Hoffa Tells Of Union Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa testified Tuesday he has borrowed around $120,000 since 1952 and has invested in such things as a girls' camp, a heavy-weight boxer and a brewery.

He gave the testimony to the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, which showed much curiosity about his finances.

Most of the loans making up the total were shown as having come from fellow unionists or locals in the Teamsters Union, some from men identified by committee counsel as men with criminal records, and some from employers who had dealings with the union.

Hoffa, Midwestern chief of the Teamsters, said most of the loans from individuals were made to him without interest and without security of any kind. He said his friends became indignant when he suggested giving them notes.

He said he figures he still owes $70,000 of the $120,000.

Hoffa, who is expected to be elected president of the Teamsters International Union next month, was carried into an involved financial discussion.

Just where the trail was intended to lead was not made immediately clear by counsel Robert F. Kennedy.

As Hoffa went over a list of piecemeal loans adding up to the $120,000, Kennedy would ask him each time why he borrowed the money.

In tones of strained patience, Hoffa would reply it was for investment, or to meet other needs he couldn't recall exactly. He said he released some of the money to others.

After Tuesday's session ended, Chairman John McClellan (D-Ark.), told a reporter he believes Hoffa's testimony "gives a basis for a suspicion at least of a conflict of interest."

By that, he said he referred to Hoffa's financial interest with employers under contract with the Teamsters.

Viewed as a general procedure for labor leaders, he said, "I think that might be termed an improper practice."

Hoffa came before the committee in a gay mood, which wore thin long before the day was over. At the outset he airily admitted to having been arrested "about 17 times" but denied he was ever guilty of extortion.

He also denied he set up, or ran, a business concern from which his wife and a woman friend of hers made a handsome profit in dealings with a firm for which Hoffa had settled a strike.

The committee figured on questioning Hoffa two days, in following up its charges that he used gangsters to extend his influence from the Midwest to the Eastern seaboard.

The early proceedings didn't go into the basic charge.

Hoffa said he is part owner of Jell Properties, which in turn owns the Jack O'Lantern Lodge, a resort and girls' camp in northern Wisconsin.

He also said he and some others put some money in the White Seal Brewery in Detroit, and into a firm trading in oil leases in the Dakotas.

He said he and a pal of his in the Teamsters Union, Bert Brennan, briefly owned an obscure heavyweight prize fighter named Embril Davison, and also had a horse-betting arrangement.

Hoffa said most of these investments turned pretty sour, except for the betting system. He said Brennan makes the bets, with their joint money, and about all Hoffa has to do is collect his winnings of $5,000 to $10,000 a year.

One of his partners in the Dakota mining leases, Hoffa said, was Paul Dorfman. Dorfman was recently ousted from a union post in Chicago by President George Meany of the AFL-CIO on charges of profiting from the handling of insurance on union welfare funds.

PENNY POST CARD?

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — The postal clerks of Cedar Rapids sent the largest post card regulations allow via airmail and special delivery to President Eisenhower Tuesday. The card measures 43 by 28 inches.

The Weather

Cloudy and Warmer

It will be warmer in Iowa City today, the weather man says, with cloudy skies and light scattered showers. The temperature is expected to rise into the 80s. Little change is anticipated through Thursday.

TEAMSTER BOSS James R. Hoffa holds his hand to his face as he answers a question in testifying Tuesday before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee.

Eisenhower's Foreign Aid Bill Runs Into A New Snag

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's foreign aid program ran into new trouble Tuesday. Congressional Democrats claimed 12 billion dollars is available for overseas aid — and they demanded to know why more money is needed.

To get the Administration's reply, the Senate Appropriations Committee summoned foreign aid experts to a special hearing Wednesday. Until this development, the committee had been expected to act Tuesday on administration plans for restoration of a hefty House cut in new aid funds.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas told a reporter the Appropriations Committee has been told the administration has 12 billion dollars available for the aid program.

Sen. William Knowland of California, the Republican leader, disputed this.

"There is no 12 billion dollars available," he said.

Knowland said President Eisenhower is "quite hopeful" the Senate will restore much of the $809,650,000 which the House last week chopped from Eisenhower's request for new aid money. The House voted the President 2 1/4 billion dollars instead of the 3 1/2 billion he asked.

Chairman Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.), said the Senate Appropriations Committee will question witnesses from the Defense Department and the International Cooperation Administration Wednesday.

"A number of senators expressed a desire to get a further clarification of some of the figures, including carryover funds from previous years," he said.

Johnson said Rep. Otto Passman (D-La.), has given the Appropriations Committee figures indicating ICA has $6,304,000,000 in funds from previous years which still haven't cleared through the aid pipeline. In addition, Johnson said, ICA has $1,062,000,000 in counterpart funds — local currencies of countries which have been receiving aid. This money generally can only be spent in the country involved.

Also, the Democratic leader said, about 1 1/2 billion dollars is available in agricultural surplus disposal funds to be used abroad.

Add these sums to the $3,191,000,000 in new and reappropriated funds voted by the House, he said, and you come up with about 12 billion dollars.

The figure may be somewhat lower, however, because it seemed apparent that some 867 million dollars had been counted twice — once as part of the carryover and again as funds reappropriated by the House.

Motion Made to Switch Numbers on 2 Highways

AMES (AP) — Steps to trade the number designations of two highways between Muscatine and Davenport were initiated by the Iowa Highway Commission Tuesday.

The proposal is to make state highway 22, now being rebuilt and resurfaced, a part of U.S. Highway 61 and to give the state number 22 to the portion of present U.S. 61 between Davenport and Muscatine.

The motion to accomplish the change was made by Commissioner Robert K. Beck, Centerville.

"He will not be a well child if he remains away from me. They are harming the child."

The Frantums fought for Burton through the Circuit Court and the Court of Appeals. They have vowed they will carry the battle to the U.S. Supreme Court.

At Patuxent, Lt. Adams said: "We are extremely happy to have the child as a member of our family. We have prayed for a long time that we could be able to adopt another child."

