

Eisenhower Recommends 'Quiet Conversation', Not Threats

Defends Himself Against 'Lack of Leadership' Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, defending himself against criticism of lack of leadership, said he will have another school bill ready for the next congressional session.

Mr. Eisenhower told a news conference that, "You don't influence Congress, in my opinion, by threats." He said he thinks the way for a president to work with Congress is "in a quiet conversational way by the telephone and informal meetings."

The question of presidential leadership, influence and cooperation with Congress arose in discussions of the school bill killed in the House, the foreign aid bill which is in trouble there, and the civil rights bill in the Senate. President Eisenhower took a deep breath and said:

"I am trying to get through a program that I have constantly put before the Congress and I believe to be for the good of the United States, and I will talk to any congressman that is on the hill about these things if he has got an honest difference of conviction with me; I try to do it, and I try to win their votes over, but I don't get up and make statements every 20 minutes. I don't think that is good business."

Both on the school and civil rights bill, Mr. Eisenhower said, he has exerted his influence.

Wednesday the President took a firm stand for the civil rights bill in its present form, limited to protecting voting rights only and minus enforcement through jury trials.

"So," he said, "I support the bill as it now stands, earnestly, and I hope that it will be passed soon."

It was a news conference sprinkled with hilarity, presidential anger, and a disclaimer that Mr. Eisenhower is a millionaire. The President also advised reporters that it is easier to quit smoking than one thinks—"if a person turns their mind to something else and quits plying themselves about it."

That word came from a man who once was a heavy smoker and found it easier to stop than "to be more moderate about it."

Asked about a series of newspaper articles in which his fortune was estimated at a million dollars, the Chief Executive got a room-racking response of laughter with a remark that, "if that man who knows so much about my business will offer me a million dollars to sell out, he is going to make a sale in a hurry."

When he first took office, he said, he put everything he owned, except a little cash, in an irrevocable trust. While he is president, he said, "I do not even know what I own, so that no judgment of mine can ever be influenced by any fancied advantage I could get out of my relatively modest holdings in anything."

Eisenhower got hot under the collar when a reporter inquired about his appointment, confirmed by the Senate, of Maxwell Gluck, dress store chain official, to be ambassador to Ceylon.

Gluck had testified to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that he gave the Republican party around $10,000 in 1952 and $20,000 or $30,000 in 1956. He was unable to name the prime ministers of Ceylon or India. He explained Wednesday he knew the names but couldn't pronounce them.

Chalmers M. Roberts of the Washington Post and Times Herald asked the President whether he was "aware when you nominated Mr. Gluck to be ambassador to Ceylon of either the extent of his contribution to the Republican Party or his now recorded ignorance of affairs in that part of the world."

Mr. Eisenhower reddened, thrust out his jaw and glared. In a voice vibrating with anger, he said that, "If anybody is ever recommended to me on the basis of any contribution he has ever made to any political party, that man will never be considered."

"I never heard it mentioned to me as a consideration," he said, "and I don't take it very kindly as suggesting I would be influenced by such things."

Gluck, he said, was highly recommended by people he respects, FBI reports on him were good, and while he never had been to Ceylon he certainly can learn about it "if he is the kind of character and kind of man we believe him to be."

The leadership question kept recurring.

President Eisenhower said he never had heard that influential Democrats had complained they couldn't get White House cooperation on enacting a foreign aid bill. If anybody wants to cooperate, he said, he has a liaison staff available.

He said he never had heard, either, that House Democrats had come around to supporting the administration school bill and complained that it was lost because he "failed to go to bat for the legislation."

Mr. Eisenhower said he had been speaking up for federal aid to help meet the classroom shortage since 1952.

AEC Discloses Aids To Russia's Cancer Research Scientists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed Wednesday it has given Russia a helping hand in using atomic energy for cancer research.

And here at home, it said, tiny atomic batteries have been developed that may eventually lead to atomic power plants for equipment in space ships.

MAKING ITS 22ND semi-annual report to Congress, the commission revealed it has permitted an American firm to ship radioactive isotopes to Russia. It reported that a small amount of carbon-14 was released for use by a Moscow laboratory.

Also outlined was development of a dime-sized atomic battery that the commission said may eventually make possible larger models to power "equipment in guided missiles and space craft."

It said the battery is still experimental but can now power a wrist watch for five years.

