

Johnny Dio Union Worker, Witness Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former labor leader testified Thursday that racketeer Johnny Dio was once an organizer for the garment union headed by Dave Dubinsky, a member of the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee.

Lester Washburn, head of the old AFL United Auto Workers from 1943 to 1954, also told a Senate Rackets Committee he tried and failed to get Dubinsky's help in throwing Dio out of the UAW. Dubinsky is president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union and has been considered in the forefront of efforts to boot criminals and Communists from organized labor.

Reporters intercepted him at an Ethical Practices Committee meeting and asked whether he had known that Dio worked for the ILGWU.

"I will not engage in a debate with Washburn," the labor leader replied. "If the Senate committee thinks my testimony is important, I will be glad to testify."

The special Senate committee investigating improper labor-management practices has just that in mind.

Apart from the Dubinsky angle, Washburn also told the committee Dio was closely associated with James R. Hoffa, the man who now has the inside track to succeed Dave Beck as president of the Teamsters Union.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) wanted to know what advantage Hoffa would get from "joining up with these creepy characters of the underground."

Washburn said Hoffa must have thought Dio would be a good emissary or could be used in compromising gains, "I would say for purposes of gaining power in the labor movement."

He said he thought racketeers probably infiltrated unions to "shake down employers" or to obtain "plush living off dues." Back on the witness stand after a luncheon break, Washburn was asked by Sen. John E. Kennedy (D-Mass.) whether Dubinsky was opposed to Dio during the years. "Yes," Washburn said. "He was moving heaven and earth to get us to get him out of our union."

U.S. To Offer Plan To Avoid Sneak Attacks

LONDON (AP) — American officials said Thursday night Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is considering a personal presentation to the U. N. Disarmament Subcommittee of the West's plan for a system to prevent sneak attacks.

Dulles idea would be to throw the weight of his authority behind a revised version of President Eisenhower's 2-year-old proposal for opening the skies above America and the Soviet Union for international inspection.

Dulles decision on whether to appear before today's scheduled session of the 5-power subcommittee will be made known sometime before the meeting, American informants said. If Dulles does not unveil the Western plan, U. N. delegate Harold E. Stassen will do it.

Three days of diplomatic activity by U. S., British, French and Canadian members of the U. N. group have produced several major changes in the plan.

The Russians' fifth member of the subcommittee, made a counter offer on open sky inspection last spring which has not been acceptable.

The talks began when Dulles flew in Monday under the President's orders to appraise prospects of a limited disarmament treaty with Russia.

The exchanges produced some agreements but several substantial issues on nuclear and conventional arms have had to be referred to home capitals for decisions.

One problem relates to the circumstances under which the West should use nuclear weapons. Russia has called for a complete renunciation of their use. The West has insisted on reserving the right to use A-bombs and H-bombs in self-defense.

Western officials said the inter-continental warning system as now envisaged would be in two main parts.

The first adapts President Eisenhower's proposal to open the skies to aerial photography and reconnaissance.

The second adapts Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's proposal for posting international squads at key ports, rail junctions and in frontier areas where they would have powers to watch for undue military movements.

Pres. H. Bowen To Address Grads

PRESIDENT Howard H. Bowen of Grinnell College will speak at SUI's summer commencement exercises at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, a former Dean of Commerce and Business Administration at the University of Illinois, Dr. Bowen earned his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees at SUI and was a member of the SUI economics faculty for several years. The subject of his address to the University's 675 August graduates will be "The Next 50 Years."

Priests Held In Hungary; Await Trial

BUDAPEST (AP) — A group of Roman Catholic priests was accused by Hungary's Communist Government Thursday of aiding the rebels in last fall's tragic revolt. The Government said all are under arrest and will be brought to trial soon.

The Interior Ministry issued a statement detailing the charges against this "major group of counter-revolutionary priests," but did not name them all or say exactly how many are in the group.

Josef Cardinal Mindzenty, who is still in asylum in the U.S. Legation in Budapest after being released from a life prison term by the rebels, was accused in one instance.

This involved his secretary, the Rev. Albert Egon Turcsanyi, who has been reported under arrest previously. The ministry charged Cardinal Mindzenty instructed the priests to loot the Government's religious affairs office during last fall's anti-Russians revolt.

Then, said the ministry, they shipped secret documents from the office to the Cardinal. Father Turcsanyi, the statement charged, "took part in the looting at the head of an armed group."

Other charges against the "counter-revolutionary" priests include: Printing and distributing "large quantities of leaflets and propaganda material" in centers of the uprising.

Maintaining close contact with the Freedom Fighters, conducting "personal agitation among them," supplying them with food and helping them to ride out after the revolt was crushed by Soviet tanks.

Double Take!

B. Ditto Needs a Doctor Ditto—C. Ditto

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Dr. Bill Ditto, Greensboro dentist, was in a hospital Thursday with a broken leg. His father, A. Y. Ditto of Charlotte, broke it.

Dr. Ditto broke his left leg while on an outing Monday. Father Ditto came to help in the crisis and Wednesday morning ditto, except it was his right leg—while he was shopping.

That wasn't the first ditto in the lives of the Dittos.

In World War I, father Ditto entered the Marine Corps as a private and emerged a first lieutenant. In World War II, son Ditto ditto.

Hasn't Resigned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson said Thursday he hasn't resigned but has talked with President Eisenhower at various times about a successor.

Air Force Celebrates Fiftieth Anniversary

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was the Air Force's 50th birthday anniversary Thursday and the agency, still a youngster by comparison with its sister services, celebrated proudly and long.

There were greetings from President Eisenhower, celebrations at Air Force bases around the globe, even the issuance of a special air mail stamp.

The observance started with a morning ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery and an aerial salute by a flight of 11 supersonic F100 interceptors streaking high across the rows of silent white crosses.

The spot in the formation where a 12th plane would have been was left vacant, mute memory of those fallen airmen who have passed on.

New Questions Arise About Maxwell Gluck

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department, which has run into criticism over the choice of an ambassador to Ceylon, faced some questions Thursday about its new ambassador to Cuba.

Undersecretary of State Christian A. Herter spent 2 1/2 hours before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday afternoon in defense of the nomination of Maxwell H. Gluck, chain store tycoon, to represent the United States in Ceylon.

About the same time, press officer Lincoln White was asked some questions at the Department about reports that Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith had expressed sympathy in Cuba for demonstrators opposing President Fulgencio Batista.

Smith, a former finance chairman of the Republican party in Florida and like Gluck—a party campaign contributor, paid a visit Wednesday to Santiago, a hot bed of antigovernment sentiment.

During his visit there was a demonstration in which police turned fire hoses on women paraders. Smith was said to have spoken of the police actions as "reprisals" and to have expressed hope those arrested would be freed.

"Since when," White was asked, "does the United States tell Cubans they should release Cubans held in Cuban jails?"

White did not answer the question specifically. He did say that Smith told Batista last month, when first presenting his credentials, that he planned to visit various parts of Cuba including Santiago, and Batista approved.

