Air Force Payroll To Be Cut 20,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon Monday announced new economy moves that will cut 20,000 from the Air Force civilian payroll and reduce the aircraft industry work force from 910,000 to about 800,000.

These steps were tied into precise spending limits set for the Army, Navy and Air Force by the Defense Department to keep the military within the $38-billion ceiling fixed by the administration for the fiscal year which started July 1.

The Army appeared to have borne the brunt of the economy push. It was assigned a spending limit of $8.95 billion, which is $220 million less than President Eisenhower earmarked for the Army in his budget submitted to Congress last January.

However the Air Force, with a revised spending allocation of $17.3 billion, will be permitted to spend $300 million more than the budget estimate. And the Navy will be permitted to spend 11 million more than the original estimates for a total of $10.4 billion.

The Air Force allocation, although higher than the original estimate, falls about one billion dollars below what Air Force officials were saying last month would be required to pay for their approved programs if costs continue to rise at the rate they increased during the spring.

Both the Air Force and the Navy had expected to spend more than the original budget to meet the rising costs of weapons, planes, missiles and aircraft.

The Defense Department's allocations for its own and for inter-service activities were increased by 24 million dollars to 750 million. The Pentagon said the addition will cover increased spending for military housing.

At the same time, Secretary of Defense Wilson withdrew from his spending account $115 million which had been earmarked for additional costs of a variety of personnel services the Pentagon had intended to put into effect during the current fiscal year.

The Air Force announced its own economy campaign by ordering all its civilian agencies to cut up their civilian payroll approximately 5 per cent by the end of October. The Pentagon estimated this would save from seven to eight million dollars monthly.

The Air Force also put the airplane industry on notice that it was expected to follow the Pentagon example by trimming employment costs by at least the same percentage. However, companies now working on top priority ballistic missiles were exempted.

The Air Force conceded that the trimming of the industry's work force will result in further slowdowns in the production of war planes and other military equipment.

The Air Force civilian payroll cutback followed an order by Wilson last week freezing civilian hiring by any of the military services pending a restudy of needs under the economy program.

The Air Force estimated little change in total employment by the electronics industry doing business with the government. The announcement did not elaborate on this point.

Six Students Refuse To Give Red China Their Passports

Rumors of Molotov's Suicide Circulated At Youth Festival

LONDON (AP) — An American student who was in Moscow for the World Youth Festival said Monday night he was told of rumors there that ex-Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov had committed suicide.

George Abrams of Newton, Mass., telephoned The Associated Press in London from Helsinki, Finland, and said he heard the story from several sources.

Abrams explained how he had mounted a box in a Red Square and lectured on the American way of life, and went on: "After one of my speeches I was taken aside by a man who talked to me for two hours.

"He said he was an intimate of Dmitri Shepilov also a former Soviet foreign minister and that he had heard Molotov had committed suicide. He said the rumors were prevalent all over Moscow and he thought they were true.

"The next day I was told the same thing by another man," he said.

"The other Americans at the festival told me they heard the same story."

U.S. Warns Against Using Visas Wrongly

MOSCOW (AP) — Six Americans who want to travel in Red China declined to turn over their passports to Chinese authorities Monday. Meanwhile the number of U.S. youths accepting Chinese invitations for the trip increased to 47.

The Americans who held on to their passports submitted in their place separate papers containing what an American spokesman called "pertinent information."

Whether the refusal to hand over the passports will mean the six cannot make the trip will not be known until today.

Fred Grab, Alexandria, Va., who gathered up the passports, said the Chinese claim they must have the passports for identification purposes. The Chinese have promised not to stamp visas on the passports.

In Washington, State Department press chief Lincoln White said the withholding of the passports was "a gimmick." He said the youths will in effect still be using their passports even though they do not turn them in.

The U.S. Government forbids travel by Americans in Communist China, and has warned against misuse of passports.

White also said that it would be subversive of U.S. policy toward Red China if the Americans go through with their plans. "All of them are old enough to know what they are doing," he said.

He said he expected the U.S. Embassy in Moscow would get in touch with as many of the youths as possible to explain the consequences.

White said "travel to Red China is not only contrary to passport regulations in force, but would be subversive of the well-known foreign policy on which these passport regulations are based."

This policy, he said, is simple: The United States refuses diplomatic recognition with China's Red Communist regime and holds travel to the China mainland to be "not in the American interest."

White refused to say what the State Department might do if the youths defy the ban. He repeated made when and if they set foot on Red Chinese soil.

His words went beyond warnings of possible actions given the Americans by U.S. Embassy officials in Moscow. More than a dozen called at the embassy for advice. All were told they might be guilty of passport misuse and violation of the "trading with the enemy" regulations, with consequent heavy fines and possible loss of passports.

White noted the reports that some of the youth delegates, rather than go so far as to hand over their passports to Red Chinese officials, were copying pertinent information from them on separate sheets of paper.

He called that a "gimmick," and said it still constituted use of the passport — the thing specifically banned by regulations regarding Red China travel.

The trip will take eight days. After arriving in Peiping the delegation will visit various provinces and then return to Peiping.

Two Men Injured By Shotgun Blast

Two Iowa City men were treated for minor wounds Monday after being struck by pellets from an accidental shotgun blast.

The gun discharged when Carl E. Meier, 105½ S. Clinton St., broke it for cleaning. Meier said he had borrowed the gun and didn't know it was loaded.

Pellets from the gun passed through the second floor window, ricocheted off the pavement, and struck Clifford E. Ziskovsky, 35 Lincoln Ave., and George Kanak, 805 E. Washington St. Several cars were also struck.

Ziskovsky was struck by four pellets, one in the neck and three in the legs. He was treated by a doctor. Kanak was struck by a single pellet just below his right elbow.

Police said no charges will be filed in connection with the shotgun blast.

Doria Denies He Cached Union Cash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anthony Doria, a true and constant pal of labor racketeer Johnny Dio, was accused to his face Monday of putting $9,620 of union money to his own use.

Doria immediately and loudly denied it.

The charge was flung by Carmine S. Bellino, staff investigator for the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee.

It came toward the end of a day which had been given over largely to testimony by Doria that Dio, a convicted extortionist, actually was a good and soft-hearted fellow who broke down and cried when his henchmen were caught thieving. The senators didn't appear impressed.

The money Doria was accused of taking belonged to a Meriden, Conn., local of the Allied Industrial Council (AIC), which used to be known as the AFL Auto Workers Union. The local went out of operation and Bellino said Doria, as secretary-treasurer of the union, neglected to list the $9,620 as an asset.

Instead, the committee aide said, Doria put the money into International Procurement Enterprises, a private firm in the business of making aerial maps.

Doria said he and Earl Heaton, then AIC president, and a man named Richard Loomis had interests in this firm, but he denied that any union money was diverted to it.

He said the $9,620 left over by the Meriden local was spent on union organizing activities on the West Coast or to finish payments on a lease to Meriden local had on a meeting hall.

