Hawks Meet Stiffest Competition Today

By ALAN HOSKINS
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Alan Hoskins, sports editor of The Daily Iowan, is in Ann Arbor today as official spotter for the NBC telecast of the Hawkeye-Wolverine game of the week.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Iowa's unbeaten Hawkeyes, winners of five straight games this year, face their toughest test of the season today as they battle Michigan's powerful Wolverines in the Big Ten game of the day, and possibly the season.

The game, which is expected to draw 90,000 into Michigan Stadium, will be televised nationally over NBC-TV starting at 12:30. Stations carrying the game are WOC-TV, Davenport, and KCRG-TV, Cedar Rapids.

Iowa goes into the game anywhere from one to six point underdogs to the once-beaten Wolverines. The Hawkeyes, however, rank third in the nation while Michigan is rated twelfth.

The game is a "must" for both teams, if either hopes to win the Big Ten title. Michigan, which dropped one conference game to Michigan State, must beat the Hawkeyes in order to stay in the race and the running for the Rose Bowl.

Although still unbeaten, Iowa also must win if it hopes to repeat as Big Ten champion. One loss could boot the Hawkeyes out of the running since Ohio State and Michigan play seven games, while the Hawkeyes play only six.

Iowa coach Forest Evashevski is especially wanting of a win today. A Michigan graduate, Evy has longed for a win against his alma mater ever since he arrived at

Fast Changing World Confuses Art Gazers

Much of today's painting and sculpture confuses the average viewer because he does not realize that today's artists must picture a world changing with a speed which is almost beyond credulity.

This idea was presented following a dinner meeting of the 21st annual Midwestern College Art Conference Friday evening at SU by Albert Christ-Janer, director of the school of the arts at Pennsylvania State University.

We should not regret this new world developed by "the scientific mind in ferment" Prof. Christ-Janer said. "Only a weakling will resent the change and only a fool will deny it. The very character of our age is change. In one moment we have been projected into a new era of man-made things propelled upward into outer space. In the next we may be projected into God-knows-what."

The artist, like the scientist, must give up the idea of being popular, Prof. Christ-Janer explained. "No one man today can have the relatively universal knowledge of his world which Leonardo da Vinci could. Today's world is too complex to be comprehended by any one man.

"The artist today is alone in a sense in which he was not alone before. He must work alone to tell about himself and in so doing uncover a form which will in part describe his time and all man's condition.

"This is no easy way. It is not the most comfortable way to live; the subjective artist must depend so much upon his own strength; he has to think so deeply and so isolatedly about the condition of his time."

Art forms used to describe this new world cannot be those used to describe the past. Those which will be adequate will not be obvious and so will not be easily understood. Therefore they will not be immediately popular, Prof. Christ-Janer said. "Art is not nature. It is a form created to express the individual idea of life and nature."

Like the scientist, today's artist finds his ideas and his work have become seemingly incommunicable to others, Prof. Christ-Janer said.

The chemist may be better able to communicate with chemists on the other side of the world even than with physicists next door. This isolation of the scientist or the artist from the community around him may be more than a problem — it may be a tragedy.

City Banker Dead at 75

Iowa City Banker Thomas Farrell, 75, 710 S. Summit St., died at 5 a.m. Friday at Mercy Hospital. For the last 50 years Mr. Farrell has been associated with the First National Bank.

Farrell attended Upper Iowa University at Fayette but received bachelor's and master's degrees from SU. At SU he was captain of the basketball team and received letters in baseball.

He was one of the founders of the SUI School of Religion and was a member of its board when he died. He was also active in Boy Scout work, a former member and past president of the Iowa City School Board and a director and past president of the State Historical Society of Iowa.

Funeral services for Mr. Farrell will be held in St. Patrick's Church Monday at 9 a.m.

Weather

Temperatures kept to comfortable levels Friday, ranging in the low 60s. Shower activity is expected today with clearing and a drop in temperatures Sunday.

Meet City Council Candidate

Car Ban Only A Last Resort

By JOHN JONES
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Ray Thornberry, a candidate for the City Council, said Friday there are three possible solutions to the Iowa City parking problem.

"The city and University may have to create more parking spaces," he said. A second possibility would be to install more meters and make more use of public transportation.

Thornberry said, "meters serve a purpose. They do create a turnover of cars and give people a chance to park while shopping."