THE BATTERY is virtually unaffected by extremes of temperature and humidity, the AEC said. It did not say who developed the battery.

Disclosure of the first isotope shipment to Russia came in a discussion of stepped-up use both at home and abroad of American-made radioactive isotopes for medical, agricultural and industrial applications.

A commission spokesman said the license to export the material to Russia had been obtained from the AEC by the Chemosco Corp. of New York City, one of the American firms that process isotopes originally obtained from AEC.

THE SPOKESMAN said he did not know whether Russia's action in seeking to obtain a quantity of the isotope in this country was any indication that the Russians would not produce it themselves. Carbon-14 — producible in an atomic reactor by bombarding a certain chemical with atomic rays — is made routinely in this country, he said.

Churchill Praises U.S. High Court, Would Alter U.N.

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill Wednesday night paid tribute to the U.S. Supreme Court and called for changes in the United Nations possibly limiting the powers of small nations.

Speaking to 3,000 U.S. lawyers here for the American Bar Association convention, the 82-year-old statesman said the Supreme Court is the guardian and upholder of American liberty.

"Long may it continue to thrive!" he told the banquet in Guildhall. Three Supreme Court justices were in his audience.

Churchill told the lawyers their visit to England is remarkable and "illuminates a great truth." He added: "In the main, law and equity stand in the forefront of the moral forces which our two countries have in common, and rank with our common language in that store of bonds of unity on which I firmly believe our life and destiny depend."

"You are 160 millions and we, with our dominions gathered round us, are 70 or 80 millions, and if we work together there is no doubt that we shall represent a factor in the development of the whole world which no one will have cause to regret."

Turning to the U. N., Churchill said he agreed with Australia's Prime Minister Robert Menzies that justice is not being achieved in the U.N.

Senate Group Accuses Hoffa Of Alliance with Communists

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rackets probes accused teamster leader James R. Hoffa Wednesday of an unholy alliance with racketeers in a scheme to win control of the whole Eastern seaboard.

Disarmament Group Meets Aug. 1 Deadline

LONDON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred non-stop with the Western Allies Wednesday and saw the Soviet delegate, too, in a drive to get some accord on disarmament.

It was reported substantial problems still divided the West in closed talks as the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee reached the Aug. 1 deadline set for this year's session.

The differences among the Allies were reported to be on ways of stopping a nuclear arms race. Western officials made it clear some detail will have to be referred back to Government heads for decision.

Britain has been reluctant to agree to any immediate halt in tests of newly developed H-bombs. France has made clear that so long as nuclear weapons production continues it wants to develop its own weapons.

Dulles was reported to have won Western approval for pushing the open skies inspection plan originally advanced by President Eisenhower, and for continuing the meetings beyond the deadline. The idea of going on also reportedly has Russian approval now.

The United States, Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union are members of the subcommittee. They must prepare a report on their talks for the 12-nation U.N. Disarmament Commission, which in turn is to report to the U.N. General Assembly opening in mid-September.

Dulles flew here Monday under orders from President Eisenhower to get some agreement out of the conference. Informants said the West is also ready to announce acceptance of Soviet Premier Bulganin's general idea of ground inspection by international teams at key ports, airfields and rail junctions, but only to check on suspicions of sky inspectors.

The Secretary dined Wednesday night with British Prime Minister Macmillan, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and U.S. Ambassador John Hay Whitney.

Dulles met Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin for the first time at a working luncheon attended by all five delegations.

Former SUI Student Charged With Arson

Admits Setting House Afire, Officials Say

By JOHN JONES
Daily Iowan Staff Writer
Donald Doucet, 24, a former SUI student, was charged Wednesday with arson with intent to defraud an insurer. He is being held in Johnson County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail and is scheduled to appear for arraignment in Police Court today.

William M. Tucker, Johnson County Attorney, said Doucet admitted Wednesday afternoon that he set fire to a two-story house at 206 Fifth St. in Coralville Saturday morning. The interior of the house was completely gutted by the fire.

Bryce O. Wolford, Coralville Fire Chief, estimated the contents of the house to be approximately 80 per cent destroyed. Tucker said Doucet had $13,000 insurance on his household goods. Total damage to the house and contents is estimated at $15,000.

Tucker said circumstances indicate financial pressures on Doucet may be a possible motive for his actions.

Preliminary information was filed by Tucker and John H. Hannah, Deputy State Fire Marshal, after a 3-day investigation by state fire officials.

