Young Rocketeer Injury Toll Rises

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tom Swift is back. In thousands of backyards and garages kids of the space age are constructing rockets that arch out of sight into the skies — or fizzle or burst with sometimes tragic results.

Adults worry about the Russian satellites and the military race to produce the best missiles. Teenagers, oblivious to politics and propaganda, blithely plunge into their own celebration of the geographical year.

Tom Swift — a fictional inventive genius of this country's boyhood — would be proud of them. Their rockets range from bits of pipe packed with Fourth of July gunpowder and ingeniously fired with an old car spark coil to aerodynamically designed missiles worthy of engineers.

But Tom Swift would be saddened by the dozens of accidents and the two deaths chalked up so far to experiments with amateur rockets.

From 17 states come the grim and probably incomplete totals:

two killed and 58 injured in the past few months. A teacher and an 11-year-old boy died, a 15-year-old suffered a brain injury, other boys lost fingers, damaged their eyes, burned and scarred their faces, mangled their arms and hands. The tragic list grows every week.

The Army's top missile man, Maj. Gen. H. N. Toffoy, head of the huge Redstone experimental center in Alabama, understands the boys' urge to tinker with the space ship of the future but fears they'll never live to ride in it.

"We don't want to lose the next crop of young scientists before they get started," he said.

Redstone now issues a list of precautions for science teachers. Army experts are preparing a booklet on the art of building safe backyard rockets.

Parents, teachers, state and city officials are alarmed.

State legislatures are considering laws to forbid indiscriminate firings yet still allow properly supervised experiments. Some police officers and town fathers have clamped an outright ban on amateur rockets.

Dulles Pledges $10 Million Baghdad Fund

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Wednesday pledged an additional $10 million, contingent upon congressional approval, to improve communications in the strategic Middle East area covered by the Baghdad Pact nations.

He coupled the pledge with a warning that some austerity might be necessary on the part of the free world to meet the Soviet Union's mounting economic offensive in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Shortly after Dulles spoke, the Soviet Union and Egypt signed an agreement in Moscow for long term loans which an Egyptian spokesman said would meet all his country's needs for industrial development.

Moscow has also extended economic aid to Egypt's close ally, Syria. Egypt is bitterly opposed to the Baghdad Pact, which Moscow also has denounced.

The United States had previously pledged $8 million to build telecommunication links in this Middle East area, where a telephone call from Baghdad to Tehran must now be routed by way of London.

The U.S. announcement came as the five member nations of the Baghdad Pact and the American observer team headed by Dulles ended the major part of their work.

Presidential Disability Plan Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A legislative formula for a vice president to serve, in case of need, as acting president was reported Wednesday to have been worked out in conference of House leaders.

A draft of a proposed presidential disability statute was laid before a special House Judiciary subcommittee, which met in strict secrecy. It was understood to have discussed the draft with Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers and asked him to examine it and report back with the views of President Eisenhower's administration.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) of the Judiciary Committee said: "There is no agreement whatsoever."

However, the preparation of the draft bill followed meetings of subcommittee members with House leaders of both parties.

The bill would create a Commission on Presidential Inability, made up mostly of key House and Senate members.

It would provide that, when a president declared himself incapacitated, or when the commission by a vote of at least six of its seven voting members so found, the vice president would take over the powers and duties of the presidency as acting president. By similar procedure, the commission could declare the president recovered, and he would resume active exercise of his office.

The question of temporary succession to the presidency has often been discussed, especially during the long periods of physical disability suffered by Presidents Garfield and Wilson. But the vague language of the Constitution on the subject has never been implemented.

The subject was again discussed after President Eisenhower's first-term heart attack and his subsequent illnesses. Mr. Eisenhower himself urged Congress to clear up the constitutional doubts.

Bulgarian Terms Cultural Exchange An Important Step

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin said Wednesday night the Soviet-American cultural exchange agreement signed this week "will undoubtedly help the Soviet and American peoples to understand each other better."

"One must hope that the agreement will represent an important step toward establishment of friendly relations between the peoples of the two countries," he said. "... I would like to stress that we attribute great importance to the concerted actions of the two countries for settling urgent international problems."

CHARLES STARKWEATHER, 19-year-old killer of 10 sat moodily in jail last night after leading lawmen a bloody chase from Lincoln, Neb., to Douglas, Wyo. His 14-year-old girl friend is being held with him. Her parents and 2-year-old baby brother were among those killed. He left her to police and sped away near Cheyenne when he was almost caught earlier.

13th Careers Conference Set for SUI

"Where will I get a job?"
"How much money will I make?"
"What kind of work will I be doing?"

Uppermost in the minds of college students, these questions will be discussed at the 13th annual Careers Conference to be held at SUI Feb. 18 and 19.

Under the sponsorship of the SUI Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, leaders from 20 fields of business and industry will participate in the 2-day conference. In many cases these representatives are SUI graduates and former Iowans.

"The sessions will offer all students an unusual opportunity to become acquainted with the great variety of jobs in business and industry," said Miss Helen Barnes, coordinator of placement services and director of the SUI Business and Industrial Placement Office.

Sessions have been scheduled in such areas as advertising, retailing, accounting, transportation, personnel management, purchasing, banking, insurance and secretarial science.

Included among the companies that will send representatives to the campus to participate in the conference are: the Maytag Company; Rath Packing Company; Sears, Roebuck and Company; Iowa-Des Moines National Bank; Killians, Cedar Rapids; Travelers Insurance; Bankers Life, Des Moines; Connecticut General Insurance Company; and Procter and Gamble.

Weather

Cloudy and cold weather is expected for today, with a high of 26. Little change is forecast for Friday by the weatherman.

The 5-day forecast through Monday predicts near normal highs of 36 degrees and normal lows of 17 degrees. Little or no snow is expected.

Winds Foil Satellite Try

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Winds up to 140 m.p.h., liberally laced with rain, washed out the Army's chances of launching the Jupiter-C satellite rocket Wednesday.

A 6-foot thick tube of metal more than 70 feet long, such as the Jupiter-C, could be sheared apart by such winds.

At the very least, the rocket might be buffeted so far out of the proper altitude it must maintain — in order to put its satellite aloft — that its departure from course could not be corrected.

Wind was not the only element that plagued the Jupiter-C. There were drainage problems in the rain-swept launching area.

Last Friday, rain flooded underground electrical lines, cutting off the power supply to the Air Force launching complex.

Rain, too, will seep into the many connections involved in the checking of a missile. This difficulty might also involve the Jupiter-C.

Education Plan Called Politics By Republican

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's education bill came in for a strong Republican attack Wednesday as two Democrats announced they would offer a substitute.

Rep. Ralph W. Gwinn (R-N.Y.), denounced the Eisenhower proposal, designed largely to step up science education, as a political scheme to get votes. Gwinn prepared his indictment for a speech in the House, but adjournment came before he got the floor, so he put it in the record.

Meanwhile, Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala.), and Rep. Carl Elliott (D-Ala.), announced they would introduce bills Thursday calling for a $3 billion, 6-year federal program, to strengthen the education system.

This would compare with a 4-year $1 billion program recommended by the President.

JANE MILLIS, 21, Des Moines, appears to be doing some skull-racking book-cracking for final examinations which start Friday. For a better look at Jane and what she is studying, turn to page 6.

Chronology Of Crime

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Here is a blow-by-blow account of the events in the 10-murder crime spree of a teenage renegade of society.

The times of the grisly tragedies are approximate.

Saturday, Jan. 25, 9:30 p.m. — Two police officers sent to Marion Bartlett home in Lincoln after relatives reported they had not seen nor heard from the family in several days. Officers were met at the door by Carl Fugate, Mrs. Bartlett's daughter by a previous marriage. She said no one was allowed in on doctor's orders since the family "had the flu." The officers left.

Monday, 9 a.m. — Mrs. Pansy Street went to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bartlett, to visit, and also was turned away by Carl. Believing something was wrong, she returned with 100 detectives. The house was empty but there was no sign of violence. They left.

Monday, 1 p.m. — A young couple bought gas for their car and shells for a rifle and shotgun at a service station south of Lincoln on U.S. 77. A shotgun was seen in the car by the station attendant.

Monday, 2 p.m. — Farmer Howard Genuch of Bennet helped pull the car of a young couple from the mud of a dirt road next to a storm cellar on the site of a recently torn down school. This was a mile from the farmhouse of August Meyer.

Monday, 2 p.m. — A Lincoln police detective again checked the Bartlett house but got no answer. Outbuildings were not checked.

Monday, 4:30 p.m. — Robert Von Busch, a son-in-law of Mrs. Bartlett, and Rodney Starkweather, brother of Charles, went to the house and in two outbuildings found the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett and their 2-year-old daughter. They phoned police.