Gluck's troubles arose before he ever had a chance to present his credentials.

Gluck's testimony before a secret meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee July 2 was made public in full Thursday night.

The testimony quoted him as saying that he did not believe his heavy contribution to the 1956 Republican campaign was "the only reason" for his selection. Herter told reporters he never heard the question of a campaign contribution "mentioned in any way whatsoever" in connection with the selection of Gluck or any other ambassadorial appointee.

Canada, U.S. Get Mutual Air Command

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Canada formalized the mutual air defense system for the North American continent Thursday by ordering the establishment of a joint high command.

The new headquarters, with a U.S. Air Force general as chief and a Royal Canadian Air Force officer as deputy, will be located at the present Air Defense Command in Colorado Springs.

A Washington-Ottawa statement said that at the integrated headquarters will be worked out in procedure, ready for immediate use in case of emergency.

The combined headquarters will be called "Air Defense, Canada-United States" (ADCANUS).

The commander will be U.S. A.F. Gen. Earl E. Partridge, head of the present Continental Air Defense Command, a U.S. agency. Deputy commander will be R.C.A.F. Air Marshal C. Roy Slemmon, chief of staff of the Canadian air force.

The two countries already cooperate closely in mutual defense under agreements dating back to 1950. Direct communications for quick reports on detection of unidentified aircraft and for consultation tie in the U.S. headquarters at Colorado Springs and the R.C.A.F. command at St. Huberts, Quebec.

The Weather

FAIR and WARM

Against the temperatures are expected to exceed 90 degrees, again the humidity is expected to be high, and again no relief is in sight. The Weather Bureau reports a possibility of thunder-showers tonight, but in general, the skies will be fair to partly cloudy both today and Saturday.

Senate Nails Jury Trial Into Civil Rights Bill

Senate Approves Military Funds

Solons Avert No Pay Payday For Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting to avoid payless paydays for American troops, the Senate laid civil rights aside for the time being Thursday and whipped through a $33,759,850,000 money bill for the armed services.

IT PASSED the military bill on a voice vote after voting 89-0 on a roll call to take it up. Since last midnight there had been no legal authority for the armed services to spend any money.

After sending the defense bill to the White House, the Senate voted on another voice vote to send its $3,617,333,000 foreign aid authorization to the House for conference. The House has voted a $3,116,833,000 aid authorization.

NEXT, ON ANOTHER voice vote, the Senate approved the Senate-House Conference Committee report on the $3,666,544,757 Agriculture Department bill. The Senate vote sent this bill on to the White House.

The defense, aid and farm bills all had priority status and could be taken up by the Senate on a majority vote, without the civil rights legislation being dropped except temporarily.

Unanimous consent was not needed to take up these conference committee matters, but it would be needed to lay aside the civil rights bill for other legislation which has not reached the conference stage.

VA Appraiser Denies Bribery

CHICAGO (AP) — The Veterans Administration's chief regional appraiser, under fire for allegedly accepting gifts, said Thursday he would defy anyone to prove he had solicited bribes at the expense of veterans.

Robert E. Moffett returned to his office at VA regional headquarters Wednesday and received notice of his discharge effective Aug. 2 for "favoritism" and "supervisory administrative deficiencies."

Moffett conceded Thursday he had received numerous gifts from veterans he had aided in expediting loans for proper housing. But, he added:

"Any preferential treatment I obtained was to the benefit of the veteran. When they came to me with their problems of getting immediate housing, I made every effort to see they obtained it."

Failure by Moffett to reply or seek a hearing on charges against him would have made his discharge after 30 days automatic.

In announcing his decision to fight the charges, Moffett said he was willing to face a grand jury or a congressional committee to disprove the allegations.

Moffett, 59, is a retired major general in the Illinois National Guard and a veteran of both World Wars.

Charges against him grew out of an investigation which arose from the slaying of Leon Marcus, former bank president indicted in the Orville Hodge scandal.

Hodge, Illinois state auditor, was sentenced to 12 to 15 years in prison for stealing $1 1/2 million from the state treasury.

He said the process was simple. Every day at 11 a.m. she went down to the lobby of the building and handed an envelope containing her money—from $200 to as high as $1,000—and race selections to a bookmaker who gave the name of Joe Martin. Two detectives were assigned the task of finding him.

CALL A POLICEMAN! TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — With some embarrassment, a private detective agency called the cops Wednesday. Someone stole its paychecks.

George De Hart, a detective from the Continental Secret Service Bureau said he set a briefcase containing 40 paychecks beside his car while he unlocked the door. He drove off without the case, and when he returned it was gone.

Fall, Winter May Bring Asiatic Flu

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon Gen. Leroy E. Burney said Thursday "there is a very definite probability" this country will have a large outbreak of Asian influenza this fall or winter.

In a statement which he amplified at a news conference, Burney said experience suggests there may be serious epidemics of the disease in this country despite a new vaccine due out in September.

He explained that on the basis of the millions of cases which have occurred in other nations "plus the additional factor that about 11,000 cases have occurred in this country there has undoubtedly been widespread seeding of virus throughout the country."

"Most areas of the country have probably been exposed to the virus by now and past experience suggests that the disease may suddenly begin to spread quite rapidly in the fall or up through late winter," Burney said.

"If epidemics should occur they could spread from San Francisco to Boston in a period as short as perhaps four weeks."

He noted the attack rate in the Far East was about 20 per cent, with a death rate of about two-tenths of 1 per cent. He expressed confidence the death rate in this country will be far below that.

"Assuming an attack rate of 10 to 20 per cent in this country," Burney said, "this would mean that in a city of one million persons, there could be 100,000 to 200,000 cases."

He said cold weather seems to "trigger" flu attacks, and an outbreak is expected along in December, January or February, if it comes.

Bookkeeper Says She Took Money To Bet on Horses

CLEVELAND (AP) — Plum, 46, bookkeeper for a large law firm, signed a statement Thursday that in the last four years she took $96,000 to bet on the horses.

"I started to bet on the horses in 1952, but I used my own money at first," she said.

Her husband, formerly a clerk in a state liquor store, recently became a deputy sheriff. A brother is a city detective.

The law offices are in the same building as a bank, and Mrs. Madigan cashed several checks there every day. Two persons were required to sign each check — Mrs. Madigan and one member of the firm.

Three weeks ago, she went to three different members and had each one sign a check for $300, saying the money was needed by another member for a business trip. They happened to compare notes and became suspicious. After a private investigation one signed a warrant charging her with a specific crime on a specific date. She was arrested and calmly told her story to detectives.

No one had suspected her. Each year the senior member of the firm went over her books, but never checked the purported bank balance with the bank.

She said the process was simple. Every day at 11 a.m. she went down to the lobby of the building and handed an envelope containing her money—from $200 to as high as $1,000—and race selections to a bookmaker who gave the name of Joe Martin. Two detectives were assigned the task of finding him.

Back home in Wyoming, Lieutenant Spook used to dance fast around the outside of the fencer and whoop to start the cattle when riding the range.

