

Miss SUI Contestants Narrowed to 10 Coeds

CAN-CANNERS STEPPED OUT FOR their choice for Miss SUI, Mary Littig, A2, Mechanicsville. Miss Littig's Alpha Delta Pi sorority sisters performed in a skit last night to boost her for the yearly award.

The Miss SUI campaign is in full swing today following the selection of the 10 semi-finalists at the presentation of the 29 candidates at Iowa Memorial Union Monday night.

The semi-finalists are: Marcia Landis, N2, Kaneville, Ill., Alpha Chi Omega; Jo Ann Potts, A2, Newton, Commons; Win Naughton, A3, Marengo, Commons; Shirley Lee Barker, A4, Keokuk, Alpha Xi Delta; Marcia Myers, A2, Osceola, Delta Delta Delta; Virginia Van Orsdel, D2, Des Moines, Delta Gamma; Dorothy Lind, A4, Clinton, Currier; Joey Frush, D3, Adel, Gamma Phi Beta; Marilyn Allison, A2, Iowa Falls, Currier; and Marilyn Miner, A3, Charles City, Pi Beta Phi.

The 10 candidates will begin a tour of the men's housing units today, presenting their five minute skits. The campaign will continue through Thursday.

SUI male students will vote Friday, Dec. 6, for Miss SUI. The ballots will be counted immediately following the closing of the polls. Miss SUI and her attendants will be chosen from among the five girls with a plurality of the votes.

Miss SUI and her attendants will be presented during the intermission of the Winter Formal Friday night.

Judging to determine the semi-finalists began Monday afternoon when the Board of Experts, chosen by the Pageant Board, interviewed each of the contestants.

The contestants were alone with the judges for ten minutes. They were asked questions on international, national and local affairs, ad on etiquette. They were asked about their hobbies and how they spent their spare time, along with other questions. The poise, appearance and personality displayed in these interviews were evaluated by the judges.

The Board of Experts were: Howard Heathman, Armstrong Fashion Consultant at Armstrongs in Cedar Rapids; Miss Marjory Smith, from the Francois Beauty Salon in Younkers, Des Moines; and Mrs. Coreen Shaver, Coreen's School of Charm and Self-Improvement, Cedar Rapids.

Will Vanguard Go Up?

May Not Hit Time Set For Launching

By BEN FUNK

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - Trouble was reported to have developed Monday in the second stage "brain" of the Vanguard rocket being readied for an attempt to propel an American baby moon into space.

An informed U.S. Navy source said American technicians are working around the clock to clear the "bugs" out of the second stage which houses the control and guidance systems of the 72-foot rocket. This stage had not been tested previously.

He described the trouble only as static in the electronic system. Unless eliminated, he said, this could cause the rocket to wobble in flight and force its destruction.

In Washington, the Defense Department has emphasized there is no certainty the first sphere to be fired will start circling the earth.

Putting a satellite into orbit is not the prime purpose of the test but of course such a result would be welcome because of the additional data which could be gathered, the department said.

The test is intended primarily to try out the complete launching equipment and to gather performance data.

A satellite put in an orbit 300 miles above the earth's surface could stay up for a year, calculations indicate. The lower the height, the shorter the time the satellite could stay aloft.

Calculations on a satellite's life are based on the density of the atmosphere at various heights. Even the extremely thin air 300 miles up would exert enough drag on a satellite to slow it down and end its career.

Presently the scheduled zero hour for the effort to give the Russian Sputniks an American companion is 5 a.m. Wednesday, but a Navy source said it is doubtful the firing will come off at that early hour. He suggested noon Wednesday might be a better guess.

Weather conditions will have an important bearing. The Navy source said wind over 10 miles an hour "could give us trouble."

If the grapefruit-sized satellite in the nose cone of the Vanguard is hurled into orbit, it will go aloft just two months to the day after Russia set up Sputnik I. Sputnik II with its dog passenger was launched Nov. 3.

The United States hopes to shoot four of these small globes into orbit this month, then fire a fully equipped 21-inch sphere as soon as possible next year.

The smaller satellites are equipped to broadcast signals and enable American Moonwatchers to keep track of their progress. They will not be visible to the naked eye.

Hawks Lay 75-Game Home Record on Line

By ALAN HOSKINS

The Iowa Hawkeyes put a 75-game home winning streak on the line tonight as they open the 1957-58 season against Southern Methodist.

Iowa has not lost a non-conference home encounter since falling before Kansas on Jan. 29, 1942.

The game is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. with a freshman contest preceding it at 6 p.m. Plenty of tickets for the game are available in the Fieldhouse lobby.

SUI students need only to show their ID cards to get into all Iowa home basketball games. No other tickets have to be picked up as was the case during the football season.

SMU is expected to provide some of the stiffest competition that the Hawkeyes have faced in their streak. The Mustangs won the Southwest Conference title the last three years.

The Hawkeyes are hoping to get off on the right foot for a successful season after a rather dismal showing last year. Iowa wound up 1956-57 with an 8-14 mark and finished eighth in the Big Ten.

Hawkeye coach Frank (Bucky) O'Connor is depending a great deal on several sophomores to fit in with returning regulars in hopes of coming up with a sound ball club.

Starting tonight's game will be

Russian Rocket Believed Dead - Or is It?

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Rocket, rocket, where is that rocket? American and British scientists say the carrier rocket that launched Sputnik I plunged to its death last weekend.

Soviet Russia in its English language broadcast Monday night omitted mention of the final stage rocket for the first time. However shortly afterwards a Finnish language broadcast from Moscow said the rocket had made 900 trips around the world.

Scientists of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge say the rocket probably plunged to a watery end in the South Pacific Saturday night unseen by human eyes.

Pedestrian Gets Even Chance Now

Traffic lights will go into operation today at the corners of Iowa avenue and Madison street.

The three lights, which will give pedestrians almost 30 seconds to cross the intersection without worrying about traffic, were installed on the recommendation of a street traffic plan prepared here three years ago.

One of the lights faces west across the Iowa Avenue Bridge and the other two face north and south along Madison Street.

City engineers have installed the lights so they will operate on a 65-second, 3-phase cycle. (See Diagram). Pedestrians and motorists will use this pattern:

Phase one. Traffic north and south on Madison street (except for the inside lane going south) will be at a halt. Vehicles going east on Iowa avenue will be able to turn right or left onto Madison street.

Phase two. Traffic in the outside lane going east on Iowa avenue will be at a halt. Vehicles from Iowa avenue will be able to turn right; vehicles will be able to continue north on Madison street or turn left onto Iowa avenue; vehicles will be able to continue south on Madison street or turn right onto Iowa avenue.

Phase three. All vehicles will be at a halt and pedestrians will be able to cross the intersection in any direction.

The lights are expected to speed up traffic at the intersection while giving pedestrians, who have had some narrow escapes here in the past, a chance to cross the intersection safely.

INFLATION

LONDON (AP) - Because of inflation, Buckingham Palace said Monday, Queen Elizabeth II no longer will provide royal cash gifts for British mothers of triplets and quadruplets.

The practice was started by Queen Victoria in 1849 when three pounds now a mere $8.40 would buy a three-birth baby carriage and a six months supply of diapers.

Monday's palace announcement said the Queen will still send congratulatory messages.

Adlai Still Not Asked to NATO Talks

By JERRY T. BAULCH

WASHINGTON (AP) - Adlai E. Stevenson said Monday he does not plan to join the U.S. delegation to the NATO summit conference in Paris this month, but he left the door open to an invitation.

"I have not been invited and there hasn't been any discussion of that," the 1952-56 Democratic presidential nominee told reporters.

Stevenson said his job as Democratic adviser on the U.S. policy to be put forth at the Dec. 16-18 meeting of North Atlantic Treaty country leaders will be completed within another week or 10 days. Then, he said, "I will go about my business."

Whether Stevenson will be invited to the Paris meeting hasn't been decided, the State Department said.

Stevenson spoke to newsmen after an hour-long meeting with House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.). He said he briefed Rayburn on North Atlantic Treaty matters likely to come up at a White House meeting today of congressional leaders, which Stevenson has agreed to attend.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said it's possible that the question of an invitation to Stevenson to go to Paris may be decided after today's meeting, along with other aspects of his future as an adviser.

$8,500 Given SUI By Eight Benefactors

Gifts and grants totaling $8,557 have been accepted for SUI by the finance committee of the State Board of Regents, SUI President Virgil M. Hancher announced Monday.

A grant of $5,997 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will enable Orvis C. Irwin, professor at the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station, to continue his work on speech behavior of children with cerebral palsy.

A gift of $1,100 from Dimitri Mitropoulos was accepted for the Imre Waldbauer Violin Scholarship Fund. Prof. Waldbauer, founder of the Hungarian String Quartet, taught music at SUI from 1946 until his death in 1952.

Mitropoulos has been interested in the welfare of SUI musicians since the years when he came to the campus as director of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

The sum is the third of five grants of $1,000 a year to be given for five years by the Winneshiek County Tuberculosis Association to the Pulmonary Function Laboratory in Internal Medicine.

The sum is the third of five grants of $1,000 a year to be given for five years by the Winneshiek County Tuberculosis Association to the SUI laboratory. The grant is being made by the association in honor of Dr. Felix A. Hennessy, Calmar, 1907 graduate of the SUI College of Medicine, in recognition of his efforts to secure funds for research on lung diseases.

International Business Machines Corporation presented $204 as a supplemental grant to the University since a student holds a Thomas J. Watson Memorial Scholarship given through the National Merit Scholarships. Recognizing that tuition does not cover the costs of educating a student, IBM has made the supplementary grant.

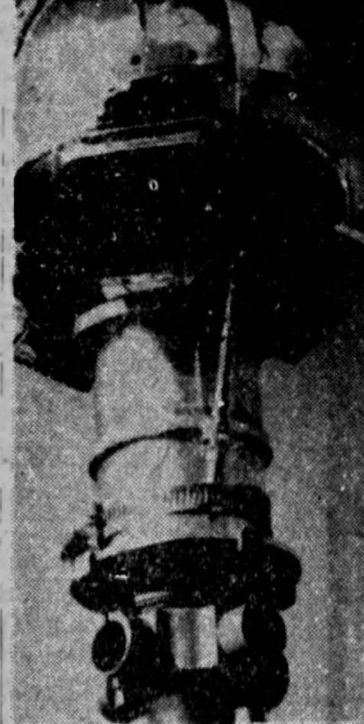

The Corn Products Refining Co. presented $250 to be used as President Hancher determines will be for the best interests of SUI.

The V. L. Miller family of Cedar Rapids and the W. H. Miller and Harry H. Miller families contributed $6 for the Hospital School Gift Fund in memory of S. W. McAdow.

Biggerstaff Sentenced To 90 Years

AP Wirephoto

THIS PICTURE is one-third size of "Yankee Doodle" or Johnny-Come-Lately United States Satellite that is supposed to join the two Russian Sputniks high above earth Wednesday morning. It is six inches in diameter.

Marvin G. Biggerstaff, 39, is slated to begin serving a 90 year sentence in Ft. Madison Penitentiary today for the second degree murder of his 24-year-old wife, Donna Belle, on Nov. 13.

Sentence was pronounced Monday in Johnson County District Court by Judge James P. Gaffney.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Gaffney said two things contributed to her murder - Biggerstaff's "excessive use of intoxicant" and the "green-eyed monster of jealousy." Judge Gaffney further stated there was no justification for Biggerstaff's jealousy.

Judge Gaffney termed the sentence "severe" but hoped the "punishment be such as to halt others from committing murder."

Biggerstaff - under the 90-year sentence - is eligible for parole in the future by the State Parole Board. There is also a possibility he would be released before serving his full sentence by getting credit for good behavior.

Biggerstaff was arrested about 1 a.m. Nov. 13 at his wife's apartment at 421 S. Dubuque St. Police were summoned to the apartment by Mrs. Alice Mitchell, a neighbor, who heard the couple yelling. Capt. George R. Hall and Patrolman Charles H. Snider arrived in time to hear Mrs. Biggerstaff scream, "No, no, no, don't," Snider said.

They then heard a shot and broke down the door. They found Mrs. Biggerstaff slumping to the floor and Biggerstaff with a gun in his hand.

Mrs. Biggerstaff died about 3 a.m. the same day. She had been shot in the abdomen and had several deep gashes at the hairline.

Biggerstaff pleaded guilty to second degree murder at his arraignment Nov. 20. Judge Gaffney found him guilty after testimony at a hearing Nov. 25.

Atomic Furnace Fired, Readied For Electricity

SHIPPINGPORT, Pa. (AP) - Scientists Monday fired up the nation's first full-scale civilian nuclear powered atomic furnace, marking the final step before production of commercial quantities of electricity.

Full operation is expected near the end of this year.

The Duquesne Light Co., near Pittsburgh, will operate the $110-million station under contract to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Rough estimates place the cost of production electricity in excess of 55 mills, compared with four or five mills for conventional coal-fired power stations.

New Plates Sold to 395 On First Day

In the first-day rush for 1958 license plates, 355 Johnson County residents registered their cars. An additional 40 persons purchased truck licenses.

County Treasurer Lumir W. Jansa said SUI students can purchase their license plates either in Johnson County or their "home" county - whichever they prefer.

He said auto owners have until Feb. 1 to purchase their plates without paying a penalty.

Two windows were kept open Monday and people seeking license plates were not kept waiting too long. Lines were formed in the corridor of the court house, however.

He urged auto owners not to wait until the last minute when there is always another rush period.

Says Man to Circle Earth

NEW YORK (AP) - The United States will be able to fire an earth-circling rocket with a man inside it in five years, a German research engineer now working on American missiles said Monday.

Dr. Kraft A. Ehrlicke said the man-in-rocket would roar 350 miles into space, swing around the earth three times at 18,000 miles per hour and then glide back home.

Appeal Deadline In Girard Case Next Monday

TOKYO (AP) - Convicted GI William S. Girard learns Monday whether he will be home in Illinois by New Year's or must stand trial for killing a Japanese woman brasspikker on a firing range.

Girard's Japanese wife, Haru (Candy), hopefully packing, disclosed the couple has been alerted to sail from Yokohama Friday if there is no appeal.

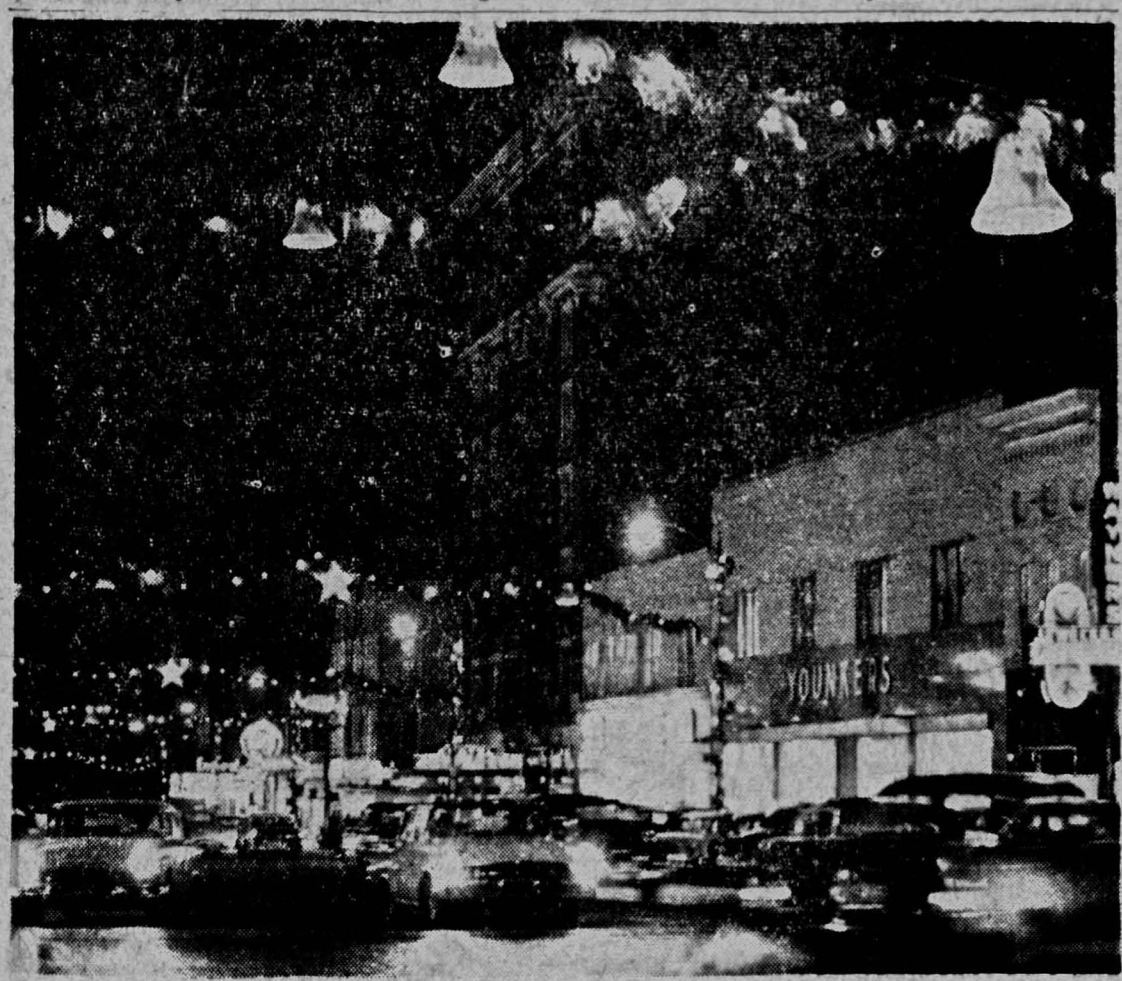

Girard, 22, from Ottawa, Ill., was convicted Nov. 19 in Maebashi District Court of enticing brasspikker Naka Sakai toward him, then fatally shooting her in the back with an empty brass shell casing fired from a grenade launcher last Jan. 30.

