

The Daily Iowan

Serving The State University of Iowa

and the People of Iowa City

Established in 1868 — Five Cents a Copy

Member of Associated Press — AP Leased Wire and Photo Service

Iowa City, Ia., Friday, August 16, 1951

House Passes Slashed Aid Bill

Senate OK's Ike's Farm Post Selection

WASHINGTON (AP) — Overriding Democratic protests, the Senate Thursday night confirmed President Eisenhower's nomination of Don Paarlberg as assistant secretary of agriculture.

It acted by a roll call vote of 42-32.

Paarlberg was confirmed with votes of 35 Republicans and 7 Democrats.

Voting "no" were 30 Democrats and two North Dakota Republicans — Langer and Young.

Immediately after the vote confirming him as assistant secretary of agriculture, Paarlberg also was confirmed by voice vote for a second post as member of the board of directors of the Commodity Credit Corp.

Opponents based their protest on the charge that the Indianan's goal, as "the brains" behind Secretary of Agriculture Benson, is the elimination of the small farm as an economic unit.

A former Purdue University economist, he has been an assistant to Benson since the Eisenhower administration came into power. Democrats called him "the architect of the economic policies of the department."

A leading Republican advocate of mandatory high price supports — Sen. Young of North Dakota — said he was opposed to Paarlberg, as he was to Benson, because "he honestly doesn't believe in price supports." Young said policies Paarlberg believes in could bankrupt this nation.

But a Democrat — Sen. Holland of Florida, who supports flexible price supports — championed Paarlberg as a gentleman of high honor who is well qualified in the field of agricultural economics.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), said that a vote to confirm Paarlberg was "a vote against the family-sized farmer."

Symington told his colleagues that Paarlberg is head of the "brain trust" in the Department of Agriculture and thus one of those primarily responsible for its policies.

Symington said that since Secretary of Agriculture Benson took over department employes have increased from 67,000 to 87,000 while farm income has dropped 23 per cent.

At one point during the lengthy debate, Sen. Kerr (D-Okla.), said that the Eisenhower administration "has liquidated the American farmer."

When he lumped Undersecretary of Agriculture True Morse in his criticisms, Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), arose to say of True Morse: "He's no relative of mine and his first name's a misnomer."

At another point, Kerr expressed the wish that "President Eisenhower would teach Benson to play golf."

"He would do a lot less damage to the farmer out on the golf course," Kerr asserted.

The Senate adjourned at 11:27 p.m. until 11 a.m. Friday after being in session nearly 11½ hours.

Road Checks Show Dangerous Trucks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission said Thursday a spot safety check on interstate trucks during the second week of July, involving detailed inspection of 12,237 vehicles, showed 88.2 per cent have one or more defects or deficiencies.

MIAMI CIRCUIT JUDGE George E. Holt (left) appears relieved as the Senate voted 20-14 to acquit him of impeachment charges.

Mr. Holt, who broke into tears at the verdict, is confronted by Defense attorney, Glen Summers, with back to camera.

Soap Company Probers' Witness A Balky One

WASHINGTON (AP) — Neil H. McElroy, 52-year-old soap company executive, won unanimous Senate committee approval Thursday to succeed Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defense.

Chairman Richard Russell (D-Ga.), of the Armed Services Committee, which voted the endorsement after questioning McElroy at a public hearing, said he expects Senate confirmation next week.

McElroy told committee members he will dispose of some of his investments in order to "avoid any possible confusion between these holdings and the responsibilities of the secretary of defense."

He said he plans to resign as president of Procter & Gamble Co. if confirmed but intends to retain 472 shares in the soap company and a "reversionary interest in a trust of 1,000 more." P&G stock is now selling for around $48.75 a share.

Prior to the hearing there had been reports that McElroy held 12,000 shares in the company, which would be worth nearly $600,000.

These reports were not gone into at the hearing. All nominees are requested to file complete lists of their holdings with the Senate committee concerned, but these lists are held confidential unless the nominee requests that they be made public.

Russell said Senate action on McElroy's nomination probably will have to be delayed until next week to allow time for the record of Thursday's hearing to be printed.

The chairman said the record would include a letter from the attorney general's office to the Defense Department saying McElroy could continue to hold his stock in P&G, which sells soap and shortening to the military services in carload lots.

Russell said it was the attorney general's opinion that there would be no conflicts of interest if P&G continued to supply defense agencies through competitive bidding.

He said he plans to sell his holdings in General Electric and Chrysler, both big defense contractors, and to resign as a director of both corporations.

Injured Soldier Crawls Nine Miles To Get Aid for Buddy

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Pfc. Wayne D. Hooker was able to tell Thursday about his heroic, but fruitless, ordeal to save a buddy's life after an auto accident on the desert.

The 23-year-old Goldsboro, N.C., soldier, stationed at White Sands Proving Ground (WSPG), N.M., crawled and stumbled nine miles for aid after he was seriously hurt in a jeep accident which killed his friend, S. C. Oscar A. Ellefson, 20, of Westby, Wis. The hospital described Hooker's condition as good.

"It seems impossible that he could have walked at all. He must have crawled on his hands and knees most of the way," said William Haggard, public information officer at WSPG.

Authorities at White Sands headquarters said the accident occurred on an isolated road 19 miles north of the base camp at the desert missile testing site.

The two soldiers had gone on guard patrol at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Hooker remained semi-conscious from his injuries for more than 24 hours. He said Thursday the jeep had overturned on a sharp turn about 7 p.m. Tuesday. Both men were crushed beneath the vehicle.

Hooker saw Ellefson was seriously hurt. He began his trek to a desert telephone post back toward headquarters, despite several crushed vertebrae.

About five hours later Hooker reached the phone. He was able to give the location of the accident, then passed out.

When an ambulance reached him, Hooker was in a coma and unable to give more information. The ambulance crew found the wreckage of the jeep nine miles away.

Ellefson was dead.

Group Finds J. O'Rourke Takes Fifth

John J. O'Rourke Tells Them Nothing

Soviet Plane Crashes Killing Twenty-Three

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — A Soviet twin-engine airliner coming in for a landing hit a mist-hidden power plant chimney, sheered off a wing and spun crazily into Copenhagen Harbor Thursday. All 23 persons aboard perished, including 11 believed to be an American.

Several passengers were speared into the air through a gash in the plane's side as the ship plunged into the muddy bay.

The plane, an Ilyushin-14 of the Soviet Government airline Aeroflot, was due to land at Copenhagen at 6:25 a.m. At 6:28 it struck the more than 200-foot-tall stack of the H. C. Oersted power station four miles from the airport. A passport was found at the scene with the name of John Brand, born in the United States in 1917, the U.S. Embassy said.

No other information was given, except that officials were trying to establish whether such a person was an American citizen.

Moscow messages said Soviet censors were stopping portions of a dispatch concerning a U.S. Embassy announcement that U.S. officials had been told there were no Americans aboard the plane.

Moscow dispatches said diplomatic officials were still trying to identify a male victim named Brant or Brant, reported from Riga to be an American.

A spokesman for Aeroflot in Moscow said the full passenger list would not be announced until "our investigation" of the crash is completed.

A later Soviet news agency announcement, 12 hours after the crash, said an American was among the victims.

The five-man crew and 11 of the passengers were Russians, at least three of them women, Scandinavian Airlines officials said. Other passengers were three Germans, two Britons and one Norwegian.

Police refused to identify the victims until the passports were compared with the Aeroflot passenger list.

Eyewitnesses said there was a layer of mist over the harbor area and the tops of the five huge chimneys of the power plant could not be seen. The chimney tops are marked by red warning lights and all chimneys are floodlit at night.

Airport officials said visibility was reduced but a landing should have been perfectly safe. Several planes had landed earlier and immediately after the Russian plane crashed.

Muscat and Oman Row Not Yet Over

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — RAF jet fighters and bombers roared back into attack Thursday on rebel hold-out areas in central Oman.

The war has been announced as finished and the British have said their ground forces supporting the Sultan of Muscat and Oman are being withdrawn.

But the white flag of the rebel leader, the Imam of Oman, was reported still flying Wednesday over a fort outside the village of Sa'it, northwest of Nizwa.

Four RAF Venom jet fighters destroyed the fort with rockets.

Attempt To Patch Up Bill Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an open revolt against President Eisenhower's leadership, the House Thursday night passed a foreign aid appropriation slashed $809,650,000 below what he called a rock-bottom minimum.

The vote on passage was 232-130. But the more significant vote came a short time earlier, when the House defeated 254-129 a Republican attempt to shunt the bill back to committee and add $715 million.

On this latter tally, 171 Democrats and 83 Republicans voted against the motion to enlarge the bill's funds, while 44 Democrats and 85 Republicans favored the motion.

On final passage, 144 Democrats and 108 Republicans voted for the bill. Against it were 70 Democrats, 60 Republicans.

The chamber over-rode three urgent pleas from the President in approving and sending to the Senate a $3,191,810,000 fund for the present fiscal year.

