TOWN MEN QUEEN Jerene Bonar, A3, Fairfield, was crowned at the Town Men-Town Women winter formal Friday night. Her court included Barbara McShane, A1, Springville, and Phyllis Franklin, A2, Iowa City. Larry Barrett and his band played for the dance, in the Rose Room of the Jefferson Hotel.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration's new farm program got off to a stormy start in Congress Friday when Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson went before a Senate committee to back it up.

The bespectacled, dignified Benson ran into a barrage of hostile comments by Chairman Allen Ellender (D-La.) and other critics on the Senate Agriculture Committee.

"Inaccurate," was the way Sen. Ellender described some statements in Benson's 24-page script.

"The Federal Trade Commission would rule it out as false advertising," said Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) of one portion.

"There is nothing false about it," Benson retorted. Benson sought to mollify farm state critics at one point by saying he might never cut price supports all the way down to 60 per cent of parity even if Congress granted his request for authority to go that low.

"Maybe we'll not need to go that low," Benson said.

The administration's request for authority to set price supports on basic crops and dairy products between 60 and 90 per cent of parity is one of the most controversial items in the 14-point farm program submitted by President Eisenhower. The present minimum is 75 per cent of parity.

Parity is a standard for computing farm prices declared by law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

IN HIS PREPARED STATEMENT, Benson said the legislation sought should have been provided at the end of the war. He said farmers would be better off today if it had been. He described the present 75-90 per cent range as "too narrow to permit the expansion of markets needed to absorb the increased production which our farms will likely produce."

"The shortcomings of our past programs are quite clear," Benson said. "We have tried to legislate prices artificially, without full consideration for the inevitable forces of supply and demand."

"We have tried to control production artificially, without full consideration for the efficiency and ingenuity of farmers."

All this has failed, he said.

In addition to lower price support authority, the administration program calls for an easing of production controls.

BENSON TOLD THE SENATE COMMITTEE that 25 years of experience has "proved you can't control prices by controlling production of crops." He said those under controls were in the worst shape.

"I don't want to go down toward the socialization of agriculture," he said.

At one point Benson appeared to be appealing to the farmers themselves. He said, "In the final analysis, farmers will have to make up their minds which way they want to go."

"They will decide," he said, "whether they want more freedom — more flexibility, more right of individual decision, more opportunity to make sound adjustments in line with their great efficiency, or whether they prefer more and more regimentation — more and more restrictive controls."

"FARMERS ARE INDEPENDENT, intelligent people and I am confident that they will make the right decisions when all the facts are available to them," he said.

During the reading of his statement Benson was interrupted so frequently that Sen. Spessard Holland (D-Fla.) suggested he be given a chance to finish.

"Let's not impose on all of the rules of a fair hearing," Holland said. Ellender said he had been in the Senate 21 years and no one ever had accused him of being unfair.

Ellender, who doesn't give the administration program "a ghost of a chance," ruled that committee members could interrupt any time Benson made a statement which they considered to be "not the facts."

Speed Isn't Worst Killer

"High speed isn't the major cause of traffic accidents," R. L. Holcomb told 68 Iowa law enforcement officers who completed a full week of intensive training at the annual Police Traffic School at SUI this week.

Holcomb is the chief of the bureau of police science, Institute of Public Affairs at SUI, which sponsored the school.

Citing a study completed recently, Holcomb said that 80 per cent of traffic fatalities occur in accidents where the cars involved are traveling less than 60 miles per hour. Two engineering features for reducing the accident rate on through highways mentioned by Holcomb were more limited-access roads and divided highways.

But the accident rate can be lowered in far less costly ways, too, he added. Holcomb recommended that city police departments use a "spot map" to show the locations of accidents and their causes.

"Often a stop sign is obstructed or a hedge blocks drivers' vision," Holcomb said. "Many times the installation of a light in a dark area may stop pedestrian injuries."

Too many traffic signs can actually distract drivers and increase the accident rate instead of lowering it. "A traffic signal should be installed only when proven needed and not alone upon the request of neighborhood residents," Holcomb stressed.

Satellite Major Tool For Man's Education

The earth satellite is a new and major tool in the natural extension of man's knowledge of the universe, James Van Allen, professor and head of the SUI Physics Department, stressed Friday.

"Space should be much more than a battleground for competing military powers. It should be viewed as a vast and unexplored region where we can do something worthwhile in a long term way for real human benefit," Dr. Van Allen said.

