

Holifield Hits Bureaucrats' 'Game Playing'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted for a bigger Civil Defense program Monday as Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.) complained that "the people are simply casualty figures in the Civil Defense exercises"

They play games with imaginary corpses, stacked high as mountains," he told the House. "They map pictures of destroyed cities and feed casualty figures into fancy computing machines."

A short time after Holifield spoke the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill increasing federal responsibility for operation of the Civil Defense program in shaping it to cope with nuclear-age hazards.

The bill's immediate effect would be to raise the Government's share of federal-state Civil Defense costs by $18,850,000 for purchase of instruments to detect radioactive fallout, for employment of additional personnel, and training expenses.

Civil Defense Chiefs Tell President of Problems Raised

NEWSPOINT, Operation Alert — Spurred by a personal visit by President Eisenhower, Civil Defense chiefs Monday tackled the order-out-of-chaos phase of Operation Alert 1957.

Pres. Eisenhower dropped in on the mountaintop secret relocation center by helicopter after spending the weekend at his farm near Gettysburg, Pa. He made a brief inspection tour and then flew to Washington, D.C., ending his participation in the exercise.

Sunday night 5,000 government workers from 30 agencies were deployed to relocation centers. Their task: To run the government during a period 15 days after H-bombing. The calendar was jumped ahead theoretically to that period.

Gray and Berry, operating under broad war-emergency authority delegated to them in mock orders by Pres. Eisenhower, have clamped rigid controls on the country's economy and manpower.

They reported to Pres. Eisenhower that these are their main problems:

- 1. How to restore credit so commerce and industry can come alive again, especially how to pay wages.
2. How to restore vital transportation and communications, and in what order of priority.
3. How to handle housing needs of hundreds of thousands of displaced persons and, again, on what priority basis.
4. How to rehabilitate bombed-out areas. Which to hold up while pushing ahead with others more vital to a war effort.

Seeks Retirement—

Iowa Crime Chief Resigns

DES MOINES (AP) — R. W. Nebergall, 65, chief of the Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation more than 18 years, resigned Tuesday. He asked for retirement.

In a letter to State Safety Commissioner Clinton Moyer, Nebergall said:

"Having passed the retirement age of 65 (last September 2), and as we enter a new budget period, I deem it advisable at this time to tender my resignation."

"I request that I be granted retirement. I would like to surrender active responsibility as chief on August 1 and take three weeks of vacation due me. This will terminate my service as of August 22, and make my retirement effective as of that date."

Nebergall became chief of the bureau in 1939. He has served as chief longer than anyone else since the bureau was established in the early 1930s.

He joined the bureau as an agent in 1930, after nine years as sheriff of Story county. However, after three years as agent he left to become editor of the "Iowa Sheriff" for the Iowa Sheriffs Association. He remained in that work for six years, then returned to the bureau as chief.

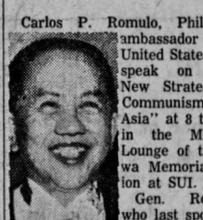

As an agent, he was state chief of "Vigilantes" in the bank robbery era of 1930-32. He commanded training and functioning of nearly 4,500 sworn special deputies, or vigilantes.

As sheriff, Nebergall handled the first criminal case in Iowa in which the defendant was convicted by means of fingerprint evidence alone and without other supporting evidence.

Nebergall, known familiarly as "Doc" in law enforcement and state government circles, was asked what prompted his resignation. He replied:

"This action is of my own volition. Nebergall, who said he is "

Carlos Romulo To Speak Tonight At SUI Union

Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine ambassador to the United States, will speak on "The New Strategy of Communism in Asia" at 8 tonight in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union at SUI.

Gen. Romulo, who last spoke on the SUI campus in 1953, will discuss the tactics now being followed by the new collective leadership in the Kremlin to win Asia. The lecture will be the second in the University Summer Session Lecture Series. Admission is free and no tickets are required.

A Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist, the Philippine soldier-statesman has been the recipient of many awards, including the Gold Medal Award by the Woodrow Wilson Memorial Foundation of Princeton University, the Cardinal Gibbons Gold Medal given by the Catholic University of America in 1950, the Christopher Literary Award for 1955 and the World Peace Award given by B'rith Abraham in June, 1956.

