

Hawks Begin Big Ten Title Defense Today at Indiana

Randy Duncan Leads Iowa Offense

Favored Over Hoosiers by 3 Touchdowns

Iowa Holds Edge In Series, 14-10

By ALAN HOSKINS
BLOOMINGTON — Iowa will open defense of its Big Ten Championship for the first time since 1921 today as the Hawkeyes meet Indiana in the Hoosiers' Homecoming.

The game, set to start at 1:30 (CST), will be the 29th played between the two teams. Iowa holds the series edge, 14-10, with four games ending in ties. Last year, the Hawkeyes opened the season with a 27-0 win over the Hoosiers.

Both teams have played two games this season. The Hawkeyes routed Utah State, 70-14, in its opener, and edged Washington State, 20-13, last week. The Hoosiers opened their Big Ten season with a 54-0 loss to Michigan State and last week fell before Notre Dame, 26-0.

For the first time in nearly two weeks, Iowa will be at full strength for the game. Last week regulars Bill Gravel and Mike Hagler were sidelined with the flu while tackle Dick Klein saw only a limited amount of action.

Only Hawkeye on the doubtful list is second string fullback Fred Harris, who suffered a back injury in the Utah State game. It is expected that Harris will be ready for at least part time duty.

Iowa, a three to four touchdown favorite, will send the top offensive team in the nation at the Hoosiers. The Hawkeyes, who also lead the nation in passing offense, have compiled an average of 518.5 in their first two games to lead all major eleven. Iowa is sixth in rushing offense.

In facing Indiana, the Hawkeyes will meet a new offense in the Hoosiers' Side Saddle T. In this new offense, Indiana assistant coach Bob Hicks, who's filling in for suspended Phil Dickens, has his quarterback face the sideline with the snap going either to the quarterback or the tailback.

The Hoosiers have not yet worked out all the flaws in the new formation, as evidenced by the fact they failed to score in the first two games. However, should the Hoosiers jell against Iowa, the Hawkeyes could have a bigger battle on their hands than most experts predict.

Least in the light of a 26-0 defeat by Notre Dame last Saturday was some noticeable improvement. The Hoosiers' offense, although not consistent, moved at times, once to the Irish ten. Indiana doubled its yardage over their first game, and the defense tightened up to nearly half the yardage compiled by Michigan State.

Indiana's leading ground gainer, Mercer said later he would bring the letter up for discussion at the City Council meeting Monday, although he added, "I don't think (the council) will do anything about the complaint on the spur of the moment."

"But I believe they will want to take it under consideration," Mercer told the Associated Press Friday he was disappointed that the council sent letters to the press, radio and television services without first bringing the problem to him.

The reason for the meters, he said, is to keep traffic moving and give everyone a chance to carry out his business on the campus.

The Press-Citizen, in supporting Mercer's position, said, "The sole purpose of most of these (parking) changes is to increase the turnover of cars in the available spaces, which essentially means opening up parking spaces, to more and more drivers who want to park."

"Parking spaces are for everyone, not for any special classifications of drivers. Increasing the turnover of cars in parking spaces is bound to provide more drivers with parking in any given time, whether they are city, university or out-of-town drivers."

"One of the things which led to parking changes this fall was the practice of 'feeding' the meters. This resulted in many instances of using the streets for storage. Cars parked for long periods in downtown stalls kept other cars from using the stalls, and there was little turnover of cars in many parking spaces."

The Press-Citizen said that before the new restrictions were put into effect "... many of these areas, especially spaces on N. Clinton Street, were available mainly to university students because cars parked there were left by students sometimes for as long as half a day or even a full class day (and sometimes for weeks) with no parking fee."

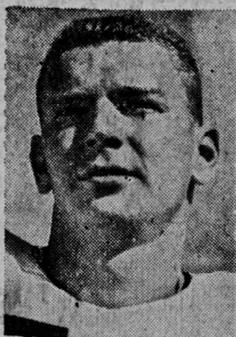

The Student Council's letter called on the city to remove new parking restrictions on the following streets: Jefferson (Capitol to Dubuque), Capitol (Jefferson to Market), Market (Capitol to Dubuque) and Clinton (Jefferson to proposed N. Carrier extension).

The letter, signed by council President Bill Teter, L3, Des Moines, also asked abandonment of a plan for new restrictions in the Clinton Street area and reinstatement of parking on Jefferson and Market from Capitol to Madison streets.

Baptists Pray For Removal Of Negroes

Little Rock Ministers Say 'Only Solution'

By DONALD SANDERS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A group of segregationist Baptist ministers invited persons of all faiths to pray Friday night for the removal of nine Negro students from Central High School.

In issuing a call for the 15-minute prayer meeting to be held at the Central Baptist Church in downtown Little Rock, the 24 ministers said in a joint statement that the only solution to the city's racial crisis

"is for the nine Negro children to return to Horace Mann High School where they legally and morally belong."

Horace Mann is a Negro high school which the nine attended prior to this year.

They now are going to Central High classes under the protection of federal troops ordered into Little Rock by President Eisenhower.

The Baptist minister's position is akin to that of Gov. Orval Faubus, who told a news conference Wednesday he thinks the only solution to the crisis is withdrawal of the Negroes from Central High.

Other prayer services will be held Saturday under sponsorship of 85 or more churches of all faiths, Churches throughout the state and nation will take part.

The Rt. Rev. Robert R. Brown, Episcopal bishop of Arkansas, said of Saturday's service:

"We are trying to emphasize that this is nonpolitical and we are not taking any position on that nature. We are simply trying to start on our knees."

Rev. Dunbar H. Ogden Jr., president of the Greater Little Rock Ministerial Assn., said most of the city's large churches will take part.

He said the approximately 85 participating include 15 to 20 Negro congregations.

Asked about the avowedly segregation prayer meeting Friday night, Bishop Brown said: "We're glad they're having it."

"We have no protest. In fact we're delighted."

Sputnik 'Visits' Iowa City Today

Sputnik was to pass over Iowa City at 5:57 this morning, according to a report received from the Smithsonian Institute.

SUI astronomer Hugh Johnson last night said he would watch for Sputnik with binoculars at his home. "The satellite is too fast to observe with a large telescope," he said.

Kinsey Anderson, SUI physicist, was dubious about the report saying that previous reports hadn't been too accurate. He was not sure he would be on hand to look for Sputnik when it passed.

Physicist Carl McIlwain is reported to have said that Sputnik's course is erratic and varies in altitude.

McIlwain was quoted as saying that the report Sputnik had dropped to 169 miles may well have been correct.

