Reuther Says Big Business Profiteering

DETROIT (AP) — Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, warned members Wednesday that their 1958 contract negotiations will be conducted in an unfavorable atmosphere because of uncertainties in the domestic economy and world conditions.

"These are unusual times and that is why we have proposed an unusual approach," he told 3,000 delegates to the UAW's special three-day convention here.

The convention will decide whether to support recommendations by Reuther and the UAW International Executive Board that a profit-sharing plan be one of the major demands on the auto industry's Big Three this year.

Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors Corp., turned down an invitation to address the convention, asking Reuther in a letter to "review your demands carefully in the light of economic conditions."

Curtice previously had termed the profit-sharing proposal "unrealistic." He suggested current contracts be extended two years.

Reuther, in a 105-minute keynote speech interrupted 25 times by applause accused big business of jeopardizing the nation's economy by taking so much in profits.

He said the nation's economic troubles in 1958 are the same as those which marked 1929 and the start of the big depression. He lashed big business for "making every effort through propaganda to convince people that the demands of labor are responsible for current inflation."

"For the past month, there has been a deliberate campaign of slander and smear against your union and your leadership," Reuther said. "This isn't a campaign without a purpose — it is one of harassment and vilification in an effort to cut our power at the bargaining table in 1958."

A series of editorial articles based upon a press conference held Wednesday with John Scott, assistant to the publisher of Time magazine will begin Friday. Scott has traveled all over the world, worked in Russia from 1932 to 1937, and has written several books.

The latest, "Political Warfare," deals with the Soviet-Western conflict and international politics.

First Stage Of Vanguard Now Ready

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — General Electric Co. said Wednesday it has delivered 11 X405 rocket engines to the Martin Co. for Project Vanguard and will deliver a 12th shortly.

The company also disclosed for the first time, with Pentagon approval, details of its program for testing the 27,000-pound thrust power plant which will be the first stage of the Vanguard satellite-launching vehicle.

Tests have indicated the engine was strong enough to run much longer than the 2½ minutes required in Vanguard operation.

The Navy, which failed in its first attempt to launch the Vanguard Dec. 6, is preparing for a new try at some unannounced date in the near future.

Twelve X405 engines and a spare were ordered for the Vanguard program. Two have been used up, in the full-scale test launching of Dec. 6 and in a first-stage test, with dummy second and third stages, last Oct. 23.

Fraternities To Decide Fate Of MEBOC Contest Today

The Interfraternity Council (IFC) will decide at their meeting today whether the men's housing units at SUI will participate in the University's traditional Most Eligible Bachelor On Campus (MEBOC) contest.

In a "straw vote" taken during the past 10 days, the voting added up to 12 groups in favor of the contest and seven opposed.

The AWS Spinster's Spree committee sent a letter to the president of each men's housing unit, announcing plans for the contest and offering three revisions of last year's program. The committee has charge of the contest and the dance schedule to be held March 21.

The revisions include elimination of after-dinner skits in women's housing units, presentation of one five-minute skit for each candidate when he is presented at the Union the first night, and greater accent on after hours serenades to women's housing units.

Nancy Nelson, A3, Storm Lake, chairman of the committee, said the revisions may have to be changed since the "straw vote" showed most of the fraternities prefer the after dinner skits and not the serenades.

Miss Nelson and Gretchen Greene, A3, Des Moines, a member of the committee, will explain the tentative plans for the contest to the IFC meeting.

Robert Scanlon, E4, Buffalo, N.Y., president of Phi Kappa, and Dave Krumboltz, C4, Cedar Rapids, president of Delta Tau Delta, said their groups want MEBOC but would rather discontinue the serenades and keep the skits.

The presidents of Phi Kappa, Delta Tau Delta, Alpha Epsilon Pi, Sigma Chi, Acacia and Phi Kappa Sigma said they want MEBOC but would rather discontinue the serenades and keep the skits.

Ken Lemke, A4, Arlington Heights, Ill., president of Beta Theta Pi, said the members of that fraternity favor the contest but feel it wouldn't hurt a bit to leave the skits out.

Three fraternities want MEBOC with no changes from last year's program. The presidents of Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Nu and Phi Kappa Psi said their fraternities want everything just as it was last year because each house worked for a common goal and had a lot of fun doing it.