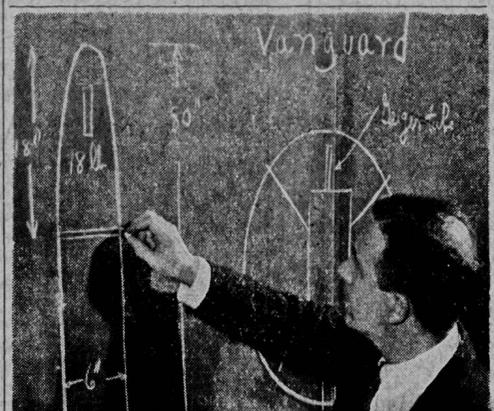

The Iowa physicist is chairman of the 27-scientist Rocket and Satellite Research Panel, whose recommendations contributed to the drafting of legislation for a National Commission on Astronautics. A bill proposing the establishment of such a commission was prepared by Congressman Merwin Coad (D-Iowa) and introduced this week in the U.S. House of Representatives.

An intensified space research program "should pay for itself within a few years," Van Allen continued, citing some "very solid prospects" for improving communications and achieving long-range and economically valuable weather forecasts in the 1960's.

Five years from now, he said, we may very well have satellites serving as relay stations for quick and efficient telecasts and telephone calls across the globe. And "a reliable forecast, for instance, that next summer would be very wet in the early part of the season and very dry in the latter part would be of inestimable value to much of U.S. agriculture and commerce," he pointed out.

"We don't know enough now about how the atmosphere works to chart the movement of hurricanes and general weather patterns. But with a satellite serving as a space station and surveying a wide range of latitude and longitude within a short time, we should be able to plot developing patterns of cloud covers over the earth," he said.

'Superman' Society Fails

NEW YORK — A Nazi-type gang of Forest Hills teenagers was broken up Friday. Police said they plotted a $40,000 bank hold-up to finance a superman society.

The group of 10 boys was led, police said, by a German-born youth, imbued with some of the same racial ideas of the late Nazi dictator, Adolf Hitler. Most of the boys were high school students.

Holdup assignments had been made. Rehearsals had been held. Guns and knives had been procured and prepared as weapons.

Then two of the boys backed out and told their parents of the plot. That brought in the police.

The group called itself the United Nordic Confederation. Police said they devised a formal oath in which they vowed "to unite and purify all the Nordic peoples for the greatest common good of all, to restore once more to the race the moral strength, spiritual greatness, physical perfection, which make up the true Nordic."

"We shall be superior in all things," the oath added.

Not all of the boys took the thing seriously at first. But they talked and dreamed of setting up an upstate camp to further the aims of their confederation.

To bankroll this objective, police said, they planned to hold up a Queens branch of the Chase Manhattan Bank at 9 a.m. today.

Each youth had been assigned special duties, had been put through rehearsals, and they had bought ammunition for two sawed off shotguns, and a .22 caliber rifle. They also had an arsenal of knives to carry.

The slipup came Thursday when two of the group had a change of heart, and decided not to go through with the plot. Five of the youths were seized Thursday. All face charges of weapons law violations and assault against the two who rebelled.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
CAPE CANAVERAL — A Navy test missile, a stand-in for the proposed Navy Polaris submarine-launched 1,500-mile IRBM, streaked from a launching pad here Friday an hour after sunrise.

WASHINGTON — The Air Force will begin construction of three ballistic missile detection stations in the arctic within three months. Using ultra-range radar, the $139 million network of stations could spot Russian missiles minutes after launching in Eurasia.

LONDON — Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd conferred separately Friday with Dag Hammarskjold of the U.N. and Christian Pineau of France on Disarmament, European and Middle East affairs. The talks, diplomatic officials said, were attempts to revive deadlocked East-West disarmament negotiations.

NEW YORK — Soprano Patrice Munsel scored an artistic triumph at the Metropolitan Opera House Thursday night, but suffered a financial setback less than a block away. While she sang the role of ill-fated Mimi in Puccini's "La Boheme," burglars stole $4,000 worth of jewelry, furs and clothing from her station wagon parked near the opera house.

WASHINGTON — The Agriculture Department called a halt Friday on retiring cotton land into the soil bank. Officials said this was necessary to avoid going into the red on the half billion dollar surplus control program.

Twining Says Russians Lag In Strength

WASHINGTON — A top military planner and an aircraft pioneer Friday applied brighter colors to the dark defense picture presented to Senate probes in recent weeks.

Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the senators, "We are not today, in my judgment, in a position of inferior strength vis-a-vis the Soviet Union."

In testimony given to the Senate Preparedness subcommittee Tuesday and released in censored form Friday, Twining asserted: "Our military forces are strong enough now to win if war is thrust upon us — and we can take care of the future if we will put our energies to the task."

Killer's Family Misses Execution

PARCHMAN, Miss. — Hardened William A. Wetzel died in the gas chamber at 12:33 a.m. Friday with a psalm on his lips. Ten hours later his mother and sister showed up thinking the execution had been set for 2 p.m.

"I don't know why Mr. Harpole — Prison Supt. Bill Harpole — didn't tell us last night," sobbed Mrs. Ira Wetzel of Seneca Falls, N.Y., mother of the 33-year-old badman doomed for a prison slaying.

