Drop Grade School French, No Teachers

By JEAN DAVIES
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

University High School, continually experimenting with new and improved methods of teaching, is discontinuing an experimental elementary foreign language program this year because of a lack of qualified teachers.

Designed to test the effectiveness of teaching foreign languages on a grade school level, the experimental program was started in 1953 by C. J. Le Vois, Professor in the SU Department of Romance Languages and Education.

Le Vois said the program is being discontinued because of administrative problems, not a lack of interest.

The program was started by giving the entire fourth grade class at the University school a fifteen minute French lesson every day. The same plan was continued until the students entered seventh grade when they were given a choice of continuing or dropping the class.

"There was no large change in the size of the class when it was offered to the students as an elective," Le Vois said.

For the first two years of the program, the students were taught only spoken French. Le Vois said that he used the mono-technique—or direct method—of teacher imitation.

"By hearing the proper pronunciation and intonation, the students not only learn to speak the language, but begin to understand the proper meaning," he said.

In one of two movies made by the SU College of Education for instructional practice for elementary teachers, Le Vois depicts his students in a typical classroom exercise.

For this lesson, Le Vois drew a picture of a house on the blackboard and pointed to the windows, doors, roof and other objects around the house as he pronounced the French names.

After the class recited the names, individual students were asked to point out the various objects and name them. During the fifteen minute lesson, both the student and Le Vois spoke only French.

By bringing situations into the classroom that forced the students to practice French, they have learned how to order meals, identify familiar objects, and play games using French words, Le Vois said.

At the sixth grade level, the students were introduced to grammar and reading. They were taught to understand the thought beyond the words by following silently as Le Vois read a story aloud.

After an oral reading, the students repeat phrases and answer questions in French.

"This gives the student combined practice in reading and speaking," Le Vois explained.

"Students in the experimental class are taught to translate consecutive thought phrases, never word by word. In this way English does not intervene between the printed word and the message conveyed," he said.

When students enter high school next year, they will have an opportunity to enter advanced French classes. Le Vois said that the proficiency of the students then will determine in part the success of the program.

Bloodshed Continues As Prisoners Freed

By MORRIS ROSENBERG

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez fell Thursday and fled into exile. Angry crowds besieged secret police headquarters and 60 bodies were reported found in the building after a 10-hour fight.

More than 100 persons previously had been reported slain since a general strike and uprising that began Tuesday.

About half the reported victims in the secret police building had been prisoners of the security forces.

A witness to the siege said it was believed many were killed before the surviving guards surrendered under protection of army tanks.

The siege ended at 3 p.m., 10 hours after the crowd had gathered on the news that Perez Jimenez had fled to asylum in the Dominican Republic.

His family and closest aides went with him.

His friend, ex-dictator Juan D. Peron of Argentina, was reported fleeing by car for Colombia to seek new refuge.

Caracas exploded with a wild celebration at dawn, as soon as it became known Perez Jimenez, ruler for 10 years, had gone. But vengeance-seeking mobs brought new violence.

Conspicuously absent from the agreement, it was understood, would be what originally was the No. 1 U.S. goal: A swap of uncensored, periodic radio-television commentaries on world events.

The agreement, if announced as expected, will climax highly secret talks going on in Washington since Oct. 23.

It will be the parting shot of Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin. He is going home for reassignment Jan. 29 after more than five years in Washington.

Zarubin has been meeting once or twice a week for nearly three months at the State Department with the chief U.S. negotiator, William S. B. Lacy.

The Soviet Union obviously is eager to swap visits by people, but shies from anything suggesting penetration of the Iron Curtain by news and ideas from the outside before they have been put through the censor's wringer.

At least six persons were reported killed in the attempts of civilian mobs to storm secret police headquarters and Carcel Modelo, a prison, to free political captives.

Three persons also were reported killed when guards opened fire on a crowd marching on Carcel Modelo.

The secret police, most hated department of the dictatorial regime, were reported holding 600 political prisoners. The police have been accused of tortures.

The first act of the ruling junta was to announce that political prisoners held on unjust charges had been freed from Orispa and the Carcel Modelo prison. Several hundred prisoners were released.

Shooting was heard in other parts of Caracas Thursday afternoon, and there were other acts of violence.

MEBOC Cancelled As IFC Pulls Out

The spring MEBOC contest, held at SU since 1950, has been canceled this year, AWS President Linda Gamble, A4, Fairfield, said Thursday night.

He announcement came less than an hour after the Interfraternity Council (IFC) unanimously voted to withdraw from the event.

The contest, originally scheduled for March 17-21, in the past has given coeds a chance to choose the Most Eligible Bachelor on Campus.

Miss Gamble, who heads the women's group that has sponsored past contests, said she felt "many women on this campus will be disappointed at the discontinuation of the contest."

But she added: "AWS does not object to IFC's decision and we are anticipating enthusiastic cooperation in Varsity Varieties, the AWS-sponsored event during the Old Gold Days weekend."

Miss Gamble did not know if the MEBOC contest would be held in 1959 or later. "It will depend on the reaction of the women on campus," she said.

IFC President Dave Dutton, A4, Cedar Falls, said his group voted to drop participation in the event because it would conflict with activities in Old Gold Days, April 25-26, and the annual Greek Week.

He said mid-term exams were also a factor.

The IFC's action reverses the unofficial position taken by the 19 fraternities in an AWS straw vote. They had voted, 12-7, to hold the contest.

Dutton said the reversal came after a 40-minute meeting with two AWS representatives. "Everyone conceded MEBOC was fun," he said. "But the negative arguments overshadowed the good points."