The Theta Xi fraternity has not voted on which program they favor.

The initiation of Old Gold Days this year played a role in the decision of two of the groups to vote down MEBOC.

The Alpha Tau Omega president, Norman Nelson, C4, Red Oak, said "the men feel Old Gold Days and Greek Week should be the big time-consuming activities this year." Quadrangle president Chuck Shank, E3, Cedar Rapids, said the Quad Council would like to discontinue MEBOC this year and concentrate on Old Gold Days.

Park Rider, C4, Galesburg, Ill., Sigma Phi Epsilon president, said his fraternity does not want the contest at all. "We feel all the time and energy spent on the campaign last year was badly belittled when that little 'bear' received more publicity and attention than any of the humans that were nominated," he added.

He was referring to the kinkajou honey bear "Senor Mico" that was entered late and tallied among the top 10 men on campus that coeds thought were most eligible.

The Delta Upsilon fraternity is still undecided about the contest, but the negative side is a bit stronger. John Welch, E1, Cedar Rapids, president, commented that "The fellows are split about it. Some feel it was real fun and a good SU tradition; others felt it is worn out."

The men's dormitories also were asked to express their opinions and any desired changes in the organization of the contest. Kay Kramer, A4, Remsen, president of Hillcrest, said, "We are much in favor of MEBOC, especially as it was last year; however, we would go along with any changes. We would be very disappointed if IFC voted it down and did not participate."

South Quadrangle dormitory has not taken any definite stand either way.

Try to Link Blood Types And Disease

Suspicion that blood types may have some relationship to the diseases which a person contracts are being investigated by a research team at SUI's College of Medicine.

Since 1955, the scientists have been studying the frequency of certain kinds of cancer and other diseases in persons having each of the blood types classified as A, AB, B, and O.

President C. H. Becker of Wartburg College, Waverly, will give the commencement address. Dr. Becker received his master's degree from Colorado State A and M College in 1935 and his Doctor of Divinity degree from Wartburg in 1948.

University Band, under the direction of Frederick C. Ebbs, will provide musical entertainment and recessional marches, and will also play a short concert before the ceremony.

However, the SUI findings have been confirmed by studies conducted throughout the world.

Doctors from all parts of the state were told Wednesday during a postgraduate course in surgery at the SUI Medical Center that findings in the study "suggest" that the incidence of:

Stomach ulcer and duodenal ulcer (an ulcer at the upper end of the small intestine) is significantly higher in persons with O type blood.

Stomach cancer and pernicious anemia significantly higher in persons with A type blood.

The scientists also are conducting studies on the incidence of breast and lung cancer, rheumatic fever, colon and rectal cancer, leukemia, cancer of the prostate and various other disorders among persons with each of the blood types.

Dr. Buckwalter says it is hoped that blood type studies will produce clues to some of the mysteries which still surround the cause of many diseases.

Capital Says Order Restored After Strike

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — At least 100 persons were killed and hundreds wounded in a day of rioting that attended a general strike Tuesday, usually reliable sources said Wednesday.

Heavy rifle and machine-gun fire had developed in the city. Gasoline fire bombings destroyed at least 30 buses and 20 other vehicles. A textile factory was reported burned. Several houses were set afire. Windows were broken.

Other reports from Venezuela said new riots began at noon Wednesday.

The censored government radio acknowledged that 25 civilians were killed and 273 wounded in clashes between police and troops and the foes of Perez Jimenez. It said the list was growing.

Simmons explained that the plan is to have student's final grades expressed as percentages instead of the present letter grade system.

The purpose of the plan, according to Simmons, is to more clearly differentiate between borderline students who under the present system just miss or just get a letter grade by a narrow margin.

"We feel that this plan would also stimulate more initiative in borderline students," Simmons said.

He also told members that his subcommittee also is investigating the possibilities of holding a periodic public forum to present speakers from the University's various departments speaking on topics in their specialized fields.

Mike Murray, A2, Sioux City, told the group that his subcommittee on state legislation is planning the preparation of questionnaires to be sent to all state candidates for election next fall.

Murray said the questionnaires will be designed to indicate and explain candidates' views on all issues relating to SUI.

"We are specifically interested in candidates' viewpoints on capital appropriations for the University and the tax relief bill for students," he said.

