WASHINGTON — The Navy said Friday it has test fired a dummy Polaris ballistic missile from underwater for the first time.
 The missile, the same size, shape and weight as the 1,500-mile range Polaris, was fired March 23 from a new "pop-up" launcher off San Clemente Island, near Los Angeles.
REAR ADM. W. F. RABORN, head of the Navy's Polaris program, showed motion pictures of the dummy missile, apparently about 30 feet long, popping up through the smooth surface of the Pacific and rising several hundred feet in a geyser of spray.

Then the orange colored missile angled over and plunged nose first back into the water.
Raborn, director of the special projects office of the Navy Bureau of Ordnances, told a Navy League symposium on seapower that the Polaris would be ready for use in 1960, or about the date originally set for the beginning of tests.
 Raborn said the basic problems have all passed from the scientific to the engineering stage. This means, he said, that no new breakthrough or sensational advances in development are required to carry the new weapon system into reality.
Robert E. Gross, chairman of the Lockheed Aircraft Corp., Burbank, Calif., told the group the Lockheed Polaris is the only one of the nation's ballistic missiles that now is ahead of schedule.

 Raborn said the Polaris would bring within the range of direct attack from the sea virtually all the important military targets in that part of the world controlled by the Communists.
HE ADDED THAT the weapon could reach these targets within 15 minutes of firing.
 Raborn said the Polaris was designed to be launched from below the surface — "in fact, from quite deep below the surface."

Regents Offer Compromise

Coroner's Jury Says Cheryl Is Innocent

LOS ANGELES (AP) — After hearing more than an hour of Lana Turner's tremulous testimony, the coroner's jury of 10 men and two women decided late Friday 14-year-old Cheryl's slaying of her mother's lover was justifiable homicide.
 The verdict is not binding on the courts, however, Cheryl, who has been at Juvenile Hall since the slaying April 1, will learn her future at a Juvenile Court hearing April 24.
 She could go free, be made a ward of the court, sent to a foster home, or placed in the custody of her mother or father. The latter is Stephen Crane, second of Miss Turner's four husbands.
LANA, in the first public account of the nightmarish scene in the pink-carpeted bedroom of her Beverly Hills home, took the stand at a jammed courtroom on the eighth floor of the Hall of Records.
 Often choking with emotion, she told her struggle to break off her romance with the handsome former underworld figure who had been her companion for months.

'Talk and Act Bigger,' Says Gov. Loveless

Iowa communities — and the state as a whole — should stop and take an evaluation inventory, Gov. Herschel C. Loveless told a group of employment personnel leaders here Friday.
 Addressing a luncheon meeting of the Iowa Institute of the International Association of Personnel in Employment Security (IAPES), Gov. Loveless said, "Unless we ourselves, are able to see what we are proud of, how can we ever expect to attract strangers?"
 He explained that the first question he is asked when representatives of various firms come to discuss the possibility of moving to Iowa is, "Do you have a town where our people would like to live and raise their children?"
 How progressive a community is, the kind of schools and churches and the recreation facilities it has to offer are the things people from outside the state want to know, Gov. Loveless said.
 "We must talk bigger and act bigger for we have as much to offer as any other state. We have the God-given fertile land and we have the people with intelligence and ability."

WSUI Offers Radio Salute For Monday

WSUI will air a "Radio Day" Monday according to Larry Walcoff, assistant program director of the station.
 All programs scheduled on WSUI from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. sign off will use some aspect of radio development or history in it Walcoff said.
 Themes of the musical programs include a salute to famous radio disc jockeys, musical compositions written for radio, and rare collector item recordings. Special programs include the Devil and Daniel Webster, a live dramatic presentation of a story by Stephen Vincent Benet, and a binocular demonstration which Walcoff said, is something like stereophonic sound in the movies.
 The public is invited to the studios Monday night and observe the station while broadcasting, Walcoff said. The studios are located in the engineering building at Madison and Washington streets.

Lana Turner... justifiable homicide

Lana and her mother even tried to breathe life into the dead man's mouth, the Beverly Hills physician said.
EXCERPTS from Cheryl's statement to police shortly after the killing were read to the coroner's jury by Capt. Ray Borders of the Beverly Hills police department.
 "The argument started when mother found out he — Stompanato — was 10 years younger than he said he was," the statement said.
 "I heard him threaten to kill mommy, daddy, granny and me." Cheryl's statement continued. "I didn't want him to hurt her so I rushed into the room and struck him with the knife."