Monday, 5 p.m. — Lincoln police put out the first pickup order for Carl Fugate and Charles Starkweather.

Monday, 7:30 p.m. — Robert Jensen, 17, of nearby Bennet, and girl friend, Carol King, 16, left on a date saying they would not be gone long.

Monday, 10 p.m. — Bennet farmer Everett Broening heard a car start up and accelerate rapidly past his home half a mile from the former school yard and storm cellar.

Tuesday, 3 a.m. — Parents of Jensen and Miss King reported to police they were missing.

Tuesday, 11:55 a.m. — Service station attendant Pat Bold spotted the Starkweather auto on a lane leading to the August Meyer farm home. He notified Patrolman Vernon O'Neal.

Tuesday, 12:10 p.m. — Trooper O'Neal found the car and radioed for more lawmen.

Tuesday, 1:45 p.m. — About 20 officers converged on the Meyer farm, called for Starkweather to come out, and received no answer. Twenty minutes to half an hour later, after pouring tear gas shells into the house, officers entered. Shortly afterward they found Meyer's body in a nearby outbuilding.

Tuesday, 3:55 p.m. — Everett Broening, the man who had heard the car speed off the night before, "on a hunch" checked the storm cellar at the school yard. He found the bodies of Jensen and Miss King at the foot of the stairs.

Wednesday, 11:45 a.m. — Fred Ward, cousin of manufacturer C. Lauer Ward, 48, walked into the latter's palatial Lincoln home to find Lauer Ward, his wife and their housekeeper, Lillian Fencil, shot to death.

[Ward, slain president of the Capital City Bridge Co. of Lincoln, was well known in Iowa.

[Michael Ward, 12, only child of Mr. and Mrs. C. Lauer Ward, is a first-year student at the Choate School in Des Moines. A spokesman at the school said Michael would be taken back to Lincoln.

[Ward's firm had wide dealings throughout the Midwest in the bridge and steel supply business, and he was known to many Iowa contractors, engineers and officials.]

Wednesday, 12:45 p.m. (mountain time) — Joe Sprinkle of Casper, Wyo., found Starkweather and the Fugate girl in two cars stalled by the side of the road between Casper and Cheyenne, Wyo. Sprinkle stopped, saw the body of Merle Collison, 37, Great Falls, Montana, in the car, and wrestled a gun away from Starkweather. Starkweather took off, leaving his girl friend behind.

Wednesday, 1 p.m. (mountain time) — Starkweather surrendered at a roadblock near Douglas, Wyo.

'If I'd Had a Gun I'd Have Shot Them'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DOUGLAS, Wyo. (AP) — Charles Starkweather, 19, sought for ten killings was shot and captured Wednesday, his empty .38 caliber revolver at his side.

"If I had had a gun, I'd have shot them," he told officers from his jail cell. "They wouldn't have caught me if I hadn't stopped."

Caught with the Nebraska teenager was Carl Fugate, his 14-year-old girl friend. She was reported in a state of shock. Starkweather's wound was superficial.

Prior to Starkweather's capture, a man was shot to death west of Douglas, 64 miles east of Casper. He was identified as Merle Collison, 37, of Great Falls, Mont., a salesman for a shoe company.

Converse County Sheriff Earl Heflin said Collison had been shot 12 or 14 times in the face.

Starkweather was captured in the badlands five miles east of Douglas after a chase with officials at speeds ranging up to 110 m.p.h.

Starkweather was cut behind the ear and on the hand by glass, shattered by bullets fired by Sheriff Heflin and Douglas Police Chief Bob Ainsley.

Lancaster County Atty. Elmer Scheele said at Lincoln, Neb., that he and two officers will fly to Wyoming Thursday to seek extradition of Starkweather to Nebraska.

"We're going to do our utmost to get him back here — Lincoln," Scheele said.

Wyoming, if it chooses, will have priority on prosecuting Starkweather in the slaying of Collison.

Despite Starkweather's capture, Lincoln Mayor Bennett Martin said, "We're still in a damn sick situation. We still don't know whether the number of victims will stop at nine."

Phil McAuley, a reporter for the Casper Tribune-Herald, quoted Starkweather as saying he had shot his Nebraska victims in self-defense.

"What would you do if they tried to come at you?" he asked.

McAuley said Starkweather told him that he and Miss Fugate were heading for Washington and left Nebraska Wednesday morning. He said the girl had tried to get away from him several times but he had kept her against her will.

Natrona County sheriff's officers in Casper said Deputy Sheriff Bill Romer had been sent to Douglas on a routine inspection on recent receipts when he spotted two men wrestling for control of a gun 12 miles west of Douglas.

Romer said he stopped to investigate and the Fugate girl jumped in his car. He quoted her as saying "He's going to kill me. He's crazy. He just killed a man."

Joe Sprinkle, about 40, of Casper, was the man with whom Starkweather grappled. He told officers he was going from Casper to Cheyenne when he spotted two cars stalled by the side of the road. He said he stopped to investigate and saw a blood splattered body in the front seat of one car and the Fugate girl in the back seat of the other. The body was Collison's.

Sprinkle said he grabbed for the gun barrel with his left hand and the two men grappled.

Sprinkle said he finally wrestled the rifle from Starkweather about the time Romer pulled up. Romer said Starkweather ran and jumped into his car and headed toward Douglas.

Romer radioed to Casper sheriff's officers who relayed the report to Douglas where a road block was set up on the west outskirts of the city.

Heflin said Starkweather roared through the roadblock at 110 to 115 m.p.h. and that he and Ainsley set chase, firing at the car in an effort to stop it.

The sheriff said Starkweather offered no resistance when he finally stopped his car five miles east of the city.

Heflin said when Starkweather stopped, "he thought he was bleeding to death. That's the kind of yellow s.o.b. he is."

Sprinkle said during the struggle with Starkweather he was scared to let go of the rifle and held onto it with both hands despite Starkweather's kicking, biting and hitting.

Sprinkle said after he obtained control of the rifle he made no effort to fire after the fleeing Starkweather. He told officers that an empty .22 caliber shell case was in the rifle and there were no bullets.

"All I saw was the gun barrel and every time I looked at it it got bigger," Sprinkle said.

Romer said Collison's body was stuffed underneath the dashboard

Folks Sketch Teen Killer's Unusual Life

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A swaggering good-for-nothing in blue jeans and a black motorcycle jacket... mad at the world... devoted to comic books... with but one major accomplishment: an eye that sweeps across a gunsight sure as radar and hands dead-steady with a gun.

This is the way his family sees Charles Starkweather, 19.

"I have an idea he thinks he would be better off if they had killed him," said Guy Starkweather, 47-year-old carpenter father.

"I'm kind of glad to hear it turned out the way it did," he said. Starkweather said he had felt fears for his own and his wife's safety.

"I don't think Charles would hesitate to shoot me," he said. "Charlie always had a burst of temper, but never anything like this. When he got mad he'd take on a fellow twice as big as him and whip him."

See story on page 6 about mass killings of the last few years. They are not as unusual as it might seem. The record for a mass killer is 13.

Starkweather's appearance is unusual, but hardly impressive. He stands only 5-feet-5, weighs 140 pounds, has green eyes and dark red hair cut short on top. There's a short scar over his right eye.

He is very bowlegged and a little pigeon-toed, but walks with a swagger in cowboy boots.

Exploring motives for the brutal slayings, Mr. and Mrs. Starkweather said they were confused. Starkweather said he believed "everything just built up inside Charlie until he went berserk."

"It could have been a lot of things. He lost a couple of good jobs and that girl (Carl Ann Fugate) has him wrapped around her little finger. He is to lose his sight within a year and he may still be sick from a severe cold."

Starkweather said Charles was hit in the forehead with a piece of lumber a few years ago.

"I talked with him about a month ago and he told me a doctor informed him he would be blind in a year unless he got special glasses. That may have had something to do with all this... I just don't know," he said.

Starkweather said the youth left home and took a room downtown about six months ago when he objected to Charles letting Carl drive the car which was owned jointly by the father and son.

"When Charlie left home I told him he had a chance to make a good man of himself," Starkweather said, "but he didn't make it."

A sister-in-law, Mrs. Rodney Starkweather, says, in a sudden rage Charles would lean from the cab of a garbage truck on which he worked and shout "Go to hell" at strangers.

He was "kicked out of grade school because he had too many fights," and recently locked out of his downtown room for nonpayment of rent.

Charles left school at 16 after completing the ninth grade.

Mrs. Starkweather recalled: "Rodney once told us something that scared me a little bit.

"He said that when he and Chuck went hunting and Chuck was using an automatic rifle, he could not quit shooting once he started to pull the trigger.

"He would shoot crazy-like and empty the gun at no target at all."

