U.S. 'Baby' Satellite Launching Set For Next Week

U.S. First Attempt In Missile Race

WASHINGTON (AP) — An attempt to launch America's first test satellite, a sphere six inches in diameter weighing six pounds, is planned for the middle of next week, informed sources said Monday.

These informants said the attempt will be made at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., next Tuesday, or soon thereafter. A dawn shot is planned.

The globe will be fired south-eastward into space and adjusted for a generally equatorial orbit.

It will have four tiny solar batteries, half an inch thick, glued to its outside, and will have four or six antennas. It will transmit signals continuously on 108 megacycles, so that it can be detected by radio.

The solar batteries should last as long as the life of the satellite itself.

Unlike the full scale future satellites, this one will contain no special telemetering instruments and thus will tell nothing about conditions in outer space.

But if all goes well it should join the Soviet Sputnik satellites at altitudes from 300 to 1,200 miles in outer space.

The baby satellite will be launched by Vanguard rockets which will be used later to put the regular 21-inch satellites into the sky.

Paris Visit By Macmillan Causes Riot

PARIS (AP) — Riot troops and police broke up a teen-age demonstration against Britain and the United States Monday as British Prime Minister Macmillan held inconclusive talks here over Tunisian arms.

Shouting "Algeria is French" and "Macmillan to the gallows," about 300 young men, many in leather jackets, attempted to march on the U.S. Embassy near the Place de la Concorde.

Authorities had been warned to expect possible riots by signs splashed on walls overnight by two rightist parties declaring, "The British and Americans have given arms to the Algerian rebels via Tunisia."

Heavy rings of police and troops were thrown about the British and U.S. embassies shortly after Macmillan flew in from London to begin his talks with French officials.

Almost as soon as the youths began converging, police moved in with their clubs. About 100 of the demonstrators were bundled into police vans. The remainder were herded into the center of the Place de la Concorde and police hurled stench bombs into their midst.

Last Meal?

BLISSFULLY AWAITING their unknown fate are 4,000 ready to market Tom Turkeys on the Dr. D. G. Sattler farm northwest of Kalona. Possibly trying to ease their last hours on earth is Katy Katselson, N2, Iowa City, who can be seen bending over scattering grain in the midst of the flock. On the other hand, she might be getting a closer look at a few of the 8,000 legs which will be gracing numerous SUI students' Thanksgiving tables. The birds belong jointly to Sattler and Elwood Yoder, Sattler's tenant.

Iowa City Cars Inspected in Safety Drive

Over 200 motorists voluntarily had their cars inspected Monday night during the annual Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce (JayCee) "Safety Lane" campaign.

Kent Angerer, president of the JayCees, said most of the motorists also filled out questionnaires asking what they thought Iowa City most needed.

The "Safety Lane" was held from 7 to 9 p.m. on Clinton St. between Iowa Ave. and Jefferson St. The inspection included a check of headlights, brakes, wipers and turn signals.

Safety stickers were issued to owners of cars which passed inspection. No penalties were assessed if the cars didn't qualify. Angerer said most cars were in roadworthy condition.

About 30 JayCee members participated in the "Safety Lane" project. Two such campaigns are scheduled for next year, the first to take place next Spring.

ISC Man Heads Penal Advisers

DES MOINES (AP) — Prof. Walter A. Lunden, an Iowa State College sociologist, was elected chairman Monday of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Penal Affairs.

The five persons Loveless appointed recently to advise him on commutations and related matters held their first meeting Monday.

Other members of the committee are Dr. Paul Huston, of the State Psychopathic Hospital, Iowa City; Rep. Scott Swisher (D-Iowa City); the Rev. William C. T. Hawtrey, Oskaloosa; and Mrs. Erwin Gotsch, Shenandoah.

CIVIL RIGHTS HEAD

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Monday picked W. Wilson White of Philadelphia to head the new civil rights division in the Justice Department — subject to approval by the Senate.

Biggerstaff Found Guilty; Set Sentencing For Dec. 2

Marvin G. Biggerstaff, 39, was found guilty of the second degree murder of his 24-year-old wife, Donna Belle, Monday in Johnson County District Court. Judge James P. Gaffney set 10 a.m. Monday, Dec. 2, for sentencing.

Biggerstaff pleaded guilty in the fatal shooting at his arraignment last Wednesday. Mrs. Biggerstaff died about 3 a.m. Nov. 13 after receiving a bullet wound in the abdomen two hours earlier at her apartment at 421 S. Dubuque St.

Witnesses called Monday included Police Captain George R. Hall who said he heard Mrs. Biggerstaff yell, "Marvin, how did you get in here," and "Get that gun out of here."

Patrolman Snider said the shot was heard as they arrived at the apartment, and said they broke down the door only seconds later. Captain Hall said Mrs. Biggerstaff clumped to the floor as he entered the room.

Mrs. Mitchell said Mrs. Biggerstaff ran into the Mitchell apartment that afternoon and told her to lock the door. She said Mrs. Biggerstaff told her she and her husband had argued in two stores downtown, and that Biggerstaff had followed her home.

Ira Hall, Jr., S. Riverside Drive, testified he owned the automatic pistol used in the shooting.

Hall testified the pistol disappeared from the gun closet in his home sometime during the evening prior to the shooting. He said Biggerstaff had been living with him since Mrs. Biggerstaff started divorce proceedings the latter part of October.

Biggerstaff faces a possible sentence of from ten years to life imprisonment.

'Casket Snatcher' Gets Sanity Test

WAUTOMA, Wis. (AP) — A small pinch bar, lying among violated bones on a looted casket, testified Monday to the truth of Edward Gein's statement to authorities that the portions of nine female bodies found at his lonely farmhouse had been carried home from graves.

Dist. Atty. Earl Kileen said that the evidence of the empty graves "appears to substantiate Gein's statement."

Gein, now committed to Wisconsin's Central State Hospital for the criminal insane for observation, also admitted killing and butchering two women of the neighborhood.

Kileen said that two graves in the Plainfield Cemetery were opened Monday and were found empty, except for a few bones and the pinch bar that "apparently had been used to open" one of the caskets.

The graves were those of Mrs. Eleanor Adams and Mrs. Mabel Everson, both buried in 1951.

Mrs. Adams' casket was empty. The other casket also was empty, but Kileen said that there were bones and the small prying device on top of the looted casket.

"At present," Kileen said, "I do not see any need to open any more graves."

However, he added, if Wisconsin's Atty. Gen. Stewart Honeck "believes that opening the others is necessary, he will open them all."

Honeck Monday was asked by Gov. Vernon Thomsen to move into the case because of the possibility that additional crimes in other counties might be involved.

The governor also indicated that the state would pay the estimated $1,000-a-day cost of the state crime laboratory's continuing investigation of physical evidence collected at Gein's farm.

Kileen welcomed the governor's action and promised his full cooperation.

The evidence included parts of 10 bodies. One has been identified tentatively as that of Mrs. Mary Hogan, 54, a tavern keeper in adjacent Portage County. Gein admitted killing and butchering her in December, 1954.

He also admitted similarly slaying Mrs. Bernice Worden, 58, a Plainfield widow, in her hardware store Nov. 16. Discovery of her mutilated corpse, hung by the heels in Gein's woodshed, led to finding of other gruesome relics in his home.

'No Ticket'

Scientist Says U.S. Missile Project Lags

WASHINGTON (AP) — A University of California nuclear scientist, Dr. Edward Teller, testified Monday that America "waited too long" with missiles. Now he says the country is in real danger of falling far behind Russia in the missile field and conquest of space.

Teller, known as the father of the hydrogen bomb, told a Senate investigating committee the nation confronts a danger that is perhaps greater than during World War II.

He said he believes Russia has an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) capable of hitting major U.S. industrial targets. Russia, he said, also has "the technical foundations" for reaching the moon, and this would have "a great practical advantage" for both peaceful and military purposes.

Teller said America's missile program can and must be stepped up.

Teller was the lead-off witness when the Senate Preparedness subcommittee started hearings on the grave question of what can be done to catch up with Soviet advances in missiles, satellites and science.

The reason we are behind, as Teller saw it, is that this country is unwilling to gamble on scientific developments unless it can see some concrete accomplishments in the offing.

It was in an atmosphere of urgency and emergency that the Hungarian-born scientist with the bushy eyebrows and piercing mind took the witness stand. The subcommittee hearings are a direct offshoot of Russia's successful launching of two earth satellites.

Chairman Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, opened up by pronouncing an inquiry into "the facts on the state of the nation's security," into our defenses and the steps to be taken to meet the Soviet challenge quickly.

Teller listed five things that can be done now.

1. Look carefully into the status of the Strategic Air Command.
2. Explore carefully the acceleration and expansion of the missile program.
3. Put more stress on passive defense.
4. Accelerate the nuclear-powered submarine program.
5. Start immediately on improving scientists.

Talks With Morocco King May Be Upset

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was ordered to bed by his doctors Monday after suffering a chill.

The White House first announced — shortly after 6 p.m. (EST) — that Mr. Eisenhower had suffered a chill, resulting from his appearance at National Airport Monday morning to greet the King of Morocco, and had been ordered to bed.