Girard, unable to conceal an optimistic expression on his face, spent Monday night playing cards in his barracks after a short visit with his wife at Camp Drew, north of Tokyo.

Weather

The weatherman predicts colder temperatures and possible light snow for Iowa City today and the rest of the week.

Snow is expected to begin in western Iowa Monday night and push across the state today. The high today will range from 38 to 43 degrees here with light snow possible.

"Yes, Santa Claus, there is a Virginia!"

Dear Virginia

Before

Dear Virginia, Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age.

the strongest man that ever lived, could tear apart. Only fancy, poetry, love, romance can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory behind.

No Santa Claus! Thank God! he lives and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, you ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

After

Dear Virginia, Yes, there is a Santa Claus. But you must remember to interpret this mystic phenomenon in the light of the social and economic processes of our time.

Ike's Trip to Paris

The latest indications from Washington are that President Eisenhower will attend the December 16 meeting of NATO in Paris where the Western Allies will try to shore up and strengthen the now-weakened structure.

ties such as his visit with King Mohammed V of Morocco, and other White House conferences.

In the light of this - Ike's running counter to the advice of his doctors, the trip to Paris might not be such a good idea - the strain of travel, even in a pressurized aircraft, is bound to be felt.

Unless he is given full sanction by his physicians, the President should not take that risk.

We're Undecided

By DIETRICH HARTMANN Daily Iowan News Editor

Last week brought a number of threats from Moscow that continued to emphasize East-West competition in the field of science, industrialization and consumer goods production.

IN THE UNITED STATES simple citizens and politicians as well as experts and would-be experts are still engaged in an almost hysterical discussion about the reasons of our falling behind the Soviets in the weapons race and what to do about it.

It is surprising, however, that the stock market did not react to the obvious determination of the Administration to expand defense spending.

Whether Mr. Eisenhower's illness or other factors have caused this curious phenomenon cannot yet be determined, but a report on recent thinking in the Pentagon gives interesting perspective in this light.

AND ANOTHER DEVELOPMENT over the week-end tends to complicate the understanding of present East-West relations.

George F. Kennan, former U.S. ambassador to Moscow and one of the nation's top experts on Russia and communist strategy declared in London that the only way to end the dead-lock in relations between the two antagonistic camps would be a ban on all nuclear weapons, followed by the complete withdrawal of Anglo-American troops from the European continent and all Russian troops and bases from the East European satellites.

This is confusing but still gives room for interpretation of the different views that do exist on how future developments will evolve.

Internally the Russians realize that they are in a process of social adjustment to industrialization, a process that often finds itself in contradiction to the basic dogmatic concept of proletarian dictatorship.

TRANSLATED INTO foreign policy this seems to forbid the original intention of using war as a means of bringing about revolutions and changes in capitalistic countries.

The West because of its basic inclination to live and let live has no other choice than to go along with Nikita's little game.

THERE IS THE FACTION that is willing to face competitive coexistence with the backing of huge armaments and ultimate supremacy militarily with the intention to exert pressure on the communist empire assuming that internal struggles can be exploited.

And there are those who believe that there is not much sense in waiting for internal struggles in the communist empire, that an emphasis on armaments as the ultimate goal to meet the communist threat is not enough.

IT SEEMS TO ME THAT there is no strong argument against getting into a global political deal with the Soviets, unless one is convinced that the West can deal from a position of strength which eventually will force the Soviets to accept western terms.

That the West is not in a position to force any terms on the Soviet is quite apparent today. But even in years of reported western military supremacy, negotiations from a position of strength did not work.

THE ARGUMENT THAT THE United States cannot come to some sort of bi-lateral agreement with the Soviets over the heads of the many allies of this country is rather flimsy.

It remains to be seen whether the West will wait again until there is no other choice than to go along with developments conceived in the Kremlin or whether we take the initiative for once and lead off in a direction the Kremlin is likely to impose on us anyway.

The Wall Street Journal reports that some South Dakota farmers living near Watertown felt they were being ticked off relentlessly for parking meter violations when they drove into town.

Polio shots seem to be going begging. As of October 11, 27 million doses were available. The situation has caused Secretary of Welfare Folsom to warn that there may be an upsurge in this disease next unless people are vaccinated.

Slattery's Slants

It is early December and the days are grey and somber - almost desolate as they stretch out towards the warm glow of the holidays.

Yet a certain apathetic indifference seems to grip us - faculty and student alike - in a sort of insipid vapidity, a tasteless, colorless, and a trifle phlegmatic monotony of experience that blurs text pages, stays the term paper until the final moment, and sets uncertainly over a soft, indefinable, but compelling longing for . . . what?

The weather is unexpectedly good; crisp, clear, yet not too cold - and apparently is content to remain so for the immediate future.

Maybe it is the relief, the letdown, if you will, that naturally follows the girding for tests and their completion. Cap that with a few days at home, plus turkey, and the academic world loses a little of its immediacy and importance.

And maybe it is good to vary the pace a little, to let the luxury of indolence pour over us like a cool waterfall on a burning day, to revel in the irresponsibility of neglected duties, and to feel the satisfaction of wanton academic abandon.

For when the days are suddenly hard against Christmas and the end of the semester looms only a few short weeks away, the renewed energy, the resuscitation of flagging spirits, and the rebounding intensity spring full-blown out of the jejune slothfulness to carry us, refreshed, to the end of the semester's work.

LESSON FOR THE WEEK: Things are never so bad that they can't get worse. Cheer up, and sure enough, they'll get worse.

By ANDREW BYERLEY Daily Iowan Staff Writer

The State Board of Trustees visited SUI in 1963 to inspect co-education. Several Board members thought women didn't belong in a university, and the Trustees visited SUI classes and suspiciously watched coeds.

Finally one Board member noticed that some students wheezed and wobbled after climbing Old Capitol hill. The Trustees sternly went to see SUI President Oliver Spencer.

The Trustees asked President Spencer if there wasn't physical education at SUI. President Spencer said there wasn't, and that he considered physical exercise unrefined and a waste of time.

The Trustees wrote a check for $500, and told President Spencer to buy some Indian clubs and start physical training classes. And, since SUI was co-educational, the Trustees told Spencer that physical training classes should be co-educational too.

When the Trustees boarded their train the next day there was a gloat in their eyes. Pretty soon Iowans would gossip about the co-educational physical training at SUI, and shocked state legislators would ban co-education.

In 1964 the State Board of Trustees came to SUI again. Board members visited classes, suspiciously eyed coeds, and then asked President Spencer to show them the gymnasium.

President Spencer led the Trustees downtown to Metropolitan Hall, on the present site of Hotel Jefferson. SUI had rented the Hall for gym classes.

The Trustees looked inside and smiled grimly. Men and women students were swinging Indian clubs and laughing.

The Board reported to the Iowa Legislature that co-educational physical training was very popular at SUI.

The report stated that, "It is indeed surprising to see with what spirit the students of either sex engage in these exercises. . . . No one who has witnessed the exercises has failed to see the interest of the students."

A few state legislators grumbled that SUI was getting a bit sporty, and there was some whispering and chuckling. However, no legislators were shocked and no one suggested an investigation of SUI.

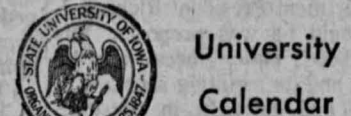

Several members of the Board of Trustees were surprised and disappointed that the Legislature did not investigate the gymnasium. But other Board members were tired of fighting co-education, and didn't mind.

The Trustees supplied funds for SUI physical training two more years, and then several Trustees began to worry that the co-educational gymnasium might give SUI a bad name.

In 1967 the Board of Trustees cancelled the SUI gymnasium fund. The Board informed the Iowa Legislature that, "after an unsatisfactory trial of four years, the gymnasium has been discontinued."

DEERSLAYERS Four hunters from LeMars and Brunsville recently brought back from a hunting trip in Montana and Wyoming nine deer, totaling some 1,000 pounds of venison.

Festive Spirit Overtakes SUI As Christmas Approaches

By JANE HUBLY
Daily Iowan Society Editor

Twinkling lights, symbolic Christmas trees and the prospect of 16 days with nothing to do but loaf is enough to guarantee that SUI students' Christmas spirit will be at top level during the next three weeks.

Only two week-ends remain on the campus before vacation arrives, and the various housing units have managed to fill each night with holiday affairs.

The Alpha Chi Omegas don't believe in trimming their tree alone. They're bringing their tree over to the chapter house Dec. 11 to help with the work, after which they will provide the poor fellows with dinner.

The girls will also have their annual faculty tea Dec. 15, sponsored by the pledge class, to which all the instructors of the AChOs are invited.

The Tri-Delts are making the most of Christmas by naming their winter formal "Mistletoe Mischief." It will be held Dec. 13 at the Mayflower Inn. Mixed with the mistletoe will be a dinner followed by dancing to the music of the Bobby Watson Quintet from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

A house party including dinner for the girls, Christmas caroling and a "timely" visit from Santa will be another Tri-Delt festivity on Dec. 18.

"When You Wish Upon a Star," evidently you'll end up at a Delta Gamma winter formal, since that is the name of the DG's Christmas event on Dec. 13. The girls will eat dinner at Curt Yocum's and dance afterwards to the music of the Behm-Martin sextet.

The Delta Zetas evidently aren't going to fool around with mistletoe this season; their annual winter formal is named "Candlelight Caprice." It will take place Dec. 14 from 9 to 12 p.m. in the chapter house. Dinner, which will consist of several foreign dishes such as Greek meatballs and cheese-dips, will be served before the dancing begins.

The Delta Zetas are also planning a Christmas party for several severely handicapped children, complete with skits, presents and refreshments.

A war orphan in Germany will receive numerous Christmas gifts this year from the Gamma Phis, who have written to the orphan throughout the year. The girls will also have a Christmas tea and dinner, which will make "dressing in those horrible hose and heels" worthwhile, since an exchange of gifts will take place.

Christmas caroling to several Iowa City hospitals is also planned by the Gamma Phis, but plans are not yet completely organized.

Santa Claus will visit the Theta house Dec. 16 at their annual Christmas party, at which they will exchange gifts and go out caroling to homes of underprivileged and elderly people in Iowa City.

The KKG pledge class, along with the Sigma Nu pledges, will entertain handicapped children Dec. 15 at a Christmas party which will include entertainment, refreshments and gifts.

The Kappa actives will have a date buffet Dec. 15th, where they will give their dates "tee-hee" gifts and serve them dinner.

Pi Phi's dates will also go to the chapter house Dec. 15 to receive "tee-hee" gifts — which sometimes don't make the fellows "tee-hee" — at the annual Christmas Buffet. An afternoon dinner is also on the agenda.

The Pi Phi pledges are in the process of planning to go Christmas caroling with the Kappa pledges, but nothing definite has been decided.

An old-fashioned tree-trimming party will be held by the Zeta Tau Alphas on Dec. 9, followed five days later by their winter formal at Curt Yocum's.

Currier Hall will trim their Christmas trees Dec. 5 after 10:30 p.m. in both north and south lobbies. Popcorn balls will be given to all the Currier girls attending.

An all-dorm "cozy" in South Dining Room will take place Dec. 17, at which the Currier chorus will sing and the Currier New Student Council will present a Christmas skit.

The nurses at SUI will take time off to celebrate Christmas too. They will go Christmas caroling in their uniforms throughout University Hospitals Dec. 23.

Units one and two will sponsor a Christmas party Dec. 18 for members of the dorm, and individual projects at Westlawn will include decorating the dorm, decorating Christmas trees in the lounge and recreation room, making toys for needy children and having a door-decorating contest.

The Council in the dorm will pick one needy family in Iowa City and arrange to give them food, clothing, and toys from Westlawn residents.

Fellows celebrate Christmas on campus, too, as the Delta Chi's will prove by holding their winter formal, "Fantasy in Stars," Dec. 14 in the Hotel Jefferson. The dinner dance will last from 8 to 12 p.m., and the Behm-Martin sextet will provide the musical entertainment.

A "Cocoa Blast," with 100% pure cocoa — honest! — will be held at the Delta Upsilon house Dec. 8. The boys will bring dates to help trim the tree, eat dinner, dance in their basement, and of course, drink cocoa.

The DU winter formal will be held Dec. 1 from 9 to 12 p.m. at the chapter house. The Bob Watson Quartet will supply the music. The DU's will carry Christmas spirit still further by caroling Dec. 19 at the Veteran's Hospital with their dates.

Phi Kappa Sigma members, alumni and friends will have a buffet supper at the chapter house on Dec. 16, and the fellows are being real optimistic about snow on Dec. 19 — they are planning a sleigh ride for that date.

The SAEs will have a dinner dance at the chapter house Dec. 15 and the same weekend, they plan to have a party at the house for crippled children.

The pledges of Sigma Alpha Epsilon will carol at the Veteran's Hospital, and if the Christmas season gets by without an SAE serenade-caroling "party," it'll be the first year this has happened.

The Phi Delt's will romp around their chapter house with children from needy families on their shoulders, per usual, at their annual Christmas party for underprivileged youngsters the weekend before we all go home. Presents of all sorts will be given out by an adequately stuffed Santa and refreshments will be served. The fellows and their dates will play various games with the children and — judging from past parties — it will probably be a toss-up as to who will have the most fun.

The Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity will usher in their Yuletide festivities with a Christmas formal, Dec. 14, at the chapter house. The Progressives will provide music and decorations will carry out the holiday theme.

Plans are also being made for caroling, and a sleigh ride will depend on the "undependable" weather.

South Quad will hold a "stag" Christmas party Dec. 18 in the Quad lounge, and the fellows will be entertained by various groups from the dorm and other housing units. Gifts will be presented to numerous staff members at the party. The Quad will also serve carols at Iowa City hospital Dec. 19.

The highlight of the Hillcrest Christmas festivities will be the annual Christmas party Dec. 16 in the River Room of the Iowa Memorial Union. The "stag" will include the presentation of gifts to several students, entertainment and drawing for door prizes. Three boys in the dorm will decorate Christmas trees in the Hillcrest lounge.

Obviously, the Christmas season at SUI is not being over-looked by any of the campus housing groups. Chances are that students will be so busy organizing the Yuletide festivities studying will be relegated to just an "also ran."

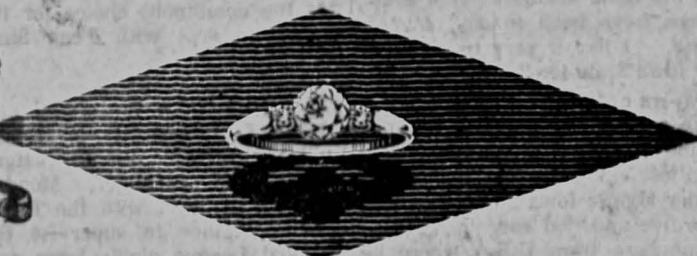

Oh well, Merry Christmas!