But Rodney himself said Charles was also a "crack shot—he always shot game in the head."

of his car and estimated he had been dead only 10 or 15 minutes before he arrived at the scene.

The first identification of Collison was made by Keith Rider, editor and publisher of the Douglas Budget.

Murder charges have been filed against both Starkweather and the Fugate girl in Lincoln.

John Scott Interprets—

Russia Vs. Red China

Centuries Old Tensions Will Increase with Passage of Time

By TOM SLATTERY Daily Iowan Editor

(This is the third of three articles dealing with problems confronting the United States in the cold war with Russia, based upon a press conference with world-famous John Scott, assistant to the publisher of TIME magazine. Material is also taken from his latest book "Political Warfare.")

"I expect to see American aid extended to Russia in a battle for Asian power with China within my lifetime," Mr. Scott said, pointing to the huge Red China population — which has increased by some 100 million since the Communists took over in 1949.

The historical relationship between Russia and China has been one of great demographic surges as illustrated by Chengis Khan — from about 1350 to 1550, Great Russia was a vassal state within the Khan Empire.

There have already been preliminary skirmishes between the two powers which have been peacefully resolved — Russia has turned back Sinkiang province to Red China and is in the process of leaving Outer Mongolia to the Chinese. Both areas have been well within the Russian sphere of influence.

Not only are they leaving Outer Mongolia; they are turning over plants, airfields, and similar installations intact, as well as supplying tractors and other equipment needed to develop the area.

Nothing stands between China's burgeoning population and the huge Siberian expanses but distance — and with the passage of time, the population pressures will increase. The development of hardy hybrid grains combined with the moisture provided by melting "perma-frost" will help make mass settlement of this virgin land possible and the tremendous mineral resources of the area have scarcely been tapped — yet some 63,800,000 metric tons of coal were mined in Siberia in 1956 (Russian figures).

The Red Chinese have learned a lot from the Russians — they have been much more successful in their collectivization of farms, they squeezed the wealthy farmers for the huge sums needed for capitalization — profiting from the pioneer work done by the Russians.

To illustrate this point, Mr. Scott noted that the Red Chinese had much less trouble with the second Five Year than the Russians did with their second Five Year plan of 1928, marked by mass uprising, armed resistance, and wholesale starvation.

The Chinese Communists have not hesitated to scale back investment to prevent the sort of problems the Russians had — last year they cut investment back from 22 per cent to 12 per cent, which still leaves them a substantial increase.

"I would assume Red China is way behind in science — they lack the large pool of skilled labor and supervision. They, like India, have good theoreticians but lack the means to build.

A different American policy could probably exploit the friction inherent in Red Chinese-Russian relationships, but would probably turn uncommitted Asian nations away from us.

The Red Chinese may "ease peace" by withdrawing from Burma, signing agreements and pacts, relinquishing the "right" to use force against Formosa, and by withdrawing from Korea.

This action, coupled with the solution of the Red vs. Formosa government which is in the process of evolution — that is, two separate and distinct Chinas — would help lessen the tensions now present throughout the Asian area.

There is nothing immutable about these apparent trends, Mr. Scott said — impulsive leaders, miscalculations, loss of American Civil Rights, civil upheavals could alter the whole completion of development.

Promising Cultural Exchanges

The U.S.-Russian agreement to exchange representatives of every phase of cultural life is probably the most promising and forward-looking step taken by the leading protagonists of the ideological conflict in which we find ourselves. The potential of the exchanges, however, could easily be exaggerated.

The exchange should go a long way to clear up misunderstandings — at least on the surface level — and give both Americans and Russians a chance to "see for themselves" what they are largely getting second-hand.

There are many trivial as well as real issues on which we are deadlocked — and anything that would help to eliminate the false differences might clear the air enough so that we might see the real differences both more clearly and in proper perspective. We must realize that the suspicions and distrust — approaching paranoia on both sides — will not be immediately dispelled; "Facts" are fitted to the national viewpoint and are much less important than emotion in any case.

But even with these reservations, the exchange can scarcely fail to help, and they may bring us far closer to understanding than even the most optimistic advocate of cultural exchange might wish for.

History is replete with instances of implacable hatred changing to tolerance or even friendship through the ameliorating effect of time and peaceful contact.

Is it too much to hope that history repeat itself here?

WHAT MAKES A SAINT? SIOUX FALLS, S. D. — What are the hidden, inner motives that make some people become dedicated saints?

That question should be explored by churches on a systematic basis if they want to shape their appeals to produce the most results, says the Rev. Dr. Dean Goodwin, communications director of the American Baptist Convention. Unconscious motives, he said, produce more action than conscious ones.

RACIAL SOCIALIZING LIMITED NEW YORK — Findings of a survey reported in the current issue of the Catholic Digest are that only 3 per cent of northern whites and one per cent of southern whites have ever entertained Negroes in their homes. Among Negroes, only 2 per cent of the northerners and less than one half per cent of the southerners have ever received whites socially in their homes.

'Needle Talk' by John Sunier

Today we're talking about a few of the vocal music selections currently of interest. Music-lovers, television-lovers and Omnibus fans all were treated to an hour and one-half of delightful operetta last Sunday afternoon when Offenbach's "La Perichole" was presented. This is the Metropolitan Opera's new English version, which was staged by Cyril Ritchard, who also sang (sang?) the part of the Viceroys. Mr. Ritchard claims he took the part in spite of his voice, not because of it. The entire production owes its success to the talented Australian.

THE SECOND IN THE TRILOGY IS "CATULLI CARMINA." Vox has the best recording of this one, on PL 8640. The Vienna Chamber Chorus is conducted by Heinrich Hollreiser. The English translation accompanying this disc isn't too useful for finding out what is going on in certain parts of the score. Immediately after the male chorus sings: "O your charming, alluring lips!" the translation informs: "For obvious reasons, the Translation of the Following Lines has been Omitted." Students of Latin will enjoy themselves.

The third work is "Trionfo di Afrodite" (The Triumph of Venus). There is only one version of it, the rather old Decca DL-9626. The plot, if you can call it that, may be summed up as a symbolic festival of marriage. In this one the driving, constant repetition is hypnotic in its effect upon the listener. At one point, when you are all tensed up and feel yourself being pulled into this mysterious musical rite, a searing scream will send the unruly right through the ceiling. Orff gets results, no doubt about that.

A CURIOUS SIMILARITY CAN BE SEEN between this last Orff work and Stravinsky's "Les Noces" (The Wedding). Stravinsky had the idea first, by about 20 years, and the musical approach is worlds different, but the final results are much the same. Stravinsky's libretto is a trifle risqué too, but he crams more of it into a much shorter piece than Orff's. Vox is to be congratulated for their English version on PL 8630, with the N.Y. Concert Choir. They have done the same with Stravinsky's "The Soldier's Tale," on PL 8990. Why not have vocal works in English when possible, so everybody knows what's going on?

Washington Scene

No Narcissism Here

By GEORGE DIXON King Features Syndicate. WASHINGTON — Something should be done to encourage Sen. Irving M. Ives, of New York, and Rep. Craig Hosmer, of California, to speak well of themselves. Conditioned as I am to Capitol Hill bombast, I can hardly readjust myself to the spectacle of these ornaments of representative government being so demure.

In the last few days the two shrinking violets have outshrunk themselves. The bashful, barefaced boys issued press releases about their coyp-deprecatefulness of Mike Todd accepting an Oscar.

Practically wallowing in humility, Sen. Ives, in a press release headed "Ives" in type exactly three-quarters of an inch high, described himself as follows:

"I've always regarded myself as a Jeffersonian Republican; I'm kind of a mixture between Jefferson and Lincoln, what I believe to be the best parts of both of them."

In his office on the other side of Capitol Hill, Rep. Hosmer brushed a narcissus off his typewriter and pecked out the following deprecation of himself:

"Republican party action to place specially qualified members in effective positions to forward the nation's science race with Russia is seen in House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin's catapulting of Rep. Craig Hosmer, of California, to highly-coveted membership on the Joint Atomic Energy Committee. Hosmer is the only member of Congress with working experience at an Atomic Energy Commission installation before entering politics. He worked at the Los Alamos, New Mexico, laboratories before running for Congress and has continued to follow nuclear developments closely."

The catapulting must have jarred Rep. Hosmer into whirling self-abasement because he went on to describe himself as "the intent, youthful-appearing, 42-year-old Californian." I tried to picture him catapulting through space, looking intent and youthful, but the effort made me bust my sling-shot.

The human projectile cited as one of the reasons for his catapultment the "scholarly, extensive reviews" he had written for the Southern California Law Review. There was no gainsaying that it was a telling point. In this Atomic age, it is generally recognized that the soundest way to establish oneself as a nuclear authority is to write a couple of scholarly law reviews.