Protests by Mr. Eisenhower and his supporters that the sum was much too meager to insure strong free world defenses against communism were answered by cries that the United States has been giving away "the wealth of generations yet unborn."

Mr. Eisenhower has threatened to call a special session of Congress in the fall if the money finally voted proves inadequate. But the Administration has still a chance to recoup all or part of the slashed away funds in the Senate.

Republicans led by Rep. John Taber of New York tried in vain to put back some of the money denied by the Appropriations Committee, but many of their own members deserted them to join a majority of Democrats who supported the committee's action in making the $809-million cut.

Just before passage, the House defeated by a rollcall vote of 254-129 a Republican move to send the bill back to committee with instructions to restore $715 million in various parts of the bill.

But the Eisenhower supporters lost in this as in every other move during a hectic day. The key vote came in late afternoon on a move to restore $350 million that the Appropriations Committee had voted to cut from Mr. Eisenhower's $1 billion request for arms aid in the coming year. The motion lost on a 172-123 teller vote.

This vote was largely along party lines, although a few from each side crossed over to vote with the other side.

The same pattern followed as the House defeated by a 166-113 teller vote to move to restore $129 million of the $165 million the committee cut from Mr. Eisenhower's request for $750 million in defense support funds.

Defense support is the term used for economic aid to friendly countries to support their defense programs.

Defeated 149 to 101 was a move to restore the $200 million the committee cut from the requested $500 million for a new loan fund for economic development overseas.

Beaten 130-103 was a move by Rep. Sidney Yates (D-Ill.) to add $26,900,000 to the fund for technical cooperation or Point Four aid. That would have put back all but $12 million of the committee cut on that fund.

Also defeated 145-63 was an amendment which would have cut even $6,050,000 deeper than the committee figure on the sums for technical aid through the United Nations.

A voice vote then shouted down a motion to restore the $75 million the committee trimmed from the $250 million Mr. Eisenhower sought for general economic aid purposes. This fund is known as special assistance.

The recommittal move defeated 145-129 just before passage was offered by Rep. Walter Judd (R-Minn.).

Judd proposed to add $350 million to military assistance, $165 million to defense support and $200 million to the development loan fund — a total of $715 million.

The House did raise from $5 to $10 million the amount of special assistance funds the committee said could be used to help Guatemala. This amendment did not change the money total in the bill.

Eisenhower made an urgent new appeal for restoration of the $69 million Thursday morning but the appropriations group approved the reduction.

The 50-member committee acted behind closed doors.

NEW YORK (AP) — The government set out anew Thursday to try to put labor racketeer Johnny Dio behind federal prison bars, this time on income tax evasion charges. Indicted with him was his hulking henchman and bodyguard, Teddy Ray.

The State of New York has convicted Dio three different times. He currently is being held in Tombs City Prison awaiting sentence next month on the third conviction, a labor shakedown deal. He could get two years on this.

However, the federal government never has hung as much as a single day in prison on the suave 43-year-old Dio. Last May its case against him in the acid-blinding of labor writer Victor Riesel blew up.

Income tax charges long have been a favorite federal device against racketeers it could not otherwise imprison. The late Chicago mobster Al Capone was put behind bars in such a manner.

Racketeer Frank Costello currently is appealing a federal income tax evasion sentence.

Dio and the 44-year-old Ray, a 240-pounder about as wide as he is tall, were witnesses earlier this month before a Senate Labor Rackets Committee in Washington. Both took refuge in the Fifth Amendment against self-incrimination and gave the committee not even so much as the time of day.

Dio, whose real name is John Dioguardi, was accused in the new federal indictment of failing to report $63,333 in income and dodging payment of $20,168 in taxes in 1950, 1951, and 1952.

Ray — his real name is Theodore Rij — was charged with evading $407 in income taxes in 1950.

Conviction on all counts could make Dio liable to 20 years in prison and Ray 10 years.

An indictment naming Ray alone was secretly filed by the grand jury last Feb. 19. A second indictment naming Ray and Dio was filed secretly June 17.

Both were opened Thursday and U. S. Atty. Paul W. Williams explained: "You may ask why we filed secret indictments against these men. In the case of Ray, it was because the Riesel acid-blinding indictment was pending and the government did not want to prejudice a fair trial of the defendant by publishing alleged violations of the tax laws by the defendant."

"In the case of Dio, Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan was about to go to trial against him in state court and it might have been prejudicial to have published his alleged tax offenses."

O'Rourke was shown a copy of an alliance agreement, later cancelled, between the ILA and the Eastern Conference of Teamsters, which he had signed.

"I refuse to read my signature," he said.

O'Rourke, with a grin, said he thought an answer to the question — as to what his occupation is — might incriminate him.

O'Rourke was asked about the election votes the committee said were cast for him by phony locals controlled by racketeer Dio. He wouldn't talk about that, either.

Martin Lacey, the man O'Rourke replaced as president of the council after the 1956 election, was called to the stand briefly before the committee quit for the night.

Lacey said he inquired of President Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union and other Teamsters' leaders how it was possible for specially chartered locals to be voted against him in the election.

This referred to what the committee calls the Dio locals.

Lacey said he hasn't had any reply from Beck or the others "to this day."

One of the questions to O'Rourke which went without an answer was whether the witness and Hoffa were among the prime movers to work out a secret alliance between the Teamsters Union and the International Longshoremen's Assn. The AFL expelled the ILA in 1953 as a union ridden by racketeers.

O'Rourke was shown a copy of an alliance agreement, later cancelled, between the ILA and the Eastern Conference of Teamsters, which he had signed.

"I refuse to read my signature," he said.

O'Rourke, with a grin, said he thought an answer to the question — as to what his occupation is — might incriminate him.

O'Rourke was asked about the election votes the committee said were cast for him by phony locals controlled by racketeer Dio. He wouldn't talk about that, either.

Martin Lacey, the man O'Rourke replaced as president of the council after the 1956 election, was called to the stand briefly before the committee quit for the night.

Lacey said he inquired of President Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union and other Teamsters' leaders how it was possible for specially chartered locals to be voted against him in the election.

This referred to what the committee calls the Dio locals.

Lacey said he hasn't had any reply from Beck or the others "to this day."

One of the questions to O'Rourke which went without an answer was whether the witness and Hoffa were among the prime movers to work out a secret alliance between the Teamsters Union and the International Longshoremen's Assn. The AFL expelled the ILA in 1953 as a union ridden by racketeers.

O'Rourke was shown a copy of an alliance agreement, later cancelled, between the ILA and the Eastern Conference of Teamsters, which he had signed.

"I refuse to read my signature," he said.

O'Rourke, with a grin, said he thought an answer to the question — as to what his occupation is — might incriminate him.

O'Rourke was asked about the election votes the committee said were cast for him by phony locals controlled by racketeer Dio. He wouldn't talk about that, either.

Martin Lacey, the man O'Rourke replaced as president of the council after the 1956 election, was called to the stand briefly before the committee quit for the night.

Lacey said he inquired of President Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union and other Teamsters' leaders how it was possible for specially chartered locals to be voted against him in the election.

This referred to what the committee calls the Dio locals.

Lacey said he hasn't had any reply from Beck or the others "to this day."

One of the questions to O'Rourke which went without an answer was whether the witness and Hoffa were among the prime movers to work out a secret alliance between the Teamsters Union and the International Longshoremen's Assn. The AFL expelled the ILA in 1953 as a union ridden by racketeers.

O'Rourke was shown a copy of an alliance agreement, later cancelled, between the ILA and the Eastern Conference of Teamsters, which he had signed.

"I refuse to read my signature," he said.

O'Rourke, with a grin, said he thought an answer to the question — as to what his occupation is — might incriminate him.

O'Rourke was asked about the election votes the committee said were cast for him by phony locals controlled by racketeer Dio. He wouldn't talk about that, either.

Martin Lacey, the man O'Rourke replaced as president of the council after the 1956 election, was called to the stand briefly before the committee quit for the night.

Lacey said he inquired of President Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union and other Teamsters' leaders how it was possible for specially chartered locals to be voted against him in the election.

This referred to what the committee calls the Dio locals.

Lacey said he hasn't had any reply from Beck or the others "to this day."

One of the questions to O'Rourke which went without an answer was whether the witness and Hoffa were among the prime movers to work out a secret alliance between the Teamsters Union and the International Longshoremen's Assn. The AFL expelled the ILA in 1953 as a union ridden by racketeers.

O'Rourke was shown a copy of an alliance agreement, later cancelled, between the ILA and the Eastern Conference of Teamsters, which he had signed.

"I refuse to read my signature," he said.

O'Rourke, with a grin, said he thought an answer to the question — as to what his occupation is — might incriminate him.

O'Rourke was asked about the election votes the committee said were cast for him by phony locals controlled by racketeer Dio. He wouldn't talk about that, either.