Auburn First In Final AP Poll; Hawkeyes Sixth

Buckeyes Far Back; Spartans Finish in 3rd

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Auburn, the unbeaten, untied giant of the Southeastern Conference, Monday became the first winner of The Associated Press national football championship trophy.

Iowa, third place finisher a year ago, and in fifth last week, dropped to sixth in the final poll as Navy moved up a notch.

The Tigers, whose sturdy defense yielded only four touchdowns in 10 games, drew a landslide vote in the final poll of the season.

Of 360 sports writers and broadcasters who participated, 210 gave their first place vote to Auburn. It was the first national title for the Tigers, who can not represent their conference in the Sugar Bowl because they are on probation from the NCAA.

Auburn finished its season Saturday by running up a 40-0 score on its traditional rival, Alabama, in a bid for the No. 1 spot. Previously, Auburn had been rated primarily a powerful defensive club.

Ohio State, Western Conference champion and Rose Bowl visitor, finished second to Auburn with 71 first place votes. Michigan State was third with 30 firsts and Oklahoma, the No. 1 team in both 1955 and 1956, was fourth with 22 first place ballots.

Auburn received a total of 3,123 points on the 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 voting system. Ohio State had 2,646, Michigan State 2,550 and Oklahoma 2,182.

Auburn will receive the AP trophy, placed in competition to replace the Father Hugh O'Donnell Memorial Trophy that was retired by Oklahoma last fall. The trophy, a bronze, football player under a classic canopy, stands three feet high and becomes the permanent possession of the first team to win it three times. In addition Auburn will receive a plaque emblematic of the 1957 championship.

In the pre-season poll, Oklahoma had been voted most likely to succeed again and Auburn was in fifteenth place. Nobody gave Auburn a first place vote in that mid-September balloting.

During the run of the regular poll, starting Sept. 24, Oklahoma led four times, Texas A&M three, and Michigan State twice before Auburn took over Nov. 26.

Behind the first four, all of which had 2,000 points or more, came Navy which polished off Army 14-0 Saturday to earn six firsts and 1,915 points.

Mississippi, Rice, Texas A&M and Notre Dame rounded out the top 10 in that order.

Arizona State, the only other unbeaten untied major college team, was ranked 12th with 10 firsts and 324 points.

THE TOP TEN

The top teams with points on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

|                   |       |         |       |

Bear Bryant Gets Release So Free To Go To Alabama

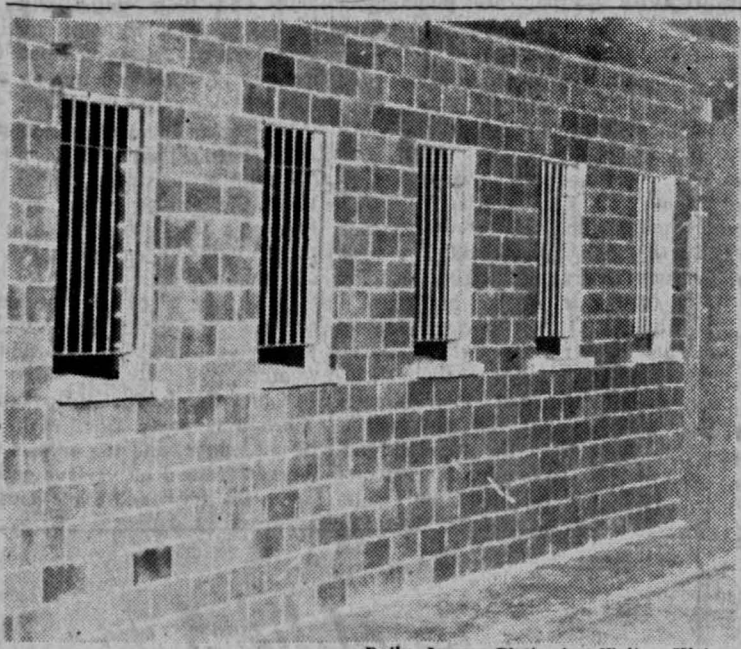

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. — Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant, doctor of sick football teams and hero of Texas A&M grid fans, Monday was released from his contract so he will be free to become coach at Alabama.

The announcement came from Dr. M. T. Harrington, A&M president. The release was requested by Bryant. Alabama is Bryant's alma mater.

The sometimes controversial coach lifted the Aggie football team from deep in the Southwest Conference cellar into a championship, and brought the Aggies the rating of No. 1 team in the nation for a time this season in the weekly Associated Press poll.

JOCKEY SUSPENDED

MIAMI, Fla. — Jockey Robert J. Martin, who was suspended Friday for 12 years by the Maryland State Racing Commission for touting, was suspended Monday for life by the Jockey's Guild.

Get Tickets Here

IOWA BASKETBALL TICKETS will be sold at new ticket booths this year in the lobby of the Iowa Fieldhouse. Ten new booths have been constructed in the Fieldhouse lobby so that more people can be handled on game nights. These booths will be open only before games. Otherwise, tickets may be purchased at the regular ticket office in the Athletic Department Building.

Lion Aces Appear In Traffic Court

DETROIT — The two top quarterbacks of the Detroit Lions appeared in court on separate traffic charges Monday.

A drunk driving case against Bobby Layne again was recessed. A traffic violation charge against Tobin Rote was dismissed.

Traffic Judge John D. Watts recessed the Layne case until Friday because Layne's attorney, Joseph W. Louisell, was unable to appear. Layne was arrested Sept. 17 and was granted a recess shortly afterward.

Rote had been ticketed for ramming the rear of a car last Nov. 11.

Iowa Basketball Booklet Now Available to Public

"Tip-Ins and Jump Shots," a 16-page printed information booklet about Iowa basketball, now is on sale to the public.

Issued primarily for information of press, radio and TV personnel, the booklet contains complete material about 1957-58 players, records, scoring, and rosters. It also has a picture of each of the present squad members.

The booklet will be mailed upon receipt of 25 cents by the Sports Information Service, Box 327, Iowa City.

Iowa fans will find the booklet very handy during the coming basketball season.

ISC's Myers Is Impressed With Arkansas

AMES — Iowa State College football coach Jim Myers said Monday night he was "very impressed" by a weekend visit to the University of Arkansas.

Arkansas is looking for a new head coach. Jack Mitchell resigned at Arkansas last week to become head football coach at the University of Kansas.

"I was invited down to Fayetteville by the Arkansas athletic director, John Barnhill, and I visited with officials of the school and looked over the Arkansas facilities," Myers said.

"I was very impressed with the Arkansas situation."

Myers said it is his understanding that altogether three or four prime prospects are being considered by Arkansas. President John T. Caldwell of the Arkansas institution has said that he has asked that at least three prospective coaches be nominated.

Myers said he visited, among others, with President Caldwell. He declined to say whether salary terms were discussed. Myers is getting $14,000 a year under a three year contract at Iowa State.

"I will say only that the Arkansas situation is very much alive in my mind but no definite decisions have been made," Myers said. "I like it very much here at Iowa State too."

Myers came here a year ago and took over a Big Eight Conference squad which in 1956 won two games and lost eight. In the past season under Myers, Iowa State won four, lost five and tied one. Myers, 35, came here from UCLA where he was an assistant coach.

Name Armbruster On Olympic Group

David Armbruster, Iowa swimming coach, has been named as a National Collegiate Athletic Association representative on the U.S. Olympic swimming committee.

Armbruster, who now is in his 42nd and final year as Hawkeye coach, will retire at the end of the 1958 season. He is the only man ever to coach swimming at Iowa.

Coach Armbruster, former president of the American College Swimming Coaches Association, has served on previous Olympic committees. He developed an Olympic champion in 1948 and a runner-up in 1952.

One of the duties of the committee will be to plan for U.S. swimming competition in the 1959 Pan American Games in Chicago and in the 1960 Olympic Games in Rome. Coach Armbruster now is attending meetings of the committee in Washington, D.C.

Lambert Trophy to Navy As East's Top Grid Team

NEW YORK — The Navy football team, victorious over Army and headed for the Cotton Bowl, Monday was named 1957 winner of the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of eastern major college football supremacy.

The midshipmen earned the unanimous vote of the 12-man selection board of coaches, sports writers and broadcasters. Army was the unanimous choice for the runner up spot with Penn State taking third.

PHILS HIRE WALTERS

PHILADELPHIA — Bucky Walters, former major league pitcher and manager, Monday signed a contract with the Philadelphia Phillies to supervise the National League club's farm system.

Majors Draft 11 for $135,000

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — The major leagues Monday selected 11 players from the minor leagues in their annual draft for total cash outlay of $135,000 as the National Assn. officially opened its 58th annual convention.

At the same time, the directors of the Pacific Coast league wrestled for three hours to no decision with the tough twin problems of realignment and compensation resulting from the transfer of two National League clubs — the Dodgers and Giants to Los Angeles and San Francisco respectively.

The draft, which included six pitchers, two outfielders, two infielders and a catcher — all from the three top minor leagues — represented an increase of two over last year's selections when the majors shelled out $100,000.

A player drafted from the Pacific Coast League costs $15,000, International League and American Assn. draftees cost $10,000.

Ten of the 16 major league clubs took advantage of the draft with Pittsburgh the only club to select two players. The Pirates, who finished in a seventh place tie with the Chicago Cubs, took a pair of righthanded pitchers from the Pacific Coast League. They selected Roger Osenbaugh from Sacramento and Bob Thorpe from Portland. The Pirates also released pitcher Nelson King to Columbus of the International League.

Washington, who had first draft selection by virtue of their last place finish in the American League in 1957, chose Bobby Malkmus, a Milwaukee-owned infielder, from Wichita.

Kansas City chose Harry Chitt, a catcher, from Denver of the American Assn.

The Cubs picked up a 21-year-old third baseman, Antonio Taylor, from Minneapolis of the AA. Cleveland chose Gary Geiger from Omaha of the AA.

Baltimore paid $15,000 for outfielder Bert Hamric, who batted .291 at Los Angeles.

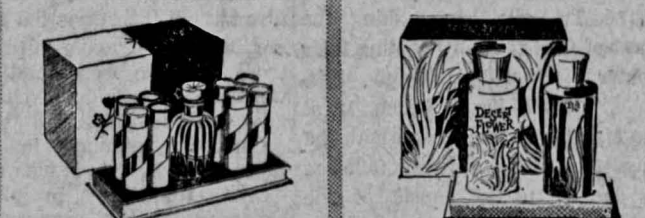

The Philadelphia Phillies picked pitcher John Gray from San Diego. Cincinnati drafted Bill Cade, a lefthanded pitcher, from St. Paul of the AA. The Boston Red Sox land chose Gary Geiger from Omaha of the AA.

St. Louis also chose a pitcher, lefthander Tom Flanagan, from Indianapolis of the AA.

The Braves, Dodgers and Giants in the National League, and the Yankees, Tigers and White Sox in the American League, did not draft anyone.

Karras First Draft Choice of Detroit Lions

Cardinals Grab Hill As Bonus, Also Get Crow

Bulletin

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Iowa tackle Frank Rigney was chosen Monday on the third round of the National Football League partial draft by the Philadelphia Eagles.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Alex Karras, Iowa's all-America tackle, was the first draft choice of the Detroit Lions in the first part of the National Football League's partial draft session Monday.

The Southwest Conference produced the top two choices in the NFL draft as the Chicago Cardinals selected King Hill, standout Rice quarterback, and big John Crow, power running fullback of Texas A&M.

Hill, rugged 210-pound all-around athlete, who led the Rice Owls to the Southwest Conference title and a New Year's Day Cotton Bowl date with Navy, was the bonus choice of Cardinals' coach Ray Richards.

In the regular draft, the Cardinals, first because of their last place standing, selected Crow, the "bread and butter" back of the Texas Aggies.

Commissioner Bert Bell presided over his third annual early draft session designed to give NFL teams an opportunity to compete on equal footing with early drafting Canadian League clubs for American football talent.

The 12 NFL clubs completed four rounds of their annual 30-round draft. The balance will be held at the league's annual meeting in January.

Los Angeles and San Francisco each obtained two players as they cashed in extra draft choices acquired in previous trades. The Rams, using Washington's first turn, picked Lou Michaels, bruising Kentucky tackle, and in its own turn named Jim Phillips, Auburn end. San Francisco, armed with Pittsburgh's first spot, selected Jim Pace, Michigan back, and in its own right grabbed Charles Krueger, Texas A&M tackle.

Green Bay, selecting second under the pro system in which the clubs draft from last to first, went for Dan Currie, Michigan State center. Other first round choices were Walt Kowalczyk, Michigan State back, by the Philadelphia Eagles; Charles Howley, West Virginia guard, by the Chicago Bears; Len Lyles, speedy Louisville back, by Baltimore; Phil King, Vanderbilt back, by New York, and Jim Shofner, Texas Christian back, by the Cleveland Browns.

Pros to Get All Demands

National Football League owners unanimously granted all the demands of the players' association — exhibition pay, minimum salary injury protection clause and recognition.

The owners acted in executive session after completing the league's partial draft session.

Commissioner Bert Bell told a press conference that unanimous approval was given recommendations he had made to the owners on Oct. 16 and Nov. 4 that they write into the constitution of the players' association. The owners' action conformed exactly with an exclusive report by The Associated Press a week ago.

These recommendations provide a minimum annual salary of $5,000, $50 per game exhibition pay, protection for the players in event of injury in line of duty and recognition of the association as the formal representative of the players.

Nice 'Bowling'

Southwest Cleaning Up On Post-Season Tilts

DALLAS (AP) — There's money in bowling — football bowling, that is — and the Southwest Conference is taking advantage of it.

Rice plays in the Cotton Bowl meeting Navy; Texas will be in the Sugar Bowl, playing Mississippi, and Texas A&M will clash with Tennessee in the Gator Bowl.

Each of those schools can keep $60,000 from its "take" and then participates in a division of the rest of the money among the seven members of the league.

It works like this: Rice will get better than $140,000 from the Cotton Bowl. It will keep $60,000 and give the other $80,000 back to the conference. Rice again will get a cut when the $80,000 is distributed.

BRAVES AT WICHITA

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves ended speculation Monday by announcing that they again will operate an American Assn. farm club in Wichita next season.

The Braves earlier had announced that they probably would transfer their American Assn. franchise from Wichita to another city, presumably Dallas, Tex.

If Payne starts, O'Connor will probably use the platoon system which he has been using in practice. In that case, the second platoon will consist of junior George Seaberg, and four sophomores, Swift, Frank Mundt, Bobby Washington, and Mike Heitman.

O'Connor, after carefully watching his players in the game with the freshman squad last Tuesday, said the Hawkeyes are progressing well. However, he was not satisfied with defense as a whole. Shooting was fairly good and rebounding adequate, he said.

SMU lost four of six lettermen from its Southwest Conference championship team. Biggest loss was Jim Krebs, 6-9 all-American who now is with the Minneapolis Lakers. Also lost were forward Larry Showalter and Bob McGregor and guard Bobby Mills.

However, the Texans have retained Capt. Rick Hershcher, who scored 314 points last season and was named on the all-conference team, and guard Ned Duncan, who tallied 217 points last year.

Hershcher is regarded by many as the most versatile player in SMU history. He has a fine hook shot, good finesse, and an accurate outside shot.

Other Mustang starters include two 6-5 sophomores, forward Bobby James and center Wilbur Marsh, as well as 5-10 Max Williams, a fast sophomore guard who feeds very well and is a good outside shot.

This will be the second meeting between Iowa and the Mustangs, with the Hawkeyes coming out on top in a 1955 contest, 80-62.

Karras Unanimous Today All-America So On TV Today

Two appearances on the NBC television show "Today," with Dave Garroway, will be made this morning by Alex Karras, Iowa all-American tackle.

Karras, who flew to New York Monday, will be interviewed at 7:15 a.m. and again at 8:15 a.m. as the sole representative of "Today's" all-American football team, selected by TV sports directors.

The Iowa star was the only unanimous choice for an all-American position and therefore was selected to represent the team on the "live" program.

Karras, Gibbons To Play In East-West Contest

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Iowa landed two players on the East squad which will meet Western college stars in the annual East-West football game here Dec. 28.

Hawkeyes named to the squad were tackle Alex Karras and end Jim Gibbons.

Michigan State led the way, placing three men on the East squad. They are guard Pat Burke and backs Walt Kawalczyk and Don Gilbert.

Name Idun Best Filly

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Idun, the most costly yearling filly ever sold at auction, scored an easy victory at the polls Monday when she was named champion 2-year-old filly of 1957 by the Thoroughbred Racing Assn's board of selection.

