

Gophers Want Revenge Against Hawkeyes

Hawks Picked By 6 Over Tough Rodents

By ALAN HOSKINS
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Minnesota's revenge minded Gophers invade Iowa Stadium today for a game that has reblossomed into one of the big attractions of the year.

A capacity crowd of 58,300 is expected to jam Iowa Stadium in the face of forecasts of freezing weather to see the two arch rivals battle it out for the 51st time. The game has been a sell-out since Aug. 19.

Originally billed as the season's top attraction, the game seemed to lose importance after the Gophers, pre-season favorites in the Big Ten, suffered two early setbacks.

However, a string of events during the past week has again brought interest up in the contest to almost a fever pitch.

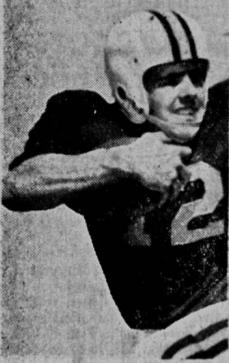

Both teams want the game badly, very badly. Minnesota has no one on its squad who has ever won against the Hawkeyes. In fact, the Gophers have had complete frustration the last two years as Iowa shut them out both times.

Two years ago, Iowa blasted the Gophers, 26-0. Then last year Coach Murray Warmath's crew fell before the Hawkeyes, 7-0, and thus lost the Big Ten title and the Rose Bowl.

Warmath has expressed his desire to win the contest: "If there was only one game I could win all season, I would choose the Iowa game."

From the Iowa side comes equal desire to win. The Hawkeyes must win to keep their Big Ten hopes alive. The defending champs have a 3-0-1 record, and trail undefeated Ohio State (4-0) in the race.

Added to this is the wave of criticism that has been directed toward coach Forest Evashevski and his Hawkeyes the past week. The criticism resulted from Iowa's failure to go for the quick touch-down in last Saturday's 21-21 tie with Michigan.

The Hawkeyes, called "The Team That Quit" by Time Magazine, are very unhappy with the article and others like it. Evashevski has expressed fear that morale in the Iowa camp is down as a result of the articles.

Practically taking a back seat in the contest is "Floyd of Rosedale," the iron pig that goes to the winner of the contest.

Iowa has been established as a one touchdown favorite in the contest, although anything could happen.

Iowa, rated fifth in the nation, holds Big Ten wins over Indiana, 47-7; Wisconsin, 21-7; and North-western, 6-0, while tying with Michigan last week.

Injuries will hamper both teams. Minnesota's second team quarterback, Dick Larson, who is the team's best passer as well as pass defender, has been hobbled by an ankle injury for the past two weeks and may be available for only limited action.

Also fullback Bob Blakely has been hampered by a shoulder bruise and the flu, and may see only limited duty.

For Iowa, end Don Norton suffered a knee injury against Michigan and has been taking it easy in practice this week. However, it is a good possibility he'll be ready for full-time duty.

The Hawkeyes will probably be

without third team fullback Fred Harris. Plagued by injuries all season, Harris again twisted his knee in practice this week.

Faced with the task of trying to move the ball against the nation's stoutest defensive line against rushing plays, Coach Warmath is expected to substitute freely and take to the air often.

Iowa leads the nation in rushing defense with an average of 66 yards per game allowed to its opponents

Missile Costs Skyrocket

Two Billion Extra Yearly Predicted

U.S. Spends $2½ Billion On Missiles Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House reported Friday an immediate and gratifying acceptance of President Eisenhower's plans for a scientific big push to overtake Russia in satellites and missiles.

And a White House caller, Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.), supplied a guess that it will cost one or two billion dollars a year extra.

Two billions would just about equal what it cost to develop the first atomic bomb back in World War II. It would almost double the amount now being spent on missiles — $2¼ billion this fiscal year.

But Bridges, even though he is usually counted among the economy demanders in Congress, predicted Congress will appropriate whatever is needed to get the job done.

And the senator, who had breakfast with Mr. Eisenhower, gave another important item to questioning reporters: He said Mr. Eisenhower told him that Dr. James R. Killian, his new special assistant for science and technology, will have "full power and authority" to do what is needed.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's description of the mission for the new B-58 faster-than-sound jet bomber created puzzlement in the Pentagon Friday.

The Defense Department and the Air Force obviously were surprised to learn that the B52 will be succeeded by the B58, a supersonic bomber.

Teeth Chattering Cold Predicted

Cloudy Skies, Bitter Cold

Real teeth-chattering, nose pinching football weather is the forecast for today's game with Minnesota.

That old weatherman says those icy north winds that snapped at the campus all day yesterday and made the coeds' noses all red may lose their snarl and bite today.

But at kick-off time, he says, those skies are going to be partly cloudy and the air might darn cold.

So wear your muffler and your mittens and your coon skin coat. (It ain't going to do that coon any good no more so you might just as well wear it.)

And bring a blanket if you can get it out of the house without your landlady revoking your lease. Try to get one with some color. It'll brighten up the stands.

And you might bring a big thermos full of scalding coffee—or full of just anything that will take the nip out of the cold air and put real spirit into your cheers.

Cause that old weather man says we got real football weather, the kind that reaches out and bites your ears.

THE RETURN OF MARGARET

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Margaret Truman arrived Friday to resume the career she interrupted for motherhood.

Miss Truman, wife of New York newspaperman Clifton Daniel, began rehearsals of "Iris," an NBC television production to be aired next Thursday.

"This is the first time I've been separated either from my husband or the baby. I'm homesick already," she said.

No Jam-Up Foreseen At Stadium Entrances

No long lines of students still awaiting admission to the stadium are expected at kick-off time today for the Iowa-Minnesota game said Francis I. Graham, athletics business manager.

The jam-up which occurred at student entrances on the north side of the stadium for the Wisconsin game stemmed from several causes Graham said. Most of these causes have now been alleviated he said, and if necessary an extra gate can be opened.

The student entrances to the stadium are divided into three main sections. Each section is subdivided into three double aisled gates. Each aisle is normally manned by one ticket-taker Graham said.

Many of the ticket-taking crew could not be at the Wisconsin game because of flu, Graham explained. This left the gates undermanned.

The students themselves could help, Graham suggested, by planning to arrive at the game early.

He said there is seldom any trouble with slow admittance at non-student and non-faculty gates. Guests usually arrive for games early, he said. Because of this they are not all trying to get into the stadium at the same time.

Extra policemen, who it was announced would help ticket takers to more closely check ID cards, will not be on hand for the Minnesota game, Graham said.

AP Digest

LONDON (AP) — Britain opened a new series of nuclear tests exploding a hydrogen bomb high in the air over the central Pacific about 2,850 miles from protesting Japan.

The bomb was dropped from a Valiant jet bomber flying out of Christmas Island, the once-significant coral atoll now transformed into Britain's permanent nuclear testing base.

NEW YORK (AP) — A series of water main breaks Thursday night and Friday knocked out two heavily traveled subway lines and made a shallow, surging sea of the Times Square theater district.

The 8th Ave. subway, linking Manhattan, the Bronx and Queens, was out for nearly 3½ hours in the middle of the night.

'SUI Alumni Dad of 1957' Is President of Iowa Bar

By ROGER McMULLIN
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

The president of the Iowa State Bar Association has been named "SUI Alumni Dad of 1957."