At 8 p.m., associate press secretary Anne Wheaton issued this terse statement:

"The White House announced tonight that the President's scheduled speech in Cleveland Tuesday night has been postponed because of his illness."

The press secretary steadfastly refused to elaborate on the statement.

Earlier she had said that Mr. Eisenhower was being attended at the White House by two physicians, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder and Col. Walter R. Tkach.

Mrs. Wheaton said the fact two doctors were attending the President did not necessarily mean they both were with him at all times.

She also told reporters they had given Mr. Eisenhower "some quieting medication."

After Monday night's first announcement by Mrs. Wheaton, she said there would be no decision until this morning on whether Mr. Eisenhower would be able to keep his engagement to make a speech at Cleveland tonight.

Less than an hour later Mrs. Wheaton put out her second prepared statement of the evening saying that the Cleveland speech had been postponed.

In between the two formal announcements, she said there were no plans to hospitalize the President — "nothing like that at all."

In the case of Mr. Eisenhower's illnesses in the past the White House always has either issued statements containing information from the President's doctors or has based statements on reports from them.

However, there was the natural concern that would arise in the case of any man Mr. Eisenhower's age who has had a heart attack and major surgery within a span of little more than two years.

The formal announcement by Mrs. Wheaton said:

"The President will be unable to attend the dinner tonight in honor of His Majesty the King of Morocco. On return from meeting him at the airport and escorting him to the President's guest house the President suffered a chill and the doctors have ordered him to bed."

"Mrs. Eisenhower will attend the dinner. The vice president will escort her."

Mrs. Wheaton said later that Mr. Eisenhower noticed the chill while he was working in his office Monday afternoon, so he went back to his living quarters.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader who has also recovered from a heart attack, said at the Hospital when informed of the President's indisposition:

"I am sorry to hear of it. I hope it is nothing serious."

Among other things, the presidential chill could upset the King's plans for talking with Mr. Eisenhower about the future of American airbases in Morocco.

That was one of the topics King Mohammed wanted to bring up in conferences with Mr. Eisenhower today and Wednesday. And a related question was American aid to Morocco.

Evy To Stay: Cedar Rapids Sportswriter

The Cedar Rapids Gazette Monday night said that Forest Evashevski would remain as Iowa football coach for next season.

In an article written by Sports Editor Gus Schrader, the Gazette said:

"Evy hasn't made the announcement public, saying Sunday he would decide within the next few weeks, whether he would continue. But the Iowa coach has admitted telling his team before Saturday's win over Notre Dame that he plans to be coaching at Iowa next season."

"Don't you sophomores and juniors go getting your hopes up," he told the squad with a wicked grin, "because I'll be back here chewing at you again next season."

"And he added in a more serious vein, 'Don't believe everything you read or hear, because you guys will be the first to know if there's any change.'"

Evashevski was in Davenport Sunday night at the annual Seniors banquet and was unavailable for comment.

The rumor that Evy was going to quit began a week ago Sunday, when he said on his weekly television show that he felt "the coaching sands were running low in my hour glass."

Since then, speculation has ballooned. Many newspapers have reported that Evy would resign because of a rift between Iowa athletic director Paul Brechler and himself. Evy has refused to comment on this.

Last Sunday on his television show, Evy confirmed rumors that he was considering quitting. He indicated that his health would be a big factor in his decision. Evy has been suffering from colitis, an intestinal ailment that seems to get worse during the pressure of the football season.

Also, Mrs. Evashevski has been after her husband for sometime to quit the coaching game.

Iowa Physicists Fire Nine 'Hawks'

The Antarctic got its first taste of rockets early this month when SUI physicists James Van Allen and Laurence Cahill fired nine "rockoons" high above the icepack.

The atmosphere south of Australia was penetrated by rockets, which Van Allen calls "Hawks," for the first time as the Iowa physicists launched a total of 18 below the 30 degree parallel, all from the deck of the U.S.S. Glacier, the nation's newest and biggest ice-breaking vessel.

In SUI's third major expedition of International Geophysical Year (IGY), Prof. Van Allen and Cahill, graduate assistant, released a total of 36 "rockoons" — balloons which took instrumented rockets up the first 15 miles of the total flights, which ranged between 65 and 80 miles in altitude.

Their scheduled 3-month trip aboard the Glacier was shortened to two months, and the physicists returned to the campus last weekend. Van Allen reported "normal rocket performance" on 23 of the 36 flights and good scientific data on 13 of the flights.

Leaving Boston Sept. 23, they launched their first rocket 500 miles east of Cape Canaveral, Fla., site of proposed earth satellite take-offs. Proceeding through the Panama Canal, the physicists sent up 12 more around the Line Islands, where the geographical and geomagnetic equators meet south of Hawaii.

The Line Island flights were primarily to experiment with Cahill's own miniaturized magnetometer, a new sensitive instrument for probing into the nature of electrical currents above 50 miles up in the ionosphere.

The SUI physicists returned to the campus much earlier than they had expected to return. Earlier plans had scheduled the Iowa rocket and cosmic ray specialists to continue through the Ross Sea ice pack aboard the icebreaking vessel, then remain at the IGY base at McMurdo Sound for air transportation back to America around Christmas.

Instead, the physicists had launched all their rockoons by the time they reached the 72 degree parallel some 100 miles east of Cape Adare in Victoria Land. Then the ship went north to New Zealand, where the SUI party left the ship. The Glacier is now on its way back on its icebreaking and supply mission.

One interesting sidelight of the expedition, Van Allen remarked, was picking up signals from Sputnik I Oct. 4 and 5 while the ship was approaching the Equator.

As the ship crossed the Antarctic Circle, the two physicists were initiated into the Antarctic Penguin Club, similar to the "shell back" ritual which persons receive when crossing the Equator for the first time.

Last August, Van Allen and Cahill launched 12 successful flights between Nova Scotia and Greenland. They achieved then a record altitude — above 80 miles — for the small balloon and small rocket combination developed by Van Allen; and Cahill was initiated into the Royal Order of Blue Noses, "fraternity" for those who have sailed across the Arctic Circle.

Fire With Fire

Neil H. McElroy, secretary of defense, recently announced a speedup in the program to send intermediate range ballistic missiles to Europe to counteract the growing Soviet missile power.

Strategic Air Command is assigning bomber crews to round-the-clock alerts so that crews are ready to retaliate on a moment's notice. SAC base dispersal is also being accelerated.

And so the vicious circle goes on. We react to Soviet power and moves by ringing Russia with bases. They rush a missile program through, threatening our security, and we react with a ring of IRBM's. The whole program feeds upon itself in a hectic, hysterical atmosphere of a desperate hope and numbing-but-submerged fear.

Perhaps our only hope for survival is to wear the iron gauntlet—but this seems like a poor time for us to be making such a fuss about our ability to destroy the Russians.

They undoubtedly know that—and our continual emphasis upon our military prowess lends itself quite well to Soviet propaganda purposes.

And although we know we would never attack Russia, can we say with any degree of confidence that they know it?

Farmers For Farmers

The Iowa Farm Bureau Federation reelected E. Howard Hill president for his sixth consecutive term last week—and Mr. Hill lost no time making the position of the Farm Bureau clear.

He classified as "sheer nonsense" the argument that farm programs have caused all of our surpluses, and went on to say farmers have no choice but to depend on federal aid.

This is not strictly true—were we willing to let the farm problem "solve itself" it would do just that but because of the nature of farm production (high fixed costs) and the nature of demand for agricultural goods (small volume changes mean large price changes) this would mean lower income for all farmers even the most efficient and intense suffering for a large number of them until the adjustment of production to demand took place. And this harsh adjustment would take place everytime there was a marked shift in demand.

Our society has chosen not to allow the "normal" adjustment—with its suffering—to take place, purely on humanitarian, ethical grounds, not economic. This undoubtedly is a wise and just decision. Unfortunately, the mechanism that has been set up to prevent the suffering of sudden and harsh displacement of farmers has had the effect of perpetuating the surplus of farmers.

The marginal farmer who might leave the farm for industry (if such jobs are available) is able to cling to the soil—but just getting by. The structure, based upon past prices, tends to fix the supply of agricultural goods in the pattern of the base period—thus changes in demand which would lower the production of a given product in a free market, have no effect because the price is supported, yet less is taken off the market and so a surplus situation is exaggerated.

More meat consumption would help solve the surplus problem, but because the index reflects a predominantly cereals base year, meat is in effect, subject to free market fluctuations while competing with subsidized products—the cereals. The whole program adds up to less production, wasted manpower, and a less efficient allocation of resources—and an unsolved farm problem.

The farm bureau calls for an improved soil bank program—while all of our experience with the soil bank has been unpleasant, mostly because many of the farmers in the program intensify their efforts on their allocated acreage or throw the "banked" soil into other crops. Perhaps the soil bank will work, but not under the present circumstances. And it still does not make much sense to pay people not to produce.