The unbeaten miss, owned by Mrs. Charles Ulrick Bay, went through the sales ring at Keeneland in 1956 for $63,000, and stacked up eight consecutive victories this season in her first year on the track.

Idun captured three major stakes — the Matron at Belmont Park, the Gardenia at Garden State Park, and the Frizette at Jamaica — and earned $220,955.

Graham To Coach College All-Stars

CHICAGO (AP) — Otto Graham, former Northwestern and Cleveland Browns star quarterback, Monday was named head coach of the College All-Stars for their football game next year with the champions of the National Football League. He now is a Cleveland business man.

The annual All-Star game will be Aug. 15, at Soldier Field. Graham, who retired from playing after leading the Browns to the NFL championship in 1954, succeeds Curly Lambeau as head coach of the collegians. Lambeau will remain to serve in an advisory capacity to Graham, whom he selected as his assistant for last summer's game.

A Night At The Student-Union

FROM STRAUSS TO VERDI, there are two hundred sides to choose from on the automatic record player in the Music Room. Cleve Oliver, G, Punksutawney, Pa., is making his choice.

SOMETIMES IN BRIDGE it's not easy to obtain your bid. From left, Ken Blackford, P2, Geneseo, Ill., Jim Martin, C3, Fort Dodge; Kibitzer, Dale Irwin, G, Louisville, Ky., John Harlan, G, Institute, West Virginia, and Alice King, A2, Fort Dodge, were playing in the Gold Feather Room of the Union. Blackford and Harlan went down on just after this picture was taken.

HOW CAN A MAN WIN when his wife was the 1949 Women's Intercollegiate National Champion at Billiards? Dr. Willard Fischer, graduate student in Dentistry, Milwaukee, Wis., watches as his wife, Cora, a graduate student in education, starts a game.

Life In The Union

By CHERYL JENNINGS
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

These days, students in the Union sometimes talk about space travel and the possibilities of travel to other planets. Perhaps in an outer-space university students are sitting in their student union discussing what life is like on the planet Earth.

If students from outer-space spent an evening in SUI's Memorial Union, what would they see?

In the Gold Feather room, they would hear the blast of music from a primitive electrical box, and see card games with six or seven intent faces, people bidding, scoring and paying cash to the winner . . .

If these space people could tear themselves away from the Gold Feather room and wander into the River Room, they would hear music again, and see earth's variations of Rock and Roll performed by a few brave couples who don't mind the comments of the audience.

Continuing their tour, the next stop might be the bowling alleys. Since this outer space trip was planned far in advance, these new friends soon would hear their number, 2057, called for alley five. All five of them would bowl because the new automatic pinsetters speed the game.

Crossing over to the poolroom, the visitor would meet professional players and a few girls who are learning just how complicated the game is.

Upstairs in the Union, the space-exchange students would see SUI students sitting in comfortable chairs studying in their shoes off. They would see announcements of coming events placed in strategic places, and students loaded with books moving into the music room where a variety of music ranging from grand opera to folk songs, Beethoven to Stravinsky, is heard during the hours the Union is open.

The music room would be crowded, so the space-visitors might walk into the reading room, where they would see more people actually studying than reading.

At the main entrances they would see students continually coming in. If our outer-space friends can read minds, they will know that these people are destined to small and large meetings, speeches, and after-meeting coffee.

Annoyed looks from students with midterms to take would cause the visitors to move into the television room. Entering the dimly-lit room, they would find two television sets and theater-like chairs tempting them to join the students already there.

It's a small universe. As our visitors start to leave, who would they meet but SUI earth students who have been visiting an outer-space university. Naturally that would call for another trip to the Gold Feather room and discussion with SUI students about grades, dates, and the latest picture exhibit upstairs.

AFTER MOWING THE PINS DOWN on one of the 16 bowling lanes in the new addition to the Memorial Union, two SUI couples check to see who is ahead. Bowlers, from left, John Haydon, A2, Des Moines; Donna and Carl Moon, E3, Des Moines, and Mrs.

Carol Haydon. The score at the end of the eighth frame showed the Moon's ahead by two points.

THE RECORD ROOM has plenty of comfortable corners in which to curl when you're studying. Shirley Isaacson, A4, Clarinda, reads as she listens to music in one of the Union's most popular rooms.

THE UNION PROVIDES VARIED ACTIVITIES, but some students bring their own. Ray LaDuke, Lawrence, Kansas, kneeling watches Don Carney, A1, also of Lawrence, practice juggling — for fun.

SUI Cultural Schedule Set. Music and literary fare at SUI during December will include a play, a lecture and three concerts. The University Theatre will present the Roman farce "The Menaechi" by Titus Plautus Dec. 5-7 and Dec. 10-14. Shakespeare took this rollicking story of mistaken identity as a basis for the plot of "Comedy of Errors."

Stock Market Down In Monday's Trade. NEW YORK (I) — The stock market started the last month of the year in a rather inauspicious fashion Monday, most leading issues declining fractions to about two points. There were some exceptions to the downtrend, notably in stocks related to the missile industry. Even there, though, the close was mixed with best gains not held to the finish. Some utilities and isolated issues in other groups also made progress. But the bulk of steels, motors, metals, rails and oils all ended lower. Final prices were slightly above the lows in these groups. Profit taking after three weeks of advances was a factor in the decline as was a statement by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark.), a tax authority, that there is little promise of immediate tax relief. U.S. Steel and Bethlehem, the two biggest steel producers, fell about a point as steel operations sank to the lowest level of the year last week. Other steel stocks also declined. A cut in the price of lead upset the metal group. With the New York Central and the New Haven announcing additional layoffs, the whole rail section was under pressure. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed down $2.20 at $158.70 with the industrials down $2.00, rails down $1.60 and utilities unchanged. The drop in the average clipped an estimated $1,400,000,000 from the value of all stocks on the New York Stock Exchange.

Union Board Toys for Tots Tourney Set. The Union Board Games subcommittee is sponsoring a "Toys for Tots" bowling tournament from Dec. 2 to 13 in the Iowa Memorial Union bowling alleys. Cost of registration for the tournament is 25 cents or a 25 cent toy. Proceeds from the tournament will be used to buy Christmas toys for the children in the Children's Ward of University Hospitals. The man and woman with the highest scores will each win desk calendar trophies on display in the show case near the Gold Feather Room in the Union. More complete rules and additional information are available at the Recreation Desk in the Union. Any SUI student may enter the tournament.

One Act Play Available To Community. As a part of its community service program, the Iowa City Community Theatre has prepared a Christmas program which is available to interested community groups. In addition to a chorus of carolers who will open and close the program with Christmas songs, the group will present a one-act comedy, "Dad Trims the Tree," by Roland Fernand. As the name suggests, the action of the play revolves around Dad's efforts to get his family to rally round on Christmas Eve to trim the tree. In the cast are Joseph L. Mauch, G. Trenton, Mo., Mrs. Sadie Seagrave, Margaret Cutler, Mrs. Zoe Zender, D. Judy Foster and Johnny Barrett. Mrs. Hood Gardner is the director, and any group interested in having the program performed may contact Mrs. Gardner after 5 p.m. at 8-1369. The group has made plans to perform for patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital, University Hospitals and Psychopathic Hospital.

Lutherans Slate Party For Tonight. The annual Christmas meeting and party of the United Lutheran Church Women of the First English Lutheran Church will take place today from 8 to 10 p.m. in the church basement. Election of officers for the new year will be the main topic in the business meeting. Anyone who can not attend the Thank Offering Ingathering may bring their thank offering to this meeting. Mrs. Bruce Parker, offerings chairman, said. The Ruth Zartman Circle is in charge of refreshments. Miss Edna Franz will be in charge of the devotional program. Anyone needing a ride to the meeting may contact Mrs. Robert Sutherland.

Poetry Workshop To Give Readings

The Poetry Workshop will present the first of a series of poetry readings Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. in Shambaugh Auditorium, open to the public without charge.

The works featured will be those of three SUI poets, Peter Everwine and Donald Finkel, graduate assistants in English literature, and Robert Mezey, A3, majoring in Classics.

Harry Duncan, assistant professor in the SUI School of Journalism and a well known poet, is scheduled to introduce the poets.

Some of the poems to be read have appeared in the new Meridian paperback anthology, "The New Poets of England and America," edited by Hall, Pack, and Simpson.

Works by the three authors have appeared in The New Yorker, Kenyon Review, Poetry, Botteghe Oscure, Perspective, Western Review, and Oscar Williams' "Pocketbook of Modern Verse."

Donald Justice, instructor in the SUI Poetry Workshop, said Monday, "Poetry readings have enjoyed an upsurge in popularity since the American tours of Dylan Thomas and other writers."

Justice said the Workshop planned the readings this year because he feels "there are more good poets at SUI now than we have had for some time."

A second reading, to be announced in the near future, will consist of the poems of Justice, Henri Coulette, and Theodore Holmes. Coulette is also an instructor in the Poetry Workshop. Holmes, a graduate student, has published a volume of poems with Scribner's.

May Restrict Des Moines Key Clubs

DES MOINES (AP)—Without reaching a clear-cut decision, the Des Moines City Council indicated Monday it would wait for a District Court decision before deciding whether to enact a proposed ordinance that would restrict the drinking-hours of key clubs.

The Polk County Board of Supervisors last Tuesday enacted regulations like those in the proposed ordinance.

The regulations prohibit the drinking of liquor in key clubs from Saturday midnight to 7 a.m. Monday, and from 1 a.m. to 6 a.m. other days.

Two county clubs, Club 51 and the Polk County Auctioneer's and Merchandiser's Assn., Saturday asked District Court for an injunction against enforcement of the regulations, challenging their constitutionality. A hearing is pending.

Councilman Charles F. Iles has asked Sen. George E. O'Malley of Des Moines to request an Iowa attorney general's opinion as to the legality of such regulations.

But, in Monday's council meeting, Councilman Robert E. Conley and Corporation Counsel Milton W. Strickler said they did not think the attorney general would give an opinion as long as the District Court case is pending.

Loveless Hits 'Hard Money'

DES MOINES (AP)—In its anxiety to "curb the disease of inflation, the government has practically killed the patient," Gov. Herschel Loveless told the Home Builders Association of Iowa Monday.

The governor, in an address prepared for the association's annual convention here, criticized the government's "hard money" policy and said efforts of the federal government to help the housing industry have been "for the most part, too little and too late."

Loveless complimented the builders on the quality of homes being constructed in Iowa and declared the industry's central problem is the need for mortgage financing of homes.

"You home builders, like the farmers, in recent years in this state have failed to get your fair share of the income dollar," Loveless declared. "Contrary to prevailing opinion, the home builder has not 'cut a fat hog.'"

The governor noted that the Federal Housing Administration recently reduced the required down payment for homes but said the main problem is a shortage of long term credit for home purchasers.

"Here, of course, we run head-on into the national 'hard money' policy," Loveless said. "We can only hope that the recent action of the Federal Reserve Board in reducing the discount rate of some of the regional banks from three to three and one half per cent represents a reversal in the 'hard money' policy."

Vandals entered the home by forcing a window while Kerr was away and smashed or damaged several articles of furniture and ransacked a part of the house.

Confusion Grows Following Jenner Resignation Rumors

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rumors that Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.), may resign this month instead of waiting for the end of his term early in 1959 led to brisk speculation about a successor Monday.

Hoosier Republicans in Washington spent a busy day filled with hurried conferences, telephone conversations and political gossip following Jenner's announcement in Indiana Saturday that he will not seek re-election.

Indiana GOP congressional circles reported Jenner may quit his Senate seat by the end of the year, with a close friend, Indiana's Gov. Harold W. Handley, taking his place.

The informants said Jenner suggested the plan to Handley and Lt. Gov. Crawford F. Parker in Indianapolis last week when he surprised them with his decision not to run.

Satellites Topic for SUI Panel

"The Implications of the Russian Earth Satellites" will be the topic of the Information First program to be given Thursday at 4 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol.

The panel of experts discussing the subject will include Frank McDonald, research associate in the SUI Physics Department, who will consider the scientific angle in terms of a true scientific advancement; Prof. Vernon Van Dyke, Department of Political Science, who will relate the political implications on neutral countries and propaganda value; Arthur Mendel, assistant professor of history, who will follow the historical behavior of Russia in terms of use for world peace or as an arm for aggression; and Col. Charles G. Kirk, head of Air Science, who will interpret the military aspects.

Larry Barret, assistant program director of WSUI, will serve as moderator.

Sponsored by the Associated Women Students at the University, Information First is a program designed to bring to the campus a large variety of informative topics in order to stimulate an interest in vital national and international issues of our day.

Course Planner Of City Schools Resigns in Dec.

David K. Stewart, coordinator of curriculum of the Iowa City public school system for the past five years, has resigned. His resignation is effective Dec. 31.

Stewart, who has held the coordinator position here since 1952, will take over the job as director of elementary education at Kenosha, Wis. Stewart said the Kenosha school system is twice as large as Iowa City's, and that there are approximately three times as many students in the Kenosha district.

Stewart was the first to hold such a position in Iowa City since the office was established in 1952. He formerly had been an elementary principle in Kansas City, Kan.

Robert T. Davis, secretary of the Iowa City school district said he knew of no particular reason why Stewart resigned other than the better opportunity at Kenosha. Superintendent of Schools Buford Garner was unavailable for comment.

Stewart graduated from Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg, and received his M.A. at Columbia University. He also has studied at SUI.

SUI Items

IOWA CITY CRAFT GUILD will sponsor a sale of Christmas gift items from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the Craft House, 918 Second Ave.

COMMERCE WIVES will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Walter L. Daykin, 438 S. Dodge St. At the meeting, the women will work on their Christmas Gift Baskets. All wives of students in the College of Commerce are invited.

PARENTS PRE-SCHOOL will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the pre-school, 10 E. Market. After the business meeting and election of officers, there will be a film entitled "Children's Emotions" shown. The group will divide into four discussion sections following the movie.

COLLOQUIUM will hear Dr. I. I. Zinnes of the University of Oklahoma speak on "Elementary Quantum Mechanics: An Operational Approach" today at 4 p.m. in Room 301 of the Physics Building.

REPUBLICAN WORKSHOP will hold two December meetings, the first being Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Richard Sidwell, 1125 Seymour. The workshops are being held to give University students a chance to make up past meetings they missed, according to Mrs. Sidwell.

TO COLORADO SPRINGS Marvin Berenstein, A4, Ames, and Dave Dutton, A4, Cedar Falls, traveled to Colorado Springs, Colo., over Thanksgiving to represent SUI at the National Inter-Fraternity Conference.

The two-day meeting centers around the theme "Making the Fraternity System More Effective." The fraternity men will discuss scholarship, rushing, indoctrination, ritual, help week and public relations.

Two Speakers Scheduled For Dental Meet Today

Twenty-three Iowa dentists are attending a 2-day meeting of the Iowa Orthodontic Study Club which will close today at SUI. The sessions are co-sponsored by the SUI College of Dentistry and the Study Club.

Membership of the Iowa Orthodontic Study Club consists of fulltime orthodontic practitioners within the state. Orthodontia deals with correcting irregularity of the teeth.

Dr. S. J. Kloehn of Appleton, Wis., and Dr. E. H. Hixon, head

Reds Blast U.S. Prayers

MOSCOW (AP)—The newspaper Komsomol Pravda has condemned the United States practice of opening Cabinet meetings with prayer.

In a blistering attack on religion in America, the Communist Youth League organ declared: "Every meeting of the administration in Washington begins with prayer... the secretary of state, according to one American magazine, is in constant touch with God. The vice-president has said 'We trust in Almighty God as we do in our military strength.' Worship of this God expresses blind faith in the immortality and indestructibility of capitalist slavery and the impunity of the imperialist plunder."

If you answered "No" to all questions, you obviously smoke Camels — a real cigarette. Only 6 or 7 "No" answers mean you better get on to Camels fast. Fewer than 6 "No's" and it really doesn't matter what you smoke. Anything's good enough!

But if you want to enjoy smoking as never before, switch to Camels. You'll find nothing else tastes so rich, smokes so good and mild. Could be that's why more people today smoke Camels than any other cigarette. Love that Camel!

WHO'D HAVE THOUGHT IT . . . "There I was, going down the street when . . . right there at College and Dubuque . . . Santa Claus walked up to me . . ." Although she didn't say exactly that, the expression on this little girl's face seems to indicate that she would have if she could have found breath enough to talk at all, which she didn't.

