Sororities Start 'Rush Week' Today

Iowa City dikes on Wednesday were filled with young women hurrying on foot and in cars to make last-minute visits in the hope of gaining acceptance to one of the 15 sororities at the University of Iowa. The purpose of the "rush week," an annual garment, is to make the final selection of members for the 15 organizations by members of the sororities.

The sororities began their "rush week" activities in secret Tuesday as a large group of young women rushed to the homes of sorority members and invited them to join. It was not an official gathering, but rather a series of small, spontaneous events that took place across the campus.

On Wednesday, each sorority had its own "rush week" schedule, which included visits to the homes of sorority members, receptions, and various social events. The goal was to make the final selection of members for the 15 organizations.

Syria-Egypt: 'I Army'

CAIRO, Egypt - Syria's army chief of staff denied Thursday that the Syrian and Egyptian armed forces were about to take action against neighboring Jordan or Iraq. The denials contradicted earlier reports that a confederate states had been formed against the central Jordan government.

RARE IMAGES from the front line between the two countries were released today, showing Syrian and Egyptian troops in action. The images were taken during an ongoing border dispute between the two countries over the Shatt al-Arab waterway.

Fight Band on Syrian Border

YEMEN: A U.S. military plane crashed in Yemen today, killing all four passengers on board. The cause of the crash is not yet known, but it appears to have been caused by friendly fire.

The plane, a C-130 Hercules, was on a reconnaissance mission over Yemen when it went down in a remote area of the country. All four passengers on board were killed in the crash.

A large explosion rocked the area where the plane went down, and smoke could be seen rising into the sky. It is not known whether the plane was a military or a civilian aircraft.

The plane was carrying four people, including the pilot and three passengers. It is not yet clear what caused the crash, but it is believed to have been caused by friendly fire.

The aircraft was on a mission to survey a remote area of the country when it went down. The area is known for its rugged terrain and is frequently used by military forces for training exercises.

The crash site is located in a remote area, and rescue efforts are ongoing. It is not yet clear how many people were on board, but it is believed that there were four people on board, including the pilot and three passengers.