Levittown Violence Flares Up Again

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A Bristol Township police sergeant was struck by a rock Tuesday night and was taken to a hospital as violence broke out again outside the home of the first Negro family in this 15,000 home residential community.

The rock was tossed as an unruly crowd estimated by State Police Lt. J. M. Wicker at about 400, gathered outside the ranch style home of William Myers.

The thrower of the rock was unidentified.

Sgt. Tom Stewart was struck on the head, falling to the ground with blood gushing from his right ear.

The rock throw was the first overt act of a noisy cat-calling crowd gathered for the second straight night in protest against the Negro family. Tuesday night the gathering faced a reinforced cordon of state and local police.

The large contingent of state and local police — taunted and jeered by the crowd — maintained a cautious watch on streets near the house. Only residents and newsmen were allowed in the Dogwood Hollow section of this sprawling community.

The crowd assembled at one of the three entrances to the section about two blocks from the Myers' home. The Negro's house was brightly lit but the shades were drawn. The noise of the crowd could be heard plainly at the home.

The arrival Monday of Myers, his wife, and youngest of three children at their newly purchased $12,150 residence, set off several demonstrations in the neighborhood.

Three times state troopers pushed and prodded a jeering crowd of 300 from the vicinity of the Myers' home in a series of incidents in which stones were thrown at the officers and newspaper people. One man was arrested and another taken into protective custody.

In the last week, since word got out that the family had purchased the $12,150 ranch type

Simon Tells Of 32 Hours 19 Miles Up

ELLENDALE, N.D. (AP) — Appearing drowsy but happy, an Air Force doctor — pilot landed safely late Tuesday near here, after riding the gondola of a plastic balloon to an estimated record 102,000 feet in his 32 hours of exploring outer space.

Asked his most exciting experience, Maj. David G. Simons said as he stepped from the gondola: "Getting back to earth."

Simons said it was nice to see the sun's rays diffused by the world's atmosphere.

"I've been riding around in a sky that was purple black, even in daytime, and then it got darker at night."

Simons, ordered to start down at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, finally brought the giant polyethylene bag down on the shores of Elm Lake at 5:28 p.m. The lake is on the North Dakota-South Dakota border about 10 miles southwest of Ellendale.

Ground winds shifted the balloon about precariously during Simons' nine-hour battle to get the gondola and its cargo of instruments safely down.

Observers said that by a masterful use of his ballast, Simons touched the ground gently. He suffered a slight cut on the chin when the gondola tipped over before the balloon could be cut loose.

"You can tell the folks that, up high, the stars don't twinkle, they just burn," he said in a brief interview. Simons almost immediately was led to a waiting helicopter and whisked away to an unknown destination.

Radar trackers estimated the balloon hit the record 102,000 foot level over Wahpeton, N.D. early today. Confirmation will await calibration of instruments the balloon carried.

Immediately after the landing, members of the ground crew cut loose the plastic bag and it soared skyward. They said it would again go up to 100,000 feet where a mechanical device would explode it into small fragments.

The balloon covered about 400 air miles in the 32 hours.

Ground parties immediately picked up the gondola and its cargo, which included many photographs Simons took.

At one time Monday, from over Brainerd, Minn., he reported being able to see the western shore of Lake Michigan.

One of the first to greet him was Col. John T. Stapp, rocket sled expert and project officer for the "Man High" operation. He paid tribute to Simons' navigation pointing out that it required able handling of ballast to bring the balloon down through sometimes precarious ground currents.

The 102,000 foot altitude, if confirmed, would be 6,000 feet higher than Capt. Joseph Kittinger rose in June, while testing the equipment Simons used. There were other unconfirmed reports that the 102,000 foot height had been exceeded.

School-Age Children Registration Today

Registration for all new elementary school-age children of married student housing residents is scheduled at 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. today.

Residents of Central, South, and Stadium Parks register at Roosevelt Elementary School.

Residents of all other married housing areas register at Lincoln Elementary School.

It is probable that children will attend the school at which they register although enrollment pressures may create a necessity for assignment to other school districts.

New residents are requested to go to the school in person for registration. Parents of children who attended the Iowa City Public Schools during the past year may telephone their registrations.

Kindergarten registrants must be five years of age on or prior to Nov. 15, 1957. It is required that birth certificates be submitted at the time of registration.

U.S. Cannot Stop Commies in Syria

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States appeared to lack any effective means Tuesday of blocking a Soviet-backed seizure of power by Communists in Syria — if that is what is happening there.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was reported giving much of his personal attention to the situation but the government limited itself — in terms of action — to rejecting a Syrian attack on the Eisenhower policy of opposing the spread of communism in the Middle East.

A Dulles spokesman, press officer Lincoln White, refused to say whether developments in Syria were "Communist or Communist dominated." White said he could not characterize the situation and could say only that it is "under active study."

Nebraska Senator Asks Probing Of Highway Routing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Roman Hruska, Nebraska Republican, said Tuesday he has asked the Federal Bureau of Roads for a report on correspondence involving the routing of the interstate highway through Iowa.

The Senator said he had learned "for the first time" at a hearing Monday that the bureau had approved last Dec. 31 a proposal to route the Iowa section of the highway through Loveland north of Council Bluffs rather than through Council Bluffs and into Omaha's southern area.

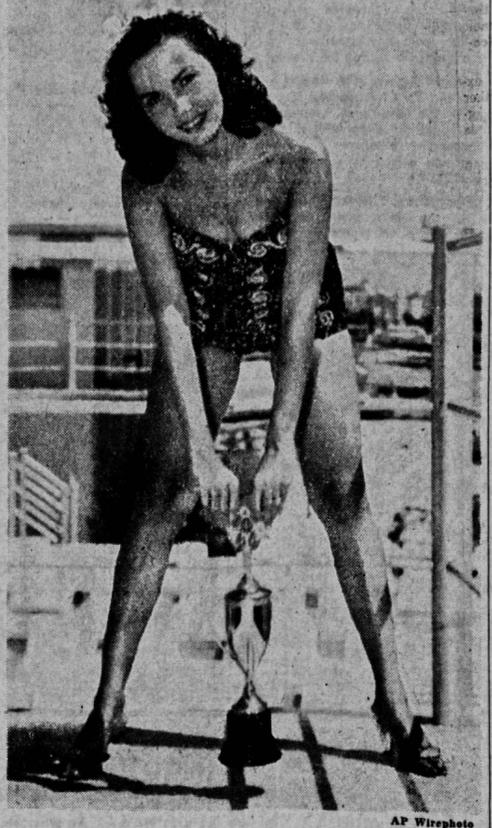

Hruska said this was brought out at a session of Omaha and Council Bluffs civic leaders with the Bureau Monday. The Omaha and Council Bluffs delegation appeared to boost the route into South Omaha rather than the more northern Loveland route.