The third possibility which Thornberry said should be used only as a last resort, would be for the University to limit student cars. He stressed this should be used only if all else fails.

Thornberry is chairman of Future Planning of Iowa City group formed in January of this year. He said he has studied the parking problem ever since the committee was formed. His viewpoint of the problem has been constantly broadening since, Thornberry said.

Thornberry, who owns and operates the Hawkeye Awning Company said he moved his shop out of the downtown area because of lack of parking space for his customers, meters.

He said he has talked to many of the merchants about the parking problem. Some of them did complain about the number of ten cent meters.

Thornberry said the ten cent meters were not installed with the purpose to increase revenue but to have increased turnover of cars by discouraging the practice of feeding the meters, which both students and merchants have been guilty of doing.

The University has failed to plan ahead in connection with parking, he said. Burge Hall should not have been started without plans for adequate near by parking, he added. The city has improved parking facilities in lots with the use of meters, Thornberry said. "A person can now nearly always find parking in the metered city parking lots."

"Penny meters which would allow a person to park for fifteen minutes only would eliminate many of the gripes about ten cent meters," Thornberry said. "Several people drive to town to buy one item which would take just a short time."

The blame for the parking situation rests on many organizations and people, he said. The city has been slow to take action, there has been little discussion between the city and University officials, and there has been little general planning, he said.

Thornberry said he was approached by a University employee who wanted to know if anything could be done to get more SU employee parking. Thornberry laughingly asked him, "Doesn't your employer furnish you with a place to park?"

When asked about the proposed Legion site, Thornberry said he can't see why the Legion desires the particular location. He said it seems an undesirable place to build due to the possibility of flood.

He said it may be an asset to the city to give the proposed site to the American Legion. The argument that the city may want the location later for park expansion is good, but that he feels parks and playgrounds should be scattered over the city and not in just one part of town.

"If an obligation exists, moral or legal, to the Legion, I certainly don't see why it shouldn't be all right for the city to give them the land," Thornberry said.

Thornberry said he came to Iowa City in 1940 of his own choice. He said he plans to remain here and "for that reason is interested in making the community the best possible place to live."

KKK Signs on Negro Coeds' Doors

Currier Hall Girls Faced With Crosses

Poor Halloween Prank Say Officials

Two Negro girls at the State University of Iowa reported to the university office of student affairs that crosses bearing the letters "K.K.K." were placed on their doors at Currier Hall, it was learned Friday.

The girls, Jo Anne Moore, 20, Ottumwa, and Mrs. Henry Berry, 19, Houston, Tex., reported the incident Thursday morning, according to M. L. Huit, Dean of Students.

Miss Moore said that when she left her room at 8 a.m. Thursday she found a piece of cardboard attached to her door with scotch tape.

She said a cross had been burned from the cardboard and the letters "K.K.K." were written in India ink on one side of the cross. She said the word "doomed" was written three times at the bottom of the cardboard.

Mrs. Berry, the former Dora Lee Martin and Miss SUI of 1956, said she nearly tumbled over a large rack for storing empty soft drink bottles when she left her room about 5:30 a.m. Thursday.

She said a piece of typing paper was attached to her door with scotch tape and that a cross had been burned out of the paper. Painted on her door in white, she said, were a skeleton and the words "K.K.K. Will Strike."

Both girls said the signs on their doors contained the words "Faubus (Governor Orville) for president; Kasper (segregationist John) for vice-president."

Dean Huit expressed opinion that the incident was a vicious Halloween prank. He said:

"Immediately upon hearing of this prank, assuming it to be a prank, I conferred with the girls involved. I requested special precautionary measures set up in the dormitory for Halloween night.

(Nancy Dickens, head adviser at Currier, said three graduate student advisers patrolled the halls during most of Thursday night.)

"There has been no recurrence of this kind of activity since the original incident," explained Huit.

"If the persons responsible for this are discovered she or they will be subject to strong disciplinary action by the university, including suspension or dismissal."

Miss Dickens said that no trouble of this kind had been reported to her during three years as head adviser. She said both girls live in the south section of Currier, Miss Moore on the third floor and Mrs. Berry on the first floor.

Miss Moore said she has her picture on her door because she is one of "12 or 13" unit advisers at Both girls said they were up studying until after midnight Wednesday and feel that the persons responsible for the prank are Currier residents. Mrs. Berry said that between 10:30 p.m. and 6 a.m. only residents of Currier are allowed in the dormitory.

