Washington Is Stiff Test For Hawkeyes

By ALAN HOSKINS
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Iowa's flu-infested Hawkeyes will meet one of their stiffest tests today as they meet Washington State's pass-minded Cougars in one of the top games in the country.

The outcome may very well depend on how many able bodied men Iowa will be able to put on the field.

Alex Karras

Despite this, the Hawkeyes will go into the contest one to two touchdown favorites. Approximately 45,000 fans are expected to attend the battle.

The Cougars from Pullman, Wash., have won their first two games of the season in an unexpected display of good running and fine defense coupled with their top passing game of a year ago. Washington State defeated Nebraska, 34-12, in its first game, then came back last week to upset California, 13-7.

In its opening game, Iowa romped over Utah State, 70-14, as the Hawkeyes rolled up a tremendous 648 yards. This output placed Iowa in first place in total offense. The Hawkeyes also lead the nation in forward passing offense, with 328 yards, and in rushing defense, as they held Utah State to a minus 6 yards.

Iowa's big problem today will be that of stopping Washington State's great passing pair, Bobby Newman and Bunny Aldrich. The Cougars hit on 14 of 23 passes for 165 yards in beating Nebraska, and 12 of 20 for 169 yards in the California game last week.

Iowa's pass defense was its weakest department last week, as Utah State completed 14 of 29 passes good for 197 yards. Iowa's aerial defense must be at its best today, as WSC coach Jim Sutherland has said several times this week that the Cougars plan on taking to the air.

If most of the Hawkeyes got off the sick list in time for today's game, Iowa lineup will probably start approximately the same lineup it started last week.

The only change will find sophomore Geno Sessi replacing Bill Gravel at left halfback. Gravel missed several practices this week and isn't expected to see much action. Sessi was the offensive star of last week's game, as he carried the ball three times, all for touchdowns.

Captain Jim Gibbons, who hauled in 4 passes good for 133 yards and a sensational touchdown catch against the Aggies, and Bob Prescott figure to start at the ends.

Alex Karras and Dick Klein, Iowa's sensational tackles, will be in at their regular starting roles while Frank Bloomquist and Bob Commings will start at the guard positions. Mac Lewis, who missed last week's game, will start at center.

In the backfield, Randy Duncan, who had a sensational day last week, will open at quarterback. Sessi and Mike Hagler will team at the halfbacks while John Nocera will start at fullback.

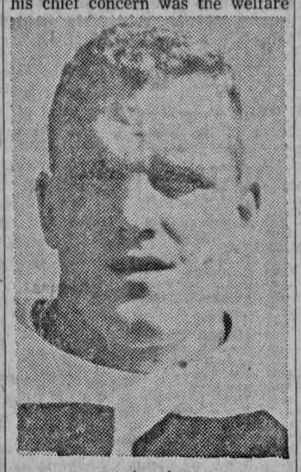
Definitely out of today's game is second team fullback Fred Harris, who twisted a knee against Utah State.

Should the Hawkeyes win today's encounter, Iowa's all-time series mark with the Pacific Coast Conference will be tied at six. One of the victories was over Washington State in 1953, 54-12.

Tickets will be available to game time. High school and grade school students will be allowed to watch the game for $1. They will sit behind the south end zone.

This game will put Iowa at the halfway mark of the home schedule. The remaining games at home are with Wisconsin, Oct. 19, and Minnesota, Nov. 9. Both games have been sell-outs for several weeks.

Earlier Friday Evashevski said his chief concern was the welfare of the players, not winning the game. He said some of the players who may appear to be healthy at game time might become sick, and that those who try to play too soon after being ill might suffer relapses.



Dick Klein

"Not only might this (a relapse) handicap us for the conference games coming up," Evashevski said, "but a boy might become sick and miss several weeks of school and be forced to drop out. We've got to think of this rather than winning the ball game."

Flu Takes 11 Gridders; List of Names 'Secret'

HERKY THE HAWK WAS AMONG THE 600 who attended the pre-game pep rally on the west lawn of Old Capitol Friday night to cheer the flu-ridden Hawkeyes who meet Washington State this afternoon. First string quarterback Randy Duncan spoke briefly and said, "We want all of you to be there. We may have to suit up some of the fans." He added, "Washington State is going to be plenty tough. They have Rose Bowl fever, and you know what that does to a team." Also speaking was W. Earl Hall, publisher of the Mason City Globe-Gazette, and an SUI alumnus. A skit by Bill Pfuder, A2, Clinton; Paul Palmer, A2, Savanna, Ill., and Jim Avery, A2, Spirit Lake, demonstrated what different fans do before going to games.

Aura of Uncertainty About Today's Game

SUI's flu-plagued Big Ten football champions may be without the services of 11 players for their game here today against a potent Washington State team.

After a top level meeting Friday with Athletic Director Paul Brechler, Dr. W. D. Paul, team physician, and members of the board in control of athletics, Coach Forest Evashevski said the list of the ill Hawkeyes would be kept secret.

Dr. Dr. Paul said it wasn't likely the 11 players would see action in Saturday's game, but that most of the 16 other squad members who were stricken earlier in the week probably would be ready.

The officials said after their meeting that the game would be played as scheduled. There had been rumors that the contest might be cancelled.

Eric Wilson, sports publicity man for the Hawkeyes, said Evashevski apparently ordered the

Flu Epidemic Passes Peak At SUI Friday

SUI's Asian flu epidemic passed its peak Friday, although health officials still expect to see more ailing students.

Only 40 cases were reported Friday, an anouncement by Dr. Chester I. Miller, student health director, revealed.

This is the lowest reported number in weeks.

Throughout the week, reported flu cases have shown a downward trend. About 120 were reported both Monday and Tuesday; this number fell to 75 Wednesday and 55 Thursday.

But Dr. Miller said, "I fully expect to see some more of this (flu). There probably will be flu and colds among the student body for 10 days to 2 weeks."

For the first time, Dr. Miller released detailed figures on the flu outbreak here.

Since Sept. 17, he said, the Student Health Center has treated 1,394 students for respiratory diseases. Of these, 837 showed symptoms of flu, Asian or otherwise.

He added that 302 were treated for head colds and the rest showed

Series Tickets Are Scalped

CHICAGO (AP) — Running down a newspaper advertisement which offered World Series tickets for sale Chicago police Friday night seized Frank Parker, 43, and charged him with scalping.

Policeman Joseph Joyce said Parker, using the name "Lewis Case," was asking $50 for a $7 ticket.

The advertisement, which appeared in a morning newspaper Friday, said:

"World Series tickets, Milwaukee, Oct. 5-6-7. EUclid 3-5135."

America Loses Race—

Russians Launch Satellite

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced Saturday it has the world's first artificial moon streaking around the globe 560 miles out in space.

A multiple-stage rocket launched the earth satellite Friday, the Russians said, shooting it upward at about five miles per second.