Dutton said the president of the Quadrangle student council told him after the IFC meeting that the Quad also was opposed to MEBOC. The president of Hillcrest indicated earlier that his dormitory favored the event.

Complete Your Fall From Grace—Safely

MARY BERGSTROM, A2, Spencer, demonstrated how to fall in the snow the wrong, but natural, way. Demonstration was purely coincidental with the following story.

The weather man forecasts more snow, the hills are getting slicker, and the Iowa City shoe stores have almost run out of snow boots, but don't despair — there is a way to avoid your down fall.

If you are going to fall, fall the right way, and the injuries will be minor.

Margaret Fox, professor in the SU Department of Women's Physical Education, advises three things to do when you suddenly feel the sidewalk moving out from beneath you.

1. RELAX. If you become stiff and tense, you are bound to get hurt.

2. DON'T FALL STRAIGHT down, but try to twist enough to catch yourself on your leg or thigh.

3. DON'T TRY TO check yourself as you start to fall, try to roll into a ball. By distributing your weight you will decelerate slower and you are not as likely to stop with a thud.

Miss Fox also says that you shouldn't be embarrassed if you fall.

"Hurt pride will mend much sooner than a twisted back that could have been avoided," she said.

Naturally, the best thing for all concerned, would be to avoid falling in the first place.

This isn't as impossible as it sounds if you exercise a few precautions, said Miss Fox.

"You should shorten your stride as soon as the snow flies," Miss Fox said.

"By keeping your feet closer together and taking short steps, you will keep your weight over your feet and will be able to catch yourself, if you start to slide."

Miss Fox also said that you should keep both feet on the ground to avoid slipping. "Don't lift your feet very high, almost skate," she said.

17 Defense Rules Proposed In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to strengthen the nation's defenses and guard against labor union injustices were suggested Thursday for Congressional action.

The Senate Preparedness subcommittee marked out 17 ways to strengthen defense, declaring, "We are engaged in a race for survival. President Eisenhower, meanwhile, called on Congress to pass a 12 point program to guard against union filching and keep labor organizations out of the hands of dictators."

State Alumnus Sharply Blasts A&M President

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of Texas A&M was sharply criticized Thursday by the president of the Iowa State Alumni Assn. for Wednesday's hiring of football coach Jim Myers of Iowa State.

Douglas Graves, an assistant vice president of a Chicago bank, made public a letter he sent to Dr. M. T. Harrington, Texas A&M president, which deplored the hiring of Myers from Iowa State.

"If a coach does not have the moral fibre to make an effort to adhere to a 5-year obligation for more than a week," Graves wrote, "certainly we should expect the president of a college to have higher standards."

Within the past two weeks, Graves said, Texas A&M officials approached Myers "and there developed considerable confusion in regard to the offer and the manner in which it was made."

As a result, Graves said, Myers told Iowa State officials, he and his staff would remain at Iowa State, but Wednesday his signing by Texas A&M was announced.

"It was a disappointment to lose Coach Myers," Graves wrote. "It was even a greater disappointment to see the great college of Texas A&M become a party to encouraging a man to break a personal commitment."

Subcommittee Won't Release FCC Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee refused Thursday night to release a staff report carrying criticism of members of the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

It took this stand, after almost five hours in secret session, despite the fact that the report has been widely publicized — much of it in the form of textual excerpts.

The report was prepared for the subcommittee, a unit of the House Commerce Committee, by the subcommittee's chief counsel, Bernard Schwartz. He is a law professor at New York University.

The Schwartz report said some FCC members had illegally accepted industry favors.

Chairman John C. Doerfer of the FCC disputed the report, calling it "most inaccurate and misleading."

Chairman Morgan M. Moulder (D-Mo.), of the subcommittee told reporters he did not know how Schwartz' report got out without committee action releasing it, but intended to make "a very diligent" effort to find out.

Doerfer commented: "Omitted in the investigation is that provision in the Communications Act which provides that commissioners may accept a reasonable honorarium or compensation for delivery of an address."

"Some commissioners have collected television sets on loan from manufacturers. To us, it's no luxury. It's part of our job to see how it works. We look at TV shows not for fun, but to learn what's going on."

Another allegation in Schwartz' memo to the subcommittee was that FCC members have been in constant fraternization with persons and corporations in litigation before the commission.

U.S., Russia May Agree On Exchange

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are expected to announce Friday a wide range of agreements in principle on exchanging visits by scientists, writers, artists and other experts.

Conspicuously absent from the agreement, it was understood, would be what originally was the No. 1 U.S. goal: A swap of uncensored, periodic radio-television commentaries on world events.

The agreement, if announced as expected, will climax highly secret talks going on in Washington since Oct. 23.

Students Can Help U.S.-French Affairs

By KAREN CLAUSE
Daily Iowan Sports Writer

With 'Sputniks' whirling about us in this new age of guided missiles, it is becoming increasingly important that a college community concern itself with the aspects of international relations.

Joseph E. Baker, professor of European Literature and Thought, Department of English, realized the importance of how a foreign nation feels toward our own country while he was in France as a Fulbright lecturer in 1954-55.

Although our friendship with France is one of the oldest in the world of international affairs and France is the nation that has most often fought alongside our troops, Baker says that we cannot lie back today and trust to the inertia of history to preserve this friendship.

While in France, Baker became aware of the propaganda that a strong and effective Communist Party there is instilling in the minds of the French people.

"The French Communists treat everything American as a planned attack, directed not only against their 'Cause,' but against human dignity and against man. They are constantly trying to create hatred for the Western nations and especially for America," Baker said.

Although the Communist vote is gradually diminishing, they still receive approximately one-fourth of the French vote, a large enough percentage, Baker says, to block any reform party from making progress.