Martin Lacey, the man O'Rourke replaced as president of the council after the 1956 election, was called to the stand briefly before the committee quit for the night.

Lacey said he inquired of President Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union and other Teamsters' leaders how it was possible for specially chartered locals to be voted against him in the election.

This referred to what the committee calls the Dio locals.

Lacey said he hasn't had any reply from Beck or the others "to this day."

One of the questions to O'Rourke which went without an answer was whether the witness and Hoffa were among the prime movers to work out a secret alliance between the Teamsters Union and the International Longshoremen's Assn. The AFL expelled the ILA in 1953 as a union ridden by racketeers.

O'Rourke was shown a copy of an alliance agreement, later cancelled, between the ILA and the Eastern Conference of Teamsters, which he had signed.

"I refuse to read my signature," he said.

O'Rourke, with a grin, said he thought an answer to the question — as to what his occupation is — might incriminate him.

O'Rourke was asked about the election votes the committee said were cast for him by phony locals controlled by racketeer Dio. He wouldn't talk about that, either.

Martin Lacey, the man O'Rourke replaced as president of the council after the 1956 election, was called to the stand briefly before the committee quit for the night.

Lacey said he inquired of President Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union and other Teamsters' leaders how it was possible for specially chartered locals to be voted against him in the election.

This referred to what the committee calls the Dio locals.

Lacey said he hasn't had any reply from Beck or the others "to this day."

One of the questions to O'Rourke which went without an answer was whether the witness and Hoffa were among the prime movers to work out a secret alliance between the Teamsters Union and the International Longshoremen's Assn. The AFL expelled the ILA in 1953 as a union ridden by racketeers.

O'Rourke was shown a copy of an alliance agreement, later cancelled, between the ILA and the Eastern Conference of Teamsters, which he had signed.

"I refuse to read my signature," he said.

O'Rourke, with a grin, said he thought an answer to the question — as to what his occupation is — might incriminate him.

O'Rourke was asked about the election votes the committee said were cast for him by phony locals controlled by racketeer Dio. He wouldn't talk about that, either.

Martin Lacey, the man O'Rourke replaced as president of the council after the 1956 election, was called to the stand briefly before the committee quit for the night.

Lacey said he inquired of President Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union and other Teamsters' leaders how it was possible for specially chartered locals to be voted against him in the election.

This referred to what the committee calls the Dio locals.

Lacey said he hasn't had any reply from Beck or the others "to this day."

One of the questions to O'Rourke which went without an answer was whether the witness and Hoffa were among the prime movers to work out a secret alliance between the Teamsters Union and the International Longshoremen's Assn. The AFL expelled the ILA in 1953 as a union ridden by racketeers.

O'Rourke was shown a copy of an alliance agreement, later cancelled, between the ILA and the Eastern Conference of Teamsters, which he had signed.

"I refuse to read my signature," he said.

O'Rourke, with a grin, said he thought an answer to the question — as to what his occupation is — might incriminate him.

O'Rourke was asked about the election votes the committee said were cast for him by phony locals controlled by racketeer Dio. He wouldn't talk about that, either.

Martin Lacey, the man O'Rourke replaced as president of the council after the 1956 election, was called to the stand briefly before the committee quit for the night.

Lacey said he inquired of President Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union and other Teamsters' leaders how it was possible for specially chartered locals to be voted against him in the election.

This referred to what the committee calls the Dio locals.

Lacey said he hasn't had any reply from Beck or the others "to this day."

One of the questions to O'Rourke which went without an answer was whether the witness and Hoffa were among the prime movers to work out a secret alliance between the Teamsters Union and the International Longshoremen's Assn. The AFL expelled the ILA in 1953 as a union ridden by racketeers.

O'Rourke was shown a copy of an alliance agreement, later cancelled, between the ILA and the Eastern Conference of Teamsters, which he had signed.

"I refuse to read my signature," he said.

O'Rourke, with a grin, said he thought an answer to the question — as to what his occupation is — might incriminate him.

O'Rourke was asked about the election votes the committee said were cast for him by phony locals controlled by racketeer Dio. He wouldn't talk about that, either.

Martin Lacey, the man O'Rourke replaced as president of the council after the 1956 election, was called to the stand briefly before the committee quit for the night.

Lacey said he inquired of President Dave Beck of the Teamsters Union and other Teamsters' leaders how it was possible for specially chartered locals to be voted against him in the election.

This referred to what the committee calls the Dio locals.

Lacey said he hasn't had any reply from Beck or the others "to this day."

One of the questions to O'Rourke which went without an answer was whether the witness and Hoffa were among the prime movers to work out a secret alliance between the Teamsters Union and the International Longshoremen's Assn. The AFL expelled the ILA in 1953 as a union ridden by racketeers.

O'Rourke was shown a copy of an alliance agreement, later cancelled, between the ILA and the Eastern Conference of Teamsters, which he had signed.

"I refuse to read my signature," he said.

O'Rourke, with a grin

The Daily Iowan

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four faculty trustees appointed by the president of the University. The Daily Iowan's editorial policy, therefore, is not an expression of SU1 administration policy or opinion in any particular.

Page 2 FRIDAY, AUG. 16, 1957 Iowa City, Iowa

'A Clean Record'

'We Want Work' Want Ads

By BILL SINNOTT

BOSTON (AP) — "Don't break your back — let me do it," said a classified advertisement in a recent edition of the Boston Herald.

This sounds like an ominous invitation, but the writer, a 12-year-old boy, is merely looking for spare-time work relieving some adult of back-breaking odd jobs.

His ad is one of hundreds that appear once each summer in a special "Teen-Agers Wanted" section — a service offered free by the paper to juveniles seeking jobs.

Most of the girls prefer baby-sitting employment.

Some are general practitioners; "Baby-sitting," all types.

Others are specialists. If you have an insomniac infant, you can hire a "sincere young lady to walk babies."

A few of the girls have other job preferences.

Looking for entertainment at your summer soiree? A 10-year-old musician will "play piano at your party. Swance River, Beautiful Dreamer and other stuff. Also violin but not as good as piano."

Another young lady will "care for your pet dogs and birds in my home while you vacation." She prudently adds: "No cats."

The boy job seekers show a wide range of talent.

A versatile 16-year-old wants work as a "camp counselor, clerk, typist, orderly, usher, bus boy, carpenter or salesman."

"Save this ad for snow shoveling," suggests another lad with rare foresight.

And, from a trained bicycle mechanic: "Bikes fixed. Have had experience. Age 8."

Then there is the 12-year-old who will "cut your lawn at $1 a yard." Sounds expensive, but you can figure out what he really means.

A popular feature of the "Teen-agers Want Ads" section is the "Sell or Swap" column.

Here the kids offer to sell items ranging from a "new pogo stick, $5" to "fat night crawlers for ardent fishermen."

A 6-year-old, coming up in the world, wishes to "exchange tricycle for car or fire engine."

For those who want it, a 12-year-old girl advertises: "Horse manure at 25 cents a bushel in your container. Help feed your lawn and my horse."

Despite the humor in many of their ads, the youngsters who are seeking summer jobs are serious.

Insomnia Due To Mental Insecurity, Psychologist Says

Physical contact — even if it's only your own hand touching your leg — helps overcome sleeplessness by providing a feeling of security, according to an Indiana sleep researcher.

Donald A. Laird, Ph.D., Lebanon, Ind., an industrial psychologist, said sleeplessness is frequently caused by some type of anxiety that keeps the person so "vigilant" that he can't go to sleep.

Developing a feeling of security, even temporarily, helps overcome anxiety and vigilance, Laird said in the current (August) Today's Health, the American Medical Association's health magazine.

He pointed out that security for sleep does not deal with robbers breaking in, the house burning down or finances. It is an emotional security that deals with the affections of others, and the feeling of being accepted by them.

The seeds of emotional insecurity are frequently planted in childhood, he said. Between the ages of three and five, most children go through a period of stress.

These anxiety-arousing stresses — and being sent to bed too early — make this age a time when going to sleep is often a difficult problem. A pattern of poor sleep is sometimes started and may last for years.

It is seldom possible to get rid of serious anxieties without the aid of specialists, but some people find they can shake their anxiety at bedtime by the distraction method.

They count sheep, rhyme girls' names with names of cities, do mathematical problems or read something completely unrelated to their work or anxiety-producing problems.

Children may go to sleep more easily if a parent lies down beside them or keeps a hand on them. The contact of a favorite doll or woolly animal may help.

A few people provide their own body contact, unconsciously, by keeping a hand on their leg, face, stomach, or "their bald spot during chilly nights."

In theory, a person should sleep better alone in bed and alone in the room, but many people find that sleeping alone is "as anxiety-arousing as solitary confinement."

Then having animals in the room or leaving on a radio or dim light helps provide a feeling of security.

Going through the same bedtime routine every night is almost universal. Such rituals serve a useful purpose. They seem to ease anxieties, temporarily at least, and decrease the need for feeling vigilant by distracting thoughts from anxieties, Laird said.