New Grading Plan Given To Registrar

By JOE FELL
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Student activities in the areas of student and faculty relations, state legislation, and racial and minority groups on campus were reported Wednesday to SUI's Student Council standing Committee on Human Relations.

Bill Simmons, A2, Kirkwood, Ill., subcommittee chairman on student and faculty relations, told members that a plan for a new grading system at SUI has been completed and presented to the Registrar's office for consideration.

The broadcast said calm had been restored to the country, but announced another curfew in effect from 6 p.m. Wednesday to 5 a.m. Thursday.

Censorship prevails in Venezuela.

This dispatch reached the United States via channels other than those ordinarily used.

There were unconfirmed reports that some strikers walked out in the western oil fields and at big refineries in Paraguaná Peninsula in Falcon State.

But the Interior Ministry said Wednesday the oil fields were completely normal and that disorders in the rest of the country acknowledged previously, had ended.

There were no reports of harm to the 40,000 Americans who work in oil and other enterprises in Venezuela, where the U.S. stake is estimated at about $3 billion.

There was no prospect for an early end to the crisis which began with an abortive New Year's Day revolt by some air force and army units.

The Tuesday riots were preceded by a strike of Caracas newspapers.

Tension grew during the morning as hundreds of police, armed with machine guns, rifles, tear gas bombs and machetes prepared for the noon strike hours.

All stores in the city closed at noon and crowds gathered in El Silencio Plaza, Caracas' main square.

Former SUIowan Guest of Honor On TV Program

A former SUI student, Randal Harris, was the surprised guest of honor on the TV program "This is Your Life" Wednesday night.

A brief film of SUI's Old Capitol was used to help tell the story of his life.

Harris, now a school teacher in Paso Robles, Calif., was presented on the program as a hero of the North African campaigns during World War II.

Harris was the victim of a speech impediment which he has now overcome. He studied speech pathology while at SUI in 1932.

He said, he helped defray his expenses at SUI by washing dishes and working in the gymnasium. His home was then in Pocahontas, Iowa.

Dr. Lee Travis, former head of the SUI speech clinic, appeared on the program with Harris.

County Marks First Fatality

The school study council passed a motion Wednesday evening recommending the approval by the Iowa City school board of a bond issue of at least $1,410,000 for use in construction of a new junior high school building and for the rehabilitation of the present junior high school buildings.

Improvements suggested for the present junior high school building included a new electrical system, renovation of the heating system and smoke screens at an estimated cost of about $160,000.

The recommendation came as a result of reports from various subcommittees of the school study council pointing out that the present facilities will be unable to handle increased enrollment expected in the near future.

The recommendations of the council, an advisory group, will be forwarded to the board of education, the body legally responsible for school matters.

Klanman Fights Extradition

By BLOYS BRITT

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — The Rev. James Cole, Carolina's Ku Klux Klan leader, took off for trial on charges stemming from Saturday night's battle between Klansmen and Lumbee Indians near Maxton.

The South Carolina preacher posted $1,000 bond at his home town of Marion, S.C. It appeared that an extradition hearing would be necessary to get him back to Lumberton for trial on charges stemming from Saturday night's battle between Klansmen and Lumbee Indians near Maxton.

The Indians said they broke up the rally because it was being held as a warning against race mixing, and two crosses were burned on Indian property that week.

Meanwhile, a second Klansman drew a suspended 60-day sentence and a $50 fine plus costs at Maxton before an Indian judge for carrying a concealed weapon and for public drunkenness.

Asst. Recorder's Court Judge Lacy Manor quietly lectured James Garland Martin of Reidsville, N.C., after fining him.

Martin — along with the South Carolina preacher, Cole — still face a charge of inciting to riot in connection with the rally.

Martin, who said he was "through" with the Klan, paid his fine and also posted $1,000 bond pending trial on the riot charge.

The indictments were returned Monday by the Robeson County grand jury in Lumberton. The jury was composed of 3 Indians, 2 Negroes and 13 white jurors.

The judge emphasized that Martin was tried as an individual violator of the peace — not as a Klansman.

The Iowa City Mothers' March on Polio Needs Volunteers

The Iowa City Mothers' March on Polio will begin today at 7 p.m. and director Robert Theonne, 112 Franklin St., says more women volunteers are needed.