Reach $1,375 In Van Allen Fund Drive

Students and Faculty Contribute $670
 The Van Allen Scholarship Fund now totals $1,375, according to Robert L. Burns, CA, Lake Park, chairman of the SUI drive, and Paul Franzenburg, Jr. Conrad businessman.
A TOTAL of $670 was contributed by SUI students and faculty during the 3-day drive which ended Friday afternoon.
 After the drive ended, Franzenburg announced that he received a $200 check, made through the SUI Alumni Association, and an additional $35 was collected by radio station WMT of Cedar Rapids.

A contribution of $100 to the SUI drive was made by Paul L. Griffith, SUI Counselor of Men, Friday morning. The $100 was given two years ago by the Interfraternity Council to Griffith as a fund in memory of his father Mr. S. C. Griffith of Sturgis, Mich.
 "Friday was the best day for the drive," Burns said. "The students really came through with flying colors to make our drive a success. Even though we did not reach our goal of $1,000," he said, "the SUI student body have more than equalled in three days the contributions of the rest of the people of Iowa in two months. I think the students' participation speaks very well for them."

"I AM OVERJOYED at the fine showing by the SUI students," Franzenburg told The Daily Iowan by telephone Friday night when informed of the SUI contribution. "The students have definitely given the state a great challenge to make the fund grow even larger. I'm sure the $1,375 is only a beginning for the Van Allen Scholarship Fund."
 The Student Council initiated the SUI drive as a challenge to the state in their contributions.

As of Wednesday the state had given $480 to establish the scholarship fund as a tribute to James A. Van Allen, head of the SUI Physics Department and head of instrumentation of U.S. Army satellites.
 Franzenburg, who started the fund in February, told The Daily Iowan that his group had not set a specific goal or termination date for contributions.
DR. VAN ALLEN reported he was "pleased" with the results of the SUI drive and the contributions to the growing state-wide fund which is named in his honor.
 The money collected by the Council will be delivered to Franzenburg and put into the general scholarship fund. After the state-wide drive is closed, the money will be placed in the Old Gold Development Fund.
 Assistance will be granted by the OGD executive committee to the students Van Allen recommends for the scholarships.

Dr. John McDonald, who was summoned by Lana after the stabbing, told of efforts to revive Stompanato by shots of adrenalin in the heart and artificial respiration.

Evening Concert Tickets Are Gone

No tickets remain for the evening performance of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, according to William L. Adamson, Concert Course Staff Manager.
 The orchestra will present two concerts, at 2 p.m. and at 8 p.m. Adamson said there are a few tickets left for the afternoon performance.
 Tickets are being distributed free to SUI students at the East Lobby Desk of Iowa Memorial Union. They will be distributed from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. today and from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Monday.

PICKETS WELCOMED GOV. LOVELESS Friday at the SUI Memorial Union where he was to speak at a convention. Jay R. Burns, E4, 208 Stadium Park, expressed the thanks of the man, woman and child picketers to the governor for his recent statement of support for the married students' position. Loveless told the picketers he was sympathetic with the student's situation and said he realized the cost of education is very pertinent at this time of national stress on the need for education. — DI Photo by Walter Kleine.

Greeks Stage Varsity Varieties

Six thousand tickets will go on sale Friday for SUI's Old Gold Days, Varsity Varieties, staged by the guys and the gals from the Greek-letter houses.
 Tickets will be sold at Whetstone's Drug and by AWS Freshman council members at skits presented in housing units the following week. The tickets will sell for 50 cents.
 Varsity Varieties, a talent revue, will be presented April 25 and 26 in the Fieldhouse where 4,200 can be seated for each performance.
 Ten skits will be presented by groups selected from the preliminary eliminations. The Old Gold singers will close the program with songs from Carousal.
 Judges will choose first and second place winners from the five large group and five small group skits to be presented. Winners will receive trophies. The other groups will receive plaques. Awards are valued at $200.
 Sample skit is the Delta Gammas and Sigma Chis in a chorus line singing "Take the 'I' Train, one verse of which goes: "You're in med school now I see, you have no time for me, it's your cadaver that you hold so true." Songs will be taken from Broadway shows and given a local flavor.