U.S. Diplomats Ousted— Syria's True Motives

By J. M. ROBERTS (Associated Press News Analyst)

The United States is glad of an excuse to get rid of Dr. Farid Zeineddine, Syrian ambassador to Washington who has abused his privileges on many occasions by his unfriendly criticism of American policy.

Talk of breaking diplomatic relations with Syria because she ousted three aides of the American Embassy in Damascus, is, however, a horse of a different color.

Breaks in diplomatic relations used to be common practice of world diplomacy when one country wished to express extreme disapproval of another without going to war. Sometimes they did lead to war.

In recent years, the emphasis has been on maintaining relations. This is due in part to the growing importance of continuing attempts to reconcile differences in a world which lives under the shadow of the mushroom cloud.

It is also due to the very practical importance of keeping contact and knowing the intentions of enemy or unfriendly Governments.

Damascus has been the outpost of Soviet Russian communism in the Middle East. It is one of the key points in the Communist campaign to cut off the European former colonial powers from the traditional sources of natural resources in Africa and Asia, and so promote their collapse. This campaign has been carefully planned and in operation for more than 10 years.

The Syrians didn't throw out the Americans because there was any evidence they had plotted against the Syrian Government. They were thrown out because Western observers are not wanted in Syria and Egypt go about the business of trying to take over the Arab world with Russian aid.

Presumably, under continued diplomatic relations, these men can ultimately be replaced. Other Syrians will come to Washington to replace those ousted by the United States in retaliation. It may take time.

The one country in the world which has frequently insulted the United States, and violated the terms under which diplomatic relations were established 25 years ago, is Soviet Russia. Yet there has been no serious consideration of withdrawal of recognition.

The United States, in dealing with the nations which teeter back and forth across the fence between communism and democracy, works constantly with one hope.

It is that they will eventually discover not only on which side their bread is buttered, but which side offers them the greatest moral inducements and the greatest hope of attaining their own independence of outside pressure.

Musical Bonepile Beckons— Rock 'n' Roll Heads for Graveyard

By HUGH MULLIGAN (Associated Press Feature Writer)

As it must to all raucous noises that periodically assail the ear drums of the American public, the musical bonepile is finally beckoning to the fantastic fad that's known as rock 'n' roll.

A few of its more celebrated cantatas, like the tender "You Ain't Nothing But a Hound Dog" and the triumphant "Shake, Rattle and Roll," may be heard again from time to time in misty-eyed medleys of old songs, but the bulk of this cannibalistic caterwauling will be buried forever beside such mementoes of other by-gone eras as "The Three Little Fishies," "The Fuehrer's Face" and "Don't Hit your Grandmother With a Shovel, Boys. It Makes a Bad Impression on Her Mind."

Early this week the honorary pall bearers, in the person of 18 internationally famous disc jockeys, arrived in New York to attend the final rites, which appropriately enough took place in a musty movie studio hard by Manhattan's Hell's Kitchen.

In the best traditions of the musical industry they quietly disposed of the still warm rock 'n' roll corpse by burying it under a mountain of publicity for its heir apparent, known in the trade as "the new music."

The shotgun wedding of Madison Avenue to Tin Pan Alley has failed so far to come up with a name for the new music but it goes under the working title of "Ballad With a Beat."

It will get its first big plug in the forthcoming movie "Jam-boree," which further accounts for the presence of the disc jockeys at the studio. All appear in the picture to give their official blessing to the new music.

Among them are Howard Miller of Chicago, Dick Clark of Philadelphia, Al Jarvis of Hollywood, Zenas Sears of Atlanta, Milt Myers of Ottawa; Keith Sandy of Toronto, and Chris Howland of Cologne and Werner Gotze of Munich, Germany.

The plot never gets complicated enough to interfere with the 18 disc jockeys who parade across the screen to introduce the 20 new songs.

The songs are performed by such recording stars as Count Basie and his orchestra, the Four Coins, Fats Domino, Connie Francis, Joe Williams, Jody Sands, Frankie Avalon and several other reformed rock 'n' rollers.

What will the new music be like? Chris Howland, a pleasant Englishman who lives in Cologne and does a German disc jockey show over West Deutschen Rundfunk and an English disc jockey show for the British Forces Network, described it as "a type of song that will give singing back to the singers."

The old fashioned love ballad has replaced the hillbilly yodel

Comic Character Favorites Boost Kenny Fund Drive

Minneapolis, Minn. — Comic strip favorites of young and old alike are bidding in the nation's daily and weekly newspapers for generous contributions to the 1957 annual fund appeal of the Elizabeth Kenny Foundation, according to Al Capp, national volunteer chairman.

Included are Donald Duck, by Walt Disney; Bugs Bunny, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.; Peanuts, by Charles M. Schulz; Ella Cinders, by Fred Fox; Dixie Dugan, by John Striebel, and Lili Abner, by Al Capp.

Capp also will be seen in an appeal on TV stations across the nation.

"Citing the need for generous public contributions, each of the comic strip characters stresses that the Kenny Foundation now is providing care and rehabilitation to persons of all ages, races and creeds," Capp said. "Disabled persons who may benefit from the Kenny program include those with conditions, such as: polio, nerve injuries, strokes (hemiplegia), spinal cord injuries (paraplegia), congenital disabilities, cerebral palsy (spastic paralysis), spina bifida, birth injuries, Parkinsonism, dystonia, amputations, arthritis, post-fracture disabilities, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis, contractures and Guillain-Barré disease."

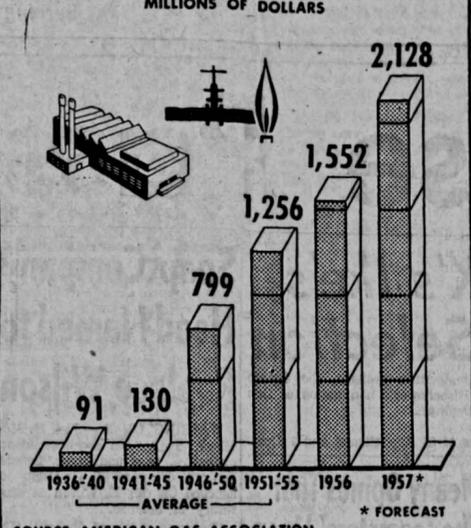

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

BABY SITTING—The University Cooperative Baby-Sitting League book will be in the charge of Mrs. Mervin Dougal from August 6 to August 20. Telephone her at 3738 if a sitter or information about joining the group is desired.

EDUCATIONAL PLACEMENT—Summer School students registered with the Educational Placement Office should report change of address before leaving the campus.

VETERANS—Any veteran who has used Public Law 550 benefit for Summer Session 1957 and who

GAS INDUSTRY EXPANSION NEW CONSTRUCTION EXPENDITURES

THE GAS UTILITY and pipeline industry is expanding this year at the fastest pace in its history with construction expenditures of more than two billion dollars. This is 37 per cent higher than last year and more than triple the annual average for the previous 20 years. The industry is adding about a million customers a year and currently serves more than 30 million customers through utility gas lines.

Local Gas Rate Hike Is Expected

Gas bill increases for customers of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Company in Iowa City, Coralville, University Heights, Cedar Rapids, Ottumwa, and the Quad Cities were termed "unavoidable" by James E. Stewart, District Manager of the utility.

"The Company," Mr. Stewart said this week, "is confronted with an annual estimated increase of $1,318,000 in the cost of gas purchased from its supplier, Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America."

"Approximately $665,000 of this annual increase in pipeline company purchases," he explained, "became effective yesterday under bond pending determination of an equitable rate by the Federal Power Commission."

"The balance of some $753,000 is expected to result from another rate increase application now in the process of being filed by the pipeline company with the Federal Power Commission and scheduled to become effective under bond about January 1, 1958."

"After the rate levels established by these increases have been determined and the impact on the cost of serving gas customers in Iowa City, University Heights, and Coralville has been calculated, the entire matter will be discussed with the respective city councils," Mr. Stewart stated.

In its application filed with the Federal Power Commission in February of this year, the pipeline company stated that higher rates are necessary to cover increased operating expenses, depreciation, and taxes.

The utility has intervened before the Federal Power Commission to determine the reasonableness of the pipeline company rate increase which became effective Aug. 11.

Local Baton Twirlers To Compete at State Fair

Gary and Judy Dick, Margaret Rossie, and Ginger Kirnegor, of Iowa City, were announced Thursday as entrants in the state championship baton twirling contest which will be a feature of this year's Iowa State Fair in Des Moines.

The contest will be held on Saturday, August 31, in the judging pavilion. Each contestant will be allotted 2½ minutes, with music supplied by amplified records.

The event includes four girls' and two boys' divisions. Officials said the winners in the girls' senior and junior divisions will be eligible to represent Iowa in the national baton twirling contest.

FADING ENGINE HENRYETTA, Okla. (AP) — The city has decided to put an awning over the front door of the fire station.

