'Rights' Supporters Try, Fail To Save Enforcement Power

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate supporters of the civil rights bill were defeated Tuesday in two attempts to save - by compromise amendments - most of the enforcement powers in Section 3 of the bill.

They appeared to be fighting a losing battle against a bipartisan move to strip the bill of all its enforcement powers except those protecting voting rights. A vote on this question comes today.

Union Officials Demand Cross' Resignation

WASHINGTON (AP) - Four vice-presidents and the secretary-treasurer of the Bakers Union demanded Tuesday that Union President James G. Cross resign.

In a telegram to Cross, the group said that what it termed his "evasive and dishonest performance" before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee "exposed... your unfitness" to hold the union office.

Cross testified before the committee last week and denied any wrongdoing but was unable to answer to the satisfaction of the senators some questions about his financial affairs. Sen Kennedy (D-Mass.) told Cross at the windup that testimony showed Cross had collected some $39,000 in expense accounts, $30,000 of it "not supported by invoices or bills."

From the wife of a New York union official, there was testimony that Cross beat her and her husband at the union convention in San Francisco last fall because of the husband's opposition to Cross' re-election. Cross denied this, but rejected a challenge to a lie detector test.

Signing the telegram to Cross were the following union vice-presidents: Daniel E. Conway, Bethesda, Md.; John DeConcini, Upper Darby, Pa.; Archie Goodman, Glendale, Calif.; and Amos Miller, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Also signing it was Curtis R. Sims, Bethesda, Md., secretary-treasurer suspended by the executive board earlier this year for making charges against Cross.

House Passes Postal Pay Raise Despite Prediction of Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House, ignoring threats of a presidential veto, passed by a lopsided margin Tuesday a bill to boost the pay of 518,000 postal workers by $546 a year.

A vote of 379-38 sent the bill to the Senate, which has been working in committee on a smaller pay raise.

Voting for the bill were 217 Democrats and 162 Republicans. Nine Democrats and 29 Republicans voted against it.

The House vote was far above the two-thirds majority that would be needed to enact the measure over a veto.

Some House members freely predicted President Eisenhower will exercise his veto power if the Senate also passes the bill. Their forecasts were based on Mr. Eisenhower's stated opposition to any general pay increase for Federal workers at this time.

Mr. Eisenhower has argued that Government, business and labor should avoid any action that could add to inflationary pressures.

The bill passed by the House would raise Government costs an estimated $318 million a year. The across-the-board pay boost would add about 12 1/2 per cent to the average salary of postal workers, now $4,340 a year.

A Senate committee has approved a 7 1/2 per cent increase, which would be fattened by some upward cost of living adjustments.

Postal workers have had one general pay boost since mid-1951, a 6 per cent increase in basic salaries in 1955.

West Germans Arrest Widow As Spy Suspect

BONN, Germany (AP) - West German security agents reported Tuesday the arrest of a white-haired, 68-year-old widow on suspicion of spying for the Communists in her quiet hotel - a favorite spot for foreign diplomats.

The security agents told this story: About two or three years ago Communist agents of the East Zone espionage organization headed by Ernest Wollweber heard that the widow was in financial difficulties.

They offered her money to turn her small private hotel in the resort suburb of Bad Godesberg into a spy nest.

Convict Kasper, 6 Others In Clinton Contempt Trial

Tried Best for 'Just Verdict': Jury Foreman

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - "We tried our best to come up with a just verdict."

That's how Powell May, foreman of the all-white U.S. District Court jury that convicted seven Clinton segregation case defendants, described the jury's decision Tuesday.

"We discussed the case thoroughly before taking a ballot," added May, 64, a retired operations manager for the Knoxville Western Union office.

"We weighed the evidence carefully against the points of law as outlined by the judge. We tried to avoid being influenced by any side issues."

He declined to say how many ballots were taken before the jury reached its decision, or to elaborate on the "side issues."

Tears, Cheers Greet Clinton Trial Verdict

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Tears... accord... bravado... surprise... consternation... glum silence.

All these emotions greeted an all-white jury's verdict finding Northern segregationist John Kasper and six Tennessee defendants guilty of criminal contempt of U.S. District Court in the Clinton segregation trial Tuesday.

Hysterical tears came from young Carolina Cook, small daughter of Clyde Cook, 36-year-old Oak Ridge, Tenn., fireman and one of those convicted.

Cook was accused, among other things, of the bloody beating of the Rev. Paul Turner, pastor of Clinton's First Baptist Church. Turner was assaulted on the town square of Clinton after escorting six Negro children to integrated Clinton High last Dec. 4.

Turner, one of the key figures in the case, was one of those who expressed accord with the verdict. Reached by telephone at his Clinton home, Turner told a newsmen: "I think the verdict is the right one, of course. I hope now that all the bitterness and hard feelings will be forgotten as rapidly as possible so that we can all go about our business as neighbors."

Kasper, former Washington, D.C. bookseller and White Citizens Council leader who came to this area a year ago as a stranger, expressed bravado.

"I am going to Nashville when school opens to oppose integration down there," he said. He added, like the others, that he was "surprised" by the verdict.

Trial Aftermath

British Jets Ready To Blast Rebels

Subcommittee Says Government Should Build Own Reactors

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Senate House atomic energy subcommittee Tuesday recommended that the Government itself handle construction of five nuclear reactors for cooperative and public power plants. Subcommittee Chairman Chet Holifield (D-Calif.) said a measure approved in closed session would reject what he called "the fictitious type of third party operation" favored by the Atomic Energy Commission AEC.