The money was derived from the sale of a $10,000 bond owned by the union. The bond apparently had not matured when it was cashed.

Bellino said he had found that Doria obtained a cashier's check for $9,620 and that this was deposited to the account of his map-making company.

When Bellino referred to Doria's handling of union funds as "very, very bad," Doria protested.

"The union was broke when I went in there as secretary-treasurer," he said. "They had $1,643 in a tin box. My bad methods, as you call them, increased those assets at one point to $1½ million."

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy noted that the union now is so broke that it was unable to pay for a recent banquet.

"They were broke when I started, and went broke six months after I left," Doria retorted. "I think that speaks well of my methods."

Doria left the union, by request, last March. One reason was that AFL-CIO critics said his associations with Dio made him unfit.

Doria said Dio wanted truly to be an honest labor leader but that "cruel society" hounded him because of his criminal record.

"He was imbued with the spirit of the union movement," said Doria.

"I can only quote his own words: 'Doria, you're making me into a real labor square.'"

Doria's voluble testimony was a switch on the practice of many previous witnesses not to tell the senators anything.

Dio himself invoked the Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination 140 times last Thursday when he was a witness.

Doria said that in 1952 Dio wanted to become "an individual respected in labor" but that he never had a chance because of his past criminal record.

Dio, now 43, has a record going back to Prohibition days. He has served time for extortion and violation of New York income tax laws and is now awaiting sentencing for extorting money from two New York electro-plating firms.

He was indicted in the acid blinding of Victor Riesel, labor writer, but the indictment was shelved when witnesses became mute, afflicted with what a Federal judge called "underworld lockjaw."

Doria said Dio has told him that he had nothing to do with the Riesel blinding and he believes that the charge is "absolutely a farce, there is no evidence against Johnny Dio." Dio himself was not asked about the Riesel case by the committee.

Dio got his start in Local 102 of the old AFL United Auto Workers. The committee charges that he later set up nonexistent locals in the Teamsters Union and voted them in a way calculated to help James R. Hoffa, Midwest Teamsters leader, become a power also in New York.

Items Worth $1,000 Taken In Break-Ins

Thefts totaling more than $1,000 from two SUI fraternity houses are being investigated by the Iowa City police.

The pattern of break-ins at the Alpha Epsilon Pi house, 707 N. Dubuque St., and Beta Theta Pi house, 816 N. Dubuque St., are so similar that police officers feel there is little doubt they were committed by the same person or persons.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Ginsberg, summer chaperones at the Alpha Epsilon Pi house, said their apartment was burglarized between 7 and 10 p.m. Saturday while they were out.

Douglas Carrell, who is living at the Beta Theta Pi house through the summer, said he discovered the break-in there Sunday evening, but believes it occurred sometime Saturday night.

The Ginsbergs reported stolen a portable television set, a typewriter, a box of costume jewelry, and nearly $1,000 worth of appliances, silver and other gifts from their recent marriage.

Carrell told police that the house chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Onken, were out of town for the week, and that most of the articles taken were believed to have been theirs. He was unable to list the stolen articles, but did report that a typewriter belonging to him had been taken.

"Believe me I had to talk fast to get out of that one," he commented.

Plump and soft-spoken, Morros recounted his experiences at a news conference in the office of Acting U.S. Atty. Thomas B. Gilchrist Jr.

"Now, when I think of it, and if you wanted me to do the same thing again, I do not think I could do it," Morros said.

Morros' name had arisen in the breaking of two Soviet spy cases.

He figured in the indictment of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Soble and Jacob Albam, and of Mr. and Mrs. George Zlatovskii, whom the United States is trying to extradite from France. Albam and Mrs. Soble were sentenced to 5½ years each last Friday on spy charges. Soble will be sentenced Sept. 18.

Morros said neither his wife nor any of his acquaintances had "any inkling of my activity, which took me to Europe 68 times, including Moscow and East Berlin."

He said posing as a spy for the Russians didn't come easy.

"I hated everything they stood for and when I had to express myself to high Russian officials and to American spies employed by them in terms of supporting their vicious ideology — I really had to do a more realistic acting job than any of the players whom I had ever directed in Hollywood," he said.

"My life and the success of my mission depended on that."

Morros, born in St. Petersburg, now Leningrad, came to the United States in 1922.

Among the motion pictures he produced were "Tales of Manhattan" and "Carnegie Hall."

Morros said at the outset of the news conference: "I want to emphasize that the Russian plot is far more strongly organized in this country and throughout the world than is generally understood by our people."

"I say Russian plot because the schemes of the present military dictatorship in the Soviet Union go beyond communism. They are for Pan-Slavism on a scale more ambitious than Hitler's fanatical dreams of world conquest."

Morros described Pan-Slavism as "the bill of goods which has been sold to the Communist leaders in control of all the Slav countries which are Russian satellites."

"The present regime in Moscow has been hatching a vast imperialistic plot for a Slav-dominated world," he said.

Film Maker Tells Counterspy History

NEW YORK (AP) — Movie producer Boris Morros, 62, said Monday he had served the United States for 12 years as a counterspy against the Soviet Union.

The Russian-born Hollywood figure, a naturalized American citizen, said the Soviets believed he was a spy for them but that actually he was making reports to the FBI on his encounters with the Russians.

He said that once while he was in Moscow, meeting top men of the Russian secret police, word questioning his loyalty to the Russian objectives was received in Moscow, from Soviet sources in America.

Kefauver Contends Lack of Competition In Steel Production

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), insisted Monday there is lack of competition in the steel industry. But Roger M. Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., disputed him with equal vigor.

Each standing his own ground and at times breaking in while the other was talking, Kefauver and Blough disagreed on about everything connected with the July 1 increase of $6 a ton in the price of steel.

Kefauver recited instances of identical bids in the delivered price of steel, and said there would be more competition if steel companies quoted prices based on their production costs rather than following each other with price increases.

"This is competition; it isn't monopoly," Blough replied.

Blough argued there is competition when a consumer can choose between two suppliers even though they offer the same price.

The exchange occurred in a hearing by the Senate Antitrust subcommittee, which is making a study of what Kefauver calls "administered price" industries.

Blough balked when Kefauver asked him to prepare a breakdown of all cost factors in the production of a ton of steel. The senator said he wanted the data so that it could be compared with costs of other major steel makers.

Stressing what he called the competitive situation, Blough replied that some of the cost data is confidential. Blough said he would try to furnish dollars and cents costs with respect to labor, but "I don't know what we can do without getting into the confidential area."

The temperature began rising in Iowa City Monday, a trend which is expected to continue through today. Highs in this area may extend into the 90s with a possibility of scattered showers tonight.

Hoffa Huffy At Parley of Union Heads

DETROIT (AP) — An AFL-CIO merger conference in metropolitan Wayne County failed to arrive at an understanding Monday after sometimes fiery dispute in which James R. Hoffa played a top role.