The sun was so bright it faded the fire truck until it didn't look red anymore.

LAFF-A-DAY

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

George Dixon— Solon Sings

The Steam Bath Blues Senator's Serenade

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

The discount rate had gone up. So had the maximum interest rate. The very air was filled with threats of inflation. The disarmament conference was lagging in London. The Sultan was insulted! The Imam in Oman. The Civil Rights bill was in a parliamentary snarl. And, with civilization tottering on the brink of an abyss, the State Department was going jitterbuggy over a curious song, "I made a fool of myself over John Foster Dulles."

Added all together, they were nerve-tautening. Senator Allen J. Ellender, of Louisiana, decided he'd better steam some of the tension out of himself.

With eyes downcast in deep cogitation, the 65-year-old lawmaker made his stately way from the Capitol to the Senate office building. Entering that labyrinthine edifice, he strode down the marble first floor corridor, nodding dignifiedly to other statesmen and the host of female aides who habitually throng those halls. He passed the offices of the dean of the Senate, Carl Hayden, of Arizona, turned the corner, and entered the luxurious steam baths which are reserved exclusively for senators, except Margaret Chase Smith.

With the aid of respectful servitors, the great man disrobed. He relaxed in the steam and despondent until he could contemplate inflation, disarmament, civil rights, and a lady's mad passion for John Foster Dulles, without a shudder.

An attendant gave him a differential rubdown, then threw a white sheet about the senatorial shoulders. In this chaste covering, but nothing else, Senator Ellender paced up and down the steam room thinking — thinking — thinking.

He fell so deeply into thought that, unconscious of his actions, he strode through the entrance and out into the corridor.

He was padding up and down this teeming hallway, utterly oblivious to the startled stares at his sheeted figure, when a personage who shall be nameless called to him: "Good afternoon, Senator. You are looking remarkably Roman in your toga!"

Senator Ellender came out of his reverie with a jump. He flew back into the steam room, clutching the sheet to him.

For the last week, nearly all the papers have been carrying pieces describing the tremendous influence of Senate majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson. Some of the articles went as far as to submit there is nothing beyond the powers of the senior Senator from Texas, once he puts his mind to it.

In the midst of this accolade to the Johnson omnipotence, the Senate Appropriations Committee met to consider disaster relief. Senator Henry C. Dworshak, of Idaho, took note that Texas has two applications for disaster relief — one for drought, one for flood.

Senator Dworshak, who is not a follower of the majority leader, being a member of a minority group, turned to Ralph Yarborough, the junior senator from Texas, and said:

"Your distinguished senior senator who is too busy with multitudinous other affairs to be with us today, has been pictured as so powerful he can arrange anything. Then why doesn't he arrange the elements better?"

"I beg your pardon?" gaped Senator Yarborough.

"I said," replied Senator Dworshak, "that if your senior Senator has as much influence as we have been told, why doesn't he arrange to even things in Texas, and let the flood dispel the drought, and vice versa?"

"I don't know," confessed Senator Yarborough, suddenly recalling that he had an urgent appointment elsewhere.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

General Notices must be received at The Daily Iowan office, Room 301, Communications Center, by 8 a.m. for publication the following morning. They must be typed or legibly written and signed; they will not be accepted by telephone. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to edit all General Notices.

Marxian Rule In British Guiana?

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP) — A brilliant young East Indian who preaches Marxist-Communist doctrines was expected Thursday to form a government in British Guiana within 72 hours.

He is handsome 39-year-old Dr. Cheddi Jagan, who could probably win a television quiz show as an expert on the U.S. Constitution and the American Revolution.

The big question was whether the dentist, overwhelming victor in Monday's general elections, would try again as he did in 1953 to set up a Communist Government in Britain's only South American colony.

Apparently the British feel the magnitude of Jagan's victory — 9 of 14 elective Legislative Council seats of his People's Progressive Party — compels them to give him another chance. The last time he came to power they forced him out after 133 days.

The gesture is not a grave move for the British, because the ultimate authority lies in the hands of British Gov. Sir Patrick Renison.

Under constitutional rules created since 1953, the governor can appoint up to 11 legislators, who with 3 British administrative members of the Council could outvote the Jaganites. As a further safeguard, the governor can also suspend councilmen.

Jagan campaigned for the political independence of British Guiana, using his impressive knowledge of the U.S. Constitution and the American Revolution. He offered the colony's half-million people certain rights: "Freedom of speech, press and religion, the right to peaceful assembly and freedom from unreasonable searches and seizures."

Jagan, smiling, charming and personable in his relations with any Guianese or foreigner, said in an interview he is convinced Marxism is the best concept of life, and "Marxist philosophy will one day be the philosophy of the world."

He is an avid reader of Marx and Lenin and a keen student of the principles of Stalin and Communist China's Mao Tse-tung.

The Communist views of Jagan are more than echoed by his Chicago-born wife, the farmer Janet Rosenberg, now 37. He married her in Chicago where she was a nurse, while he studied dentistry at Northwestern University.

Britons say Jagan practices what they call "political dentistry" — mixing dental work with politics. They say he tends his many poor patients for votes instead of cash.

Plan Long-Range Cuts In Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson said Thursday the Pentagon is working on plans that might reduce the military forces to 2½ million men by July 1959. That is about 300,000 below the current level.

Wilson called the 2½ million level his minimum planning figure, and emphasized that no decision has been reached as yet.

The retiring defense secretary recently ordered the military services to trim 100,000 men from their current 2,800,000 total by the end of this calendar year.

Cave-in Victim

RESCUE WORKERS remove the body of a construction worker Thursday from a 35-foot excavation near Dresden, Ontario, Can., after the walls of the pit collapsed Wednesday night. Six workmen were trapped and killed by 150 tons of wet clay that fell on them as they were laying concrete at the bottom of the hole. The crew was putting in the foundation for a water processing plant.

Fair on August 18th

Famous Four DIAMONDS, four handsome stars & many hit tunes... also two lovely guest stars & Hal McIntyre's great Orch. Aug. 18th Melody Mill Aug. 18th Dubuque, Iowa Adm. $1.50 before 9 p.m. (Day light savings time) THIS AD WILL ADMIT 1 PERSON WITH 1 PAID ADMISSION.

Troops Sent To Stop Mob Race Rioting

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Gov. George M. Leader late Thursday ordered a detachment of state police to this new, sprawling city of 60,000 to help local authorities cope with an outbreak of bad feeling over the arrival of the first Negro homeowner in the community.

The governor took this action after receiving a telegram from the Bucks County sheriff asserting he was confronted with a situation that was out of control.

A dozen state troopers from Philadelphia moved into the Levittown area, on orders from Leader who said their job would be to "maintain order and prevent violence."

The text of the telegram from Sheriff C. Leroy Murray to the governor was made known in Harrisburg. It follows: "Chief of Police Stuart of Bristol Township says the citizens of Levittown are out of control."

"They — the people — gather in a small mass of 200 to 500 and at a meeting of the commissioners last night the people were very disorderly. They made threats against the Constitution before the commissioners and say they are going to take things in their own hands if they — the commissioners — do not act."

"There is going to be another mass meeting tonight and everyone is interested in keeping the peace. Feel there will be real trouble after the meeting. . . and I feel sure that with the presence of state police it can be quelled without bloodshed."

A crowd of 200 or more milled around outside the house Wednesday night. It was the second such demonstration. Police arrested one man for disorderly conduct. He refused to get moving. On Tuesday night five persons were arrested. That night a house was stoned and the windows smashed.

The Negro homeowner is William Myers Jr., an equipment tester for a refrigeration company in Trenton, N. J. He and his wife, Daisy, have three children, one a girl a month old.

Myers said he had not set a date for moving in, but asserted that he planned to go ahead and take possession despite the outbursts of hostility.

Levittown is a vast housing development of more than 15,000 homes and a number of stores.

Testimony Heard In Bank Robbery Case

DES MOINES (AP) — Mrs. Robert Wheeler of Springfield, Mo., testified Thursday she was reasonably sure Thomas Gordon Tinkle Jr., 34, Memphis, Tenn., was one of two men who bought some welding gas from her husband's store last March 20.

That was three days before the burglary of the Shannon City, Ia., office of the First State Bank of Diagonal.

Tinkle, William M. Pegram, 42, Houston, Tex., and Pegram's wife, Latane, 40, are on trial in U.S. District Court here in connection with the robbery.

Mrs. Wheeler and her husband, who deals in welding supplies, both identified Pegram as having bought welding gas in Springfield.

Under direct examination, Mrs. Wheeler said she was not positive but thought Tinkle was the man with Pegram.

Charles Tetterton, Springfield police detective, testified he stopped a car here on March 21 after it was reported two men who purchased welding gas had behaved suspiciously. The officer said Tinkle was driving the car.

Asst. U.S. Atty. John Stevens told the jury in an opening statement that $8,740 in travelers checks and about $700 in cash was taken in the robbery.