The bureau called for differential tax levies on rural and urban property for school taxes, and removal of the tax-exemptions on income property owned by educational institutions. These are moves that would help the farmer, but would not be likely to do anyone else much good. This is clearly an affirmation of self-interest by the farm group. (And what is good for the farmer—or General Motors—is not necessarily good for the economy).

While there is little argument against the necessity of farm programs, there is much room for debate about the form it should take. The present program is not doing the job.

It is time to question, not the imperfect workings of the present approach, but to question the fundamental basis of the whole farm support program.

The secretary of agriculture must have more control over price and output and an emphasis must be put on adjusting production to the changing demands and desires of the public.

Thus Mr. Hill is, partially right—the farmer has no choice but to depend upon federal aid but it should be extended in such a way as to help solve the problem—not perpetuate it.

Practically every day brings fresh reports of intellectual agitation behind the iron curtain—ranging from polite discussions of Marxist philosophy to heated contesting of various governmental policies, all pointing to a greater degree of freedom within communist countries. Most of the principals in these cases seem to be inclined more toward some form of democratic socialism—rather than a capitalistic structure of society—it is a heartening sign.

While there is no "historical process" necessity about it, there does seem to be a convergence of the cultures of America and the U.S.S.R.

Russia is clearly becoming more and more liberal—the price they had to pay to get competent scientists—and, at least at the present, the trend seems to be toward more secrecy and loss of "marginal freedoms" in the U.S.

Neither one of these "trends," if such they are, are irreversible or inevitable. And there is always the possibility that someone will set off the shower of bombs that will purge the earth of humans—whom Jonathan Swift classified as the most odious vermin nature ever suffered to crawl upon the face of the earth. But if we can pass the period of peril—if the chalice of extinction is allowed to pass our lips—so to speak—then perhaps the Utopia that man has dreamed of, fought for—and never found, might belong to our descendants.

If in fact the Russians are moving in the direction of freedom and democracy, even though retaining the socialistic orientation—an orientation that is ever-more apparent in the U.S., and not a particularly undesirable one as long as freedom is assured, then our task is to maintain our own freedom so that if and when the cultures converge in a confluence of agreement, it will be freedom oriented.

Perhaps mankind will emerge from the present dark ages into a renaissance of understanding, love, and cooperation—but until it does, we must guard our freedom jealously, and encourage signs of democratic awakenings within the communist countries.

The impelling force behind the crop of "jokes" that have been ugh, regaling people all over the place (Who nailed the baby to the wall—and ruined the Plaster? Enjoy the show, Mrs. Lincoln? Mommy, why do I walk in circles? Shut up or I'll nail your other foot to the floor. Whatya complaining about, I left ya a stump, didn't I?) has evidently taken a new turn—from naked or veiled horror through simple trickiness to deception. TRICKY: What has three legs and eats marbles? A three-legged marble eater. DECEPTION: What has four wheels and flies? (No, not a garbage wagon). A bird—I lied about the wheels.

Kinda trashy, eh? By the way, didja hear the one about...

One day in 1889 SUI President Charles Schaeffer noticed SUI was out of money. This annoyed President Schaeffer, for SUI seemed to always be going broke, and he informed the Board of Regents he needed around $10,000. The Board promised to ask the Iowa Legislature for $10,000, and told President Schaeffer to buy on credit awhile.

The Regents went to Des Moines and asked the Legislature to appropriate $10,000 for several SUI chairs, which was what people called SUI departments in 1889.

Several Board members chased House members and begged for the Chair of Botany. Other Regents pursued Senators and pleaded for the Chair of Philosophy. Senators and House members said they would think it over.

However, some Senators were puzzled and several House members were in doubt, and the Senate and House committees on university appropriations called a joint meeting. The joint committee meeting was a popular way of not doing anything in 1889.

The joint committee met in the apartment of a pioneer Iowa Senator, and the committee and the Regents listened awhile to the Senator's Indian stories. When the meeting finally began, the Senator was chuckling and holding his old Indian gun.

The Regents walked about the room distributing pamphlets on SUI finance. Secretary of the Board William Haddock stood and talked to the committee members about the need for education in Iowa.

But in Des Moines an old Senator sat angrily beside his old Indian gun, and around Iowa members of the Board of Regents still laughed whenever they saw a chair.

International Scene—

New German Role

By DIETRICH HARTMANN Daily Iowan News Editor

West Germany's foreign minister, Dr. Heinrich von Brentano, conferred in Washington over the weekend to get first hand information on future American policies concerning the efforts to pull the nations of NATO closer together.

It is also reported that the West German leaders are "fed up" to learn about Anglo-American policy decisions in military matters from the newspapers. The Germans, after conferring with their European partners, are ready to ask for consultation among NATO member nations before any future decisions are made. It is believed von Brentano also tried to offer West Germany's good offices to solve the recent crises between the United States, Britain and France over the arms shipments to Tunisia.

It is also likely that he made proposals on how West Germany and the United States could help France in its urgent financial crisis, a crisis that demands at least $500 million in loans from NATO allies in order to save France from bankruptcy.

For the time being the United States and West Germany are the only countries in a position to give loans to the extent that France needs it. And West Germany for the first time since the establishment of the Federal Republic in 1949 is starting to wield political influence based on its miraculous economic recovery.

Von Brentano's visit to Washington occurred after conferences between German, Italian, Belgian and British officials, and some observers already are talking about a West German role as spokesman for the Continental partners of the Atlantic Alliance.

Such an interpretation of Germany's role, however, seems to be exaggerated, at least for some years to come. But there are definite indications that Germany is going to play a much more active role in Atlantic and world politics than she has in past years.

The basis for Germany's future role undoubtedly is her sound and prospering economy.

The latest report on European economies published by the 17-nation Organization for European Economic Cooperation (OEEC) stated that during 1956 and the first half of 1957 the West German economy once again expanded faster than those of the other European nations. In fact German prosperity has become a matter of growing concern because of her increasing export surpluses that today approach the $7 billion mark, with many other European nations running in the red.

The other big asset of West Germany is her remarkably stable political position.

In the recent national elections, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and his Christian Democrats received the largest popular vote ever achieved in Germany. With 54 per cent of the vote, Adenauer rallied more support than Hitler and his followers could have dreamed of receiving had a free election been held in the late '30's.

In this connection it should be mentioned that there are still about 6,000 refugees per week coming to West Germany from the Russian occupied middle part of Germany, refugees which normally are considered a factor of political instability.

Germany's new Armed Services are a third factor. Although the slow build-up of the "Bundeswehr" has been a target of much criticism, it is believed that in the next three years the West German army will be the strongest military force this side of the Iron Curtain, excluding American forces. The constant Russian complaints about "rebuilding of German militarism" get some perspective in this light. It was Nikita Khrushchev, who in a recent interview stated he did not fear the Strategic Air Command but the German divisions being trained only a few miles from his missile bases in East Germany.

It is only natural that politicians and political writers in this and some European countries voice their concern about Germany's growing strength. After all, only a dozen years have passed since the allies defeated Germany, intending never again to let her play an important part in world politics.

That such concerns are without basis should be obvious to anyone versed in German foreign policy since 1949. One of the main goals of Dr. Adenauer's government has been to heal the rift between his country and France—a rift that has overshadowed European and world politics for centuries. Even Adenauer's severest critics concede that Germany has done a lot to get on good terms with France and they admit that this German policy is starting to pay off already. Germany's concessions to many French demands have made the European Common Market possible, as well as the Atomic European pool, EURATOM.

Reactions to Sputnik were less hysterical in West Germany than in the United States. Confidence, combined with the determination to do an efficient job together have been the overall reaction in West Germany.

The West German government was the first to show its active support of technological and scientific cooperation with this country, a cooperation that might develop into tremendous progress considering the enormous industrial capabilities of this country and the remarkable standing of German science, especially in the field of rocketry.

In spite of the German achievements and promises for the future, the problem of reunification will remain. The Communist side has not shown readiness to negotiate on a basis that could be acceptable to the West Germans. In the present situation, chances for a German reunification are dimmer than they have been since the end of World War II.

The Adenauer government, however, has made it clear only recently that it considers itself as the only legitimate spokesman of all Germans and no political pressure would be strong enough to change this position.

The break of diplomatic relations between Yugoslavia and the Federal Republic after Tito's recognition of the East German puppet regime of Walter Ulbricht made this quite clear.

West Germany has the political and economic power to resort to drastic actions like that. This, however, should not lead to the conclusion that Germany might try to bring reunification about by use of military force in a number of years.

It is well realized in Western Germany that in spite of all recent achievements, Germany is no great world power and probably will never be. A few Russian H-bombs could end any aspiration of militant German power politics.

In Bonn, the West German capital on the Rhine, politicians are convinced, nevertheless, that the day will come when the Soviets will have to give in. And the Germans believe time is working for them.

We have it on reliable authority that one young student, infuriated by an editorial comment in The Daily Iowan, snatched up his mightier-than-the-sword pen, scribbled furiously upon a piece of paper—then gave up the task. It seems he was afraid he'd misquote himself...