Theonne said the house-to-house campaign will continue at night until all Iowa City homes have been contacted and will be conducted regardless of weather conditions.

The Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce (Jaycees) are supervising the program. Theonne said one member is assigned to each of 20 sections of Iowa City, and added, "Unless more mothers volunteer for the actual canvassing, some Jaycees will be used as 'Mothers for a Night'."

Expectation of Better Things

Expectations often have quite a bit to do with the outcome of events and nowhere is this more true than in the business world. (This may be why government officials always are optimistic, regardless of how bleak things might look).

If business men think business activity will reach a high level and act on that assumption by expansion and investment, they actually help make the prediction come true.

With business booming last year — and inflation outstripping economic growth — the Federal Reserve Board instituted a "tight money" policy that dampened the outlook and also made money more difficult to get, either initiating a recession or pushing it along.

Now, convinced that the undesirable aspects of the "tight money" policy has resulted in business contraction—and that greater than anticipated — without the real and more desirable objective being realized in any significant way (halting inflation) the Federal Reserve Board is now preparing to take action

Letters to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

Tuesday's editorial (War . . . not weapons) recommended banning war and pointed out that a mere ban of weapons would be ineffectual. You might have said more.

In the past our curtailing of weapons in the Washington Conference (1921) cost us dearly when war came: It is senseless to strip a country of its strength without insuring that the country won't need that strength later. This you say, and I agree.

BUT you go on to suggest instead that we ban war. Supposing that you could get an iron-bound treaty to that effect, what would you have accomplished?

Is it not true that there is a reason for war? Have you, by banning war, verbally, stopped the cause of war? The world is a place where things change. Countries seek different ends at different times. One may want some territory back that it lost in previous war. One may want Germany re-unified. One may want to extend its borders for sheer aggrandizement.

This is all very well if all nations, particularly the large, strong ones are in agreement. BUT, what happens when the U.S. and Russia disagree? What happens when they've been disagreeing for years and finally reach an impasse where instruments for peaceful change (such as Summit meetings, United Nations conferences and other negotiations) fail? Then, history and good sense tell us you have two paths; 1. War, and 2.

Cold-war coexistence based on an arms-race-to-keep-pace and preserve a balance of power (stalemate).

It seems apparent that you can't really outlaw war as an instrument of international change UNLESS you replace it with some other sure-fire way to keep the world running smoothly. Collectively we want peace; but more important, we want security and independence, and not at any price (surrender without war to Russia). We must be willing to fight for what we want, whether it's right or nice or Christian to fight or not.

The desire for peace is in all our minds, but we are fooling ourselves and allowing our adminis-

'Needle Talk'

by John Sunier

A very entertaining concert at SUI a week ago prompted today's column about band music. Whether or not you thought Rafael Mendez worth a $3.98 investment for one of his records is not the concern of today's column. (His best record is on Decca, "Trumpet Extraordinary," with a second new one coming out next month.)

One of my favorite records is by one of the country's favorite bands, The Cities Service Band of America. On Victor LPM-1133, Paul LaValle conducts such tried and true numbers as "Under the Double Eagle March" and "The Thiebav Magpie Overture," along with some works of more unusual interest: "Folk Song Suite," by Vaughn-Williams, "The Universal Judgment" by De Nardis, and Prokofiev's "Summer Day Suite." "When the Saints Come Marching In," climaxing the album, really shakes the rafters. If you think you don't like band music, try this.

Morton Gould, with his Symphonic Band, has been contributing to the literature of the traditional brass band for some years now, both as a composer and as a highly skilled arranger. His latest album is "Brass and Percussion," on Victor LPM-2080. The brass and the beat have the advantage of modern electronic reproduction, (something John Philip Sousa didn't have) and full justice is at last done to these outstanding characteristics of band music in general.

The selections are mostly standards of Sousa and Goldman, with a few of Morton Gould's own pieces thrown in. Very interesting effects sound-wise on many of the numbers.