Hruska said he has asked the Bureau for copies of what he understood was a request of the Iowa Commission for approval of the Loveland route, alleged Nebraska Highway Department concurrence in that route and the bureau's letter of approval.

The Loveland route would connect with a north-south interstate road about 20 miles north of Omaha.

State Department Is Checking Reports Of Renunciation of U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Tuesday it is looking into reports that Martha Dodd Stern and her husband have renounced their American citizenship. They have been accused of being members of a Soviet spy ring.

Mrs. Stern, daughter of the late U.S. ambassador to Germany, William E. Dodd, is in Communist Czechoslovakia with her millionaire husband, Alfred K. Stern, and 12-year-old son.

A State Department spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny reports that the Sterns renounced their U.S. citizenship in Mexico City and then acquired Paraguayan passports.

State Department records show Mrs. Stern obtained her last American passport in 1951. It came due for renewal in 1953, but no renewal request was recorded. Her son was covered by the 1951 passport.

The records also show Stern last got an American passport in 1942 and applied for a passport in 1951 but was refused.

The records show both applied for American passports in February 1956 at the American Embassy in Moscow.

However, officials said, they failed to respond to a request to sign affidavits vowing they had no affiliation with the Communist party and so were not issued passports.

The House Committee on Un-American Activities announced last Saturday it had received testimony from Borros Morros counterspy for the FBI, that the Sterns were members of a Soviet espionage ring.

A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in Prague reported in Vienna Tuesday the Sterns arrived in Prague July 21 and that Stern insists they are not fugitives, merely tourists.

An American Made Thug To Do Killing

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Maj. Gen. Afif Bizry, new army chief of staff, charged Tuesday he was marked for assassination in a plot he said the United States directed against the Syrian government.

At the same time Syria told the United Nations the United States conspired to overthrow the Damascus government but the Syrians refrained from asking for any U.N. action.

In the story told here Bizry said his chief staff officers also were marked for death. The soft-spoken, 43-year-old commander made his appearance at an interview arranged for a group of Western newsmen.

"They were to send gangsters to our houses to kill us," Bizry said. "They were gangsters made in America."

The general declared Howard E. Stone, the U.S. Embassy's second secretary for political affairs, was the mastermind. Stone was one of three U.S. diplomats ousted from Syria last week.

Besides himself, Bizry said, the targets included Brig. Amin Nufury, the new deputy chief of staff, and Col. Abdul Hamid Sarraj, the army's powerful intelligence chief.

"The prime purpose was to kill staff officers who opposed American policy," Bizry said. "They wanted the head of every honest man. We have the evidence."

Bizry told his story shortly after Syria instructed its U.N. delegation to accuse the United States before the Security Council of promoting the purported conspiracy to unseat President Shukri Kuwaty's leftist regime.

Kuwaty flew to Egypt, after the army's shakeup, with the announced aim of receiving medical treatment.

In his absence, House Speaker Nazem Kudsi is acting president. Kudsi had a 45-minute talk Tuesday with Khaled Azem, minister of state and acting defense minister who headed the Syrian delegation that reached an economic agreement with the Russians in Moscow recently. A communique said Kudsi and Azem discussed details of the Moscow talks as well as "matters of general interest."

In Washington, Secretary of State Dulles was reported giving much of his personal attention to the situation. In various capitals, North Atlantic and Baghdad Pact allies consulted urgently over possible action to counter Syria's swing to the left. Informed diplomats in London said two possible courses were being discussed:

1. A show of strength such as U.S. 6th Fleet operations in the Mediterranean when Jordan forfeited last April.

2. A campaign to arouse Middle East nations fearful of communism to quarantine Syria.

Bizry replied with a bitter reference to two neighboring Arab nations when asked where the Americans trained the alleged assassins.

"It is better that you go to Jordan and Lebanon and ask who is financing these people," he said. Bizry denied he has any political ties. In elaborating he said "If you explain a Communist as any man who loves his country, then I am a Communist."

The interview touched on many other things:

Q. Will there be an increase in the number of Soviet technicians in Syria?

A. If we have technicians it's for the delivery of arms. They will not tell us what to do with them. We have some Russians come and go, just like we have Americans who come and go."

Q. What about Israel?

A. The army is ready to defend our country. We will not attack anybody, but we're prepared.

Bizry said that, "as for the question of arms from Russia, this is our affair and only our affair. If America would sell us arms we would buy from them too."

"America was really America under that great man Roosevelt, who used to respect other people and other nations and who died for the sake of the people.

"Eisenhower is really a great man too, and a good man because of his humanitarianism. All we hope is that he is set free from the prison of those who surround him."

Iowa City Man Enters Gadget In Farm Exhibit

A "grain bin breather" and a ladder for climbing barbed wire fences were among the further inventions by Iowa farmers which were entered Tuesday in the farm gadget show opening at the Iowa State Fair in Des Moines Friday.

Scores of unusual inventions made by farmers themselves have been entered in competition for the $500 in cash prizes, fair officials said.

H. D. Fountain of Iowa City has entered a portable farm safety light in the contest.

Other late entries include:

A trashhook by Forest W. Johnson, Mechanicsville; a grain bin breather, anti-clog device for outer mower shoe, and a tool for detaching a steel chain by J. Leo Ahart, Sr., Dow City; woven wire stretcher clamp by Ben Bunting, Mount Vernon; disc sharpener by Berry Farr, Des Moines; ladder for climbing barbed wire fences by L. E. Butler, Eldora; electrified bump gate by Marvin Morse, Victor; sliding loader for baled hay by Rex Yerkes, Walker; tractor upset bar by Harold Poduska, Ely; paint brush conditioner by Ervin Poduska, Ely; and hydraulic bale loader and tractor loader by Clifford Cruzen, Wright.