Rights Compromise Meets Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP)—A cold north wind began to blow Monday against Senate efforts to compromise the civil rights bill.

Sen. Patrick McNamara (D-Mich.) said it is obvious to him "that the principal motive of the compromise seekers is to gut this bill of any effectiveness."

Sen. Charles Potter (R-Mich.) declared: "I think the bill is a good one as it stands," while Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) announced he will resist any efforts to amend it.

This Northern offensive against a compromise on the Administration-backed legislation came in debate on the eve of a Senate vote that will decide whether the civil rights bill is to be brought to the Senate floor for actions.

Southern senators fighting the bill have agreed to a vote today on a motion to bring the measure formally before the Senate. They bank on getting a series of amendments to soften its terms.

Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the Southern opposition, has conceded he can't prevent the House-passed bill from being taken up. Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), the Senate majority leader, has predicted the vote in favor of Senate consideration will be about 2-1.

Teenagers Testify at Trial

MRS. JOHN FRENCH, 17-year-old bride and trial participant, talks with her husband after testimony in the Clinton High School segregation trial Monday in Knoxville, Tenn.

Three girls admit planning to form White Youth Council.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Three teen-age girls, including a 17-year-old bride, testified in the Clinton segregation trial Monday they thought up the idea of forming a White Youth Council.

Later, they told a U.S. District Court jury, they went to segregationist John Kasper, 27, of Washington, D.C., for advice on how to do it.

Asked under cross-examination whether Kasper "influenced" them in deciding to set up a white youth group, Mrs. John French, 17, a pretty, dark-haired bride of three weeks, replied crisply:

"JOHN KASPER didn't have one thing to do with it."

The testimony was regarded as important because it was the first time any witness has conceded that residents of the Clinton area took the initiative in forming a pro-segregation group without persuasion from "outside agitators."

All three youthful witnesses agreed, however, that once they decided to organize a white youth movement at Clinton High School, Kasper instructed them how to get a charter from the Tennessee secretary of state.

SUCH ORGANIZATIONS are illegal under Tennessee law.

Mrs. French and her young co-witnesses, all former Clinton High School students, swore the white youth movement did not advocate violence or violation of any laws.

Kasper and 14 Tennessee defendants are on trial on criminal contempt charges. They are accused of violating a federal injunction barring any interference with court-ordered integration of white and Negro students at Clinton's traditionally all-white high school last fall.

THROUGHOUT the six-day-old trial, Kasper, a former Washington, D.C., bookseller, has been pictured as an "outsider" who incited residents of the Clinton area to outbreaks of mob disorder.

In an unheralded move, the Government dropped its charges against Mrs. Zella Nelson, 19, one of the original "Clinton 15" on trial with Kasper.

U.S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford explained what had long been obvious to everyone in the courtroom—that Mrs. Nelson is an expectant mother. It was this reason the charges against her were dismissed.

EARLIER, THE JURY heard David J. Brittain, 41, former Clinton High principal. He related a story of fierce tensions, threats and mob action which shook the once peaceful little town of Clinton when Negroes were admitted to the previously all-white high school by federal court order.

Brittain testified he first met Kasper shortly after the school opened for the fall term last August.

"Kasper asked me what I was going to do with regard to getting the Negroes out of Clinton high," Brittain said.

"I TOLD HIM there was nothing we could do about it because we were under court order to integrate. I said I had only three courses of action—to obey the law, to disobey the law, or to resign my job."

"I told him I was going to obey the law."

Brittain, who served as Clinton High School principal for 14 years and has accepted a position teaching at New York University, said Kasper then "threatened to get me out of that school before the end of the term if I didn't get those Negroes out."

Woman Is Pulled From Iowa River

Mrs. Lillian M. Wolz, 55, 1221 Rochester Ave., was receiving treatment at University hospitals for a 6-inch gash on the head after being pulled out of the Iowa River early Monday morning.

Two men in a truck, stopped by a fisherman, Owen Rogers, 72, 815 Iowa Ave., after he had tried unsuccessfully to throw her a line, performed the rescue. One of the men waded out into the river at a spot midway between Burlington St., and the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Co. bridge and grabbed Mrs. Wolz, who was floating face up.