The house is owned by O. S. Morse, but Doucet and his family have been living there for the past few months. Morse values the house at $14,000.

Tucker said Doucet admitted Wednesday he started the fire in a room off the kitchen, went upstairs and remained there until driven out of the house by smoke.

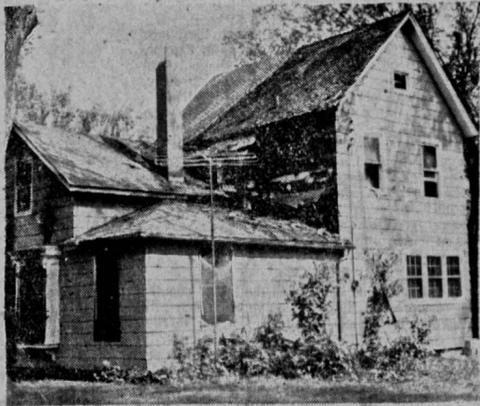

Earlier, Doucet had claimed he collapsed in the burning house and was dragged out by an unidentified person.

Doucet, whose wife and four children were vacationing in Wisconsin, was alone in the house at the time of the fire.

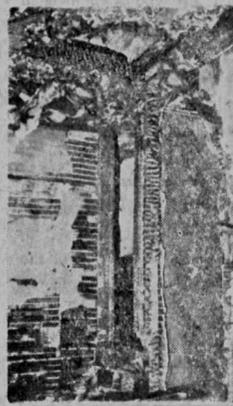

If convicted as charged, Doucet faces up to five years in the State Penitentiary. He will be represented at the arraignment today by Iowa City Attorney Scott Swisher.

PRAY FOR PAY
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Some 200 post office workers disclosed plans Wednesday for an outdoor prayer meeting seeking Divine guidance in obtaining President Eisenhower's signature on a pay-raise bill.

The Senate now is considering a House approved bill which would add up to an average $8 weekly take-home salary increase for the nation's post office employees.

A CHARGE OF ARSON was leveled at former SUI student Donald Doucet Wednesday, in connection with a fire which gutted this Coralville house early Saturday morning. The charred interior is shown at right.

Leopold To Persist In Parole Efforts

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — Nathan Leopold, his chance for unconditional release from prison crushed, said Wednesday: "I stand at the open graveside of my hopes and I can still glorify the name of God. Everything in religion agrees on one thing — They will be done. This apparently is His will."

The thrill slayer of Bobby Franks referred to Governor William G. Stratton's denial Tuesday of executive clemency — the reduction of Leopold's 85-year prison sentence.

But Leopold said he will never give up his efforts to get out of prison.

Leopold attempted his "perfect crime" in 1924 as a youth of 19 with Richard Loeb, 18. Loeb was stabbed to death by a fellow Stateville Prison inmate in 1936.

In turning down Leopold's request, Stratton said he followed the unanimous recommendation of the five-member State Parole and Pardon Board.

The governor said Leopold "is eligible for parole consideration and may file a petition for a hearing of his case at any time he desires."

At a prison press conference Wednesday attended by 50 newsmen and photographers, Leopold declared he would file at the earliest possible moment.

Apparently cheerful but resolute, Leopold read a 300-word statement which said:

"I will apply for parole on my death bed, in the prison hospital, if necessary, even until the year 2023," he said.

Secret German Papers Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Captured top secret German war documents made public Wednesday by the U.S. State Department report an American oilman made a $250,000 payment to certain Democrats in 1940 in an attempt to block President Franklin D. Roosevelt's re-nomination.

The documents contend $160,000 of the money was for "buying" Pennsylvania's national convention vote.

The 415 Nazi messages and reports recall vividly the days of the Blitzkrieg when a prime aim of Hitler's foreign policy was to keep America out of the European war.

Uneasy Peace Prevails Over Penitentiary

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP) — An uneasy peace prevailed among convicts in Montana's old turreted prison Wednesday, but the state's attorney general said "if a pin drops the wrong way, anything can happen."

The State Prison Commission said order was restored completely about 4 p.m. This was slightly more than 24 hours after 380 convicts staged a noisy riot and at one time held eight guards as hostages. All were released, the last five about last midnight when the disorder began to diminish.

A spokesman for the rebellious convicts, a life-timer, said he believed the uprising was over after a second conference with top state officials.