The proposal reportedly was written into an AEC construction bill by a 4-3 party vote, with the Democrats prevailing.

The bill would authorize: A $40-million natural uranium reactor at Arco, Idaho. $15 million for a plutonium recycling plant to convert nuclear fuel for industrial uses, possibly at Hanford, Wash.

$3 million for an engineering study of a large-scale plutonium producing plant, probably at Hanford.

It also was understood to authorize a total of nearly $400 million for construction, research and related AEC functions.

This reportedly included $30 million of assistance for two private power groups, one a combination of Florida utilities and the other headed by Northern States Power Co.

The Northern States group included several Iowa utility firms.

South Koreans Reject Troop Cut Suggestion

WASHINGTON (AP) - South Korean Ambassador Yun Chan Yang said Tuesday the United States has suggested a "considerable" reduction in the 700,000-man Korean armed forces.

He said President Syngman Rhee's Government has turned down the proposal until a firm decision is reached on modernizing the arms of Korean forces.

U.S. officials refused to comment on Yang's remarks.

LONDON, Wednesday (AP) - British jets stood ready on the Persian Gulf Wednesday with orders to start blasting rebel strongholds in Oman at daybreak.

Thousands of leaflets were showered over rebel-held areas in the desert Tuesday warning tribesmen to call off their revolt against the British-allied Sultan of Muscat and Oman.

Officials in London did not specify when an ultimatum against the rebels expires.

In Bahrain, on the border of troubled Oman, British authorities said the rebels were warned to UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - Arab and other Asian and African delegations Tuesday night were considering a protest to the U. N. against Britain's Oman ultimatum.

Abdel Rahman Azzam, Saudi Arabian special representative, told a reporter a group of such delegations is conferring on the matter and some kind of protest is certain.

withdrew Tuesday night from Nizwa, the ancient Omani capital they seized last week.

Press dispatches from Oman said pilots of the jets were ordered to blast rebel strongholds "wide open" with cannon and rockets in a show of force at dawn.

Villagers were warned in leaflets to stay clear of the target area for 28 hours.

Sir Bernard Burrows, British resident at Bahrain, told newsmen RAF fighters from Aden, British crown colony in southern Arabia, were assigned to stage an "armed demonstration" if the ultimatum is ignored.

Both the ultimatum and a second leaflet calling on the inhabitants to rally to Britain's friend, 40-year-old Sultan Said bin Taimur, were dropped within a radius of 50 miles around Nizwa.

Nizwa is the center of the rebellion launched four days ago by followers of Imam Ghalib Ben Ali, religious ruler of Oam who was driven into exile in Saudi Arabia two years ago.

Some 1,500 rebels have seized control of 5,000 square miles of the Sultan's 82,000 square-mile kingdom of hot sand and mountains.

Trial Reveals 'Uncollected Funds' Practice

DES MOINES (AP) - A prosecution witness testified in the multi-million dollar fraud trial in Federal court here Tuesday that banks frequently cash checks "against uncollected funds."

Under cross-examination by Attorney Roy Pell of Marshalltown, Elmer Reinhard, 31, assistant cashier at the State Bank at Gladbrook, said:

"It is a common practice among banks such as ours to allow a customer we know and respect and have done business with to draw on uncollected funds. A farmer who has cattle enroute to a packer and hasn't received his check for instance."

Reinhard further stated that such checks "against uncollected funds" had been cashed for Eldon Viers, 44, of Marshalltown because "I knew Mr. Viers and had the highest respect for him."

Viers and Merle Mersman, 42, of Colo, both livestock dealers, are defendants in a 12-count Federal grand jury indictment charging mail fraud. The Government claims the two are involved in a $37 million check kiting scheme.

Viers and Howard Stout, 52, of Oskaloosa, were indicted on another 12-count mail fraud indictment returned May 21. They will be tried later.

Accept Integration in North Carolina

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) - Three North Carolina cities Tuesday night voted to accept Negro pupils in previously all-white public schools.

It marked the first move toward voluntary desegregation in the public schools in any southeastern state.

Meeting in separate sessions, school boards here and at Winston-Salem and Greensboro voted to reassign 12 Negro children from the all-Negro schools they attended last year to previously all-white schools nearer their homes.

Five of the children are in Charlotte, six in Greensboro and one in Winston-Salem.

Surprise Verdict 'Dazes' Defense

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - An all-white jury in a surprise verdict Tuesday convicted segregation leader John Kasper and six codefendants in the Clinton criminal contempt trial.

They face up to six months in jail and fines up to $1,000 or both.

The jury, which had been exhorted by defense lawyers to preserve the traditional "Southern way of life," deliberated 2 hours and 20 minutes before bringing in its verdict convicting 7 of the 11 defendants of all three counts in the 12-day-old trial in U.S. District Court here. The other four were acquitted.

Defense lawyers, who had confidently predicted a mass acquittal, appeared dazed as jury foreman Powell May, Knoxville, intoned the word "Guilty" after each of the seven names.

Chief Defense Counsel Robert L. Dobbs of Memphis, his face flushed and angry, refused to concede that the verdict constituted a heavy blow to pro-segregation forces, who are fighting against the mixing of whites and Negroes in Dixie schools.