Fair officials report that special prizes will be offered for gadgets which promote farm safety. The contest is sponsored jointly by the State Fair Board and Station WMT, Cedar Rapids.

SUI Represented In State Fair Art Salon

The SUI Art Department will be represented in the Art Salon at the Iowa State Fair in Des Moines, August 23 to September 1, by Prof. Maurice Lasansky, Wanda Miller Mauricio and Virginia Myers, the Fair Board announced Tuesday.

Other Iowa City entries include those by E. Brandt Beaker, Allan Blizard, Marilyn Blizard, H. C. Cassill, Rose Van Vranken Hickey, Marvin L. Klavon and W. Donn Moulton.

Oil paintings, sculpture, water colors, and prints and drawings will be featured in the show which has become one of the major events of the year for Iowa artists.

The salon will be located on the main floor of the Educational Building at this year's State Fair.

Burke Is 1st Naval Chief To Get 2 Terms

Admiral Arleigh A. Burke is the first Chief of Naval Operations since World War II to take office for a second term.

He received the oath of office from Rear Admiral Chester Ward, Judge Advocate of the Navy, during ceremonies at the Nation's capitol last week.

Admiral Burke has been the leading advocate for a "new" atomic Navy. Under his leadership new spectacular weapons have been added to Fleet units, and revolutionary developments have led to a new concept in Naval warfare.

The "New Navy" now includes nuclear powered submarines, guided missile cruisers and submarines, the world's largest aircraft carriers, and an array of supersonic missile weapons.

The Admiral, a native of Boulder, Colo., graduated from the Naval Academy in 1923. During World War II he gained fame as "31-knot Burke" for his exploits as a destroyer squadron leader. During one four-month period his destroyers fought in 22 separate engagements and sank 11 enemy warships, destroyed 30 aircraft and several smaller ships.

Upon completion of this term Admiral Burke will become the first Chief of Naval Operations to serve for a continuous four years.

The Case of the — Baffled Blonde

— by George Dixon

Congress has fulfilled its last obligation and can now go home with an untroubled conscience. After months of investigations and hearings it showed the way to the pretty blonde secretary of a senate subcommittee how to recover $46.50 from an insurance company the subcommittee had been investigating.

There was only one fly in the curly-haired charmer's ointment of satisfaction. To get the refund she had to admit she was over 21.

The relief of the blonde, probably the only thing achieved by the 85th Congress without compromise or pressure from the White House, came to glorious, if last minute fruition, in this circuitous manner:

Shortly after the 85th came into existence, with no indication that it was to become the most vacillating body since the originator of the sinmy, the Senate Interstate and Commerce Committee appointed a subcommittee to inquire into automobile marketing practices. Senate A.S. Mike Monroney, of Oklahoma, was named chairman, and Senators Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, and Frederick G. Payne, of Maine, were assigned to backstop him.

The triumvirate selected a cute young matron named Kathryn Rogers to supervise technical operations.

The three Senators, plus the listless Mrs. Rogers, labored day and night with investigators. After weeks of preliminary probing they began holding hearings. They established that there were many malpractices connected with the selling of automobiles, and that one of the most prevalent was overcharging for collision insurance.

Painstakingly, Mrs. Rogers examined the evidence and discovered the insurance companies were getting away with this by pretending to assume that every car was driven by someone under 21.

The probe finally came to an end, with the insurance companies

DAVENPORT — Who started the fire at Sturdevant Street City Dump Monday night was the riddle getting much attention here Tuesday.

The fire produced a heavy black smoke and acrid odor which blanketed Davenport Municipal Stadium during crucial portions of the Davenport-Keokuk Three-I baseball game. The DavSox came out with the short end of the 4-3 score.

City Hall officials were investigating the fire which fans contend was in violation of an agreement between City and baseball officials banning such burning during games.

State Rejects Bid's On 3,200 Tons of Coal

DES MOINES — The Iowa Executive Council, by a vote of 3-2, Tuesday rejected bids for the purchase of 3,200 tons of coal to heat state offices and called for new bids.

Gov. Herschel C. Loveless, Secretary of State Melvin Synhorst and State Auditor Chet Akers voted to reject the bids on the ground that specifications to bidders were not complete.

The Russian Bear

By J. M. ROBERTS

(Associated Press News Analyst) One thing often forgotten in evaluating the possibilities of peace with the Soviet Union is that an end to her military posture is not the sole requirement.

If any country in the world had to try a marriage between economic fantasy and imperialist expansionism, it had to be Russia.

One of the dangers as the United States presses for some sort of arms limitation agreement is that she will forget why the world adopted the picture of a marauding bear as its symbol for Russia.

Another danger is to forget that it was not Marxism which produced modern Russia, but Russia which produced a pseudo-Marxist posture as a stand-in for her historic imperialism.

Russia is an entity which has converted Communism into a weapon.

As the Yugoslav Dijas has so pointedly explained, Communism is merely another name for the totalitarian government to which Russia has been accustomed throughout the centuries, under which she has expanded from a small enclave on the Volga to cover more than half of the Eurasian continent.

Communists represent a comparatively small minority in the Soviet. They are estimated at from 5 to 6 million out of more than 200 million.

Stalin made party membership a sort of medal of honor to be handed out during the war to heroes on both the home and fighting fronts. Now membership has been trimmed back for purposes of control, and consists almost entirely of the bureaucracy and the agents of international Communism. There is no popular check on their actions.

The existence of a monolithic ruling class has not changed. Only some of its manifestations have changed in an effort to fool the world while extending its power.

It would be perfectly in character for this ruling class to make agreements which it would later consider no more binding than when it was czars who spoke instead of commissars.

