Faubus Arrives for Parley Talk With Ike Set for Today At Naval Base

Ike-Faubus Will Hold First Talk Alone

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus arrived in Rhode Island by plane Friday night for a man-to-man conference with President Eisenhower on the school integration situation in the South.

The White House made it plain ahead of time that Mr. Eisenhower wanted to have his talk today on the naval base here — with the Arkansas Governor without benefit of advance talks between their advisers.

Faubus and two companions landed at Providence, R. I. They were to spend the night there before today's meeting with the President — one that could go far to help ease Southern tension over mingling of white and Negro school pupils.

Before leaving Little Rock, Ark., center of the integration deadlock, Faubus described himself as optimistic about the outcome of his meeting with the President.

The White House refused advance comment but obviously was hoping for the best, too, in the belief that a start might be made toward charting the course of integration without violence and through legal channels.

Three of Mr. Eisenhower's chief aides were flying here Friday but they had no scheduled contact with Faubus' party pending today's conference.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty announced the President's counsel, Gerald D. Morgan, would fly here from Washington Friday night with Atty. Gen. Brownell and Sherman Adams, Mr. Eisenhower's chief assistant.

Hagerty said, however, the three would meet with no one Friday night — not even the President.

Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.), who played a leading role in arranging the Eisenhower-Faubus meeting, expressed a wish to talk before Faubus' departure with the White House staff members.

Hays is coming here with the Governor. The White House declined comment on the possible outcome of the meeting, which Faubus requested two days ago.

"I have nothing to say on that at all," Hagerty said when asked for a reaction to Faubus' expression of hopefulness.

Mr. Eisenhower was known to be hopeful, however, that today's meeting would clear the air somewhat and perhaps pave the way for resolving the deadlock.

The President has said he will

Everything OK Up Here!

THE GOVERNOR GRINS as he tests the seat of a Warwick, R.I., taxi, and as he shakes hands with a Negro reporter in Providence. No official welcome was extended to Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas when he arrived in Warwick on his way to Newport for a meeting with President Eisenhower. The newsman in the picture at right is Wallace H. Terry, Jr., reporter for the Brown University Herald in Providence. The Governor will meet the President today in an attempt to settle the segregation impasse in Little Rock where Gov. Faubus called out the Arkansas National Guard to block integration in the schools.

uphold the Federal Constitution by every legal means at his command. His use of the word "legal" was reinforced by his calling two of the Government's top lawyers, Brownell and Morgan, here for the conference.

Hagerty said the aides will see the President about a half-hour before the conference begins.

Asked specifically if Mr. Eisenhower and Faubus would meet alone, the press secretary replied: "I would think that they would."

Faubus engaged a suite at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel in Providence, 40 miles from here, to spend the night.

Hagerty did not rule out the possibility that Mr. Eisenhower — as various members of Congress and some organizations have suggested — may make a television address to the nation on the school integration question.

"Of course we would not do that at this time with the conference with the Governor coming up," Hagerty said, without indicating whether some such step might be contemplated in the future.

The immediate knot to be cut is Faubus' calling out National Guard troops to stop Negro pupils from entering Central High School in the Arkansas capital after a Federal judge ordered integration to begin.

The judge, Ronald N. Davies, has since directed Faubus to show cause why the troops should not be withdrawn.

Beyond this, any agreement that may develop from the Eisenhower-Faubus meeting is widely expected to set a pattern for resolving or preventing similar disputes elsewhere in the South.

Report Collision Survivors 'Good'

Jo Ann Collins, 18, St. Paul, and Marilyn M. Meeker, 17, Waterloo, were reported in good condition at University Hospitals Friday night. Both were passengers in a car involved in a head-on collision Thursday morning in which three were killed.

Dead from the accident are Linda Easley and Jean Lee Hartman, both 18, from Waterloo, and Leo A. Otten, 53, Davenport.

Otten, an employee of the Army Corps of Engineers since 1942, was traveling alone to Newton in connection with his work.

The four girls were on their way to Iowa City to take entrance classification tests at SU1. All were planning to enroll as freshmen here this fall.

The accident occurred on Highway 6 near Oxford when the girls passed a slow-moving pick-up truck on the right hand side and then lost control and swerved across the highway into the path of the westbound Otten car.

Her husband, Loren, 22, is still in serious condition with burns over 45 per cent of his body.

They both were injured when Loren attempted to light a bottle gas water heater in the basement of their home.

Mrs. Windus was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Toyne, Muscatine, and is survived by her husband; parents; two brothers, Richard and Kenneth, and a sister, Linda, of Muscatine; and another sister, Mrs. Audrey Johnson, West Liberty.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Snider funeral home in West Liberty.

New Suspect Links Kasper, School Blast

Says Segregationist Had Dynamite

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A man turned over to city police by the Federal Bureau of Investigation Friday night linked segregationist John Kasper with the bombing of Hattie Cotton School here Tuesday.

Police Chief Douglas Hosse said a man he identified as Charles Reed told him Kasper came to the Reed home with some dynamite Saturday night. Hosse said Reed told him the two left with the dynamite, hid it in a vacant house from which it later disappeared. He told Hosse he didn't know what happened to it.

Hosse said the police investigation is continuing, but that no charges have been placed. Six men have been in custody since Tuesday in connection with the blasting of the half-million-dollar school.

He emphasized that Reed is not under arrest, and said the investigation is being pushed in an attempt to locate the persons who actually planned and executed the bombing.

The announcement that Reed was being turned over to city police came earlier today in Washington from Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell.

Meanwhile, U.S. marshals served papers on 10 of 12 individuals named in an order Thursday by U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller, restraining further interference with integration of first-graders in city schools. Two of the 12 could not be located.

The county grand jury indicted Kasper for inciting to riot, Kasper, already fined $200 on misdemeanor charges for his activities here, remained in jail in default of $2,500 bond.

These developments climaxed a week of riotous anti-integration demonstrations. A total of 38 whites, 13 Negroes and 29 whites, were arrested in and around the six elementary schools where Negro children were enrolled for the first time.

Acting on orders of Judge Miller, mixed first-grade classes started Monday. Under the approved plan, 126 Negroes were eligible to attend integrated classes but all except 12 elected to transfer to Negro schools.