Back in Virginia Lieutenant Covington loved a prim Southern belle, but in Italy he finds that

Cutback Made In Procurement Of Hardware

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson said Thursday decisions have been made for about half of a $2.2-billion economy cutback for the armed services, but "the bad news is not all out yet."

At a news conference, Wilson estimated that between $1 1/2 billion of the cutback will be in procurement of hardware—obviously most of that in aircraft.

Military spending during the first six months of this year was at a rate of $40.2 billion annually, Wilson said, and is "still on the upswing."

Wilson was asked if the economy measure meant a general reduction of about 5 per cent. It would be "more than that," he said with cuts in some things running between 6 and 8 per cent, in others 10 per cent and in some instances 20 per cent.

Wilson said the Joint Chiefs of Staff are going to be told to "recommend the best program they can within" a $8-billion-dollar level for the next fiscal year. This is the figure at which Wilson has said he expects spending to level off.

Wilson said the Joint Chiefs, in submitting their "force level" requirements, would be asked to stay within this ceiling, but "then we are going to look at it." Wilson insisted he had no idea now of the allocation of funds among the three armed services in the coming fiscal year.

Wilson held his news conference at about the time the Senate sent to the President a compromise $33,759,850,000 bill providing funds for the Defense Department for the 12 months which began July 1. It was $2,368,150,000 under President Eisenhower's requests.

Arson Suspect To Be Heard By Grand Jury

Donald Doucet, former SUI student charged with arson, waived preliminary hearing Thursday and was bound over to the Grand Jury. Attorney Scott Swisher appeared before Police Court Judge Roger H. Ivie for Doucet, who was released Thursday afternoon under $2,500 bond.

Doucet admitted Wednesday setting fire to a two-story house at 206 Fifth Street in Coralville Saturday morning in a signed statement to County Attorney William M. Tucker and John H. Hannah, Deputy State Fire Marshal.

The House belonged to O. S. Morse, 11 Rowland Court, but Doucet had been renting it for several months. Total damage to the house and the contents was estimated at $15,000 by C. O. Wolford, Coralville Fire Chief.

Tucker said Doucet had $13,000 insurance on his household goods, $9,000 of which had been issued within a week preceding the fire.

'Very Love' Provides Laughter, Romance

"Very Love" is to watch the stars with a wise and brassy Red Cross nurse named Nellie.

Back home Captain Wright has a wife who's grown fat and weeps when she doesn't get what she wants. The Captain thinks all love is a chemical attraction to trap men into marriage so the species can be propagated properly. So in Italy he does his best to save his men from this propagation snare.

But the Captain is wrong. "Very Love" is not chemistry. It's not even biology. "Very Love" is that certain feeling that makes Tona and Spook stand in the window and whoop at the mountain.

"Very Love" is that feeling that makes Lieutenant Covington and Nellie think of each other when they look at a wall that has been painted blue.

Deals Major Blow To Administration

Cuban Helm Taken Over By Batista

HAVANA (AP) — President Fulgencio Batista seized arbitrary control over the Cuban people Thursday to cope with rebellion.

Some of his most influential followers and high Government leaders charged meanwhile that the new U.S. Ambassador, Earl T. Smith, was interfering in Cuban affairs.

Smith found himself in the midst of a rebel demonstration — apparently put on for him — on a visit to Oriente Province Wednesday and later commented on "political uneasiness" and bloodshed in Cuba.

The Government's seizure of arbitrary power was linked directly to the incident staged by the rebels in Smith's presence.

The seizure was effected by a Cabinet decree suspending Cuban constitutional guarantees for 45 days. It amounts to a form of martial law.

Censorship quickly went into effect. Censors were stationed in newspapers, radio and TV offices and cable offices. One immediate aim was to ban any news of support for rebels the Government has been battling since last December.

The anti-Batista demonstrations Wednesday in Santiago de Cuba were staged by women dressed in black and singing the national anthem as they paraded through the streets. The most clamorous demonstration was at a funeral service for Frank Pais, a slain member of the rebel group headed by Fidel Castro.

Police used fire hoses to break up the women's demonstration and arrested some.

The demonstration apparently was arranged deliberately to coincide with Smith's visit. Smith told a news conference later, "I fear some persons made use of my presence here to demonstrate in protest against their own government."

U.S. House Favors Bill Ike Opposes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee voted 34-4 Thursday for a GI trials bill strongly opposed by the Eisenhower administration.

The measure by Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) and Rep. Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex.) would give the secretary of the service involved the power to decide for the United States whether an offense by a U.S. serviceman overseas was committed in performance of duty.

If a foreign government deemed an on-duty case particularly important to it, the U.S. Secretary would be the one to decide whether this country would waive its trial right as provided for in the status of forces agreements.

WASHINGTON (Friday) (AP) — The Senate early Friday nailed a jury trial amendment into the civil rights bill, thereby dealing a major defeat to President Eisenhower and forces backing the administration measure.

The amendment was approved at 12:14 a.m. after tense debate before jammed galleries. It provides for jury trials in criminal contempt cases arising from injunctions the attorney general would be empowered to obtain to enforce voting rights. It also would apply in labor cases and many others.

Only Thursday President Eisenhower emphasized anew his opposition to a jury trial amendment. And Sen. William F. Knowland of California, the Senate GOP leader, said it would be "a fatal blow" to the bill.

The amendment was offered by Senators Joseph C. Mahoney (D-Wyo.), Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Frank Church (D-Idaho). Southerners backed it solidly and enough Republicans and Northern Democrats joined them to put it across.

A big factor in its success was the adept, buttonholing generalship of Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader and possible contender for the next presidential nomination of his party. Striving to keep Northern and Southern Democrats from flying apart, he strove for what he considered moderating chances in the civil rights bill.

Vice President Richard Nixon had this comment on the Senate action: "This was one of the saddest days in the history of the Senate because this was a vote against the right to vote."

Southerners were jubilant. Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), leader of the Dixie forces, had warned in advance that they would use "every means" at their command to try to defeat the measure if the jury trial amendment should be rejected.

The vote, taken in the midst of the fourth week of Senate debate on the bill, generally was regarded as making a Southern filibuster against final passage unlikely.

Russell has turned aside questions on that point. But he has said numerous amendments will be offered to other parts of the bill.

McClellan said: "The committee has more information than that. The money was apparently paid out by the union from members' dues."

The chairman said the bill for Louis, at the Woodner Hotel, was sent for payment to Donald Peters, Warehouse Division of the Teamsters Union, Chicago.

Union Money Sent Louis to Trial, McClellan Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said Thursday Teamsters Union money apparently paid for the trip ex-boxer Joe Louis made to Washington last month when Louis showed up at James R. Hoffa's trial.

Louis, a Negro and former world heavyweight champion, spent a day and a half in a conspicuous place in the courtroom audience during the bribery-conspiracy trial of Hoffa, a Teamsters vice-president.

Louis described Hoffa at the time as "my good friend" and said he had come by to see what was happening to him.