Previously, defense spokesmen had characterized the trial as a "history-making" event and declared that its outcome would exert a strong influence on the future course of court-ordered integration in the South.

"This lawsuit isn't over yet," Dobbs said firmly. "We have filed a motion for a new trial. If that is denied, we will appeal to a higher court."

U.S. Dist. Atty. John C. Crawford Jr., the lanky, booming-voiced prosecutor who conducted the Government's case, took the victory for his side without apparent elation.

"My staff and I endeavored to try this case like any Government case. The jury has spoken by its verdict. I have no other comment," he told newsmen.

Convicted along with Kasper, accused by the Government of fomenting racial strife at Clinton last fall when 12 Negroes were admitted to the previously all-white high school there, were:

Lawrence J. Brantley, 50, Clinton car dealer; William J. Brakebill, 41, Clinton service station operator; Alonzo Bullock, 52, part-time preacher and Clinton carpenter; Clyde Cook, 36, Oak Ridge, Tenn., fireman; Mrs. Mary Nell Currier, 39, Clinton housewife and mother of two children; and Willard H. Till, 43, Oak Ridge machinist.

The judge told defense lawyers he would give them 20 days to file their motion for a new trial if it is within his discretion to extend the time for filing appeals. He said he had been advised by the court clerk that five days is the maximum.

Grimaces of consternation swept the faces of Kasper and the six Tennessee defendants when their names were read with the word "guilty."

The other four on the defendants' bench smiled bleakly over their newly won freedom and shook their heads in sympathy for the others.

Kasper told newsmen: "I'm mighty sorry for the other people. They've been put through so much and persecuted. For myself, you can't expect to be a winner if you don't lose one once in a while." Specifically, Kasper and the others were charged with criminal contempt of court. The Government accused them of knowingly violating a court order forbidding interference with orderly integration of Clinton High.

The four defendants acquitted were: Clifford Carter, 38, jobless truck driver; Edward Henson Nelson, 22, grocery clerk; Virgil Cleo Nelson, 23, carpenter; and Raymond Wood, 35, Clinton house painter.

Knoxville is the hub of heavily Republican east Tennessee, which in many ways resembles the industrial North more than the Deep South.

Court Orders Dallas To Desegregate Soon

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - The U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, reversing a decision by an 87-year-old U.S. District Judge, Tuesday ordered Dallas to desegregate its schools.

But the court did not set a time limit. Attorneys representing 28 Negro children had asked that the schools be integrated "with all deliberate speed," and the court so ordered.

In a decision written by Judge Richard T. Rives, the circuit court said that "at least to that much they are certainly entitled."

U.S. Dist. Judge William H. Atwell of Dallas had dismissed the Negroes' suit "in order that the school board may have ample time, as it appears to be doing, to work out this problem."

But Judge Rives, noting the good faith of the board, said: "Faith by itself, however, without works, is not enough."

The Dallas School Board, while admitting integration must come to Dallas, said it needed more time to work out its plan. The Negroes, however, said the plea for time was a delay rather than a start.

In arguing the case before the court of appeals, an attorney for the board said "... it is to be hoped that the aftermath which occurred in Mansfield will not be similar in Dallas." Judge Rives said his court noted that statement "with appreciation."

Coroner Dismisses Wedler as Crank

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) - "You can forget about Wedler. His confession is a phony as the 21 to 28 others who have confessed to the Sheppard killing before him."

Dr. Samuel Gerber, coroner of Cuyahoga County, Ohio, made this statement to reporters here Tuesday as his plane stopped over en route to Cleveland.

He had been in Deland, Fla., earlier talking with convict Donald J. Wedler who told police he hit a woman over the head with an iron pipe in Cleveland about the time the wife of Dr. Samuel Sheppard was slain.

Gerber says the case is closed so far as Wedler is concerned. Dr. Gerber said he thinks Kolofolias has no possible bearing on the case. Wedler says he didn't pick up anybody that night. Gerber added that in almost every detail of the case that hadn't appeared in print, Wedler is wrong.

(With apologies to George Orwell)

It was a crisp fall day in 1985, and the sun was just beginning to rise over the eastern horizon as Karl Kampus and Caren Coed pulled into a parking space relatively close to their campus. It was metered, to be sure, but they were determined to make their 8:30 class.

"We were lucky to find one this close," Karl said, getting out of the car.

Caren's eyes opened wide in amazement as she watched Karl stuff a $32 bill into the shiny new meter in front of his car.

Caren was new at the University so Karl explained that this was one of the cheaper meters.

"Of course," Karl said, "we can only park here legally for 49 minutes."

Amazed, Caren reminded him that classes were 50 minutes long.

"That's right," Karl chuckled. "Some joke, huh?"

As Karl thought this over, he decided it was such a great joke that he burst into uncontrolled laughter. In fact, he almost cried.

"But what happens when the meter runs out?" Caren asked innocently, obviously pretending she didn't see what was so funny.

"They give us tickets," Karl said (by now he actually WAS crying). "Tickets for things like street storage, littering a public thoroughfare, casting a shadow..."

"But why do they charge so much for parking in the first place?" Caren asked.

Regaining his composure, Karl shrugged. "We're students," he said simply.

Karl then went on to explain that the city had decided to hit the students in the pocket-book because the University had seemed unable to come up with any other means of combatting the rising number of student cars.