TOLEDO, Ohio—Sheriff's deputies Clarence Merce and Richard Saunders radioed their office to send out a supermarket employee with a key to lock a door they found open. A half hour later Merce called again by phone to report, "Hey, that guy locked the store and he locked us in." A second trip by the store employee freed the deputies.

The Shepherd and the Skunk

THE LION AND THE LAMB had nothing on Beanie, the skunk, and Gretchen, the German shepherd. The pair, pets of Ray Stevens, G, and his wife, Rosemary, G, Iowa City, have been firm friends since Beanie entered the Stevens' household as a two-month-old baby last July. Mrs. Stevens says that skunks make excellent pets and are almost automatically housebroken. The Stevens also have four Chihuahuas and a parakeet.

SUI Representatives to Go To IFC National Meeting

SUI representatives to the National Inter-Fraternity Conference will travel to Colorado Springs, Colo., Friday and Saturday. The 2-day conference originated as an alumni meeting but now has a session for undergraduates. There are 63 fraternities recognized within the conference. SUI is sending one delegate and four alternates to the conference: Dave Dutton, A4, Cedar Falls; John Hagan, A4, Centerville; Marvin Berenstein, A4, Ames; and Dennis Jordan, A3, Cedar Rapids. M. L. Huit, SUI dean of students, and R. W. Roskens, fraternity advisor, plan to accompany the undergraduate men. The undergraduate session for this year's conference will be based on the theme "Making the Fraternity System More Effective." This session will discuss scholarship, rushing, indoctrination, Ritual and Help Week, and public relations.

WHALE OF A CRASH

MARSEILLE, France (AP)—The 16,000-ton French liner Bretagne reached port Monday with a propeller badly damaged by a 30-ton whale. The ship and the whale collided off the Canary Islands. To allow repairs the Bretagne canceled the final part of her voyage to Genoa.

College Women To Meet at SUI

Two hundred delegates representing 35 colleges and universities throughout the Midwest will meet at SUI April 3-6 for the Intercollegiate Association of Women Students Convention.

The conference will center about the theme "The Silent Generation Speaks" and will be highlighted with discussion workshops, business meetings, committee meetings, and election of officers.

The national organization is comprised of thousands of undergraduate women on major college and university campuses in the U.S. SUI has 2,500 members.

Transplant Iowa Boy's Left Cornea

A 9-year-old boy, blind and deaf since shortly after birth, underwent a corneal transplant here Monday in an effort to restore some sight in his left eye. Doctors at University Hospitals said Herschel Quinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dell Quinn of Des Moines, was in fair condition after the operation. They said it would be three or four weeks before it is known how successful the transplant was. The boy has been attending the Iowa School for the Deaf at Council Bluffs for about four years. Mrs. Quinn said her son was born deaf and blind. Doctors here believe the blindness was caused shortly after birth through an inflammation of the eyes, possible contracted during the mother's pregnancy. They said the boy's right eye had been removed several years ago. The decision to try a corneal transplant came after Herschel came to University Hospitals for a routine check up given such patients at state institutions. Doctors said the cornea of the left eye was clouded but the boy could distinguish between light and dark. The transplant came through the Lions Club eye bank here.

U.S. Civil Service Exams Announced

Further information and application forms may be obtained from Lester J. Parizek, at the Iowa City Post Office.

Gunman Gets $1,000 From Sioux City Club

SIoux CITY (AP)—A lone gunman wearing dark glasses and a storm coat fled with an estimated $1,000 in cash and an undetermined amount of checks following a holdup of the VFW service club here Monday afternoon. Robert N. Keir, 29, bartender in charge of the club, said the man pulled out a .38 caliber pistol after ordering a soft drink at the bar. The bandit, Keir said, "pointed the gun at my head and demanded all the money from the cash register and safe." The bartender said he did not know whether the gunman made his getaway in a car or not. Police Chief James O'Keefe said all available officers were pressed into the search for the gunman.

Local Woman's Car Crashes into Bridge

Mrs. Charles C. Campbell, 428 4th Ave., suffered facial and nose injuries Monday afternoon when the car she was driving crashed into the Burlington St. bridge. The accident occurred when Mrs. Campbell, who had been driving north on Riverside Drive, attempted to turn east onto Burlington Ave. The car swung into the south railing of the bridge. Mrs. Campbell was treated at SUI Hospitals.

Britain Predicts Friday Crash of Red Rocket

LONDON (AP)—Britain's Supply Ministry predicted Monday night the orbiting rocket that launched Sputnik I is likely to crash into the earth's atmosphere on Friday. The ministry is charged with developing Britain's missile program. It has been cautious about making any comment. A ministry spokesman said the first Soviet earth satellite itself is expected to come down in mid-January after circling the globe for about 100 days. Sputnik II, which carried a dog passenger into space, is expected to fall early in February, the ministry said.

SUI Prof to Speak On Old Indian Cultures

The archaeological findings relating to prehistoric Indian cultures in Wisconsin will be described Wednesday afternoon to the high school students at Wabeno, Wis., by Prof. Alton K. Fisher of the SUI College of Dentistry. Prior to entering dentistry, Dr. Fisher was a professional archaeologist during the period of intense archaeological field research in the Upper Mississippi Valley. Public interest in this subject has been heightened in the Wisconsin area in recent years by discovery of an Old Copper culture village and cemetery site at Oconto, Wis., about 75 miles from Wabeno.

Comings Named Iowa's Most Valuable

Elect Nocera '58 Captain

DAVENPORT, Ia. (AP) — A pair of Youngstown, Ohio, football players walked off with the awards here Monday night as the Iowa football team elected senior guard Bob Comings as the team's Most Valuable Player and picked fullback John Nocera as the 1958 captain.

Comings will be in competition with the most valuable players from the other Big Ten schools for the Big Ten's Most Valuable Player award given annually by the Chicago Tribune. Last year, Iowa Most Valuable player, Kenny Ploen won the Tribune's Silver Trophy Award.

Halfback Mel Knotts, of Burlington received the Virgil Hancher Award for being the "player who gave the most to the squad."

Although one of the smallest linemen in the Big Ten at 5-9 and 173 pounds, Comings excelled in the middle of the Iowa line. A fierce competitor, he was one of the finest blockers on the team.

Nocera succeeds end Jim Gibbons as captain. The junior fullback was Iowa's third leading ground gainer during the 1957 season, picking up 314 yards in 48 attempts for a 6.5 average.

Nocera did most of the Iowa punting, averaging 27 yards on 11 punts. He scored three touchdowns to tie for fourth in Iowa scoring.

Some 400 persons were on hand for the annual banquet sponsored by the Iowa Club and the Quarterback Club in Davenport.

Many Marks Fall in Fine Iowa Season

Many records fell this year as the Iowa Hawkeyes turned in one of their best seasons records as they won 7, lost 1 and tied 1. Only about four minutes and five points kept the Hawkeyes from repeating as Big Ten champions. Iowa finished third.

Offensively, records fell in almost every category. Iowa gained 3,473 yards, a new mark, and the 1,303 yards by passing likewise was a new record. The Hawkeyes made 2,170 rushing, averaging 4.7 per play.

Quarterback Randy Duncan broke the total offense mark with 1,183 yards; most yards passing, 1,124; most pass completions, 70; best completion average, .588. Left End Jim Gibbons had most passes caught, 36; and most yards gained, 587.

On defense, the team held opponents to 1,961 yards, 1,014 rushing (average of 2.7) and 967 passing, (70 completions in 169 attempts).

Right Halfback Mike Hagler finished as leading rusher, 456 yards and 6.8 average, followed by Bill Happel, 365 and 6.4; and John Nocera, 314 and 6.4.

Other figures included Bob Prescott as leading scorer with 42 points; Hagler as punt return leader, 11 for 116 and kickoff return leader, 8 for 212; and top pass interceptor, 4 for 29.

NFL To Give Players Association Demands

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League will grant all of the players association demands, probably by unanimous vote, The Associated Press learned Monday.

Commissioner Bert Bell recommended to league owners last month that they give the players what they want — recognition, exhibition game pay, an injury protection clause and a minimum salary.

Harrier Title Won by ND; Iowa Shutout

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Max Truex, a short, stocky former Olympian from the University of Southern California, set a phenomenal record of 19:12.3 in the NCAA cross country run here Monday.

Iowa did not finish in the top ten, nor did any Hawkeye finish in the top ten individual places.

Truex, attracted to California from Warsaw, Ind., wasn't even breathing hard as he shattered the old record of 19:36.7 for the four-mile course set by Charles Capozzi of Georgetown in 1952.

Truex, a 23-year-old junior who packs great endurance in his 5-foot-5, 120-pound frame, finished 120 yards ahead of John Macy of Houston, second in 19:35.

Notre Dame won the team title, its first in the 19-year history of the meet, beating out defending champion Michigan State. Houston was third in the team competition, Syracuse placed fourth and Kansas was fifth.

Jerry Smartt also of Houston, finished close behind his second place teammate in 19:41. Minnesota's Leonard Edelen, the Big Ten individual champion, was fourth at 19:44 and Crawford Kennedy of Michigan State, winner of the IC4A run, placed fifth, with a 19:44.5 performance.