Bill To Raise National Debt Goes to House

WASHINGTON — With the Government scraping the bottom of its cash box, Congress moved swiftly Friday in initial action to raise the national debt limit from $275 billion to $280 billion.

Less than four hours after Secretary of the Treasury Anderson reported the Government's cash balances running "distressingly low," the House Ways and Means Committee approved a bill increasing the debt ceiling by $5 billion until June 30, 1959.

The measure was sent to the House by a 20-3 committee vote.

Treasury officials said the measure would give them needed flexibility in meeting the Government's financial requirements. They said the added borrowing power was necessary primarily to provide cash for the Government's day-to-day bills during periods of slack tax receipts, and to allow for more economical refinancing of maturing obligations.

Byron Janis Concert— A Promise Fulfilled

—At Macbride Hall
By JOHN JANSSON
Review Board Member

Members of the Civic Music Association heard a promising young artist last night do more than merely promise. He also delivered. Byron Janis' piano concert was a musical treat.

His playing was youthful and full of vigor. Displaying solid tone and good volume — and tempo control, he revealed a near-perfect memory, great accuracy, and thorough discipline.

But he has a distance to go before he reaches the deep sensitivity and delicacy necessary in an artist. His interpretative liberties, while in good taste, appeared a bit studied. They were too cold and deficient in the deep love which a musician must have in his art.

The "Waldstein" was the high point of the evening for me. It was a bit fast and aggressive, yet the sensitivity was there. It also served to point up the faults of the performer. The loud passages tended to be roisterous. The softer sections were soft — and sudden — but there was no middle ground.

The adagio movement revealed another talent. It showed that Janis could indeed control his impetuous feelings with a transparent cover. The tension was packed into a small, solid package — tightly wrapped, yet visible to all who chose to look.

The Chopin pieces were well done. Clean, precise, accurate, thoughtful. But maybe the thought had all been done before the concert. Spurred-the-moment moods or fancies were minimized as a result.

The tour of Moussorgsky's gallery was pleasant. There, right in the beginning, was the Great Gate of Kiev, just as big as it could be without breaking the strings. But later displays were carefully thoughtful and descriptive. Several showed gaiety and humor just where they were supposed to, but a type which reminded me of a very fast dancer with heavy feet — doing an excellent job, but being slightly hindered from doing exactly what he wanted.

On the whole, the concert was deep, refreshing and enjoyable. My only serious complaint is that there were a few empty seats.

Weather

Scattered traces of snow are expected to fall today. The Weather Bureau said there will be little temperature change today or tonight. Sunday's outlook calls for mostly cloudy skies and colder temperatures.

'... And We're Going to Let You Fuel It'

Letters to the Editor— Thinks Objective Exams Unfair

TO THE EDITOR: For some time it has been my concern to express my opinion on that weird and peculiar examination device known as multiple-choice, an element of the American Educational system so far out of touch with reality that it seems incredible how it ever found a place in American Education.

First, the system does not allow a group of students to begin a test as an equal body, for it gives an immediate advantage to weak students, who know that through the powers of recognition and a little bit of luck, a respectable grade can be obtained from the test.

Secondly, many multiple-choice tests degenerate into clashes of opinion, and the student finds himself with no alternative other than to subscribe to one school of thought.

Undoubtedly, the multiple-choice system is deeply embedded, and any hopes of an examination of its diseased roots seem out of the question. However, something can and should be done to straighten out its visionary structure.

As a cure for the first point, it seems sensible that the adoption of a test where merely the questions were posed and no answers were given would present a true and just solution to the problem.

My main task was to point out the debility of this system, and my solutions are meant as possible and are not presented as the only solutions available. I feel quite sure that there are other and probably better solutions to the problem than those I have mentioned.

Interpreting— Ban on Space Weapons

By WILLIAM L. RYAN Associated Press News Analyst There is a suggestion in recent American statements that the United States may be looking for an opportunity to seize the initiative in the political-propaganda war with the Soviet Union.

The United States has been and probably still is well ahead in the field of nuclear bombs and the potential to deliver them. Long before the Russians exploded their own first atom bomb, they had mounted a heavy offensive for an unconditional international agreement to prohibit the manufacture and testing of nuclear bombs.

The Soviet Union now believes itself to be well ahead in the field of missile and astronomical developments. It would be instructive to learn what their reaction would be to having the tables turned on them.

The United States has been taking a propaganda beating for years from the various Soviet peace offensives against atomic and hydrogen bombs. Genuine fears of what might result from the continued testing of hydrogen bombs have made the campaign attractive to many who have nothing in common with Soviet communism.