Fairfield Man, 75, Dies Of Motorcycle Injuries

James H. Taylor, 75, of Fairfield died Friday in University Hospitals at Iowa City of injuries suffered July 17 in a motorcycle accident at Davenport.

He was riding with his son, De Mar Taylor, Moline, Ill., when the motorcycle ran into a ditch in an effort to avoid hitting a car turning off the road.

Russ Condemned For Hungary Acts

Rejects Softer Words Urged By 'Neutralists'

Global Rebuke Carries By 60 to 10 Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (Saturday) (AP) — The United Nations General Assembly early today condemned the Soviet Union anew for acts of repression in Hungary.

It set up machinery to keep the Hungarian issue alive in the world organization.

By a vote of 60 to 10 the 81-nation assembly approved a 37-nation recommendation calling on the Soviet Union to end repressive measures against the Hungarian people.

Ten nations abstained and one was absent.

The assembly rejected amendments offered by Burma which would have "deplored" instead of "condemned" the Soviet action of sending armed forces to crush the revolt of last fall.

Prince Wan Waihayakon of Thailand, the assembly president, was named U.N. special representative to take what steps he deemed proper to see that the Soviet Union heeded previous U.N. resolutions, including demands for withdrawal of Soviet military forces from Hungary.

Prince Wan, 66-year-old veteran of international diplomacy, expressed his faith in "the righteousness of Hungary," and said he would accept the assignment "in the spirit of service."

Prince Wan said he would depend on a diplomacy based on "moral force and arguments, and that while he could not predict his chances for success he was an optimist who believed in the old saying, 'Where there's a will there's a way.'"

Wan is expected to seek out the leaders of both the Soviet Union and the present regime in Hungary to press his case.

Western diplomats believe a trip by Wan to Moscow may be a part of his plans.

Wan made the comment in a U.N. radio interview prior to the assembly action, taken at a meeting of the assembly that lasted into the morning hours of today.

The 37-nation resolution was pushed by the United States and agreed upon prior to presentation in a series of conferences with all U.N. members save the Soviet bloc and Syria.

It endorsed the findings of a five-nation U.N. inquiry committee released last June that the Soviet Union had deprived Hungary of its liberty and political independence, and used military force to impose the present regime of Premier Janos Kadar on the country.

The committee's findings that the Soviet Union carried out mass deportations of Hungarians were similarly endorsed.

The resolution specifically continued defiance of the resolutions condemning the Soviet actions and "the tions of the General Assembly."

It called on the Soviet Union to "desist from repressive measures against the Hungarian people" and to respect Hungary's right to freedom and political independence.

A long parade of Soviet bloc and "neutralist" nation speakers had delayed the vote until shortly before 1 a.m.

Russia Rejects U.S. TV Exchange Offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has turned down a U.S. proposal for an immediate swap of television data but has agreed to talk over the whole broad field of cultural, scientific and technical exchanges.

State Department press chief Lincoln White told his news conference Friday that the meeting will take place in Washington late in October.

White said the Soviet Embassy agreed to this Thursday in a note handed the department by Sergei Striganov, acting head of the embassy.

He said the Soviet note brushed aside a specific U.S. proposal for an exchange of television experts in advance of the October meeting to study each other's TV techniques and progress.

The Russians said this could be talked about in October along with other exchange ideas.

Fuse Fizzles

BOMB GETS DUNKING — A homemade bomb composed of 10 sticks of dynamite was dunked in a bucket of water by a Maryland state police officer after being found in front of the home of two Negro boys who attended a newly integrated primary school in Easton, Md., Friday. The seven-foot fuse had fizzled out.

Regents Approve 28 For Faculty Positions

DES MOINES — Twenty-eight appointments to the SUI faculty were approved Friday by the State Board of Regents.

The Regents also ratified award of contracts during the summer for five current SUI construction projects — new quarters for animals used in medical research (four contracts totaling $108,407); installation of elevator in Medical Laboratories Building ($21,472); construction of a five-level dining and food service addition to Hillcrest men's dormitory (five contracts totaling $1,281,208); completion of utilities to Burge Hall, SUI's new women's dormitory (two contracts totaling $76,834); and construction of new bleachers at the Fieldhouse swimming pool ($27,695).

No tax funds are used in the latter three projects, costs being met from earnings of SUI's self-liquidating dormitory system and from athletic revenues.

The State Board accepted a report from SUI's Board in Control of Athletics on a project to construct approximately 2,400 permanent bleacher seats at the SUI baseball field. This project, estimated to cost $90,000, would also be financed from athletic revenues.

They approved the purchase of property from Mrs. Anna S. Gatens of Iowa City. Located between Melrose and Myrtle avenues and next to University property, the land will be purchased from funds received from parking lot operations.

Twelve of the 28 new appointments were to the SUI College of Medicine faculty. These included Theron Alexander as assistant professor of pediatrics; John Cazin Jr., instructor, bacteriology; Paul Boeder, associate professor of physiological optics in the Department of Ophthalmology; Roberta Bleiler, assistant professor, internal medicine; Dr. Henry S. Bader, visiting professor, physiology; and Dr. Harold Wilson, visiting assistant professor, physiology; Dr. William R. Wilson, Research Fellow.

Other members of the present City Council are George P. Dvorsky, Louis Loria and Prof. Philip F. Morgan. Their terms expire at the end of 1959.

Analyst Sees Syrian Crisis Fading— Lebanon's Malik U.S.-Bound

By TOM MASTERSON

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The crisis that has hovered over Syria for a month appeared to be blowing away Friday without any of the basic reasons for the turmoil having been changed.

As the tension eased, Lebanon's Foreign Minister Charles Malik left for the United States with a message to President Eisenhower about Syria.

An official source said Malik hoped to have talks with both the President and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and was "carrying a friendly message from President Camille Chamoun to President Eisenhower" spelling out in detail the "Lebanese viewpoint on conditions in the Middle East with emphasis on Syria."

But the main thing which stirred up commotion in the Middle East had not changed — Syria's pronounced pro-Soviet leanings.

Though it seemed clear Syria has not fallen under complete Soviet domination, fear persisted that she could still be swept into the Communist bloc's orbit.

It also seemed clear that the Syrian Government, egged on by a pro-Soviet group of officers in control of the army and security forces, had no desire to change its policy of accepting economic and arms aid from Moscow.