City Council To Consider 5 Ordinances

Business scheduled for the city council meeting Monday evening is the reading of five city ordinances city clerk Walker Shelladay said late Friday.
 Up for third and final readings are ordinances dealing with application for city beer permits and fixing and establishing controlled access facilities and regulations on Highway 6.
 Three ordinances scheduled for second readings concern the littering of Iowa City streets; change of a zoning classification of one alley in Cartwright Addition and an addition to the city ordinance dealing with off-street parking facilities.
 The parking ordinance requires off-street parking be provided for buildings erected or remodeled after passage of the ordinance. This change would apply only to those buildings in zoned areas.

In Washington Harry's— Still the Phrasemaker

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
WASHINGTON — Harry S. Truman took a swipe Friday at the "ignorant and uninformed people" opposed to extending the east front of the nation's Capitol.
 "One of these days the old center sandstone building will fall, and we will find the dome and Lady Freedom out in the middle of the avenue on which the Capitol fronts," he said. "I hope that does not happen."
 The former President moved unhesitatingly into this and other controversies, offered some friendly advice to President Eisenhower on how to meet personal attacks, took another slap at Gen. Douglas MacArthur, and talked happily about Democratic prospects for 1958.
HE SUGGESTED to Mr. Eisenhower that "you can't buy your way out of a recession — you have to work your way out," but deplored any personal attacks on Mr. Eisenhower or any other President in office.
 "I don't think it's proper and right personally to attack the

SUI's Married Say We're Worse Off Now

The immediate reaction of the executive committee of the Married Student Protest Group to a resolution passed Friday by the Board of Regents was perhaps the married students are worse off now than before the regents met at Ames, Richard Clark, committee chairman, said.
 The Regents resolved rentals of the barracks apartments for married students shall be $62.50 per month beginning June 15, 1958, and said students shall be given a credit of $20 per month for furnishing their own heat, gas and electricity.

Raise Rent, Give Utilities Kickback

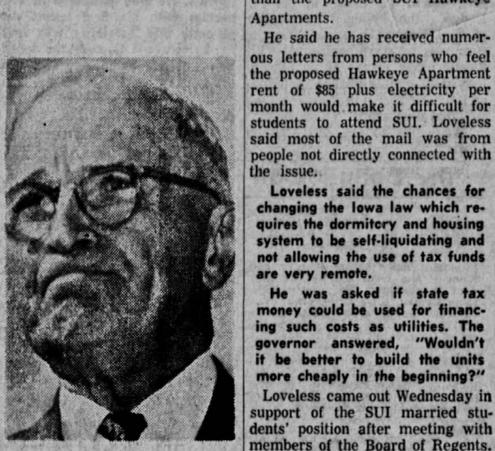

AMES (AP) — The State Board of Regents Friday offered a compromise to a group of 280 married students objecting to a $10 monthly increase in rental of the barracks-type housing units on the State University of Iowa campus.
 The married students have been paying $52.50 monthly for the unfurnished units with heat, gas and cooking fuel furnished.
 The board passed a resolution Friday calling for a monthly rental of $62.50 in the year beginning June 15, 1958.
THE BOARD said students would be given a credit of $20 a month for furnishing their own heat, gas and electricity.
 Those who have signed leases up to and including April 1958 will have the option of retaining their leases for the year beginning July 15 or accepting a new lease on the above terms.

SUI's Married Send Letter

The Married Student Housing Group at SUI, protesting proposed rent increases, sent an open letter to individual members of the State Board of Regents and the Advisory Committee on Dormitories and Dining Services Friday afternoon.
 The letter, signed by Richard C. Clark, chairman of the group, posed five questions and gave the answers which the housing group had received. The group claims that the answers received from the Advisory Committee have not been entirely satisfactory.
 A telegram containing the essence of the letter was also sent to the state board Friday afternoon but no answer had been received Friday evening.

Cheaper Apts. Can Be Built, Loveless Says

Herschel Loveless, governor of Iowa, said in an interview Friday, he feels certain married student housing can be built more cheaply than the proposed SUI Hawkeye Apartments.
 He said he has received numerous letters from persons who feel the proposed Hawkeye Apartment rent of $85 plus electricity per month would make it difficult for students to attend SUI. Loveless said most of the mail was from people not directly connected with the issue.
 Loveless said the chances for changing the Iowa law which requires the dormitory and housing system to be self-liquidating and not allowing the use of tax funds are very remote.
 He was asked if state tax money could be used for financing such costs as utilities. The governor answered, "Wouldn't it be better to build the units more cheaply in the beginning?"
 Loveless came out Wednesday in support of the SUI married students' position after meeting with members of the Board of Regents. He asked the regents to reconsider the proposal to construct Hawkeye Apartments and consider building cheaper housing.