While teaching at the University at Clermont-Ferrand, the University at Rennes, capitol of Brittany, and the University of Bourdeaux at Pau, Baker met many French students who were sceptical of Communist propaganda.

He felt this was encouraging since French Communists attempt to create the feeling that Americans are especially hostile to youth for "Communism is the youth of the world."

Despite Communist propaganda, French citizens who know our American political machinery, envy us because they feel the public gets what it wants from the government. They know their machinery isn't as responsive to the public interest, Baker said, and this is what leads to the multiple party system.

"There is no present danger of Communists taking over the coun-

No reserved tickets are available for the final two performances of the University play, "Epitaph for a Bluebird," to be presented today and Saturday at 8 p.m. at University Theatre.

Exams So Near SUI Males Polish Apples

With final examinations only a week away, SUI males are taking steps to insure passing grades. SUI coeds are casting green-eyed glances at the men's plans for "Apple-Polisher's Day" on Tuesday when approximately 50 faculty members will be entertained at a dinner and informal evening program at fraternities and men's dormitories.

Each men's housing unit has invited instructors of its choice, with effort being made to include all ranks, from instructors to professors and representation of all departments in the various schools, departments and colleges.

Aim of the project, sponsored jointly by the Interfraternity Council (IFC) and men's dormitories, is to promote better student-faculty relationships, and to give the instructors an opportunity to view an area of student life which they do not ordinarily see.

If successful, the event will be expanded into an annual project, in which the four girls' dormitories and the 13 campus sororities would also participate.

Crash Defense Bill Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a unanimity expected to mark action on most military measures this year, the House Thursday passed an emergency $1.41 billion defense appropriation bill.

A 388-0 roll-call vote sent the missile-spurring measure to the Senate without amendment after bipartisan pleas to keep the defense program out of politics.

The bill allows $40 million more than President Eisenhower requested two weeks ago to speed up missile and missile-detection programs.

Prof Will Go To Venezuela Despite Riots

Prof. John R. Winnie, of the SU Television Center will carry out his plans to travel to Venezuela to work on raising the educational levels, despite the bloody riots and revolution now going on.

Starting Feb. 1, Prof. Winnie will serve in Venezuela as executive secretary of a committee to study possible uses of television and radio in the country's educational development. He has been granted leave of absence from SU until next August.

With technical assistance from the Broadcasting Foundation of America (BFA), the study committee consists of Venezuelan educators under the chairmanship of Dean Horacio Cardenas, Central University of Caracas. A grant of $30,000 from the Creole Foundation to the BFA will finance the project, said Robert Redfield, BFA chairman of the board.

A main goal of the educational TV and radio study in Venezuela, Prof. Winnie explains, will be to investigate how these media can be used to assist and train teachers. The country's basic educational problem is a shortage of teachers, especially in the sciences. Since Venezuela has four TV stations located where they can reach the great majority of the population, Winnie feels that the medium holds considerable promise to the people of this country.

Weather

Cloudy skies and temperatures in the low twenties are forecast for today, the Weather Bureau reported.

Temperatures will be somewhat warmer than Thursday's, when Iowa City recorded the state's lowest reading, — one above zero.

Anamosans View Selves In 'Small Town' Premiere

ANAMOSA (AP) — Residents of "Small Town U.S.A. — Anamosa, Iowa," saw on film Thursday a portrayal of how they work, live and play, and liked what they saw.

They were the first viewers at the premiere of a movie designed to show European life in America's small towns.

More than 600 persons attended the premiere showing and another 1,800 saw it later. The half-hour picture, filmed by the U.S. Information Agency, is earmarked for showing in nine European nations.

Julius Westphal, mayor of this community of about 4,000 persons, said, "The film is typical of our small town. I thought it was a wonderful picture of Anamosa."

Tom Powell, editor of the Anamosa Journal, lauded the film and commented: "It got a tremendous amount of stuff in there it seems to me."

A special guest at the showing was Paul Engle, head of the creative writing staff at SU. Engle was one of the persons instrumental in getting Anamosa selected as the subject for the film.

Engle said, "The movie was good because it showed people in their natural settings and it wasn't artificial. The film will be quite a surprise for European viewers used to seeing New York skyscrapers, but haven't seen much of rural life in America."

About a dozen Anamosa families are the stars of the film, which portrays members of those fam-

But in the political battles that have been fought, the Soviets have had the better of major negotiations. Because Western leaders did not know exactly what they wanted; because they were divided; were subject to great and hampering political pressures from their own peoples; and sometimes, because they lacked patience, diligence, and skill in negotiating.

To Have Mercy...

TO THE EDITOR: May I extend my heartfelt congratulations to the stalwarts who have dared to write to you and disagree with your narrow-mindedness. It only hurts to discover that those who control the University press are blind to the needs of some of the SUU community.

I realize that in venturing my ideas concerning the editorial of yours, I will make many mistakes and be virtually "eaten alive" by your withering criticism. Have mercy for my lowly freshman ignorance, but I would like to know just why you are qualified to condemn certain segments of the student body for believing very obviously in things which do not capture your interest?

It is my estimation that The Daily Iowan should send an entirely different person to review Mr. Shine's article and publish the remarks, because I truly think you sent the wrong person.

TO THE EDITOR: In regard to your comments criticizing Ted Shine's "Epitaph to a Bluebird" which is now being staged at the University Theater: I thought that what the reviewer had to say about the play was very rude and distasteful, not only to the author but to the actors and the audience.