The American Symphonic Band of the Air presents two fine concertos on Decca Records. (DL 8157 and DL 8264) Dr. William D. Revelli yields a sure baton in some band compositions of great musical worth. Transcriptions for band of works written for other forces never seem to come off right. These are held to a minimum in the albums, with Berioz' "Beatrice and Benedict Overture" comprising the four volumes of "The Brave Bulls!" on Audio Fidelity Records. They were recorded at a Mexico City bull ring by the Banda Taurina. Fidelity is absolutely astounding, so breathtaking you can almost smell the dust (and the peanuts and popcorn). Of course, you pay for it — $5.95 each. All sorts of notes and illustrations accompany the albums. Unfortunately, as with so many series of "volumes," they get progressively more mediocre. Volumes I and 2 are the best.

It seems apparent that the situation is parallel now, except that the hungry ogre is Russia. Besides thinking we want peace, we should raise a banner to the effect that protection and promotion of United States security and interests is our ultimate cause and over-riding policy.

Let us think and act in accord with that policy, even if it means war; even if it seems un-Christian at times.

Survival is and always will be prerequisite to ideals.

Garry Greenberg
A4, Political Science

sides a clever bit of nonsense that sounds copied from Carpenter's "Adventures in a Perambulator."

Frederick Fennell and the Eastern Symphonic Wind Ensemble have some of the best band albums out, both music-wise and sound-wise. All on Mercury records, the latest are: "Marching Along," "Spirit of '76," "Ruffles and Flourishes," "Marches for Twirling," and "March Time." It is astonishing what variety of color and rhythm can be packed into the seemingly limited form of a march. Mercury's single-mike technique achieves dramatic impact of sound. Not suggested for playing after the rest of the neighborhood has gone to bed.

The Deutschmeister Band of Austria, with five albums on Westminster Records and two on Angel, has something of a record in output. If you're tired of the old familiar Sousa-type marches, these are for you. They seem to be even more lively performances than the Eastman-Rochester Ensemble, if that's possible. Captain Julius Herrmann conducts rousing, roaring foreign marches which I would list, but you couldn't pronounce them anyway, so why bother.

In order to give the program as wide an application as possible, a company communiqué stated, the company has limited each employee's gift to $500 and not more than $1,000 will be given by the company to any one institution, up to the limit of funds appropriated.

Any non-profit, accredited institution of higher learning, located within the United States or its possessions, is eligible under the program, in addition to a well established institution of this type not yet accredited but certified by a responsible board of overseers.

The bell ring presents a pageant of color and emotion, life and death. The fiery music played at the beginning and end of each of the six bullfight rituals is as much a part of the bull ring as "el toro." The Spanish Air Force Military Band has four albums of bullfight music recorded at the Madrid bull ring, on Decca Records. All are under the direction of Commander M. G. De Arriba. Even better than these are the four volumes of "The Brave Bulls!" on Audio Fidelity Records. They were recorded at a Mexico City bull ring by the Banda Taurina. Fidelity is absolutely astounding, so breathtaking you can almost smell the dust (and the peanuts and popcorn). Of course, you pay for it — $5.95 each. All sorts of notes and illustrations accompany the albums. Unfortunately, as with so many series of "volumes," they get progressively more mediocre. Volumes I and 2 are the best.

Judge's Injunction Halts Lot Division

District Judge Harold W. Evans ruled Wednesday in favor of 29 residents of the C. R. Regan Housing Addition in Iowa City and set a permanent injunction against subdividing lots. In his ruling, Judge Evans upheld the terms of platting which designates the size of lots.

The 29 residents were defendants in a countersuit filed by Beeler Development, representing Daryl and Lila Burket, and Audrey and Joyce Burkett, 951 Maiden Lane. The Burkets had subdivided a lot purchased from Beeler Development. Construction of a second house on the lot had already begun.

In his judgement, Judge Evans ordered the foundation of the second house removed.

The Regan Addition is located in southeast Iowa City, south of the National Guard Armory.

Suit was filed by the 29 residents Dec. 18 to stop subdivision of the Burkett's lot and prohibit any further violation of platting terms.

McGraw-Hill Will Expand Education Aid

A new plan to expand business aid to education was announced by McGraw-Hill Publishing Company recently.

Under the plan, any company employee, with at least one year's service may make a contribution to an institution of higher learning and McGraw-Hill will give the same amount to the same institution.

In order to give the program as wide an application as possible, a company communiqué stated, the company has limited each employee's gift to $500 and not more than $1,000 will be given by the company to any one institution, up to the limit of funds appropriated.

Any non-profit, accredited institution of higher learning, located within the United States or its possessions, is eligible under the program, in addition to a well established institution of this type not yet accredited but certified by a responsible board of overseers.