The jury, composed of eight Negroes and four white persons, acquitted Hoffa on July 19. Jurors said later that race issues had nothing to do with the verdict.

At Thursday's meeting of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, which McClellan heads, Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) asked that a newspaper column by Drew Pearson be included in the committee record. Pearson wrote that Louis "admitted that Hoffa had paid his hotel expenses."

McClellan said: "The committee has more information than that. The money was apparently paid out by the union from members' dues."

The chairman said the bill for Louis, at the Woodner Hotel, was sent for payment to Donald Peters, Warehouse Division of the Teamsters Union, Chicago.

SEN. GEORGE GRAVELY ILL. VIENNA, Ga. (AP) — Former Sen. Walter F. George grew noticeably weaker Thursday in his fight against coronary disease.

The 79-year-old George, gravely ill since Monday night, had a bad night Wednesday, his doctors said. The former senator, President Eisenhower's ambassador to NATO, has been under treatment at his home here since June 24 after spending two weeks at Emory Hospital in Atlanta.

Pains of Conformity

From The Des Moines Register

The Attorney General's opinion on nudist camps leaves us somewhat uneasy.

It seems to accept the idea that any departure from traditional and established customs or traditions should be viewed with alarm by the "law."

The Attorney General doesn't flatly say that nudist camps would be illegal under any and all circumstances. But he says the Hancock County Attorney would be warranted in seeking an indictment if a nudist group were to establish a private camp for its members on a farm near Klemme. The opinion points out that it would be up to a jury to decide, on the basis of all the facts, whether such a camp violated Iowa's law against "lewd," "indecent" and "obscene" exposure.

The Iowa farmer who had planned to establish a nudist colony on his farm has given up the idea, so there won't be any court test. He made a wise decision in view of the attitude and suspicions of people in the Klemme community.

We don't see any benefits from a nudist colony that couldn't be obtained from backyard or bathing beach sunbathing with the participants wearing a minimum of clothing. Maybe we don't understand the freedom of mind and spirit that results from practicing nudism.

But should a private nudist camp, for members only, come under the statute aimed at immoral and indecent conduct? The Attorney General says "yes" since the Iowa law bans "indecent exposure" even though this exposure isn't in public and isn't intended to be lewd, obscene or indecent.

The traditions of our society, says the opinion, "include the covering of the human body with something at least as substantial as a fig leaf apron in a majority of circumstances." We're glad that the writer of the opinion added those words "in a majority of circumstances."

Now in Bali Bali it would be different. We don't want to force a lot of Iowans to emigrate there, however.

We hope lawmakers, interpreters of the law and law enforcement officers go slow on trying to make everybody toe the mark in customs and traditions.

Iowa can tolerate some nonconformity. A free society needs it.

Social Graces of B and K

From The Christian Science Monitor

The announcement that Communist Party Chief Khrushchev and Premier Bulganin will visit East Germany sometime in August raises a picture of the Soviet top officials inspecting the most forward outpost of their satellite system.

Though far behind the "West" German Federal Republic in postwar recovery, the East German province policed by the puppet regime of Walter Ulbricht represents one of the most important industrial areas under Soviet control. Like Czechoslovakia, it is an asset of the Communist empire to be the more strongly guarded since the straining of bonds that hold Poland and Hungary.

The fact that the masters in Moscow have made no move to reduce the powers of Herr Ulbricht and now apparently intend to stamp his regime with their approval indicates a stern prospect ahead for the satellites. Whatever downgrading there may have been of other Stalinists, no one has been more Stalinist in methods than Ulbricht.

It is not unlikely that the Khrushchev trip may include some effort to sway the national elections to be held in West Germany in September. In that contest Chancellor Adenauer has taken a forthright position with the West, including the North Atlantic Treaty.

His opposition, the Social Democratic Party, was more embarrassed more than helped by an East German broadcast of instructions to West German Communists to vote for the Social Democrats. Unless Khrushchev and Bulganin have something very new to offer on German reunification, any overture of theirs to West Germans—following the old line of insistence that Bonn negotiate with the captive and unrepresentative East German Government—is likely to fall flat.

Matter of Diplomacy

From The Wall Street Journal

We had a great deal of sympathy for Maxwell H. Gluck, our new ambassador to Ceylon, when he confessed to Senators earlier this month that he did not know the name of Ceylon's Prime Minister. Bandaranaike is not an easy name to call readily to mind.

And we admire the way Mr. Gluck has boned up on the subject since then. The State Department now reports that some intensive study has familiarized him with Mr. Bandaranaike and other officials in the Ceylon government. Furthermore, he knows the names now of the leading officials in neighboring countries of that area, although he has to still practice the pronunciation of Jawaharlal Nehru. So the Senators confirmed his appointment.

But we also sympathize here with the U.S. Information Agency. That agency's job is to carry American news to such far off places as Ceylon, including news about the qualifications of new U.S. Ambassadors.

"Statistics are working in favor of older employees in industry and the premise that they are less productive is being continually disproved. The Industrial Bulletin, published by the New York State Department of Labor, opines that 'output man-hours show little significant variation among age groups.' The magazine gives figures to show that older workers have a better attendance record than younger employees and that older workers have fewer accidents on the job. Hiring older workers is good sound business practice. Their experience gained through the years is indispensable." —CATSKILL, N. Y., ENTERPRISE.

Was President's Choice Wisest?

Ceylon Ambassador Another Appointee Rather Than Career Diplomat

By J. M. ROBERTS

The case of Maxwell Gluck, new ambassador to Ceylon, has now gone beyond mere consideration of his business qualifications and his ability to learn the background of the job.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER appeared quite nettled Wednesday when asked about Gluck at a news conference.

Gluck, you will recall, was caught short on his Asiatic background when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee questioned him. He couldn't name the Ceylonese prime minister and was hazy about India's Nehru.

THAT LED to published charges that his appointment was due entirely to his large contributions to the last Republican presidential campaign.

