Phone Strike Deadlock Continues

Survey Shows Service 'Mostly Good'

NEW YORK (AP) — Peace talks Tuesday failed to produce any break in the coast-to-coast strike of 23,000 telephone equipment installers.

Federal mediator Walter A. Maggio reported no significant change by either side, after negotiations recessed over night.

The Communications Workers of America struck the Western Electric Co. Monday in 44 states and the District of Columbia. Western Electric is the manufacturing arm of American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Installers' picket lines kept many of the nation's 150,000 telephone operators away from their jobs in sympathy with the strike.

Dial phone systems were not affected by the strike. However, there were some delays in long distance calls. Surveying 14 cities during the day, A. T. & T. reported service "mostly good."

Supervisory employees sat in at switchboards to help handle an estimated 1,400,000 daily long distance calls.

Issues in the first installers' strike since 1954 centered on wages, travel allowances and length of contract. The old contract expired Aug. 25.

The installers sought a one-year contract with an hourly increase in wages of 15 cents, plus five cents in additional travel pay and fringe benefits.

Western Electric offered 6 to 12 cents per hour in wages and improved fringe benefits in a 2-year contract with a wage reopening clause after one year.

Present wages average $1.39 to $2.80 per hour.

Balance Of Power Same: Gruenther

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther said Tuesday that the balance of power remains unchanged between East and West, despite Russian claims of a successful intercontinental ballistic missile.

If the Russian claim is true, said Gruenther, it does place the United States in greater danger "but it doesn't prevent us from launching an attack to destroy the Soviet Union."

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) is capable of launching "tremendous destruction on an aggressor," including Russia, Gruenther told the 39th National convention of the American Legion.

Gruenther is former commander of NATO and now president of the American Red Cross. He was key note speaker at the opening business session of the Legion convention.

Earlier, former defense secretary Louis Johnson touched on the Russian missile claim but called for an all-out effort, whatever the cost, to combat what he termed "the greatest danger that exists in America today."

Gruenther said the United States is making "good progress" in the development of intermediate ballistic missiles and has the launching sites for such weapons in more than 150 NATO airfields in Europe.

Russia recently announced it has successfully fired an intercontinental ballistic missile capable of striking any target area in the world. It was the first country, East or West, to make such a claim.

Gruenther said the Soviet plan is to split the West by saying to NATO or other western nations that they should be neutral or "you might have your head blown off."

But, Gruenther said, despite Soviet attempts to break down Western defenses, NATO's strength has increased five to six times since 1951.

Gruenther also touched on the status-of-forces agreements and urged the Legion to take a "reasonable position" on such treaties. "It is an integral part of our alliance concept," he said.

If such agreements are overthrown, he said, the United States will revert to a fortress America concept which "is no longer feasible."

Under status-of-forces agreements American servicemen overseas can be prosecuted by local authorities for crimes committed off post.

The Legion has said such agreements need revision especially since the case of Army Specialist William S. Girard in Japan. Girard is being tried in a Japanese court for killing a Japanese woman scavenging on a military firing range.

New U.N. Assembly Head

New Zealander Elected Head Of U.N. General Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The 12th U.N. Assembly opened on a harmonious note Tuesday when a threatened split over the presidency was averted at the last moment. But deep East-West differences over world issues pre-saged bitter debate ahead.

Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand was chosen president after Charles Malik of Lebanon dramatically withdrew his candidacy in the interests of "Harmony, amity and peace."

Then by unanimous vote, Malaya, the newest British Commonwealth nation, was admitted to the U.N. as its 82nd member.

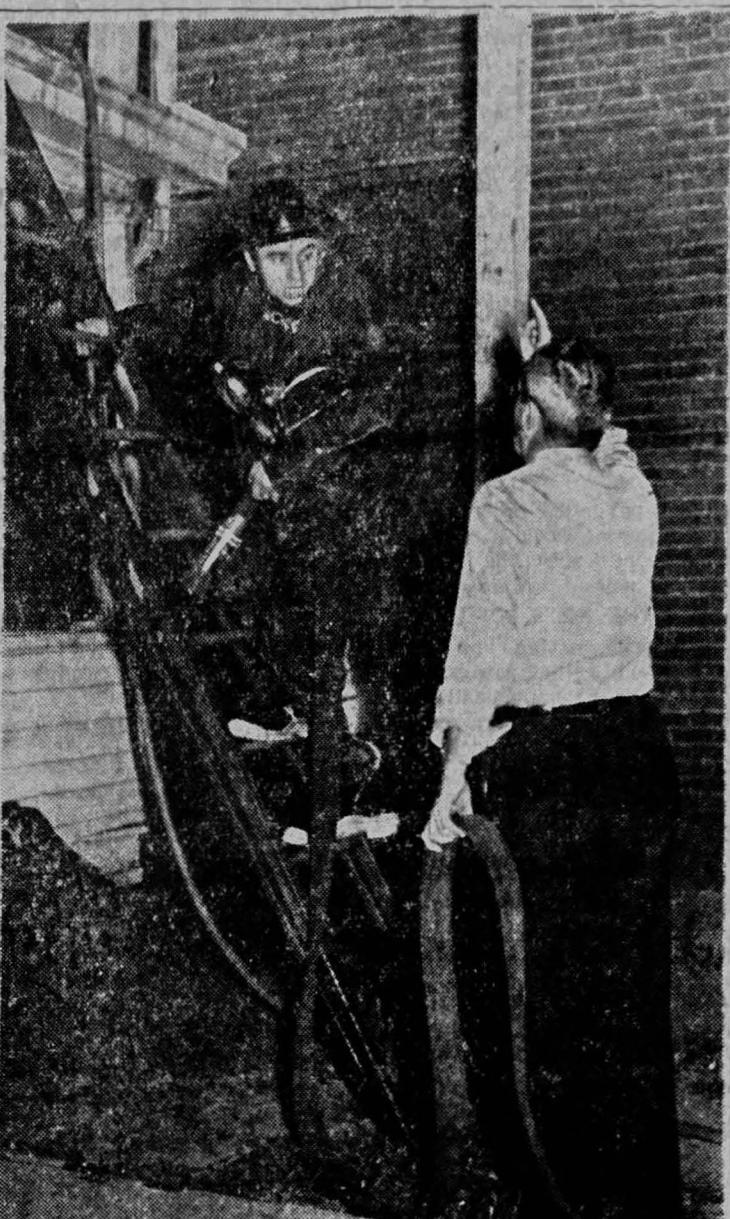

Munro is a 56-year-old former newspaperman and attorney who has played a prominent role in U.N. affairs for the past five years.

Despite the withdrawal of Malik, a secret vote was taken. The count was 77 for Munro and 1 for Malik. Three nations abstained.

Debate over adoption of an agenda — the list of issues to be considered by the Assembly — is set for Wednesday. This can produce the first East-West rumblings and attempts by some Asian nations to urge a "neutralist" course.

The United States is confident it has enough support to block once more the admission of communist China. It will seek postponement of the question as it has done in previous sessions.

Opening of general debate will follow the adoption of the agenda, and this will set the tone for the entire session.