At about the same time Atty. Gen. Forrest H. Anderson came away from a 40-minute talk with cheering prisoners inside the walls. Asked whether prison guards could resume control inside the walls, Anderson replied: "As far as I am concerned, they can go in right now."

Anderson told the prisoners what he would try to do for them. This included consideration of 20 convicts demands. These ranged from more mail privileges to regular meals, instead of bread and water, for prisoners in solitary.

Wednesday's statement by Hagerty, which he said should be regarded as a statement of Administration intention, drew no differences between individual and corporation property.

Seized German assets are estimated at about $541 million, Japanese assets at $54 million.

The assets question dates back to the years immediately after World War II. International agreements between the victorious Allies provided for confiscating enemy property in lieu of reparations. In the 1952 Bonn convention, Germany agreed to compensate its own citizens for the loss of their property in this country.

Dave Larsen's Play — 'Very Love' Is Very Good

— Fun and Funny

By JAMES MAGMER
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

"New play" and "unknown playwright."

These were words heard in the audience before the curtain went up on Dave Larsen's play "Very Love" at SUI Theatre Wednesday night.

But by the last curtain the audience had learned that a new play could be fun and that an unknown playwright could turn out good comedy Larsen had brought it off.

The comedy involved a captain who hated women and was determined not to get married, a cowboy named Spook promoted to lieutenant in battle who whooped when he was in love, and a southern lieutenant who forgot the bells waiting for him back in Virginia while looking at the stars with a Red Cross nurse named Nellie.

Put these three infantry officers in the Rossi family's living room with its bomb hole in the ceiling, add the Italian Rossi family with their noise and their daughter Tona to make Spook whoop and you have Larsen's comedy.

Donald Polzin as Spook did a nice job. He was alternately depressed and exuberant, always as awkward and shuffling as a Wyoming cowboy.

Tona, played by Jeanlee Mathey was charming, unaffected and lovable, but at times a bit too loud even for an Italian maid. Ann Corcoran as the Red Cross nurse Nellie "How about that," was as wise and brassy as the real article.

David Beuter played the southern lieutenant with enough accent and hauteur to bring it off.

There was a lot of comedy, but the comedy was mixed with a lot more philosophy too obvious at times about "What is love?"

But the audience didn't seem to mind. Perhaps so many modern playwrights have told them that love is such a sordid thing that they liked Larsen's presenting them with fresh idealization of the oldest human value. They seem to feel that even if they couldn't attain Larsen's ideal, at least they could reach for it.

Owners Protest Paving Delay

A group of three property owners on Park Road appeared at City Council meeting last night to protest the postponement of a letting for paving Highland Avenue, Park Road, Reno Street, and Riverside Drive.

The City Council passed a motion Monday night to postpone the letting on the grounds that the cost of paving would be less to the city at a later date.

S. Strauss, 708 Park Road, said he believed the property owners on Park Road would be willing to pro-rate the costs of the paving among themselves in order to have the pavement sooner.

As a result of the protest, Council members motioned to hold a public hearing on the subject at 4 p.m. Aug. 26. Legal procedure demands that a certain period of time elapse before a hearing may be held.

Bids for new equipment were read and referred to City Manager Peter Roan for evaluation.

The City Council passed a resolution to annex the property of Ilo Dennis into the incorporated city limits and set Aug. 19 for a public hearing for the purchase of Eagles' Lodge property for public parking.

The Weather

FAIR and WARM

A light shower fell on Iowa City Wednesday evening after the temperature soared above 90 earlier in the day. The latest heat wave is expected to continue through today with partly cloudy skies. No precipitation is forecast.

The Temper of The North

Time and time again we Northerners point with horror to the distressing suppression of the Negro Southerner, and the occasional outbreaks of violence that occur when they "forget their place."

And with good reason. But then it brings us up a little short when something like the recent Chicago race incidents pop up here in the North—even though we can say that probably many of the whites involved were transplanted Southerners, that they were not representative of Northern sentiment or that the riot was relatively small. The courage and maturity of the individuals involved is perhaps reflected in the list of Negroes who were injured in the brawl—seven women and four children including a two-year-old, were among the 25 Negroes hurt.

Perhaps it is one of the unavoidable—if unpleasant—aspects of progress towards full citizenship for the Negro, but it is enough to make each of us pause and examine our actions to make sure that we do not criticize others for views that we harbor ourselves.