May Give Nursing Homes Until 1958 To Get Sprinklers

DES MOINES — State Fire Marshal Ed Herron said Tuesday that the deadline for Iowa nursing and custodial home operators to comply with an automatic sprinkler requirement could be as late as July 1, 1958.

Herron made the comment following a public hearing on proposed fire safety rules for such homes. The rules were drawn up under terms of a new law passed by the 1957 Legislature.

About 50 persons, mostly nursing home operators, attended the hearing and several voiced objections to the automatic sprinkler requirement. The objectors said they support all reasonable actions to improve nursing and custodial homes but stressed that objectives must "lie within our economic reach."

Herron has estimated that sprinkler systems would cost an average of about $2,500 for such homes. Some operators said they had been told the cost might be as much as $7,500.

Sen. George O'Malley (D-Des Moines), attended the hearing. He suggested that nothing be done about sprinkler requirements until the Legislature is able to discuss the subject.

A Child's First Schoolday

There's a new experience in store for many Iowa City youngsters very soon. They will go to school for the first time. . . . For some of them it may be a frightening experience.

Experts have this to say to the mothers of these children: It's up to you to help your child through this first day. You can ease your youngster's insecure feelings in a number of ways. For one thing, you can let junior become familiar with the walk to school and back by walking there with him several times now. If possible, a tour through the school, pointing out his classroom and the door he will use, will be helpful. If he can picture the school and its location now, it may not seem so strange when the place is crowded with people on the opening day.

Clothes may make a difference in the way a child feels, too. Let him wear comfortable clothes he's familiar with when he starts school. Brand new clothes may make him feel strange. Save the new clothes until the second or third week, after he has adjusted to the new situation.

You may be avoiding a lost jacket or cap if you let him wear clothes he knows. Children sometimes fail to recognize new clothes when they're hanging among 15 or 20 other articles of clothing in the cloak room.

Learning a schedule now also may help junior with the business of going to school. Regular times for meals, bed, and arising in the morning may lessen the strain of a strict schedule at school time.

Of course, youngsters, by this time should have visited the doctor and dentist for a check-up and immunizations. Now is the time to complete the doctor's and dentist's recommendations so that the child will be ready for school when that first day dawns.

Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP) — The Giants have taken the Giant step, beating the Brooklyn Dodgers to the punch in the guessing game as to which would be the first to commit themselves to move to the West Coast.

Oddly enough, it was the Dodgers who set the fire; who were the first to hint they no longer were happy in Ebbets Field and were considering packing their luggage and moving out. They had struck a tentative toe in the water, you might say, when they scheduled games at Jersey City. That operation was a success, giving them courage to go all the way.

It would be ironic now, and also a dirty trick on the Giants, if the Dodgers decided to stay here, now that the Giants are out of the way and the Bums have the National League territory all to themselves. However, we don't believe that will happen, as it just wouldn't make sense to have only one club on the West Coast. Horace Stoneham must have been assured the Dodgers would go along.

The Giants will be taking their equipment with them to San Francisco, but that is all. The intangibles will remain here, gathering dust and fading in memory until they are only legends.

When a club moves its past is a closed book as far as its new location is concerned. It must start from scratch in the new environment, building its new traditions as the years roll on.

So Christy Mathewson and John McGraw and Bill Terry and the other greats of the Giants forever will remain a part of the New York saga.

It would be a nice touch if they should christen the park to be built for the Giants in San Francisco the Polo Grounds, but perhaps that would make a link to the past which the West Coast fans would want.

So the Giant move, soon to be followed by that of the Dodgers, marks the end of an era; the end of domination of the major leagues by Eastern and Midwest cities.

It also might be the first step toward formation of a third major league, largely dependent on the success of the clubs in their new locations. If they are highly successful, it will encourage other cities to bid for major league baseball.

Some already are ripe for such ball. The Minneapolis-St. Paul area would seem to be a natural. Houston could support a club, and probably Dallas. Denver is a strong baseball town.

It will take time and planning, but the move of the Giants could be the first step in making major league baseball, not just baseball, really a national game.

Giants' Shift to West Will be Accompanied By Much Paperwork
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — They plan to move a hill to make a new home for the Giants baseball team in San Francisco, but they must move a mountain of legalistic papers before the first dirt flies.

While city officials and sports writers expressed jubilation over the "we're coming in 1958" word received Monday from the National League club, the average San Francisco citizen was admittedly taking the whole thing calmly.

Chicago's Bob Keegan Throws No-Hitter

First Batting Freeze Job In Entire Season

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Keegan of the Chicago White Sox pitched the first no-hitter of the major league season Tuesday night, turning back the Washington Senators, 6-0, after the Sox had dropped the first game of a two-night doubleheader, 5-4.

Keegan, 36, from Rochester, N. Y., faced 29 men and gave up, of walks. Several defense plays, one by Keegan himself, helped him become the first White Sox pitcher to toss a no-hitter since Bill Dietrich turned the trick in 1937 against St. Louis.

It was also the first no-hitter in Comiskey Park since Bob Feller's effort against the White Sox on opening day of the 1940 season.

Keegan retired the first 14 men to face him before he walked Lou Berberet with two out in the fifth.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Tim Thompson singled home Woody Held Tuesday night with the only run of the game as the Kansas City Athletics rode to their second straight shut-out, beating the New York Yankees 1-0 behind the pitching of young Ralph Terry.

The shutout was only the second of the season for the Yankees, who had been whitewashed only by Cleveland's Early Wynn. The Athletics got only two hits off Bob Turley, who had beaten them every time out this year. But with Terry holding doggedly to his lead, the two proved enough.

The young A's righthander struck out seven, getting Turley three times. He was in trouble in the second inning when he hit Bill Skowron with a pitch with one out and singling Gil McDougald on first. Then he wild pitched on a fourth ball to Jerry Coleman and McDougald tried to score from second.

Thompson's throw got McDougald by an eyelash and brought a storm of protest from the Yankees. Then Terry struck out Turley to end the inning.

It was the fourth victory of the year for Terry, who was traded by the Yankees to Kansas City in June.