They said the satellite, a globe described as 23 inches in diameter and weighing 185 pounds, can be seen in its orbit with glasses and followed by radio through instruments it carries.

Radio signals on the wavelength of the Soviet moon — sounding as a deep "beep, beep, beep" — were picked up by electronic engineers of the National Broadcasting Co., in New York, and the British Broadcasting Corp. in London.

In thus announcing the launching of the first earth satellite ever put in globe-girdling orbit under man's controls, the Soviet Union claimed a victory over the United States.

The two big powers had been in a hot but mainly secret race to be first to probe the high space realms with spheres laden with instruments.

The Moscow announcement said:

"The successful launching of the first man-made satellite makes a tremendous contribution to the treasure house of world science and culture. . .

"Artificial earth satellites will pave the way for space travel and it seems that the present generation will witness how the freed and conscious labor of the people of the new Socialist society turns even the most daring of man's dreams into reality. . ."

In a special bulletin early Saturday morning, the Soviet Tass agency said the Russian moon 'is now revolving around the earth at the rate of one circuit every hour and 35 minutes."

The launching occurred just three months and four days after the opening of the International Geophysical Year.

Moscow reported the satellite can be seen with the simplest kind of telescope glasses. Its velocity was given as something like five miles per second at a height of about 560 miles above the earth.

The broadcast said the Russians plan to launch several more earth satellites in the next year. It declared the developments will open a way for travel to the planets.

Moscow said the satellite is fitted with steel radio transmitters continuously sending signals earthward on the 15 and 7.5 meter wave length and easily received by a broad range of amateur sets.

Its announced weight of about 185 pounds is more than eight times the weight of a projected U.S. earth satellite.

Moscow described the signals as about 3-10 of a second long with a pause of the same length. The two frequencies alternate in signalling, Moscow radio said.

Homecoming Badges Go On Sale Oct. 14

Friends and alumni of SUI who can't wait until they get to the campus to begin celebrating the 16th annual Homecoming Oct. 18-19, may — with the aid of the U.S. Post Office — begin early this year.

Mail orders for four or more Homecoming badges will be accepted at a cost of 25 cents each, Ellis H. Newsome, chairman of the Homecoming Badge Committee, said today. Badges will go on sale in Iowa City on Oct. 14.

Besides providing a colorful symbol of the annual fall campus festival, the Homecoming badge plays another important part in the success of any Homecoming. Sale of this year's 20,000 badges will defray expenses of the Corn Monument construction, the open house at the Iowa Memorial Union and the entire cost of the Homecoming parade, except for the floats which are sponsored by Iowa City merchants, Newsome said.

This year's badges will be sold by the campus YWCA chapter.

TRIAL SET

NEW YORK (AP) — The espionage trial of Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, accused of spending nine years in the United States getting defense secrets for Russia, was adjourned Friday until Oct. 14.

First-Come, First-Served Basis—

List New Card Section Rules

By TOM POWELL
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Card section seats will be assigned on a first come-first served basis to students for the first time during the week prior to the Wisconsin game. Students who wish card section seats must show up at a pre-game rehearsal earlier in the week.

Ronald Helms, A3, Cedar Rapids, co-chairman of the card section, said the procedure will begin following today's game. Rehearsal sites have not yet been determined.

The card section is sitting in the same 900 seats, located between the 40 and 30 yard-lines, which they occupied last year, even though the Pep Club Council had planned to move the section into the south bleachers.

"After talking it over and listening to students, the Pep Council decided that there would not be enough students interested in sitting in the card section if it were in the south bleachers," Helms said.

Pep Club officials wanted to occupy the south bleachers for four reasons:

1. TV cameras would be able to pick up card stunts done by students in the section.

2. The card section would be visible to students sitting in the west stands and the north bleachers seating sections.

3. Dual cheering would be possible for Iowa from both the south and west stands.

4. Students not participating in the card section would have an additional 900 seats between the 40 and 30-yard lines.

Last year and for the first two games this year, seats were given in block groups to participating housing units. These units distributed receipts among students who picked up card section tickets at the Fieldhouse Ticket Office.

In the past, all seats had to be filled by 12:30 p.m. or housing units whose members were absent lost seats or forfeited card section rights.

"After rehearsals for the Wisconsin game," Helms said, "permanent seats will be assigned to card section members." Co-chairman Larry Meyerson, A3, Council Bluffs, said, "I hope to be able to pass out tickets for the game after the practice for each game."

Helms also reported that "trickier tricks" are being prepared for the Homecoming and Dad's Day games because scheduled practices will insure that everyone knows his job.

Card tricks are designed this year by M. Patricia Nelson, A3, Lombard, Ill.

"There will be five tricks for the game today," Nelson said.

Included in the repertoire will be: (1) "Stop" sign with red and green light and a "Go" sign; (2) A "WS" for Washington State; (3) An "I" with receding "I's" in the background; 4) A Herky's head, and (5) A block "I".

Three cards with six different colors from last year's selection have been used for this season and will be used for the two remaining home games.

A total of $600 was given to the Pep Club by the Student Council this year. It is the first time the Council has provided the money. This fund will be used for additional instruction cards, pep stunts and food for SUI's Hawk mascot, Herky.

Tentative plans for next year include the purchasing of black and gold Hawkeye vests if sufficient funds are made available.

Four Named to New Posts In SUI Dentistry College

An assistant dean and three new department heads have been named in the SUI College of Dentistry.

Dr. George S. Easton, 1923 graduate of the college who has been a member of its faculty since 1925, is assistant dean and will continue as professor of oral diagnosis.

The new department heads are

DR. EASTON DR. HALE

Dr. Merle L. Hale, heading the hospital dental department and continuing as professor of oral surgery; Dr. James B. Bush, acting head of the Department of Oral Diagnosis and continuing as an associate professor; and Dr. D. E. Waite, acting head of the Department of Oral Surgery and also continuing as an associate professor.

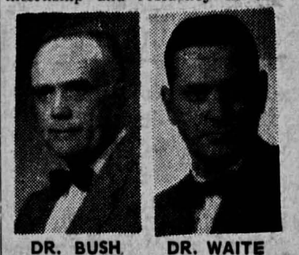
Dr. Easton graduated from the SUI College of Dentistry in 1923. He began teaching at SUI in 1925 and received an M.S. degree in orthodontia and chemistry in 1936. He was made professor and acting head of the Department of Oral Diagnosis as well as acting director of the infirmary in 1947.

In 1948, Dr. Easton was given full charge of the infirmary, with the title of professor and head of oral diagnosis and director of the infirmary. Dr. Easton is president of the Board in Control of Athletics at SUI.

Dr. Hale graduated from the SUI College of Dentistry in 1938. He received an M. S. degree in pathology from SUI in 1949, taught at the University of Kansas City School of Dentistry from 1949 to 1952, when he became head of the SUI Department of Oral Surgery.