Shirley A. Webster, Winterset attorney for 25 years, was notified by phone about midnight Wednesday that he had been named "Alumni Dad of 1957."

"I was quite surprised and a little dismayed," Webster said. "I have always considered myself a young grad, but being named 'SUI Alumni Dad' made me feel like an old grad."

Webster was officially announced as "SUI Alumni Dad" Friday night during the intermission of the Duke Ellington Concert. He was chosen for the honor in a contest sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa, leadership fraternity.

A letter written by his oldest daughter Jane, A1, nominated him as SUI Alumni Dad.

Webster arrived in Iowa City Thursday to attend an informational program for SUI junior and senior law students held that evening.

His Dad's Day weekend activities began Friday night when he was introduced during the Dad's Day Concert.

Today he will attend a meeting of the SUI Dad's Association and will be honored at a Dad's Association luncheon and at the Iowa-Minnesota football game, where he will be introduced during half-time ceremonies. He will also attend the reception at the Union this evening.

Webster will stay at his daughter's sorority house (Alpha Xi Delta) tonight and have breakfast there Sunday morning.

The "SUI Alumni Dad of 1957" received a B.A. degree from SUI in 1930 and a J.D. degree in 1932. Since his graduation he has never lost touch with SUI.

"I have returned to SUI two or three times every year since I graduated, except during the war," Webster said. He has seen every home football game this season. Mrs. Webster is the former Marie Drews of Iowa City. The Websters

Loveless Hits GOP For Loss Of Capital Improvements

By JOHN JONES
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Gov. Herschel C. Loveless Friday night placed the blame for the lack of a capital improvements program for the state institutions of higher learning on the Republican dominated state legislature.

Loveless told the audience at 10th SUI Young Democrats' Anniversary Banquet he vetoed the 11 million dollar capital improvements bill because he was unwilling to jeopardize the state's future with a higher regressive sales tax.

He said the only way at the time to obtain adequate funds to finance the capital improvements bill would have been to pass the omnibus tax bill which contained a 2½ sales tax provision and a "give-away" of $18,000 in tax exemptions.

Loveless said the Republicans knew he would have to veto both bills because of his promises and convictions.

Loveless said he authorized a bill to permit the Board of Regents to appropriate money for state institutions. The bill passed the Iowa Senate but was killed in the House, he said.

He said he has tried to work a compromise with the state legislature but has not been able to reach one. "When responsible Republican leaders come forth with a compromise not of the heads, you win, tails you lose variety we can get down to work on the problem."

Loveless said the state needs a long range program for state institutions' capital improvements not the yearly squabbles which are occurring now. He said increased enrollment is expected to reach its peak in 1970 and we should be prepared for it.

Loveless said the press in the state has been unfairly criticizing him. He asked why more attention isn't given to the fact, on editorial pages, that veterans may not receive the Korean War Bonus.

He said the General Assembly passed the Enabling Act which set the rate ceiling on the bonds at 2½ per cent when other bonds were at the same time giving at least 3 per cent.

Loveless hit the Republicans and the press again by asking why more editorial space hasn't been devoted to the old age assistance program which he recommended and which was cut back by the General Assembly.

Loveless said the Republicans at the State House call him "the little man downstairs." He said he is very proud to be one of the little people which make up this great state.

Toastsmaster for banquet was Merwin Coad, congressman for the Iowa 6th District. Dr. Robert Michaelson, SUI School of Religion, gave the invocation preceding the banquet. Coad was introduced by Dan Efner, LI, banquet chairman.

Samuel L. Pesses, president of the SUI Young Democrats, made some introductory remarks and introduced the banquet committee.

Sherwin Markman, state chairman of Young Democrats, spoke on the functions of the Young Democrats Club saying they are part and parcel of a liberal education, provide as a training ground for future politicians and serve as a liaison with the Democratic Party and the local party groups.

It's For You, Dad

There is the smell of late autumn - and nostalgia - in the air as Dad's day rolls around again. SUI graduates whose chronological separation from the University is perhaps longer than they care to remember will once more be roaming the campus...

link - will also be among us, perhaps seeing the University for the first time. For them, too, this is a happy time. The student fortunate enough to have his parents with him (We like Mom, too) for this weekend should have a memorable time - at least the ingredients are there.

No Congratulations

Forty years ago this November 7, (25 October 1917, old Russian calendar), the Communists pulled off their coup d'etat and deposed the Provisional Government. They set off in pursuit of Utopia in an aura of promise, enthusiasm and naivete on the part of the Russians, and suspicion, fear and distrust on the part of the rest of the world.

(True, they were refused financial help by most of the world in the 1920's, but their nationalization-of-private-firms and their repudiation of the Czar's debts did little to foster trust on the part of investors.) Make no mistake about it. Looking solely at their accomplishments - and ignoring for the moment their methods - we can only admire their accomplishments.

Starting with the relatively underdeveloped industry nucleus they have literally lifted Russia from among the most backward nations in the world to the second industrial power in the world. They have brought education, medical treatment, housing, jobs and modern technology to their nation - and now they claim superiority in missile and rocket development.

But as the spotlight falls upon the magnificent structure that the Communists have erected, we can detect, half-hidden in the shadows, the bodies of all who stood in their way, or were thought to stand in their way, and too, can we see, the cornerstone of the structure is suppression of the individual "for the good of the state," which they justify by recourse to inexorable "historical process."

This the Communists did by utilizing the very "evil" they castigated capitalism for: exploiting the worker. Marx and his revamped labor theory blasted the capitalist system for making it possible - indeed, necessary - for the owner to exploit the worker for his "excess labor value."

We may admire their accomplishments; we abhor their methods and reject their philosophy. Thus we cannot in conscience extend congratulations on this their "happy anniversary."

"Quick To Respond"

The following quotation is from the latest issue of USSR, the Soviet Union's magazine for western readers: "The revolution was victorious because the majority of the people fought for its progress which followed was sustained because the people worked for it. This is what they had suffered for, and they were quick to respond to the call of the Communist Party which was prepared to lead them, a party which so well voiced their needs."

OOPS, My Error, Gov'ner

Four years ago, when Herschel Loveless was running for the Iowa Governorship, the ultra-exuberant SUI Young Democrats plastered the campus with placards reading "For Governor - Herschel Loveless."

resolved that this should never happen again - and in a way, it didn't. Times change, and so the embarrassed ones departed. Now, once again, the SUI campus is plastered with Loveless placards, posted by the SUI Young Democrats, this time reading "Governor Herschel Loveless."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Russian Communists are celebrating the 40th anniversary of their revolution. Here is an appraisal of the meaning of the event, with an insight into life in a nation which has conquered space but does not know the meaning of things, both spiritual and physical, that Americans take for granted.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN Associated Press Foreign News Analyst Thursday was the 40th anniversary of what the Communists call "The Great October Socialist Revolution." It took place Nov. 7, 1917-Oct. 25 by the old Russian calendar.

Actually this is a celebration of 40 years of Communist power, seized from the hands of real revolutionaries who overthrew the cruel autocracy of Czar Nicholas II nine months before.

Relatively few are alive today who took part in those events. For the rest of the people, the meaning of the day is lost in a cloud of distorted history. In the 40 years of Red power, the U.S.S.R. has advanced spectacularly from a backward nation to one of the two great world powers. But for all its power, its people still lag sadly behind those of other advanced nations.