He also said an acetylene torch was used in cutting open the vault and the Government would show that metal cuttings were found in Pegram's clothes.

He said $2,000 of the loot was found at the Pegram home when the couple was arrested at Reno, Nev.

Included among others who testified Thursday afternoon were: Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Clark, operators of the Lone Tree Motel here, who said the Pegrams were registered at the motel from the afternoon of March 22 until the afternoon of March 24.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Flenker of Creston, who said the Pegrams stayed in their motel from the morning of March 23 until the morning of March 25.

Movie Stars To Testify In Trial

DEFENSE ATTORNEY Arthur J. Crowley stands before the bench in the Confidential magazine criminal libel trial Thursday where it was assured that movie stars will be called to the witness stand.

Confidential Defense Attorney To Question Validity of Articles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Movie stars will make personal appearances on the witness stand in the criminal libel trial of Confidential and Whisper magazines, it was assured Thursday.

They will be summoned by the defense to say whether stories about them in the scandal magazines are true.

Subpoenaed celebrities include Rory Calhoun, Tab Hunter, Gary Cooper, Walter Pidgeon, Tony Turner, Sonny Tufts, Tom Neal, Buddy Baer, Allen Nixon, Tita Purdom, Paul Gregory, Dean Martin, Corinne Calvet, John Carroll, and Charlie Barnett.

The way was cleared for the defense to carry out its plan to call celebrities when Superior Court Judge Herbert V. Walker declined to make an immediate ruling on the admissibility of their testimony.

The prosecution had argued that testimony of the stars about the stories would be immaterial.

Judge Walker said he would rule on the admissibility when the witnesses take the stand.

Just who will be called remained defense attorney Arthur J. Crowley's secret. He said, "I will call some movie stars. I am also going to call some newspaper people."

Crowley has subpoenaed more than 100 Hollywood personalities as witnesses.

The prosecution is expected to wind up its case Friday, with more reading of scandalous stories about movie personalities from Confidential and Whisper magazines. Thirteen stories were read to the jury Wednesday.

Sulowan Is Recreation Director in Germany

Donna Lee McCoy, a 1955 SUI graduate from Carroll, is serving as recreation director of the Terrace Service Club, U.S. Army recreation center in Ulm, Germany.

A graduate of Carroll High School, Miss McCoy attended Iowa State College in Ames before registering at SUI. She taught in the Denver, Colo., public schools and went to Europe in September, 1956.

Iowa News Roundup

By The Associated Press

WOMAN SHOT

CRESCO — Mrs. Hubert Vorwald, 40, Cresco, was seriously wounded by two shotgun blasts at her home Thursday. Her husband, 46, was arrested on an open charge and placed in jail.

Sheriff Percy Haven said she had started divorce proceedings last week, and that the shooting apparently stemmed from domestic difficulties and the divorce action.

Mrs. Vorwald was wounded in the chest and shoulder. Her condition a few hours later was described as "fair." The wounds were from a 16 gauge shotgun.

The sheriff said Vorwald stepped out of the house as Mrs. Vorwald was finishing some work in the garden. She was shot as she walked toward the house, the sheriff added.

W. E. Williams, 55, a neighbor, a police officer and another man disarmed Vorwald. Sheriff Haven and Police Chief Earl Waller were about a block away at the time. They said they heard the shots and saw Mrs. Vorwald fall.

Accuse Western Newsmen of Sensationalism

LODZ, Poland (AP) — Two Warsaw Communist newspapers Thursday accused Western reporters of exaggeration and "an unfettered desire for sensation" in reporting the three-day Lodz streetcar strike.

The Warsaw correspondents of the Associated Press, the United Press and Reuters who covered the story here were singled out for criticism.

Although club-wielding police, backed by troops and armed factory militia, broke up the strike with tear gas, the two Warsaw papers did not mention the strike until it was over.

The papers are Trybuna Ludu and Sztandar Mlodych.

They confined themselves to printing a government communication saying the workers themselves decided to return.

In fact, many workers were forced back to work at the end of police clubs and the armed militiamen stood guard over drivers of the first streetcar to begin running early Wednesday.

Thursday was the religious holiday of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary and there was public calm. The soldiers had left the car barns and people were out parading in the sunny streets and lining up for movie theaters.

Motorcyclist Robs Wisconsin Bank

BAGLEY, Wis. (AP) — A motorcycle-riding bandit robbed the local branch of the Peoples State Bank of about $2,000 Thursday afternoon and roared away from this Mississippi River town in a cloud of dust.

Authorities in northeast Iowa, across the Mississippi River from Bagley, were immediately notified. The holdup took place at 2:10 p.m.

Loren Keocke, manager, was alone in the bank when a man wearing overalls walked in, pointed a gun at him and demanded money. The man wore spectacles but was unmasked.

When Keocke made no move, the gunman walked behind the counter and took currency, then ran outside, mounted his red motorcycle and sped north toward Prairie du Chien, the city where the bank's main office is located.

One report indicated the bandit may have abandoned his motorcycle and crossed the river by boat. Another report said he had been seen crossing the bridge into Iowa at Marquette.

Bagley is located on the Mississippi River between Prairie du Chien and Cassville.

LAST TIMES TONITE

'Beyond A Reasonable Doubt' Rita Gam — 'Mohawk'

IOWA 4 DAYS

Starts SATURDAY

RODGERS & HAMMERSTEIN

OKLAHOMA!

CINEMASCOPE

NIGHTFALL

ALDO RAY BRIAN KEITH ANNE BANCROFT

Leukemia Disappears After Bone Marrow Transplant

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Traces of leukemia have disappeared from the bloodstream of a 20-month-old girl who recently received a transplant of healthy bone marrow from her twin sister, a suburban hospital reported Thursday.

It may be the first successful marrow transplant, attending physicians said, but they declined to predict any wider application of the technique for other leukemia patients.

Fitzgerald Mercy Hospital in nearby Darby released little Laura MacDonald Thursday after a marrow transplant from her twin sister, Mary, on July 11. A hospital spokesman said Laura now shows no evidence of leukemia — cancer of the blood cells — although he said the disease could return. Asked if the marrow transplant method could be extended to help other sufferers, a doctor at the hospital replied: "That is an imponderable which cannot be safely answered at this time."

The spokesman said that Mary will suffer no ill effects from the operation, regenerating the marrow just as blood donors regenerate blood.

Laura first underwent a massive irradiation of the entire body in an effort to destroy her diseased marrow, the spokesman said. On the following day healthy marrow was and hip bone into syringes treated withdrawn from Mary's shin bone with anti-coagulants, and then injected into Laura's blood stream.

CLASSIFIED

Classified Advertising Rates

One Day ..... 8c a Word
Two Days ..... 10c a Word
Three Days ..... 12c a Word
Four Days ..... 14c a Word
Five Days ..... 15c a Word
Ten Days ..... 20c a Word
One Month ..... 30c a Word

Display Ads

One Insertion ..... 90c a Column Inch
Five Insertions a Month, each insertion ..... 80c a Column Inch
Ten Insertions a Month, each insertion ..... 80c a Column Inch (Minimum Charge 50c)

DEADLINE

Deadline for all classified advertising is 2 P. M. for insertion in following morning's issue. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to reject any advertising copy.

DIAL 4191

Trailer for Sale

1956 BUDDY 36-foot Movie Home. Excellent condition, desirable for student. Dale Niederhoff, Votter's Park, West Liberty. 8-20

1956-Thirty-six foot ELGAR trailer, air-conditioned, carpeted, 9' x 6' storage room. Fenced yard. $2995.00. Dial 3081. 8-16

Business Opportunities

TEN UNIT APARTMENT building. One block to campus. Net income over $500.00 monthly. A. J. Lawre, Dial 2841 or 2492. 8-27

INVESTIGATE

our RENTAL PURCHASE PLAN ON MOBILE HOMES 10 Lines, 50 Models To Choose From. Wollesen's, Inc. Quality Since 1936 Phone 1210 Marion Shopping Center Marion, Iowa

"I Found A Washer In the Want Ads."

If you are looking for top value in a used washer, a used car, a good used TV... the place to look is in The Daily Iowan want ads. You'll nearly always find just what you want. And you'll save money, too!

Dial 4191

COOLED BY REFRIGERATION

Capitol

NOW! Over The Weekend!

M-G-M'S SCORCHING THRILLER IN CINEMASCOPE

THE SEVENTH SIN starring Eleanor PARKER Bill TRAVERS George SANDERS Jean Pierre AUMONT

RODGERS & HAMMERSTEIN

present

OKLAHOMA!

CINEMASCOPE

NIGHTFALL

ALDO RAY BRIAN KEITH ANNE BANCROFT

BLONDIE

WAKE UP MR. BUMSTEAD

WHAT IS IT? WHERE AM I? WHAT DAY IS IT???