There were no UNEF casualties.

Ike Has No Fiscal Brains: Senator Kerr

WASHINGTON (AP) — Stinging criticism of the fiscal policies of President Eisenhower and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey touched off sharp verbal sparring between Democrats and Republicans on the Senate floor Monday.

Sen. Robert Kerr (D-Okla.) said that on the subject of fiscal policy Eisenhower hasn't any brains. The senator said fiscal experts could be paraded for months before the President and he would remain just "as uninformed as he is now."

Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind.) leaped to his feet and said Kerr should be ashamed as making such a statement "in the presence of school children in the gallery." He suggested that Kerr's reference to the President's brains be stricken from the record.

"I didn't say the President has no brains at all," the Oklahoman said. "He is uninformed about the fiscal policies of this administration."

Much of the debate centered around President Eisenhower's request in his January State of the Union message for a presidential monetary commission to study the nation's financial situation. Some Republicans have charged the Finance Committee's inquiry is political and have urged passage of a bill to set up such a commission.

Kerr said of the plan for a presidential commission:

"No man can help Eisenhower study the fiscal policies of this government, because one can not do that without brains and he does not have them."

"I will say to the senator (Capehart) that if the greatest fiscal experts this nation ever produced marched in solid phalanx before Eisenhower for months and gave him the benefit of their knowledge and judgment, he would emerge from it as uninformed as he is now."

The party line exchange, with many senators from both parties participating, was prompted by a speech in which Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) said Humphrey "confesses" that his 1954 tax policies were a key factor in the inflationary price rises of the last 18 months.

The debate temporarily sidetracked the Senate's discussion of civil rights legislation.

Fulbright said he based his statement about Humphrey on the secretary's 14 days of testimony before the Senate Finance Committee. Humphrey was the first witness in the committee's broad investigation of the nation's financial condition.

Humphrey told the committee, Fulbright said, that the price rises of the last 18 months "stemmed basically from a massive increase in capital expenditures" on new plant and equipment.

Yet, Fulbright said, Humphrey in 1954 told Congress one of the main purposes of the administration's big tax revision bill was to stimulate just such plant expansion and modernization.

Erbe Uncertain Of Action in Iowa Highway Probe

A legislative investigating committee has turned over to Erbe its findings in the probe and has suggested he "take such action as is warranted."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Donald Swanson, legal counsel for the committee, is scheduled to confer this week with Indiana Atty. Gen. Edwin K. Steers about the activities of Virgil Smith, Milan, Ind., and Arthur J. Moglner, Indianapolis.

It's for the Boids

A little story about a bird narrated in the text being used this summer in the speech and phonetics course has led to a number of variations in bad phonetics.

Original story: Little girl, "Teacher, there's a boid on the window sill." Teacher, "No, that's a bird." Little girl, "But it choips like a boid." Variations: "It boips like a boid." "From its boith it was a boid."

"Tis spring and every boid is on the wing. My-woid, how absoid! I thought the wing was on the boid."

Unfortunately, it goes on and on like this.

Operation Alert 1957

The fourth annual continent-wide Civil Defense drill, Operation Alert 1957, is now history—and a qualified success—officially.

The nation's leaders have had a chance to see where many avoidable 'boids' are, and to evaluate the effectiveness of the communications system. Communications ran about 4 hours behind "actual" events, and this when the destruction was only simulated. How much slower would the system have operated were lines down all over the country and destruction that cannot be anticipated disrupted the communications system further.

Several other factors cannot be known, and hopefully never will be—how the blasts will effect the population, although panic and senseless flight are certain to be widespread, at least in the early stages of any nuclear attack.

Reports stated in a matter-of-fact way that Iowa would have remained under a deadly blanket of radiation following the simulated attack.

That means that everyone who came in contact with this radiation and who lacked knowledge of the use of protective measures, would be injured or killed without even realizing he was in danger.

There is no good reason why protective measures which have been known to AEC for years have not been made part of a public education program. There is little or nothing we can do about persons who happen to be in the immediate vicinity of a nuclear blast—although with adequate warning they might have time to get to shelter. Marines recently came through an atomic blast without trouble even though they were "only" three miles from the explosion. But in addition to an adequate warning system, information and education about anti-radiation protection is an absolute must—how ironic to survive the tremendous force of a nuclear blast only to succumb to radiation.