At one point in early discussions Hoffa, Teamsters Union vice president, shouted to the CIO men: "If that's what you call a merger, then we're going to have a divorce before the marriage."

Hoffa, now being boomed for president of the Teamsters, made the statement in assailing CIO proposals for representation on the executive body for a proposed AFL-CIO merged group.

After a recess during which tempers cooled, both sides came out with a joint statement saying each had submitted proposals and that these would be given "future study."

In Wayne County, which includes industrial Detroit and environs, the CIO outnumbers the AFL by approximately 350,000 members to 250,000.

Under the AFL-CIO national merger of December, 1954, state and county mergers must be completed by Dec. 5 of this year.

Meeting Monday were an AFL 12-man delegation led by Hoffa and a similar group from the Detroit and Wayne County Federation of Labor.

Hoffa wrangled with Mike Novak, president of the Wayne County CIO Council.

Greeting Novak with "Hi, Muscles, I see you've been making statements to the press," Hoffa got into an argument with the CIO man over a reputed agreement to issue only joint statements on the conference.

Novak had previously predicted to Detroit reporters that Hoffa would try to stymie the merger.

The warm exchange ended with Hoffa saying he was not present "to tell you CIO people that you are going to take over our AFL people and money."

TEAMSTERS Union Vice President James R. Hoffa (right) faced Mike Novak (left) President of the Wayne County, Michigan, CIO Council over the conference table in Detroit Monday as efforts were made to merge the AFL-CIO units in the county. Novak and Hoffa engaged in several fiery disputes during the conference. In the center of the picture is John Williams, an AFL official.

NEWTON — A western style holdup — all in fun — occurred here Monday afternoon when the Newton centennial celebration stagecoach pulled up at the courthouse after completing a journey from Iowa City.

A dozen men, masked with bandanas, surrounded the coach in which Mayor C. C. Harp of Newton, Chamber of Commerce President Joe Holdsworth, and Iowa Historical Society Supt. W. J. Peterson of Iowa City were riding.

At gunpoint the three occupants of the stage were marched up an alley.

A large crowd, on hand to witness the stagecoach arrival, was startled by the appearance of the armed band and the subsequent "abduction."

Within minutes, however, the mayor and his companions reappeared to take part in dedication of a centennial marker.

One of the bandit raiders then made a brief speech, welcoming one and all to the Williamsburg, Iowa centennial Aug. 26-28. The holdup, he said, was just an attention getting device.

DES MOINES — Dallas Hunt, 18, of Lincoln, Neb., "Miss Rodeo America," will be mistress of ceremonies at the Iowa State Fair rodeo Aug. 29-Sept. 1, exposition officials said Monday.

Miss Hunt, who has won numerous blue ribbons in competitive events at rodeos, was named "Miss Rodeo America" for 1956 and 1957 at the national contest held in Chicago, Ill., last October.

The rodeo will be held the afternoons of Aug. 29 through Sept. 1 and the night of Aug. 31.

DES MOINES — About 400 air national guardsmen have moved into Camp Dodge to practice a technique they hope will never be needed — how to direct "hostile" jet airplanes and detect "friendly" jets to intercept them.

In their two weeks here, the men will work with F-48's, F-89's from such bases as Springfield, Ohio, Fort Wayne, Ind.

The fact that planes from such far-flung places can be "guinea pigs" for practice missions over Iowa is testimony to the speed with which danger could come to this country, said Maj. Donald Carline, St. Louis, Mo., a Public Information Officer.

In the encampment here are the 157th Tactical Control Group and 131st Tactical Control Squadron, both from Missouri, and the 133rd Aircraft Control & Warning Squadron, from Fort Dodge.

Other units are on two-week encampments elsewhere in the midwest. Together, with headquarters here, they are "guarding" an area bounded roughly by Omaha, Neb., on the west, Evansville, Ind., on the south, Detroit, Mich., on the east, and Minneapolis, Minn., on the north.

The installations here are typical of those at radar detection sites.

Major Carline said 11 officers from an active Air Force unit will arrive Sunday to inspect and advise the guard units.

CENTER POINT — Twelve young adults charged with traffic violations and disturbing the peace were denied a change of venue for trial of their cases, in a ruling Monday by Mayor Leonard Woods in Mayor's Court. The 12 are to appear again Thursday and Friday.

The mayor dismissed a charge of loitering which had been filed against Lorin McNeal.

The cases are among the results of an ordinance which prohibited loitering in Center Point, and which was suddenly repealed last week.

However, Curt Snell, Toddville farmer, continued to be free on $75 bond on a charge of assault and battery which arose last week involving the Center Point marshal, Bud Broxey. Snell was a spectator in the court when the change of venue ruling was handed down.

IOWA CITY — Mrs. Allan Neymeyer 34, of Traer, was in serious condition Monday at SUI Hospitals as the result of burns she suffered over 70 per cent of her body in a water heater explosion at her home.

Cause of the blast Saturday night was unknown. Her husband was working at a store, and none of their four children was hurt. However, one was blown out of a chair on the second floor when the basement heater exploded as Mrs. Neymeyer attempted to light it.

Mrs. Neymeyer ran out of the house and rolled in the grass to put out the fire. A neighbor got three of the children out of the house, although it did not catch fire.

DES MOINES — More than a two-million dollar increase over a comparable 1956 period was reported here Monday for total valuation of construction authorized in Des Moines in the first seven months of this year.

Fred Heyer, City Superintendent of Building Inspection Services, said 1,471 permits were issued in the January-July period this year, representing valuation of $14,261,220.

In the first seven months last year, the permits totaled 1,791 and valuation $12,334,552.

ARNOLDS PARK — Dr. E. A. Hayes, Fort Dodge, died Monday night of an apparent heart attack at his summer home near Pocahontas Point on Lake Okoboji.

DES MOINES — Farmers in Communist countries "have a long way to go before they can produce pork as cheaply as we can," Wilburg Plager, secretary of the Iowa Swine Producers Assn. said Monday.

Plager, who just returned from a month-long farm inspection tour behind the Iron curtain, said "There's no question that we can compete against them."

Plager said the Communist regimes hold down their farmers to the living and working standards of peasant and feudal serfs but the pork they produce still is more expensive than that produced by American farmers.

"Their costs are high despite the low pay scales because they have so many people working at it," he said.

Plager was tour leader for 18 American swine producers, feed dealers and farm extension workers who studied hog production and marketing in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Russia.

The tour was sponsored by the National Hog Farmer, Grundy Center, official publication of the National Swine Growers Council.

Focuses On Snarl's And Snarl Focusers

Photographers have not always done as well by me as I felt my haunting beauty warranted, but I have consistently fought down the temptation to slug them. But now comes a crummy hoodlum called Johnny Dio, whose example I would not care to be thought of following in anything, and poses a nice question in ethics.