Fire Out

IOWA CITY FIREMEN fought down a fire Tuesday night at the John W. Johnston residence, 307 S. Madison St. The blaze started in an upstairs closet, but firemen were unable to determine its exact cause. One upstairs bedroom was badly damaged by the flames and two others were slightly damaged. Firemen prevented the fire from spreading to the rest of the house, although the downstairs was slightly damaged by water. Brady's Super Market, next door to the Johnston house, was not in danger at any time. The fire started about 7:45 p.m.

U.S. Rocket May Go Up 4,000 Miles

Launching Platform To Be 20 Miles High

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Air Force announced Tuesday it will fire a 4-stage rocket from a balloon-supported platform 100,000 feet above the earth late this month.

The rocket shot, the second phase of the Air Force research project "Far Side," will be aimed at obtaining scientific data 1,000 to 4,000 miles above the earth, an altitude of the upper atmosphere never before pierced by man.

The Air Research and Development Command (ARDC) said the rocket will be launched from above Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific during the latter part of this month. No specific date was announced.

A TINY but powerful radio transmitter located in the last stage of the rocket will send back to earth data on cosmic rays, the earth's magnetic field and other areas of Air Force scientific interest, the announcement added.

The ARDC said this exploratory research effort has no nuclear energy aspects nor is it an attempt to place a satellite in space.

The first phase of project Far Side was accomplished last June 23 when the Air Force said the world's largest balloon — 200 feet in diameter — successfully lifted nearly two tons of equipment to an altitude of more than 104,000 feet, Hoffa said he will be in New York to "meet with the boys there to talk things over."

Hoffa said his chances of succeeding Dave Beck as the $50,000-a-year president of the Teamsters are "as good as ever" despite claims of rivals for the job. The Teamsters will elect a new president at their convention opening Sept. 30 in Miami Beach.

The return of Kennedy to Detroit Monday night marked his second visit here to direct a staff of Senate committee investigators seeking information concerning the activities of Hoffa and the Teamsters.

Hoffa said he will be in New York next week to attend a pre-trial hearing on a Federal wiretapping indictment in which he and two others are defendants.

Hoffa scoffed at reports that Thomas J. Haggerty, secretary-treasurer of the Chicago Milk Drivers Local 753, is developing as a serious rival for the presidency of the Teamsters Union.

Presumably, the rocket would be fired in the same manner. The Air Force has said it will blast through the top of the huge balloon.

NO DESCRIPTION has been released on the 4-stage rockets although they are reported to be considerably smaller than the 72-foot-long 3-stage rocket which will launch the earth satellite.

Eight complete rockets have been made for the test, six for launching and two as spares. Presumably other firings will take place after the initial one late this month.

D.I. To Start New Articles

NEXT Tuesday, The Daily Iowan will present the first of seven articles on "The Riddle of Russia," by John Sunier. Sunier, a senior majoring in music at SUI, tells of his impressions and observations during a trip to Russia this summer.

Thursday, a new column entitled "Needle Talk" will offer comment, criticism, and critique on the latest record outpourings. (Old stuff, too.) It is also written by John Sunier, who does this job regularly for WSUI.

Friday, Michael Engel will be back from his summer vacation with his tips on bridge: how to win, lose, and draw.

SCHOOL INITIATION STUNT Causes Teacher's Death

UTICA, Kan. (AP) — A supervised high school initiation stunt, organized to keep upper classmen from "going wild," ended Monday night in the death of Utica's school superintendent.

W. H. Sallee, about 55, was found dead in a room of a vacant farm house southwest of Utica, where he, another adult supervisor and a group of students had gone for the initiation of freshmen.

Undersheriff Jack Gantz said an autopsy showed Sallee, who took the part in the stunt of a man being hanged, had died of accidental strangulation.

Sheriff Harold Melles and Gantz gave this account:

The superintendent stood in a darkened room with a rope around his body. As freshmen were led to the door, a light was flashed on and Sallee would slump slightly to act as though he had been hanged.

The group decided to take a picture of Sallee and Mrs. Betty Stevens, senior class sponsor, opened the door and called to him. There was no answer. After two or three calls, a light was turned on to reveal Sallee slumped over.

A doctor was called, but Sallee was dead.

Gantz said one of the students reported the rope attached to the ceiling, was around Sallee's body but did not go around his neck.

"We don't know for sure what happened," Gantz said. "We believe he fell and struck his neck on the rope. There was a rope burn halfway around the side of his neck. There was quite a bit of debris on the floor and he might have slipped in it."

Gantz described the stunt as "supervised and well organized."

"They did it," he said, "to keep the kids from getting wild with the freshmen. They were trying to prevent anybody from getting hurt."

ESTHER Pushes Campaign For Election

BALTIMORE (AP) — Under fire of Senator Rackets Committee investigator James R. Hoffa left for New York Tuesday to push his candidacy for president of the Teamsters Union.

The Midwestern leader of the Teamsters took off from Detroit as the Senate committee's chief counsel, Robert F. Kennedy, renewed an investigation of Teamsters Union activities in the Detroit area.

"I'm not worried," Hoffa told newsmen. "Kennedy and his investigator won't find anything."

Hoffa said he was going to New York to "meet with the boys there to talk things over."

Hoffa said his chances of succeeding Dave Beck as the $50,000-a-year president of the Teamsters are "as good as ever" despite claims of rivals for the job. The Teamsters will elect a new president at their convention opening Sept. 30 in Miami Beach.

The German Vote

The West Germans have returned Konrad Adenauer to office with an overwhelming vote — affirming both their confidence in him and in his pro-Western policies. They have also given him an absolute majority in parliament — 270 of 497 voting seats — leaving him free to continue his activities without the need for continual bickering and compromise.

The landslide vote is particularly significant in view of both the popular demand for reduced armament and re-unification that the Socialists tried to exploit by calling for more neutrality and less troops, and of the staggering record vote — 88 per cent of the qualified voters turned out to cast their ballots. His victory indicates that the West Germans are able to grasp the realities of the world situation and not be misled by enticing but impractical dreams.

By their vote, the West Germans have given new hope and new strength to the Western world.

The Case Against Hoffa

The country is watching the coming Teamsters Union election with interest all out of proportion to such an election, even of an organization the size of that group.

The reason for this is apparent. Although Jimmy Hoffa has not been convicted of unlawful acts, his record is one of long and intimate association with the underworld, and also of questionable, if legal, activities. While we have no right to condemn him as a criminal on the basis of this background, we do have a right to consider whether or not the tremendous power lodged in the hands of the president of the Teamsters Union should fall to him.

It is not a question of condemnation by rumor, or unfounded slander, but of definite questionable behavior on the part of Mr. Hoffa.

In the stunned aftermath of the first revelations of Beck's activities, and then Hoffa's actions, there seemed to be little hope that the union could be cleaned up. Hoffa swept along to unquestioned ascendancy in the race for the presidency, despite the almost daily disclosures that rocked the country.

Union members themselves seemed indifferent to the implications of his candidacy, and those few who spoke up were drowned in the roar of "We endorse Hoffa."

Disheartened by the apparent refusal of Teamster Union officials to clean up their own mess, and the inability of the lower ranked members to do so, George Meany reluctantly arrived at the conclusion that the teamsters would have to be ejected from the AFL-CIO.