NOT An Angry Young Man

TO THE EDITOR: It is true that a beard is not necessarily an attribute of significant intellectual achievement; but neither does it appear to be detrimental. Ernest Hemingway, D. H. Several SUI professors decided they were underpaid in 1958, and asked the Board of Trustees for raises. However, the Board was crafty and gave SUI $20,000 for supplies and building improvements. The professors began spending the $20,000 and in the excitement they forgot about being underpaid.

UNFORTUNATELY, Professor of Mathematics Nathan Leonard wasn't fooled and stubbornly kept asking for a raise. The Board of Trustees became annoyed, and one December morning the Trustees visited SUI and met Leonard in the Old Capitol Senate chamber.

"I'm getting $100 a month and I can't support my family," Leonard told the Trustees. "We can't give you a raise," snapped a Board member.

"THE I RESIGN!" Leonard stormed, and the Trustees scowled. "You can't resign," a Board member told Leonard. "You can't break your contract." The Trustees asked Leonard to leave the room.

LEONARD WENT to his office in Old North Hall, just north of Old Capitol. In the Senate chamber, Trustees grumbled and raged about Leonard. Around the SUI campus, people whispered. At 4 p.m. the Trustees sent for Leonard.

"We've decided not to give you a raise," a Board member told Leonard. "AND YOU CAN'T resign," another Board member said flatly. That night the Board of Trustees left Iowa City, and the next morning Leonard went to his office in Old North Hall as usual. He sat down and stared out the window. The door opened, and SUI President James Black walked in.

"Maybe you'll get a raise next year," President Black said, and Leonard smiled grimly. "WHAT WILL I live on until then?" Leonard asked.

"Well, we still haven't spent all of that $20,000," President Black said, and the men laughed. "I'll pretend it belongs to me," Leonard said, and he went to class.

Film Will Describe World Jeep Jaunt

The earth has been circled by bicycle, by airplane and even by foot, but Ted Bumiller, a Cincinnati architect, was the first to use a jeep. He will describe his 61,000-mile journey Sunday in Macbride Auditorium at 8 p.m. in a program sponsored by the Iowa Mountaineers.

Within the last year, Bumiller drove 45,000 miles by land through 30 countries, recording his trip with color film. Sound effects and musical background have been synchronized to the film.

Bumiller's visual record shows several of his adventures. In one sequence he skin-dives down 200 feet into the Mediterranean, seeking Roman amphorae, clay wine jars which sank with ships that foundered of the rocky French coast centuries ago.

Off the Great Barrier Reef in Australia, Bumiller photographed a world under the sea, amidst the hazards of ten-foot sharks, poison bars of sea anemones, and giant clams.

Bumiller once had a breakdown in the Australian bush. Drinking water gone, he crawled to the protection of a small bush, and then, half conscious, felt flesh-eating termites ants crawling over him.

Bumiller, for a time, shared the life of oriental monks in their monastery. On his way to film the Angkor Vat ruins in Cambodia his jeep broke down and he spent two weeks in a small Indo-Chinese village, living on rice, tea and fish.

The adventure film includes bullfighting in Spain, fireworks on Bastille Day in Paris, and the gaiety of a German beer garden in Munchen.

Bumiller actually traveled in many more places by jeep, using 16 tires and 2,300 gallons of gasoline.

Big Saturday

Sports fans are in for a big day Saturday if they come over to the Iowa Fieldhouse. Between 2 p.m. and about 9 p.m., three athletic meets are on tap for Iowa teams.

The Hawkeye swimmers duel Minnesota at 2 p.m., the gymnasts go against the University of Chicago at 3:30 p.m., and then the wrestling team meets Oklahoma State in a 7:30 duel. There should be plenty of action Saturday, and well worth the time and effort to go over to the Fieldhouse. Iowa has good teams in all three sports, so fans will see some outstanding competition.

THE SWIMMERS, who open the competition Saturday, meet Minnesota and will be trying to run the record of Iowa athletic wins over the Gophers to four this year. Previously, Iowa has whipped Minnesota in football, cross country and wrestling, with the basketball team playing the Gophers at Minneapolis Saturday.

Coach Dave Armbruster is looking for a tough duel with the Gophers. The Hawkeyes are 1-1, having beaten Wisconsin, and falling before Michigan State's defending Big Ten champions last Saturday at East Lansing.

Despite their loss to the Spartans, Iowa has one of its best swimming teams in years. In addition to the better known swimmers, namely Lincoln Hurring, Gary Morris, Jim Coles, and Jake Quick, the Hawkeyes boast several fine swimmers that more than likely will determine whether Iowa wins or loses, or how high the Hawkeyes finish in the Big Ten and NCAA.

Watch fellows like diver Estel Mills, who has not won the diving event in either of Iowa's first two meets, only because teammate Jake Quick finished ahead of him. Otherwise, Mills would have been first.

Or others like Earl Ellis, who's improving with every meet; Jim Davidson, Joel Jones, and Bob Pratt. They may not make the headlines, but Iowa wouldn't win many meets without them.

THE IOWA GYMNASTIC team looked especially impressive last Saturday in walloping Northwestern, 80½-30½. The Hawkeyes won all seven first places, and six seconds, for their second straight win.

Although the Hawkeyes miss graduated Sam Baillie, they've come up with a little more balance this year. However, Staffen Carlsson is making many forget Baillie with his outstanding performances thus far this season. In eight events, Carlsson has won seven firsts and came in third once.

However, balance has been the key to Iowa's first two wins. Veterans Bob Justice and Tim Joe have come up with good performances in the trampoline, while Ted Segura is second in scoring.

Sophomores have played a big part in early wins. Bill Buck and Marshall Claus have looked especially good for first year men.