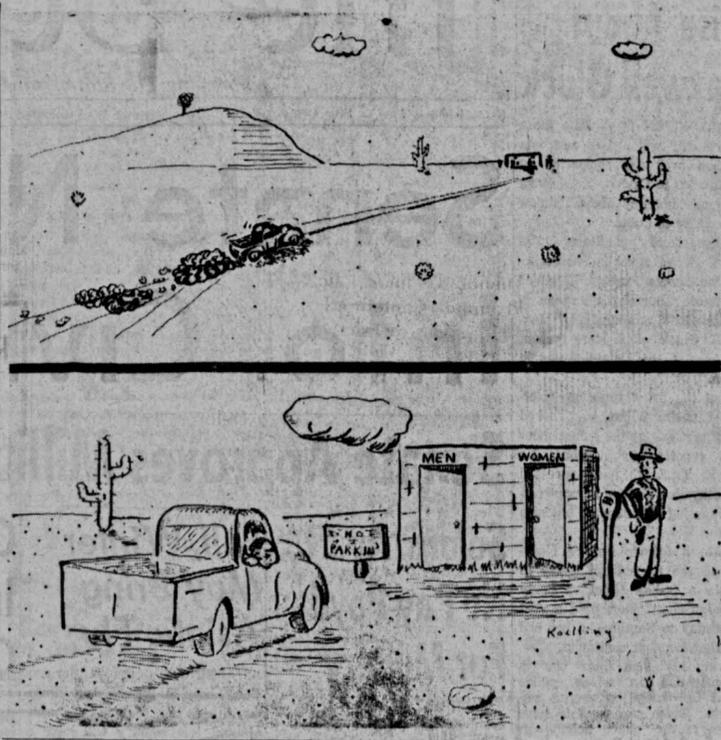

Nobody will question the President's red-faced assertion that he didn't and wouldn't appoint anybody for such a reason. Gluck's name wasn't presented to him from that angle, he said. His attempted to build up in Ceylon some faith in the West. It is doubtful if an ambassador who has in the past taken little interest in the problem can make a very great contribution to this cause. And in Ceylon, where most of the West. ern Entente's business is conducted by Britain, this is the main part of an American ambassador's job.

Aside from the Gluck case itself, observers have long been concerned with the tendency of the Eisenhower Administration to replace a considerable number of career men in important foreign posts with political appointees. The number of career men actually in charge of foreign diplomatic posts has been very greatly reduced.

There is no question of Eisenhower's god faith. There is a question of whether he made an effort to find the best appointee, and whether the State Department doesn't already have on its rolls a better choice.

Engel's Bridge Angles

By MICHAEL ENGEL

The trend in modern bridge is toward new and supposedly wonderful bidding systems and conventions. Some of these are worthwhile, but I believe it is better for the average player to understand the fundamentals rather than embark into unknown channels.

There is one convention, however, which I find so excellent that I must impart it to my readers. It will also be connected with some previous comments of mine regarding responses to INT.

Here is a very common situation, South dealer:

S—KJxx
H—A10xx
D—Kxx
C—xx

S—Ax
H—Jxxx
D—xx
C—AJxxx

S—xxx
H—xx
D—xxxxx
C—Kxx

S—Q109x
H—KQx
D—AQJ
C—Q10x

South bids INT and North has a sound raise to 3NT. 2D shows his fourth-best club, East plays the King, returns the suit and East-West wrap up 5 Club tricks and the Ace of spades for down two. Yet observe that 4S is cold for North-South.

The Stayman Convention (called that, I imagine, because Stayman's partner George Raper invented it) is designed to avoid such catastrophes. It is a bid of 2 Clubs over INT and asks opener to bid a 4-card major if he has one. The object of the convention is to find a 4-4 fit in a major, if any. Experience shows that it is generally easier to make a major suit game than 3NT.

To bid 2C responder needs at least 8 points. 2C is an artificial bid carrying no implication of a club suit. Assuming your partner bids 2C, you rebid as follows:

1) Holding a major, bid it at the 2-level.

2) Without a major, bid either 2D or 2NT. 2D shows a minimum (16 points), 2NT a maximum (18 points). With 17 points bid either 2D or 2NT depending on your mood at the moment. Notice that 2D is likewise artificial: a diamond suit is incidental.

3) Holding both majors, bid the spades.

Responder now has a fine picture of your hand. If he has the major you named, he raises you in that suit; otherwise he goes back to No Trump. In our example the bidding would be:

S N
INT 2C
2S 4S
Pass

Very simple and efficient, isn't it? More details next week.

IT'S BEEN A LONG, hard grind but Ira Semler will receive his Ph.D. Wednesday and soon after will take his family to California where he has accepted a teaching position.

After Seven Years—

Semlers To Say Farewell To South Park and SUI

By JAMES MAGNER

For the last seven years the Semlers, Ira and his wife Virginia, and their three children, Jack, 12; Jim, 7; and Cam, 6, have been living on a shoe string in a barracks in South Park.

But this summer Virginia and children are singing, "Daddy gets his Ph.D. tonight and we're off to California in the morning."

At Commencement next Wednesday, Ira will receive his Ph.D. in education. The next day he is going to take his family to Chico, Calif., where he is to be an Assistant Professor of Psychology at Chico State College.

Mrs. Semler said, "We've never had a vacation. Because of the war we didn't have a honeymoon. So we're going to spend three weeks getting to California and we're going to camp out on the way."

For the trip the Semlers have bought a passenger car and a station wagon, a portable icebox, a small gas stove, camp chairs and cots, tents, and an ice-cream freezer.

"It's going to be a lot of fun," Mrs. Semler said. "We've lived in one room for so long that we're just going to go out doors and live now."

Little Cam, 6, said, "I've lived in this barracks all my life."

Jim, 7, said, "I've lived here since I was one. Wish we could rent a ranch."

"When we get to California we hope we can find a ranch to rent, or a big old farm house. We want to get as far away from living in one room as possible," Mrs. Semler said.

"The barracks was wonderful for the children when they were smaller," Mrs. Semler said, "but they've outgrown it. What they dislike about it most is they can't have a dog."

"They bring home every stray dog and cat that comes along and then talk someone into adopting them. They talked the mailman into taking a dog they brought home named Brownie. They told him how cold it was for the dog outside so the mailman finally took Brownie home."

Ira and Virginia met at Graceland College in 1940. They were married in 1943 at Macon, Ga. Ira was in the Army, in the Signal Corps, from 1942-1945.

Ira got his A.B. at Iowa State Teachers College in 1949. "He received high honors," Virginia said, "and I was very proud of him. Jack was four, and it was very hard for Ira to study with Jack crawling all over him."

The Semlers came to SUI in 1950 and set up housekeeping in the barracks in South Park. In 1953, Ira received his M.A. in Child Welfare.

Virginia considers Ira's M.A. a much bigger achievement than his B.A. "We had three children by that time and they had started bringing their friends home."

"I came home one afternoon to find Ira asleep on the bed and eight little boys sitting on him. It was just before his comprehensives. Ira was snoring and sleeping so soundly that he didn't know the little boys were there."

Virginia thinks that living in a barracks should make a person a good sardine packer. The biggest problem in barracks living is that once something is set down it can never be found again.

"But in many ways it's wonderful," she said. "There are no walls, only moveable partitions, so as the children grew we just rearranged the rooms to fit their sizes."

"When the children get too noisy, Ira and I just go outside and let them romp until they quiet down. If we stayed inside we couldn't talk to each other."

At a birthday party, on Jan. 25, 1955, one of the Semler children picked a candle off the birthday cake. Virginia thought all the candles were out, but this one wasn't. When the child ran by a clothes closet, nylon garments inside the closet exploded and the barracks burst into flames.

It was an icy night, and streets were frozen slick. Fire department engines were blocked by cars parked in the narrow alley at the entrance to South Park. "People of Iowa City," Virginia said, "arrived on foot before the firemen. They gave the children and me coats and got us a place to sleep for the night."