Dr. Robert D. Leiter, labor expert and associate professor at City College of New York, recently warned that losing the Teamsters Union might cripple organized labor's drive for better wages, hours and working conditions — a measure of the penalty President Meany is willing to submit to rather than keep the Teamsters as they now are, unpurged.

But now there seems to be a ray of hope on the horizon.

Thomas J. Haggerty, secretary-treasurer of Chicago Local 753, is mounting an increasingly more effective drive to unseat Hoffa, promising to clean up the union if elected. His campaign, ineffectual at first, has been gathering momentum and is now at least a force to be considered.

The Philadelphia Teamster's council reversed its endorsement of Hoffa, the Western Teamsters have remained uncommitted, and the Chicago Teamsters Joint Council, while retaining their endorsement of Hoffa, released members to vote as they choose rather than as the majority decides as they have usually done.

We know little of Haggerty's background, but it seems to be both acceptable and unquestioned.

Ordinarily unwilling to take sides in such elections, we cannot but say that we hope Thomas Haggerty wins — for decency, for the good of labor, and for the country.

Berry Named As Speaker

Clyde M. Berry, associate director of the Institute of Agricultural Medicine at SUI, will speak at the 11th annual Minnesota Public Health conference Friday in Minneapolis.

Professor Berry will speak on "Agricultural Occupational Health" at a general session on industrial health. Experts from several fields will discuss chronic disease and aging, cardiac disease in children and the health problems that exist in suburban areas.

Professor Berry has been associate director of the SUI Institute, the first of its kind in the nation, since it was established in the fall of 1955. The Institute conducts medical and social research on diseases to which farm people are especially susceptible and develops preventive measures to safeguard the farmer's health.

Analyzing the Constitutional Crisis

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two separate articles by Kirk Porter, Professor and Head of the SUI Political Science Department, dealing with the crisis occasioned by Governor Faubus' use of troops to block integration in Little Rock's Central High School. The second one, dealing with contempt proceedings against a governor, will be published tomorrow.

By PROF. KIRK PORTER

Those who try to obstruct integration are severely criticized for refusing to obey the Constitution. The following statement is not intended to justify their point of view but to explain it, in part.

The Supreme Court believed that segregation was wrong and ought to be abolished. In 1954 the Court ruled that the Constitution forbids segregation. The opinion was based on these words in the 14th amendment:

"No State shall ... deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

The ruling meant that to practice segregation was to deny equal protection of the laws.

Constitutional Amendments

Amendments to the Constitution were proposed by two-thirds of Congress, and adopted by the legislatures of three-fourths of the States. The Congress which proposed this Amendment could not have intended it to forbid segregation and individuality resulting in works of art. Only 65 copies of "Sayings of Jesus" were printed by Girard.

The book was shown and read on a program telecast by the Columbia Broadcasting System last spring, the first time that such a work has been presented on television.

All 30 of the double pages of the book are displayed in cases in the SUI exhibit.

GREAT CIRCLE

MARION, Ill. (AP) — Sailor Robert Mick is back where he started after a six-year tour in the Navy.

Now an electrician's mate first class, he has returned to Marion for duty at the same recruiting station in the post office building.

He served aboard the submarine Sea Robin at New London, Conn., before assignment to Marion.

Opponents

Opponents of the decision believe the Court said something that is simply not true. They believe the 14th Amendment does not forbid segregation, never was intended to do so either by those who wrote it or those who adopted it, or by a long list of supreme court justices who ruled upon it. Therefore they believe they are not refusing to obey the Constitution.

They are refusing to accept what they believe to be a downright false, untrue statement by the Supreme Court.

To a vast proportion of the public these considerations are probably quite unknown. It is also probably true that a vast proportion of the American people believe with the Supreme Court that segregation is morally wrong and ought to be abolished. To them the issue is very clear and simple: The Supreme Court has spoken. Their decision is the law.

It should be obeyed.

The Supreme Court

One hundred and thirty years ago the so-called father of the Constitution, James Madison, raised a troublesome question: What to do if the Supreme Court itself violates the Constitution? Is the Court above and beyond the Constitution and not bound by it? He never got an answer, and he admitted that he did not know a good answer himself. He did not live to hear a chief justice say, a hundred years after his death: "The Constitution is what the courts say it is."

The 1954 decision was supported by arguments to the effect that segregation is a social evil, morally wrong, and contrary to our basic concepts of justice and equality. But convincing as this argument is, in the minds of many people it does not justify the Court in construing words in the Constitution to mean something they do not say.

Responsibilities

Realization of all this explains in part why responsible officers in Congress, in both political parties, in the executive branch, and in the States and in the Courts have been slow to resort to drastic action. They are widely accused of maneuvering to capture the negro vote, but that is by no means an adequate explanation.

Responsible statesmen are aware that once before in our history we faced such a constitutional crisis. And that time we got a war.

Certainly nobody, least of all the President, wants the boys to go marching through Georgia again.

Opponents

Opponents of the decision believe the Court said something that is simply not true. They believe the

Interpreting Tito's Position Not As Far 'West' As It Seems

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

At the outset of his conferences with M. Gomulka, Marshal Tito pointedly listed Red China as a state which thought like Poland and Yugoslavia.

It sounded as though he was deliberately saying these three were unique among nations, and that he was defining what he considered a Titoist bloc.

As the conversations continued, however, Tito kept carefully reminding Russia that he was not trying to set up such a block as an entity separate from international communism.

HE AND GOMULKA endorsed in detail the Soviet contention that German unification must be produced through negotiations between duly recognized states of East and West Germany.

Then on his own, Tito agreed to support Poland in claiming the present Polish-German boundary, along the Oder-Neisse rivers, as permanent.

At only one point did they politely hold out against what is believed to be a Russian policy — the revival of the Comintern or establishment of some similar organization to insure joint action by communist states.

THE COMMUNIQUE, however, is notable for its lack of vitriol. Poland and Yugoslavia say they want to get along with everybody, not just Russia.

This conference casts Tito more firmly than ever in the role of agent for Nikita Khrushchev's campaign to establish cooperation between Communists and Socialists everywhere.

Just how it will affect Polish and Yugoslav relations with the West cannot be determined until it is seen whether they intend to do more than generalize.

TITO UNDOUBTEDLY is running some risks, since he would face serious problems if he tried to return to integration with Russia after basing his economy on Western-built plants and his army on Western arms.

Gomulka, who has just been promised more American aid, will hope to convince the West that he must ride the teeter-totter somewhat after the fashion of Finland.

Defense Talk

SECRETARY OF DEFENSE Charles Wilson and the man who will succeed him next month, Neil H. McElroy of Cincinnati, talk at the Pentagon on Tuesday as they pose at the Pentagon on the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Defense Department. Wilson plans to retire about Oct. 10.

THE FCC'S POSITION

The rub, so far, has been the problem of getting permission from the Federal Communications Commission to start operations, since the Government controls the air waves.

At last they may have found a way out.

To understand the latest and perhaps climactic developments, let's go back to the beginning of the hassle.

