Dictator Perez Jimenez Loses Rule As Junta Takes Over In Venezuela

By Norris Rosenberg

CARACAS, Venezuela—In a dramatic reversal, President Perez Jimenez Thursday turned in and fled into exile. Angry crowds besieged secret police headquarters Wednesday night, as reports spread that there was a military coup led by the commander of the National Guard.

After the coup, the president fled, and then the opposition insisted they had taken over the government. The coup brought an end to Perez’s 12-year rule, which was marked by violence, corruption and economic hardship.

The coup was a surprise move by the military, which has threatened to take control of the country in the past. The president’s departure was met with reactions of shock and concern by many around the world.

The coup was led by the commander of the National Guard, Gen. Carlos Farias, who announced the end of Perez’s rule and vowed to establish a new government to address the country’s problems.

The coup took place in the early hours of Thursday morning, with soldiers seizing key government buildings and arresting several ministers.

The coup led to a period of uncertainty and speculation about the future of the country. The government announced that it would hold elections soon to elect a new leader.

Bloodshed Continues As Prisoners Freed

WASHINGTON — In an unusual move, federal authorities Thursday freed more than 100 prisoners from a military prison in Washington, D.C., as part of a wider range of agreements in the wake of the coup.

The move was seen as a gesture to improve relations with the new government, which took power in the aftermath of the coup.

The prisoners were freed from the Fort Leavenworth Military Prison, located in Kansas City, Mo.

The release of the prisoners came as part of a broader agreement reached with the new government, which agreed to release a number of political prisoners in exchange for a cease-fire.

The agreement was seen as a positive development, as it was the first move towards peace after the coup.

However, tensions remained high as both sides struggled to establish a new government.

MEBOC Cancelled As IFC Pulls Out

WASHINGTON — The International Finance Corporation (IFC) Thursday announced it will not provide financing to the6 National Bank of Venezuela, a government-owned bank.

The move came as the bank faced pressure to distance itself from the recent coup.

The IFC said it was concerned about the stability of the new government and the ongoing political uncertainty.

The bank said it would continue to provide financial assistance to other sectors of the economy.

The decision was seen as a blow to the government, which had been relying on the bank for financial support.

No Teachers As Prisoners Freed

WASHINGTON — In an unusual move, federal authorities Thursday freed more than 100 prisoners from a military prison in Washington, D.C., as part of a wider range of agreements in the wake of the coup.

Military Buildup On Ex-Soviet Border

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union’s armed forces Thursday began a large-scale buildup along its border with the ex-Soviet republics, as tensions remain high in the region.

The buildup was seen as a response to the recent coup in Venezuela, which has raised concerns about the stability of the new government.

The military said it was needed to ensure security along the border, which has been the site of past confrontations.

The build-up included the deployment of additional troops and weapons.

The move was seen as a warning to the new government, which has been accused of human rights abuses.

The government said it would continue to provide financial assistance to other sectors of the economy.

Students Can Help U.S.-French Affairs

WASHINGTON — The U.S. government Thursday announced it would provide financial assistance to French students in the United States, as part of a broader effort to strengthen ties between the two countries.

The assistance will be provided through a new program, which will offer scholarships and funding for students who want to study in the United States.

The program will be open to students from all French universities, and will cover tuition fees and living expenses.

The government said it hoped the program would help to strengthen cultural and educational ties between the two countries.

President Will Go To Venezuela Despite Rights

WASHINGTON — President John R. White, the leader of the American University (AU) television program, will visit Venezuela next month, despite concerns about human rights.

The visit was announced as part of a broader effort to strengthen ties between the two countries, and to promote cultural exchange.

The trip will be the first to Venezuela by a U.S. president since the coup.

The government said it hoped the trip would help to strengthen ties between the two countries, and to promote cultural exchange.

Chilean Envoy Wins ASEAN Scholarship

BANGKOK — A Chilean envoy has won a scholarship to study at the American University (AU) in Bangkok, as part of a broader effort to strengthen ties between the two countries.

The envoy was chosen from a pool of 50 candidates, and will study at the AU for one year.

The scholarship will cover tuition fees and living expenses, and is part of a broader effort to promote cultural exchange between the two countries.

U.S.-French May Agree On Exchange

WASHINGTON — The United States and France Thursday announced they had reached agreement on a cultural exchange program, which will allow students and faculty to study at universities in the other country.

The agreement was seen as a positive development, as it was the first move towards strengthening ties between the two countries.

The program will be open to students and faculty from both countries, and will allow them to study at universities in the other country.

Red Sox Give Senators Two For Runnels

WASHINGTON — Washington and Boston hooked up in a trade Thursday, by the banco was given up for shortstop John Runnels, second baseman Bob Reynolds and center fielder Alvin Page. The trade was completed in the 12th inning of the American League game yesterday. The Sox sent the Senators two outfielders, Bob Reynolds and John Runnels, and the Senators sent four baseballs to the Senators. The Sox said they would use the baseballs to keep their pitchers sharp.

The senators said they would use the outfielders to fill the void left by the departure of Alvin Page. Reynolds and Runnels both played for the Senators last season and the Senators said they would use them in the outfield.

Green Bay Coach Doubts Trading Until After Draft

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Green Bay Packer Coach Retro McNair said today that he is doubtful the Packers will make any trades during the next two weeks. McNair said he is not interested in making any trades at this time.

"We're not interested in making any trades at this time," McNair said. "We're more interested in keeping our players healthy and ready for the upcoming season."
The page contains an article titled "From Barracks to Beautiful" by Jane Hurly, discussing various ways in which women have transformed their barracks into more attractive living spaces. The article is accompanied by photographs and a partial set of instructions for readers to follow. The text describes various modifications and improvements, including the use of a three-shell "divider" with black rods, the addition of bookshelves, ceiling decorations, and the repurposing of furniture. The article concludes with a note encouraging readers to imagine arranging their own space efficiently and creatively. The article is illustrated with photographs showing the different transformations, including the addition of decorative bookcases, a chair made from a cheese tub, and a chemical barrel used as a table with a lamp. The article also includes a note mentioning the use of ivy and philodendron growing from small brass vases on the walls to add color and decoration without being too expensive.

Your Income Tax—No. 4

Exemptions Best Friend

The story has it that the child's income is less than the exemption amount, and that he is making some money, but not enough to qualify for it. This is true. The exemption is for the child's income, but not for the money he makes. The child's income is always considered in the case of the parent. The parent, however, cannot claim the child's income as an exemption unless the child is a dependent of the parent. So the child's income is not considered when he is claimed as a dependent, but it is considered when he is claimed as a relative. The child's income is considered in the case of the parent, and the parent's income is considered in the case of the child.

You can claim one exemption for yourself, or your spouse and your children, or your dependents, or your parents, or your household. You can claim two exemptions for your children, or two for your parents, or two for your household, or two for your dependents, or two for your relatives. You can claim one exemption for each relative, and two for each child. You can claim one exemption for each relative, and two for each child.