In addition to education in radiation protection, a program to equip at least disaster centers and as many private homes as possible with radiation detection devices, food, and water in case an attack should be undertaken. True, these measures are costly, and like first aid, not worth bothering with—until some one is hurt, then of course it's too late to do anything but patch and pray.

The gigantic force of nuclear weapons has seemingly stunned us. Every suggestion for defense against nuclear attack is greeted by an overwhelming surge of public apathy.

Before the fact of nuclear attack, we must realize that there is much we can do for our own protection, or let millions perish needlessly.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The American Newspaper Guild raised its minimum wage goal for experienced news employees Friday to $200 a week.

The union, winding up a five-day convention, said a number of its locals during the past year have substantially achieved the guild's long-time two wage goals of $150 a week minimum for experienced newsmen and a $75 floor for any adult worker in full jurisdiction. ## Local Soldier Dies in Crash In S. America

The body of an Iowa City soldier, Laurence K. Northup, 36, was on its way home today after a fatal truck crash on an Ecuadorian road in South America Saturday.

The chief warrant officer, a member of the U.S. military mission in Ecuador, had served in that country two years before the crash which also took another soldier's life. The accident occurred approximately 50 miles from Guayaquil, a port city.

Relatives here received word that the body is now being returned to the United States. Also en route to this country is Northup's wife, the former Vera Lewis, daughter of Mrs. A. B. Lewis, 410 N. Lucas St.

Northup was one of the first American soldiers into Korea when that conflict began. He had been wounded at Anzio, Italy, in World War II action and was discharged. He later re-enlisted.

He is survived by a daughter, Theresa Ann, 2, in addition to his wife. Other survivors include six brothers, Vincent, Byron, Joseph, Harry, Donald, and Leo, and two sisters, Mrs. Vernon Good of Lincoln, Neb., and Sister Mary Ger vase of Omaha, Neb.

Locally, he is survived by an aunt, Mrs. Joseph Kerf, R.R. 4. Funeral services will be announced at a later date.

Candidate for '58 Gets Form for '56

DES MOINES (AP)—Secretary of State Melvin D. Synhorst received Monday the first request for nomination papers by a candidate in the 1958 primary election.

Harold E. Hughes, 35, of Ida Grove, manager of the Iowa Better Trucking Bureau, said he will seek the Democratic nomination for commerce commissioner in next June's balloting.

Synhorst gave Hughes some 1956 petition blanks, and asked Hughes to change the dates. New forms will be supplied as soon as they are available, Synhorst said.

Earlier, two persons had announced their candidacies for next year, but they have not taken out nomination papers. One is Sen. Jacob Grimstead (R-Lake Mills), who said months ago he would run for the Republican nomination for 6th District Congress.

The other is the Rev. Robert N. D. Yoak, Stuart minister, who said recently he would seek the Democratic nomination for 7th District Congress.

Letter to the Editor

Reader Comments on Need for Aid to Education

TO THE EDITOR:

I have the urge to express myself concerning the "Aid to Education" problem that has been brought to our attention in your series of articles.

For a long time we have considered it feasible to explain to the childless property owner that he is furthering his own welfare by paying taxes for educating other people's children and so continuing the stable community situation in which he lives. Could we not enlarge the application of the idea—doesn't it still hold true for our larger national community of the 48-member states? If a man of wealth can benefit by investing in the education of the children of his community, why can't a wealthy state benefit in the same way by assisting with the education of some of the less wealthy states in order to be a part of a more thoroughly enlightened country.

But there is the worry of too much Federal control. Does the taxpayer feel that he is losing freedom to his local government, or does he deem the distribution of his money to the needed channels a convenient government service, with the improved condition of his community giving him even greater freedom?

And why does the aid to education need to be handicapped by tying it up with the "segregation problem"? Since this problem is a significant threat to our national welfare, what better example could there be of the thrift of pooling our resources to solve it? Rather than withhold funds from states clinging to segregation, what better natural promotion of integration could there be than to let a fair distribution of funds to the existing school situation improve the opportunities of the Negro, which in turn would make his educational and social potentials increasingly more clear to the white population.

