

Tidal Waves Swamp Hurricane-Battered Louisiana Coast

Waves Sweep Bodies to Sea; High Toll Seen

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP)—Mammoth tidal waves—receding slowly at nightfall—swamped the Louisiana coast Friday in the wake of hurricane Audrey, leaving at least 167 dead and hundreds injured.

Maj. Gen. Raymond Hufft, state civil defense commander, said there were 150 known dead in the Cameron area alone and "it may be a week to 10 days" before the final count is finished. Seventeen other victims were counted elsewhere.

AN ARMADA of helicopters and fleets of boats roamed through the flooded Cameron area south of here in the southwest corner of the state. A 20-mile strip along the coast is below sea level.

Cameron Parish County Sheriff O. B. Carter predicted the death toll would be at least 200.

Ken Dixon, managing editor of the Lake Charles American Press, said two-thirds of the victims' bodies would be swept into the Gulf of Mexico by the receding tides.

First hint of the scope of the disaster came early Friday morning when Deputy Sheriff D. P. Vincent, rescued by boat from Cameron, said he felt "3,000 or 1,000 persons stayed in the parish."

RED CROSS sources said about 1,000 persons stayed in the parish when Audrey struck Thursday.

Bill Mertena, an American Press reporter, toured the Cameron area by plane and helicopter.

Mertena covered almost 80 miles of coastline in his flights and reported only one home out of every 25 still standing. "The resort community of Holly Beach no longer exists. It was completely wiped off the map."

HUNDREDS were evacuated by boat Friday. Sheriff Carter released his estimate of 200 deaths after evacuations began.

Four hundred persons were rescued on one boat alone, the majority picked off rafts, trees, remnants of rooftops. Some were swimming or just floating when spotted by rescuers.

Refugees were sent to the huge arena at McNeese State College in Lake Charles. Most had only the stained, mud-spattered clothes they wore. Little children wore only shorts or panties.

OIL COMPANIES, whose offshore rigs were destroyed by the 105-mile-an-hour winds, said their loss would run at least $15 million.

One 30,000-head herd of Brahman cattle in the Pecan Island area 50 miles east of Cameron was wiped out. Sheriff Jack Moss at Abbeville said the one herd was easily "worth millions."

Associated Press newsman James McLean said the tidal wave killed four children of the Stephen Broussard family. Three of them drowned in a terrifying ordeal as their house was swept across a 10-mile wide lake and smashed to bits. A fourth died, apparently from a snake bite.

At Cameron, big boats, 75 or 100 feet long, were lying hundreds of yards inland. Some had been carried miles. A huge drilling barge was left blocking the highway from Lake Charles down to Cameron.

NATIONAL GUARD units moved thousands of cots and blankets into the area and 400 Red Cross officials helped bring some order at refugee camps.

Red Cross sheltered 19,000 people during Thursday night and gave food rations to 30,000.

Heavy Storms Move Inland To Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The massive storm which was Hurricane Audrey, sent winds and sheets of rain northeastward into the Ohio Valley Friday night after a killing onslaught in Louisiana and along the Gulf Coast.

Inland, it loosed rain torrents along a belt of contact with chilly air in the Midwest, dropping nearly 10 inches in Illinois and Indiana where flash flooding drove hundreds from their homes and blocked highways.

TWO WOMEN were drowned when a bus was swept into a creek at Zionsville, Ind. A motorist was drowned when his automobile was washed into a gully near Chrisman, Ill. At least six other deaths were attributed to rains and flooding in Illinois.

Tornado funnels spun from clouds over Alabama. Eleven persons were injured by two twisters which damaged farm communities between Montgomery and Mobile.

A small twister was reported to the Weather Bureau near Palm Beach, Fla., but it only tore shingles from a house.

The disturbance churned winds of 68 m.p.h. in a thunderstorm Friday afternoon near Sandusky, Ohio. Winds early in the day were measured at 60 m.p.h. at Mobile, where tides were the highest since a hurricane in 1948.

OFFICIAL RAINFALL measurement was 9.50 inches at Paris, Ill., and the Kaskaskia River rose quickly to a record flood level at Shelbyville, with heavy flood damage expected Friday night there and at Vandalia.

Most major highways were closed by floodwaters in south central Illinois.

Rockville, Ind., was cut off from highway access by flood waters following cloudbursts in the central part of the state where Whitestown measured 7.35 inches of rain. Much of the central Indiana area received 3 to 4 inches.

THE HEAVY RAINS moved eastward, where the Weather Bureau said heavy rainfall was due Friday night in western New York State.

A gale-swept rain storm hit Jamestown, N. Y., knocking out some utility lines. The Weather Bureau reported winds had a sustained strength of 50 m.p.h.

3 on Faculty Elected To Graduate Council

Three members of the SUI faculty have been elected to the University's graduate council, according to Dean Walter F. Loehwing of the Graduate College.

They are Prof. C. J. Alexopoulos, head of the botany department; Prof. James Van Allen, head of the physics department, and Paul Blommers, Professor of Education.

To serve for three years on the executive group representing the faculty, they succeeded retiring members Dean Norman P. Nelson, of the College of Medicine; Henry B. Bull, head of the biochemistry department, and Hunter Rouse, director of the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic Research.

Brechler could not be reached last night for comment.

Summer Session Largest in 6 Years

More students are attending the State University of Iowa this summer than in any summer session since 1951. Final enrollment figures, released Friday by the President's office, listed the total as 4,219.

Summer enrollment in 1951 was 4,320. Total enrollment a year ago was 3,906. Graduate college has the highest enrollment, 2,199, followed by liberal arts with 1,132.

Men outnumber women on the SUI campus this summer, 2,828 to 1,391.