YOU'RE SLEEPING! COFFEE BREAK

GREAT SCOTT! IS IT THAT LATE?

THERE'S SO MUCH TO DO. THE DAYS JUST AREN'T LONG ENOUGH.

By CHIC YOUNG

BEETLE BAILEY

WE'RE FAILING SOMEWHERE IN TRAINING THE BOYS. IT FUZZ... THEY NEED TO GROW UP... BECOME MEN!

I KNOW, SIR

I JUST GAVE THEM A GOOD TALKING-TO ON THAT VERY SUBJECT A MINUTE AGO

YOU DID? HOW DID THEY TAKE IT?

By MORT WALKER

Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP) — The fight doesn't make sense, of course. Who but a man with stripped gears in his head would dream of promoting a bout between the current Olympic heavyweight champion and the current professional champion, with the pro's title at stake? And who would go to see such an affair, anyway?

Well, it still doesn't make sense, but the gears in Jack Hurley's head are meshing nicely, and several thousand curious or sadistic or generally optimistic fans will pack Sick's Stadium in Seattle Thursday to see Floyd Patterson take on Pete Rademacher.

When the history of fight promotions is compiled, this one will rate the No. 1 spot, both from the standpoint of sheer gall and success.

Nobody but Hurley would have had the temerity to go through with such a match, even if struck by the idea. We understand the idea first hit Rademacher and bounced into Hurley, but that is neither here nor there. Hurley is the man who would it up and made it tick.

The idea is so preposterous it has received more publicity than would be given a match between two established pros. Most of it adverse publicity, to be sure. It has been condemned on all sides, denounced as a mismatch to end all mismatches, and unworthy of comment.

So everyone comments on it, just as Hurley figured they would. It matters not to him what they say. He's in the "just spell the name right" category. That's easy with Hurley, but not so easy with Rademacher.

Personally, we feel the bout will be something of a travesty on the noble art of self defense. We join the multitude in viewing it with amused tolerance, but we do not share the alarm expressed in some quarters.

We expect the over-ambitious Rademacher to be knocked out very quickly, but we don't expect him to take the merciless beating Hurricane Jackson took from the champion.

Rademacher has no prestige to lose. In fact, if he stays two rounds it will be a moral victory. Patterson is risking prestige.

Rademacher is big and he is slow, making a very inviting target for Patterson.

We are pretty well convinced now the pro champion is quite a fighter, despite his failure to knock Jackson unconscious.

We are pretty sure that Patterson has more than enough for any rival on the horizon right now.

Grid Prognosticator Names the Hawkeyes Number Two Team

Iowa's Hawkeyes will be the Number Two team in the nation (second only to Oklahoma) and will be conference champions in the Big Ten this fall, Francis Wallace (the original pigskin prognosticator) predicts in his 18th Annual Football Preview, which appears this year in the September issue of Playboy Magazine, on sale at newsstands August 23rd.

Wallace also predicts that Alex Karras, Iowa's rugged tackle, will be an All-American again this year and that Forest Evashevski will be named the Coach of the Year.

"Forest Evashevski made Iowa the Cinderella of the Corn and of the Rose Bowl last year," says Wallace, "by wafting a wand of single-wing blocking over T plays. Iowa's glaring empty sleeve is a successor to Kenny Ploen at quarterback; but Alex Karras, one of my All-American tackles, leads two big returning lines of the type that makes backfield work pleasant.

"The Hawks are ineligible to return to the Rose Bowl; but Conference, national and Coach-of-the-Year incentives should be enough."

In the Big Ten, Wallace predicts that Michigan State and Michigan will finish second and third with 8-1 and 7-2 records respectively. Minnesota, picked to finish fourth, will be the real dark horse of the Conference.

Wallace says that this year, with coaches copying and trading formations and play-patterns, the technical picture will be kaleidoscopic. The Split-T, still dominant, will have as many variations as the farmer's daughter joke.

For his pre-season All-American team, Wallace chooses the following players: Ends, Jimmy Phillips of Auburn and Richard Lasse of Syracuse; Tackles, Lou Michaels of Kentucky and Alex Karras of Iowa; Guards, William Krisher of Oklahoma and Daniel Currie of Michigan State; Center, Charles Brueckman of Pitt; Backs, Clendon Thomas of Oklahoma, John Crow of Texas A & M, Robert Cox of Minnesota and Phil King of Vanderbilt.

Wallace also chooses Lou Michaels of Kentucky as Lineman-of-the-Year, Clendon Thomas of Oklahoma as Back-of-the-Year and Forest Evashevski of Iowa as Coach-of-the-Year.

Braves Trounce Redlegs 8-1; Widen Lead

Cards Trail 8 1-2 Behind Milwaukee

CINCINNATI (AP) — Four home runs, including two by Hank Aaron, Thursday night helped power Milwaukee's Braves to the tenth victory in a row — an 8-1 trouncing of Cincinnati's Redlegs — and an 8½ game National League lead. Warren Spahn, an old Redleg troublemaker, hurled an eight-hitter.

Redleg starter Hal Jeffcoat lasted only until the first inning flurry that produced the first three Braves markers. But his successors — four in all — fared little better as Milwaukee pounded out 12 hits.

Spahn, who hasn't lost to the Reds since last September, won his fifth straight game and Thursday night's victory gave him a 44-14 lifetime record against Cincinnati — his best against any team.

The high flying Braves, winning their 14th game in 16 with the Reds, got a boost in the league scramble Thursday afternoon when the two closest aspirants — for the lead — St. Louis and Brooklyn — each lost a game.

Milwaukee . . . . . 400 010 210—9 12 2
Cincinnati . . . . . 010 000 000—1 8 0
Spahn and Crandall; Jeffcoat, Amor 1, Freeman 3, Gross 7, Acker 8 and Burgess.

W — Spahn, L — Jeffcoat.
Home runs — Milwaukee, Aaron 2, Mathews, Hazle.

Cubs 4, Cards 1

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs compounded the six-hit pitching of bonus boy Moe Drabowsky with home runs by Dale Long and Chuck Tanner to defeat St. Louis 4-1 Thursday for their ninth victory in 12 games.

It was the collapsing Cardinals' ninth straight defeat and dropped their eight full games behind Milwaukee's league-leading Braves. The Cardinals kept second place, however, when Brooklyn lost to the New York Giants 9-4.

The victory marked seventh-place Chicago's second sweep of a three-game series with the Cardinals.

St. Louis . . . . . 001 000 000—1 6 1
Chicago . . . . . 030 000 105—4 7 0
Jones and Landrith; Drabowsky and Neeman, Fanning 3.

Home runs — Chicago, Long, Tanner.

Giants 9, Bums 4

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie catcher Valmy Thomas drove in four runs with a home run and triple and led the New York Giants to a 9-4 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers Thursday.

Brooklyn . . . . . 201 010 000—4 9 1
New York . . . . . 120 003 038—9 11 0
Home runs — New York, Thomas.

Neither Tebbetts Nor Haney Will Concede Braves Flag Winners

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two of the persons most immediately concerned refuse to concede that the Milwaukee Braves, despite a nine-game winning streak and a 7½-game lead, have a one-way ticket to the National League pennant.

Neither Manager Fred Haney of the front-running Braves nor skipper Birdie Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Redlegs cares to dispute the fact that the Braves are presently the hottest team in baseball. No one wants to talk down Milwaukee's production of 83 runs in their 9-game victory string.

But, as for conceding that the Milwaukeeans are well on their way to a pennant, no dice. Both pointed to the schedule that Thursday showed 42 more games to play.

Haney sized up the situation this way: "We have only one job and that is to play the schedule and try to win every game, one at a time."

Said Tebbetts: "This is a game of momentum and right now the Braves are traveling on momentum. They can't do anything wrong, but that doesn't mean it will always be that way or that they can't be beat."

"The Cubs beat the Braves didn't they? Maybe one of these days the other clubs will start doing it, too — even ours."

The Milwaukeeans really started to roll after the mid-season break for the All-Star game. Since then they have won 26 of 34, 17 of their last 21 games and have broken the air-tight senior circuit race wide open on the current road trip.

Winding up their last home stand, they took 2 out of 3 from the Dodgers and 3 out of 3 from Cincinnati. Moving to St. Louis, they bounced the second-place Cardinals three straight, then came here and continued their winning ways against the Redlegs who, up to Thursday they had beaten 13 out of 15 for the season.

Friday the Braves go back to Milwaukee to a wildly enthusiastic welcome and a four-game series with the Cardinals for which all tickets long ago were sold out.