This came in December 1949 when the Zenith Radio Corp. of Chicago applied to the FCC for permission to experiment with its system of broadcasting "scrambled" programs over the air to pay-home TV viewers. To unscramble the picture, the subscriber would insert a coded electronic "key" into a special decoding device attached to the set.

Zenith's action triggered an immediate storm.

The big networks complained that toll TV with its potentially fantastic profits would wreck them by luring away all the star entertainers.

Movie exhibitors protested that once the pay TV outfits began broadcasting first-run films into millions of private homes, it would steal their audiences and darken every movie theater in the land.

Year after year, under tremendous pressure from every direction, the FCC has sidestepped, ducked, feinted, back-pedaled and

Plane Ditches In Sea: Two Men Missing

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP) — A U.S. B-47 Stratojet bomber ditched Tuesday in the wind-swept Gulf of St. Lawrence between Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

One of the crewmen was quickly rescued. Canadian and U.S. ships and planes hunted the others in foul weather.

Three men presumably made up the crew of the six-engine bomber. It ran into trouble on a routine aerial refueling training mission.

A radioed report said a U.S. Air Force C-54 had spotted three airmen in the water, not far from the place where the bomber plunged into the waves 30 miles off Newfoundland, and dropped off 20-man life-rafts to them.

One airman climbed into a raft and was picked up within two hours by an SA-16, an amphibious air rescue plane.

But Royal Canadian Air Force officials said the report that two others had been sighted with him was incorrect. The hunt for the others was pressed in an area covered by low clouds and buffeted by southeast winds of 20 miles an hour.

The SA-16 that picked up the one crewman reported by radio it might have to taxi all the way into Port Au Basques, Newfoundland, because of rough seas.

The B-47 was assigned to the 36th Bombardment Wing of the Plattsburgh, N.Y., Air Force Base.

Juvenile Court

Should It Be Open To The Public

By GLEN WOLF
Associated Press Staff Writer

One-fourth of our states have laws barring public attendance and banning newspaper coverage of cases in juvenile courts.

In addition, almost half of the states leave this matter of secrecy up to presiding judges, a procedure which generally results in closed hearings.

An Associated Press survey also shows that the remainder of the states either have laws expressly permitting open doors on juvenile cases, or there are no laws one way or another.

There appeared to be no real issue on secrecy; in felonies or other cases of serious higher court jurisdiction. Authorities generally agreed that, if teen-agers act like adults, they, too, should face the publicity of their crimes.

A check of 1957 state legislatures showed little activity in the direction of increased coverage of juvenile courts. Five states, Arizona, Florida, Kansas, Missouri and New Hampshire, enacted new laws in this field, but they varied from outright closed hearing statutes to an open-door policy on all such cases.

Newsmen prefer to have the court records and hearings open and then decide how the information should be handled, whether it should be published and to what extent.

Should names of juvenile offenders be published? If the names are published, what is the psychological effect upon the offender?

These are questions judges in some 20 states ask themselves with each case. In another 12 states, the matter isn't open to questions, because the law forbids use of names. And in the remaining states the questions are asked and answered by editors themselves because the statutes either permit publication of names, or do not prohibit it.

Authorities do not agree on simple hard and fast answers to the question.

In Wyoming, Gilbert L. Spence, Fremont County attorney, recently announced he would not provide "protection of privacy" to young offenders.

But in Goshen County, Wyo., Stan K. Hathaway didn't believe in a down-the-line policy. He felt first offenders should be given a break on publicity.

In Oregon, coverage is permitted of all juvenile cases with press rights being the same as in adult cases. In practice, however, coverage varies.

At least one newspaper uses all names, but the majority use names only in more serious cases.

Coverage is permitted in Wisconsin, but under no circumstances can names be used unless the case involves a juvenile booked by police in connection with an auto accident. The latter provision was enacted this year.

The survey clearly showed little progress in any direction. For every new law opening one state's courts, there was a law closing them in some other state, either outright or at the presiding judge's discretion.

The majority opinion among lawmakers and jurists, as spelled out in statutes and policy, seemed to favor deciding each case as it arises.

Calls For Action To Meet University Housing Needs

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following editorial by Dr. J. W. Maucker, President of Iowa State Teachers College, appeared in the Waterloo Courier.

We Iowans are certainly in a queer tangle over buildings at the three state schools. We are allowing a dispute over taxes to prevent us from building classrooms we know we need.

All responsible state officials agree publicly that we should build more buildings at the University, State College and Teachers College. They so agreed during the last legislature.

Conference Called On Controversial Highway Project

MASON CITY (AP) — A conference between state highway officials and Cerro Gordo County officers here to discuss what to do about the Rockwell-Swaledale road has been called for Friday, County Attorney William Pappas said Tuesday.

The controversial road, on which the county has been carrying out a "stage blacktopping" project which the State Highway Commission contends violates state law, remains incomplete.

Work was stopped on the project after Atty. Gen. Norman Erbe advised the County Board of Supervisors, County Engineer and County Auditor that they would be liable for damages under their bonds if the work continued.

Pappas said the conference to discuss what should be done about the road was called Tuesday by Chester Lyman, assistant attorney general assigned to the highway commission.

The State Highway Commission contends the county, which called for bids, then rejected them and proceeded with the road project using county labor, hasn't met specifications required for such a road.

Pappas said the Friday meeting would discuss the engineering problems involved in bringing the road up to the specifications called for in the bids taken and rejected early in the summer.

Young Polio Victim Elopés

NORTH TONAWANDA, N.Y. (AP) — A 16-year-old Chicago girl crippled by polio notified her family Tuesday she had eloped.

Pretty, blonde Marion Halstead's parents reported her missing when she did not return from a Sunday night movie date with Eugene Lalac, 23, a furnace repairman.

Marion, stricken with polio two years ago, was in her wheelchair when she left her Chicago home with Lalac.

Tuesday, she telephoned to her parents from this western New York community, where she and Lalac were visiting his parents.

Marion's father, Burton Halstead, 41, told a newsman in Chicago that his daughter had told her mother she had been married to Lalac and asked if they could return to the Halstead home.

"I'm so happy, of course you can," Halstead quoted his wife as answering. The Halsteads said Monday they had agreed to allow Marion to marry Lalac when she was 17.

File Gas Tax Petitions

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Gas tax petitions carrying in excess of 28,600 names were filed with the secretary of state Tuesday afternoon, just 20 minutes before the 5 p.m. deadline.

The signatures, as calculated by the petition bearers, were more than the 28,397 required to put the next cent of gas tax issue on next year's November election ballot.

But observers doubted that the "cushion" was large enough to take care of names which will be ruled invalid for one reason or another.

Secretary of State Frank Marsh said experience has shown that around 10 per cent of petition signatures are found to be invalid. Marsh said the checking of petitions will begin first thing

Hodge Ordered To Court To Face Conspiracy Charge

CHICAGO (AP) — Orville Hodge, imprisoned former Illinois state auditor, was ordered Tuesday to appear in Criminal Court Sept. 30 on a conspiracy indictment.

Judge Henry W. Dieringer entered the order. He also continued until that date the arraignment of a co-defendant, Attorney J. Roy Browning.

Browning and Hodge are accused of conspiring to defraud the state. The indictment charges that Browning submitted a $15,000 bill for legal services which Hodge used to cover a $15,000 expenditure he made of state funds.