The question is this: If there is anything about one's picture that does not strike one's fancy, to what extent is one justified in taking it out on the photographer?

Dio, a convicted extortionist came here on leave from New York's Tombs Prison to testify at the Senate rackets hearing, but as a prelude to taking the witness chair he swung at a cameraman and snarled imprecations. Then he added this explanation for his action:

"You —, I have a family!"

Well, I have a family too, and photographers have done things to me that pained more than this manicured guttersnipe hurt Stanley Tretick, the assaulted photog.

If we are to grant that Dio was justified in laying a finger on Mr. Tretick, then I am entitled to boil in oil every photographer who ever aimed a camera at me, including the arch-fiends who take shots of me to use for half-column cuts in the paper.

Dio, possibly, regretted having dragged in his family, because there were repercussions when he took the stand. Sen. Carl Curtis, of Nebraska, brought out that Dio had adopted two children after piling up a long criminal record for himself.

If Dio is considered a suitable father, then we should draft Frankenstein's monster to direct play-time activities at the day nursery.

The convicted extortionist was snarled in the act of socking photographer Tretick by a colleague, photographer Jim Mahan, of INP. Mr. Mahan, who never misses with the black box of his, caught the mobster right in the middle of a ferocious snarl.

Mr. Mahan is one of the greatest snarl-snappers in the business. He is the warped villain who took a snarling snap of me a short time ago and sent it out for newspaper distribution.

He is a snarl specialist, and I predict a great future for him if he keeps sufficiently nimble-footed. There is such a wealth of snarl picture material in the nation's capital.

Mr. Mahan could make snarl studies that would typify official Washington as millions of words could never do. Here are a few snarlers he could make:

(1) An outraged senator shouting "Improper!" at a witness; (2) A congressman whose pet rivers and harbors appropriation has been turned down; (3) A member of either house of congress who can't get the attention of the chair.

Others snarlers might be: (4) The fixed smile of a senator who thinks a colleague is unseparably dense but says, "I want to compliment my distinguished friend on his profound grasp of the legislation under discussion;" (5) The smile of Press Secretary Jim Hagerty when asked if he is out playing golf again; and (6) The horrid grin of a new cabinet member who is asked at his first press conference if he intends to resign.

Or, as victims of photographer Mahan always declare: "Snarl when you say that, brother!"

HYDE PARK, N. Y. — Miss Ethel Vera Hatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert R. Hatt of Hyde Park was married here Saturday in Regina Coe Church to John L. Howard Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Howard Sr. of Wallkill, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Edward McKahary.

The bride was escorted by her father. She was attired in a gown of hand clipped Chantilly lace over tulle and satin, made with a fitted bodice and scoop neckline ordered with seed pearls and iridescent, long sleeves and a bouffant skirt terminating in a double cascade of tulle ruffing.

With it she wore a veil of imported illusion fastened to a Regal Queen Crown of seed pearls and sequins and carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli with a white orchid.

Mrs. Dorothy Ryan was matron of honor for her sister and her bridesmaids were Miss Doris Evans and Miss Dale Felker. Miss Colleen Jamieson was the flower girl.

State Border Patrol Doesn't Rate Uniforms

DES MOINES — It would be illegal for the state motor vehicle fuel tax division to put its border patrolmen in uniform if the division paid for the outfits, the attorney general's office ruled Monday.

Atty. Gen. Oscar Strauss told the Iowa Executive Council, however, that the patrolmen could wear uniforms if they bought them themselves.

George Marchi, division director, asked the council recently for authority for the division to provide uniforms for its men. The council decided to ask an attorney general's office opinion before deciding.

Strauss held that in the case of state highway patrolmen, the law specifically provides for the state to provide uniforms. But in the absence of such provision applying to the border patrolmen, it cannot be done, Strauss said.

Marchi had urged approval of his request, on the grounds that such action would improve efficiency, and give protection to the border patrolmen. They check for law violations at highways entering the state.

There are six such men, and Marchi said he intends to increase the staff to 10 by transfers from his office.

Marchi estimated the uniforms would cost less than $125 per man, and said the patrolmen's work results in a million dollars a year in state revenue.

Auto Dealer Sick, Others Keep Shop

GALESBURG, Ill. — Ten competitors of the Brown Motor Co. are going all out to drum up business for it.

They're taking turns — two each day — as salesmen at Brown's. The company's owner, Henry J. Brown, 55, has been in a hospital since he suffered a heart attack five days ago. Brown's wife died in 1948. He has four sons; one working in Paris, France; one in the Marine Corps, and two in school.

Brown has operated pretty much on a one-man basis, and there was no one to carry on. No one, that is, except the other car dealers. Tuesday, they launched "Operation Brownie." Their advertisements in the Galesburg Register-Mail carried the slogan, "See Brownie First." Also, they clubbed together and underwrote a full-page ad launching a used car sale at Brown's.

DON'T DO IT YOURSELF

EAST MOLINE, Ill. — Do-it-yourself fire fighting is deplorable, says Fire Chief George Larette. "Don't be embarrassed to call for an investigation by the fire department at once if you smell smoke or even suspect a fire," he urged in a declaration on the subject.

"There's no sorer sight than the person who thought he could handle a small fire and then had to watch as the house and all his possessions were destroyed by the flames," he said.

Thunder Lizards—

Biggest of the Dinosaurs

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The biggest land-dwelling animals ever to appear on earth were the sauropods. They were the giants among dinosaurs, and they flourished about 150 million years ago.

These monsters are described by Dr. David H. Dunkle, Smithsonian Institution paleontologist, in a 24-page illustrated booklet just published by the Institution.

Typical of these creatures was Brontosaurus, the "thunder lizard" — so named because the man who first described the animal from fossilized bones imagined that it was big enough to shake the earth, thus creating a sound like thunder, as it walked about. It was 67 feet long.

A CLOSE RELATIVE, Diplodocus, measured about 87 feet in length but was more slightly built. Both of these forms had tiny heads. Most of their gigantic length was due to their long necks and long, tapered, whiplike tails.

Biggest of all was Brachiosaurus, whose skeletons have been found in both Africa and North America. It reached a length of about 80 feet, but its body was much heavier than that of either Brontosaurus or Diplodocus. It must have weighed as much as 50 tons.

All the sauropods had clawed toes and fingers. Their teeth, located around the entire area of their jaws, were short and blunt, indicating that they were plant eaters. They walked on all four legs. The long bones of their limbs were massive, solid columns, necessary to support the enormous weight of their bodies.

FOSSIL REMAINS of this group have been found chiefly in rocks of Jurassic age, but bones discovered in the Southern Hemisphere have shown that the sauropods continued living to the end of the dinosaur era, 70,000,000 years ago.

Commonest dinosaurs of a little later period, Dr. Dunkle says, were somewhat less formidable animals, the plant-eating Ornithischia, which ranged from a few to 40 feet in length. The first of these generally were stout with long, massive tails.