Student or SUI Utilities?

The Board of Regents has acted with alacrity in the case of the married student housing situation, raising the rent, as scheduled, to $62.50...

Thus they will pay a base rent of $42.50 plus utilities. University officials calculate the savings to be about $19 per unit.

The effect - in savings or extra cost - of this change, is not readily apparent. The married student may pay more, he may pay less. Probably he will pay about the same.

This quick action has all the appearances of a diversionary move. The basic problem, high rent on the proposed new units, has not been touched. True, the Regents have a very difficult problem on their hands...

There are more substantial considerations. There is still the question: "Will the new housing be for married students?"

tion: "Is it logical or fair that a married student at Ames should rent a unit for $10 to $20 less than one here, merely because of historical, economic, or geographical differences?"

A subsidy of some sort might be the answer.

One last consideration. The married student housing project is to be located west of the new Finkbine Golf Course, on the 540 acres of land that have been purchased for future campus expansion...

It seems reasonable to assume that other construction in that area would merely "plug into" the facilities for the married student housing.

Might it not be possible, if this assumption is reasonable, to turn the procedure around and put in the utilities for projected new University buildings - even though they might not be built for year - and let the married student housing "plug into" the University lines?

Letters to the Editor

Elmer's Admirer; Lewis' Fans

TO THE EDITOR:

On April 4th, a most interesting letter from a Mr. Calmon Lewis appeared in the Letters to the Editor portion of this newspaper. Several "points" made by this erudite gentleman...

The first step, it seemed, would be to telephone him and arrange for an appointment. Searching diligently through the local directory, however, netted us nothing.

"What d'ya want?" "We'd like to see Mr. Calmon Lewis."

"I already put that letter in the box!"

"Pardon?" "Yes, the postman took it back. No Calmon Lewis ever lived here."

Beating a hasty retreat, we consulted, as our last resort, a city directory supplied graciously by a local drug store. Imagine our despair as the realization dawned upon us that Iowa City, apparently, lacks the presence of the astute Mr. Lewis.

In utter frustration we ask you, dear Editor, who the hell is Calmon Lewis?

By JERRY A MINNICH

The second in a series of articles for beginning gardeners. Minnich, Al, Emmaus, Pa., is Associate Editor of Organic Gardening and Farming magazine. (Clip and save.)

I've received so many enthusiastic comments on last Thursday's garden planning article that I figure everybody must now have packets of seeds and a complete garden diagram, just waiting to go into action. So let's go!

Before we talk about preparing the soil for planting, I have a little shock for you. No matter how you look at it, you should have a few basic garden tools. I know I promised a low-budget garden, but with any luck at all you should be able to borrow or steal them from your landlord or your father-in-law. If worse comes to worse, you can chip in with your gardening neighbors and buy them used at one of Iowa City's fine antique shops. The essential four tools you'll need are a spading fork, an iron rake, a hoe and a trowel. You might want to add a watering can, too, unless you have a hose near the plot.

Spading the Plot

After you have obtained the tools, you can begin to prepare the soil at any time. The first step is to spade it with the fork. If the soil is not too wet as to roll in large clods, it is ready for spading. Another test is to pick up a handful and squeeze it. If the soil crumbles when released, it's ready. If it retains its shape, it's not. Spading is the most back-breaking part of the whole gardening operation, so don't despair too soon. After this chore is done, level off the plot with the rake, breaking up the soil and removing large stones. Try to remove most weeds, but don't worry too much about them, especially if they're completely turned under in the process. When finished raking several times, the soil should be fairly level and crumbly, with no large lumps.

While preparing the soil, you may want to mix in some fertilizer with the soil. This is not absolutely necessary, especially if your soil has not been worked for several years, but it will help to insure good results. Your best bet is to add manure or compost - two of nature's best fertilizers. Both can be purchased in dried form at local seed stores, but both are also available free for the hauling at many farms.