Violent anger against centuries of Czarist oppression and vast human misery aggravated by World War I brought the Russian explosion in February, 1917. Nine months later, the Russians' first breath of real freedom vanished in a sudden coup.

LENIN

head and pointed beard - Vladimir Ilyich Ulyanov, who called himself Lenin - chose the day and hour for the Bolsheviks to strike down the provisional government. A fiery revolutionary just back from exile in New York, Lev Davidovich Bronstein, called Trotsky, was his chief lieutenant. His Red guards stormed the winter palace and it was all over for a provisional government which held the promise of constitutional rule for Russia.

Then civil war struck like a plague. Before it was over, Russia had paid a fantastic cost in life and property and was on the verge of famine. Lenin, chief prophet of world revolution, executed a strategic retreat. Under a New Economic Policy (NEP) he made concessions to farmers and private enterprise in an attempt to put Russia on her feet.

Even before Lenin died in January, 1924, a struggle for his power was under way. A ruthless Georgian named Joseph Vissarionovich Djughashvili who called himself Stalin - Man of Steel - won the struggle, disgraced and exiled Trotsky, and then turned savagely on the peasants. Once again Russians suffered famine while Stalin collectivized the farmers.

Later again Russians suffered oceans of bloodshed and vast destruction when Stalin's nonaggression pact with his enemy, Hitler, failed to save him from Nazi attack.

But after the war, Stalin and his lieutenants still were obsessed with the dream of world domination. They embarked on a relentless cold war with the West and brought the world close to hot war - in Iran, in Berlin, in Korea.

Stalin died in March 1953. A new and frightened regime under Georgi Malenkov promised abundance of consumer goods in two or three years. The hierarchy renege on the promise. What did come was abundance of power for communism, generated by an all-out concentration on heavy industry to build the sinews of war potential.

Today the Soviet Union remains a tight dictatorship under a new ruling class - seven million Communists controlling a nation of more than 200 million.

So Ivan celebrates. Done with his celebration, Ivan may well speculate: How long will it be before the people themselves share in Soviet wealth?

Letters to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR: In a recent issue of The Daily Iowan Keith Weir commented on the complaint of Hilda and Jean that the Iowan had committed an injustice against the Negro race by putting the offenders picture on the front page. Mr. Weir's comments are concurred in by this writer. Wasn't the Negro who committed the knife-point robbery asking for notoriety and condemnation? In my opinion, the Iowan bends over backwards to show their unprejudiced viewpoint. They even go so far as to describe the Negro who held up Hildebrand's grocery as having "a dark complexion." This to me borders on the ridiculous. Deliberately misinforming the public by not giving the most complete description possible is not good journalism. This criminal is still at large, and the fact that he is a Negro could conceivably aid in his apprehension. While Mr. Weir's figures were for Washington, D. C. only, the following data is for the entire United States. Since 1948, the Federal Government has stopped giving crime figures by race, so the following data is for 1946. The figures are from FBI reports and may be checked in any library by referring to THE ENCYCLOPEDIA OF CRIMINOLOGY.

Table with 2 columns: Crime Type, Negro White. Rows include Homicide, Robbery, Assault, Burglary, Motor Vehicle Theft, Auto Theft, Arson, Kidnap, Prostitution, Other Sex Crimes, Narcotics, Weapons Laws, Liquor Laws, Disorderly Conduct, Gambling.

Number of arrests per 100,000 population of each race. Negro White. Homicide 35.9 4.3. Robbery 89.1 13.9. Assault 263.8 35.3. Burglary 119.3 20.2. Motor Vehicle Theft 116.0 4.4. Auto Theft 37.1 20.8. Arson 2.0 0.6. Kidnap 2.2 0.7. Prostitution 46.4 7.7. Other Sex Crimes 34.1 16.1. Narcotics 11.0 4.4. Weapons Laws 7.3 7.2. Liquor Laws 33.9 5.2. Disorderly Conduct 43.1 38.9. Gambling 81.1 7.3. While the arrest rate is not greater for Negroes in every case, the truth in Mr. Weir's claim should be obvious. Two years ago, a Negro student at SUI was arrested and confessed to a number of armed filling station robberies. Last spring, another Negro student confessed to breaking into the apartment of an SUI coed. To my recollections, these two are the only SUI students who brought notoriety to the campus by being arrested for felonies in the past 3 years. At SUI, Negroes make up about 1 per cent of the students, and apparently have accounted for all of the recent felonies committed by students. If I have overlooked any others arrested for crimes of violence, The Daily Iowan can correct me. Their files are undoubtedly more accurate than my memory. William Westcott RFD 2

EDITOR'S NOTE: While our files are not official, they show that 3 whites and 3 negroes have been arrested for felonies. We might point out that other factors (unequal opportunities, etc.) are important, yet cannot be understood in the light of such "statistics."

TO THE EDITOR: Why, we wish to ask the student body of SUI, is the spirit and fire of the cheering section not what we all know it should be? To this question can come only one answer: SUI just doesn't have a group of cheerleaders capable of rousing themselves, much less the potential cheering section that they are to control. The only time that we can see any fire from this group is when they are rushing to the front of some cameraman's lens.

Who chooses these "representatives of the student body"? The time has long since come to let someone know that cheerleading is no longer just another social position but one of great need and importance to this great University. Iowa excels on the gridiron, on its way to a second Big Ten title, but on the side lines, what more miserable representation of the University can be seen than, "What yell shall we do, Oh, let the band play a number", or "Clap Yell, Clap Yell (for the 499th time this afternoon)".

We realize that it's a little late to do anything cheerleaderwise for today's game, but we do know that if students found it necessary to park in front of the fieldhouse all night for tickets to the game, they know the importance of the game and will lead the Hawks on to victory, despite the cheerleader handicap. Clever Man

Norma, Marie, Geneva Had Same Interest

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP) — Dennis Joyce's wife says that when she called his office and asked to speak to him the switchboard operator said: "Oh, hello, Norma. How are you?"

The distressing thing about this salutation, Mrs. Joyce said, was that her name isn't Norma. It's Geneva.

Mrs. Joyce, 33, said she got suspicious and, sure enough, located a second Mrs. Joyce—who lives in North Hollywood, whose first name is Norma and who has been married to Joyce since July 8, 1956. Geneva herself married him last Oct. 26.

Norma and Geneva went together to Detective Sgt. Loui Belle. They found that Joyce has a third wife, Marie, whom he married in New York in 1949. Joyce, 31, was jailed yesterday on suspicion of bigamy.

I Say Lady, Flaming Good 'air You've Got

HITCHIN, England (AP) — Mrs. Vera Ludford walked into a cigar store and told a clerk, "I smell burning."

"No wonder," the girl replied. "Your hair's on fire." Then she put out the blaze with a newspaper.

Police Court

Two men appeared in police court Friday morning on charges of drunken driving.

Donald E. Romine, 44, R.R. 1, and Gordon Russell, 34, 123 W. Benton, St., were arrested Thursday night by Iowa City police. Romine was arrested in the 200 block of South Linn Street at 10:30 p.m. and Russell was charged at the police station at 9:45 p.m.

Romine is being held in the Johnson County jail in lieu of $2,000 bond set by Judge Roger H. Ivie Friday morning. Russell has been freed on $500 bond.