A 1935 graduate of the University of Minnesota School of Dentistry, Dr. Bush was associated with the University of Minnesota School of Dentistry from 1948 to 1954, when he joined the SUI staff.

A native of Vancouver, British Columbia, Dr. Waite attended Graceland College, Lamoni, and received both D.D.S. and M.S. degrees from SUI. He completed an internship and residency in oral surgery in University Hospitals in 1955 and has been a member of the SUI dental faculty since that time.



DR. BUSH DR. WAITE

He is also attending oral surgeon at the V.A. Hospital in Iowa City and is assistant dental surgeon for the U.S. Public Health Service.

Three To One

The unmarried male student at SUI, sooner or later runs into the little matter of a differential dating opportunity between the sexes.

The simple fact is that there are about three plus gentlemen for every lady, and the brutal reality is that the male student must get out and hustle if he doesn't want to discover that his social life is defined by the company of his (male) friends, the movies (alone), and an occasional conversation with a girl between classes or over coffee.

Unfortunately, there is little to be done for the situation, and so eventually unmarried males learn to adjust to the frustration and dissatisfaction occasioned by "ratio prejudice."

Nausea

The theory that Governor Faubus' action in using the guard was indeed an attempt to block integration rather than "preserve law and order" was given additional support by his recent hints that he might close Central High School.

To be precise, he said that such an occurance would be a "pleasant" development.

It is saddening to see men like Governor Faubus mouth platitudes about law and order, freedom, human dignity, ad nauseum, when the bulk of their working hours is spent in developing schema to circumvent the basic rights of American citizens with everything from close-the-schools to relocate-them-up-North proposals.

Like blind Samsons, they tug at the pillars of American society. And if they are successful, they may well destroy the temple.

Ike Speaks, Larson Eats; Words Confuse All

By GEORGE DIXON
King Features Syndicate

WASHINGTON — The night President Eisenhower went on the air to explain, in fifteen minutes, why he sent federal troops into Little Rock, Chinese Ambassador Hollington K. Tong gave a dinner party at his baronial mansion, Twin Oaks, for a galaxy of visiting Asiatic editors. Dr. Tong also had a few resident notables present, including Arthur Larson, director of a sorely-beset thing known ruefully as the United States Information Agency.

The Asiatic editors (I was specifically urged to make it "Asiatic," not "Asian," as they do not care to be confused with a current epidemic) announced they were extremely interested in the explanation Mr. Eisenhower was scheduled to deliver because they feel that anything about segregation needs explaining. Consequently, Dr. Tong had a large-screen television set wheeled into the dining room.

The food was all Chinese, and chopsticks were provided for the guests. Most of them voiced familiarity with the implements, but Director Larson confessed he had never been able to manipulate chopsticks, and had half a dozen lapels and trouser laps to testify to same.

Time came for the Presidential telecast, and the dining room lights were dimmed. The Asiatic editors attended closely.

But Director Larson, entrusted to explain to the world what Ike was explaining to the nation, took advantage of the darkness to continue practicing with his chopsticks. He kept his head down and his eye on the orange duck throughout the entire Ikesplanation.

By the time the telecast was ended, Larson had mastered the chopsticks pretty well. He may have missed the explanation he had to make, but he no longer missed any but the slipperiest delicacies, such as the pickled eels.

Senator Richard L. Neuberger, of Oregon, is a writer by trade, and his wife, Maurine, is a former schoolteacher. Their hobby, not too strangely, is words.

When Congress is not in session they amuse themselves by researching through old congressional records for flattering words senators have used on other senators; especially synonyms and variants for "distinguished." They discovered some of the most popular are: worthy and noteworthy; eminent and pre-eminent; illustrious and lustrous; honored and honorable; notable, esteemed, brilliant, dedicated, outstanding, famed, renowned, celebrated and even transcendental.

They found, moreover, in many instances which a senator had waxed so wildly laudatory he had employed one or more of the eulogistics to identify himself. They underscored one fine bit of forensics in which Senator Homer E. Capehart, of Indiana, quoting himself, had orated:

"And then the distinguished senior senator from Indiana said—"

But this quaint congressional custom of speaking in the third person attained its pinnacle of confusion the other day when Rep. John F. Baldwin, Jr., of California, notified constituents in his newsletter:

"During the fall months, your representative may be reached through my district offices . . ."

"Your representative would like to express my appreciation. . . ."

Overcome, your reporter finished my column and departed for our home.

Princeton Priest Makes 'Irresponsible Attacks'

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — President Robert F. Goheen of Princeton has announced that all university privileges have been withdrawn from the chaplain of a Roman Catholic campus organization.

The newly installed president of the Ivy League university said the denial has been given the Rev. Hugh Halton because of what Gohen termed "irresponsible attacks" on the university faculty, administration and other institutions.

Father Halton, chaplain of the Aquinas Foundation which he started here in 1952, said Goheen's criticisms "are not deserved or accurate."

The foundation and its members have had access to university facilities and it has been listed in the university catalog.

"His — the Rev. Halton's — accusations in the past year have broadened into large, unsubstantiated charges of malfeasance against the administration of the university and against a number of other respected and stable institutions as well."

In 1956, Father Halton attacked the invitation by the Whig-Cloisophic, campus debating society, to Alger Hiss to speak at the university. The priest invited Willard Edwards, Chicago Tribune correspondent who covered the Hiss perjury trial, to speak in the campus lecture hall on "The Meaning of Alger Hiss."

Last spring he criticized Harvard University's bid to physicist J. Robert Oppenheimer to lecture. Oppenheimer is director of the Institute of Advance Study, located here but not connected with Princeton University.

Goheen said: "That this action is necessary is a cause of great regret. The university is deeply concerned to help uphold the spiritual welfare of its students."

Manuscript Found In A Ruin

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This manuscript was found in the files of the Daily Iowan. The signature affixed to it was Leighton H. Johnson, Michigan State University.)

Recently an exploratory unit landed on Earth, and, in the course of systematic investigation of what was once a part of the United States of America, came upon the manuscript which is printed below. The exploratory unit (Earth Studies, Delta Project No. 441; Unitcom Zelaph C18:34; Control Orion; Uniref: ED441C) transmitted the document to the Analysts' Council of Interstell General. The Council is studying it with great interest.

IT HAS BEEN suggested that the document is a proposal for improving "communications" between "educators" of the United States in the middle of the Twentieth century, A.D., Earth reckoned. As a part of the analysis, cosmic-ray illumination studies are being made of cerebral areas of several subjects who were "children" on Earth in the middle years of the Twentieth century, A.D., that is, about 150 to 160 Earth years ago. Clues derived from the cosmic-ray illumination studies may assist in interpretation of the curious document.

"IN THE PROCESS of formulating frame of reference and guide lines for an emerging conception of education communications, vital involvement and pertinent contributions of all functionaries need to be obtained. We must first adequately express our overarching purpose and translate it into an over-all plan of action, process-centered, and action-oriented. The next steps will enlist the support and marshal cooperative effort of all groups in the community in an attempt to spell out further implications and objectives.