Only a change in Government could overturn that policy, and for the moment there was no sign on the horizon that such a change would be made.

The crisis between Syria and the United States arose Aug. 15 when the Syrian Army suddenly accused the United States of plotting to overthrow the Syrian Government.

A Syrian delegation had just reached aid agreements in principle in Moscow.

Syria asked three U.S. Embassy officials to leave the country.

Two days later leftist officers were given command of the army in what the West viewed as a pro-

Soviet coup. Later the United States started an airlift of arms to Jordan.

Last Tuesday the tension began to ease off when Secretary of State Dulles took a slightly softer tone and said he believed the Syrian situation would work itself out without war.

There is still a possibility, however, that Hoffa's presence will not be required, even if hearings are held. Kennedy said this point would be decided over the weekend.

He returned to Washington ready to give a report Monday to Chairman John D. McClellan (D-Ark.) on a new eight-day probe into Hoffa's affairs.

Kennedy told reporters he and a dozen investigators have had a "productive" hunt for evidence in Michigan, Hoffa's home area, and he will have recommendations to make to McClellan.

Partly cloudy skies and cool temperatures in the 60s is the outlook for today.

Warmer temperatures are expected tonight. Lows 46-53, Highs 64-74.

The Weather Bureau said a new storm system headed toward Iowa is expected to blanket Iowa in cloudiness and touch off some shower activity Sunday.

Bulganin Warns Turkey Again

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin Friday night accused Turkey of poisoning troops on Syria's border for what he called an American planned attack.

Bulganin warned that military action there could lead to world conflict. His warning was in a personal letter to Turkish Prime Minister Adnan Menderes delivered two days ago by the Soviet ambassador in Ankara. The text was broadcast by Moscow radio Friday night.

Turkey has denied that its troops are engaging in anything but normal maneuvers.

Three days ago Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko accused Turkey of concentrating troops on the Syrian border in support of what he called Western aggression.

He said the United States and other Western nations are seeking to stifle the independence of Syria since it swung into the pro-Soviet camp.

Bulganin's letter said the United States plans to unleash military action against Syria and has assigned "a certain role" to Turkey.

Armed conflict over Syria, he said, "would in no manner be limited to that area alone." Bulganin added:

Publication of the warning to the Turks came a day after a Moscow radio broadcast warned Greece against "acting as an intermediary in the Near East and ventures of the U.S. imperialists."

It accused Greece of hostility to Syria and other Arab countries and warned that NATO and the Eisenhower doctrine would not protect Greece.

In Washington State Department officials said it would be up to Turkey to make any direct response to the Bulganin warning.

Report Saud, Ike In Touch

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Friday that Arabian King Saud has made known his views on the Syrian situation to President Eisenhower. But a spokesman denied the King had sent any recent message urging moderation, although he emphasized that both the Saudi Arabian and American Governments wish to handle the Syrian situation.

"There has, of course, over a long period been a regular exchange of communications and views between the President and King Saud," press officer Lincoln White said. "Let me add that I know of no communication which has the content of the type described in news reports I have seen. Furthermore the last communications received from King Saud on Middle East developments was on Aug. 25."

White was commenting on Washington dispatches published by the New York Times and the New York Herald Tribune saying that Saud had urged moderation because he thought the United States was overly excited about the Syrian situation and he did not want this country to do something which might force Syria to an act of desperation.

NCC National Assembly Set For December

ST. LOUIS — This is the year of America's town meeting of the churches.

The General Assembly of the National Council of Churches — held triennially — will bring together here, Dec. 1-6, several thousand leaders of major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox church bodies which, in a multiple partnership, constitute the nation's largest religious enterprise. The 30 constituent communions embrace 37,400,000 members in the United States.

TENTATIVE PROGRAM

The preliminary program for the Assembly, announced today, forecast a week of discussion, planning and decision-making in the cooperative life of the churches.

The week will also be one of worship and devotion, with music performed by choral groups and the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. Public sessions will be addressed by nationally known speakers.

Underlying all activities will be the delegates' main purposes for assembling here:

1. To examine and review the 75 year-round programs which the cooperating churches sponsor through the National Council of Churches.
2. To draw up broad blueprints for their federated enterprise in years to come.
3. To elect a new leadership for the next triennium.

Weighing what the churches are doing together through their common Council, voting delegates, alternates and accredited visitors will seek ways to expand and improve their work. For example:

More than a quarter-million migrant farm workers are being helped through church groups working under National Council leadership. How can the churches help these "forgotten" crop pickers still further — and include more thousands still unreached?

Another example: America's people are increasing by leaps and bounds — they're on the move from country to city, from city to suburbs and "exurbs." How in the midst of sweeping population shifts can the churches best maintain and strengthen their ministry

AREAS OF CHURCH CONCERN

Under sweeping analysis, up for new planning will be scores of programs in other areas of church concern, among them — juvenile delinquency, family life, the plight of the nation's poor in the midst of prosperity, religion in the schools, religious liberty, church building and fund raising, racial integration in church and society, global disaster relief and aid to political refugees, and foreign missionaries in a world beset by communism and resurgent nationalism.

The Assembly — fourth since the Council was formed seven years ago — will also call on voting delegates and visitors from virtually all parts of the country to marshal their sober attention on three chief issues troubling the Christian conscience today.

Guided by the three-part theme — Oneness in Christ across the nations, the races, the denominations — they will discuss and hear major addresses on Christian responsibility for peace in a divided, nuclear world; Christian responsibility for racial brotherhood and justice; and Christian fellowship among the different churches.

"More than a church-wide conversation, the Assembly will lead to church-wide action," said Dr. Hampton Adams, New York, program chairman.

"More than a spectacular demonstration of inter-church cooperation, the Assembly will afford delegates six days and nights to determine how the churches can do still more together to strengthen faith and the works of faith in America and beyond our shores," he said.

Dr. Adams, pastor of the Park Avenue Christian Church in New York City, is a former St. Louisan. He was pastor for 16 years of the Union Avenue Church in the latter city.

Presiding throughout the Assembly will be the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, Philadelphia, president of the National Council of Churches and stated clerk (chief administrative officer) of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

National and global church leaders will be on hand to address the delegates in six plenary sessions at the city's Kiel Auditorium.