The charges against the two men have been continued pending results of tests taken after their arrest.

County Court

A $5,621 automobile damage suit filed in 1952 was dismissed Friday by Judge James P. Gaffney for lack of action.

The suit, not active since September 1952, was brought in Johnson County district court by Edward N. Eggers against Joe Miner in connection with an accident on Indian Lookout hill south of Iowa City in June 1952.

English Singer To Open Concert Course At SUI

Alfred Deller, an English singer described by music critics as "one of the supreme singers of our generation," will open the SUI Concert Course for 1957-58 Wednesday, Nov. 13.

The Deller Trio — composed of Deller; Desmond Dupre, who plays lute and viola da gamba, and Robert Conant, harpsichordist — will appear in the main lounge of Iowa Memorial Union at 8 p.m.

Deller, a counter-tenor, has been credited with doing "more to bring Renaissance music to the world of the present than any other musician."

Free student tickets and SUI staff tickets at $1.50 each may be obtained in the east lobby of the Union Saturday from 1-5 p.m. On Monday and Tuesday tickets will be distributed from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Wind Gusts Topple Plane

A small airplane carrying three men was blown over by a gust of wind about noon here Friday as it was being taxied down a runway. None of the men was injured.

Bob Jehle, operator of the Iowa City Flying Service, said the plane is a Piper Tri-pacer belonging to the Interstate Air Conditioner Co., Sioux City.

He said the plane was stopping for gas here on a flight from Sioux City to New York, N. Y., when a gust of wind he estimated at 45 miles an hour caught the plane and turned it upside down. Jehle estimated $2,500 damage to the plane.

Jehle said the three men boarded a commercial airliner for New York within one hour after the accident and he was unable to get their names. He said he is "awaiting instructions" as to what to do with their plane.

They'll Be Missed

Regardless of who wins, it's going to be a sad day today when 15 Iowa seniors walk off the field for the last time as Hawkeyes.

To say we're going to miss these guys is putting it mildly. Fellows like Jim Gibbons, Alex Karras, Frank Bloomquist, Bob Commings, Bill Happel, and Mike Hagler, who have all had a hand in raising Iowa to one of the top powers in the nation.

There are others who did not receive the publicity but were trying equally as hard. Fellows like Frank Rigney, Gene Veit, Fred Harris, Don Bowen, and Dick Theer, all who were ready to come in on a moment's notice and play their very best.

Guys like Jon Janda, Jerry Jenkinson, Del Kloewer and Chuck Pierce, who didn't play too often, but if it weren't for them, the Hawkeyes wouldn't be nearly as good. For the first time needed someone to scrimmage against, and these were the chosen few.

They stuck it out, banging heads against the best in the nation. They seldom got their names in the paper but those on and close to the team realized their immense value.

We're going to miss these men very much in the coming years, for they played football at its very best.

A real credit to the University of Iowa.

THE OCTOBER ISSUE of The Palladium, a State Historical Society publication, is devoted entirely to the Iowa football team and the Rose Bowl trip last year.

It's a "must" for any Hawkeye fan. It contains articles about former great Iowa teams, players, last year's great season, plus 16 pages of pictures.

Only fifty cents, it's available through the State Historical Society here in Iowa City, or at Iowa Supply.

WORD FROM COLUMBIA, Missouri, Friday reports that the University of Missouri students are going wild in anticipation of today's game with Oklahoma.

Classes were suspended at noon on Thursday and spontaneous pep rallies have been popping up all week. The Tigers are undefeated in Big Eight play as is Oklahoma.

Against common opponents, Missouri has done equally well so today might be the day Oklahoma gets tripped up.

I wouldn't wager anything on that, however.

WITH THEIR UPSET win over Iowa State last Saturday, it looks as though the Drake Bulldogs have virtually got a bid to the Sun Bowl cinched.

I hope Wichita doesn't play the role of spoiler today as the Bulldogs are heavily favored over the Shokers. I'd like to see Drake go to the bowl, it would give the Hawkeye state a lot of added football prestige.

With the Hawkeyes to the Rose Bowl last year, and Drake to the Sun Bowl this year, who knows what might happen next year.

Maybe Iowa back to Pasadena and Iowa State in the Orange Bowl, at the same time?

I HEARD A NEW angle on the criticism by many people of Iowa's failure to go after the quick score against Michigan Saturday which I feel has a great deal of merit.

The idea was this: Too many people are watching the pros play on Sunday afternoon and feel that the college teams should be able to do the same thing on Saturday afternoon.

The long pass for quick scores in the pro games is quite frequent, because of the talent that these teams possess. However, no college team could ever hope to match the pros in talent, so should not be expected to play like they do.

I think many people, consciously or unconsciously, watch the television college games on Saturday and expect pro-type football, as was the case in the closing minutes at Michigan Saturday.

Karras Bids To Repeat As AP All-American

Navy's Beagle Last Lineman To Reappear

NEW YORK (AP) — Iowa's Alex Karras, a big, mobile tackle, is making a strong bid for a berth on The Associated Press' All-American football team for the second straight year.

It's a unique feat for a "mule" of the line to earn that honor two years running. Karras, a 22-year-old 235-pound senior from Gary, Ind., is getting solid support from the AP's Midwest All-American board members. They report that his play is at least as outstanding as it was last year when he was the only junior picked for the elite eleven.

Ron Beagle, Navy's great end, was the last lineman to win a place on the AP's first team two successive years. He earned that distinction in 1954 and 1955.

Kentucky's Lou Michaels, a member of the AP's second team last year, is another highly regarded nominee of the AP's boards. Other well recommended tackles include Charles Krueger, Texas A.&M., who was on the third team in 1956; Glen Hakes of New Mexico; Wimp Hogley of Wyoming; Tony Stremic of Navy, and Tom Topping of Duke.

Recommendations for the AP All-American are made by 12 regional boards. The AP All-American, based on the recommendations of these regional boards composed of sports writers and sportscasters, will be announced Dec. 5, and will take into account all regular season games.

Other line nominees include: Ends — James Gibbons, Iowa; Sam Williams, Michigan State; Guards — Aurelius Thomas, Ohio State; Allen Eucyer, Notre Dame; Charles Rash, Missouri; Center — Dan Currie, Michigan State.

3 Race for 3-Year-Old Crown Today

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Round Table, Gallant Man and Bold Ruler run for the 3-year-old thoroughbred championship of America today in a match race at Garden State Park.

The headon meeting of the year's top candidates for 3-year-old honors was made possible by the withdrawal of two outsiders entered earlier Friday. There is a strong possibility the winner also may wind up as "horse of the year."

Earlier in the day Wise Margin, a 5-year-old owned by Samuel Tufano, and the King Ranch's Bean Rider were entered in the $75,000 added Trenton Handicap, making up a five horse field for the mile and a quarter event. But Tufano and Max Hirsch, trainer for King Ranch, decided to withdraw their horses "in order to make the Trenton a true test for the 3-year-old title."

The gross purse will be worth $82,350, with $52,182 to the winner. The three horse championship test is unprecedented in the memory of veteran turf observers. Certainly the race is unparalleled since the 1955 Nashua-Swaps match race at Washington Park. Post time is approximately 4:10 p.m. (EST).