We might agree with the final note of the last article that after all "the most modernly equipped schoolroom is nothing without a good teacher," but on the other hand, should we not consider the extent to which the efficiency and influence of a good teacher can be multiplied by the modernly equipped schoolroom? In fact, it seems to be the best teachers who get themselves into the well equipped circumstances, either by seeking ready-made locations, or by exerting progressive leadership in their community. And what is a greater drain upon our supply of good teachers than is the lack of sufficient funds?

If, as the Gallup Poll indicated, "the general public" is in favor of Federal aid if the need prevails, perhaps the remaining task is that the public must advise its representatives to the effect that often the idealistic way of solving a problem is also the most economical; that there is as much wisdom in knowing when to spend as when to save; and that it would be regrettable to let the greater generosity involved distract our selfish attentions from the greater resultant good, not only to the states receiving the extra aid, but to those relinquishing the extra funds.

Civil Rights Puzzlement

Even Capitol Guides Confuse Main Issues

By GEORGE DIXON

WASHINGTON, D.C. — About all we reporters of senatorial doings talk about these days is the big battle over Civil Rights. But we must be talking to ourselves. Apparently we aren't even getting through to the Capitol guides.

The senate had been in session for hours the other late afternoon, and the air was still redolent of hogwash, when a guided tour came through. It was made up of Americans from all walks of life, to employ one of our more novel and descriptive phrases.

As the sight-seers approached the main entrance to the Senate Chamber, Sen. Olin D. Johnston, of South Carolina, came banging out. The southern Solon's usually unruffled brow was thunderous. Children in the tour caught one glimpse of his glowering kisser and clung tighter to their parents.

The guide pointed to the back of the retreating Civil Rights leader and made a statement which not a single person in the tour challenged.

"That," lectured the guide, "is Senator Johnston. He is leading the debate for civil defense!"

In all the history of the U.S. Senate there probably has never been a season of more confusing and contradictory oratory. The debate is enough to make an uninitiated wonder if he's listening to representatives of two different countries. But this time of bewilderingment has been chosen for the greatest tourist influx our seat of Federal Government has ever known. If the Senate accomplishes nothing else with this babel over Civil Rights it will at least have baffled and bemused a huge cross-section of the citizenry.

The visitors to our legislative shrine not only look as if they came from all of life's walks. Some of them look as if they came from its ruins—and you can guess what kind of ruins I mean. The costumes some of them wear would draw gasps at the circus.

The Capitol is air-conditioned to the point of being chilly. Yet many of the tourists, particularly females, shiver their way through it in less clothes than a tenderfoot in mud boots. I guess I wouldn't be so outraged if they were built for it, but too many of them look like sausages which the cook forgot to pierce before putting in the skillet.

Plan Girard Prosecution

THE FORTHCOMING TRIAL of SP3 William Girard in a Japanese court at Maebashi City near Camp Whittington is discussed by Chief Attorney Yeshiro Konawa, left, and Vice-attorney Kakuchi Sugimoto as they map preliminary plans. Girard has been center of an international dispute concerning the jurisdiction of his case involving the death of a Japanese woman scrap collector on an army firing range. The Supreme Court recently decided in favor of Japan.

SUI Is 'Impressive,' Say Incoming Frosh

Ninety-four high school graduates who will enter SUI in the fall have recently completed their student placement tests. The tests, given eight times during the summer, are used in determining which freshmen will be exempt from communications skills courses and to determine the remaining students' degree of proficiency in particular areas. The 2-day stay in Iowa City also gives the students what—-for most—is their first close-up of SUI campus life. First impressions of 15 entering students interviewed by The Daily Iowan are varied, yet all are favorable. The friendliness of SUI students and the well-kept appearance of campus buildings were impressions most frequently noted. Size also impressed several students. Barbara Broholm, Waterloo, related "the vastness of the campus itself" to "the vastness of opportunity SUI offers entering freshmen." "SUI is large enough to offer adequate facilities for research, yet small enough to allow a feeling of individuality," states Ty Marshall of Des Moines. Two of the most impressive buildings, the texters said, are Old Capitol and the SUI Memorial Union. Don Stegeman, Trent, S.D., expressed surprise at the "extensive recreational facilities offered by the Union," as did Don Lenz of Des Moines. Gary Jennings, also of Des Moines, praised the Union's facilities "for both academic and social development." Across the intersection of Jefferson and Madison Streets from the Union stands the Pentacrest—

Library To Display Juvenile Book Exhibit

An exhibit of children's books from 26 countries will be displayed at the SUI Library beginning July 22, reported Irene Steidl, special collections librarian, today.