OFFICIAL RECOGNITION

CALUMET, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Historical Commission has at last recognized Calumet's claim to having the oldest concrete pavement still in service.

The commission has made official a historical site marker placed at the intersection of Portland and 7th streets.

The marker was elected in 1956 to observe the 50th anniversary of the construction of the streets.

Iowa Tops Quota For Cancer Fund

The State Office of the Iowa Division, Inc., American Cancer Society, announced Friday that the Cancer Crusade, of public education and fund raising had reached and passed the Iowa quota.

The generosity of interested Iowans produced a grand total of $666,455.91 to be put into immediate use in the Iowa cancer control program.

Johnson County is one of the 87 out of 103 Iowa Division county chapters which exceeded their prescribed quotas.

The report went on to state that this year's total was the highest ever reached in the history of the Iowa Cancer Society. It exceeded last year's record-breaking total of $664,765.26 by $1,690.65.

The State Office spokesman continued with an expression of gratitude to the 40,000 loyal volunteers who served under State Crusade Chairman, Robert C. Koempel of West Union, in producing this record-breaking year in contacting Iowans with life saving facts on cancer.

"The citizens of Iowa can rest assured," concluded the spokesman, "that these funds will be administered with constant realization of the great public trust placed in the Iowa Division by the generous citizens of Iowa and in their best interests for continued programs of research, education and service."

Over $2 Million In Aid Donated To CROP By Iowans

Iowa has contributed more than $2,000,000 in gifts to aid the needy overseas through the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP). State CROP director, John Nolin, said in Des Moines that this amount has been given over a period of 9 years and that the State's tenth CROP appeal is scheduled for November 10-17.

Mr. Nolin stated that many of the CROP committees in recent county meetings have urged their solicitors to collect corn during the November campaign.

The corn is to be processed into cooking oil for use in Church World Service feeding centers for refugees, especially in Austria, West Germany, and Hong Kong. Vital

Adventure Bound

FOUR OF THE FIVE young men who tossed aside jobs just "to get away," smile aboard the 36-foot Tahoo just before they set sail for the South Pacific Thursday. From the left: Herbert Knopf (with pipe), John Lewis, Reg Blake and Bob Drude. The fifth member of the crew, Fred Shepperd, is not shown. Lewis and Drude, who answered a classified advertisement for "adventurous young men" after two of the original five dropped out, were picked from 40 applicants. The adventurers plan to follow a 2,800-mile course in their schooner to the Marquesas Islands, then to Australia via Tahiti and Fiji.

fats are a scarce food item in these areas.

Mr. Nolin explained that today, German contributors give much more toward the aid of refugees in their country than do Americans, but that CROP gifts from Iowa are still needed there since Germany absorbs 500,000 additional refugees each year.

Iowa's 1957 CROP goal is 125,000 bushels of corn. Farm solicitation is scheduled for November, with towns and cities canvassing for CROP on Halloween Night.

RIGHT TOUCH?

HOBBS, N. M. (AP) — Justice of the Peace Robert Bensing gives real service.

The municipal court docket was very crowded. Judge Bensing didn't call the prisoners to his court. Instead he went to them — and held court in a jail cell.

U.S. Eyebrows Raise, As—

Gromyko's 'Tough' Policy Continues Molotov's Line

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

There is no basic reason why Washington should be surprised, as it pretends to be, because Foreign Minister Gromyko continues the bitter Molotov line on which he was raised.

Khrushchev anointed Gromyko as Molotov's successor with full knowledge of their similarity, and then accused Molotov of working against easing of international tensions.

Now Gromyko has made an attack on the United States fully worthy of his Molotov training. The United States has replied with a combination of anger and sorrow.

BOTH STATEMENTS merely represent a continuation of the propaganda battle which has been going on for months pegged to the disarmament issue. The contestants are merely shifting the arena from London to the United Nations.

In the light of these tactics, the Russian countermove against America's offer of television exchanges makes no sense, unless they want to set up a second ring in the propaganda circus. They virtually refuse the offer but want to set up a conference about it.

Russia attacks American motives on disarmament and the Middle East with one hand and, with the other, holds out proffers of better cultural relations.

There is some question whether the United States really gains anything by reacting to any of these maneuvers with argumentative statements. In the long run it is facts, not arguments, which will influence neutral opinion.

WASHINGTON OBSERVERS profess puzzlement over basic Russian policy because the propaganda line twists so frequently.

Yet the fundamental Russian objectives are not hard to see. Russia wants to take over the world with the aid of international communism.

She backs international communism.

NEGRO TOUR SOUTH
NEW YORK (AP) — A group of Negro members of Actors Equity is making a tour of university and community theaters in the south.

Productions being done are "Bell, Book and Candle" and "Springtime for Henry." Included in the company are Butterfly McQueen, well-known radio-TV performer, and her cat. The cat has a role in one play, but just in case of feline temperament, a dummy understudy is being also carried.

WSUI Begins New Series Of Programs At 10 A.M. Today

Cue, WSUI's new Saturday service program, will begin today at 10 a.m. Lasting until noon, Cue will have a variety of radio short subjects gathered together in a two-hour pot pourri: news summaries, music, interviews, weather and highway bulletins, sports briefs and bits of satire.

Today's Cue, the first in the series, will have an interview with Iowa Head Football Coach, Forest Evashevski, a new feature called "Droodles in Sound," a special telephone recording on integration troubles in Nashville, and a preview of the piano stylings of a new recording star.

Regular newscasts will occur at 10:30 and 11:30 with occasional summaries and bulletins throughout the program.

Moderators for Cue will be Dave Carter and Jim Wilke.

Cue is designed to accommodate the differences in habits of listening which occur among WSUI's listeners each week after the Monday-to-Friday pattern is complete.

A recent survey undertaken by WSUI shows that the time and interest spans of its audience are shorter and less concentrated on Saturday morning.

Health Service Recommends Use Of Iodized Salt

Ever eat a ground sponge? The ancient Greeks and Chinese did. They prescribed ground sea sponges and sea weed as a treatment for goiter, and their treatment was not far wrong.

Sea weed, sea sponges, and crustacean fish such as shrimp and crabs contain traces of iodine which is important in the prevention of goiter.