Phi Beta Kappa To Initiate 27 SUlowans Monday Evening

The exclusive ranks of the nation's intelligentsia will be increased by twenty-seven Monday when members from SUI's student body are initiated into Phi Beta Kappa, leading national scholastic honorary fraternity.

The initiation will take place in the Pentacrest room of the Iowa Memorial Union at 5:45 p.m. after which the new members will attend a banquet to be held in the River Room.

Two of the initiates claim to have pooled their academic resources to be eligible for the scholastic honors. They are Mr. and Mrs. Whelan Kooz, both of whom will be initiated Monday.

Kooz, M2, Vinton, and his wife, JoAnn, A4, Akron, were married last June. Since then, reports Mrs. Kooz, her grades have improved, but his have dropped.

Professor Myra Uhlfelder, Department of Classics, will preside, and Professor Orville Hitchcock, Department of Speech, will address the group.

Those who will be initiated are:

Jo Ann C. Kooz, A4, Akron; Myron LeRoy Enfield, Anita; John Stuart Smith, I3 and Richard Wayne Tie-meyer, G, Burlington; Maurice Reid Edic, G, Carson; Cecile Louise Keller, Central Junction; Allyn Lewis Mark, M2, Clarksville; Christian D. Hartmann, A4, Clinton.

Charles Gott, Davenport; Margaret U. Erickson, A4, Dayton; Kenneth Albert Springate, M2 and John McCam-

Car Accident Injures Two

Mrs. Helen Naughton, 1302 Keokuk St., and her nine-year-old daughter, Debby, received slight injuries Friday morning in a collision at the intersection of Dodge and Burlington streets.

Mrs. Naughton suffered a skinned knee, and Debby received a bump on the head, when the car they were in collided with a station wagon driven by John J. Kaufman, R.R. 1.

Although the injuries were slight, damage to both cars was estimated at $1,000, police said. The car driven by Mrs. Naughton was struck broadside and the station wagon penetrated the side of the car deeply enough to smash the transmission.

A charge of failure to stop for a traffic signal was filed by investigating officers against Kaufman. He was taken directly to Iowa City police court where he was fined $10 and $5 costs by Judge Ansel Chapman on a guilty plea.

Police said Mrs. Naughton was driving south on Dodge and Kaufman was driving east on Burlington St. at the time of the crash. The accident occurred shortly before 8.

Immunization Talk Jan. 22 By McCorkle

Dr. Thomas McCorkle, assistant professor in the SUI Institute of Agricultural Medicine, will speak on "Project Immunix" at a public meeting sponsored by the Johnson County Health Council Wednesday, Jan. 22. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Iowa City High School second-floor Little Theatre.

Dr. McCorkle will report the results of a follow-up survey on the reason why parents choose for or against the regular childhood immunizations for diseases such as polio, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

This survey was carried out last spring in Iowa City by Dr. McCorkle's sociology and anthropology seminar group as a follow-up of an immunization survey done in the fall of 1956 by the Johnson County Health Council.

A study compiled by Mrs. Richard Feddersen and Mrs. Robert Ray on the health services offered by the Johnson County agencies and groups will also be presented.

The officers of the Johnson County Health Council are Mrs. Ralph Troyer, chairman; Frank Bates, vice-chairman, and Mrs. Thomas McCorkle, secretary-treasurer.

Friday, Lewis made another report to the police. This time he said the top of his car had been slashed during the night. He made no estimate of the damage.

Strong Script—'Epitaph for a Bluebird'—Inexperienced Cast

By JULIAN SMITH
Review Board Member

"Epitaph for a Bluebird," an original fantasy comedy by Theodis Shine, came pathetically and humanly to life in the first scene of the third act of its premiere performance at the University Theatre Thursday night, but unfortunately for the audience, the author and this critic, that scene's effectiveness was not sustained through the rest of the play.

The fault is not entirely Mr. Shine's. He has shown, by that particular scene, and at other moments in the play, that he can write vital and compelling drama. Most of the blame must be placed on the too-obviously inexperienced cast, who swallowed and muffled some of the most meaningful lines in the play, spouted them carelessly and hastily, and often refused to wait until the audience had stopped laughing.

Mr. Shine's play has a theme; the cast's play does not. Like Carson McCullers' "Member of the Wedding" and Charles Sebree's "Mrs. Patterson," the theme is that of the illusion-filled fantasy worlds that people find when their own worlds become unbearable.

Zelma Louise, recently orphaned, seems doomed to a life of squalor with her aunt, Madame Precious, who runs a tattoo shop. As she is portrayed, though, one would hardly know it. She is full of gaiety and exuberance, with the result that her mystical communication with her father through the bluebird is unbelievable and seems labored. Frankie and Teddie, the adolescents in the aforementioned plays, both eventually come to grips with reality — Zelma never does.

All of the characters in this play try to evade the reality of their situation. Mama Lou's escape is through voodoo, and while Servalia Davis' interpretation is the most buoyant and entertaining of the evening, it is never quite clear what she is doing or why she is doing it.