When to Plant Some vegetables can be planted right now, if the soil is not too wet. These are the so-called hearty vegetables, which include beets, cabbage plants, carrots, chives, endive, lettuce, onions, peas, parsnips, rhubarb, spinach, radishes and turnips. After May 1, it should be safe to plant celery, chard and squashes. Around May 10, put in pole beans, sweet corn and tomatoes. Five days later, try lima beans, cucumbers, eggplant and peppers. These dates are not absolute, of course. If the ground is too wet, or if the weather is unusually cool (although it's been fine the past few weeks), better wait for better conditions.

Planting Seeds After the soil is prepared, you are ready to play Johnny Appleseed and sow the land. Before planting seeds, read carefully the back of the packet. It should tell you how deeply to plant and also how much to thin out seedlings later on. Generally, small seeds, like lettuce, carrot or onion, are sown close together and are bare-ly covered from sight. Larger seeds, like peas, beans and corn, are placed a few inches apart and are covered two to three inches deep. It's a good idea to place a short stake at the end of each row, then stretch a string between the two stakes. The string will help you make straight rows. Drag your hoe down the row to open a furrow to the depth you wish. Then sow the seeds according to directions and replace the soil. Tamp firmly, but gently, and soak with water. Better keep the strings up for a few weeks, so you'll know where to look for sprouting seedlings. In a week or two, you should be rewarded with little green shoots, which theoretically should be your plants.

After looking closer, though, you'll find that about half of them look like weeds, and you'll soon call in neighborhood experts to help make distinctions. Isn't gardening fun? Also, you'll have to thin out the seedlings in a few weeks, in order to give the healthier plants room to grow.

Planting Annuals

Annual flowers are planted in the same way as vegetables. All the above rules apply to flowers both grown seed and from plants. The exact times to plant differ from variety to variety, but this information should be given on the seed packet. Generally, all the varieties mentioned in last week's article (alysium, aster, balsam, calliopsis, candytuft, celosia, dianthus, lobelia, dwarf marigold, annual phlox, portulaca, salvia, verbenas and zinnia) can be set out anytime in May. Some can be planted even earlier.

If you'd like to get a head start on your neighbors, you can start seeds right now - in the house, in seed flats. Seed flats can be old shallow pans, foil-lined cigar boxes, or any shallow, watertight container. Plant according to seed packet directions in a mixture of three parts fine, crumbly soil and one part dried manure. Place in a sunny window and water regularly. When the seedlings have formed their first true leaves, and are three or four inches high, they should be ready for transplanting. Incidentally, I'm going to set out my crop of Daydrangle cigar box radishes any day now. Everybody is invited over for a radish-fest on June 10. Bring your own salt.

(Part 3 of the series will discuss garden care, including mulching, staking and harvesting.)

What They Are Doing

ROGER WILLIAMS FELLOWSHIP - The Roger Williams Fellowship of Baptist students meets at 5:30 at the center for supper. The program at 6:30 will be the first in a marriage study series with Dr. W. R. Ingram as speaker. He will use slides and speak on the subject "Marriage As A Physician Sees It."

Foundation's Science Awards Go To 5 Students

The announcement of 525 additional National Science Foundation predoctoral fellowship awards this week brought the total to five being given to SUI students.

In addition to the three named last month, Leroy Eyring, 1416 E. College St., Iowa City, and Rex Lovrien, G. Minneapolis, were included in this week's awards. Eyring, who is studying chemistry at SUI, will go to the University of Melbourne, Australia, on the fellowship for the academic year 1958-59, and Lovrien will come to SUI to work.

Selected from 3,804 predoctoral candidates from all parts of the U.S., Hawaii and Puerto Rico, the awards were approved by the National Science Board upon the recommendation of the director of the National Science Foundation.

IFPC Helps Handicapped

A 17-INCH PORTABLE TV SET was presented by the first semester SUI Interfraternity Pledge Council to the University Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children Friday, ending the council's semester activities.

Representatives of the council presented the set to Dr. Rembolt, director of the school, who said it will be used in the isolation rooms.

In connection with this final project, toys were given to the University Children's Hospital. The toys are to be used for entertainment and therapy.

Other projects undertaken by the council throughout the year have been a Fall Iowa City Clean-up and the distribution of Easter Seal containers this Spring.