A graph of Sputnik's flight made in the SUI physics lab reports that Sputnik's flight alternates between an altitude of 250 and 400 miles.

The Weather

Cloudy, Slow Warmup

Clear skies and mild temperatures dominated the Iowa weather picture Friday.

Considerable cloudiness and a continued slow warmup is the outlook for Saturday. Some light shower activity is forecast for southwestern counties.

The Weather Bureau said mild weather is expected to continue through the weekend.

Teamsters Group Seeks To Bar Hoffa From Taking Office

James Hoffa Would Bar From Office

Judge Puts Ruling Off Until Monday

Based On 'Illegal Delegates' Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of New York Teamsters members Friday asked for a federal court order barring James R. Hoffa from taking over the presidency of the giant, scandal-ridden labor union.

Attorneys for the group conferred twice in chambers during the day with U.S. Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts on the plea, but the court put off a ruling until Monday.

"I won't have anything to say until then," Judge Letts told reporters.

It was indicated that the judge asked the attorneys to revise the form of a proposed temporary restraining order they had prepared for his signature. There was no indication one way or another how the court will rule.

The attorneys—from the Washington and New York law firms of Dogg, Kaplan & Schmidt—said they also will go into the federal appeals court Monday morning to have the Teamsters Union cited for contempt of court.

Judge Letts two weeks ago issued a preliminary injunction against holding the Teamsters convention.

The appeals court set this aside, but with the warning that the union should not go ahead with its convention if illegal delegates were seated.

The contempt proceedings would be on the argument that the convention was held with illegal delegates, in the face of the court warning.

The protesting Teamster members, along with Chairman John D. McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee, have charged many of the convention delegates were seated, despite their having been illegally chosen, to rig the election for Hoffa.

Dave Beck, the retiring union president said in New York today he was ready to resign and leave the president's chair open immediately to Hoffa.

Expect Russ To Launch New Sputnik

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sputnik may have company very soon.

A State Department spokesman said Friday the department would not be surprised if the Russians launched another earth satellite at any time.

Press officer Jameson Parker declined to elaborate on his statement elicited at a news conference, other than to say he was not speaking hypothetically.

This suggests his statement might be based on secret intelligence.

There has been speculation that the Russians would choose Nov. 7, the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution, to put a second satellite in orbit. Parker's comment was taken to mean the firing could come sooner.

The first American satellite is scheduled to go up next March, after some test firings in December.

Russia's baby moon was a week old Friday.

New calculations at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology indicated the satellite was being outdistanced in its race around the earth by the third stage of the rocket which launched it.

This rocket section, also in orbit, was estimated to be circling the earth once every 96.03 minutes — and to be picking up speed. An earlier estimate put the satellite's orbiting time at 96.1 minutes.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, who is in charge of the optical tracking program for the Smithsonian Institution's Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass., said the orbit of the rocket was worked out in 21 seconds by MIT's electronic "brain."

About Sputnik-

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Sputnik, Russia's earth satellite, is slowing down, National Bureau of Standards Laboratory scientists here said Friday.

However, Dr. Robert Galat, in charge of orbital calculations, said the deceleration is very slight — "in the order of one second per revolution around the globe."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some American information on earth satellite projects may have been slipped to the Russians years ago by atom spy Julius Rosenberg.

David Greenglass, the chief government witness against Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, swore that Rosenberg had told him that he — Rosenberg — had obtained information on what he called a sky platform project. The source was not otherwise identified.

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscowites finally got a glimpse of the Soviet earth satellite Friday.

The moonlet passed over Moscow this chilly morning and, for the first time since it was launched last Friday, the sky here was completely clear.

The satellite was visible 4 minutes, 41 seconds.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American satellite that this nation hopes to put into the skies by next spring is all ready to go right now, but it will remain earth-bound until the rockets to get it up are finished and tested.

Dr. John P. Hagen, director of this country's earth satellite project, told that to the National Press Club Friday.

He said the 20-inch globe has undergone a 15-day test under controlled conditions in a complete vacuum and is ready for flight.

Hagen said Project Vanguard is behind its working schedule, but not behind in the goal of putting the satellite into the skies during the International Geophysical Year which extends from last July 1 to Dec. 31, 1958.

Senators Hit Khrushchev For 'Gall'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders jumped on Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev Friday for his suggestion that they grill Secretary of State Dulles about what the Kremlin leader contended was a deliberate U.S. effort to provoke war between Syria and Turkey.

"The gall of Khrushchev is almost inconceivable," said Sen. Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California agreed with Mansfield that the Senate needed no directions from the Kremlin.

Sen. Wiley of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the Foreign Relations Committee, said Khrushchev was again proving that "he is the master provocateur of our time."

In a Moscow interview with The New York Times, Khrushchev charged Dulles tried to provoke Mideast nations into attacking Syria after that country accepted arms from the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev contended that Dulles sent Dep. Undersecretary of State Loy Henderson to Iraq and Jordan in an effort to provoke an attack on Syria. Failing in that, Khrushchev said Dulles ordered Henderson to apply pressure on Turkey to go to war with Syria.

Khrushchev then challenged U.S. senators to put Dulles under oath and question him on these points.

The State Department Thursday denied denouncing the Red Leader's charges as completely unfounded.

God Will Not Set Limit on Conquest Of Space - Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said Friday "God has no intention of setting a limit to the efforts of man to conquer space."

The newspaper, commenting on the artificial satellite Soviet Russia launched Oct. 4, said the Roman Catholic Church's point of view on outer space has not changed since Pope Pius XII's times.

"The more we explore into outer space, the nearer we become to the great idea of one family under the mother-father God."

Ready Monument, Floats

Corn Monument Under Construction

Construction is underway on the 1957 Homecoming Corn Monument on the west lawn of Old Capitol. The 20-foot-high structure of wood and masonry is expected to be finished Thursday.

The design for the monument was adapted from a prize-winning drawing by Marilyn Mickey, A2, Creston, the second SUI coed in 44 years to win first prize in an annual competition for the best monument design.

The design features a large yellow "I" (representing Iowa) rising out of a red "W" (representing Wisconsin). The lettering "1957" will be painted on the top bar of the "I." "Homecoming" and "Hawks" written in corn kernels, and "Wisconsin," written in red and white, will decorate the base of the monument.

The monument will be burned if Iowa is successful in the Homecoming game.

The monument was unofficially burned last year, although Iowa lost the Homecoming game to Michigan, 17-14. After the 1955 Purdue game, an argument arose over whether the monument should be burned, since the game ended in a tie. It burned.