"We accept the proposition that mountain-top vision and high-level thinking are essential to basic understanding of the forces of community interaction. When we are unduly threatened by status conflicts, ego-involvement, and unfriendly power fields in the community, the security and integrity of our group are jeopardized. Only through enlightened appreciations of the role and functions of the status leader in the total situation will we be in a position to spell out specifics and point up relative implications.

"WE MUST GUARD against semantic traps as we put individual and group thinking into the hopper, tease out significant issues, and pinpoint the principles that will undergird the program in operative terms.

"To focus unbiased thinking on the real problems, as they come to us on the firing line and are further defined in co-operative action research, it is mandatory that we concentrate on changing patterns of behavior. Resource persons and agencies can share in the implementation of this thinking and can aid in getting the project off the ground. They can react with us in setting bench marks for objective evaluation and appraisal of current progress.

"Action groups can initiate needed spadework, further probe the area, and conceptualize the interrelationships of the primary factors bearing on the principal issues. It then will be a matter of process, to pull together the insights which will give us our bearings for further planning.

"Work groups should continually interact with practising administrators in the field, and basic ideas should be thrashed out at grass-roots level, in line with purpose statements developed close to the source of action. We would then want to let our thinking jell before moving to that point where we could set up necessary machinery for facilitating the expression of what all youth need in this wholality conception.

"IT THEN WOULD be in order to seal off the project, providing, of course, for a continual process for communication of depth research and a mutual sharing of those insightful technics which resolve bottlenecks and roadblocks to further action. The action studies of self-energizing authorities in the field will provide enriched evaluation processes, which can be further developed and refined in harmony with the social dynamics of the evolving situation.

"This permissive approach anticipates an ongoingness which should challenge our further thinking, integrate our efforts, and objectify our findings in operational terms."

UP TO THIS TIME, the Analysts' Council of Interstell General has not seen fit to issue an official statement on the manuscript found in a ruin in what was once the United States of America. However, Principal Analyst Philot B81:65 has issued an individual and unofficial statement. Philot B81:65 has come to the interesting conclusion that this proposal for improving "communications" could have made no more sense to many persons on Earth in the middle of their Twentieth century, A.D., than it does to the puzzled analysts of Interstell General at the present time.

Russia Launches Moon, U.S. Congratulates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Quick American congratulations went to the Russians Friday night after the Moscow announcement that Soviet scientists had succeeded in launching an artificial moon.

The congratulations were extended by Dr. Lloyd Berkner, an American official of the International Geophysical Year.

Dr. Berkner, who is the reporter on earth satellites and rockets for a special committee of the IGY, said he had learned from a press dispatch of the Russian announcement.

In another recognition of Soviet success, Dr. Joseph Kaplan, who is chairman of the U.S. National Committe for IGY, said: "I am amazed that in the short time which they had to plan — obviously not any longer than we had — I think it was a remarkable achievement on their part."

The chances of Americans getting a view of the Russian satellite are much better than their chances of seeing this country's will be.

This has nothing to do with secrecy. It's due to the announced orbits or pathways of the tiny moons.

Delegates to an International Geophysical Year conference here said Friday night, however, that they couldn't tell at this time when people might be able to look up into the sky and locate the first of the man-made moons.

The Russians said some time ago they planned to launch their satellites in north-to-south orbits, passing near the poles.

In contrast, this country's satellites will be launched in east-west orbits.

This would mean that, since the earth will be rotating beneath them, the Russian satellites will cross all parts of the United States as well as Russia.

On the other hand, the American moons will be visible only for certain distances north and south of the equator.

Leadership Conference Scheduled

SUI campus leaders will attend a leadership training program sponsored by the Student Council on Oct. 12 at the Iowa Memorial Union.

Officers of all housing, activity, honorary and church groups have been invited. Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. and adjournment is planned at 2:45 p.m.

"Any student who is or expects to be in a position of leadership is welcome to attend," Joan Te Paske, A3, Orange City, chairman of the event said.

The purpose of the program is to stimulate and develop a sense of leadership among SUI students. Bill Teter, A4, Des Moines, president of Student Council, said the program is "to provide students who hold positions of campus leadership for this year with ideas and techniques which can be used as tools in developing and improving abilities and skills of administration."

Loren Hickerson, Director of the Alumni Association, will address the group during the morning session on "SUI's Quality Rests on Student Leadership."

Workshop sessions for designated groups of officers will follow. Workshops will be lead by: Dr. Leslie Moeller, director of the School of Journalism; Phil Connell, assistant to SUI President Virgil Hancher; Waldo Geiger, auditor of student organizations; George Stevens, assistant director, Iowa Memorial Union; Julie Foster, A4, Cedar Rapids, president of Theta Sigma Phi, professional journalism sorority; and Tom Slattery, G, Chicago, editor of the Daily Iowan.

Prof. Hugh Kelso, political science department, will address the group in the afternoon on "Parliamentary Procedure" and will lead a demonstration on the subject.

M. L. Huit, Dean of Students, will speak on "Student Leadership and Student Affairs."

Joan Te Paske said it is hoped "campus leadership training will not end with the final session of this program, but will be supplemented by specialized training units in and among the various organizations on campus."

Others of the planning committee are Sue Wisgerhof, N4, Sully; and Alyce Venzke, A4, Iowa City; Chuck Schmidt, E2, Charles City; and Larry Popolsky, A4, Oskaloosa.

National Flu Cases Double To 422,650

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another sharp rise in the number of Asian flu cases around the country was reported by the Public Health Service Friday in its weekly summary.

The service estimated there was a jump of 200,000 new cases last week, bringing the cumulative total since early June to 422,650.

The previous week's summary listed an increase of 100,000 cases and the week before that, 50,000.

Thus the number has doubled itself in each of the last three weeks.

The latest summary released Friday covers only the week ended Sept. 28, however, and does not include more recent outbreaks in New York City, where more than 200,000 persons are suspected to have the disease.

The Health Service said its estimates were based on incomplete reports and added:

"These numbers have very definite limitations for several reasons. In most outbreaks, there are an unknown number of cases of other acute respiratory diseases which normally occur at this season of the year. The states use different methods of estimating incidence of new cases. Finally, some states did not include a report on influenza."

The service noted that a large number of outbreaks were reported in schools, based principally on absenteeism rates. School attendance in New York City, for example, was down about 20 per cent. Teacher absenteeism there was an abnormal 7 per cent.

A Health Service spokesman said 18 deaths have been reported in the continental United States in connection with the flu outbreak.

On the basis of reports from state health authorities, a spokesman for the Health Service said Asian flu is regarded as having reached epidemic proportions in these five states: New York, Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi and Utah.

McCLELLAN HITS HOFFA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.) Friday called James R. Hoffa's election as president of the Teamsters Union a challenge to Congress to enact laws that will protect rank and file union members from "gangsterism and racketeer control."