Court Rules Against Miller

WASHINGTON (AP)—Playwright Arthur Miller failed Friday to knock out his contempt of Congress on the basis of the Supreme Court's Watkins decision.

U.S. Dist. Judge Charles F. McLaughlin ruled the Watkins decision did not cover one of the two contempt counts upon which he adjudged Miller guilty May 31.

Judge McLaughlin, however, said the Watkins ruling applied to the other count and he acquitted Miller on it.

FOR SENTENCING purposes, judges have invariably treated a series of refusals to answer questions before congressional committees as one offense. Therefore Miller still faces a sentence which, in the discretion of the judge, could range up to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Judge McLaughlin said he would not impose sentence until he returns from a vacation in two or three weeks.

The contempt action against Miller arose from an investigation by a House Un-American Activities subcommittee a year ago. Miller refused to name Communist writers with whom he said he attended meetings in New York in 1947.

"IN THE circumstances, the committee was under no requirement to state to defendant the manner in which the propounded question was pertinent to the subject under inquiry at the time," Judge McLaughlin said.

As to the other count of the indictment, McLaughlin said the committee did not comply with the requirement laid down in the Watkins decision in telling Miller the manner in which the question was pertinent to the inquiry.

San Francisco (AP)—Granting membership to Communist China would lead to the "destruction" of the United Nations, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles declared Friday.

"Communist Russia, with veto power, already seriously limits the ability of the United Nations to serve its intended purposes," Dulles said. "Were Communist China to become a permanent, veto-wielding member of the Security Council that would, I fear, imply recognition of the United Nations the seeds of its own destruction."

THE SECRETARY made this strong statement of opposition at the international convention of the Lions Club in the city where the United Nations was born. Delegates broke into applause seven times during the 30-minute speech which was televised nationally.

Recognition of the Soviet Union by the United States in 1933 set no precedent necessitating recognition of Communist China now, Dulles said.

"Soviet Russia, in 1933, had a decade of peaceful non-aggressive relations with neighboring countries, while Communist China's past record is one of armed aggression," he declared.

"THE SOVIET REGIME seemed to want peace for the future. In the case of Communist China, the situation is quite the reverse."

He said the Red Chinese ambassador to Geneva, in talks concerning the Far East situation, "finally stated frankly that his regime contemplated using armed force to take Taiwan (Formosa) unless they could get it in some other way."

"The Soviet Union in 1933 was not flagrantly violating its international engagements," Dulles said. "The Chinese Communist regime is violating the 1953 Korean armistice and the 1954 Indochina armistice."

American recognition of Communist China would lead to dire consequences, the secretary declared.

SUI Symphony Concert Set For Tuesday

A concert by the University Symphony Orchestra will be presented Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union as part of the Nineteenth Annual Fine Arts Festival.

The orchestra, conducted by James Dixon, will open the evening of music with the overture to "Il Matrimonio Segreto" by Domenico Cimarosa. The libretto of this opera was based on a French operetta whose plot was derived from "The Clandestine Marriage," a comedy by George Colman and David Garrick.

"Concerto for Violin and Orchestra No. 3, in G Major" by Mozart will be the next selection on the program, with Romy Shevelov, assistant professor in the Department of Music, playing the violin solo.

After a brief intermission, the orchestra will return with "Symphony No. 10 in E Minor, Op. 93" by the Russian composer Dmitri Shostakovich. This symphony was completed in 1953 and received its first performance in December of that year by the Leningrad Philharmonic Orchestra.

Admission to the concert is free and tickets are available at the IMU main desk. Radio Station WSUI will broadcast the concert.

House Group Slices $600 Million From Foreign Aid Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee Friday voted to cut $600 million from President Eisenhower's $3,865,000,000 foreign aid program. It also voted to curtail his requested long-term aid authority.

Chairman Thomas S. Gordon (D-Ill.) announced the closed-session action as the committee pushed toward final approval of the disputed aid bill.

The cuts so far total $200 million more than were voted by the Senate. The House group still has some way to go on the measure which sets terms and ceiling for the global assistance program.

By a vote which Gordon declined to reveal, the committee:

PLACED a $1 1/2-billion ceiling on the amount of arms aid for the fiscal year starting July 1. This is $400 million below what Mr. Eisenhower sought and $300 million under the Senate-approved figure.

AUTHORIZED $700 million for economic aid to support defenses of friendly nations. Mr. Eisenhower had asked for $900 million in these defense support funds and the Senate had cut the amount only $100 million.

DECLINED to authorize $1 1/2 billion in the two fiscal years starting July 1, 1958, for an economic development loan fund that the President had requested and the Senate approved.

However, the House committee did vote to authorize $500 million for the first year of this three-year program as Mr. Eisenhower asked.

Summerfield Says His Funds Will Do

WASHINGTON (AP)—Postmaster General Summerfield thinks he can get along with the extra $133 million provided by Congress for postal operations in the next fiscal year.

The money "eliminates any necessity of significant curtailments in the present mail service," Summerfield said in a statement issued shortly after President Eisenhower signed the supplemental appropriations bill.

The money voted was $16 1/2 million less than Summerfield had asked to meet estimated needs for the new fiscal year, which begins Monday.

If the full Senate goes along with the increase, the difference will have to be adjusted in a Senate-House conference.

While the Appropriations Committee was restoring hundreds of millions to the defense budget, Eisenhower himself cut $456 1/2 million from his budget request for military public works, covered in a different bill.

The White House sent Congress a revised request for $1,665,500,000 for this purpose. The proposed savings would be made by deferring less urgent construction projects until next year or later.

Police asked residents along a route from Lexington Avenue to G Street to move their cars Friday night, thus providing a prologue to what should prove to be the final chapter in the story of a small, 20 by 40-foot, one-story house being moved by Max Yocum.