Virginia said that for two weeks the people of Iowa City took turns taking care of them. Each day, during those two weeks, The Daily Iowan would report where the Semlers were and where they would sleep that night and eat the next day.

"In the morning," Virginia said, "I used to pick up The Daily Iowan at the Quadrangle to see where we would be living and sleeping that night. I read in The Daily Iowan the date our barracks would be rebuilt and ready for us."

When the barracks was ready, the people of Iowa City refurnished it. "They brought everything," Virginia said, "bacon, eggs, even the frying pan. A new milkman delivered milk for two weeks without charging us."

"To thank everyone who helped us, I would have to go through the whole telephone book."

In South Park all barracks look alike, Virginia said. "Someone is always opening our door by mistake and walking in on us. Strange visitors wander in in the middle of the night."

Ira and Virginia have liked living with other young couples in South Park. "And there are so many children. Ira and I really enjoy them."

While doing graduate work, Ira has worked at the Child Welfare Research Station and taught at the pre-school. This year Virginia has been in charge of the cooperative pre-school.

For a hobby, Ira took up flying. "Now when the children get him down," Virginia said, "he gets into a plane, goes up into the sky and just sits there. You won't believe this, but sitting up in the sky has cured his ulcer."

All the Semlers are anxious to see Ira graduate and receive his doctorate. They all saw him graduate in '53 when he received his master's degree. Jack, the oldest child, saw him graduate in '49.

But the biggest graduation in the lives of the Semler children was the one in 1955 when Virginia received her A.B. at SUI.

"The children knew people went into the gym to play basketball, Virginia said. "And they thought that was what their mother was going to do. When they saw me walk across the stage they all yelled, 'There's our mommy!'"

BARRACKS LIFE HAS been fun, but the Semlers are dreaming of a large house with a big yard and plenty of space for their children to play.

Taves-Meister Wedding Set

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Taves of Charles City announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Delores Ann to Larry Meister, son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Meister of Hemstead, New York.

Miss Taves will be a senior in the SUI College of Nursing this fall. Mr. Meister is a June graduate of SUI and is currently employed in the Institute of Agricultural Medicine in Iowa City.

The wedding will take place August 18 in Charles City.

Teenagers' Indian Jig Promotes Centennial

DES MOINES — A band of 14 teenaged "Indians" from St. Paul, Minn., did some dances and made a lot of noise at the Statehouse Thursday. They were promoting their home state's centennial in 1958.

The youths, on a tour, made Gov. Herschel Loveless and Des Moines Mayor Ray Mills honorary citizens of Minnesota. The youths were in costume and carried the usual Indian trappings.

BIKE THEFT

Dick Corso, 661 S. Governor St., reported to the police Thursday afternoon the theft of his bicycle. The red and white 26 inch boy's bicycle was stolen Wednesday night from the entrance to the University Fieldhouse.

POOR SITE CHOICE

ALBUQUERQUE — A 17-year-old youth and three unidentified companions made one mistake while transferring a cash register, reportedly stolen from a cleaning firm, from one car to another. The switch was made in front of the home of Sheriff's Deputy Ben Baca, who later identified the youth after he was arrested.

Panel at Drake Declares Tax Cuts Difficult

DES MOINES — A panel at Drake University agreed Thursday it will be hard if not impossible to reduce taxes.

Ray Edwards, executive secretary of the Iowa Taxpayers Assn., told the Drake Institute on State and Local Government that "since 1954 our state and local taxes in Iowa have increased 168 per cent while the income of Iowans has increased only about 72 per cent."

"For the first time in Iowa," Sen. George O'Malley (D-Des Moines), a panel member, said, "through the governor's veto of the tax bill you have a reduction in taxes but the press has been beating the drums for a special session to consider some things which might put them back up again."

Sen. X. T. Prentiss (R-Mount Air), also on the panel, said that Gov. Herschel Loveless could not have made a reduction in sales and income tax rates if he had not cut out the building appropriations for the state educational institutions at the same time.

Reform of county government by forming larger counties or using the county manager system was suggested but Prentiss replied these might bring savings but "the people aren't ready yet to move the county courthouse."

Faced With Dilemma—

Artist Fights For His Art

Picture Story by Vernon Glade

Expression in his own manner while improving his skill . . .

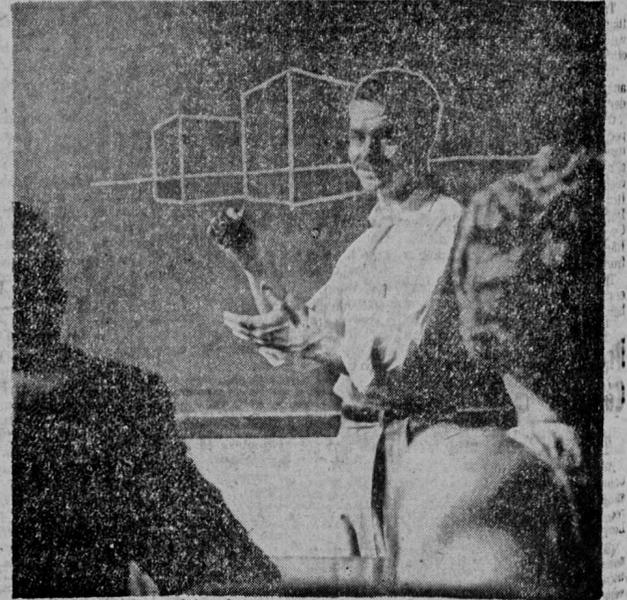

The public's unwillingness to purchase works of talented artists is an old problem. Due to the increase of dedicated artists, the problem is becoming more serious. The individual artist is faced with a dilemma: deaden his talent with commercial art; teach; or — to attempt the near impossible — make his living solely by his creations. Lyle Matoush, Julesburg, Colo., summer session graduate student, knows the difficulties. In the SUI Art Department's current exhibit by SUI graduates, only two are full-time creative artists. The remaining 83 earn their livelihood in other ways. Lyle plans to teach.

To succeed in a highly competitive field, you must know the techniques . . .