"But why don't they just limit undergraduate cars?" Caren asked, with typical idiotic feminine logic.

Karl pointed to a small sign hung on the meter which said in bold letters that glowed in the dark:

"The Freshmores Are Watching You!"

"Not so loud," Karl whispered, "They're everywhere."

"Why are the Freshmores so important?" Caren whispered back.

Karl's face went blank as he realized he had never thought about this before. A vague memory stirred in his subconscious and he seemed to remember something about a Student Council asking the same question.

"We shouldn't be talking like this," he said, erasing the troublesome memory.

Just then a Freshmore drove by in three cars and Karl wondered if he should be seen with Caren. On the other hand, he wasn't certain he could trust her. Perhaps the Freshmores were testing him.

But no, it couldn't be. As he looked into her eyes, he knew she was just a simple mixed-up kid who had been unfortunate enough to take undergraduate work at the University of Minneapurdullinotredame where they engaged in such heretic practices as limiting student cars.

Caren interrupted his thoughts.

"Why," she asked again in a loud voice, "Why are Freshmores so important?"

Out of the corner of his eye, Karl noticed a passing Freshmore scrutinizing them.

"You're right, Caren," Karl said quickly to change the subject. "The University's absolutely correct in studying the problem carefully before taking any drastic action."

At this, the Freshmore was reassured of Karl and Caren's faith in University policy. He smiled, got into his 7 cars, and drove off.

Karl watched the cars fade into the distance.

"You've got to be more careful what you say," he said.

Fascinated, Caren watched as Karl stuffed a $69 bill into a shiny new meter which had just sprouted from the other shiny meter.

"When did the City put in all these meters, anyway?" Caren asked.

Karl explained that it began back in 1957 while the University parking committee was studying the situation.

"They're still studying the situation," Karl said.

Caren's brows furrowed in deep thought as Karl squeezed his last ounce of blood into a reservoir attached to the shiny new meter's shiny new meter.

A moment later, the two students climbed aboard a passing bus for the 26-mile ride from the Cedar Rapids airport - where they were parked - to their class in Apathy Hall.

Karl was silent most of the trip, wondering if Caren would ever learn the ways of her adopted campus.

Later, as they stepped from the bus, Caren looked at Karl with troubled eyes.

"I guess I just don't understand," she said. Breathing a sigh of relief, Karl took her hand in his.

"I knew you'd come around to our way of thinking," he said.

EDITOR'S NOTE: If this made no sense whatsoever to you, join us again tomorrow - same time, same place - for a less whimsical presentation of the breathtaking strides the SU1 Parking Committee has taken.

Engaged

Miss Janice Barnes

Prof. and Mrs. Arthur M. Barnes, 814 North Linn Street, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Janice Mary to John T. Teegen, son of Dr. and Mrs. William G. Teegen of Davenport.

The wedding will be October 12 in the First Methodist Church in Iowa City.

Miss Barnes graduated from SU1 in June. She is affiliated with Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority and Mortar Board and Phi Beta Kappa, honorary fraternities. She will teach in the Iowa City school system this fall.

Mr. Teegen, a graduate of the University of Kentucky, will be a sophomore in the SU1 College of Medicine. He is affiliated with Sigma Chi social fraternity and Nu Sigma Nu medical fraternity.

Small Boy Hit by Car While Crossing Street

George Davis, 4, 301 Kirkwood Avenue, was struck by a car Tuesday afternoon about 12:30. He received a bump on his head and a cut knee.

Otto Soukup, 501 Oakland Avenue, was identified by police as the driver of the car.

The boy was reportedly crossing the street near the Hy-Vee grocery store when he was struck by the car. He was taken to a doctor for examination and treatment.

'53 Vehicle Titles Invalid, Need Renewal

The owner of any car or truck bought before October of 1953 no longer has a valid title to the vehicle unless the title has since been renewed, reports Lumir W. Jansa, Johnson County Treasurer.

Jansa said many people are unaware of this situation. His office is sending out postal cards informing persons whose vehicles are no longer legally titled that they may secure new titles at the County Treasurer's office.

Jansa said to secure a new title the owner should bring the registration certificate to the Treasurer's office before December 1, 1957. The cost of the title is 75 cents.

The Motor Vehicle Law of Iowa states, "No motor vehicle can be licensed for 1958 unless a title has been issued for same."

FRUSTRATED BURGLAR IS HAMMER HAPPY

DES MOINES (AP) - A burglar, who apparently became angered when he failed to find any money in the Sears Roebuck & Co. Service Station here late Monday night grabbed a hammer in the station and caused an estimated $200 damage.

Patrolman John Swan said the burglar picked up a ball-peen hammer to vent his ire and knocked out windshields on two trucks and broke the face of an electric clock.

Later the same burglar broke windows at three other downtown establishments but got no loot.

At this point the burglar apparently gave up in disgust and threw the hammer into an alley, where police found it about 3:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Puerto Rican Lassies In Rum Ads: Beat USA

defend the practice before the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee eight times in 10 years. For the last three years in a row, bills to prohibit liquor advertising altogether were defeated in committee by the shuddering margin of just one vote.

The liquor people fear that if such a bill ever gets out of the privacy of committee, even their best senatorial customers won't be able to summon the courage to stand up on the floor publicly for them.