Speaking of himself in the third person, as befits an intent and youthful-appearing trajeticle, Rep. Hosmer went on:

"Appointment to the Joint Atomic Committee carries more than ordinary responsibility and more than ordinary prestige. He (the scholarly one) had to compete against many who had served in Congress much longer than himself and thus had claims to the spot based on seniority — usually the most valuable coin in the congressional realm."

When I came to this last, I almost burst with resentment against Minority Leader Martin. How could he have steered his crew heart to propel one so young into greatness?

"I certainly envy you . . . being old enough to get out of long winter underwear."

Letters to the Editor:

MEBOC Partisans Thank BMOCS

TO THE EDITOR: We of the Hillcrest Association General Council, representing almost one-tenth of the University of Iowa Student Body, wish to take this opportunity to express our deepest thank-you to several "big men on campus."

First of all our thank-yous go out to our one and only Mr. Bill Teter, president of the SUI Student Council. We wish to thank him for his overwhelming support of student activities, one of which recently came to light in the AWS campaign to sponsor MEBOC.

Allow us to quote from the Quadrangle Council Minutes of Jan. 13, 1958. "Be It Resolved by the Quadrangle Council that the questionnaire concerning MEBOC be answered that we are in favor of discontinuing MEBOC. Moved by Mr. Bill Teter. Seconded and Passed."

Our next vote of confidence goes to three outstanding organizations on the SUI campus, the Quadrangle Association, CPC (Central Party Committee), and IFC (Inter-Fraternity Council). Our thanks to these organizations for their undying interest in Old Gold Days.

If you will allow us to quote again, this time from the "Prospectus of Old Gold Days" presented to the University Committee on Student Life, later given the stamp of approval by "A bigger man on campus."

"The program (Old Gold Days) as envisioned by the Planning Committee would tend to replace events such as the MEBOC campaign, Spinsters Spree, and Greek Week." If we may refresh your memory, MEBOC was thrown out last week after a campaign by AWS for the event, because MEBOC proved to have no backing by the BMOCS. However, Spinsters Spree and Greek week events still find themselves firmly planted on the coming calendar of events. (Maybe there is a superior race after all?)

Our last thank you is given to a man who provides every student on the SUI campus with "Free Entertainment" five days a week. This man is none other than The Daily Iowan editor, Mr. Tom Slattery.

It pays to have a friend in the news media and Mr. Slattery certainly is a friend of those who need a friend. Allow us to quote, for the last time, from The Daily Iowan, Sat., Jan. 25, 1958 (editorial). "The Inter-Fraternity Council and the Quadrangle Student Council acted wisely Thursday night when they voted to withdraw support from Campus MEBOC contest scheduled by the AWS for April 17-21."

"If seven years is enough, the MEBOC contest can be counted a campus tradition—but not a particularly worthwhile one. MEBOC week has run something like this in the past: the men's housing units choose candidates, skirts are placed in dormitories and serenades are presented at women's housing units, posters are placed in dormitories and store windows, banners are strung over city streets, the women students vote and Mr. MEBOC is crowned at the Spinsters Spree dance." (Sounds just like a MISS SUI contest from the other side of the fence?) "Then, too, MEBOC represents the type of fun that is more at home in a high school atmosphere. Many mature students have looked at the event with disgust." (Those mature students just looking should try at little participation, it might change that one track mind.)

The Spinsters Spree dance will be held this spring, as it has since 1938 and we think it should, but we are hard pressed to find an excuse to hold the MEBOC contest."

Thank you, Mr. Slattery, we are certain that the intermission of this year's Spinsters Spree will hold more suspense than ever before.

All Collegians Review SUI's Good Old Days

By JANE HUBLY
Daily Iowan Society Editor

Nowadays you can walk down Washington Street any time and see a furry, formless raccoon coat wobbling down the sidewalk with a coed in it who feels she is really keeping up with the "newest fad" in collegiate dress. The trouble is, the only thing different about the raccoon coat is that now students think they're hysterical, while in the "Roaring 20's" they were the accepted and natural fashion.

WHEN A COLLEGE man picked up his date during the 1920's, chances were that she would be wearing heels with tie straps, a short flapper dress, a raccoon coat, and beads, beads, and more beads. The fellows usually wore a suit with a wide white collared shirt and, more than likely, a hat.

Dates had a variety of places to "haunt" in the 20's, all similar to our familiar stand-bys just "outside the city limits." Dancing was the most preferred pastime, and the students usually went to the Varsity Ballroom, above the Englert Theater. They paid to get in, and every night of the weekend, besides Saturday afternoon, someone you knew would undoubtedly be there.

Formals were quite the affairs in those days, and the unlucky gal who didn't get invited was really "left out." The fellows donned their tails and tall silk hats, and the girls put on their shortest flapper cuffs and flashiest beads. Flowers were always given to the girls. Couples stood a good chance of walking to the dance, or, if the fellow received his monthly check from home that day, they rode in a taxi!

The formals were held at the local ballrooms, the Old Armory, the Hotel Jefferson, and later in the decade, the Iowa Memorial Union. Big name bands were always playing, but the girls still had to hurry home at 12:30 a.m.

IN WARM WEATHER, formals were held at the Iowa City Country Club, which was then situated near the Iowa River. The couples would ride over the Club on a launch starting at Fitz-Simmons Canoe Dock.

Whetstone's was the local hang-out, even thirty years ago, for students who didn't want to go to class but would rather socialize all morning. However, the students were more apt to order a double chocolate fudge pecan sundae with marshmallow topping rather than coffee.

Sunday night was typically spent in the upstairs dining room of the Hotel Jefferson (no longer existing in this form), where music was played. Chicken a la king was a favorite meal.

Parties were held almost every weekend. The biggest ones of the year were the Freshman Party, Sophomore Cotillion, Junior Prom, Senior Hop, and the Senior Panhellenic dance, and the Military Ball.

PICNICS HAD BEEN "invented" at that time, and the other side (then undeveloped) of the river near "fraternally row" was usually the point where all the coeds and their dates had dinner, a la "outdoors." If the students were exceptionally muscular, they would put their canoes on the interurban and then have them dropped off between Cedar Rapids and Iowa City. The next day, they would take the interurban themselves early in the morning and canoe all the way down the river. If we did that now, we'd have to take hip boots and carry the canoe for half the trip!

Pinnings were even faster and more furious in those days. It's hard to find a woman who was a coed during that period who won't boast of having two (at the minimum) fraternity pins at the same time. If a girl did that now, her name would be posted on Schaeffer Hall as the "nastiest girl west of the Mississippi."

The Iowa Memorial Union was built in the late 1920's, but, at first, the students did not patronize it as they should have. Consequently, the mail boxes were put in that building rather than at Whetstone's, and, since everyone wanted their mail, the Union fast became a "meeting place" and center of activity.

The Englert Theater was a place where dramas and well-known plays were held, and students eagerly went to see the current play or to movies at the Strand or Capitol. Imagine having a boy take you to a play, if he didn't have to for a class nowadays!

LIFE IN THE SOCIAL world has become materially easier for us in the 1950's, with all our cars, wide choice (?) of entertainment, and varied parties. But the students in the 20's had the same basic principles that spell a good time to us, such as dancing until you're dead on your feet, picnicking out in the wild woods, and breaking your neck to get pinned, even for a month! Years may change the surroundings, but they will never alter human nature or college students' strange but wonderful idea of fun.

2 OMVI Arrests Made Wednesday

Lloyd A. Torppa, 729 Seventh Ave., waived to the grand jury Wednesday on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was committed to the Johnson County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

The charge was made against Torppa in Iowa City Police Court following his arrest at 1 a.m. Wednesday by Iowa City police.

A charge of driving while intoxicated against Donald J. Hoyt, Marion, was continued until Feb. 3.

Campus YWCA Fund Drive Set To Begin This Week

The SUI Young Women's Christian Association (YWCA) will begin a drive this week for funds for the coming year.

Nearly all money for support of YWCA activities is raised on the SUI campus and in Iowa City. The group receives no financial support from the SUI administration or from the local Community Chest.

At present the group is operating on an annual budget of $3,200. Members hope to increase the amount to $6,000 for the coming year to provide for full-time professional leadership.

The local YWCA is a part of a national and international movement aimed at developing leadership and promoting practical idealism in young women.

At SUI, coeds who are members participate in conferences with other students in Iowa, the Midwest and the nation; help with a variety of community service projects; study individual, group, religious, national and international problems; and gain practical leadership experience by serving on the Y cabinet or planning Y activities.

About 130 YWCA members participated in service projects last year which included reading to patients in University Hospitals, entertaining at Oakdale Sanatorium and leading recreation groups at the Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children.