In many areas of the United States, Iowa included, there is a deficiency of iodine in the food and water. Fortunately, we do not have to depend on ground sponges to make up for that deficiency. Most markets sell iodized salt and by using iodized salt the body gets all the iodine it needs.

Since Iowa is fairly low in iodine, the use of iodized salt is advised by the Iowa State Department of Health. It is much easier to prevent goiter than to cure it.

West, English, to continue teaching at the University of Ankara, Turkey; Jeronimo Mallo, romance languages, to teach at the University of Southern California; and John A. Eldridge, physics.

Several changes in appointments were also approved by the Board of Regents for various faculty members. These included:

Peter P. Rempel, senior counselor in the student counseling service, who will also serve as assistant professor in psychology;

Julia Bartling, reference librarian, to be acting head of reference and bibliographic services in University Libraries;

Eleanor K. Taylor, associate professor of social work, as acting director of the Iowa School of Social Work for the 1957-58 academic year;

Dr. Merle L. Hale, professor and head of the Department of Oral Surgery in the SUI College of Dentistry, who will continue as professor of oral surgery and become head of the Dental Department, University Hospitals;

Dr. Daniel E. Waite, assistant professor of oral surgery, who will become associate professor and acting head of the department;

Dr. John C. MacQueen, associate professor of pediatrics, who will be acting head of the Department of Pediatrics and also serve as medical director of the State Services for Crippled Children;

Dr. William B. Anderson, assistant professor of pediatrics, who will be assistant medical director of the State Services for Crippled Children.

Establish Strategy Group To Combat Inflation

WASHINGTON — Establishment of a top-level Government strategy board to combat inflation, which President Eisenhower calls "our major internal problem," was announced Friday.

Secretary of the Treasury Anderson said the group will meet with Mr. Eisenhower from time to time to review and exchange ideas about "the financial aspects" of the nation's economy.

Camp Sukiran is located on the largest of the Ryukyu Islands, Okinawa, overlooking the China Sea.

Doctors Will Determine Flu Shot Inoculees

DES MOINES — Decisions on which Iowans get the limited supply of Asian flu vaccine this fall will be left largely to the individual physician.

A State Health Department advisory committee Friday laid down only a broad policy to guide physicians.

That policy is to give preference to persons likely to suffer dangerous complications from Asian flu because of their age or other illness, persons in health services and other "essential services."

The committee did not spell out what occupations should be included among "essential services" in the priority group.

The committee did not try to decide whether policemen are more essential than firemen, power plant operators more than telephone linemen or bus drivers more than railroad switchmen.

The people whose services are most essential during an epidemic probably would vary from one community to another, the committee said.

In some cases, it might be quite essential to keep the garbage collector in action, it was pointed out. In some of the counties with larger population, the committee expects county medical societies will work out more detailed plans under the state-wide policy on vaccine priority.

The committee was appointed by Gov. Herschel C. Loveless to advise the Health Department in setting up a program to cope with the wave of Asian flu expected to spread across the nation this fall and winter.

This is the first time a nation has known ahead of time that a flu epidemic was coming.

The committee did not recommend closing schools or calling off public meetings during an epidemic. Health authorities have said that doesn't help much.

Six major drug manufacturers have launched a crash program to turn out 80 million doses of Asian flu vaccine by Jan. 1. But there will not be enough vaccine to protect everyone this fall.

The nation's public health officers recommended a voluntary priority system along the lines of the policy adopted here Friday.

The system is voluntary and depends upon physicians' co-operation to use the available flu shots where they'll do the most good.

Dr. Charles H. Flynn, Clarinda, representing the Iowa State Medical Society on the advisory committee, said of the physicians, "I'm sure they will use their judgment to see that it is given to the people who are designated by this committee."

Old 'Mother Nature's Obstinate Brat' Is Jailed For Exposure

MOUNTAIN GROVE, Mo. — A 53-year-old Ozarks farmer who likes to work while wearing only a carpenter's nail apron was convicted of indecent exposure Friday and sent to jail for a year.

It took a magistrate court jury just 10 minutes to convict John Minnig, Judge E. L. Colton announced the sentence and the defendant went to jail immediately.

Minnig, who calls himself "Mother nature's obstinate brat," appeared in court wearing his nail apron, but under it were white coveralls and a sweat shirt. His unshorn hair reached his shoulders and his bushy beard, untrimmed in four years, offered sharp contrast to the bronzed bald top of his head.

The state had four witnesses who testified they saw Minnig Sept. 3 about 20 feet from a county road and he was wearing only the nail apron. He was on his farm near here at the time.

Minnig, acting as his own lawyer, offered no defense but cross examined the state's witnesses.

One of them, Mrs. J. C. Burney, a school bus driver, was asked by Minnig if he did anything to attract her attention when she saw him Sept. 3. She said he did not.

The state's complaint, signed by Mrs. Burney's husband, said Minnig's 160-acre farm adjoins a road traveled regularly by the school bus. School children too often got a full view of the undressed farmer, it was alleged.

Minnig, who says he is a native of Switzerland, said he adopted the nature boy routine while farming in Iowa 15 years ago.

'Thank The Good Lord'

MICHAEL CHERVENAK clasps his hands in gratitude Friday as his mother puts her arm around him while holding her other child, Janet, 3, at a coroner's inquest. A jury had just absolved 10-year-old Mickey of any blame in the fatal shooting of his 31-year-old father, Michael E. Chervenak, last week. The boy testified that his father had beaten both he and his mother before the slaying. As he was freed, the boy clasped his hands and said "Thank the good Lord."

Town Evicted ORDER GIVEN TO CLEAR VILLAGE FOR MINING

JACKSON, Pa. — The economic facts of life Friday settled the obituary of this village tucked 100 years ago by 100 families in the heart of the hard coal country.

The Reading Anthracite Corp. sent out notices to 25 families still living here to vacate their homes in 30 days.

Ironically, the village is dying for the same reason it was created — the production of coal.

A century ago the pioneer families came to mine coal from deep down in this Schuylkill County anthracite field. Now the corporation, which owns land, houses and all, wants to start strip mining under the village with its 25 homes and a single schoolhouse.

Strip mining and the quiet yet sometimes picturesque life that the village has known all these years do not go together. Strip mining is a close-to-the-surface operation. So the houses have to go, in order to give an industry that has suffered plenty of ups and downs another chance to recoup.