The books include such volumes as Gulliver's Travels (English version), Grimm's Fairy Tales (German version), and The Three Bears (Russian version). The exhibit consists of stories, novels, songs and ballads, and educational books, for children 5-14 years old. The exhibit is sponsored by the Smithsonian Institute Traveling Exhibition Service and the Institute reports:

"This selection of approximately 120 story and text books constitutes a survey of the finest works for children published throughout the world during the past few years. The volumes were chosen by a committee of experts from the Washington Post Annual Children's Book Fair, held in November, 1956. High literary standards, artistic quality, and lasting appeal for young children were the determining factors."

Among the countries represented are Argentina, Austria, Ceylon, Finland, Iceland, Turkey, and Union of South Africa.

Assistant Football Mentor At Iowa State College Quits

AMES (AP)—Dick Healy, assistant football coach at Iowa State College, Monday announced his resignation to become offensive backfield coach under Jim Owens at the University of Washington.

Healy, who came to Iowa State Feb. 8 to round out the staff of Jim Myers, was a 1952 graduate of the University of Oklahoma. He served four years with the Air Force, then became freshman football coach at Oklahoma in 1956, before coming to Iowa State.

"I regret leaving Iowa State," Healy said "I've been exceptionally happy with my associations here and especially with the opportunity of working under Coach Myers.

"I'm confident that Iowa State with Myers and his fine staff will be successful in achieving winning football. But after considerable debate with myself about the matter, I decided that the Washington offer was one I could not afford to pass up," he added.

Nats 10, A's 3

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The unpredictable Philadelphia Phillies vaulted into first place in the National League Monday night with prize rookie Jack Sanford pitching a 6-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Sanford yielded only five hits in chalking up his 12th victory against two defeats, the best record in the league.

Philadelphia banged out six hits including a two-run homer by Willie Jones and a two-run double by Granny Hamner.

The high-riding Phillies could do no wrong in bouncing the Cardinals out of first place and leaving them half a game behind. It was Philadelphia's 12th win in the last 14 games, giving them a clean sweep over the Cardinals in the three-game series here.

St. Louis starter Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell was chased in Philadelphia's four-run third.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Washington Senators defeated the Kansas City Athletics 10-3 in the only American League game scheduled Monday, making the most of 11 hits while the A's nicked Russ Kemmerer for 12 without effect.

Kemmerer contributed a two-run homer to the victory, which gave the Senators a 2-1 edge in the teams' three-game series. The home run was one of three for Washington. Louie Berberet hit a two-run roundtripper and Faye Thorneberry immediately followed with a bases-empty clout in the second inning.

Tim Thompson homered for the A's, also in the second.

Brooklyn's Dodgers had themselves a ball Monday night, rapping five home runs, two by Charlie Neal, and rolling up their largest run total of the season to clobber Milwaukee 20-4 and climb within four percentage points of the third place Braves.

The one-game scoring high of the season was set by Cincinnati with a 22-2 job on the Chicago Cubs June 1. But the Brooks, who now have won four in a row with a sweep of the two-game set, did manage to tie the Redlegs for the biggest inning of the year in the NL scoring nine in the eighth.

Lanky Don Drysdale, who somehow needed relief help from Ed Roebuck to win his seventh, Sandy Amoros and Duke Snider belted the other Brook homers. All were solo shots except Snider's 19th with one on in the third against starter-loser Bob Trowbridge.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves said Monday that one party to a short centerfield collision at Pittsburgh last Thursday night is improving but the other has been ordered back to bed.

Dr. Bruce Brewer examined both Billy Bruton and Felix Mantilla Monday.

Mantilla, Dr. Brewer said, is "much better" and may be able to work out by the weekend. However, Bruton underwent additional treatment Monday and was ordered back to bed until Wednesday, when Dr. Brewer will examine him again.