Movie Houses Plan Special Xmas Shows

By JOE FELL
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Santa Claus is here but he will not have his headquarters in Iowa City's business district this Christmas season, as he has in the past. He is making his appearance in many stores and at Christmas theater parties which will be held at the Strand, Varsity, and Englert theaters.

Christmas programs are planned for the three movie houses at which Santa will appear after the movie and distribute free candy to the children.

Local stores will remain open an extra four nights in December to accommodate Christmas shoppers and also the three Friday nights — December 6, 13, and 20 — before Christmas.

Stores will also remain open on the regular Monday nights December 2, 9, 16, and 23, and in addition will accommodate shoppers on the Wednesday before Christmas, December 13.

Planned University functions which will be open to the general public will all be held in the Memorial Union.

On December 15 the foreign students will present their annual Christmas Festival followed December 18 by the University Chorus and Orchestra Christmas Concert.

On December 19 there will be a Christmas caroling party held at 7 p.m. in the main lounge of the Union.

IF YOU WANT A good view of Santa you've got to get "up in the air about it." Sitting on his cousin's shoulders is Bill Cressett. The guy doing the work underneath and apparently enjoying it all, is Mike Russell who is Billy's cousin. All this happened at the Strand theater Saturday morning.

MY, SANTA, WHAT BIG FEET YOU HAVE . . . This well dressed youngster was fascinated with Santa's feet as he met the jolly old gentleman at the corner of College and Dubuque Streets last Friday morning. Most of the children expressed more interest in his whiskers or what looked suspiciously like a pillow around his bulging middle.

Give 'em the Royal Carpet Treatment

Christmas comes but once a year, but gifts to the home live on for many years giving pleasure day by day. One such house gift that delivers a full measure of enjoyment is a new carpet or rug. Everyone in the family benefits from the added comfort, the increased quiet throughout the house.

A gift of carpet can be personalized, too, for all ages. There are soft, sturdy and stain-resistant carpets for the small toddler — who really knows the floor first-hand. There are gay rugs in amusing designs for the youthful "decorator" of first room-of-her-own.

A new rug in traditional design will do wonders for Grandmother's room, besides adding warmth and safety underfoot. The comfort of carpet has special meaning to elderly people, who often lead a sedentary life.

Perhaps the furnishing in the master bedroom have been "put off," while other parts of the house were completed. A luxurious carpet in an exciting color will add glamour to this retreat for Mr. and Mrs. The quieting effect of carpeting insures privacy and a restful atmosphere.

There are places for area or room-size rugs all over the house — as decorative accents or major underpinnings. And this year's variety in colors, textures and patterns offers a choice to please anyone. Don't forget the grandest gift of all — wall-to-wall carpet throughout the living room.

Plan Ahead And Beat The Rush

Planning ahead or bruising your way to the front of the line are the two alternatives for beating the mad rush home for the Christmas holidays.

It's too late, come December 19 to decide to fly to Miami, Fla. the next evening. Airlines officials say all flight tickets for Dec. 20 - 21 have been reserved. In fact, the wise made their reservations in September, even before they registering insures privacy and a restful atmosphere.

The bus companies don't have a reservation system, but the ticket agents do recommend that you buy your ticket at least a week in advance. By doing this, bus officials say they will be able to predict how many extra busses will be needed for each route.

Trains also operate on a first come, first served basis, with one exception. The Rock Mountain Rocket, which heads west to Denver and east to Chicago, is a reservation train. But although reservations on it are nearly sold out, this doesn't indicate you can't get on the train. Extra cars are usually added.

On a non-reservation train it's up to the conductor to determine how many passengers the train will take. Most conductors allow standing-room passengers, especially during the Christmas rush.

But if a conductor says: "No more people on this train," and you miss the bus you wanted, and you know it's too late for an airplane reservation, and the highways are too slick for an automobile there is but one thing to do — stay in Iowa City and have a Merry Christmas!

Iowa City's Junior Chamber of Commerce began preparations Nov. 27 to ensure the arrival of aged but never aging Santa Claus at the homes of the less fortunate at Christmas time.

The Jaycees started their Christmas activities by placing empty bushel baskets in the city's grocery stores so that Iowa Citizens may donate groceries, which Jaycees will sort and use to make up baskets for the needy. Harold W. Simmonds 1809 C Street, chairman of Christmas activities for the Junior Chamber of Commerce said, "We gave 30 baskets last year and this year we hope to give 60."

The groceries will be picked up Dec. 21 and baskets will be delivered to needy families Dec. 23.

Plans are also being made to bring Santa Claus to the Christmas program at the Handicapped Children's Hospital Dec. 19. For their annual home decorating contest, the Jaycees have made application blanks available to homeowners at the Illinois Gas and Electric Co.

The contest is to be judged on the basis of the originality and ingenuity of local resident's Christmas displays.

First, second, and third prizes will be given valued at $50, $25, and $10 respectively. The first prize winner will be entered in a national contest to vie for cash prizes totaling $5,000.

Swing A Stick, Make It 'Rain'— The Mexican Pinata

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Toys, candy, fruits and nuts literally rain from above as a Mexican family celebrates Christmas. Reason: the pinata.

The pinata (pronounced peen-YAH-tah), which dates back centuries, is more important to a Mexican than the Christmas tree, a comparatively recent innovation.

It is a gaily-colored paper and cardboard rabbit, elephant, duck, goose, star — almost anything — built around a large clay pot which is filled with fruits and sweets and toys.

It is hung from the ceiling or rafter by a rope which is usually manipulated by the host at a party. Blindfolded guests, as a rule children, swing at it with a stick.

The host pulls the pinata out of reach at first as the guests swing at it. Finally, after all have had their turn, he lets it hit.

A well-made pinata is hard to break, but when it is finally cracked the contents rain to the floor and everyone scampers for their share of the loot.

The pinatas are used throughout the year at birthday and other parties, but they are predominantly a Christmas season fixture. They date back hundreds of years. The Aztecs are believed to have had a crude type, before the Spanish conquest in the 16th Century.

Pinatas are made in almost every village and town in Mexico. They are hand-made, from the clay pot to the gay colored finish. The reinforcements are usually layer after layer of newspapers stuck together with paste.

They range in size from small ones a foot or two long, to large ones several feet in diameter.

Many are a work of art, and some tourists buy them to take home.

They're popping all over the place now — to shouts of "Feliz Navidad," or Merry Christmas.

Christmas Rough On Mom's Feet

Christmas is fun for the kids but it's tough on Mom's feet.

From the time she makes out her first Christmas list until she slides the remains of the Christmas turkey into the icebox, the average woman gives her feet a beating that would weaken the arches of a Missouri mule, and the mule's feet are usually better shod.

To get through your Christmas shopping and all those other chores in good shape, try a well-fitting shoe with a well-based heel at least no higher than 2½ inches — two inches is best.

When you're buying your new shoes, test them by walking up and down in the store. Shut your eyes so that you can concentrate on the way they feel. That way you'll fit your feet, not your eyes.

New shoes should feel so good you want to walk right out of the store in them. Grandma may have had to "break in" her shoes, but you don't.

Be sure your shoes have closed-up toes, too. They're not only warmer but safer when the going gets tough!

PETER PINATA: Peter Rabbit may be strictly an Easter fixture farther north, but in Mexico he's a breakable Christmas container for nuts, fruits, candies and toys.

Don't Like Mink? Give Her Leather

If your girl is allergic to mink, why not give her leather? It carries the same connotation of luxury, yet comes in a sliding scale of prices among which you are sure to find the one precisely suited to the current state of your affections and your pocketbook. Here are just a few of the delightful possibilities:

Leather Handbag Accessories:

You can buy these for 50 cents or 50 dollars. At either price she'll be reminded of you every time she powders her nose or reaches for her coin purse. New leathers include "unborn calf" printed like leopard fur, light-as-silk black leather printed with a gold and white floral design; white leather edged with gold; glossy black leather trimmed with gold and pearls and pastel leathers trimmed with rhinestone stars. For Southern belles they come in natural-colored saddle leather using Confederate pennies as clasps and trim.

Leather Luggage Accessories:

These include leather cases for traveling irons, first-aid kits, and, of course, manicure and cosmetic cases as well as jewelry rolls.

Leather Garments:

These range from raccoon-trimmed jackets and skinny pants to gold leather boleros for evening.

Leather Gloves:

She'll love washable Launder-Leather gloves in white or a bright color for early spring.

Leather Beauty Boxes:

The busy but beautiful executive will appreciate the leather-covered beauty box for the top of her desk that looks to the visitor as if it might hold the makings of the corporation's annual report. Actually it contains six satinwood compartments tailored to fit her favorite cosmetics, perfume, etc.

If she's not allergic to mink...

Hungry Youngsters? Give 'Em Nut Bread

Despite the hustle and bustle going on about the house during these pre-Christmas days, one thing never changes — hungry youngsters still come home from school. So, wise is the homemaker who has on hand the kind of snack that can be served quickly, or that youngsters can even fix themselves if necessary.

For instance a loaf — or better, loaves — of nut bread suits the purpose perfectly. It's made with whole wheat flakes for extra nourishment and taste appeal, and is delicious spread with cream cheese, jelly or just lots of butter.

HEFTY FOOT

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—It took a lot of hauling for a thief to steal $26 worth of equipment from the city. The loot was a 12-ton jack, taken from the Wayne Hills dump.

Santa Has Slippers, Shoes For Everyone

You can make life softer for almost anyone this year by the gift of leather casual shoes, or slippers for leisure hours. Since these do not require precise fitting, all you need is the shoe size. Your choice ranges all the way from soft leather boots that are suitable for both indoor and outdoor wear to slippers designed chiefly for the path between the icebox and the easy chair.

Don't Forget Death Doesn't Take Time Off

By EDWARD S. KITCH
CHICAGO (AP)—December — with its holiday spirit — may be the jolliest time of the year. It is also the deadliest.

The National Safety Council says December deaths never take a holiday. They do just the reverse. Year after year December comes in with a traffic death toll higher than any other month — 17 per cent greater than the average for the other months last year.

Bad weather is often cited as a reason for December deadliness, but holiday driving and drinking are part of the picture. Another cause is early darkness. The National Safety Council says three times as many fatalities per vehicle mile occur at night than in daytime, and December has more darkness than any other month.

Despite statistics like this, a recent study showed that motorists travel an average of two miles per hour faster at night than in daytime.

Experts say many drivers apparently don't realize that even with lights on full blast it is almost impossible to stop in the distance illuminated by their headlights when they go faster than 50 m.p.h.

A motorist's best chance for December survival, according to the safety council, are in these suggestions:

1. Drive 10 m.p.h. slower at night than during daylight.
2. Put your headlights — not your parking light — on at dusk. Dusk is a deceptive time, say experts. A fourth of all traffic deaths occur during the hours of 4 to 8 p.m.
3. Stay off secondary roads. They usually have inadequate signs, poor overhead lights and most dangerous driving conditions.
4. If you drive at night, be sure you are rested. Be alert. Many dangerous situations are encountered at night.
5. Keep your gas tank at least half full when you drive after dark. If you run out of gas or have a car failure, get all four wheels off the roadway.

A car sitting on the road after dark is an invitation to a collision.

In all boots, look for the genuine leather sole and leather welt construction which make the boot as easy on feet as a bed stocking yet protect them from damp. Many boots also have a shearing lining which will keep feet cozy without interfering with leather's famous breathing properties.

The choice in gift footwear for people who prefer to view the wintery scene from behind a window-pane is even wider.

For the girls there are leather slippers or mules in elegant fashions. Some are beautifully embellished in gold or silver. Others are embroidered in floral designs. A harlequin slipper is made up of bright leathers in diamond shapes. Its corners turn back and are fastened down with tiny silver bells. The court jester's slipper-boot of soft leather reaches to the ankle where it is gathered in with a band of jewels or fur.

The new idea in women's slippers is a leather lining in an even brighter shade than the slipper itself, such as geranium lined with turquoise, yellow with citron, and scarlet with bright pink. And often the leather sole is pointed.

Men's easy slippers also come in a variety of styles. They may be elegant low-cut opera slippers in glossy smooth leather for wear with dressing gown and muffler. Other styles—moccasins, backless scuffs, and high-topped slippers come in both smooth and suede leather.

And, don't forget the children. Their slippers should be bright in color, high cut (to make it hard to pull them off) and with resilient leather soles and uppers to help support growing muscles.

TOUGH BREAK

Tom Anderson of Aurelia broke his left ankle when he fell on the blacktop while cleaning his car windows during a recent snowstorm.

Impounded Puppies Just The Ticket

By JOE FELL
Daily Iowan Staff Writer
Eight "thugs" in the lockup are anxious to be sprung by Christmas — it's pretty tough to spend Christmas day in the bullpen, especially when there's no kids around to play with.

This is the fate in store for eight lively pups incarcerated in Iowa City's Animal Shelter unless a kind Santa bails them out in time to celebrate the yuletide.

As a tip to any Santa who might serve as bondsman, bail has been set on these prisoners at $3 impounding fee, plus $2 license, plus 75 cents for each day the prisoner has served.

It Pays To Play With Dolls

DETROIT (AP) — A housewife whose hobby is making dresses for dolls says it's lots of fun but it has one drawback.

Mrs. Marion Duarte, 36, who just won $2,500 first prize in a national doll dressing contest, says:

"You don't get much housework done. It involves an awful lot of work making the tiny dresses."

Mrs. Duarte took up the hobby six years ago when a friend asked her to make costumes for dolls to decorate a wedding cake. Previously, she had dressed a few dolls as Christmas gifts for friends.

"Later I began getting a few orders," she said. "But there was not much money in it. I sold one bridal set for $20 and the materials alone cost $10. It takes several weeks to make an elaborate set."

"I've been making doll dresses more for the pleasure of doing it."

Now that she has won national recognition, Mrs. Duarte is thinking of opening a doll studio to supplement the income of her husband, who is a waiter at a downtown hotel.

WALKER WACKS OFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Nancy Walker, one of the Broadway critics favorite comedienne, vows she is through with the Great White Way.

Says the star of the recently closed musical "Copper and Brass":

"In the past three years I've worked only eight months. I've got a pile of scrapbooks full of fabulous notices. But where do they leave me? In the kitchen."

Miss Walker says from here on she is going to concentrate on seeking jobs in television.

Leather Gift For 'That Man' Ideas

Pleasing a man is every woman's problem — and never more so than at Christmas. Here are just a few of the new ideas and the old favorites that come in leather:

LEATHER WALLET — Next time he takes his out, notice what kind it is. It's a good idea to get him a new one like it in style but in a different texture or color. If his present one is of glossy smooth leather, get him one in grained leather. It can be a soft, rippling grain or a rough, rugged one. If the one he has is dark brown or black, get him one in saddle tan, and vice versa.

LEATHER BELTS — Are newest in a slim, ivy-league style with a plain harness-type buckle.

LEATHER GLOVES — Every man should have a pair of gray suede for dress, a pair of black or brown capeskin, and a pair of pigskin gloves. There are also special gloves for golfing and hunting in leather.

LEATHER CAR KITS — These come complete with everything he needs for a morning's spruce-up including the large-size, specially oil-treated U. S. government-approved chamois. Another leather case holds a compass, magnifying glass and flashlight.

LEATHER TRAVELING AIDS — Toilet cases, stud boxes, shoe horns and brush sets are old favorites. Kits containing hot plates, a pan and plastic cups for early morning coffee are fine for some men. Pipe smokers will be impressed with a leather case containing two or three pipes, tobacco and pipe-cleaning implements.

LEATHER PASSPORT CASES — If you're planning a trans-oceanic trip with him, a double passport case — one side labeled "His" the other, "Hers", is a gift of sheer genius.

come outfitted with drills, pliers, electric saws, etc.

LEATHER JACKETS — There are sturdy, fleece-lined jackets for roughing it and unlined, lighter weight ones for dress-casual wear. Why not one in a color to match his car?

LEATHER SPORTS AND OUTING AIDS — These include leather cases for golf clubs, shotguns, and binoculars; leather-covered picnic hampers (one of these includes silver trays and crystal glasses) and leather-covered beverage sets.

Furniture Makes Exceptional Gift

Living is always happier in a home that is tastefully furnished. To a small child such a home means comfort and security. To sub-teens and teens, it sets a standard for the home they begin to dream of.

To young marrieds, a well-appointed home is a foundation on which to build a forward-looking social and business life. In later years, a well furnished home is a haven for relaxed living.