18 Students Receive Grants From Florida Citrus Fruit Funds

A Florida citrus grove is growing new fruits — scholarships for SUI. Eighteen students named for the first Drew Memorial Scholarships awarded at SUI will receive $220 each from the income earned by 40 acres of fruitland and money invested from sale of 17 additional acres.

Among the students named for the awards by the University Scholarship Committee, according to Helen Reich, committee chairman are:

Carole Lee Alcott, A2, Adel; Frazier Coffie, A1, Altoona; Roxanne Van Slyke, A2, Ames; Dennis L. Mostman, A1, Bloomfield; Norma J. Hagg, A2, Carroll; Donald W. Klimes, C3, Cedar Rapids; J. Ronald Moorcroft, A1, Cedar Rapids; Linda Sue Milisen, A1, Ft. Dodge; Dan C. Cronin, A1, Grand Junction; Janet Sue Heston, A3, Keokuk; Gary G. Binning, A1, Laurens; Kay E. Graff, A1, Malcom; Carol Ann Whitehorn, A1, Onawa; Warren E. Maber, A1, Sioux City; Richard L. Hanzelka, A1, Tama; William Reinhardt, A2, West Liberty; Ralph E. Beck, E1, Woodward; and Joan Okubo, N1, Mundelein, Illinois.

The fund was set up with a bequest in 1953 of 57 acres of fruitlands valued at $100,000 from the estate of Margaret Amy Slawson, Winter Haven, Fla. Miss Slawson had inherited the property from her brother-in-law, Gilman A. Drew, 1890 graduate of SUI.

The sale of 17 acres of land last year netted $45,979 which was invested by the University. Income from the investment plus the annual income from the remainder of the land willed to SUI provided the money for the scholarships just awarded.

Under terms of the will bequeathing the property to SUI in 1953, income from the property is to be used for scholarships for worthy university students demonstrating academic promise.

1936 SUI Graduate Lauds Modern M.D.'s

General practitioners graduating from medical colleges today are much more competent to deal with patients suffering from mental disorders, Dr. Seymour Vestermark said Friday at SUI.

Dr. Vestermark, a 1931 SUI medical graduate who is now chief of the psychiatric training branch of the National Institute of Mental Health, Bethesda, Md., said the general quality of psychiatric education in the medical schools of the country has made enormous advances in the past five years.

In an interview at the annual conference of Professors of Psychiatry West of the Mississippi River, which ends today at SUI, Dr. Vestermark said he anticipates a growing emphasis on research in mental health in the next few years.

For the past ten years, he said, major efforts of the NIMH have been directed at encouraging training centers and medical colleges not only to prepare larger numbers of persons for careers in mental health, but to train more competent workers.

Dr. Vestermark, a native of Wilton Junction, said a shortage of psychiatrists, psychologists and psychiatric nurses exists and that efforts must be made to stimulate and encourage the training of persons in these fields.

University of Toronto Professor Named Canada's Foreign Secretary

OTTAWA — A genial university president became Canada's foreign secretary Friday. He promptly displayed his diplomatic talents — deftly fielding questions with a joke about a rookie pitcher for the Chicago White Sox.

Dr. Sidney E. Smith, who resigned his post at the University of Toronto Thursday to take up his first political post, was sworn in Friday by Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin. Prime Minister John Diefenbaker then relinquished the foreign portfolio, which he has been holding since his Conservative party upset the Liberals in June.

The 60-year-old educator told reporters at a news conference after being sworn in that "it would be regrettable if Canada was divided on foreign policy," and added that he believes Canada was right in its position on the British-French attack in the Suez last fall. Canada protested at that time that she had not been consulted beforehand.

Pressed further on his foreign policy position, he begged off with this story:

"The White Sox brought a young pitcher up from the minors — and as soon as the rookie went to the mound his first three pitches took off. The manager went to the catcher and asked: 'What's he got on the ball?' The catcher replied: 'I don't know — I haven't caught one yet.'"

"I believe there is a moral in that story," Smith added. The new foreign secretary will depart next week to head the Canadian delegation to the U.N. General Assembly. His predecessor in that job was the Liberal party's foreign secretary, Lester B. Pearson, who helped Canada gain a name as a behind-the-scenes power in U.N. negotiations.

Although Smith twice had opportunities to lead the Conservative party during its years in opposition, he is a newcomer to the political arena and does not yet hold a seat in Parliament.

Under the Canadian system, a Cabinet member must be a member of Parliament but may take up his appointment without holding a seat.

FIFTHS AND PINTS DANVILLE, Va. — Lots of folks are pleading the Fifth Amendment these days, but the constitution says nothing about pints. One visitor here bought 196 pints of whiskey at a state store in a number of visits. The law allows possession of a gallon. The fine was $250 and he lost his car — also the pints — through confiscation.

By WHITNEY MARTIN
BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — The cab headed for the National Amateur Golf championship slowed abruptly and the driver gazed with interest at another cabbie scuffling with a fellow who was falling-down drunk.

"Probably couldn't pay his fare," the driver said with the understanding of his craft. "He shun't hit him, though, unless the other guy hits him first. Cost me 700 bucks to find that out. Seven-hundred-dollars. I studied my law after that and learned my rights."

THE DRIVER was a burly citizen with a fireplug neck and muffed ears. He obviously wanted to talk. "I was a wrestler," he explained. "A drunk bumped into my wife and knocked her down. I saw red."

"What happened?"
"I broke his arm," the driver said placidly, as if he were saying, "I made a right turn."

"They said that being a wrestler my hands and arms were deadly weapons," he explained. "If he had swung at me first I would have been in the clear. Or if he had pushed my wife with his hands."

"You ever get hurt wrestling?"
"I don't see how?"

"You can get hurt. Those falls in the ring don't hurt, as know how to. But there are ways to get hurt, just the same."

"How about when one guy throws another out of the ring?"
"That's dangerous. Somebody might get hurt. A spectator, I mean. There was one guy always going out of the ring, then sitting in some lady's lap. Pretty soon the ladies was scrambling for ringside seats."

"WHERE DID you wrestle?"
"Oh, all around, different circuits. We'd sign a contract, you win one night, you lose the next night. Say, you going to this golf tournament? I don't know nothing about golf. Never played it."