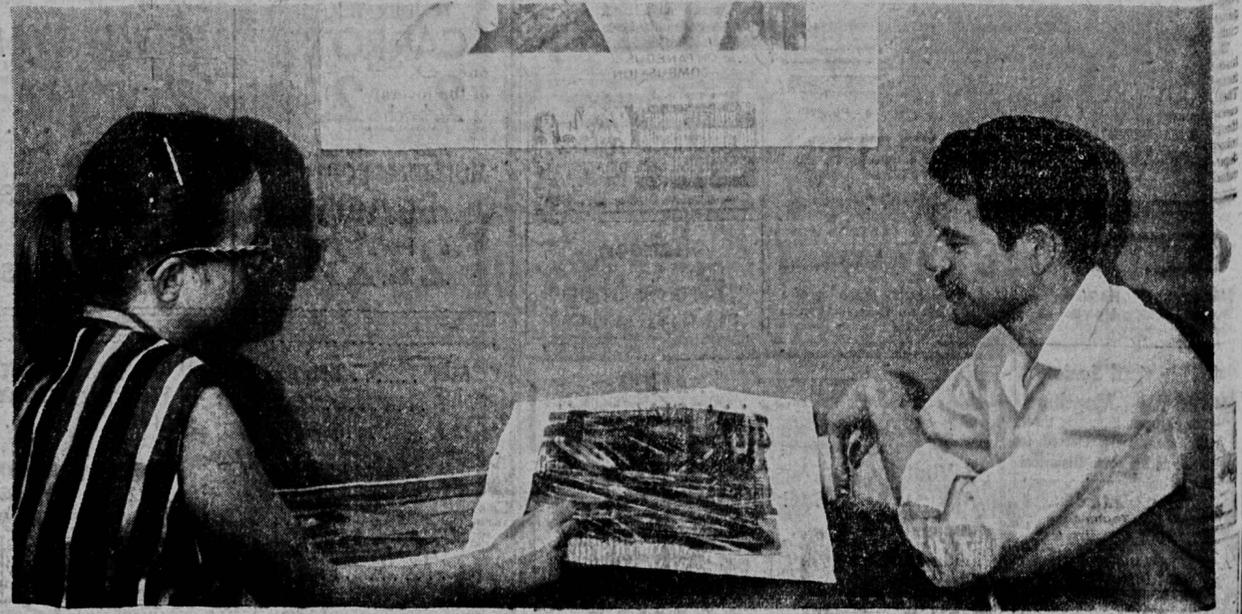

But time must be found for work . . .

. . . and for showing others how to like art.

Faced with problems, he's ready to leave school . . .

But with his wife Jane to encourage him, he's confident in the face of an uncertain future.

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP) — In a business in which the general idea so often is to gouge as much money out of the party of the first or second part as possible, it is refreshing to note that Floyd Patterson's manager, Gus D'Amato, waived the $175,000 guarantee for the defense of the heavyweight title against Hurricane Jackson and settled for 40 per cent of the net receipts.

That meant a lot of better than $50,000 to the fighter and his pilot, and made it possible for promoter Emil Lence to show a profit on the show of around $20,000, whereas had D'Amato insisted on the guarantee Lence would have been wading in red ink.

The amazing part of the deal is the confidence shown by Patterson in the white-thatched man who guides him. It takes a trusting nature to watch a man toss around your money without protest.

Undoubtedly the motive was not entirely altruistic, as the tax bite on the guarantee would have been terrific, particularly as the champion is due to cash in heavily on his bout with Pete Rademacher at Seattle Aug. 11.

But there was a sacrifice involved, just the same, and D'Amato must have a real affection for Lence to be so generous with Floyd's money.

The manager probably figures that future promotions around here will be under the Lence banner, and he'd like to see that banner flying briskly instead of drooping.

Anyway, we wonder a little if D'Amato would be as generous toward Jack Hurley, promoter of the Rademacher bout, if the dour deacon saw red the day after the fight. Generosity has its limits, even when you're giving away somebody else's money.

ST. LOUIS—Stan Musial spanked two homers to lead the Cardinals to a 8 to 0 shutout over the New York Giants here Thursday night. With the victory, the Cards moved back into league domination if only by percentage points.

The Milwaukee Braves were idle Thursday night and the Cardinal win put the St. Louis club back on top of the heap where all of the National League heat has been concentrated.

38 Athletes Sign Tenders With Iowa

The SUI Athletic Department announced Thursday that it had received signed tenders for financial assistance from 38 prospective students.

A new Big Ten conference rule, governing recruiting athletes and placing limits on the amount of financial aid they can get, states that having one accepted a tender, an athlete may not receive financial assistance from any other conference school and still keep his athletic eligibility.

This does not mean, however, that an athlete who signs a tender with one school, cannot go to another Big Ten school if he wishes.

Thursday was the last day that an athlete could sign such a tender for the coming school year.

Of the group, five of the prospective students are from Iowa, they are Pres Prescott of Sioux City, a tackle and brother of Bob Prescott, SUI football letterman; Mark Hensel, tackle from Washington; Doug Adamson, end, Greenfield; Chuck Dostal, guard from Cedar Rapids and Bob Moerke, tackle from Burlington.

The balance of the tender signers are from 12 other states, ten being from Michigan.

Nats Nip Chisox 5-4 in Torrid Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — Larry Doby belted the first bases-loaded home run of his major league career Thursday but it was wasted as the Senators surged back from a 4-0 deficit to beat the Chicago White Sox 5-4 with the aid of Roy Sievers' 28th homer.

The defeat dropped the second-place White Sox four games behind the New York Yankees, who were idle Thursday.

Doby's fourth-inning homer came after Nellie Fox was hit by a pitched ball, Earl Torgerson singled and Minnie Minoso walked.

Bragan, Mimic Manager Fined and Reprimanded

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bobby Bragan, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was told bluntly to quit clowning on the baseball field or face indefinite suspension.

Warren Giles, president of the National League, advised the Pirate leader just where he stood, and fined him $100 for sauntering onto the field Wednesday night in Milwaukee, sipping from a bottle of soda, after he had been thrown out of the game. Bobby offered each of the umpires a drink from his bottle.

Tigers 7, Bosox 5

BOSTON (AP) — Detroit's Frank Lary shut off a Boston ninth inning rally at four runs Thursday to save a 7-5 victory for the Tigers.

Lary, summoned from the bullpen after winner Duke Maas was driven out and Harry Byrd proved ineffective, came on with none out, two men on and four runs across.

Pro Commissioner Cedes to Grid Union

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Pro football Commissioner Bert Bell, acting singlehandedly, Thursday granted recognition to a National Football League players union.

Bell made his bombshell announcement before the House Antitrust subcommittee, which is surveying professional sports operations.

He said he decided to accept the NFL players association as a bargaining agency without consulting club owners.

The owners last winter had refused to recognize the association formed during the 1956 season. They reacted to Bell's surprise decision mainly with approval, although some questioned the commissioner's authority to make independent agreements with any outside individual or organization.

Tender Tigers

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The University of Oklahoma football squad may be a tough outfit on the gridiron but the boys are tender as nursemaids at home.

When a tornado alert was sounded, the only shelter available was the basement of Jefferson house, the dormitory for athletes.

Dozens of parents and young off-springs rushed to the basement without adequate provisions. The football players took over walking crying babies, applying diapers and clowning to keep minds off the storm.

Last U.S. Division Now Leaving Japan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Withdrawal of the last American division from Japan is now under way.

The Defense Department announced Thursday the departure from Japan of the 1st Cavalry Division. This was one of the first major units of the original army of occupation to arrive nearly 12 years ago, and is the last to leave.

THE REMAINING men and equipment of the now understrength division will be absorbed by other units elsewhere. But its proud name, traditions and battle-honored flag are moving to Korea.

There, the 1st Cavalry will take over the men and equipment of the 24th Division. The 24th will then be dropped from the Army's order of battle.