Sugar Ray Calls Off Basilio Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson scheduled the title fight with welterweight champion Carmen Basilio and suing the International Boxing Club for breach of contract.

The IBC, sponsor of the fight at Yankee Stadium Sept. 23, replied that "the fight is still on."

In a personal telephone call to the Associated Press, Robinson said James Norris, president of the IBC, had failed to fulfill his promises in regard to television and radio commitments.

"Before we signed for the fight it was agreed that we would accept the best television and radio offer," the middleweight champion said. "I have a written agreement with Norris that I must okay any deal on TV and radio that is made."

From the Basilio training camp at Alexandria Bay, N.Y., a spokesman said Robinson apparently was trying to "squeeze the last drop out of this thing."

Basilio said he would continue training and planned to "step into the ring Sept. 23."

Sugar Ray said Norris told him that he had an offer from Nat Halpern for TV and radio promising 250,000 seats. This is the venacular for such receipts.

"I told Mr. Norris that this was not agreeable to me," Robinson said. "I told him I had an offer which was better. I made arrangements to see him Monday but I couldn't. Then today I brought in a representative of Teleprompter with a guarantee of 400,000 seats.

"This is 150,000 seats more than Halpern could offer, and in money it would amount to about $300,000 more."

Braves Battle Pirates 'Till Ninth, Just Scrape Through

Two Runs In Last Inning Decide Game

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The first-place Milwaukee Braves exploded for two runs in the ninth inning to break a 1-1 tie and defeat the last-place Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1 Tuesday night. Veteran southpaw Warren Spahn, hooked up in a tight pitching duel with Vernon Law over the first eight innings, went all the way to record his 15th victory against 8 defeats.

Despite the victory the Braves lost half a game to the second-place St. Louis Cardinals who ran their winning streak to four with two victories over the New York Giants. The Braves now lead the Cards by six games.

Card 4-3, Giant 3-2
NEW YORK (AP) — The second-place St. Louis Cardinals scored all but one of their runs with four homers, two by Stan Musial who was 5-for-7, as the Red Birds swept a two-night doubleheader from the New York Giants 4-3 and 3-2 Tuesday night while running their winning streak to four games.

Bums 11-6, Reds 5-5
BROOKLYN (AP) — Duke Snider rapped his second home run of the night in the ninth cap 12th for a victory that gave Brooklyn Dodgers a two-night doubleheader sweep Tuesday night over the Cincinnati Reds, who have lost eight in a row.

Phils 2-2, Cubs 1-5
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Chicago and Philadelphia split a two-night doubleheader Tuesday night, the Cubs rebounding to win the nightcap 5-2 helped by home runs by Ernie Banks and Jerry Kindall after the Phillies took the opener 2-1 on Stan Lopata's lead off homer in the 10th inning.

Rademacher May Not Know His Fight Will Be A Financial Bust
SEATTLE (AP) — Heavyweight title challenger Pete Rademacher, the king of the amateurs, apparently doesn't know he'll be fighting for a minus $10,000 Thursday night.

He said he believed his fight would result in a monetary profit for Youth Unlimited, the corporation of which he is a vice president.

Since he has been in training, Rademacher has read nothing about the fight. Newspapers reaching his camp were censored before they got to him with all stories about the bout scissored away.

Promoter Jack Hurley said the fight at first was expected to gross some $750,000. Then it was decided not to televise or broadcast the scrap, cutting the income down to ticket proceeds alone.

A gross gate of $400,000 is anticipated. Patterson's guarantee of $250,000, underwritten by Rademacher's 22 backers, and the promoter's share of 40 per cent to stage the show leaves the minus $10,000.

"That the venture could lose $10,000 or more didn't seem to perturb Mike Jennings of Columbus, Ga., founder and head of Youth Unlimited.

"Pete does the fighting, we handle the business end," said Jennings when asked about the difference of opinion on money matters. "If we have a loss, that's not his worry."

But the wealthy Jennings added, "All the money involved in this won't walk through the gate."

Youth Unlimited and Patterson will share any receipts from motion pictures of this non televised bout scheduled for 15 rounds or less.

Waterfowl Season Opens in Iowa Oct. 5

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Conservation Commission Tuesday announced a 70-day waterfowl season from Oct. 5 through Dec. 13. With a few small exceptions, the 1957 regulations are essentially the same as last year.

Hunting will be permitted each day from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Regulations include: Ducks — Daily bag limit four, possession limit eight including one hooded merganser. Geese — Bag and possession limit five, including not more than two Canada, Hutchins', Cackling or White-fronted geese. Entire bag may be made up of either Blue or Snow Geese.

Coot or Mudhen — Bag and possession limit is ten. Open season on Wilson's Snipe or Jacksnipe will be Oct. 5 through Nov. 3 with bag and possession limit of eight.

SUI Doctor Given Hay Fever Grant

An SUI physician has received a $23,701 grant to study the body's response to the desensitizing treatment commonly used as an aid to hay fever victims.

The National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases awarded the grant to Dr. Paul M. Seebohm, Associate Professor of the Department of Internal Medicine and director of the University Medical Center's allergy clinic. Acceptance is subject to approval by the finance committee of the Iowa Board of Regents.

Desensitization involves building up a degree of immunity in the body to the pollen or other agent which causes an allergic reaction. Extracts of these agents are used to build the immunity before the pollen season begins.

Success of the treatment varies, but in most cases the patient is relieved of the more severe symptoms. There still are some mysteries, however, as to exactly how the desensitization is developed.

Dr. Seebohm's study will be aimed at answering that question. With a fuller understanding of the body's response to the extracts, physicians may be able to improve the treatment offered to hay fever sufferers.

In controlled, out-of-season studies, Dr. Seebohm will expose volunteers to pollens or other agents both before and after being desensitized. The reaction of nasal tissues to the allergy-causing agents will be measured and correlated with the level of antibodies in the blood resulting from desensitization.

A continuing research program on pollens and spores also is under way in the University's department of hygiene and preventive medicine. The program involves extensive experiments on pollen-filtering devices designed to ease the suffering of hay fever victims.