Take a look at the gymnastic meet Saturday. Those who have never seen one will find they can be as interesting as any other sports.

Incidentally, a gymnastic team from Germany will appear in the Fieldhouse Tuesday night, and undoubtedly will be a worthwhile event. Tickets are only $1 for adults and $.75 for students.

THE IOWA WRESTLING team entertains Oklahoma State in what will probably be the biggest meet of the year in Oklahoma State finished fourth in the NCAA last year, and recently defeated last year's NCAA champions, Oklahoma.

The Cowboys wrestle Iowa State Friday night at Ames in a dual meet that is expected to draw about 4,000 fans. I think this is somewhat of a challenge to Iowa fans. Although Iowa State has a top wrestling team, I think Iowa has one just as good if not better, and we certainly should be able to draw as many Saturday night.

Oklahoma State has only two members of its squad who have lost a match after three dual meets. They're probably as tough a team as there is in the nation, and it would be a big feather in the cap of Dave McCuskey and his team if they could beat the Cowboys.

The Hawkeyes have the potential to knock off Oklahoma State. In undefeated Ralph Rieks and Larry Moser, Iowa has two of the finest small men in the nation. Plus NCAA champion Simon Roberts and Big Ten champion Gary Kurldelmeier, the Hawkeyes can compete with any team in the nation. Their 17-9 win over Minnesota's Big Ten champions proved that. This meet should be a dandy.

Pearce, Stapleton Head Cyclone List

Search Begins; Drake's Gaer 1st Applicant

AMES (AP) — The search for a new head football coach is on in earnest at Iowa State College following Jim Myers' abrupt decision to go to Texas A&M after all.

There is at least a slim chance that a selection may be made Friday. The Athletic Council will meet then in a session which had been scheduled prior to Myers' surprise decision to leave.

"The meeting was set up to discuss a new athletic director," said Ken Marvin, faculty member who is head of the sifting committee. "We'll just have more to talk about."

The council already has a sizable file of prospects for the coaching job. These were gathered earlier this month when Myers seemed to be on the verge of leaving Iowa State. But on Jan. 13 he announced he would stay at Iowa State.

High on the list of prospects were LeRoy Pearce, a Myers assistant who accepted a similar post at Nebraska after Myers said he was going to stay at Iowa State, and Clay Stapleton, No. 1 assistant to Coach Tommy Prothro at Oregon State.

Coach Warren Gaer of Drake, with the good wishes of his present school, made formal application for the job Thursday afternoon. Also mentioned in the speculation was Bert Smith, an assistant at Michigan State.

Iowa State players had voted Pearce as their favorite candidate for Myers' vacancy during Myers' earlier flirtation with A&M.

Marvin said that so far as he knew the Athletic Council had no "favorite" but he added that the council probably "would have some regard for the wishes of the players."

A student petition supporting Pearce for the post was in circulation on the campus and throughout this college town.

The community, however, was still reeling slightly from the shock of Myers' latest and final decision. Myers himself remarked: "I don't think it's the proper thing to say you're going to do something and then not do it. There may be a lot of people bitter but that's their business."

"I can't let the public live my life for me. I don't pretend to do that any place."

Myers is taking two assistants, Russ Faulkner and Doug Bradley, to A&M with him. But he said flatly he would not try to take any of Iowa State's present freshmen or varsity players or any of the talent he has been recruiting.

"I would discourage any boy who wanted to follow me," Myers said.

Iowa Course Site Of Western Junior

Iowa's new golf course will be the site of the Western Junior Championship tournament next July 22-26, Coach Charles Zweiner announced Wednesday.

The tourney is expected to attract close to 150 young golfers. A qualifying round will trim the field to 64 players and match play then will determine the champion.

It will be the second title meet to be held on the course. Last May, the Big Ten championships were staged there.

Pearce Has No Comment On ISC Job

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The University of Nebraska's recently-hired assistant football coach, LeRoy Pearce, was saying little Thursday about prospects that he might be offered the head coaching job at Iowa State College.

Pearce said he had not been contacted by the Cyclone school where he served as an assistant until this month. Beyond that he would only declare: "I am an assistant coach at Nebraska."

Head Coach Bill Jennings had no comment but Athletic Director Bill Orwig said: "It has been the policy of our department not to stand in the way whenever a man has an opportunity for advancement in his profession."

After his arrival here, Pearce disclosed he had deferred his decision on the Nebraska job for a time while Myers first was considering the Texas A. & M. assignment. Pearce indicated he would have been in line for the head coaching spot at Iowa State had Myers then gone to Texas. When Myers announced he would stay at Iowa State, Pearce took the Nebraska job.

Jones in Philly Two-Mile Tonight

Another race on an eastern board track in a major meet is scheduled tonight for Charles (Deacon) Jones of Iowa, who will compete in the two mile in the Philadelphia Inquirer games.

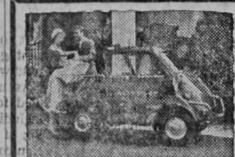

Jones, who left Thursday by plane with Coach Francis Cretzmeyer, won his first 1958 start at Boston last Saturday in 9:04.2, his best indoor time.

The Friday race, called the Lawson Robertson Memorial (two mile) in recognition of the man who coached several Olympic teams, will match the Hawkeye against John Macy of Houston, the National A.A.U. indoor and outdoor three mile champion of 1957.

Others in the race will include Jerry Smart, also of Houston, who has placed high in several national meets; and Gordon McKenzie of the New York A.C. Olympic team member whom Jones beat last week in Boston.