Developments came rapidly after a consultation Friday afternoon by City Manager Peter F. Roan and City Streets Department Commissioner Willard Irvin.

At 4:10 p.m., a crew of about 14 city employees was called and at 4:50 p.m. they began tearing the roof from the house to facilitate moving it back to Halley Street, its original location.

Just 59 minutes later, the roof was gone.

Workmen towed the house back as far as the intersection of Lexington Avenue and River Street — a distance of a half block — when a police squad car brought orders to suspend operations.

Yocum was going to move the house himself between midnight Friday and 6 a.m. today under a special permit issued on the authority of City Manager Roan. Yocum asked for a police escort in the operation and was told this would be provided.

Yocum originally began moving the house Thursday morning. He was forced to halt after numerous protests from residents on River Street who said tree limbs were removed as the house was pulled along.

Police have been guarding the stalled dwelling since noon Thursday to prevent Yocum from moving it — either forward or backward — until he obtained a valid permit. His original permit expired at midnight Wednesday.

Earlier Friday, City Clerk Walker D. Shelly told Yocum that no license could be granted without the approval of the City Council. At this time, Yocum also needed a route designation from City Engineer Fred Gartzke.

Later, Gartzke did issue a route of movement which included River Street, Woolf Avenue, Newton Road, Riverside Drive, the Burlington Street bridge and Fourth Avenue.

At this point, Roan issued Yocum the special permit to move the house — provided he remove the roof.

Yocum had made no arrangements for moving the house by late Friday afternoon, and at that time city officials made the decision to remove the roof and return the house to its original location.

Barring unforeseen nocturnal obstacles, however, the house is now expected to be at its new location on G Street by this morning.

While the Appropriations Committee was restoring hundreds of millions to the defense budget, Eisenhower himself cut $456 1/2 million from his budget request for military public works, covered in a different bill.

The White House sent Congress a revised request for $1,665,500,000 for this purpose. The proposed savings would be made by deferring less urgent construction projects until next year or later.

Dulles Says Recognition of Red China Will Prolong Its Life, Weaken Resistance

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

In the matter of Red China, everybody's out of step except the United States.

Secretary Dulles has made a most impassioned explanation of why the United States cannot and, he says, will not, recognize Red China, trade with Red China, or permit Red China's entry into the United Nations.

Dulles bases a part of his argument on the belief that Communist rule in China will not prove permanent, and that the United States should do nothing to prolong its life. He says recognition would do that, and would weaken the will of Chinese abroad, as well as the will of other Asians, to hold out against Communism.

At the same time, the British Commonwealth, led by Great Britain, America's most important ally, are agreeing that Red China has come to stay as a nation and must eventually be admitted to the U.N.

France has adopted the British view that the Western nations should resume trade with Red China at least within the higher limits granted Soviet Russia. She has not adopted a formal policy regarding recognition, but press and other public utterances show she is leaning toward Britain in that also.

Competent observers in Washington are predicting that Dulles will not be able to make his policy stick forever — or even for two.

West Coast congressional leaders are interested in trade. The best guess is that Dulles represents a strong current policy, but not a permanent one. He is, incidentally much tougher about it than President Eisenhower.

Letter to the Editor We 'Otto' Blame Graham, Not Joan

TO THE EDITOR:

I read Jim Well's review of "Saint Joan" before I saw the movie, and at the time the thought came to me that he might be a little unfair in comparing Jean Seberg to actresses who have never, in public performance at least, played Shaw's Saint Joan. But after I saw the movie I came to the conclusion that the comparison was fair, because Joan did not play Shaw's Saint Joan either.

However, it is time to stop maligning Jean Seberg for something which is not her fault. It is not wholly her fault that she was miscast in a part for which she is not suited physically or emotionally. And it is certainly not her fault that the character, as presented in the movie, was such a botch of conflicting concepts as to be practically unintelligible.

The fault lies with Graham, Greene directly, and with Otto Preminger indirectly, for concocting such a confused and misinterpreted version of Shaw's play.

I have great respect for Greene's writing and have found his novels and plays most intriguing. I find his ideas are interesting in his own works, but I object heartily to his rewriting Shaw in the image of Graham Greene. Greene completely erased the unique Joan which Shaw created and pushed her back into the conventional mold from which Shaw deliberately rescued her.

To be more specific, Shaw built his play around a major theme which explained Joan in the light of certain rational phenomena. Although Shaw exploited the mystical in some of his plays, in this play he deliberately avoided it until the epilogue.

Shaw's major theme is that Joan was the unknowing agent of the growing forces of nationalism and Protestantism. These two forces explained Joan's actions and the reactions of the nobility and the Church to her. In the movie there are two passing references to nationalism and absolutely none to Protestantism. One of the most famous passages in the play, Cauchon's speech on the Church's fear of Joan, is completely ignored. Instead of representing Joan as one of the first Protestants, as Shaw in his iconoclastic way saw her, Greene exploited the interesting, but completely unShavian, problem of the saint and her Church.

Preminger had wanted to present a Catholic saint, he could have had his own play written (as he actually did under the name of Shaw), or he could have used one of the many plays available on that theme, such as Anouilh's "The Lark." If he had wanted to remain neutral, he could have presented a version similar to Maxwell Anderson's inter-denominational "Joan of Lorraine." My objection is that he destroyed Shaw's fascinating saint of nationalism and Protestantism.

This is not a simple matter of Greene's having left out some key speeches. Close attention to the text of the movie will reveal many more subtle changes in this direction. For example, there is no reference to Shaw's contention that Joan won battles because she knew how to use modern weapons of war, particularly the cannons. In the movie Joan does all the miracles. In the play, Shaw's Joan never consciously performs a miracle. (Greene left Shaw's explanation of miracles in the movie, but changed his illustrations of the explanation.) The two prime examples are the death of Foul Mouthed Frank and the changing of the wind at Orleans.