The top 10 team scores: 1 — Notre Dame, 121; 2 — Michigan State, 127; 3 — Houston, 131; 4 — Syracuse, 150; 5 — Kansas, 158; 6 — Western Michigan, 170; 7 — Cornell, 172; 8 — Colorado, 198; 9 — Penn State, 206; 10 — Miami (Ohio).

Varsity Cagers Battle Freshmen Tonight

Hawkeye basketball fans will get their first look at Iowa's sophomore-laden cage team tonight as well as a look at the Iowa freshmen as the two squads tangle in their annual pre-season game.

Game time for the contest is 7:30 p.m. No admission will be charged and the game will be open to both the public and students.

The varsity, with nine holdovers from the team that finished eighth in the Big Ten last season, will be heavily favored. Coach Bucky O'Connor is expected to platoon his 17-man squad so as to get a good look at the whole squad.

Starting for the varsity will be junior Dave Gunther, who was Iowa's most valuable player last season, and sophomore Nolden Gentry at forwards; senior Tom Payne at center; and senior Jim McConnell and sophomore Earl Nau at guards.

O'Connor stressed that this was not necessarily the first team, but was one of three units that have been working together. The second unit will consist of Larry Swift and Pete Schebler or George Seaberg at the forwards; Frank Mundt at center; and Bobby Washington and Clarence Wordlaw or Mike Heitman at guards. Of this unit, all are sophomores except Wordlaw and Seaberg, both juniors.

A third unit will consist of Dick Haring and Peer Hegg at forwards; Americus John-Lewis at center; and Joe Williams and Denny Bruns at guards. All are juniors except Bruns, a sophomore.

Freshman coach Sharm Scheuerman has added several new plays to the freshman repertoire in order to give the varsity something new to look at.

Starting for the freshmen will be Mike Dull and Don Slaughter at the forwards; Dennis Runge at center; Ron Zager and Bob Carpenter, with Ed Shuey a possible starter.

Iowa will open its 1957-58 season next Tuesday night at home against Southern Methodist.

Delta Sigma Delta Gains I-M Final

Delta Sigma Delta moved into the finals of the Professional Fraternity League touch football tournament Monday night by defeating Phi Rho Sigma, 12-6.

Neither team was able to score in the first half. Phi Rho Sigma received the second half kick-off and moved for their only touchdown with the score coming on an 18-yard pass from Bob Durbin to Harry Van Hofwugen. Delta Sigma Delta came right back to score on a 9-yard run by Dick Carver.

Delta Sigma Delta scored the winning touchdown with three minutes remaining in the game on an 11-yard pass from Carver to Al Rieck.

Michigan State's Daugherty Says Spartans Are No. 1

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach Duffy Daugherty says his Michigan State Spartans deserve to be ranked the No. 1 football team in the country.

"And I am sure that Woody Hayes down at Ohio State feels the same about his team," Daugherty added diplomatically. "It's too bad Michigan State and Ohio State can't get together for a game and decide which is better. A few hundred people might turn out to watch it."

Ohio State, playing seven conference games to six for M-IU, won the Big Ten title and Rose Bowl trip. The Bucks only loss was in its non-league opener with Texas Christian. Michigan State's only defeat was to Purdue, killing its chances for the title and Pasadena junket.

Daugherty made his remarks to the Chicago American Quarterback Club.

PIETROSANTE OUT

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame's star fullback, Nick Pietrosante, will be out for the rest of the football season with a fractured lower rib, coach Terry Brennan said Monday.

Pietrosante, a junior from Ansenia, Conn., was injured on the first running play by the Irish in their game Saturday with Iowa. He was blocking for passer Bob Williams, who eventually ran with the ball instead of throwing it.

BEHIND THE Sports Desk

By Alan Hoskins
Best in the Nation

Because of all the speculation of whether Forest Evashevski will quit as Iowa coach or stay for another year, I think many people are forgetting the terrific job Evashevski did again this year.

Repeating as Big Ten champion is generally a much tougher job than winning it for the first time, and I think it was no different this season. Every team is pointing at you, trying to knock off the big team.

However, the Hawkeyes fought them all off, except for Ohio State, and that game was so close it could have easily gone the other way.

Compare Iowa's football fortunes with Minnesota's this year. The Gophers were also rated high, but other conference teams were laying for them and they beat them, five times to be exact.

I think this shows what a tremendous job Evy has done. He got the Hawkeyes ready for every game, and no one slipped in a surprise punch as Purdue and Illinois did to Michigan State and Minnesota respectively.

Personally, I think Iowa has the best coach in the entire nation, bar none.

WITH THE balloting for the nation's best coach forthcoming, Evy probably won't get the award, although he should figure high and could easily have won the award had the Hawkeyes beaten Ohio State.

Chances are Woody Hayes will get the honor as the nation's top coach in 1957, since the Buckeyes did surprise most of the experts by winning the Big Ten.

Personally, I like to compare Hayes and Evashevski. It shows just how great a coach we have representing Iowa in comparison to a temperamental pop-off like Hayes.

Last year, when the Hawkeyes snapped the Buckeyes' 17-game winning streak and captured the Big Ten title, Hayes moaned and groaned over everything he could think of.

First of all, he tried to swipe the heaters next to the Iowa bench. After the game, he bodily tried to throw one photographer out of the Ohio State dressing room, and then complained that the Buckeyes had lost because the grass on the Iowa field was too long and it slowed his backs down.

For a team that looked no better than the Buckeyes last year against Iowa, he sure had excuses.

Compare Woody's attitude and actions with Evy's this year in exactly the same situation. Said Evy:

"Iowa made too many mistakes to win and Ohio State deserved the game."

"Despite injuries to Ohio State players, they played smart and harder football than we did."

"My best congratulations to the new champions. I know they will wear the crown well and I'm sure they'll do a fine job in the Rose Bowl."

Quite a difference. I doubt if Ohio States fans are too proud of a coach like Hayes. I certainly wouldn't be.

WHETHER EVY quits this year or not, I'm sure that he rightfully will go down as the man who made football at Iowa. He took an annual cellar-dweller and converted it into the best football team in the nation in six years.

The Hawkeyes are now respected Big Ten football powers. No one schedules them for 'breathers' as they often did before.

I doubt if any other coach in the nation could have even come close in matching Evy's spectacular record.

Iowa has the best coach in the nation, as well as a real gentleman.

3 Hawks On All-Big Ten Team

Alex, Gibbons, Bloomquist On AP First Team

Commings, Klein On Second Team

CHICAGO (AP) — Although Ohio State captured the conference title and Rose Bowl bid, powerful Michigan State dominated the 1957 All-Big Ten football team selected Monday by The Associated Press. MSU's Spartans seized four berths on the honor team, compared with three each taken by Ohio State and dethroned Iowa. The other first team position went to Michigan's great halfback, Jim Pace.

The All-Conference unit, selected in a poll of AP writers who "cover" Big Ten games, had one of the heaviest and most hard-hitting backfields ever honored in the voting.

The backfield quartet, averaging 196 pounds, includes Pace, Ohio State's Don Clark and two Michigan State stars, halfback Walt Kowalczyk and quarterback Jim Ninowski. Although he regularly played halfback, the 205-pound Kowalczyk, a terrific power runner, was placed at fullback.

The only unanimous choice was Iowa tackle, Alex Karras, who was the lone repeater from The AP's 1956 All-Big Ten team.

Kowalczyk missed a sweep by only one first place vote.

Iowa which lost its title in a 17-13 loss to Ohio State on Nov. 16 landed all its three positions in the line, with Karras, end Jim Gibbons and guard Frank Bloomquist being honored.

Michigan State's two other all-stars were center Dan Currie and tackle Pat Burke. Ohio State also placed two linemen, guard Aurelius Thomas and end Leo Brown, whose light weight of 171 brought the average poundage of the seven All-Star linemen down to 205.

Two players, the swift and surging Clark and bruising Currie, advanced from second team rating last year. Thomas, a steady workhorse of a fine Buckeye line, was on The AP's third team in 1956.

Kowalczyk, Pace, Gibbons, Brown and Bloomquist all were 1956 honorable mentions.

End Gibbons of Iowa was far and away the Big Ten's best pass receiver with 26 catches for 376 yards and 3 TD's. He also was a bear on defense.

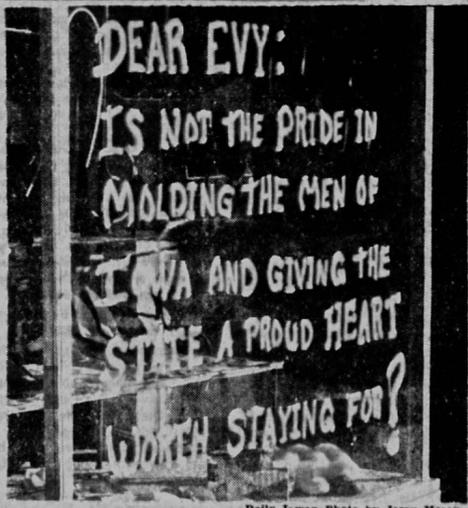

Michigan State's Currie at Center and Iowa's Karras at tackle are as good as they are big. The Powerful Spartan pivot weighs 225, while Karras used his 233 pounds with tremendous effect. Iowa's Bloomquist at guard and Michigan State's 200-pound Burke at tackle were aggressive, consistent performers. So was Ohio State's 204-pound Thomas at guard. Thomas did much of the blocking which made the running of Clark and White click.