General chairman for the construction project is Ralph Wehner, E2, Aledo, Ill. In charge of the crew of engineering students who are doing the actual construction is William Busch, E3, Wilton Junction.

Lighting arrangements are under supervision of Robert Ross, E4, Clinton.

BUTTON, BUTTON, they've got the buttons — 30,000 of them. Joan Shaffer, N1, Pekin, Ill., Sybil Norton, A2, Spencer, and Beth Power, A1, Newton, begin the tedious process of counting out Homecoming badges into piles of 25 badges each. The badges — which hold the key to the Homecoming financial success — were put into sacks for distribution.

33 Floats Slated To Parade

The monotonous task of stuffing paper into chickenwire will soon occupy a large number of students as various campus groups prepare their floats for the Homecoming parade Friday night.

Thirty-three floats are scheduled for the parade, including four non-student entries. These floats will be constructed by the Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce, which will have two entries, the 224th Engineer Battalion of the National Guard, and the Jennie Wren 4-H Club of Tiffin.

The Young Republican club is the only student interest group which registered a float.

Fifteen floats will be constructed cooperatively by two housing groups.

All floats entered by campus housing groups are being sponsored by Iowa City merchants except one which will be built by a local sorority and fraternity.

First and second prize trophies will be awarded in three categories — beauty, humor and originality. Duplicate trophies will be awarded if the winning float is constructed by two houses.

The outstanding campus float in the parade will be awarded the sweepstakes trophy.

Judges for the parade floats will be the city managers of four Iowa towns: John Beckman, Guttenberg; G. W. Wright, Mount Pleasant; C. C. McCarthy, Webster City; and Waldo C. Myers, West Liberty.

A Racial Crime

The following letter was sent to us by Mr. John Gunther, the co-chairman of the South Africa Defense Fund. We print it here, as an editorial, because it is an attempt to breach the barriers of inane racial hatred, bigotry, and discrimination.

Dear Editor: Today it is a crime in South Africa for black and white to talk together in a public meeting, study in the same school, live in the same neighborhood, or sit in the same restaurant, movie or hotel lobby.

It is high treason to attempt to alter this system in any way, even by democratic means. Any man, woman or child, black or white, who advocates democracy based on equality of rights may be branded, according to a South African law, a Communist or a traitor.

Millions of South Africans understandably find these conditions intolerable. Recently, persons — black and white — who have been outspoken in their denunciation of the government's racial policy were arrested and charged with treason.

Among them were such outstanding persons as Z. K. Matthews, Henry Luce, Visiting Professor at Union Theological Seminary in 1952-53, who is widely known in the United States.

If moderate men are suppressed, there is little chance for democratic evolution in South Africa.

We have been urged by Bishop Ambrose Reeves of Johannesburg, Alan Paton, Father Trevor Huddleston and others to establish a defense fund here to be used in two ways:

First, to help provide those under arrest with the best possible legal defense.

Second, to help meet the critical needs faced by their families.

More than $150,000 is needed from the United States and Canada alone.

The American Committee on Africa is uniquely equipped to deal with this appeal and has accepted the task of establishing a special South Africa Defense Fund.

Because I believe the crisis in South Africa to be so dangerous and the situation there so obnoxious to all people of good will, I have accepted the Co-chairmanship of this Defense Fund together with the Very Reverend James A. Pike.

The tragic urgency of this situation demands our immediate attention. There is much more at stake than the guilt or innocence of 156 persons in South Africa; we are witnessing a test of enormously important values to the free nations of the world.

For what better distinguishes democracy from tyranny than the right of free men to seek change constitutionally?

I urge all Americans to help by sending a generous contribution to the South African Defense Fund, 4 West 40th Street, New York 18, New York.

Let us not fail those in South Africa who stand at the front lines in this struggle.

John Gunther

Informal Education

Woody Herman and his "Third Herd" helped get SU1 off to a great start on all-University social activities for the year. The music was enjoyable, the mood festive, and the crowd large.

One thing many new (and old) students complain of is the difficulty of meeting people — an aloofness that gives you the feeling of being among strangers.

There is a lack of the feeling of belonging, of "oneness" that each individual needs. Part of the reason is found in the very size of the University — who could sustain 10,000 friendships? Another part lies in the inability to meet people.

Well, University functions are one way of getting to meet people, getting to do things with other students and identifying oneself with the University.

But this is not a commercial for the Central Party Committee — it is the voice of experience telling you that your days on campus will be much richer, more enjoyable if you participate in University functions, get to know your fellow students and as important, your instructors.

The University's primary function is education, but that by no means limits its activities to formal education. Often, the most important things you experience from friends and associates.

Interposition

Though Not Nullification, Interposition Still A Frustrating Tactic

By KIRK PORTER

Governor Faubus has been trying to practice interposition. It is not quite the same thing as nullification. Early in our history, after Congress had passed some measures that were thought to be unconstitutional, some of our ablest statesmen toyed with the idea of nullification. Indeed the idea was embodied in the famous Virginia and Kentucky Resolutions. It was proposed that if Congress passed an unconstitutional act and the Supreme Court upheld it, a state legislature could declare it void and inoperative in that state. This was preposterous and never was seriously attempted. But interposition was not so fantastic, and has often been practiced in a small way. Today it is seen to have great possibilities and already it is being tried. Governor Faubus fumbled with it. Others are making some progress. They have stopped using the word but are quietly attempting to practice it.

The Constitution reserves certain powers to the states, powers with which the national government cannot interfere. The idea is to use these powers, which they clearly do have, in such a way as to impede, slow up and render very difficult the enforcement of federal laws they do not like. This is interposition. It can be very subtle and undramatic. Thus states do have power to tax, to regulate commerce within the state, to regulate business, agriculture, the professions and labor management relations. They use it! They use this power in such a way as to stymie, embarrass, impede and slow up the enforcement of U.S. law on these matters. Also a Governor can neglect, not boldly refuse, to help enforce federal law. To put it crudely, he can simply lay down on the job. It is not possible to punish or fire a state governor and all the state and local officials who lay down on this job of enforcing federal law.

The most dramatic example of this kind of interposition occurred in prohibition days. Many states simply laid down on the eighteenth amendment. State legislatures did not enact law to implement prohibition. Governors did nothing. Many local law enforcement officers simply ignored flagrant violations. It was indeed their duty to enforce federal law but there was no way to compel them to do it. Federal officers had full power to enforce it and tried their best. But one higher officer in the department of justice said wryly it would take the whole U.S. Army to enforce prohibition in Milwaukee alone. Thus the 18th amendment was destroyed by a form of interposition.