"I firmly believe the Congress will accept and meet the challenge," said McClellan, chairman of the special Senate committee to investigate illegal and improper activities in the labor management field.

Sidewalks Piled High

KEOKUK (AP) — Keokuk's downtown streets took on the appearance Friday of Maxwell Street in Chicago as merchants piled all sorts of merchandise on the sidewalks in connection with the second annual ridiculous sales.

The merchants used loud speakers, bells, sirens and even barkers to hawk their wares. The sidewalks were so covered with merchandise that a pedestrian had to pick his way along.

Hoffa Elected, Vows To Run 'Model' Union

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Stubby, square-jawed Jimmy Hoffa Friday took over full control as president of the giant Teamsters Union and pledged to turn the organization into a "model of trade unionism."

The 44-year-old target of labor scandal charges was elected chief officer of the 1½-million-member union by a tremendous margin of nearly 3-1 over the combined vote of two opponents.

In the final count, 1,208 wildly cheering delegates voted for Hoffa, 313 for William A. Lee and 140 for Thomas J. Haggerty.

Lee and Haggerty, both from Chicago, had campaigned for a cleanup of the corruption conditions charged to the union.

The delegates thus chose to ignore the charges against Hoffa, retiring union President Dave Beck and other Teamsters bosses. They had been accused of helping themselves to vast sums from the union's rich treasury and abusing union powers.

The charges against Hoffa included associating with known hoodlums and racketeers.

Hoffa, denying the charges as a smear, said he and the Teamsters Union "have just come through the most vicious attack any group of workers has ever experienced. Never in history has so much outside effort been exerted on the internal affairs of a free organization."

But troubles for Hoffa and his huge union are far from over. It faces an almost certain ouster from the AFL-CIO, a renewed probe by the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee headed by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) and even a court attempt to throw him out of his newly won union office.

AFL - CIO President George Meany, in Washington, declined to comment. A spokesman for the AFL-CIO said that he could only cite the federation's record of determination to clean corruption out of the labor movement.

Girard Trial Testimony

MAEBASHI, Japan (Saturday) (AP) — William S. Girard told a surprised judge Saturday there was no mistake in a fellow soldier's statement that Girard lured a Japanese woman brass picker into firing range and shot her.

A few minutes later, however, Girard denied he was ever in a foxhole with Specialist Victor Nickel last Jan. 30 when Girard shot and killed Mrs. Naka Sakai.

Judge Yuzo Kawachi was openly upset by Girard's statements.

Nickel's statement, made last week at an outdoor session of the court at the firing range death scene, was read in court Saturday.

It said Girard stood up from the foxhole they occupied, called to Mrs. Sakai and waved her toward him before shooting at her. The statement said Girard fired at another brass picker before calling to Mrs. Sakai.

Fraternity Scholarship

The second annual Interfraternity Scholarship Banquet will be held in the SUI Memorial Union Tuesday at 6:15 p.m. William C. Lange, head of the department of social science at Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, will be guest speaker. His topic will be "The Right to Know."

The scholarship banquet is part of the Interfraternity Council's program to emphasize the importance of high academic achievement among fraternity men.

Dr. Miller said he did not know if the flu might "flare up" again, but added, "I hope the people who didn't get it will gain immunity by being around those who have had it."

"If they do," he said, "they either won't catch it or they will just catch a light case."

Asian flu vaccine is not available at SUI now. Health officials have estimated it will be between one and three months before any arrives.

Gophers Meet Purdue Today

BEHIND THE Sports Desk

By ALAN HOSKINS

This is the second roundup of Pacific Coast Conference football news. These accounts are written weekly by Carl Sawyer, sports editor of the University of Southern California's Daily Trojan. The Daily Iowan, in trade, sends a Big 10 roundup by Alan Hoskins, sports editor. This is another feature exclusive to The Daily Iowan.

By CARL SAWYER

WASHINGTON STATE — The air-minded Cougars have been the surprise of the Coast thus far and residents of the Pullman area are wondering if they can upset Iowa's Hawkeyes Saturday.

Coach Jim Sutherland is all smiles over the success of his passing attack. Quarterback Bob Newman is leading the PCC with an amazing 20 completions in 33 attempts, and two WSU ends, Don Ellingsen and Jack Fanning, are high in reception standings. A good running game makes the Cougars even more dangerous.

SOUTHERN CAL — Coach Don Clark's spirited Trojans are eagerly looking forward to their clash with Pittsburgh's Panthers tonight (Fri. Oct. 4) after holding a deep and experienced Michigan squad to a low 16-6 score Saturday.

Favored to romp over the Trojans easily, the Wolverines had to pull the game out of the fire late in the contest with a 65-yard sustained march. The Men of Troy were knocking at the goal line right down to the final gun. As his depleted squad gained valuable experience against Michigan, Coach Clark feels his Trojans stand a good chance to knock off Pitt, the heaviest college team in the nation.

★ ★ ★

UCLA — Coach Red Sanders is still smiling this week after knocking off a favored Illinois eleven 16-6. The Bruins are through with intersectionals for a while and will concentrate their efforts on PCC competition this week when they travel to Portland, Ore., to meet Oregon's Webfeet. Oregon boasts of the fastest college backfield in the nation this fall so could give the sly Sanders and his Bruins more than they bargained for.

★ ★ ★

OREGON STATE — The Beavers are looking for third consecutive win Saturday when they match plays with Northwestern at Evanston. Conquerors of Kansas a week ago, the Beavers will likely maintain PCC prestige by overpowering Northwestern who will be meeting their second straight PCC opponent.

The Wildcats were clawed by Stanford but good last week and will have their hands full with a powerful Beaver attack.

★ ★ ★

STANFORD — Coach Chuck Taylor sends his Indians on a war party to Rice of the Southwestern Conference tomorrow after polishing off Northwestern a week ago. After two easy wins, it appears Coach Taylor wasn't kidding when he said he would have a better passing attack with Jack Douglas at the helm than with John Brodie last year.

Rice should prove tough but Stanford fans expect the Indians to continue their victory march on the strength of Douglas' throwing arm and improved running game.

★ ★ ★

CALIFORNIA — Cal's Bears are still looking for their first win after being upset by Washington State's aerial minded Cougars last week. Coach Pete Elliott had hoped to get his attack off the ground long before now, but a poor pass defense and a stuttering offense have kept the Bears from overpowering anyone. The Bears entertain Michigan State tomorrow at Strawberry Canyon in Berkeley and the Spartans rate a big edge in the point spread.

★ ★ ★

OREGON — After taking it on the chin from Pitt, 6-3, the Ducks may be on the receiving end of a haymaker from UCLA's Bruins tomorrow for their second straight loss.

Sporting the fastest backfield in captivity, Coach Len Casanova was mighty disappointed when not one of his fleet-footed backs broke away in the Pitt game. Hard practice this week has solved some of the problems, Casanova hopes.