Professor Roland Rooks is director of the study. The research includes studies on meteorological factors and their effects on the distribution and incidence of pollens and spores which may cause allergic symptoms.

Information growing from the studies on pollen-filtering devices may be used by hay fever victims in conjunction with desensitization injections and antihistamines prescribed by their physicians.

Following are some suggestions for hay fever sufferers based on SUI findings:

1. Designate one room in the house, usually the bedroom, as a "pollen refuge," and equip this room with some device which will prevent pollen-laden air from entering.
2. Window fans with special pollen filters provide the best protection, and air conditioners which re-circulate inside air are helpful. Exhaust fans with window air filters also may be used.
3. Steam-dry, rather than air-dry, clothes. Exclude family pets from the house. Ban flowers from the home. Remove clothing worn outdoors in a room other than the "refuge."
4. Most pollen will enter the house through open doors and windows between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. during August and September, but from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. during this period the pollen dosage is low in the outside air.

Omaha Detective Agency Investigated

OMAHA (AP) — The City Council Tuesday decided to investigate the relationship of the Robert P. Samardick private detective agency and the police department.

Samardick is chairman of the city personnel department and is a former chief of police. The council move came after D. S. Cosentino, business manager of a musician's union, appeared to complain that Samardick last year arranged to have two city policemen pick up a union man and take him to Samardick's office for questioning.

Cosentino said that last Sept. 22 two city policemen came to the home of Jackie Ray Kosmacek and told him he was wanted at police headquarters. But, said Cosentino, the policemen took Kosmacek to Samardick's office where Kosmacek was questioned about unsigned handbills mailed in a union dispute.

At the time, Cosentino and Kosmacek were members of the Omaha Musicians Assn. Since then they have helped organize a rival union.

Cosentino was asked by Councilman James Dworak "has anyone advised you against bringing this matter to the council?"

Cosentino replied that Capt. Al Pattavina Sr. of the Police Department had twice "suggested for my own good that I not go through with this."

Capt. Pattavina later said he had told Cosentino "he was foolish, that he should sue in court if he felt he was hurt financially. I said something he misconstrued." He said he was not representing Samardick when he talked to Cosentino whom he had known for years.

Confidential Witness Tells Of Wild Party In Actor's Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An adopted daughter of movie director William Wellman testified Tuesday that a Confidential magazine story about an alleged wild party at actor John Carroll's home in 1947 was true.

The story, read into the record at the scandal magazine's trial on criminal libel charges, said female guests swam in the nude at the affair and one of them found Carroll sharing a bed with a blonde.

Gloria Wellman, tall and thirtyish, said she has long been estranged from her father, one of Hollywood's leading directors. Testifying for the defense, she said she attended the party and other guests included actor Forrest Tucker and the late band-leader Jimmy Dorsey.

She said that when another woman guest asked to see Carroll, she took the woman to his bedroom.

"I sat on the edge of the bed," she said. "Carroll was in the bed and a blonde was in it, too."

Miss Wellman described herself as a housewife but did not reveal her husband's name.

She testified that a mutual friend advised her to see Fred and Marjorie Meade, operators of Hollywood Research Inc., which the prosecution contends is Confidential's film and story gathering arm. They are co-defendants in the trial.

She said she was paid $200 for her story of the party and later was paid $300 and $100 for two other stories.

The defense has been limited by court ruling to calling witnesses to testify only about 13 stories read into the court record. It is on these that the prosecution bases its case. The Carroll party story is one of these.

Tell It To The Marines

MOSCOW (AP) — Never let it be said, Red Star thundered Tuesday, that the U.S. Marines are heroes. It contended they're nothing but a bunch of brainwashed old pros who go around picking on poor defenseless little countries.

The official newspaper of the Ministry of Defense also told its readers that American Marines have a bad reputation; their brains have been washed by "ideological preparation" which makes them politically reliable; they have low instincts, a thirst for grabbing and the spirit of hatred.

No reason was given why Red Star chose to print an article by T. Belashchenko on the Marines. "They earned a bad reputation a long time ago," he wrote. "The Marines were a striking force in predatory wars against weak countries and small nations and in suppressing progressive movements in the United States."

Two Explosions Rip Through New Liberian Tanker

MARSEILLE, France (AP) — Two explosions ripped through the huge new oil tanker World Splendor off Gibraltar Tuesday and set the vessel aflame.

Several casualties were reported and the chief officer was listed as missing. The 40,000-ton tanker, owned by the Niarcho group and flying the Liberian flag, was taken in tow and is expected to reach Marseille early Thursday.

A late message received here did not indicate whether the fire had been put out.

Reports from Casablanca and the Niarcho's offices in London indicated most of the crew of 81 was picked up by rescue ships.

A company spokesman said nine crewmen remained aboard to handle the ship when taken in tow. He said there were other casualties, but did not give the number.

The tanker was en route from Southampton, England, to the Persian Gulf to take on crude oil. Her crew was made up of Greek officers and Indian crewmen.

A report from Gibraltar said the explosions erupted in the engine room as the tanker was proceeding 40 miles east of Gibraltar.

ROME — Vice Adm. Marco Calamai, 55 former naval chief of staff, was washed overboard Monday in a storm which struck a small Italian naval yacht 25 miles northwest of Sardinia.

He was brother of Capt. Piero Calamai, master of the ill-fated Italian passenger liner Andrea Doria. The Andrea Doria was sunk in a collision with the liner Stockholm in the North Atlantic 13 months ago.

The Defense Ministry said the admiral was washed from the deck when a large wave swept over the yacht, Artica II. The yacht was en route from Italy to the Balearic Islands.

DES MOINES — Livestock entries from all over the state are arriving at the Iowa State Fairgrounds here. Preliminary judging in the new carcass show begins today with more than $136,000 in prize money to be awarded to top animals.

NEW YORK — Singer Harry Belafonte entered New York Hospital Tuesday for treatment of a retinal detachment of his right eye. The ailment was attributed to a childhood injury. He is expected to be in the hospital several weeks.

DAVENPORT — Cancellation of a lease held by the Catholic Diocese of Davenport on the Hickey Bros. office building was approved Tuesday in a general meeting of creditors in the U.S. District Court.