The Promising Field

The Wall Street Journal reports an unbelievable situation in Downey, California—engineers pounding the pavements in search of jobs. This fantastic turn of events followed cancellation of the Navaho guided missile project July 10, when some 12,000 workers, including 1,000 engineers, were laid off by the North American Aviation Corporation.

mental admonishments against "pirating" of engineers from one defense job to another. Another answer is the type of engineer in demand. Other fields are just as actively pursuing job candidates and it appears as though this will be the case for quite a while to come.

Engineering will undoubtedly continue to be one of the better career opportunities for bright young people, but the supply seems to be catching up with demand in many fields. But there it is, the handwriting, on the wall—a young man will be well advised to take a good long look at the horizons of the particular engineering field he wishes to enter—the lucrative salaries offered today may be merely a lure into frustrated ambitions.

Holiday in Europe

Italy and France Offer Warm But Enjoyable Days

By HANS MYHRE
Daily Iowan Staff Writer
(This is the fifth of a Daily Iowan series on summer travel in Europe.)

Italy
Tastes differ, and we all have our favorites whether we are talking about baseball or countries. I cannot deny that my favorite country is easy-going Italy. Not quite as well advertised as France, Italy will be a pleasant surprise to you. Variations in people and scenery are great—the impressive Italian Alps and the blond people of the north, to the almost tropical climate and typical southern temper of Sicily. Everywhere there is a surprise, something you had not expected—beautiful marble buildings where you had expected to see a farmhouse, and just a few sun-bathers at a little beach by the Italian Riviera, where you had expected to find thousands.

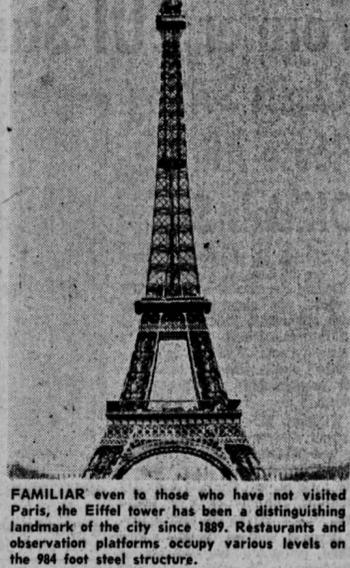

Florence is the Mecca of art, a beautiful city on the road south from Venice to Rome. If time allows, you should not miss Naples and Capri, some 150 miles south of Rome. Capri is beautiful and Naples may be disappointing, but it is an interesting and historic city for all of its present day cluttered appearance.
In my opinion the Italian Riviera is superior to the French, and most tourists will find it considerably more reasonable.
Italian roads are excellent, although there are few super-highways. Hotels in Italy, as in France, are not so good, price for price, as the northern European hotels. The camping facilities in Italy, however, are excellent and the climate ideal.
In many places tourists will meet people who do not speak any foreign language. Arguments about the menu may arise but don't let it bother you—spaghetti is an international word.

TOURIST EVENTS
Palio, Siena, July 2-Aug. 16. Traditional horse races around town square.
Historical Regatta, Venice, September 1.
Feast of Piedigrotta, Naples, September 7-9. Folkloric events.

FRANCE
For years France has topped the list of popular tourists' countries in Europe. Last year the four million tourists in France topped all previous years—10 per cent of the four million were Americans.
Although Paris is the Mecca of travel, tourists have found their way into provinces where there also is a great deal to see and do. The tourist on his first trip to France should keep in mind that almost every region of the country has attractions of great variety to offer those willing to make the effort.
After Paris, the French Riviera is certainly the most popular tourist spot. No wonder that so many people are disappointed. During July and August it is hard to find other Frenchmen in Nice than the businessmen, who at this time year take the opportunity of raising their prices.

The place looks more like Miami Beach in February and Coney Island in July rolled into one. In the months of May, June and September the picture changes considerably, but even in those months I would advise picking a smaller place like St. Tropez, La Ciotat or some other small village between Cannes and Marseilles.
The famous resort of Chamonix in southeastern France offers outstanding opportunities for the mountaineer. The 15,000 foot Mont Blanc, highest mountain in Europe, is in this area.
The hotels in France are usually not of the same standard as those found further north. The main roads are excellent, although the transportation facilities are seldom of American standards.
If you are willing to pay for it, it is possible to get any kind of food, and good French cooking has few equals.