The coeds served the community as recreation leaders for the Iowa City Recreation Commission, assisted adult leaders of Girl Scout and Cub Scout groups and visited older persons and shut-ins. Last year over 500 volunteer hours went into these activities.

The YWCA organization sponsors informal group meetings where freshmen discuss study problems, dating and university life with upperclass women selected for leadership qualities. The Y also sponsors a series of 12 lectures for both men and women students dealing with the problems of choosing a mate, married life and children. Average attendance for the fall "Major in Marriage" program is 200.

Other projects include study commissions where students discuss the problems of career choices, personal adjustment and mental health, religion and international relations.

Gifts to the YWCA may be pledged over a period of months, and contributions are tax deductible. Contributions should be sent to the University YWCA, Iowa Memorial Union.

Graduates and former students of SUI may contribute to the YWCA through the Old Gold Development Fund. Contributions, designated for the YWCA, should be sent to the Old Gold Development Fund, Alumni House, Iowa City.

SUI's Ludins To Exhibit 40 Drawings at N.Y. Gallery

A one-man show of works by Eugene Ludins, associate professor of art at SUI, will be featured at New York's Passadroit Gallery Feb. 3-15.

Ludins will exhibit 40 drawings done during the past four years. This is the first time he has exhibited any of his drawings, though he has had previous 1-man shows of his paintings in New York.

Born in Russia, Ludins studied at the Arts Students League and served as supervisor of the Federal Arts Projects for New York state before coming to SUI in 1948.

His works are owned by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Whitney Museum of New York, and the Des Moines Art Center. "Fish Town," an oil painting on canvas, is part of the permanent SUI collection.

His painting entitled "Hiding Places" was selected for the "American Painting — 1950" show at the Metropolitan Museum in New York, and another picture, "Quarry," was displayed at the national exhibition of contemporary American painting at the University of Illinois in 1951.

In 1948 Ludins won the Temple Medal, presented annually by the Pennsylvania Academy for achievement in oil painting. The SUI professor will be in New York for a reception and formal opening of the exhibition Feb. 3.

Iowa Success

I doubt if Iowa has ever had any more success over any one Big Ten university than they have had with Minnesota during the past five years.

In that time, the Hawkeyes have won games that have directly knocked the Gophers out of one Big Ten football championship and one Big Ten basketball championship, besides piling up a good record in all Big Ten sports.

Maybe it's justice. It wasn't too long ago that Minnesota, year after year, pulverized the Hawkeyes in football. The Gophers great teams of the late 30's and early 40's handed Iowa some of the worst drubbings ever suffered in the Big Ten.

The situation in basketball is quite similar. Minnesota leads the Hawkeyes, 54-34, in the 55-year-old series.

However, things have changed over the last few years. In football, Iowa has won four of the last five games, including a 7-0 win in 1956 that prevented the Gophers from winning the Big Ten title.

In basketball, Iowa has won three of the last four at Minnesota, including a 72-70 triumph in 1956 which gave Iowa the title and put the Gophers in second place.

This year, the trend, if you can call it that, has been continuing. The Hawkeyes are now 5-0 against the Gophers this season. Last week, Iowa won in wrestling, basketball and swimming, while last Nov. 9, the Hawkeyes took the measure of the Gophers in football and cross country.

The wrestling defeat was an especially tough pill for the Gophers to swallow. It was their first dual meet loss in 22 meets. Minnesota is defending Big Ten wrestling champion.

The Gophers appear five more times on the Iowa schedule this year. Two are in gymnastics, while the Hawkeyes also meet Minnesota in baseball, golf and tennis this spring.

NOW THAT I'VE had a lot of time to think over the Jim Myers situation, I've decided that there's a possibility that a lot of good may come of it. I can think of three good things about Myers leaving Iowa State the way he did:

1. If Myers is the type of coach that will go back on his word on a moment's notice, he's not the kind of coach that Iowa State needs and they're better off without him.

2. Iowa State became the first major college to have nerve to tell a coach to either make up his mind, or get out. The ultimatum that was issued Myers by the Iowa State Athletic Council shook up many football people around the nation.

Now that Iowa State has done it, maybe more will get tough, and there won't be as many coaches keeping their colleges waiting to see what they are going to do.

3. It brought the problem of coaches jumping contracts more into the limelight. Something should be done about coaches jumping their contracts, and now that its received so much attention lately, maybe some one will do something about it.

IF ANY CHARITY is looking for a way to raise money, and there should be plenty of them, here's an idea.

During the past four years, both Iowa and Iowa State have been blessed with their finest basketball teams in the history of the two colleges. Between 1954 and 1956, Iowa won two Big Ten championships and finished fourth and second in the NCAA, respectively.

Iowa State, over the last two years, has come up with its finest team. Although they did not capture the Big Seven last year, nor does there appear much chance of them winning it this year, they might have won it had Wilt Chamberlain not wandered into Kansas University at the wrong time.

It would seem to me a charity basketball game between teams members of these fine ball clubs would be a natural. Iowa's 'Fabulous Five' already has played together once this season, for the first time since 1956.

Iowa State had two regulars graduate last year, Gary Thompson and Chuck Vogt, while their other three regulars of last year, Lyle Frahm, John Crawford and Don Medsker, graduate this year.

I'd like to see these two teams battle it out at the end of the season for some worthy charity. That way, players who are classified as pros by the A.A.U., would be able to play. There would be no connection with SUI or Iowa State, so the teams would have to play under another name.

I think the game, if it could be arranged, could fill the Veteran's Auditorium in Des Moines. So, there's an idea. Any interested charities want to try and arrange it?

Iowa State Sets Four Coaching Interviews

Baltimore Colt Aide, Pearce Appear Today

AMES (AP) — Iowa State Wednesday scheduled interviews with four football coaching candidates in a move directed toward speedily filling the vacancy here.

Called to appear before the Athletic Council Thursday are LeRoy Pearce, former assistant under departed Coach Jim Myers, and John D. Bridgers, defensive line coach for the professional Baltimore Colts and a former head coach at Johns Hopkins.

On Friday the council will see George H. Sauer, former Nebraska great and now athletic director at Baylor, and Clay Stapleton, No. 1 assistant at Oregon State.

Pearce, now an assistant at Nebraska, and Stapleton, have been considered the two leading candidates. Sauer, who has guided New Hampshire, Kansas, Navy and Baylor, and Bridgers, a 1946 graduate of Auburn, are newcomers on the list.

Council Chairman E. S. Haber said, "This list does not preclude the possibility that additional coaches will be interviewed."

Sauer said in Waco, Tex., Wednesday he missed being active in coaching and was interested in the job here. He coached in the Big Seven (now Big Eight) Conference of which Iowa State is a member.

Sauer's 1946 Kansas team was the last to defeat Oklahoma in the conference. He reportedly is paid $12,000 at Baylor.

Myers, before he departed a week ago for Texas A&M, received $14,000 and was recommended for a $2,000 a year increase.

When Myers first showed an interest in the Texas A&M job, Pearce said he would be interested in succeeding him here.

Sauer said, "They are real nice people up there and they have a good school."

ATO Wins Frat Bowling Tourney

Alpha Tau Omega, for the second straight year captured first place in the social fraternity bowling tournament held at the Iowa Memorial Union. The Tau's beat Alpha Epsilon Pi in the championship match to win the title.

The tournament, which had seven entries, was set up on a double elimination, handicap basis. Bowling for ATO were Jim Davis, A3, Des Moines; Ted Davis, C4, Council Bluffs; Larry Smith, A4, Wapello; Norm Nelson, C4, Red Oak; and Jim Neubauer, C4, Amama. Trophies will be awarded to the first and second place teams.

Hawkeye Swimming Ace Calls U.S. Spirit 'Stagnant'

Hurring Liked Rough Big Ten Competition

By DALE KUETER
Daily Iowan Assistant Sports Editor
Another in a Series

Love of "competition" has brought one of the world's great backstroke swimmers to Iowa. This year, he is probably the best collegiate backstroke in this country.

Lincoln Hurring, a likable redhead from Dunedin, New Zealand, said he wanted to swim in the Big Ten because it is "the roughest competition in the world."

Hurring, who was offered scholarships by Stanford and Iowa, decided to swim for the Hawkeyes in "the most highly developed league in the country."

Hurring came to Iowa in 1953. He didn't compete for the Hawkeyes last year because of participation in the Melbourne Olympics for New Zealand.

In dual meets, Hurring has yet to be beaten. In 1956, he captured both the 100 and 200-yard NCAA and Big Ten championships. His best Olympic marks are :58.1 in the 100-yard backstroke and 2:07 in the 200-yard backstroke.