Yankees Telescope League Lead to 5 1/2

Team	W	L	Pct.	G.B.
New York	74	39	.655	—
Chicago	68	44	.607	5 1/2
Boston	61	52	.540	13
Baltimore	55	56	.495	18
Detroit	50	58	.462	19
Cleveland	54	60	.474	20 1/2
Kansas City	43	71	.377	31 1/2
Washington	42	72	.368	32 1/2

TODAY'S PITCHERS

Team	Pitcher	Record
Baltimore at New York (N)	Wright 4-3 vs Kucks 7-7	—
Chicago at Detroit (N)	Wilson 13-7 vs Hoelt 4-7	—
Cleveland at Kansas City (N)	Garcia 5-7 vs Kellner 5-4	—
Boston at Washington (N)	Susec 6-1 vs Fornieles 7-11 vs Stobbs 5-15	—

NATIONAL

Team	W	L	Pct.	G.B.
Milwaukee	71	42	.625	—
St. Louis	62	50	.554	8 1/2
Brooklyn	63	51	.553	8 1/2
Cincinnati	61	52	.540	10
Philadelphia	59	53	.527	11 1/2
New York	52	63	.452	20
Chicago	42	69	.378	29
Pittsburgh	41	71	.366	29 1/2

TODAY'S PITCHERS

Team	Pitcher	Record
St. Louis at Milwaukee (N)	McDaniel 9-7 vs Conley 8-5	—
Cincinnati at Chicago	Fowler 3-0 vs Amor 1-0 vs Hillman 4-6	—
Pittsburgh vs Brooklyn at Jersey City (N)	Purkey 10-9 vs Podres 9-5	—
New York at Philadelphia (N)	Antonelli 11-12 vs Roberts 8-16	—

to be preceded by completion of suspended game of May 28.

Former Chicago U. Grid Coach is 95

CHICAGO (AP) — The University of Chicago where Amos Alonzo Stagg coached the Maroons to fame sent a congratulatory message to the "Grand Old Man" Thursday celebrating his 95th birthday Friday. Stagg lives at Stockton, Calif.

The school's Board of Trustees passed a formal resolution directing the greeting be sent Stagg in recognition of "tremendous contribution to the University of Chicago and to athletics."

Hand Bosox 6-3 Defeat; Turley's Win

BOSTON (AP) — New York pulled 5½ games ahead in the American League race Thursday by defeating Boston 6-3. The Yanks sealed the verdict with two runs on one hit in the ninth inning after reliever Bob Grim chilled a Red Sox uprising.

Gil McDougald's two-run homer in the eighth made the difference. Elston Howard also homered for New York while Frank Malzone smashed one for the losers.

Ted Williams continued his batting rampage by swatting a double and single in three trips. He hiked his league-leading average 3 points to .393. His Yankee pursuer, Mickey Mantle, struck out twice and walked his other three appearances as his mark fell two notches to .380.

Turley extended his winning streak to five games for the Yankees. It was his 10th triumph of the season.

New York . . . . . 000 010 122—6 9 1
Boston . . . . . 009 000 036—3 9 0
Turley, Grim 9 and Betras; Nixon, Delock 8, Porterfield 9, Stone 9, Wall 9 and White.

W — Turley, L — Nixon.
Home runs — New York, Howard, McDougald; Boston, Malzone.

A's 7, Tigers 2

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics were home run happy Thursday as Woody Held, Billy Martin and Hee Lopez blasted Detroit pite wifogfruih HAO ed Detroit pitching with four-baggers in a 7-2 victory over the Tigers.

Held's homer in the first inning sealed a four-run outburst that spelled defeat for Detroit's ace pitcher, Jim Bunning. The tall righthander had won 14 and absorbed his fifth loss Thursday.

Detroit . . . . . 100 000 100—2 10 0
Kansas City . . . . . 400 100 115—7 11 2
Bunning, Shaw 5, Slesater 7 and House; Urban, Morgan 9 and Smith.
W — Urban, L — Bunning.
Home runs — Kansas City, Held, Martin, Lopez.

Tribe 5, Chisox 4

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians scored five runs in the sixth inning, including a grand slam homerun by shortstop Chico Carrasquel, to beat the Chicago White Sox 5-4 Thursday and salvage the finale of a three-game series.

The victory, which ended a six-game losing streak for the Tribe, was Don Mossi's ninth against seven losses.

Carrasquel's homer came after Jack Harshman had forced in Cleveland's first run by walking Rocky Colavito with the bases loaded.

With one out in the sixth, consecutive singles were hit by Gene Woodling and Dick Williams. Vic Wertz was safe on a fumble by Walt Dropo and Bob Avila struck out. Colavito walked to force in Woodling and Carrasquel's homer followed.

Chicago . . . . . 011 010 010—4 7 1
Cleveland . . . . . 000 005 005—5 7 2
Harshman, Staley 7 and Lollar Mossi and Hegan, L — Harshman.
Home runs — Cleveland, Carrasquel.

California Golfer Ahead at St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Bob Rosburg of San Francisco shot an 8-under-par 64 to take the lead in the $24,000 St. Paul Open Golf Tournament Thursday as the nation's leading pros gave Kellar's par-72 one of its worst beatings in years.

Rosburg held a one-stroke lead over Howie Johnson of Houston, Tex., a former St. Paul player who once took the Minnesota public championship. Johnson finished with a 65.

Grouped at 66 were Ken Venturi, San Francisco; Peter Thomson, Melbourne, Australia; George Bayer, Los Angeles; and Jay Hebert of Sanford, Fla.

AP Wirephoto

Down for the Count

PLAYERS try to help Cal Neeman, Chicago Cubs, after he was struck on the back of his head while batting in the second inning of Thursday's ball game against the St. Louis Cardinals. The ball hit him on his protective batting helmet. Cubs' trainer, Al Scheueneman said Neeman's condition was not serious, although he was hospitalized. Coach Ray Mueller and umpire Lee Balanfant (hands showing only), work on his head as Cards battery, Sam Jones (top) and catcher Hobie Landrith (right) watch on. At the left is the Cubs' bat boy going about his work.

NAME CHANGE
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A name change for Michigan State's enlarged football bowl, from Macklin Stadium to Spartan Stadium, was announced Thursday at MSU.

Giant Heads to Study San Francisco Offer On Franchise Shift

NEW YORK (AP) — President Horace Stoneham of the New York Giants said Thursday his club's board of directors will meet Monday to consider San Francisco's offer to shift the National League baseball franchise to that city.

Stoneham declined to predict the outcome of the meeting but there was every indication that the board of directors will approve the transfer.

Stoneham is anxious to move and, while it is understood there still is some opposition from minority stockholders, these differences are expected to be ironed out at Monday's session.

In fact, so confident is Horace that he will be given full support, he already has planned a trip to San Francisco "soon after the meeting" to further check details connected with the transfer of the franchise and inspect the Seals Stadium, where the Giants are expected to play in 1958.

Only last week Stoneham was quoted as telling club stockholders: "When we get to San Francisco, we'll make money. I can also guarantee a net profit of $200,000 to $300,000 a year." The club reportedly made about $20,000 last year.

Charles Johnson, executive sports editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, whose city had hoped to lure the Giants there, quoted Stoneham as saying:

"The San Francisco offer to house the club is so fabulous that I wouldn't even ask Minneapolis to meet it."

GOLF ODDITIES - - - - - By Alan Maver

D.R. RUSSELL, OF EDINBURGH, HIT A BALL 200 YARDS BACKWARDS. IN THE 1913 BRADS TOURNEY HE HIT THE BALL ACCIDENTALLY ON HIS BACK SWING, IT WENT OVER A FENCE AND ROLLED DOWN A STEEP HILL.

JACK OLIVER, OF THE ENGINEERS CLUB OF LONG ISLAND, ONE OF THE BEST TEACHING PROS, GOT TWO BIRDIES ON ONE HOLE, PLAYING THE 7th HOLE OF LONG ISLAND'S HILLCREST COURSE IN 1930. HIS LOW DRIVE HIT A BIRD BUT HE STILL GOT A BIRDIE 4 ON THIS TOUGH PAR 5.

BECKMAN'S FUNERAL HOME
507 E. COLLEGE ST.
PHONE 3240

IT'S CUSTOMER WEEK at Hy-Vee Harvest ROUND-UP

BAKERY SPECIAL
Tea Biscuits
PAN of 12 10c

COUPON
Number Five
FREE
Libby Safedge Glass AT Hy-Vee
LIMIT (One Coupon per Family)
5 Coupon Number Five 5

SWIFT'S PREMIUM FULLY COOKED
HAMS
SHANK HALF . . . . . lb. 49c
WHOLE HAM . . . . . lb. 59c

RATH'S PICNICS
lb. 39c

U.S. Choice SIRLOIN STEAK
lb. 89c

CAMPBELL'S Tomato SOUP Can 10c
CLOUD KIST PEACHES 2 1/2 Can 23c
PEARS 159 and 179 Per lug
CALIF. PEACHES . . . . . Lug 179
PRUNE PLUMS . . . . . Lug 179
Watermelons . . . . . ea. 49c

IT PAYS TO SHOP AT Hy-Vee FOOD STORES
227 Kirkwood
Open Weekdays 9 A.M. to 9 P.M.
Open Sundays 9 A.M. to 6 P.M.