Probably most of them, the paleontologist says, walked erect on their hind legs. In any event, the front legs were much smaller than the hind legs but probably were large enough to permit the animals to drop down and walk on all fours when this was convenient.

A unique beaklike bone extended forward from the front of the short and powerful lower jaws, and teeth in front of the mouth tended to be comparatively small or absent. Teeth farther back in the mouth were grooved and petal-shaped, an adaptation for chopping vegetable food.

BEST KNOWN of the group, Dr. Dunkle says, probably is Camptosaurus, whose skeletons are found in the western United States. Close relatives lived at the same time in Europe. Another of this group is the Anatosaurus, better known as the duckbill dinosaur, whose long head was extended into a broad, flat snout.

In another of the Ornithischia group, Corythosaurus, bones surrounding the nostrils were expanded into a high crest on top of the animal's head. The nasal passages in all the family were thus enclosed and cooled.

1957 Is Record Year For FBI

In the face of an ever-mounting wave of crime, the FBI recorded a 10-year high in convictions in the fiscal year 1957, Director J. Edgar Hoover reports.

In making his report to Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1957, Hoover revealed that convictions in cases investigated by the FBI rose to 11,218 as compared with 10,957 in the 1956 fiscal year.

At the same time Director Hoover stated: "It is not possible to report in statistics alone the FBI's accomplishments in the internal security field because to disclose such data from our files would, of course, reveal to this Nation's enemies the knowledge and techniques this Bureau has established over the years in safeguarding America's domestic security."

"The very basis of our success is the FBI's assurance to this country's citizens that the information they give will be maintained in the strictest confidence in our files."

SENTENCES RESULTING from the 11,218 convictions totaled 30,207 years, 1 month and 12 days as compared with the 1956 sentences of 29,992 years, 6 months and 14 days. Eleven life sentences were also meted out.

Mr. Hoover stated that 94.6 per cent of those persons convicted in FBI cases pleaded guilty to the crimes with which they were charged, and the remaining 5.4 per cent of the convictions were the result of trials before judges or juries.

The over-all record reveals that 96.7 per cent of persons brought to trial in cases investigated by the FBI were convicted during the 1957 fiscal year.

During the past fiscal year, the FBI located 9,158 fugitives as compared with 8,775 during the fiscal year 1956.

For the fourth consecutive year, the value of property recovered in theft from interstate shipment cases exceeded $1,000,000, and 746 convictions resulted from violations of this statute.

In another interstate crime category — the interstate transportation of stolen property — convictions rose to 946, another all-time high mark.

THE FBI DIRECTOR said that the coordinated effort against bank robbers, burglars and thieves once again showed dramatic results. For the second consecutive year, violations of the Federal Bank Robbery Statute declined, with 443 violations being recorded as compared with 470 during the 1956 fiscal year.

The important role played by confidential informants in improving the efficiency of law enforcement work is emphasized by the fact that more than 1,400 persons were arrested in FBI cases as a result of information provided by these informants. In addition, they furnished much information to the FBI which concerned matters within the jurisdiction of other investigative agencies, and this information resulted in the arrests by those agencies of more than 1,300 individuals following the confidential dissemination of this pertinent data by the FBI.

Following requests from local law enforcement agencies, the FBI conducted 3,325 police schools during the 1957 fiscal year. In addition, two sessions of the FBI National Academy were held and 197 officers graduated, bringing the total of graduates to 3,360. More than 28 per cent of these currently head their respective departments or agencies.

MR. HOOVER reported that cooperation with local, state and Federal law enforcement agencies continues to be a major phase of the FBI's operations. The volume of work received by the Identification and Laboratory Divisions of the FBI shows an increase over the 1956 fiscal year.

The FBI Laboratory received 33,103 requests for assistance involving scientific examinations of specimens of evidence during the 1957 fiscal year. This is the highest total achieved in the Laboratory's 25-year history.

$500,000 in Grants To SUI

The Finance Committee of the State Board of Regents accepted $247,928 in grants and grants recently for SUI, according to Administrative Dean Allin W. Dakin.

Largest sums were given by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the advancement of education, and the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health Association.

The USDHEW grants totaled $151,636, with the largest sum being $100,000 given for research in the Nurse Utilization Project.

Continuation of research in University Hospitals and the College of Nursing to determine what nursing care does most for the patient's welfare will be made possible through a grant of $100,000 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Also cooperating in the first phase of the nurse utilization project have been the SUI colleges of engineering and medicine, the statistical service, and the departments of psychology, mathematics and sociology. Prof. W. R. Hudson, technical director of the project.

The grants are being administered by Marie Tenor, Director of Nursing Service in University Hospitals, and Prof. Myrtle Kay Aydelotte of the College of Nursing.

Prof. D. C. Spriestersbach was awarded $21,296 by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for continuation of research dealing with needs of children with cleft lips and cleft palates. The grant is the last of three payments totalling $63,888 made to SUI for this research.

The sum of $6,602 was accepted from the USDHEW in continuation of a grant for a two-year study by Prof. Philip F. Morgan of the College of Engineering. The study is being carried on to find ways to reduce the cost of the drying phase of sewage treatment.

Professor Morgan is directing the study at the Industrial Waste Laboratory of the College of Engineering, located on the grounds of the Iowa City Sewage Treatment Plant.

A grant of $7,490 from the USDHEW will be used by Prof. Alexander I. Popov of the Chemistry Department for study of the nucleus-seeking properties of certain drugs. A total of $16,248 was granted to the College of Dentistry by the USDHEW for four projects in dentistry.

Dr. Ernest C. Hixon, head of the Department of Orthodontics, received $5,836 to continue the study of facial growth of children. Now in its tenth year, the facial growth project's purpose is to study individual children for 15 years to determine patterns of growth and influence of factors like diet and disease.

Dr. Ralph C. Appleby, head of the Department of Prosthetics, received $3,225 to study and analyze different methods of determining proper rest positions of teeth and the upper jaw. SUI's College of Dentistry is now working on this problem since 1952.

A grant of $2,012 to Dr. Arne N. Bjorndal, instructor in Clinical Operative Dentistry, will be used for research dealing with the fluoride in tooth enamel.

Dr. G. P. Ivancic, head of the Department of Periodontology, was awarded $5,175 to continue research on blood picture changes before, during and after periodontal therapy.

A total of $25,000 was accepted from the Tuberculosis and Health Association to be used for five projects at the University Medical Center.

Six thousand dollars were used for the salaries of technical personnel and to buy new equipment and supplies for the pulmonary research laboratory. Six thousand dollars will be administered by Dr. Ian Maclean Smith, Assistant Professor of Internal Medicine. The sum will be used as a training grant for Dr. Mary Godfrey to study experimental methods used in the investigation of lung disease.

Five thousand dollars will be used by Richard Talmia, veterinarian and Assistant Professor in the Institute of Agricultural Medicine, in research designed to determine whether a certain type of tuberculosis found in cattle is transmittable from man.