This year, give your home the furniture it needs to make it a background for happy living, a happy family.

It isn't often we can bring the future right down to the present time, but you can, this Christmas, by giving your home a present that will give pleasure right now, and on into future years.

So give your future a present with a new desk, new sofa, handsome lounge chair, or those other pieces you've wanted. Buy or take advantage of lay-away plans now while your store has many choices. If you want to keep it a surprise, ask for delivery around the Big Day.

These gifts will give pleasure long after Christmas

Especially designed for leisure hours and oh-so-soft and flexible. The four styles shown can only suggest the good footing you'll find in Ever-Ease House Slippers, the lines, the lightness, the luxury feel. They're easy to slip into and come in all the popular colors and styles. Try them, you'll like them.

Games for the Whole Family

STEPS TO LEARNING . . . This game is one of a new series for pre-school children.

This is the era of family fun, when Mom, Pop, and the children once more are enjoying games and television as a family group. Designed to foster gay fireside competition is the new crop of Christmas games available in shops, many of which can be enjoyed on an equal basis by all members of the family. There are indoor counterparts to many outdoor sports, such as baseball, football, hockey and even Giant Steps, the game children used to enjoy outdoors before the days of traffic problems. The trend to ease the course of homework via instructive games is accelerating. Fractions are easy as pie in a new game which bases play on sections of lemon and cherry pie representing various frac-

Another game with wide age appeal is a three-dimensional game in which players emulate test-car drivers, maneuvering cars by magnetic action. There also are many card games, old and new, which can mean hours of companionship and fun for all the family.

Start Children's Library—

Santas: Picture Book Gifts?

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.
Long before a child can read he will love books. If he lives in a home where everyone reads, he is a lot more likely to grow up with a love of good reading than if he never sees an adult crack a book. Let's begin with picture books and start a library that will grow as he grows. A good picture book must have lovely illustrations, beautiful format, and an amusing story. The pictures that appeal to the young child are clear and bright with the details of life that are familiar. The pictures themselves must tell the story. The story needs to be simple and told with not much text. It is not necessary that the words themselves be easy to read.

Children do not read a book through once and then put it aside. They want it read over and over and over again. A good book becomes a cherished possession. How to Choose Sometimes grownups don't know how to buy books for little children. Mothers and fathers know the child's likes better than grandparents, aunts, uncles and miscellaneous friends, but even parents are often uneasy about what's good for the child. Remember first books are for fun. If there is any deep down objective it is to show the little child that pleasure lies between the covers of a book. Don't buy books because they teach something. Books do teach, of course, but the teaching is secondary to the joy of the story itself. Some of the books we adults read as children are still good, but don't forget that many new ones and good ones are being written every year. Children's books are reviewed in the newspapers — usually the Sunday editions and often in women's magazines. Your best bet is to go to a good book store and spend some time looking over their selection of picture books. If you doubt your ability to pick out something, especially if you're a maiden aunt or a rich uncle, drop in at the library and have a chat with the librarian of the Children's Room. She knows what books children enjoy.

Steps to Reading
A picture book is not intended as a first reader, but starts the youngster on the way toward being a reader by giving him a love of books. After the story has been read to him over and over, you will see him pick up the book and "read" the story. He knows every word, but he reads the pictures, not the little black marks. He learns the sound of big strong words that go with the pictures — words he couldn't "read" for years — but he loves them, and his vocabulary grows. He may amaze you, like 5-year-old Chris, who took his turn at a guessing game when the whole family was in the car: "I'm thinking of an amphibian that's green," he said. Each child is different from every other child, but there are picture books for all. A picture book is not a toy the little child enjoys all by himself. Books need to be shared. Mother or Daddy should look at the book with Molly, read her the story as the chubby finger points out the familiar details in the pictures. Another time Molly will bring the book over to Mother, snuggle up next to her and open up the bright pages. If Mother makes a single mistake in reading the text, Molly is very likely to correct her. Molly already knows exactly

The Toyland Jungle

THANK-YOU, SANTA . . . Little Dana Grauds, 4, of New York, is all agog at these lovely additions to her playroom. The giant stuffed animals designed by Margarete Steiff are part of a large collection of king-size toys now available.

Lollipop Set Likes Animals Big, Stuffed

By VIVIAN BROWN

The lollipop set is big-eyed this Christmas for some very earthy creatures with a past — elephants, tigers, lions, kangaroos, penguins — plump, soft and enormous. But best of all they look real.

There is only one hitch in this Junior Jungleland. If you haven't got your order in, chances are your little animal tamers will be disappointed. It seems there just aren't enough king-size animals to go around. If you do have your order in, better measure that playroom again. You may have to knock down a wall to accommodate these new playthings.

The lion is massive, almost as big as some of his zoo counterparts, although his expression is more cultured. The kangaroo is a delightful creature, with baby kangaroo peering from its pouch. The dinosaur, a frightening monster 12 feet long and 6 feet high — leers in an out-of-this-world fashion. He'll need a room of his own, maybe two — no Junior Jungleland he. You may have to build him a new playroom to keep him comfortable, but it'll be worth it.

An elephant is so eager to please that you'll probably offer him peanuts. There are life-size gorillas, penguins, dogs of every description, donkeys and seals. There is a black panther and a giraffe 8½ feet tall.

If sales are any indication, Santa will need some high potency vitamins when he starts making deliveries. He'll also need a super-powered trailer truck to transport the stuff.

Charles Vesey, Vice-President of F.A.O. Schwarz, one of the world's largest toy stores, says response to menagerie toys has been enormous, adding: "The biggest are the ones that are moving beyond expectations. Price seems no object."

Manufacturers have stopped taking orders on toys in the $75 to $400 bracket. (Yep, that's what some of these stuffed animals cost.) But if you really have your heart set on a giraffe for your small fry, for example, you can settle for the smaller version — 5 feet tall, but with the same charm. If you're planning on the big fellow for your nursery, make sure you don't have to cut a hole in the ceiling to give him breathing space. That'll be the only alternative if he arrives on Christmas Eve — you'll have to make him fit somehow, although there is still time to raise the roof or knock down a couple of walls.

Whole Family Now Takes to Railroad

RAILROADERS ALL . . . Sis joins Junior this year in the model train fan club, with her own pastel electric train.

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Women's Editor

Don't be surprised if you see Mom and Sis working on the railroad this Christmas, along with Pop and Junior. The model train fan club now takes in all the family, with the introduction of new pastel-colored electric trains designed especially for girls.

The toy train empire this year includes blueprint-perfect replicas of 26 of the nation's leading railroads, as manufacturers of real railroad equipment supply the toy train makers with specifications for new models long before they are actually in service. So whenever you see a brand new locomotive or a new type train streaking across country, you can be sure it has a toyland replica in miniature.

In addition to the trains themselves, there are many new accessories to supply thrills for the young railroader. There's a remote-controlled illuminated dispatching board with an attendant who hurries across a catwalk in front of the board and changes train arrivals and departures. There's a news stand with a dealer who moves back and forth at the flick of a button while a newsboy sells his papers and a miniature pup chases his tail around a fire hydrant. There's an operating fork-lift platform with a truck that loads and unloads boards from a lumber car.

One company puts out a "how to do" booklet to encourage Mom to landscape the toy train right-of-way.

A Real Sew N' Sew

A Woman's Xmas 'Do It Herself' Bit

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Nobody is busier at Christmas-time than the woman who sews, for department stores everywhere are crammed with special Christmas fabrics that fairly cry out to be stitched into holiday finery.

This year you'll find fabrics that reflect the Christmas spirit in gay prints featuring jingle bells, holly wreaths, ribbons and reindeer, mostly in festive traditional red, green and white. Women are buying these fabrics to make into all sorts of gifts and household accessories. And since the new fabrics are colorfast and sanforized against shrinkage, they know the articles they make can be tossed in the washing machine time after time, and come up smiling.

One bright idea for a young girl is a frivolous Christmas nightie made from a fabric printed with colorful Christmas-tree balls. Local sewing center experts suggest one of the new shorty gowns with frilly bloomers to match. Since this is a border print, it is most effective to follow the scalloped line of the de-stitched facing instead of a hem. Red cording accents the little-girl yoke, and the border is used again on the matching panties. By using a pattern printed with inch-rulers for easy alteration, you can achieve just the right length without interfering with the placement of the border.

Another gay Christmas idea is to make upside-down Christmas trees from green felt, to hang up instead of the usual Christmas stocking. These may be decorated gaily with sequins and hung on the mantel, or placed over a bottle for a Christmas table centerpiece.

With gay Christmas fabrics and a little time at the sewing machine, you can make permanent Christmas accessories, to be brought out year after year, as the start of a family tradition.

GRAPES TO FRANCE?

PARIS — France, the greatest wine drinking and wine producing country in the world, is now importing the famed product of the grape because of a shortage.

This unprecedented situation came about because of frosts which cut deeply into this year's production and sent prices up.

CHRISTMAS MORNING . . . Gay holiday nightie made of Christmas-ball printed fabric, and felt Christmas trees hung up instead of Christmas stockings. Both easy to make.

Stockings Good for Chimney or Milady

Milady's stockings are among the colorful red and green Christmas trimmings that will decorate the festive holiday season. Belle-Sharmer, creator of famous leg-size fit in stockings, has designed two exquisite new tints of red and green for holiday and resort wear.

"Snowberry," a crushed berry tint, blending with the rosy pinks and reds; and "Green Ice," a frosted tint of mint, that hints of Spring amid the rich emerald satins and fresh flowering green prints.

These new stocking tints point up the colorful printed shoe and heighten the excitement of gala holiday fashions. They make a glamorous gift too for all the gals on your Christmas list.

"Snowberry" and "Green Ice" are only two of Belle-Sharmer's fashion-new Ice Crystal Tints. Two more are "Seafog," a cool tint of turquoise, blending with blue-greens and Indian turquoise; and "Blue Frost," a melting ice-blue tint, blending with blue-violet, royal blue, deep sea blue, ice blue, and cornflower.

U.N. Women Knit World Together

Associated Press Feature

They say that many of the world's troubles would be settled, if the women of all nations could get together to trade recipes and do a little needlework.

For women can cook and sew and knit in all languages, and they need no interpreters.

An example of this takes place regularly in New York City, when women of the United Nations meet to knit garments for the world's children.

Racial and national differences are forgotten as women from Pakistan and Haiti, from Yugoslavia and Japan, from Africa and America get together over their knitting needles.

The United Nation Women's Guild provides a common meeting ground for wives and daughters of delegates from all countries, and the busy fingers of the members

A Smooth-Running Holiday—

Get Shipshape For Christmas

A step, like a stitch, in time can save you many steps at Christmas-time, and can keep your home shipshape for the festivities.

Try these time-and-trouble savers suggested in the new Better Homes and Gardens Christmas Ideas Book and make room for a smooth-running Christmas.

PRE-CHRISTMAS TIPS—Christmas spirit will permeate the house if you spray a pine scent around the rooms. The waxing attachment of your vacuum cleaner or a hand-operated spraygun will do a fine job.

Since this is the year's hardest season on the vacuum cleaner, be sure it is working perfectly. Use a magnet to pick up small metal objects from the carpet before vacuuming, because sharp objects might cut the cleaner's belt or puncture the dust bag.

For a snowy, handy Christmas-tree base, drape an old sheet around the tree holder and under the tree. It forms a snowlike base and collects the fallen needles from the tree. And it's all ready for an easy shake-out.

To avoid marring the mantel of your fireplace by tacking and taping the children's stockings, use a purse holder for each stocking. These are the gadgets used to hang a purse on the edge of the table. And for another surface-saver, help protect your table tops from unsightly watermarks by waxing them well before the season's festivities start.

Decorating day is more fun if you outfit a large market basket with evergreen boughs, ribbon, tape, mistletoe, scissors and string. You'll make the rounds to windows, doorways, and mantel with a minimum of steps.

Make your next year's Christmas planning even smoother than this year's by making a Christmas scrapbook as you go along. You might include such information as Christmas-card lists with addresses, the gifts you gave, and decorations and refreshments at your holiday parties.

Most important suggestion of all is to make sure all your decorations are fire resistant, says the book.

Remember to place your tree away from the fireplace and strong electric lights for extra caution.

CLEAN-UP TIPS — If candles have turned out thousands of warm knitted garments for children all over the world.

While heated debates and fierce arguments take place among the U.N. delegates, their wives meet in friendship to engage in woman-talk and "knit the world together."

drip on your best linens, there's no need to throw up your hands in despair. When the meal is over, scrape off the drippings with a dull-edged knife or spatula. Then place a clean, white blotter over and under the spot.

Press with a warm iron for several minutes. Change blotters as they become soiled. You can launder the cloth as usual. The same method can be used to remove wax from rugs — scrape off excess, cover the spot with a blotter and press.

Change the blotters as often as necessary. Then go over the spot with a brush to raise the nap.

Another troublesome mess can be a fragile, shattered Christmas tree ball. You can pick up all of those tiny, hard-to-get fragments with a little piece of dampened cotton or cleansing tissue, suggests the book. The cotton saves fingers from cuts, too.

DECORATING TIPS — You don't have to buy expensive decorations to have a smart, glittering Christmas.

For example, you can stir up your own tree ornaments in a mixing bowl! Combine plastic starch and laundry detergent to make a stiff mixture. Then make frosty icicles by dipping bobby pins into the mixture. A loop of string tied through the closed end of the bobby pin serves as a handle for the dipping and as a hanger to put it on the tree.

Another inexpensive and unusual tree decoration can be made from a tin can lid. Grasp the lid with wirepliers, and use tin snips to slash it toward the center in many places.

The sections of the lid can then be bent and twisted in different directions to form a design. Or start at one edge and cut continuously around to form a spiral. Finish by lacquering and sprinkling with colored glitter.

Burned out flash or light bulbs make lovely tree balls if painted in gay colors. Stick on colorful seals, sequins, or ribbon for a finishing touch.

Popcorn strings, an old favorite, are colorful Christmas-tree ropes if you pop the corn two or three days before stringing, and dip it in a thin sugar syrup colored with vegetable coloring.

For Christmas tree decorations that cost nothing, save lids from paper ice-cream cups, then trim by pasting on colored designs cut from old Christmas greeting cards.

To hang, slip a paper clip or wire through a hole punched in the tab of the lid.

Christmas Symbols 4,000 Years Old

Egyptian Sun-God Caused Use of Tree

From the dim ages of long ago have come many of the festive rites and customs of our Christmas season.

The symbolic use of a tree dates back at least 4,000 years, when Egyptians celebrated in honor of their Sun God, in the month corresponding to our December.

They believed that the sun died every night and was born again in the morning, and that late December and January brought the turning point, when the sun remained with them a little bit longer each day.

This was a season of rejoicing, and the palm trees became their symbol, as it put out a leaf every month. The twelve leaves symbolized the complete year.

A few thousand years later came the feast of Saturnalia, also held in December, but the tree the Romans used was a tall conifer, loaded with decorations. Roman legions carried this symbolism over the Alps into Gaul; and about 15 B.C. the tree was used over in Uletide celebrations of the Germans.

Hundreds of years passed, and a tree became the symbol of celebrations connected with the patron saint of Russia and of children—Saint Nicholas, who in his lifetime was Bishop of Myra, in Asia Minor.

An old legend tells us that the kindly St. Nicholas, unintentionally originated the custom of hanging stockings by the fire at Christmas.

St. Nicholas was rich, and loved to make mysterious journeys bearing secret gifts to the poor. For a long time his identity remained hidden but he was caught at last with his sack of gifts on his back.

St. Nicholas also began the custom of hanging out stockings. The legend says there was an old nobleman who was very poor and who did not want anyone to know of his poverty. Wishing to give him a gift of money, St. Nicholas crept to a window of the man's house and saw the old gentleman asleep by the fire.

The good Bishop climbed to the roof and dropped his gift down the chimney, thinking it would fall on the hearth at the nobleman's feet.

However, it so happened that the gentleman's daughter had hung some stockings to dry by the fire and the money fell into one of them. From this kindly deed of the Bishop has grown the widespread custom of hanging stockings at Christmas time.

The anniversary of St. Nicholas' death in 1087 became a festival in the Russian church, and in time the name became corrupted to Santa Claus and associated with the festivities of the Christmas season.