But this fear mounted to terror last week when, without warning, the Puerto Rican Government started running ads in which a bathing-suited female exhorted mainlanders to get themselves sluiced up on Puerto Rican rum.

The rum-loving lady was identified rather vaguely as Mrs. Elliott

Dulles 'Confident' But Is U.S. Ready for Red Inspection?

By J. M. ROBERTS (Associated Press News Analyst)

Secretary of State Dulles made a big assumption when he said the United States is ready to open up its entire territory to Russian aerial inspection.

The Administration may be ready, but in the country and in Congress there are still grave and widespread doubts.

This extends not only to inspection, but to the whole disarmament offer as it appears against the background of continued enmity between Russia and the free world.

DULLES WAS AIMING to allay this doubt in his address to the nation Monday night, and certainly it was one of his better efforts.

The public has been fed American disarmament policy in such piecemeal form that it was not even understood, much less approved. Dulles pulled it together so that it could be seen as a whole.

Dulles has stolen a march on the remainder of Harold Stassen's report to the London conference, by making public the extent to which the Administration is willing to submit the North American continent to inspection if Russia will reciprocate.

CONGRESSIONAL agreement may be as hard to get as Russian.

So far, Russia has suggested inspection for Siberia and western United States, although both sides have considered that this could begin in the arctic and gradually be expanded, with the development of mutual confidence, to the rest of the two continents.

Dulles admits that, though every care will be taken to see that no disarmament agreement contains a threat to the safety of the United States, human fallibility remains a part of the equation.

A STATEMENT which opponents of disarmament now must consider however, is that the development of nuclear weapons is progressing toward the point where controls will become impossible.

Dulles warns of the time when some small and irresponsible dictator may be able to use them.

In addition to explaining disarmament policy to the American public, Dulles also shot away at least part of Russia's pose as the chief seeker of disarmament. He called on her to really get down to business.

'Mommy, I Took Some Candy'

A harmless-looking headache pill in a home medicine cabinet can be a headache to parents of young children.

Nearly a fifth of the 1,400 children treated for accidental poisoning in a Midwestern city had swallowed aspirin, the National Safety Council said recently.

More than 1,300 deaths from poisoning—mostly from medicine and household items—are reported annually in the United States, Council statistics show.

Chief victim of accidental poisoning is the tot under four years of age. But right up there as poison victims are persons in the 25-64 age group.

The types of accidental poisoners are as varied as the containers they come in—bleach, permanent wave solution, shampoo, nail polish remover, furniture polish and cosmetics. The toddler will even drink kerosene if he gets a chance.

While weed-killers, pesticides, cosmetics, kerosene and cleaning agents are hazardous, the main villain is medicine. It accounts for more than half of all accidental poisonings deaths.

"Old houses, too, can be booby traps for youngsters," said Ralph Kuhl, assistant director of the Council's home safety division.

"Toys can be poisoned by peeling paint on window sills and frames, by peeling wallpaper and paint from crumbling plaster." Each can cause lead poisoning.

"What's the solution?" "Education," said Kuhl. "Parents should be made aware of the seriousness of the problem."

"There should be stricter state and federal laws requiring that the ingredients be listed on bottles containing these valuable—yet potentially harmful—substances."

The best way to cut down deaths from poisoning? Prevent the poisoning, answered Kuhl. Follow these rules, he advised:

1. Store medicines out of the reach of children. Don't leave them in purses or bureaus.

2. Don't take medicines in the dark.

3. Don't put poisonous substances in soft-drink bottles, used jelly jars, or pans. Children may drink out of them.

4. Have a medicine cabinet with a locked poison compartment installed if you remodel or build a new home.

Army Calls for Smarter, but Fewer Men

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Army Tuesday cut its draft calls and asked Congress to let it set higher mental standards for those who are drafted.

The cut in the manpower levy for next September - 8,000 men, compared with 11,000 in the August call—is in line with 100,000-man reduction of the armed forces announced by the Pentagon a week ago. The Army's portion of the cut is 50,000.

Not since April, 1956, has a Selective Service quota been so low. From January through April of that year the monthly quotas were 6,000.

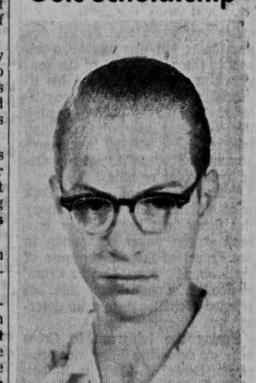

The Defense Department announcement of the September call said the 3,000 reduction from the August quota reflected the decision to cut manpower in all the services. But the Pentagon said:

"Draft calls for the Army will not be eliminated in the near future because of the reduced strength."

Some of the cut in strength will be brought about by more selective choosing of personnel, especially among those seeking reenlistment, the announcement said.

The September call will bring the total of men drafted since 1950 to 2,239,430. During the Korean War, some monthly quotas mounted to almost 60,000 men.

"What's the solution?" "Education," said Kuhl. "Parents should be made aware of the seriousness of the problem."

"There should be stricter state and federal laws requiring that the ingredients be listed on bottles containing these valuable—yet potentially harmful—substances."