Host Big 10 IFC, Panhel Conference

SUI fraternity and sorority members will be hosts for the Big Ten Interfraternity Council (IFC) — Panhellenic Conference April 17-19.

A total of 72 visitors will meet on the SUI campus to discuss the theme "Return to the Decalog." Each university will send six delegates and two faculty advisors. Each SUI fraternity and sorority will send three delegates to conference activities.

The conference theme is based on a statement of ten fraternity policies adopted in 1944 at the National Interfraternity Conference. Each university will lead a discussion based on one of the policies.

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher will address the group at the opening session Friday morning.

A highlight of the conference will be a banquet Friday evening in Iowa Memorial Union lounge. Guest speaker will be Glen T. Nygreen, dean of men at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio. A member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, social fraternity, Dr. Nygreen has been active in fraternity work since his graduation from the University of Washington in 1939.

Kuhn To Give Lecture About 'Self Attitudes'

Manford H. Kuhn, associate professor of sociology and anthropology at SUI will give a Humanities Society lecture Monday at 8 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol. His subject will be "The Exploration of Attitudes Toward Self."

The lecture will be open to the public and anyone interested is invited to attend.

Kuhn has written for several symposia on family life, including "Marriage and the Family" and "Family, Marriage and Parenthood." He was asked to contribute to the United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Organization's Dictionary of the Social Sciences, and he is the author of a chapter in the book "Sexual Behavior in American Society."

2 SUIowans Get Fulbright Scholarships

Two SUI students have been awarded Fulbright Scholarships to study abroad next year, said W. Wallace Maner, Campus Fulbright Adviser.

Sandra Levinson, A4, Mason City, will study contemporary British political thought under political science at the University of Manchester in Great Britain under the terms of the scholarship. She won the state award in Iowa competing with graduating seniors from all the colleges and universities in the state.

Frederick de Luna, G, Iowa City, also has been awarded a Fulbright and will study modern french history at the University of Paris, France.

These grants are given for graduate study abroad under the International Education Exchange program of the Department of State. Approximately nine hundred will be awarded during the academic year 1958-59.

The students are selected by the Board of Foreign Scholarships, a group appointed by the President of the United States. The initial recommendations come from the campus Fulbright committees.

Hancher and State College Presidents To Appear on TV

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher, and the presidents of the two state-supported colleges will appear on Waterloo television station KWWL-TV Sunday afternoon in a discussion of the need for classrooms and laboratories on their campuses.

The telecast, which is scheduled from 5 to 6 p.m., will concentrate on the future of public higher education in Iowa.

The presidents will describe and illustrate what needs to be done to provide for the additional 14,700 students whom they anticipate will be enrolled on the campuses of SUI, Iowa State and Iowa State Teachers College by 1970.

Violin Recital Will Feature Turner Work

A composition by Thomas Turner, SUI associate professor in music will be heard in a violin recital on Sunday, April 13.

Turner's composition, Fantasy for Violin and Piano, will be performed for the first time publicly by John Ferrell, assistant professor of violin at SUI.

Turner, who has been a member of the music faculty here since 1939, has composed a number of symphonies and pieces for chamber groups.

Pennant Predictions

With the major league pennant races opening Monday and swinging into high gear Tuesday, it's time to go out on a limb and predict the 1958 pennant winners.

Although several teams show considerable improvement over a year ago, I seriously doubt if there's a team in either league that will seriously challenge the world champion Milwaukee Braves in the National or the New York Yankees in the American.

For the past several years, the National League has had the real tight race. This year, I look for the pattern to be altered slightly, with the Braves winning by a wider margin than the Yankees, although the battle for second in the National promises to be a dandy.

Here's the way the National looks:

1. Milwaukee Braves
2. St. Louis Cardinals
3. Los Angeles Dodgers
4. Cincinnati Redlegs
5. Philadelphia Phillies
6. San Francisco Giants
7. Chicago Cubs
8. Pittsburgh Pirates

The Cardinals have the hitting to win the pennant, but I don't think they have the pitching to match Milwaukee's. With the addition of Bob Rush, the Braves have the best staff in the National, as Spahn, Buhl and Burdette proved last year.

The Dodgers are basically an old team. The pickup they'll get from the Los Angeles fans should keep them in third, but if any team is going to slip this year, the Dodgers are the likely choice.

The once-powerful Redlegs are not so powerful anymore, having traded Ted Kluszewski and Wally Post, and having George Crowe bothered by injuries.