Iowa's quarterback Randy Duncan and center Mac Lewis were given honorable mention.

SECOND TEAM
Ends — Sam Williams, Michigan State; and Dave Kaiser, Michigan State.
Tackles — Richard Klein, Iowa, and Nick Mumley, Purdue.
Guards — David Burkholder, Minnesota, and Robert Commings, Iowa.
Center — Neil Habig, Purdue.
Backs — Frank Krenzbias, Ohio State; Daniel Lewis, Wisconsin; Robert Mitchell, Illinois; Robert White, Ohio State.

THIRD TEAM
Ends — Rod Hanson, Illinois, and Earl Hill, Wisconsin.
Tackles — Jim Marshall, Ohio State, and Frank Youso, Minnesota.
Guards — John Jardine, Purdue, and Bill Burrell, Illinois.
Center — Dick Tetsak, Wisconsin.

Evy Asked To Stay

A PLEA TO FOREST Evashevski to remain as Iowa football coach was posted early Sunday morning in the Reddick Shoe Store after rumors began circulating that Evy would resign in the next two weeks. The other window of the store carried the score of the Iowa-Notre Dame game, which the Hawkeyes won, 21-13, to close out the 1957 season with a 7-1-1 record and third place finish in the Big Ten.

Iowa Presents New Aid Plan Amendment

A proposed amendment to the Big Ten's financial assistance plan has been devised by the Iowa board in control of athletics, Director Paul Brechler announced Monday.

The amendment, approved last week by the Iowa board, has been submitted to the rules and agenda committee to be placed on the agenda for the December meeting of Big Ten officials in Chicago.

Announcement of the proposed amendment, made by Director Brechler and Dr. Robert Ray, Iowa faculty representative, reveals that the proposal eliminates the so-called "need" principle in awarding grants-in-aid to athletes.

It also provides that any institution may retain the services of the college scholarship service and continue to make such awards on the basis of such a determination of "need" if it wishes.

The institution award would be not to exceed the amount of costs of room, board, books and tuition and/or fees, with the addition of $15.00 per month for incidental expenses, retaining the same scholarship requirements.

The proposal makes the basis of awards consistent with the NCAA basis and hence recognizes the desire for nationally-established regulations.

Other points of the proposal: it retains the enforcement machinery of the present rule, allows students to be employed in term time but limits income in conformity with NCAA regulations and retains current academic standards for eligibility for assistance.

The Iowa men pointed out that the proposal makes unnecessary the conference superstructure which presently is required to determine need. It also eliminates the necessity for parents to provide a mass of personal financial data, now required.

"This proposal tends to eliminate the hardships which most conference institutions face in attracting athletes to the Big Ten," Director Brechler and Dr. Ray declared.

The clause regarding aid in obtaining employment is deleted in the Iowa proposal. This concerns the prohibition of any employee or athletic department representative from assisting a student in obtaining any form of employment, including summer or vacation work.

One other change has to do with the date of tender of financial assistance. This has been advanced to May 1, instead of the present June 15.

Name Karras, Gibbons I.N.S. All-Americans

Alex on First Team — Jim on Second

Alex Karras, 233-pound mainstay of the Iowa line, was named Saturday to the International News Service all-American football team, while teammate Jim Gibbons was named to the I.N.S. second team.

Karras was a second team selection last year as only one player, tackle Charles Krueger of Texas A & M, repeated from last year's first team. The Aggies also placed back John Crow on the squad as they were the only team to have two men on the honor team.

Rounding out the backfield with Crow were quarterback Tom Forrestal of Navy; and backs Bob Stransky of Colorado and Bob Anderson of Army.

Auburn's Jim Phillips and U.C.L.A.'s Dick Warren were picked at the end positions while Al Ecuery of Notre Dame and Bill Krisher of Oklahoma were named at the guard positions. Michigan State's Dan Currie, the other lineman along with Karras to move up from last year's second team, was selected as the top center.

Other Big Ten players in addition to Gibbons on the second team include guard Aurelius Thomas, Ohio State; and backs Jim Pace, Michigan; Walt Kowalczyk, Michigan State; Don Clark, Ohio State; and Jim Van Pelt, Michigan.

Army ROTC Rifle Team Trips Three

SUI's Army ROTC team scored 1,778 points out of a possible 2,000 Saturday morning to defeat three other ROTC teams in a shoulder-to-shoulder rifle match.

Other teams competing were Coe, SUI Air Force and SUI Army Team B.

SUI's Air Force team was second with 1,754 and Coe's AFROTC team third with 1,748.

Tom Holm, AI, Des Moines, led the Army team with 375 points out of a possible 400.

Practice Building Being Considered By Athletic Board

Possibility of constructing a sports building with a large practice area for use in winter and in bad weather is being considered by Iowa board in control of athletics.

Dr. George S. Easton, chairman of the board, has named a six-man committee to investigate the problems in connection with such a building. Director Paul Brechler made this announcement Monday.

The building, possibly of a shell-type, would have a large area of dirt floor. It could be used for indoor football and baseball, intramural sports and skating.

Members of the committee are Prof. Sidney Winter, chairman; Prof. Allen Craig, Dean F. M. Dawson, Elwin Joffile, Director Brechler and Dr. Easton.

BOLD RULER 'HORSE OF YEAR'

NEW YORK (AP) — Bold Ruler, the colt who was counted out of thoroughbred racing's championship picture two months ago, became the toast of the turf world Monday when he was voted "horse of the year" in the annual poll of the Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form.

EIGHT IOWA CITY high school students were injured Monday afternoon when two cars collided at the intersection of Summit and College streets. The impact of the collision pushed the car (top photo) driven by Gary Lubin, 16, across the street onto the sidewalk on the north side of Summit. The car driven by Carrol Larson, 16, remained in the street. See story for details.

Eight Local Youths Injured In Two-Car Accident Monday

Eight Iowa City teenagers were injured in a two-car crash about 3:30 p.m. Monday at the intersection of Summit and College streets. A ninth teenager escaped injury. The accident occurred when a car driven west on Summit St. by Gary Lubin, 16, 321 Magowan Ave., collided at the intersection of College St. with a northbound car driven by Carrol Larson, 16, son of Prof. Carrol Larson, head of orthopedic surgery at SUI Hospitals. The Lubin car had six passengers at the time of the accident and the Larson car had two. All are students at City High School. Hospitalized at Mercy Hospital were: Nancy Croy, 16, 306 Fairview Ave., with a broken pelvis; John Miller, 16, 710 Kimball Ave., with a shoulder injury; Phyllis M. Miller, 16, 906 E. Market St., with a leg injury; and Jonette Parizek, 16, 1211 E. Court St., with facial cuts and lacerations. All were passengers in the car driven by Lubin. The sixth passenger in Lubin's car at the time of the accident was Patricia Dennis, 16, 1001 E. Bloomington St., who was treated for a bruised leg at Mercy Hospital and released.

Riding with Larson when the accident occurred were Dennis Mathes, 16, and Jerry Gerard, 16, 636 S. Governor St. Mathes was treated and released from Mercy Hospital. Gerard was not taken to the hospital. Iowa City police said it appeared the impact of the collision pushed the Lubin car back across the intersection. It came to rest on the sidewalk on the north side of Summit St. Police said there are no stop signs at the intersection.

Ten Grads For Tommy

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Former folies girl Pat Gaston joined millionaire Tommy Manville's marital alumni Monday to become No. 10.

As soon as the divorce was granted, she telephoned Tommy in New York and they promptly made a Thanksgiving dinner date.

The 10th Mrs. Manville declined to talk about the sealed property agreement which accompanied her decree granted by District Court Judge Grant Bowen on charges of extreme cruelty. They were married May 5.

It's a good guess the settlement was a comfortable one. Manville, now in his 60's, has spent at least $1 1/2 million in connection with his previous divorces.

Told Children To Steal; Gets 6-Month Sentence

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — A Fresno woman, who said she encouraged her children to steal because she felt it would be a hardship on them if she was arrested herself, was sentenced to six months in jail Monday.

Mrs. Lillian Dennis, 39, mother of 11 children, pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a minor after her 10-year-old son was arrested for stealing $104 from a clothing store.

Her children, by three fathers, are now in foster homes.

At the time of her arrest, Mrs. Dennis told police "it was better that the children should steal than me because if I were to go to jail, there would be no one to look after them."

U.S. Should Produce Smaller Cars — Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Bush (R-Conn.), just back from a six-weeks tour of Europe, declared Monday the American automobile industry should manufacture smaller cars to meet competition from abroad.

The sleek and increasingly long American cars, he added, are outmoding American homes and garages, using up vital strategic minerals and metals, and threatening widespread unemployment through deep inroads into domestic car sales.