In the movie Frank is suddenly struck dead as he is about to attack Joan. In the play, after Joan tells him not to swear when he is at the point of death (the irony that soldiers are always at the point of death), Frank gets drunk and falls down a well.

In the movie, Joan goes into a moment of silent prayer, and the wind changes at Orleans. In the play Joan doesn't want to go to church and pray. She wants to fight. Dunois insists that she pray, and Joan finally agrees to go to the church, but before she can go, the wind changes. Shaw is, of course, playing on the possibility of coincidence.

Shaw toys with paradox all through his play. Greene pushes the play back into a conventional mold, not only losing Shaw's wit and irony, but also destroying Shaw's concept of the character, without replacing it fully with his own. The two concepts battle throughout the movie, and Jean Seberg had to try to play at one moment Shaw's simple country girl, and at the next, Greene's ascetic saint—to "ride both the Protestant and the Catholic horses," (as Shaw writes in "Good King Charles.")

No, my complaint is not with what inexperienced Jean Seberg did to Saint Joan, but with what experienced Graham Greene and Otto Preminger did to Bernard Shaw.

Defense, U.S. Rest Cases Abruptly in Nickerson Trial

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — An abrupt end to the half-secret court-martial of Army Col. John C. Nickerson Jr., was in sight Friday night.

Despite the fact that the defense had planned to call 14 witnesses, it rested its case at 3:30 p.m. Friday after the 10-man court martial board had heard only 4.

A few minutes later the prosecutor, Lt. Col. William G. Barry, announced that the Government also rested, but would call Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, commanding general of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency to the stand today.

After hearing Medaris the court-martial board presumably will retire to fix Nickerson's punishment. He already has pleaded guilty to 15 counts of laxity in handling secret defense data. If given the maximum sentence he could be dismissed from the service and imprisoned for 30 years.

Oddly, the abrupt moves came after a long and secret huddle by the defense and prosecution attorneys and after a closed session of the court-martial board.

To date in this strange, 4-day-old court-martial, Nickerson and others have offered a great deal of opinion testimony on what they say is the Air Force's efforts to seize the Army's long-range ballistic missile program.

Perhaps significantly, however, there was not a single piece of written evidence introduced in open court to substantiate Nickerson's thesis, though in secret session defense exhibits reached to the alphabet letter "Q."

Medaris presumably will testify as to Nickerson's capabilities as an officer since he was his superior and whether, in light of the court-martial, he would like to have Nickerson return to work on the missile program.

Before court went into closed session it heard a last charge from Nickerson that he believed the Air Force would accept an inferior ballistic missile before it would buy the Army's better one.

"Their basic interests, the future they're seeking for themselves, is outlined by the money and jobs they expect to get in the aircraft industry," Nickerson testified. "This is especially true in the Air Force."

The 41-year-old West Point graduate Air Force and aircraft industry pressure for Defense Secretary Wilson's Nov. 26 memorandum which gave the Air Force the 1,500-mile intermediate range ballistic missile (IRBM) program and limited the Army to a 200-mile range.

Nickerson, one of the men responsible for the Army's IRBM, the Jupiter, said Air Force men have told him they will accept an inferior missile of their own rather than accept the Army's superior weapon.

He contends the Army's Jupiter is far ahead of its Air Force counterpart, the Thor missile.

In trying to reverse Wilson's decision, Nickerson improperly devalued himself of secret defense data.

Music Camp Queen

Music Education Workshop For Teachers Opens Monday

A one-week Workshop in Music Education for elementary teachers will begin Monday at SUI. Prof. Neal Glenn, SUI department of music, will be director of the workshop.

Courses will include musical activities for children, basic music skills for classroom teachers, and demonstrations and observations of elementary music students at University Elementary School. Carol Uhlenhop, vocal music instructor at University Elementary School, will be in charge of vocal instruction.

A guest staff member will be Harriet Nordham, professor of music education at Boston University.

College Dean Gets TVA Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — A college dean who has spent much of his adult life as a financial expert was tapped Friday by President Eisenhower for appointment to the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) Board of Directors.

He is Arnold R. Jones, now assistant director of the Federal Bureau of the Budget on leave from his position as dean of financial administration and chief financial officer of Kansas State College.

Mr. Eisenhower said the nomination of Jones will be sent to the Senate next week.

Jones, who served at Kansas State while Milton Eisenhower, brother of the President, headed that college, would succeed Harry A. Curtis whose 9-year term on the three man TVA board expired May 18.

Eisenhowers To Mark Anniversary Monday

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower arrived at his farm home Friday for a long weekend and observance of his 41st wedding anniversary Monday.

The President's limousine made the 35-mile drive from Washington in two hours and five minutes.

Mrs. Eisenhower arrived by automobile from the White House earlier in the afternoon. She and the President plan to return to the capital Monday evening or Tuesday morning.

Mr. Eisenhower had intended to fly from Washington but changed plans at the last minute after getting a forecast of rain and brisk winds.

Escaped Murderer Heir to $50,000

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A re-arrested fugitive was issued Friday for Olin Lee Turner, 35, escaped South Carolina murder, when he failed to appear for a routine court hearing.

Turner escaped from the prison at Columbia, S. C., in 1955, and was traced to Indianapolis February 18. In the intervening time, he was engaged in seminary studies and preaching in Des Moines.

He was married.

Turner, who is heir to half of a $100,000 estate of his mother, was missing when his lawyer, John O. Lewis, appeared in Municipal Court 4 on a fugitive case.

Acting Judge Keith Buhlen also ordered forfeiting of the $25,000 bond under which Turner was released June 17, pending appeal of his habeas corpus case in the Indiana Supreme Court.