Logan Returns Unsigned Contract

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Shortstop Johnny Logan Thursday night became the second Milwaukee Brave to announce dissatisfaction with 1958 terms offered by the National League baseball club. Outfielder Bob Hazle said Tuesday he had returned his contract unsigned. He also refused to discuss details.

Want To Make SUI Billiard Team? Challenge Members

SUI pool players who didn't get a chance to participate in the all-University billiards tournament now have a chance to challenge members of the four University teams, Memorial Union officials said Thursday.

The University Billiards Tournament served as a basis for selecting members of the present teams. The four teams are composed of three members who will compete for a chance to participate in the National Intercollegiate Billiards Tournament.

From Feb. 10 through 22, the members of each team will shoot key shots and the scores will be sent to Don Stevens, the 1957-58 tournament director, at the Memorial Union at Iowa State College, Ames.

The top individual in each event from colleges and universities throughout the country will then meet at Ames in a face-to-face national playoff during March.

SUI undergraduates can now challenge present team members for their positions. Challenges should be made through Bob Froeschle at the Union Recreation office.

Union officials said that all challenges have to be entered by Feb. 1 and all matches must be completed by Feb. 5.

Officials said that more women are needed to participate on the coed team. Only one member of that team, Delores Fay, A4, Jefferson, has been selected so far.

The winning university team at the face-to-face matches will be awarded the Peterson traveling trophy.

Brown Hopes To Retire This Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lightweight champion Joe Brown, a veteran of 13 years in the ring, said Thursday he hopes to retire after two or three more good paydays.

"If I can get a couple of good fights," Brown said, "I would like to wind it up this year."

The 31-year-old champ told a reporter he had "no objections" to meeting top contender Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich. Brown and his manager, Lou Viscusi, are under pressure from the National Boxing Assn. (NBA) to make a date with Lane.

"The sooner the better, as far as I am concerned," Brown said. Brown is in the capital for a 10-round non-title bout with Ernie (Sonny Boy) Williams of Washington Friday night. The contest will be carried over the regular Friday TV-radio network (NBC, 10 p.m. EST.)

Red Sox Give Senators Two For Runnels

WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington and Boston hooked up in a trade Thursday as the Senators gave up versatile infielder Pete Runnels in an effort to solve two crucial problems for first baseman Norm Zauchin and center fielder Albie Pearson.

No cash was exchanged in the deal.

In Runnels, the Red Sox acquired a utility man who could be a candidate for the starting assignment at any infield position.

In Zauchin and Pearson, the Senators landed a combination that could bolster two of their softer spots.

Pearson, 23, played last season for Boston's old farm at San Francisco in the Pacific Coast League. He batted .297 with 176 hits, led the circuit in triples with 11 and outfield assists with 28.

Zauchin, 28, batted .284 as a part time first sacker from Boston in 1957. He broke a wrist late in the summer.

Red Sox manager Mike Higgins said in Boston he wanted to check out Runnels at both first, now manned by Mickey Vernon and Dick Gernert, and second, where young Ken Aspromonte already is considered a threat to Gene Mauch and Billy Conso.

Runnels, 29, led Washington in batting at .310 in 1956 but slumped to .230 last season, his poorest since coming up in 1951 from Chattanooga. He bats left and throws righthanded.

PGA Senior Golf Tourney Plagued By Foul Weather

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Foul weather plagued the second day shooters in the 19th annual PGA Seniors Golf championship Thursday, and Mortie Dutra's 24-hour-old 69 was still low when the first round was completed.

The best anyone could do in the day's rain, wind and cold was 70 — and there were three of those two-under-par scores. Dutra, 58, from Calexico, Calif., shot his 69 Wednesday when the first half of the split field played the first round.

The 70s were turned in by 51-year-old Bob Stuppel of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who lost the Seniors' title last year in a playoff; 53-year-old Bill Black of Ludington, Mich.; and 52-year-old Charles Sheppard of West Newton, Mass.

The rain raised a threat of further postponement in the tournament which started a day later than planned because of Tuesday's downpour.

Tournament Director George Ferrier of Danbury, Conn., said he would tour the course early Friday to determine whether it can be played. Although some of the golfers predicted some of the holes would be under water, Ferrier remained optimistic.

Thursday's players were the younger seniors—those 50 through 54. Unless the weather interferes, the second round will be completed Saturday and the field will be cut for the final two rounds Sunday and Monday.

Green Bay Coach Doubts Trading Until After Draft

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Ray "Scotter" McLean, coach of the Green Bay Packers, Thursday said he doubts whether there will be any trades in the National Football League until after the draft meeting later this month.

Asked for comment on a statement by Coach George Wilson of the Detroit Lions that he was waiting to hear from the Packers, Cardinals and Eagles on possible player deals, McLean said:

"That's just talk. Nobody is going to do anything until after the draft. They want to see what players they get first."

Basilio-Sugar Ray Sign for Title Bout

CHICAGO (AP)—Champion Carmen Basilio and Ray Robinson Thursday formally signed for their potential "million dollar" middleweight title rematch at the Chicago Stadium March 25.

The signing ceremony was held at a press party directed by President Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club.

Robinson, 37, said he is looking forward to his chance to dethrone the 30-year-old Basilio in Chicago, "my lucky city, if you want to call it that."

Basilio, making his first title defense, said "I think I'm going to have a change of luck in Chicago this time."

It was in Chicago that Robinson won the middleweight title in 1951 by stopping Jack LaMotta. In 1955 he regained the title at Chicago by knocking out Bob Olson. And again last May regained the middleweight crown by knocking out Gene Fullmer.

Basilio, on the other hand, lost his welterweight title to Johnny Saxton at Chicago Stadium by a controversial decision in March, 1956.