Browning, attorney for Hodge when the ex-auditor organized the Bank of Elmwood Park in 1955, is also charged with aiding Hodge in committing larceny. This involves the same alleged transaction.

Browning, who resigned from the Chicago Bar Assn., is free on $2,000 bond.

Hodge is serving a 12-15-year prison sentence in the Menard branch of the Illinois State Penitentiary at Chester, Ill. He misappropriated about 2½ million of funds entrusted to his care by cashing fake state checks.

Ike Plays Golf;
Hagerty Reports
He's A Grandpa

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Eisenhower defied the rain to play golf Tuesday. And he got a big kick out of his press secretary becoming a grandfather for the first time.

The light rain didn't stop Mr. Eisenhower from getting in his daily 18 holes of golf at the Newport Country Club.

The relaxation tone was set by press secretary James C. Hagerty with his smiling announcement that he became a grandfather Tuesday morning.

The 48-year-old Hagerty told his morning news conference that his son and daughter-in-law, Marine Lt. and Mrs. Roger Hagerty, became parents at the U.S. Naval Hospital at Quantico, Va., where young Hagerty is stationed.

The new grandpa said the 8-pound, 5-ounce boy was named James Roger after grandfather and the 25-year-old father.

Hagerty wound up his personal announcement with the pointed remark that "I'm going to teach the boy very quickly to say 'No comment.'"

37 Thousand Doses Of Flu Vaccine To Iowa

DES MOINES (AP) — Manufacturers of Asian flu vaccine have allotted a total of 37,865 doses to Iowa so far, Dr. Edmund G. Zimmerman, state health commissioner, said Tuesday.

The manufacturers added 21,412 doses to the 16,453 doses assigned to Iowa Sept. 5 in the first release of vaccine.

Under a voluntary agreement among manufacturers, Iowa gets 1.6 per cent of the national production for civilian use. Under this formula, Iowa is expected to receive about 950,000 doses by next January or February. That would be enough for about one-third of the state's population.

Distribution of the vaccine within the state will be made through physicians and druggists.

Kasper Pleads Innocent Of Inciting To Riot

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — More than 2,200 children filed peacefully back into their elementary schools with integrated first grades here Tuesday under Federal court and city police protection.

Judge Henry W. Dieringer entered the order. He also continued until that date the arraignment of a co-defendant, Attorney J. Roy Browning.

Browning and Hodge are accused of conspiring to defraud the state. The indictment charges that Browning submitted a $15,000 bill for legal services which Hodge used to cover a $15,000 expenditure he made of state funds.

Shorty after classes were resumed, roving segregationist John Kasper was held for Criminal Court trial on a charge of inciting to riot. The charges grew out of his activities here last week.

Criminal Judge Chester K. Hart gave Kasper two months to prepare for trial and indicated it probably would be set later for mid-November. Kasper remained in jail in default of $2,500 bond.

Total enrollment at the six integrated schools grew today to 2,601, including 11 Negro first graders.

Attendance totaled 2,241, including 10 Negroes. Parents of the only Negro enrolled at Hattie Cotton School, dynamited last Tuesday, transferred her Tuesday to an all-Negro school.

Classes were resumed in undamaged and repaired portions of the Hattie Cotton School and attendance was nearly normal.

The relaxation tone was set by press secretary James C. Hagerty with his smiling announcement that he became a grandfather Tuesday morning.

Iowa City CMA Names Selection Committee Head

Appointment of Jim H. Nesmith, 256 Magowan Ave., as chairman of the Council-Manager Association (CMA) candidate selection committee was announced Tuesday by Robert Lind, Sr., CMA board chairman.

Other members of the committee are: Robert Alderman, 321 Melrose Court, Elliot D. Full, 11 7th Ave., Pat Foster, 1821 E. Court, and Elwin K. Shain, 632 Brown.

The committee will recommend to the CMA board candidates to run for the two vacancies on the city council which will be filled at the November election.

Nesmith says the committee invites nominations from the public, but submission of names should be accompanied by a written statement from the nominee indicating his willingness to run if recommended by the CMA.

Yankees Nab Detroit 7 to 1 in Eighth Inning

Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Like a minority stockholder raising a rumpus at an annual meeting, the Kansas City Athletics seem to be having a lot to say for a last place American League club as to who shall win the pennants in both major leagues.

The A's practically assured the pennant for the Yankees by defeating the Detroit Tigers 7-1 with a six-run explosion in the eighth inning.

The victory padded the Yankees' bulge to 6½ games over Chicago and reduced their magic number to five over the second-place White Sox, who lost 7-5 at Baltimore. Any combination of New York victories and Chicago defeats totaling five will clinch the flag for the Yankees, who have nine games left. The White Sox have 12 to play.

THEIR CONTRIBUTION to the National League race is Irv Noren, sent to the Cardinals last Aug. 31. Noren has come through with some timely hits for the Red Birds as they have been closing in on the Milwaukee Braves, and those hits, combined with others which still may come, conceivably could make the difference if St. Louis finishes in front.

Should the Cardinals win, the world series with the Yankees would offer the rather odd picture of a player who forever will be associated with St. Louis performing in a Yankee uniform, and a man whose name is associated with the Yankees playing for the Cardinals.

These two athletes, unwilling turncoats because of manipulations of the front offices, are Enos Slaughter and Noren, and Slaughter, incidentally, is another Kansas City contribution to the Yankee cause, only not too recently.

Slaughter, anybody's idea of a rough, tough, give-it-all-you-got baseball player, wore a Cardinal uniform from the time he broke into the majors in 1938 until he bade the club a tearful farewell when shipped to the Yankees in 1954.

The Yankees sent him to Kansas City in May the following year, and when he was having a fine season there in 1956 they bought him back late in August to help in the stretch run.

He did just that, and also was quite sensational during the world series last fall, batting .350, with the hits coming at most inopportune times as far as the Dodgers were concerned.

BUT IT IS the Cardinals with whom he is identified, and nobody who saw it ever will forget his great throw from rightfield to nail a Yankee at third base in the 1942 world series, or will forget his mad dash from first base to score against the Red Sox in the 1946 classic on what was little more than a routine single to center.

Noren's association with the Yankees isn't quite as vivid as that of Slaughter with the Cardinals, but he was with them longer than he was with any other club, and participated in three world series for the New Yorkers.

In his third year with Washington he was swapped to the Yankees in a six-player deal. That was in May, 1952, and he wore the pinstripe uniform of the New York club until he was sent to Kansas City in a 13-player deal last February.

Troubled by bad knees in recent years, he twice last season was placed on the disabled list. His pins seem to be improving, and Frank Lane, Cardinal general manager, thinks the outfielder's future is promising enough to warrant his purchase.

So Slaughter and Noren will have one common worry should they meet in the series this fall. They'll have to be careful not to trot to the wrong benches between innings from force of habit.

L.A. County Board Okay's Bums Deal

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors Tuesday placed its stamp of approval on the package deal to bring the Brooklyn ball club to Los Angeles. It was up to Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers, to accept or decline the bid.

By unanimous vote, the supervisors agreed to appropriate up to $2,700,000 to build access roads to the site of the proposed baseball package proposal.