Governor Faubus has the duty to enforce all law, state and Federal, as does every other governor. He cannot be compelled to do it, he can be by-passed by federal agencies of law enforcement, and that is what happened to him. It was certainly his duty to maintain peace and good order in his own State; but he should not have used this power directly to block the enforcement of a federal court order. In such a situation federal power must prevail, and it did. Federal agencies enforced a federal court order and swept right past the governor.

SUCH TACTICS are very very rarely necessary. Almost universally it is the practice of state and local officials to help the federal agencies. If they do not, then the federal government is on its own. That was the tragedy of the prohibition era. The federal government was unable to enforce federal law all by itself. But I am not aware that state or local authorities used their power directly to thwart or obstruct federal agents. The stupid error of Governor Faubus was to do that. It might be said that the governor overdid interposition. We are not likely to see another example of that. But passive interposition can be a baffling, frustrating thing. The enactment of unhelpful legislation, inaction by public officials, deliberately doing things that are sure to necessitate interminable litigation — that would be interposition. And we are likely to see more of it.

Federalism has worked in this country because states have cooperated. They should. But if states lay down, or actively practice interposition, the federal government is on its own. That makes it very difficult.

Beetles of Interest

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Smithsonian Institution announces that it has recently obtained a large and important collection of wood-boring beetles, to be added to the entomological collections of the United States National Museum.

The new collection, numbering more than 100,000 specimens and representing about 16,500 species of this enormous group of insects, came from Frederick F. Tippmann, an engineer, explorer and entomologist of Vienna, Austria. He assembled the collection over a period of 40 years, not only collecting personally in every country of South America and in Africa, Asia and Europe, but also purchasing great rarities from many remote parts of the world.

The wood-boring beetles of this family, numbering in all about 25,000 species, comprise one of the economically most important groups of insects in the world. In the larval stage they attack wood and stems of woody and herbaceous plants, and few of them eat seeds. It is on record that this small outbreak of one species, affecting only 8 square miles of forest, killed 4,000 trees, aggregating nearly 1,000,000 cubic feet of timber.

Not all species, however, are harmful, point out Smithsonian entomologists. Live-stem borers are used to control the spread of noxious plants such as lantana. Larvae of several groups speedily break down stumps and discarded logs in coniferous plantations, greatly enriching the soil and clearing the ground. Some kinds indicate to the forester that his trees are unhealthy and are the victims of more serious foes.

These beetles range in size from minute specimens about 1/16th inch long to monsters four to five inches in body length with eight-inch antennae. Every conceivable color is represented, and many mimic the form of other beetles, wasps and flies.

The newly acquired collection, together with others already assembled at the United States National Museum, will permit studies embracing the biology and distributional features of the wood-boring insects and will be available to interested students of beetles who wish to undertake studies in this group.

Fitzsimmons said the name of the applicant selected by the students will be announced Wednesday.

The board called for applications for the vacant post after Arthur Douglas, Cresco, the fifth student member, failed to return to SU1 this fall. Douglas is employed by U.S. News and World Report in Washington, D. C.

Other parts of the foreign students' orientation to SU1 have included a football seminar; welcome parties; and dinner in the homes of University Club members.

All of these activities are organized by the International Center which is headquarters for foreign students while at SU1.

"The Rivalry," a Paul Gregory production starring Raymond Massey, Agnes Moorehead and Martin Gabel, will be presented on the Coe College Auditorium Series Friday, Nov. 1.

From a play by Norman Corwin, well-known radio, television and film writer, "The Rivalry" features Massey as Abraham Lincoln, Miss Moorehead as Adele Douglas, and Gabel as Stephen Douglas, Lincoln's rival for the presidency. The play is built upon the famous Lincoln-Douglas debates that occurred during Lincoln's first candidacy.

Tickets will go on sale at the Coe Business Office and Armstrong's Monday, Oct. 21. The Gregory production is scheduled for a Broadway opening in January.

Ex-Ray Reveals Needle Lodged In Woman's Heart

DETROIT (AP)—Mrs. Henry R. Mann, 44, of nearby St. Clair Shores, developed a bad cough three weeks ago.

X-ray examination disclosed a needle in her heart. It was pulsating with every heart beat with the point sticking into the right lung. The stabbing caused her to cough blood.

A heart surgery team at Bon Secours Hospital in suburban Grosse Pointe Thursday opened the patient's chest and extracted the 2 1/2-inch piece of steel from the heart and lung.

Surgeons described the operation as an "unusual case." Mrs. Mann, who was reported recovering Friday, said she had no idea how the needle got into her body.

Cuban Rebels Given 6 Years

HAVANA (AP)—A courtmartial Friday sentenced 17 officers of Cuba's armed forces to from one to six years in prison for rebellion against President Fulgencio Batista's government. There were hints that they had wanted U.S. backing.

Ten were air force pilots. The others were from the army and navy. All were accused of revolutionary activity in the Havana area in the last six weeks.

The prosecution charged they plotted an uprising here coincident with the abortive revolt by navy enlisted men at Cienfuegos Sept. 5 and sought aid through the U.S. Embassy.

GRADUATING ENGINEERS

"For wide open opportunities and intriguing projects with a sound, expanding company... Emerson Electric is the right spot for the young engineer."

"Compared to some companies in avionics and electronics work, Emerson Electric is considered a medium size company... and this, in my opinion, has tremendous advantages. At Emerson the individual's personal creative contribution is definitely of measurable importance to the company and is recognized as such. Consequently, his opportunities for advancement are much greater here."

"Furthermore, Emerson is a growth company. RIGHT NOW we are in the midst of the most ambitious expansion program in the Company's history. It's a soundly conceived program, based on long-range avionics and electronics projects, plus stable commercial production. This means the young engineer who joins our team at this stage will have wide open opportunities. His career won't be blocked by the discouraging restriction at middle and top levels so characteristic of companies which have already reached full growth."

"And for intriguing, man-sized jobs, at Emerson we don't take a back seat to anyone... the magnitude, scope and variety of projects is right up there with many of the biggest in industry."

There you have Assistant Chief Methods Engineer Ed Johnson's view of career possibilities at Emerson Electric. The ink on Ed's M.E. degree was barely dry when he started with us. Opportunity has been an important factor in his success story, and after just six years with the company it isn't complete by any means.