"You'd like it once you tried it. You hit a few good shots and you're sunk. Want to try it again. But it's every man for his own racket. You don't play golf, and we don't go around breaking people's arms."

The driver was unoffended. "Oh," he said apologetically, "I don't do that all the time. I never broke nobody's arm I was wrestling."

"Did you fight the case?"
"Sure I fought it, but it didn't do no good. I shunna doing it. If he'd only taken a swing at me first, then I would have been all right."

"What would you have done then?"
"Broke his arm, I guess."

California Dentist, Air Officer Make Golf Tourney Finals

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Dr. Frank (Bud) Taylor, the California dentist with the painless putting touch, and Hillman Robbins, a 127-pound Air Force lieutenant from Memphis, cut loose withering spurts in the stretch Friday for finalist berths in the 57th National Amateur golf championship.

Taylor, 40, shook off the sweltering heat with a brilliant birdie comeback which buried Mason Rudolph, 23-year-old Army private from Clarksville, Tenn., 5 and 4.

Winning eight of the last ten holes — from the 22d through the 32d holes — Taylor came charging back from a two-hole deficit to leave Rudolph a badly beaten and disillusioned young man.

Robbins, 25, turned back Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., 2 up, with a similar rally which started at the 30th hole.

Two down going to the 30th, Robbins won four holes in a row — the 30th through the 33rd — with the help of four successive bogeys by the faltering Baxter — and closed out the match on the 36th where Baxter took a six.

So it's Dr. Taylor of Pomona, Calif., against Tennessee's Robbins in Saturday's 36-hole final.

The tense, closely waged semifinal battles finished all-square at the end of the morning round and observers around The Country Club predicted that strength probably would bring the sturdier and huskier Rudolph and Baxter through in the long afternoon.

But it was the aging doctor and the reed-thin lieutenant who stood up better under the 90-degree heat and intense humidity which left garments sticking to the backs of both players and spectators.

Los Angeles County Set To 'Shell Out' for Bums

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The county government is firmly committed to meeting its share of the cost of bringing the Brooklyn Dodgers to Los Angeles, a member of the County Board of Supervisors said Friday.

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said a poll he conducted of the five-man board shows a three-man majority standing firm in favor of spending up to $2,700,000 to build roads into the proposed Chavez Ravine ball park site.

Wolverines Expected To Be Tough Grid Foes

By JERRY LISKA

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's Wolverines lost seven regulars from last year's second-place team, but with a fine, seasoned backfield figures to be just as strong a Big Ten football title contender this fall.

Somewhat ironical is the fact that Michigan is coming up with its best passer in a decade one season after two great receiving ends, Ron Kramer and Tom Maentz, were graduated.

Rated the best Wolverine passer since Chuck Ortmann won the conference tossing title in 1948 is sophomore Stan Noskin, who will share quarterbacking with veteran Jim Van Pelt.

But even if Noskin lacks steady targets, the Wolverines slick single wing basic attack should roll as smoothly and powerfully as ever.

With one varsity season under their belts, fullback John Herrstein and tailback Bob Ptacek will be star performers, especially Herrstein, crashing 212-pounder who should be a strong all-American candidate.

Alternating at the vital tailback spot with Ptacek will be one of the Big Ten's fastest backs, 192-pound Jim Pace, whose senior year could find him reaching the form long expected.

Coach Bennie Oosterbaan, starting his 10th head coaching season, declined to size up the conference race in which defending champion Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan State and Ohio State generally are rated front-line contenders with the Wolverines.

"Playing a Big Ten schedule is a rugged deal," said Bennie. "Every coach should assume anybody else can beat him." Michigan meets the same seven conference foes it faced last year when the

Don Drysdale Winner With 5 Hit Hurling

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Carl Furillo bounced a two-run double to left and Milwaukee pitchers walked in two runs Friday night as the Brooklyn Dodgers shoved over four runs in the seventh and defeated the National League's first place Braves, 5-1.

It was the sixth defeat in their last nine games for the Braves who were stopped on five hits by righthander Don Drysdale.

Drysdale pitched one-hit ball in the last five innings as he bested Milwaukee's big righthander Gene Conley in what started out as a mound duel.

Red Schoendienst and Wes Covington each collected a pair of singles off Drysdale, and the only extra base blow was Johnny Logan's run-scoring triple.

Milwaukee pushed over the game's first run in the second when Frank Torre was hit by a pitch. He moved to second on an infield out and ran home after Logan drove his triple to the centerfield fence.

Giants 7, Cards 3

ST. LOUIS — The New York Giants handed St. Louis pennant hopes a severe blow Friday night by beating the Cardinals 7-3 on the hitting of William Mays and Ray Jablonski and superb relief pitching by rookie Jim Constable and veteran Marv Grissom.

The Cardinals missed a golden chance to pull within four games of the Milwaukee Braves, beaten 5-1 Friday night by Brooklyn.

Now the Red Birds are five games behind with 14 to play.

Mays made Friday the 13th a nightmare for Fred Hutchinson's club with four hits — two of them doubles — and a throw which cut off a run at the plate.

Jablonski, an ex-Cardinal, batted in the first three runs with two singles and a double.

New York . . . . . 001 000 030-7 16 1 St. Louis . . . . . 200 000 010-3 10 1 Gomez, Constable 2, Grissom 8 and Thomas; Jackson, Muffett 8, Merritt 9, and Landtith.

Bucs 4-2, Cubs 1-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Righthander Bob Friend and southpaw R. G. Smith hurled the Pittsburgh Pirates to 4-1 and 2-1 victories Friday, ploughing the Chicago Cubs deeper into the National League cellar.

Gene Freese's run-scoring single in the ninth inning of the second game broke up a pitchers' duel between Smith and Young Moe Drabowsky.

Friend, backed by homers by Hank Foiles and Bob Skinner, limited the Cubs to six hits in the opener for his 12th victory against 17 losses. Don Elston was the loser.

ISC Gridders Run No-Contact Drills To Avert Injuries

AMES (AP) — Running and passing defensive plays dominated Friday's practice session of the Iowa State Cyclones.