The habeas corpus case was started to block Turner's return to Carolina after Gov. Harold W. Handley had ordered him extradited March 8.

Turner was traced to Indianapolis from his attempts to get a court order to open the safe deposit box of his late mother.

Iowa News Roundup

CLINTON — Clinton police Friday called in the FBI to help check the story of a 16-year-old girl who arrived here with an infant she said was "given" to her in a Philadelphia bus station.

Police identified the girl as Carol Hawk of Coleraine, Minn. They said she had left her home May 30. She arrived in Clinton by bus Thursday night.

Chief of Police Robert LaZonby said the baby, a girl about two months old, appeared to be of non-Caucasian parentage.

Chief LaZonby said the girl told this story:

"She had visited at the home of a serviceman in Camden, Del., for a time. When he had to return to duty he bought her a ticket to Clinton where she planned to stay with relatives."

During a bus wait at Philadelphia two women "gave" her the baby, asking her to care for it until they "got settled in New York." She took the baby and proceeded on to Clinton.

NEVADA — Mayor Frank Ambrose was drafting an ordinance Friday to require vaccination of animal pets after a case of rabies was verified.

The mayor said he would submit the proposal to the council session Monday night.

In the meantime, all pet owners were asked to confine their animals while effort was made to spot the primary source of infection for a pet kitten which bit 8-year-old Paul Strum.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Strum, was being given Pasteur treatment. His condition was reported as serious.

Iowa State College investigators found that a kitten, which bit Paul, had later died of rabies.

Nevada authorities asked all pet owners to keep a watchful eye on any strange behavior by their cats, dogs, or other animal pets, and to report all instances for quick investigation.

DES MOINES — The manufacturer of Lysol disinfectant has filed suit in the Polk County District Court seeking to prevent the State Board of Pharmacy Examiners from prosecuting the company for selling the product without a "poison" label.

In its petition, Lehn and Fink Products Corp. said the disinfectant has not contained poison since its formula was modified in September of 1952. The product is not required to be labeled as a poison under Iowa or United States laws, the firm said.

The company noted that in answer to a suit brought against the board earlier this year by Frank W. Stark of Davenport, the board alleged that Lysol is a poison. Stark, a supermarket owner, has asked the Polk County District Court to declare Lysol to be a non-poison and thus enable retailers, other than licensed pharmacists, to sell the product.

Consumer Resistance Forcing Prices Down

WASHINGTON (AP) — The housewife apparently is beginning to take the fight against inflation into her own hands.

Ewan Clague, the Government's top price and wage analyst, said Friday the latest information reveals that retail prices of some goods—apart from foods and services—have been dropping.

"There are definite signs of consumer resistance to high prices," said Clague, commissioner of the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The steel price increase of $6 a ton posted by U.S. Steel Corp. Thursday night showed a relatively small and considerably delayed impact on the cost of living, Clague said.

There were subsurface indications in last Tuesday's consumer price index—even though it showed that living costs in May touched a new peak for the ninth successive month—that consumers are balking at the steady markup of price tags.

"Prices of refrigerators, automobiles, furniture and some other consumers' durable goods are dropping a little," Clague pointed out.

"Food prices rose as they always do at this season of the year. They will decline in August. If you eliminate food from the index, prices neither rose nor fell in May."

Other Government economists have pointed out that the "consumer services" in many cases represent spending over which the consumer has little or no control from month to month — public transportation, rent, doctors' and dentists' bills, utility rates, repair charges and haircuts, for example.

The things sold from shelves and showrooms, however, are immediately vulnerable to the buying mood of the public.

The economists concede that if the housewife decides it is time to shop around, hunt bargain sales, and haggle over price — or postpone her purchase entirely for a

Steel Price Rise Profested by Labor, Government Sources

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp.'s $6-a-ton price increase drew fire Friday from Government and union sources even as three more firms announced similar price hikes and others indicated they will do so soon.

President David J. McDonald of the United Steel Workers, whose union negotiated a wage hike that U.S. Steel blamed for the price increase, joined the voices of U.S. senators in protesting.

McDonald said Big Steel could have reduced steel prices by $6 a ton instead of raising them that amount and still enjoy its greatest net profit in history this year.

Robert Anderson, who has been nominated by President Eisenhower to succeed retiring Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, told the Senate Finance Committee he wished the steel price increase had not taken place.

Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.) said he might demand steel industry leaders be called to Washington to testify.

U.S. Steel announced Thursday it will increase steel prices an average of $6 a ton effective Monday, Friday, Republic Steel Corp., the nation's third largest producer, Inland Steel Co., and Lukens Steel Corp. announced price increases similar to those posted by U.S. Steel.

Braves Take Bucs and Lead

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves hauled back into first place in the National League Friday night as Warren Spahn belted a homer and came up with a great pitching performance for a 4-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Spahn allowed only five hits and held the Pirates hitless until the fifth when Ramon Mejias singled to center. The Pirates didn't get another hit until the seventh when they collected two more and pushed over one run. They added one more run in the ninth.

It was the eighth triumph in 13 decisions for the veteran lefthander who didn't give up a walk until the eighth.

The defeat was charged to Pirate starter Bob Friend, who has lost nine and won only four this year.

Giants 4, Cards 1

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The red hot New York Giants stopped the St. Louis Cardinals Friday night, 4-2, ending their eight-day road to the dizzy National League pennant race.

Milwaukee's Braves beat Pittsburgh, 4-2, showing the Red Birds into second place by a half game.

Rookie Curt Barclay needed help from 39-year-old Marv Gressom in the seventh but ruined a bid by Larry Jackson of the Cards to become the league's first 10-game winner this season.

The Giants now have won 13 of 17 games since the Cardinals swept four games from them in New York.