Ed's first Emerson job was in the production department as an administrative assistant. From there he moved to a shop foreman. In his own words... "I wouldn't trade the experience gained there for anything. It's the most valuable in the world to me today." Next, to tool project engineer, then on to senior man in this same division. In his present position as Assistant Chief Methods Engineer, Ed has responsibility for tooling the entire Emerson plant.

In brief, here is a sample of Emerson's diversification of projects: the Commercial Division, established in 1890, ranks among the world's leaders in fractional horsepower motors and fans, and includes air conditioners, heaters, power saws and arc welders. The Electronics and Avionics Division has been a leader nationally since 1940 in design, development and manufacture of the very latest fire control systems (for example, the supersonic B-58 Hustler bomber), missiles and rockets (the Honest John, Little John and others), microwave antennas, supersonic airframes like the F-101 Voodoo and mortar locators.

Find out how you can get in on the ground floor of this fast growing, medium size company. Meet Emerson's engineering representatives and talk it over with them. If it's impossible to make a date, be sure to write to A. L. Depke for full details.

With the Big Ten football season swinging into full motion today, fans in the Midwest will be able to sit back and watch one of the biggest dogfights for the Western Conference title ever seen.

Only two conference games have been played so far. Michigan State's powerhouse walloped Indiana, 54-0, and Minnesota edged Purdue, 21-17.

All Big Ten teams will see conference action today in a slate which sends Michigan State to Michigan, Minnesota to Northwestern, Illinois to Ohio State, Wisconsin to Purdue, and our Iowa Hawkeyes to Indiana.

Of the five teams rated as the big powers in the Big Ten this season, only Michigan State and Michigan will meet today. The other three powers, Minnesota, Ohio State and Iowa, meet teams picked to battle it out for the top places in the second division.

TODAY'S BATTLES, except for the Spartan-Wolverine tussle at Ann Arbor, probably won't settle much in the Big Ten race. That is, if none of the underdogs pull upsets, quite possible in the Big Ten.

The winner of the Michigan-Michigan State game, always one of the biggest of the year in the Big Ten, will probably draw the favorite's role in the 1957 race. The Spartans have knocked Michigan out of the Rose Bowl with wins the last two years.

The team to lose will face the talk of winning the rest of its games, a tough feat in the Big Ten. Of course, this fate faces Minnesota, Ohio State and Iowa, should they be caught looking ahead to future games today.

THE '57 SCHEDULE will probably have a lot to do with the outcome of the year's torrid race.

Should Michigan State beat Michigan today, they definitely must be considered as the team with the best chance. After today, the Spartans play only one of the other powers in their remaining four conference games. That team is Minnesota and the game will be played at East Lansing.

The Spartans will also meet Purdue and Illinois, both at home, and Wisconsin on the road. Thus, today's game looms even bigger, for the Spartans will have a big jump on the rest of the league.

THE OTHER co-favorites, along with Michigan State, is Minnesota's Golden Gophers. The Gophers probably have their best team since their National Champions of 1940.

However, they face the roughest schedule of any of the Big Ten teams. For the first time in the history of the Big Ten, a team will play eight conference games. The Gophers will pass up only Ohio State.

I doubt seriously if any team in the country could go through this schedule without defeat. Even one loss would remain a tremendous accomplishment. So, despite their fine team, I doubt if the Gophers will be able to handle their schedule.

MICHIGAN must win today if they figure to make the trip to the Rose Bowl. The Wolverines are the only team to play all four of the other "powers." Besides Michigan State today, Michigan plays at Minnesota and entertains Iowa and Ohio State.

Should Michigan win today, they could lose one of their other games and still have an advantage over the other Big Ten teams, as they play seven conference games while Michigan State, Iowa and Ohio State play only six games.

OHIO STATE, which plays seven conference games also, is also in a good situation as they don't meet Minnesota or Michigan State. They have only two games on the road, at Wisconsin and Michigan.

The Buckeyes could go easily into the last two games of the season undefeated in the Big Ten. The last two games, at home against Iowa and at Michigan, may decide the Buckeyes' finishing position in the Big Ten.

IOWA'S DEFENDING champs cannot be counted out, either. The Hawkeyes, however, face a much tougher schedule this year than last. Playing only two of its six conference games at home is a distinct disadvantage.

The Hawkeyes must play at Indiana today, as well as at Northwestern, Michigan and Ohio State, while entertaining only Wisconsin and Minnesota. Iowa plays only one of its last five games at home — which makes it doubly tough. Last

Michigan Clash Highlights Big Ten Card Today

Liska Picks Hawkeyes by 20 Points

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan State, an established favorite, and Wisconsin, a surprising dark horse prospect, roll into tough opposition in today's first full round of Big Ten football games.

Michigan State's Spartans, second ranked in the AP's national poll, collides with sixth-rated Michigan in a red-hot conference battle which will be watched by a capacity 101,000 at Ann Arbor. Michigan State is favored by one touchdown.

Wisconsin's Badgers, run-away victors over Marquette and West Virginia, make their Big Ten debut against a winless, but tough Purdue club at La Fayette, Ind. This game is rated a tossup.

OTHER CONTESTS in the first full league session of the season include Illinois at Ohio State, Minnesota at Northwestern and Iowa at Indiana. It will be the first conference start for Ohio State, Illinois, Northwestern and Iowa. Minnesota squeaked past Purdue, 21-17, last Saturday and Indiana was powered by Michigan State, 54-0, two weeks ago.

Like Michigan State, Michigan's Wolverines are unbeaten in two starts. The Wolverines defeated Southern California, 16-6, and Georgia, 26-0. MSU's other triumph was over California, 19-0.

This figures to be a crisp battle of two fast, hard-charging lines, free-wheeling backs and sharp-shooting passers. Michigan State's depth may prove the deciding factor.

Michigan has two fine passers in seasoned Jim Van Pelt and sophomore Tom Nozkin, while MSU's quarterback Jim Ninowski, has completed 15 of 20 tosses for 225 yards and 3 TD's in two games.

Walt Kowalczyk and Blanche Martin lead the Spartan running attack, Martin averaging almost 6 yards per try in 22 carries. Big guns in the Wolverine ground attack are fullback Johnny Herrin and Jim Pace, fleet tailback.

WISCONSIN'S Badgers rolled up 105 points in routing Marquette and West Virginia, more points than they did in nine games all last season. However, Wisconsin will start five sophomores, at least, and its high-geared attack is expected to meet stiff resistance from a rugged and willing Purdue line. The Boilermakers pushed Minnesota all over the field, but were edged 21-17.