Hurring, born in a country where swimming is one of the more popular sports, has very strong feelings concerning American athletes and Americans in general.

"America (U.S.) has lost its supremacy in swimming," Hurring

Frank Bloomquist

Gibbons Will Play Pro Ball; Bloomquist Won't

Jim Gibbons, 1957 end and co-captain of Iowa's 1957 Big Ten football team, said Wednesday he was "very interested" in pro ball and is now trying to decide if he wants to play for a Canadian or American professional team.

Frank Bloomquist, senior guard, said he definitely wasn't interested in playing professional football next season.

Gibbons, drafted in the fifth round by the Cleveland Browns, said that he has not made up his mind yet to sign with the Browns.

According to the all-America end, he has also been talking with representatives of the Winnipeg team of the Canadian interprovincial Football Union. Two former Hawkeyes, quarterback Kenny Ploen and end Frank Gilliam, played with Winnipeg last season.

REPRESENTATIVES of the Cleveland team contacted Gibbons while he was in California for the East-West Shrine game. Gibbons told Brown officials at that time he would like to try for an offensive position in preference to defensive. He felt he had a better future at that position.

Since Gibbons was not a member of the advanced ROTC program, he is liable for the draft at any time after graduation. He is married and is majoring in physical education.

Bloomquist, an honor student, said that he will enter law school next year if he is accepted. An assistant freshman football coaching position has been offered him by Iowa coach Forest Evashevski and he will take the job if he is accepted into law school, and can fit it into his schedule.

A regular since he was a sophomore at Iowa, Bloomquist is a June BS degree candidate in the College of Commerce. He is engaged and plans to be married this summer.

BLOOMQUIST, an all-conference guard, was selected by the Washington Redskins in the 26th round of Tuesday's pro draft meeting at Philadelphia. Bloomquist said that he has no interest in the Redskins but he is not interested in a pro football career.

Also picked up in Tuesday draft were centers Bill Lapham and Bill Van Buren and tackle John Burroughs by the Eagles.

Technically, Lapham, a sophomore, is eligible for the pro draft since his class graduated. Lapham has previously served with the Army. However Lapham plans to complete his career with the Hawkeyes before considering pro bids.

VAN BUREN is currently doing his hitch with the service. He dropped out of school following his sophomore year. There is an unconfirmed rumor that Van Buren may return to the Iowa campus following the service.

Burroughs was scholastically ineligible for the 1957 campaign. However he hopes to rejoin the squad this fall. He saw a lot of action with Iowa's Big Ten and Rose Bowl championship team.

Alex Karras, all-America tackle, was drafted by the Detroit Lions, where he will join former teammate Jerry Reichow, in the first four rounds held in December.

Karras is presently professional wrestling in the Des Moines area. Tackle Frank Rigney was picked by the Philadelphia Eagles during the winter draft.

Vernon to Indians

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox Wednesday sold veteran first baseman Mickey Vernon to the Cleveland Indians on waivers.

Sox spokesmen said "it's strictly a waiver deal."

Vernon, who will be 40 April 22, has been with the Sox two seasons coming from Washington where he spent most of his major league career.

GRASS LOOKS GREENER

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) — Sam Lyle, assistant football coach at the University of Oklahoma, made this note on Sooner recruiting while visiting here:

"Any boy we get from Texas automatically becomes one of the top players in the state. In the past, we have recruited Texas boys who weren't even contacted by Southwest Conference schools. But the minute they get wind that he's coming to Oklahoma, the kid becomes a phenom overnight and we are accused of unethical recruiting practices."

Campy Better, But Still On Critical List

Griffith Rejects $605 Bid For $150 Stock

WASHINGTON (AP) — Minority stockholder H. Gabriel Murphy made a spectacular — but unsuccessful — pitch Wednesday for control of the Washington Senators.

Murphy's bid for 2,274 shares in the estate of the late Mrs. Clark Griffith amounted to $1,375,770, or $605 per share.

Calvin Griffith, president of the American League team, tersely rejected the proposition. He said his family, which holds 52 per cent of outstanding stock, "is not interested in selling the Washington ball club, either in part or its entirety."

Murphy, who has feuded with Griffith for many months, set an unheard of price in baseball stock. In so doing he raised new questions about the taxable value of shares in Mrs. Griffith's estate.

The bid quotation for Senator's stock has recently been $150 in over-the-counter listings.

If Murphy's bid were the only factor in appraising the shares, estate taxes could run over $250,000.

Griffith, adopted son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clark Griffith, is executor of the estate. Mrs. Griffith willed a lifetime right to the stock profits to her sister, Mrs. Jeanne Robertson. When Mrs. Robertson dies, the stock will be divided between Calvin Griffith and his sister, wife of club vice president Joe Haynes.

Murphy, a Washington insurance man, holds the largest single block of Senator's stock, about 40 per cent. He paid $80 a share several years ago. Although the Griffiths' stock is placed together in a family trust, Murphy said he understood it could be sold if all parties agreed.

SPARTANS DID WELL
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The year 1957 was a good one for Michigan State University athletic teams. The football squad won eight of its nine games and the basketball team finished fourth in the NCAA tournament.

The swimming and cross country teams won Big Ten team titles and the latter added the IC4A crown. State's newest varsity outfit, the soccer team, was unbeaten for its second year.

Jones Will Run In Boston Meet

Deacon Jones, Iowa's star trackman, will try for his third two-mile victory this year when he competes at Boston Gardens Saturday night in the Boston Athletic Assn. track meet.

Jones accepted a bid Wednesday to run in the invitational meet. Recently he won the two-mile at the Knights of Columbus event at Boston and last week set a new Philadelphia Inquirer meet record over that distance at Philadelphia.

OVERTIME ULCERS

GOWANDA, N.Y. (AP) — "If I had ulcers they'd be on overtime, too," Coach Harold Hollenbeck of Gowanda High School sighed after his Panthers dropped a double overtime, 49-47 decision to Southwestern Central School.

It was the fifth game of the season for Gowanda and the Panthers third overtime tilt, also their second double overtime. Hollenbeck had one consolation — it was his club's first overtime defeat.

Successor? *

JOHN ROSEBORO, second string Dodger catcher last year, has been often mentioned as one of the possible successors to Roy Campanella, Los Angeles catcher, who was critically injured in an auto wreck Tuesday night on Long Island.

Paralysis Is Unchanged

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP) — Dodger catcher Roy Campanella showed marked improvement Wednesday from his auto accident injuries. But his 215-pound body remained paralyzed from the effects of a broken neck.

The baseball club, recently moved from Brooklyn to Los Angeles, issued a hospital bulletin that said:

"Roy is considerably better. He has sensation in both arms and the upper chest but the paralysis is unchanged and he still is on the critical list."

The baseball star's wife, Ruth, spent 2 1/2 hours at his bedside but he slept throughout her visit.

Campanella was injured Tuesday when his car skidded on a curve near his home, overturned and crashed into a telephone pole. Rescuers had to use crowbars to get him out.

Two of the bones in his neck were broken. Surgeons said had the injury been an inch higher it would have killed Campanella.

While doctors termed the overall picture encouraging, they said it may be months—or conceivably years—before Campanella will be completely normal again. They are hopeful the paralysis will eventually disappear.

In any event, the Negro catcher's active baseball career appeared at an end. He is 36, a relatively advanced age in sports, and even with a quick recovery would have little time left to regain his playing skill.

Dr. Robert Sengstacken, who headed a seven-man surgical team that operated on Campanella, said afterwards:

"He won't be able to play before a year and, in my opinion, he would be foolish if he continued playing baseball."

Dodgers Won't Try To Get Ed Bailey

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Dodgers still hold hope that catcher Roy Campanella may be available to them later this season and they are not going to reopen negotiations with Cincinnati for Ed Bailey.

"They were too tough to deal with last month in Colorado Springs at the baseball meetings," said vice president E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi. "Imagine what they would want for Bailey now."

The Dodgers were trying to trade pitcher Don Newcombe for Bailey, a hard-hitting catcher. Bavasi said the Dodgers can fall back on first baseman Gil Hodges to handle the catching assignment if John Roseboro and John Pignatano fail to meet the requirements.

'BOOM BOOM' SATISFACTORY

MONTREAL (AP) — Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, Montreal Canadiens right winger, was reported in "satisfactory condition" Wednesday following a major operation for a ruptured intestine.

TEX WINTERS, OF KANSAS STATE, ONE OF THE BEST OF THE YOUNGER BASKETBALL COACHES, HAS TURNED OUT ONE OF THE COUNTRY'S TOP TEAMS.

IF IT HADN'T BEEN FOR WILT CHAMBERLAIN AND KANSAS TEX MIGHT HAVE HAD HIS 2ND CONSECUTIVE CONFERENCE CROWN LAST YEAR. THE SAME COMBO HANDED HIS BOYS THEIR FIRST DEFEAT THIS SEASON.