Critics Hear Students' Plays

Three student playwrights read their plays for professional criticism by visiting drama authorities Friday during a "New Plays Seminar" at SUI.

Conducted annually by members of the SUI dramatic arts staff, this year's seminar was host to seven visitors who discussed and criticized the students' playwrighting efforts. They were Paul Baker, director of Baylor University Theatre; Henry Hews, drama critic for The Saturday Review; Norris Houghton, a producer and director for the Phoenix Theatre in New York; Professor Alan Downer of Princeton University, and playwrights Morton Wisengrad and Sol Stein.

Prior to the one-day seminar, the visitors attended the opening performance Thursday night of "Epitaph for a Bluebird," original play by SUI graduate student Theodis Shine of Dallas, Tex. The play will be presented in five more performances at the University Theatre tonight and next week.

Authors of the original plays discussed with SUI faculty members and the visiting dramatists were James V. Hatch, Oelwein; Paul Gray, Toledo, and Richard Schechner, South Orange, N.J.

Madam Precious is still waiting for Godot in the form of the ninety dollars a month that a soldier-husband of Zelma would bring, but she does not seem as far lost in her wishful thinking as the script intends.

Australia Crowley's escape is through what she considers her "freedom"; this is extremely ironic, but the irony never comes through. The scenes in her apartment, well-written commentary and counterpoint to what is happening on other parts of the stage, often failed because the lines were not heard by the audience.

The most effective characterization, that of Joe Sedrick, running away because he is literally being "hemmed in," is moving and beautifully done. Author Shine writes with compassion and understanding here, but in view of this scene, his optimistic ending is unjustified. His audience, incidentally, not unhappy with the ending, called for Mr. Shine as the curtain fell.

"Epitaph for a Bluebird" is advertised as a "fantasy-comedy," but it is at its best when it gives up its fantasy, uses its comedy as ironic comment, and come to grips with life and with the essential theme of the play.

P.S.: It's easier to be a critic than an author. Now, kind reader, you may write your "Epitaph for a Drama Critic."

BEHIND THE Sports Desk

By Alan Hoskins

Absolutely Great
"Absolutely great."
That's about the only way you can describe the play of four former Iowa stars Thursday night when they teamed with former San Francisco all-American K. C. Jones to beat the Phillips Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla. 64-56.

Playing for Sanitary Dairy of Cedar Rapids were former Hawkeye greats Carl Cain, Bill Logan, Sharm Scheurman and Bill Schoof. The fifth member of the "Fabulous Five," Bill Seaberg is in the Army and could not get away for the game, which was the first time the Hawks had played together since their 83-71 loss at the hands of Bill Russell and San Francisco in the finals of the NCAA tournament in Evanston, Ill., in 1956.

They definitely looked like the team that won two straight Big Ten championships in 1955 and 1956. Although their shooting was a little below par, the former Hawks still displayed the sharp passing, ball-handling, rebounding and alert play that is now rapidly becoming almost a legend.

The scoring looked like a page out of an old Iowa scorebook. Scheurman and Jones had 15 apiece, Cain 13, Schoof 10, and Logan 7. The same type of balance that the Hawkeyes got night after night.

The former Hawkeyes looked to be in pretty good shape, although only Cain was playing regularly. Sanitary Dairy only substituted once, with almost five minutes left in the first half, when they put a whole new platoon in. The Iowa players played the whole second half.

Logan was the only one of the five that looked a little out of shape, although he said afterward he felt pretty good. On one occasion, Scheurman started down the floor on a fast break, and as he passed Logan, Bill yelled at Sharm. Sharm turned around and said, "Okay, I'll slow it down."

However, this was the exception rather than the rule. For Sanitary often employed the fast break, and a couple of times, bothered the Oilers with a full court press. Scheurman, looking as quick as ever, stole the ball two or three times out in the center of the floor, and once went all the way after stealing the ball out of the hands of one of the Oilers.

Other than the fancy passing and ball handling of Sanitary Dairy, it was mainly Carl Cain. Cain gave a dazzling exhibition of jumping, as he time and time again cleared the boards. His shooting was just as impressive. On several occasions he broke behind the Oiler defense, took perfect passes high in the air from Scheurman and Jones, and in the same motion, laid them through.

In all fairness to the Oilers, they were tired after playing three tough National Industrial League games on the road, and they showed it. Also, they missed former Iowa State all-American Gary Thompson.

Thompson, the Roland all-stater, suffered a shoulder separation on Wednesday night in a game against the Peoria Cats, and did not suit up for the tilt, much to the disappointment of about 40 fans from Roland.

Also, the refereeing did not favor the Oilers, as 22 fouls were called against them, while only 10 were called on Sanitary. Sanitary Dairy made 22 of 32 free throw attempts.