Illinois is hoping to surprise Ohio State as it did when the famed J. C. Caroline was a sophomore, but Coach Ray Eliot still is hunting a full-time Illini quarterback. The Buckeyes rate a one-touchdown choice in this Columbus, Ohio, meeting which will be televised regionally. Each team had a 1-1 non-conference record.

IOWA'S defending champion Hawkeyes are picked by 20 points over bufileted Indiana. Minnesota is rated 10 points better than Northwestern, although it was being held to a scoreless tie by the Wildcats' last year which knocked the Gophers out of the Rose Bowl.

In other games, there may be some surprises. Top-rated Oklahoma, who smothered Pitt and Iowa State in their first two starts, generally are regarded as too strong, too swift and too well-coached for their opponents. But there's just an outside possibility that the combination of flu and Texas could stop Oklahoma at Dallas.

Texas A&M (No. 3) meets Houston, a low-scoring but tough team that has been beaten by Baylor, and Duke tackles unbeaten Rice, which may be stronger than its current No. 15 rating shows.

year, Iowa played three of its last four games at home. Still, if the Hawkeyes play the ball they are capable of playing, they could repeat as champions.

ANY OF THE OTHER five Big Ten teams could surprise everyone, as Iowa did last season, and walk away with the title. Each team is definitely capable of knocking off any other opponent on a given Saturday.

However, it is doubtful if any of them have enough manpower to meet the tough Big Ten schedule. Your guess is as good as mine who'll be on top Nov. 23 when the Big Ten winds up play, but you can bet your bottom dollar the Big Ten will produce some great football in the coming seven Saturdays.

Flu-Hit Irish Ready for Army Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Notre Dame brushed up on maneuvers in a secret practice session near their suburban retreat Friday, while Army visited the scene of today's first football game between these bitter rivals in 10 years.

The Fighting Irish, a 6-point underdog in this battle of unbeaten, untied teams, landed at International Airport shortly after noon and went immediately to overnight quarters at a suburban motel. Coach Terry Brennan brought 39 players for the game which is expected to draw upwards of 100,000 fans to cavernous Municipal Stadium.

BRENNAN TOLD reporters a workout on a field adjacent to the motel was "to check on the things we expect to use against Army. As you know, we had an epidemic of flu that affected 25 of our boys, including half of the first string. We haven't worked much all week."

The youthful Notre Dame coach said that his boys were "not fully recovered" but that there were no new cases and that "we're hoping for the best." He confirmed that speedy halfback Aubrey Lewis had not made the trip because of a leg injury, and that Capt. Ed Sullivan, a center, would suit up but not play.

Ever true to the coaches "union," Brennan declined to venture a prediction on the outcome, saying "you just can't predict anything in football."

COACH EARL (Red) Blaik herded his Army squad to the Stadium for a walk about the playing area. He delivered a pep talk and then held court with newsmen, declaring that his team was fit and ready for action.

Blaik, whose army-coached teams stand 2-3-2 with Notre Dame, said his boys had pleasantly surprised him with their rather easily fashioned victories over Nebraska and Penn State.

Army has its heaviest squad in years, averaging 207 pounds in the line and about 190 in the backfield. Notre Dame as a 201 pound line fronting backs averaging 185.

The game kickoff at 1 p.m. (EST) will be the NCAA's eastern regional telecast of the week.

Vic Jones, has carried the brunt of the Hoosiers' offense. He's carried 24 times for 92 yards, an average of 3.8. The Hoosiers will be without tailback Willie Jones, who reinjured his knee against Notre Dame. Willie was one of the bright spots against the Irish.

Leading the Iowa offense is quarterback Randy Duncan, who's been quite impressive in Iowa's first two games. Duncan has completed 12 of 16 passes for a sensational percentage of 75. His 12 completions have netted 306 yards and three touchdowns.

Iowa's leading ground gainer is halfback Bill Hoppel, who has picked up 115 yards in 23 attempts for a 5-yard average. Close behind Hoppel is sophomore Ray Jauch, who has gained 106 yards in 16 carries for an average of 6.3 yards a carry.

Captain Jim Gibbons leads Iowa pass receivers. Gibbons has caught seven passes for 171 yards and one touchdown.

Iowa's opening lineup will probably be the same that opened the season against Utah State. Only exceptions may find Don Norton replacing Bob Prescott at end, and Geno Sessi getting the call over Bill Gravel at halfback.

The other starters are Gibbons at end, Alex Karras and Dick Klein at tackles, Frank Bloomy, quiet and Bob Cummings at guard, and Mac Lewis, who missed the Utah State game because of the flu but played almost the entire game against Washington State, at center.

In the backfield, it will be Duncan at quarterback, Mike Hagler and either Gravel or Sessi at the halfbacks, and John Nocera at fullback. Going into today's game, Iowa has won four straight from the Hoosiers, the longest current winning streak of any series with a Big Ten team.

Two Earls Spark Pitt Steelers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — If there's new life in the patched-up Pittsburgh Steelers, credit a couple of guys named Earl, namely, quarterback Earl Morrall and Earl "Jug" Girard.

The combination is the No. 1 offensive punch of Coach Buddy Parker's revamped Steelers. Between them they've accounted for 30 of the team's 40 points in two games. Girard, a 10-year veteran in the National Football League, has scored four touchdowns—two in each game—all on passes from the radar-like arm of Morrall. The other Morrall touchdown pass was to end Ray Mathews.

Morrall, obtained from the San Francisco 49ers, only several days before the league lifter, shows 32 pass completions in 57 attempts for 404 yards and five touchdowns.

Logart Gets Nod Over Joe Micelli

DETROIT (AP)—Isaac Logart, a Cuban fancy dan with lightning in both fists, gave Joe Micelli a thorough beating Friday night, taking a unanimous decision in their 10-round welterweight bout at Olympia Stadium.

There were no knockdowns in the contest that was nationally televised and broadcast, but the 28-year-old Micelli was close to going down on at least half a dozen occasions.

The slim crowd applauded the courageous New Yorker at the finish.

Judge Andy Brown scored it 46-41, Judge Al Goodman 47-43, and Referee Lou Handler 47-39, all in Logart's favor. The Associated Press had Logart winning 49-36.

There's That Man Again!

A PICTURE OF MILWAUKEE Braves pitcher Lou Burdette greets Casey Stengel as the New York manager tightens his tie before a mirror at Yankee Stadium. Burdette was the star of the World Series (as if you didn't know by now) as he pitched the Braves to the world championship Thursday. Stengel paid a final visit to the stadium before departing until next year.