SAVED BY A LOST POLE SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Conservation Officer Marion Embrey caught a fisherman with two rods but he couldn't charge him with breaking law against using more than one rod.

While Embrey was preparing a citation, a fish took the fisherman's line and the second pole disappeared. Result: No citation.

Hammarskjold Off Friday For Mid-East

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold will leave Friday for another peace mission to the Middle East, the U.N. announced Monday night.

He will visit the Jordanian capital of Amman and confer with other governments in the area "insofar as time permits."

Ominous flareups along the Israeli-Jordan and Israeli-Syrian borders prompted Hammarskjold to make the visit, which will last about a week.

U.N. officials would not comment on reports that Damascus and Ankara were also on Hammarskjold's itinerary. A spokesman said Hammarskjold planned to confer in areas where U.N. interests are directly involved, and that the detailed schedule of stops would be announced later.

Damascus, Cairo and Jerusalem were regarded as fairly certain in addition to Amman.

He will confer in Amman on the demand by Jordan that he remove a U.S. Marine Col. Byron Leary in charge of Israeli-Jordan mediation. Jordan charged the officer had been unfair in his handling of an Israeli-Jordan border dispute.

Hammarskjold will arrive in Amman on Sunday. He plans to return to U.N. headquarters by December 8.

Hammarskjold visited the Middle East three times last year. He went on peace missions to the Palestine area in April and again in July, and obtained agreements that resulted in a lessening of border tension for a time.

The Israeli and British-French attack on Egypt came in November, and Hammarskjold made another trip afterward in connection with the setting up of the U.N. Emergency Force and the repairs to the Suez Canal.

Hammarskjold's attention was drawn to the current tense Jordan-Israel situation with a formal demand from Jordan that he remove Leary as a U.N. mediation official on the grounds he is partial and biased.

Legal Doctrine Traced To Religious Writings

By JOHN BLEAKLY Daily Iowan Assistant City Editor The current legal doctrine of "reasonable doubt" has its roots in 17th Century religious writings, an SUI philosophy professor told a Humanities Society audience Monday night.

Speaking to about 40 people in Old Capitol, Prof. Theodore Waldman traced from members of the British Royal Society to the 20th Century courtroom the concept that a man can reach a "morally certain" decision on the basis of evidence he has not seen himself.

Waldman referred to the writings of John Wilkens, a member of the society whose papers defending the Protestant religion against skeptics and papists advanced "morally certain" decision as ones that do not admit of "any reasonable doubt."

This concept, which Wilkens said reasonable men could use in the search for religious truths, has a close relation, Waldman explained, to the modern legal rule which instructs a jury to acquit if evidence presented in court does not establish guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

The relation is shown in one case, he said, by a book based on notes by Baron Gilbert, a chief justice of England. The book published several years after his death in 1726, dealt in part with the type of evidence that should be admitted in court.

Gilbert, like Wilkens, believed men could reach a just decision after considering evidence that borders on the absolutely certain,

Waldman said. The concept that evidence should be allowed even though it is not absolute or self-evident, he said, goes back to the early Greek philosopher, Aristotle.

Aristotle, Waldman said, considered it one of the marks of an educated man to accept the "best evidence the case will allow." Such a man, Aristotle said, would not demand scientific truth from a rhetorician nor probable truth from a mathematician.

This concept, Waldman said, was used by members of the Royal Society in their religious arguments and years later by Blackstone and other English jurists in writing on the legal doctrine of reasonable doubt.

An examination of the development of the trial by jury concept in England tends to show the writings of Wilkens, Locke and others had an affect on English law and, Waldman said, helped promote the doctrine of reasonable doubt in the courtroom.

Although trial by jury, in one form or another, is about 1,000 years old, he said, it was not until comparatively recent times — the 18th Century — that the modern concept was formed of a juror as a man who came to the case with no prior knowledge.

SUI Faculty Asked to Nominate Harvard Fellows

SUI faculty members have been asked to recommend students for Junior Fellowships at Harvard University.

The Society of Fellows at Harvard was organized in 1933 to give young men of exceptional ability, originality and resourcefulness an opportunity to pursue their studies in any department, free from formal requirements.

The number of Junior Fellows at any one time is limited to 24, and six to nine have usually been chosen each year. The term of appointment is for three years. A candidate may not have passed his 28th birthday on July 1 of the year in which his tenure of fellowship would begin.

Ordinarily the Junior Fellows are college graduates who have received one or more postgraduate degrees or have spent a year or more in postgraduate study.

During the term of their appointment they are not subject to examination, are not required to make reports, receive no credit for courses, and may not be candidates for any degree, except that candidates for the Ph.D. degree who have satisfied preliminary requirements may proceed with the writing of their dissertation and to such final examination as may be required and may be granted the degree.

The facilities of all branches of Harvard University, both for instruction and for research, are open to Junior Fellows without charge, and appropriations may be made out of the funds of the Society for apparatus, travel, books and other reasonable expenses necessary to their research.

Junior Fellows under the age of 25 receive a basic stipend of $1,500 a year, those 25 or more $1,750. In addition, unmarried Junior Fellows receive free board and lodging in one of the houses of Harvard College. Married Junior Fellows who live outside receive an additional stipend of $2,050 a year, but may take as many meals as they wish in a University House.

Ten Senior Fellows, including the president and dean of the faculty of arts and sciences of Harvard, administer the Society. The Senior Fellows meet with the Junior Fellows weekly at dinner during term-time and act as their advisers.

Visiting scholars and others come to these dinners as guests and join in the discussions, which are completely informal. In this way the Junior Fellows have an opportunity to meet and talk with men of widely different experience and training.

Applications for Junior Fellowships are not received from the candidates themselves but from teachers under whom the student has worked. Candidates are selected for their resourcefulness, initiative, intellectual curiosity and promise of notable contribution to one or more of the various fields of knowledge and thought.

Elections for Junior Fellowships will be held early in 1958.

Recommendations, giving the names and addresses of two or three persons under whom the candidate has worked, should be sent to W. V. Quine, 98 Wildener Library, Cambridge, 38, Mass.

Additional information may be obtained from the office of the SUI graduate college.

Spain-Morocco Relations Near Breaking Point

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Spain's relations with Morocco were near the breaking point Monday because of bloody clashes in Spain's West African colonies.

Spain has sent reinforcements to the colonies from the Canary Islands, her former protectorate in northern Morocco and from Sevilla in southern Spain, reliable informants said. Fifteen Heinkel bombers also left Sevilla a few days ago for West Africa, it was reported.

Diplomatic sources said Spain has asked the United States to intervene with King Mohammed V of Morocco to secure withdrawal of "Moroccan liberation army" forces attacking Spain's Ifni and Rio de Oro colonies.

The Spanish believe the stakes in Rio de Oro, especially, are high. They believe oil deposits found in Libya and Algeria continue into Rio de Oro.

Reports that six Spanish army posts in Ifni have fallen to Moroccan rebels could not be confirmed.

Chicago Girls Found in Miami; Wanted Glamor

CHICAGO (AP) — Two 15-year-old high school girls who left home in search for glamor were back home Monday — exactly one month after their disappearance.

Laurie Hovious and Jeannine Paulman were found Sunday in Miami, Fla., where they had jobs as servants in a physician's home.

The girls said they left Chicago Oct. 25 with a 34-year-old ex-convict, Thomas W. Capps.

A schoolmate told police that Jeannine had kept a packed suitcase in her locker, and confided shortly before running away that a man named "Tom" had promised to buy her $2,000 worth of new clothes.

The girls said they left Capps at Jessup, Ga., a few days after their departure. Capps, believed in Jacksonville, Fla., is being sought on warrants charging kidnaping of the youngsters.

A telephone call from the girls to a school friend in Chicago Sunday was traced to the home of Dr. Cecil Snow where the girls were employed.

They were picked up by Miami juvenile authorities. Monday, they were flown back to Chicago by Charles F. Paulman, father of one girl, and John Fahey, a detective of the Cook County sheriff's office.

Spy Tells Red Plot To Liquidate Tito

NEW YORK (AP)—Former counterespionage Boris Morros says a 1953 Soviet secret police plot to assassinate President Tito was canceled only 12 minutes before the hour appointed for killing the Yugoslav Communist leader.

Morros, writing in the current issue of Look magazine, dates the time set for Tito's execution as March, 1953.

Stalin, who carried on a bitter five-year propaganda war with Tito over the Yugoslav leader's resistance to Moscow domination, died early that month. His secret police chief, Lavrenty Beria, is believed to have been removed from power shortly afterward when other members of the hierarchy frustrated his bid for total power.

Morros, a former Hollywood motion picture producer, was identified last January as a key figure in the apprehension of a Soviet spy ring in the United States. He has said he served the United States for 12 years as a counterespionage member of an international Soviet ring.

Morros' article tells this story about the purported plot against Tito:

The Russian secret police began laying their plans in 1950, with an experimental abduction and assassination of three Yugoslav officials in Vienna. Morros was sent to Yugoslavia by the Russians later that year, posing as an American movie producer. His assignment was to "case" the country.