TOURIST EVENTS
Religious Festival, Lourdes, August 15. Ceremonies honor the virgin.
Wine Festival, Dijon, September 14, 15.

FAMILIAR even to those who have not visited Paris, the Eiffel tower has been a distinguishing landmark of the city since 1889. Restaurants and observation platforms occupy various levels on the 984 foot steel structure.

White House Joker

Displaced Pen Displeases Rabb; Makes Stephens Gleeful

By GEORGE DIXON
King Features Syndicate
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Thomas E. Stephens was President Eisenhower's appointment secretary, but he has been moved up to extremely high-level confidential work. He finds this so intense a strain, however, so toxic to the nerves that he has to have an antidote. The hush-shush man's outlet now is playing little pranks.
STEPHENS WAS PURSUING his cabalistics, and a substitute was handling the President's appointments, the other day when Judge Juvenal Marchisio, of New York, President of the American Committee on Italian Migration, arrived to visit Mr. Eisenhower. Judge Marchisio was taken in hand by Maxwell M. Rabb, who doubles as Secretary to the Cabinet and White House liaison with minority groups.
The visitor confided to Mr. Rabb that he was very down-hearted. He said he was terribly disappointed at the dearth of progress on legislation to liberalize the immigration laws. The present immigration picture, Judge Marchisio complained, was more disheartening than at any time in his memory.
THIS STUNG MR. RABB, who doesn't sting easily, having acquired what is known locally as a 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue hide. The cabinet secretary hauled out a soapbox he keeps under the Cabinet conference table and proceeded to make a belated Fourth of July speech.
"Why," he thundered at his captive audience of one, "How can you say that this is the most disheartening period in the history of immigration? As far as progress toward liberalizing the immigration laws are concerned, these are the best of times!"
Judge Marchisio stepped back to avoid being clipped in the judicial profile by Mr. Rabb's gesturing arms, as the distinguished orator continued:
"YES, THESE ARE the very best of times! Cast your memory back to the dark days of the Walker-McCarran Act! That was a time to be despaired. But, less than two years after the passage of that barbarous act, President Eisenhower, in 1953, signed the bill that gave sanctuary to 100,000 of the world's most pitiful refugees.
"And," waved Mr. Rabb, working up to a smashing climax, "I have to keep the memory of that great event ever green, my most cherished possession—the very pen with which President Eisenhower signed the bill!" pointing dramatically to a glass case on his desk in which he kept a pen on golden mountings, he crescendoed: "There it is!"
HE PEERED PROUDLY at the pen, which should have been a priceless trophy inscribed "Dwight D. Eisenhower." His eyes watered with strain and incredulity. The thing in the case was a 10-cent ballpoint, of the type which politicians give away in campaigns.

It bore the sleazy stencil, "Thomas E. Stephens."
When the fuming Rabb tracked down Stephens, the White House's prankish mystery man explained airily:
"Oh, I just wanted to see how long it would be before you noticed the substitution."
STEPHENS LATER CONFESSED he'd pulled the trick just two days prior to discovery. But the President's confidential adviser has other relaxations beside pen boosting. He is the owner and curator of the "Stephens Art Gallery."
This is located just outside the Cabinet room and features paintings by President Eisenhower, Clare Boothe Luce, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who has never been known to paint anything but a barnyard fence. The line work in all is astonishingly good; almost professional.
Every painting is genuinely the work of the artist whose name it bears. However, all the distinguished painters except Ike and Mrs. Luce used those numbered things designed for the more backward kindergarten kiddies, and all they did was to trace from one number to the next.

Gubernatorial foe in Special Election For McCarthy Seat
MILWAUKEE — Republican Walter J. Kohler Jr., an all-out backer of President Eisenhower, and William E. Proxmire, the state's best known Democrat, will fight it out for the U.S. Senate seat vacated by the death of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).
The two will meet in a special election Aug. 27 for the balance of McCarthy's term, which expires in January 1959.
It will be the third fight between Kohler, 53, who served three terms as governor, and Proxmire, 41, who came to Wisconsin less than a decade ago from Illinois. In the two previous meetings Kohler defeated Proxmire for the governorship.
Kohler won the Republican Party nomination Tuesday by topping a seven-man field. He nosed out former Rep. Glenn R. Davis, a critic of the Administration's policy, by taking Milwaukee County by a substantial margin. Proxmire handily defeated his Democratic opponent, Rep. Clement J. Zablocki of Milwaukee.