4 Sophs To Start Against Indiana Tonight

Hawks Hope To Upset Big Ten Leaders

By ALAN HOSKINS
Daily Iowan Sports Editor
The Iowa Hawkeyes will try to bounce back into the win column here tonight as well as play the role of spoiler as they meet the Indiana Hoosiers in a Big Ten basketball encounter.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. with plenty of tickets available at the ticket office in the Fieldhouse lobby.

The Hoosiers, 3-1, currently are tied for the Conference lead with surprising Michigan. Indiana is Big Ten co-champion along with Michigan State. The Hawkeyes share sixth place in the Big Ten standings with a 1-2 record.

Indiana has defeated Big Ten rivals Northwestern, Illinois, and Minnesota, all at home, while losing to Purdue on the road. Iowa has lost its two home games, to Michigan and Northwestern, while winning, at Illinois.

Iowa came up with its best performance of the season Monday night in its 82-80 overtime loss to Northwestern. The Hawkeyes, behind as much as 11 points in the second half, raced back to take the lead, only to lose on a shot in the last three seconds.

Iowa coach Bucky O'Connor will start the same lineup which played most of the Northwestern game, and was responsible for the fine comeback. Four sophomores will team with veteran Dave Gunther in the opening lineup.

Starting at the guard spots will be 5-8 Mike Heitman and 5-10 Bobby Washington, two of the smallest back court men in the Big Ten. Both sparked the comeback against Northwestern, with Heitman scoring 15 points, mostly from out.

Larry Swift, who apparently is starting to regain his early shooting form, will start at center, while Nolden Gentry, the Hawkeyes' leading rebounder, will open with Gunther at forward.

Gunther is fourth among Big Ten scorers with an average of 21.7 points per game. The Hawkeye junior has hit 472 of his shots.

Indiana is led by center Archie Dees, who was the Big Ten's leading scorer last year and has been hitting at a 25-point clip so far this season. Dees hit 38 points against Purdue earlier this season for the top scoring effort in the Big Ten so far.

Although Dees is their big gun, the Hoosiers also boast one of the better shooters in the Conference in forward Jerry Thompson. Thompson, who is averaging 16 points a game, has hit on about 50 per cent of his shots in league play.

Starting with Thompson at forward will be Pete Obremsky, a veteran who was one of the Hoosiers' top rebounders last year. The guard spots will be manned by Sam Gee and Bob Wilkinson. Gee, a 2-year veteran, is a top playmaker while Wilkinson, a sophomore, is one of the top newcomers in the Big Ten.

In Conference play, Indiana has hit 41 per cent of its shots while Iowa has hit 35 per cent. The Hoosiers lead the Big Ten in free throw percentage (.758) and are second in rebounding.

Writer Says Rift Caused Curtice To Leave Utah
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Bob Busby, assistant sports editor of the Kansas City Star, said in his column Friday he had information that Jack Curtice, newly named football coach at Stanford, left Utah because of a disagreement with his basketball coach, Jack Gardner.

Busby said the situation was similar to that which prompted Gardner to leave Kansas State College at Manhattan several years ago after a rift developed between Gardner and Larry (Moon) Mullins, athletic director. Busby wrote:

"Word out of the West is that while Jack Curtice had success as football coach and athletic director, he had reached the point where either he, or his basketball coach, Jack Gardner, had to go. . . . The reports sound like the K-State story replayed. . . . They say he (Gardner) has lined up a powerful little group in downtown Salt Lake City which enables him to bypass the director in certain instances. . . . That's the way it was in Manhattan, only that time, Gardner lost. . . . Moon Mullins, the athletic director, did, too, but he lasted a few years longer."

Dodgers Get Home; Play In Coliseum

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Walter O'Malley's long search for a home field for his transplanted Dodger baseball club ended Friday in the 101,000-seat Los Angeles Coliseum.

After a frantic day of secret huddles and a three-hour luncheon meeting, an agreement was reached allowing the Dodgers what will be baseball's biggest park for the next two years.

It was O'Malley who broke a long deadlock by offering a proposal that adds about $100,000 a year to the $200,000 he offered the coliseum commission earlier in the week.

As outlined by O'Malley at a conference on the hard board seats of the Coliseum during a recess in Friday's meeting with the commission, the plan provides:

A guaranteed annual rental of $200,000, with receipts from concessions credited by the commission to this amount. If the concession income reached $200,000, O'Malley wouldn't have to put up any cash.

In addition, and this was the added touch that produced agreement, O'Malley said he would pay 10 per cent of gross gate receipts and turn over all concession income to the commission for nine games.

The terms for the nine games, which will be the first nine after the opening series with the San Francisco Giants on April 18, are identical to those paid by UCLA, Southern California and the Los Angeles Rams, all of whom play in their home football games in the stadium.

