoes resulted from a line of thunderstorms which built up in a 30 to 50-mile wide band that moved from the southwest to the east central part of the state. Locally heavy rain accompanied the storm.

Torrential rains of the past two days has caused numerous swollen streams throughout the state. The greatest threat is in the Cedar and Iowa River basins.

Three tornado funnels were sighted in the sky between Nevada

Tornadoes damaged two farms and a high school in Colorado Thursday, and rolled threateningly across the skies of central Iowa and the New Mexico-Oklahoma area.

It was a rain-drenched and storm-pummeled Memorial Day for most of the nation. But fair weather was the rule along an area running from the lower Mississippi Valley to New England.

and Roland about 5 p.m. Thursday. Bob Nelson, operator of the Nevada airport, said eight or nine people at the airport saw the funnels reach down. All broke up before they made contact, he said.

The same series of funnels was spotted by several residents of Roland. They said the funnels appeared over open ground.

John Kolb of station WOI-TV, Ames, photographed funnel cloud formations near Beaver, about 15 miles west of Boone, but said none apparently hit the ground.

The Weather Bureau reported tornadoes 12 miles north of Carroll and about 10 to 20 miles northeast of Omaha. There was no confirmed reports they touched down.

The heavy rains of Wednesday night which sent some interior Iowa streams to bankful resulted from up to an official 4.45-inch downfall at Garwin in Tama County and an unofficial six-inch fall in Cass County.

On Black Hawk Creek near Waterloo, a crest of 15 1/2 to 16 1/2 feet is expected at Hudson Friday morning. This is about three feet above bankful and lowland flooding will result.

On the Cedar River, a bankful stage of nine feet is expected at Charles City Saturday morning. The Cedar, however, is expected to crest well below bankful stage at Waterloo late Saturday night unless further heavy rains occur.

The Iowa River rose more than two feet at Marshalltown Thursday and a tributary, Burnett Creek, spilled water over Highway 14 north of there.

A crest of 15 feet, or nearly 2 feet above the 13.8-foot flood stage, is expected around noon Saturday at Marshalltown. Belle Plaine will have a crest of 14.5 feet, half-foot above flood stage late Saturday night.

The Iowa River will rise considerably but will crest below bankful at Iowa City and Wapello.

The Iowa Highway Patrol said Thursday afternoon that it had no reports of any primary highways in the state being closed because of high water.

Cedar Rapids reported an unofficial 1.50 inches of rain in one hour Thursday afternoon. The Iowa Electric Light & Power Co. said the northwest part of Cedar Rapids was without electricity when wind toppled a tree onto a primary power line.

Ellis Park golf course there was closed when several greens were flooded.

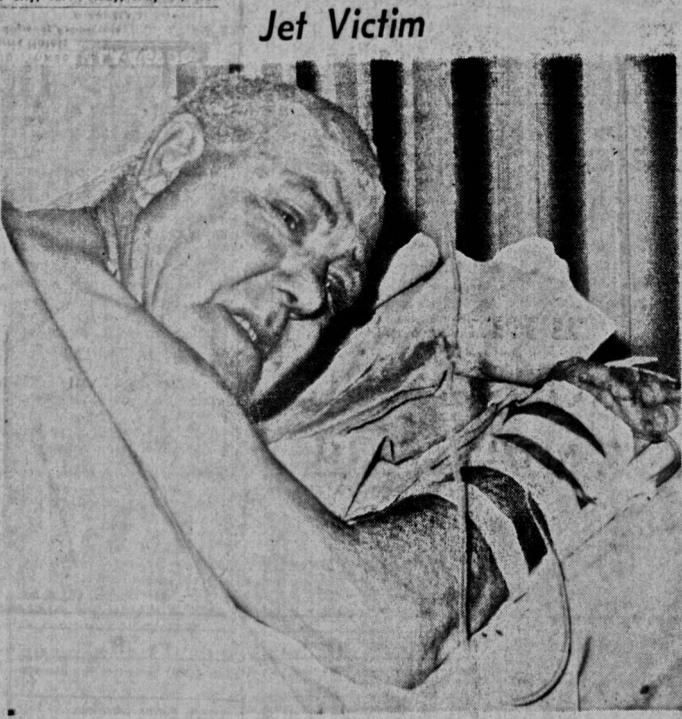

Northern Iowa escaped the rain Thursday and skies were partly cloudy. The Weather Bureau said southern Iowa can expect locally heavy rain again Thursday night.

Temperatures Thursday were mostly in the 70s and similar highs are forecast for Friday.

JET AVERAGES 750 MPH
WICHITA, Kan. — An Air Force pilot Thursday reported flying a McDonnell F101 Voodoo interceptor jet here from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., faster than sound much of the way.

Maj. Austin (Gus) Julian said he flew 1,050 miles Wednesday in an hour and 25 minutes for a speed average of more than 750 miles an hour.

Julian refueled from a jet tanker 40,000 feet above the Santa Fe, N.M., area.

NELS SWANSON, 59, of Minneapolis, Minn., grimaces with pain in his hospital bed suffering from burns received when his house caught fire from a crashing jet. Two jets, participating in Memorial Day observance, collided in mid-air (story on page 1).

The Iowa River rose more than two feet at Marshalltown Thursday and a tributary, Burnett Creek, spilled water over Highway 14 north of there.