CINCINNATI (AP)—Home runs swatted by first-sacker George Crowe, pitcher Hal Jeffcoat and outfielder Gus Bell accounted for all but one of the runs Friday night as Cincinnati's Redlegs overpowered Philadelphia's Phillies, 7-1. Jeffcoat limited the Phils to four hits.

Crowe got the Redleg power surge underway with a poke into the rightfield bleachers in the second inning that accounted for three runs.

Two more runs came in the fourth on Jeffcoat's big belt, and Bell made it 6-0 in the fifth, lifting the ball over the rightfield bleachers.

The only Phillie marker came the same way; On Harry Anderson's lofty home run in the sixth inning.

Ball That Hit Herb Score Broke Law

NEW YORK (AP)—When a ball from the bat of Gil McDougald struck Herb Score in the eye, the Cleveland pitcher ace was a victim of a violation of the law of probability. The ball was a scofflaw, you might say.

That is the theory of Creighton J. Hale, a doctor of psychology who is research director for Little League Baseball.

LATE STARTER REEDSVILLE, Wis. (AP)—Arthur Wagner took extra precautions to prevent irrational hunters from mistaking his brown riding horse for a deer. But he wasn't quite careful enough.

Wagner kept the $275 horse in the barn during Wisconsin's nine-day deer season.

Three minutes after the season closed, he let the horse into a pasture for exercise. A few minutes later, he heard a shot. He found the horse dead, shot through the chest with a shotgun slug.

SUGAR RAY TO FIGHT

NEW YORK (AP)—Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson agreed Friday to defend his title against welterweight titlist Carmen Basilio in a New York baseball park at a date in September to be announced later.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dick Donovan's pop fly single to left field with one out in the ninth inning scored Jim Landis from second base to give the Chicago White Sox and Donovan a 4-3 victory over Washington Friday.

Larry Doby batted in Chicago's other runs in the fifth inning with a three-run double.

Les Moss opened the ninth inning with a looping single to left of Bud Byerly, the loser. Landis, running for Moss, moved up on Bubba Phillips' sacrifice and came around on Donovan's blooper.

The Senators chased Donovan in the ninth after Faye Tronberry singled and Rocky Bridges sacrificed. Paul LaPalme walked pinch-hitter Art Schult, but Milt Bolling forced Schult at second base. When Pete Runnels walked to fill the bases, Dixie Howell was summoned from the bullpen in a driving rain and retired Roy Sievers on a pop to shortstop Luis Aparicio.

Frick Alters All-Star Line-Up To Balance National League

NEW YORK (AP)—Stan Musial, Willie Mays and Hank Aaron Friday were selected for starting the National League baseball All-Star team by Commissioner Ford Frick and the two league presidents after it appeared a last-minute rush of Cincinnati votes would place eight Redlegs in the starting line-up.

In an unprecedented move, Frick called a press conference to announce the arbitrary naming of Musial, St. Louis first baseman; Mays, the New York Giants center fielder; and Aaron, Milwaukee's right fielder.

Frick said he made the move in concurrence with presidents Warren Giles of the National League and Will Harridge of the American League because "an over-balance of Cincinnati ballots has resulted in the selection of a team which would not be typical of the league and which would not meet with the approval of fans the country over."

With the help of a final-week of 550,000 votes from the Cincinnati Times-Star, all eight starters would have been Redlegs.

By his action, Frick put Musial ahead of George Crowe, Mays ahead of Gus Bell and Aaron ahead of Wally Post.

Yanks 5, A's 4

NEW YORK (AP)—Enos Slaughter lined a two-out pinch single to break an eighth-inning tie for a 5-4 New York victory Friday night as the Yankees defeated the Kansas City Athletics.

It was the Yankees' eighth victory without a defeat against Kansas City this season and left the New Yorkers with a share of the American League lead.

The Yankees, keeping pace with the Chicago White Sox who won at Washington, got the job done with an unearned run off reliever Wally Burnette, who lost his fifth.

A two-out error by third baseman Hector Lopez on Hank Bauer's grounder set it up. Tony Kubek singled Bauer to third and Slaughter, swinging at the first pitch, brought him home.

Bob Grim won his eighth in 10 decisions in relief.

Mayer, Open Champ, No Swell Head

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Mayer is such a nice, unassuming young fellow we hope he makes a million, give or take a few bucks, out of his National Open golf championship.

Many a man with his blond good looks, suddenly projected into the national spotlight, would develop a slight swelling of the knob above his shoulders.

But Mayer remains himself, meaning a slightly bashful, considerate guy.

He was in town last weekend and was telling how he sank his 10-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole for his 282, a total eventually tied by Cary Middlecoff.

"I noticed a clear mark about three feet from the cup and knew that if the ball made that spot, it was in the hole," he said.

"At that stage I wasn't worried about Middlecoff. I was just worried about getting ahead of Jimmy Demaret. I wanted to get my 282 on the big board."

It was Gene Sarazen who once said that once your score is on the board it's worth two or three strokes, meaning that other players not in yet will learn about it and start to press.

Mayer's wife had told him on the 15th hole of the final round what he had to do, and after he teed off on the 17th Lloyd Mangrum, a former Open champion sided up to him and repeated Demaret's score.

"I was glad to know what I had to do," Mayer says gratefully, unconsciously showing he is a competitor unafraid of pressure.

The personable fellow has more grays than Archie Moore or Jersey Joe Walcott. He's listed variously at 32, 33 and 34, but insists 34 is right.

We aren't sure whether he was talking about the front nine or the back nine. He'd probably settle for a 34 on either side.

Tells Officers To Function As Educators

Police officers must act as educators in their efforts to prevent burglaries, Iowa peace officers were told Friday at the conclusion of SUI's week-long 21st annual Peace Officers Short Course.

Richard L. Holcomb, chief of the University's Bureau of Police Science, urged law enforcement men to encourage practices to prevent burglary in their communities.