Round Table, winner of 11 straight races and 14 of 20 starts this year with fabulous earnings of $574,650, has been established the 7-5 favorite.

Gallant Man, second choice of the track handicapper at 8-5 despite the fact he has beaten Round Table in their only two meetings, has won 8 of 13 races this year.

New Luxury for Hawkeyes

IOWA'S TARP-COVERED FIELD and empty stadium await today's battle between the unbeaten Hawkeyes and the revenge minded Minnesota Gophers. A tarp on the field may seem like somewhat of a luxury to the Hawks after the Indiana and Northwestern games which were both played on a soggy, muddy field.

Brechler Defends Evy, Players

Iowa Athletic Director Paul Brechler issued a statement Friday night defending Football Coach Forest Evashevski and his players against criticism that Iowa laid down in setting for a 21-21 tie in the last three minutes of the Michigan game last weekend.

Brechler said: "One of the unfortunate things about the controversy over the Michigan game is that persons have overlooked the fact that the game probably was one of the best played intercollegiate contests in years.

"All of the brilliancy of the first 57 minutes has been lost sight of because of the arguments over the Iowa strategy of the last 2 minutes and 58 seconds.

"I have been associated with Coach Forest Evashevski long enough to know that no one likes to win as much as he does. And I know the individual Iowa players well enough to realize that none of them ever would quit under any circumstances in anything they are trying to do."

Earlier in the day Evashevski said he was "boiling mad" about criticism which he regarded as being directed against the football players.

He said that comments which have appeared in print have harmed the morale of the team.

He said he doesn't mind if people take issue with his decisions but it is "unfair to take it out on a fine young group of fighters."

The Hawkeyes wound up their preparations for the Minnesota game today with a brief 20-minute drill Friday, and the final word was that first string end Don Norton is in shape to go if Evashevski wants to start him, as may be the case. Norton has been bothered this week with a knee injury received in the Michigan game.

Evashevski has two good fullbacks and he may start veteran John Nocera instead of sophomore Don Horn.

Coaches, Karras Influenced Bill's Last Minute Shift

'T-Bone' Gravel Almost a Spartan Halfback

By ALAN HOSKINS
Daily Iowan Sports Editor
(Another in a Series)

Had it not been for a last minute decision, Iowa halfback Bill Gravel might easily be playing for Michigan State this year instead of the Hawkeyes.

"I was all ready to go to Michigan State," relates Bill, "but at the last moment, I decided on Iowa. I think the coaches were the biggest factor in my coming here.

"Also the fact that Alex Karras was here kind of made me switch to Iowa."

Gravel and Karras are long time buddies, having lived quite close to each other in their high school days. Alex played his prep football in Gary while Bill went to Hobart High, just outside Gary.

The two are roommates now along with Bob Commings and Paul Karras.

Gravel, who is very serious when he's trying to pick up an extra yard, probably has as much fun at playing football as anyone on the Hawkeye squad. He's always ribbing someone at practice, or taking a rib from someone else.

Bill Gravel Caught Own Pass

A typical Gravel practice session was last Monday night. The first two Iowa teams worked out in sweat clothes while the Hawkeye reserves scrimmaged the freshmen. It wasn't hard to pick Gravel out along the sidelines. He was playing the part of cheerleader for the reserves.

"I like to have fun," says Bill. "Football's no good when you can't have any fun at it."

Gravel was a 3-sport man at Hobart. He played guard on the basketball team, ran the low hurdles in track, and played left halfback on the football team, where he was all-state his senior year.

Gravel likes to take chances, whether it's on the football field or not. The past summer, he worked as a bricklayer for an iron construction company in Hobart. The job involved fitting beams into place high in the air.

"Two guys got killed the same day," recalls Bill, "but the pay was good."

When he gets the time, Gravel likes to listen to records and work on his car. He also plays intramural basketball in the winter.

Another favorite pastime is eating T-bone steaks. In fact, his fondness for them has earned him the nickname of "T-Bone" by his teammates.

A commerce major, Gravel is eyeing the real estate or insurance field after graduation. Pro football doesn't fit.

"I have no desire whatsoever to play pro ball," says Bill. "For one thing, I doubt if I could ever make it."

Gravel feels his biggest thrill was making the team. Running a close second was Iowa's trip to the Rose Bowl last year.

"I'm looking forward to going back to the Rose Bowl again next year," said the optimistic halfback.

Bill calls Jim Pace, Michigan halfback who had a big hand in the Wolverines tie with the Hawkeyes last week, the best ball player he's met.

Gravel participated in an extremely freakish play while he was in high school. Bill threw a long pass downfield, then ran downfield.

The ball was juggled by three or four players and Gravel wound up with it on the goal line, thus passing to himself for a touchdown.

Perhaps Gravel's biggest play, however, came against Wisconsin this year in Iowa's Homecoming. Bill picked off a Sid Williams pass early in the fourth quarter and raced 45 yards down the sidelines to score. The touchdown clinched the game as the Hawkeyes downed the Badgers, 21-7.

Bill would like to grab another one like that today against the Gophers.

Hawks, Gophers in Cross-Country Meet Wonder What Players Do Saturday Morning?

By JERRY LAMBERT
Daily Iowan Assistant Sports Editor

Have you ever wondered what the Iowa Hawkeyes do each Saturday morning during the football season?

The day starts early for many of the players. Those men that have to be taped report to the team trainers at eight a.m. "to begin being tied together."

All of the men report for the pre-game meal at 10 a.m. at the Hillcrest Coffee Shop, where the training table is held during the season. After they have eaten a "light" meal, the players move to the new office building at the Fieldhouse.

The team is then issued mattresses which they spread on the faculty gymnasium floor. For approximately one hour the players can do whatever they want, as long as they are resting. Most of them read magazines or study their opponent's scouting reports.

A short meeting is held at 11:30 in which the offense and the defense to be used for the coming game is reviewed. This meeting, which usually lasts about 20 minutes, is followed by another short rest period before the players move out for their dressing room at the stadium. The trainers finish the big job of taping during the rest periods.

"We try to emphasize routine," Bob Flora, assistant coach, said. "We let the boys sleep in their own beds on Friday night because they are used to them." Some coaches make it a policy to have their men sleep in a motel or hotel that will move them away from interested fans.

"Our policy is to conserve the energy of the players," Flora said. "On Saturday morning we try to keep them away from people and off their feet."

Flora pointed out the possibility of the players becoming tired because of the energy that is drained from their bodies if they are talking to well wishers all morning.

"Trying to keep a regular routine for the players on the road trips presents more of a problem," Flora relates. "It is hard for some of the team to get a good night's sleep when they are sleeping in a strange bed and eating at places that they are unaccustomed to."

Last week at Michigan the team got up Saturday morning and ate their meals on Iowa time even though that put them an hour behind Michigan time.

NEW YORK (AP) — Several members of the New York Yankees will visit the Mayo Clinic for checkups during the off season.

First baseman Bill Skowron already has made the trip. Among the other players due to visit the clinic are catcher Yogi Berra, center fielder Mickey Mantle and pitcher Whitey Ford. All four suffered physical miseries during the past season.

Say Taylor to Quit As Stanford Coach

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Chuck Taylor is tired of football and is planning to resign as head coach at Stanford, Walt Gamage, sports editor of the Palo Alto Times, wrote Friday.