The lease will be cancelled on payment of $1,000 to Hickey Bros., Inc., bankrupt retail tobacco firm. An attorney for the firm said final liquidation would get under way soon after Sept. 28, expiration date for filing claims against Hickey Bros.

DAVENPORT — Authorities are questioning two men here and one in Rock Island, Ill., in connection with the armed robbery of Doc's Tavern in Davenport early Tuesday morning in which a reported $660 was taken. The three men were arrested in Rock Island, Ill., when the car they were driving was reported to be similar to the one observed near the tavern.

Arthur Doe Snyder, 60, operator of the tavern, told police he had been held up by a lone gunman who demanded all the cash in the establishment. Snyder said he gave the gunman $60 from the cash register and his wallet containing $600.

DES MOINES — Crowning of an "Iowa Shorthorn Lassie Queen" will be a new feature at this year's Iowa State Fair.

The queen will be chosen from among six finalists sponsored by the Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn breeders of Iowa. The crowning will occur in the judging ring at 1 p.m. Saturday.

HONG KONG — Peiping radio Tuesday night reported an unspecified number of American students has entered Red Chinese territory en route to Peiping.

The broadcast said the group passed Manchouli and Heilungkiang, a small Chinese railway town near the Russian border.

The brief broadcast said the American students were among 70 youths of various countries, including Canada, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines and West Germany, who are visiting Red China after attending the sixth World Youth Festival in Moscow.

Forty-one American youths defeated a U.S. government ban on China travel. They left Moscow Aug. 14.

BAGLEY, Minn. — Charles Kibbe, 64, of Bagley, holder of the No. 1 membership card in the American Legion, died in a Bemidji Hospital Sunday.

Funeral services for the veteran, who received card No. 1 in Paris, France, when the Legion was organized at the conclusion of World War I, will be held Thursday at Alida Lutheran Church near here. He will be buried in Ft. Snelling Cemetery Friday.

NEW YORK — The Canadian dollar climbed Tuesday to a record premium of more than six cents over the U.S. dollar. Traders attributed the latest spurt to the Canadian dollar's value largely to developments in Europe. They report British, French and West German interests have been increasing their investments in Canadian enterprises.

Running through all their lake-side discussions is the conviction that audio-visual tools and devices — films and slides, television, recordings, exhibits, etc. — do help more people to learn more in less time.

For instance, it was reported that recent experiments at Harvard and Columbia Universities revealed that groups of upper grade pupils in public schools learned from 18 to 22 per cent more after films were added to their learning materials in science, social studies and music.

It was also stressed that audio-

Educators From Twenty States Discuss Modern Trends in Schooling at Parley

LAKE OKOBOJI—Modern trends are pressing education to retool itself faster and better. For days grow no longer while educators cope with knowledge which has probably doubled in volume since World War II and should double itself again in a much shorter span of years.

Recognizing these acceleration needs among other teaching and learning crises, a group of 40 educators from 20 states are meeting this week in a national conference at Iowa Lakeside Laboratory five miles northwest of Milford. The third Lake Okoboji Audio-Visual Leadership Conference is sponsored by the National Education Association and SUI.

The invited participants are specialist in speeding and extending the reach and grasp of the world's sights and sounds through the use of modern tools of learning. In their third annual session by the northwest Iowa lake, they are primarily analyzing philosophies of education in connection with the audio-visual movement.

Conference leaders say that one of the more important Okoboji developments this week will be a compact credo which will relate the audio-visual movement in its entirety to the goals of modern education, the contribution of educational philosophy and the scientific findings of the psychology of learning.

They add that this meeting to achieve a common core of belief has been several years developing with the 1957 conference providing the optimum time and place for bringing deliberations across the country "to a head."

Resolutions and conclusions arrived at in this Iowa setting will be distributed and discussed among many of the educational groups and organizations, conference leaders point out.

Running through all their lake-side discussions is the conviction that audio-visual tools and devices — films and slides, television, recordings, exhibits, etc. — do help more people to learn more in less time.

For instance, it was reported that recent experiments at Harvard and Columbia Universities revealed that groups of upper grade pupils in public schools learned from 18 to 22 per cent more after films were added to their learning materials in science, social studies and music.

It was also stressed that audio-visual devices help pupils to understand things which are too big, too small, too far away, too ancient, too slow, too fast, too dangerous or too complex for first-hand, on-the-scene learning or for some traditional teaching materials.

For instance, the planet earth is brought within the pupil's grasp by the globe in the classroom. Microscopic slides reveal cell structure and other bits of information with large magnification. Pictures portray life in different lands and earlier periods of history.

A series of pictures will also speed up the showing of such slow processes as the growth of a flower, or slow down the action of a machine long enough for full understanding.

Audio-visual devices also bring close to the students such dangerous events as an H-bomb explosion or the inside workings of a huge turbine. The creative camera can also pick out one part of a complex series of inter-actions illustrating an abstract idea or isolating one of many mechanical actions.

Mrs. Smith goes to town for U.S. Savings Bonds

Meet Mrs. U. S. Savings Bonds! She's Mrs. Russell H. Smith of Tulsa, Oklahoma. Blue-eyed, vivacious Mrs. Smith is the mother of 3 (5 months to 5 years) and typifies today's efficient young housewife who deserves most of the credit for making American homes spiritually strong and economically secure.

Here's her practical advice on a problem facing every family today.

"Saving means security and security means peace of mind; these in turn make for a happy home."

Mrs. Russell H. Smith, who won title of "Mrs. U. S. Savings Bonds" at 1957 "Mrs. America" grand finals, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

That's why so many women are urging their husbands to invest in U. S. Series E Savings Bonds. They know what a Savings Bond nest egg means. They know that the principal invested in Bonds is safe—and the returns are sure.

And now Savings Bonds pay better than ever! Every Series E Bond purchased since February 1, 1957, pays 3 1/4% interest when held to maturity.

So help your family win financial security tomorrow—by encouraging your husband to invest regularly in Savings Bonds today!