"A good burglar can get in almost any place," Holcomb warned the officers, "but any time you can make things harder, you eliminate the 'casuals'." The typical burglar is the casual type, seldom planning a job in advance, he explained.

Preventive measures "delay the skilled burglar and make him noisier," Holcomb said, "and that increases your chances of catching him."

One of the least expensive protections is a well-lighted store, Holcomb told the officers. Interior and exterior lighting scares off most burglars because "they don't like light."

He also listed these other preventive measures: Keeping the safe in a lighted window where police can see it; keeping a minimum of cash on hand; displaying only a few pieces of valuable merchandise which can be carried easily; removing weeds and other hiding places adjacent to store buildings and warehouses; encouraging the use of sturdy locks on doors and windows.

Holcomb said burglaries often cost more than the money or merchandise taken. To the businessman who says "Why worry about burglaries? I'm insured," police officers could cite these other losses: Increased cost of burglary insurance, which is based on losses; valuable records often stolen or destroyed; poor publicity, which could result in loss of public confidence and trust; time spent with police and insurance representatives; time used by employes to discuss the burglary.

Washington County Couple To Be Cited For Farm Advances

A Washington County couple, Oran and Thelda Birkey, will be honored today by the Skelley Oil Company for their part in the agricultural advancement of Iowa.

The couple will receive the W. G. Skelley Agricultural Achievement Award, including a $100 United States Saving Bond, a gold lapel pin and the achievement award scroll.

The presentation will be made at a community breakfast in Wellman where neighbors and friends will join them. During the breakfast the family will hear the oil company's NBC program, "This Farming Business," originating from Chicago and featuring Lloyd Burlingham and Alex Dreier.

The awards committee cited the Birkeys' outstanding family life and community activities as well as their exemplary farming operation in naming them as recipients of the award.

The Birkeys have three daughters, Ann, 16, Helen, 14 and Elizabeth, 11. All are 4-H Club members. Ann is in her sixth year of projects, Helen in her fifth year and Elizabeth has had projects for one year. Ann is president of her local Club this year. All three girls are also active in school activities and in the work of their church, the Wellman Methodist.

Oran Birkey has long been active in community affairs. He has been a director on his local school board for 13 years, is a Soils District Commissioner, a member of the Farm Bureau, the Extension Program Committee and a member on the board of stewards of the Wellman Methodist Church.

Thelda Birkey is schools chairman for Washington County Farm Bureau women and has been active in this work in her own township. She is also an assistant Sunday school teacher and has helped in various 4-H Club activities.

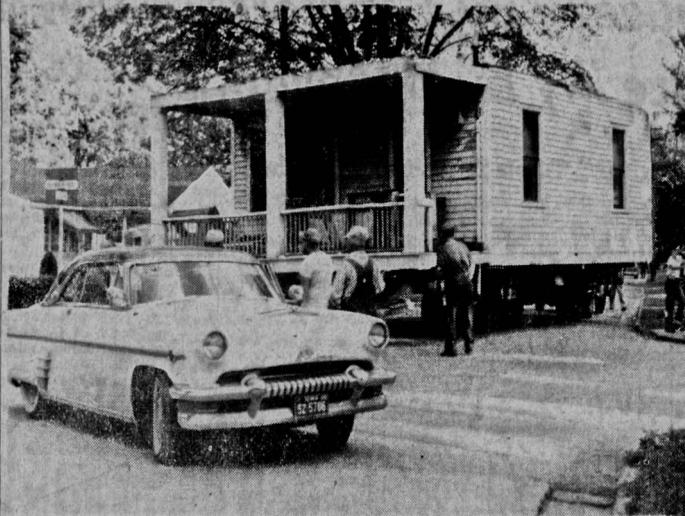

'57 Law Grad to Join Dept. of Justice

Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., announced today that Charles A. Lynberg, a 1957 SUI Law School graduate, has been selected to join the Department of Justice under the Honor Recruitment Program.

Through this program, outstanding graduates are selected each year for a position in the division of their choice. If they desire, after one year in their original assignment, they are permitted to transfer to another division, thus giving them the opportunity to broaden their experience.

Selections were made solely on the basis of merit, with consideration given to high scholastic standing, extra-curricular activities such as law journal work, and all-around ability.

WSUI FOR IGY—

Radio Station To Back World Science Year

"WSUI for IGY" will be the theme of operations at Radio Station WSUI, SUI's broadcasting station, from Monday until December 31, 1958—the period of the International Geophysical Year.

For the next 18 months, WSUI will devote much of each week's programming to reports about IGY and to special events in this most intensive period of scientific inquiry in history.

On Monday, WSUI will commence its participation in IGY with several special programs. At 7 p.m. Prof. James Van Allen, head of the SUI Physics Department, will survey the University's role in IGY with special emphasis on those projects in which faculty, students and University facilities are concerned.

At 12:45 p.m., a brief history of IGY will be offered along with an exposition of WSUI's purpose in allying itself with IGY.

Monday at 9:45 a.m. and at 11:15 a.m., two IGY series will be previewed. The first is "Project Moonwatch," explaining the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory and its satellite tracking program. The second, "Meteorology," utilizes specialists on meteorology from the Air Weather Service of the U.S. Air Force.

WSUI's Bookshelf will also take on an IGY aspect for the next 18 months. Since it is anticipated that IGY may lead to developments of a utopian nature, a reading of Edward Bellamy's "Looking Backward" will begin Monday. Written in 1887, "Looking Backward," takes for its utopia in time the year 2000 and depicts a Utopia.

ENDS LONG SERVICE

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Billy Williams Friday packed his personal belongings and his new fishing rod and reel, a gift from Gov. Orville Freeman, and moved out of the Capitol—after 53 years of sitting at desks outside the offices of 14 Minnesota governors. The strapping ex-athlete, now 79, resigned as executive aide to the governor.