Zopf To Preside At Pharmacy Meet

Dean Louis C. Zopf of the SUI College of Pharmacy will preside as chairman at a meeting of the External Preparations Subcommittee of the U.S. Pharmacopeia in New York today.

Dr. Robert G. Carney of the SUI Department of Dermatology and Syphilology, a member of the committee, will act as dermatologic advisor to the group.

Dean Zopf and Dr. Carney will attend a meeting of the Committee on Scope of the U.S. Pharmacopeia Friday and Saturday. This committee determines what drugs and medicines are to be included as official standards for the practice of medicine and pharmacy in the United States and its possessions.

Platoon 3, 'G' Co. Wins Competition

Third platoon of "G" Company won SUI's annual ROTC drill competition, an honor competed for by 30 platoons, it was announced Wednesday by SUI Military Science and Tactics officials.

The 27-man platoon was awarded red and blue ROTC parade ribbons and the members were excused from further drill for the remainder of the school year.

The name of the platoon and its two platoon leaders will be engraved on a silver trophy as part of the honor surrounding the 10-year-old tradition.

Donne Moen, C4, Elmhurst, Ill., is the platoon leader and Don Sherk, A4, Ida Grove, is the assistant platoon leader. Both are cadet lieutenants in ROTC training.

Your Income Tax—No. 3

Your Taxpayer Status Affects Your Rate, Take all the Advantages You Have Due

EDITOR'S NOTE: Advantages of the various classes of returns are listed in this third article in our regular series on your income tax. Exemptions, non-taxable income, deductions and other topics will be dealt with later. Clip out all the articles for use when you file your return.

By G. K. HODENFIELD

Associated Press Newfeatures Writer (Former Daily Iowan Writer)

We've seen how you can save money by picking the right form on which to file your income tax return. In the same way, you can save money by correctly choosing the taxpayer class into which you fall.

Basically there are four classes of returns:

1. The separate return.
2. The joint return.
3. The special joint return for certain recent widows and widowers.

4. The special "head of household" return for certain single persons or those legally separated from their husband or wife.

The separate return is for single taxpayers or those married taxpayers who prefer to file individual returns. In practically all cases married couples do better by filing a joint return. However, they must file separate returns if:

1. EITHER THE HUSBAND OR WIFE was a nonresident alien at any time of the year.

2. HUSBAND AND WIFE USE different tax years. The husband, for instance, may report on a fiscal year basis such as from July 1 to June 30, while the wife pays taxes on a calendar year basis.

3. THE HUSBAND AND WIFE became divorced or legally separated at any time of the year, up to and including Dec. 31.

If the separate return is used, each individual must report his own income and list his own exemptions and deductions.

If husband and wife file separately, both must have income under the laws of their state. Many states have community property laws where the wife has half the family income even though she earns nothing herself. In these states, where expenses are paid from community income, the deductions may be split equally between man and wife. In all cases where husband and wife file separate returns, if one itemizes the deductions, the other must also itemize.

IF YOU FILE SEPARATELY you may use either the form 1040 or the 1040A, depending on how you qualify as outlined in the previous article.

There are normally just two situations in which married couples can benefit by filing separately instead of jointly. Both are comparatively rare.

If both husband and wife are working, and both had capital losses of $1,000 or more, it might pay them to file separately. The law provides that no more than $1,000 in capital losses may be deducted on any one return. By filing separately, they could get a total deduction of $2,000.

The second situation involves medical expenses. Suppose that the husband had an adjusted gross income of $10,000 and no medical bills, and that the wife had an adjusted gross income of $5,000, with medical bills of $500.

THE LAW PROVIDES THAT you can deduct only those medical and dental costs which exceed 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income. If this couple filed jointly they would be able to deduct only everything over $450 (3 per cent of their combined $15,000), or a deduction of $50. However, if the wife filed separately, she could deduct everything over $150 (3 per cent of her $5,000), or a deduction of $350.

Even so, in practically every case the advantages of splitting income with a joint return outweighs any savings made by separate reporting of medical and dental deductions.

A HUSBAND AND WIFE MAY file a joint return and get the advantage of the lower tax rates even if one of them had no income during the year. Both husband and wife must sign the joint return, and it must include all the income earned by both of them. You can file a joint return if you were married any time during the year, and remained married for the balance of the year.