The supervisors' action came as no surprise since three of the five votes were already pledged to go along with the City Council in its decision Monday involving the more detailed aspects of the overall package proposal.

O'Malley has remained silent on the developments here. He has indicated he would have nothing to say until the Board of Estimates, a governing body in New York, meets this week to consider proposals which would, if acceptable to O'Malley, keep the Dodgers in Brooklyn.

Victory Goes To Bob Shantz; It's His 11th

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees moved a step nearer to their third consecutive American League championship Tuesday by defeating the Detroit Tigers 7-1 with a six-run explosion in the eighth inning.

The victory padded the Yankees' bulge to 6½ games over Chicago and reduced their magic number to five over the second-place White Sox, who lost 7-5 at Baltimore. Any combination of New York victories and Chicago defeats totaling five will clinch the flag for the Yankees, who have nine games left. The White Sox have 12 to play.

Bobby Shantz and Billy Hoeft waged a fine southpaw duel until the eighth when the Yankees routed Hoeft with a sudden attack that included five hits, two walks and two Detroit errors.

Hank Bauer opened the assault with a home run, and Shantz drove in the last two runs with a single. Elston Howard, who had 3 of the Yankees' 10 hits including a solo homer in the second inning, contributed a scoring single in the big inning.

Shantz, who hadn't won in exactly a month, turned in one of his best performances of the season. He had the Tigers either hitting his curve ball on the ground or popping it into the infield. The Tigers made only four hits.

The victory was Shantz' 11th of the season.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles came from four runs behind to tie the score in the eighth inning and then beat the Chicago White Sox Tuesday night, 7-5, in the 10th on Bob Nieman's Homer.

The setback left the White Sox 6½ games behind the league-leading New York Yankees with 12 games to play.

Nieman's 13th homer in back of Joe Durham's single duplicated earlier long distance hitting by Gus Triandos which had kept the Orioles in the game.

Triandos poled his 17th home run of the season in the fifth inning and his double knocked in the last two of the four Oriole runs in the eighth.

Southpaw Billy Pierce was the victim of the eighth inning uprising as he failed for the second time in quest of his 20th pitching victory.

The White Sox jumped off to a three-run lead in the first inning on doubles by Luis Aparicio and Earl Torgeson and singles by Minnie Minoso and Sherman Lollar.

Minoso's 32nd double, was followed by Jim Rivera's single for another in the sixth and Rivera drove in the fifth Chicago run with the triple in the eighth.

Pierce was breezing along on only three hits at that stage. Then Billy Goodman lighted a fire under him with a pinch hit double.

Gardner followed with a single to score Goodman. Jim Busby drew a walk and Triandos knocked them home.

BOSTON (AP) — Ailing Ted Williams crashed a pinch homer in his first appearance in more than two weeks and the Boston Red Sox quickly added another run Tuesday night for a 9-8 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

The slugger, sidelined since Sept. 1 with a heavy chest cold, tied the count at 8-8 with his 34th homer to lead off the eighth inning.

Jimmy Piersall then laid down a perfect bunt and advanced to second on a wild pitch. Billy Klaus followed with a run-producing single off first baseman Vic Power's glove.

Believe It Or Not Kids, Other Sports Do Exist

By JOHN CLARY

NEW YORK (AP) — No, children, baseball and football are not the only sports that are played in the United States, despite what you may be reading on your sports page during the next few weeks.

This is the time of the year when Mr. Fan will be getting a steady diet of baseball pre, during and post World Series and football college, professional, high school. And in between, the pro basketball camps are being readied and the pro hockey training sites are being put to good use.

But elsewhere, some people are practicing how to skin a muskrat, prodding frogs to record leaps, getting the most mileage out of a pigeon and even saddling up a rocking chair for an endurance test that would have made grandma's sojourns seem like nothing at all.

No, children, daddy isn't off his rocker for these things are classed as sports — and are as legitimate to some as baseball is in the Bronx.

Take for instance the muskrat skinners. These lads are looking forward to the National Muskrat Skinning Championships this winter.

Their goal? Why, a one minute skinning, of course. For the uneducated, this is analogous to a less-than-four-minute mile. A contest must skin three of the poor things in less than a minute to become the Derek Ibbotson of the muskrat skinners.

If any of you happen to know a frog who can travel over 10 and a half feet in three bounds, then sign him up for the Calaveras Jumping Frog Jubilee next year. This cat ... er, frog would be a world record holder.

By the way give it a name too. The Chinese entry last year was named Won Long Hop.

A memo to you park bench sitters: keep your eye peeled for a pigeon who looks like a B-52.

This year, one of the birds, named Blue Streak, made it from New York to Chicago in 27 hours.

Still not convinced? Well, take the case of the little grey-haired lady who has laid claim to the world's rocking chair championship. She rocked away for 93 hours, 8 minutes, outlasting three men and two women in the process.

Yes, kiddies, there's more to the world of sports than meets the eye. And in case you've forgotten, the World Series begins Oct. 2, and Oklahoma meets Pitt to begin the 1957 college football season Saturday.

How Do YOU Rate at the 'Size-Up Moment?'

Touchdown Tendencies-

Smith Explains The System

By DR. ALLEN N. SMITH

Twice weekly throughout the college football season will appear the ratings of the nation's gridiron teams by Dr. Allen N. Smith of San Jose State College.

The Smith Touchdown Tendency System of Ratings is a combination of mathematics and statistical studies. Factors such as sectional favoritism, hunches and popular consensuses are ignored by the System in its football predictions.

The Smith Rating System for predicting the outcome of football games is based on the "touchdown tendencies" of the opposing teams plus the offensive and defensive factors of each team.

Here is what is meant by touch-down tendency.

A team that rolls up terrific yardage, yet scores only a few points, has a low yard-per-point ratio, that is, a low touch-down tendency.

Conversely, a team such as the 1956 Oklahoma squad, which was capable of scoring from any part of the field, has a low yard-per-point ratio and, therefore, a high touch-down tendency.

After determining the teams' tendencies and their offensive and defensive factors, both passing and rushing, these figures are substituted in a set of simultaneous equations, from which is determined the winner and point difference between the two teams.

Because of their sound statistical and mathematical background, the Smith Ratings forecast the winners and point differences with considerable accuracy.

The System, like any other such affair, becomes more accurate as the season progresses, due to the greater amount of data available on which to base calculations.

Hot Rodder Dies As Racer Explodes

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Graden Miller, 26-year-old hot rod racer from Oklahoma City, died in a hospital Tuesday of burns suffered when his racer exploded and burned during the National Hot Rod Races here Aug. 30.

Miller was burned critically the opening day of the racing program when the transmission of his car exploded and caught fire.

Aaron Bats Braves to 3-1 Win Over Giants

Hits Homerun No. 41, Ties With Banks

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Henry Aaron slammed his 41st homer of the season and Joe Adcock hit his 10th Tuesday night as the Milwaukee Braves beat the New York Giants 3-1.

Righthander Bob Trowbridge allowed just five singles as he won his seventh victory against five losses this season.

Aaron doubled and Adcock homered in the second inning to account for Milwaukee's first two runs.