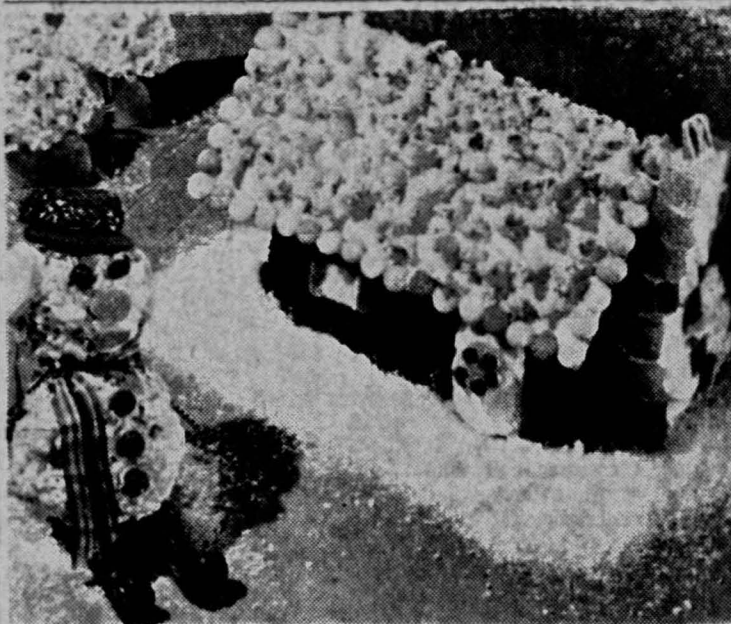

Table Decorations

A CHRISTMAS POPCORN HOUSE or a pert wintry snowman are perfect holiday decorations for your home. The method is so simple; the Christmas trees and various figures are made from popcorn, assorted candies, licorice sticks, small candy canes, gum drops, and marshmallow cookies. One word of caution: keep these decorations away from the little ones — your centerpiece could disappear quite quickly!

Firemen Stay Tense Around Christmas

On the night before Christmas, most Iowans will be enjoying a holiday with their friends and relations, relaxed and released from the tensions brought on by studies and tests. But in every town and city across the nation, a segment of the population will be uneasy.

For these people—the country's firemen—remember other Christmases. During this holiday season, many homes are carelessly and unwittingly converted into dangerous fire traps.

Last year, fires during the 4-day Christmas week-end took 54 lives. Safety officials say many of these deaths could have been averted through the use of a few simple precautions.

To make certain your Christmas is a happy one, follow the following suggestions:

When choosing a place to set up your Christmas tree, avoid "hot spots" such as near a fireplace, stove, television set, radiator or electric bulbs.

Never use untreated paper ornaments or untreated cotton batting or gauze for decoration.

Use only electric lights for decorations, never candles. Also be certain the cords are not frayed or worn.

Try and keep house decorations near the ceiling, to avoid possible ignition from cigarettes or cigars.

These rules will help make the holiday a happier one for both yourself—and the firemen.

Dolls Better Fixed Than Some People!

Dolls will be better-dressed than people this Christmas.

Now that little girls have grown accustomed to dolls that walk, talk, sing, drink, cry, wet, use cosmetics, shampoos and permanent waves, the only field left in which to astonish young America was the doll wardrobe.

So this year designers have concentrated on turning out doll fashions that outdo those of the world's best-dressed women. Whether it's a layette for a new baby doll, a wardrobe for a pony-tailed teen-age doll or a trousseau for a doll bride, high style takes the spotlight.

The doll mother of 1957 is slated to receive a full-scale course in fashion coordination from her miniature family, members of the Toy Guidance Council report. A record number of kits also will inspire small fry to create additional ensembles for their dolls, complete with accessories such as hats, handbags and costume jewelry. Miniature dolls eight to 10 inches tall will boast the most fashion impact in the doll world. Reminiscent of the exquisite fashion dolls used centuries ago by Paris designers to report the mode to far-away customers, the 1957 miniature fashion doll has hairdo and accessories coordinated with each costume.

From avant garde hair styles to pointed-toe slippers, the fashionable doll this Christmas is up to the minute in every detail. She'll have special bra, petticoat and stocking wardrobes to go with different outfits, as well as appropriate jewelry, hair ornaments, gloves, shoes and handbags.

The sports life of the doll gets equal billing with party clothes this season, with the correct outfit provided for every sport from swimming to skiing.

Popularity of the miniature doll also has inspired a crop of new furniture emphasizing such such things as wardrobe chests and dressing tables.

Out of Gift Ideas? Here Are Solutions

Have you run out of ideas for gifts for your Christmas presents? Are you confused about a new original centerpiece for your holiday decoration?

Hand-dipped candles could be the answer to both the above questions, and you can make these beautiful Christmas decorations right in your own home.

Bayberry wax is often used for making Christmas candles because of its refreshing fragrance. You can make candles from plain paraffin such as you probably have in your kitchen right now. Candle paraffin is more desirable, however, because of its higher melting point.

First, melt together equal amounts of bayberry wax, stearic acid (a white powder) and candle paraffin.

To give a nice shine to your candles, add about one ounce of white beeswax for each pound of this mixture. The stearic acid helps solidify the candle and keeps it from melting.

Heat the wax in a tin can placed in a container of water. You'll need to set a tin lid or other object under the tin can to keep it off the bottom of the container.

Stir the mixture frequently until it melts. If you've used crude bayberry wax, strain the mixture twice through a firm piece of cloth.

To hold the candle for dipping, you could use a round piece of wood about five inches in diameter as a holder. Six notches about an inch, in depth spaced around the edge hold the candle-wicking in place and a hook centered in the top forms a handle and hanger.

Then, you place a circle of heavy wire about six inches below the holder and thread a continuous piece of wicking through the notches and under the wire. When the threading is finished, the wire holds the wicking taut for the first wax bath.

When you are ready to dip, lower the threaded holder slowly into the melted wax and leave it three or four seconds before lifting it out.

Then, hang the holder in a cool place for about five minutes before cutting the wicking at each point where it goes under the wire circle. The wire will drop out then and you have six candles started.

Continue to dip the wicking for one-second intervals, letting the candles cool five minutes between dips, until they are the desired size. You'll get a regulation needle size. You'll get a regulation candle, seven-eighths of an inch in diameter at the base, after 30 to 35 dippings.

You will need to soak candle-wicking overnight before you use it in a solution of one cup of water, two tablespoons of borax and one tablespoon of salt.

After the final dipping, cut the candles loose from the holder by cutting the wick loops between notches. If the tip of the candle isn't neat, dip the candle once more, holding the top by the wick. Leave three-quarters of an inch of a wick at the top.

Wrap the candles in paraffin paper and cool thoroughly in your refrigerator. Don't store in too cold a place, or they may crack.

Now that you have the candles finished, you could decorate them with various spangles, gold or silver twine or multi-colored sequins. Stick the different decorations in the candle with straight pins and presently, you will have a beautiful, festive Christmas candle that would have been difficult to buy in a store.

CHARLES AND ALICE ROHONYI... Christmas card team.

Hungarian Refugee Happy in Brussels

BRUSSELS — The Christmas spirit is bright in a Brussels studio, where a husband-and-wife artist team forget hardship and tragedy of past years in the shining promise of the future.

They are Charles and Alice Rohonyi, driven from their native Hungary by the Communist occupation, now well-launched on a new career in Belgium.

Both Rohonyi and his wife were established artists in Hungary before the last war and opened a joint studio after their marriage. Four war years wiped out their business, but they started again after the war, gaining new success until the country was swept by the Communists. They seized the first opportunity to leave Hungary then, and began once more in Belgium as political refugees.

Last year Rohonyi painted a weeping Santa Claus Christmas card, which was sent only to close personal friends in Hungary, in memory of fallen Hungarian freedom fighters.

This year, however, he has gone back to his usual gay and cheerful style, one of his most successful cards being a jolly Santa Claus blowing a horn from which stamps of many countries stream into the air.

Rohonyi started first as a railroad man, then as a decorator and photographer. He took up poster art after his marriage to Alice Der, a well-known artist in the field, and soon became more successful than she.

When Alice turned to Christmas cards, Charles did the same. Says he, cheerfully:

"I have stolen every creative idea she ever had."

Nowadays Alice lets her husband do most of the painting in the family, while she acts as best-friend-and-severest-critic. This year the Rohonyi cards are available in the United States for the first time. The artist is sure they will be successful, explaining:

"After all, I'm learning something about motivational research. I have a carefully selected panel for determining consumer attitudes — my wife and my 7-year-old son."

Dressing Up On Christmas Made Bright

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

It's fun to dress up on Christmas day in a completely frivolous apron, overskirt or blouse that is meant to be worn only once a year.

This year textile designers have produced all kinds of gaily printed Christmas fabrics with cheerful designs of holly, poinsettias, Christmas bells and such that lend themselves ideally to holiday accessories. These are inexpensive, washable cotton fabrics, so you don't need to feel extravagant about making something that comes out only at Santa Claus time. You can get several yards for a dollar, and most of the fabrics are sanforized against shrinkage.

One bright idea suggested by local sewing center experts is a gay Christmas overskirt, to wear over your indispensable little black sheath dress on Christmas day. They recommend a border print design of red poinsettias with green leaves on a black background, made with a commercial pattern with inch rulers printed on it, so you can be sure to get the border print at the right point. The overskirt itself has a border at the hemline and another strip of border print is used for a wide shirred cummerbund. Just in case you don't own the basic sheath dress, the envelope includes a pattern for making one.

'Glasses' Can Blur Vision—Safety Council

CHICAGO—Holiday drivers were warned today that glasses have a dangerous effect on vision. That is, if they've been emptied several times.

The warning comes from the National Safety Council, which says the throttle and the bottle are big factors in the Christmas holiday traffic toll.

Social drinkers, because of the stepped up festivity of the season, present a greater traffic hazard than at any other time of the year, the Council said.

In a special study of 501 fatal Christmas holiday accidents, which killed 609 persons, the Council found drinking drivers were involved in 55 per cent of the accidents. At other times of the year they are involved in about 30 per cent.

Men were driving in 94 per cent of the accidents studied. In 90 per cent of the accidents only one person was killed.

Almost four out of five victims were men and these were mostly drivers.

The most common type of accident was collision between two or more cars. Next in order were non-collision, pedestrian, and fixed object collisions.

The most common driver action contributing to fatal accidents was driving on the wrong side of the road or in the center of the road. Failure to observe a signal or stop sign was second. Mechanical failure or tire blowouts were mentioned in only four of the accidents studied.

In launching its annual Christmas safety campaign, the Council said the nation may have a safer and happier Christmas this year if drivers will exert a little extra care and caution. The traffic trend is encouraging. During the first nine months of the year traffic deaths dropped 3 per cent from the same period for the previous year — a saving of 800 lives.

"If this rate of improvement can be maintained the rest of the year," the Council said, "more than 1,000 lives can be saved on the highway in 1957. But the Christmas holidays will be the decisive factor."

Weather Predictions Not Always Predictable — Or...

By KAY WILCOX
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

The new moon falls on a Saturday this month. This fact may mean absolutely nothing to most people but to those who make a hobby out of weather prediction it has some very startling implications.

People who make weather prediction a hobby seem to have a good time doing it, so I thought I would take a try at it. Since everyone seems to be more anxious about the weather close to the holidays, I started my research right away. I went to many sources in order to find a method of prediction that would be the most accurate.

Whenever the new moon has fallen on a Saturday, the following 20 days have been wet and windy in 19 cases out of 20, says, Dr. Foster, in the 1958 "Old Farmer's Almanac." Foster, of Burges, a well-known meteorologist, says the Almanac, bases his information on journals of his grandfather, his father, and he have kept since 1767.

The Almanac also provides a very detailed weather table "for foretelling the weather through all the lunations each year, forever." The moon's changes are close to midnight in December, and according to the Almanac this means the next seven days following the changes will be fair. This is true, that is, if I read the tables right, they were quite complicated.

If I read the tables wrong it really doesn't make too much difference, because later on I found in William Humphrey's book, "Weather Prediction and Proverbs," it is not wise to base weather predictions on the faces of the moon.

The "Old Farmer's Almanac" also predicted that it would be frigid in the midwest between the 13th and 16th of December, but again, we all know long range forecasts do not always work out.

I hope that I have not given the impression that it is really impossible to predict the weather. It is possible to give short-range predictions about the weather based on old weather proverbs. Some of these proverbs do have a scientific basis. In his book Humphreys says that if the evening sky has an overcast grey appearance "we know that the dust particles have become loaded with much moisture, even to the development of myriads of water droplets." This means, says Humphreys, that at considerable elevations the atmosphere is saturated which seems to justify the proverb: "If the sun set in grey, the next will be a rainy day."

"A large quantity of dust-smoke particles are particularly effective in a damp atmosphere," says Humphreys, creates a condition that favors a red sky. The red is deepened, Humphreys says, by the presence of moisture. The old proverb, "A red sky has water in his eye," seems to be justified Humphreys believes.

I have spent a considerable amount of time in research in order to formulate my own weather predictions and I have come to a very definite conclusion.

The best way to predict the weather with any accuracy is to wait and see, and then say — "I told you so."

Index Toy Shopping Makes Chore Easy

One of the newest Christmas toy items is the "Deskriter," equipped with a combination seat, blackboard and desk with peg boards, especially designed for the toddler line.

"Burr" — it's a new electric gun Game hunting? If you are in a tizzy because you can't find the right Christmas toy for that "certain" youngster, your troubles are over.

Guess work has been eliminated in the Iowa City stores for the Christmas toy shopper. The games and toys have been selected and classified on the counters for their appeal of various age groups running from the toddling youngster to the doddering elder.

One of the newest items available for the younger set this season is "Mr. TV Horse," a soft plush pillow that your child can sit on as he watches his favorite television program. This life size toy, 14 inches high and 23 inches long, has a movable head and removable reins and saddle.

How would you like to see your child portrayed as a "Merry Milkman"? A game has been provided for just this purpose, providing hours of educational and play value for the youngster, while it aids him in developing further finger dexterity, and a recognition of shapes and colors. With this creative toy, made for ages four through ten, children can set up houses and actually deliver milk and dairy products.

Three different sized "Jet Jumper" pogo sticks are now available to the Christmas shopper. And when the snow reaches Iowa City, children can slide as straight as an arrow or spin like a top on new aluminum snow coasters.

But what about the baby? Among the many items of selection for the young toddlers are "Playskool" pull toys which will go in any direction and always stay right side up.

A fashion leader in doll society this year is "Ginny," wearing pants, socks and shoes. And believe it or not, she even has a teen sister doll "Jill" and a baby sister "Ginnette."

Another favorite is the "Tear Belle" all vinyl doll with rooted hair which can be combed and washed over and over again. This doll drinks and wets — she sleeps — she cries real tears and she can even be bathed.

For all those mystery fans, here is just the thing. "Intrigue," a fascinating mystery game for the 10-year-old to the adult, has a secret agent who is murdered or party players, acting as detectives, can enter a life and death race for the solution to this thrill-a-minute mystery.

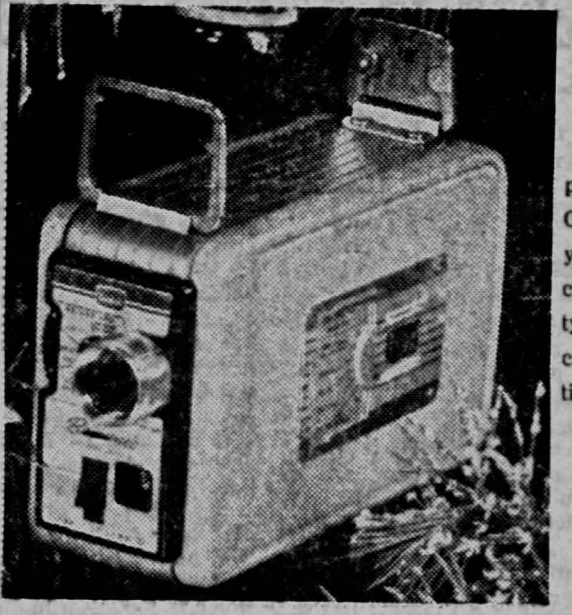

For the pre-school youngsters from three to four years of age, modeling dough is the perfect toy. "Model 'n' Mold" dough, a Susan's show TV item, is equipped with tools. The kids can even make permanent things by exposing the clay to the air for several days to harden, drilling holes in it, sandpapering it and then coloring it with paints or crayons.

An ideal first game for youngsters is "Candy Land." There is with a recoiling barrel and realistic rapid fire sounds. And best of all — no caps are needed.