The joint return is a financial boon to most married couples because of the way the tax rate goes up as income increases—not because you pay on any less income. In effect, the joint income is split into two equal parts and the tax is found for one of the parts. The tax is then doubled. Your total tax then is the combined tax on the two halves, usually considerably smaller than it would be at the tax rate on the total income.

If your husband or wife died anytime during 1957—even on the first day of the year—you can still file a joint return and claim an exemption for your deceased spouse. In general, you file just as you would have had your spouse lived through the year.

IF YOUR HUSBAND OR WIFE died during 1955 or 1956 you still can get a tax break from Uncle Sam if you meet certain qualifications. That brings us to the special joint return for certain recent widows and widowers.

This return cannot be filed on the short and easy form 1040A, you must use form 1040. On the return you claim only your own exemption and deductions, but you use schedule two on page 11 of the instructions in figuring your tax and thus you get the benefit of the split income provisions.

Providing that your spouse died at anytime during 1955 or 1956, you get this tax break if:

You have not remarried through the end of 1957 (if you have, of course, you can file jointly with your new spouse);

You were entitled to file jointly with the deceased spouse at the time of death (he or she was not a nonresident, alien, etc.); and

Since that death you have maintained a home which is the principal living place of a child or stepchild for whom you are entitled to claim a dependency exemption.

If your spouse died earlier than in 1955, you may still get a tax break if you qualify as a special "head of household."

This return, which can be made only on the form 1040, is for single divorced or legally separated persons who maintain a household. It also applies to anyone married during 1957 to a nonresident alien.

IF YOU QUALIFY AS A "HEAD OF HOUSEHOLD" your tax bill will be lower than if you file separately. Your special rates will be found in schedule three on page 11 of the instruction booklet that comes with form 1040. You will note that they are lower than those in schedule one for single taxpayers.

Remember When?

It seems that a certain football coach by the name of Jim Myers has certainly become adept at getting headlines. Remember a few?

Dec. 5 — Iowa State's Jim Myers called Arkansas officials and told them to remove his name from their list of candidates.

In a prepared statement, Myers said: "I'm staying at Iowa State. My family and I are happy we are staying and are looking forward to remaining a long time."

Dec. 31 — It was announced that Myers had been invited to College Station, Texas, to be interviewed for the Texas A&M job, although he told A&M officials he was practically under obligation to ISC."

Jan. 7 — Myers met with A&M officials and reported said it was 90 per cent certain he would get the job.

Jan. 8 — The Texas A&M Athletic Council said they would meet on Jan. 13 to announce their decision concerning Myers.

Jan. 9 — The Iowa State Board of Regents withheld Myers' $2,000 pay raise until they learned if he would go to Texas A&M.

Jan. 11 — The Iowa State Athletic Board gave Myers until Jan. 14 to inform them if he would move to Texas A&M.

Jan. 12 — Navy coach Eddie Erdelatz was said to have been offered the A&M job, and he flew to College Station.

Jan. 13 — Jim Myers officially withdrew from consideration for the job as head football coach at Texas A&M.

Myers' prepared statement read: "I have always been happy at Iowa State and will fill my agreement with the college."

Jan. 14 — Erdelatz stomped out of the meeting with A&M officials because they had not used proper protocol in negotiating with him.

Jan. 18 — An 80-foot long telegram was sent to Myers by approximately 4,000 Texas A&M students, asking him to reconsider and accept the Aggie job.

Myers said, "It's just another telegram. I'm still the football coach at Iowa State. I'm interested in no changes."

Jan. 22 — Myers goes to A&M. OBVIOUSLY, Jim Myers, who I used to have great respect for as a football coach, does not believe in the honest truth.

After repeatedly announcing that he would stay at Iowa State, he reverses himself and leaves. No consideration, whatsoever, was given Iowa State.

Now, they find themselves without a head football coach, and the victim of one of the worst double-crosses a college has ever received. I can find no justification for Myers' action.

Maybe the Texas A&M job was more attractive. Or he didn't get along with other ISC officials. But that is no reason for Myers to publicly announce at least three times that he had no intention of leaving, and then walk out.