The best way to cut down deaths from poisoning? Prevent the poisoning, answered Kuhl. Follow these rules, he advised:

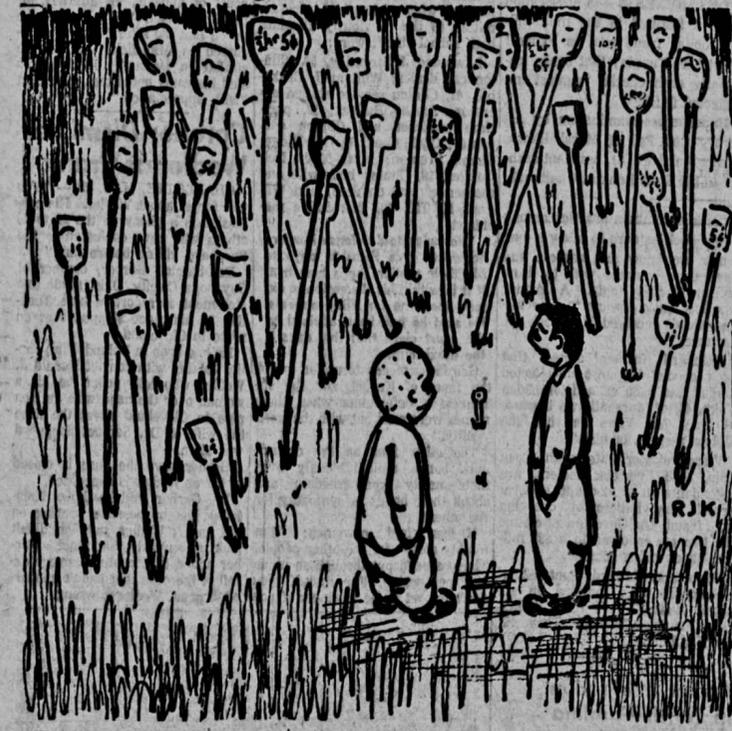

1. Store medicines out of the reach of children. Don't leave them in purses or bureaus.

2. Don't take medicines in the dark.

3. Don't put poisonous substances in soft-drink bottles, used jelly jars, or pans. Children may drink out of them.

4. Have a medicine cabinet with a locked poison compartment installed if you remodel or build a new home.

2 Women, Trucker Shot in New Mexico Deaths Linked In California Police Killing

HOBBS, N.M. (AP)—A cold-blooded killer shot a truck driver and two young women to death before dawn here Tuesday, and speculation arose that it might be the same man who shot down two California policemen Monday.

Dead were J. D. Cantrell, 27, Carlsbad, N.M., the truck driver; Mrs. Barbara Edward Lemmons and Mrs. Dorothy Fern Gibson, both 23, of Hobbs.

Cantrell apparently had stopped to help the two women fix a flat tire along U.S. Highway 180 in a remote area 36 miles west of this southeastern New Mexico oil center. They were shot with a .22 caliber weapon. So were the El Segundo, Calif., policemen.

The women's bodies were discovered on an isolated oil field road off U.S. 180. Cantrell's body was found where the women had parked.

Sheriff Jewell McAdoo said it is sheer speculation at this time whether there is any connection between the El Segundo killings and the New Mexico deaths.

Police Capt. Lee Maxwell of El Segundo said the killer there escaped a trap set for him and would have had time to reach New Mexico.

Cantrell's body was discovered at 4:10 a.m. by another truck driver, Floyd Smith, Midland, Tex.

From appearances at the scene, officers put together this picture: Cantrell came upon the two women, who had pulled their car off the highway with a flat tire.

He parked in front of the car and had started to change the tire. A third vehicle stopped at the scene. Tire marks of the third vehicle indicated the driver had pulled off the pavement and then had left hurriedly.

There were signs of a terrific struggle behind the women's car. Cantrell's body was lying partially on the highway. Officers said there were two bullet holes in his head, two in his chest and one in each of his hands.

A search for Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Lemmons began when their purses and other identification were found in the car.

About six hours later an oil well worker from Hobbs discovered the bodies of the two women on the oil field road northwest of Hobbs and 29 miles from where Cantrell's body was found.

Officers said there was no motive of robbery in the killings. Cantrell had $4 and his billfold when his body was found.

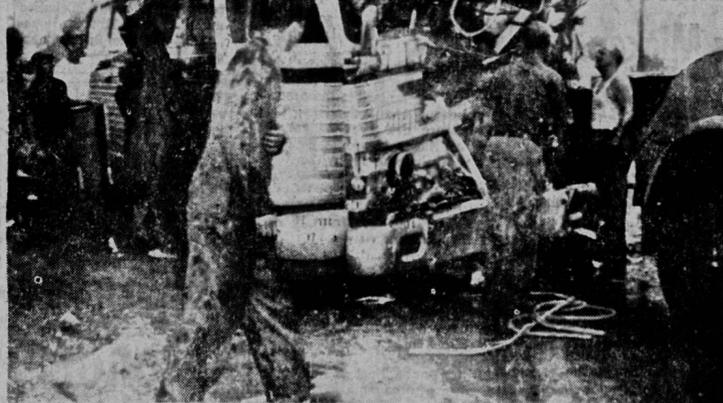

The two policemen were shot and killed at El Segundo after they stopped a motorist for a traffic violation. The car proved to be stolen. One of the officers was shot three times in the back. The other was shot three times as he jumped out of the police car.

Pi Lambda Theta To Initiate Nine

Nine new members will be initiated into Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary education fraternity for women, in ceremonies to be held at 5:45 p.m. Wednesday at the Curt Yocum restaurant, Coralville.