Miss Moore and Mrs. Berry said they "have no idea" who is responsible for the prank. Each of the girls said they expressed both "fear and anger" Thursday morning. Miss Moore said there are about 20 Negro girls living at Currier.

Knowland Gets Nixon Off California Hotseat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) will step out of the way of Vice President Nixon in the 1960 Republican presidential primaries outside of California, it was reported authoritatively Friday.

That does not necessarily mean Knowland won't try for the presidential nomination. Presidential primaries do not determine the choice of the national convention, although they can influence that choice. Friends say Knowland hasn't made up his mind about trying for the big prize.

But Knowland's decision not to enter primaries, if he wins the governorship of California next year, has been communicated to close associates in Washington. It represents a reversal of the tactics of the senator in 1956 when his name was entered in several state contests before President Eisenhower announced he would run again.

While associates emphasized Knowland had charted his course independently, without any consultation with Nixon, the decision gave the vice president a fresh break in his obvious campaign to win the 1960 Republican presidential nomination.

City Speed Analyzer Gets 12 More

Iowa City police charged 12 persons with speeding Friday. All were stopped after passing a speed analyzer set up on Rochester Ave.

The 12 charged were: Roy C. Handschew, 50, West Branch; William B. Anderson, 61, West Branch; Gene E. Herdiska, 29, RR2, Iowa City; Edward A. Bachman, 30, Lone Tree; James F. Carter, 58, 1000 Melrose Ave.; Cecil G. Abernathy, 46, Cedar Rapids; Roy M. Randles, 25, West Branch; Herbert Cochran, 45, RR1, Iowa City; Clarence W. Faust, 51, 620 Kimbal Road; Glenn H. Swails, 62, 611 Oakland; Floyd Rummels, 49, West Branch; and Nellis M. Beaver, 42, West Branch.

NY Central, Pennsylvania Study Plan

Have Combined Assets Of $5 Billion

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Central and the Pennsylvania railroads announced Friday they are studying a merger of the two roads into one system.

The two roads are the largest in the country, based on annual revenues, and have combined assets of $5½ billion.

Both the Pennsylvania and the Central traverse heavily populated and industrialized sections of the East and Midwest. Both have experienced sharp declines in earnings this year.

Jacob Symes, president of the Pennsylvania, and Alfred Perlman, president of the New York Central jointly announced the merger studies.

A merger, if effected, would apply both to the physical properties and the financial structure. It would enable the roads to consolidate terminal facilities and eliminate duplicate rail and yard facilities in some areas.

"Economic and competitive conditions confronting railroads, particularly in the East, have so changed that a thorough inquiry should be made into the wisdom of consolidating, as against continuing competitive operations," the joint announcement said.

Symes and Perlman said preliminary studies on the merger proposal have been held and they have indicated that "substantial benefits to all concerned may result from such a merger."

The proposal, which was not announced until after 5 p.m., apparently was a well-kept secret in Wall Street, for neither stock showed any appreciable movement Friday on the New York Stock Exchange — which closes at 3:30 p.m. New York Central finished at $18.87, off 12 cents, and Pennsylvania closed at $15, off 12 cents.

In Washington both the Justice Department and the Interstate Commerce Commission declined comment on the merger possibility.

Meany Surprised at Corrupt Labor Mess

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said Friday labor corruption is more extensive than he had realized but he pledged that the federation will succeed in cleaning it up.

Meany said labor is willing to accept reasonable corrective legislation from Congress but will rally as one man to fight off any move to fasten antiunion legislation on us in the guise of eliminating corruption.

Organized labor, Meany said in a speech to the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department, doesn't have many friends in Congress and few real friends on the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee headed by Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.).

The committee has developed a series of labor scandal disclosures in public hearings during the past year. McClellan only yesterday praised Meany for courage in acting against corruption-tainted unions.

Meany said in forming the AFL-CIO more than two years ago labor's leaders realized a growing corruption trend and knew it would hurt organized labor as an instrument for getting more benefits for workers.

He said he wasn't worried at all about some unions with great treasuries conducting a labor war against the AFL-CIO. Dave Beck, retiring Teamsters president, said Thursday the Teamsters executive board had decided to ignore AFL-CIO cleanup directives.

SUlowans May Apply Now For Foreign Scholarships

SUI students may now get applications for two scholarships for study during the 1958-59 academic year, Miss Helen Reich, assistant director of the office of student affairs said Friday.