"For the past three years he has had too many friends and members of his coaching staff that he didn't want to make a permanent career of coaching and was looking forward to the day when he could quit this crazy business," Gamage wrote in his column, "Sports Shots."

He said there was no pressure on Taylor to leave, "It's just that he's tired of the game."

Taylor is in Los Angeles for Saturday's Stanford-USC game and was not available for comment.

Hawks, Gophers in Cross-Country Meet Jones, Edelen In Top Race

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

During the ten years the Notre Dame-Army football rivalry was allowed to cool off, the Fighting Irish, shorn of their subway alumni, installed Michigan State as their big rival. The 24th meeting between the Irish and Michigan State's Spartans today full deserves the Big Game designation.

For one thing, it marks the beginning of one of the toughest assignments ever handed a college team. After meeting Michigan State, currently ranked fourth in the nation in The Associated Press poll, Notre Dame will go up against Oklahoma, No. 2 and then Iowa, No. 5, on the next two Saturdays.

The game will be played before a capacity crowd for the ninth year in a row — a 76,000 sellout in Michigan State's double decked Spartan Stadium.

Michigan State, climbing back after a mid-season defeat by Purdue, is favored in this game and a strong contender for the Big Ten title. Notre Dame, thumped by Navy last week after unexpectedly winning its first four games, needs a victory in at least one of these three tough games to salvage a satisfactory season.

As a gate attraction or as a struggle for national honors, the Notre Dame-Michigan State game ranks alongside today's other tussles involving top-rank teams. And six of the teams listed in the first ten face spoilers who could wreck conference championship prospects.

The tough Texas Aggies, heading the rankings for the second week, encounter Southern Methodist, Oklahoma's team, apparently somewhat below its 1956 championship level, plays Missouri. Defense-minded Auburn, No. 3, is challenged by Mississippi State for the Southeastern Conference lead.

Iowa, the defending Big Ten champion which tied Michigan last week, now runs against rugged Minnesota. Ohio State, leading the Big Ten, encounters the Purdue team which dropped Michigan State and Illinois. The game will be televised regionally on NBC, Tennessee, once more a southeastern contender since Bobby Gordon has blossomed out as a tailback, runs into an improving Georgia Tech team that manhandled Duke last week.

Michigan tries to keep its Big Ten championship hopes alive at Champaign, Ill., against a traditionally obstinate foe, Illinois. Another Western Conference contest pits Wisconsin and Northwestern at Evanston, Ill. Beleguered Indiana is host to Cincinnati.

Minnesota's highly rated cross country team invades Iowa today for a meet which Hawkeye coach Francis Cretzmeier terms "the best we've had here in a good many years."

The meet will be run over a four mile course starting and finishing at the clubhouse on the lower nine of Old Finkbine golf course. The meet will start promptly at 10:30 a.m.

The meet could well develop into a close race between Iowa's Charles (Deacon) Jones and the Gopher's Buddy Edelen.

Jones was the NCAA champion in 1955, while Edelen finished fourth in the NCAA last year. Jones, missed last year's NCAA meet because he participated in the 1956 Olympics.

Jones and Edelen have met four times previously, with Deacon winning them all. However, Edelen has made great improvement this year, as shown by his record.

He's won five races and has set records in four of them. In a Milwaukee meet, he broke the former record by 43 seconds, and also broke a mark formerly held by Iowa's Rich Ferguson at Minneapolis.

Cretzmeier is hoping to have his squad in better shape today. "We've been hurt in earlier meets," said Cretzmeier, "by the flu." Jack Hill, one of our top boys is just now regaining his form, although we don't know how strong he is, and several other boys are just coming around.

"We're looking for a real tough battle. Minnesota has been pointing for this one."

Heading the Iowa squad in addition to Jones and Hill are junior Quentin Wilkes and sophomore Bruce Trimble, Eric Clarke, Rich Hermeier and Ralph Lyle. Also running for Iowa will be Leighton Betz, Dave Drew, and Bob Fletcher.

Edelen will probably get his most help from Arnie Beck with Don Brown, Jim Gawboy Jerry Larsen and John McCafferty also running.

Iowa has a 1-1 record going into the meet. The Hawkeyes defeated Wisconsin and lost to the Chicago Track Club in previous meets.

Minnesota, three deep at all backfield positions, is expected to start with Bobby Cox, quarterback; Bob Soltis and Bob Shultz, halfbacks; and Rhody Tuszka, fullback.

The game could easily hang on the performance of Cox at quarterback. A pre-season all-American candidate and recently named by Sports Illustrated as the best college quarterback, Cox must have better success against the Hawkeyes than last year.

In that game, Iowa concentrated on stopping Bobby and the Gophers failed to score.

Iowa will center its attack around the passing of quarterback Randy Duncan and the running of halfbacks Mike Hagler, Bill Gravel, Ray Jauch, Kevin Furlong, John Nocera and Don Horn.

Hagler leads the team in rushing with a 6.1 yard average. Duncan, one of the Big Ten's top passers, has completed 43 of 73 passes for a .589 percentage and six touchdowns.

Duncan's favorite target is left end and captain Jim Gibbons. Gibbons has caught 18 passes good for 319 yards and two touchdowns.

The Gophers lead in the all-time series with 34 wins, 15 defeats and one tie. However, Iowa has won three of the last four games, all by shutouts.

Young M.D.s Should Try Old Doc's Way

Development of qualities that endeared the horse-and-buggy doctor to his patients and friends should be a goal of young men entering medicine today, an SUI physician said Friday.

Dr. Rubin H. Flocks, professor and head of urology in the University's College of Medicine, told some 250 pre-medical students and their advisors that the horse-and-buggy doctor is not necessarily a thing of the past.

"His mode of travel, his equipment and many of his techniques have been improved," Dr. Flocks said, "but these are not the factors which made him a great man."

The beloved horse-and-buggy doctor had "good old-fashioned qualities of humility, generosity and deep human understanding," Dr. Flocks said, "qualities as necessary as ever."

Dr. Flocks spoke before the University's ninth annual conference for pre-medical students and advisers from colleges throughout Iowa. The group also heard talks by SUI Professors Wendell Johnson and Manfred Kuhn.

Dr. Flocks said: "The horse-and-buggy doctor was limited to relatively few minor surgical procedures. He had only a few of the serums, vaccines and other substances which control many diseases today."

But in terms of combining the science, the art and the morality of medicine, the horse-and-buggy doctor can and should still be with us, Dr. Flocks told the prospective physicians.

"Probably the most important thing parents can do to help their children become constructive and kindly adults is to train them to become effective listeners," Prof. Johnson told the group.

"Probably the best way to learn to listen is by example," he explained. "What does an effective listener do? For one thing he listens more than most of us — he hears the speaker out. And he listens without censure or blame, in such a way that he keeps the other person talking as freely as possible. He listens with the basic intention not of disputing what the speaker says, not of winning an argument, but of understanding as fully as possible what the speaker is trying to express."

Who Will Teach U.S. Scientists of Future?

DES MOINES (AP) — America must overtake Russia in the education of scientists. But who will teach them in America?

That was the problem presented Friday by Frank O. McIntyre of Pasadena, Calif., director of public relations of the southern section of the California Teachers Assn.

McIntyre pointed up the need for teachers at a meeting of the Department of Classroom Teachers. The classroom teachers form the largest department of the Iowa State Education Assn. now holding its 103rd annual convention here, with an attendance of about 16,000.