★ ★ ★

WASHINGTON — The Huskies host Ohio State Saturday and have only slim hopes of upsetting the irate Buckeyes who were slipped a mickey by an upset minded Texas Christian eleven a week ago.

The Huskies have had trouble getting their version of the Oklahoma split-T to function properly and don't look for an easy time against the stubborn Buckeyes.

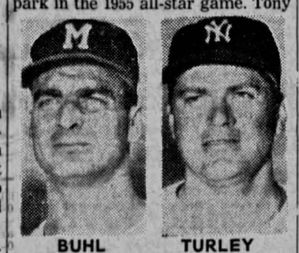
Turley, Buhl Slated To Start Third Game

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Bob Turley and Bob Buhl, a pair of bullet-throwing righthanders, will do the honors Saturday when the World Series switches to this baseball-daffy city after a one day travel break.

All even at one game each after holding the New York Yankees to a split in their own stadium, the confident Milwaukee Braves return to their friendly "Home of the Braves" for three big games.

Huge crowds cheered the Braves Thursday night when they flew home on a pink cloud. Lew Burdette's pitching and Wes Covington's hitting and fielding blended into a heady tonic. The 4-2 victory that squared the series came at the most opportune moment.

The Yankees, who seldom fly, rode into Milwaukee at noon Friday on a special train and hustled to County Stadium for a workout. Only a few of the Yanks — Whitey Ford, Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra — had played in the park in the 1955 all-star game. Tony



BUHL TURLEY

Kubek, a Milwaukee boy, knew the park but to the others this symmetrical stadium was a strange new land.

Milwaukee's second game victory sliced the series odds in half. The Yankees, who were 13 to 5 favorites after the opener, now were only 7 to 5 to cop the best-of-seven set. For Saturday's game, the price was 11 to 10, New York favored.

About 45,000 including standees will jam County Stadium. If the series stretches out to the full seven games, new attendance records may be set.

The fast ball hitters on both clubs — who have been moaning about the curves and changing speeds of Warren Spahn, Whitey Ford and Burdette — will get a chance to swing from their heels. Both Turley, who follows Don Larsen's no-windup delivery, and Buhl come from the old "rear back and fire" school.

Buhl, 29, tied his personal season high with an 18-7 record although he lost a month, from August 18 to September 12, due to a shoulder injury. Control is his trouble but he has a blazing strikeout pitch.

Turley is a big man with a boyish face who has been called a reformed scatter arm. During the 1957 season he conquered his old control trouble and wound up with a 13-6 record.

Even before the Yanks hit town they got a taste of the hysteria that has gripped this rich dairy country. As the train sped past a farmhouse, a girl in a blue dress and white apron hoisted a huge hand-made sign.

"Win Braves," it read in letters two feet high.

Crowds lined the railroad right of way, peering for a glimpse of Mantle, Berra or maybe manager Casey Stengel. There was a large gathering when the train stopped at Sturtevant, Wis., and baggage was transferred.

A small brass band tooted away in a greeting that caught even Stengel speechless.

Haney said he would move Covington up to the No. 5 spot in the batting order and would play Bob "Hurricane" Hazle, a late season phenom from Wichita, in place of Andy Pafko in right field. Hazle would bat 7th. He usually platoons Pafko and Hazle, depending on the pitching, and Turley will be the Yank's first right handed starter.

Frank Torre, a lefthanded hitting New Yorker, may take over first base from Adcock although Haney wasn't positive. Adcock, the No. 6 batter, got two hits Thursday but the leg he broke in June still bothers him.

Del Rice, who is Buhl's "personal" catcher, also will be in the lineup, replacing Del Crandall.

Milwaukee Meet Fails To Impress Yankee Visitors

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The New York Yankees met Milwaukee Friday, and vice versa. The situation, developing out of what started as one of the city's famous welcomes, is best described in a good Milwuakee word:

Pfui. Pronounced phooey.

"This," said an unidentified but muscular representative of the American League champions as he hustled greeters off the Yanks' chartered bus at the railroad station, "is strictly bush league."

A delegation including the mayor's assistant, Circuit Judge Robert C. Cannon, Dist. Atty. William J. McCauley and others weren't allowed on the bus, and Manager Casey Stengel declined to come out.

"Nah," he said. "We got to get out to the ball park."

But as the bus departed, official greeter Albert Davis shouted through an open window to the visiting team:

"Gentlemen, whether you know it or not, you've been welcomed to Milwaukee."

Coe Meets Ripon In Rugged Test

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — Coe's football squad minus senior halfback Jim Troy departed for Wisconsin Friday for a rugged test in Midwest Conference competition Saturday night against Ripon.

Troy, one of six first stringers sidelined with flu earlier this week was left behind with a temperature of 102.

The remainder of the stricken players recovered and were expected to see action.

Among those who missed practice this week were two seniors Coach Wally Schwank named as captains for the Ripon game. They are end Ralph Pucci, Davenport, and tackle Steve Block, Highland Park, Ill.

CHICAGO (AP) — Platooning Minnesota, the nation's No. 3 college football team, launches an unprecendented eight-game Big Ten schedule Saturday against Purdue as eight other conference teams have outside engagements.

Michigan State, No. 2 behind Oklahoma in the AP's national poll, strays from Big Ten competition for a TV battle against California. Last Saturday, the snappy Spartans walloped Indiana, 54-0, in a conference opener.

Other games involving conference teams include Colgate at Illinois, Indiana at Notre Dame, Washington State at Iowa, Georgia at Michigan, Oregon State at Northwestern, Ohio State at Washington and West Virginia at Wisconsin.

Minnesota's Gophers will unveil a heradlded sophomore speedster Bill Martin of Chicago, against the Boilermakers, a two-touchdown underdog in this conference joust at Minneapolis. Because of injury, halfback Martin, fastest man on the well-stocked Gopher squad, missed Minnesota's 46-7 rout of Washington last week.

Gopher Coach Murray Warmath is expected to alternate three complete teams as units against Purdue, which lost 12-0 in its opener with Notre Dame.

Minnesota's eight consecutive conference games is a chore never tried before by a Big Ten team. After Purdue, the Gophers meet Northwestern, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan State and Wisconsin.

The Michigan State-California tilt, which will be viewed on national TV after the World Series game, finds the Spartans a 15-point favorite over the host Bears.

In two non-loop frays. Big Ten teams are underdogs Saturday. Notre Dame is pegged 19 points better than Indiana. Invading Oregon State, Pacific Coast Conference champion, is rated eight points better than Northwestern which, like Iowa, has been hit by the flu bug.

Iowa's Big Ten champions were favored by 18 points over Washington State, once coached by Iowa's Forest Evashevski. However, that was before a flu wave forced cancellation of Thursday's Hawkeye drill. The team physician said 11 players probably will not see action in the game.

Michigan, a 21-point favorite, is expected to use Georgia as a spar mate in preparation for its Big Ten neighborhood bout with Michigan State the following Saturday.