A crest of 15 feet, or nearly 2 feet above the 13.8-foot flood stage, is expected around noon Saturday at Marshalltown. Belle Plaine will have a crest of 14.5 feet, half-foot above flood stage late Saturday night.

The Iowa River will rise considerably but will crest below bankful at Iowa City and Wapello.

The Iowa Highway Patrol said Thursday afternoon that it had no reports of any primary highways in the state being closed because of high water.

Cedar Rapids reported an unofficial 1.50 inches of rain in one hour Thursday afternoon. The Iowa Electric Light & Power Co. said the northwest part of Cedar Rapids was without electricity when wind toppled a tree onto a primary power line.

Ellis Park golf course there was closed when several greens were flooded.

Northern Iowa escaped the rain Thursday and skies were partly cloudy. The Weather Bureau said southern Iowa can expect locally heavy rain again Thursday night.

Temperatures Thursday were mostly in the 70s and similar highs are forecast for Friday.

WICHITA, Kan. — An Air Force pilot Thursday reported flying a McDonnell F101 Voodoo interceptor jet here from Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., faster than sound much of the way.

Julian refueled from a jet tanker 40,000 feet above the Santa Fe, N.M., area.

UN Group To Discuss 'Secret Plan'

LONDON — The UN disarmament subcommittee Thursday put off its next formal meeting until Monday.

A major new U.S. proposal was the subject of much backstage discussion.

The subcommittee was to have met Thursday after a one-day recess during which U.S. Delegate Harold E. Stassen flew to Paris to discuss the still-secret U.S. plan with the NATO council.

It had been made clear, however, that the meetings would amount to little more than a formality until other Western governments have had time to form their own views on the U.S. plan.

The proposal had not been expected to reach the subcommittee, which includes Britain, France, Canada, the United States and Russia — until next week.

All the delegates but Russian Valerian Zorin have been filled in on the U.S. plan in private consultations with Stassen.

JOHN HOEVEN DIES
John Hoeven, Storm Lake, a representative of the Iowa safety education department, died early Thursday at University Hospitals. Cause of death was not immediately known. He was the father of Sally Hoeven, 20, one of five persons killed May 19 in an auto accident near Jefferson.

Countess Barattieri, his mother, said, "I do not plan to handle him any differently now that he has returned." She and her husband said Vittorio will return to school immediately.

Count Barattieri said Chicago police had done everything they could "expect on the first day."

"They could have done more," the father said. "There are a lot of murders in Chicago, and he could have been killed."

Two Are Acquitted In 'Bama Bombing'

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Two young white men were acquitted late Thursday of the bombing of a Negro church.

The verdict by the 12 white jurors came after an hour and 35 minutes deliberation and brought a ringing outburst of applause from the packed courtroom after court was adjourned.

The verdict cleared Raymond C. Britt Jr., 27, and Sonny Kyle Livingston Jr., 19, of the charge of bombing the Hutchinson St. Baptist church early on the morning of Jan. 10 during an outbreak of violence which followed the end of city bus segregation in Montgomery.

Before the verdict was returned, Circuit Solicitor William F. Thetford had announced that bombing charges against two other defendants and two other counts against Britt had been continued until the July term of court at the request of defendants.

Four churches, the homes of two pro-integration ministers, and a Negro taxicab stand and adjoining residence were bombed in two outbreaks of terrorism following the end of bus segregation in Montgomery.

State and defense attorneys alike waved the banner of segregation in their closing arguments.

Music Furnished for 21 Stores

scribes it, "is mood music, not too heavy, but middle-of-the-road music. The recordings are all instrumental because surveys have shown that it takes concentration to listen to vocal music. The music is for background purposes only. It is not to intrude but to be there for the customer's enjoyment without his being conscious of it."

"If a store uses a radio, there is a break when a voice cuts in and you are forced to stop and listen," Wombacher said.

Wombacher has permission from a local radio station to broadcast games during the football and basketball seasons. During the World Series he also substitutes sports for music.

Special programs of music are provided during the Christmas season. However, Wombacher said, he does not like to start Christmas carols too early. Beginning the second week of December about one recording in every 10 will be a carol. The numbers of carols is increased until the last week before Christmas the content will be about one in three. During the Easter season certain seasonal recordings will be played.

The music is not for the customer alone; the employees also benefit. Wombacher said that in any firm where working conditions are rather "tight," the music tends to cut down on the arguing and bickering that normally takes place between employees.

"This is particularly true in a restaurant between the kitchen employees," he said.

The background music service is only a sideline to Wombacher's regular job. He admits that it takes very little of his time. Haitian Says UN Must 'Take Action'

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti — One of Haiti's leading presidential candidates Thursday urged that the UN take immediate action to end violence and turmoil in this Negro republic and establish machinery for "free and honest elections."

Former Sen. Louis Dejoie, wealthy 61-year-old planter, said in an interview the UN offered the best hope to dispel threats of continuing violence that could destroy this nation.

He said all 10 candidates for the presidency in the June 16 elections should "accept mediation by the United Nations which would assure free elections."

His plea is not likely to find support among other presidential aspirants, including Provisional President Daniel Fignole, 43-year-old favorite of Port au Prince workers.

Fignole has declared "free, honest and sincere" elections would be held "as soon as possible."