This concession by O'Malley overcame objections of the three longtime tenants to the Dodgers getting what they had considered a more favorable deal.

Wrestlers At Minnesota On Monday

The Iowa wrestling team travels to Minnesota Monday, to meet the defending Big Ten Gophers.

So far this season, Minnesota has defeated Nebraska and Kansas State University in dual meets, and placed first in the quadrangular meet with Purdue, Michigan State and Northwestern. Iowa downed Michigan State, 17-9, Jan. 11.

Coach Dave McCuskey of Iowa said that despite ineligibility and graduation losses to the Gopher team, that they appear to be about as strong as last year when they took the Big Ten crown. McCuskey stated, however, that the good balance and tremendous determination of his Hawkeyes could swing the balance in Iowa's favor and that his team will give the Gophers a real battle.

For Minnesota, Charles Prunty and John Ross, 123- and 137-pounders respectively, have moved into starting roles due to ineligibility which hit the Gopher squad recently. Jim Riefseck, 147, and Pete Veldman, heavyweight, who has returned from the service, have filled the vacancies left by graduation. Riefseck is the only sophomore on the Minnesota squad.

Three of the Gophers ranked at, standings last year. 130-pound Dick or near, the top of the Big Ten Mueller was last year's conference champion; Ron Baker, was second in the 157-pound division, and Bill Wright, a former Iowa high school champion from East Waterloo, was second in the 177-pound division behind Iowa's Gary Kurdelmeier.

Iowa, with five wins against one loss this season and 2-1 in the conference, will counter with a well balanced attack featuring Ralph Rieks, 137, undefeated in six bouts; Larry Moser 123, 4-0; Kurdelmeier, 177, 4-1-1; heavyweight Gordon Trapp, 3-1; and Simon Roberts, 147, 3-1-2.

Spartans Vs. Northwestern In TV Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Northwestern's resurging Wildcats, who already have matched their entire victory production of last season, entertain co-champion Michigan State in a TV matinee which features Saturday's Big Ten basketball program.

The Wildcats will gun for their third straight in the test against the formidable Spartans, which will be televised regionally via Sports Network beginning at 3:30 p.m., CST.

Saturday night's conference program includes Indiana (3-1) at Iowa (1-2); Minnesota (1-1) at Ohio State 1-2; and Wisconsin (2-2) at Purdue (1-2). Michigan (3-1) and Illinois (1-3) are idle because of semester exams.

Northwestern which finished last in the 1956-57 Big Ten race with a 2-12 record already has beaten Michigan and Iowa while losing to Indiana, 68-65, at Bloomington, Ind.

Michigan State, fourth place finisher in the NCAA tourney last year, has lost to Ohio State and beaten Purdue in conference play. However, the Spartans own the best overall record in the Big Ten with 8-2. Northwestern's overall mark is 7-4. Last year the Wildcats won only 6 of their 22 starts.

Northwestern's chance of moving into a first-place tie with idle Michigan will depend on how the other co-leader, Indiana, fares at Iowa.

Indiana's Hoosiers, however, now are rolling in the fashion expected in the pre-season sizeups. Guard Sam Gee, who played in only ten games over two previous seasons, apparently has given the Hoosiers the balance they lacked in non-league play.

Indiana coach Branch McCracken says of his defending co-champions: "We're still making mistakes, but it looks like we're finally jelling. We've been a better club in each of the last five games."

The Ohio State-Minnesota clash brings together three of the Big Ten's leading scorers. Minnesota's George Kline 25.5-point average and Roger Johnson (29) face Ohio State's Frank Noward (17).

Surprising Wisconsin, fresh from upsets of Ohio State and Illinois in its last two starts, gets a stiff test at Purdue whose Boilermakers have probably the league's most balanced scoring. All five Purdue starters have been averaging in double figures.

Wisconsin's resurgence has been spurred by the fast development of two sophomores, Bob Barneson and Sam Bernard, as scoring threats.

96-52 Win For Ramblers Over St. Pat's

By LOU YOUNKIN

St. Mary's of Iowa City won their 53rd straight game over a three season period Friday night, by drubbing St. Patrick of Iowa City, 96-52. It was victory number 12 of the 1957-58 season for the Ramblers and the 8th loss in 12 starts for St. Patrick's.

The game was close until midway through the second period when Mike Blackman, of St. Mary's, hit 9 of 10 free throws and Dave Maher, Mike Reid and Blackman dropped in two baskets apiece to increase the Rambler lead from 35-26 to 50-30.

The first quarter saw the Irish cut an early St. Mary's lead from 15-4 to 16-10 at the quarter's end. Maher hit for eight points in the opening period while Reid added six. Gary Crowley paced St. Patrick's in this quarter with five.

The Irish dropped in 16 of 19 free throws in the first half while the Ramblers converted on 18 of 24 tries from the charity line.