A grant of $7,516 will be used by Dr. James Wick, head of clinical operative dentistry, for research on the effectiveness of different types of material used to seal cavities in teeth before they are filled. Radioisotopes will be used to trace the sealing effectiveness of the different materials used as cavity liners, Dr. Wick said.

A GIFT OF $175 was accepted from class members for the Dental Class of 1929 Award, which is given annually to the sophomore dental student who has made the highest scholastic standing in the freshman year in dentistry. A gift of $40 from Dr. Frank Coles, Mount Pleasant, was also accepted for this award. The Dental Hygiene Student Loan Fund received $138 from the Student Loan Committee of the Iowa State Dental Society Auxiliary.

Pro Sports Probers Hear Of Violations

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee investigating pro sports heard Wednesday that Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League (NFL) once claimed authority which a judge said belonged to the courts.

The account came from George Ratterman, ex-Notre Dame and NFL quarterback who said Bell slapped him with a $2,000 fine for jumping to the Canadian Football League.

Ratterman said a New Jersey judge told him the league-jumping dispute was a matter for the courts to settle. Ratterman said Bell rejected this view.

The former Notre Dame star was one of a quartet of present and former football luminaries who testified in the House Anti-trust subcommittee's survey of pro sports enterprises.

Creighton Miller, a star Notre Dame back of the 1940s, testified that Bell declared last winter he would quit as commissioner if NFL club owners did not recognize a players' association.

The owners refused recognition, but Bell stayed on at what Rep. William E. Miller (R-N.Y.) noted was a raise in pay. Bell, hired by the owners, got a bonus and $10,000 raise — to $40,000 a year — at the league's annual meeting last January.

Miller, attorney for the association, said it represents more than 90 per cent of NFL players from all 12 teams except the Chicago Bears.

His testimony was supported by the two chief player representatives, Norm Van Brocklin, Los Angeles Rams' quarterback, and Kyle Rote, end and captain of the world champion New York Giants.

They contended the type of union NFL players have formed would solve pro football's player-management problems, including an alleged "blacklist" of players who try to become free agents.

NFL contracts give each club a second-year option on its players' services. By not renewing and serving out the second year, the player is nominally free to deal with another club.

It was Ratterman, athlete turned lawyer and pension consultant, who testified of Bell's authority vs. the courts.

Ratterman said he had regarded himself a free agent in 1951 when the now defunct New York Yankees failed, in his view, to assert its option. But he said he was told by Frank Fitzgerald, then Yankee general manager, that no other NFL club would sign him.

Ratterman thereupon crossed the border and played for the Montreal Alouettes. He said the Yankees responded by filing an injunction suit in New Jersey, where he lived. The case was settled out of court when Ratterman finished out the year with the Yankees.

Before the settlement, however, Ratterman said the judge taking evidence had remarked the dispute was one to be resolved in court rather than the commissioner's office.

Ratterman said he passed this on to Bell when the commissioner declared league headquarters would have to approve before he could play again with the Yankees.

"He said he didn't care what the judge in New Jersey said," Ratterman testified.

With his "finances dwindling rapidly," Ratterman said he complied and was dealt a $2,000 fine. He added he paid off $1,200 before the season ended, and the next year, when he was with the Cleveland Browns, Bell told him to forget the balance.

"I got the impression he remitted the balance because I hadn't made a lot of noise about the suit and fine . . . that if I would be a good boy and go along with things I would save $800," Ratterman said.

Pirates' Manager Bragan is Feudin', Fussin' With Umps

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Manager Bob Bragan of the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday night continued his feud with the umpire crew headed by Frank Dascoli by strolling out onto the field during the Pirates-Braves game sipping orange drink through a straw.

Bragan, who moments before had been ejected from the game by Umpire Stan Landes, offered each of the men in blue a sip while a crowd of about 20,000 roared.