HIT-AND-RUN CASE

A car belonging to Evelyn Oaks, 719 Church St., was sideswiped about 11 p.m. Thursday by a hit-and-run driver. The incident occurred north of Iowa City on Highway 261. Damage was estimated at less than $50, according to police who believe the hit-and-run car to be black and damaged on the right side.

Dulles—

recognized the Chinese Communist regime, millions of overseas Chinese in free Asian countries would, reluctantly, turn to acceptance of the guiding direction of the Communist regime.

"The Republic of China, now on Taiwan, would feel betrayed by its friend."

"TAKING A STAND" against Britain and other nations who favor open trade and formal relations with the Peiping regime, Dulles said "the primary desire of that (Chinese Red) regime is for machine tools, electronic equipment, and, in general, what will help to produce tanks, trucks, planes, ammunition and other military items."

"Whatever others do, surely the United States, which has a heavy security commitment in the China area, ought not to build up the military power of its potential enemy."

AT THE TIME he was speaking here, leaders of 10 British Commonwealth nations agreed that the Chinese Communists would gain a seat in the United Nations sooner or later.

Meeting in London for the third day, representatives of the Commonwealth said they saw little chance the Communist rule in China would soon end.

Britain, India, Ceylon and Pakistan have recognized Red China.

Says Iowans To Drive 16 Billion Miles

With summer vacation time now at hand, Iowa car owners, just during July and August, will drive some 2 billion vehicle miles, consume about 160 million gallons of motor fuel, and pay an estimated $14.4 million in taxes on gasoline.

This was the prediction made today by James W. Richards, Executive Secretary, of the Iowa Petroleum Industries Committee, on the basis of past trends in motor fuel consumption in this state.

Richards said that although June is usually the peak month for high-way fuel consumption in Iowa, the gallonage figures for July and August generally run about 10 per cent higher than the monthly average for the other ten months of the year.

He noted that the total taxes on gasoline in Iowa now add up to 9 cents a gallon, including the present 6-cent state gasoline tax and the 3-cent federal tax.

This total tax of 9 cents a gallon, Richards said, is equivalent to a 41 per cent "sales tax" on gasoline, making motor fuel one of the highest taxed commodities in the family budget. This may be vacation time for most Americans, he added, but the tax collectors are really in business.

House Group OKs Slaughtering Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Agriculture Committee Friday approved 25-3 a bill aimed at making animal slaughtering methods as humane as possible.

The bill would set up a 12-man advisory committee to help the secretary of agriculture decide what slaughtering methods should be used. After Dec. 31, 1959, the federal Government would be barred from buying livestock products processed outside of the approved methods.

The measure says U.S. public policy shall be that animals to be slaughtered must be "rendered insensible to pain by a single blow or gunshot or an electrical, chemical or other means that is rapid and effective before being shackled, hoisted, thrown, cast or cut."

The committee at hearings had heard protests that unnecessarily cruel methods have been used in the slaughtering of animals.

HUB CAPS STOLEN
Theft of four hub caps from a 1953 Chevrolet was reported to police by Neal Salisbury, 121 Riverside Park.

Theft occurred between 8:30-10:30 p.m. Thursday in the 100 block of West Madison St.

OVERHEATED STOVE
Firemen were called to the home of Joseph Meyerowitz, 500 Finkbine Park, early Thursday because of an overheated stove. They reported there was no damage.

Eliot a Spokesman For All, Prof Says

"T. S. Eliot is not a spokesman for the hollow men, but for Everyman," Dr. Roy Battenhouse, professor of English at Indiana University, told an SUI lecture audience Friday night.

Dr. Battenhouse is at SUI as a consultant for the 25 college teachers in fields other than religion attending the seminar in Religious Perspectives in College Teaching.

Eliot's poetry, Battenhouse said, shows Everyman that if he would examine his experiences and go down into the depths of his despair and suffering, he would rediscover his faith.

Eliot wrote: "We are the hollow men . . . Our dried voices . . . are quiet and meaningless." Battenhouse said the men who were disillusioned and felt lost after World War I read these words and adopted Eliot as their spokesman.

The broken images running through Eliot's poetry, he said, not only symbolize a lost generation, but a generation of men who are spiritually dead and a culture that has become a wasteland.

But Eliot, Battenhouse said, was not content to portray a dying civilization. He examined the causes of its bareness and found it the frustration of modern man to lie in his "chess-like existence."

The older civilization, Eliot saw, was dying, but in the death of the old culture was the beginning of the new. "In my end," he wrote, "is my beginning."

The death agony of the present culture, Battenhouse said, is the meaningless day to day existence, "the dance around the bonfire." But if men will examine their experience they will find that its suffering has a purgatorial character. It is an agony "man must go through to achieve a meaningful existence."

Portland Jury Finds Schrunk Not Guilty

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Portland Mayor Terry Schrunk Friday night was found innocent of lying when he denied that he took a gambler's bribe.

The jury of nine women and three men deliberated 1 hour and 50 minutes.

The 44-year-old mayor clasped his hands together as the verdict was read. His wife stepped up from a spectators' bench and put her arm around him.

Circuit Judge James W. Crawford cautioned against any demonstration. But there was an outburst of sympathetic applause from the more than 100 spectators.

Schrunk said: "I feel wonderful. I'm tired but I'm very happy. I've said ever since this fight began that I knew what the facts were and the good Lord knew. That gave me strength to go ahead."

The mayor still faces a long battle to clear his name. He also has been indicted by a vice-prohibiting grand jury here on charges of copying a wiretap, conspiracy to obtain a wiretap and subornation of perjury.

School District Annual Meeting Set Monday