In Korea, the transformed 1st Cavalry, which has been an infantry division for many years, will be commanded by Maj. Gen. Ralph Zwicker, who was once castigated by the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy as a man "unfit to wear a general's uniform."

The Pentagon said the departure of the 1st Cavalry from Japan carries out the assurance made by President Eisenhower to Japanese Prime Minister Kishi in June that all U.S. ground forces would be withdrawn within the year.

COMPLETION of the ground force withdrawal will be announced within a few weeks. It will send the 9th Regiment of the 3rd Marine Division from Japan to Okinawa.

The departure of the 1st Cavalry will leave in Japan several Air Force wings, the 3rd Marine Air Wing and a handful of Army troops who will act as housekeepers and caretakers. The total number of American servicemen remaining in Japan will be about 17,000.

U.S. Army strength in Korea will remain about the same after the move from Japan. The 7th Infantry Division is already there and will remain with the 1st Cavalry to man the American section of the Korean armistice line.

The army of occupation that Gen. Douglas MacArthur led to Japan in the early fall of 1945 reached a maximum strength of nearly 300,000. But on the eve of the outbreak of hostilities in Korea in June 1950, that powerful army had been whittled down to four divisions, all undermanned, totaling less than 100,000 men.

THE TWO AMERICAN divisions that will remain in Korea compared with the eight Army divisions that saw service in the Far East during the Korean hostilities, when U.S. military manpower reached a maximum of more than 500,000.

The dropping of the 24th Division from the active list will leave the Army with 17 divisions, 2 in Korea, 5 in Europe and the remainder on the American continent and in Hawaii.

Iowa History Group Doesn't Go 'High Hat'

By BARBARA ROBERDEE

The Iowa Historical Society does not have the "High-Hat" attitude on membership still maintained by such groups in eastern states, society director William Peterson said Thursday.

"We elect new members," Peterson told a Rotary Club luncheon audience, "but we seldom turn anyone down."

"Once, I understand we turned down a man who was a convict at Fort Madison, but that's the only one I've ever heard of."

"One eastern society prides itself on having only 57 members," Peterson said. "We elected more than that to our society this year."

Peterson said the Iowa society has 5,350 members and is the second largest state historical society in the United States. Missouri has the largest society, he said.

Peterson said that the public often thinks that the society does "museum work" in Iowa City.

The main functions of the society, he said, are its publications and the collection of historical materials.

The society has 77,000 books, 10,000 newspaper files, 30,000 pamphlets and other miscellaneous papers and materials.

"We stand second to none in the field of publications," Peterson said. He said the society's publications, the quarterly Iowa Journal of History and Politics and the monthly magazine, "The Palimpsest," are among the best in their fields.

Peterson related that the society was formed in 1857 and received an appropriation of $250 from the state legislature that year. The last appropriation from the legislature was $69,000.

"The legislature has been pleased with our work," Peterson said. He added that 46 of the 50 members of the present Iowa Senate are members of the society.

Sulowan To Talk On Habits of Ant

"Go To The Ant" is the title of SUI Zoology instructor Robert L. King's lecture to be given at 8 p.m. today at the Iowa Lakeside Laboratory, Lake Okoboji.

This title, taken from the Bible quotation, "Go to the ant, thou sluggard," (Proverbs 6:6) may lead one to believe the lecture will be concerned with hard work and perseverance.

On the contrary, the lecture, which will reflect King's research of the habits and life of the ant, will have as a theme the elimination of this pest.

King, director of the Iowa Lakeside Laboratory, will deliver this lecture, the seventh in a series of eight, after extensive research on colonies of ants in the Lake Okoboji area.

King is regarded as an authority on this subject.

These lectures, held in Shimek Library, are given by representatives of the three State schools, and are open to the public.

WSUI Will Change Schedule August 5

WSUI will go on a short schedule starting Monday, Larry Barrett, assistant program director, reported today. WSUI will go off the air at 2:15 p.m. each day instead of the usual 10 p.m.

The regular daily programs will remain the same except there will be no classroom broadcasts, Barrett said. Regular full time broadcasting will be resumed September 28.

'COCKTAIL PARTY'

WSUI will present T. S. Elliot's play "The Cocktail Party," starring Alec Guinness, on its "Broadway Tonight" program today at 7 p.m. The program will be the last presentation in this series for the summer.

PRANKSTERS IN DAVENPORT collected seven "for sale" signs from various properties Monday night and installed them on the lawn at the Garfield School. Looking at the signs and perhaps hoping that they will attract a buyer before school opens in September are, left to right, Mike, Chris and Mark Hull, all pupils at the school.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DES MOINES — B. J. Comes, 62, of Carroll was released Thursday from the State Penitentiary on a parole issued by the Iowa Parole Board.

Comes had served about two years of a 5-year sentence for embezzlement by agent. He had taken the case to the Iowa Supreme Court, which had affirmed the sentence.

Parole Board records showed that Comes obtained $125 from Leo C. Miller of Algona in 1951 in connection with an insurance transaction.

Comes was an agent for the Columbia Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Sioux City. He was accused of using the money for his own purpose.

DAVENPORT — Congressman Fred Schwengel of Davenport said Thursday he was "not the least bit interested" in becoming a Republican candidate for governor of Iowa.

Schwengel made the statement after being informed that his name had been mentioned at the Governor's Days at Clear Lake last weekend.

The Iowa Daily Press Assn. reported that "some Republicans believe Schwengel would be an ideal candidate" for governor.

"It's a surprise to me," Schwengel said. "I appreciate the confidence the Republican Party leaders have in my ability, but I am not the least bit interested in becoming a candidate for governor. I am happy as the representative of the First District in Congress."

GLADSBROOK — Ground-breaking ceremonies for the proposed $150,000 Gladbrook Methodist Church will be held Aug. 4, the Rev. C. C. Callahan, pastor, said Thursday. Assisting in the ceremonies will be the Rev. Dr. Charles S. Hempstead, Cedar Rapids, district superintendent.

FAYETTE — Mayor Roscoe E. Cousins has accepted an invitation to attend a 3-day official celebration in France next month.

The invitation was extended to mayors of cities which have been named in honor of LaFayette. Cousins expects to leave Washington, D. C., for France Sept. 4.

SUI Music Students To Present Recitals

Two SUI music students will present recitals Sunday in North Music Hall.

At 4 p.m. Gene Nelson, bass-baritone graduate student from Vancouver, Wash., will sing three groups of songs, in Italian, in German and in Swedish. He will be accompanied by Terence Shook, senior from Greene.

As partial fulfillment of requirements for a master of arts degree, Hjordis Anderson, graduate student from Cedar Rapids, will give a violin recital at 7:30 p.m. She will be graduated at Commencement exercises on Wednesday.

Miss Anderson will play "Sonata in B flat major" by Mozart, "Sonata I in G Minor" (for violin alone) by Bach and Bela Bartok's "Rumanian Folk Dance." She will be accompanied by Carolyn Henderson, SUI music major from Ames.