One scholarship will allow U.S. recipients to study for one year in France. It is offered by the Alliance Francaise de New-York. The scholarship is for $1,100.

To qualify, a student must be 20 years of age or older and must not be 30 by the time the year of study is complete. The applicant must have a sufficient knowledge of the French language.

Applications will be received between Dec. 1 and Jan. 31. They should be sent to: Chairman of the Scholarship Committee, Alliance Francaise de New-York, 2 East 52nd Street, New York 22, N.Y.

Algeria Expensive Proposition for Paris— France Spends $5 Million Daily

ALGIERS (AP) — Three years ago Friday, nationalist bands from Algeria's Aures Mountains swooped down on weak French garrisons and European settlements, killing and burning.

Their banners carried the red star and crescent, symbols of the Front of National Liberation (FNL) which vowed to free Algeria — four times the size of France — from French rule.

Today, a 400,000-man regular French army aided by local militia, security troops and self-defense units numbering at least 300,000 men, controls most of the country at gunpoint.

The rebellion simmers on with no practical solution in sight, France pays $5 million a day to keep its army in Algeria.

"We cannot move a single soldier for many years," admits Gen. Jacques Allard, commander of the Algiers Army Corps.

The Algerian rebellion is largely responsible for the sagging French economy and continuous political crises.

There are several reasons France does not want to leave Algeria. Sahara oil, with proper exploitation might supply France's annual oil needs.

European settlers, most of them living in Algeria for generations. "We shall all be slain if the army leaves" is a popular theme of Europeans.

Some have taken part in bloody riots during which Moslems — mostly innocent — were killed.

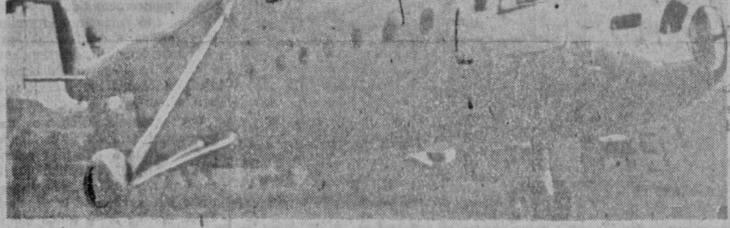

There is also the problem of morale that French withdrawal would cause.

INVINCIBILITY OVER WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Gen. Lucius D. Clay (Ret.) declared Wednesday "the day of America's invincibility is over."

However, he told more than 250 representatives of 30 southern New York Red Cross chapters: "If we keep the balance of weapons, war is unlikely."

Clay, national chairman of the 1958 Red Cross drive, said he believed that in the next three years there will be a stalemate of weapons between the United States and Soviet Russia.

Big 10 Merry-go-Round—

Wolves Will Give Hawks Acid Test

CHICAGO (AP) — Iowa's title defense gets the acid test from Michigan Saturday in the prime battle of a five-game Big Ten football program which will attract a total of 333,000 fans.

The unbeaten Hawkeyes, No. 3 in AP's national poll, and once-defeated Michigan's Wolverines will tangle before 90,000 at Ann Arbor, Mich.

This game in which the Hawkeyes protect their 3-0 Big Ten record against a "jinx" foe will be televised nationally.

At Ohio State, a homecoming crowd of 81,000 will watch the Buckeyes, co-leaders with Iowa on a similar 3-0 record, engage Northwestern's winless Wildcats.

Other conference games and expected attendance include: Indiana at Minnesota, 64,000; Michigan State at Wisconsin, 53,000; and Purdue at Illinois, 46,000.

Iowa's Hawkeyes are trying to defeat a Michigan team for the first time since 1924. Since that time, the Wolverines have recorded 12 victories and a scoreless tie.

Iowa coach Forest Evashevski, once a Wolverine star, has suffered frustration against Michigan his entire Hawkeye career.

In 1953, Evy's Iowa team led at halftime, 13-0, but lost to Michigan, 14-13. Another 14-13 Iowa loss to Michigan occurred in 1954. In 1955, Iowa led 21 to 20, with about nine minutes to play, but Michigan passed to a 33-21 victory.

Last year, Iowa's only defeat of the season came from Michigan, 17-14, as the Wolverines scored a touchdown on an 80-yard drive with 66 seconds left.