Four thousand dollars will help support a continuing research project in pulmonary diseases by Dr. George N. Bedell, Assistant Professor of Internal Medicine. One project to be undertaken is a study of the lung functions of patients with congenital heart disease.

Three thousand five hundred dollars will be used by Wayburn Jeter, Assistant Professor of Bacteriology, for a study of reactions to the skin test commonly given for tuberculosis.

A grant of $3,795 was accepted from the Tobacco Industry Research Committee for a study aimed at measuring the response of the veins to nicotine. The project will be conducted by Dr. J. W. Eckstein, Assistant Professor of Internal Medicine.

Dr. W. B. Bean, Professor and Head of Internal Medicine, received a $2,500 grant from the Nutrition Foundation Inc. for research on pantothenic acid, a vitamin in the "B" complex group.

Dr. Bean and Dr. James A. Clifton, Assistant Professor of Internal Medicine, received a $2,500 grant from the Uptown Co. for a study of the role which two chemical substances, iserotonin and monamine oxidase, play in intestinal disorders.

A grant of $20,000 from the Fund for the Advancement of Education will be used by the Television Center and the Communication Skills Department in research to find more effective and more efficient ways to teach communications skills.

Sums totalling $8,883 were accepted from the Old Gold Development Fund to support a number of University projects which could not ordinarily be financed from State appropriations. Organized by SUI alumni, the OGD provides a channel for voluntary assistance to the University by graduates and former students.

The State Mental Health Authority of Iowa has contributed $2,000 to the SUI Preventive Psychiatry Research Program, directed by Prof. Ralph H. Oermann of the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station. Purpose of the program is to develop teaching methods and materials which will foster mental health.

LESTER GRADY, a former editor of Whisper magazine, is checked by a deputy sheriff Monday as he enters the courtroom in Los Angeles to testify for the prosecution in the criminal libel trial of Confidential and Whisper publications. Grady testified that he had a falling out with the publisher of Confidential because his stories "did not have the zip and bounce of stories that had previously appeared in Whisper."

Ex-Editor Testifies Against 'Confidential'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A former Confidential magazine editor testified Monday that actress Francesca de Scaffa told him she supplied data for a story on the first Mrs. Clark Gable by having an affair with Gable.

The actor, contacted in the Hawaiian Islands where he is vacationing, said he couldn't recall ever having met Miss DeScaffa.

Gable thus became the first Hollywood name to reply to testimony at the libel-conspiracy trial. He may be the first of many, unless a prosecution move to stop the defense from calling scores of performers as witnesses succeeds.

Gable's name entered the case as Defense Atty. Arthur Crowley pounded at state's witness Howard Rushmore, former editor of Confidential.

Rushmore was questioned about his earlier testimony that Miss DeScaffa had smilingly told him she would "have an affair" with men if necessary to provide material for Confidential.

"Did she tell you that she obtained information on any story by sleeping with someone?" Crowley asked.

"Yes, she said she got the information on the Dillon story from a person she was having an affair with," Rushmore said. He referred to an article on Josephine Dillon, Gable's wife from 1934 to 1940 and a dramatic coach in recent years.

"Who was that person?" "Clark Gable," Gable told a newsmen by radio telephone from Hana on the island of Maui. "I think I would remember any affair with Miss DeScaffa, but to my knowledge I never met the lady in my life."

Crowley reportedly has a subpoena waiting for Gable. Miss DeScaffa now is married to a bull fighter and reportedly is living in Mexico.

Flu Attacking Foreign Students Enroute to U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — A ship bearing New York with 800 foreign exchange students reported Monday that about 100 of them were suffering from mild cases of influenza.

It was not known whether the student epidemic was connected with outbreaks of Asiatic flu which have occurred in various parts of the world.

Meanwhile, the Health Department reported that tests on four foreign students who arrived here by plane Wednesday showed a virus similar to influenza.

Dr. Morris Greenberg, director of the city's Bureau of Preventable Diseases, said that it will not be known until about Thursday whether the virus is of the Asiatic strain.

The ship, Rosarod, is due today from Rotterdam. It is bringing 800 students ranging from 16 to 18 years old and from 18 countries.

They are enroute to live in private homes in 44 states and to attend local high schools.

The Health Department said the ship had radioed that the 100 ill students had mild flu cases, with coughs, headaches and sniffing.

79 Dead As Plane Sinks Into Swamp

ISSOUDUN, Que. (AP) — The shattered fuselage of a chartered airliner became a waterlogged coffin Monday night for victims of Canada's worst air crash as it sank slowly into the muck of a swamp.

Some of the 79 dead were entombed in the aluminum passenger compartment, but Dep. Transport Minister John Baldwin ordered that no expense be spared to get the bodies and the wreckage out.

The main portion of the four-engine DC4's fuselage was sinking into the 25-foot, water-filled bog. Dr. Jean-Paul Pouliot, coroner of Lotbiniere County, said army pumping teams were being called in to free the wreck.

No one survived the crash, which occurred in a thunderstorm Sunday afternoon. The Maritim Central Airways plane was heading from London to Toronto with ex-British servicemen and their families who had been visiting the folks back home.

The plane went down 15 miles south of Quebec City on farmer Alfred Martel's land. His son, Jean-Guy, 12, and his employee, Ferdinand Olivier, 31, were working in a nearby field on a tractor. They reported watching the stricken aircraft plunge straight down into the level, treeless muskeg.

"The big crater where the plane hit already was filled with water," said the boy.

The cause of the crash was still a mystery. Lightning generated by the severe summer storm was regarded as one possibility.

There also was the question of the pilot, Norman Ramsay, 37,

6-Year-Old Boy Derails Freight Train

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP) — A 6-year-old boy's fascination for trains led to a freight train derailment here and estimated damages of more than $35,000.

Police said the boy told them he "wanted to see a train go on two tracks." The youngster, whom police refused to identify, accomplished this by throwing a switch beneath a halted Baltimore and Ohio Railway freight in downtown Winchester Saturday.

The result: Six of the train's 51 cars were derailed.

Winchester's entire traffic control light system was knocked out of service.

Four automobiles were smashed. Two of the cars were occupied at the time, and their drivers leaped from the vehicles just before the impact.

One freight car rammed into the side of a grocery warehouse. A high voltage power line was knocked down, temporarily depriving part of the city of power.

Traffic had to be detoured for 14 hours because of damage to two streets.

There were no personal injuries. B&O officials said the boy told them he liked to watch trains and talk with their crews. After giving railroad officials a demonstration of how he pulled the switch, he was turned over to his parents.

Police said no official action was planned against the boy.

St., owner of the articles, reported the theft Saturday after he found them missing from a room in the psychology branch of the building.

Arnold appeared before Justice of the Peace C. J. Hutchinson, Monday and waived preliminary hearing. He was bound over to the Johnson County Grand Jury and returned to jail in lieu of $5,000 bond.