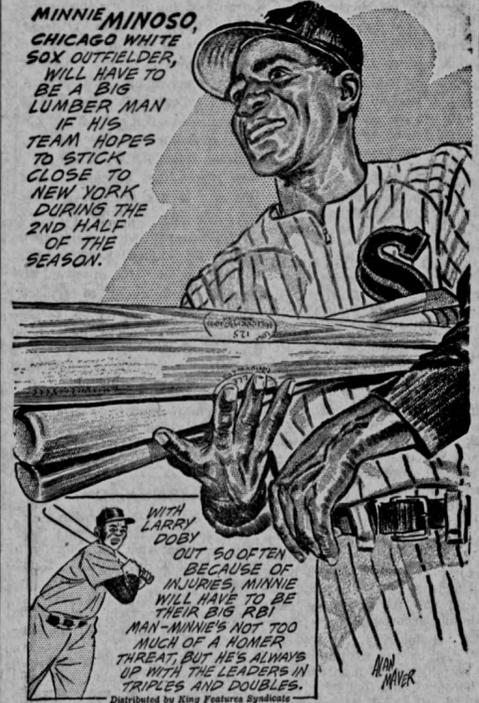

Tuesday night Bragan wired National League President Warren Giles requesting that Dascoli's umpiring team be "broken up."

The Pittsburgh fireball was irked over the ejection of Pitcher Bob Purkey. Umpires on the crew besides Dascoli and Landes are rookie Bill Baker and veteran Frank Secory.

Giles, in an answer to Bragan, said that he would tell the Pittsburgh manager "I appreciate his interest, but we and not the managers, must decide on the makeup of the various umpire teams."

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees fattened up on Kansas City again Wednesday, sweeping a doubleheader 2-0 and 5-4 to make it 16 victories in 17 games with the A's this season.

Bill Skowron's eighth-inning single scored Gil McDougald with the winning run in the second game after Mickey Mantle had smashed his 28th homer in support of Bob Turley's five-hit pitching in the opener.

Don Larsen received credit for the second game triumph, his sixth against three losses, despite fielding misplays behind him that made three of the four Kansas City runs unearned.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Larry Doby collected four singles in as many chances Wednesday night to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 6-5 victory over Washington. Roy Sievers slammed his 27th homer for the Senators off winner Bob Keegan in the seventh inning with none aboard.

Both clubs used five pitchers. The White Sox were forced to throttle a rally by the Senators in the ninth when successive doubles by Lou Berberet and Faye Thronberry nudged Washington within a run of Chicago.

Doby singled across a run in the second inning after Minnie Minoso doubled. He singled again in an unproductive fourth inning, singled during a three-run uprising against loser Pedro Ramos in the sixth, and drove across another run in the ninth with his fourth single.

Braves Hand The Pirates 4-2 Defeat

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The league-leading Milwaukee Braves slapped 11 hits — nine of them off starter and loser Bob Purkey — as they beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-2, Wednesday night.

Bob Buhl, taking his 13th victory against six losses, scattered five singles in earlier innings and then lost a shutout in the ninth when Dick Groat and Bob Skinner doubled and Hank Foiles, third of the Pirates catchers, singled. Groat scored on the hit by Skinner, who came home on Johnny Logan's fumble of a bounder by Bill Mazerowski.

Purkey, charged with his 8th loss against 10 victories, gave up homers to Red Schoendienst in the third and Logan in the fifth and was charged with both of the Braves' runs in the sixth.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Led by Alvin Dark's four hits and the steady seven-hit pitching of Herm Wehmeier, the St. Louis Cardinals stubbornly stayed on the heels of first place Milwaukee Wednesday night by beating the New York Giants, 5-1.

Dark once again was at his best against his former teammates with a perfect 4-for-4 night, all singles, and two runs batted in.

The victory was the eighth in 10 games in the Cardinals' current home stand and kept them a half-game behind the Braves.

Loser Ray Crone started strongly but was rapped for nine hits in his last three turns and was driven out in the seventh.

Bums 3-2, Cubs 2-1

CHICAGO (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers rode two dramatic ninth inning rallies to a doubleheader sweep, 3-2 and 2-1, over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday.

Dodger pitcher Ed Roebuck got credit for both victories.

Tied going into the last inning of the first game, the Dodgers powered three straight singles to produce the winning run after two were out. Cub pitcher Bob Rush took his 12th defeat.

Trailing 1-0 in the ninth of the nightcap, the Dodgers blended two singles and two walks with losing pitcher Don Elston's throwing error on an attempted pick off and scored twice.

In closing out the month of July, the third-place Dodgers accounted for 16 victories against 6 setbacks since the All-Star game — the fastest pace in the National League.