THEIR NEXT MEETING ON FEB. 3 SHOULD BE ONE OF THE NIGHTLIGHT GAMES OF THE SEASON, SINCE VARIOUS AILMENTS AND A STAR FOULING OUT HURT THEM IN THAT 70-65 LOSS.

said. "An era is over." He said the spirit of athletes from this country is at a stagnant point.

"The spirit which was present in the 1952 Olympics no longer exists."

Australia has picked up this spirit and desire to win as is shown in 1956 Olympics, Hurring said. He said this apathetic feeling of American athletes is reflected in the complacent attitude of all Americans.

Hurring, who has been swimming since the age of five, says his most thrilling experience was his first Olympic trip—to Helsinki in 1952.

It was in the '52 Olympics where Hurring met the United States' Alan Stack, who was 1948 Olympic backstroke champion, was said to be just along for the trip. "It didn't turn out that way though," Hurring said.

"Everybody thought Stack was out of shape, but he got off to such a start in the semi-finals, that I was flabbergasted. He got a body length lead on me, and that's the way we finished. I gained a lot of experience through that meet," Hurring said.

Hurring, who so far this year won easily in the Wisconsin, Michigan State and Minnesota meets, said his toughest race was in the New Zealand championships following his high school days.

"I was swimming against a veteran, and he knew it. I was off to a big start and had a half-pool lead. But, my opponent was grinning. He knew I couldn't keep up the pace and he was right. He won the race."

Lincoln isn't the only swimmer in the Hurring family. His wife, Jean, is also a backstroke, and finished in the women's division of that event at Helsinki.

Hurring said he hopes to stay in America after graduation. "I hope to get started with some American firm that has a subsidiary in Australia," he said. "I would later go there (Australia)."

Hurring is a senior economics student.

Capital Trip Deadline Set For Saturday

Saturday is the deadline for submitting applications for the annual "Week in Washington" for Iowa college and university students. Twenty students will be chosen to tour Washington, D.C., and observe the Federal Government in action this spring. They will live during the week in the homes of Rep. Fred Schwengel of the First Congressional District and Rep. Merwin Coad of the Sixth Congressional District.

Began in 1955 to provide Iowa students an opportunity to observe Congress in session, attend Supreme Court hearings and Congressional committee meetings and visit with the Iowa delegation, the program is sponsored by the Iowa Citizenship Clearing House in cooperation with the Republican and Democratic parties of Iowa, and Representatives Schwengel and Coad.

Famed Pianist To Give Jazz Concert at Coe

Jazz pianist George Shearing and his quintet will present a concert sponsored by the Coe College Student Council, Sunday, Feb. 9, at 8 p.m., in the Coe Auditorium, Cedar Rapids.

The Shearing concert will be the third jazz concert sponsored by the student organization in recent years. This will be the quintet's first Cedar Rapids appearance. Shearing appeared in a concert at SUI May 9, 1957.

Shearing was born blind in the Battersea slums of London, but has achieved fame through his jazz works. "Lullaby of Birdland," composed by Shearing, has become a virtual theme song for the "hop" set.

Civil Service Jobs Open To Students

College students and high school seniors are eligible to compete in the 1958 student trainee program of Federal agencies, the Civil Service Commission has announced.

A civil service examination now open will give students a chance at summer and school-time jobs in Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota.

The student trainee program is independent of President Eisenhower's scholarship plan for expanding scientific education.

Most of the student trainee appointments will go to students in engineering. To a lesser extent, appointments will be open to students in architecture, chemistry, metallurgy, physics, biology, entomology, food and drug inspection, accounting, economics, mathematics, and statistics.

300 Sent Presents To SUI Hospitals

Some 300 Iowans helped Santa Claus deliver a present to every patient who had to spend Christmas in SUI Hospitals in December. Gifts came from individuals, Boy and Girl Scout groups, church organizations, grade and high school classes, social clubs and fraternal organizations. Many of the donors have made it a custom to send gifts each year to be distributed to the patients on Christmas Eve.

Hoskins Sent to Mental Hospital for Sanity Tests

CHEROKEE — Jack Hoskins, 30, charged with murder in the slaying of his wife in the pastor's study of a Rock Rapids church, was admitted to the State Mental Health Institute here Wednesday for a mental checkup.

Gather At Slaying Scene

Multiple Slayings Happen Frequently

NEW YORK — Killing sprees, like the current tableau of death in Nebraska, are a frequent phenomenon in the annals of crime. Over the years there have been dozens of mass slayings in the country. Some are sudden and shattering, others grim and relentless, lasting over a period of days and striking terror in the vicinity.

USUALLY DEATH is dealt out indiscriminately. Motives, if any, are obscure and twisted. Only one urge is always clear: to kill.

In a rural region near Lincoln, Neb., a sharp-shooting, young tough, Charles Starkweather, is charged with leaving a trail of nine, and possibly ten, dead. In a sense, it was an old story.

Newspaper files reveal a succession of such cases in the last decade.

In September, 1949, Howard Unruh, 28, a Bible-reading Army veteran, strode down a business street of Camden, N.J., firing his German luger at whomever he saw. Thirteen died.

"PEOPLE WERE talking about me and making derogatory remarks about my character," said

Nonpayment Row Centered on Baby

ATLANTA — A hospital which had been charged with holding a new-born baby for nonpayment of a $334 bill has released the infant to its parents after court action.

Mr. and Mrs. George Chamblee took the infant home Tuesday after a judge ruled the baby had not been held illegally.

Authorities of Crawford W. Long Hospital contended the baby was kept in the hospital because it was ill.

The court ruled the parents could obtain custody of their son whenever they were ready to accept responsibility for his health. Chamblee, 20, said he was unable to pay the hospital bill because he could not find a job after leaving the Army. He now has a job but said his attorneys have advised him not to pay the bill yet.

Fleugel To Head Red Cross Drive

Fred Fleugel, Iowa City business man, has been named chairman of the 1958 fund drive of the Johnson County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

The drive, scheduled for March, will be conducted in both Iowa City and rural areas of the county.

A goal of $21,537 has been set for the county. Funds will be used to support such services as the summer program of swimming instruction, work with members of the armed forces and veterans, water safety, first aid, home nursing and disaster relief.

Fleugel, the owner of the Iowa City Adjustment Company, came to Iowa City from Miami, Florida, four years ago. He and his wife and daughter live at 1900 North Dubuque Street.

The appointment of Fleugel was announced today by a committee of the county chapter.

Speaker Cites Unionization Of Engineers

One reason professional engineers may choose to join a union is the "modern breakdown of the close personal relationship between the individual engineer and his corporation employer," Director Jack Culley of the SUI Bureau of Labor and Management said Wednesday.

He spoke on the unionization of professional engineers at a meeting of the SUI Faculty Engineering Club.

Another reason for engineers joining unions is that the salary difference has narrowed in recent years between that for men just out of college and that for men of long experience, Culley continued.

Also, some engineers have formed their own unions to avoid being included in bargaining units composed primarily of production workers. One result of engineers forming independent unions outside of the AFL-CIO is a trend on the part of large "blue-collar" unions to set up separate departments for "white-collar" members, he observed.

Pharmacy Group Formed in County

Approximately 30 Johnson County pharmacists met this week in the Quadrangle dormitory and formed the Johnson County Pharmaceutical Association.

The men organized the association, embodying all graduate pharmacists in Johnson County, to further the objectives of professional pharmacy. The group includes hospital, academic and retail phases of pharmacy.

Officers elected at the meeting are all Iowa City pharmacists. They are: Wendell Kerr, assistant professor in the SUI College of Pharmacy, president; N. C. Choen, vice-president; Max Cohen, secretary; Robert Bickle, treasurer.

SUI Men To Give Cleft Palate Talks

Dr. William H. Olin, orthodontist and assistant professor in the Department of Otolaryngology, and D. C. Spriestersbach, professor in the Departments of Otolaryngology and Speech Pathology, will be guest speakers at the annual All-Team meetings of the Montana State Cleft Palate Teams. The meetings are being held in West Yellowstone, Montana, Friday and Saturday.

Olin and Spriestersbach will describe some of the procedures being used in the management of youngsters with cleft lips and palates at SUI. They will also discuss some of the findings which have been obtained as a result of a 3-year study of this problem which has been supported by a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health.

School Board Will Discuss New Building

Recommendations for the construction of a new junior high school building and the remodeling of the present junior high buildings will be discussed at a meeting of the Iowa City Board of Education tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Junior High School.

The two recommendations, adopted by the Iowa City School Study Council, propose:

1. a bond issue of about $160,000 for a new electrical system, renovation of the heating system and smoke screens for the present junior high school buildings.