The homer by Aaron in the eighth enabled him to tie the Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs for the home run lead in the National League.

The Braves got their runs and all nine hits off starter Curt Bragay. He was replaced in the eighth by Marv Grissom.

Del Rice, the Milwaukee catcher, was forced to leave the game after he pulled a muscle in his right leg in the fourth.

The crowd of 25,390 in County Stadium brought the Braves' 1957 total to 1,997,735.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, trailing 5-3, broke out with a seven-run seventh inning Tuesday night to rout the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers, 12-5, and remain three games behind league-leading Milwaukee.

Shaky Brooklyn fielding kept St. Louis in the game until the merry-go-round rally, matching the Cardinals' largest inning of the season.

Then Ed Roebuck walked in the tie-breaking run and Irv Noren followed with a clinching bases-loaded triple, the most damaging of 12 Redbird hits in the game.

The victory boosted the Cards' advantage over the third-place Dodgers to five games.

The loser was Danny McDevitt, first of three Brooklyn pitchers and the victim of sloppy support and his own wildness.

The Cubs' Moe Drabowsky not only outpitched Jack Sanford in a battle between outstanding rookie righthanders, but garnished a slick seven-hit performance with the first home run of his National League career.

Bobby Morgan also unloaded a four-hitter for the winners and drove in three runs.

The Reds had to call on veteran hurler Bill Kennedy to shut down a Pirate rally in the eighth inning that accounted for three Pittsburgh runs.

The Reds baled 10 hits from three Pirate hurlers. Starter Bob Friend was chased in the sixth after a walk, two doubles around a sacrifice fly and Bob Thurman's 15th homer of the season brought in four runs. George Crowe also hit a Homer before reliever Eddie O'Brien ended the inning.

Favorite Pacer Draws Post Spot

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — The luck of the draw just about settled the 12th annual little brown jug Tuesday as Torpid, the odds-on favorite, drew the pole position for Thursday's $73,525.15 classic for 3-year-old pacers.

Beaten only once in his last 29 starts, Torpid is favored to run away from the other 15 entries.

The 16-horse field boosted the purse to the record-breaking figure Tuesday, and the two-dimension ruling cut the winner's best return to $29,140. TA

"Judge" officials decided the first five finishers in each division would return for a 10-horse third heat. Should the winner of either of the first two heats take the third, he'll be declared the victor and take the big end of the purse.

Purdue Coach Expecting To Field Solid Grid Team

By JERRY LISKA

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue Coach Jack Mollenkopf thinks the Boilermakers will have a solid football squad this season despite the graduation loss of a peerless passer, Len Dawson.

It would seem the Boilermakers await a bleak season, considering that even with Dawson they had only a 4-2 Big Ten record last year.

HOWEVER, PURDUE outgained all opponents in 1956 and have back four of the leading Boilermaker groundgainers last season, headed by one of the nation's finest fullbacks, Mel Dillard.

Dillard led the Big Ten in rushing last fall and ranked sixth nationally with nearly a 5-yard average on 193 carries. The other Purdue rushing stars back include Tommy Fletcher, a fixture at left half; Kenny Mikes, Fletcher's understudy; and Erich Barnes, this season shifted from halfback to end.

All they have to do, the State Department said, is to be certified as genuine athletes by their national Olympic groups, and pass health and security tests under U.S. law. They won't have to be fingerprinted.

There had been speculation that the 1960 winter games would be moved to another country unless the U.S. government found a way around the immigration law's blanket ban on visits by Communists.

However, there is no pessimism in Mollenkopf's outlook.

"You don't lose a player like Dawson and not feel it," he said. "But we have several boys who should develop into good quarterbacks. They are Bob Spoo, a junior, and Ross Fichtner, a sophomore."

"Our first team will be a good first team for Purdue. We're not a big squad, but I honestly think we're a solid squad. What we have to do, with 16 sophomores among our first 33 players, is to get our second club into a lot of action to stand up with other conference teams."

MOLLENKOPF RATES the tackle spots stronger than last year with 229-pound Nick Mumley and 235-pound Wayne Farmer now seasoned juniors. Another strong point center with the return of Neil Dulles to Prentiss C. Hale, head of the Squaw Valley Games organizing committee.

Tuesday's announcement came in the press release of a letter from Secretary of State Dulles to International Olympic Committee meeting which starts next Friday in Sofia, Bulgaria.

Department Press Chief Lincoln White told reporters in comment on Dulles' letter, "This is designed to let any bona fide athlete participate in these games."

He and six other American Olympic officials are attending the International Olympic Committee meeting which starts next Friday in Sofia, Bulgaria.

White told reporters in comment on Dulles' letter, "This is designed to let any bona fide athlete participate in these games."

One sophomore likely to be a starter is 186-pound Clyde Washington at right half, a lad tagged, "Mr. Everything" at his Carlisle, Pa., high school.

Thailand To Keep Pro-West Policy, Army Head Pledges

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Army commander Sarit Thanarat moved Tuesday to set up a new government which he pledged would not swerve from the pro-Western policies of ousted Premier P.ibulsonggram.

SARIT, recently forced to resign a cabinet post, toppled the Pibulsonggram leadership in a swift, bloodless coup.

Sarit also removed another foe and strongman, Gen. Phao Sryianond who commanded Thailand's 40,000-man police force. Phao took a plane for Geneva after Sarit ordered tanks to surround this capital city, and later arrived in Pakistan.

In Washington, U.S. officials speculated that Sarit might invite Pibulsonggram to return as premier. These officials said they expect no change in Thailand's policies towards the United States or the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO), which has headquarters in Bangkok.

SARIT SAID he wants to continue to cooperate with the anti-Communist SEATO group, although he is reputed to be a foe of SEATO.

Sarit is described as anti-Communist, pro-Asian and pro-royalist. SEATO military advisors are scheduled to meet here in two days.

Asked about U.S. military aid to Thailand, Sarit said the future of that aid will depend upon the new government.

Shortly after the coup Sarit proclaimed himself governor of Bangkok, rather than of Thailand. He met with his lawyers to decide whether to dissolve Thailand's National Assembly, where Pibulsonggram was considered to have strong support.

Low Moisture Corn To Get Price Premium

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced Tuesday that it will offer for the first time a premium on low moisture corn stored under the price support program.

The premium will be one cent a bushel for 1957 crop corn with a moisture content of 13.5 per cent or less. In addition, a premium of one cent a bushel will be offered for the first time on corn with 2 per cent or less of cracked corn and foreign material.

The premiums are designed, the department said, to encourage delivery of dryer and cleaner corn to the Government under its support program.

The corn support rate has been announced at a national average of not less than $1.36 a bushel. The final rate will be determined on the basis of the corn supply situation and prices as of Oct. 1, the beginning of the new crop marketing year.

Discounts will continue, from one to five cents a bushel, for corn containing from 14.1 to 17.5 per cent moisture.

In the case of farm-stored corn, the premiums will be paid to producers when corn of high quality is delivered under the support program. In the case of warehouse-stored corn, the premiums will be added at the time the price support loan is taken out.

Davenport Firm Found Guilty On Tax Evasion

DES MOINES (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury Tuesday afternoon returned a verdict finding the Great Western Supply Co. of Davenport and two of its officers guilty on four counts each of tax evasion charges.