It was not until March 1953, however, that he learned a Soviet agent named Yefimov, with a staff of six assistants, had been assigned to liquidate Tito. An agent disguised as a Catholic priest was to do the killing.

In May, Morros says he met Yefimov's superior, who reported the agent was in a hospital with a nervous breakdown. All the machinery had been set in motion for Tito's assassination in March when an urgent telephone call came from Moscow canceling the plot.

"Yefimov got word of this just 12 minutes before the murder was to take place," Morros wrote. "In those 12 minutes, Yefimov had managed to halt all the cogs in the complicated machinery set up for the assassination, but the strain of it had put him in a mental hospital."

Lays Zhukov Ouster To Policy Violations

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Communist Party Chief Nikita Khrushchev told young officers of the Red army Monday night Marshal Georgi Zhukov was ousted as defense minister as a step to improve political work in the armed forces.

Moscow Radio said he impressed on military graduates at a reception in the great Kremlin Palace that "the Communist Party reared the army in the spirit of Marxism-Leninism."

Khrushchev said Zhukov was ousted for "violating the policy of the party and working for divorcing the army from the party, which was harmful to the cause of communism."

Auto Makers Top '56 Production Figures
DETROIT (AP)—The auto makers are hitting new high production levels for the current year. Last week they built 154,911 cars, highest weekly total since late last year. The total compared with 141,904 cars built the preceding week and with 118,949 completed in the like 1956 week. So far this year the industry has completed 5,468,222 units against 5,061,382 in like 1956.

Meg Still Longs to Marry Townsend, Report Says

LONDON (AP)—A report published abroad that Princess Margaret still longs to marry Peter Townsend had Buckingham Palace officials worried Monday night.

The report said Princess Margaret made a tearful new appeal to Queen Elizabeth for permission to wed Townsend.

"It is silly to suggest that the Queen and the Princess are at loggerheads," a palace informant

MARGARET TOWNSEND

He called the whole story nonsense. Behind these quick denials lay official fears that the next few weeks may bring more reports of Margaret's interest in Townsend.

Townsend was understood to be heading back from the round-the-world trip he undertook when Margaret renounced him two years ago.

Some informants said he might come to London although Townsend, when he left, said he never would return.

News stories linking the 27-year-old Margaret and the 43-year-old former querry, a divorced man, are considered in some circles to be damaging to the monarchy.

Informants in high places in London acknowledge it is not unlikely that Margaret and Townsend have exchanged letters the last two years. People who know Margaret have never entirely ruled out the possibility that the romance could flare up again.

Margaret rejected Townsend's bid for her hand because acceptance would have flouted the Church of England, which frowns on the remarriage of divorced persons. But Margaret is known among her friends as an impetuous and headstrong young woman who, two years ago at least, was deeply in love with the suitor she turned down.

Supreme Court Rules on Red Contempt Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled Monday that repeated refusals of a witness to answer questions falling within the same general area of inquiry constitutes one, not several cases of contempt.

The ruling was given in the case of Mrs. Oleta O'Connor Yates, California Communist leader, who received 11 one-year concurrent sentences for criminal contempt of court.

Justice Clark said in the majority opinion: "The prosecution cannot multiply contempts by repeated questions on the same subject of inquiry within which the recalcitrant witness already has refused answers."

By a 6-3 vote the court set aside 10 of Mrs. Yates' contempt convictions and returned the case to U.S. Dist. Court Judge William C. Mathes in Los Angeles to consider "in the cool reflection of subsequent events" whether the remaining sentences should be reduced.

In other actions Monday the court:

1. Agreed to review a 5-3 decision of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington that the State department may refuse to issue passports to applicants who decline to sign non-Communist affidavits.

2. Refused to reconsider its Oct. 14 denial of a hearing to segregationist John Kasper, who was sentenced to a year in jail on a charge of criminal contempt of court in connection with disorders at Clinton, Tenn., resulting from integration of the high school there.

Kasper already is serving the 12-month sentence in a federal institution in Florida.

3. Agreed to rule on validity of California's denial of property tax exemption to war veterans who refuse to sign a loyalty oath.

Wilson White
In Charge of Civil Rights

Ike Names New Civil Rights Head

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Monday picked Wilson White of Philadelphia to head the new civil rights division in the Justice Department—subject to approval by the Senate.

White already is an assistant attorney general, in charge of legal counseling, and had been reported previously to be in line for the civil rights post.

However, there had been hints that Mr. Eisenhower might seek to bypass the Senate on any vote of confirmation and merely shift White from one assistant attorney generalship to another.

These reports, which had stirred up Southern criticism, were disposed of by the White House announcement that the Senate would be asked to pass on the nomination.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate presidential press secretary, said that both Mr. Eisenhower and White felt the selection should be passed on by the Senate because of the importance of the job.

As assistant attorney general heading the civil rights division, White would handle lawsuits alleging interference with Negroes' voting and other rights. The job was created in the civil rights bill passed last session by Congress.

Southern critics of that law, including Senators Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) and John Stennis (D-Miss.) have said they would want a full hearing on any nomination for the position.

The committee in charge of such a hearing would be the Senate Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss.), another opponent of the new civil rights legislation.

White is reported to have done much of the work backgrounding Mr. Eisenhower's actions in the integration troubles at Little Rock, Ark. These culminated in the sending of federal troops there to enforce a court order requiring integration of Negroes and whites at the city's Central High School.

Now 51, White is a graduate of Harvard University and the University of Pennsylvania law school and a veteran of Navy service in World War II.

He practiced law in his father's law firm until he was named U.S. attorney for eastern Pennsylvania in August, 1953. He became an assistant attorney general last March.

Draft Evader Gets One-Year Jail Sentence

CHICAGO (AP)—A Federal judge sentenced an Iowa conscientious objector to a year in prison today—but only after offering him several means of serving his country.

The defendant, Abraham Y. Born-treger, 24, is a member of an Amish-Mennonite church colony at Hazelton, Ia., about 25 miles east of Waterloo. He contended his religion prevented him from accepting the non-military alternatives proposed.

Judge William J. Campbell of U.S. District Court here listened to explanations by Bishop Emanuel Shrock of the Amish sect, who told the court that military service, employment in public place, and use of such modern conveniences as electricity—even in a hospital or on a farm—are contrary to the group's dogma.

The judge suggested as an alternative hospital work in Des Moines; service in a hospital two miles outside of Fort Wayne, Ind., and volunteering for work on a Mennonite farm near Newton, Kan.

Born-treger said his religious scruples made each choice impossible. In sentencing Born-treger Judge Campbell commented: "I don't want to send anyone to prison because of religious belief. But my duty here is clear. It must be decided whether the defendant is exercising his religious belief within reason."

Diamond and Gold Magnate Of South Africa Dead at 77

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Sir Ernest Oppenheimer, the South African diamond and gold king, died alone at his breakfast table Monday. He was 77, and had been in poor health.

The shy, slight, mild-mannered mining magnate had a head for figures but never was able to compute his own wealth.

He was chairman or director of scores of companies which controlled the world's diamond production and much of its gold.

His wife seldom wore diamonds. She preferred pearls.

Sir Ernest began to fail about a year ago. He suffered a slight stroke recently while walking in his garden.

His son, Harry, who is expected to step into Sir Ernest's business shoes, and a physician had breakfast with him Friday and found him in good spirits. He died 30 minutes after they left.

His wife, Lady Oppenheimer, was in London on a holiday with stepson, Sir Michael Oppenheimer. Both Harry and Sir Michael are married and each has two children.

The financier, who started as an office boy for a London diamond firm when he was 16, not only became South Africa's most fabulous mining and financial figure, but also a political leader.

Although he had a palatial home in Johannesburg, the financier lived unostentatiously. He did little entertaining, and never went in for yachts, race horses or hobbies. Almost his sole interests were business and philanthropies—and most of these were not given publicity. He rarely saw newsmen.

The Oppenheimer empire controlled a substantial part of the world's gold production, and expanded into uranium, copper, coal, platinum, zinc, real estate, explosives, milling, cold storage, and engineering.

The financier was knighted in 1921 for his services to the British Commonwealth.

2 Zoologists to Present Papers

Two new staff members in the SUI zoology department will present papers at a meeting Wednesday of Sigma Xi, national scientific research society, at 8 p.m. in the Zoology Building, room 201.

James F. Case, assistant professor in zoology, will present a paper on the contributions of DDT to the progress of insect physiology. Norman E. Williams, zoology instructor, will show slides of some embryonic cells and give the results of "embryological" research. The zoology department is host for the meeting this month.

Ever meet a fanatic?

He's got just one thing uppermost in his mind. If he's looking for a job he's thinking only of pay or only of security. Reasonable men, however, weigh these and many other factors when they're evaluating career possibilities. Such factors as opportunity, challenging work, training, professional associates—things fanatics never bother to consider.

The Bell Telephone Companies have a booklet for reasonable men. It's called "Challenge and Opportunity." It's not the sort of thing that'll make a fanatic's eyes light up, but it ought to interest a thoughtful young man—whatever his college background—who is weighing career possibilities.