All week, Evashevski has held secret practices, perhaps trying to install some new strategy. Michigan's new backfield coach, Bump Elliott, was Evashevski's Iowa aide for the past four seasons.

Iowa had trouble, in the slush and mud, defeating hapless Northwestern last Saturday, 6-0. Perhaps that is the reason the solid Buckeyes only rate a 14-point favorite over the Wildcats. Ohio State has not lost to Northwestern in eight meetings since 1948.

Michigan State with a 3-1 league record must conquer Wisconsin's willing Badgers to keep its title hopes alive. Although the Spartans are a one-touchdown choice, they may have trouble against the Conference's surprise club.

The Purdue-Illinois contest looms a close scrap between two league "spoilers," although the Illini are rated a six-point favorite. Two weeks ago, Purdue knocked off Michigan State, then the Illini No. 1 team, 20-13, but the Illini played so well against the Spartans last week despite a 19-14 reversal. It was Illinois, two weeks ago, which blasted highly-regarded Minnesota, 34-13.

Minnesota is rated a four-touchdown pick over punned Iowa. Because the Gophers play eight games, they still figure in the title running despite two defeats.

NEW YORK (AP) — Garner W. "Sec" Taylor, sports editor of the Des Moines Register, was given the Grantland Rice memorial award Friday for his column of last January in which he condemned the unsportsmanlike conduct by partisan fans at athletic contests.

It was voted the closest approximation to the ideals of Rice, the late sports columnist, in the opinion of the Sportsman's Brotherhood, which sponsored the luncheon.

Previous winners have been Fred Russell of the Nashville (Tenn.) Banner, and W. W. "Red" Smith of the New York Herald-Tribune.

The award is made annually on the anniversary of Rice's birth.

Tiger Grid Coach Taken by Cancer

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Charles W. Caldwell Jr., 56, Princeton University football coach since 1945 and before that one of Princeton's finest all-around athletes, died Friday in Princeton hospital.

A university spokesman said the cause of death was cancer. Caldwell was given a leave of absence from his coaching duties Sept. 23, less than a week before the start of the football season.

He was taken to the hospital last Monday and placed in an oxygen tent. Up to that time he had been confined to his home, although he made a brief visit to Palmer Stadium to talk to the team just before the first game.

Around the Sports World

MILWAUKEE — Joseph Cairnes, Milwaukee Braves president, said Thursday the club would be forced to raise ticket and concession prices if it accepted a new rental agreement for County Stadium proposed by county park commission.

Cairnes said the proposed pact is "extremely unreasonable."

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Pacific Coast League directors voted Friday to delay approving the New York Giants bid to take over San Francisco's PCL franchise until damages and league future can be talked over.

A committee will probably be formed to work out an agreement between the Major and Minor league clubs.

NEW YORK — World Championship committee Friday named an Australian, Cuban and Mexican and three U.S. fighters to participate in an elimination tournament to determine the new welterweight champ.

Fights will be held to find a successor to hard slugging Carmen Basilio who was forced to yield the crown Sept. 29 when he won the middleweight championship from Sugar Ray Robinson.

The six fighters are Virgil Akins, Vince Martinez, Gil Turner, America; George Barnes, Australia;

Isaac Legart, Cuba, and Gaspar Ortega, Mexico. It is hoped the bouts will be over by March 15 and a new champ named.

MOUNT VERNON — Keith North, Cornell College first string right halfback, was in satisfactory condition Friday night after an appendectomy Thursday night. Jim Swaney, junior, Grinnell halfback, was stricken by the same thing Oct. 14 and is out for the season.

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Kansas

State will get a chance to be king for a week when it plays Oklahoma's Sooners today — but sensible fans won't expect much more than last year's smashing victory of the Sooners over K. State, 66-0.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Once-beaten Navy will take on the Fighting Irish today and there is some feeling here that Notre Dame can't overturn the Midshipmen. Main question is whether the middle's first team can go the 60 minute route.

Old Grad Ike To See Army Play Colgate at West Point

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Old grad Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to the U.S. Military Academy Friday to cheer the cadets at Saturday's Army-Colgate football game and visit with his 1915 classmates.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower flew from Washington aboard his private plane, Columbine III, and landed at nearby Stewart Air Force Base at 3:37 p.m. in a chilling rain.

Mr. Eisenhower, natty in a navy blue suit and light gray hat, spurn-ed both raincoat and umbrella in walking down the ramp from the plane to his waiting limousine.