The Phils and Giants should have a dogfight for fifth. The Phils get the nod on the basis of their pitching, but the Giants, who are rebuilding, may get a lot of help from their new West Coast fans.

If any team is going to be the surprise of the 1958 National League race, I look for it to be the Cubs. They lack strength in several positions, but they boast the best pair of young hurlers in the majors in Dick Drout and Moe Drabowski, plus several long ball hitters.

The Pirates just don't appear to have it.

IN THE AMERICAN League, at least four teams appear capable of taking the flag, although I don't think the Yankees, with Mickey Mantle, Bill Skowron, Yogi Berra, Gil McDougald, and a host of pitchers can be beaten. The American League predictions:

1. New York Yankees
2. Detroit Tigers
3. Boston Red Sox
4. Chicago White Sox
5. Cleveland Indians
6. Baltimore Orioles
7. Kansas City Athletics
8. Washington Senators

Placing the Tigers in second may surprise many, and dropping the White Sox to fourth will anger many more.

If anyone is going to beat the Yankees, my choice is the Tigers. They have a good hitting, youthful ball club. The addition of Billy Martin may be the one thing Detroit has lacked, for their pitching has great potential.

Boston gets the call for third because of its tremendous outfield, comprised of the great Ted Williams, Jim Piersall, and Jackie Jensen, and their sound infield.

The White Sox have the pitching staff, providing Early Wynn and Dick Donovan can again have good years, but they have too many question marks and not nearly enough long ball hitting.

The Indians and Orioles should battle it out for the second division lead. The Tribe has Herb Score; the Orioles have Paul Richards, one of baseball's best managers.

Kansas City and Washington will battle it out for the cellar. The A's figure to be a wee bit better because of some trades that have helped, but the Senators boast Roy Sievers, a fine hitter.

Iowa Wins 5th in Row On 3-Run 10th

Long's Single Tips Western Illinois, 4-3

By ALAN HOSKINS
Sports Editor

There were plenty of heroes on the Iowa Diamond Friday as Iowa won its fifth straight non-conference baseball game by defeating Western Illinois, 4-3, with a three run tenth inning rally.

Fred Long's bases loaded single in the tenth with no one out scored Tom Hays from third to cap the 3-run rally, after Augie Dicenso's 2-run home run in the top of the inning had put Western Illinois in the lead.

Long's hit enabled sophomore Roger Rudeen to win his second game of the season. Rudeen went the distance, giving up seven hits, striking out 13, and walking none.

The Hawkeyes capitalized on the wildness of relief hurler Bill Beal in the tenth. Kevin Furlong, who had scored Iowa's first run after tripling in the eighth, led off the tenth by drawing a walk.

Jack Nora and Ron Drennan were scheduled to pitch today's double header against Western Illinois. Nora will pitch the opener, with Drennan going in the 7-inning nightcap.

Pinch hitter Les Zanotti followed with a long double to deep right center to score Furlong. Hays walked, and Larry Harsch beat out a perfect bunt to load the bases.

Don Rutkowski forced in the tying run by drawing Beal's third walk of the inning. Long then followed with his long drive to deep center to end the exciting contest.

Rudeen pitched to only two men over the maximum through the first nine innings. In the sixth, Walt Moore led off with a long double, but Rudeen bore down and struck out the side.

Again in the seventh, Rudeen appeared to be pitching his way out of a jam as he struck out Tilly Baldwin and Dicenso after the Leathernecks put men on second and third. But Little stole home to put Western Illinois ahead, 1-0.

Iowa tied in the eighth on Furlong's triple and a ground ball to second baseman Larry Vogel, who fumbled it allowing Furlong to score.

Majors Open Season Monday and Tuesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The countdown is 2 for Boston and Washington Saturday and 3 for the rest of the teams as big league baseball becomes truly national for the first time this eventful season.

Washington will have the spotlight to itself Monday when President Eisenhower tosses out the first ball to inaugurate the 1958 campaign and usher in a new era in baseball.

But the chief early interest will be centered 3,000 miles across the nation in California. There San Francisco's Giants and Los Angeles' Dodgers make their big league debuts in a head-on collision in San Francisco Tuesday.

Shifting of the Giants and Dodgers to the West Coast isn't expected to make much difference this year in the championship races.