And a game especially designed to teach children the value of money is "Pop-Up-Store." When the youngster opens the playing board, up pop two colorful stores; a candy store and a toy store. In this game players not only learn money value and change making, but they learn to shop wisely and get the most for their money.

With the variety of colorful toys on the store counters, game hunting in Iowa City will be happy for the entire family.

One of the most popular gifts for Christmas this year will be movie cameras of this type, quality machines, but relatively inexpensive.

Avoid A 'Skeleton'—

How To Buy Christmas Tree

A Christmas tree is a beautiful and inspirational part of American holiday tradition, but if it becomes a fire hazard or turns into a "skeleton" in a short time, a Christmas tree can become a problem.

For this reason, you should be extra careful in selecting your tree this year and you should take excellent care of it during the holiday season.

Fir and pine make the best Christmas trees, according to Richard Campbell, extension forester at Iowa State College.

Spruce is a close third. All these trees hold their needles well and this is an important consideration. A pine can be identified easily by its long needles. Fir and spruce both have short needles, but you can tell them apart by running the back of your hand along the needles.

Spruce needles are pointed and stiff and feel sharp and scratchy. Fir needles are pliable, flat, rounded at the tips and soft to touch.

Trees that have a healthy green color and shiny, "waxy" needles have been freshly cut and have been stored properly. These trees are the ones you should try to purchase, as they will last longer and have more durability. Another test is to brush your hand over the branches — the needles should not loosen or fall.

To find the "perfect" Christmas tree, you should look for one with a full symmetrical shape. The branches should be strong enough to hold ornaments without sagging forward.

Now that you have chosen a tree with these specifications, the next step is to store it at home until you decide to put it up.

Keep the tree in a cold place, such as an unheated garage, until ready to set it up. Don't set it up until you want it inside and ready for decoration.

When the children won't let you keep it in the garage any longer, cut off the butt of the trunk diagonally at least an inch above the original cut. This provides a larger, fresh "drinking" surface for it.

Bring it inside and stand it up in plain water or in sand moistened with water. Refill the container daily as the tree absorbs the water. This keeps the tree fresher, prevents drying and dropping needles, and reduces the fire hazard.

Place the tree in a spot away from sources of heat, such as fireplaces, radiators, radios or television sets. Do not place it in a position that will block exits or a busy passageway.

For your decorations, use only approved light fixtures. Check for worn or frayed cords; they may have lasted through last year, but this year is another story. Never leave the house with the tree lights turned on and never use decorations that are not fireproof.

When the holiday is over, remove the tree as soon as possible. Don't — the fire danger builds up in a let Dad just toss it in the basement hurry as the tree ages and gradually dries in a warm house.

THIS NEW LOOK fur-felt combination is the latest for Christmas. It's an off the face "Lafayette" tricorn.

WSUI Plans Christmas Schedule

WSUI, the University radio station, will remain on the air full-time throughout Christmas vacation. Traditionally, during the Christmas-time absence of students, WSUI has shortened its schedule to a period of six hours, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.

This year, according to Station Director Carl Menzer, the regular 14-hour daily schedule will be maintained from Dec. 23 through Jan. 4, with the station off the air during that period only for Christmas Day, New Year's Day and Sundays.

Outstanding works of music and drama, children's programs, religious programs, and special events appropriate to the Christmas season will be presented. Music will include "The Messiah" by Handel, "Amahl and the Night Visitors" by Menotti, "L'Enfance du Christ" by Berlioz, and a concert by St. Paul's Cathedral Choir of London.

Help Kids Prepare For Holiday Visits

With the holiday season just around the corner, our thoughts turn with eagerness to this happy time of year. Special ingredients make this season such a joyous one — the sparkle in children's eyes, the conspiracies so often "found out," and, of course, the reunions with friends and relatives.

But some of the ingredients for the festive season don't always blend too well. Take, for example, children and their reactions to the long-awaited holiday visitors. What goes wrong?

Let's look into the Brown home on the evening of Dec. 23. There's Jane, the five-year-old, acting like a hoyden in front of her scolding grandmother. And young Tommy — usually a placid child — could double for a young Indian on a warpath. And last, but not least, there are poor Mom and Dad turning red at the antics of their offspring.

Harkening to the wisdom of the "ounce of prevention," we should do a little planning before the holidays are upon us to avert some of these upset tempers and the noisness which can result from uncontrolled excitement.

Christmas is a stimulating and exciting time of year in many households. Irregular hours and many new faces appear on the scene. As none of us is at his best when worn out, a little planning as to the part children will take in activities can avert some of the crossness due to lack of sleep.

Then, too, for many children the advent of new faces on the scene is a little overpowering. Letting children know who is coming and planning with them the part they may take in activities for the guests often help youngsters feel more comfortable with the visitors and needed and welcome participants in the holiday festivities.

Holiday-Headache Solutions For The Hard To Buy For --- From Nail Polish to Hi-Fi

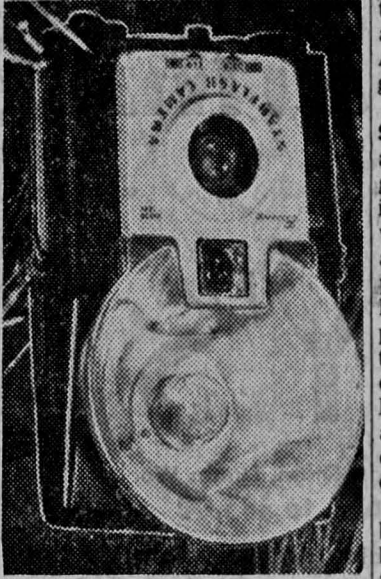

By JANE HUBLY
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

"I've gone with him so long that there isn't a gift in any store that I haven't given him, at one time or another!"

Is this your sad dilemma, as the Yuletide season approaches? Or is it that "There are only so many nice things you can give a girl, and I can't afford any of them."

If you're in either of the situations, or countless others of a similar nature, relieve your "holiday headache" with some of the following gift suggestions.

IN THE $5 TO $10 BRACKET, many gifts for females can be found on the Iowa City store counters. Of course, there are the typical old "stand-bys," such as inexpensive perfume, bath powder and nail polish. In a slightly more original vein, a girl always needs a good box of stationery or a warm wool or silk scarf. Another less expensive but greatly appreciated present would be a pair of leather driving gloves.

For the fellows, the numerous and various kinds of shaving lotion will never cease to be a needed gift. A present that will last forever would be a cigarette lighter, and equally as durable would be a deck of nice playing cards that he can use for those late-at-night poker games. A key case of leather is an item he would never be without and the same thing may be said of a monogrammed handkerchief. A plastic flask with a leather case, though not a necessity, is a "nicety" to own.

GIFTS FOR BOTH SEXES UNDER $5 are also easy to find. Why not give your college friend a humorous ash-tray, or a pair of movie tickets to relieve the stress on the "recreation column" of the budget. While students seldom have time to complete anything they start, they would nevertheless appreciate a good, classical book to place in a future library of their own.

From $5 to $10, gifts are a little easier to choose and decide upon. For the weaker sex, an evening bag is always fun to receive.

Most girls love to be given a little dram of a famous perfume or a "big dram" of everyday perfume — which is merely a matter of personal taste. A decorated cigarette case is something a girl won't buy for herself but something she'd like to have. Slippers or even snow boots are "foot attire" that a female uses and needs and would appreciate receiving. And did you ever think of giving a gal an umbrella? She'd use it!

A MALE BECAME PROGRESSIVELY HARDER TO "buy for" around this price bracket, but one gift that certainly would be used is a leather travel kit, complete with his monogram. You could also give him a billfold and fill the picture section with photographs he'll get a kick out of — and he'll probably like the pictures better than the wallet! A small flash camera he could use to record collegiate activities. If the male you are shopping for is a "fancy dancer," give him a matching tie and cummerbund or a white tux shirt.

The "old couples" will probably be shopping in the $10 to $20 bracket or you may want to spend this much on your parents.

A girl will always be pleased with a really "good" piece of jewelry. You could buy her a small, gold bracelet with one charm on it and let her begin a memorable and personalized charm bracelet. Or you might buy her a pretty pin, either rhinestone, gold or silver, that she can wear on almost anything in her wardrobe. Girls never shun articles of clothing, such as blouses, sweaters or skirts — you might even give her a cute pair of pajamas and matching robe.

WE GET INTO THE SAME TYPE OF GIFTS for fellows in this price category also, such as sweaters, shirts or slacks. Why not give your fellow, your husband or your father a plaid bathrobe? Or if that watch he received for high school graduation needs a new band, buy him an attractive one.

If you think that gifts for this "special fellow" are going to be a problem for many Christmas' to come, start giving him "progressive gifts." Give him a slide camera this Christmas, a viewer for his birthday, a screen for next Christmas, and maybe a movie camera the following holiday, if the photography "bug" bites him.

FOR THE COUPLES THAT WANT TO exceed $20, gifts are many and varied. Luggage is a wonderful present for the person who is "facing the cold world" next June. . . . be sure and have it monogrammed. A record player or several albums of beautiful records seem to fit in with the current fad of "Hi-Fi." Watches are useful and appreciated gifts, but be careful that you choose the kind and brand that the "gift receiver" desires.

These gift suggestions are a little different than the regular "run-of-the-mill" suggestions, but you may not like any of them. Just remember, something useable is always appreciated when you give a gift.

SUI Hospitals Accepting Many Gifts

Christmas gifts for patients at University Hospitals are being accepted again this year, according to Jerry E. Poole, chairman of the hospital Christmas committee.

Each year, hundreds of gifts are mailed to the hospital from people all over the state. The gifts are sorted and wrapped by volunteer help and are distributed to the patients on Christmas Eve.

All kinds of articles for children and adults can be used, but Poole emphasized that more gifts are needed for adults because the majority of patients at University Hospitals are adults.

Toys, games, dolls and books are appropriate gifts for the children, and gifts such as stationery, stamps, playing cards, knitting materials, leather and ceramic kits, toilet articles and tobacco make the hospital stay of adults more enjoyable.

Gifts of food cannot be accepted because of the hospital's dietary restrictions, the committee chairman said.

Gifts should be mailed to the Christmas Committee, University Hospitals, State University of Iowa. Cash contributions also can be made and the committee will use the money to purchase gifts. Checks or money orders should be made payable to University Hospitals.

Persons who send gifts are asked not to wrap them because all packages must be opened and sorted before they are distributed.

A complete Christmas program with carol singers and a Santa Claus is being planned for the patients by the committee, Poole said.

POLES FREE

NEW YORK (AP) — A prominent protestant clergyman says there is "far more religious freedom" at present in Poland than there is in Spain and Portugal.

The Rev. Dr. Gaither P. Warfield, imprisoned by both the Russians and Germans during World War II in Poland where he was superintendent of the Methodist church, made his comment after a recent 10-day visit to Poland.

Now general secretary of Methodist overseas relief, he said he found there was "freedom of religious worship" there, and a "ready willingness" on the part of Poles to freely voice opinions to strangers.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

"I looked at all the angles"

Howard R. Winter, B.B.A., Texas A. & M., '51, is now a Commercial Manager with Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Houston, Texas. He's in charge of 30,000 telephone accounts and a staff of 36 people.

Howard's interest in a telephone career dates from his first interview with a telephone company representative. "I looked at all the angles," he says. "We discussed pay and chances for advancement, which looked excellent because of the rapid growth of the Bell System. We talked about many different kinds of work, and about what would be expected of me."

After receiving his degree in business administration, Howard joined

Southwestern Bell's Commercial Department. "It was natural for me," he says. "I have a business background, I like to sell and make contacts."

"My training gave me a really solid foundation in the business. Two years in the Army interrupted it, by the way, but the two years were credited to my telephone company records and count toward all benefits. After I'd returned and finished my training, I was made a business office supervisor. And since February, 1956, I've been a Commercial Manager in Houston. Each assignment I've had has been a real challenge and has presented a tremendous opportunity to contribute to and advance in the business."

Be sure to investigate the career opportunities for you in the 17 Bell Telephone Companies serving all 48 states. On your campus the local company represents the others. Little Money Suggestions—

Imagination Makes Perfect

GIFTS FOR THOSE WHO may be hard to buy for can often be best selected by answering: "What would I like?" A. Calf handbag in modern vein. B. Always popular camera. C. Bootettes, just the thing for snow. D. Perfume, in practical, small bottles with three selections.

Children Discover That It's Fun To Give

By VIVIAN BROWN
If you've trained your child to be generous, it's a good idea to demonstrate appreciation for that tiny Christmas gift. Some mothers are so overwhelmed with the BIG gift from that giant-sized Santa Claus, Dad, that they are likely to ignore the smaller remembrances that come their way.

It's a good idea to guide a youngster in Christmas gift selections, rather than upbraiding her for buying gifts that do not mean anything. Sit down with her before she begins to shop and help her with a list. You can steer her to all the gifts that are appropriate by suggesting them. When it comes to your own, a little gentle hint like "do you know what I hope Santa brings me" should do the trick.

There are some worth while stocking stuffers within a child's budget, and these are perked up to look exactly like a gift that a child would select.

An enchanting little dancer wearing a ballet skirt of swansdown and a little jeweled cap turns out to have original French perfume in its vial. The fragrances are to suit the personality of the wearer, and the little tot can decide whether she wants to choose brilliant pink "danger" for her Mom or a sky-blue "new horizons" scent.

The inexpensive lipsticks found in variety stores have an old magic touch of Santa Claus with glittering rhinestones on the case. Ditto compact.

There are those perfect gifts for grandma, pretty packaged sweet smelling and appropriate to the season — scented soap, sachet, dusting powder, colognes.

Suggestions for little-girl pals might include one charming gift set that contains a make believe flavored lip pomade and a tinted powder compact in strawberry and cream hues.

Russians Celebrate Happy Holidays

A picture story entitled "Celebrating The New Year" is one of the features of issue 15 of U.S.S.R. describing life in Russia as reported by Russians.

Fir tree parties take place all over the country from the last week of December through late January according to the article which pictures a huge fir tree in the glittering Moscow Hall of Columns surrounded by hundreds of gaily dressed, frolicking Muscovites.

To add to the glitter of the holiday season, the article goes on, temporary booths with a festive look are set up in all the stores to take care of wrapping customers purchases of New Year tree decorations and gifts for family and friends.

The holiday really begins with shopping for the fir tree continues the magazine. It has to be big and full to satisfy the youngsters and to please mother it must be freshly cut so that falling needles will not clutter up the living room floor.

The tree is decorated with colored lights, gold and silver beads, glass balls in every color imaginable, toys, figures of animals and birds, homemade paper chains, candies and nuts hung on threads and glistening tinsel.

Celebrations of every kind and for every age are planned for this time of year which is a two-week winter holiday for school children. There are dances for young people, costume parties for the little ones, indoor ice shows and outdoor skiing and skating parties, special performances at children's theaters and puppet shows galore, according to the article.

Grandfather Frost, the Russian counterpart of Santa Claus is the center of every children's party. His entourage consists of fairytale characters, and his main mission is to amuse the youngsters with his antics and sons and to present them with gifts.

Home New Year's parties gala affairs. The hostesses outdo themselves in preparing tasty delicacies for their guests.

The picture story ends with a photo of a fir tree surrounded with happy children captioned: The size of the outdoor trees is limited only by the sky. They are usually huge and set up in the favorite gathering places of the younger set. Sounds just like Christmas everywhere.

Nursery Set As Elegant As Anyone

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

THEY'RE NEVER TOO YOUNG these days to be dressed by the country's top fashion designers.

This Christmas the nursery set as well as their slightly bigger brothers and sisters will be just as elegant as their parents, in party finery and sportswear turned out by the haute couture.

Charles James, whose custom-made dresses for elegant ladies are likely to cost a cool grand and up, started designing infant's fashions after the birth of his own baby last year. This season he has done a red velveteen suspender suit for baby boys and white rompers for baby girls that reflect some of the latest adult trends. The balloon neckline of the rompers is right in step with Paris, and the casual elegance of the boy's outfit is correct for the youngest Beau Brummel.

In the junior sportswear field, the latest thing is the famous low-V cardigan sweater popularized by Rex Harrison in "My Fair Lady"—the big sensation in the men's wear field, and also for small fry. This is a miniature version in bulky ribbed wool knit, with red and blue striped trim.

A companion piece for little girls is a bulky white cable-knit turtle-neck pullover, also with red and blue striped trim. Other new sweaters for girls may be flower embroidered, calico patterned or adorned with a metallic embroidered crest.