One touchdown picks are Wisconsin over visiting West Virginia and once-beaten Ohio State over Washington. Illinois is a three-touchdown choice over Colgate, which appeared at Champaign, Ill., only once before, in 1916, to score a 15-3 victory.

CAMPANELLA RESUMES PLAY

BALTIMORE (AP) — Joe Campanella ended retirement from pro football after one game by signing a contract with the Baltimore Colts Friday.

The veteran middle guard was persuaded to resume playing to replace Bill Pellington who fractured his right arm in last Sunday's game against Detroit.

FOOTBALL FLU—

list of sick players kept secret because it was in "a constant state of change."

"A boy sick yesterday may be well today and a boy well today may be sick tomorrow so it was felt any list released would be inaccurate," Wilson explained.

The flu picture cast an aura of uncertainty over the Hawkeyes' plans for tomorrow's game with Washington State's Cougars.

Late Friday afternoon, Evashevski, some of the players and Dr. Paul had a meeting during which Dr. Paul checked over the players.

"The condition of some of the players this afternoon is better than we had hoped for, and there are no new cases of flu this afternoon," Evashevski said. At that the men went out to practice.

Wilson said cancellation of the contest "is not even contemplated now. I don't know if it ever was seriously contemplated."

He said that in addition to the 11 men who could not play because of flu, there were some others out with injuries. No names were given.

Evashevski said that despite last week's lopsided score the game demonstrated deficiencies in Iowa's pass defense. He warned that the Hawks would have to stop the passes of the Cougar's Bobby Newman and Bunny Aldrich.

The Washington State squad arrived at Cedar Rapids early today after what team members described as a "rough" air trip from the west coast.

Except for a few cases of air sickness the Cougars were reported to be in top shape for tomorrow's enocunter. They worked out at Denver, Colo., yesterday after noon and at a high school field in Cedar Rapids, 25 miles north of here, today.

65 Schools In Track Meet At SUI Today

Sixty five Iowa high schools will participate in the 36th annual running of the State High School One Mile Team Race on the Iowa track today.

Five classes will be run starting at 10:30 this morning. Following is the schedule of each class:

10:30 — Class C (Average - less than 90).

10:40 — Class B (Average - 90 to 119).

10:50 — Class A (Average - 120 to 284).

11:00 — Class AA (Average - 284 to 836).

11:10 — Class AAA (Average - over 836).

The average is determined by daily attendance over a five year period.

A school may run a maximum of five boys. The three best performers of the five count in determining the school's total point. Each boy will run one mile — four laps on the quarter-mile cinder track.

Last year's championships were won by the following: Sheffield, Class C; LeClaire and Miles, tie for Class B; West Des Moines, Class A; Decorah, Class AA; and Des Moines Lincoln, Class AAA.

CAMPBELL WINS RACE

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Donald Campbell, world's speedboat racing king, drove his jet-powered Bluebird II at unofficial speeds of 250 and 275 miles an hour on Onondaga Lake Friday.

The British insurance man plans two tries at the speedboat record today, "conditions permitting." He set the world mark at 225.63 last fall.

Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Enos Slaughter who has been playing baseball for money for 22 years, was speaking of this and that in the Yankee dugout before the second World Series game.

"You know," he said, his foghorn voice warning away all small craft, "I nearly got released my first year in pro ball." He paused, then added as if as an afterthought: "I couldn't run."

THAT WAS AN EYE-POPPER. Enos Slaughter not being able to run! That's like saying a fish can't swim or a bird can't fly. Enos Slaughter practically invented running in baseball. He's the original man in motion; the man who went from first base to score on what was little more than a single to center in a Series game with the Red Sox, who springs from his outfield position to the dugout as if he were doing a time trial.

"That's right," he said. "I ran flat footed, like this." He placed his feet solidly on the planks as if he were stomping out a brush fire.

"Somebody tipped me off that I ought to try running on my toes. In three days I cut my time running from home to first by four strides."

THAT WAS IN 1935, when he was with Martinsville in the Bi-State League, and he's been running ever since.

He's now the prime example of how far an athlete can go if he takes care of his legs.

"I hunt after the season is over," he said, "and you can't do anything better than that. The Good Lord gave me a good pair of legs, and I've taken care of them.

Slaughter is probably the oldest regular player ever to take part in a World Series. Jack Quinn was pitching for Connie Mack's Athletics in 1930, when he was 46, but that was pitching, not running after fly balls.

U.S. Golfers Win Matches In Ryder Cup

LINDRICK, England (AP) — America's rising generation of professional golfers won three of the four Scotch foursomes matches in the Ryder Cup Friday, leaving only the faintest flicker of hope to an outplayed British team.

Now the Americans, razor sharp on the greens and deadly with their irons, need only four of Saturday's eight 36-hole singles matches to keep the international trophy they have held without a break since 1935.

Some of the American names were new this time — new, at least, to British golf fans. There was no Hogan, Snead, Middlecoff nor Demaret on the Yankee team. But the story was just the same.

It went like this:

Doug Ford and Dow Finsterwald defeated the youthful English pair of Peter Alliss and Bernard Hunt, 2 and 1.

Jack Burke, U.S. team captain, and Ted Kroll whipped Britain's big hitters, Max Faulkner and Harry Weetman, 4 and 3.

Dick Mayer and Tommy Bolt crushed Ireland's Christy O'Connor and Scotland's Eric Brown, 7 and 5.

Only Dai Rees, little 44-year-old scrapper from Wales, and Ken Bousfield of England held out against the tide. One down after 27 holes, they climbed back to a 3 and 2 victory over Americans Art Wall Jr., and Fred Hawkins.

FREE CLEANING FOR YANKS

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The New York Yankees — and their wives — can have their laundry done free while they're in Milwaukee, a cleaning firm announced Friday in a quarter page ad in the Milwaukee Journal.

"After all," the ad copy read, "If you're going to be taken to the cleaners anyway, you may as well be taken to the very best in Milwaukee."

Broken Leg Gibbons' Break

By ALAN HOSKINS
(Another in a Series)

Shortly after Iowa's first game in 1955, Iowa suffered one of its toughest breaks — a break in end Frank Gilliam's leg.

However, this break turned out to be one of the best that ever happened to Iowa. For it meant another year of eligibility for Gilliam, and Frankie was one of the main cogs in Iowa's first Big Ten crown since 1922.

But it was also a break in another way. For after Gilliam broke his leg in practice, Iowa had to bring in an untried end to take over. That end was Jim Gibbons who now is one of the best ends in the country.

That year, Jim gained invaluable experience and became a top flight end. He led the Hawkeyes in pass receptions in 1955, and again last year. Last Saturday, Gib took a big step in leading the Hawkeyes once again.

Against Utah State, he gathered in four pases for a whopping 133 yards and one touchdown. His TD catch was one of the most sensational seen in Iowa Stadium in a long time. Asked if he thought it was the best catch he ever made while at Iowa, Jim answered, "I don't know if it was the best, but it was the luckiest I've made."