2. that the board of education take the voters of the Iowa City Community School District to approve, at an election to be held as soon as possible, a bond issue of at least $1,410,000 for construction of a new junior high school building and the rehabilitation of the present junior high school buildings.

Girl Scout Council Expansion Voted

Expansion of Cardinal Council of Girl Scouts to include Jones, Linn, and Muscatine Counties was approved unanimously Tuesday evening at the annual business meeting of the organization at Longfellow School, Iowa City.

The Muscatine Girl Scout organization, the only other council now existing in the area covered, had voted Monday evening to merge with Cardinal Council.

Cardinal Council also voted to continue in office until April those officers whose terms expired at the Tuesday evening meeting. A charter meeting for the new council area is scheduled for April, at which time all new officers for the expanded council will be elected.

Geologist To Present Talk On Structure of Rocky Mts.

"The Tectonic Framework of the Rocky Mountains" is the title of an address to be presented by D. L. Blackstone, professor of geology at the University of Wyoming, at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the SUI Geology Building lecture room.

Blackstone has devoted much of his professional career to structural analysis in this area. He was born in Chinook, Mont., and received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Princeton.

According to Blackstone, most of a mountain, like an iceberg, is hidden from view under the ground holding the mass firm much like a root holds a tooth.

An authority in his field, Blackstone is currently on a 32-lecture tour throughout the United States and Canada.

The SUI lecture is sponsored by the Distinguished Lecture Committee of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists and the SUI Graduate College.

Invitations to attend the lecture have been sent to geology departments at all state and private colleges in Iowa.

Reiss will speak on "Rural-Urban and Social Status Differences in Interpersonal Contacts." Reiss expects to remain in Iowa City the next five days as the guest of the SUI Department of Sociology and Anthropology.

Establish New Missile Range In California

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department Wednesday announced establishment of a ballistic missile training range on the Pacific Coast that will eventually extend several thousand miles over the ocean.

The Navy was assigned to manage the new, major effort for all three military services. The range will use facilities, soon to be enlarged, at the Air Force Missile Training Center at Cooke Air Force Base, Lompoc, Calif., and the Navy's own test center at Point Mugu, northwest of Los Angeles.

The Pentagon said the new three-service training range in the Pacific will supplement the work now carried on from Cape Canaveral, Fla., where the Air Force is in command.

The primary mission of the Florida range will continue to be research and development while the combined operation from the Pacific Coast will emphasize training in the launching of intermediate-range and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The Pentagon described the Pacific range as extending 500 miles along the Pacific Coast and about 250 miles seaward. The Navy explained that in some missile firings, test and tracking instruments will be installed along the coast as far northward as Monterey, Calif., and southward to the Mexican border.

Eventually, the Pentagon said, ballistic missiles will be fired from the combined missile center toward target areas "thousands of miles seaward."

Superhighway Route Discussed at Hearing

By JEAN DAVIES
Daily Iowan Staff Writer

Suggestions for changes in the route of the proposed east-west Interstate Highway 80 were presented at a public hearing here Wednesday.

The hearing, attended by approximately 250 persons, was held in the courtroom of the Johnson County Courthouse, with R. M. Tutton, Cedar Rapids, district engineer for the Iowa State Highway Commission, in charge.

The segment of the transcontinental superhighway discussed at the hearing covers 37.3 miles from the Cedar-Scott County line to a junction with Highway 218 at Oakdale.

Attorney Clair Hamilton of Iowa City testified at the hearing on behalf of the Scattergood School, an independent Quaker high school in Cedar County.

He asked that the route of the proposed highway be moved about 500 feet south to take it away from the school and a church meeting-house.

Hamilton explained that the planned location would separate the school from its experimental farms and would disturb school work.

Another Iowa City attorney, Scott Swisher, asked that the route north of Iowa City be altered to pass about 1,500 feet north of the present projected route. Swisher represented George Alberhasky and the Johnson County Broadcasting Co.

He explained that the road as planned would force removal of two transmitting towers of the broadcasting company.

Also, if the road follows the proposed route, Swisher said, some 1,000 persons living in the trailer park would have to move. He said Alberhasky, owner of the park, has placed a value of $1,500 on each trailer site through improvements and rental basis.

On the basis of the unit value, he said, the property is valued at $375,000.

Statements pointing out that the interstate route would relieve traffic congestion in Iowa City were presented on behalf of SUI and the city of Iowa City.

Elwin T. Joliffe, SUI business manager, urged early construction and completion of the interstate route to ease traffic problems and dangerous pedestrian situations. "THE UNIVERSITY generates great volumes of traffic" and if the through traffic could be taken out of the center of the SUI campus, it would greatly relieve congestion, he said.

Joliffe said the University anticipates a rapid growth in enrollment that will double its size within the next 12 years. The traffic resulting from such an increase could be handled, to a large extent, by the interstate highway, he said.

Wesley McAllister, assistant to City Manager Peter F. Roan, read a statement from the city asking for the construction of the interstate highway.

"Immediate construction of the road would relieve Iowa City of some of its worst traffic problems," McAllister said.

THE CITY STATEMENT urged construction of major interchanges at the intersection of the new highway with Highway 261 and Highway 218.

Other comments made during the 2-hour hearing concerned suggestions for slight changes in the route of the highway and questions about the future of certain county roads.

In a prepared statement opening the meeting, Tutton said that it should be kept in mind that no field surveys have yet been made on any of the section under discussion.

HE ADDED THAT THE highway commission fieldmen have walked the route and have a concrete idea of problems that will be faced in the construction.

The Iowa portion of the Interstate System consists of an east and west route between the Council Bluffs area and the area around Davenport and Bettendorf by way of Des Moines and Iowa City; a north and south route across the state also by way of Des Moines; a route from Missouri to South Dakota following the Missouri River, and some extra connections.

The total number of miles is approximately 710 miles.

All of the Interstate highways in Iowa will consist of two 24-foot pavements separated by a median strip of 50 feet or more in width with shoulders on the outside, a statement by the commission said.

CHRISTIANITY STRONGEST NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Christianity is at its highest peak of strength in the world, says the Rev. Dr. Kenneth Scott Latourette, noted religious historian of Yale Divinity School. Despite Communism and secular opposition he said, Christianity has become more widespread geographically, more deeply rooted among people, and "more potent today in the affairs of man than ever before."

The committee also added up to a minimum total of $238,800 the payments and benefits it figures ex-convict Joey Fay and his wife were awarded by the local in the years since Fay went to Sing Sing for extorting funds from contractors.

The total includes the value the committee put on a pension given to Fay, a salary and bonuses, and a car for his wife, and legal fees the union paid for Fay.

Dr. Van Allen, Coad Confer On Space Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. James Van Allen, SUI physicist, consulted with Rep Merwin Coad (D-Iowa) Wednesday on the progress of Coad's bill to set up a national commission on astronautics.

The bill is designed to set up a civilian commission for the development of a national program of research, development and operations in the field of astronautics. The commission also would conduct flights of rockets, satellites and space ships.

Dr. Van Allen and Coad were joined by two prominent scientists in outer space research. They were Dr. Homer E. Newell, Jr. of the Naval Research Laboratory, and Dr. William G. Stroud of the Army Signal Engineering Laboratory.

Deer Slain by Auto; Car Slightly Damaged Jerome W. Pfeiffer, 1016 Hudson Ave., delivered a deer to the Iowa City police at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday. He said his car struck and killed the medium-sized doe on Highway 1 south of Kalona.

Final Exam Schedule

Final examination schedule for the Colleges of Commerce, Education, Liberal Arts and the Graduate College is announced by the examination service.

Examinations for the fall semester will replace the regular schedule of classes from 8 a.m. Friday, Jan. 31, until 5 p.m. Friday, Feb. 7.

Examinations in courses which have different sections that will be combined for the examination are listed by department and course number. Examinations in all other courses having the first weekly meeting on Monday or Tuesday are listed by the day and hour of the first weekly lecture or recitation period.

When two courses in different departments conflict, the department with the higher number has precedence. Where two courses in the same department conflict, the one with the higher course number has precedence.

A few multi-section courses conflict with single section courses. In these cases, the single section courses, listed by time of first meeting, take precedence over the sectioned courses listed by number.

No student is required to take more than three examinations in any one day. If any undergraduate student has more than three examinations scheduled in one day or two examinations scheduled for the same hour, he should file a request for a change of schedule at the Registrar's Office. All requests for such changes must be filed by 4 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 23.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—A night club party honoring entertainer Sammy Davis, Jr. was climaxed early Wednesday by a noisy encounter in which Mickey Cohen, the former gambling kingpin, tangled with a waiter.