Mantilla, who was playing shortstop, and centerfielder Bruton collided while chasing a fly ball.

Andrews Wins Clay Court Tournament Singles First Round

CHICAGO (AP)—In first round men's singles results in the National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament Monday, Hawkeye netman Art Andrews, Iowa City, defeated Richard Moody, West Covina, Calif., 6-1, 6-2.

Wimbledon champion Althea Gibson, gunning for her first major U.S. tennis title eased to victory Monday in her first round match of the National Clay Courts Tournament. The No. 1 seed from New York City breezed past Lois Smith of Glenview, Ill., 6-0, 6-0.

Also winning opening day matches were Australia's Davis Cuppers, Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser. Cooper, runner-up in the recent Wimbledon, defeated Barry Warraven of Omaha, 6-2, 6-1, in the first round of the seven-day meet which opened at the suburban River Forest Tennis Club.

Fraser drew a first round bye then was extended to three sets before disposing of Paul Wilkins, Beaumont, Tex., 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Top seeded Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., defending champion failed to arrive and his first round match was delayed until Tuesday.

Bruton Bedridden; Mantilla Improves

Mantilla, Dr. Brewer said, is "much better" and may be able to work out by the weekend. However, Bruton underwent additional treatment Monday and was ordered back to bed until Wednesday, when Dr. Brewer will examine him again.

Mantilla, who was playing shortstop, and centerfielder Bruton collided while chasing a fly ball.

Giants 6, Cubs 3

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Mays was the big gun for the New York Giants again Monday as he hit his 16th home run, a run-producing double and stole his 24th base during the Giants' defeat of the Chicago Cubs, 6-3.

Mays, whose 12th inning homer downed the Cubs Sunday, reached the left field roof with a long drive off Don Elston in the third inning. The two-run blast enabled the Giants to overcome a 3-2 deficit. It was Willie's third homer in three games.

Wagner Denies Bums 'New Park' Rumor

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner Monday said he knew nothing about a published report that a new park would be recommended for the use of the Brooklyn Dodgers and added it will be two or three weeks before a report would be made on the feasibility of constructing such a stadium.

The story, appearing on the front page of the World-Telegram and Sun, said the Brooklyn Sports Authority will urge at the Board of Estimate's July 25 meeting that immediate approval be given the ball park project.

The BSA is a three-man body concerned specifically with a stadium to be built in the Flatbush and Atlantic Avenues site, where the Dodgers would like to build their new park.

Dodger President Walter O'Malley, who last May received permission from the National League to transfer the Dodgers to Los Angeles, is reported to have said the one thing that can keep his club in Brooklyn is a stadium at Flatbush and Atlantic avenues.

In Los Angeles, county supervisor Kenneth Hahn, a leader in the drive to lure the Dodgers west, told a newsmen:

"I seriously doubt that story. I talked to Dodger President Walter O'Malley and he told me: 'Kenny, get all the arrangements ready.'

"I did not intend to reveal this conversation, but I believe it should be brought out now, in the face of this report."

DES MOINES — Thieves obtained more than $300 in cash in three thefts and took four new wheels and tires and some leather upholstery all valued at $180 from a 1927 Ford roadster over the weekend, police said Monday.

DES MOINES—Two Des Moines men were paroled from the State Penitentiary at Fort Madison Monday. Both were sentenced in Polk County.

Raymond Hanlin, 29, was sentenced to a 10-year term in August 1954, on a charge of breaking and entering. Irvin Lewis Clifton, 39, was sentenced to a five-year term in January, 1956, on two larceny charges.

FORT MADISON — W. A. Sheaffer Pen Co. reported Monday net sales and profits for the fiscal quarter ended last May 31 were down over the corresponding period in 1956.

Net sales for the three-month period were $5,613,328, compared with $5,962,369 a year ago. Net earnings for the quarter were $220,935 or 13 cents a share as against $475,898 or 29 cents last year.

DES MOINES—Ray Wilson left a can of gasoline in his yard while he mowed his lawn Sunday.

His son, Raymond, 3, and a neighbor boy, Mark Burken, 5, were playing nearby.