But the First Lady, escorted by a member of the plane crew, came down the stairs under an umbrella.

At the foot of the ramp the smiling President shook hands with Lt. Gen. Garrison Davidson, the academy superintendent, and remarked with a chuckle and a nod toward his wife:

"Mamie had to come down under a bumbershoot."

HAWKS—

ion, Iowa has had an 11 to 14 point lead in the game, only to see the Wolverines come back to win.

Michigan is the last team to beat the Hawkeyes, as they scored in the last 66 seconds last year to win, 17-14. Iowa takes a 9-game winning streak into the contest.

The Hawkeyes, who barely escaped being upset by Northwestern last week as they edged the Wildcats, 6-0, have been practicing behind closed doors since Monday. Whatever Evy has been cooking up to overcome the frustration the Hawkeyes have encountered during previous meetings, it has been kept in strict secret.

Although he's not telling what's going on in practice, Evy has expressed fear of Michigan's power, speed and passing game as well as their stunting on defense.

Michigan's biggest threats center around quarterbacks Jim Van Pelt and Stan Noskin, and halfback Jim Pace. Pace has hurt every Wolverine opponent, not only on his runs but also his pass receiving.

Pace has gained 299 yards in 47 attempts for a 4-yard average. He's also tied in the pass catching department with end Gary Frahs, each having caught eight passes. Pace leads Michigan in scoring with 36 points.

In Van Pelt, the Wolverines have the leading passer in the Big Ten. He's completed 22 of 34 attempts, good for 325 yards and three touchdowns. His pass completion average is a lofty 65 per cent.

Noskin, who's completed 17 of 33 passes for 232 yards, has been doing as much damage with his running as with his passing.

Michigan will probably get only part-time duty out of their great fullback, John Herrstein. Herrstein, who had a big hand in defeating the Hawkeyes last year, suffered an injury to his instep against Michigan State and only returned to practice this week.

Iowa, in trying to upset the Wolverines, will center their attack around quarterback Randy Duncan and a handful of fleet backs.

Duncan has completed 60 per cent of his passes, 34 of 56 for 618 yards and six touchdowns. Randy's favorite target has been end Jim Gibbons, who's gathered in 16 tosses good for 298 yards.

Iowa boasts seven backs who have gained over 100 yards this season. Leading the group is right halfback Mike Hagler, who's gained 227 yards for a 6.5 average.

Defense will play a big part in Iowa's hope of tripping the Wolverines. The Hawkeyes lead the Big Ten in defense. Led by all-American Alex Karras, Dick Klein, and Mac Lewis, the Hawkeyes have allowed their opponents 178 yards per game, and only two yards per play rushing.

The Hawkeyes go into the contest in good physical shape. Mac Lewis has a sore hand but is expected to be ready.

Iowa goes into the game without a win over the Wolverines since 1924, when the Hawkeyes won, 9-2. Since then, Iowa has lost nine straight, although they played to a scoreless tie in 1929.

During the series, Michigan has won 15 of 18 games from Iowa, losing only two and tying one.

"I'm in a business nobody dreamed of three years ago"

"In a company that develops new ideas by the thousands," says 30-year-old William K. Cordier, manager of General Electric's Man-Made Diamond pilot plant, "a young man's career progress need not be limited by his particular field. In my five years with General Electric, I've gained valuable experience in several different fields, and each assignment has helped me to move ahead. Right now, I have an exciting job — I run the world's first diamond-making plant — a business nobody dreamed of three years ago."

Diamond Making a Reality

The job Bill Cordier holds is an important one, created because General Electric has the scientific and technical resources needed to seek out new knowledge and swiftly translate it into products that people want and need. In 1955, the company announced a major scientific breakthrough — the production of real diamonds in the laboratory. Today, little more than two years later, General Electric is making and selling quantities of these diamonds for civilian and defense use.

Achieving Three-Way Progress

General Electric's ability to take on and solve big problems — in research and development as well as every phase of production — is constantly creating challenging new opportunities for the 29,000 college graduates at the company. As we see it, by providing a healthy climate for a young man's self-development in whatever area he may choose, we encourage not only his own progress, but that of the company and the nation as well.

Educational Relations, General Electric Company, Schenectady 5, New York

WILLIAM K. CORDIER received his B.S. in Mechanical Engineering from Purdue University (1949). He joined General Electric's Metallurgical Products Department in 1952.