The Davenport firm, its president Oswald Blumer, and its secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Janet Peavey, were tried on charges of willful evasion of income taxes for 1950 through 1953.

Federal Judge Henry N. Graven set Oct. 3, 1:30 p.m. as the time for sentencing. The defendants remained at liberty under $2,000 bond following receipt of the jury verdict. The jury was out about five hours.

Federal law provides for a fine of up to $10,000 and a sentence of up to five years, or both, on each count.

The Government claims there was willful failure to report $50,645 in net income and failure to pay $13,784 in taxes for the years 1950 through 1953.

The defendants challenged the Government's methods of analyzing the firm's books.

New TV Station Opens In Omaha

OMAHA (AP) — Omaha's newest television station, KETV, went on the air at 1 p.m. Tuesday with a 45-second announcement. It immediately swung into a full operation as a basic American Broadcasting Company television network affiliate.

The announcement by General Manager Eugene S. Thomas was addressed to "Fellow Nebraskans and neighborly Iowans." It merely reported the beginning of daily and nightly service by KETV the Omaha World-Herald station, operating on Channel 7, and closed with these words: "May God, the creator of the air, the materials and the talent here used, help you and us to gain much from this opportunity."

There will be a welcome parade for KETV in downtown Omaha Saturday.

INDIANOLA — Simpson College is the recipient of one of the initial grants of the newly-created Price-Waterhouse Foundation. Their gift of $2,500 is granted as a portion of the endowment for the George Washington Carver Chair in the Natural Sciences.

The professorial chair, established in honor of George Washington Carver, one of the college's most distinguished alumni, is financed with a principal exceeding $200,000. Half of this was initially underwritten by the Kresge Foundation of Detroit in the form of a conditional grant to encourage an other $100,000 in matching gifts. This fund has been completed.

WEBSTER CITY — A Sioux City pilot, identified as Howard B. Shafer, escaped injury Tuesday when his light plane crashed in a cornfield near here.

Shafer was on a cross-country flight from Sioux City to the Webster City airport but ran out of gas about three miles short of his goal. The plane nosed over in a soft field on the Amos Severson farm about six miles southwest of Webster City.

The aircraft was damaged extensively.

AMES — Property owners receiving right-of-way purchase checks from the State Highway Commission will be advised to some of the money into U.S. savings bonds.

Four commissioners voted to adopt a suggestion that printed slips reciting the advantages of savings bond investment be included with right-of-way checks.

The proposal came from Glenn Lingel, Des Moines, assistant director of the savings bond program in Iowa.

Rename City Man To Poultry Group Plans Division

DES MOINES — The Iowa State Tax Commission has ordered three million of its new individual income tax forms for 1958.

Wallace H. Homestead of Des Moines was awarded the $6,138 printing contract. The state will furnish the paper.

About 800,000 returns will be sent to individual taxpayers. The rest will go to attorneys, accountants, banks and counties.

The longer, four-page form, approved recently by the tax commission, will require Iowans to tell more about their finances.

Jack Bell, Atlantic, was elected director at large succeeding J. J. White, Farmington; Floyd Bloom, Shenandoah, was re-elected a director; Keith Wilson, Iowa City, was re-elected a director of the national plans division.

The delegation asked that the road be paved. The group was headed by Harry Adams, who acted as spokesman, and was accompanied by Sen. William H. Harbo (R-Henderson).

The commission said it now has a survey party looking over the road situation at Silver City and will consider the matter further when it receives a report on the survey.

Commissioner Cecil Malone of Atlantic said during the discussion "I personally believe in getting a hard surface road into every little town in the state cut off like this."

The convention continues through today, when there will be a panel discussion of problems confronting the industry and a report on how the Iowa egg grading law is paying dividends by Earl Mason of North Central States Institute.

McAleavy, who is president of the American Poultry and Hatchery Federation, said the federation is launching the National Egg Council to raise funds to promote increased consumption of eggs.

McAleavy said per capita consumption of eggs was 392 for the year 1952 in the United States and the estimate of the U.S. Department of Agriculture for 1957 indicates a decline to 356 per capita.

"This means only one thing," McAleavy said. "Poultry producers are going to have to produce top quality eggs and do a better job of marketing them to consumers. The Iowa egg grading law is a move in the right direction."

McAleavy said the poultry and hatchery industry is following the general economic pattern with larger production units, more efficient production, narrower profit margins, and improvement in quality.

In addition to the grand jury charges Meyers faces a third charge of rape filed in a county attorney's information.

Meyers was under $16,000 bond at the time of his jail escape.

He will be arraigned in a few days in District Court on the various charges.

County authorities also linked Meyers with a third instance in which a Keokuk woman was raped after she had been followed in her car after leaving a supermarket.

Meyers had been arrested last June after two instances in which young girls were taken from cars at gunpoint while they were parked with boy friends in remote areas and their escorts were locked in the trunks of the cars.

Meyers and three men held on other charges, escaped recently from the county jail here and later were captured.

He Says Yes, She Says No; Nobody Knows

LONDON (AP) — A handsome English baron Tuesday filed intentions to marry American singer Vicki Benet — but the surprised showgirl said his lordship was taking too much for granted.

"I have no intention of marrying the gentleman," the 24-year-old vehicles surrounded the city and were stationed at strategic places throughout.

In response to foreign criticism of Government corruption, Pibulsonggram ordered all of his cabinet members a month ago to either give up their business connections or quit their posts.

SARIT, a financial backer of Bangkok's most anti-American newspaper, Sami Seri, resigned as defense minister three weeks ago but remained at the head of the army. After his resignation he still vowed loyalty to the Premier.

Pao, a wealthy man, resigned his post as interior minister Sept. 12, but stayed on as police head.

After the balloting last February, feelings ran high against the Government's handling of the elections.

VICKI BENET, American singer (above) says she was shocked when she learned that Baron David Nugent had filed intentions of marrying her.

platinum blonde told newsmen at her London hotel. "Not on your life. I can't think what my boy friend back home will say."

Baron Nugent described his action as an effort "to persuade Miss Benet to alter her mind about marrying me."

His family motto is: "I am resolved."

The marriage notice was posted in the name of David James Douglas, seventh Baron Nugent of Clonlost.

Baron Nugent, 6 feet tall and 39 years old, has known Miss Benet for two years. In 1955 she chose him from 18 English noblemen to appear in her American television show.

The baron returned from the United States last January and a few months later announced that he was going to marry the shapely Hollywood vocalist. She denied it at the time.

"The notice came as a complete shock to me," Miss Benet said. "I'm flabbergasted. My mother is going to be horrified."

The delegation asked that the road be paved. The group was headed by Harry Adams, who acted as spokesman, and was accompanied by Sen. William H. Harbo (R-Henderson).

Cool Weather Forecast for Eastern Iowa

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cooler air moved into Iowa Tuesday afternoon and set off light showers in the northwest part of the state. Increased cloudiness is expected to follow the cool air as it moves across the state Tuesday night.

Sioux City reported a rain shower and winds which reached gusts up to 63 miles an hour.

Southerly winds brought sunshine and temperatures in the mid to upper