Maher topped all scorers with 25 points, with Blackman hitting for 23 and Reid, 21. Crowley was high for St. Patrick's with 13 and Bulgarelli added 12.

Friday night's contest will be the last meeting between the two schools unless they happen to meet later this season in the tournaments. Next year, St. Mary's and St. Patrick's are combining into one school, Regina Catholic High.

Gymnasts Entertain Wildcats Today

Hawks Seek 2nd Victory

By DICK LYNES
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Iowa's gymnastics squad opens its home varsity season Saturday afternoon at 1:30 against Big Ten opponent Northwestern. The meet will be held in the North Gym of the Fieldhouse.

The Iowa team, which showed good all around strength, especially in the trampoline and free exercise events, returned last week-end after defeating the Air Force Academy 68 1/2-42 1/2 at Denver, Colo.

"Apparently Northwestern is suffering from lack of material and lack of depth," said Iowa gymnastics coach Dick Holzapfel. Holzapfel was referring to the fact that the Wildcats have only two returning lettermen.

"However," said the coach, "there's always that big 'if' in any athletic event. You never know how a team is going to behave on a given date."

Two Wildcats that could give the Hawks a lot of trouble are lettermen Ken Shodeen, who will compete on the high bar, still rings and side horse, and Burt Anderson, tumbling and free exercise.

Holzapfel said he planned a few changes in the Iowa lineup so more members of his squad could gain competitive experience.

Godfrey Stych will participate on the parallel bars, and Bill King as a free exercise competitor. Tom Novak and Marshall Claus, both of whom made the trip to Denver last weekend, will compete on the still rings.

Holzapfel won't be caught with his defenses down though, as his lettermen will be competing also. They include Staffen Carlsson, Ted Segura, Tim Joe and Bob Justice.

Carlsson, a senior, led the Hawks last week with 22 points, winning the horizontal bar, tumbling, free exercise, and second on the parallel bars. Segura is in second place with 12 points.

Iowa's team features a wide variety of international flavor. Carlsson comes from Sweden, Segura from Mexico, and Joe was

Swim Team Duals MSU At Lansing

The Iowa swimming team journeys to Lansing, Mich. today to face a strong Michigan State squad, in what will be the Hawks second Big Ten dual meet of the season.

The Spartans, defending Big Ten champs, have virtually the same squad back that won the title last year. It will be the second dual meet of the season for Michigan State. The Spartans defeated Iowa State, 76-25 in a non-conference tilt.

The Hawkeyes last week turned back a determined Wisconsin squad to chalk up their first conference win. Earl Ellis, who placed first in the 220- and 440-yard freestyles, paced the Hawkeye victory, 1956 NCAA backstroke champion, Lincoln Hurring, won by a wide margin as did Gary Morris in the individual medley.

The Spartans feature all-American Wally Dohler in the butterfly and individual medley events and Frank Modine who set a new American record in the 200-yard breaststroke against Iowa State with a time of 2:25.2.

The dual of the day could be between Dohler and Iowa's Gary Morris. However, the two may not meet in the individual medley if Coach Dave Armbruster elects to swim Morris in the 50- and 100-yard freestyles.

Armbruster said the Spartans are probably the toughest team in the Big Ten. The Hawkeye coach attributes the Michigan State power to team depth.

Iowa will entertain Minnesota next week in contest to begin at 2 p.m. in the Fieldhouse pool.

Job Offers Pour In For Jim Fox

NEW YORK (AP)—Jimmy Fox, jobless and destitute after dissipating his quarter of a million dollar baseball earnings, is looking forward to what he terms "the start of a new life" at the age of 50.

The former American League home run and batting king, brought to New York for a television show after it had been revealed he was broke and unable to pay his rent, told The Associated Press that offers of jobs and financial help had come after news of his plight had been made public.

"My wife just called me from Miami," Fox said, as tears came to his eyes, "and she informed me of many telegrams that arrived this morning. A number of them contain offers of jobs. I can't tell you how overjoyed I am. . . and how grateful."

"It's finally beginning to look like my luck has changed. I don't mind telling you I've been broke for the past 10 years. Oh, I've had odd jobs here and there, but never anything that amounted to much."

Harshman's Back May Cancel Deal

CHICAGO (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick has called a meeting of the Chicago White Sox and Baltimore Orioles officials here Sunday to discuss whether pitcher Jack Harshman's ailing back should nullify his trade by the Sox to Baltimore Dec. 3.

Sox vice president Chuck Comiskey Friday issued a lengthy statement in response to printed report in Baltimore stating Harshman has a slipped disc and that the Orioles want the Sox to take back the lefty and provide another player.

Comiskey disclosed that Oriole general manager Paul Richards has referred the case to Commissioner Frick after examination of Harshman at Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore.