Jimmy Foxx Hired As Miller Coach

BOSTON (AP)—Jimmy Foxx, one of baseball's great hitters who recently has been in difficult financial circumstances Thursday, agreed to coach the Minneapolis Millers, top Boston Red Sox farm.

No formal contract has been signed. Neither was the length of the engagement nor salary disclosed.

James Silin, who has been Foxx' business manager, told reporters disclosure of Foxx' circumstances resulted in 252 communications, "some from cranks but many serious."

Foxx was an honored guest at the Boston baseball writers' dinner here Wednesday night.

Winner To Get $82,000

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Seven 4-year-olds, topped by favored Round Table, were entered Thursday in Saturday's $100,000-added Santa Anita Maturity.

If all seven start the mile and a quarter event, the gross purse will be $158,490 with $82,130 to the winner.

STUDENT RATE REDUCED

School students will get another break for the Iowa-Miami U. basketball game here Feb. 8. The payment of 50 cents will admit each student. This is Iowa's final non-conference game and will be against a team which is having a fine season in the Mid-American league.

A partition effectively separates the kitchen and living room of Mrs. Kent Nesbit, 100 Stadium Park.

Getting dinner in a nutshell, Mrs. James Hickman, 143 Riverside Park, works in her five-foot by five-foot kitchen.

"Daddy made this," says Lina Nesbit, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Nesbit.

From Barracks to Beautiful

By JANE HUBLY
Daily Iowan Society Editor

A small, empty barrack confronts many a newly married couple at SUI as their home for the next few years. It is a grim contrast with the sleek apartment, cozy cottage or rangey split level they've dreamed about.

Chances are, however, that if the couple will run next door or down the street, they will find friendly, original and personable homes that once were the desolate and despairing barracks like the one they are moving into.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent Nesbit decided that the rooms in their home, 100 Stadium Park, would be more attractive if there were a divider between the kitchen and the living room. As a result, Nesbit constructed a three-shelf "divider" with black rods holding it together and on it his wife placed her figurines and glass trinkets. In one small move, they had created two rooms from one and pepped up the appearance of their home considerably. Can you imagine arranging a refrigerator, a washing machine, a stove, a ladder-stool, two sinks, storage space under the sinks, two cupboards and a few feet of counter area in a 6' by 11' kitchen? Mr. and Mrs. James Hickman of 143 Riverside Park have successfully done this by keeping all kinds of supplies underneath the sink and putting two large cupboards on the walls, to utilize every possible inch of space!

Magazines, books, cameras, vases, etc. all take up space and in a barrack, space is at a premium. Mrs. Edward Braley got tired of picking up all these items one day, so her husband built a tall bookcase that almost resembles a wall between the kitchen and living room.

On this bookcase, his wife keeps all the little items that clutter her living room and 102 Stadium Park can always be found in the neatest and cleanest order.

Ceilings are rarely attractive and especially the bare and sometimes cracked ceilings in the barracks. When Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rafajko saw a web-work of yarn across the ceiling of a local movie theatre one night, they thought, "that's for us!" They energetically put up nails about 8" apart near the ceiling and criss-crossed black yarn to blend with their grey walls. Mrs. Rafajko believes it makes their home, 161 Stadium Park, a little different and more attractive.

A chair made from a cheese tub with a lady's sewing stored inside sounds like an "odddity" but Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Stotts have made this piece of furniture and it adds color besides saving space at 1021 Finkbine Park.

The Stotts' living room is brightened up inexpensively with ivy and philodendron growing from small brass vases on the walls. This is a favorite trick of the barracks couples, since the plants are colorful, decorative and not too difficult on the budget.

Three small offspring have a way of wanting to run around and the Stotts' realized quickly that they didn't have enough room in their home. Consequently, they turned their bedroom into a second living room, a den for Mr. Stotts to study in, or a bedroom all in one. They sold their bed in exchange for a "hide-a-way" sofa and put a round table with a lamp on it on one side. The round table, incidentally, is a chemical barrel covered with paper resembling wood or veneer and inside Mrs. Stotts stores two blankets!

Daily Iowan Photos by Vernon Glade

Mrs. Robert Rafajko, 161 Stadium Park, used black yarn to break the monotony of her ceiling.

In the barracks, space is precious. Mrs. Clinton Stotts, through effective planning, has given her barracks at 1201 Finkbine by using every corner. Also, a hide-away bed makes room for Mr. Stotts to study.

Decorative book-case built by Edward Braley, 102 Stadium Park puts some life into his barracks home. Debbie Braley, 3, finds it an interesting place to play.

Trott is a former chairman of the Iowa City Community Chest and a member and former chairman of the board of directors of the Johnson County Chapter of the Red Cross.

He is a member of the board of directors of the Visiting Nurse Association, chairman of the county crusade for Radio Free Europe and a member of the Shrine and local Masonic organizations and the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce.

Trott is chairman of the local service unit of the Salvation Army and is service officer and former commander of Roy L. Chopek Post No. 17 of the American Legion.

Trott, 331 South Summit St., is married and the father of three children.

ROGER H. IVIE, practicing attorney here since 1953, was Iowa City police judge from 1955 through 1957. He was the Coralville town attorney in 1954.

WHO Farm Director Speaks to Rotarians

A prominent Iowa farm radio journalist described the present and future economic conditions of the farmer in pessimistic terms Thursday.

Herb Plambeck, farm program director of WHO and WHO-TV in Des Moines, told a Farmer-Rotary club luncheon in the Memorial Club that rising costs and falling farm income have the farmer in a tight financial "squeeze."