The experts tab the world champion Milwaukee Braves and the dethroned New York Yankees to blast their way to another World Series encounter.

In Nevada, where it's legal to back your pick with cash, the Yanks have been established solid 2-5 choices to maintain their American League monopoly. The Braves are surprisingly longer 8-5 favorites in the National.

Both the Braves and Yanks again have the power, pitching, defense and depth that won for them last year.

Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Moose Skowron, Gil McDougald, Whitey Ford and other tested stars will lead the Yankees for another grab at the World Series pie.

Hank Aaron, Eddie Mathews, Red Schoendienst, Johnny Logan, Wes Covington, Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette and other now World-Series-hardened luminaries make up the nucleus of another formidable crew for the Braves.

To make it a race, every other contender will have to cash in close to 100 per cent on its hopes. Chicago, Detroit, Boston and Baltimore look like the best bets behind the Yanks.

In the National, St. Louis, Los Angeles and Cincinnati should line up behind the Braves.

With a break from the weather, the Monday-Tuesday program of openers should draw about 255,000. The opening day visitors make their home debuts Thursday.

Here's Tuesday's program with probable pitchers and last year's records:

American League
 New York at Boston — Larsen (10-4) vs. Sisler (7-8).
 Kansas City at Cleveland — Garver (6-13) vs. Score (2-1).
 Washington at Baltimore — Pascual (8-17) vs. Johnson (14-11).
 Detroit at Chicago — Bunning (20-8) vs. Pierce (20-12).

National League
 Los Angeles at San Francisco — Drysdale (17-9) vs. Antonelli (12-18).
 Pittsburgh at Milwaukee — Friend (14-18) vs. Spahn (21-11).
 Philadelphia at Cincinnati — Simmons (12-11) vs. Lawrence (16-13).
 Chicago at St. Louis (N) — Bronson (5-5) vs. Mizell (8-10) or L. McDaniel (15-9).

Iowa Tennis Team Beats Bradley, 9-0

Iowa's tennis team, considered by many to be one of the best in history, opened its season with a 9-0 triumph over Bradley Thursday. The Hawkeyes won every match, losing only one set, that in the doubles.

Individual Iowa winners included Art Andrews, Bob Potthast, Joe Martin, Don Middlebrook, Bill Voxman and Mil Larimer.

Cousy vs. Martin In NBA Playoff

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The sixth game of pro basketball's world series Saturday night may hinge on a bitter personal duel between two of the game's best little men — Boston's Bob Cousy and St. Louis' Slater Martin.

St. Louis took a commanding 3-2 lead over the Celtics in the best-of-seven National Basketball Assn. title playoff with Martin outscoring Cousy 25-10 in a 102-100 Hawks victory at Boston Wednesday.

Cousy outscored Martin 24-6 in Boston's victory which evened the series at St. Louis last Saturday.

Cousy, an NBA all-star seven straight years, is small by NBA standards at 6-foot-1. He is considered the game's best backliner passer and playmaker.

But Cousy admits that Martin, the NBA's shortest man at 5-foot-10, gives him more trouble than any player in the league.

Their hot man-to-man battle has been a highlight of each game. Martin, a nine-year veteran, has had a big night in each Hawk victory in the series.

Boston once again is expected to be without 6-foot-10 Bill Russell, their record-breaking rebounder who suffered a severe sprained ankle in the third game. Russell still believes he can play although a physician in Boston said he will be out the rest of the series.

A sell-out crowd of more than 10,000 is expected for the game at Kiel Auditorium which starts at 8:30 p.m.

Boxing Manager Fined $100, Called Referee 'A Bum'

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Athletic Commission chairman Friday warned boxing managers it will be costly to malign the commission's referees and judges.

To show he meant business, Julius Helfand fined Manager George Katz of Philadelphia $100 for his remarks following welterweight Gil Turner's loss to Mickey Crawford at Madison Square Garden March 28. Katz manages Turner, also of Philadelphia.

Katz, burning up over the decision awarded to Crawford, of Saginaw, Mich., in a close fight, called the officials "bums" and said Helfand should investigate his officials.

Helfand called in Katz Friday, fined him and warned him never to make such statements again.

"I'm sick and tired of hearing managers maligning honest and hard working officials," said Helfand. "Most of the referees and judges are in boxing as a hobby. They work in small clubs for little or no pay."