'Bush' Series Over, But Memory Lingers

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The handwriting is on the wall for all baseball to see.

In unmistakable language it says a new baseball dynasty is abroad in the land bearing the name of the Milwaukee Braves, newly crowned champions of the world.

Baseball men, those associated with the Braves and their National League opponents, recognized it.

"When they win the championship," said owner Lou Perini of the Braves some months back, "They will go on for a few years to come."

"There is no reason why we should not keep winning for the next five years," said John Quinn, the club's general manager and as such the architect of their future.

FRANK LANE, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, put it this way:

"This was the year to beat the Braves. Next year I'm afraid they'll be unstoppable."

The reason baseball men believe the Braves have supplanted the Dodgers as the class of the National League are twofold:

It is a young club—the team on the field in the World Series finale against the Yankees averaged only 26.4 years—and its farm system is one of the most valuable and productive in the game today. The system, in fact, rivals any of recent years. Then there's always Perini's bankroll, unfolded and ready to buy what his farms don't produce.

THE BRAVES' relied—with success—spelled out with a capital "championship"—on their farm system during the pennant drive when one regular after another was injured. And they relied on it during the World Series when Felix Mantilla replaced the injured Red Schoendienst at second, Frank Torre handled first base for a none-too-strong Joe Adcock and Bob Hazle. The Hurricane, played right field. Mantilla, Torre and Hazle are graduates of the Braves' minor league incubator.

Manager Fred Maney, who will be rewarded with a new contract and a raise any day now, is expected to go along another year with much of the same player cast that won the championship.

SPARTAN MARK Michigan State set a Big Ten record in 1956 by intercepting 13 passes in six conference games.

NEW YORK (AP)—"Bushville" on the Subway took the World Series defeat of the New York Yankees calmly. Business went on as usual Friday. Nobody hung Casey Stengel in effigy.

The Soviet "moon" had page one all to itself. Portable TV sets went back home. It was just another sunny business Friday in October.

A fellow riding into town on a commuter train heard the same refrain over and over.

"Great thing for baseball . . . They deserved it . . . It's not good for anybody to win all the time . . . Those fans earned it . . . What a man that Lou Burdette."

Burdette captivated New York just as he charmed millions of TV fans. The fun loving fellow from Nitro, W. Va. (he now lives in Sarasota, Fla.) probably will spend half the winter commuting to New York for TV appearances and profitable endorsements.

As the years go past they will remember 1957 in baseball as the year of the "Burdette Series" just as they called it the "Christy Mathewson series" in 1905, when Matty shut out the Philadelphia A's three times. It was 52 years before another man was to throw as many as two shutouts in one series.

"Three wins in one series. The last time anybody did that was Matty," said the cop on the corner. He was wrong, of course, for his memory confused shutouts with victories. It was the first time a pitcher had three in a series since Harry Brecheen of the 1946 St. Louis Cardinals. But there were six 3-time winners before Burdette did it.

Up at Yankee Stadium they were busy converting the baseball field into a football stadium for the New York Giants who open their home season a week from Sunday.

Air Force May Try For Big Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force Academy, in only its third season, was pictured Friday as all set to fly into bigtime football competition.

"I've made up my mind," said Col. George Simler, the new Academy's athletic director. "We're going to go right ahead."

That means, unless Simler is overruled by higher authority, the Falcons will face Iowa, Stanford, Tulane and Colorado among its 10 opponents next fall.

Several weeks ago Simler said the Academy's performances against Occidental and Detroit would help determine how quickly the fly boys dared to take on a topflight schedule.

Subbing for flu-ridden Florida, the Academy had been rocked by UCLA in its opener, 47-0. Then the Falcons trounced Occidental, 40-6, and beat Detroit, 19-12.

That was enough for Simler. Simler still needs approval from Maj. Gen. James E. Briggs, Academy's superintendent, but expressed confidence the general would agree.

Games with Iowa, Stanford, Tulane and Colorado had been tentatively booked for 1958, Simler said.

Craft Retained As Head of A's

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Harry Craft won a full year contract Friday as manager of the Kansas City Athletics, mainly because his club played almost .500 ball after he took over last Aug. 6.

Craft, 42, has been a familiar face here through the past 15 years. When he succeeded Lou Boudreau the impression was left that Craft would get a full year at the helm if the Athletics perked up.

At the time the A's were in last place and in the midst of a losing streak. Craft led his team to 23 victories as against 27 losses and the A's finished seventh.

No Cheese Champ, Says French Pug

NEW YORK (AP)—"I'm no cheese champion and Macias will find that out soon enough," said Alphonse Halimi, France's claimant to the disputed world bantamweight championship.

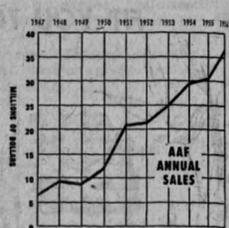

The dark-haired little fellow said he could hardly wait to get into the ring Nov. 6 with Mexico's Raul (Raton) Macias to prove his point.

An Algerian native, Halimi said he had read in the Mexican newspapers that Macias had called him "a cheese champion."

Lauds Numerical Grades; Registrar Sees High Costs

Ted McCarrel, SUI director of Admissions and Registrar said Friday a numerical grading system would be a more accurate measurement of a student's grade than the letter grading system now used at the University.

McCarrel said he agreed with the numerical grading system proposed by Student Council member John Ellis, D4, Coralville. Some instructors probably would not agree on the numerical method, he said.

In the numerical system devised by Ellis, the instructors will send a grade point for every course a student takes rather than the letter grade now used.

A student's work for the semester would first be given a numerical grade. The instructor would then send a comparable grade point for that course. At the Registrar's Office all grade points for courses could then be averaged.

"The numerical system has considerable merit and I see no reason why the Student Council should not make a complete study of it," McCarrel said.

Ellis explained the system to the Human Relations Committee of the Student Council Thursday.

"Making a change in the grading system at SUI," McCarrel said, "would cost a great deal. Records would have to be changed and printing costs would be high."

McCarrel said a new grading system would have to be introduced separately for each college.

"The numerical system would be easier to work with," McCarrel said. "It's easier to work with all numbers then transforming letter grades into a numerical grade point," he added.

McCarrel said a real handicap of the numerical system would be the grading of essay tests.

The numerical grading system would benefit students who are on the borderline of getting a higher grade. A high B would be sent to the Registrar as a 3.45 instead of just B.

McCarrel said he knew of no other large university which graded on the numerical system. "Most schools use four letter passing grades and one letter failing grade," he said.