"Russia does not have a superior way of life because they put a dog and a satellite in the air before we did," he said.

But McIntyre said Americans must be fully aware of Russia's accomplishments. He said Russia and its satellite nations "turn out three to five times as many scientists as we do — and they are excellent ones."

In addition, Russia spends more on education than does the United States. And Russia has the teachers.

"Russia protects its teachers, to listen is by example," he explained. "What does an effective listener do? For one thing he listens more than most of us — he hears the speaker out. And he listens without censure or blame, in such a way that he keeps the other person talking as freely as possible. He listens with the basic intention not of disputing what the speaker says, not of winning an argument, but of understanding as fully as possible what the speaker is trying to express."

Dinosaurs, A-Bombs Enter U.S. Policy

Prospect of a "dinosaur age" of military brawn and power far outpacing the how-to intelligence for controlling and using that power was pointed out Friday night at SUI.

Addressing the Conference of City Managers of Iowa on "Soviet-American Relations," Prof. Vernon Van Dyke reached millions of years back for an analogy to the massive weapons race spurred by the orbiting Sputniks.

During their stay on earth, he said, the dinosaurs grew from upright reptiles about the size of turkeys into creatures of enormous size, but their decision-making organs seldom became much more than small swellings on the top of their spinal cords.

The dinosaurs are said to have become extinct because of their inability to adjust to the changes which took place on earth, he added.

It is not the strength of a military power that is important, Van Dyke said. What is important is the brain that determines how the military power shall be used.

The present situation, he said, calls for the trained intelligence to study Soviet policies and intentions, also how we might influence their decisions in using their strength, or the fate of man might be that of the dinosaurs.

"It is appalling to think of life having as its main purpose the development of power to destroy life," Van Dyke said.

Reviewing what he called "more obvious aspects" of the current power struggle, Van Dyke noted that: (1) the Sputniks are convincing demonstrations of Russia's industrial, scientific, and military capacity; (2) it is more important now to maintain good relations with allies, particularly those with bases where U.S. planes and missiles can be launched, and (3) small countries won't want alliances with us if the U.S.S.R. persuades them that the U.S. is weaker.

Childbirth Series Will Start Monday

The first of five lectures on "Education for Childbirth" will be given at 7:30 p.m. Monday in room E-405 of the General Hospital at the State University of Iowa.

"Expectant mothers, their husbands and any other interested persons may attend the lectures, which are sponsored by the SUI College of Medicine's department of obstetrics and gynecology.

Lectures will be held every Monday night through Dec. 9. Movies of various phases of childbirth and care will be shown and a question-answer period will follow each lecture.

Dr. Sachio J. Takata, resident physician in obstetrics and gynecology, will give the first lecture on "Anatomy and Physiology of Pregnancy."

Other lecturers and their topics will be: Dr. Herbert F. Sandmire, resident physician in obstetrics, "Prenatal Care;" Dr. William M. Walker, resident physician in obstetrics, "Labor and Delivery" and "Postpartum Care;" and Dr. George Owen, resident physician in pediatrics, "Care of the Infant."

Anna E. Overland, associate professor in the college of nursing, and Mrs. Doris Wilkinson, nursing supervisor, will participate in the last two lectures.

Iowa Hens Work Hard Combatting Asian Flu

AMES (AP) — Hens in Iowa lay about 25 million eggs every two days — as many as have been used thus far in the preparation of Asian flu vaccine, a poultry expert at Iowa State College said Friday.

Fertile chicken eggs are used in the preparation of the vaccine, said Robert E. Phillips, head of the poultry department at the college.

"There can be no doubt that the laying flocks in Iowa are making a big contribution to the economy and health of this country," Phillips said.

Corporation Tax Law May Be Illegal

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Legislative Research Bureau said Friday that one of two proposals which probably would double state corporation income tax revenue is in serious doubt as to its constitutionality.

Both plans were offered unsuccessfully in the 1957 Legislature. The bureau's report of a study on the two proposals was sent to all members of the Legislature.

The proposal which the bureau said holds a constitutional doubt, would require more taxes from out-of-state companies which do business in Iowa but have to pay little or no tax.

They pay little or no state income taxes because most of their sales in Iowa are considered to be interstate sales and therefore not subject to state taxation.

The second proposal would allocate income in proportion to property, payrolls and sales. The bureau said this plan is used in most of the 32 states which have a corporation income tax.

The bureau said Iowa's present formula of corporation income taxes is different from any other state. An important effect of it is, the bureau continued, that it generally permits Iowa-located companies which sell in other states to pay much less state income tax than they would under the sales, payroll and property formula.

"Some persons believe that Iowa's method is important to the industrial development of this state," the bureau related.

"Others contend that taxes, especially a tax like the Iowa corporate income tax, are not particularly important in industrial location."

45 Million Unvaccinated Against Polio

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service said Friday new estimates indicate some 45 million Americans under 40 have not been vaccinated against paralytic poliomyelitis.

The figure, based on a Census Bureau survey, is eight million more than had been reported earlier on the basis of the best other data then available, the service said.

The new survey, however, also indicated that the number of persons under 40 who have received three polio shots is about 34 million instead of the 28 million previously estimated.

Commenting on the new figures, Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney said: "It is encouraging to find that the number of persons with maximum protection is greater than had previously been estimated."

"However, the fact that there are still an estimated 45 million — 15 million children and 30 million adults under 40 — with no protection is a matter of grave concern," he said.

NEW FRENCH TAXES

PARIS (AP) — Premier Felix Gaillard and Finance Minister Pierre Pflimlin worked Friday on urgent measures to halt France's runaway inflation.

Their bill asking special financial and economic powers will be studied by the Cabinet today and presented to the National Assembly Wednesday. A vote is likely by the end of the next week.

The Finance Ministry maintained a strict blackout on the government's intentions but it was considered almost certain Frenchmen would be hit for at least 100 billion francs — 238 million dollars — in new taxes.

"The taxes are expected on semi-luxury goods, gasoline — already priced higher than anywhere else in the western world — and wine, the average Frenchman's daily drink."

RUSSIANS COOL OFF

MOSCOW (AP) — Kremlin leaders and guests from more than a dozen Communist nations settled down Friday, after a flurry of official functions, to discussion of the state of international communism.

Private talks followed a giant friendship meeting at Lenin Stadium, where the Soviet Union and its leaders got more back-patting than all the rest of the Communist nations put together.

Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet Communist party boss, Red China's Mao Tse-tung, Poland's Wladyslaw Gomułka and representatives of Yugoslavia's absent Marshal Tito were reported figuring in the conversations.

Senators' Opinions Mixed On Civil Rights Commission

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) said Friday the new Civil Rights Commission can only "increase racial tensions," but Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) hailed the appointment of the members as "good news indeed."

These conflicting views echoed the bitter Senate struggle last summer that preceded enactment of the civil rights bill authorizing creation of the investigating commission.

Thurmond put on a futile one man filibuster against the measure just before it was passed holding the floor for a record 24 hours and 15 minutes. Case was a leader of the coalition of Republicans and Northern Democrats supporting the bill.

President Eisenhower appointed the six commission members late Thursday. He named retired Supreme Court Justice Stanley F. Reed as chairman and John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University and a former assistant secretary of defense, as vice chairman.