In addition to the beef, the dinner guests consumed potato salad made of 500 bushels of potatoes and 50 bushels of onions. They were also served 3,000 buns and about 3,000 ears of corn. Guests kept arriving long after dark but had to be turned away.

Arrest Man After East Hall Break-In

Jerry Arnold, 22, of 304 Ronalds St., was arraigned Monday in Iowa City police court under a charge of breaking and entering. The charge stemmed from a break-in at East Hall.

Hours after the burglary was reported Saturday, Arnold was arrested and charged. Police followed a trail of blood from the building to the youth's home. Arnold had a severe cut on his hand.

Recovered from Arnold's room were an $80 camera, a light meter, and an electric razor.

NEW YORK (AP) — Somehow they've missed Walt Alston, but the firings of major league managers this season seem to be proceeding in more or less alphabetical order, with Boudreau, Bragan and Dressen already removed "for the good of all concerned."

They happened to get to Dessen before they got to the other "B's," but that was undoubtedly due to an error. Dessen's error, as his Senators were mired in last place before the others.

Anyway, we like Lou Boudreau's quote to the effect that "it was the most amicable of all my firings" when he was ousted as pilot of the Kansas City club. The bouncer must have said "please."

We believe the gentlemanly and extremely personable Boudreau was a victim of circumstances. If the Yankees had just sent him Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra and Gil McDougald instead of Billy Hunter and Bob Marlyn and Irv Noren and a couple of other exchange students Lou still would have his job.

That is, a manager is no better than his material. Casey Stengel himself knows what it is to be fired, and he probably was as good a manager when he piloted the Dodgers and the Braves as he is today.

And Boudreau undoubtedly is as good a manager today as he was when he piloted the Indians to the American League pennant in 1948.

Dressen and Bragan were victims of the same circumstances which brought about Boudreau's dismissal. They just didn't have the material to climb much higher than they were. And incidentally, Dessen quit the Dodgers after winning a pennant because he refused to accept a one-year contract. Would you say he isn't as good a manager as he was in 1957?

Bragan made the mistake of calling undue attention to himself at a most inopportune time. When you're not doing so well it's always best to keep quiet in the hope nobody will notice you.

Sometimes it seems the clubs might do better if they fired the front office and kept the manager. The late Connie Mack had that situation licked. He was both.

Expert Says Wheat Germ Provides Pep

CHAMPAIGN-URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Feeding wheat derivatives to athletes improves their endurance, says a physical fitness authority at the University of Illinois.

Dr. Thomas K. Cureton, who directs the school's research and observations at the physical fitness research laboratory, says Australian swimmers were fed an allotment of wheat germ oil and wheat germ cereal every day for six months prior to the Olympics in Melbourne.

Their diet was fortified with vitamins and minerals in synthetic form, while they ate anything they desired, except fried foods.

He believes this type of feeding enabled the Australians to put the Americans to shame by smashing record after record.

Five years ago Dr. Cureton first reported that wheat germ oil taken in conjunction with strenuous exercise can "increase a man's endurance and capacity as much as 50 per cent."

Dr. Cureton says American athletes were issued an allotment of the wheat derivatives before they enplaned at San Francisco for Australia, but "it was too late," in his opinion.

Three American swimmers, however, had long-time wheat germ feedings, and they made the best U.S. showings.

They were George Breen, who set a world's record for 1,500 meters, Bill Yorzyk, who won the 200 meter butterfly and Shelley Mann, who took the gold medal in the women's 100-yard butterfly.

Breen and Yorzyk were coached by former graduate-student colleagues of Dr. Cureton, Jim Counsilman and Charlie Silvia, who knew of his research.

Dr. Cureton says there is some unknown factor in wheat germ which makes it possible for active people to use their carbohydrates — the energy foods — more completely.

Top Swimmer to Indiana
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Frank McKinney Jr., America's best back stroke swimmer at the age of 18, said Monday he had picked Indiana University from 12 schools that invited him to enroll this fall.

The 1956 Olympic team member, son of former Democratic National Chairman Frank E. McKinney, said he chose Indiana because "there's nothing like the Big Ten for conference swimming."

The double winner in the recent National AAU meet said he plans to work for a law degree.

American and National League Batting Races Hotly Contested

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle is chasing Ted Williams and both are chasing the 400 mark.

That, in brief, sums up the American League batting race with only seven weeks remaining in the 1957 season. But there is more to it than that.

For one thing, Mantle has gained considerable ground while Williams has shown signs of slackening off. In last week's games, Mantle hit at a .520 pace, hitting collected 13 hits in 25 times. The New York Yankees' switch at bat and boosted his average 11 points to .379.

Williams, meanwhile, dropped 2 points to .387. The 38-year-old Boston outfielder had 8 safeties in 22 tries.

Their battle will be a feature of the three-game series between the Yankees and Red Sox opening in Boston Tuesday night.

Mantle walloped two home runs in last week's action while Williams and the other contender, Roy Sievers of Washington, failed to connect for the circuit. This gave Mantle the lead with 31 round trippers. Williams and Sievers each have 30.

Sievers, however, continues to set the pace in runs batted in with 81. Mantle has 80.

In the National League, Hank Aaron of Milwaukee regained the batting lead after relinquishing it early last week to Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Aaron climbed 1 point to .338 while Musial tailed off a single point to .332. Willie Mays of the New York Giants and Dick Groat of Pittsburgh are deadlocked for third place at .330.

Aaron maintained his edge in home runs with 32, and he and Musial share the runs batted in lead with 87.

Williams Is Bases On Balls Champion

By FRANK ECK

Ted Williams never could touch Babe Ruth as a slugger yet there is one department of hitting where Williams gets the nod.

That is bases on balls. Down through the years, Williams, now in the twilight of a brilliant career with the Boston Red Sox, has averaged more than 100 bases on balls for 15 seasons.

The 38-year-old outfielder entered the 1957 season with 1,674 walks in 15 seasons. He is the only player to lead either league six years in a row in bases on balls.

Ruth, whose slugging feats have withstood all challengers in this day of the lively ball and smaller ball parks, garnered 2,056 walks in 21 seasons. He tops both leagues in that department.

But experts believe Williams would be the front man in walks right now had he not served almost five years in the Marines. Had Williams put into baseball the years he missed, he might well have started this season with 2,200 walks.

In the National League, Mel Ott's walking record seems untouchable for some time. The ex-Giant drew 1,708 walks in 22 years and led the league six times.

Patterson Arrives In Seattle To Get Fight Guarantee

SEATTLE (AP) — Floyd Patterson, the world's professional heavyweight champion, came to Seattle Monday to collect $250,000 for climbing into the same boxing ring with the world's amateur champion, Pete Rademacher.

The 22-year-old champion stepped from the train after his transcontinental journey looking fit and about ready to go if promoter Jack Hurley can fill Sicks Stadium the night of Aug. 22, as is expected.