Canadians Await Queen's Arrival Today

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

OTTAWA (AP) — Floodlights, illuminating this dominion capital's gray stone and spired Parliament Hill, flashed on at dusk Friday night, marking the beginning of Canada's celebrations for the arrival of Queen Elizabeth II from England today.

The 100-year-old dominion capital was a busy place the last hours before the Queen's arrival by plane at 4:30 p.m. at flag-draped Uplands Airport.

Around the city rehearsals were in progress — bands massed, children sang their songs, a picked troupe of Royal Canadian Mounted Police practiced riding with the landau which will carry the Queen to open Parliament.

The Union Jack and the red Canadian ensign fluttered from almost every telephone pole in the city.

Along the 15-mile route from the airport to Rideau Hall, the governor general's mansion — a road lighted by the scarlet, soft greens and yellows of the brilliant autumn foliage — workmen were picking up bits of papers, radio and television crews were building temporary metal platforms for broadcasting equipment.

"No parking signs" marked the route.

With the arrival still almost 24 hours away, police and special protection men were demanding passes before admitting persons to "sensitive" spots, such as the huge cantilever hangar at the airport at which the first ceremonies will take place.

Queen Elizabeth and her husband, Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, will occupy a three-room, two-bedroom suite in Rideau Hall, which has 60 rooms.

It is situated in a 55-acre park, assuring the couple both privacy and quiet during the few hours of rest they will have in a busy four-day stay.

(AP Wirephoto) THE ROYAL CANADIAN Air Force band and honor guard went through a final rehearsal at Uplands Air Station, Ottawa, in preparation for the arrival of Queen Elizabeth. SUI Students To Explore River Rocks

Twenty-two SUI students will join the 200 Iowa, Illinois, and Wisconsin geologists as they take part in the 1957 Tri-State Geological Field Conference and study Mississippi rock exposures in the area from Burlington to Keokuk this weekend.

Under the direction of Charles N. Brown of the Iowa Geological Survey at the State University of Iowa, the party plans to spend considerable time around Crapo Park in Burlington, staying overnight Saturday in Burlington.

The field trip will give special attention to the Kinderhookian rock group, one of the major limestone and shale structures in the upper Mississippi valley and one whose age is still something of a mystery to scientists, Brown said.

Field conference members will include Director H. G. Hershey of the Iowa Geological Survey and Professors A. K. Miller, A. C. Trowbridge, and W. M. Furnish of the SUI geology department.

'Thor' Fired Successfully In Florida; President, Cabinet Discuss Missiles

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force fired an apparently highly successful test of its Thor intermediate-range ballistic missile Friday from the Florida proving ground.

Unofficial reports said the Thor took to the air cleanly, zoomed high above the stratosphere and landed several hundred miles beyond the "programmed" 1,500-mile range for intermediate missiles.

This suggested that the firing was intended to test range, without any effort to drop the missile on a specific target area far out in the Atlantic Ocean.

The test at the Cape Canaveral Missile Center came during a White House conference on the missile program.

In this meeting were President Eisenhower, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy, Dept. Defense Secretary Donald Quarles, and William Holaday, the Pentagon missile chief.

The session was held prior to a regular Cabinet meeting, which Quarles also attended along with McElroy.

The White House meeting followed an announcement Thursday night by the defense secretary that testing of both the Air Force Thor and the Army Jupiter missile will be continued into next year.

Former defense chief Charles Wilson had expected that a decision would be made by this time to choose either the Air Force or the Army missile or merge the two into a single project. But Friday night's announcement revealed that the Pentagon has decided that more tests, at an accelerated rate, are needed before a decision can be reached.

The Thor missile fired Thursday is understood to have developed the full designed thrust of its rocket engine, burning for more than two minutes in the trajectory climb.

It was the fifth time the Air Force weaponeers have pulled the trigger on a Thor missile. Of the five attempts, two have been good.

One fired several weeks ago was reported to have landed within a very few miles of the aiming point more than 1,200 miles distant.

One Thor burned on its launching pad, but two others got far enough into the air to provide at least some technical data before their abortive destruction.

The Army presumably has fired four full-scale Jupiter shots, of which one was a failure, another only partially successful, and two good. Of the latter, one traveled about 1,200 miles, the other the scheduled 1,500 miles.

These do not include the Jupiter-C device, not of weapon design, which was reported to have gone about 3,000 miles and climbed to an altitude of more than 600 miles.

U.S., Friends Propose Sputnik Control by UN

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United States and 22 other nations called on the UN Friday to make another try at a disarmament agreement that would control such space travelers as the Russian earth satellite.

The 23 nations presented a formal resolution asking the United Nations to reconvene the deadlocked five-nation subcommittee on disarmament "as soon as feasible" and give first consideration to Western proposals.

There was no mention of Indian or Japanese suggestions for breaking the East-West deadlock, or any Soviet proposals.

The 23 nations made plain they were supporting in principle the Western proposals advanced in London last August and rejected by the Russians.

But it was clear that the Soviet satellite now circling the earth had cast its shadow on the lengthy consultations that produced the resolution.

One of the main points called for a "joint study of an inspection system designed to ensure that sending of objects through outer space will be exclusively for peaceful and scientific purposes."

The United States has suggested the study of control of outer space objects be taken up immediately without waiting for agreement on other phases of initial steps toward disarmament.

This was not mentioned in the resolution, and there were indications some of the sponsoring nations were approaching this suggestion with caution.

Informed sources said Britain, Canada and France were still studying the U.S. suggestion.

Those four nations and the Soviet Union make up the Disarmament subcommittee.

Now Pinay Tries To Form Cabinet

PARIS (AP) — Ex-Premiere Antoine Pinay, a small-town tanner with a record for some success with economics when he was premier in 1952, agreed Friday night to try forming a French Cabinet.

His chances were considered slim.

Pinay conferred twice with President Rene Coty.

A rightist, Pinay insisted that any prospective premier be guaranteed at least a year of political peace to get France out of its governmental crisis.

The latest crisis began 11 days ago when Parliament voted no confidence in Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunory's program for some home rule in rebellious Algeria.

The predictions here Friday night were that Pinay would founder on an absence of Socialist support for any rightist candidate.

NOTHING BUT THE BEST

DALLAS (AP) — It's nothing but the best for the animals in the Dallas zoo.

The City Council was asked to authorize purchase of 48 tons of alfalfa hay. The contract specified the hay must be in square bales, cut from the latest crop, be bright green and leafy and free of weeds, foreign grasses and mud.