Thurmond said he was "not at all pleased" that some of those selected by Mr. Eisenhower "have already expressed their sentiments on segregation adverse to the South."

He called no names in a statement issued through his office here, but he said he will ask for "a very careful and thorough study" of the qualifications of the members when their nominations are submitted to the Senate after Congress reconvenes in January.

In contrast to Thurmond's statement, Sen. A. Willis Robertson (D-

Not Sure of Effectiveness Of Asian, Salk Vaccines

Although statistics seem to indicate Salk vaccine has drastically cut poliomyelitis, final judgment on the effectiveness of the vaccine cannot be made at the present time, an SUI bacteriologist said Friday.

Speaking at the Pharmacy Seminar being held at SUI Friday and today, Prof. Wayburn S. Jeter said the decrease in the disease might be due to the immunization with the vaccine, but it might also be caused by a normal regression or fluctuation of the disease.

Dr. Jeter outlined some theoretical advantages and disadvantages of the Salk vaccine and the Asian flu vaccine. He pointed out that there is a chance that polio may surge back in the future if people do not continue to take booster shots of the vaccine.

It is too early to tell exactly how effective the Asian flu vaccine is, he said, because of the problem posed by rapid changes in the influenza diseases. Other drawbacks to the vaccine which have been reported are allergic reactions caused from the egg the vaccine is taken from and the possibility that too small a dose is being administered, he said.

Prof. James W. Jones of the SUI pharmacy faculty discussed new types of medications made with coatings which space out effects of drugs so that fewer doses need be given. He explained that the goal of drug manufacturers in many cases is to develop medications in the form of tablets, capsules or liquids which need be given only every twelve hours.

An important advantage of these new forms is that they permit the patient to sleep through the night without being awakened to take medicine.

Use of coatings also makes it possible to combine in one capsule two drugs, with physical or chemical incompatibility, Jones explained. Or two different drugs can be liberated in sequence, with one to take effect following the first.

Use of these coatings in liquids is more difficult than in tablets or capsules, since the particles coated must be very small, he said.

Prof. Seymour M. Blaug explained that patients going to today's skin specialist often are given tailor-made prescriptions containing a variety of ingredients. This has resulted in a relatively small number of dermatologic preparations being marketed by pharmaceutical houses.

The individualization of dosage results in a greater call on the pharmacist for professional advice, Blaug said.

Speakers this morning will include Dr. Keith A. McNurlen, Ames, whose topic will be "The Dentist and Dental Prescriptions," and SUI Prof. Henry P. Baumann who will speak on "Compounding Dental Prescriptions."

Loveless Hints Special Session Chances Slight

Gov. Herschel C. Loveless refused to say Friday night whether he planned to call a special session of the Iowa legislature.

But he admitted that chances for such a session look "very dim" at the moment.

The governor said "it remains to be seen" when he will announce his decision on the matter.

He said, as he has repeatedly in the past, that he will not call the session until he is sure the Republican majority will not pass a 2½ per cent sales tax bill.

Loveless said he has received about 55 (out of 108) replies to questionnaires he sent to legislators about a month and a half ago.

The questionnaires requested the legislator's opinions of the 2½ per cent tax bill.

Loveless said the legislators seemed anxious for a special session, but that some of them favored a 3 per cent sales tax, 1 per cent of it to go for "educational purposes."

"The chances for compromise with the Republicans are not good at the moment," the governor said as he prepared to leave.

"Then that means," he was asked, "that the state institutions (including SUI) will not get capital improvement appropriations until the next regular session."

The governor nodded his head.

John L.'s Belt Again Displayed

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — The long-lost championship belt once worn by the fabled John L. Sullivan, last of the bare-knuckle heavy-weight boxing champs, has been found and put on display in the window of a Hammond clothing store.

James S. Delaurier, publisher of the Hammond Times, bought the memory-laden trophy from Melvin Herman, an 84-year-old Hammond sign painter who had it stored in a warehouse. Herman bought it when the estate of Charles West was settled.

The belt was once valued at $10,000 but false gems have been used to replace the diamonds that once studded the nine gold-plated panels. Names of 35 prominent 19th century personages are engraved on the panels.

The 48-inch belt was presented to the "Boston Strong Boy" at a banquet in Boston in August, 1887. Sullivan held the heavyweight title from 1882 until he lost it to Gentleman Jim Corbett in 1892.

Nat Fleischer, publisher of Ring Magazine and a friend of Sullivan has identified the belt as genuine.

Twisters Kill 12 in South

The Associated Press — Tornadoes took 12 lives in the South and high winds swirled over most of the nation's eastern half Friday.

Destructive twisters in Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas Thursday night and Friday were violent eddies on the edge of a vast storm system centering in the Great Lakes region. What was termed a baby tornado hit an area in Alabama. No one was injured.

Wind patterns were described by the Weather Bureau as "a gigantic atmospheric whirlpool surrounding an intense storm."

The counterclockwise sweep drew cold air into its western rim from the Dakotas, sending wind-whipped snow into the Midwest.

In the South, wind patterns tumbled warm, moist gulf air into their sweep, churning tornadoes and thunderstorms. In the East, the turbulence drew mild southern atmosphere into a heading northward rush.

Tornadoes in the western Gulf States injured at least 100 persons and wrecked a 10-block section of Alexandria, La.

Strong winds caused some damage in Midwestern cities.

Three persons were injured at noon in downtown Detroit as they measured at 42 m.p.h.

Barylli Quartet—

Mozart, Kodaly, Schubert

—Professional Excellence

By ROBERT BOSTROM
Review Board Member

Iowa City Civic Music Association, Barylli Quartet, Walter Barylli, violin; Otto Strasser, violin; Rudolph Streng, viola; Emanuel Brabec, cello. Quartet includes D. Major, K. 499 — Mozart; Second Quartet, Opus 10 — Kodaly; Quartet in D Minor, Opus Posthumous — Schubert.

The opening work, Mozart's "Hofmeister" quartet, gave the group an opportunity to demonstrate the skill of tone and phrasing that marks a really excellent string group. Mozart's semi-polyphonic treatment of texture is difficult, to say the least, and the Barylli Quartet was more than equal to it. Mozart's genius and clarity were evident throughout this brilliant performance.

Different in tone, but probably more exciting, was a work by Zoltan Kodaly, a Hungarian composer who, like Bartok, has drawn on Magyar folk music for his somber themes. The quartet had a melancholy, bewildering, almost oppressive mysteriousness. But its dark faraway chords and progressions were tempered with almost cheerful motifs, the development of which brought the work to an exultant and exciting close. Here again, the Barylli group was at its technical and sensitive best, giving an extremely able performance.

The closing work, Schubert's "Death and the Maiden" quartet, was less exciting. In spite of the essential beauty of the melodic line, the quartet is slow in developing and poorly defined in its statement and recapitulation. This work was so named because the melody of the second movement corresponds with the melody of Schubert's famous art song of the same name. But this does not keep the work from being tiresome, even in the hands of so fine a group of musicians as the Barylli Quartet.

The group as a whole is excellent. Brabec, the cellist, is especially competent. Barylli, the principal violinist, is a fine musician, but at times he lacked the precision and articulation of a really top concert violinist. The audience was gratifyingly large, in spite of Duke Ellington and the weather.