Following the initiation, a dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Dorothy B. Reed, principal of a U. S. Air Force school near Frankfurt, Germany, will address the group on her experiences as a teacher and administrator in the government school.

Doris E. Jakubek, instructor in the SUI College of Education, is president of Theta Chapter of Pi Lambda Theta at SUI.

Few Older Iowans In Club Activities

Only one out of every 67 Iowans over 60 years of age appears to belong to a club designed for older citizens, estimates the Institute of Gerontology at SUI.

The Institute recently polled 221

Iowa communities and found 74 such clubs in 44 cities. No clubs were reported by 126 communities, while another 51 did not reply to the survey.

These findings are reported in a new Directory of Golden Age or Senior Citizens' Clubs, published by the SUI Institute of Gerontology with the support of the Old Gold Development Fund, a volunteer program of SUI alumni. Margaret Harrison, SUI research assistant and graduate student, compiled the data for the directory.

Reasons given the Institute for the lack of such clubs included: Lack of interest and cooperation among townspeople; no need or demand; lack of information regarding the needs of older people and the organizing and operating of such clubs; lack of leadership, sponsors, buildings, equipment and funds.

The 38-page directory catalogs Iowa's 74 known clubs for older people, listing the meeting places, sponsors, persons in charge, membership statistics, types of programs and services to members and communities. It may be obtained free of charge by writing to the SUI Institute of Gerontology.

Iowa's smallest club for older people is Ollie's Grandmothers' Club with 13 members; the largest, Ames' Golden Age Club with 520 members. Oldest in point of service is Marion's Old Settlers Reunion, established in 1891 by the Marion Chamber of Commerce.

The leading single sponsor for Iowa's clubs for older people is the Salvation Army. The City Recreation department conducts a club in Iowa City.

Grinnell President To Speak at SUI Commencement

President Howard R. Bowen of Grinnell College will be the speaker at SUI's Summer Commencement exercises at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 7 in the University Fieldhouse.

Some 725 students will be candidates for degrees, according to Ted McCarrel, SUI Director of Conventions.

Dr. Bowen, who earned his M.A. and Ph.D. at SUI, has been president of Grinnell since November, 1955. He was Professor of Economics at Williams College in Massachusetts at the time of his selection for the presidency.

After receiving his Ph.D. from SUI, Dr. Bowen served on the Iowa economics faculty for seven years. He has been an economist for the federal government and advisor to several state and national organizations.

He was Dean of the College of Commerce and Business Administration at the University of Illinois before joining the faculty of Williams College.

Dr. Bowen is author of a number of economic studies, pamphlets and articles.

PLANE CRASH VICTIMS MILAN, Italy (AP)—Italian Alpine guides Tuesday reached the wreckage of a U.S. Navy plane 7,000 feet up on bleak San Martino and radioed all aboard were dead.

The Navy said the plane had 11 men aboard when it took off from Casablanca Friday for Treviso, Italy. The rescue teams said they had found what appeared to be the remains of 15 or 16.

East, West Trips Planned in August For Girl Scouts

Thirty-five Girl Scouts of Cardinal Council area will leave Iowa City on a bus trip to Washington, D.C., Aug. 5. Mrs. Hugh Carson, executive director of Cardinal Council, has announced. Mrs. Carson and Mrs. Louis Shimon will accompany the group.

Twenty Senior Girl Scouts will make a trip to Colorado Springs from Aug. 19 to Aug. 23.

To qualify for such trips, Girl Scouts must have attended established camp at Camp Cardinal for periods during three summers and must have completed requirements for the Girl Scout Pioneer Badge.

Since 1949, Girl Scouts from this area have made trips to such places as Canada, Mexico, and Alaska. A Scout trip to Europe is planned for next summer.

Iowa News Roundup

CEDAR RAPIDS — The luck of Mrs. Belle Allen of Anamosa was all bad when she drove into Cedar Rapids Tuesday.

At an intersection her car was hit simultaneously by a car coming from one direction and a truck coming from another direction. As an aftermath, she had to post $20 bond on a charge of failure to yield the right-of-way at a stop intersection.

Mrs. Allen was able to drive off after the mishap but the other two vehicles had to be towed away.

Mrs. Allen's passenger had both a professional and personal interest in the accident. He was her husband, an Anamosa policeman.

MARION — Fire caused an estimated $12,000 damage to school text books stored in an old two-story mansion Tuesday.

Norman Waffle, a book distributor, used the house to store the text books. Most of the books were destroyed by either flames or water.

Marion firemen, who fought the blaze 90 minutes, estimated the damage. Cause of the fire was under investigation.

SPIRIT LAKE — Eugene Eral, one of nine children of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Eral of Estherville, drowned Tuesday at Triboji Beach at Lake West Okoboji.

The 4-year-old boy apparently fell from a dock into the lake and was not immediately noticed. He had been playing on the beach with other children shortly before the accident.

A brother, Jimmie, about 10, saw the body floating in the water and pulled it out. Efforts to revive the lad failed.

The family had come to a cottage near the lake Monday night for a five-day vacation.

Survivors include his parents, seven brothers and one sister.

DES MOINES — Thieves took $497 in cash and several checks from a safe at the Retail Merchants Delivery office in Des Moines, police were told Tuesday.

They said the building was broken into sometime Monday night, the dial knocked from the safe and the combination lock punched out.