About 170 farmers and Rotarians attended the luncheon, which was sponsored by the Rotarians to promote greater understanding between rural and urban residents.

"Agriculture has done an almost unbelievable job of production," Plambeck said, "but the farmers have not reaped a harvest in profits."

Judge Overrules Bid for Demurrer

District Judge Harold D. Evans Thursday overruled a demurrer and request for bill of particulars filed by Donald L. Doucet, 24.

In the demurrer, Doucet alleged a defect in proceedings on the charge against him of defrauding insurers. He maintained the State should not be allowed to proceed further on the charge because of the defect.

Doucet pleaded innocent at his arraignment Jan. 22, to a separate charge of arson. He is charged with setting fire to his rented home in Coralville July 27.

Doucet, a former insurance salesman, was indicted by the Grand Jury in November.

Jury trial is set for February court term.

Community Theater Plans Production

Tickets for the Iowa City Community Theater production "Three Men on a Horse" are now on sale, according to Mrs. Junious Tate, ticket chairman.

The production will be presented at the Old Eagles Lodge on Feb. 13, 14, and 15. Tickets may be purchased for $1.00 at Towner's Beauty Salon, Jackson's Electric or from members of the theater group. Tickets may also be purchased in the lobby of the Jefferson Hotel on the afternoons of Feb. 10, and 11.

Mrs. Tate warned that due to limited seating capacity at the Lodge, reservations for the production can be made by calling 4350. It was also proposed at the Wednesday meeting of the theater group that since several members are interested in playwrighting, the program chairman supplement her program with readings of original plays written by these members.

Additional staff appointments for the February production were made at the meeting.

Mrs. Arthur Kern will be in charge of ushers, Mrs. Tate, refreshments, Mrs. John Schuppert, seating arrangements, Charles Deutsch, photography and Tom Carson, audio technician.

Your Income Tax—No. 4 Exemptions Best Friend Taxpayer Has In April

EDITOR'S NOTE: Fourth in a series of eight articles, this story tells how you can make sure you are getting credit for every exemption you are entitled to on your income tax return. Be sure to save it for reference when you make out your return.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
Exemptions are a wonderful thing. They can even make you love your mother-in-law. Every exemption you claim knocks $600 right off the top of your gross income, making it tax free. Since the amount for each exemption is so large, the rules are precise and rigid. Within those rules, however, you should claim every exemption to which you are entitled.

There are three types of exemptions: for yourself, or for your self and spouse if you are filing a joint return; for your children, and for "others." That's the order in which they appear on your income tax forms, so that is the order in which they'll be taken up here.

Each taxpayer gets at least one exemption for himself. He is entitled to another if he is 65 or over (even if he reached his 65th birthday on the last day of 1957). And he is entitled to still another if he is blind.

The same rules apply to married couples who file joint returns. If both are 65 or over they are entitled to four exemptions; if one is 65 or over and the other is under that age, they get three exemptions.

Now, about the children. The big thing here is that — to be claimed as an exemption — they must have received more than half their support from you during the tax year.

You can claim one exemption for each child, stepchild or legally adopted child who was not more than 18 years old at any time during the tax year. Within this age group it doesn't matter how much income the child had, so long as you paid more than half of his or her support.

If the child reached age 19 during the tax year or is even older you may still claim an exemption if he or she is a full-time student or had a taxable income of less than $600 for the year — and still providing that you paid more than half the support costs.

In addition to exemptions for yourself, your spouse and your children, you may claim other dependents whether or not they are related to you. These dependents, however, have to meet some pretty stiff requirements.

To qualify as exemptions for you these dependents must:

1. Have received less than $600 in total reportable income during 1957;
2. Have received more than half their support from you;
3. Have not filed a joint return for 1957 with their spouse;
4. Be a citizen or resident of the United States or a resident of Canada, Mexico, the Republic of Panama, or the Canal Zone; and
5. Either have been a member of your household for the entire taxable year, or be related to you. If you are filing a joint return, they may be related to either husband or wife.

Note that rule 5 above says they must either have been a member of your household for the entire tax year, or must be related to you. Thus, a foster child would not qualify as a relative, but might qualify if he or she had spent the entire year in your household and met the other provisions as to income, age, support, etc.

You may have noted above that one of the provisions for claiming an exemption is that the dependent does not have a reportable income of $600 or more during the year.

Suppose you have a child aged 19 or more who had taxable income of less than $600 for the year, but who received $1,000 in death benefits from an insurance policy. That $1,000 wouldn't count against the exemption — but you would still have to show that you paid more than half the support costs during

Wesley Players To Give Play Sunday

A comedy which satirizes the stubbornness sometimes seen in seeking a good end which may lead to a direct compromise, will be presented by the Wesley players at Wesley House Sunday at 5:15 p.m.

The play, "Parade At The Devil's Bridge" by Henri Gheen is directed by Marlene Dorand, A4, Cedar Rapids. It is produced by special arrangement with Longmans, Green and Co.

The play takes place at the mouth of a little river in Brittany, France.

Except for two or three properties, the imaginary scenery is described by the property man. An amusing aspect of the farce is the talking cat of Father Kado, who resolves the dilemma in the plot.

Max McLarty, A1, Sioux City, is property man. Father Kado the hermit is played by Richard Paulus, A2, Iowa City.

Other cast members are: Kenneth Reams, A4, Joliet, Ill., the crafty peddler; Danny Reams, A2, Joliet, Ill., Mathurin, a Breton fisherman; Jane Gilchrist, A1, Denison, as Mathurin's wife; Pat Shad, A1, Omaha, Neb., Mathurin's daughter; and Marilyn Lyle, N2, Waverly, as Father Kado's cat.