It's not only unfair to Iowa State, but to the Cyclone football players as well. They took Myers by his word, that he would stay. How can a team have confidence in any coach after a turnaround like that?

TEXAS A&M President M. T. Harrington said that Myers would leave Ames just as soon as he could "get out of the snow."

Maybe he won't get out of the snow. Students at Iowa State have been known to riot before, and for much less reason.

I don't think the extra money Myers will make at Texas A&M will come close to compensating for the prestige and respect Myers will lose for his under-handed method in leaving Iowa State.

Myers will find there's much more than money.

Which reminds me of Grantland Rice's famous poem which stressed not winning, but the way the game was played.

I don't like the way Myers plays!

Myers Named Texas A&M Football Coach

Leaves ISC Because A&M 'So Persistent'

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M College Wednesday did a complete turnaround and named Jim Myers of Iowa State as head football coach and athletic director.

"He's coming as soon as he can get out of the snow," President M. T. Harrington said in making the announcement.

Always Had Soft Spot for A&M: Myers

AMES (AP) — Coach Jim Myers of Iowa State, named as head football coach and athletic director at Texas A&M, said Wednesday night he was overwhelmed with telegrams and telephone calls from Aggieland.

"I'm looking forward to being a loyal Aggie," Myers commented.

"I've always had a soft spot for Texas A&M since I was a kid in the days of John Kimbrough," he said. Myers referred to the Aggie backfield man who was named to the Associated Press All-America in 1939 and 1940.

"There have been a lot of people here at Iowa State who've been good to me," Myers said. "But I couldn't let that enter into my decision."

He referred to Texas A&M as a "terrific school" with possibilities for an outstanding athletic program that are "real good."

Myers said he told Iowa State officials about 3:30 p.m. Wednesday that he was leaving.

He chuckled over the visit of Gary Rollins and Cadet Col. John Hagler, who helped organize the Aggie student campaign to get Myers.

"They were dynamic, impressive young men with a sparkle in their eye and they sold me, really," he said.

News of Myers' decision to leave, which gave Iowa State the problem of looking for a new football coach, broke so suddenly that few were prepared for it.

Dwight Nichols, tailback of the 1957 Iowa State team, said he hoped the Cyclones can get back Leroy Pearce, line coach under Myers, who recently accepted an appointment on the coaching staff at the University of Nebraska.

Dees, Green Lead Big 10 In Statistics

CHICAGO (AP) — The team which controls the boards may control the championship in the Big Ten basketball race, official conference statistics indicated Wednesday.

Michigan's Wolverines, holding first place in the title chase with a 3-1 record, also are league's top rebounding team with an average of 52 recoveries per game.

Ohio State, tied for second with Indiana at 3-2, is the only other team with a rebound average above the 50 mark.

However, Indiana's Hoosiers are tops in field goal shooting average with .412 and in free throw percentage .758, and rank second to Northwestern (2-2) in total points. The Wildcats have a four-game average of .79.5 and the Hoosiers are just over .76.5.

Indiana also has the Big Ten's top individual scorer in Archie Dees, whose remarkable accuracy from the field has given him an average of 26.6 points. Dees has hit on 53 of 90 shots for a .589 percentage.

Last week's leader, George Kline of Minnesota, dropped to third place with a 22.7 average, while runnerup to Dees is Don Ohi of Illinois with 24.3.

Iowa's Dave Gunther is fifth in scoring with a 19.2 average for five games.

Top individual rebounder is Michigan State's John Green with 18 recoveries per game although he ranks only 20th in scoring with 14.5 points.

The importance of rebounding, being kept statistically for the first time in the Big Ten, is emphasized in the plight of cellar-dwelling Illinois. The good shooting, but height-lacking Illini have grabbed an average of only 31 rebounds per game.

Hawks Host In 3 Events On Saturday

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams Wednesday night denied reports he suffered a broken ankle and that his baseball career is "in jeopardy."

Red Sox sportscaster Curt Gowdy said he contacted Williams by phone in Florida and discussed a Boston Traveler front page story which said the 39-year-old star's career was threatened by the injury.

Gowdy quoted Williams as saying he sprained his right ankle while fishing in Labrador last fall and was told by experts it definitely was not a break.

Williams said he was told by Dr. Russell Sullivan in Boston.

Williams said he was told by Dr. Sullivan that the X-rays were negative.