ALBIA — State Rep. Lawrence A. Falvey, 56, president of the First Iowa State Bank of Albia since 1954, died Tuesday afternoon.

Falvey died as he was being taken to an Ottumwa hospital. He had been ill for about 10 days.

In addition to his banking responsibilities, Falvey was co-owner with his brother Paul of the Falvey Lumber Co. of Albia. The lumber firm was founded by his father, the late M. C. Falvey, also a former Iowa legislator.

Falvey, a Democrat, was serving his third term in the House. Survivors include his widow and another brother, John Falvey of Chicago.

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK — We don't know too much about Emil Lence, the little man who wasn't there when Cus D'Amato made the momentous announcement he was ready to farm out his heavyweight champion, Floyd Patterson, to various independent promoters over the country, but we do know a little about Jack Hurley.

Lence has been named the No. 1 man in D'Amato's resistance movement against the International Boxing Club. That is, he has been nominated and elected by D'Amato to promote Patterson's title defense.

Then, in the No. 2 spot, is our old friend Hurley, given the Pacific Northwest territory, and it is our idea that if the master plan ever gets past the No. 1 stage, meaning that the Lence-promoted title fight is successful, Hurley will really go to town.

Never was there a man who could sit in a hotel room surrounded by stacks of newspapers, and with scissors and paste pot get more publicity over the nation than the dour, ulcerish man whose name forever will be associated with the Fargo Express, sometimes known as Billy Petrolle.

The danger in appointing him the No. 2 promoter is that he might dig up Harry Matthews as the next logical contender for the title.

In one of the finest con jobs on record, Hurley foisted Matthews on the unsuspecting Eastern public as the man most likely to succeed against Rocky Marciano and eventually win the heavyweight crown. Matthews was knocked out in the second round.

Buhl Locks Phils Out with 2 Hitter

Hurler's Win Is the Fourth One in A Row

MILWAUKEE — The league-leading Milwaukee Braves beat Philadelphia, 1-0, Tuesday night as Bobby Buhl hurled a two-hitter and took his fourth triumph in a row over the Phillies, who now have lost seven of their last eight games.

Buhl allowed only one batter to get as far as second base. Stan Lopata, getting one of the four walks off Buhl, went to second base in the fourth inning when Harry Anderson beat out a slow bouncer with two men out. Rip Repulski grounded out to end the threat.

ST. LOUIS — Brooklyn's Johnny Podres shutout the St. Louis Cardinals with a masterful five-hitter Tuesday night, 1-0, besting Sam (Toothpick) Jones, who gave the Dodgers just three hits.

Podres never before had pitched a complete game at St. Louis, in seven previous tries spread over four seasons. In reversing his luck, for his eighth triumph against three defeats, he allowed only one runner to reach third.

Yankees Cool Heels In Warm Pennant Race
NEW YORK — The New York Yankees returned home to some surprise improvements at Yankee Stadium Tuesday — an air conditioned dugout and canopy-covered bullpen.

A curtain of cold air, barring warm air, is forced across the face of the Yankee dugout through ducts, similar to the system used at Crosley Field in Cincinnati. The visitor's dugout at the stadium is not air conditioned.

CHISOX PURCHASE
INDIANAPOLIS — The Chicago White Sox purchased centerfielder Ted Beard from Indianapolis of the American Assn. Tuesday and ordered him to report to Yankee Stadium immediately to join the club in its series with league leading New York.

Yankees Win As Mickey Blows Circuit

NEW YORK —Mickey Mantle walloped a tape-measure home run, a three run triple, a double and a single Tuesday night as New York's first place Yankees moved to a 5 1/2-game lead with a 10-4 victory over the second place Chicago White Sox, who made a fight of it for seven innings on walks and singles.

Mantle, whose triple capped a five-run seventh inning that junked a 6-4 Chicago lead in the opener of this crucial three-game set, became the first American Leaguer to hit for the cycle since June 4, 1952, when Larry Doby, then with Cleveland, did it against Boston.

 Third baseman Pee Wee Reese of the Brooklyn Dodgers spent only two seasons in minor league ball. They were in 1938 and 1939 with Louisville.

Tribe-Nats RAINED OUT

WASHINGTON — The scheduled game between the Washington Senators and the Cleveland Indians was rained out here today. The idle day for both teams caused each to slip back half a notch in the American League team standings; the Indians are now back 14 games and the Nationals are lagging 30 games off the pace set by the New York Yankees.

Tigers 5, Orioles 2
BALTIMORE —Southpaw Billy Hoelt stopped the Baltimore Orioles on seven hits Tuesday as the Detroit Tigers won 5-2 and moved two games ahead of Baltimore in the battle for fifth place in the American League.

Hoelt needed relief from Harry Byrd for the final out as Baltimore threatened in the ninth inning.

Detroit . . . 201 002 000—5 9 1
 Baltimore . . . 011 000 000—2 7 2
 Hoelt, Byrd 9 and Wilson; O'Dell, Ceccarelli 4, Zverink 6 and Triandos, W.—Hoelt, L.—O'Dell.
 Home run—Baltimore, Triandos.

WINS LYING DOWN
 Johnny Holman, Lake Village, Ark., heavyweight, once lost a decision with his rival, Larry Watson, flat on his back. Holman put Watson down with less than 10 seconds to go in the final round.