Asked if he were taking the second defense of his title seriously, Patterson replied: "I've got to take Pete serious. He's a pro. You have to be an excellent fighter to qualify for the Olympics and in my book, Rademacher, with all his experience, ranks as a pro."

The champion and his followers were taken to nearby Kent where he will begin training for the fight. Rademacher already is in training at Issaquah, a few miles away.

Meanwhile, Rademacher chalked up his 84th round of leather tossing Sunday with two brisk stanzas with his sparring partners.

Top Swimmer to Indiana
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Frank McKinney Jr., America's best back stroke swimmer at the age of 18, said Monday he had picked Indiana University from 12 schools that invited him to enroll this fall.

The 1956 Olympic team member, son of former Democratic National Chairman Frank E. McKinney, said he chose Indiana because "there's nothing like the Big Ten for conference swimming."

The double winner in the recent National AAU meet said he plans to work for a law degree.

Parker Lions Grid Coach Resigns Post In Surprise Move

DETROIT (AP) — Raymond J. (Buddy) Parker resigned Monday night as coach of the professional football Detroit Lions in an announcement that caught Lion officials by surprise.

Parker, beginning his seventh season as head coach, made the startling announcement at the eighth annual "Meet the Lions" banquet at a downtown Detroit hotel.

"When you get to a situation where you can't handle football players, it's time to get out — and that's what I'm doing tonight," he said. "I'm through with football in Detroit."

Club president Edwin J. Anderson and General Manager W. N. Kerby immediately went into a huddle with Parker in an effort to talk him out of his dramatic decision.

Anderson returned to the speaker's rostrum a moment later and told the more than 500 fans that Parker "is emotionally upset about several matters that happened today."

"I am sure that when Buddy has slept on this thing and has realized what he has said in public that he will reconsider."

Parker, who guided the Lions to three National Football League division championships and who a year ago brought back a team that finished last and wound up second to the Chicago Bears in the Western Division — refused to elaborate on his single statement.

He was summoned to the speaker's platform for his annual address about his team's prospects. That's when he announced his resignation, and sat down.

Besselink Shares Mayer's Tam Purse By Tournery Pact

CHICAGO (AP) — Golfer Al Besselink finished with a 289 in "World" tournament Sunday good for only $400 but picked up an additional $5,000 from Dick Mayer's first place prize of $50,000.

Mayer's wife, Doris, confirmed reports Monday of Mayer's payment to Besselink.

"It was a pretournament agreement," she said. "Besselink had several such deals with other players also. When Bob Toski won the 'World' championship two years ago, Besselink collected $10,000."

It was understood that Besselink and Mayer had an agreement whereby if either won the championship the winner would pay the other $5,000.

Besselink, long known as a tournament handicap expert among the pros, was enroute to St. Paul and not available for comment.

McGinnity's Trophy A Punch Bowl No More

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — One man's victory is a memory for many. That's the way it is with a silver trophy once presented to Joe McGinnity, the first "iron man" of baseball.

The huge bowl is heavily embossed and weighs 18 pounds. It cost $500. It now is owned by the Fellowship Club.

It was first handed to the Brooklyn baseball team in 1900 when it was "world champion" of the National League, the only league operating then.

McGinnity pitched the winning games. To show their appreciation, his teammates turned the trophy, properly engraved, over to McGinnity. It became the only team trophy owned by an individual.

McGinnity's name and those of his mates are on it.

The members of the Fellowship Club inherited the trophy in 1921, a year after Joe came to Decatur to manage the A. E. Stanley Co., baseball team.

For more than 35 years the huge silver symbol of Joe's triumphs served as the "punch bowl" for wedding parties and other affairs.

The members now have decided to retire the trophy for fear it would wear out. Replaced, it rests in a trophy case.

Baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., requested the cup for its McGinnity mementoes, but the Fellowship Club wants to keep it.

"It looks as good as new and we want to keep it that way," says Lee Lyons, club president.

Joe's cup of happiness is filled with memories of the old days.

Back in 1900, Brooklyn and Pittsburgh were the fierce rivals of the National League. Toward the end of the season, Brooklyn led the flag race by a few games. Except for old Iron Man Joe Mc-

Ginnity, its pitching staff was shot.

The record book says J. J. McGinnity won 27 and lost 8 games for Brooklyn that season.

In the closing eight games of the series, Joe set the baseball world on fire by winning seven. His record-breaking work gave Brooklyn the pennant.

But McGinnity's work still wasn't finished. The Pittsburgh fans would not admit defeat. To settle it, a Pittsburgh newspaper put up the silver trophy to go to the winner of a five-game series to be played in Pittsburgh.

Joe pitched and won two games of the three Brooklyn won in the series. In both of his wins, McGinnity beat the famous Rube Waddell.

The Iron Man passed away at 58 in 1929 but his memory ranks high in Decatur sports history.

Braves' League Lead Is Due To A Durable Pitching Staff

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the major reasons the Milwaukee Braves have grabbed a 5½-game lead in the National League pennant race is the ability of their pitchers to go the distance consistently.

The Braves' mound staff leads the senior circuit in complete games, figures compiled by The Associated Press disclosed Monday.

Topped by Warren Spahn and Bob Buhl, the staff has turned in 43 route-going performances.

Spahn and Bob Buhl each have 11 complete games. Lou Burdette has nine, Gene Conley six, Juan Pizarro three and Bob Trumble one. Ray Crone had a pair before he was traded to the New York Giants.

The Chicago White Sox, led by their big three of Billy Pierce, Jim Wilson and Dick Donovan, head the American League, also with 43 complete games. Pierce has gone all the way 13 times, Wilson 11 times and Donovan 10.

The Philadelphia Phillies are runners-up to the Braves in the National League. The Phils have 41 with Jack Sanford their top man with 12. Robin Roberts has 11 and Curt Simmons 8.

The Brooklyn Dodgers are third with 33 complete games followed by St. Louis with 32, the New York Giants and Pittsburgh with 29 apiece, Cincinnati with 26 and the Chicago Cubs with only 17.

Pierce, Tom Brewer of the Boston Red Sox and Ruben Gomez of the Giants share the individual lead with 13 distance jobs.

The Red Sox are right behind Chicago in the American League with 42. Then come Detroit, 35, the league-leading New York Yankees and Baltimore with 32 each, Cleveland 30, Washington 22 and Kansas City 15.

Zulveta Wins Decision
NEW YORK (AP) — Cuban lightweight contender Orlando Zulveta, relied on his stalling left jab Monday night to score a close but unanimous 10-round decision over scrappy Frankie Ippolito, a New York school teacher, at St. Nicholas Arena.

Making his first start since he was stopped in the 15th round of a title bout with lightweight champion Joey Brown on June 19, the veteran Cuban was forced to the limit by the 23-year-old New Yorker.