In Friday's session, Myers made a couple of switches in the single-lineup. Ron Fontana, Ankeny end, was switched to strong side tackle because of an injury to Lyle Carlson, which will keep him out of play for a couple of days.

Chuck Latting, Cordova, Tenn., was switched from tailback to weak side end.

Yankees Club Chisox 7 to 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle returned after a 10-day layoff Friday and slammed a double and triple in helping the New York Yankees overpower the Chicago White Sox 7-1 and widen their American League lead to six games.

The Yanks, just about ending the White Sox' pennant hopes in this opener of a two-game series, battered four Chicago pitchers for 13 hits. Billy Pierce, the White Sox' 19-game winner, took the heaviest bombing, giving up seven hits and four runs in 2½ innings as he was charged with his 11th defeat.

Whitey Ford, heretofore sore-armed lefthander, won his 10th in 14 decisions, scattering seven hits before he was replaced at the start of the seventh by relief ace Bob Grim.

Although Chicago hit safely in all but one inning, its only run was Sherm Lollar's homer in the second inning.

Chicago . . . . . 010 000 000-1 8 3 New York . . . . . 121 012 006-7 13 0 Pierce, Staller (2), Lattman (6), McDonald (7) and Lollar; Ford, Grim (7) and Howard; W-Ford, L-Pierce. Home run: Chicago—Lollar.

Nats 11, A's 6

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roy Sievers crashed his 37th and 38th home runs Friday night as Washington defeated Kansas City, 11-6, and ended a five game losing streak.

Gus Zernial smashed his 21st homer for the Athletics.

Russ Kemmerer, who started on the mound for the Senators, also was credited with a home run when centerfielder Woody Held dropped his drive as he crashed into the fence in the third inning.

Bridges, who reached first base on a single, and Kemmerer circled the bases as Kansas City players who rushed to Held failed to retrieve the ball.

Held was carried from the field on a stretcher and taken to Georgetown University Hospital. He had two stitches taken inside his upper lip and will be x-rayed for possible head, shoulder and knee injuries. Held did not lose consciousness.

Kansas City . . . . . 031 200 000-6 11 2 Washington . . . . . 002 105 120-11 14 0 Keelner, Trucks (6), Morgan (7), Portocarrero (8) and Thompson; Kemmerer, Hyde (5) and Fitzgerald.

Tribe 16, Bosox 3

BOSTON (AP) — The Cleveland Indians clobbered four Boston pitchers for 21 hits and a 16-3 victory over the Red Sox Friday night as veteran Mike Garcia ended a hex which had cost half his losses this season.

Veteran first baseman Vic Wertz drove in five runs with his 24th homer and a pair of sacrifice flies, while Dick Williams had five hits and Bobby Avila four in the Cleveland assault.

Garcia, who had dropped four games to Boston this year and had a 1-5 mark against the Sox in 1956, settled down after a shaky start to hurl a strong six-hitter.

Cleveland . . . . . 200 024 134-16 21 0 Boston . . . . . 021 000 000-3 6 3 Garcia and Brown; Slater, Susec 1, Porterfield 3, Stone 7 and Daley.

Evashovski and Team Agree That Hawkeyes Don't Lack Incentive

"Lack of incentive" because the University of Iowa would be ineligible for a Rose Bowl appearance Jan. 1, 1958, is a topic which crops up in discussions of the 1957 Hawkeye situation.

This has been mentioned by numerous sports writers and is a question usually put to Coach Forest Evashovski. The answers are very definite, Coach Evy believes, and in this the players concur.

The incentive factor is a strong one and the athletes are motivated by several goals, such as (1) desire to prove that the 1956 title was not a result of a large amount of luck, (2) desire to justify the high national pre-season ratings given by some writers, (3) desire to become the first Iowa team to win two successive clear conference football titles (the 1927 team was undisputed king, the 1922 team tied).

Iowa's current No. 1 and 2 teams each have five seniors. Numerous key players have expressed the incentives and judging from the drills the eager attitude of the veterans has infected the entire squad.

As the first team lines up now the seniors are Capt. Jim Gibbons, LE; Alex Karras, LT; Frank Bloomquist, LG; Bob Comings, RG; and Mike Hagler, RHB. The only sophomore is Center Bill Lapham, now ahead of letterman Mac Lewis after Lewis hurt an ankle, and the juniors are Dick Klein, RT; Bob Prescott, RE; Randy Duncan, QB; Bill Gravel, LHB; and John Nocera, FB.

Seniors on the second unit are Don Bowen, RG; Frank Rigney, RT; Gene Veit, QB; Bill Happel, RHB; and Fred Harris, FB. The sophomores are Don Norton, LE; Fred Long, RE; and Bob Jeter, LHB. Chuck Pierce, senior, is now No. 2 center while the usual No. 2, Lapham, has taken over first spot and Lewis is inactive.

In contrast with the situation a year ago, when Coach Evy said that lack of speedy backs would make passing more prominent, the 1957 Iowans appear to have more than adequate speed, especially among the youngsters.

Mike Hagler, apparently in top form, has brought added speed to the right halfback spot and Bill Gravel has done the same to the opposite halfback position. They are veterans. But lightweight sophomores who can move will be ready for seasoning in the first two non-conference games with Utah State and Washington State.

They are Bob Jeter and Geno Sessi, left halfbacks; and Ray Jauch and John Brown, right halfbacks. Brown probably is the fastest afoot of these four but he has been slow to learn how to take advantage of his blockers, while Jauch has been the "pleasant surprise" of the backfield candidates.

The workouts have brought out the fact that John Nocera should be quite a fullback. Probably the best blocker among the backs, the junior has boosted his speed by cutting off nine pounds, now hitting 194 pounds. Nocera has improved his punting, too, and now definitely ranks ahead of Fred Harris, the usual 1956 starter. Harris, however, has been hindered by the fact that he missed seven days of practice.

Light Drills Ordered For Hawkeyes Friday

Light workouts were the order of the day for the Iowa Hawkeyes as the team met in sweat suits in both the morning and afternoon sessions.

The team concentrated entirely on smoothing off the rough edges on their offensive plays.

The taper-off was in preparation for the scrimmage that has been called for this morning in the Iowa Stadium.

In the afternoon, the team will engage in another light workout for about an hour and then board a bus to travel to Des Moines to attend the Drake University-Iowa Teachers football game.