If you were to count all Jim's big catches, you'd have a handful in no time. Last year alone, Jim caught the pass for the winning touchdown against Oregon State, the pass that set up the only touchdown in Iowa's 7-0 win at Minnesota, and the pass that put Iowa in the Rose Bowl, a 17-yarder against Ohio State.

If it hadn't been for a last minute change of mind, Gibbons might be playing against Iowa. Jim was planning all along to go to Northwestern after graduating from Lindblom High in Chicago. But a friend of his, Bob Stifter, was heading for Iowa to take the entrance exams so Jim decided to come along, mainly for the ride.

Meet the Hawks

When he got here, he liked what he saw, especially the coaches. "The coaches really seemed good to me," said Jim, "so I decided to stay." He's never regretted it.

At Lindblom, Gibbons was on the all-sectional team. He played offensive tackle and defensive end. Jim listed speed skating as his favorite pastime.

A physical education major, Jim plans on going into the coaching game after he takes a crack at pro football. At 6-3 and about 190 pounds, Gibbons has all the qualifications of a fine pro end. He has good speed, fakes well, and an excellent pair of hands.

Gibbons biggest thrill — the Rose Bowl, although he has a host of others. His important catches against Minnesota and Ohio State are two, his election as 1957 captain of the Hawkeyes was another.

Did Gibbons ever have an end as an idol? "Well, I don't know," said

Jim Gibbons

Jim. "I guess Frankie (Gilliam) was about the best end I know. He was really great defensively.

"I also had a lot of respect for Kramer, too," said Jim. Gibbons also indicated a lot of admiration for Harlon Hill, the sensational pro end playing for the Chicago Bears. Hill is one reason Gibbons doesn't have a special yen to play with the Bears, although he doesn't care who he plays for.

As captain of the 1957 Hawkeyes, we asked Jim what he thought about the coming season. "Well, last year everybody said we were lucky. This year the guys are out to prove that it just wasn't luck," said Gibbons.

Passes weren't the only thing Gibbons caught here at Iowa. He also caught the eye of another SUI student, Lila Morgan, a candidate for Miss SUI two years ago. Jim and Lila were married the 17th of August.

Kind of looks like Gibbons is an exeellent pass catcher in more than one field.

SUI Art Professor Outlines Movements

Five "movements" affecting artists during the last 100 years in such ways as to transform their work from the "naturalism" of 1860 to the abstractions of today were outlined by Prof. Lester D. Longman of SUI in an illustrated talk for physicians attending a dinner meeting of the Midwest Cardiac Conference Friday evening at SUI.

Professor Longman is head of the SUI art department.

The naturalism of 1860 depicted the artist's subject so that it looked "real" or normal to the average person, Prof. Longman explained. Most of the major artists of that time were naturalists.

The first step away from landscapes that looked like landscapes and figures immediately recognizable as human beings came with "impressionism" in the 1870's and 80's, the SUI profesor said. This movement initiated a "leaving-out" process by depicting essentially what the eye takes in at a glance, rather than including all details.

Eventually other movements specialized on some one aspect of what painting can do, leaving out other functions which the average viewer had considered customary.

At the end of 19th century expressionism, the images expressed a combination of nature and the temperament of the artist, stressing the peculiarities of temperament more than had been customary in art. But the expressionist still was supposed to be presenting reality in his paintings.

The next step in the development of modern art — cubism — found the artist deliberately transforming the appearance of his subject, stressing what he considered the underlying architectural structure of objects and leaving out everything else, the SUI speaker said.

This tendency led to the painting of geometric abstractions, in which the artist frankly had no intention of presenting reality. These works are valued chiefly for their qualities of design.

At the same time cubism flourished, other artists were promoting the expressionist emphasis on temperament and subjective viewpoints, with the result that a movement called surrealism arose around 1920 and flourished for two decades.

In surrealist works the artist explored the peculiarities of psychology, using elements of nature as mere materials and distorting them for psychological effect. During the past decade, surrealism has evolved into what is called today expressionistic abstraction, in which the artist leaves out every reference to nature and stresses the most transient psychic states.

These paintings are often not even commendable for design, Prof. Longman pointed out, but are justified by the artist primarily as explorations of new personal insights valuable for their originality and for what the artist considers their prophetic character.

They usually carry an indirect criticism of contemporary society, the SUI professor said. Hence these eccentric abstractions symbolize the artist's alienation and withdrawal from conventional society.

So today's artists are producing abstractions which are either expressionistic or geometric, but chiefly the former, Prof. Longman said. All reference to nature, or attempt to reproduce reality, is omitted in order to express either spiritual disturbance or pure design, he explained.

Make Medical History

TEN MONTHS AGO SURGEONS separated Virginia Kate and Teresa Kay Bunton of Mountain City, Tenn., who were born joined at the forehead 14 months ago. The operation, called the first of its kind where both twins survived, was performed at the National Institute of Neurological Diseases, Bethesda, Md.

Antique Art 'Find' Brings Many Letters

DES MOINES (AP) — Mrs. Mildred Burlington, who discovered that a "costume bracelet" she bought in India for less than $500 was actually an antique art piece worth at least $22,000, has had letters from all parts of the nation on her "find."

Mrs. Burlington said an Associated Press story about the bracelet had brought her literally scores and scores of inquiries and letters from old friends.

She also has had some direct inquiries from jewelers representing museums which may possibly be interested in acquiring the piece for their displays of Far Eastern art.

Mrs. Burlington bought the bracelet in Calcutta, India, to wear as a nice piece of costume jewelry. More than a year later she had it appraised and discovered that the jewels in the elaborately patterned bracelet included at least 22 carats of diamonds.

The clerk who sold the bracelet to her said it was at least 100 years old, she said, but the appraising jeweler said it might be much older.

Mrs. Burlington said she doubts very seriously that she will sell the bracelet, regardless of what offers she may get for it.

"I have about decided that I shall give it to my only granddaughter, little Margaret Ann Burlington, when she reaches the age of 21," Mrs. Burlington said. "After all, she was born on my birthday anniversary. Besides, if she ever decides to sell it perhaps the tax laws will be more fair some time in the future."

Margaret Ann's father is stationed with the Air Force in Japan.

Mrs. Burlington said that in view of the bracelet's real value she is glad she declared it when she came through customs. Antiques more than 100 years old do not have to be declared, she explained, but she decided to declare it anyhow "just to be on the safe side."

"Most of my friends who have written me say 'you lucky stiff' or words to that effect," she said. "I've even heard from friends I made aboard ship during the trip on which I bought the bracelet."

PROVING THE POINT

DALLAS (AP)—Mayor R. L. Thornton didn't quite catch the proposal being presented to the city council.

"Say that again," he asked.

"We have an appropriation for $901 to replace the present sound equipment here in the council chamber," repeated City Manager Elgin Crull.
